Jaworski told a Wednesdas news conference. "I have never had more complete assurance that I would have a free hand. I also want to tell you this is going to be placed in writing in a resolution

The Houston attorney said he had been promised twice in the past two days by House Speaker Thomas P.O'Neill. D-Mass., and House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, "full sway in the investigation

The payoff scandal arose from allegations that several congressmen received financial payments from Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman who has been accused of being a lobbyist for his country

Jaworski, in private practice since Watergate, said. 'If there is the slightest effort to supress the investigation. I would not only go to the leadership of Congress. I would go to the public I don't think it is the leadership of Congress that controls this. What controlled Watergate was the public reaction.

Referendum Fails in Texas

BY PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Texas cattle and dairy producers fell about 1,600 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to approve the national beef check-off plan, dampening the hopes of cattlemen throughout the future who fought for passage of the referendum.

Although results are not official in Texas and the referendum still may be approved by a two-thirds majority in several states, it appears the plan is doomed nationally. Only 41 per cent of the voters in lowa, another big cattle state, favored the plan and 60.3 per cent voted for its passage in Kansas, also among the nation's top cattle-producing

Texas is the nation's No. 1 cattle producing state. Some promoters of the referendum have stated it would fail nationwide if Texas did not support the plat, by a two-thirds majority.

The final national tabulation is expected late today or Friday.

19,305 For

The vote in Texas was 19,305 for and 12,045 against. It would have taken at least 20,910 of the registered voting cattlemen for the referendum to have

"It hurts. It damn sure does," said James Sartwelle, chairman of the Texas Beef Development Task force. "When you think that 1,600 is just seven votes per county in this great big state of ours.

That says something about those people who run around and say, 'Boy, my vote don't count anyway

Jim Conkwright, Deaf Smith County chairman of the Beef Development Task Force, told the Brand that a few opposing forces, including the Texas Farmers Union, resulted in the defeat.

When you get opposition on something, it's hard to pass it. I think it's a real shame that the opposition is unfounded and ill-informed." Conkwright said. "You bet, I'm disappoint

The Texas Farmers Union issued a statement after the Texas vote was tabulated that the referendum is not the solution to problems in the beef industry.

TFU Pleased We are pleased that the cattle producers in Texas have voted to reject this program, not because we are against the cattle industry but because we do not think this program is the solution," says

Jay Naman, TFU president. Naman said the TFU is opposed to a self-imposed tax on cattle and dairy producers for a research and development program because "any promotional plan which spends millions of dollars from the pockets of producers must be accountable to those producers. The cattlemen of Texas have obviously affirmed the fact that they do not want this program as it is written."

Conkwright called Naman, "a two-bit troublemaker, an antagonist. His history is one of antagonism and not one of positive solutions to problems."

Conkwright said the failure of Texans to come up with the needed majority is a tragedy.

Outlook 'Not Bright'

The fact the state of Texas, the largest beef producing state in the Union. failed to ratify the beef referendum is tragic. Certainly, the beef industry's outlook is not as bright as it might have

"I'm disappointed but it's deeper than that. These people in agriculture are resisting getting together for their own good. They absolutely won't do it and it's going to cost them every time they turn around.

John McCarroll of Amarillo, information director for the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, said problems in the beef industry will become worse now that (See BEEF, Page 2)

Committee Studies Drive-Up Mailbox

A report from Dr. Milton Adams, health and safety committee, concerning a drive-up mailbox depository; a discussion by Mayor Bartley Dowell on the possibility of forming a city housing authority; and a discussion by directors on a multi-purpose civic center highlighted a monthly board meeting of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce this morning.

Joe Shollenbarger, C of C president, emphasized that the chamber is acting only as a "fact-finding" group in studying the possibilities of a civic-convention-YMCA-type of facility. He proposed the chamber board invite interested civic club. YMCA city, counts and school officials to meet and discuss the matter.

He pointed out that executive vice-president Bob Duckworth had compiled some figures on costs of different facilities, and that other groups have also studied the situation. Directors agreed that such a meeting of community leaders should be arranged within a few weeks.

The mail-box problem, long a frustrating situation for many Hereford citizens, has drawn special attention from Dr. Adams' safety committee. The group submitted a plan to the chamber board several months ago, and with directors' approval, took the proposal to the Hereford City Commission.

