Windy City Suffers during Cold, Snowy Winter

CHICAGO (AP) - No need to tell 77-year-old Charlie Zahr that Chicago has suffered the worst combination of cold and snow in the city's history.

More snow - over seven feet - has fallen this winter than any other. A record one-day snow depth of 29 inches was set. The record for most consecutive days with low temperatures of zero or below -10 was tied.

Business lost billions, transportation was paralyzed, the city's political organization was shaken, psychiatrists' caseloads increased, and Charlie Zahr fought to survive.

"In nice weather I used to go out for a short stroll," said Zahr. "Now it's even hard for me to pay people to get me groceries."

Zahr, a retired doll mender with failing eyesight, says he has "a few friends, but all my people are dead now."

Zahr's only income is from Social Security, but it didn't rise when his heating bill nearly doubled last month for his small first-story apartment on the city's north side.

The average temperature in January was 12.4 degrees, with the lowest reading minus-19. Electricity use set records, gas demand for January and early February was 20 percent above normal for the period.

"The basement below me is unheated and it cost a lot to keep my place heated," Zahr said. "I hope to tell you this is the worst winter ever.

He said he spent his days alone, watching television and playing a tape

"Our calls for help doubled or tripled." said Lilo Selmon, program director for Little Brothers of the Poor, an organization that aids elderly shutins.

She said her organization normally serves about 1,400 persons.

"Usually we try to bring shut-ins to parties, but there has been no way to do that. With all the snow and blocked streets we've spent all our time just trying to reach people with essentials. A lot of what we do is just visiting, spending time with lonely people. We're kind of depressed around here because we couldn't do much visiting."

Many other Chicagoans became shut-ins this winter - especially after a blizzard dumped 20.5 inches of snow between Jan. 12 and 14.

The weather caused many people to be more irritable, to eat more, sleep more and feel more tired, said Dr. James L. Cavanaugh, director of psychiatry at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center. He said more people sought professional aid for depression and former patients returned to their doctors during the bad weather.

"There is simply so end to it," Cavanaugh said. "The snow, ice, cold, traffic jams, commuting problems and other stresses are just like the drops of water in the Chinese water torture. Eventually everyone reaches a breaking

Police reported a 26 percent increase in the city's murder rate between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15. Police placed charges of negligent homicide and hit-run and reckless driving against a snowplow driver who had worked 18 straight hours and allegedly went berserk, plowed into dozens of moving and parked cars, and killed one person.

Cavanaugh blamed many of the problems on the inability of people to leave home.

orted its January attendance fell to 63,308, compared with 156,209 in January 1978. The January 1979 figure was even below the one-day attendance record of more than 68,000 set in

John Colter of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said Chicago businesses lost $5 billion in the two weeks after the blizzard, in lost sales and services and money paid to employees who couldn't make it to work.

"Those are losses that won't necessarily be made up either," he said. "For example, steel production was down 25 percent during that time. There is lots of foreign steel available, so if somebody couldn't get his steel in Chicago he could get it overseas."

United Airlines "lost millions" when O'Hare International Airport was closed because of snow over the New Year's holiday and again in mid-January, said United spokesman Ed Williams.

Insurance claims for property damage hit a record $100 million and could climb higher, the Illinois Insurance Information Service said. Allstate and State Farm Insurance companies established special catastrophe units to handle the claims.

The restaurant business lost an estimated $5 million in January, the Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Associa-

Soviets Ship Missiles to Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Soviet ships unloaded missiles and radar equipment at the Vietnamese port of Haiphong and China launched air strikes deep into Vietnam to destroy the Russian supplies before they could reach the battlefield, Thai intelligence sources said

The sources said Chinese aircraft struck an area northwest of Haiphong on Thursday, shortly after the Soviets ships began their deliveries. The raiders apparently hit outside the city so as not to risk bombing the Russian ships and triggering a Soviet reprisal.

Heavy fighting was reported, meanwhile, along 100 miles of the eastern Vietnam-China border, with some of the sharpest action in the Lang Son and Cao Bang areas.

The report came from Kyodo, the Japanese news service, in a dispatch, from Peking. It said its information came from a Western military source in the Chinese capital, but there was no other identification of him.

The report said there was fighting 12 miles inside Vietnamese territory, but it gave no indication how the battles were

The report said the militiamen were being used for transportation, evacuation of wounded and sweeping of mines under fire. Blumenthal To Talk With Warring Chinese WASHINGTON (AP) - Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, embarking on a nine-day trip to China, is carrying instructions from President Carter on what to say to Chinese leaders about their border war with Vietnam.

