

Clements' Budget Ignores Teacher Raise

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements said Wednesday the Legislature can finance part of his recommended $1 billion in property tax relief by ignoring a Legislative Budget Board recommendation to raise teacher salaries by 5.1 percent annually.

Clements presented his budget to a joint session of the Legislature, some of whose leaders have challenged him to show where $1 billion can be cut from the LBB recommendations.

The Republican chief executive said his budget would increase state expenditures by 17 percent, compared with the 22 percent increase recommended by the budget board.

"This budget is not a letter to Santa Claus. It's not even a carrot for the Easter bunny," Clements said.

He earlier had aroused the ire of some legislators by calling the LBB budget "a letter to Santa Claus."

Clements proposed education expenditures that are $737 million below the budget board's.

About half the reduction, he said, resulted from eliminating 5.1 percent annual pay raises the LBB recommended for teachers - $314 million worth over fiscal 1980-81.

Clements also eliminated appropriations to hold local costs of the Foundation School Program at the 1979 level, or around $200 million.

He noted that the present teacher pay plan automatically provides teachers raises ranging from 3.2 percent to 4.0 percent each year during the early phases of their careers.

Clements also left out an LBB recommendation of $33 million for a new state office building and parking garage.

"I think we can do without another office building and garage," he said.

Clements said he also would not go along with additional contributions to the state employee retirement system based on a projected increase in the number of government workers.

He reminded legislators of his commitment to reduce the number of state jobs by 25,000 over the next four years.

"If we can accomplish half this goal in 1980 and 1981, there will be no need for significant increases in retirement system funding," Clements said.

The governor laid out his proposed methods for using the resulting surplus of about $1 billion to reduce property taxes over the next two fiscal years.

First, he said, submit a constitutional amendment repealing the state property tax of 10 cents per $100 valuation, which would raise $96 million in 1980-81.

Secondly, allocate school districts up to $230 per student each year, based on the wealth of each district, in additional state aid.

"This must be accompanied by proper safeguards to ensure that the maximum amount of this allocation is channeled directly to reducing local property taxes and by proper controls of the taxing powers of the school district so that the

THERE WAS a good crowd at the Chamber Fun Breakfast Thursday morning, but it's a shame that a lot of folks are still missing out on the fun and fellowship. We had four chamber representatives from Vernon at the event this morning, and they were impressed with the program. They plan to start such an event in Vernon in April.

Congratulations go to Paul Sims on being presented the Bull Chip Award. He took on double duty as president and one of the drive chairman in last year's drive, and we know he put in a lot of hours during the campaign.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by Harlan Vander Zee yesterday that he will soon resign his presidency at Hereford State Bank came as quite a surprise to many folks around town. Hereford is fortunate in having civic-minded and progressive financial institutions, and Vander Zee has been strong on having his people participate in community affairs. He has spent much time, too, in his support of the agricultural economy through his work with the NORM (National Organization of Raw Materials). We join many others in the community in wishing him the best in future endeavors!

THIS SEEMS to be the age of the lawsuit, with people suing other people at the drop of a hat, no matter what the cause.

Now, legislation is proposed by two Texas lawmakers which would allow court judges, after hearing motions from a defendant, to determine if a suit is frivolous or unreasonable.

If such determination was made, attorneys' fees and expenses would be awarded to the defendant. This bill would help weed out nuisance suits, which are often filed on the premise that the defendant will find it cheaper to settle than pay legal costs of fighting the suit.

In presenting the Senate bill for consideration, Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan said: "Numbers and amounts of claims against business and professional services have risen dramatically in recent years. This bill is aimed at protecting those persons from unwarranted and expensive legal costs, which are just passed on to the public."

The bill would also help cut the flow of nuisance suits into the state's courtrooms. Such suits have flooded the

Paul Sims, Deaf Smith County United Way president, was presented with the Bull Chip Award for service to the community and Nicks Farris and Bud Snyder were the cash award winners at the bi-monthly Chamber Fun breakfast this morning at the Community Center.

Simmons Carpet, owned by Stanley Simmons, was co-sponsor of the breakfast, which drew about 200 persons—including a four-man group from Vernon. The Vernon C of C is planning to start a similar event in April.

"The Price is Right" was the theme of the breakfast, and emceed Doug Manning and Lynton Allred conducted a game in conjunction with that theme. Tommy Bowling, Victor Cantu and Jimmy Rowton won game prizes on guessing the price of items from Simmons Carpet, then Cantu won the grand prize—144 square feet of indoor-outdoor carpet.

Nicks Farris won $100 from the chamber membership drawing, while Bud Snyder won a $75 drawing which was open to all persons attending.

Manning made the Bull Chip presentation to Sims, jokingly pointing out that "everyone told Sims the goal couldn't be reached, and he went out and

Invasion of Chinese May Reach Climax

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - China and Vietnam are reported pouring troops into the Lang Son front for what may be the decisive battle of the Chinese invasion.

Intelligence sources said tens of thousands of soldiers on both sides were moving along with heavy artillery toward Lang Son, the northeast Vietnamese city astride the centuries-old invasion route from China.

Heavy fighting has been reported for several days around the border village of Dong Dang, seven miles from Lang Son. Foreign reporters who visited Lang Son Tuesday said they were told the Chinese were holding the hills on one side of Dong Dang, and the Vietnamese had the hills opposite them.

Bangkok sources believed the Chinese planned to deal a final blow to the Vietnamese, then in three or four days withdraw most of the forces who poured across the frontier Saturday with the declared aim of putting down border provocations.

But Japan's Kyodo news agency said a government official in Peking told it if Vietnam moved regular forces into the area to replace the militia that has been doing most of the fighting, the fighting would go on. The intelligence sources said Hanoi was in fact moving regular army reinforcements up to the border to relieve militia units battered in the first days of fighting.

Meanwhile, three Chinese divisions backed by tanks and artillery were reported moving through Quang Ninh province near the coast with the aim of cutting highway supply routes to Hanoi, 80 miles to the south. Radio Hanoi said a Chinese division was driven back there

Oil Companies Cut Production

NEW YORK (AP) - Citing the cutoff of Iranian oil exports, several U.S. oil companies have announced cutbacks in production to conserve available crude oil, a move that could further reduce the flow of gasoline to neighborhood pumps.

Shell Oil Co. said Wednesday the cutback will involve all refined products. Shell announced a 5 percent to 8 percent cutback in the amount of crude going into its refineries, beginning March 1.

Atlantic Richfield Co. said it would soon have to limit sales of some petroleum products.

"It is more responsible to allocate now than wait for the summer driving season to spring the news. Spreading the limited supply around is the proper way to deal with a shortage," ARCO Vice Chairman W.F. Kieschnick said Wednesday. He gave no details on his company's allocation plans.

The Phillips Petroleum Co., which already has reduced gasoline deliveries to its dealers by 15 percent, announced that it would double that reduction to 30 percent, according to today's editions of the New York Times.

Texaco and Continental Oil Co. are among other companies already allocating gasoline. In addition, Exxon, Gulf and other large suppliers of crude oil also have cut sales to refineries in order to conserve the product.

Meanwhile, Libya raised its oil prices by 5 percent "across the board" Wednesday, a spokesman for Occidental Petroleum Corp. said.

The spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, said the increase was "around 68 cents per barrel across the board and that averages out to about 5 percent."

Occidental is one of Libya's biggest customers of crude oil.

Two other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Abu Dhabi and Qatar, last week raised some of their prices by 7 percent.

There has been virtually no rise in consumer prices as a result of the special increases by OPEC members because not much oil is involved. But should OPEC decide the market will bear higher prices, it could speed up its graduated 14.5 percent general price rise scheduled for this year.

Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer, has stepped up its production by about 1 million barrels a day and has begun charging higher prices for the extra oil.

Meanwhile, the Kuwait magazine Al Hadaf reported today that several Persian Gulf oil states are trying to persuade Saudi Arabia to agree to another increase in the price of oil but the Saudis are resisting.

It said oil ministers of the smaller states are meeting with Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, to get him to agree to an increase to prevent the international oil companies and other middlemen from making huge profits as a result of the shortage in world oil supplies caused by curtailment of Iranian production.

But oil sources quoted by Al Hadaf said Saudi Arabia is opposed to another increase so soon after the one announced by OPEC in December.

Two other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Abu Dhabi and Qatar, last week raised some of their prices by 7 percent.

In Vienna, Austria, OPEC announced Wednesday it would meet March 26 to discuss supply shortages caused by Iran's political turmoil. Also to be discussed are the higher prices on the spot market, which OPEC blamed on "speculative traders."

While the spot market, where oil not sold under contract changes hands, is small, many oil companies use it to provide flexibility, for example. Supplies of some products such as jet fuel are tight because some companies rely on the spot market to meet demand.

Bergland Criticizes Tractorcade

HOUSTON (AP) - Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said Wednesday neither he, nor Congress, would "cave in" to militant farmers' demands that "are beyond the realm of wisdom."

Bergland, here to address the annual meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, told a news conference he believed current farm programs were working and the recent tractor demonstration in Washington "left a bad impression."

"As a public relations effort it was a bust," he said.

The secretary said the farmers had the right to protest "but I don't approve of violence and vandalism. There were only a few troublemakers and that attracted a lot of attention."

Bergland also said consumers can expect an additional increase in beef prices within the next few months, perhaps 5 to 10 percent before leveling off.

"Already," he said, "consumers are showing a resistance to the beef prices. They are buying more chicken and cheese and pork. And about 40 percent of the beef being eaten now is hamburger."

In a speech to the 10,000 NRECA delegates, Bergland said many current "environmental regulations and requirements are onerous, contradictory, and often exasperating."

"As in every movement, there are many zealots among die-hard environmentalists. They sometimes use the environmental issue as a political

George's 4 Birthdays Culminate on Feb. 22

WASHINGTON (AP) - Today is Washington's Birthday, not to be confused with last Monday, the federal holiday.

George may have understood such things. He wasn't born on either of those days, but on Feb. 11.

Thus, Washington could have three birthday celebrations. Or four, if you count Feb. 12, 1798.

It's all a bit puzzling, but the first change stemmed from England's adoption of the Gregorian calendar in 1750. Washington had been born under the Julian or "old style" calendar on Feb. 11, 1731. The switch moved the date 11 days.

So after that, was his birthday on Feb. 22?

Yes, in most places, but not in his hometown of Alexandria, Va. The good citizens there stuck with tradition and celebrated on the old date, Feb. 11. George went along.

But perhaps Alexandria residents didn't know that Washington, through his secretary, had sent word in 1792 to Thomas Jefferson about his birthday preference.

"T. Lear has the honor to inform Mr. Jefferson that the president considers the 22nd day of this month as his birthday, having been born on the 11th, old style," wrote Tobias Lear.

Washington's diary contains this entry, seven years later:

China May Attempt To Cut Highway Link

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Three Chinese infantry divisions fighting for every mile against tough opposition have pushed 12 miles into Vietnam's northeast corner and may be poised to cut a highway link to Vietnamese troops concentrated in Lang Son, intelligence sources in Bangkok reported today.

Moving under darkness Wednesday night, the Chinese, possibly numbering as many as 30,000 men and backed by tanks, punched into Vietnam's coastal province of Quang Ninh and halted within 12 miles of Highway 4, the sources said. The highway links the coast with Lang Son, a border town 50 miles inland.

Vietnam was rushing reinforcements up to Lang Son, and analysts believe a major battle was brewing around the town. If the Chinese are able to deal a final blow to the Vietnamese, the analysts say, Peking will probably withdraw most of its invasion force from Vietnam.

In Hanoi, Vietnam's vice foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, said China is massing forces on the border for an "attack on Vietnam on an even larger scale than Saturday," the beginning of the invasion. Radio Hanoi reported.

Man Pleads Guilty To Murder for Hire

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A Texas man alleged to be part of a multimillion-dollar drug ring has entered a surprise guilty plea to a federal charge stemming from a murder-for-hire plot against a witness.

Wednesday's plea by Harvey Orville

Dall, 51, of Tyler, Texas, came on the heels of the arrest of Alton Wayne Moore, whom Dall allegedly had paid to kill Charles Stephen Hudson of Slatery, near Ventura.

Moore, who never committed the proposed murder but instead went to authorities, had since solicited a $150,000 payment from a Dall associate to flee the country and avoid testifying, authorities said.

Dall pleaded guilty Wednesday to shipping a handgun from Texas to Palm Springs with the intent that it would be used to kill Hudson. The plea agreement was sealed and full details won't be revealed until Dall is sentenced March 22, but the government did say it will dismiss at least one charge - conspiracy to violate Hudson's civil rights.

Government prosecutors said Dall offered $20,000 to Moore for Hudson's murder. Dall and Moore reportedly met while both were in prison in the Central American country of Belize, formerly British Honduras.

Dall had been arrested for possession of marijuana, and Moore was serving a life sentence for murder.

Hobby Leaves Chamber After Clements Talk

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements presented his so-called straight-from-the-people budget to the Legislature on Wednesday, proposing a $1 billion tax cut and constitutional restrictions against tax increases.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby scooted out of the House chamber, apparently to avoid reporters' questions before his 4 p.m. news conference.

"There are those who think we must listen to the bureaucrats and what they say the people want," Clements told a joint legislative session. "I say that's nonsense. We need to go directly to the people, and ask them what they want, and that is what I have done."

