Christmas fund drive underway

Thanksgiving hasn't arrived, but preparations are already underway for the holiday charity Christmas Stocking Fund, as well as the Red Cross toys for needy children program. Both involve many hours of effort on the part of volunteers. CSF is looking to enroll additional volunteers for the anonymous committee which administers the charity. Individuals interested in working on the CSF committee should contact Speedy Nieman at The Hereford Brand or list their names with the Deaf Smith County Red Cross office by Nov. 16. Names will be passed on to the CSF committee and prospective volunteers will be contacted by a committee representative prior to the group's first work session.

Efforts on behalf of CSF have already begun in the community. The Hereford High School student council (See FUND, Page 2A)

Band ready for state contest performance

The Mighty Maroon Band plays "How the West Was Won" at halftime of last Friday's Hereford-Caprock game at Whiteface Stadium. The next day, the band won second place at the UIL Regional Marching Contest in Odessa to earn a berth in Monday's State Marching Contest at Austin.

Band to compete at state Monday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford High School Mighty Maroon Band, taking advantage of a unique opportunity and talent, will compete in the state marching contest Monday at Austin.

The competition will cap a year of thought and planning, four months of work and practice, and the final act of a morality play that unfolded in the last week.

It's the second trip to the state marching contest in the school's history: The 1983 band also participated at state.

The band left in chartered buses Saturday from HHS and drove to Austin, where they are staying at the Crest Inn. The band will practice today at Westlake High School, just west of Austin. The Hereford band will perform in the preliminaries at 3 p.m. Monday at Nelson Field in northeast Austin, the last of the 14 Class 4A bands to compete in the first round.

Five bands will advance from the prelims to the finals. The Class 4A finals will begin at 7 p.m. Monday at Memorial Stadium.

The band will have something special on their maroon-and-white uniforms: a purple ribbon, each with the name of a Pecos band member. The Hereford and Pecos bands had tied for second place at the regional marching contest last Saturday in Odessa. Due to a clerical error in determining the tiebreaker, Pecos was announced as the second place band with Hereford third. Pecos would go to Austin, Hereford would think about what if...

Contest officials called Hereford director James Maclaskey on Sunday to tell him officials had made a mistake: Hereford should be second and Pecos third. When Odessa officials told UIL representatives in Austin what happened, the state group said Pecos would participate because they had been announced.

The Pecos band, on Monday, voted not to participate in the state contest, hence the purple ribbons (Pecos' school colors are purple and gold).

"It says a lot for these kids that they can be so busy and be so successful at what they are doing. To us, it just adds to the sweetness that we can do it all and do it all well."

Clarks work to overcome ALS

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Like a whirlwind sweeping down on the Panhandle-Plains destroying everything in its path, muscular dystrophy swept down into the Bob Clark household, destroying the life the Clark family was accustomed to and taking from Bob the everyday functions he took for granted.

Four years ago Clark was diagnosed as having amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, better known as ALS or Lou Gehrig disease.

Symptoms such as tripping when there was nothing to trip over, severe full body muscle twitches and the inability to grasp simple objects triggered the Clarks to seek diagnosis.

"When he was first diagnosed, we all went through a whirlwind of emotions," said Celia, Bob's wife. "I kept thinking maybe it wouldn't come to this."

As in any kind of traumatic situation, the initial reaction was shock.

"We couldn't or maybe didn't want to believe this was happening to us," said Celia who spoke most of the time, since Bob can only speak through a voice simulator on his computer as ALS has left him totally debilitated.

A common misconception is muscular dystrophy is a single disease; the term designates a group of muscle-destroying disorders, which vary in hereditary pattern, age of onset, initial muscles attacked and the rate of progression.

Over 40 different muscle diseases fall under the muscular dystrophy name. The diseases attacks different muscles in different parts of the body.

Muscular dystrophy can attack the motor nerve cells in the spinal cord and the peripheral nervous system, weaken muscles from the inability of voluntary muscles to contract and cause aching and wasting of the muscles.

Inherited chemical deficiencies are another group of muscular dystrophy diseases that affect voluntary muscles. Another group of potentially debilitating diseases are characterized by progressive weakness and inflammation of skeletal muscle and attributed to disturbances in the immune system.

Other forms of muscular dystrophy are disorders of the thyroid gland that affect muscle function and a group of unrelated muscle disorders of unknown cause that are usually apparent at birth.

Since MD is mostly hereditary, the Clark's had an added surprise since Clark does not have a family history of MD.

"We knew we were going to have to deal with complete change," Celia said. "I sometimes felt resentment because there was so much I knew I was going to have to give up."

The hardest adjustment Clark had to make was in his relationship with his sons, Peter, 10 and Paul, 9.

"Bob has always had a physical relationship with the boys and it was hard on him because he knew he couldn't do that any more.

Clark has adjusted well to the change. "He and the boys used to have wheelchair races and Bob would pull a wagon behind his electric wheelchair and now he plays games with them," said Celia.

Other than the obvious hardships Clark has had to face, one of his biggest frustrations is the way people treat him.

Pertti Jaaskelainen pulled into Hereford after a long trip from New York City, which had originated in Finland. As he opened the door on that August day, a warm summer breeze caught the unique scents of Hereford.

Jaaskelainen took a deep breath, exhaled and thought to himself, "I can't live here for a year."

"Pete" Jaaskelainen is one of the students in the Rotary International exchange program.

"Hereford is a nice place," said Jaaskelainen. "The people here are very friendly and are easy to talk to."

Lock-up will help

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Local residents are going to jail for victims of muscular dystrophy as a part of the Muscular Dystrophy Association lock-up fund raiser Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the courthouse jail.

"The purpose of the lock-up is to raise money and get community support," said Susan Hennessey, who is in charge of fund raising for MDA. "My goal is to show up Borger by raising more money. It will be hard, they raised $6,000."

Bail is set for $200. Those who are locked up will be released if bail is not met.

"We set bail at $200 because we felt it was an attainable goal, but participants who cannot raise $200 will be let out on what bail they were able to raise," said Hennessey.

"We contacted the members of the Chamber of Commerce and community leaders and asked for their support in the lock-up," she said. "Those who said yes were very enthusiastic and supportive."

Walcott ISD earns honor

Walcott School has been honored by the Texas Education Agency and the State Board of Education for exceptional achievement on the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) test.

The school was the only one in Deaf Smith County to earn the distinction. It received a certificate from the TEA and a letter from state education commissioner W.N. Kirby and from Monte Hasie, chairman of the SBOE.

The honor was for all students taking the test last year scoring a 90 or above on both portions of the test. The test assessed skills in math and language arts.

EnCoRe plans meet Thursday

The public is invited to a recycling program, sponsored by EnCoRe (Environmental Coalition for Recycling) at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Community Center lounge.

A guest speaker from Amarillo is scheduled to address the future of recycling in the Panhandle. It will be "Bring Your Own Mug" night.

Immediately after the program, EnCoRe's board will meet briefly to elect officers for the coming year.

EnCoRe of Hereford submitted testimony last week to the Texas Joint Task Force on Waste Management. State legislators heard public comments Friday during hearings at West Texas State University.

Since August, EnCoRe has collected more than 4,000 pounds of glass from local residents for delivery to area recycles. Other recyclable items kept out of the local landfill by EnCoRe have included newspapers, plastics, styrofoam, cans, appliances, batteries and metals.

Business leaders talk

Several Hereford business leaders discussed their jobs and skills necessary to work in their business at a Career Day held Thursday at Hereford High School. Pictured above is Joe Soliz Jr. of Ramirez and Sons, talking about their products and jobs available. Other speakers included Terry Bromlow, Lajean Henry, Marn Tyler, Greg Buckley, Mike Foster and Trish Brown. They are part of VISION, the Hereford school district's volunteer program.

AIDS CONTROVERSY

Drug developed by Amarillo doctor, Kenyan research may help, but questions abound

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - A low-cost drug that Kenya trumpeted as a breakthrough AIDS treatment has become mired in problems, delaying its availability and casting doubt on promising initial findings.

Patients and doctors who have used the drug, known as Kemron, say it does seem to alleviate symptoms.

The optimistic reports await confirmation in clinical trials under way in several countries. Doubtful claims of proprietorship by Kenyan researchers, and suggestions that they may have overstated their findings, have cast doubt on the reports.

There also are accusations that one Kenyan doctor has sold test samples of Kemron, including worthless placebos, for exorbitant prices.

"Somebody's been corrupted if they're selling placebos to dying AIDS patients," said Joseph Cummins, an American veterinarian who supplied the interferon that comprises the treatment.

Interferons, which long have been studied for antiviral properties, occur naturally in the body and help shield the immune system. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved the use of interferons in treating Kaposi's sarcoma, a cancer common among people with AIDS.

Cummins devised a method of administering low doses of interferon that is being used by doctors at the Kenya Medical Research Institute, which is known as Kemri.

The drug generally has not been tested in pill form because of the belief it would be destroyed by stomach acid. In Cummins' use, a tablet containing the drug is dissolved on the tongue, allowing small doses to be absorbed through the mouth.

Kenyan researchers who used Cummins' method announced startling findings in February. They said that after two to four weeks of treatment with Kemron, AIDS symptoms were alleviated in most of 101 patients tested. They claimed the virus that causes AIDS could no longer be detected in the blood of about 10 percent of the patients. The researchers reported no negative side effects.

No other scientists have duplicated Kenya's findings, which resulted from uncontrolled trials; no group received placebos for comparison.

But the World Health Organization, largely due to the Kenyan results, has recommended worldwide trials while cautioning that patients sometimes respond well to new treatments simply because of the greater attention they receive.

In announcing the unverified results, Kemri's director, Dr. Davey Koech, claimed to have been largely responsible for developing the treatment - a contention dismissed by Cummins.

Koech said in February that Kemri produced "a form of interferon not so far described in medical literature."

As collaborators he cited Cummins, whose Amarillo Cell Culture Institute has four patients on the low-dose use of oral interferon, and Hayashibara Biochemical Laboratories of Akayama, Japan. Hayashibara is one of the few companies in the world that manufactures interferons and produces the drug used in Kenya's program under a licensing agreement with Cummins' company.

Soon after the February presentation, Cummins wrote Koech, accusing him of lies and misrepresentations and threatening to sue over Koech's attempts to patent the technique in Kenya.

From Texas, Cummins said he developed the treatment after years of experimenting with interferon on animal diseases, including cat leukemia. Cat leukemia, like AIDS, suppresses the immune system. He described one early experiment in a 1987 article in the British medical journal Lancet.

Despite their disagreement, Cummins described Koech as "quite bold and courageous." He said Koech's main contribution was to put the treatment "into people we never could have tested" due to restrictive U.S. laws.

However, Cummins said the "legacy of the Kenyan tests was an awful lot of drama and not much data." Koech declined repeated requests for an interview.

Neither Cummins nor Koech claims Kemron is a cure for AIDS. However, critics say false hopes were raised among many in Kenya by Koech's claims that almost 10 percent of those he tested "seroconverted," meaning traces of the disease were erased from their blood, as well as by Kenya's announcement in July that the drug would be widely available by mid-August.

"Saying seroconversion is just another way of saying they have got a cure," said Joe Muriuki, 32, who has been on Kemron since December. He said that within two weeks of taking Kemron, he felt better and began gaining weight. His mouth sores, swollen glands, diarrhea, fevers, itchy skin and sweating disappeared.

However, Muriuki, who has been an adviser at a clinic for sexually transmitted diseases since learning he had AIDS three years ago, said publicity about Kemron led people to believe it would prevent and cure AIDS. And that has led to a relapse into unsafe sexual behavior, he said.

He also cited frustration over the drug's continued unavailability.

Although 200,000 tablets were imported for the July announcement, most of them remain with the local marketing agent due to a licensing dispute.

CLARKS

"People think that I'm retarded," he said. Even though Clark is unable to talk because of loss of muscle use, he totally mentally alert and MD has not in any way impaired his mental abilities.

Despite all the hardships, the Clarks were able to find their beacon in the night, the Muscular Dystrophy Association. MDA has provided the Clarks with equipment, medical expenses and support, which Clark considers invaluable.

Many people who are stricken with one of the diseases or who suspect they may have muscular dystrophy don't know where to turn, said Susan Hennessey, who is in charge of fund raising for MDA in Hereford.

MDA helps patients and their families meet needs. To be eligible for services at a MDA clinic, located in Amarillo, a patient needs a written recommendation of a physician who believes the patient may have one of the MD diseases.

Cost of the clinic and laboratory tests are paid for by MDA. Most MD medical costs if authorized by MDA, are covered by the association.

MDA paid for Clark's diagnosis, which four years ago added up to $6,000.

When a patient goes to a clinical examination, a family history is taken. Test include an electromyogram, which measures electrical activity of muscle; serum enzyme tests, that measure amounts of muscle proteins in the blood; urine test, test for muscle tissue in the urine and a muscle biopsy in which muscle tissue is surgically removed for analysis.

Following diagnosis, MDA clinics provide physical, occupational and respiratory therapy as well as genetic counseling.

"Through MDA, Bob was a participant in a research project in Houston," said Celia. "They do so much more than people imagine." "I get frustrated when people see how much money is raised by Jerry Lewis and think it goes for administrative purposes. The fact is only six percent of all money donated to MDA is used for administration."

The Clarks are impressed with how efficient MDA is run.

"MDA is able to save money through the wonderful volunteer program," Celia explained. "Most of the doctors at the MDA clinic volunteer their personal time to see these patients and that is part of what MDA is about."

"Until you get into a situation that requires extensive medical equipment and treatment, you do not realize the cost. One special eating utensil cost $15 and Bob's final cost of a non-motorized wheel chair (because of special additions) cost as much as a new car. We could not have made without their support."

Local Roundup

Commissioners to meet Monday

The agenda includes proposals for a fax machine and for a septic tank inspector; employee insurance; permission to cross a county road in Precinct 2 with a gas line; appointment of a representative to the Community Justice Council; advertising for bids for two sheriff's department vehicles; accepting the resignation of the custodian supervisor and advertising for a replacement; election-related expenses; and a closed session to discuss personnel.

School board will meet Tuesday

The Hereford school board will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the school administration building.

The agenda includes professional and student organization reports; administrative reports; employees of the month; presentations by Energas and Plains Builders; policy update; the proposed rehabilitation center and the community justice council; promotion/retention guidelines; an update on the VISION program; and the central office computer.

Police arrest two Friday

Hereford police arrested two persons Friday, including a man, 42, for driving while intoxicated, and a man, 21, for furnishing alcohol to a minor.

Reports included shots fired in the 700 block of 13th; criminal mischief in the 600 block of Irving and the 300 block of Ave. I; theft of an identification card in the 400 block of Ave. B; family violence assault in the 100 block of Ave. B; and a juvenile shoplifter attempted to take $34 worth of clothing. Police issued 50 citations Friday and investigated one accident.

Blood drive meeting planned

The Hereford High School Student Council will sponsor a special meeting Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the HHS auditorium to discuss involving more teenagers and others in donating blood at drives sponsored in Hereford.

Kim Killian of Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo will discuss the special approaches used by the center to reach more teens. Killian will also be available to answer questions organizations may have after the program.

The Student Council will sponsor a blood drive at 3 p.m. on Nov. 29.

BAND

The "Roundup '90" show features Western themes: Magnificent Seven, The Cowboys, Wagon Train, Oklahoma Crude and How the West Was Won.

"We had thought of using a western theme several years ago," Maclasley said Thursday. A year ago, right after the 1989 state marching contest, directors Maclasley, Mike Bryant and Don and Tammy Summersgill began listening to western movie and television music.

They boiled down hundreds of selections to five hours of cassette tapes, then chose the five songs to be performed.

"We listened to all of that music and discussed what we liked and didn't like, what was appropriate and what wasn't," Maclasley said. "Last March we started picking the music then we started arranging the music."

The band students began working on How the West Was Won, the stirring song at the end of the program, before school was out last spring.

