Unconfirmed Cease-Fire Reported

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - China was reported Saturday to have decided on a cease-fire in its two-week old border war with Vietnam after capturing Lang Son and other Vietnamese frontier cities. Tens of thousands of casualties were claimed on both sides.

Japan's Kyodo news service said the cease-fire decision was reported by a Chinese government official in Peking who was not identified.

The report said the official did not say when the cease-fire was to take place or when the Chinese were to pull back their troops to the Chinese side of the 450-mile-long border.

Kyodo quoted the official as saying the decision was made by the Central Military Committee of the Chinese Communist Party.

The Kyodo dispatch could not be immediately confirmed, and a State Department spokesman in Washington said, "I don't know whether it is true or

Lawsuit Hearing Scheduled

A class action lawsuit against the Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees will be considered by a federal three-judge panel March 14 in Dallas.

A hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. on that date in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas.

Irene Cantu, Agapita Cantu and Oralia Guzman filed the suit through the Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal Aid in an attempt to force the resignations of four school board members.

The suit alleges that since the board members were elected under the place system, which the U.S. Department of Justice ruled was a discriminatory election method, their 1977 and 1979 elections should be declared "null and

The suit also calls for the Hereford school district to hold an election for those four board seats at the next regular election on April 7.

The three-year terms of Sallie Strain and David Hutchins will expire in April, and the board has called for an at-large on to fill those two positions. In addition, voters will fill a one-year unexpired term created by the resignation of Paul Ramirez last year.

Ramirez has again announced for the school board.

The school district resolved recently to change to an at-large system because a federal three-judge panel last August ordered Hereford to discontinue the place

The judges' ruling signalled an apparent end to the school district's two-year fight with the Justice Department over the place system, which the federal government said might be discriminatory to minority voters and candidates.

The budget calls for the continuance of the $1.10 per tax rate $100 valuation and provides an across-the-board seven percent salary increase for city employees.

The city's operating budget for 1979-80 will increase from $2.1 million in 1978-79.

Commissioners in other business Monday will hear a request from Opportunity Plan Inc. representatives to make the commission a sponsoring agent for a college student loan program, passan ordinance on third reading which allows Pioneer Natural Gas Co. to charge for laying 75 feet of line, discuss new gasoline storage tanks for the fire and police departments and hear an update on construction of a new city hall.

Work on the city hall is progressing on schedule, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne, who is hoping for completion of the $754,000 structure by late November.

The report came after Bangkok intelligence sources confirmed that Lang Son, 80 miles north of Hanoi and 10 miles south of the Chinese border, was occupied by the Chinese on Friday after the Vietnamese evacuated and took up artillery positions in surrounding hills.

In addition to Lang Son, the sources said the Chinese had taken Ha Giang, capital of Ha Tuyen province, as well as the towns of Dong Dang-in Lang Son province and Lao Cai in northwestern

"The Vietnamese abandoned Lang Son and surrounded the town and are using artillery on the Chinese. It seems to me the Vietnamese just gave up the town and were content to stay in the hills surrounding Lang Son."

But the source, who asked not to be identified, said, "Since the Vietnamese are in the hills surrounding the town and using artillery on the Chinese, they may still have the strategic advantage.

Lang Son has guarded the invasion routes from China for centuries, and Vietnam claimed earlier that its troops killed almost 2,500 Chinese soldiers in fighting around the city.

The Vietnamese also claimed 27,000

Chinese casualties overall in the first 12 days of fighting, and the Chinese were said to have put Vietnamese casualties at least 16,000 several days ago.

The claims were impossible to verify. Some analysts in Bangkok also noted a drop-off in the scale of fighting over the past few days, possibly indicating a prelude to Chinese withdrawal.

USDA Denies Quotas Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Besieged by telephone calls and rumors that President Carter had lifted meat import quotas for 1979, the Agriculture Department finally had the last word on the false reports.

The department announced late Friday the allocation of 1.57 billion pounds of meat, mostly beef for hamburger, that selected foreign countries can send to the United States this year.

President Carter announced the 1979 total import level on Dec. 29 at 1.57 billion pounds, the same as the allocation announced by the department.

Reports circulated earlier that Carter had lifted all meat import restraints for this year. Those were false, department

What happened was this:

Carter, as he did last year, decided to allow more beef into the country than a formula in a 1964 meat import law would allow in 1979.

So he decided to again use "voluntary restraint" agreements with the supplying countries to allow some more meat to enter but still keep the 1979 import total from getting out of hand.

By law, to do this, the president first must proclaim quotas for the year and then suspend them in order to make way for the larger imports indicated by the agreements with the foreign countries.

On Monday, Feb. 26, Carter signed a proclamation to do just this. It was

But the document did not spell out the reason for the import quota suspension, only that Carter had done it.

This prompted some readers, and some others who were told about it, to conclude that he had lifted all import restrictions. something that would infuriate U.S.cattle producers who are seeing record prices for their stock.

Department officials said they had numerous telephone calls about Carter's

Grazing Proposal Revealed

The intent to initiate a special having and grazing program for 1979 wheat, as provided in the 1977 Farm Bill, was announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in the Feb. 26, Federal R gister. According to the announcement, plans are to allow producers of wheat, feed grains and cotton to "hay or graze-out" up to 40 percent of their normal crop acres as wheat pasture, deduct the graze-out acres from the total normal crop acres before figuring the crop set-aside, and maintain their eligibility for payments equal to those that might be paid on "harvested acres."

Otis Harman, Tulia, President of the Texas Wheat Producers Association said. "The Association has been working with USDA even prior to the 1979 wheat set-aside program announcement last fall to get these provisions included and are now still trying to get some modifications. made during the ten-day public comment period provided, ending March 8." Harman went on to say that, "We regret that USDA is waiting to this late date to announce the program as many cattle have already been contracted for March delivery, precluding their grazing out (See GRAZING, Page 2)

Leaders Seek To End Stalemate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Following a Sabbath break, President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin were scheduled to try again Saturday night to find a way out of the stubborn stalemate blocking Mideast peace talks.

Their first two conferences. Thursday and Friday, yielded no sign of a breakthrough. In fact, these sessions sparked speculation that Begin, who arrived here talking tough, actually might have hardened his position.

"We will certainly make an effort to explore ways, ideas, to bridge the gap," said a subdued White House official who asked not to be named.

It was known that the two leaders had intended to hold a third meeting Friday afternoon if their initial talks proved promising. Instead, Carter met with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and other advisers to review the impasse.

U.S. officials, appearing glum, announced that Carter and Begin would not meet formally again until Saturday With their wives and other officials, competing Texas retailers has organized to make a concerted effort to win legislative repeal of the state's so-called

"We no longer wish to be asked to enforce a law our customers don't want," said Lawrence M. Turner of Kroger Co., acting as spokesman for the group, "Retailers for Repeal of the Blue

He said participating companies will provide the means and instructions for customers to contact their state senators and representatives.

The new group, however, does not have unanimous support among retailers. In a message supporting the blue law, the Retail Merchants Association of Houston. called upon its members to place posters in employee lounges asking, "Do you want to work on Sunday?"

Turner called the ploy a "scare tactic." He said the aim of his group's drive is to have consumer opinion heard on the blue law, which prohibits the sale of certain products on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

Turner said the initial 2,500 companies participating in the program operate approximately 4,000 stores statewide. The companies involved range in size from large chains to small, local stores.

"Our sole purpose is to allow consumers to be heard in Austin, thus combating the apathy that previous state legislatures have shown in regard to the blue law," Turner said. "Until now, it is the retailers and their employees who have had to bear the burden of consumer dissatisfaction and opposition to the legislation. "Quite frankly," Turner added in a statement, "we are tired of trying to explain to customers what we ourselves don't understand - why you can buy a hammer but not nails, a blank tape but not a record, shoelaces but not shoes, or beer but not a baby bottle in Texas on Sundays."

Turner said retailers are "tired of being asked to enforce a law that makes no sense, is difficult to interpret and which most of our customers resent."

Regulations To Increase Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Get ready to dig deeper into your wallet. Gasoline prices are going up, perhaps as much as 14 cents a gallon by the end of next year.

New regulations that could boost prices a nickle a gallon were revealed Friday by the Department of Energy. And this is in addition to the 9-cent hike anticipated from risking world oil prices and other factors over the next two years.

Oil companies were unwilling to comment Friday on when prices might begin to change because of the new rule, but some increases could come immediatev.

While gasoline prices will be heading upwards, the complex new "tilt" regulation could benefit some Americans by defusing price increases for other petroleum products, such as home heating oil.

Officials had sought to decontrol oil prices altogether last year, but inflation and the shortages caused by the Iranian cutoff have discouraged this.

A 1978 analysis estimated that if price controls were continued, prices would rise 9 cents in two years. The tilt rule would add 3.4 cents to the nine cents while complete decontrol would add 3.8

Doug Robinson, author of the Energy Department analysis, said the 3.4 cent estimate was probably on the conservative side because of developments in' Iran, but added that the department believes the maximum increase oil companies could impose on consumers under the tilt rule would be 5.1 cents over the next two years.

Including 9 cents added by increases from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and other factors, this could raise average gasoline prices to 82 cents per gallon for regular to nearly 89 for premium, based on recent American Automobile Association price

The new rule is called a "tilt" regulation because it allows the refiners to tilt the impact of price increases. This will result in gasoline prices going up more than other petroleum products to compensate for the extra costs of producing unleaded gasoline.

Before the rule took effect, oil companies had to allocate their production cost among all their products. even if much of the expense was related to a single item, such as unleaded

Now, however, the extra costs of making unleaded gasoline will be added only to gasoline prices, not those of other products. Oil companies have complained of the high costs of producing unleaded gas, required in most new cars as an anti-pollution measure. Price controls on gasoline and other products had prevented increases to cover the cost of converting refineries to unleaded production, the refiners complained. "The tilt should provide the industry with the incentive that will encourage it to implement plans now on the drawing board for expanding gas manufacturing capability, especially for unleaded," said

Iranian Oil Due To Arrive in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) - A supertanker loaded with Iranian oil - the first shipment since civil strife shut down Iran's petroleum industry - should arrive at an American port in about three weeks, says Ashland Oil Inc.

Ashland said Friday it has become the first American company to resume buying oil from Iran. It said its tanker would be loaded Wednesday.

The tanker's destination has not yet been determined, Ashland chairman Orin E. Atkins said in a telephone interview from Houston.

The oil agreement is an apparent coup for Ashland, which is not a member of the 14-company consortium that marketed 80 percent of Iran's oil for the past 25 years.

Earlier this week, Hassan Nazih, the new Iranian oil chief, said Iran no longer would deal with the consortium, whose members include British Petroleum, the Royal Dutch-Shell Group of Companies and Exxon Corp.

But he said the government-owned National Iranian Oil Co. was prepared to deal with foreign oil companies individually. The country's oil industry has been shut down or on limited production for four months.

Officials of Ashland, the nation's 15th largest oil company with sales totaling $5.4 billion last year, were tight-lipped about how they negotiated with the Iranians, saying only that the government's oil company had "selected

Amin Threatened In Uganda Fighting

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Ugandan rebels and invading Tanzanian soldiers are threatening the iron rule of Ugandan President Idi Amin, who has mobilized police, prison guards and retired soldiers to defend his eight-year-old regime from the attacking forces.

Amin told thousands of police and prison officials in a broadcast Friday to defend the nation, and civilian trucks and buses were reported carrying soldiers from northern areas to reinforce Kampala, the capital.

The attackers were reported striking from the east and south, tightening a ring around Amin, but residents in Kampala said life was normal and there was no move to evacuate the 3,000 foreigners, including 130 Americans, from the capital.

The attackers apparently captured Tororo, 75 miles east of Kampala, on Friday and cut road and rail links to Kampala, preventing the flow of military and other supplies to the capital. Witnesses said the battle for Tororo left 50 persons dead, most of them civilians.

One Tororo resident said by telephone the barracks of Amin's 1,000-man air-amphibious battalion were set ablaze and that there was damage to the town itself.

Some reports said the Tororo fighting was touched off by mutiny in the barracks but others said a guerrilla force landed on the shores of nearby Lake Victoria and marched to the town, driving off dispirited troops.