To return $1 billion to Texans, Clements suggested repealing the 10-cent per $100 state property tax and providing an additional $900 million to local school districts. Clements' 1980-81 budget would spend $13.76 billion from major state funds - excluding federal money and certain dedicated state taxes - which is $968.1 million less than the Legislative Budget Board's LBB proposal.

Marine Heads Home After Iran Captivity

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Sgt. Ken Kraus headed home today after being held for a week by Iranian revolutionaries.

The 22-year-old Marine from Lansdale, Pa., who was freed by the Iranian provisional government Wednesday night, left Iran on a Pan American jumbo jet ferrying American evacuees to Frankfurt, West Germany. From there he was to catch a flight to the United States.

"I'm glad to be going home," Kraus told reporters as armed guerrillas escorted him to the plane. He said he was held in a Tehran prison but was not mistreated.

"They treated me like every other prisoner got treated," he said. "They didn't beat me, but they didn't go out of their way to make me feel at home either." Kraus was slightly wounded in the guerrilla attack on the U.S. Embassy on Feb. 14 and was taken by a group of guerrillas from the hospital in which he was being treated. His whereabouts were unknown for a week, until Deputy Prime Minister Amir Etezam told a news conference Wednesday he was being held by the government for trial on charges of shooting at Iranians during the embassy attack.

Khomeini Plans Vote

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has promised a national referendum in two weeks so the Iranians can say if they want the Islamic republic he promised them as the goal of their revolution.

It will be the first of four national votes planned by the 78-year-old religious leader and his aides.

An announcement by Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's provisional government said the voters would be asked one question: "Do you favor an Islamic republic?"

Bazargan said earlier the referendum would be followed by the election of a constitutional assembly to approve a new constitution abolishing the 2,500-year-old monarchy and establishing the republic. After the assembly adopts the constitution, there will be another referendum to approve it. Then a Parliament will be elected and will name a government to replace Bazargan's provisional cabinet.

Local press reports said the draft constitution prohibits persons of wealth or influence from participating in the government. This presumably is to bar those who wielded power during the regime of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, driven from Iran Jan. 16.

Khomeini said, while he led his revolution from exile, that he wanted a republic built around the tenets of Islam.

But in the 10 days since his revolution succeeded, the Western "decadence" decreed by the ayatollah has been seen creeping back into Tehran's street scenes and lifestyles.

Many young women who draped themselves in the black chador veil during the year-long struggle to topple the shah no longer cover their sweaters and jeans.

The movie theaters Khomeini and his Shiite mullahs wanted closed are reopening and again are showing foreign films.

But liquor is hard to find and Tehran's red light district set aflame by religious militants Jan. 29 remains quiet.

Occasional gunfire is heard at night, but there is less of it, and regular policemen have taken over directing traffic from Khomeini's Islamic police force.

Schools have reopened. Shops and banks are slowly reopening at Khomeini's urging to get the economy going again after months of chaos.

Guerrillas of Khomeini's revolutionary committee seized several American diplomats at the Hilton Hotel Wednesday night but released them shortly after when the provisional government intervened, Deputy Prime Minister Amir Etezam reported.

It was believed that the Americans were consular officers working on the evacuation of Americans. Etezam said revolutionary units operating in the city frequently made such "mistakes." But he said legislation is being drafted to bring the forces of both the revolutionary committee, which in effect is a separate government, and those of the provisional government under central control.

Sgt. Ken Kraus of Lansdale, Pa., the 22-year-old Marine freed by the government Wednesday after a week in captivity, left for the United States today on a Pan American evacuation flight.

"I'm glad to be going home," Kraus told reporters as he boarded the plane. He showed no sign of ill treatment.

Kraus was wounded slightly in the guerrilla attack on the U.S. Embassy Feb. 14 and was taken by a group of guerrillas from the hospital where he was being treated. His whereabouts were not known until Wednesday, when the government announced he was charged with shooting at Iranians and would be put on trial. He was freed Wednesday evening after U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan spent the day in contact with senior government officials.

Judge Says NOW Meeting Legal

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - A federal judge ruled Wednesday that the National Organization for Women engaged in a legitimate political venture and did not violate antitrust laws by imposing a convention boycott against states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment.

U.S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter issued the ruling in a suit by the state of Missouri that charged NOW with violating the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Missouri's suit asked for an injunction against NOW, contending that the boycott was "taking states as economic hostages with the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment as the ransom."

The state contended in testimony last fall that at least a dozen conventions were canceled in Kansas City and St. Louis because of the boycott. NOW said the convention loss in St. Louis was $11 million and in Kansas City $8 million.

Hunter heard more than two weeks of testimony in October and November.

Dr. Linda Thurston, president of the NOW chapter in Kansas City, Kan., said the decision came as a surprise, because "we have worked so far and often taken three or four steps backward for every step forward."

The judge said in a 30-page opinion that the boycott "can be characterized as noncommercial in that its participants are not business interests and its purpose is not increased profits."

The ERA, which would ban discrimination based on sex, has been approved by 35 states, but four have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide.

ERA has failed to win approval during the late six sessions of the Missouri Legislature.

proved they were right." He cited Sims for his work in leading the campaign, which raised almost twice as much as had ever been recorded before.

Mike Patrick, chamber membership chairman, signed up six new members during the breakfast—Crafts Original, Garth Thomas, Glen Nelson, Edwin Warfield, Face Place and Webster Carpet Service.

Those names were put in a hat for a special drawing, and Crafts Original won $50 as the luckiest new member.

Patrick announced that the chamber membership drive will be March 12-16, with pre-campaign letters to be mailed beginning March 5. Patrick said that 625 prospects for chamber membership will be contacted, with the goal being 100 new members.

In other announcements made at the breakfast:

—JoAn Dwyer, executive director of Big Brothers-Big Sisters, said that this week is BB-BS Week, which was highlighted Tuesday by the organization's annual Appreciation Dinner.

—YMCA director Rick Wood announced that the Service Club Olympics are going on, with club members participating against each other in several sports events and games.

—March of Dimes chairman Tim Scott said that door-to-door canvass will take place each night next week.

—Hereford Satellite Work-Training Center director Sandy Stockstill reported that a new center will be built and that persons wanting to contract workers may contact her.

—Chamber sports committee chairman John Fuston said that the C of C will sponsor Super Sports Weekends on March 9-10 and March 15-16.

Clements

relief is not dissipated," he said.

Clements said he would meet with state agency heads March 6 and would "ask them to implement a no-hire policy and the immediate beginning of a reduction in the ranks by attrition."

He said the surplus might exceed $1 billion, which would be available for more tax relief. If the state payroll can be reduced by 12,500 jobs in the coming two years, that would add $200 million, he said.

And if Comptroller Bob Bullock officially raises his revenue estimate by $200 million, as he indicates he will, the total surplus could be $1.4 billion, Clements said.

He repeated the calls for governmental belt-tightening that marked his successful campaign for governor against John Hill - whose supporters included the Texas State Teachers Association.

"What those in government want too often is not what the people want or need. ... We need to go directly to the people and ask them what they want, and that is what I have done in formulating these recommendations to you," Clements said.

Clements' budget would spend $13.76 billion from major state funds - excluding federal money and certain dedicated state taxes - compared with the budget board's $14.73 billion.

He recommended increases over current spending of $177 million for state universities, $138 million for medical schools, $308 million for highways, $36 million for prison operations and $96 million for prison construction and repairs.

The governor also went along with one LBB recommendation - 5.1 percent annual pay increases for state employees.

He proposed an increase from $600 to $900 in tuition equalization grants for Texans attending private colleges.

"This is an austere budget. We have no right to draft any other kind. But it is also a caring budget, a budget that cares about the people who need essential government services and a budget that cares about the taxpayers, a class of people in Texas who have been neglected in the budgetary process all too often," Clements said.

Bergland said everyone agrees the environment must be protected and no one should follow the example "of some chemical companies and use our lands and our water as wastelands for producing cancer, respiratory diseases, and general pollution?"

"We have no alternative but to use a common-sense attitude...We need not support unnecessary and often capricious regulations. We must oppose the single-issue advocates who must have their way at any cost," he said.

He called on agriculture and agribusiness in rural areas to develop new sources of conservation power such as processing plants for soybeans and sunflowers, vital drying facilities, small manufacturing enterprises, municipal heating plants for rural communities.

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., also criticized excessive regulation. He said the cost of overregulation now adds up to 30 percent to consumer's electric bills.

Several speakers earlier had voiced the same concern.

Vander Jagt, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said it now takes 10 years to build a power plant - "seven years to do the paper work and three to construct the facility."

Perhaps, he said, "the 96th Congress will begin to turn things around."

"Forty years ago you went down the country roads signing up your neighbors in the organization of the rural electric co-operatives. Now you need to go down those same country roads, organize politically and take the power back to the people," he said.

The Chinese have been reported as deep as 12 miles inside Vietnam but the depth of the invasion as well as all other information about the war have been impossible to verify. The Vietnamese claim to have killed 5,000 to 8,000 of the Chinese, and the Chinese claim to have wiped out 10,000 Vietnamese.

Chicago After The Storm

This is Chicago: The worst of the worst ever winter storm is behind us. Damage is incalculable.

The double-barreled storm was so psychologically devastating that courts and hospitals and insurers reflect the impact: one snowplow driver after a dozen 20-hour days went berserk and rammed his road grader indiscriminately into dozens of cars.

Under an unprecedented "yard of snow" everything sprang a leak, shrubbery was squashed and frozen, gaping holes pockmark most every street.

Nobody knows yet how many roofs caved in.

Under the weight of all that wet white garages collapsed in all suburbs. One roof caved in on a showroom full of new cars; the grandstand roof of a racetrack, the roof of a huge new K-Mart discount store.

Illinois Insurance Information Service guesstimates that damage claims will exceed $50 million. State Farm Insurance says the claims are too big to be handled by the company's regular claims department.

At the same time, New England, New York and New Jersey got record rains and much flooding.

This winter is certain to initiate another mass exodus to the sun belt.

Property values there, already out of reason, will go out of sight!

If we were paid in proportion to the "importance" of what we do—my goodness, how it would change things!

Marx tried to take each according to his ability and give to each according to his need.

Though that policy, rewarding the unproductive, proved unproductive, our nation has been imitating it—thus creating a legion of "professional needy."

What if, instead, each of us was paid in proportion to the real significance of what we do? High on the list would be some who are now low on the wage scale: pastors and farmers who nourish us; policemen and soldiers who protect us.

If we had to select one worker deserving of the most reward I have one in mind.

No, I'm afraid news reporters would be very low on the list.

Actors and athletes, now among the highest paid, would be among the lowest.

Close to the top would be the doctor, the electrical engineer and the selfless holders of the Salvation Army.

Share your nominee with me if you will.

During the January Chicago snowstorm I gave my vote to the one person whose work is most useful, most significant, most important—

To the one who shovels the snow from the churchhouse steps.

And it's interesting—in our church members take turns performing that chore for nothing.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A mother of a high school junior was lamenting the other night about the cost of class rings. She ended her argument against them by saying, "Does anyone ever know what happens to them?"

I know.
Class rings are what you take off every time you wash your hands the first week you have them... and after that are never seen again.

Class rings are what are lost before your check for them clears the bank.

Class rings are what makes the strange noise in your washing machine and what you paid $26 to a washer repairman to retrieve from under the pulsator.

Class rings are what you wear to bed and your hands swell and everyone panics and gives you advice on how to get it off and when you lather up your hands with soap, it falls off into the commode.

Class rings (belonging to boys) dangle from chains in cleavages of girls as a promise of commitment against the day when both of you pass Tragedies of Shakespeare and are ready to make a life together.

Class rings (belonging to girls) dangle from the first knuckle of the baby finger of boys who say they'll wear them forever, and are later found in their gym bag.

Class rings are what you take the plumbing apart for when you don't now how to put the plumbing back again, and discover the class ring in the glove compartment of the car.

Class rings are the mark of identity and camaraderie when sighted by a stranger who says, "Hey, I see by your ring you went to Farnsworth High," and you say, "No, this is Rucknell's ring," and discover they're both alike.

Class rings are what were thrown into a drawer when mood rings came out.

Class rings are what college freshman leave home along with the letter sweater when they go away to college.

Class rings are what multiply, grow feet and appear in the knife and fork drawer, the sewing basket, tied to a blind cord, and in the corner of the bathtub.

Class rings are what are discovered quite by accident by a mother who rubs her fingers over it gently, slips it on her finger, and for a moment relives that time of her life when the end of an era was sealed with a ring.

Miss Hall Pledges Women's Fraternity

Rhonda Hall has recently become a new member of Zeta Tau Alpha international fraternity for women at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Zeta Tau Alpha is a women's social fraternity with approximately 130 collegiate chapters in the United States and Canada. ZTA was founded in 1898 at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., and today has over 62,000 members.

Miss Hall is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School where she was a member of the drill team, FBLA and was a cheerleader. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Elmo Hall.

Pluto, discovered in 1898, is the most distant known planet in our solar system. In its 248-year orbit of the sun, Pluto never comes closer than 2,670,000 miles to the earth.

Shower Fetes Miss Vasek

A miscellaneous kitchen shower honored Miss Grace Ann Vasek, bride-elect of Ralph Paschel, Saturday afternoon in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

The couple is to be wed this Saturday in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Receiving guests were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Cecelia Vasek, and the future bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Anthony Paschel. Miss Vasek was given a corsage of white silk roses and both mothers wore corsages of azure blue silk roses. The corsages were made by the hostesses.