"We finished arranging the music over the summer and began working on the show music with the kids on August 3," Maclasley said. "About that time we started charting the marching drills. That took a little more time than usual, and we were later than usual on working on the marching drills."

"That may be why the music sounds so good, because we worked on the music alone for so much longer," said Don Summersgill.

The 213-member band worked several nights a week during August before school began, as did the drill team and twirlers as they worked on their routines which were carefully choreographed to add to the band's music. Since, the band has worked on the music during class time and has met at least one night a week since school began.

"I feel really good about going to the state contest because we operate under a different philosophy than most of the other schools around and most of the schools we will compete against," Maclasley said. "A lot of our kids are in athletics, Student Council, Key club, Keywanettes, all of the organizations, we have, much more so than other schools. We have to adjust our schedules and excuse them from a lot of the things we do so they can participate in so many other areas."

"You hear things like Coronado practices for 1 1/2 hours every day after school, and Amarillo High practices after school every day until 5 p.m. That is not uncommon. However, we get them in class time and maybe one night a week, and we're happy to work with the kids with the other school activities."

Two of the examples are Teresa Castillo and Robin White. Castillo ran Saturday at the State Cross-Country Meet at Georgetown, north of Austin, then was to meet the band in Austin late Saturday.

Robin White, a member of the drill team, is also on the volleyball squad that met Dumas on Saturday at Caprock. Robin was to fly to Austin.

"Other folks think that is all a hassle and don't want to put up with it," Maclasley said. "It says a lot for these kids that they can be so busy and be so successful at what they are doing."

"To us, it just adds to the sweetness that we can do it all and do it all well."

FUND

is conducting a food drive to benefit CSF, and the HHS Key Club and the Deaf Smith County Welfare Board sponsored a canned-food drive at the last home football game of the season.

Hereford schools have made food drives quite a success in recent years, and the tradition should continue this holiday season. Food items donated by local students have greatly increased the amount of food assistance extended by CSF the last couple of holiday seasons, according to a CSF spokesman.

Applications for assistance from CSF will open Monday, Nov. 26, and will continue through Friday, Dec. 7 at the county Red Cross office at 224 S. Main. As in years past, the local Red Cross office is assisting CSF by receiving applications and will pass them on to the CSF committee, which is not affiliated with any organization. The charity attempts to coordinate its efforts with local churches, civic organizations and individuals to avoid duplication of assistance.

Fund raising for the 1990 CSF will officially begin Friday, Nov. 23, and continue through the holiday season. Delivery of assistance packages from CSF will be on Friday, Dec. 21.

Last year, Hereford and Deaf Smith County residents donated a record total of $20,718 to CSF. The Hereford Brand will once again serve as the collection point for donations and will publish listings of donors.

Red Cross volunteers have been working for months, already, repairing toys and bicycles in preparation for their presentation to needy children this holiday season. In addition to the repaired toys, the county Red Cross chapter would welcome the donation of new toys or cash to supplement its efforts. Individuals desiring to donate to the Red Cross toys program may take the items to 224 S. Main.

Toy deliveries will also be made on Dec. 21, and the Red Cross welcomes volunteers to assist with the deliveries.

Donations to both charity programs are used solely for the benefit of the needy in Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Baptists brace for convention battle

HOUSTON (AP) - Friction between fundamentalist and moderate Southern Baptists is expected to come to a head this week when the Baptist General Convention of Texas convenes in Houston.

Nearly 10,000 delegates, called messengers, from the 5,400 Texas Baptist churches are expected to attend the sessions Tuesday and Wednesday at the George R. Brown Convention Center, one of 21 state conventions planned for this week.

The messengers will approve a 1991 budget of about $63.5 million, and appoint about 300 trustees and board members to various institutions.

But the overriding issue likely will be Baylor University's decision to change its relationship to the convention.

"I think (at) the state convention, the big issue is going to be Baylor. Texas Baptists are pretty much of one accord," said the Rev. James Pleitz, pastor at Park Cities Baptist Church in University Park. "The problem has been in the Southern Baptist Convention, not in the state of Texas. No one has carefully schemed how to take (state conventions) over."

Baylor, the nation's largest Baptist-supported university, last summer changed its charter, placing it under control of a 24-member, self-perpetuating board of regents instead of 48 convention-appointed trustees. Under the change, the trustees will appoint only six of the regents.

"I think they're going to have a real confrontation and I think the convention is going to do its best to keep Baylor," said the Rev. W.A. Criswell, pastor of First Baptist Church in Dallas and a top fundamentalist leader.

"I think ultimately it may have to be decided by the courts," Criswell said. "Whether we take the (legal) action or not, I kind of think the convention is going to demand the school be under the control of the convention."

Other fundamentalist leaders did not return telephone calls asking their plans, although many said they would seek to have the action overturned at the convention.

Since Baylor's decision, the BGCT's executive committee placed a $1.5 million installment in Baylor funds into escrow and the convention will be asked to do the same with the $6 million contribution earmarked for 1991.

"It's a very unpredictable convention," said the Rev. Jimmy Allen, a moderate and president of Faith and Family Ministries Inc. in Fort Worth. "There's a lot of emotional involvement, both because of the threat about the split between moderates and conservatives and the Baylor action. How that will be dealt with, we'll just have to come and see."

Michael Bishop, spokesman for Baylor University, said the school took the action in September to assert its independence.

"Baylor isn't distancing itself from Texas Baptists in any way," Bishop said. "We are simply trying to remove us from any takeover attempt by conservatives."

Baylor President Herbert H. Reynolds had warned in early September that fundamentalists planned to seek control of the school's board during the Houston convention.

"We don't have any hostility against the fundamentalists," Bishop said. "The move was meant to reconfirm Texas' commitment to Baylor ... and to be sure that Baylor remains sure in its commitment to providing the highest quality Baptist education."

Fundamentalists' displeasure with Baylor was a catalyst in their 12-year campaign that gave them control of the SBC, the national denomination.

Almost all 14.9 million Southern Baptists are conservative, but fundamentalists believe in Biblical inerrancy, in other words that the Bible is without any error, be it in religious, scientific or historical aspects. Moderates believe there is room for individual interpretation.

The fundamentalist candidate has won the SBC's presidency for a dozen years, and has used the office's extensive appointive powers to place like-minded individuals on the boards that run the denomination's seminaries and agencies.

However fundamentalists have been less successful at winning on the state level, although moderates have said they believe the battle now will focus on state conventions.

Bishop said Baylor representatives and alumni planning to attend the convention will be prepared for friction.

"Baylor has no intention of introducing any disruptive motions at the convention; however, if some matters should come before the convention concerning the governance of Baylor or its funding, I'm fully optimistic that the convention would support the university," Bishop said.

"The trustees and administrators of Baylor did a difficult thing and all of us wish it was not necessary," said the Rev. Charles Wade, the moderate pastor of the First Baptist Church of Arlington. "We don't intend for the fundamentalists to take over Texas."

But other Baptist leaders take a less outspoken stance on the Baylor issue.

"Without question, it was done to the best interest of protecting Baylor University," said the Rev. Dan McLendon, associate pastor at Trinity Baptist Church in San Antonio. "I think if everyone who has any view on this would deal with it on a purely educational level that this thing can be handled without becoming an ugly thing or a divisive issue."

Lions aid Christmas Stocking Fund

Speedy Nieman, left, accepts a $250 donation from Hereford Lions Club President Benny Womble for the Christmas Stocking Fund. The Hereford Brand serves as the collection point for the Christmas Stocking Fund drive which is now underway.

Nine million tons of salt are applied to American highways each year for road de-icing.

LOCKUP

Moore's Jack and Jill, Ramirez and Sons, Pizza Hut, Pizza Mill and Coca-Cola of Amarillo are helping out by donating food and drinks for participants.

"It means a lot to have community-wide support," said Hennessey. "I am saddened at those who refused to help. Since MD can strike at any age, at any time, they or a member of their family could be next."

Hennessey is unsure of how much of the money raised will stay in Hereford, but since MDA helps local victims, she is sure most will eventually be spent on Hereford patients.

"A lot of people are getting involved," said Hennessey. "The schools are locking up their principals and the school whose pledges exceed $500 will be on the Jerry Lewis Telethon next year."

Future fund raising activities include a hop-a-thon for the day care centers, golf and tennis tournaments and possibly a dance-a-thon for teens.

Donations will be accepted from those too busy to be arrested.

Anyone wishing to lock someone up can call Hennessey at 364-2839 for a pledge packet.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says you can't fool all the people all the time, but some of those freeway signs in the big city come pretty close.

There's a new board game called S&L Monopoly. It's like the regular game except you buy houses and hotels with other players' money.

"When my father sent me off to school, I had to work my way through college," one friend told another. "Well, now my son is off to school and we're continuing the tradition—I have to work his way through college, too."

A holiday tradition in Hereford continues Sunday (Nov. 11) when floral shops and a number of other businesses host Christmas Open Houses. Thursday's paper carried a listing of the firms which will be open Sunday afternoon, 1-5 or 2-4 p.m., some with refreshments and all with great gift ideas!

The Festival of Trees, a new project by the Hereford Senior Citizens Association, is scheduled Thursday through Sunday. A special section inside today's paper previews the fund-raiser activity and outlines all the events which will be staged at the Senior Citizen Center. Special Christmas trees, sponsored by local businesses, will be the highlight of the event, but many other activities are on the program. Read all about it!

Events happen, more often than we acknowledge, that renew our faith in the younger generation. Such an event happened recently when the Pecos High School Band voted to relinquish its claim to a marching contest berth in the state finals. It was discovered, too late to change the results in Austin, that Hereford's Band should have been the runnerup at the region contest. But the Pecos students voted to step aside and let Hereford represent the region.

We'd like to think, if the shoe had been on the other foot, that our band members would have reacted in the same manner. But that does not detract one iota from the decision of the Pecos students—they were faced with the decision and they came through. We're sure their community is proud of them!

We often hear adults say that only the bad things are reported about the younger generation. That may be true in the larger cities, but not in Hereford or many other rural communities. You can read good things about school students almost every day in the newspaper, whether it's academics, athletics, other extracurricular activities, or student organizations involved in community affairs.

Surely most kids are still learning good moral values from their parents, teachers and churches, because it shows up every day in the actions of our youngsters!

And, speaking of our youngsters, it's been another successful year for the sports programs and band at Hereford High School. There are not many schools still active in so many activities as HHS this weekend!

The Herd captured the No. 1 playoff berth in football; the Lady Whiteface volleyball team seeks a state playoff spot as this column is written; HHS has one individual in the state cross country track meet; the tennis team went all the way to the region finals, and the band is in the state marching contest Monday.

It's great to have a well-rounded program, instead of just having the reputation of a one-sport school. A lot of coaches and students make that possible, but Athletic Director Don Cumpston also deserves much credit. In many small schools, the athletic director puts the emphasis on one sport to the detriment of others. Cumpston is not just a football coach—he is an athletic director.

We add our congratulations to the Whiteface football team, which fought back to claim the title after posting only a 5-4-1 season record. The Herd has come a long way since the season started and now they're in a position to record post-season honors.

We're proud of all the Whiteface teams and the Mighty Maroon Band!

An AP News Analysis

Limited-term issue may be hot in '92

By WALTER R. MEARS
 AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - It started as a sleeper among issues, but the drive to limit politicians' terms is awake and kicking now, and the people pushing the idea say they'll seek to put it on at least 15 state ballots in 1992.

Claiming headway in both the victories and frustrations of Tuesday's off-year elections, term-limit campaigners will meet in Washington early next month to talk about their next steps.

While the immediate target is the state legislatures, their ultimate aim is to limit tenure in Congress.

Term limits were approved on Tuesday in Colorado and California, the two states that had the issue on the ballot and, for good measure, in Kansas City, Mo., which put a ceiling on city council tenure. Oklahoma voted for term limits earlier in the fall.

And then 95 percent of the House incumbents who ran again won again, an outcome one strategist said would help the push for limits. "Even in an anti-incumbent year, you can't beat 'em," said Eddie Mahe, a Republican campaign consultant and advisor to Americans to Limit Congressional Terms.

It is largely a Republican movement, although some Democratic candidates signed on during the campaign. Measures that force turnover would work to GOP advantage; they are outnumbered in the legislatures as in Congress, and Democrats have just extended their House control to 38 years.

Proposed constitutional amendments to limit congressional tenure to 12 years have, predictably, gone nowhere in Congress. The measure approved in Colorado on Tuesday would apply to members of Congress as well as state officeholders, and therefore it is certain to be challenged in court.

So the political pressure point is in states, especially those that hold direct elections on such questions. Elsewhere, Mahe said, the term limit drive will be pressed in the legislatures, where lawmakers may be loath to limit their own tenure but likely to approve a call for limits in Congress. That might just offer some openings for ambitious state lawmakers who'd like to get to Washington.

In the three states that have approved term limits, the voters overrode opponents who insisted that limits are no cure for the ills of government, state or federal, and could make them worse. Strong, seasoned legislators would be dismissed along with weak ones, the opponents say, while bureaucrats and lobbyists would gain even more clout.

"I think term limits is really a reaction against the fact that so many of our congressional elections, and our other elections, are not really competitive," said Gov. Richard F. Celeste of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic Governors Association.

Mahe said that when, and if, more states impose limits, or at least call for them nationally, Congress will start to feel the political heat. "Once those are in place at the state level, the pressure at the national level is going to be geometrically increased," he said.

"This is going to be an issue," says Vice President Dan Quayle. "You had the tax revolt in the 1970s and early 1980s, and in the 1990s, I think, you're going to see the voter revolt."

Campaigning for Republican candidates this year, both Quayle and President Bush pushed term limits. The 1988 Republican platform endorsed limits on House and Senate tenure, without saying what the ceiling should be. Quayle says he favors 12 years.

"All around this country there is a growing momentum for limiting terms of legislators," Bush said before the elections. "Term limitation is an idea whose time has come, and I think its time has come to Capitol Hill, frankly."

Quayle built part of his set campaign speech around the issue.

"The chairman, listen to this, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has been in the Congress longer than my mother and father have been married. He had seven years of seniority when I was born," he would say, drawing ripples of laughter. "I tell you, there is an idea that is sweeping this country, and that is the idea that it is time to limit the terms..."

The chairman, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., just won his 26th term.

But there is turnover, for all the power of incumbency, and more than 60 percent of House members have been elected since 1960.

Mahe said the organizations pushing term limits will seek commitments from House candidates in 1992 that they won't seek to serve more than a dozen years in Congress. "When they're running for the first time, 12 years looks like a long time," he said.

To a veteran, though, it doesn't look that long. Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who also served in the House, once recalled that he'd arrived as a foe of the seniority system.

But the longer he stayed, McCarthy said, the more he saw the wisdom of it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,
 I would like to thank the business professionals who participated in the new fall Career Day last week. This event was enjoyed by students of the business department at Hereford High School.

We want to thank Lajeane Henry, Marn Tyler, Greg Buckley, Terry Bromlow, Mike Foster, Joe Soliz Jr. and Trish Brown. We appreciate you and the information you shared with our business men and women of the future. Volunteers in the schools are very valuable tools in education. Your contribution has touched our future.

Sarah Lawson

(Editor's note: The following letter was written by Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher and sent to Mayor Marilea Parsons of Pecos.)

Dear Mayor Parsons:
 At the UIL Regional Band Marching Contest held in Odessa on Nov. 3, it was announced that the Monahans and Pecos bands were the winners and would advance to the finals in Austin. It was later discovered that, due to an error, Hereford won out over Pecos. As I understand it, Pecos could have still advanced to the finals instead of Hereford because, technically, the first decision stands if a protest was not made within 15 minutes.

Your Pecos band unselfishly voted, although they didn't have to, to stand aside and let Hereford take their place—feeling that Hereford had really won. I recognize that this was a real sacrifice on the part of your band members as they had to feel disappointed.

Mr. James MacLaskey, the Hereford band director, informs me that during Hereford's performance in Austin, band members will be wearing a purple ribbon on their uniform and each ribbon will display the name of a Pecos band member. They are doing this to show respect for the Pecos band.