Dr. Adams reported the city countered with another plan, and three proposals were submitted to the area postal safety engineer. The engineer recommended

Co-Op Receives Government Loan

The Deaf Smith Electrical Co-op, which serves three area counties, has been granted a $574,000 federal loan by the Rural Electrification Administration.

The loan will be used to finance service for 482 additional consumers, construction of an additional 87 miles of distribution line, and the improvement of the entire Deaf Smith Electrical Co-op system in Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties.

The $574,000 loan will be compounded at-five-per cent interest. James T. Hull is manager of Deaf the two C of C committee plans for submission to the postal department.

The C of C committee's first recommendation was to build an islandon 4th Street, close to the post office alleyway, and provide four lanes of traffic. This would do away with parking on the south side. Motorists could drop mail, from the driver's side, while proceeding either east or west. The alternate plan was to have limited parking on the south side of the street.

The plan proposed by the city manager would have motorists driving up to a box which would be located on the side of the street and near the alleyway. Cars would turn into a lane on post office property, deposit mail, and drive back onto 4th street in a westerly direction. The chamber safety committee will meet with the zity commission again to report the safety engineer's findings. Dr. Adams said he believed it might take "up to three years" to get approval of the city proposal, since the engineer did not recommend it. Mayor Dowell briefly outlined the proposals for a local housing authority as presented to the city commission by Community Action representatives. He pointed out the commission has taken no action, but would like some feedback from the chamber and all citizens on the need of such a program.

Duckworth reported the Fun Breakfast had been cancelled this month due to construction work at the school business office. While an addition is being built to locate the tax office in the building. furniture and equipment are being moved into the cafeteria.

Mike Carr, business committee. reported a successful "Customer Appreciation Week" promotion had been sponsored by his committee, and many good comments were received on the free concert held at Whiteface Stadium.

Neil Cooper reported on plans for a chamber membership drive. His committee is planning to launch the campaign in several weeks. Directors were asked to consider establishing special membership rates for non-resident dents who own property in the county.

Donna Vander Zee, Women's Division president, reported that Miss Hereford, Dee Ann Caison, has been entered in the Miss USA contest in El Paso next month.

Johny Cloud presented a monthly financial report to directors.

'Investigator' Cards Embarrass Officials

Those honorary investigato rs' identification cards traditionally handed out by Texas law enforcement officers have been popping up in some embarrass.

ing wallets, some officers say, And because of that potential for misuse, several Texas law enforcement officials say the cards might be on the way out-tradition or no tradition

A case in point is that of Ector County Dist. Atty. John Green of Odessa, who said one of his former investigators gave out cards identifying the bearer as a 'duly authorized employe" of the DA office.

Iwo of those cards, bearing a picture, thumb prints and Green's stamped signature on the reverse, side, showed up on Joe Dee Hicks and Michael Pasterchik

Hicks is doing life in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for drug smuggling and Pasterchik is a fugitive. Each has a long history of arrests and felony convictions.

Green said he never gave the cards out himself and that he did not know Hicks was a felon. He said Pasterchik stöle the ID card. Green has since ordered such identification cards taken out of circulation.

Several officers said the cards are often used to try to beat traffic tickets, bluff the bearer into a private club' or gain entrance to a private home.

An employe of Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill said "special deputy cards" are passed out to pals of the legitimate law

"I recall attending a cattlish fry in North Central Texas: where an out-of-state driver attempted to get out of trouble

hs flashing a special Texas commission badge." the spokesman said. "It's bad policy.

Honorary IDs are more commonly handed out by sheriffs in several Texas counties.

Jack Wilson of the Sheriff's Association of Texas says his group has no official policy on the subject But an Austin source acknowledged that politics plays a heavy part in the matter, explaining that influential persons are often given the cards as a prestige item.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said he gives out such cards for identification purposes only. "They're no big deal," Standard said. "I don't think a card would buy a vote.

At Wits End-

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Want to make your day? There are 22 million women over size 16 in America.

Although it has been my experience that there's never one around when you need them, I have to believe that. Somehow, I've never sat next to a size 16 at the pool. Never encountered another one in the fitting room. Never played tennis with another one or ever shared a loaf of bread personally with one.

However, designers and department stores are finally acknowledging the fact that size 16-and-overs do exist and, like taxes and "I Love Lucy" reruns, will be with us always.

I've seen several ads of clothing designers that have started to put some style into half sizes and department stores are finally getting around to style shows for the woman who regards bathrooms scales as art objects.