Miss Joyce Jesko served cake while Mrs. Randy Williams laded punch from a serving table centered with a bouquet of white and blue roses with flocked babybreath. The silk centerpiece, arranged by the hostesses, was presented as a gift to the honoree. Flanking the bouquet were lighted cathedral tapers. White lace over pastel blue linen covered the table. Registering guests was Mary Jean Sims.

Hostesses for the courtesy were Mmes. Ralph Detten, A.A. Knabe, Ed Bezner, Donald Meyer, Louis Dupnik, Walter Paetzold, Norman Brown, Albert Sciombato, Oskar Schweitzer, James Pavlicek, Melvin Kalka, F.A. Marnell, Johnny Jesko, Fred Stindt, Felix Fetsch and Miss Donna Meyer.

THE BORN LOSER

Eleven Women Nominated for HD Award

Deaf Smith County's "Home Demonstration Club Woman of the Year" will be named Monday during the annual Appreciation Luncheon at the Bull Barn.

The Hereford Brand, to be represented by Jim Stelert in the absence of publisher O.G. Nieman, will make the presentation of an engraved silver tray to the "HD Woman of the Year" for 1978. Eleven HD chapters have nominated candidates for this year's award, based on the nominee's individual contributions to HD work and the community in general. [Each of the nominees are featured below.]

Members of the County Commissioners Court will be guests of honor at the luncheon, scheduled to begin promptly at 12 noon. Guest speaker will be former extension agent Argen Draper, who will speak on "History of HD club work in Deaf Smith County."

Candidates for "Woman of the Year" award are:

JOYCE AYCOCK has been a member of Busy Homemakers Home Demonstration Club since its organization in 1977. She has been elected to serve as HD Council delegate this year and was the club's representative to Ceta Canyon workshop in October of 1978. She also attended Rural Homemakers Day in Amarillo.

Mrs. Aycock is a member of First Baptist Church, where she is a choir member and a volunteer library worker.

She volunteered her time as a walker for last year's Heart Fund drive here.

The Aycock family enjoys boating and fishing as recreation. Mrs. Aycock enjoys reading, sewing, gardening and learning golf.

She is married to Don Aycock, a sales representative of Feed Commodities in Amarillo. They have two sons, Kenneth, who lives at Denton, and Steve, from Amarillo.

MRS. T.E. BRISENDINE has filled every available office except Council delegate as a member of North Hereford Home Demonstration Club of which she has been active for eight years. She is currently serving as club secretary.

She has also served as THDA chairman for two years and been a member of the Council's education committee. She was responsible last year for planning the training meeting for District I and was in charge of balloting at the District meeting in Dalhart. She has been a state delegate three times.

In the community, Mrs. Brisendine assisted with the 4-H bean supper, the March of Dimes drive and the Heart Fund campaign. She is a member of the Hospital Auxiliary and First United Methodist Church, where she is enrolled in the Fellowship Class.

Mrs. Brisendine and her husband, who is retired from the Texas Highway Department and works for Schroeter Surveyors, have four children, Mickey and Traci.

They have five grandchildren with two more expected.

The nominee's hobbies include crocheting, bicycling, reading, crossword puzzles and walking.

BERTHA DETTMANN began her involvement in Home Demonstration clubs 12 years ago when she joined a chapter in Las Vegas, N.M. before moving here five years ago. She then joined Cultural HD Club, of which she is currently active.

Mrs. Dettmann's membership in a number of local organizations is governed by her husband's state of health. E.W. Dettmann, who was the wholesale distributor for Chevron Oil Company, is now a resident of Prairie Acres Nursing Home in Friona, and is visited at least three times a week by his wife.

Mrs. Dettmann is continuing her service as secretary-treasurer for a fourth year. She has also been chairman of the exhibit, expansion and education committee, of which she is still a member.

She has attended Council sessions and assisted when possible with 4-H activities.

Mrs. Dettmann was a member for several years of Hereford Newcomers Club. She is currently enrolled in Lone Star Study Club, American Association of University Women, two bridge clubs, a birthday club and Senior Citizens Association.

A retired schoolteacher, Mrs. Dettmann is a member of First United Methodist Church, where she is a member of Nettie Slaton Circles in United Methodist Women.

Prior to her husband's illness, the Dettmanns traveled extensively and were avid bowlers.

Mrs. Dettmann is a member of the American Red Cross Volunteers, Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary and Friends of the Library. Her hobbies include, crossword puzzles, arts and crafts, bridge and reading.

Having been involved in club work for the past 10 years, CAROLYN EVERS was chosen as candidate for HD Woman Of The Year by her club, Tierra Blanca Home Demonstration Club.

She has been a private music teacher for 18 years and taught music at St. Anthony's School during the 1977-78 school term. Her husband, Sonny, has worked for Gebo's for 13 years and has been the manager the last year and a half. The couple has five children; two daughters, Sandy, 14 and Shannon, 13; three sons, Richard, 11; Russell, 8; and Ryan, 3.

Mrs. Evers has held each office in her club several times and is presently secretary-treasurer and reporter. She has been the HD Council delegate and attended the workshop at Ceta Glen this past fall.

She has been an adult leader of a Camp Fire group for seven years and has helped other groups with projects. She was recently elected to serve a two-year term as secretary for the Camp Fire Leaders Association.

She and her husband are members of Merry Mixers Square Dance club and Merry-to-Rounds Round Dance Club having held offices in each. The couple helped organize the Merry-Go-Round Round Dance Club and were the charter chairman of the club.

The family enjoy visiting the library, swimming, going to the show and church together, and dancing.

Mrs. Evers enjoys playing the piano, accordion, organ and guitar. She also enjoys sewing, ceramics, crocheting and knitting.

She has been one of the organists for St. Anthony's Catholic Church for 15 years and she belongs to St. Anthony's Women's Organization, of which she was vice-president five years ago. She is also a member of the P.T.O.

MARY FISHER, a member of Palo Duro Home Demonstration Club, has been active in HD work for 4 1/2 years. She has held the offices of vice president, secretary-treasurer, and Council delegate. She has served on a number of club committees and attended Rural Homemakers Day.

On the HD Council, Mrs. Fisher participated in several activities and was delegate to District meeting.

In work with youth groups, Mrs. Fisher has been Camp Fire leader of two groups, and has worked in several capacities of Camp Fire.

Other clubs in which she is involved are TOPS, Women's International Bowling Congress, Camp Fire Leaders Association and Women's Church Fellowship.

She has helped collect funds for the United Way, American Heart Association and the March of Dimes.

She is a member of Greenwood Baptist Church, where she is a Sunday School teacher and chairman of the fellowship committee.

Mrs. Fisher and her husband Lin, who is Branch Manager of Dawn Co-op, have two children, Monica, 7, and Jason 5. The family enjoys, bowling, home improvements, tennis, trap shooting, fishing and camping. Additional hobbies of Mrs. Fishers are crafts, swimming, interior decorating, landscaping, horseback riding, gardening and a variety of sports.

Arriving from northern Illinois two years ago, BILLIE JOE GEE joined Ford Home Demonstration Club shortly after her arrival in Deaf Smith County. She has served as vice president of the HD chapter

VERLINE WORLEY, Dawn Club, MRS. T.E. BRISENDINE, North Hereford Club, and MARY FISHER, Palo Duro Club

for most of that time.

Mrs. Gee has been a 4-H leader of Ford 4-H Club for 1 1/2 years. She has recently become involved in the 4-H Parent Leaders Association, also.

Mrs. Gee and her family are members of First United Methodist Church, where she is a member of United Methodist Women. She and her husband teach the young adult Sunday School class and Mrs. Gee is co-chairman of the Family Life Commission.

The Gee family has little time for recreation because he is an irrigation farmer. The Gees have chosen not to have a television set in their home so that evenings are spent with their three children, Heather, age 10, Andrew 8, and Timothy, 4.

Mrs. Gee's hobbies include gardening, canning, baking and craft projects.

Having been a member of Messenger Home Demonstration Club for 2 1/2 years, KATHERINE HAMMOCK has been nominated by that extension chapter.

She is the wife of Bobby Hammock who is employed by Hays Cattle Company doing ranch work. The couple has two daughters, Jennifer, age 2 1/2 and Jamie, 2 1/2 months.

Mrs. Hammock has served as her club's secretary-treasurer for a year and was elected to serve in that capacity again this year. She helped organize the Political Rally to which her club served as hostess in May 1978. She has also participated in several club projects to raise money for repairs on their club building.

She was a member of 4-H for six years while she attended Grady School. She has assisted the club leader of Walcott 4-H with her projects, and has served at the County 4-H bean supper.

Mrs. Hammock attends Saint James Episcopal Church in Clovis, N.M. She is a member of the Weight Watchers chapter of Hereford and is content to be a homemaker and mother.

Along with being a mother and HD member she enjoys camping, gardening, canning and freezing, and when her husband is in a "jam," she helps out on the ranch.

She finds time to help serve Walcott PTO whenever needed and feels that "getting to know the community and getting involved in school activities is a good way to get into the groove of things."

Her hobbies include rug hooking, cooking, embroidery, crafts, and painting plaster. She also enjoys playing volleyball.

TERRI JAN JOHNSON is credited with being instrumental in the re-organization of Westway Home Demonstration Club, of which she has been active for 3 1/2 years. Mrs. Johnson, having serving two years as president, is currently Council delegate and parliamentarian.

According to Westway Chapter's nomination, Mrs. Johnson helped initiate the club's Annual Country Christmas Bazaar, which grew from 23 booths in 1977 to 63 last year. The bazaar involved residents from the entire Panhandle and South Plains region, reaching approximately 600 people in 1 1/2 days.

Mrs. Johnson also participated in the club's annual project was serving as Superintendent of the canning division during the County Fair last year.

As a Council member, Mrs. Johnson attended the District meeting at Dalhart and was elected County THDA chairman. She attended the State THDA meeting at Dallas as a voting delegate and instituted a column in the county agent's monthly newsletter to inform county club members of TEHA events.

Mrs. Johnson initiated the sub-district TEHA workshop following the state meeting to benefit six counties. She chaired the workshop which attracted 43 clubwomen. She is also serving on the Council's recreation committee and personally solicited three firms to save cancelled postage stamps for the THDA project.

In 4-H, Mrs. Johnson has worked at the livestock show, and Annual Six-County Horse Show, for which she donated a buckle in memory of her husband, the late Terry Johnson. In other youth work, she helped in the youth division of the County Fair, was assistant leader of a Bluebird group, was sponsor of Hereford Riders Club, led a GAs group at Avenue Baptist Church and was timekeeper for the high school rodeo team's Annual High School Rodeo.

Mrs. Johnson is a member of The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and is serving her second year on the pet show committee. The Johnson family are members of Hereford Riders Club, in which Mrs. Johnson is secretary on the board of directors.

The family attends Frio Baptist Church.

Mrs. Johnson's other community work includes service during the All-Girl Rodeo, on the County Fair Board and during the Little Miss Pageant.

Widowed last year, Mrs. Johnson has two children, Staci Jill, 8 and Wade Townsend, 3. Her hobbies are reading, indoor gardening, crocheting, snow skiing, traveling, playing volleyball, and interior decorating.

Fifteen years of Home Demonstration work has earned JOHNNIE TOWNSEND the nomination for "HD Woman of the Year" by Progressive HD Club. In her long HD tenure, she has been president, Council delegate, and program leader. In that time, she has attended all club meetings with the exception of one.

Mrs. Townsend has served on the Council finance committee and has attended Rural Homemakers Day and Festive Foods program. She captured the Grand prize for her pound cake at the County Fair.

In other activities, Mrs. Townsend has been a support to 4-H youth, Avenue Baptist Church youth and Kids, Inc. She is a member of Victory Sunday School class at Avenue Baptist Church, where she has been a member for 23 years and where her husband is a deacon. She taught a Sunday School class during those years.

Mrs. Townsend and her husband, who is a farmer, have three daughters, one of whom, Terri Johnson, has also been nominated as "Woman of the Year." The Townsends have eight grandchildren.

Her hobbies include gardening, embroidery and cooking.

MRS. JOHNNIE TOWNSEND, Progressive Club, CLARA TROWBRIDGE, Wyche Club, TERRI JOHNSON, Westway Club.

KATHERINE HAMMOCK, Messenger Club, CAROLYN EVERS, Tierra Blanca Club, and BILLIE JOE GEE, Ford Club

CLARA TROWBRIDGE has missed only one session of Wyche Home Demonstration Club since she joined as a member three years ago. Since that time, she has served as reporter, secretary-treasurer, vice president and is now acting as program chairman.

Mrs. Trowbridge has attended HD Council several times and was a participant in the leadership training meeting at Ceta Canyon last fall.

In other activities, Mrs. Trowbridge was 4-H clothing leader in 1977 in preparation for the 4-H dress review. She has also taught the youth of Wesley United Methodist Church during Vacation Bible School.

At the same time that she joined the HD club, Mrs. Trowbridge became a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, in which she has held a number of offices. She is a member of Wesley Methodist Church, where she sings in the choir. She has been active in Women's Mission Union and Church Women United for several years.

Mrs. Trowbridge volunteers her time to residents of King's Manor and Westgate, where she assists with crafts and games.

She is the wife of Robert H. Trowbridge, who is parts manager and counterman for Beavers Parts and Machine Shop. They have four children, Kenneth, who lives in California; Muri of Arlington; David of Amarillo; and Tenna of Tennessee. The Trowbridge couple has nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Trowbridge's hobbies include reading, sewing, piecing quilts, gardening and crocheting jewelry.