On behalf of the citizens of Hereford, I commend and thank the director and each member of the Pecos High School Band for their unselfish and sportsmanlike attitude. These young people are a real credit to your community and I know you are proud of them.

I would greatly appreciate your conveying these sentiments to the Pecos High School Band.

Very truly yours,
 Wesley S. Fisher
 Mayor of Hereford

Behind the numbers

The federal government is not the only one into deficit spending. The U.S. Census Bureau issued its annual report on poverty last week and stated that we have 31 million Americans living below the poverty level. That's a number even greater than in 1965 when President Lyndon Johnson launched his national "War on Poverty" program.

Something is haywire with their figures. For example, for every dollar in income reported by so-called poor families, government data show the same household spending $1.94.

A key reason that the Census Bureau people come up with gigantic figures for the number of poor lies in the fact that only cash income is counted. Not counted is welfare payments, food stamps, owned assets, or any type of local, state or federal assistance.

Researchers at the Heritage Foundation in Washington cite evidence that "poor" Americans today are better housed, better fed, and own more property than did the average U.S. citizen throughout much of the 20th century.

- Consider these examples:
- 38 percent of the persons whom the Census Bureau identifies as "poor" own their own homes with a median value of $39,200.
- 62 percent of "poor" households own a car, and 14 percent own two or more cars.
- Nearly half of all "poor" households have air-conditioning, and 31 percent have microwave ovens.
- 22,000 "poor" households have heated swimming pools or Jacuzzis.

The Census Bureau evidently subscribes to the smoke and mirror figures used so effectively by our elected brethren in Congress. Nowadays there are true facts, figures, and Washington data.

We used to call it propaganda!

Babbling Brooks

To last week's dedications of song titles to politicians, we can add "Turn Out the Lights," dedicated to former ag commissioner Jim Hightower.

Hightower, more Populist than Democrat, was finally booted out of his ag seat by Rick Perry, a Roby farmer and state representative.

Why did Rick Perry beat Hightower?

Well, it may have something to do with common sense. Hightower launched his campaign last Jan. 4 at Panhandle Milling in Dawn in the middle of a snowstorm. As the media and a few well-wishers darn near froze to death, warm Jim stood up there and read his prepared jokes, uh, I mean speech.

Rick visited Hereford in the spring, when it was nice and warm.

I have said before and will say again that Jim Hightower has an outstanding career awaiting him. He should be a stand-up comedian. Actually his jokes are funny and have been the strong suit of his eight long years in the ag commissioner's seat. Need a funny quote about anything? Just call Jim. He was the media darling of Austin, always ready with a quip about anybody or anything.

But Jim didn't know anything much about agriculture. He didn't know a farrow from a Mia Farrow. Jim was busy pushing kumquats and crawfish when he should have been working on wheat and corn and milo and cotton. Yes, some of the programs were good and I don't have anything against diversification, but we'll be raising less hell now that Jim is gone and much more grain-fed beef.

If he chooses to instead eat kumquats and kohlrabi, then let him plant a garden.

How hard could it have been to be Clayton Williams' campaign manager?

It could have been done very simply and Clayton could have won. All you had to do was get a big roll of duct tape. Every day, put a new layer on his mouth, and you've got the election won.

With apologies to Jed, Granny, Jethro and Ellie Mae, let's sing a little song about Clayton Williams.

Let me tell y'all a story about a man named Claytie,

A rich Texas oil man who had way too much money,

He was out one day pumpin' up some crude,

When a thought came out about a little prude.

Ann that is. State treasurer. Democrat.

Well, the next thing you know Claytie's gonna run for office,

Although he's never spent a day in public service,

He saw Bill Clements was gonna need a successor,

So Clayton decided he'd start at governor.

Top office. Not much power. High visibility.

Well the next thing you know Clayton is the nominee,

Polished off Kent and Jack and little Tommy,

He had his sights set on moving to the south,

But he couldn't overcome his diarrhea mouth.

Uncontrollable. Said what he thought. Can't win that way.

Clayton invited all the gang to gather 'round the fire,

Everyone waited to see what philosophy would be inspired.

But Claytie popped on about inevitability,

And that put a dent in his popularity.

Cost him the female vote. Bad subject matter. But he wouldn't learn.

Claytie talked about his younger days at Texas A&M,

About forays down to Mexico and the old Chicken Ranch.

He made no bones about the ways in which he found his pleasure,

And how it made no difference whatever the weather.

C'mon Claytie. Keep your mouth shut. Your losing the lead.

Well the next thing you know the voters had their say, and lo and behold they made Annie's day.

Clayton spent so much money he's gone into hock, guess he can pay his bills by going and bustin' rocks.

REDUCING STRESS

If you feel abnormally weighed down by stress, the best solution is to identify the cause and eliminate it.

Mental stress usually has roots in emotional trauma, such as the death of a loved one or impending job loss. Chemical stress can be caused by environmental pollution, too many preservatives and other chemicals in food, or misuse of medication.

Physical stress can also cause pain and other problems. This can be created by overwork, lack of sleep, or pushing your body beyond its endurance level. It can also be caused by structural problems of the body, such as spinal imbalance or some other distortion of the body.

Mental stress may require psychological treatment. You can avoid some chemical stress by eating natural foods, shunning polluted areas, and by reducing improper drug intake. To eliminate the physical stress caused by structural problems of the body, your doctor of chiropractic can help restore your body to proper balance and good health.

Jaaskelainen applied at two different exchange programs. He said he was glad to get the Rotary program because "it is a better organization."

When applying, Jaaskelainen was able to choose a country. He said he chose the United States because it is easiest to get accepted to.

After selecting the U.S., he was placed in Hereford. "My first thought about going to Texas was seeing cows, cowboys and oil."

"I'm glad I got to go south," he said. "As a part of my experience in another country, I wanted to experience a different climate, I like warm."

During his stay, Jaaskelainen wants to see as much of the U.S. as he can.

"I've been to New York and Dallas, but I want to see more," he said. "I hope to take the trip sponsored by the Rotary with the other exchange students."

Since his arrival in Hereford, Jaaskelainen has had to make some adjustments.

"The school day is different here than in Finland," he said. "I was use to having a 15 minute break between class and I was almost late to class my first couple of days."

One advantage Hereford schools have, according to Jaaskelainen, is the freedom to join extracurricular activities.

"Here football, golf and all sports are sponsored though the school. In Finland, sports are played on your own."

He also had to adapt to a new family. "I really like my family I live with now. They are easy going and I like that." He lives with Joe and Barbara Kerr.

"Since I will live with three different families during my stay," said Jaaskelainen, "I get to see more than one side of the family."

Jaaskelainen finds it unusual that in American culture, families attend church more than two or three times a year.

"Back home our family went to church about two or three times a year. Here we go every Sunday and I'm a member of the youth group," he said.

The 17-year-old with a shy smile, grins when asked about his English speaking abilities.

"I've studied English for seven years and can pick up on the slang words," he said. "Texans have a definite accent, but so do I," he said a little embarrassed.

Jaaskelainen is on the golf team and says he enjoys going to football games, going to Amarillo, cruising and dances are "OK too."

Besides missing his parents and brother, Jaaskelainen misses "trees, lakes, hills and saunas." But, he enjoys the West Texas sunsets.

After returning to Finland, Jaaskelainen has two years of school left, because this year won't count for him. After high school he plans on attending college and studying medicine.

Herd bops 'Dogs, 35-10

By SAM WALLER

BORGER—The Hereford Whitefaces put the finishing touches on the 1990 regular season Friday with a 35-10 win over Borger at Bulldog Stadium.

The win sends the Herd into the Bi-District round of the Class 4A playoffs next week against Lubbock Estacado. The game has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Whiteface Stadium, according to Herd coach Don Cumpton, marking the first time Hereford has hosted a playoff game since El Paso Coronado visited in 1973.

The Whitefaces enter the playoffs as the top seed from District 1-4A after finishing league play at 4-0-1 to share the district championship with Pampa, also 4-0-1. Hereford earned the number one spot on the basis of more first downs after playing the Harvesters to a 24-24 draw.

Estacado (8-1-1 and the second seed from District 2-4A) got the help it needed Friday after downing cross-town rival Dunbar 38-7 when Wolf-forth Frenship knocked Levelland out of the playoffs with a 24-7 upset.

The Herd moved its record onto the plus side of the ledger for the first time, ending the regular season with a 5-4-1 mark after starting 1-4.

Cumpton said the turnaround was evidence of the improvement the team has made in the last five games.

"We've just kept improving and getting a little better every week and now we're starting to peak at the right time," Cumpton said. "Our ol' offensive line played another good game and our defense just did a great job of shutting Borger down."

Hereford started slowly on offense but came to life on its second possession of the game on the way to 327 total yards.

Quarterback T.J. Head had the best rushing game of his career, leading the Herd with 107 yards on 14 carries, most of it on option keepers as Borger concentrated on stopping tailback Matt Bromlow. Head scored the first two touchdowns of his career on runs of 37 and 9 yards and also had his most efficient passing night, completing eight in a row after missing on his first attempt for 54 yards.

"The defense they were playing was dumb," Head said of the success with the option. "They were so worried about Matt beating them, all I had to do was get outside and find one block. The offensive line did a great job of getting out and blocking. I just had to make a cut and it was nothing but daylight."

Head over heels

Quarterback T.J. Head (1) of the Hereford Whitefaces leaps over Borger defensive tackle Octavio Hernandez (75) during Friday's 35-10 win over the Bulldogs. Head finished with 107 yards rushing, 54 yards passing and two touchdowns as the Herd clinched the No. 1 playoff seed from District 1-4A.

Cumpton said the scheme Borger was using to defend the option made Head's job that much easier.

"They were covering the pitch with the defensive end every time," he said, "and we were getting out and blocking the corner and that didn't leave anybody to take the quarterback."

Bromlow added 72 yards on 13 carries and scored twice on runs of 5 and 12 yards.

Fullback Brian Bentley gave the Herd backfield a new look, getting his first start in place of regular Greg Urbanczyk, who had missed most of the week's workouts attending the national Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City. Bentley said he was surprised to get the start since Urbanczyk returned in time for the game.

"I didn't know I was starting until right before the game," he said. "But I ran first-string all week and the coaches said I was the one."

"I was pleased with the amount of plying time I got, I just wish I could have scored a touchdown. That's the one thing I really wanted to do."

The Herd defense kept Borger speed demons Leroy Jones and Ronald Knighton under its thumb all night long as the Bulldogs could manage just 133 total yards. It was the third straight game Hereford has held an opponent to less than 200 yards of offense.

Defensive tackle Monroe Timberlake credited Hereford's ability to gain the lead with making it easier to contain the Borger attack.

"We were expecting them to run more than they did," he said. "The defensive tackles had the responsibility of stopping the tackle trap. They ran it two or three times and we shut it down, so they started going more with the rollouts and sweeps. When we got ahead, they started throwing more and that let us do a little more."

Knighton led the 'Dogs with 47 yards on eight runs while quarterback Jones ended with 2 yards on 14 tries after being sacked three times and. Nine of Jones' carries went for zero or negative yards. Fullback Jason McLemore added 45 yards on 14 attempts as Borger totaled 101 rushing yards.

"Our defense really did a good job of forcing those two back to the inside," Cumpton said. "As fast as they are we knew we had to keep them from getting loose."

Cumpton added that defending the pair is good preparation for what the Herd will see from Estacado.

"Estacado has a lot of team speed, but they don't have anybody like those two. That Jones won the 100-meter dash last year at the district track meet. He can flat out fly."

Jones finished 3-of-9 passing for 32 yards with a touchdown and an interception.

Herd defensive back Chris Steward, who dedicated the win to Cumpton, calling the Herd mentor "a great coach, the best I've ever had," said defending Jones on the rollout was the most difficult task the Herd faced on defense.

"I had a little trouble early with the rollout," he said. "They were trying to force me to come up on the quarterback so he could dump it over my head. Then we started getting some pressure on him and I could lay back on the receivers. There were a couple of those I should have intercepted."

Borger struck first in the game, taking advantage of a Hereford mistake to go up 3-0 on Wesley Marshall's 38-yard field goal.

Borger was forced to punt on its first possession, but return man Chad Brummett muffed the kick and Daniel Baker came up with the ball for the 'Dogs. The Herd defense held again to force Marshall's kick.

Hereford wasted little time in taking the lead, scoring in nine plays after the kickoff.

Playoff ticket policy set for Bi-District tilt

Hereford Whiteface season ticket holders will have first shot at claiming their regular-season reserved seats for Saturday's Bi-District playoff game with Lubbock Estacado at Whiteface Stadium, according to Hereford Independent School District Superintendent Charles Greenawald.

The ticket policy instituted for the game will allow season ticket holders to purchase tickets during two periods: from 4 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Hereford High School cafeteria and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday at the HISD Administration Building.

Tickets may only be purchased for the seats held during the regular season, may not be reserved by telephone and must be picked up in person. Reserved-seat ticket prices will be $5 for adults and $2 for students before the game.

Any reserved-seat tickets not claimed by 5 p.m. Thursday will go on sale to the general public Friday morning at Troy's Sweet Shop. All leftover tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis.

There are also 495 seats in the reserved-seat section that were not sold as part of a season ticket package. Tickets for these seats will go on sale at 8 a.m. Thursday at Troy's. These tickets will also be sold first-come, first-serve until noon Saturday or until they sell out.

All general-admission tickets sold at the gate will be $6 per person, regardless of age.

Lady Whitefaces ready to open hoops season

By SAM WALLER

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces may be a little short-handed at the start of the basketball season, but that won't keep Coach Dickie Faught's crew off the floor.

The Lady Whitefaces, 13-13 last year in Faught's first season, open the 1990-91 campaign at 6 p.m. Tuesday against Denver City at the Texas Dome on the campus of South Plains College in Levelland, and there is no need to tell Faught what is missing.

"There's no doubt we'll be behind with the girls that are in volleyball," he said. "But we have a good core of returning players in the gym right now and they're doing a good job."

The Lady Whitefaces could have as many as six varsity players miss the opener depending on the outcome of Saturday's Region 1-4A final playoff match between the Herd spikers and Dumas, but Faught has taken the positive approach.

"I think it's great that those girls have the opportunity to take part in something like this," he said. "It can only help them as far as the mental and emotional part of playing basketball. They've shown they can win and handle pressure, and I think we can transfer that to the basketball court."

For now, though, Faught will be building around varsity returnees Donna Grotgut, D'Ann Hill, Jennifer Bullard and Patricia Martinez. To go with that foursome, Faught has senior Brenna Reinauer plus a half dozen juniors from last year's junior varsity to chose from.

Ranked teams get tuned up for playoff run

By CHARLES RICHARDS

Waco running back Louis Fite locked up the Class 5A rushing championship with a flourish.

He ran around, through and past Temple for 221 yards and touchdowns of 40, 3, 77 and 49 yards in a 41-15 victory Friday night that raised the No. 4-ranked Lions' record to 9-1 going into the playoffs.

Fite finished the regular season with 2,038 yards on 243 carries, an average of 8.4 yards per carry. He's the only 2,000-yard rusher this season in the state's biggest classification.

Temple coach Bob McQueen rates Fite in the same league with two of the best backs who ever played in District 13-5A - Bryan's Curtis Dickey and Temple's Kenneth Davis.

Another Waco-area team, Connally, though spurned by voters all season in the Associated Press Class 3A rankings, wrapped up their first perfect regular season ever with a 19-0 shutout of the Lorena Leopards.

The Connally Cadets improved their record to 10-0 behind the 81-yard touchdown run of Chris Campbell, the 20-yard TD pass from Stanley Lee to Johnny Estelle, and William Stanley's 8-yard scoring run.

The final Class 3A rankings will be determined early next week. Seven of Class 3A's Top 10 finished with 10-0 marks: Vernon, Southlake Carroll, Ballinger, Gladewater, Crockett, Childress and Randolph.