I don't know if some of you get the impact of this trend, but I do. It means that size 16s are finally coming into their own. And that if 22 million of them would come out of the closets, they could turn this country around. You don't believe it?

In the last election, there were 40 million votes cast for President Carter and 38 million for former President Ford. Realistically, 22 million chubby votes could swing the election one way or another. The 16-and -overs' vote would be one of the most influential single blocks of votes in the country, and don't think the candidates wouldn't come a'courting.

For the first time, women with thighs and hips could have some demands met before they committed themselves.

1. Legalize pasta. Women are sick and tired of carrying it out of stores in plain brown wrappers.

2. Abolish mirrors in bath houses. There is no need to see oneself with one's skin blousing.

3. Luxury tax on yogurt. I say put the burden of supporting this nation's programs on the shoulders of those who can afford it -- the size 5s.

4. Repeal the A-line dress. When letters of the alphabet were passed out, the women over size 16 got the first letter out of the bag. We'd like to try for an S or an I for a change. 5. Appoint a committee to change the language referring to women size 16 or over. The use of words "stout," "full-

Final Date For Swim Classes

Registration for the third and final session of Red Cross Swimming classes will be held tomorrow from 9-11 a.m. at the City Pool. A pool fee of $2.25 is charged by the City of Hereford for the ten day

Classes will begin Monday and continue through Aug. 5. Lessons will be held at 9, 10, and 11 a.m.

The 9 a.m. class is offered to adults, and junior and senior high school students. All beginner, intermediate and swim classes are open to anyone who has finished the first grade.

A swimming session for adults will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. starting July 25th, with registration taking place when the first class meets.

If there is enough demand the Red Cross will offer a counsel in advanced swimming.

There will also be a senior life saving counsel beginning with registration at the time of the

When we were first married we lived in Herb's home town because he worked for his dad. The business was crawling with relatives. Herb's dad died the following year and the usual family in-fighting began. I hated the town (nothing but hicks) and was glad when Herb agreed to accept a job in another city.

To make a long story short, he was transferred four times in six years and each place was worse than the last.

Yesterday Herb got a call from his brother. He has bought out the other relatives and wants us to come back to the hick town. Herb will be a part-owner and vice president of the business.

I hate the town. There is not one person there I'd care to associate with. Shouldn't a wife have something to say about where the family lives? Doesn't she have SOME rights? Please answer soon. I am- Mad, Mad,

Gay Capitalism Now

Factor in Business

"Most gay business leaders are intelligent and realize that until gay professionals come out of the closet and identify themselves, we're always going to have this tip-of-the-iceberg problem."

Marshall Cooper, director of Girlstown USA, presented a plaque to James Jesko of the Hereford American Legion Post, expressing appreciation for a cash gift of the Girlstown residents were guests of the Legion and Auxiliary at a dinner

Openly gay businessmen still are primarily a big-city phenomenon, because of the greater acceptance of alternative lifestyles in cosmopolitan towns. In Chicago, gay bar and club owner Chuck Renslow estimates $500,000 changes hands each weekend in the Windy City's 60 or 70 gay bars. He notes that the Gay and Lesbian Coalition of Metropolitan Chicago has more than 80 members.

'We've got florists, dentists, plumbers, doctors, lawyers and so on," he says, "although not all of their clientele is necessarily gay."

Concentrating on gay business can be highly profitable though, says Arthur, whose Royal Insurance Agency first went after gay business more than six years ago.

Many gays say their sexual preferences simply don't have any bearing on their business lives, a view frequently shared by personnel directors.

The U.S. sheep industry has been declining for years. For example, the last time wool production increased was in 1960 when it was 265.3 million

Officials say there are a number of reasons for the continuing decline, including intermittent demand for lamb and wool, problems with predators and a decision by some producers to switch to

Sheep Flock Sugar Beet Growers Seek Amendment to Farm Bill

BY O.G. NIEMAN Editor-Publisher

In case you haven't heard, sugar producers have now joined the ranks of farmers who are receiving less than the cost of production for their crops.