Clements Announces Russian Visit Plans

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements said Friday he will lead a Texas "People to People" delegation to Russia this year out won't go to China on a trade mission before 1981.

Clements, who discussed a trade mission Feb. 19 with Han Hsu, a Chinese diplomat, laid to rest in emphatic terms speculation he would go to China this

"I am not going to China in 1979. I may very well consider it in 1981...I don't want to go in 1980 because I have other plans. I am sure Mr. Carter would like me to go to China in the fall of 1980," Clements said.

He referred to his role in campaigning for the Republican presidential ticket in the 1980 elections.

"My decision is I am going to Russia," he said at his weekly news conference.

The governor said the People to People organization sponsored by the Eisenhower Foundation asked him in January to lead a Texas delegation to Russia. He said the trip probably would take place

Pinto Fire Caused By Unmodified Tank

HOUSTON (AP) - A Ford Motor Co. spokesman says the gasoline tank of a Pinto which burst into flames after a freeway collision, killing two men, had not been modified.

The spokesman said Ford sent a team to Houston after the Monday crash and determined the modifications called for in last year's recall of 1.5 million Pintos and Bobcats had not been made.

Ernest Theodore Hafti, 33, Houston the driver, died in the crash. Abel Alaniz, 27, Rio Grande City, a passenger, died Tuesday from burns over 95 percent of his body.

Investigators said the early morning crash occurred as the Pinto was moving the wrong way on the right shoulder of the eastbound freeway. Police said an eastbound pickup truck struck the Pinto's right back fender and struck the car again in the rear after the initial impact had spun it around. The police report said the explosion occurred after the second impact.

The truck driver received only minor injuries.

Ford reported last month about 800,000 of the 1.2 million recall notices had brought no response from owners.

The Chamber ... and You _

By F. MICHAEL CARR Executive Vice President MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Thanks to each and every member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. The investment you have made in the future of our county is very important. It is a necessity that your investment always continues to work for you.

The Chamber is proud to have the strong membership that we have in our community. Membership in the Chamber will ensure that the Hereford area will continue its growth with the quality that will enable it to be a better place to live and work.

We will work toward doing what is necessary to keep the economic conditions at a level so we can maintain our standard of living. With the dedication that the Chamber membership has shown, we will work toward the goals that must be accomplished.

New members are important to the Chamber. This week our Membership Committee headed by Mike Patrick, will kick-off the 1979 Membership Drive. The Chamber of Commerce would like to ask any businesses and individuals not already members to seriously consider a Chamber membership. We want everyone to be a part of making Hereford grow in strength.

If you're involved in agriculture, retail, or an individual and interested in Hereford's progress, let's work together - you and the Chamber. SPORTS

This weekend is Super Sports Weekend which will begin with the high school tennis tournament at the high school. The towns involved include Clovis. Borger, Memphis, Plainview, Canyon, Lubbock, Pampa and Hereford.

This is the beginning of what will be a very active sports month for Hereford. March 15-17 will be the dates of the final weekend of Super Sports Weekend. Twenty area towns will be in Hereford to participate in the golf, track, and baseball tournaments. Let's show all these people the Hereford hospitality we're known for.

The Chamber of Commerce feel fortunate to sponsor these sports events and appreciates the hard work of John Fuston, our sports committee chairman, and the Hereford High School coaching staff. Don Cumpton and his staff deserve credit for the organization of the sports events.

If you would like to help on the Super Sports Weekend, call the Chamber office.

DALLAS (AP); - Company said Ponder. officials say they will continue Blue Cross of Texas' prepaid prescription program despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the plan is not exempt from federal antitrust laws.

"We are confident that our prepaid prescription drug insurance program and our pharmacy agreements will be determined to be legal and proper in every respect," said Jack Ponder, a Blue Shield vice president.

An antitrust suit was filed by 18 San Antonio drugstores against Blue Shield and drugstores participating in itsprescription drug dispensing program.

Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, in his majority opinion, wrote that although the company's program may not be exempt from antitrust laws, it is not necessarily illegal.

"While we obviously do not agree with the majority opinion and are concerned with the possible impact of this decision on our cost containment efforts. we do not believe this opinion creates any cause for alarm."

He said the insurance company's lawyers would study this week's 5-4 decision by the high court to determine if the company will file for a rehearing.

The suit against Blue Shield was filed by a group of small, independent drugstores who charged the arrangement amounted to price fixing banned by the McCarran-Ferguson Act of 1945.

The federal trial judge decided the arrangement fell under a major loophole in the law, exempting "the business of insurance." But the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that such agreements were not immune from antitrust agreements, and that ruling was affirmed this week by the Supreme Court.

Under the plan, Blue Shield policyholders are entitled to pay no more than $2 for each prescription when purchasing drugs from a participating pharmacy. The pharmacy then bills Blue Shield for the remainder of the prescription plus a "dispensing fee."

If a policyholder goes to a non-participating drug store, he must pay the full price of the prescription, then file a claim to Blue Shield. He is reimbursed for only 75 percent of the cost above $2.

'Correct' a Must

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

When newspaperpeople make a mistake, they usually correct it.

But, even a mistake that has been corrected does something to the trust readers have placed in their newspaper. Accuracy is demanded.

It's not a unique situation. Other professions seek people's trust, and mistakes should be corrected.

Take attorneys, for example. Ethical codes must be followed because people demand it. The federal government thought it so important for attorneys to be ethical that it devised laws to ensure their integrity.

One of those laws makes it a crime for someone to misrepresent a situation in a document to the federal government.

It applies to everyone, but particularly to attorneys because they are the document writers of America.

The law brings to mind the recent antics of the Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal Aid. I am not accusing TRLA of intentionally making false statements to the Justice Department. But there are statements contained in letters to the Justice Department concerning the Hereford school system and city government which just aren't correct.

Intentional? Probably not. Irresponsible? Probably. Anyway, since accuracy is demanded of attorneys, the errors should be corrected. And, when it's Congress appropriating the funds for these attorneys to operate, it's doubly important for them to be accurate.

I could use this paragraph to point out a few of the errors. I won't, because they have already been pointed out to the lawyers.

When The Brand makes a mistake it is simply handled with a correction on the second page and sometimes a statement of regret. It will be interesting to see how TRLA handles its corrections.

Speaking of legal aid, how about this ad in the March issue of Texas Bar Journal?--East Texas Legal Services, Inc., seeking managing attorneys for Longview and Tayler offices. Salary $19,000 plus, depending on experience. Position open until filled. General priority areas include housing, health, consumer, government benefits, and employment law. Supervises staff of six attorneys, paralegals, and support staff. Administrative assistant employed to supervise clerical staff and assist in administrative matters. Minimum of three years' experience in poverty-related legal practice, with some administrative experience preferred. Admission or availability to take next Texas bar exam. Sensitivity to the needs and problems of the poor and a demonstrated commitment to further-the interests of the poor through high quality impact litigation. Excellent fringe benefits, pension plan, and moving expenses reimbursed.

A bill introduced Jan. 31 in the state House of Representatives calls for financial statements from candidates for school boards, city councils, county commissions and hospital district boards.

Nothing is sacred any more when it pertains to a candidate for public office. Although the concept of House Bill 731--the public's right to know all about the individuals it is voting for-seems commendable at first glance, the bill if it is passed will discourage a peck of good people from running for local office.

Integrity is crucial for a candidate, whether he is seeking a local, state or federal office. However, on the Hereford level of politics, intelligence, commonsense, fairness and all of the other qualities which would qualify a person for the Boy Scouts are more important than the public knowing his dollars and cents.

The bill has a good chance for passage. How many state legislators would vote against a bill which says it is important for politicians to reveal what might be conflicts of interest?

Conflicts of interest are usually local in nature when they are committed by candidates for local office. And local conflicts of interest tend to be obvious to voters anyway.

Local candidates, you see, live in tinted glass houses. Scraping off the tint serves no useful purpose.

Back School Week

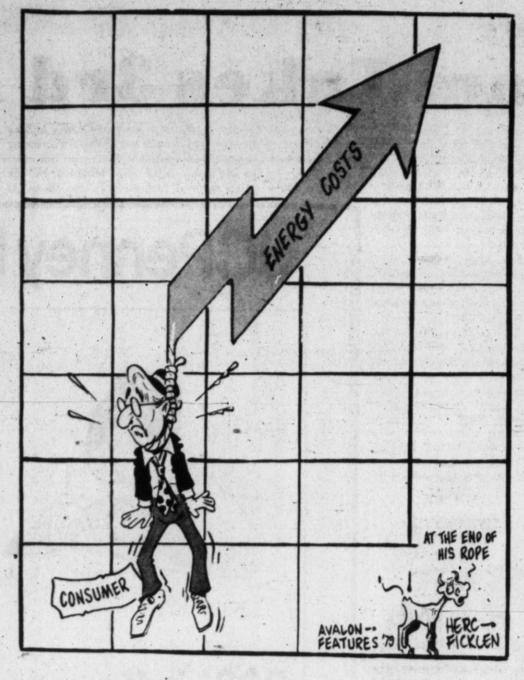

The need for the public school never changes, but times and conditions may change or require to be changed methods and practices of public education. This is inherent with anything that grows, for growth is the result of change.

Our Texas public schools were created 125 years ago. In 1854 the first law was passed establishing the public school.

It is a healthy thing in our democratic way of life to have intelligent understanding of the important functions of our basic institutions. This is especially true of the schools. The initiative and resourcefulness and the wisdom and leadership that our schools are inculcating in the youth of today are the answer of the problems of citizenship in the years ahead.

Yes, "bring me men to match my mountains." That is the need of our times and must come from the public schools-schools that are strong in virtues required for building strong men and

We can be assured of this and do our part in understanding and helping the public schools to fulfill their great obligation to our times by being a participant in the annual Public Schools Week March 5 through March 9, 1979. Schools will hold open house; accept their hospitality, and you will enjoy the experience of going back to school-if but for a day.

There's a cheaper way. Scientists have perfected a camera so powerful it can, while orbiting the earth 150 miles up, photograph clearly the license number of a car moving along a highway in Russia.

All right. Set up a post with an electric-eye beam shining across a highway., Fifty feet down the road set up another one, wired back to the first one with a timer. Once a week collect the film, develop it, and take it to the judge.

It wouldn't be necessary to have a camera every few miles. Just the posts and a dummy people are good at long division, camera every so often, with real and which phony, would do the job. I see only one flaw in this.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt announced his New Deal program in an inaugural address.

On this date:

In 1789, the first U.S. Congress convened in Federal Hall in New York City but had to adjourn because there was not a quorum.

In 1791, Vermont became the 14th state.

In 1917, Republican Rep. Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman to serve in Congress.

In 1971, terrorists in Turkey kidnaped four U.S. airmen and threatened to shoot them unless ransom of $400,000 was paid. It was not paid and the fliers were released five days later.

Ten years ago: A bombardment of Saigon left 22 civilians dead, scores wounded.

Five years ago: Laborite Harold Wilson took over as prime minister of Britain.

One year ago: The nation's Northeast had a big snowstorm with as much as 8 inches in the New York City area.

Today's birthdays: Symphony conductor Bernard Haitink is 50. South African singer Miriam Makeba is 47.

Thought for today: The truth is found when men are free to pursue it - President Franklin Roosevelt.

The audience, sure enough, was almost exclusively school -

Son Paul had promised I would be fascinated by the manner in which the cast was introduced and the credits rolled at the opening of the film. I was. It was breathtaking electronic wizardry.

Then, more than halfway through the movie, when Superman is responding to questions from the lady reporter, son Paul leaned over and said, "Here it comes: get ready for a surprise."

I was ready - but it was still a surprise.

Fighting with Paper Tigers

President Carter's much publicized war on paperwork seems to have gotten bogged down in -- I'll bet you can't guess -- more paper. First it was the Cabinet Secretaries rebelling against his order to read all those regulations emanating from their departments. Takes too much of our time, they protested. We're suppored to be doing productive work. Then bureaucrats by the thousands emerged from behind their files and launched a massive counterattack assaulting the public with every kind of federal rule, form, regulation, guidelines, directive and data sheet. Consider how one-sided this war has become: The Administration claims to frave reduced paperwork overall Agency makes this same claim for its agency. But other sources contradict EPA's claim and show it actually increased paperwork for business and state and local governmens by 21 percent in the first nine months of the Carter Administration, and then by another nine percent in the next six months.