Along with her involvement in Home Demonstration Club work, in which she has been active for three years, VERLINE WORLEY still finds time to mother a family of five.

Mrs. Worley is married to Dwain Worley who is employed as District Manager for Kwik-Way Manufacturing. She is the mother of four children: Beverly (married), Preston, Meshel and Rodney.

She has served as a member, secretary-treasurer, and president of the Dawn Home Demonstration Club, has attended Council for one year and served on the yearbook committee in Council for a year. She was a 4-H member as a youth and worked one year as an assistant leader in 4-H helping the girls sew.

She and her husband are members of Panhandle Road Riders Club and attend Dawn Baptist Church. She is also a member of Baptist Young Women, has been a vacation Bible school teacher for 19 years, and has been the Mission Friends Leader for children aged three through kindergarten. She is presently church librarian, and for the past year, has been the Sunday school teacher for the preschool department.

Her family enjoys gardening, working on their home and doing yard work together. They ride motorcycles, play games, and enjoy a camping trip occasionally.

She enjoys sewing, reading, painting and doing craft projects.

Mrs. Sledge Says Thanks To Her Sorority Chapter

A letter from Mary Sledge, who was crowned Queen of the Valentine Ball Saturday night, was read to members of Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Tuesday night during a business meeting in the Community Room of Hereford State Bank. Barbara Kendall, president, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Sledge expressed appreciation to her sorority sisters for their gestures of support during the past few weeks. Mrs. Sledge was among four sorority women nominated for the BSP crown.

In other correspondence Tuesday, a request for contributions was received from Baylor College of Medicine, which is the State BSP project for 1979.

Also, the XEA chapter responded to a letter from the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation with a cash donation.

Letters of thanks were also received from King's Manor, Westgate Nursing Home and the chapter's adopted grandmother, Ellen Lloyd.

Toni Jones, service chairman, issued a reminder that March 1 is the deadline to give needed items to Girlstown. In another service area, Pam Stephens announced that members should bring combs next month for King's Manor.

The chapter will sponsor a teen disco dance April 21 at the Community Center as a ways and means project. Also, March 8 was the date selected for the chapter's annual progressive party with Kappa Iota and Alpha Iota Mu Ritual chapters. The chapter will conduct election of officers at the next meeting, scheduled March 6 at First National Bank.

Debra Cook presented a program on "The Shrinking World."

Toni Jones and Lynn Sciumbato were hostesses to Mrs. Kendall, Ailene Tindal, Opal Glenn, Cheryl Bullard, Barbara Burkhalter, Jo Ann Richburg, Ilajean Brinkman, Mrs. Cook, Betty Davies, Bonnie Decker, Nan Gauthreaux, Phyllis Neill, Sandy Owsley, Lillie Shipman, Mrs. Sledge, Mrs. Stephens, Linda Thorell, Jan Walser and Jeanie Tucker.

Best of Bosses

Sheriff Travis McPherson was named "Boss of the Year" for 1978 this week by Deaf Smith-Castro Counties Legal Secretaries Association. Making the presentation of an engraved plaque to the sheriff was his secretary, Eva McKnight, who nominated him for the honor. McPherson has lived here for 15 years, serving as sheriff since 1970. He and his wife, Joan, have two children, Debbie, 17, and Kevin, 15. (Brand photo by Denise Smith)

Club to Nominate Woman for Award

La Madre Mia Study Club appointed a committee to nominate a local woman for the distinguished service award offered by West Texas State University Tuesday night during a business meeting. The group convened in the home of Mysesdia Smith with Lucy Rogers as cohostess.

Named to the committee were Carrell Ann Simmons, Sandra Martin and Sharon Hodges.

In other business, it was reported that thanks had been extended by Sheriff Travis McPherson and Sandra Combs for the club's recent contributions to the Rape Crisis Prevention Center and the Sandra Combs Fund.

Members answered roll, call with "Stones I'd Like Thrown at Me," a task not as gruesome as it sounds, for each member listed a valuable gemstone, such as diamonds, emeralds and rubies.

Cindy Baker was welcomed as a guest.

The evening's program, a film entitled "A Time for Choosing," was introduced by local funeral director Charles Watson. The film presented a history of society's attitudes toward death. Afterwards, Watson advised the group on services provided by a funeral home and answered questions from the audience. He announced that a seminar on helping children to cope with death will be held Friday, March 2, at Hereford State Bank and will be open to the public.

The club's next meeting will be March 8 in the home of Tricia Sims.

In attendance Tuesday night were Joyce Allred, Bunny Anderson, Beverly Bryant, Kylene Gentry, Glenda Gerles, Mary Herring, Sharon Hodges, Betty Lady, Jo Ann Lane, Sandra Martin, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen, Carrell Ann Simmons, Tricia Sims, Marcia Snyder, Georgia Sparks, Marlene Watson, Mary Beth White and Judy Williams.

Bake Sale Planned Saturday

St. Thomas Episcopal Church Women will be conducting a bake sale Saturday in Sugarland Mall as a ways and means project. Baked goods will go on sale at 10 a.m.

The public is invited to support this project.

Teen Dance Scheduled Tomorrow

A teen dance, featuring the disco music of Lively Times, will be held Friday night at the Community Center from 8 p.m. - 12 midnight.

Admission will cost $3 per single and $5 per couple.

Ann Landers

Wishes Respected

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do I have the right to tell my grandmother that she can't smoke in my new car? (It's second-hand, actually, but it's new to me.)

I got this car a week ago and laid the law down to the whole family. NO SMOKING IN MY CAR. Both my mother and my grandmother smoke. I hate it but I have to put up with it in the house because I have no choice. But I don't think I should have to put up with it in my car.

I bought the car with gift money -- some of it from my grandmother -- and the rest from what I earned working two summers. (I'm 17 now.)

My grandmother lit a cigaret just before getting into my car yesterday and I asked her to put it out. She refused. We got into an argument and she slapped my face and hailed a taxi.

This whole thing has become gross. My mother says I am disrespectful -- that Grandma isn't going to change and I shouldn't be such a bull-headed, smart-aleck punk. What do you say? -- No Exceptions Allowed

DEAR N.E.A.: It's your car and if you don't want anyone to smoke in it, your wishes should be respected. I'm with you.

DEAR ANN: I've got a letter for you that will curl your hair without a permanent. At first I couldn't believe it but I know now it's true.

My husband has been having an affair with his sister. I knew she and "A" were close but I never suspected anything like this was going on.

I think it started four years ago after her husband died. It was a few months later that I developed trouble with my back. The doctor suggested I put boards under the mattress. "A" complained, so we got twin beds. Then he developed trouble with HIS back.

I work from 8:00 a.m. till 4:00. "A" is retired. Recently when I was changing his bed linen I found a hairpin (I don't use them) and the sheets looked awfully messed up for one person. I asked him straight out if he had had a female in his bed, so I said, "I'll bet it's 'V.'" The look on his face was so guilty I knew I had guessed right. He still won't admit it but I'm sure.

Now what? I'm 56. "A" is 62. He has been a good husband and our children are gone. Should I divorce him? Yes or no? -- Second to Sister

DEAR S.S.: I wouldn't make a yes or no decision of this kind for anybody. First: I'm not sure a guilty look is solid evidence. Second: If he didn't admit it, ask yourself the question -- would your life be better with him or without him? Only you can decide.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was married in an exquisite ivory satin wedding gown. It has the traditional covered buttons at the sleeves and a heart shaped neckline.

It's such a beautiful dress and we paid so much for it, it's a shame to wear it only once. What do you think about wearing it to formal parties instead of letting it rot in the attic? -- Practical Polly

DEAR POLLY: Sorry, dear -- bridal gowns are for weddings. If you wear that dress at parties in order to get your money's worth you'll look like a bride who is trying to get her money's worth.

It needn't "rot in the attic." Have it professionally packed and put it away for your daughter.

Reception Sunday To Honor Resident

Friends of Mrs. Ray "Billie" Johnson are invited to honor the longtime resident Sunday afternoon during a reception to be held in honor of her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Johnson will be receiving guests from 2-5 p.m. Sunday in the E. B. Black house.

Hostesses for the party will be Mmes. G. Almanza, L.H. Lookingbill, J.R. Euler, Joe Merrill, Guy Walser and James Dobbs.

Mrs. Johnson requests that no gifts be brought. Moving here in 1923, Mrs. Johnson was a schoolteacher at Summerfield before her marriage. She was instrumental in establishing Hereford Garden Club and Summerfield Study Club.

She has one daughter, Mrs. Ray Hanson of, Maitland, Fla. and two grandsons, David and Dan.

Initiation Tea Held By Auxiliary

Seven new members were initiated by the American Legion Auxiliary during a tea Sunday afternoon in the Legion Hall.

Joyce Hanna conducted the initiation ceremony, which inducted the following women: Shirley Carlson, Rebecca Sanderson, Karen Reinart, Virginia Cocanougher, Melody Sadler, Staci Wagner and Carla Sadler.

Twenty-seven Auxiliary members were in attendance for the initiation.

Twenty of 39 crew members were missing after the Vietnam-bound freighter Badger State broke up in the mid-Pacific.

Squabbles Start '79 Baseball Season

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Get ready for Baseball '79. The possibilities for the coming season are awesome. Here we are in February with the first ball yet to be thrown in anger and already we have had some verbal show-downs.

Consider the developments of the last few weeks:

Carl Yastrzemski, age 39, has told the Boston Red Sox that he's sorry, but a $265,000 annual salary, to which he agreed just one year ago, won't be enough to lure him back for another summer. He'll just stay home and do some fishing until the Red Sox can come up with a fatter contract to replace the one he's already signed.

Yaz's bleat hit deaf ears in Fenway Park's executive suite, but did strike a respondent chord with Red Sox pitcher Dennis Eckersley, who chimed in with a hearty "Me, too."

Rusty Staub, almost 35, has planted a chef's hat on his head at a jaunty angle and told the Detroit Tigers that unless they guarantee his future beyond the 1980 expiration of his contract, he'll become a fulltime restaurateur this summer instead of a fulltime designated hitter.

Garry Templeton, considerably younger than either Yaz or Staub, informed the St. Louis Cardinals that he was prepared to find other employment unless they could turn more of Gussie Busch's beer profits over to him to play shortstop. The fact that his batting average dipped from .322 to .280 last year and that he led the majors with 40 errors was, of course, immaterial.

Joel Youngblood, who has never been a regular anywhere and batted exactly 266 times last season, rejected the New York Mets' salary offer of $75,000. A $25,000 raise, he said, was insufficient. He is demanding $100,000 and will go after it in arbitration this week.

And to top it all off, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn decided that it was perfectly all right for George Steinbrenner to turn over $500,000 of New York Yankee cash to Charlie Finley for a couple of Oakland minor leaguers. That was only two weeks after Kuhn decided that it wouldn't be right for Gene Autry to pay that kind of California Angel money to Minnesota for seven-time batting champion Rod Carew.

The question here is whether the cold and snow of winter has turned all of the gray matter in baseball to slush.

Yastrzemski and Eckersley, both with signed agreements for 1979, need a lesson in the sanctity of contracts and Youngblood could use one in baseball economics. How much would the Met bench hand ask for if he had produced the way Yaz and Eckersley have?

Kuhn's action was a study in conflicting decisions by the commissioner. How, he was asked, could he discourage the use of cash in a deal for a superstar like Carew, and then permit half a million dollars change hands for two minor leaguers?

"The Carew case was special," explained the commissioner. "I felt a deal for Carew involving substantial cash would not be good. It was a matter of judgment."

Nonetheless, the outcome was that the leaguers Bruce Robinson and Greg Cochran earned $500,000 for Finley while an established star like Carew added nothing to Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith's bank account when he was peddled.

Maravich Out For Season

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Pete Maravich, leading scorer of the sinking New Orleans Jazz of the National Basketball Association, will miss the rest of the season because of his injured knee, the team announced Wednesday.

Maravich, who has played all season with a two-pound brace on his right knee will drop out of action to begin rehabilitation for next season, the team said. No more surgery is expected.

The team said the condition of the knee, which was injured 13 months ago, led Maravich, doctors, and team management to decide he should stop pounding it on the courts.

There was no further explanation of whether the knee is deteriorating or simply is not healing because of the beating it takes in games.

He tore the ligaments in the knee while making a fancy, between-the-legs pass in a home game against Buffalo on Jan. 31, 1978. Last summer he underwent surgery, but had complained this year that the knee was not progressing as much as he hoped.

Maravich, averaging 22.6 points a game, played in 49 of the team's 61 games this year and was selected as a starter on the NBA All-Star team. He now ranks 17th in scoring in the NBA.

During the season, he scored his 15,000 career point.

Twenty-one games remain on the schedule of the Jazz.

Maravich said he met with orthopedic surgeon Ken Saer Tuesday and was advised to sit out the remaining 21 games of the season.

"They just felt it would be best to rehabilitate my knee," he said Wednesday.

"My right knee has atrophied some more - another half inch. That makes the left an inch and a half smaller than the right knee. I lack the muscle structure to support the knee, and there's a great degree of possibility something else could go wrong."

Maravich tried to get back into action last season, while the Jazz still had a shot at the playoffs. He played in three games, but his knee ballooned with fluid each time he tried to play.

"I shouldn't have come back at all to play in those three games," he said. "It was idiotic on my part."

"I don't know what goes through an athlete's mind - facing the lions no matter what the circumstances are."

Surgery was performed on the knee on May 19. Training camp opened 14 weeks later.