Blumenthal, the first top administration official to visit China since the United States established diplomatic relations Jan. 1, scheduled a mid-morning departure from Washington.

... The Blumenthal trip; first intended primarily to discuss economic and trade issues, has taken on added significance with China's weekend invasion of

The Carter administration has publicly urged that the Chinese withdraw from Vietnam and that the Vietnamese take their troops out of Cambodia. But the Blumenthal trip gives Carter an opportunity to make his wishes known directly to the Chinese leadership.

"The secretary is carrying instructions from President Carter for meetings with the Chinese leadership on the China-Vietnam situation," said government officials, who requested anonymity.

They declined to reveal the content of the instructions, or whether they included a specific message from Carter to Chinese leaders.

The officials said the instructions to Blumenthal concerned "what to say" about the fighting.

Blumenthal, expected to meet Chinese Chairman Hua Kuo-feng and Vice Chairman Teng Hsiao-ping, will represent the president at the official opening of the U.S. Embassy in Peking

Officials said no serious consideration was given to postponing the trip because of the fighting. The trip, planned months in advance, is considered "an essential part of the normalization process," one

The officials also cautioned against expecting any spectacular gains from Blumenthal's trade and economic talks with the Chinese. But they said the trip will be important in "laying the groundwork for the normalization of economic relations."

And they hope Blumenthal will be $196 million in outstanding American claims against the Chinese government stemming from its seizure of American property after the communists took over the country in 1949.

Chief among these is a $53.8 million claim by the Boise Cascade Corp., whose subsidiary, the Shanghai Power Co., was seized by the communist government.

The United States, for its part, had frozen about $80 million in Chinese assets (See BLUMENTHAL, Page 2)

Administration Says Gasoline Shortage Possible by Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is predicting motorists could find gasoline in short supply this summer due to the Iranian revolution and that it will cost at least three to four cents more a gallon than now.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a House committee Thursday that unless Iranian production is restored speedily, there will be a gasoline shortage of "noticeable but not crippling" severity during the summer driving season.

He said the administration may be forced to take mandatory steps to make sure there is enough heating oil for next winter - meaning a reduction in "gasoline availability."

"There will be a gasoline problem - in all likelihood - this summer," he said. Testifying before the House Budget Committee, Schlesinger said there still has been no word from the new Iranian revolutionary government on when exports may be resumed. Later in Tehran, Deputy Prime Minister Ebrahim Yazdi said Iran will resume oil exports very soon. But he did not say precisely when that would come or how much oil would be sold to which countries.

The new government in Iran has promised to resume sales to the United possibility that it could be in curtailed

Before the cutoff in December, Iran had supplied about 5 percent of total U.S. oil consumption, or close to 1 million barrels a day. However, the net effect of the shutdown is a reduction of around 500,000 barrels because other producing nations have increased their exports somewhat to help offset the Iranian cutoff.

Schlesinger suggested that the total negative impact on U.S. crude oil supplies could reach 8 percent because of international commitments that might require the United States to share fuel with other consuming nations.

The extent of any gasoline shortage will depend on the length of the Iranian shutdown as well as the degree to which these foreign commitments must be honored, an issue which the International Energy Agency must decide when it meets next month. Schlesinger predicted gasoline prices by mid-summer would be "three or four cents higher" than at present. "But they

Clements: Presidency Not in Plans for 1980

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says he is not a candidate for president and is not ready at this time to take sides among his friends and supporters who are.

"I have not been considering it. I am not even thinking about it," Clements said Thursday when asked about reports from the Northeast that he might become a "favorite son" candidate.

A "favorite son" candidate would hold Texas delegates' votes, then cast them for a regular candidate at the National Republican Convention. "I have all I can say grace over here. My plate is full," Clements told a news

Clements added, "It is far too early for me or anyone else to get locked into position. The real race is a year away."

"We have two good Texas candidates" John Connally and George Bush. "Both are good friends of mine. There are two others, Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford, who helped me in my campaign.' Clements said.

"Under no circumstances will I get into any controversy with any of these candidates at this time," Clements said.

Clements said he had not made up his mind on details of a presidential primary. He has said previously he supports the idea of a preference primary.