It now takes three times as long to gain the government's approval to construct just one electric power plant as it did for the entire country to mobilize and fight World War II.

There are 164 federal regulatory agencies which have jurisdiction over hospitals, of which 25 review admittance procedures, 31 regulate patient safety and 33 regulate patients' rights. It costs hospitals $35 per patient per day just to comply with paperwork.

And then there is the famous case of the now defunct Paperwork Commission. Charged with stopping the paper blitz, the Commission spent two years, $9.5 million, while holding hearings in 19 cities and conducting 36 studies to find out how. Result? The Commission left a rather staggering list of 799 recommendations, including a plan to create a big new cabinet-level bureaucracy--the Department of Administration-which would ideally coordinate. all government information gathering.

Why is this problem so intractable? Two reasons. When the public demands more government spending and more programs, as it consistently has done for decades, then new regulations must be written-regulations which only lead to more paperwork and bureaucratic growth. That's why the average family must now spent $675 a year just for air and water pollution controls. This figure could go as high as $1,400 by 1985. Some estimates calculate the total cost for all regulations at $2,000 per year per family.

control independent bodies such as the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Consumer Products Safety Commission and the Federal Trade Commission. And now, even his influence over agencies within the Executive Department, like OSHA, has been undermined by a court suit brought on by the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union. Certain members of the White House felt that an absolute adherence by industry to OSHA's cotton dust standards was both unachievable and inflationary. This attitude angered the union which believes OSHA has authority to promulgate health and safety standards.

Obviously, people who have spent entire careers luxuriating in the power of these bureaucratic empires are not about to give it all up without a fight. If we really want to return the government to the people, then strong measures are needed. I propose four: First, rule-making excesses of agencies and commissions must be curbed. Congress must be and the Environmental Protec- contrary to the public interest.

staffs regulatory agencies should be severely limited, and each agency should be abolished after a pre-determined period if it cannot justify its continued

Third, agencies should be required to prove that "benefits" of proposed regulations merit the costs. Consumers must currently pay approximately $600 for mandated regulations each time they purchase a new car. Do they have a choice? Is government really protecting consumers when it pushes environmental standards adding to the weight of automobiles, thereby increasing their fuel consumption, while simultaneously moving to better.

raise taxes on automobiles that weigh too much and consume too much fuel? Either way the government wins; either way you, the motorist, lose.

Finally, it is time to start dealing with this whole problem with greater consistency. That means the President must stop denouncing regulations in one breath, while advocating increasing the budget for regulatory agencies by 11.7 percent, backing a new Department of Education, a Department of Natural Resources, a so-called Consumer Protection Agency and expanded powers for the Department of Energy in another.

And it means the leaders of given veto power when it the business community must concludes a rule or regulation is do more than defend the principles of free competition, they must also live up to them Granted, that is more difficult, but, unless each of us learns that government can never give without first taking away, then we may all wind up with nothing. The great historian Gibbon described how this happened in ancient Greece:

> "In the end, more than they wanted freedom, they wanted security. They wanted a comfortable life and they lost it all--security, comfort and freedom. When the Athenians finally wanted not to give to society, but for society to give to them, then Athens ceased to be free."

HOUSTON (AP) - Like a rematch of heavyweight championship contenders, the Texas Longhorns and Arkansas Razorbacks met tonight in the rubber match of their on and off the court struggles for Southwest Conference basketball supremacy.

Texas, which shares the SWC regular season title with Arkansas, took advantage of Houston's first half, sluggishness Friday night en route to a 70-65 victory in one semifinal game of the SWC basketball tournament before a sellout crowd of 15,449 in the summit.

Arkansas, fueled by the wizardry of All-American Sidney Moncrief, blew out Texas Tech in the first half and then hung on for a 93-77 victory in the other semifinal contest to set up a third emotional confrontation tonight for the tournament title.

At stake is the right to represent the SWC in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship playoffs although both teams could receive NCAA invitations in the expanded format.

Arkansas and Texas split a pair of tense regular season games, including a face-to-face confrontation between Texas Coach Abe Lemons and Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton in the second meeting at Austin.

Lemons and Sutton squared off after Sutton chided Texas guard John Moore at halftime for his conduct during the first

Both coaches down played any personal motives for wanting to win the game but Lemons gave a hint of his feelings following the victory over Houston.

"I like to win like anybody else but if I had my druthers, I like it to end in a tie," Lemonssaid. "Guy (Houston Coach Guy Lewis) is a friend and I don't get any satisfaction out of beating a friend. Now there are some people I might get pleasure out of beating but Guy's not one of them."

Sutton similarly sidestepped the issue.

"There's a lot of people building this up more than it should be," he said. "When you are playing for the championship you can have only so much emotion. We're just playing for the championship.

"I don't think it will be any more emotional than if we were playing Gerald's (Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers) team or anyone else in the league."

By halftime in each of the semifinal games, there was little doubt that it would be an Arkansas-Texas rematch.

Houston shot only 37 percent from the field and Ken "Juice" Williams, the Cougars' sharp-shooter, had only seven points as Texas moved to a 40-29 halftime bulge.

Tech, which upset Texas A&M in Thursday's quarter-finals, got off to an even worse start hitting only 33 percent and Arkansas jumped to a 36-22 halftime lead.

Texas' offense geared down in the second half against the Cougars, defending tournament champions, but Ron Baxter with 19 points and Moore with 16 points, provided enough scoring power to gain the finals.

Houston's Williams heated up in the second half once again and finished with 25 points but it wasn't enough.

Tech trailed 23-8 at one point in the first half against Arkansas. The Red Raiders pulled within eight points in the second half but the Hogs ran off nine straight points to keep control.

Moncrief, the Razorbacks' leading scorer, hit only one basket in the first half but contributed four assists and had nine rebounds. He started shooting in the second half and finished with 21 points.

"My teammates were contributing to the offense and getting into the flow of the game so I didn't see any reason to force anything," said Moncrief. "I don't like to force anything and there wasn't any reason to force it."

U.S. Reed scored a career high 22 points for Arkansas and attributed it all to maturity. "I just know the game a lot better now," Reed said.

Moore, the central figure in the last Texas-Arkansas controversy, isn't anticipating any extra emotion against the Razorbacks.

"I can't moan over spilled milk," Moore said. "I'm just worried about winning this tournament. I don't have any personal vendetta

U.S. Edges Soviets

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) -The United States swept the top four places in the final event and defeated the Soviet Union by a scant 47 points in the first indoor septathlon competition between the two countries, a two-day event completed Fri-

The United States trailed by 246 points going into final event, the 1,000 meter run. But Grant Niederhaus won it in a time of 2:34.2, and Mike Hill, John Crist and Mauricio Bardales completed the sweep.

That gave the United States a total of 32,932 points for the seven-event competition to 32,885 points for the Soviets.

Other American winners were Fred Samara, long jump. 24-734; Lee Palles, high jump, 7-1, and Bob Coffman, 60-meter dash, 6.97 seconds, and 60-meter hurdles, in 7.96.

Victor Gruzenkin of the Soviet Union won the pole vault at 15-5 and was the overall individual winner with 5,649 points.

In a three-way women's pentathlon competition held Friday, the Soviets won with 16,891 points, the United States was second with 15,887 and Canada was third with 15,091.

The only American winner was Linda Waltman, who took the 800-meter run in 2:16.8.

Ekaterina Smirnova of Soviet Union, who won the 60-meter hurdles in 8.45 seconds and the shot put at 44-10, was the individual champion of the five-event competition with 4,348 points.

Birdsong Leads SWC Team

HOUSTON (AP) - University of Houston All-American Otis Birdsong, who compiled a career scoring average of 28.1 points per game, has been named Southwest Conference basketball player of the decade in a poll of SWC sports writers and sportscasters.

Birdsong, who played for the Cougars in 1975-77, received 22 of 43 first place votes in the balloting, announced during the SWC post-season basketball tournament at the Summit

Arkansas' Sidney Moncrief and Ron Brewer tied for second place in the voting with a total of 279 points compared to Birdsong's point total of 389. Moncrief, named last week to the Associated Press All-American team, had 10 first place votes and Brewer had six.

Rounding out the top 10 in the balloting were: Rick Bullock, Texas Tech, 231 points; Gene Phillips, Southern Methodist, 221; Sonny Parker, Texas A&M 205; Ira Terrell, SMU / 195; Larry Robinson, Texas, 146; Vinnie Johnson, Baylor, 106 and Marvin Delph, Arkansas, 91.

Training

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Longhorns kicked off spring football practice Friday with 34 of the 38 lettermen expected back next fall.

A two-hour workout was held in partial pads.

'We're concentrating on our starts, splits, stances and conditions - basic fundamentals for awhile." Coach Fred Akers said. "We won't put on full pads until Monday."

Akers added that an off-season conditioning program helped keep the Longhorns in excellent shape.

Three of the four lettermen not present are injured while a fourth, flanker Johnny "Lam" Jones, is not in school for spring semester.

The injured 1978 lettermen are linebacker Lance Taylor, defensive tackle Steve Massey and offensive guard Alan Williams.

The next workout was scheduled for Saturday morn-

The team will work six days next week, then take off a week for the spring holidays.

Practice resumes March 19 with two more six-day weeks scheduled before the final Orange and White game March Early American

Allison Upset With Verdict

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) "It's still not completely fair, but it's fairer than it was. It still doesn't win the Daytona 500 forme," Donnie Allison muttered,

The National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing announced Friday that it had decided to spread the blame equally between Allison and Cale Yarborough for the last lap erash that cost them both a chance to win at Daytona two weeks ago.

An angry Yarborough told an official of NASCAR that he would appeal the new ruling.

In a decision announced Feb. 20 by NASCAR Competition Director Bill Gazaway, the sole blame was placed on Allison. who was leading that last lap. for putting an unorthodox block on Yarborough that resulted in a crash. Allison got six months probation while Yarborough was exonerated.

However, Allison, his brother Bobby and Yarborough were each fined $6,000 for fighting after the race.

However, the National Stock Car Racing Commission, which convened last Monday to hear an appeal by the Allisons on the matter, judged that "the accident was a result of two competitors' errors in judgment and not solely the fault of Donnie Allison.

Based on the commission's recommendations, Allison's probation period was cut in half and Yarborough was also given a matching three months probation. The fines were all upheld.

Allison's mood, not helped by his crash in practice Friday morning for the Rockingham 500, was noticeably improved by the action. He celebrated with a round of golf in the afternoon.

Yarborough, who claimed he was an innocent victim of malicious double-teaming by the Allisons, was greatly upset by the reversal.

The three-time national champion told NASCAR official Ray Hill he would appeal. Hill informed him an appeal would have to be made within 30 days. Hill said no written appeal had been filed by the end of action at the track

"It's not fair. I'm not guilty," Yarborough said angrily.

Gifford's Condition Stable

NEW YORK (AP) - Sportcaster Frank Gifford's 24-year-old son, injured in a one-car collision that killed two other persons, remained in serious but stable condition today after being transferred to a third hospital.

Kyle Gifford of Scarsdale, N.Y., underwent several hours or surgery Friday morning at Englewood, N.J. Hospital with skull and internal injuries. a hospital spokesman said.

He was later transferred to Hackensack, N.J., Hospital, where he received special skull X-rays, said spokesman Ed Goren. Gifford then went to New York Hospital in the early afternoon, at the request of his family doctor, Goren said.

The accident occurred Thursday afternoon when the automobile Gifford was riding in ran off the Palisades Interstate Parkway in New Jersey.

Vega In Class A Finals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Larue La Poynor jumped into the Class A schoolboy basketball finals Friday and will meet the "Happy Days" team from Vega for the championship.

Class 4A semifinal games matching Houston Madison and Lufkin and Austin Lanier against Fort Worth Dunbar filled out Friday's schedule.

La Poynor hauled down an incredible 74 rebounds in demolishing Hull-Daisetta, 8154, and Vega upset Big Lake Reagan County, 67-60, in firstround A contests.