Also unbeaten and untied were Aldine, Arlington Lamar, Cypress Creek and Lake Highlands in 5A; A&M Consolidated, Bay City and Austin Reagan in 4A; Groveton, Pilot Point, Schulenburg and Grand Saline in 2A; Munday, Italy, Farwell and Valley Mills in A; and Fort Hancock, Guthrie, McLean, Rule, Sands and Covington in Six-Man.

Tailback Emmett Pride scored three touchdowns and ran for 127 yards as Class 5A's No. 3 team, Cypress Creek, went unbeaten in the regular season for the first time since the school opened in 1980.

Rodney Thomas rushed for 192 yards, scoring on a 48-yard run, pacing Class 2A's No. 1 team, Groveton, past Grapeland 55-12.

A&M Consolidated, No. 1 in 4A, polished off Katy Taylor 21-14, with quarterback Tommy Preston throwing a 14-yard TD pass to Hans Buth and scoring on a 29-yard run. Fullback Cliff Groce ran for 98 yards.

Aldine, ranked first in Class 5A, knocked out Aldine MacArthur 55-26 as quarterback Eric Gray threw for four touchdowns and ran for one.

In the first half, Gray completed five passes for 111 yards, including touchdown passes of 40 and 36 yards to Chris Bonner, 7 yards to Will Skinner and 10 yards to Travis Thetford. Gray's 19-yard scoring keeper capped a 28-point second-period blowout that gave the Mustangs a 41-0 halftime lead.

Wilbert Biggens finished with 272 yards on 28 carries, breaking the school record of 1,661 yards set in 1968 by Leonard Parker. Biggens finishes the regular season with 1,782 yards. He had touchdown runs of 69, 55 and 52 yards in the second half after Aldine built up a 48-0 cushion.

Vernon, No. 1 in Class 3A, beat Iowa Park 28-0; Munday, ranked first in Class A, crushed Motley County, 42-6; and Fort Hancock, the No. 1 team among six-man schools, routed Dell City, 58-8.

Houston Davis also finished the season with a perfect record. Alas, the Panthers lost to Houston Furr, 26-14, in a battle of winless teams. The setback was the 54th consecutive for Houston Davis, a state record. Last week, Davis had tied the old mark of 53 previously held by Kountze. Houston Davis has been outscored, 2,158-to-316 over the losing streak, the longest current victory drought among U.S. high schools.

Excitement over playoffs not muted by drawing Matadors instead of Levelland

"At least now we won't have to worry about Estacado..."
—Words uttered by a few thousand Hereford fans when the district realignments were announced last winter.

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

You could feel the tremendous disappointment in the Hereford dressing room Friday night at Borger when Coach Don Cumpton told his team they wouldn't be playing Levelland in the playoffs next weekend.

The disappointment lasted, ohhhh, about a second, maybe less.

These are the same guys who were 1-4-1 a month ago. They were now 5-4-1 and were just happy to be playing more than 10 games.

A bigger plus: the Herd is the District 1-4A, something no Hereford team has claimed since 1982's District 3-5A champions. That's a gold football not won by the 1986 semi-finalist team or anyone else.

Instead of a chance against Levelland, who defeated the Herd in September, the Whitefaces will host Estacado at Whiteface Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The Matadors had been ranked No. 2 in the state for much of the year before grade problems and injuries sent Estacado reeling. Before their recent hard luck, which saw them tie Lamesa and lose to Levelland, the Matadors seemed a cinch to finish first in District 2-4A. Instead, they are just happy to be a slim second at 4-1-1 in the conference.

And the Herd is happy to host them in a bi-district game.

"It feels like Christmas," said Mark Daniel after Friday's game.

Did he think the Herd would be at this point back in the doldrums of 1-4-1?

"In front of the team we said we could do it, but I'll admit there was some doubt," Daniel said. "We came together as a team and got the job done. Now there's no doubt we can do whatever we need to do, whatever we want to do."

Borger had tremendous team speed, and that should help the Herd prepare for Estacado's sprint-relay brand of football.

"We won't see any more speed from Estacado than we saw tonight," Daniel said. "I'm just glad we're going to play them. It really doesn't matter who we play or where, but playing at home helps. I'm looking forward to it."

"It really feels great," said Michael Campos, who also harbored some doubts about winning the district after the team's slow pre-district start. "After we played Pampa I said we were going to get it and we did."

"I've never had a feeling like this before," said an elated George Jowell. "It's just super to know we're the best team in the district."

For Stephen Banner, the feeling may have been even more special. Banner was raised in Hereford and played junior high and junior varsity ball here before moving to Florida for his junior year.

"One of the reasons why I came back is to fulfill my dream I've had since I was a little kid, playing for the Herd and winning district and state," Banner said. "Now part of my dream has been fulfilled."

Banner, who roams the defensive secondary as a headhunter, is looking forward to the Estacado game.

"They're pretty fast but I don't think they're any faster than Borger," Banner said. "I'm disappointed a little that we're not playing Levelland, and I thought we might get another chance against Frenship. But Estacado will be just fine. We will play whoever we play and get the job done. I think the defense will do fine against Estacado and it should be a good game."

In hot pursuit

Walker Award fitting tribute to 'Doaker'

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Heroes. We've all had them.

Mine was a guy who looked too slow and too small to be much of a danger to his opponents.

In practice, he didn't look like much; on Saturday, he was the best.

Doak Walker made football a cerebral sport. What he lacked in brawn he made up for by outthinking the other man.

The way he set up a tackler was pure football poetry. Linebackers frequently tackled thin air trying to hit Walker.

Walker scattered would-be tacklers as if they had slipped on a giant banana peel.

Memories of Walker include watching him take Southern Methodist University from tiny Ownby Stadium into bigtime football. Recall, the Cotton Bowl is still known as "The House That Walker Built."

SMU may be back at Ownby, but it's not Walker's fault.

Walker won the Heisman Trophy in 1948 but he gained only 532 yards rushing that season. What he did was score touchdowns and win football games. He did it by playing halfback, flanker, end, fullback, quarterback on a few occasions, and also safety on defense.

Where did someone 5-11, 165 pounds get that much energy?

Nobody knows, but Walker scored 288 points at SMU. He also returned punts and kickoffs. Oh yes, he punted and kicked extra points and field goals.

Grantland Rice called Walker "the most authentic all-around player in football history."

"Doak Walker always made the big play when the team needed it," said the late Bobby Layne, who played against Walker at Texas and later teamed with him to win the NFL title with the Detroit Lions.

Walker's No. 37 is the only jersey ever retired at SMU.

Now, they've got an award named after him, and deservedly so. It's the Doak Walker "National Running Back Award."

A ceremony was held last week to unveil the excellent bronze likeness of the Doaker on one of his runs.

"It's great to have something like this named after me while I'm still alive," he said. "Usually, you have to wait until you're dead."

There's only one small bone to pick with the award which will be given this December.

You won't find the names of Colorado's Eric Bieniemy, Texas A&M's Darren Lewis or Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon on the nomination list.

There are apparently citizenship and academic standards which the trio didn't meet.

But the award advisory committee should answer these questions:

- Aren't those gentlemen eligible by NCAA standards to be playing for their schools?

- Shouldn't that be the criteria rather than some arbitrary judgment?

- Isn't the committee interested in selecting the nation's best running back like the Davey O'Brien Award picks the nation's best quarterback?

There are no such halters on the O'Brien award committee.

Anyway, there's one thing for certain. Whoever is selected will be no Doak Walker.

Longhorns' Thomas sheds California image to become a top 'Texas player'

By DAVID McNABB
The Dallas Morning News

AUSTIN (AP) - A letter over the summer changed Stan Thomas' life. Now, he sounds like a lucky sweepstakes winner who just heard from Ed McMahon.

An NFL draft analyst sent his pre-season listings to Thomas in June and placed the University of Texas senior among the top offensive linemen in the United States.

"I called the guy and asked if he was sure it was me," Thomas said.

"I mean, I thought I'd have pretty good years, but I had seen a magazine and figured I'd at least be second-team all conference, and they had two SMU tackles ahead of me. I really doubted myself."

The next day after hearing from the draft analyst, Thomas said, "I started working out hard."

Since then, his stock has done nothing but rise. Texas (6-1, 4-0) was ranked 14th nationally going into Saturday's game with third-ranked Houston.

Thomas has overcome penalty-prone problems and established himself as a leader. The 6-5, 290-pounder has stopped his California dreaming and started taking football seriously.

Thomas is expected to go in the first or second round of the NFL draft next April as a tackle or guard. He has started at tackle since midway through his redshirt freshman season, but it was his size and 4.9 40-yard dash speed that attracted the pros. He upgraded his status with strong performances against Colorado's Alfred Williams and Oklahoma's Tom Backes.

Thomas helped spark the drive that beat Oklahoma, 14-13.

"We had 91 yards to go, and I wanted us to make up our minds and do it," Thomas said. "I decided to drive (OU left tackle) Backes downfield 10 yards, pick him up and throw him down right by the OU sideline. Then I started yelling."

"(Texas receiver) Keith Cash came and got me. I went back to the huddle, looked at everybody and said, 'Are you guys ready.' They had their mouths open and said, 'Yeah, Stan.'"

Thomas' reputation had been built on just about anything except being a good football player. He was best known as the victim of a highly replayed low blow last year by SMU defensive lineman Kenny Rea.

Thomas, who frequently was penalized his first three seasons, has improved in that area also.

"I thought playing aggressive was a way to get attention," Thomas said. "But I was hurting the team."

Thomas learned a painful lesson last year against Texas Tech. The Longhorns trailed, 21-17, with three minutes left when a facemask call against Thomas wiped out a third-and-7 first-down conversion from Texas' 48. The Longhorns, forced into a third-and-28, threw an interception.

"That was the last penalty on Stan," UT coach David McWilliams said.

Thomas arrived at UT from California with just one year of football experience. His father, who played baseball in the Pittsburgh Pirates organization, had encouraged Thomas to play baseball throughout childhood, and Thomas finally quit during his sophomore year in high school.

"I was burned out," Thomas said. "Then my senior year, he said I had to play something to keep me out of trouble. He just dropped me off at the football field."

He had never played, but his 6-5, 260-pound frame again attracted recruiting attention because of its potential. He left El Centro, Calif., for Austin.

"I thought I'd slide by, make my parents happy," Thomas said. "I thought it was another pressure deal."

"The players who were here said I'd never make a Texas player with an attitude like that."

Thomas has finally changed. He even has a pair of boots.

"(Teammate) Kevin Wiley got me to get a pair," Thomas said. "I didn't think they were a big deal, but the girls said they looked real good."

Just more motivation for Thomas.

Montana ideal role model for 'Pokes' Aikman

IRVING (AP) - In Joe Montana's last playing appearance in the Dallas area, he produced the first of his many football miracles.

Stricken with the flu on a day the wind chill factor was a minus 6 degrees, Montana did unto the Houston Cougars what he's done to numerous NFL teams.

Montana rallied Notre Dame with 22 fourth-quarter points to give the Fighting Irish a 35-34 victory with a touchdown pass on the last play of the 1979 Cotton Bowl.

On Sunday, Montana returns for his first game since that infamous "ice bowl" as the unblemished San Francisco 49ers meet the downtrodden Dallas Cowboys.

Montana, nursing a slight injury, didn't play last year when the 49ers beat the Cowboys 31-14 in Texas Stadium.

Texas Stadium and Sun Devil Stadium, home of the Phoenix Cardinals, are the only two stadiums where Montana has yet to ply his trade.

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said he hopes his young quarterback, Troy Aikman, learns something by watching Montana and the 49ers play.

"Montana is the best quarterback I've ever seen," Johnson said. "You just can't read his eyes like you can most quarterbacks. If you try to read his eyes you're going to be wrong. Troy can learn from watching him. Sometimes you can read Troy's eyes where he is going to throw the ball. Troy needs to learn to scan the field like Montana does."

The 8-0 49ers bring the NFL's longest road winning streak, 14, into Texas Stadium. San Francisco has won 16 consecutive games, including playoff opponents. Dallas is 3-6 with a recent 25-9 loss to the New York Jets.

Portland pays Pistons back

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

It was payback time in Portland when the Trail Blazers met the Detroit Pistons.

The Trail Blazers, meeting the Pistons for the first time since last season's championship series, led by as many as 24 points Friday night before holding on for a 113-101 victory.

The Blazers failed to beat the Pistons in three tries in Memorial Coliseum in the NBA finals, but they never trailed Friday, beating Detroit in Portland for the 21st consecutive time in the regular season.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Chicago 120, Boston 100; Minnesota 106, Charlotte 77; Milwaukee 108, Washington 100; Dallas 111, Orlando 99; Indiana 122, Cleveland 107; Seattle 135, Denver 129; Los Angeles Lakers 100, Sacramento 86, and Golden State 143, Atlanta 128.

Portland, unbeaten in four games this season, opened a 17-6 lead, boosted the margin to 18 in the second quarter and 24 in the third.

Vinnie Johnson, who made the game-winning basket in the final game of last season's championships, sank four 3-pointers in the fourth quarter, leading a late rally. Mark Aguirre, who led all scorers with 30 points, made two free throws to pull Detroit to 105-97 with 3:11 remaining.

But Jerome Kersey scored on a rebound and Clyde Drexler sank two free throws to boost the lead back to 14.

Terry Porter had 28 points and 10 assists for Portland.

Johnson, whose fourth-quarter barrage tied a club record for most 3-pointers in a quarter, scored 21 points for Detroit.

Bulls 120, Celtics 100
Michael Jordan scored 41 points, including 14 in a decisive third period, as Chicago handed Boston its first defeat and won for just the third time in its last 15 regular-season appearances at Boston Garden.

The Celtics, 3-1 under new coach Chris Ford, last led 63-62 at the start of the second half. But Jordan hit a dunk and added 10 more points in a 19-7 run.

B.J. Armstrong had 16 points and Stacey King added 14 for the Bulls. Boston was led by Kevin McHale with 24 points and Larry Bird with 23.

Timberwolves 106, Hornets 77
Tony Campbell scored 26 points and Minnesota held Charlotte to 27 in the first half as the Timberwolves won by the greatest margin in their history.

The Timberwolves held the Hornets to 13 points in the second Wingback Leo Brown got things started, running three times for 21 yards, and Head kept things going when he connected with Kyle Hansen for 6 yards on third-and-5 from the Herd 30. The Herd signal caller then finished the job with a 14-yard scramble to set up his first touchdown on the next play. Jesus Gonzales added the first of five conversion kicks to give Hereford a 7-3 advantage.

HERD

The Whitefaces upped the margin to 21-3 with touchdowns on its next two possessions Borger was forced to punt twice.

Brown also ignited the second scoring drive, racing 24 yards on the first play. Head and Bromlow then matched 11-yard runs with a penalty for a hit out of bounds being added to Head's carry. That set the Herd up at the Borger 14 and Bromlow picked up 12 of the yards on three tries, including the 5-yard scoring run on fourth-and-1 early in the second quarter.

Borger picked up its first first down of the game on its next possession on a roughing the passer foul as penalty flags began flying all over the field. The officials' patriotic display of flag waving continued for the rest of the game as Hereford finished with 12 violations costing 110 yards while Borger was whistled 13 times for 101.

Hereford got the ball back after Jones was called for being across the line of scrimmage on a third-down pass to force another punt. The Whitefaces put together a crisp seven-play drive in which the shortest gain was 6 yards.

Brown provided the opening spark once again with a 10-yard gain on the first play. After a pass interference penalty gave the Herd first down at the Borger 12, the 'Dogs finally decided to cover Head on the option and Bromlow promptly took the pitch into the endzone for a 21-3 lead.

Hereford had two more scoring opportunities before halftime, the first being set up by Chris Tardy's interception at the Herd 45. That chance died on the first play as an offensive pass interference penalty left the Herd facing second-and-25 at its 30.