"I think this will be much talked about," Clements said. "There are several bills. ... This may be the most significant question before the Legislature, it could be."

He repeated he would veto any bill that attempts to move the party primary elections back to July, August or September. "That is very clear," he said.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton are backing a measure that calls for a presidential primary in March and changes the dates of the primary elections from May and June to July and Clements also said he wants it made clear he has not yet taken a stand on increasing home mortgage interest rates from 10 percent to 12 percent. "I'm getting tired of reading that my standing is this or that," Clements heatedly told reporters.

"I have said many, many times that I have not made a determination in this regard. I have received a lot of comment pro and con. I have consistently said that I have not made up my mind," he said.

"And I don't intend to make up my mind this week or next week," Clements added. "I am going to think about it, and anyone who says I am leaning one way or the other is a gross misrepresentation of where I am."

U.S. Relies on New Iran Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) - When Avatollah Khomeini was directing the Iranian protest movement from his Parisian exile last year, he was viewed here as a medieval obscurantist threaten ing a vital American interest.

Now, with Khomeini's followers in power, the American perception of the 78-year old nic chieftain has taken a 180-degree turn.

But based on the brief period the provisional government has been in power, officials believe a working relationship - if not outright friendship - can be established with Iran.

Moreover, recent events in iran hardly seem calculated to ingratiate Khomeini with leftwing forces in Iran. These elements fought shoulder to shoulder with Islamic militants turned on Khomeini.

These events could sharpen one aspect of Khoemini's philosophy regarded here as a major asset for Washington; his

But the question being asked here is whether Khomeini and the inexperienced leadership of the new government can effectively confront the wellorganized leftist opposition headed by the so-called People's Fedayeen.

It was the very situation Iran now confronts that American officials have feared all along well before the shah's ouster.

According to this view, a continuation of the leftist-led strikes and attacks on government installations, combined with the steady disintegration of the Iranian military, could make conditions ripe for a leftist takeover. Thus far, Soviet actions have not been reassuring to officials here. Soviet broadcasts directed at Iran have accused the United States of trying to provoke a crisis in Iran to justify

Washington and Moscow are facing a dangerous situation in which each believes the other is willing to sacrifice friendly relations for the sake of strategic advantage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It is important that you print this letter because I speak for a lot of teenagers who don't have the guts to write. I'm a 14-year-old who smokes pot, drinks beer and whiskey, and does other drugs.

I've been smoking pot since I was 12. I smoked cigarettes four years before that. I quit because found out it was a medical fact that smoking tobacco was more dangerous to your health than smoking pot. So, leave us potheads alone and worry about yourselves. Dentists Beginning To Advertise Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - "Dentures $129 each. Free consultation. All insurance programs accepted."

The price quoted in the advertisement by a Silver Spring, Md., dentist is hundreds of dollars lower than is usually charged by suburban Washington dentists for dentures.

The newspapers ad is one of a growing number across the country quoting prices for dental work. Dentists, under pressure by the federal government, are slowly moving to competition over prices, and the result is that consumers can shop for low-cost dental work.

The American Dental Association, slapped in 1977 with a Federal Trade Commission price-fixing charge, has been moving to lower its restrictions against advertising by dentists.

The association, which represents most of the nation's dentists, first removed a bar on membership to anyone who advertised his prices. Then, last fall, the ADA changed its code of ethics to say it was acceptable

Local dental boards in many areas have joined the movement by ending legal prohibitions on dental advertising.

Now the FTC and the ADA are ready to settle the two-year-old case. The government and dental association lawyers have agreed in principle to settle out of court, sources on both sides say. The terms, which have not been revealed. are still subject to approval by the five-member commission.

The original FTC complaint said the ADA restricted competition among dentists by declaring price advertising to be

ADA officials feel the change in the ethical code makes the case moot. FTC lawyers don't agree with this, indicating that the settlement in the case may make the dental association go still further in encouraging advertising.

Price advertising by dentists is one of a variety of areas where the government is trying to promote competition among professionals. In 1975, the for dentists to advertise their Supreme Court prohibited bar associations from setting minimum fees. The same year the FTC brought a case against the American Medical Association on price advertising. The FTC won a victory in the AMA case last year but the decision is on appeal.

> Since the 1975 Supreme Court decision and another in 1977 on price advertising by lawyers. low-cost legal clinics have proliferated. In these clinics. relatively simple cases such as uncontested divorces have been handled at a fraction of what they used to cost.