Billy Douglas, a 5-foot-10 senior who can leap and stretch his hand above the basket, dazzled spectators with behindthe-back passes and poured in 31 points for La Poynor.

During a 10-minute period of the second half, Douglas tallied 23 of La Poynor's 30 points and passed for another basket. He broke the Hull-Daisetta press by dribbling through three defend-

The entire Hull-Daisetta team rebounded only 32 missed shots. Its scoring leader was Gregory Johnson with 15 points, finished with 32 points. Reagan County had 20 more rebounds than Vega, which won despite a poor 9 of 24 performance from the free throw line: Reagan County lost. the ball 17 times, and Vega converted the miscues into 23 points. Vega had only five

Losses Possibly Fatal To Teams' Chances

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

For Notre Dame, a loss Friday was little more than embarrassing. For Louisiana State and Louisville, however, defeat may well be disastrous.

While the Irish were beaten 76-62 in a regular season game * at DePaul that did not jeopardize either team's postseason chances, Louisiana State's 80-67 loss to Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference playoffs and Louisville's 72-68 defeat at the hands of Virginia Tech in the Metro 7 tourney put both of those ranked clubs in precarious positions. No. 8 LSU and 13th-ranked Louisville now must hope NCAA officials invite them to the championship tournament despite their conference also-ran status.

Robertson hit two out of spacious Terry Park in Fort Myers, Fla. Friday, connecting off the Royals' ace reliever, Al Hrabosky.

One factor working in Robertson's favor is that designated hitter Hal McRae, also a right-handed hitter, is recuperating from shoulder surgery and may not be ready to open the season.

Another Royal batting star, third baseman George Brett, underwent surgery on his right thumb Friday but is expected to be ready to rejoin the club in three weeks.

Horner, meanwhile, officially became a holdout when he failed to appear at the Atlanta Braves' spring training camp at West Palmer Beach, Fla.

The Lighter Side

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) -Even the sponsor didn't like the resolution offered in the state House of Representatives.

On Thursday, the lawmakers unanimously, but good-naturedly, defeated a resolution commending University of Texas basketball coach Abe Lemons for his demonstration of good will toward the state of Arkansas.

The resolution was sponsored by state Rep. Jim Montgomery of Mountain Pine, but when he spoke for the resolution, he urged colleagues to give the measure a "bad vote."

It seems that Lemons and Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton were involved in a fracas earlier this season in a basketball game between the Razorbacks and Longhorns at Austin.

And, on several occasions, Lemons has criticized Favetteville. Ark. - home of the university - for its airport and often harsh winter weather.

The House obliged Montgomery and cast 93 votes against the measure.

KENTWOOD, Mich. (AP) - A flat tire apparently proved to be too much for Michael Shemonski. It has put him in court.

Police in this Grand Rapids 1-800-292-7080 suburb said Shemonski, 33, was

Although extra-curricular activities often monopolize a school's reputation, academics are still the primary concern at Hereford High School, as shown here in this photo of an American history class in session. Principal Jerry Don George urges all parents and other interested persons to visit HHS this week to acquaint themselves with the curriculum.

in a break from the books, these Shirley Elementary students are shown in a rhythm exercise during music class. Shirley's open house is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Texas Public Schools Week, March 5-9 is being sponsored by the Masons.

Texas Public Schools Week To Be Observed March 5-9

Texas Public Schools Week will be observed in Hereford and throughout the state March 5-9, marking 125 years of public schools in Texas.

Each local citizen is encouraged to visit a public school in the community this week. Sponsoring the state-wide observance are the Masons.

Several elementary schools will have special Open House dates during the week while the city's secondary schools (high school, Stanton and La Plata) will encourage visitation throughout the week.

The schedule of each school's Open House is: Northwest Elementary, 7:30 p.m. Monday; West Central Elementary, 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday; Alkman Elementary, 7:30 p.m. Thursday; Shirley Elementary, 7:30 p.m. Thursday; and Tierra Blanca, 7:30-9 p.m. Thursday.

Bluebonnet students will present a musiciprogram to be aired on Cablevision Channel #6 at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. each day during Texas Public Schools Week. Kindergarten through sixth grade students will perform songs and rhythm exercises. Also, the school's two choirs will sing. The program, being presented for the fifth year, will be directed by Kerry Lorey, music teacher.

Although the secondary schools will not have a "parents night" type of program, all interested persons are encouraged to visit the schools throughout the week at any time during school hours. Stanton will be adding an extra attraction by presenting their all school play "Virtue Victorious" at 7 p.m. Thursday.

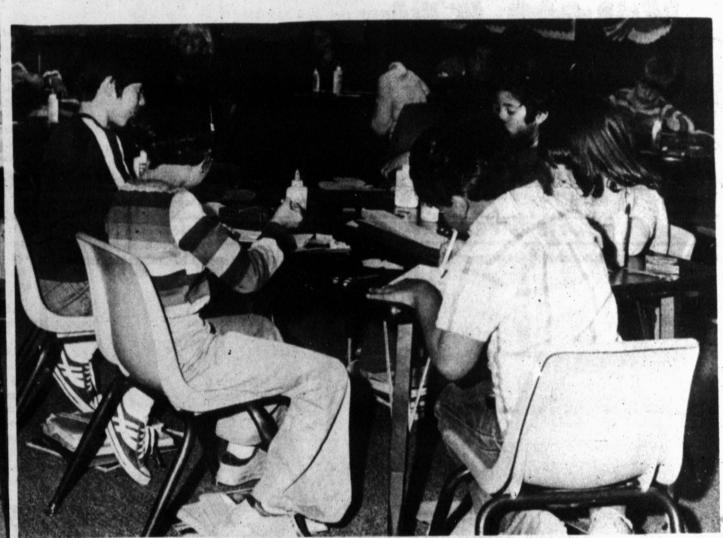

Mal Manchee, publicity chairman of Texas Public Schools Week, stated, "The basis of a good education begins in the public schools. What your child learns in the grades and high school will determine his future in college and in the years after that.

"Encourage your child in his education now. Visit him in his classroom during Texas Public Schools Week March 5-9. Let him show his work...and show him you're proud of it. Visit a public school this week. It's your duty. It should be your pleasure," he said.

Absorbed in research material in the library of La Plata Junior High School, seventh grade student Ronnie Lee takes advantage of the school's informational facilities. Although no special days have been set aside for open house at the city's secondary schools, the public is urged to visit La Plata, Stanton and Hereford High anytime during school hours this week.

Citizens Urged To Visit Schools

Third grade students at West Central Elementary School exercised their creative talents during a recent art class. West Central's open house will be from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Other school's having an open house are Northwest Elementary at 7:30 p.m. Monday, and Tierra Blanca Elementary, from 7:30-9 p.m. Thursday.

Stanton Junior High School students have been rehearsing for weeks for their all-school presentation of "Virtue Victorious," a melodrama to be presented in observance of Texas Public Schools Week. The play will be performed for the public at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and in a matinee at 1:20 p.m. Friday. Cast members shown from left include Carie Jones, Carol Smalts, Tonya Savage and Cookie Reyes (as a gypsy).

Learning through doing is a method employed by Mary Tom Shipley's science class at Aikman Elementary School, where her students measure their shadows each month to determine the changing position of the sun. Aikman's open house will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Scribbles & Scratches

By Kerrie Steiert

We saw "Superman" (the movie) recently and were not particularly amazed by the fact that man can fly, but were dubiously impressed that he can do it without getting bugs in his teeth. Clad in his familiar red, gold and blue outfit, our bullet-stopping hero performed his routine feats -the greatest of which was probably his ability to charge $3 a head for comic book fare.

*We liked Superman better when he was a two-dimensional figure dashing about on cheap newsprint in comic books that formed interesting little hills beneath our beds. In addition to Superman and his equally omnipotent friends. comic books of our childhood era were filled with harmless but worthless characters, such as Archie and his gang, Richie Rich, Dot, Sad Sack, and a host of others, whose names now escape us.

Those of us who indulged in comic books adhered to the unwritten laws of the cult. Rule No. 1: Never sit correctly in a chair while embarking on a comic book adventure. One of the most acceptable postures was lying flat on one's stomach, head propped on hands with knees bent so that your sneakers waved, bottoms-up, in the breeze. Rule No. 2: Never read without having your mouth entertained by a watermelon stick, wad of bubblegum, well-gnawed plastic straw, or other foreign object. It was important to maintain one's image amongst the skinned-knee set.

Comic books, which sold for approximately 25 cents in our heyday, proved to be valuable trade items in negotiations with one's peers. Your run-of-the-mill "Richie Rich" comic was sufficient wampum for a giant Sweet-Tart (hopefully still in its virgin wrapper) or maybe a stick of beef jerky, if you played your cards right.

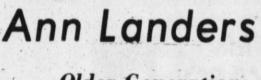

The real horse-trading occurred when one possessed a Superman-Batman special jumbo edition, which made you virtually a pre-teen tycoon on the block. Wise usage of such wealth could "purchase" the neighbor kid's prized horn toad. (It's hard to believe that the horn toad is now tottering on the brink of extinction. The tiny ones made such wondrous pets and the bigger variety provided us with good cause to squeal and be chased by the little boy down the street.)

Of course, being that we were on a somewhat fixed income, one's comic book collection depended in large part on how many coins could be wheedled from your mother's purse. Mom took a dim view of our idea to sell our "extra" pairs of

DEAR G.: What an exquisite put-down! I couldn't have done better if I had worked on an answer all day.

DEAR ANN: I am sick and tired of hearing the "Now Generation" throwing all the blame for their unhappiness and personal hang-ups on their parents. It has taken me 20 years to realize that parents are people and they have hang-ups and problems just as we do.

Why do we demand perfection from parents when we settle for a lot less from ourselves or our peers? Parents are products of their environment and their inherited characteristics -- just as we are. Is it fair to expect them to be

ID Work Proves Helpful To Widow

By DENISE SMITH Brand Staff Writer

Having just received the award of "Home Demonstration Woman Of The Year" Monday afternoon during the H.D. Appreciation luncheon, Terri Jan Johnson stated, "I felt like I hadn't done all that was down on paper. It didn't seem like it was work to me, everybody said 'Oh, you worked alot.' I enjoyed it too much for it to be work. I was proud, very

Mrs. Johnson was born and raised in Hereford. She attended a year at West Texas State University and then married Terry Johnson, who died last spring.

Mrs. Johnson is a member of Westway EH Club, which she has been involved in for three and one-half years. She has served as president for two years and was elected this year as Council delegate and parliamentarian.

"I joined the Westway Home Demonstration Club when I retired from my job to have my son. I am so thankful that I did. These last three and one-half years have been very beneficial to me and my family. Some of the things we have had in club have been refresher courses for me, but so much has been new and proven to be extremely helpful to me, especially this last year," vowed Mrs. Johnson.

In addition to her clubwork, Mrs. Johnson has attended District THDA meeting in Dalhart, and State THDA meeting in Dallas as voting delegate, and reported to council. She was also elected as County TEHA chairman

U She is the mother of two children. Her daughter, Staci Jill, 8, attends second grade at Tierra Blanca School. She is a member of the Hereford Rider's Club and has entered some local horse shows. Staci's favorite entry is barrel riding. Mrs. Johnson's son, Wade Townsend, 3, is set for the adventure of learning to ride this year and attends Hereford Day Care Center. The family is also active in swimming and snow

Having a sports-oriented family, Mrs. Johnson found working in 4-H and other youth activities exciting. She served as secretary for the Annual Six County 4-H Horse Show and sponsored the Hereford Junior Riders Club.

'Through my training in 4-H and FHA, I had a dream of becoming a home demonstration agent. This dream was postponed when I married and started my family. However, I got a taste of this life when I was secretary at the Extension office for three years and someday I plan to take up my dream again," revealed Mrs. Johnson.

After her son is of school age, Mrs. Johnson plans to return to school and earn her bachelors degree, majoring in home economics. She will then go through the training required of an extension agent.

The main object of a home demonstration club is to beter the home. They offer programs on family life, health, citizenship, and other housing programs. The organization is considered the mother organization of 4-H.