The next try started better as Head connected on three straight passes to move the ball to the Borger 28. Things started to fall apart after that as Head fumbled the snap on third down. An offside penalty against Borger on fourth down kept the drive alive, but on the next play, as Head threw the ball out of bounds to stop the clock, the pass was ruled a lateral and Hereford lost 5 yards. The Whitefaces were called for holding and offensive interference on the next two snaps, leaving them with third-and-40 from their own 48 as the half ended.

"We had a bit of a letdown there the last two or three minutes of the half," Cumpton said. "We could have executed a little better there, but we came out real strong in the third quarter and made up for it."

Hereford scored on both of its third-quarter possessions to ice the game as the defense forced another Borger punt and a turnover to set up the drives.

The first scoring drive, an 11-play, 63-yard march that chewed up more than five minutes, was capped by Head's second touchdown from 9 yards out. Bromlow picked up the biggest chunk with a 23-yard run and Louis Mungia hauled in a pass for 11 yards to convert a fourth-and-8 from the Borger 26.

Hereford overcame 20 yards in penalties in the drive as Borger was flagged on back-to-back plays to give the Herd first down at the 'Dog 9, setting up Head's score.

Borger then put together a drive that looked to reach the endzone after making a pair of first downs, but Jones and Knighton failed to connect on a handoff and defensive end Mark Kriegshauser dove on the loose ball at the Borger 44.

Chris Blair came on to direct the six-play drive and accounted for 14 yards on two runs. Blair ended the possession with his first career touchdown when he got loose on the (what else?) option keeper from 8 yards away.

The 'Dogs mounted another march after the kickoff that reached Hereford's 33, the deepest penetration of the game Borger managed on its own.

The Bulldogs got their biggest gain of the night on the possession when Jones found McLemore on a rollout for 12 yards on fourth-and-2. The next three plays failed to gain any ground for Borger and Herd rover Stephen Banner spoiled the fourth-down pass when he blitzed and drilled Jones from behind to force a fumble and give Hereford the ball.

The Herd reserves took over the rest of the way with several junior varsity call-ups seeing their first varsity action. Sophomore quarterback Richard Sanderson came on for the final three Hereford possessions and took his first snap after missing four games with a broken hand.

The Bulldogs got their lone touchdown late in the game with the help of Hereford's only offensive turnover. A fumble at the Herd 10 put Borger in business and Jones hit Brad Cryer for the touchdown on the second play.

quarter, a record-low defensively for the second-year franchise.

Tyrone Corbin had 20 points and 13 rebounds for Minnesota, which beat Seattle 110-82 last season. Pooh Richardson had 18 points and 13 assists for Minnesota. Johnny Newman led Charlotte with 16 points and J.R. Reid added 14.

Bucks 108, Bullets 100

Rickey Pierce scored 14 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee stretched its winning streak to four games.

Bernard King, who had 34 points, pulled Washington within one on a layup with 3:20 remaining. But Pierce scored seven straight points, putting the Bucks in front 101-93 with 2:19 to play.

Jay Humphries scored 24 points for the Bucks and Alvin Robertson added 21. Darrell Walker scored 21 points for the Bullets.

Mavericks 111, Magic 99

Rolando Blackman scored 25 of his 34 points in the second half in the absence of Roy Tarpley and Fat Lever, carrying Dallas to its fourth straight victory while keeping Orlando winless.

Tarpley, the Mavericks' leading scorer and rebounder, injured his right kneecap in the first quarter. He is questionable for Tuesday night's game at Orlando. Lever undergoes arthroscopic surgery next week on his right knee.

Nick Anderson led Orlando (0-5) with 29 points. Derek Harper had 22 points for Dallas.

Pacers 122, Cavaliers 107

Four 3-pointers by Chuck Person and three by Reggie Miller paced Indiana.

Miller scored 13 of his 28 points in the final quarter when Indiana pulled away after taking an 87-77 lead into the period. A 3-pointer by Miller gave the Pacers their largest lead, 122-102 with 41 seconds remaining.

Person scored 22 points for Indiana, which got 11 rebounds from Detlef Schrempf. Craig Ehlo led Cleveland with 21 points.

SuperSonics 135, Nuggets 129

Xavier McDaniel scored 27 points and Dana Barros 21 as unbeaten Seattle defeated winless Denver.

A layup by Barros and Gary Payton's free throw put Seattle (3-0) ahead by nine points before Walter Davis, who scored 41 for Denver (0-5), hit consecutive 3-pointers to make it 129-126 with 1:15 to go. But Payton's jumper and three free throws by Barros made 134-126 with 21 seconds left.

Orlando Woolridge scored 30 points and Todd Lichti had 23 for the Nuggets.

Lakers 100, Kings 86

Magic Johnson scored 25 points as Los Angeles won its first game under new coach Mike Dunleavy while extending its homecourt winning streak against Sacramento to 42 games.

James Worthy added 18 points for the Lakers, who avoided their first season-opening three-game losing streak since 1978.

Bobby Hansen scored 18 points for the Kings, who have lost 10 in a row to the Lakers and 25 of 27 since moving from Kansas City to Sacramento.

Warriors 143, Hawks 128

Chris Mullin scored 40 points as Golden State handed Atlanta its first loss.

Mitch Richmond added 29 points and Tim Hardaway 28 for the Warriors.

Dominique Wilkins led the Hawks (3-1) with 21 points. Kevin Willis, Moses Malone, John Battle and Spud Webb scored 15 points each.

GIRLS HOOPS

"We've got some pretty good people at just about every position," he said, "and when we finally do get everybody out, that is going to give us some depth, which we'll need."

Faught said the one weakness facing the team early is varsity experience after three starters graduated off last year's squad.

"We'll definitely miss people like Cande Robbins and Stacey White," he said, "but we have some really quality people coming up. Even though they don't have any varsity playing experience - and for that matter some of our returning varsity players don't have much experience playing varsity - almost all of them have played together since seventh grade all the way through. That is going to help us because they'll know each other and be able to play together. We haven't really had a chance to establish any continuity yet, this being only my second year, but they're being able to play together is a big step in that direction and it's just a matter of building from there."

Perhaps the biggest advantage the Lady Whitefaces will enjoy, Faught said, is moving into a six-team district after last year's realignment.

"That is definitely going to help us no matter how far the volleyball team goes," he said. "Last year we played our first district game Nov. 28 and some of the girls hadn't been out there three weeks."

"We didn't really start coming together and playing as a team until we went down to Kerrville for that tournament right after Christmas.

When we won the tournament it really got us going as far as the rest of the season was concerned.

"This year we don't have a district game until Jan. 4. That's six more weeks we have to work on getting things together before district starts. I really think that will make a difference and we can improve over last year."

"You can't really say, but who knows, if we'd had enough time to spend working on a few things instead of playing a district schedule, we might have come on a little faster and won us a few more ball games."

As for the new 1-4A lineup, Faught said Pampa has to be given the early nod to win the loop with Canyon Randall second, but Hereford should be able to compete.

"Pampa just has so much talent coming back from last year - I think they only lost one girl off the entire varsity and Nikki Ryan was Sophomore of the Year - and they've had a couple of really good players move in during the offseason."

"I think you have to consider them the favorite based on all that and Randall has a really good program going. Now they (Randall) lost a lot of people at the post position, but all of their perimeter players are back and I think that was their big strength last year."

"I have seen one preseason magazine where Borger was picked third and one where we were," he said. "I think it's kind of nice that people think we'll be able to compete that well and I know we can if we'll get out there and work hard. This will be a good district race and there's no telling what's going to happen when February gets here."

TSU installs Schumacher into Athletic Hall of Fame

Hereford native Wayne Schumacher was recently inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at Tarleton State University in Stephenville.

Schumacher played linebacker for the Texans on back-to-back Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship teams in 1977-78, earning All-TIAA and second-team NAIA All-American honors.

Former teammate Kevin Warren, who presented Schumacher at the ceremony, said, "Wayne was an athlete who demonstrated leadership and character and was a true team player."

Schumacher credited his former coaches and teammates with making his on-field success possible with special mention of the Texans' 1978 coaching staff of Buddy Fornes, Joe Gillespie and Ronnie Giles.

There was not a coaching staff more deserving of a national championship," he said of the trio, "and we came close to giving them one. They will be remembered for turning Tarleton's football program around and heading it in the direction it still follows today."

One of eight children, Schumacher said it was not until he became a parent that he understood all the sacrifices his parents made for him and his siblings. Holding up his Hall of fame plaque he said, "Dad, this is for you."

Schumacher, who is now a sales representative with Baxter Hospital Supply in Lewisville, was inducted along with former two-sport star Tommy Tinker. Tinker played football and basketball at Tarleton in 1936-38 before coaching at the University of Texas at Arlington for 23 years.

TSU Hall inductee

Former Hereford Whiteface Wayne Schumacher, left, was recently inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at Tarleton State University in Stephenville. With Schumacher is former TSU teammate Kevin Warren, who presented Schumacher with his Hall of Fame plaque.

Officials needed for HJH games

Hereford High School basketball coaches Jimmy Thomas and Dickie Faught are seeking officials for the upcoming season.

Game officials are needed for all boys and girls junior high games as well as sub-varsity contests. Officials do not need certification but should have knowledge and understanding of basketball rules.

For more information, contact Thomas or Faught at 364-8229.

S-F, L'field set for Hereford

Hereford's Whiteface Stadium will be the site for a Class 3A Bi-District playoff game Friday between Sanford-Fritch and Littlefield.

Kickoff for the game has been set for 7:30 p.m.

The Eagles (4-6) are the second seed out of District 1-3A after winning a coin toss to break a three-way tie with Canyon High and Dalhart.

The Wildcats (7-3) are the top seed out of District 2-3A. That race went into the final week with four teams tied at 3-1.

All seating for the game will be general admission.

Burning can help reduce unwanted brush in CRP fields.

Burning can help CRP land

Prescribed burning can be an inexpensive treatment to reduce unwanted brush on rangeland or stimulate vigor in older CRP grass stands. Optimum months for burning are February and March. For a burn to be successful and safe it must be planned well in advance. Items considered in planning include type and amount of fuel, temperature and humidity, wind direction and speed, and any fire control equipment that may be needed. Although inexpensive, fire is extremely dangerous. Burn should be conducted under the supervision of an experienced person. If you are considering fire as a management tool, contact the Soil Conservation Service. They will assist you in developing a fire plan. All burns on CRP land must be approved by the SCS two months in advance.

FFA members qualify for area

Several members of the Hereford High School FFA qualified for Area Saturday at the Littlefield District FFA Leadership Contest. The junior chapter conducting team of Michael Carlson, Trey Skiles, Don Metcalf, Justin Henderson, Wade Johnson, Thad Hill and Greg Urbanczyk placed first as well as the quiz team made up of Don Metcalf, Trey Skiles, Jeremy Blair and Steven Wheat. Jim Brett Campbell placed second in extemporaneous speaking. The farm radio team of Jim Brett Campbell, Karisa Wheat and Karen Allemand placed fifth and Wade Johnson placed fifth in creed speaking. All first and second place teams qualify for area FFA competition to be held in Clarendon on Nov. 17. Winners in Clarendon will advance to state competition.

TBSWCD taking orders for trees

Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District is now taking orders for windbreak tree seedlings. The 1990-91 tree program is a repeat of the past several years where the trees are ordered from the Texas Forest Service and the Colorado State Forest Service. Persons interested will have a choice of more than 30 varieties of shrubs, hardwoods and evergreen trees. These trees, if used as a windbreak in two or more rows will give cover to wildlife, and shelter homes, cattle and roads from wind and snow. Applications will be taken until mid-March 1991. Ordering early will ensure getting the species you want. The seedlings will arrive the last week of March 1991 and can be picked up at the SCS office. If interested, call the SCS at 364-6995 or go by 315 W. Third.

FmHA making major changes

Major changes have occurred in the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) in recent years and more are coming. The Bush Administration feels that the guaranteed loans should be emphasized over direct loans. It is felt that they are less expensive to the government and will encourage lending by Private Sector. The guaranteed loan program has not been very popular with banks in the Deaf Smith County area, Ross W. James said. James is the County Supervisor of Deaf Smith and Oldham Counties.

"We presently have only seven percent of our borrowers on loan guarantees, said James. "Our goal is to have 25 percent to 50 percent of our borrowers on the guaranteed program." Presently the FmHA county office works with the lenders on subordinations in which FmHA subordinates its lien position to the bank for them to furnish all or part of the operating and living expenses. "It has been emphasized that we must phase the subordination process out and promote the Guaranteed program," James said.

There is legislation pending that may make the guaranteed program more appealing to banks. The paper work has been cumbersome and interest rates for the farmer is higher than direct loans. James hopes there will be less paper work and an interest credit buydown. "We are hoping that more banks will consider the program and use it to help keep the farmer in business," he said. Many area farmers have seen their financial position deteriorating every year, with land and equipment values falling each year over the last eight years.

Many farmers may need the additional security margin the guarantee provides to stay in business. The guarantee can be up to 90 percent but is based on the security for the loan. This program should cost the taxpayer a lot less money and we would see the private sector more committed to agricultural loans, said James. For additional information, contact the FmHA County Office at 313 W. 3rd. St., or call 806-364-2802.

EC beef ban attacked at GATT

WASHINGTON (AP) - A plan by the European Community to ban imports of U.S. meat on grounds it is produced under unsanitary conditions is seen by industry and Agriculture Department officials as a flagrant example of a non-tariff trade restriction. Besides infuriating U.S. officials, the EC plan puts a further snarl in Uruguay Round negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which are supposed to conclude by the end of the year. One of the goals of the GATT talks is to bring some kind of order to international health standards for food and agricultural products.

But the 12-nation EC, a major player in the GATT talks, plans to announce soon a ban on imports of U.S. pork, beginning on Oct. 31, and beef imports by the end of the year. The plan was outlined by Ray MacSharry, EC commissioner, in a letter this week to Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yetter. MacSharry said the long-simmering issue over U.S. meat products had not been resolved to the satisfaction of the community. Further, he said, many of the sanitary problems noted by EC authorities still exist in U.S. hog-slaughter plants, including "insufficient general hygiene and veterinary control, insufficient post-mortem inspections and trichinella treatment or inspection." MacSharry continued: "I am afraid that these results show that no matter how much patience and goodwill is shown on the part of the (EC) there remains an absence of commitment on the part of the U.S. authorities concerning establishments producing fresh meat for the community." Yetter, who was in South America this week, replied in a statement issued by his office that the EC's intention to ban meat imports was an "absurd" idea. A 1989 restriction on imports of U.S. beef products because of potential hormone contamination was eased, but not until the United States had countered with high tariffs on imports of EC agricultural products. Yetter said USDA has been working with the EC the past two years to make regulatory requirements and technical methods acceptable to both sides. "While we and the U.S. meat industry do not agree with the EC's allegations, many U.S. companies have made changes within their plants to comply with the EC requirements, even though these changes do not result in a superior or safer product," he said. Yetter added, "It is exasperating that the EC has ignored the attempts by the U.S. meat industry to comply with its requirements and has taken this action to stop U.S. meat exports into the EC." Meat makes up a relatively small part of the total U.S. agricultural exports to the EC, which last year totaled about $6.57 billion, according to Agriculture Department trade statistics. Meat and meat products were put at $147.7 million, or about 2 percent of the total. However, Europe is an important market for "variety" meats, the edible offals such as livers, tongues and other organs not in great demand among American consumers. According to Yetter and others close to the GATT talks, agreements are being sought "to ensure that sanitary and phytosanitary rules are used for legitimate food safety purposes, not to build trade barriers." Current GATT rules state that the 97 member countries of the agreement have the right to adopt any measure considered necessary to protect human, animal or plant life or health. But the rules are so vague that many countries use "health requirements" to shut out certain imports when they choose to do so. "This is an artificial trade barrier, not a food safety issue," said Mike Wehler, president of the National Pork Producers Council. "This is one more example of the EC's fortress mentality when it comes to trade barriers that protect its pork industry," he said. Under procedures being developed during the GATT talks, a country would be able to challenge another's claim that health-related import regulations were necessary to protect domestic human or plant life or health. The challenge then would be settled within the GATT framework. Each nation would still be able to set its own food safety standards based on its definition of acceptable risks. However, international standards would serve as a reference for settling a dispute under GATT proceedings. The idea is to formulate food safety standards based on scientific evidence and science, and to eliminate their use as trade barriers, according to a USDA background report. Three international scientific organizations would serve as the basis or initial reference point for settling disputes within the GATT: Codex Alimentarius Commission, established in 1963, with a membership of 135 countries. It is concerned with protecting the health of consumers, ensuring fair practices in food trade, and promoting the coordination of food standards. International Office of Epizootics, with 106 members. It is concerned with health and sanitary requirements for animal imports and exports. It was founded in 1924 and is the oldest international veterinary organization. International Plant Protection Conference, with 88 member countries. It develops plant quarantine requirements and other measures to prevent the spread of plant pests and diseases from country to country. It was formed in the 1950s and works mainly with regional groups such as the North American Plant Protection Organization.