He said that had he not waited until May to have the operation, he might have been farther along toward playing condition.

Perkins Giants' Top Choice

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - The New York Giants were expected to name offensive coordinator Ray Perkins of the San Diego Chargers as their new head coach today at a morning news conference.

Perkins was known to be at a hotel Wednesday near the Meadowlands registered under an assumed name. The news conference is scheduled for Giants Stadium at 9:30 a.m.

Perkins, 37, joined the Chargers as offensive coordinator Dec. 20, 1977, after serving as receivers coach for the New England Patriots since 1974.

Perkins was an All-America wide receiver at the University of Alabama and was a seventh round pick in the 1965 "futures" draft by the Baltimore Colts and played their until a knee injury forced him to retire in 1972.

Perkins and the Giants new general manager George Young struck up a friendship during their Baltimore years. Young was the Colts offensive line coach in 1970 and their offensive coordinator in 1973. Young was also the Colts personnel director in 1971-72.

Young was appointed general manager of the Giants last week, ending almost two months of internal bickering between the team's uncle-nephew co-owners, Wellington and Tim Mara.

Young, who had been the Miami Dolphins director of pro scouting, succeeded Andy Robustelli, who resigned as director of operations Dec. 18 when the Giants fired Coach John McVay and a day after a 6-10 season.

Young was given authority to hire a head coach by the Maras. His appointment ended a feud between the Maras dragged before the public Feb. 8.

Wellington had decided the Giants would hire a head coach before a director of operations because he and Tim couldn't agree on a choice for the top job. Tim Mara objected and began ridiculing his uncle.

Perkins main competition for the Giants job was Dallas Cowboys offensive coordinator Dan Reeves, who came up short in his third attempt to become a National Football League head coach.

The Maras jointly interviewed Seattle's Jerry Rhome and Harvard's Joe Restic three days before Young was hired.

Perkins' name never was mentioned on the Maras' list and his naming apparently proves Young will be his own man.

He left on a five-day road to trip to interview Perkins last Saturday and Rhome on Sunday, both in Los Angeles.

Morgan Hopes To Retain L.A. Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Dr. Gil Morgan, a graduate optometrist who currently views golf as his profession, started a most successful 1978 with a victory in the Los Angeles Open and now hopes to duplicate it.

That could be double vision since no golfer has repeated since the Open, now valued at $250,000, has been held at the Riviera Country Club.

Still, Morgan finished last year as the No. 2 money winner with $267,459 and captured the World Series of Golf on the first extra hole of a playoff against Hubie Green.

At Los Angeles he beat Jack Nicklaus probably because the veteran chipped a closing shot like any duffer and it traveled only about six feet.

"It doesn't matter what you did the previous year, you have to go out and perform again," commented Morgan who placed second twice and had 11 finishes in the top 10 last season.

Morgan finished ahead of all the pros except Tom Morgan in the money quest of '78 and he admitted Wednesday, "I would like to lead the money list because people relate to that, but I would rather set my sights more on doing well in the major championships. All tournament wins are significant, but winning a major one becomes more so because of the added pressure."

Morgan likes a long, tight course such as Riviera because he hits his drivers far and controls his iron shots.

"It was improvement in the short game that did it for me last year," he said.

Morgan graduated from the Southern College of Optometry but turned to professional golf in 1974 when he was 26. Eventually, he plans to return to being an eye doctor but few in that profession earned as much last year as he did in golf.

In addition to his play in the United States, Morgan won a tournament in Japan and lost the European Open in a playoff.

With the Los Angeles Open purse boosted by $50,000, the winner this year will collect $45,000 with the Saturday and Sunday rounds nationally televised.

Chances are that few of the pros will break par over the four days at Riviera. A year ago, only three players did it as Morgan beat Nicklaus by three strokes over the 72 holes.

SMU-Couger Game On TV

DALLAS (AP) - The Southwest Conference announced Wednesday that the Southern Methodist-Houston first-round playoff basketball game will be televised starting at 12:40 p.m. Saturday.

The site of the game will be determined after Wednesday night's SMU-TCU regular season finale.

If SMU defeats TCU, then the Mustangs will flip with Houston to determine the site. If TCU wins, then Houston will host the first round game.

Eric's Signing Ends Chase

By The Associated Press

Eric Dickerson of Sealy, the top running back in the state, signed a national letter of intent Wednesday with Southern Methodist University, which had the best football recruiting campaign in the Southwest Conference.

Dickerson's signing squelched rumors that Oklahoma still had a shot at the 6-foot, 3-inch running back, who gained over 6,000 yards in his high school career.

Dickerson refused to meet the press at his signing with SMU Coach Ron Meyer. However, Sealy Coach Ralph Harris said: "A lot of kids have been recruited hard in this state but nobody has ever been recruited as heavy as Eric. The President has somebody to write his speeches and the governor, too. Maybe that's what Eric should have done."

Harris said Dickerson believed he was misquoted in newspaper articles concerning his much-publicized purchase of a new sports car. Harris said Dickerson felt he could not be misquoted if his words were recorded by radio and television equipment.

"He had no social life - that was all gone," Harris said. "There was no way he could do anything. They knew all his numbers, his friend's addresses."

Harris compared Dickerson's case with that of former Dallas Cowboy star Duane Thomas.

"Maybe Duane Thomas decided it was better if he didn't say anything," Harris said. "That may have hurt him (Thomas) I don't know."

Dickerson, who, has 9.4 speed, rushed for 1,900 yards last year as Saly won the Class 2A state championship. He gained 311 yards and scored four touchdowns in the title game against Wylie.

Also signing with the Mustangs were Charles Wagner of Dallas Carter and Ed O'Brien of Pasadena Dobie, two more excellent running backs.

All-State running back Craig James of Houston Stratford awaited Meyer's caravan to sign with the Mustangs later in the morning.

Cartwright Awes Pros

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - In his road uniform, Bill Cartwright resembles nothing so much as the Jolly Green Giant, a kelly-clad behemoth, 7 foot 1 and growing, 225 pounds and flowing.

Add his sweet touch, ability to swat opposing shots like flies, and court sense beyond his years and Cartwright becomes the most precise of all basketball players, he franchise-making big man who'll be able to "Ho, Ho, Ho," all the way to the bank.

For at the tender age of 21, Cartwright is on the verge of becoming both big and rich, from the money some lucky National Basketball Association team figures to shower on him after the draft in May.

"He reminds me of Bob Lanier, the way he shoots and moves," says Detroit Piston assistant coach Al Menendez, who ought to know about such comparisons. "There is no doubt he is the best true center in the country. If Larry Bird signs with the Celtics, Bill should be the first player picked - he has all the tools."

Cartwright had those tools last year as well and could have turned pro along with University of San Francisco teammates and fellow juniors James Hardy and Winford Boynes. Instead, he chose to stay at USF and lead a young team under a new coach. "I was tempted because I felt I was ready for the NBA," he says, his dark eyes shining at the thought. "I knew I would go early in the first round. But I wanted to stay in college. I liked it here and I wanted to get a degree."

Cartwright is on his way to that degree, maintaining a B average in sociology. He is also on his way to his best college season, after three years of sharing the spotlight with temperamental forward Hardy and backcourt star Boynes. He is shooting 60 percent from the field and averaging 23.6 points a game, even though he usually has enough opponents hanging around him to hold a team meeting. He is also averaging 16 rebounds a game, holding down first or second in the country in that department most of the season.

And he has blocked 69 shots in 25 games - three times as many as last year.

"Bill realizes he is in the center right now," says Coach Dan Belluomini, a former assistant who moved up when Bob Galliard retired after last season. "He is our leader and he knows it. He's not only a great player, but has great mental ability as well."

That Cartwright has developed into a great college player should come as no surprise to those who remember him as the most publicized high school player of four seasons ago, when he came out of Elk Grove High near Sacramento.

But even the coach who recruited him admitted at the time that he was not all the glowing publicity had cranked him up to be.

"He's no Moses Malone," Bob Galliard said before Cartwright ever played a college game. "He wasn't even the best high school player in the state, let alone in the country. But he could become the best college player because he works so hard."

Work hard he has. He has filled out, adding 40 pounds and more than two inches, with doctors saying another inch is possible before he stops growing.

His shot, almost unstoppable because he holds his arms so high when he delivers it, is more deadly than ever. And his dedication to improve has brought the rest of his game up to that high standard.

"He always had a good touch and could score, but he's really improved his shot-blocking, jumping and rebounding," Belluomini said. "And he's so unselfish. The other night he was on the floor three times for loose balls - when was the last time you saw a 7-footer do that?"

Cartwright has meant to much to USF that his No. 24 jersey will be retired after his last home game Saturday - something the school had previously done only for Bill Russell and K.C. Jones.

But before that, he would like to win a trip back to the NCAA tournament. The Dons will virtually clinch a third consecutive West Coast Athletic Conference title if they beat Pepperdine Friday night.

And then he wouldn't mind if the pros come calling.

"I've really enjoyed USF," Cartwright said. "I have no regrets about staying here. But I'd be lying if I said I didn't want to be the NBA's top draft choice."

"I think everyone would like to be remembered as No. 1."

'Mustang Mania' Sways Prospects

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

"Mustang Mania" steamrolled through Wednesday's national letter of intent signings with Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer making perhaps the finest haul of bluechip school-boy footballers in the country.

Meyer signed five of the top 15 players in Texas. He kept all the players he had signed to Southwest Conference letters of intent last week and took all-state tackle Scott Gibson of Duncanville away from Oklahoma.

All-America running backs Eric Dickerson of Sealy, Craig James of Houston Stratford, and Charles Wagoner of Dallas

Carter ignored outside offers to stay with Meyer, who had the finest passing attack in the SWC last year but suffered with a poor running game.

Meyer even signed New Mexico Player of the Year Layne Walker of Clovis to backup prolific junior quarterback Mike Ford.

Such quality as tackle Michael Carter of Dallas Thomas Jefferson, defensive back Stanley Godine of Houston Kashmere, and running backs Michael Charles of Houston Kashmere and Lott McIlhenny of Highland Park signed with Meyer.

Dickerson and James rated as the top two running backs in the state.

James said he felt he was an influence on Dickerson attending SMU.

"I think I helped talk Eric into going to SMU," said James. "We talked quite a bit and I told him if he liked to win, we should both go to SMU and run together."

"He said he'd like to play on the same team with me and he didn't really have anyone to talk to so I think I helped him some."

Asked about competing with Dickerson, Ford and Co. for time with the football, James said: "I'm not worried about it. That will all be up to the coaches. It will help Mike with his passing if we improve our running. If I went up there and became a blocking back I would be defeating my purpose for going. As I said, though, I'm not worried about that. It was kind of the same at Stratford. We had four good backs and I only carried the ball 13 times per game."

The Big Eight did do some damage Wednesday. Nebraska signed talented Greenville quarterback Nate Mason while Oklahoma landed blue-chip tight end Michael Weddington and took Port Arthur Lincoln defensive back Donnie Fisher away from Texas A&M.

The Sooners also took Plainview running back Royce Coleman away from Texas Tech. Overall, switches away from the SWC letter of intent were minor.

A big battle still raged in New Iberia, La., for the services of Johnny Hector, a prep All-America being sought by Texas A&M, Texas, and LSU.

Clemson Buies Duke

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) - Clemson's Billy Williams scored a career-high 21 points to lead Clemson to a 70-49 upset of sixth-ranked Duke Wednesday night that assured the Tigers of at least a fifth place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The loss dropped Duke to 8-3 in the ACC and knocked the Blue Devils out of a first-place tie with North Carolina.

Computer Sets Best Yankee Lineup

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) - If you think the Yankees raised a lot of clubhouse ruckus in the past, imagine what might happen if Reggie Jackson or Chris Chambliss were replaced in the cleanup spot in the batting order by Mickey Rivers - with Thurman Munson batting ninth.

A change in the 1977 batting order would have produced more runs, says Duane Kroseman, 34, a graduate student at Washington State University, who had made a computer study on batting lineups.

Kroseman says he has only sampled a small number of possibilities and that there could be an even more potent offensive order.

Tradition would be tossed out the Jackson, Graig Nettles,

Rivers, Bucky Dent, Chambliss, Willie Randolph, Roy White and Munson.

The project was part of Kroseman's master's thesis.

In 1977, the Yankees used, with consistency, a lineup of Rivers, White, Munson, Chambliss, Jackson, Piniella, Nettles, Randolph and Dent.

Kroseman projected the performance statistics into 162 games. The computer showed the regular batting order scoring 831 runs. But the computer's lineup would have scored 862 runs, Kroseman said.

There may be an even better lineup around, Kroseman said. With nine players, there are 362,880 different possibilities and Kroseman tested just over 3,000 variations, putting each through 10 seasons, or 1,620 games.

The computer did not consider injuries or psychological factors, Kroseman said. "If a guy wants to bat first and we put him ninth, it could affect his performance," he explained. Kroseman's program also examined offense only - pitching and defense were not included.

So his program doesn't mean a team will win more often, he said, but it does mean it will score more runs.

Could Kroseman's program improve baseball?

"I think so. The computer could pick out those lineups which are not doing a good job and at least eliminate some orders that will not work," he said.

Kroseman, an avid baseball fan, said he plans to let the Yankees in on his findings as soon as he runs 1978 statistics through the program.

The Yankees managed to win the World Series in 1977 and 1978 with managers Billy Martin and Bob Lemon choosing the lineup.