"My huband passed away a year ago, and suddenly I was left alone to care for two children and a home. It didn't take me long to realize just how much my husband had helped me at home with meals, with housekeeping and with the children. It was practically like starting all over. But home demonstration was there. The first program our club had afterwards was on home security. Then there was a county-wide program on estate planning," commented Mrs.

She is presently remodeling her home through the help of the county agent. She hopes in the future to have her home improvement projects finished.

TERRI JOHNSON ...with children, Jill and Wade

Coping alone with two pre-teen children is a challenge for the widow. "I try to think how my parents raised me and the goals my husband's parents had for them, and that's how we started out. And I know what Terry wanted from the kids and how he expected them to act. They're pretty good kids though, so I don't have very much trouble with them," stated Mrs. Johnson.

Other than her community work and family life, Mrs. Johnson enjoys reading, raising house plants, crocheting, traveling, playing volleyball, and interior decorating.

She is presently employed by the City Manager of Hereford as secretary.

"Working outside the home for four hours a day makes me realize and utilize the time-saving techniques we have learned in club for meal preparation and other areas of homemaking," said Mrs. Johnson.

Being recipient of the 1978 HD honor Mrs. Johnson feels indebted to extension work.

"Indeed club has proven to be very important to me, and I shall endeavor to give back to home demonstration just a portion of what it has given me," responded the HD Woman

DEAR POLLY-I am a college student who travels to and from the dorm quite often, and I have devised a way to pack my clothes that works quite well. I lay jeans out flat, fold the legs together and roll them up from waist to hem. I fold in the sleeves of shirts and roll from collar to hems. This method keep my clothes wrinkle-free, and they take up less space than layered clothing when put in a traveling bag.-SHARON.

DEAR POLLY-Body-splash users should transfer the lotion to a plant mister bottle. There is no more spilling or mess.-KATHY.

DEAR POLLY-When candles drip on a carpet, an easy way to get the wax up is to cover it with a brown grocery bag and then go over the bag with a hot iron. The wax melts into the paper, and comes right off the rug.

Polly's note: First, chip off any chunks of wax. A fingernail can be used to loosen them.

DEAR POLLY-When hanging wallpaper I use a steak knife for trimming around windows and doors. It works much better than a regular cutter or a razor blade.-MRS. W.W. © 1979 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY-For years I took care of an elderly lady who eventually became bedfast and had to be fed in bed. This took so long that her food would get cold before she was half-finished eating. I bought a heated baby dish (they come in either electric or hot-water models) and her food stayed warm through the entire feeding.-MAXINE.

DEAR POLLY-To provide a warm, draft-free place for yeast dough to raise, I place it in the oven over a pan of water, cover with a moist towel, then turn on the oven light. This works great to speed thawing and raising time for frozen dough.-MRS. R.T.

DEAR POLLY-I keep a squirt bottle filled with water near the washer, and use it to dilute fabric softener in the machine's automatic dispenser.-CHERYL.

DEAR POLLY-Save plastic milk cartons of all sizes, wash and drain them dry. Cut the tops off, cut the bottoms off of every other one to use as tops. A carton with top and bottom cut away can be folded in one with a bottom, for extra strength. Stuff completely with old, crushed newspapers. Seal lid down with tape and cover carton all over with decorative, adhesive-backed paper. Children love these homemade building works.-MRS. B.L.W.

Land Preparation Proceeds

Turning over the soil for a new crop year is a major concern of Deaf Smith County farmers these days, after a weather delay made spring planting preparations late. Here, a farmer breaks land with a moldboard plow, pulling a packer device behind to break up clods. Modern machinery is a boon to local farmers running behind schedule, allowing them to do a good deal of catching up in a short period of time. [Brand photo by Jim Stelert]

Bedding Up

A farmer north of Hereford throws up beds with a lister rig in preparation for pre-plant irrigation and spring planting. A prolonged period of inclement weather delayed field operations over a widespread area recently, and now farmers are going flat-out to catch up with the field work. Pre-plant irrigation is continuing as vegetable and sugar beet planting dates draw near. [Brand photo by Jim Stelert]

Shortage Of Onion Sets Expected

Vegetable, Beet Planting Set to Begin

Brand Farm Editor

Planting of early vegetables and the sugar beet crop should get into full swing here over the next two weeks, while farmers in the Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer county areas continue spring land preparation at a hectic pace after a long weather delay.

And while all preparations are underway for getting another crop in the ground, the wheat crop sown in the area last fall has posted good recovery with recent favorable weather, and still appears headed toward summer harvest in excellent condition in many areas, particularly if favorable spring rains should lend assistance.

"Overall, we still have excellent subsoil moisture in Deaf Smith County. A good inch of rain and the wheat would type of equipment we have to be setting onions right now, today, a lot of catching up can be done in a hurry. Although pre-plant irrigation is also lagging behind, the good subsoil moisture level should allow us to move ahead with it more rapidly," commented John Fuston, Deaf Smith County ASCS executive direc-

"I'd say maybe 15 to 30 percent of the wheat will be grazed out, depending mostly on whether we get a having and grazing program for wheat. But I think we'll have a lot more grazeout on wheat than normal," Fuston continued.

The ASCS executive pointed out that corn acreage will be down here this year, and cotton, a crop traditionally considered a poor risk in an area this far north, will also increase in acreage. "Our declining water table is a factor in more cotton. Our weaker water, in many instances, is in the southern end of the county anyway, and farmers are looking at a maximum of two waterings on their cotton. That, and the fact that the price outlook is reasonably good at this time may serve to boost us up to 6,000 acres of cotton in Deaf Smith County this year," Fuston reported.

Corn, which has proven particularly susceptible to and attacks of spider mites over the past two years, will show a major decline here in 1979

Fuston estimated local corn planting intentions at around 60,000 acres. Land preparation for vegetable planting was delayed by a prolonged period of inclement weather over the past two months, and weather that local vegetable farmers out of their fields also resulted in heavy damage to onion sets in the Rio Grande Valley region of Texas, which supplies the majority of onion sets used in the area.

"There's gonna' be a real shortage of onion sets this year because the cold weather in the Valley really thinned out the crop. We could be down 40 percent from last year. We're already late in land preparation, really be going strong. We're and those sets which are running a little late with our available are going to be late farming right now, but with the arriving as well. We would like plants aren't either," reported Albert Maxell of the Hereford office of Dimmitt-based La Mantia-Cullum-Collier & Co.

> According to Maxwell, onion setting should be started by March 12, with potato planting to follow close behind.

'Potato planting, weather permitting, will be pretty well on schedule. There's a surplus of seed potatoes, and we'll start cutting seed pieces for planting in the Dimmitt, Hart, Hereford and Lazbuddie regions about March 12," stated Maxwell.

Availability of field labor has been a problem with recent vegetable planting campaigns, but Maxwell indicated the problem may not be as severe this year.

'We think we'll have the field help we need. A lot of folks are looking for work, and with the decrease in available onion transplants, we'll hopefully have plenty of help," he said.

Produce Co. of Hereford reported that some potato planting may get underway on sandy land near Springlake as early as this week, and that potato planting in the immediate Hereford area should probably begin March 15. "Pre-irrigation is notably behind this year. Many farmers were unable to start field preparation work as early as usual, and our onion setting in the Hereford area is going to run late," stated Fisher.

Farmers are still signing up to plant sugarbeets as field preparations continue for that crop as well, according to Calvin Jones, agricultural manager for the Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant.

"Beets should start going in the ground around March 10-15. The cold winter weather dropped our soil temperatures, so there's no hurry on it, but we could have some beets planted as early as March 10," Jones

WTCC Joins Effort To Obtain Clearance for Use of Azodrin

Brand Farm Editor

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has joined the effort secure an emergency clearance for the use of the pesticide Azodrin on corn grown in the local area.

The WTCC action comes in response to a recent request made for WTCC assistance in the effort during a special session of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee.

In a letter addressed to David lvie, director of the Agriculture and Environmental Science Division of the Texas Dept. of Agriculture, Ed Coltharp, executive vice president of the WTCC called for the assistance of the TDA in securing a label for Azodrin.

In his letter, Coltharp indicated that 1,234,300 acres of corn was harvested in the past year in the area served by the WTCC, with an average yield of 112.5 bushels per acre and total production of 138,872,000 bush-

Coltharp indicated in his letter to lvie that the corn crop in the region was valued at $343

"A problem that has already cut deeply into this income crop has been called to the attention of the WTCC. The problem is highly resistant to currently labeled chemicals. Yield reductions seem to be most acute in the Deaf Smith and Castro County areas. As an example, yields have dropped in these counties by more than 40 bushels per acre for each of the past two years," Coltharp Coltharp cited information provided by the Hereford ASCS office and County Extension Agent Juston McBride that directly attributes 65-70 percent of the yield reductions to the mite problem.

"The insect is also reducing milo yields. Local authorities tell us that the dry cycle that has plagued the area is, in itself, conducive to heavy infestation of the insect. Put in terms of monetary importance, based on a conservative estimate of a 40 bushel per acre yield reduction, with 65 percent of the reduction attributed to the insect, Deaf Smith County has lost $14 million the past two crop years, and Castro County has lost over $20 million," Coltharp continued. The WTCC executive also tion has acquired which indicates no evidence of adverse effects from the chemical on humans or livestock, and food crops. 'The West Texas Chamber of Commerce requests that the chemical pesticide Azodrin be labeled under emergency regulations for use in mite control. It is the only chemical that is effective. The dollar losses, as shown, in our opinion, justify the special use," wrote the WTCC representative.

Copies of the letter from the WTCC were also sent to Reagan Brown, Texas commissioner of agriculture, and members of the West Texas legislative delega-

Washington Report Due at WIFE Meet

A report on recent farmer protest activities in Washington will highlight the program for a regular meeting of the Deaf Smith County chapter of Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE) Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the Hereford State Bank.

Members of the organization who accompanied their husbands in the AAM tractorcade to Washington and in subsequent activities will give reports on progress in the nation's capital.

Also scheduled for tomorrow night's meeting is a planning session on an agribusiness dinner scheduled for March 19 at noon, at the Community Center.

The D.S.C. WIFE organization is sponsoring the dinner in recognition of the services of the area's agribusinessmen, according to WIFE spokeswoman Susan Hicks.

The dinner is scheduled for National Agriculture Day, and will help to launch the observance of National Agriculture Week in the community.

The menu for the agribusinessmen's dinner will include homemade stew, prepared with all Deaf Smith County vegetables, cornbread, and homemade pies.

"Each WIFE member is urged to attend tomorrow night's meeting to be assigned her responsibilities for the dinner," Mrs. Hicks indicated.

I never cared too much for March...maybe because it's such a politician's month...Blowhard and all, -- you know how it is.

First of all, there's the peeving myth about "in like a lion, out like a lamb."

Well, the "in" part may be right, but I've seen some awfully boisterous lambs cavorting out the other end of the calendar too.

March is the month when it's too cold to be spring, yet too warm to stay winter. The extremes in conditions are a bit much for a winter-weary Mother Nature, and I've always sort of thought of this month as her temper tantrum prior to spring...Only thing, she never quite gets over it

Annual TSCRA Convention Slated March 11

FORT Worth - Human nutrition, livestock health and taxes are a few of the many topics cattlemen will discuss at the 102nd annual Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association convention March 11-13 in Houston, Texas.

More than 2,500 cattlemen and their families are expected to attend this year's convention and trade show, TSCRA President John B. Armstrong of Kingsville said. Most of the convention's business events will be held in the Albert Thomas Convention Center in downtown Houston. "This year we are featuring a more streamlined format and giving greater emphasis to educational programs at the committee level," Armstrong said. "All meetings, including the Board of Directors' meeting, are open to convention egistrants, and I hope each individual will attend."

The convention opens Sunday, March 11, with the TSCRA Barbecue Cookoff featuring top cooks from around the Southwest. The TSCRA trade show, featuring 130 exhibits from 23 states, and the Board of Directors' meeting will also begin Sunday. The first day will be concluded with a welcome social hour at 4 p.m.