Bill Cleavinger, president of the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association, returned from Washington Tuesday after seeking support for a sugar amendment to the farm bill. Congress started consideration on the farm bill. Congress started consideration on the farm bill Tuesday, but Cleavinger noted that food stamps were the first item on the agenda. "It appears to me we may have a 50-50 chance of getting the sugar amendment."

stated Cleavinger. Cleavinger and James Witherspoon, executive secretary and legal counsel for the beet growers, went to Washington last Thursday to seek support of the amendment. Cleavinger said most of the Texas delegation had expressed support, adding that a letter of support from Congressman George Mahon was used in contacting other members of

The proposed sugar amendment would add sugar beets and sugar cane to the list of "designated nonbasic commodities" in Section 201 of the Agricultural Act of 1949. Simply stated, it would provide a price support level in the same manner as for products such as milk and honey.

In his letter, Mahon stated: "I strongly support this amendment, and believe it is the only action that has been suggested which is both fair and equitable to sugar producers, while at the same time imposing a minimum burden on the federal treasury.'

Explaining the sugar situation as it exists today, Cleavinger has a fact sheet which was presented to members of Congress. It points out that the U.S. had a Sugar Act from 1934 to 1975 and it provided a remarkable degree of stability to sugar. Since the act expired, sugar price have been on a "roller coaster."

In early May this year. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland described the raw value of 13.5 cents as being

"the rock-bottom cost of production for U.S. sugar producers." At the same time, President Carter proposed a 'stop gap' support payment program for sugar pending the successful negotiation of an International Sugar Agreement. The Administration's program called for a payment of up to 2 cents per pound to make up the difference between the domestic market price for sugar and the 13.5 cent estimated production cost. When the proposal was made, the market price was about 11.7 cents and the program could have been a "stop-gap" measure. Since that time, however, the market price has dropped to below 10 cents.

Domestic producers deliver about 55 per cent of the nation's sugar supply and, without them consumers would be at the mercy of foreign suppliers-- if enough sugar was available. Cleavinger notes that 75 per cent of the sugar produced in the world is consumed in the country where it is grown. Another 15 per cent is traded under international agreements. leaving just 10 per cent for the residual market.

It is the latter market where the U.S. buys 45 per cent of its sugar. This very thin market is susceptible to quick and violent swings from year to year. This was the cause of the fast hike in prices in 1974. The world production the last couple of years, however, has exceeded consumption.

The last hearing by the full House Ag Committee was two years ago with no substantive legislative proposal. However, the International Trade Commission made an intensive and exhaustive study of sugar during the latter part of 1976 and in early 1977. The commission recommended restrictions be placed on imports and stated the domestic industry was being endangered. Cleavinger notes that virtually all aspects of the sugar and sweetener industry support the amendment. He claims it "will not make fat cats out of American farmers and processors", since the price support level is at average production costs-- perhaps even lower in some areas. He adds the amendment will "help assure consumers a reliable source of sugar supply and help avoid the possibility of an international cartel for this valued commodity." Cleavinger said he had met with the Holly Sugar officials and discussed the mutual problems of rising costs of production. "Our conclusion was that we have to get a decent price for sugar. Holly is trying to achieve peak efficiency for their operation."

He added that a good soil-testing program is important for better yields, and said Holly has agreed to give this program high priority.

"Sugar beets still look better to me than some other crops we produce. I believe sugar beets are an important crop in our area because of their adaptability to changing water supplies, and they will be more important in the years ahead," Cleavinger

Cotton Council Calls For 'Rational' Rules

MEMPHIS [Special] The National Cotton Council today called for a "rational, commonsense approach" to rule-making concerning worker exposure to cotton dust.

In post-hearing comments filed with Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Council emphasizes that the cotton industry is not insensitive to its employees' health and safety needs and does not challenge OSHA's responsibility to assure that safe and healthful work conditions are provided

However, the Council maintains that the preponderance of evidence presented during the hearings on OSHA's proposed new industrywide dust standard shows that safe and healthful work conditions already prevail in most of the work industry's various sectors.

On the basis of evidence in the hearing record, the Council asserts that OSHA should (1) exclude non-textile sectors from the standard, and (2) set exposure limits in keeping with potential hazard to workers in those textile sectors where it considers a standard necessary. Cited as an example is testimony showing that workers in spinning and weaving sectors of textile mills could be exposed to higher dust levels and still be given the high level of protection that the proposed 0.2

milligram standard would provide in opening and carding

The Council also noted that studied currently planned by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health on worker exposure to dusts in the various industry sectors will enable OSHA to promulgate an equitable standard without unduly penalizing the industry. "In sectors where there is no proof of a problem, OSHA has insurmountable cost burden on industry," the Council states. next year or two.