> While almost all physicians still resist price advertising. dentists are seen by some observers as more likely to advertise prices. Most dental work is elective, meaning consumers will probably comparison shop for it than in the case of a medical emergency.

> However, there remains strong resistence in dental groups, as with other professions. They fear misleading salesmanship that may be in poor taste.

Dummy's Life Is Danger-Filled

NORMAN, Okla. (NEA) As an entertainer, Bill Fuqua never thought he'd be stabbed in the back.
Not literally, at least.
But Fuqua's act as a human mannequin and mechanical man is so convincing that he was once in ing that he was once in-flicted with a 2%-inch knife wound by a man determined to prove to his wife that Fuqua was merely a dum-

The man went to jail and Fuqua to the hospital for three weeks with a punctured lung. Yet, the ingenious act was to go on — but ious act was to go on — but only with expensive insurance and security officers in strategic locations.

"I have Lloyd's of London insurance," says Fuqua, an assistant manager for a local department store. "But instead of just one part, I have to insure practically my whole body."

It's no wonder. Fuqua has been not only stabbed, but poked, stuck with pins, spit at. At the 1964 World's Fair in New York, he had acid thrown at him.

"I ripped my coat trying to get it off," he recalls.

Fuqua has since acquired a personal bodyguard, Fred Esquivel.

"Fred's job is, if he sees anything flying towards my Adam's apple, to stop it," says Fuqua.

Esquivel also plays an important part in the mannequin's act. Since a storedisplay dummy can't move, Fuqua must have some means of transportation to and from his set. So, Esquivel supplies the means.

"I never walk on or off," Fuqua explains. "I'm always carried."

Fuqua's notoriety as a "fashioneer" has earned him appearances on "The Ed Sullivan Show," "The Tonight Show," "To Tell the Truth" and "ABC's Wide "Tour of the Truth" and "ABC's Wide "Tour of the Truth" and "ABC's Wide "Tour of the Truth" to the Truth" to the Truth "to the Truth" to the Truth "to the Truth" to the Truth "to World of Entertainment," to mention a few. He has pro-moted hundreds of shopping centers, stores and car deal-

Last July, the 32-year-old broke his own record by sitting immobile on a motorcycle for 6 hours and 31 minutes, with only a five-minute break each hour.

How does he do it, this man who can go without blinking for 40 minutes?

"You have to learn to discipline yourself ... it's the old thing about the fly on the nose — ignore 'it and hope it'll go away. You hear what's going on, but you can't let it affect your emotions," Fuqua says.

Fuqua launched his unusual career quite accidentally. As a joke during the 1964 Christmas season, he posed like a statue in the yard display of a friend.

Passersby were so convinced he was artificial, a part of the display, that his friend offered him money to continue the charade.

That sum was insignificant compared to what Fuqua would eventually earn for his ability to do nothing. A New York City department store once paid him $1,300 an hour for five hours to a suffertain from its win. to entertain from its win-

For a long time, Fuqua made a standing offer of $100 to anyone who could make him break character during a performance. He never had to pay off, but was subjected to the strange antics of several people—some of whom would even disrobe.

"I've seen adults turn to kids," he says.

As often as possible, Fu-qua turns on the straight face and the glassy-eyed stare, his love for dramatics unending. Last Halloween, for example, he and Esquivel appeared on the job as Count Vesco and Derf (Fred spelled backward), complete with a casket rented from a local funeral

Spending Jumps

WASHINGTON (AP) - A strong surge in consumer spending heated up the nation's economy late last year even more rapidly than analysts had expected, the government reported Thursday.

The Commerce Department said the value of U.S. economic output increased at an annual rate of 6.4 percent in the fourth quarter, an exceptionally strong performance.

A month ago, in its preliminary report, the department said the growth rate was 6.1 percent in the October-December period, a sharp increase from the 2.6 percent rate in the

A Revolutionary Idea

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

The idea is, at the very least, revolutionary, especially for the United States, where amateurism has always seemed to be only a step or two removed from godliness and naturally had to be protected at all costs.

Costs, however, have been the problem.

America has always been fiercely proud of the Simon Pure image of its amateur athletes. The perfect logo for non-professional competitors representing Uncle Sam would have to be turned-out pockets - empty, of course.

Now, along comes the Amateur Athletic Union with a new plan to provide funds for amateur sports. And the source. as frightening as they might be to the gloom and doom crowd who cringe every time commercialism and sports are linked, is American industry.