Syntex, in conjunction with TSCRA, will host a party at the Hyatt Regency, the convention's headquarters hotel, featuring country and western singing star Jeannie C. Riley at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Monday, March 12, will begin with meetings of all TSCRA's standing committees. you inevitably get your heaping helping of the peck of dirt we're all supposed to consume. It's a time period in which your face is sandblasted by the dirt coming up from the tractor tires as you disk with an open-topped tractor, racing against planting time.

Maid March will happily wash your kisser with muddy water as you go about pulling an apron from the irrigation ditch alongside the wheat patch and try to proceed with the next set, the apron flapping wildly in the breeze as your boots squich into the muddy earth.

She'll roll your gated pipe all the way across the quarter section if you're careless in anchoring it down, then steal your gimme' cap while you're chasing something else she's made off with.

Yep, Maid March will thieve and thrash, plunder and pillage, all at a breath.

I bear her scar, this dear lady of the spring. She used a barn door to bash me on the noggin' several years back...Caught me unawares and lowered the boom, then up and soared away over the barn with her devilish shriek.

I fell there, stunned at her outburst...Still when I feel the scar she left in my scalp.

We all learn the hard way about March. She's sneaky...Lets a decent day slip in once awhile to set us up for the blast the next day.

One thing though. We have an advantage living. around here, and know we can hold up to conditions elsewhere. After all, we're wind tunnel tested.

Withstanding dirt storms and big windblasts makes us appreciate the calm days all the more too. And who ever heard of a windmill that wouldn't make plenty of water in March?

Ah, dear March, we have just over three weeks more of your company to enjoy, then you can breeze away to the halls of Congress, or wherever it is you gather all your gustiness.

And as you depart, we'll have a fond message for you once more.

Tech Sets Livestock Judging Competition

LUBBOCK - A chance to sharpen knowledge about livestock will be offered students, faculty and businessmen and producers at the All-University Livestock Judging contest on March 10 at Texas Tech University in the Livestock Arena.

The contest, sponsored by Texas Tech's departments of Animal Science and Agricultural Education, is open to anyone wishing to judge. Actual judging will begin at 9 a.m., but entrants need to arrive early for registration. There is no entry

Dr. Herman Purdy, worldrenowned livestock judge and professor emeritus at Pennsylvania State University, will judge the contest and discuss the livestock industry at a free

Student entrants will be divided into those who have previously judged on livestock teams and those who have never team judged. Students may enter as teams of four or as individuals. The faculty division will include university professors, extension agents and vocational agricultural teachers from the area. The third division will be composed of area businessmen and livestock producers. Classes of sheep, swine and beef cattle will be rated on the basis of conformation, and two horse classes will be judged, one on conformation and one on performance.

"Theme of the contest is

'eye-sharpener,'" said Dr. high individuals in each division James C. Heird, contest coordinator. "The object is be awarded to the high-point two-fold: to illustrate to those who have not been around livestock for a while the new trends in meat-type animals and performance in horses and to allow those who work with animals." Trophies will be awarded to Gas air conditioning lasts and lasts with no loss of cooling capacity. That's because it's built with fewer moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. It's this simple principle that gives Gas air conditioning its long life and easy maintenance.

Herbicide Combination Provides Johnsongrass Control in Experiments on Irrigated Cornfields

AMARILLO - Johnsongrass can be controlled in irrigated corn according to Wayne Chenault, Dr. Allen Wiese and Dwane Lavake, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Weed Scientists, from the USDA Center at Bushland. Applying Sutan plus or Eradicane at six pounds per acre and incorporating with a tandem disk prior to planting does the job. The scientists figure the practice will help, many farmers because 200,000 of the one million acre irrigated corn crop in the Texas . High Plains.

Research leading to this conclusion was conducted at the Texas Tech Center at Amarillo in 1975 and 1976. The heavily infested field was furrow irrigated with sewage water containing a quantity of Johnsongrass seed.

The scientists sprayed Sutan plus and Eradicane at four, six and eight pounds per acre. Immediately after application. herbicides were incorporated with two passes of either a rolling cultivator or tandem disk. Another variable was irrigation timing. Corn was either planted in wet soil after preplant irrigation or in dry beds and "watered up" with furrow irrigation.

In 1975 herbicides were applied to flat soil and incorporated with a disk prior to building 40-inch beds with a lister. In 1976, the land was already beeded up when the study was started. Plots to be incorporated with a disk were flattened, sprayed, incorporated, and rebedded. Herbicides incorporated with a rolling cultivator were applied to the bedded land. Corn was planted about April 1, both years.

Irrigation timing did not much effect on Johnsongrass control. Preplant irrigation worked the same as "watering up".

There was not much difference in Johnsongrass control between incorporating with a disk or rolling cultivator in 1975. Johnsongrass infests about In 1976 incorporating with a disk gave much better control than with a rolling cultivator. "For dependability our results show that the two herbicides should be incorporated with a tandem disk," Chenault said. With disk incorporation, Eradicane at six and eight pounds averaged 64 and 79 central control. Four pounds per acre controlled 54 percent of the Johnsongrass. With the same type of incorporation Sutan plus at four and six pounds per acre gave 55 and 62 percent control. Eight pounds per acre of Sutan plus averaged 79 percent control. The highest control was 81 percent in 1975 with eight pounds per acre of Sutan plus.

In 1976, untreated disk incorporated plots had 45 percent Johnsongrass control compared to check areas that were rolling cultivated. Chenault figures that the extra disking to flatten existing beds gave the added control. All rates of the two herbicides did a good job of controlling pigweed, kochia and lambsquarters that infested the field.

Failure to eradicate Johnsongrass in 1975 prompted the researchers to retreat one-half of 1975 plots in March 1976 with identical herbicides and rates.

"Treating Johnsongrass in corn will pay big dividends." Chenault said. Six pounds of Sutan plus costs 16 dollars and will treat an acre. In our study the herbicide increased ensilage yield 10 tons per acre. At 20 dollars a ton for silage, investment in the herbicide returned over $180 per acre.

Herbicide Tolerant Corn Lines Found

and hybrids tolerate the herbicides Eradicane and Sutan plus better than others. Drs.

other Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researchers from Amarillo and College Station came to this conclusion after two years of study on the Jody Bezner farm near Dalhart, because of occasional Eradicane injury to corn grown on sandy soil that was sprinkler irrigated. Prior to starting the research, soil type, rainfall, irrigation timing, and rate of herbicide were ruled out as reasons for injury. This caused scientists to speculate that hybrids must react differently to the herbi-

Dr. Collier, corn breeder from Texas A&M, selected 20 corn inbreds and 30 common crosses with parentage similar to a majority of corn hybrids used in the United States.

The 50 corn lines were planted through plots treated with very high rates of Eptam, Eradicane and Sutan plus. Entam contains EPTC, the active ingredient in Eradicane. In addition to EPTC, Eradicane contains an antidote called R-25788 which reduces toxicity to corn. Sutan plus is another corn herbicide containing the antidote, R-25788. All herbicides were incorporated twice with a tandem disk prior to planting corn. The entire area was sprinkled immediately after planting to assure a stand of corn and create conditions most likely to cause herbicide injury. About six weeks after planting the scientists compared injury on treated plots with each line growing on untreated soil.

Averaging both years and all corn lines, injury to corn from Etam at 3, 6 and 12 pounds per

The antidote helped a lot and injury to all corn lines from Eradicane and Sutan plus each at 6 pounds per acre was 10 and 7 percent.

According to Wiese, inbreds that were most susceptible and The research was started injured 70 percent or more by 6 pounds per acre of Eptam were B79, H98, VA26, B37, and A632. The most tolerant inbreds were TX5855, TX203-2, B76, TAM 50, H93, H95, H100. TX61M and B14. Injury to these lines was less than 20 percent. The most susceptible crosses were H93 x M017, B73 x B79, B79 x H98, B73 x H98, M017 x H98, B68 x TX6252, and VA26 x B79. Crosses with most tolerance to ETPC were B73 x M017, TX127C x H84, B73 x TX403, B73 x H93, TX6252 * H100, B73 x M017 and VA26 x

> About 50 percent of the lines were injured less than 10 percent by 12 pounds per acre of Eradicane. Inbreds most susceptible to Eradicane were TX127C, H98, TX61M, B14A, B76 and TX203-2. Crosses injured most by Eradicane were H93 x TX403; B79 x H98, B73 x VA26, H93 x VA26, VA26 x B79. H93 x M017 and TX6252 x

According to the researchers this information will be most useful to corn breeders because they know parentage of their hybrids. "Our research will enable them to advise growers if their hybrids are susceptible to injury from Eradicane on sandy soil," Wiese said. If growers can not find corn hybrid parentage, Sutan plus is a little safer on corn and will control volunteer sorghum, shatter cane and Johnsongrass in corn on sandy land.

Ag Input from High Plains Sought at Gas Hearing

By JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

The Hereford-headquartered Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association may be adding its input to a hearing to determine if the federal government can curtail natural gas use by agricultural customers on the High Plains.

The hearing, scheduled for 9 a.m. March 9 at the Holiday Inn in Amarillo, is to be conducted by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The field hearing was obtained at the request of an Oklahoma-based gas consumers organization,--the High Plains Gas Consumer Group of Guymon, which represents cattle feeding, irrigation and related agricultural users.

Affected parties will be allowed to testify for the protection of agricultural users of natural gas.

John D. Aikin of Hereford, attorney for the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association reported in a Brand telephone interview that he is unsure just what steps the organization will take in light of the Amarillo hearing.

'We're just not fully informed right now, but I would say there's a good chance we'll be offering testimony at the Amarillo session," Aikin com-

Allen Harris, legal counsel for the High Plains group, made a request on the group's behalf that field hearings be held in conjunction with energy hearings already underway in Washington.

He requested that a field hearing be conducted in the Ogallala Basin area, which includes Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska.

"This location will give us better participation from the affected producers of irrigated feed grains and fed beef, which the six state area supplies such great percentage of," commented Harris.

The High Plains Group has been making a legal record against any rulemaking which would force incremental pricing or curtailment of services to irrigation farmers, grain drying or cattle feeding enterprises.

The HPG efforts have been underway at Department of Energy hearings in Washington since Jan. 10.

"Incremental pricing means tripling of natural gas utility bills if the price of No. 2 fuel oil is set as the price for natural gas," said Harris.

"The legal record on behalf of agricultural customers is very important because whatever the final rules are, favorable or unfavorable, they are going to end up in federal court," commented Chet Nash of the HPGC. "We feel we must see the gas regulations fight through to the end. If we don't irrigation economy will end on limitation of volumes, overnight, and our cities will go back to what they were 20 years ago," he continued.

According to Harris, new energy legislation is a "doubleedged sword," where area agriculture interests are concerned.

"It could, through proper rules and regulations, provide protection for High Plains agriculture. But the wrong rules win it, our feedlots and our could really hurt us, especially curtailment of expansion and incremental pricing," Harris stated.

Harris is scheduled to testify during the Amarillo hearing, and will be joined by High · Plains area agriculturalists offering comments on the importance of available gas for the area agri-business industry. The battle over continued availability of gas has become a familiar one, particularly for the over national energy regulations.

Local interests were involved in a lengthy battle to obtain a No. 2 priority for natural gas for irrigation fuel in 1975, and saw a growing threat to the availability of natural gas for irrigation at that time.

The Amarillo rule-making hearing will concern the volume of natural gas agricultural customers may obtain, and how

Rule making involves a section of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 which mandates 'interstate pipeline curtailment plans to the maximum extent practicable, to protect the requirements of essential agricultural uses," according to the Jan. 18 Federal Register. Rules will be finalized after hearings have been concluded, and will become effective

November 1, 1979.

Livestock PricesCould Help Farm Income

WASHINGTON (AP) - According to new projections by the Agriculture Department, nearly all of this year's predicted increase in net farm income could occur as the result of higher livestock prices. Last week, the department's senior economist. Howard Hjort, announced that net farm income this year could total about $30 billion, up from $28.1 billion in 1978. Last year's income went up about 40 percent from $20.1 billion in your horses may increase their later learning ability, research conducted at Texas Tech University indicates.

Handling May Increase Learning Ability of Horses

Dr. James C. Heird, assistant professor and director of the horse program in the Department of Animal Science, has finished a major study involving groups of yearling fillies with various degrees of handling.