Reeves Unsure On Giant Offer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Dan Reeves, considered leading contender for the head coaching job with the New York Giants, said he was "wasn't encouraged or discouraged," after his interview this week with new General Manager George Young.

"I really have no feeling, usually you do when you come out of a meeting like that," Reeves said by telephone from Dallas. "It was a good interview, blunt and to the point."

Reeves met with Young, appointed last Wednesday as general manager, for four hours Monday night in the Dallas-Fort Worth airport. The two men had never met before.

"He didn't beat around the bush and I respect him for that," Reeves said. "I'm definitely still interested in the job, but I have no idea one way or the other about my chances. I have no feel for that."

The Giants are expected to make an announcement at the end of the week. The National Football League forbids one team from hiring another's assistant after March 1 to prevent break-up of a team's staff before the upcoming season.

If Young makes his selection by Friday, the new man will have just six days to hire current NFL assistants in putting together a staff.

Ray Perkins, the San Diego Chargers' highly regarded offensive coordinator, is Reeves' chief competition for the job. Perkins and Young are old friends from their days together in Baltimore and speculation has arisen that Young might feel more comfortable with Perkins than Reeves.

Young has played down his friendship with Perkins.

Young was expected to conduct another interview at Giants Stadium Wednesday, which he labeled "no big deal." Young met with New York Jets offensive coordinator John Idzik on Tuesday.

Seattle Seahawks offensive coordinator Jerry Rhone, interviewed by Young Sunday in Los Angeles, pulled his name out of the running Tuesday.

"I'm very happy here and just feel I have a commitment to take us that much closer to the Super Bowl," Rhone said. "I was very flattered to be interviewed by the Giants, and Young understood my feelings when I called him."

"The Giants had not offered me the job nor had they told me I was out of the running either. I just don't want to leave Seattle now. My decision to stay here had nothing to do with the Giants," he added.

Through 1978, no team had ever rallied from a 3-0 deficit in games to win the World Series.

What is A Town?

A town is a group of people.

It is schools.

It is city government.

It is churches.

It is industry and jobs.

It is retail businesses.

They all have to work together. All must have the support of the people.

Or there is no town.

Give your local merchant a chance for your business. You shouldn't spend your hard earned money with him unless his selection is adequate and his price competitive. But give him the first opportunity to make the sale.

For the local retailer pays the highest percentage of local taxes. He most often is the civic leader who dedicates his time and talents to his town. He is contacted first for contributions to charitable projects. He provides jobs. Without his store you have no town.

Give the local merchant a fair shake

W.T. Vegetable Conference to Focus on Future

HEREFORD - Ways producers can build a strong future for the West Texas vegetable industry will be explored here Tuesday, Feb. 27, at the annual West Texas Vegetable Conference.

A profitable future for area vegetable growers must be built on steady improvement in market analysis, cultural practices and marketing procedures, said Dr. Roland E. Roberts, Extension vegetable specialist and conference coordinator.

The educational conference is the annual meeting of the High Plains Vegetable Growers and Shippers Council. It begins at 9 a.m. at the Hereford Community Center, 100 Avenue C and Park Avenue.

Sponsors, with the council, are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX), the Deaf Smith County Vegetable Crops Committee, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES), Texas Tech University, the Panhandle Economic Progress program of TAEX, and the Texas A&M Vegetable Research Center at Munday.

Speakers at the all-day conference will address topics given highest priority by the High Plains Council, said Charles Schlabs, council president and Deaf Smith County producer.

Keynote speaker for the conference will be Doug Johansen, director of potato programs for the North Dakota Department of Agriculture, Fargo, N.D. He will discuss the potato seed foundation program, which he conducts and which is responsible for maintaining disease-free foundation stocks.

Special techniques for economically producing quality onion transplants in High Plains greenhouses will be detailed by Roberts. He said these have been developed in the past three years in demonstrations conducted by TAEX with area growers. In addition to explaining the strong profit potential for these home-grown plants, Roberts will discuss practical consequences of onion plant pruning and simulated mechanical horizontal planting.

Joint funding by industry and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of an aggressive onion breeding program in South Texas has made it possible for Dr. Leonard Pike to conduct an onion breeding program. Pike, professor of horticulture with TAES at College Station, will report on the work to provide new onion varieties to attend the Texas marketing season and improve the quality of Texas onions shipped to distant markets.

West Texas vegetable growers can improve profits by having specific vegetables ready for market when price and demand are high. Gordon Powell, TAEX fruit and vegetable marketing specialist; College Station, will pinpoint potential market opportunities for vegetables adapted to West Texas.

Good stands of strong potato plants are possible, but growers must include as many optimum conditions and practices as possible to achieve them. Dr. Robert W. Berry, TAEX area plant pathologist at Lubbock, will outline a strategy which progressive growers can put into practice this season to reduce seedpiece disease, a common cause for reduction of plant stand.

Progress in the longrange potato breeding program being conducted by Texas A&M and TAES will be reported by Dr. Creighton Miller, associate professor of horticulture, College Station, and Doug Smallwood, TAES research associate, Lubbock.

The performance of dehydrators on Texas will be reported by Tom Longbrake, TAEX vegetable horticulturist, College Station.

Bill Kingston, assistant professor in charge of the TAMU Vegetable Research Station, Munday, will report on insect and disease control programs for potatoes and cabbage. He also will relate work being done in breeding cabbage varieties for Texas.

Bob Mercer, executive vice president of the Potato Board, Denver, will tell how the board has increased the national consumption of potatoes.

Updating their research on potato temperature as the key to quality control will be Dr. Max Miller, associate professor; and Donna Huffington, graduate research assistant, in the food technology department of Texas Tech University, Lubbock. They have monitored potato temperatures from the field through the packing house and in transit all the way to East Coast terminals to determine the relationship between temperature and quality.

Dr. John Downes, professor of plant and soil science, and Frank Baggerman, research associate, at Texas Tech will report on studies of the effects of potato planting rates, onion soil fertility and lettuce spacing.

Dr. Dan Bartell, assistant professor of entomology, and Terry Irke, graduate research assistant, Texas Tech, will discuss research to improve insect control on potatoes at reduced rates of chemical application and reduced input costs.

Dr. William Lipe, TAES assistant professor of horticulture at Lubbock, will report on his research in the use of potato antitranspirants to conserve water and increase yields.

David Thomas, TAES research technician at Lubbock, will show how planting dates affected the yield of Norgold Russet potatoes.

Officers of the High Plains Vegetable Growers and Shippers Council, in addition to Schlabs, are Jerry Allen, Hart, vice president; and Ray Frye, Hereford, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Cameron Gault, Hereford; Preston Walker, Plainview; Bill Reinsauer, Hereford; and David Smith, Hart.

Veal, Lamb Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) - Per capita consumption of veal and lamb dropped further last year, according to the Agriculture Department.

When farmers and ranchers were rapidly cutting back on cattle herds a few years ago, they sent many more calves to slaughter plants than they ordinarily would.

That boosted veal production to 827 million pounds in 1975 from 442 million in 1974. Per capita consumption rose to 4.2 pounds from 2.3 pounds during the same period.

Calf slaughter dropped slightly but continued relatively heavy in 1976 and 1977 and then dropped to 600 million pounds last year, still a high level. But the per capita rate of veal consumption declined also, to an average of 3.0 pounds in 1978.

Beef consumption, by comparison, averaged 120.4 pounds - based on wholesale weights - and pork averaged 61.6 pounds on a per capita basis last year.

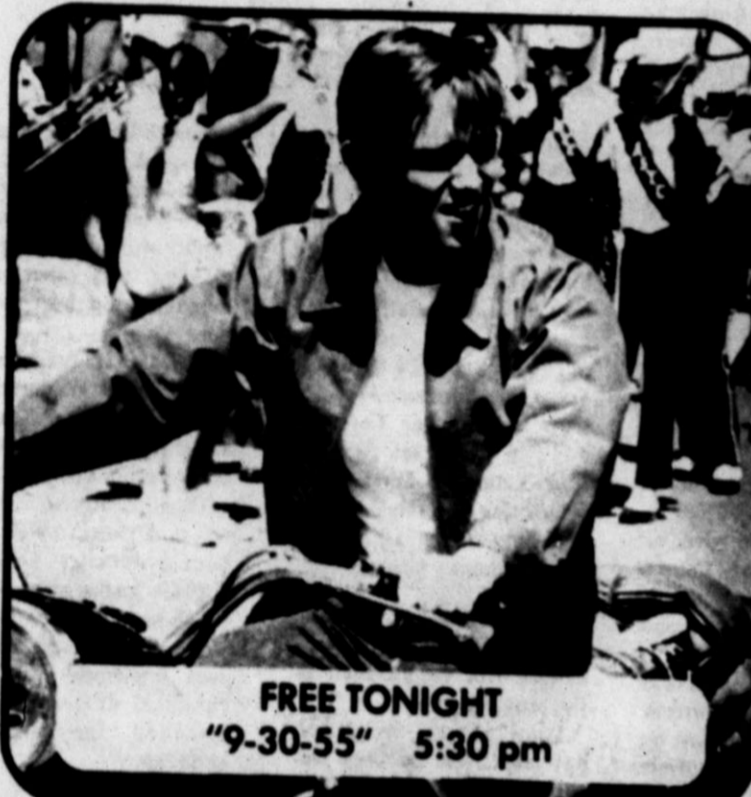

Lamb consumption dropped to 1.6 pounds per capita last year from 1.7 pounds in 1978, according to USDA reports.

Bergland Will Chair Meet In Lubbock

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says he will preside at public meetings late next month to talk about irrigation water problems that exist in much of the Great Plains and the West.

Bergland said the meetings will be held March 28 in Lubbock, and March 29 in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Value of Farm Exports Hits Record $30.3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) - Higher prices for grain and some other commodities will help push U.S. farm exports up by 11 percent to a record $30.3 billion this year, according to the Agriculture Department.

The new estimate is above the department's forecast of $29 billion issued in November for the fiscal year that will end Sept. 30.

Last fiscal year farm exports totaled $27.3 billion, the highest amount ever.

"Continued economic growth, rising incomes and population growth in major world markets are further expanding world demand for foods, livestock feedstuffs and raw materials," the department's outlook board said.

"Demand for improved diets, along with relatively abundant food supplies, is leading to increases in hog and poultry production in many countries."

The report said "the depreciation of the dollar has also helped to encourage exports of some commodities."

Imports of agricultural products also are expected to climb this year to $14.8 billion from about $13.9 billion in 1977-78, the report said.

That would mean the net agricultural trade balance - the difference between exports and imports - will rise further to a record $15.5 billion. It was $13.4 billion last year.

Wiese Named No-Tillage 'Educator of The Year'

AMARILLO - Twenty years of research on the High Plains of Texas has introduced area farmers to the value of minimum tillage in conserving precious water and costly energy.

Today that work brought national honor to a scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station here.

Dr. Allen F. Wiese, researcher and professor of weed science at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here, was named America's 1978 No-Tillage Educator of the Year.

The award is presented annually by "No-Till Farmer" magazine.

The biggest challenge facing Texas agriculture," Wiese says, "is maximizing the use of water."

He said this applies both to dryland farmers, who must effectively use 18 inches of annual rainfall common to the area, and to irrigators, who have seen energy costs for pumping water skyrocket in the past three years.

To meet this challenge, Wiese and other TAMU and USDA researchers started investigating minimum tillage techniques in 1958.

A big problem in adopting minimum tillage techniques was in weed control. It was in this area that Wiese made major contributions.

The breakthrough came in 1968 when the researchers discovered that the key to conserving soil moisture was the amount of stubble left on the soil surface.

Proper weed control make it possible to leave stubble on the ground which helped conserve moisture by allowing better use of rainfall.

Irrigated land produced enough stubble to make minimum tillage successful. Previous dryland experiments had not.

The research also showed that a minimum tillage system of wheat-fallow-sorghum raised sorghum yields 1,000 pounds per acre and wheat yields three bushels per acre.

Although area farmers have not hastened to adopt the system, Wiese feels broader acceptance is imminent.

He sees a trend among growers to reduce the number of trips across the fields.

The philosophy of minimum tillage is starting to influence them and that's the first step in adopting a new practice," he said.

The No-Till Educator award is the second national recognition for Wiese this month.

Special Hearing On Water Problems Set for Lubbock

LUBBOCK - A special hearing by the Department of Agriculture on irrigation problems, costs and related issues was announced by Congressman Kent Hance at the 12th Annual Membership Meeting of Water, Inc. here Saturday.

The hearing has been set for Wednesday, March 28, at 10:15 a.m. in the auditorium of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Hance told the 150 people who battled bad weather to attend the Water, Inc. session.

Hance indicated the Lubbock hearing and one the next day in Salt Lake City will deal with water policy alternatives which would affect farmers throughout the West, if implemented as a part of the President's water policy.

"I hope we can have a good delegation on hand for the meeting to offer testimony," said Congressman Hance.

"Groups such as Water, Inc. need to make sure proper input is given so that the problem and our viewpoint are properly presented."

Particularly alarming to residents of the High Plains area are proposals, made by a federal task force instructed to discourage groundwater depletion in water-short areas, that would limit or eliminate federal agricultural assistance to farmers who irrigate in regions with declining water supplies.

"There is some concern," Hance said, "that the federal government is getting into the business of telling farmers what crops to plant and how much land they can plant in the name of water conservation."

Agriculture's contributions to the national and world economies are much too important for the water needs of such a highly productive area as the High Plains to be ignored.