"In sectors where there is evidence of a problem, OSHA has a responsibility to assure worker protection in the most cost effective way.

The statement also points to greatly expanded research program on byssionisis which have been stimulated as a result of industry efforts over the past five years. Findings for this research, the Council says, offer hope for short-term answers to the cotton dust problem and no basis for placing an strong indications that much progress can be made within the

This theme emphasizes that in addition to personal injury, accidents result in costly equipment damage, medical expense, loss of valued talent and skill of agricultural producers and workers, and production loss due to time delays and the unavailability of injured workers and damaged equipment.

National Farm Safety Week is co-sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Both sponsors emphasize the wisdom of making a personal and financial investment in accident prevention to help cut the human and economic costs of accidents.

Farm and ranch families can achieve much by investing a small amount of time in adopting low risk work procedures, contends Nelson. Extra protection can be obtained with a modest financial investment in personal protective equipment, tractor overturn protection, smoke detectors and other accident prevention devices. He further emphasizes that an investment in prompt repair or replacement of faulty or worn equipment and in seeking good quality products designed with accident prevention in mind can pay additional potential benefits.

Sunflowers in Spotlight At Bushland Center Tour

Sunflower production and spreading the critical irrigation sunflower research were the topics of tour at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center Monday. About 100 people were on hand for the event at Bushland.

Activities started at 9:30 a.m. when Dalton Gandy, president of the International Sunflower Association, Memphis, Tenn., discussed production and marketing outlook for sunflowers.

Gandy expressed high optimism for sunflowers. "In 10 years, sunflowers may be the No. 1 vegetable oil crop in the world," he said. "They already are in Europe. The U.S. had 2.1 million acres this year, and I predict there'll be 3 million next year and 6 million acres by Gandy based his predictions on a stable price around 10 cents a pound. He figures the price of all oil seed crops will be good for several years. Gandy added that sunflowers produce 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre in areas where wheat makes 30 bushels per acres.

On the other hand, this large sunflower acreage will replace only up to 6 or 7 per cent of land that is presently in wheat, sorghum and corn," he concluded.

Dr. Steve Winter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station sugarbeet researcher, discussed his crop rotation research at the first tour stop. The objective of his research is combining the best management practices into a six-year rotation. By doing this he expects to learn the most profitable use of limited irrigation water. Timing was critical on grain crops. Irrigation must be applied within two to four weeks after flowering to get maximum return from the water. This is 800 gallons per minute on a section. He is period by planting different crops. Early planted sunflowers fit into the picture because they bloom earlier than other summer crops. "Sugarbeets fit well into rotation and respond well to irrigation anytime during the summer", Winter said.

Dryland sunflowers produce well the next spring after irrigated wheat, according to Dr. Frank Petr, Texas Agricultural Extension Service specialist from Amarillo. He showed visitors some of Dr. Paul Unger's research which lead to this conclusion. Not only do sunflowers produce well after wheat, but yields can be increased with no- tillage planting. The scientist proved this by comparing disking, sweeping, limited tillage and no-tillage for weed control during the 10-month fallow from wheat harvest to sunflower planting. In 1976, soil moisture storage was about 5 inches for disking and sweeping but increased to over 6 inches for limited and no- tillage. Dryland sunflowers made 710, 760, 990 and 1070 pounds per acre following disking, sweeping, limited tillage and no-tillage. Limited tillage was one sweep plowing followed by sprays of Roundup herbicide as needed. Sprays with Roundup did the whole weed control job with

Weed control for sunflowers was discussed by Dr. Allen Wiese. Treflan, Tolban, Cobex and Eptam are labeled preplant herbicides that do a good job, according to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher. Amiben is the only preemergence herbicide labeled. Unfortunately this herbicide does not work well in West Texas. "Lasso is not labeled, but has given good weed control in research plots at Lubbock." Wiese said. There are no post emergent herbicides that will kill weeds without injuring sunflowers.

"Seed dormancy that delays germination makes volunteer sunflowers difficult to control," Wiese said. Banvel and 2,4-D will give the best control in wheat. Propazine, atrazine and Banvel are best herbicides for volunteer control in corn or sorghum. The scientist advised against planting sugarbeets, or soybeans after sunflowers because hoeing is the only way to control volunteer sunflowers in these crops.