Group one had been allowed to run in a pasture until yearlings. Group two consisted of yearlings, halter broken as sucklings and stalled and handled intermittently as weanlings. Group three was from the Texas Tech horse herd, handled almost constantly by

The test consisted of a modified T-maze, made up of a short hall, separated into two short branches with feed tubs at each end. Each branch has an exit door so the fillies would leave the maze without retracing their steps. The walls of the maze were eight feet high to prevent outside distractions. Feed was placed in one of the branches on-alternating days.

The yearlings were put through the maze until they achieved the arbitrary success rate of 11 or 12 correct selections of the stall containing the feed, with the last eight choices being consecutively corréct.

The animals were only put through the maze a maximum of 30 times in one day. If the success rate was not achieved by then, the horse was retired for the day. Each horse was run in random order each day.

Heird found that the middle group, with horses handled intermittently, performed best Heird said those results could be expected because the interest in the task should be maintained longer by the horses that had experienced more handling. The group with little handling reacted more to outside stimulus, while more experienced horses were calmer and learned the maze and alternation pattern more quick-

Heird concluded that early handling increases the learning ability of horses.

The study was a part. of Heird's doctoral dissertation. He plans to continue research with the inexperienced horses by putting them through the maze until they learn the pattern in order to determine how many attempts it will require for those horses to learn

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The 1979 crop season is getting off to a slow start in Texas, but soil moisture conditions are generally good to support early crop growth, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel. director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some planting has begun in South Texas, and land preparation is active elsewhere except where fields are too wet, Pfannstiel said.

Moisture is plentiful over all of the eastern half of the state and in parts of the plains and western Texas, he said and preplant irrigation has started in the Trans-Pecos area.

Some planting has begun in South Texas, but cool soil temperatures will delay seed germination in many early planted fields, Pfannstiel said.

According to the National Weather Service, temperatures at the four-inch depth the past week averaged as follows: Beaumont, 56; College Station 53; Austin, 52; Eagle Lake, 50; Uvalde and Dilley, 57; Beeville, 56; and Weslaco, 62. Recommended minimum planting temperatures are 50 for corn, 55 tables are being planted. Small for sorghum and 65 for cotton.

Cotton harvesting is virtually complete in across West Texas except in the Rolling Plains where 20 percent of the crop is still out in a few counties.

Vegetable planting along with harvesting of a few winter vegetables and citrus and sugar cane continues active in the Rio Grande Valley. Home gardeners in many sections are getting soil prepared and are planting onions and potatoes.

Livestock feeding remains in full swing over the state due to lack of grazing. However, a continuation of recent warm weather should boost small grains and winter grasses, Pfannstiel said.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton harvest is nearly complete. Land preparation is under way but soil moisture is short. Wheat is responding to the warmer weather, but pastures and ranges are still in poorcondition. Cattle marketing has increased with stock moving off wheat pastures.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton harvesting is complete, and farmers are getting land ready for spring crops. Soil moisture is generally good. Wheat is showing some improvement with the warmer weather. Cattle feeding remains active as grazing conditions are still below average.

harvesting is virtually complete except in Hardeman, Foard, Wilbarger and Young counties where more than 20 percent of the crop remains out. Spring land preparation is active and some early vegetables are being planted. Wheat is improving with the warmer weather, and some farmers are applying a topdressing of nitrogen fertilizer. Much wheat acreage may be grazed out due to high cattle NORTH CENTRAL: Wet fields are hampering field grains remain in poor shape due to severe winter weather. Cattle feeding and calving are active.

NORTHEAST: Wheat, oats, barley, clovers and ryegrass are beginning to grow. Land preparation continues where field conditions permit. Cattle feeding remains active, with hay getting short.

FAR WEST: All the cotton is in and farmers are getting land in shape for spring crops, including some preplant irrigation. Growth of winter grasses and weeds is improving range conditions. Feeding of cows and WEST CENTRAL: The cotton harvest is finally complete and spring land preparation has begun. Gardening is increasing, with some early season vegetables planted. Moisture is needed for small grains, pastures and ranges. Livestock feeding remains heavy due to lack of grazing.

CENTRAL: Small grains continue poor shape due to severe winter weather damage. Thus, supplemental livestock feeding continues heavy. Sheep shearing is under way. Some planted where field conditions permit. Although small grains are responding to warm weather, grazing is still limited so livestock feeding remains

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Wet fields hamper land preparation. Spring gardening is off to a slow start due to cool, wet conditions. Freezing temperatures have affected peach tree blooms in early season vegetables are some areas. Livestock are in fair to poor shape. Feeding and calving are heavy.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Field work is limited by wet conditions that also has hampered gardening. Some onions and potatoes are being planted. Oats and ryegrass should provide grazing soon. Livestock conditions are generally good; feeding continues.

SOUTHWEST: Some corn is being planted in southern counties although soil is warming up slowly. Land preparation remains active. In Winter Garden some spinach is being harvested along with onion plants. Some sorghum is getting under way. early peach and plum trees are starting to bloom. Warmer weather is causing some greening of pastures and ranges. COASTAL BEND: Wet fields hamper corn, sorghum and cotton planting as well as land preparation for peanuts and rice. Some watermelons and garden vegetables are being planted while spinach is being harvested. Livestock feeding continues as grazing conditions remain poor.

SOUTH: Despite cool soils, planting of corn, cotton and

About 3 percent of the cotton acreage has been planted while about 5 percent of the corn and sorghum crops have been seeded. Melon planting is active, with early fields up.

Some carrot and lettuce harvesting continues, with lettuce prices strong. Cabbage, carrots, tomatoes, squash, okra and other vegetables are being planted. Citrus and sugar cane harvesting remains in full swing along with cattle feeding.

Nursery Reveals Weed Treatments

wild sunflower, lanceleaf sage, poison suckleya, puncturevine, kochia and barnyardgrass are tough weeds to control in the Southern High Plains. Don Crutchfield and Dr. Allen Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Weed Scientists say they can be controlled with the right herbicide. They arrived at the conclusions by growing the weeds in a nursery at the USDA Center at Bushland and treating them with several preplant. preemergence and post emergence herbicides. About 30 herbicides were used for each type of application.

The scientists figured that ROLLING PLAINS: Cotton planting weeds at the Research Center and treating them under similar conditions would be the best way to find herbicides that gave the best control. Crutchfield started the project in 1974 by seeding or transplanting weeds on plots that were four 40-inch beds wide and 150 feet long. Two beds were kept weed free between each weed plot. Weeds had to be hand weeded several times each year to insure pure stands, and were irrigated twice a year.

In 1976 and 1977 post emergence herbicides were operations. Early garden vege- evaluated. Lexone, Sencor, Caparol and 2. 4-D mixed with MSMA applied to foliage gave 90 percent or more control of poison suckleya, a weed that is tolerant to Treflan and other dinitronailine herbicides used in cotton and soybeans. Best control of sunflower was with Karmex, Bladex, and 2, 4-D mixed with MSMA. Banvel gave 95 percent control of cocklebur, and was markedly better than all other postemergence herbicides. Lasso mixed with Atrazine gave best control of puncturevine. Either Karmex or Atrazine gave 95 percent or more control of

In 1978 preplant herbicides were applied to small plots and incorporated with two passes of a rolling cultivator on March 17 before any weeds emerged. Two days later preemergence herbicides were applied to the soil surface. Weeds started emerging after a 0.6 inch rain April 10.

According to Crutchfield applications of Atrazine, Milogard and Igran that were incorporated at 3 pounds per acre gave 90 percent or more control of all seven weeds. All incorporated herbicides except Remrod, Bexton and Mowdown gave 80 percent or better control of barnyardgrass.

ments applied on the soil surface, Atrazine at 2 pounds per acre eliminated most weeds and gave 95 percent control of cocklebur. Igran. Bladex and Milogard gave excellent control of all weeds. Princep, Sencor, Lexone and Cotoran, applied to the soil surface gave good to excellent control of all weeds. Sancap controlled all weeds except cocklebur. Lorox controlled all weeds except cocklebur and sunflower and Lasso conrolled all but poison suckleya. Dual and Mowdown let cocklebur and sunflower escape. Tolban, Basalin, Prowl and Cobex, gave 98 percent or better control of barnyardgrass. These five herbicides gave good control of puncturevine, fair control of lanceleaf sage, poison suckleya and kochia and had no effect on wild sunflower and cocklebur. Sutan plus and Eradicane had no effect on cocklebur and wild sunflower but eliminated barnyardgrass. Eradicane was more effective against the other broadleaf weeds than Sutan plus, giving in excess of 70 percent control of puncturevine, lanceleaf sage, poison suckleya and kochia. Crutchfield said, "Knowing which herbicides do a good job enables us to pick the best crop and herbicide for each weed." All of the weeds were nearly eliminated by a preplant

Worldwide Cotton Production Could Show Sharp Increase

World cotton output could increase sharply this year, meaning there is much uncertainty about prices American farmers will get for their

But the Agriculture Department says domestic mill use of cotton may hold fairly steady through the coming year and that exports will continue relatively high.

The department's outlook board said Wednesday mill use of cotton in the 1979-80 marketing year beginning Aug. 1 "is expected to remain near this sesons's" level of about 6.3 million bales.

But the board said in a preliminary report that domestic cotton use next season could range between 5.7 million and 6.7 million bales, "depending on general economic activity, relative fiber prices and reaction to the proposed cotton dust standards."

Cotton production in 1978 dropped to 10.8 million bales from 14.4 million produced by U.S. farmers in 1977. Strong export demand helped boost prices to an average of 60.5 cents a pound through December, compared to 52.3 cents for the entire 1977-78 marketing

"Some price weakness began in late 1978, however, partly reflecting anticipated larger production in 1979," the report

In a survey Jan. 1, growers indicated they plan to boost cotton plantings to about 14 million acres this year, up 6 cents from 1978.

"This season's higher pricescould lead to increased cotton acreage and production in 1979 here and abroad," the report

"Thus, while the outlook for 1979-80 is highly tentative at this date, prospects point to a rebuilding of world cotton stocks" which are expected to drop to 18 million bales by Aug. 1, the smallest reserve in eight years, it said.

Cotton exports this season are projected at around 6 million bales against 5.5 million in 1977-78, reflecting strong demand from China, South Korea and Japan.

"U.S. exports are expected to remain at a relatively high level in 1979-80 but could slip a little below this season's expected level," the report said.

The World Bank, a Washington-based United Nations agency, has loaned $16 million to Thailand to help finance a project to improve the traffic situation in Bangkok.

Pronghorns Come Home to Panhandle Through Trapping Projectin Wyoming

David Dvorak, big game and upland game biologist with the TP&WD in Canyon reported that 17 antelope were released in Armstrong and Donley counties early last week as the first arrivals of a herd of 100 antelope being transported from Wyoming to Texas.

Depending upon the success of a trapping project still incomplete at presstime, up to 30 pronghorns were eventually to be released in the area, with a number of the animals also to be set free on the Wagner Ranch

A 100 bird trophy shoot will be conducted by the Hereford Gun Club Sunday, March 11, according to Jim Clarke, HGC president.

Hunting knives will be presented as trophies to the winner and runner-up in the men's division, and a trophy will also be awarded in a women's division.

Entry fee for the trophy shoot will be $10 per competitor.

At the HGC's first regular shoot of the new season last Sunday, a total of 15 scattergunners turned out, and 400 targets were pulled in an informal session.

Today, the Dimmitt Volunteer Fire Dept. will be hosting informal shooting at its range at the Dimmitt airport, beginning shortly after noon.

A registered trap shoot is also scheduled for Amarillo today.

"Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard" was the most popular of the 120 publications NWF offered in 1978--most of them free of charge. Of the 214,350 requests for its publications NWF received in 1978, 17,833 were for this reprint from the April, 1973, issue of National Wil'dlife magazine. The illustrated booklet explains how to develop a backyard, schoolyard, or community area into an inviting habitat for wildlife. More than 1,200 National Wildlife Backyard Habitats have been certified across the country, in Puerto Rico, and in three Canadian provinces under the NWF program.