In a speech to the Water, Inc.,

1.3 Billion Bushel Grain Reserve Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) - As of mid-February, more than 1.3 billion bushels of grain were held by farmers under the government's three-year storage program.

The Agriculture Department, in a weekly report, said that as of Feb. 16 the grain reserve included about 733.1 million bushels of corn; 411.2 million bushels of wheat; 77.1 million bushels of sorghum; 42.3 million bushels of oats; 38.9 million bushels of barley; and 100.011 hundredweight of rice.

Under the program, the grain is stored by farmers and kept off the market for as long as three years of until prices rise enough to trigger release of the commodities.

The United Nations has adopted three major treaties relating to outer space. They cover the peaceful uses of outer space, the rescue and return of astronauts, and the liability for damage caused by man-made space objects.

Ada Earnings Up By 39 Percent

HOUSTON - Ada Resources, Inc. (OTC-ADAR) reported a 39 percent increase in its net earnings for the nine months ended December 31, 1978 compared to the same period of 1977.

Net earnings for the first nine months period were $2,683,000 or $3.50 per common share, compared to $1,891,000 or $3.36 per share, for the first three quarters of the prior year. Revenues for the first nine months of the current year were $92,523,000 compared with $79,757,000 through December 31, 1977.

Price Planning Gasohol Bills

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Sen. Bob Price feels the time is ripe for "gasohol" fuel and he will introduce legislation to encourage its development.

"In these days with talk of gasoline rationing, dollar a gallon gas and low prices for farm products, a gasohol program is desperately needed in the state of Texas," said Price, R-Pampa.

Beet Clinic Is Tomorrow

Area beet producers and those interested in beet growing will have an opportunity to get first-hand information on top production practices during a sugar beet clinic scheduled here for tomorrow.

The Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association, Holly Sugar Corporation and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are sponsoring the clinic, to be held from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. at the Community Center.

Walking Could Replace Running in Popularity

NEW YORK (AP) - One book says it'll help you lose weight. Another says it's better than drugs for treating insomnia. And still another says it's good even in the rain.

These are among seven forthcoming books on a single subject - walking - and publishers are gambling that it will overtake running this year as the new American fad.

Odds on the gamble are helped because the books come hard on the heels of "The Non-Runner's Book," a best-selling paean to sedentary pleasures.

Predictably, "The Complete Book of Walking," "The Walking Book," "Walk! It Could Change Your Life," "Walking!" "The Wonderful World of Walking," "Walk Your Way to Good Health" and "Dr. Marchetti's Walking Book" offer little sympathy to runners.

"For the dedicated runner, pain is an acceptable part of the regimen," John Man claims in "Walk!" "It is the latter-day equivalent of the hair shirt and flagellation." The potential drawbacks, he says, run the gamut from death to ingrown toenails.

According to most of the authors, walking can cure everything from anxiety to angina. Even a brisk half-hour walk a day can result in the loss of 15 pounds in a year, one of the books claims.

"Walking is what makes us human, separates us from our primate ancestors," John Davis maintains in "Walking!" It will strengthen heart and lungs, tranquilize better than drugs, ward off lower back problems, enhance appearance, encourage clear and creative thinking and open up new worlds to explore, he says.

"The Complete Book of Walking" notes that one Eula Weaver had a bad heart attack at the age of 77 and was told, in effect, to just wait for the fatal one. Instead, she started walking. Now 89, she walks regularly and - the heresy notwithstanding - jogs as well.

Although there are a number of similar success stories in "The Complete Book," it urges persons with heart conditions to consult their doctors first.

Walking may come naturally, but this book outlines how to do it. "It is good to keep your spine straight and hold your head high," it declares. "Don't exaggerate your arm motion. Allow your arms to hang loosely at your sides."

"Each foot should strike the ground at your heel. Then you should push off with your toes to complete the foot strike motion." As you move from heel to toe, you will get a rolling motion.

And the authors of these books say the chief advantage of walking is that anyone can do it. But Vic Ziegel and Lewis Grossberger, in "The Non-Runner's Book," caution "never try to imitate anyone else's non-running style."

Among other things, they suggest this style: "Lock your wrists, flex your biceps, flatten your tendons, and put your left foot slightly in front of your right. Your toes should be relaxed and your fists clenched, but calm. Your lip should be curled."

These books note that there's more to walking than just walking. There are charts and tables to help the novice schedule walks and guides on where to walk. Sections are devoted to apparel and whole chapters to shoes - which "The Complete Book of Walking" says "spell the difference between pain and comfort."

"Walk!" author Man suggests hiking up stairs, and others urge parking away from the office or leaving the bus two, or three stops early. "The Complete Book" says one should walk "tall."

"As you're walking down Main Street, you may think that everyone is looking at you," it says. "So what! you're doing something good for your body; they're not."

The books also advocate walking in any weather. To walk even in a winter's freezing rainstorm, says Man, is "invigorating."

"Walking!" author John Davis observes that walkers will find themselves, figuratively anyway, in good company. Shakespeare was a walker, he reports, as were Oliver Wendell Holmes, Albert Einstein, Robert Louis Stevenson, Aristotle and Sigmund Freud.

In the view of the English satirist Max Beerbohm, however, walking is at best pedestrian. In Man's book, Beerbohm is quoted as saying:

"Experience teaches me that whatever a fellow-guest may have of power to instruct or to amuse when he is sitting on a chair, or standing on a hearth-rug, quickly leaves him when he takes one out for a walk."

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, Feb. 22, the 53rd day of 1979. There are 312 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1732, George Washington was born at his parents' plantation near Fredricksburg, Va.

On this date: In 1810, the composer, Frederic Chopin, was born in Warsaw, Poland.

In 1819, Spain ceded Florida to the United States.

In 1889, the Dakota territory was divided into North Dakota and South Dakota.

In 1945, in World War II, the U.S. Third Army crossed the Saar River south of Saarburg, Germany.

In 1967, Indonesia's President Sukarno ended his long term as the nation's first president, surrendering his remaining authority to General Suharto.

In 1973, the United States and Communist China agreed to establish liaison offices in Peking and Washington.

Ten years ago: Communist forces bombarded scores of cities and military bases in South Vietnam, including Saigon and Da Nang.

Five years ago: Pakistan recognized the independence of its former eastern province, the new nation of Bangladesh.

One year ago: Egypt broke diplomatic relations with Cyprus in protest over an airport clash on the island in which 15 Egyptian commandos were killed by Cypriot forces while trying to rescue airliner hostages.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts is 47. Actor Robert Young is 72. Star basketball player of the Philadelphia '76s Julius Erving is 29.

Thought for today: There's always an easy solution to every human problem - neat, plausible and wrong - H.L. Menchen, American writer, 1880-1956.

School Appeal Reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to hear arguments by Dallas school officials who want to derail a move to racially balance the nation's eighth largest school district.

The justices voted to review the school district's appeal aimed at overturning a federal appeals court ruling that could lead to widespread student busing in Dallas.

Dallas schools have been involved in desegregation efforts since 1955, but the lawsuit sparking Wednesday's action was first filed in 1970 by the parents of black and Mexican-American students.

After prolonged legal proceedings, U.S. District Judge William Taylor Jr. in March 1976 ordered enforcement of a racial desegregation plan suggested by the Dallas Alliance Task Force on Education.

Under it, the school district's 140,000 students and 183 schools would be divided into six subdistricts. Five of those subdistricts would have to reflect the same racial makeup, within 5 percent, of the entire school district.

As of 1975, those percentages were 41 percent white, 45 percent black and 14 percent Mexican-American. School officials say the white school population now has dropped to 35 percent.

Taylor's plan, school officials estimated, would make necessary the busing of some 20,000 students at an annual cost of $5.8 million.

Minority parents and the Dallas branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People objected to Taylor's plan because one subdistrict - East Oak Cliff, where 27,500 students would attend 16 schools - would remain virtually all-black.

Also, 50 schools in the other five subdistricts would remain essentially one-race schools, the NAACP noted.

Last April, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered Taylor to restudy the Dallas case and come up with a new student assignment plan.

The appeals court told Taylor that his desegregation order would have to "justify the maintenance of any one-race schools that may be part of that plan."

If such schools could not be justified, they should be abolished, the appeals court ruled.

Dallas school officials appealed the 5th Circuit ruling, and last August asked Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. to refuse proceedings in Taylor's court until the full Supreme Court acted on the appeal. Powell refused to do so, but no new plan has been announced.

Dallas school officials argued that desegregation remedies used for small, rural school districts are not realistic for city schools.

Four Palestinian guerrillas seized the Israeli embassy in Bangkok in 1972 and held six hostages for nearly 19 hours.

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society

A reader asks: "Who determines the tar and nicotine levels in cigarettes, and is there really any significant variation?"
ANSWERline: Working under a Congressional order, the Federal Trade Commission periodically tests different brands of cigarettes and compiles a list of tar and nicotine contents by brand because the amount of these substances in a cigarette can seriously undermine the smoker's health. In the latest survey of 169 varieties of cigarettes, the FTC found that the cigarette at the bottom of its list contained 64 times the tar and 44 times the nicotine as the cigarette at the top of its list. The new ratings aren't much different from those recorded previously by the FTC but they are a useful guide for the smoker seeking to cut down on tar and nicotine.

and cancer is an interesting subject because the occurrence of a particular form of cancer can vary from country to country - for example, breast cancer is a major U.S. health problem but is far less of a danger to women in Japan. Also, the National Institutes of Health recently completed a study of geographical patterns of cancer death rates within the U.S. for whites, blacks, American Indians, Japanese, and Chinese. There was a striking similarity in where particular forms of cancer were recorded. There were generally higher rates of cancers of the breast, colon, rectum and esophagus in Northern states and lower rates for these diseases in the South. Cancers of the larynx, bladder and ovary also had above-average rates in the North. Such studies are important in determining possible environmental factors in cancer. The American Cancer Society has a Cancer Prevention Study covering a million persons in major regions of the nation and this information bank offers another way to analyze where cancers occur and why. If your class would like to do a project on this subject or obtain a map of cancer rates in the 50 states and a chart of cancer rates around the world, ask your local American Cancer Society for free copies of "Cancer Facts & Figures 1977."

A female attorney explains: "Three years ago I had a mastectomy and while I am happy to say that my health is fine, I have never adjusted to wearing an artificial breast. What about plastic surgery?"
ANSWERline: The first person you should ask is the surgeon or physician who is in charge of your medical treatment. For some women, it is possible to reconstruct a missing breast using a special implant and operative techniques, even years after the original surgery. Your physician may be able to refer you to a plastic surgeon who can explain what you can realistically expect from a reconstructive procedure.

A social studies teacher notes: "My geography class would be interested to know: does where you live have an influence on cancer?"
ANSWERline: Geography

'Shotgun' Cold Remedies Questioned by Doctors

NEW YORK — It's an intimate scene. A young couple in bathrobes confront us at their medicine chest.

The husband says he has everything he needs for a cold, and opens his side of the cabinet to reveal a dozen powders, liquids and pills.

But the wife, looking smug, says she too has everything she needs for a cold. Her side contains a single product that combines the active ingredients of all the others.

That's cold fighting, television-commercial style.

It is the kind of pitch that helped make multi-ingredient products perennial leaders of the $843 million a year cough and cold industry, the largest over-the-counter drug market.

Nobody claims these products cure a cold. All they do is ease the symptoms during the week or more a disease hangs on.

But some doctors and druggists are questioning the wisdom of the "shotgun" approach to cold relief.

"Too many ingredients can work at cross purposes," says Joe Graedon, pharmacologist and author. "There's an expectation to get mucus out of the lungs, a cough suppressant to keep it in the lungs, and an antihistamine to thicken the mucus that's there."

A U.S. Food and Drug Administration study panel said it was "irrational" to combine more than three classes of ingredients because almost no one has that many symptoms at once.

But the drug companies say the FDA is wrong; more than half of cold sufferers have multiple symptoms.

"Advertising only encourages the consumer to try the product once. If it doesn't work, he'll stop buying it," says George F. Hoffnagle, vice president for scientific and regulatory affairs for Richardson-Merrell, maker of Vicks.

Hoffnagle says it's cheaper and safer for a cold victim who has several symptoms to buy one combination remedy than to experiment with different single-ingredient products.

The FDA panel found that the 50,000 cold remedies it studied all contained one or more of about 120 basic ingredients.

Of these, the panel said 44 were both safe and effective. But 22 others were branded as unsafe or mislabeled, and 54 were said to be safe but of dubious value.

More research is needed into how the products affect children.

The FDA is moving toward new regulations for cold products based on the panel's work. But the regulations are at least a year away.

In the meantime, the FDA review has made 10 formerly prescription drugs available over the counter. A spokesman for the Proprietary Association, the trade group of non-prescription drug makers, says six of them are in use or soon will be in use in products.

The Romans slipped onion broth for a cold. American colonists relied on herbs like sage, buckthorn and bloodroot.

Today's cold remedies have ingredients with even more obscure names; here is a quick guide to translating some of them.

-ANALGESICS pain relievers: often listed on the label as aspirin, acetaminophen. These cut fever and reduce aches and pains. Acetaminophen, an aspirin substitute, provokes less stomach upset. Some doctors say aspirin causes more cold virus to be shed in the mucus and may make a cold more contagious.

-DECONGESTANTS: often phenylephrine, phenylpropanolamine, pseudoephedrine, oxymetazoline, propylhexedrine, xylometazoline, naphazoline.