Water use and yield of dryland sunflowers was discussed by Reggie Jones, USDA agricultural research service scientist. "Past research has shown that maximum yields will be obtained by having good soil moisture at planting." the researcher said. Yields are also boosted by planting about 14,000 plants per acre before May 15, and doing a good job of controlling insects. These conclusions were reached from experiments in 1975 and 1976. 'Average yield for the best dryland treatment was 1300 pounds per acre," Jones said.

Dr. Tommy Thompson, USDA plant breeder, talked to visitors about his sunflower improvement nursery. There are over 5,000 experimental lines in a 4-acre patch. He said finding resistance to head moth and transfering it into a hybrid is project. Dr. Thompson pointed out that there is a good chance of coming up with hybrids that have both insect resistance and higher yield potential than present hybrids. "We have a lot of wild sunflowers in the nursery that have never been evaluated," he said. He said some growers do not know that sunflower seed are sized from 1 to 4. One being the largest seed and 4 the smallest, Experiments indicate that seed size has no effect on yield, and planting seed are sold in multiples of 1000. It does not matter what Peredovik and Sputnik, open pollinated varieties, and Romsun 52, an old hybrid planted in 1975. Plants from these varieties were not adopted to West Texas and were self incompatable.

Dr. Charlie Rogers, USDA entomologist, also works in the sunflower breeding program. In addition he is studying the biology of sunflower insects. He plays a big part in the selection of sunflower plants for head moth resistance. "We are confident that new high yielding hybrids will be developed in a few years," he said.

Irrigating sunflowers was the topic covered by Jack Musick, USDA agricultural engineer. In one experiment, Hybrid 896 is being planted at 2 week intervals from March 23 to August 1. Twenty hybrids are being evaluated in the National Sunflower Preformance test. Evaluating different irrigation schedules is another part of the study. In 1975 and 1976, three seasonal irrigations after an emergence irrigation averaged 2500 pounds per acre. One watering at flowering following. an emergence irrigation produ-ced 1900 pounds per acre of seed according to Musick. At the last stop Ron Allen, agricultural engineer, discussed sunflower harvesting. He said Paraquat and sodium chlorate were labeled to desiccate sunflowers. This operation speeds harvest 1 to 2 weeks by drying stalks and heads. Seed are usually dry a long time before green plant material will go through a combine. In his experiments seed loss during combining varied from 3 to 6 per cent. "Most seed is lost at the header especially if plants are too dry," Allen said. Other research pointed out during the tour were: Soybean, corn and sorghum irrigation and fertility studies; weed control experiments, sprinkler irrigation, furrow blocking research, corn borer tolerance experiments, sugarbeets, conservation benches, ground water recharge pits, wind energy research, and shipping fever research facilities.

"Good to average hay crops have been harvested in parts of the state, but recent dry weather has limited production in many regions," points out Al Novosad, forage and pasture specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Since most barns were empty this spring after the hard winter we had, producers need to harvest an abundance of hay."

Early cuttings have been short in eastern sections due to dry weather, and now part of North Central, Central and South Central Texas are dry. So, hay production has generally been spotted to this point, notes Novosad.

More pounds of meat for xas consumers is an ultiite goal of research getting derway with legumes for mi-arid grasslands of the Agronomists and range ientists with the Texas gricultural Experiment ation have been interested some time in the possibilities of using nitrogenproducing legumes to boost range and pasture grass production in the state's semiarid areas.

That interest may soon pay off with answers now that the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Cooperative State Research Service has provided a three-year grant to support such Experiment Station studies. Most of the work will be done at Beeville and Brady, with labo-

The investigation will try to identify legume plants (native and introduced, and annual and perennial) that can be grown under dryland conditions. Also targeted are moisture and temperature conditions for nitrogen fixation and establishment of legumes in existing grass ratory research at College Station.

A&M University Soil and Crop Sciences Department. says the legume's ability to fix nitrogen in the soil is well known to farmers and ranchers. This natural system. along with use of commercial fertilizer, has been standard pasture practice for many years in East Texas, the humid prairie and portions of Central Texas where rainfall is more cooperative.

Besides Holt, other Experiment Station scientists involved in the research are Dr. Marshall Haferkamp of the Range Science Department and Dr. Richard Rominger, crop physiologist with the Experiment Station at Beeville

Use of legumes and commercial fertilizers on pastures and ranges in Texas drier regions has been limited because of the lack of adapted varieties, the larger land areas, the scarcity and high cost of fertilizers. And of course, moisture is needed to make chemical fertilizer go into solution to become available to plants.