Number two on the NWF "best seller" list was "Birdwatching," which drew 9,674 requests. This 16-page reprint from Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine for children is by famed ornithologist Roger Tory Peterson. In it, with full-color illustrations, Peterson explains to youngsters what to look for and where to look when they go birding.

"Official Birds, Mammals, Trees, Flowers, Insects, and Fish of the U.S. Territories, and Possessions" finished third with 8,951 requests. The pamphlet reveals some interesting facts. For example, seven states--Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, and West Virginia--have named the cardinal as their state bird. The rose, adopted by Georgia, Missouri, New York, North Dakota, and Iowa is the most popular state flower.

Another Ranger Rick reprint, "Recycling for the Birds" finished fourth with 6,964 requests. This publication describes how throwaways such as milk cartons and coffee cans can be recycled into bird feeders. Fifth place (6,509 requests) went to "Wildlife of Lakes, Streams, and Marshes," a 13-page booklet describing the animals commonly found in those areas. Close behind in sixth place was "Wildlife of Forests and Rangelands" and eighth place went to "Wildlife of Farm and Field." While the popularity of these publications indicated interest in wildlife, the remainder of the "Top ten" list pointed to the

'We encountered some luck in finding a source of antelope in that a herd took up residence on an air base at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and the Air Force wanted to get rid of them. The state didn't have to trade anything to obtain the antelope. The P&WD simply had to perform the job of collecting them," Dvorak reported.

In all, P&WD employees were

The P&WD sent a force of 14 employees to collect the fleet-of-foot throwbacks to a pioneering era which heralded them in prose, music and art.

Wyoming, P&WD employees obtained the help of Wyoming residents, and Safari Club International picked up the tab for leasing a helicopter used in capturing the antelope, according to Dvorak.

"The actual process of capturing antelope is based on extensive experience the department has acquired in this work," Dvorak explained.

"A trapping pen which includes hazing rope and wings antelope into a holding area. A helicopter is used to drive the antelope into the capture area," he continued.

The helicopter is a key factor in the success of the capture.

"If you have a good copter pilot who is adapted to the situation, you can pretty well direct the antelope into your pen Most NWF publications are area, once you get them running," Dvorak pointed out.

In order to decrease the trauma to the antelope, P&WD 4,000 animals. employees drive straight through for the 20 hour trip from Wyoming to the Panhandle.

"Four men have come back with two loads of antelope, and the remainder should pretty well be en route. During our initial releases, the antelope appeared none the worse for wear, although a trip like that is quite a stress on any wild animal. We've never transported that many before, but they seem to be doing okay," stated

Sites for releasing the pronghorns in the Panhandle were selected on the basis of suitability of habitat, lack of maintaining this population on population, and landowner request. "Our initial releases, made during the middle and latter portions of the past week in Armstrong and Donley counties, were made in a region that should support an antelope herd. There weren't any antelope herds in close enough proximity to repopulate this area through a natural influx of animals, and we took in animals for this reason. There haven't been any antelope in the region of these releases since back in the Depression, and landowners the Panhandle range for the past several years. The herd is currently strongest in Oldham and Hartley counties. Increased conversion of rangeland to agricultural use has resulted in a decrease in the overall antelope range," Dvorak stated.

The total number of Wyoming antelope to be relocated to the Panhandle area will depend largely on the success remaining trapping crews enjoy in that chilly region, but Dvorak voiced hopes for moving the full 100 pronghorns.

"Thus far, we have no idea of the sex ratio among the herd that has been secured. It has just been whatever animals we could lay our hands on," he indicated.

The reintroduction of antelope to Panhandle ranges that once harbored them represents part of a continuing effort to maintain and expand the small Panhandle herd to a greater area of its former range.

Pronghorns have come to prove an important bonus for those ranches which they inhabit.

"Antelope depend mainly on weeds for their browse, and don't compete with cattle for grazing. They can definitely complement a ranch, and have an economic value of their own for the ranch owner when their numbers become sufficient to allow issuing permits for sport hunting. Antelope hunts in the Panhandle will go for anywhere up to $300 for a permit," Dvorak pointed out.

"We're happy to have the opportunity to aid the return of a Panhandle wildlife resource to another portion of its original range. The pronghorn is another example of the efforts of sportsmen and wildlife agencies to provide for wilding and enhance the aesthetic beauty that is part of this region," he

The Parmer County hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday, March 13 at the county courthouse in Farwell.

Area landowners and sportsmen will have the opportunity to testify concerning game regulations during the course of the hearings, conducted by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department.

Gamebird regulations are frequently the topic of testimony at area hearings, and the 1979 hearings will in all likelihood follow true to the pattern.

Among major topics for comment during this year's hearings are proposed changes in regulations concerning the area's pheasant resource.

P&WD biologists have proposed a 30 day pheasant season for the local area, indicating they feel the area's pheasant population can withstand the additional pressure.

The 30-day proposal represents a major departure from the 14-16 day seasons which have become traditional in the local area in recent years.

"Cabling" was attacked in the Hereford hearings last year as unsportsmanlike, and damaging to the wildlife resource, and state game warden Chuck Cosper of Hereford later proposed the cable outlawing regulation to the TP&WD.

Another proposal which should receive widespread approval among sportsmen is a move to give state game wardens enforcement authority concerning possession of duck

Federal wardens have not been working the field in recent. years to check hunters for duck stamps, and a loss of wetlands acquisition funds for waterfowl has resulted from a lack of compliance with the duck stamp regulations by many hunters in the region. The proposed regulation would give TP&WD wardens authority to check hunters for duck stamps, and to file cases on individuals not in possession of the required stamp.

Local sportsmen are also expected to continue their campaign for a later opening and longer-running waterfowl

Testimony at hearings over the past three years has resulted in a slightly later duck and goose season for area hunters, allowing them to take slight advantage of the late-arriving flights of ducks and geese.

Landowners have also continued to post complaints concerning waterfowl depredation of requesting a later season to keep the waterfowl scattered sufficiently to cut down on the severity of depredation.

Federal guidelines currently prohibit the waterfowl season running any later than Feb. 1, and local sportsmen and landowners are being advised to take their case for a later season to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife

'Conserve Our Wildlife' Theme For Wildlife Week

"Conserve Our Wildlife" will be the theme for the 1979 observance of National Wildlife Week, March 18 through 24.

More than 13 million schoolchildren, teachers, and conservation-minded citizens are expected to participate in the 42nd annual observnace of the week--first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938 as Wildlife Restoration Week.

A cougar, poised to spring from a mountain crag, is this year's poster animal. More than 400,000 copies of the cougar poster, and another 200,000 copies of a second poster, bearing photographs of 16 species of wildlife, are being distributed to schools and conservation groups in all 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Three hundred thousand education kits, containing posters, badges, and activity booklets, are being mailed to teachers. In addition, 55,000 smaller kits are going directly to children throughout the country, with letters urging them to spread the conservation mes-

"This year we want to emphasize the meaning of conservation," said NWF President Dr. Fred R. Scroggin, a Dry Ridge, Ky., physician. "Conservation means planning for the future, knowing the needs of people and wildlife, and working to make sure those Fortunately, most states discontinued bounty payments, and in many states the cougar is managed as a game animal which can be hunted, but only under conditions restricting the number taken. Meanwhile, biologists are conducting research on the cougar to improve and expand conservation efforts.

On the reverse of the NWF cougar poster is an illustrated explanation of how conservation can help the cougar and other wildlife, with "comeback" stories of how the beaver, pronghorn, and trumpeter swan, once in danger of extinction, were rescued by wildlife management and reseon scientific research is essential sif we are to have healthy wildlife populations," explained Scroggin. Professional wildlife managers are best equipped to solve the biggest problem facing wildlife--the loss of habitat, he said. "But all of us can help. Look around where you live, talk to officials, see what you can do to save habitat. Become informed. Give your support to measures preserving habitat and resist construction projects that needlessly invade wildlife haunts--projects that if needed, could just as well be built elsewhere."

break provides year-round protection, however, no two planting situations are alike. There are bais concepts that should be considered.

Windbreaks are most effective when planted at right angles to the prevailing winds. Field windbreaks planted in a series of parallel belts insure maximum reduction in surface soil erosion and damage to agricultural crops.

A windbreak should contain at least three rows of trees, two of which should be conifers. Conifers, or evergreens, are the backbone of any planting because they retain their folliage year-round.

Austrian and Ponderosa pines are well suited for windbreak planting and can be obtained through the West Texas Nursey located at Lubbock.

The tree nursery operated by the Texas Forest Service still has 1,780 Austrian pines and 4,470 ponderosa pines on hand at $1 per tree. Applications for windbreak seelings may be obtained by writing the West Texas Nursery, Rt. 3., Box 216, Lubbock, Texas 79401.

The type of tree/shrub windbreak will determine the quantity of wildlife on your property. One of the limiting factors of abundant wildlife in northwest Texas is the lack of winter cover or protection. Planting trees on your property would not only benefit your soil, but enhance the holding capacity of wildlife also.

Studies completed on the association of wildlife and treebelts since the first windbreaks were planted should be helpful in your planning for your windbreak.

Habitat improvement recommendations are available by contacting Richard DeArment. P&WD Extension Biologist, Box 122. Wheeler, Texas 79096. Effective windbreaks and

The furbearing season has ended in Texas except for the muskrat (March 15).

New Hybrid Bass Species Is Florida-Largemouth Cross

AUSTIN - Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists are cautiously opti-

Hybridization of fish is not unusual, and usually not difficult, but project leader John Prentice said the thing which sets this hybrid apart is that so far it is reproducing naturally and showing no signs of regressing back to the original. We will be stocking some of these hybrids in ponds with native black bass this year to see if they maintain their genetic integrity or cross with the native fish." Prentice said.

Texas is the only state presently experimenting with this cross, Prentice said, although Illinois researchers have successfully produced a so-called "mean-mouth" bass which is a hybrid of the smallmouth and native large-

"The Illinois mean-mouth research has stirred up a lot of interest, partly because the fish have demonstrated much more aggressive behavior than either the largemouth or smallmouth bass," Prentice said. "However, our hybrid Florida/smallmouth has not had enough time to mature to the point where we could make such a compari-observations done with diving gear showed the six- to eight-inch-long hybrids to be extremely curious. "When I swam submerged in the pond, the fish would rush out of the vegetation and stop within three feet of my face mask and peer at me," he said. "Both largemouths and smallmouths in that situation would just continue to hide in the vegetation. The new hybrids exhibited relatively slow growth during their first year, but Prentice is

Snake Bulletin Now Available

AUSTIN - One of the most popular bulletins of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is "Poisonous Snakes of Texas." First published in 1950, the fact that it has been reprinted six times indicates the constant interest there is in the subject matter.

The latest revision, brought out in July, 1978, contains color illustrations and updated information on each of this state's poisonous snakes; how to recognize and take precautions against them, and what to do in case of a bite. The author is John E. Werler, director of the Houston zoo.

Much of the fear people have about snakes in Texas is unwarranted. Statistics in the bulletin show the extremely low incidence of snakebite fatalities, compared to accidental deaths from other outdoor-related causes. Of the approximately 113 different subspecies known in Texas, only about 13 percent are venomous and not all of these are deadly.

This is not to say that snakebite danger should be minimized, but the information given puts it in proper perspective. The author says the hazard can be reduced even further if outdoorsmen learn how to identify and avoid the venomous snakes and know correct first aid techniques. As winter recedes and recreationists head for the outdoors, they would do well to take along a copy of "Poisonous Snakes of Texas." This bulletin, No. 31, can be obtained by sending $2.15, which includes tax, to: Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, not alarmed. "Even Florida largemouths grow slowly the first year or two." he said. "but we have repeatedly seen how they easily surpass native largemouths after the second year."

Prentice cautioned that it is still early in the four-year experiment to be drawing sweeping conclusions about the new fish's role in the future. "Right now there's just too much we don't know about the fish's characteristics, but since they spawned naturally and appear to be breeding true into the second generation, we are where that species may not be progressing as well as we thought," said Prentice. "This might be a situation where the new hybrid could possibly give the fishery a boost."

UTILITY SAVINGS

NEW YORK (AP) - It's a misconception to think that utilities automatically give a customer the most preferential rate available, according to a utility-rate consulting firm.