'Why not?" wonders Ollan Cassell, executive director of the AAU, and one of the people squarely behind the sponsorship program. "This is a way of supporting our sports programs through free enterprise. That's what we built this country on the free enterprise system. It uses our system, our way of life. What could be more legiti-

It seems so obvious that you wonder why no one thought of it before. Unfortunately, however, the people who run amateur sports in this country have had to be dragged kicking and screaming into the 20th century.

The Amateur Athletic Act, passed by Congress last fall, did part of the job by calling attention to the tangle and America a unified approach to Olympic and world class competition. But none of its $16 million in funding is available until fiscal 1980, which means federal dollars won't flow into amateur sports until Nov. 1979.

For years we've bemoaned government subsidy of athletes by the rest of the world and answered that challenge by having the United States teams plead poverty. And while no one has suggested that having athletes underwritten by the government is a very good solution to this problem. clearly. some way out had to be found. Cassell feels the answer lies in America's most potent weapon private industry.

The result is that more and more corporations have been injecting capital into the amateur sports movement. The AAU Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden tonight, for example, now are underwritten by Standards Brands. And Mack Trucks is providing funds for what else? - the weightlifting program.

Other companies in other sports have picked up the challenge and suddenly the amateurs are enjoying a new commodity. It's called cash and it can only mean good things for America and its athletes.

"Understand," said Cassell, 'the companies are not underwriting the athletes. They are underwriting the sports."

There are 28 sports certified and governed in this country by the AAU, and there are about a dozen major corporations now involved at all levels in the growing sponsorship program.

Washington Edges UCLA

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer Remember when Washington's Birthday used to be celebrated on Feb. 22? Coach Mary Harshman did and his University of Washington Huskies went out and chopped down the nation's No. 1 college basketball team.

The rest of the nation observed the holiday on Monday, but the Huskies celebrated Thursday night thanks to a 69-68 victory over top-rated UCLA on Stan Walker's 23-foot shot with three seconds to play.

"We finally got our miracle." said Harshman. "When I was driving down here Seattle's Edmundson Pavilion tonight, I told Dorothy (Mrs. Harshman) that it would be appropriate if Washington won on Washington's Birthday.". ...

Jacobs After AAU High Jump Title

NEW YORK (AP) - Franklin Jacobs, the little Flexible Flyer from Fairleigh Dickinson, is an overwhelming favorite to win the one major high jump title that has eluded him in tonight's National AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden.

But the big question is: can Jacobs soar him enough to eclipse the record of 7 feet, 81/2 inches, held by Vladimir Yashchenko of the Soviet Union?

Jacobs, unbeaten in eight meets this year, with a high of 7-6 - the best in the world for 1979 - has been promising a jump of 7-9. The highest he has attempted is 7-8%, missing three times at the Millrose Games two weeks ago in the Still, the 5-81/4 Jacobs maintains he can clear 7-9 - a leap that would be 24% inches over his head. How?

"I'll keep concentrating on my arm lift, early height and less traveling over the bar," said Jacobs, who is recovering from a minor foot bruise suffered last week.

"It was on my left leg, which is my takeoff leg." he explained. "I have been taking whirlpools all week. I should be ready."

The high jump is only one of three events on the 24-event program - for men and women without a defending champion. Last year's high jump winner. Dwight Stones, has given up his

The men's defending cham pions are: Houston McTear, 60-yard dash; Stan Vinson, 600; Gideon Terer, 1,000; Charles Foster, hurdles; Todd Scully, two-mile walk; Ed Kania, 35-pound weight throw; Larry Jessee, pole yault; Al Feuerbach shot put; Charlton Ehizuelen, long jump, and Ron

DEAR DR. LAMB — I love shellfish, crab, shrimp, oysters and clams. I still like lobster but at present prices it is a once in a lifetime treat. Is it dangerous for me to eat shellfish? I've heard they are very high in cholesterol.

DEAR READER - At one time, shellfish as a group were thought to be fairly high in cholesterol. In recent times, the work of Mary H. Thompson, published in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Ser-

V.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, has helped to straighten that out.

Shrimp and lobster are moderately high in cholesterol, containing about twice as much as you would get per ounce of red meat or poultry. Clams, crab, mus-

No sign of tax reform

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Logic would suggest that the great tax revolt which began with California's Proposition 13 might eventually provide impetus for genuine reform of state and local tax systems. But it hasn't happened yet.