Bumper corn crop harvested

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bumper corn harvest this fall is leading the way for the largest total crop output by American farmers in five years, the Agriculture Department says. The 1990 corn harvest was estimated Thursday at a four-year high of 7.93 billion bushels, up 5 percent from last year, although down slightly from prospects in October. An all-crops production index was reported at 112 percent of its 1977 average used for comparison. That was up one percentage point from October and the highest reading since the index averaged 116 percent in 1985. The latest corn production outlook, based on Nov. 1 indications, was down 1 percent from USDA's October forecast. The harvest was about 64 percent completed by Oct. 28, slightly behind normal. "Many growers continue to report yields lower than previously anticipated," the department's Agricultural Statistics Board said. "Ears in late-planted fields in Indiana did not fill out. Corn borers also did considerable damage in Illinois." Farmers harvested 7.53 billion bushels in 1989, and the department in its initial 1990 forecast on Aug. 9 put this fall's harvest at 7.85 billion bushels. The forecast was raised on Sept. 12 to 8.12 billion bushels and then lowered to 8.02 billion on Oct. 11. At 7.93 billion bushels, this year's harvest still would be the largest since farmers produced 8.23 billion bushels in 1986, according to USDA records. Based on the latest surveys, the average corn yield nationally was estimated at 119 bushels per acre harvested, compared with 116.2 last year and 120.3 indicated last month. The record was 119.4 bushels in 1987.

Under procedures being developed during the GATT talks, a country would be able to challenge another's claim that health-related import regulations were necessary to protect domestic human or plant life or health. The challenge then would be settled within the GATT framework. Each nation would still be able to set its own food safety standards based on its definition of acceptable risks. However, international standards would serve as a reference for settling a dispute under GATT proceedings. WARNING

PIPELINE

American Pipeline Company and its subsidiary, Westar Transmission Company, place warning signs similar to these in areas where our natural gas pipelines are located. Our pipelines are safe and we keep them that way by designing, installing and operating our pipelines to exacting standards. If natural gas pipelines are damaged, people may be injured, property destroyed or energy supplies lost. Therefore, American Pipeline conducts an ongoing surveillance program to detect factors which might threaten safe pipeline operations. We also conduct a damage prevention program to inform the public of the importance of using safety measures when digging or excavating near natural gas pipelines. If you are planning to dig or excavate in an area, remember to look for warning signs indicating natural gas pipelines. If you see an American Pipeline or Westar Transmission marker, call us at our toll free number, 1-800-562-5879, before you begin working. We will send a company representative to mark the location of the pipeline. Natural gas cannot be seen and normally cannot be smelled, but gas leaks may still be detected. Any one of the following is among the common indicators of a gas leak:

- Dust blowing from a hole in the ground
- Continuous bubbling in one spot in wet or flooded areas
- A gaseous or hydrocarbon odor

If you suspect a natural gas leak in an area where American Pipeline or Westar Transmission markers are located, immediately leave the area and call us at our toll free number, 1-800-562-5879.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My spleen was taken out in 1974 because of a large cyst on it. Some years later I was warned that could cause pneumonia which could be speedily fatal, hence I should be revaccinated every three to five years. Unfortunately doctors can't even agree among themselves about this nor can manufacturers.

Naturally I need a doctor to prescribe and administer the vaccine. I'm not finding it easy once again to have this done without prodding the doctors.

What sayest thou?

DEAR READER: I sayest, I am not surprised. A major reason you have trouble is because of incomplete information in the PDR (Physician's Desk Reference) and the package insert that all the doctors read. It is prepared by the manufacturer and does say that revaccination of adults is not recommended.

But doctors who read the scientific literature find some problems with this statement. In the first place the pneumonia vaccine is only effective against pneumococcal pneumonia in about two-thirds of the cases, meaning the vaccination is not effective in about a third of people who get vaccinated. That should warn you that being vaccinated is no guarantee against pneumococcal pneumonia.

Second, the vaccine does not last forever. In healthy adults the antibodies that protect you against pneumonia may be largely gone within 10 years. Doctors who have trouble accepting my statement can read it in Lancet April 14,

Some studies that suggest people over 55 are less able to produce a good antibody response. Vaccination before age 55 would help provide the antibody level needed. But if it is gone 10 years later, that won't help much. I note you are 59.

The big fear about revaccination is a reaction to antibodies from the previous vaccination. That is a real consideration within the first two years after vaccination, but the chances of a reaction decreases steadily until, after five years, there are no more reactions from revaccination than occur from a person being vaccinated the first time. A report from the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) says that reactions are no different from the first vaccination at four years after the first vaccination. That is published in the Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report from the CDC and reprinted in the Journal of the American Medical Association, March 3, 1989.

There is concern that a person who has had his spleen removed will not have as effective an immune system as normal people. That is controversial too.

Do you need to be revaccinated? No one can be certain, but if I had my spleen removed and knowing the facts about the limited duration of the antibody response to the pneumococcal vaccine, I would certainly want to be revaccinated every five years, unless I had had a significant reaction on the previous vaccination.

4-H'ers take honors

Food Show winners named

Eleven Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers took top honors in the County 4-H Food Show held recently. These winners will compete at the District I 4-H Food Show on Dec. 1.

County winners earned first place awards in three divisions: senior, intermediate and junior, with each including four classes.

Senior division winners included Jill Dutton in nutritious snacks and desserts; Jennifer Hicks, main dish; Donna Grotegut, breads, with Stephanie Wilson as alternate; and Amanda McMeen, fruit and vegetable, with Kinann Campbell as alternate. Senior judges were Martha Layman and Jo Bidwell.

Intermediate winners included Cady Auckerman in nutritious snacks and desserts; Karon Harder, fruit and vegetable; and Jami Parker, main dish.

Junior winners included Robin Bell in fruit and vegetable, with Wendy Brisendine as alternate, and Rusty Dutton in breads, with Staci Betzen as alternate. Other junior winners included Dana Brisendine in main dish and Craig Campbell as alternate and Jessica Wright in nutritious snacks and desserts, with Jessica Wuertlein as alternate. Judges for juniors and intermediate were Teresa Dutton, Corda Glover, Dean Bradley, Donna Grotegut, Jill Dutton and Jennifer Hicks.

Rusty Dutton was announced as Rookie of the 1990 Food Show and outstanding record awards went to Shannon Revell, Karon Harder and Jennifer Hicks.

Others participating in the Food Show in the fruit and vegetable group were Kylee Auckerman, Stacy Brumley and Brady Parker. Junior breads participants included Betsy Weaver, Krista Warren, Robert Brockman, Jaime Steiert, Christy Haney and Erin Auckerman. Junior main dish included Amber Vasek, Shannon Revell, Claire Cook, Cathy Higgins, Emily Parker and Steven Fanelli. Participants in nutritious snacks and desserts included Katrina Brock, Jayme Wright, Mindy Morton, Lyndi Carlile, Melissa Fanelli and Cindy Harder.

The food-show was sponsored by the 4-H Parent Leaders Association and the Ford and Westway Extension Homemakers Clubs. 4-H parents serving on the food show committee included Teresa Dutton, chairman, and Pam Wilson, Karla Vasek, Georgia Auckerman and Susan Hicks.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Public television entertains

Whether or not your family has cable TV, virtually every home in America has access to some of the most entertaining programs available: on public television. Public TV was established by Congress in 1967 to offer viewers a cultural and educational alternative to the commercial networks. Today, even with the variety provided by cable, public TV remains a unique, bountiful resource for shows that delight, inform and instruct. It's commercial free TV the whole family can enjoy together—and you don't have to pay a cable fee to watch it!

There are more than 340 public TV stations around the country, each featuring shows of special interest to the community it serves, from farm reports in rural areas to analysis of urban problems in big cities.

A handful of the largest stations produce shows of general interest that are seen nationally. For example, Thirteen/WNET in New York, public TV's flagship station, produces fascinating animal stories of "Nature," colorful personality profiles on "American Masters," wonderful concerts, dramas and dance recitals on "Great Performances," intriguing documentaries on "The American Experience," business and financial information on "Adam Smith's Money World," and in depth news coverage on the MacNeil/Lehrer News Hour.

Perhaps public television's greatest service is instructional programming. High school dropouts can prepare for equivalency exams; children and adults can improve reading skills; and anyone who's interested can study a new language, experiment with gourmet recipes, or learn home repair. With public TV, every one has a classroom as near as his or her remote control.

There are many entertaining and informative new shows coming to public television in the months ahead. Thirteen/WNET in particular has a slate of major new projects in the works, including:

*"Childhood"—a television journey through these "wonder years," seen through the eyes of kids, families and experts.

*"The Dance Project"—exploring dance and its influence on all aspects of life around the world.

*"The Future of Medicine"—a thoughtful new series on the perils and promises of medical care today and tomorrow.

*"Travels"—exciting weekly journeys to colorful, far-away places—decidedly different.

*"The Shape of the World"—tales of how human kind mapped the earth, hosted by Star Trek's Patrick Stewart.

So, whether you want to kick back and relax, or sit up and pay attention, the quality and diversity of public television is the best way to "keep what matters in sight!"

In Sincere Appreciation

My sincere thanks to those of you who supported me during this campaign year. I offer my heart-felt gratitude. I couldn't have done it without you. Your vote, your contributions, your hard work, your moral support and your prayers made it all possible.

As Deaf Smith County enters its second century of progress, let's all work together for the betterment of our community. Through unity and cooperation, great things are bound to happen.

Again, Janie and I thank you from the bottom of our hearts. May God Bless You.

Respectfully,
Lupe Chavez

Grandparents are Edward and Leona Schilling of Hereford and Homer and Wanda Craig of Springfield, Mo.

Public invited to bazaar

The Nazarene Christmas Bazaar is set for Saturday, Nov. 17, at First Church of the Nazarene. The public is invited to attend.

Proceeds will go to the Nazarene Christian Academy.

Among the items for sale will be various pastries including cheesecake.

Earth was thrown from the side ditches toward the center. They were called highways. Smaller private roads became known as byways.

Queen candidates now being sought

The Hereford Fiestas Patrias Committee is now looking for queen candidates for the upcoming 1991 celebration. Young Hispanic women from area communities, ages 15-22, are encouraged to participate as contestants for this historic celebration.

The queen contest is sponsored annually as a means of educating and inspiring the contestants, the Mexican-American people, and all of the Panhandle's varied cultures as to the real meaning of the Fiestas Patrias tradition, as well as the value and proud heritage of the Mexican-American culture that exists in the United States.

The contest educates the young women who participate in it by engaging them in a fund-raising project to raise scholarship money, thereby building their confidence in their own skills and talents. The education reaches a deeper level as contestants are required to explore a certain aspect of the rich Mexican-American culture. At the conclusion of the contest, the contestants become the storytellers of the people, ready to turn eyes and hearts to the identity and traits of the culture, allowing the people to reflect on where the Mexican-American people have come from, where they are now and where they are going.

The Fiestas Patrias Queen Contest is a service and a gift to Mexican-Americans of all ages—elderly, middle aged adults, teens and children—helping all to discover their heritage and assisting in maintaining the culture.

Scholarships are awarded to the four highest-ranking finalists. The queen's scholarship has been increased this year to $1,000, with the next three places receiving $700, $400 and $200, respectively.

Young women interested in participating as candidates may receive more information by attending a social at 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, in the meeting room of San Jose Catholic Church, 716 Brevard.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Virginia Artho at 364-5429.

Chamber Singers to perform during Festival of Trees

The fall concert by the Hereford Chamber Singers will be presented at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 18, at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center in conjunction with the Festival of Trees. The selections of religious music will feature the "Gospel Mass" by Robert Ray.

Other selections will include two numbers by Eugene Butler, "O Lord, Thou Hast Searched and Known Me" and "A Psalm of Assurance"; "O Praise Ye the Lord" by Dale Wood; "Were You There" by John Welch; "Mary Wore Three Links of Chain" by Joseph W. Clokey; and "Elijah Rock" by Jester Hairston.

Jan Walsler is the director of the choir and Linda Gilbert is the piano accompanist. Gene Streun is the newly elected board president and Karen Flood is the music committee chairman.

This is the 17th year for the Hereford Chamber Singers to spread "human relations through music." The group has traveled to Romania and Australia and twice to the Texas Choral Directors Association annual convention in San Antonio. Adults from all walks of life who love to sing compose the group and they are available to provide musical entertainment for various functions in the community.

BRANDED Women

By Sandy Stagner

There is a member of my family who has ailurophobia (a fear of cats) and a friend who has nyctophobia (a fear of the dark). Not to be undone, I also have some phobias, my most recent being "tobaccna-phobia" (a fear of quitting smoking).

I started thinking about my newly acquired fear when I received publicity about the American Cancer Society's 14th Annual Great American Smokeout to be observed Thursday, Nov. 15.

I've tried to quit on numerous occasions. Perhaps the reason for my failures was because I was actually afraid to quit. What would I do with my hands? How else could I spend my money more foolishly? Did I really want to be a specimen of health for all to envy?

For those of us who sincerely want to quit, the Smokeout can either be a blessing or a great frustration depending on if the smoking habit can be permanently broken.

Last year I was one of the 17.9 million Americans who participated in the Smokeout. Unfortunately, I was not among the 3.9 million who abstained from smoking for one to three days or longer. I wasn't even among the 5.2 million to give up smoking for 24 hours.

I can hear you cynics now. "She has no will power....For the money she shells out buying cigarettes, she could buy.....". The statement that really gets to me is, "She could quit if she really wanted to!"

Come on, give me a break. If I didn't really want to quit, why do I torture myself year after year trying to kick the nicotine habit? I may be nutty, but I'm not masochistic.

I've tried everything imaginable to quit smoking except hypnosis. Speaking of which, if anyone can "put me under," give me a ring.

My first really serious attempt to quit smoking was during the 1985 Smokeout. Each time I had the urge to puff I'd stick a jawbreaker in my mouth. This worked great for the first 10 hours but then I experienced lockjaw symptoms. It wasn't a pretty sight when I attempted to bite my way through a caramel-coated apple.

When the '86 Smokeout rolled around, I decided to munch on veggies whenever I wanted a smoke. While I was at work (which is where I smoke the most), I chomped my way through 27 stalks of celery, 41 carrot sticks, a head of lettuce (minus the dressing) and a fourth of a pound of radishes. When I looked in the mirror that night, I wasn't too surprised to see I had grown rabbit ears and a cute little pink button nose. I waited until my family went to bed before sneaking out to the alley for a quick puff.

I skipped the 1987-88 Smokeouts. I knew if I quit smoking those years (they were stressful, okay!), I'd resort to sucking on a lettuce cigarette. Ugh!

Initially, I had resolved not to participate in the '89 Smokeout, but several of my smoking co-workers encouraged me to give it one more try. The moral support we gave each other the first four hours was phenomenal. We had worked ourselves up into a mental frenzy. We experienced great camaraderie; we had a mission to accomplish; we were about to embark into a non-smoking world!