These reduce swelling by shrinking tiny blood vessels in the nose. Nasal sprays work best because they deliver a concentrated dose. But because of the effect on blood vessels, some products warn against use by people with cardiovascular problems. Also, decongestants, especially sprays, can cause "rebound congestion," an aggravated swelling, with prolonged use.

-COUGH SUPPRESSANTS: often codeine, dextromethorphan. These reduce the desire to cough. But coughing is a reflex to rid the lungs of congestion and some physicians say if a cough is productive — that is, if it's not a dry cough that brings up nothing — it should not be suppressed entirely.

-ANTIHISTAMINES: often chlorpheniramine, methapyrilene, pyrilamine, phenindamine, the-nyldiamine, phenyltoloxamine, pheniramine, diphenhydramine, doxylamine.

These relieve sneezing and watery eyes of hay fever and allergies. There is some controversy whether antihistamines have any effect on a cold, but they are included in almost every leading cold product. Caution: antihistamines can cause drowsiness and many products warn against driving or operating machinery while taking them.

-EXPECTORANTS: often guaifenesin or glyceryl guaiacolate, ipecac syrup, potassium guaiacolsulfonate or terpin hydrate.

These are intended to thin congestion in the lungs so mucus can be coughed up. However, an FDA panel said it could find no evidence that any of expectorants now in use work very well. It recommended drug companies be given three years to prove the products' worth.

-ANTICHOLINERGICS: often atropine, belladonna preparations. These are intended to dry watery eyes and runny nose. The FDA panel said it could find no evidence these were effective either.

-THREE OTHERS: caffeine, alcohol and Vitamin C ascorbic acid.

Caffeine, a stimulant, is added to offset drowsiness of antihistamines. Alcohol is used to dissolve other ingredients (the FDA panel said it could find no evidence these were effective either).

In general, it's a good idea to take no more drugs than needed and to consult a doctor before taking cold remedies if already taking other medications.

Paperback guides to cold products include Robert Benowitz's "Non-Prescription Drugs and Their Side Effects" and Joe Graedon's "The People's Pharmacy." A summary of the FDA panel's advice is available free by sending a postcard asking for the booklet "The Common Cold" to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 589C, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements, two of three Texas Railroad Commissioners and the Texas Energy Advisory Council all sounded separate alarms this week but over the same awaiting crisis—a shortage of fuel to run the nation on.

In Washington, Clements declared: "We do indeed have an energy crisis," and went on to bombard President Carter for having failed so far in securing an oil and gas deal with Mexico.

On the home front, Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent made the first chilling revelation that gas rationing loomed ahead. His remarks came during a speech in Dallas. Fellow Commissioner Mack Wallace was quick to agree. "We are talking about rationing our gasoline supplies in peace time," said Wallace.

John Poerner, the chairman of the three-member RRC, was the lone voice of optimism. He disagreed with his colleagues but did admit it was "possible" that sometime during the coming summer the U.S. might face a slowdown in gasoline production because of the cutback in crude oil from Iran. The Midwest country supplies 10 percent of the world's oil and five percent of that is gobbled up by the U.S.

Poerner said he was not "alarmed" even though the nation's reserves had fallen to a 70-day supply. "When we reach a 60-day reserve," Nugent remarked, "Schlesinger (Energy Secretary James Schlesinger) will be extremely nervous." At the time of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo that created shortages and long lines at gas stations across the country, the normal U.S. reserve was 54 days.

"I think we are in the most precarious international situation since World War II," announced Wallace, a frequent critic of the national energy policy forged by the Carter administration. A strategy Wallace feels emphasizes "cosmetic" solutions to expected shortages. "I don't see the administration encouraging production," Wallace remarked.

In an emergency meeting of the Texas Energy Advisory Council called to consider the repercussions of cutbacks in Iranian oil, a resolution offered by Wallace called on the nation to begin a no-holes-barred effort to produce the energy needed to keep the nation running. "We must face up to the problem," Wallace said before attending the council meeting. "The thrust of the nation's energy policy needs to be changed."

Ironically, in the first interesting action on the House floor, the leaders of what Speaker Bill Clayton calls the "loyal" opposition managed to slash in half an emergency appropriations bill for the RRC and specified that the money be spent only to implement the federal National Gas Policy Act of 1978. Typically, Clayton said he didn't think passage of the original appropriation was a test of his authority.

Word Game
The magic word for Gov. Bill Clements is not "Bracero." The governor said he would stop using the term when referring to his proposals for dealing with Mexican nationals employed illegally in the U.S. "The word is obnoxious to some," Clements admitted, so "Bracero" is out.

"Excessive" is in Clements' week that term again this week when answering questions about the 160,000-member Texas Public Employees Association's demand for a 10.2 percent pay increase. Last week, the governor branded the Legislative Budget Board's proposed 22 percent jump in state spending as "excessive."

"Unimaginative" was a Clements' favorite term when discussing a Department of Public Safety plan to combat illegal drugs. The ever-active governor has taken to re-writing what the DPS handed him.

Wiretaps are already part of the DPS strategy, and Clements backs such an idea, but if he doesn't watch it, the governor may come up with a dry hole. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says a law legalizing wiretaps in narcotics cases will most likely get un-plugged in the Senate.

With that in mind, Clements announced the creation of a citizens committee to help him in his crusade against drug trafficking. H. Ross Perot, head of one of the world's largest computer firms, was named to chair the 10-member panel. Perot is from Clements' old stomping grounds—Dallas. The remaining members of the committee, dubbed "Texans War Against Drugs," will be named later.

Courts Speak
The Texas Supreme Court this week upheld a state ruling that limits the practice of acupuncture to licensed physicians.

And the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the 1976 robbery conviction of former professional football player Warren Wells.

Short Snorts
Speaking figuratively, of course, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the "bloodiest" struggle of the 66th session might well come over attempts to raise the home mortgage ceiling. But not a drop was spilled this week as House and Senate committees failed to act on legislation that would raise the home loan interest rate from 10 to 12 percent.

In the meantime, legislators appear to be sharpening their aim over the question of when to hold a presidential primary. The House Elections Committee met to discuss changing the dates of state primary elections but ended up spending most of their time arguing over a presidential primary.

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Hobby back a presidential primary in March with normal state primaries in July, shortening the campaign season. The State Democratic Executive Committee doesn't like it. Democratic National Chairman John C. White doesn't like it. GOP State Chairman Ray Barnhart doesn't like it. And one other Texas Republican isn't so hot about the idea—Bill Clements. The governor has warned he will veto a primary law that shortens the time between primaries and the general elections. Some odd alliances may be forming. So stay tuned.

Charity (and rabid fans of the game) may well come up the big winners if a constitutional amendment legalizing bingo gets approval of House and Senate members as it did in a legislative committee this week. Enabling legislation would "tighten" the law requiring that 100 percent of the proceeds must go to the legitimate charitable organization. The Senate passed a similar bill in 1977 but the legislation was a loser in the House.

THURSDAY
Remember when the dry cleaner would take the lint and gum wrappers out of suit pockets without being paid for "Executive" service?

Could someone please tell us why the Weather Service can always tell us how a storm fooled them, but never can tell WHY?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The estranged wife of Rod Steiger has filed suit seeking a $2.5 million settlement from the actor in a suit similar to one filed against Lee Marvin by his former live-in lover Michelle Triola Marvin.

Marvin Mitchelson, attorney for Miss Marvin's suit to obtain half the assets Marvin accumulated while they lived together, filed the suit Tuesday.

Sherry Steiger, 41, seeks to overturn a pre-nuptial agreement with Steiger that prevents her from recovering property accumulated in their nine-year relationship. The Steigers lived together four years prior to their 1973 marriage. A divorce hearing is scheduled for April.

The Lighter Side

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Salt Lake County lobbyists have deployed a "SWAT team" in the Utah Legislature, using two-way radios to help them "rescue" bills in trouble with lawmakers.

When a bill of interest is brought to the floor, student interns in the gallery radio the information to Bill Callahan, the county's legislative coordinator. Callahan deploys the lobbyists, who rush their facts and figures to lawmakers they feel can be swayed or assign one of their number to make a few personal contacts.

Callahan says only one bill sneaked through without the county's knowledge, because one of the Westminster College interns on the radios fell asleep during debate. The bill passed anyway, he said.

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — A Mark Twain story about a champion jumping frog put Calaveras County on the map, but now some folks here are a touch jumpy over a matter of who owns the land on the map.

Because a mining company failed to file patents on land, it seems the federal government may own the main drag of this Northern California mining community and nearby Altaville.

Atop the land sits City Hall, two churches, dozens of businesses, the city swimming

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter smiled when he saw his smiling portrait. He likes it, he says, because it's not all teeth. The portrait, painted by artist Robert Templeton of Woodbury, Conn., was unveiled Tuesday at the state Capitol.

Carter, often characterized by his toothy smile, praised the portrait, commissioned to hang in the state Senate where he served from 1963 to 1967. Private donations paid the $4,500 cost of the painting, which shows Carter seated at a desk.

"You don't know how nice it is to see a portrait of you that isn't 80 percent teeth," Carter commented.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is 75 today, still a step away from the top Kremlin job but apparently not yet ready to retire. Rumors circulating in the early 1970s that he soon would retire have subsided with Politburo circumvention of a rule that would have forced retirement at 70.

Dissident physicist Andrei Sakharov has called him the "most intelligent and toughest" man in the leadership, and educated Russians see him as the man who manages the seemingly unmanageable economy.

Kosygin was 13 when the Russian Revolution broke out in his home city of Leningrad. He joined the Red Army at 15, trained as an engineer, ran a textile mill and became mayor of Leningrad in his club to power. His former mentor, the late Premier Nikita Khrushchev, said in his memoirs that he "simply can't explain" how Kosygin survived the Stalinist purges of the 1940s.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced Wednesday he will nominate Mary Lou Robinson to be a U.S. district judge for the northern district of Texas.

Ms. Robinson, 52, of Amarillo, has been chief justice of the Court of Civil Appeals of the 7th Supreme Judicial District since 1977.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
No harm in vinegar

DEAR DR. LAMB - Please tell me if vinegar is harmful to a person. I like to use a lot of it on my food and my husband has been told it isn't good for a person to use very much of it.
DEAR READER - If you listened long enough, you could hear everything. Some people write and tell me that vinegar is great for their health. The truth is, it's neither helpful nor harmful. The main ingredient in vinegar is acetic acid. This basic organic chemical is connected to an enzyme to form one of the major chemical compounds used in metabolism within the cell, so I wouldn't worry about vinegar.
Of course, vinegar is acid. If you happen to have an acid stomach or acidity problems, it might not be so good for you. The truth is, the amount of acid in vinegar is insignificant compared to the amount of acid produced by the normal stomach. Your stomach produces hydrochloric acid, which is a strong acid. Whereas acetic acid in vinegar is a very weak acid. Then people seem to forget that there is such a thing as digestion. When we swallow something, it doesn't necessarily go into the bloodstream. If so, we'd have some mighty peculiar looking blood, filled with hamburger, mustard, vinegar, etc.

Regardless of the wide variety of the foods you eat, it is all broken down into a few basic compounds that pass through the intestinal wall and into the bloodstream. Foods don't get through the intestinal wall unless they have been digested down to the basic building blocks. Vinegar is digested. Its acidity is neutralized by the alkaline juices from the pancreas and the intestinal wall itself. So, let your taste tell you how much vinegar you want to use, if any.
To give you a better understanding of how all that food you eat is broken down before it even gets into your bloodstream, I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-4, Your Digestion: Processing Your Food. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I had a hysterectomy when I was only 25. The surgeon left in both ovaries so I am still forming eggs.
Is someone working on uterus transplants? Is there hope for me? I am and was then single. Of course, it induced a great deal of emotional and psychological trauma for me.
DEAR READER - Although you didn't say why you had a hysterectomy, I am certain that as a young, single woman it was indeed a traumatic event.
There isn't any significant effort being made to transplant a uterus. To avoid

Topic of Discussion

Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met in regular session Tuesday night at the IOOF Temple with 18 members present.

Noble Grand Karol Rettman presided at the routine business session. Members reported 55 visits to the sick and 15 cheer cards.

Several lodge members are still on the sick list and wishes were extended for a speedy recovery.

Plans for the April 27-29 Panhandle Association meeting to be hosted by Hereford Odd Fellows and Rebekahs were reported and discussed.

Stanton Dogie Roundup

The Stanton FHA Chapter sponsored by Mrs. Dean Bradley had a skating party last week. Tonya Savage, recreation chairman, was in charge of arrangements. The group had supper at McDonald's. Those attending were Elizabeth Arias, Mary Stacy, Carol Smalts, Kerry Tooley, Tonya Savage, Shannon Wilburn, Janet Riley, Stella Guerra, Neida Guerra, Bertha Covarrubia, Jeimmie Haley, Bobby Lovelless, Debbie Moya, Carman Gonzales, Suzanne Halsey, Darlene Stovall and Debbie McCarley.
Weather permitting, the VOCT Club will have an open house and car wash Saturday, Feb. 24. They had planned this for last week and had to postpone it. This will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the C.V.A.E. shop at Stanton.
Intramural girls have completed the basketball free throw contests. There were 57 entries and each girl shot 50 times. Division I was for girls in athletics and Division II & III was for those in P.E.
Seventh grade winners were Division I, Elizabeth Hayes; Division II, Ericka Kendrick; 2nd-Mary Lou Treviso, and 3rd-JoAnn Coronado. Eighth grade winners were Division I, 1st-Margie Morales, 2nd-Olga