Pressure for tax and spending reductiors remains strong this year, with limitation proposals due for consideration in at least 37 states. But tax reform — as opposed to reduction — steems to be going nowhere. reduction - seems to be going nowhere.

A year-long study of state and local taxes by the Coalition of Public Employees shows tremendous disparities in the relative fairness of the tax systems in the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

"There's not a doubt in the world that taxes are unfair," said CAPE exceptive directors.

said CAPE executive director James Farmer. "The way state and local tax systems work now is that low- and moderate-income families carry most of the load. The laws have been manipulated to the point that they condone and even encourage large-scale tax avoidance by big corpora-

The CAPE study analyzes sales, income, business and property taxes in all 50 states, plus the way in which tax laws are enforced and administered.

States which attempt to follow progressive tax policies, geared to ability to pay, receive high rankings in the CAPE study. Those that rely on regressive taxes with little offsetting consideration for low- and moderate-income families and low marks. families get low marks.

By these standards, the 10 best states in terms of tax equity are, in order: Oregon, Michigan, Wisconsin,

Inexplicable initiative response

In a related development, the National Governors Association has just concluded its own study of the various tax and spending limitation proposals that appeared on the ballot last November in 18 states.

According to Michigan Gov. William Milliken, the analysis found no discernible relationship between the relative tax burden in a state and the voters' decision to mpose or reject fiscal controls.

"Voters in some states with relatively high tax and spending levels rejected fiscal controls, while voters in other states with relatively low levels imposed them," Milliken said.

For instance, voters approved local property tax initiatives in seven of the 10 states where such proposals appeared on the ballot. But in five of the seven states where initiatives were approved, the local property tax burden was either at or below the median for the country

"Obviously, the level of taxation alone does not explain the tax revolt," Milliken observed, although the NGA study offered no guesses as to why voters acted as they did last fall.

ERA deadline: no dead issue

We may not have heard the last of the arguments over extending the deadline for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

While women's groups concentrate on seeking support for the ERA from three more states by the new deadline of June 30, 1982, foes of the amendment are preparing to challenge the constitutionality of the extension voted by Congress last year.

Lawsuits are being prepared by the Mountain States Legal Foundation, a conservative-oriented non-profit group headquartered in Denver. They will be filed before the original deadline, March 22, arrives.

Now I am taking vitamin 8-6, 100 milligrams three times a day. Is it all right to take that much vitamin B? Please, Dr. Lamb, help me. I have to take care of my ailing husband and I just cannot do it the way I'm feeling.

DEAR READER - I know it is a terrific drain to have a loved one ill with a serious medical problem. That's hard on people who are young and healthy and even more difficult as the years go by.

I'm not really worried about the vitamin B-6 you're taking. It's a water-soluble vitamin and within reason the excess amounts will sim-ply be eliminated through your kidneys. But I am concerned that you elected not to take the medicine your

The remaining question is how much damage was done to your bladder during the years that it was overextended and stretched prior to your operation. If your prostate was removed soon prostate was removed soon enough and you didn't have prolonged obstruction, you should have complete recov-ery of urinary function.

There is some difference in recovery in relationship to the kind of surgery that is done. If the prostate gland is removed through a surgical incision, there is a greater likelihood that a man may be left with impotence, but if the prostate gland was reamed out through the urethral tube, called a transurethral resection (TUR), there is a much smaller chance that it will cause persistent complications.

It's common to tie off the vas deferens, which you call the male tubes, at the time of a prostate operation. This was done years before vasectomies became popuvasectomies became popu-lar for birth control. OUR PRAYERS ARE ALWAYS SUBJECT TO GOD'S WISDOM eginning with childhood, most of us have had the disturbing experience of praying for some specific object or occurrence. only to be keenly disappointed when our prayers were not answered. In the course of our lives, the repetition of such incidents can result in a gradual erosion of faith; and yet in each case the fault lies with us, because of our erroneous assumption that we always know what is best for us and therefore that our judgment is superior to that of the Almighty. On the other hand, we should not attempt to inform God of our genuine needs and problems, for He is already aware of them. At the Church of your choice you will learn that the right way to pray is to thank God for your many blessings and affirm your faith in His infinite wisdom.

"Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought." -Romans 8:26

When praying, don't give God instructions: just report for duty.