By the seventh hour of this adventure, our enthusiasm had greatly diminished and our exultant mood had been reduced to one of complete nastiness. Instead of speaking to each other, we growled.

My "quit smoking campaign" came to an abrupt end that day when I announced to my boss that if I were to maintain any semblance of sanity, I would have to substitute dipping snuff if I was not going to smoke. "Where would you like me to place a spittoon--on my desk, under my desk, in my desk or should I get a portable one and attach it to my waist? I smoke or I chew," I said pathetically.

I definitely, emphatically was not going to put myself through this torture again (or so I thought). I had resigned myself to the fact that I would quite literally go to my grave a nicotine addict. However, my mind was changed this past week when one of the local clergymen came into the office. I had just lit up and placed my cigarette in the ashtray when I saw him coming toward my desk. The reverend had given up smoking years ago and I knew he had little tolerance for those who indulged in this disgusting and unhealthy habit. With lightning speed, I threw the ashtray (and lit cigarette) in my desk. While I was talking to him, smoke was streaming from the drawer. I tried to act nonchalant as smoke drifted in my face.

I have decided the hassle and embarrassment of smoking is just not worth the trouble. So, I'll give the Smokeout one more try Thursday.

I'd better load up on cinnamon-flavored pacifiers. Perhaps I should also give my husband advance warning. I'll be grippier than a woman with PMS.

Thank You

The family of Matt Tucker Coberly would like to express their deepest heart felt gratitude to all the wonderful people of Deaf Smith County who have come to our aid at the time of our recent loss.

We have learned that God has instilled goodness & greatness in every living creature.

The loss of a 14 year old boy has engrained this lesson in this family.

God bless all of you..

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR
You Are Somebody

According to some artificial standards, many of us do not rate very high, but this is alright. We are still somebody. The fact that we have "being" makes us somebody. Knowing this, thinking and acting accordingly, living is going to be better for us.

Your name may not be a household word, but you are somebody just the same. You may not be wealthy, but wealth cannot make you somebody. Your name may not be in any of the social registers, but you are somebody. Your family name may not be found among the prominent names of history, but this makes no difference, you are still somebody because you are you.

You may not have some high ranking position, most of us do not. Nevertheless, you are somebody. Your work may be considered the lowest, but honorable, or it may be among the highest work, but you are somebody regardless of the work you do.

"We must be proud of ourselves instead of ashamed of ourselves; proud that we are human beings born to overcome obstacles rather than to perish under them. We must realize once and for all that we are here in this world to succeed, not fail!"-M. Maltz.

The growing technology cannot destroy the view that "you are somebody" unless you want it to be this way. Much of present-day life is impersonal, but this need not be a problem because it does not automatically destroy one's personal identity. If you lose your identity, it will be because you just give it up. Don't make this mistake.

You are somebody and should move along in your day-to-day living with your thoughts, your actions and your goals being fashioned by the best available value system.

YOUR EYES

MEDICARE AND YOUR EYES

The cost of your optometric treatment may be covered by Medicare, under certain conditions. The general rule is that eye health care services provided by a licensed optometrist -- any visit, or part of a visit - is covered, as long as it is necessitated by a health-related condition, symptom or complaint.

For instance, a history of diabetes or headaches would qualify for an eye examination that would be covered by Medicare. Or if a patient's side vision suddenly appeared blurry, it might be a symptom of glaucoma; the field test for that, and the test of the eye examination, would be covered. Testing for cataracts is a Medicare expense, as are the glasses and contact lenses required for post-cataract surgery patients.

In 29 states so far (more are considering it), optometrists may be permitted to treat eye conditions as well as diagnose them. Where this is permitted, it is also covered by Medicare.

Brown speaks to Delta Xi Chapter

"What We Know About What Students Don't Know" was the topic presented by Nina Brown of the research committee when Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met recently at the Community Center.

Brown gave statistics and other research reports to explain student performance. She was assisted by Fay Reeve who gave information about student achievement in the Friona schools.

Trends noted in the field of education are that more homework is being assigned by teachers and completed by the students, writing is being taught at every grade level of the school system, and more students are choosing to take advanced math and science courses.

A decision for the chapter's participation in the Golden Gift Fund of Delta Kappa Gamma was tabled. The fund would allow local chapter members to receive stipends for advanced study and enrichment educational opportunities.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Moment was presented by Marion Goodin, who told about the initial meeting of the society held in Austin on May 11, 1929, with Dr. Annie Webb Blanton as the founder who conceived the idea of an organization to promote the interests of women in the teaching profession. The society is now international in scope but the headquarters are still in Austin.

Ann Cummings, chairman of the legislative committee, urged every society member to vote in the Nov. 6 election because educational issues will have top priority at every level of legislative decisions.

Margaret Bell signed the Achievement Awards Memory Book as the November honoree for participation in community activities. Dorothy Brownlow of the achievements committee announced the award.

School librarian Bera Boyd announced the special plans for November involving an emphasis on reading in the Hereford schools. She said that Joe Hayes, storyteller of the Southwest, will be a feature of the week with a program planned for the evening of Nov. 15 at the Deaf Smith County Library. He will also speak at the elementary schools during that week.

The hostess committee was Ann Cummings, Thelma Alexander, Pat Montgomery, Dolores Foster, Francie Farr and Carole McGilvary.

Members attending the meeting were Alice Christman, Margaret Ann Durham, Leta Kaul, Della Stagner, Alexander, Jean Beene, Bell, Billie Birdwell, Boyd, Wana Brewer, Brown, Brownlow, Doris Bryant, Brenda Campbell, Betty Jo Carlson, Cummings, Mary Dziuk, Farr, Foster, Carol Gage, Goodin, Alta Mae Higgins, Eleanor Hudspeth, Virginia Jackson, Marilyn Leasure, Eloise McDougal, McGilvary, Julia McNaney, Betty Mercer, Lois Miller, Pat Montgomery, Ruby Mulkey, Audrey Powell, Reeve, Janie Rendon, Rose Mary Shook, Pat Sinnacher, Margot Sims, Wanda Stanley, Tana Stephens, Murlene Streun, Marie Stringer, Dorothy Szydoski, Carolyn Waters, Karen White, Louise Witkowski, Betty Sue Worthan and Cherie Zinck.

Bridge tournament Monday

Toujours Amis Study Club's annual Benefit Bridge Tournament is planned for 7 p.m. Monday at the Hereford Community Center. Tickets are priced at $5 and may be purchased from study club members. Proceeds will be used for a Hereford High School scholarship. High/low and door prizes will be given and the grand prize is a card table and chairs. Discussing ticket sales are club members, from left, Sarah Lawson, Tami Charest and Lisa Formby.

Red Cross Update

The Toys for Christmas program is underway and many previously donated toys are being cleaned and repaired. Bike parts are still needed as well as other toys.

A one family fire workshop will be held at the Lubbock Chapter Nov. 28. All interested volunteers are invited to attend the program presented by Madelyn Mercado, specialist for Region III. Preregistration is required and may be made by calling the Deaf Smith County office.

A First Aid class for persons holding a current CPR will be held Thursday at 7 a.m. at the Red Cross office. A book for the class may be picked up at the office before the class begins.

A support group for families of servicemen overseas is being formed. If you are interested in being a part of the group, call the office at 364-3761.

I would like to thank all of the volunteers that helped with the Health Fair, Halloween Carnival, and at the office. All of the volunteers would like to thank all of the United Way volunteers for their work in raising funds for our Chapter. Without their help, our volunteers would not be able to do the work they do.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Annual festival Dec. 1

The Wesley United Methodist Church has scheduled its 10th Annual Festival of Arts and Crafts Dec. 1 at the Hereford Community Center.

Selecting library books

"Books... The Other Channel" is the theme of the November reading project being observed in all schools and libraries in Deaf Smith County. The purpose of the project is to encourage students to read more and watch less television. Cody Sargent, at left, and Noe Perez, fifth graders at West Central School, select library books to check out.

Special program given

J.E. Saucedo, an attorney from Amarillo, gave a program Tuesday at Bluebonnet Intermediate School. He spoke on the importance of remaining in school as part of the dropout prevention program. He is shown visiting with Elva Devers and Bluebonnet students.

Parenting Seminar set Nov. 17

Parents are invited to participate in a special conference, "Raising Parents", set from 9 a.m. until 4:30

NEW YORK (AP) - The hunk made the grade. John F. Kennedy Jr. passed the state bar exam on his third try.

Dubbed the "Hunk Who Flunked" by New York's tabloids, Kennedy said Wednesday he learned of the news in a letter from the Board of Bar Examiners.

Kennedy, an assistant district attorney in Manhattan, would have lost his job if he had failed a third time. He will get a $3,000 raise to $33,000, and when formally sworn in as a member of the bar, will get an additional $1,000.

It was announced Friday that Kennedy had passed the Connecticut bar exam.

p.m. Saturday, Nov. 17, at First Christian Church of Amarillo, 3001 Wolfiin Ave.

The conference includes general sessions featuring authorities on all aspects of parenting skills, as well as numerous break-out sessions where parents can find out more about a specific area of interest to them.

For those wishing to attend the conference, you can contact Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County extension agent, at 364-3573.

"Raising Parents" is designed to help all types of parents, single parent, parent at home, dual career parent, or step parent.

Individual sessions include such relevant topics as peer pressure, developing self-esteem, sex education, literacy discipline, parenting from African American families, date rape, cults, adolescent suicide and child day care.

Featured speakers include Dr. Diane Welch and Dr. Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist for Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. Lynne Thibodeaus, 4-H and Youth Develop Specialist and T.A.E.S.

Here's a sharp idea: cover a piece of steel wool with cloth to make a pin cushion. It keeps the pins and needles well-honed as well.

4-H rabbit project planned

There will be an organizational meeting for anyone wishing to raise rabbits as a project at the Community Center game room at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15.

Things such as breeds of rabbits, age of rabbits for show, cost of the animals and cost of feed will be discussed. All 4-H'ers and parents interested are urged to attend.

An adult leader is needed for the project. This will be a short-term project because of the fast development of rabbits. If you think you may be interested in helping with the project, please call Wade Shackelford at the County Extension office at 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Many parents slip a banana into their youngsters' school lunch boxes. Children love the treat, and it's nutritious.

The attractive rosewood that is seen often in fine furniture, does not come from rose plants. It's the name of several types of wood of the botanical genus Dalbergia.

THE REV. SAMUEL LOPEZ FAMILY

Genetic defect may cause osteoarthritis

The inevitable result of aging—that's how doctors typically explained osteoarthritis, one of the world's oldest and most common diseases.

Osteoarthritis (osteo=bone; arthritis=inflammation of a joint) affects about 16 million Americans, most of whom are age 60 and older. It's the main reason for the more than 150,000 total joint replacement operations performed each year.

But recent studies show that heredity may help explain who gets the condition. This new perspective may change the way you and your doctor look at the disease, and it may lead to better treatments and possible prevention in the future.

The classic sign of osteoarthritis is a breakdown of cartilage, the "cushion" between two bones.

As bones rub together, osteoarthritis causes varying degrees of pain and loss of mobility; in the worst cases, it can be incapacitating. Osteoarthritis typically affects the hands and weight-bearing joints such as your knees, hips, feet and back.

Numerous factors can contribute to the development of osteoarthritis. Obesity may lead to osteoarthritis of the knees.

If you've injured your joints in an accident, while playing sports or from doing repeated motions at work, you may be a risk for the condition. Inflammation from disease, such as gout, may develop into osteoarthritis.

Genetic factors appear to contribute to osteoarthritis of the hands. According to a recent report in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, genetic defects weaken a protein called collagen II, which strengthens the protective cartilage in joints between bones.

The study looked at 19 family members who spanned three generations. The relatives with osteoarthritis had a genetic impairment of collagen II, but none of the healthy family members had the defect.

Two theories explain how genes help cause the condition:

-An abnormal release of enzymes from cartilage cells may lead to cartilage breakdown and joint destruction.

-Some people may be born with impaired cartilage, or with defects in the way joints fit together. Ageing could aggravate these defects, leading to breakdown of cartilage over time.

In the future, children and adults in families with osteoarthritis could be tested for the defective gene. People with the defect may be able to prevent or delay the onset of osteoarthritis by avoiding jobs or activities that irritate joints. Researchers may develop gene therapy or a medication to restore normal collagen II and prevent the breakdown of cartilage.

Osteoarthritis can be disabling and painful for people who have the condition and frustrating for their physicians. Most people age 60 and older show signs of the problem on a X-ray, but only about one-third have symptoms.

If you have pain and limited mobility in your hands or weight-bearing joints, see a doctor for a specific diagnosis. Regular, gentle exercise, such as swimming, can strengthen muscles and help maintain joint mobility.

Aspirin and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs are the main treatments. If you require more than minimum doses, treatment should be under a doctor's supervision. Heat and cold can bring temporary relief, and you can learn how to adjust your daily activities to protect your joints.

Corticosteroid injections can help reduce acute pain, but must be used sparingly to avoid damaging the joint.

Rev. Lopez to be honored

The congregation at First Spanish Assembly of God Church invites the public to attend Pastor Appreciation Day Sunday. The Rev. Samuel Lopez will be given special recognition during the 11 a.m. Sunday worship service and during the following banquet.

A church spokesperson explained, "We plan to use this day to express our gratitude to Rev. Lopez. We hope he will continue to pastor this church for many more years."

Rev. Lopez has been pastoring at the local church for approximately three years. For five-and-a-half years he served as pastor in Beeville, Texas. He studied at Southmost Bible College in Brownsville, Texas. He and his wife, Fela, are originally from Harlingen, Texas. They have five children including Pvt. Samuel Lopez, and Orlando, Joshua, Joel, and Merari.

The public is also invited to attend a special service at 5 p.m. Sunday at the church. Members of the Latin American Bible Institute Choir from San Antonio will be performing.

Pioneer Daniel Boone died in 1820 in Missouri. He was 85.

Gas. It's A Natural.

When it comes to doing things better for less, nothing works like gas. Naturally.

Nothing heats your home, heats your water, cooks your food, or dries your clothes as efficiently. Or as cost-effectively. Or as cleanly.

What's more, no other form of energy helps to protect our environment — or our economy — quite like natural gas. Leading scientists state that the use of natural gas can guard against many of the environmental problems facing us today. And, virtually all of the natural gas we consume in the United States is produced right here in North America.

As for reliability, when's the last time your natural gas went off?

Use natural gas for your household energy. For cleanliness, cost-efficiency and reliability, it's a natural.

Wedding planned

Patricia Rendon and Rudy Villa Jr. plan to exchange wedding vows Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Alliance Baptist Church in Lubbock.

The bride-elect is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Jose Rendon of Hereford. She is a 1989 graduate of Hereford High School and is currently employed at Sears in Lubbock.

The prospective bridegroom is the son Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Villa of Lubbock. He attended school in Lubbock and is presently employed at Friends in Lubbock.

Educational task force to sponsor AIDS conference

The Amarillo Area AIDS Educational Task Force will sponsor the conference, "AIDS in Our Panhandle Community; AIDS is Here: So Are We, Where Are You?" The conference will be presented in two sessions Nov. 15 at the Amarillo Civic Center, North Hall.

Session I is from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is targeted for the healthcare professionals, special interest groups and community leaders. Session II will be from 7-9:30 p.m. and is for the community-at-large.

More Americans will die of AIDS in 1991 than were killed in the entire Vietnam War. According to the Center for Disease Control, 1,000,000 people are currently harboring HIV infection. The conference was developed in response to the reality of AIDS in the Panhandle community.

Local and nationally recognized guest speakers will conduct the two sessions.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several days ago I received a check for $20,000, and boy, can I use it! How I came to get this great gift is a pretty wonderful story.

Back in 1944, my parents offered hospitality and friendship to dozens of servicemen who were being shipped out to the South Pacific. My brothers were in the Navy so my folks had two empty bedrooms.

After the war, many of these servicemen kept in touch with Mom and Dad through Christmas cards and letters. One man who died a few months ago remembered my parent's kindness, and in his will, he left $20,000 to them "or their surviving heirs." Since I was their only heir, the money came to me.

Isn't that beautiful? A man I never met left money to me because my parents were good to him. I remember hearing about the night Mom couldn't go to the opera, so Dad took this man in her place. He had never seen an opera before and loved it. It was "Lucia di Lammermoor" with Lily Pons and Jan Pierce. After the war, the man became very successful and was a big supporter of the opera back East.

Please don't publish my name. Just call me -- Grateful in San Francisco

DEAR SAN FRANCISCO: These days when there's so much evidence of man's inhumanity to man, a letter like yours is a marvelous upper. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I really enjoyed those comments from couples who shower together. Can you stand one more?

Early in our marriage we were taking a shower together while on vacation. Everyone in the hotel must have turned their water off at the same instant. Suddenly, a blast of scalding water shot out of the shower head. I pushed my wife as far back as possible, taking the brunt of it. When I lunged out of the shower my right foot got wedged in the toilet. The rest of me slammed into the wall -- the knob of the bathroom door raking across my back every inch of the way.

There I was, sprawled out on the floor with one foot still in the toilet, my back scalded and scraped like a carrot, muttering, "From now on we take baths."

Time does its magic and of course we are showering together again. But when couples start to tell honeymoon stories, ours tops them all. -- Flint, Mich.

DEAR FLINT: Since that column appeared I've received enough shower letters to print three a day for a week, but enough is enough and yours will be the last. Thanks for the hilarious windup.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl with a not-very-serious problem/

A guy asks for a date. He says, "I'll pick you up at 7:00 and we'll go to dinner." He doesn't get here until 7:20. He says he overslept.

Another guy says, "I'll pick you up at 8:00 and we'll go see a movie." He shows up at 8:30. He then insists that he said 8:30. We made the movie on time, but I hated being kept waiting for half an hour.

My problem is that I don't know what to say to guys when they are late. I want them to know I don't like it but I hate to ruin the evening by starting off with a complaint. Please advise. -- Lexington, Ky.

DEAR LEX: When a fellow shows up under 30 minutes late, lightheartedly point to your watch and say, "I thought maybe you stood me up." Anything beyond 30 minutes can be considered seriously tardy.

Between the Covers

BY REBECCA WALLS

Joe Hayes, the "official storyteller of the Southwest", will be speaking at 7 p.m. Nov. 17 at Deaf Smith County Library. The public is invited to attend.

Hayes was a featured storyteller at the National Storytelling Festival in 1987. In 1979, he became a full-time professional storyteller and published his first book, The Day It Snowed Tortillas, in 1982. Most of his stories relate to the folk tales of the American Indians and Spanish which were used to teach lessons to the young children. The stories are delightful in themselves, but Joe has a talent for bringing them to life. There will be an opportunity to meet and speak with Hayes following his presentation.

No Way, Jose! and Mariposa Mariposa! are two children's books by Joe Hayes that are available for checkout.

Dick Francis has a new book available now entitled Long Shot. In this story, John Kendall is a writer whose books vary from travel guide manuals to safety manuals for jungle and deserts. During the interval between the acceptance and publication of John's first novel, he must find work that will pay the bills and put food on the table. The decision to go to work at the race track seemed more of a necessity than an impulse at the time even though John knows little about racing. At this time John begins a new project of writing a biography of a racehorse trainer. John soon discovers it will take all of his skills and ingenuity to complete this new book. John's agent has said, "Impulse will kill you one of these days," and that day may be closer than John thinks.

The fans of Dean R. Koontz will be delighted with his new book Shadowfires. Rachael's violently possessive ex-husband, hideously mangled in a freak accident, disappears from the city morgue. "He's alive." Now someone, or something is watching her; calling her; stalking her. Although no one will believe her, Rachael knows who it is. His walking corpse, a grotesque mockery of life, wants her. His brilliant, warped mind once again "alive" is seething with jealous rage. Seeking an unspeakable revenge beyond Rachel's worst nightmares, he stalks her with a murderous lust that will not die. He is at the door! There is nowhere to run. Don't bother to get up, he has his own key.

Haunts by John Douglas is a first mystery novel that you will find exciting and entertaining. A November downpour soaks the Allegheny Mountains, flooding the small lowland towns of West Virginia and Maryland. Old-timer remember the big 1963 flood, but this one is just as dangerous, uprooting trees and homes and leaving people stranded in shelters. Near the old canal in Shawnee, a pile of bones is unearthed by high water. The news media picked up the story and soon Detective Edward Harter is besieged by people who claim to know the skeleton's identity. Harter has his own ideas of who it might be. The investigation takes Harter back in and a young man who tried to leave town forever, but was called back by its restless ghosts.

Lipstick On His Collar by Elizabeth Villars is about the glamorous, society bred Hallie Porter. The day that Hallie's picture appeared on the cover of Time was the day she discovered her husband was sleeping with her best friend. Suddenly the savvy woman on the New York publishing scene discovered how little she knew. It's no surprise to anyone when best friend Olivia shows her claws, but the publishing world is surprised when Hallie takes off her white gloves and begins the counter-attack. Hallie's scheme makes Olivia look like a Girl Scout as the battle rages from New York to Los Angeles.

Annual candy sale underway

The Camp Fire's annual candy sale is underway. There are three kinds of candy for sale this year as well as smoked almonds. Each is priced at $3. Proceeds from the sale, which will conclude Nov. 26, will go to the Camp Fire Council to be used for various programs. Displaying a box of candy is Peggy Daniels, Camp Fire leader, and Danielle Pesina.

THE MAINES BROTHERS BAND

Hints from Heloise

HAIR HINTS

Dear Heloise: I always had a problem with my hair becoming dry and brittle, and using conditioner each time I shampoo didn't help much.

I use style gel and set the blow dryer on High. I was told that was wrong because a hot setting can singe and over-dry hair. The setting should be on Medium.

Apply conditioner on wet hair and leave on for five minutes or so, then use a wide-toothed comb to get rid of any tangles. Shampoo and rinse well. — Hanna Broward, Ft. Myers, Fla.

SORE TOES

Dear Heloise: I have a sleep sofa and it can really be a pain when someone stubs a toe on the legs. I decided to do something about it! I bought some foam and cut it in pieces to fit around each leg and tied it on with string.

Now when people bump into it, they don't come away with a sore toe. — John Greer, Portland, Ore.

Cattle Baron's Ball scheduled Nov. 17

The second annual Cattle Baron's Ball is planned at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 17, at the SuperSaver Warehouse in Sunset Center in Amarillo. Country and western celebrity Marie Osmond will entertain at 9 p.m. followed by music from the Maines Brothers Band.

Cowboys can feast at one of nine areas, including a deep south table with Texas-style ham and biscuits, the pasta table, cajun table, feast and fowl table, the cattle baron's corral, fajita bar, vegetable market, fruit and cheese wagon and a dessert station that features 11 different delicacies.

A shoppers market awaits cowpokes and cattlemen at a specialty line-up of silent auction items. Gaming tables will allow them to test their luck.

An opportunity also exists to win a trip for two to Europe, courtesy of American Airlines.

Sponsored by the American Cancer Society, all donations will directly support Amarillo in cancer research, public and professional education and patient services.

Co-chairmen of the Cattle Baron's Ball committee include former Hereford resident, Suzanne Hewitt-Knorpp, and Cris F. Abbot.

For tickets to the 1990 Cattle Baron's Ball, call the American Cancer Society office at (806) 353-4306.

There are two novels buried in the 1939 New York World's Fair time capsule: Margaret Mitchell's Gone with the Wind, and Arrowsmith by Sinclair Lewis.

Children's books available

Children's books, furnished by God's World Book Club, will be for sale beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Community Christian School. The books will sell from $2 up with a percentage of the proceeds to be used for the new school library.

John Adams was named in 1775 to negotiate the Revolutionary War's peace terms with Britain.

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.50 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS
 Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Festival will begin Thursday

The first-ever Festival of Trees will spark the holiday mood at the Hereford Senior Center Thursday through Sunday.

The festival of trees is new to the Hereford area and should offer fun for the entire community while providing funds for the Hereford Senior Citizens Association.

Highlighting the festival will be 25 professionally designed and decorated Christmas trees, with decorations running from traditional trees to fans, dolls, teddy bears and many more imaginative ideas.

A Lionel Train exhibit will be on display Thursday through Saturday. The Herd Restaurant, in the recently-expanded center's new snack bar, live entertainment, and festival, baked goods and handcraft shoppes will also be featured Thursday through Saturday.

Children's activities throughout the festival will include surprise shopping, thumbprint ornaments, face painting, pictures with Santa and Mrs. Claus story time.

Thursday's activities will go from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with a day care celebration from 9 a.m. to noon, senior citizens' day from noon to 4 p.m., and a youth celebration from 4 to 6 p.m. Thursday night will feature a Festival Gala with catered dinner and a band on opening night. Tickets are $25 per person and must be ordered in advance at the Senior Center.

On Friday, activities will go from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. A Kindergarten celebration will be held from 9 a.m. to noon, student activities from 1 to 4 p.m., and another youth celebration from 4 to 6 p.m. A fashion show and exquisite salad bar will begin at 7 p.m. Friday at the center, and advance tickets are $5.50 per person.

On Saturday, activities will again go from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with Breakfast with Santa for youngster from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Breakfast with Santa tickets should be ordered in advance and are $3 per person. There will be live entertainment from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3:30 to 7 p.m. A Teddy Bear Tea, at $3 per person, will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m., and a teen concert will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday.

Events will conclude Sunday with a buffet lunch, at $10 per person, from noon to 2 p.m., and a festival of choirs from 2 to 5 p.m.

Clubs, schools, businesses and churches are being invited to take part as sponsors and program guests. All events are open to the public, with general admission tickets priced at $1. A family day ticket is $3, and a family pass good for general admission all four days is $10. All proceeds go to the HSCA.

THIS WEEK'S TV LISTINGS MOVIES VIDEOS INSIGHTS

Many factors make 'Cheers' a success

By Mary Ann Townsend
A certain something special has had the customers — and viewers — coming back to Cheers for eight years.

Now in its ninth season, the show celebrated its 200th episode last week with an hour-long special. The actual 200th taped episode airs Thursday, Nov. 15, on NBC.

That certain something special isn't the beer. Actor George Wendt, who plays Cheers patron Norm Peterson, confirms the stuff on the set is near beer. No, there is something more that has kept the show in the top of the Nielsens for nearly a decade.

First and foremost is the writing, as Wendt and actress Rhea Perlman, who plays saucy barmaid Carla Tortelli LeBec, agree. The team of Glen and Les Charles is hard to beat, as is director and co-executive producer James Burrows. (One of the team's past credits was the successful series Taxi.) Wendt attributes the show's success to those even further up the ladder.

"There weren't any weak links in the chain. The ultimate answer is the writing, but also it was a real good time to be at NBC, with (Grant) Tinker and (Brandon) Tartikoff allowing us to be a failure for a year and a half, two years, ratings wise. It's a good studio, Paramount. Everything just sort of fell together," he said.

The show has bounced back from some major cast changes, such as when Nick Colasanto died near the end of the third season and when Shelley Long left as her five-year contract expired.

"When Nick died, that was a big blow, a really big blow," said Perlman. "I think he was kind of the Daddy of the show. He was a great actor and he ... was the heart of the show. No one could imagine who was going to be able to take over for that part."

Woody Harrelson managed to step into the role as the naive bartender, even though the character of Woody is not the father figure Coach was.

"And (about) Shelley leaving, Kirstie just took off. It just worked, it just did," Perlman continued. "Of course everybody was scared because the show was about Sam and Diane. It was a scary thing for us all. But I guess the show was really about more than that or it wouldn't have worked. We felt it was about Sam and Diane, but it was about the bar. It was about Sam and the people at the bar."

She added that she didn't know whether the show could survive if Ted Danson left. Danson won an Emmy this year for his portrayal of Sam Malone, a former baseball player who has owned the neighborhood bar off and on through the series' duration.

One of the writers' biggest successes is the chemistry that has developed between the characters. The Cheers regulars and workers are a family that has stuck together through unforeseen situations. That, according to Burrows, was a concept the producers had from the beginning.

"The show has always been an evolutionary show," he said. "We never could predict how we would end up at the end of the year."

Perlman's character has gone through marriages, births and loved ones' deaths, but her ascerbic character has really changed very little. The actress likes that.

"I'm just real happy to have the lines to say, because in real life, I'm not real quick with lines," she said. "That's the great thing about Carla, she's always got the right thing to say at the right moment."

Ted Danson won an Emmy Award for Best Actor in a Comedy Series for his portrayal of baseball player-turned-bartender Sam Malone on Cheers. The show, which revolves around the patrons and workers at a neighborhood bar in Boston, airs its 200th episode Thursday on NBC.

Film explores public's 'right to know'

By Amy Schmidt

Some day in the not-too-distant future, Los Angeles will experience a major earthquake. Who knows when? What will happen to the city? Who will survive?

The Big One: The Great Los Angeles Earthquake explores that possibility. The four-hour miniseries airs two nights, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 11 and 12, on NBC. Joanna Kerns (Growing Pains), Dan Lauria (The Wonder Years) and Ed Begley Jr. (Parenthood) star.

Kerns plays a seismologist who predicts a major earthquake will shake the city. But city officials, fearing mass panic, refuse to disclose the information. Lauria plays Kerns' husband, an architect whose structural projects directly conflict with his wife's findings.

"A whole genre of disaster movies has been made without a moral dilemma as part of the story," says Robert M. Sertner, executive producer. "The moral dilemma in this miniseries was what got us excited about doing it. This is not Dynasty with shaking."

Said Lauria, "I think it brings up a moral issue. Seismologists can pretty much predict within a 48-hour period a major earthquake (within the context of the movie.) But it's government policy not to send out an alarm because they feel the panic would kill more people than the earthquake. So who's right and who's wrong?"

Extensive research was done with the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) to lend The Big One authenticity, and USGS personnel served as technical advisors for the story. What the filmmakers learned changed their lives:

"We all have earthquake kits, tennis shoes underneath our desks and in our trunks, supplies of water and emergency supplies at home — things that we never thought we'd really ever need until we started this project," said producer Frank Von Zerneck.

"Before doing this movie, my house was not reinforced. I'm now in the process of having it bolted down," said Kerns. "I finally got all my earthquake kits ready for the home, the cars and for my parents, too."

SOAP TALK

Terry Lester already leaving 'Santa Barbara'

By Candace Havens

If you've gotten used to seeing Terry Lester as Mason Capwell on Santa Barbara, you're going to be disappointed. Lester is leaving the show after little more than a year. The news comes as a shock to the show's executives, as well as to fans. Lester has not yet commented on what he plans to do after leaving the show. After talking with Lester a few months ago, I can't see him leaving the show unless he already had something else lined up.

Dear Candace: I was watching General Hospital the other day — I hadn't watched it in several months — and I noticed that there is a different Simone. She looks just like the girl who used to work for Paul on The Young and the Restless. Is it the same girl and if it is, where is she from? — Thanks, F.P. in Wisconsin.

Dear Reader: Stephanie E. Williams now portrays Dr. Simone Ravelle Hardy on GH. The actress was a series regular on Y&R as Amy Lewis. She played the character from 1982 to 1988. She joined GH in February, 1990.

Born and raised in St. Louis, Mo., Williams has been a dancer most of her life. She left her hometown to try her luck at a dancing career in New York. She appeared in an off-Broadway show and in the Broadway revival of West Side Story.

Williams first traveled to Hollywood in 1981 to play a key role on the TV series Fame. For a time she appeared on Fame and Y&R concurrently.

The actress is dedicated to helping the youth of America. She lectures and conducts workshops for young people in self-esteem, self-awareness and the power of self control.

Dear Candace: I, too, am outraged at the way Susan Lucci has been given the shaft! She, and particularly Ruth Warrick, hold the show together. I have watched All My Children for 19 years and never would have it if weren't for Erica. — Lois Torrance, Santa Paula, Calif.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.