Such introduced grasses as Klein, Buffel, Bermuda and Blue Paniegrass will in-'crease forage production, but they also may require extra nitrogen for sustained production.

So a more economical nitrogen source is needed for increasing semi-arid grassland production, not only for native grasslands, but also for introduced grass plantings. Legumes are a potential source of nitrogen which require minimum inputs of energy." Holt says.

He adds that legumes do not necessarily grow at the same time as warm season grasses. Therefore, adapted legumes could increase total forage production, extend the grazing season, improve forage quality and reduce supplemental feed costs.

Growing legumes in semiarid regions to give grass its nitrogen boost can be done. Fact is, it's being done in Australia and Southern California, and the practice is converting low producing lands into highly productive pastures. Holt says.

The thing to do now in Texas is to develop legumes to fit Texas conditions. And that is the main purpose of the USDA grant.

City Qualifying Closes Saturday

Qualifying for the Hereford expect a very busy day Saturday, July 23, but local pro and tournament director Cal Garrett is urging all golfers to play their qualifying round prior to that date if possible.

City Golf Championship closes Saturday, and right now any additional golfers would not be able to get on the course before 1 p.m. The tournament is being held

Hereford Soccer Team In Exhibition Sunday

A locally-formed soccer team, newly named the "Hereford Twisters'', will play an exhibition match against the West Texas State University team at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the band practice field just north of the high school.

The local team was formed just over a month ago, and has already played several matches. The WT team was formed three years ago, and is coming off a first place finish in an eight-team tournament in Sante Fe. New Mexico.

"We basically want to get soccer known in Hereford, and thought an exhibition game would be good to let the parents see the game," Hereford coach Peter Moll said. "If some of the parents get to understand the game a little better, then maybe they'll encourage their children

The Twisters played the WT team earlier this year, dropping a 4-2 decision which, according to Moll, "Isn't too bad considering the length of time the team has been together."

Reds Begin Chase; Chicago Lead Slim

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)- Having disposed of the American League in Another All-Star Game, all the National League stars get back today to the more important business of settling the divisional races.

"Nobody knows what the future holds," said Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. But if the last 70 games are anything like the first 92. Lasorda won't have any complaints. In the only major league race that isn't close, the Dodgers hold a commanding 91/2 game lead over the two-time world champion Cincinnati Reds in the National League West.

"I'm hoping we can maintain it, but there's still a long way to go," said Lasorda, who has seen previous Dodgers' teams succumb to the persisent patter of Cincinnati footsteps.

Since their blazing 22-4 start, however, the Dodgers have been merely a 37-29 team, a .561 pace. "We haven't hit recently and I've been unable to give Steve Garvey, Ron Cev. Bill Russell and Dusty Baker a rest due to the fact that some of our other guys have been hurt," Lasorda noted.

The Reds wouldn't mind seeing the Dodgers play .561 baseball the rest of the way.

Despite the recent addition of Tom Seaver, the Reds' pitching has to be the biggest disappointment, Anderson said. In the NL East, the lead of the surprising Chicago Cubs has over defending champion Philadelphia in the last few weeks.

"We haven't been playing too good," admitted pitcher Rick Reuschel, one of the NL's top winners with 12 victories. "But we're still in first place and that's a pretty good indication that if we can ride through this slump we should be okay.

"I think it will be as close as it was in the first half, all jumbled up. Rookie Scrimmage

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)- A routine rookie scrimmage between the Dallas Cowboys and San Diego Chargers was to become a Heisman Trophy showcase

Heisman winners Tony Dorsett of the Cowboys and Johnny Rodgers of the Chargers were making their first appearance in National Football League uniforms in the scrimmage on the campus of the University of California-Irvine.

A few young veterans as well as rookies will participate in the scrimmage.

Dorsett won college football's most prestious award after last season when he led Pittsburgh to a national championship. Rodgers won the Heisman Trophy at Nebraska after the 1971 football season, but this year will be his first in the National Football League after a stint in the Canadian Football

Also appearing in the scrimmage will be Joe Washington, former Oklahoma running back who missed all of last year with the Chargers following a preseason knee injury. Washngton was second to Archie Griffin in Heisman voting two

Uncertainty of Business Illustrated

NEW YORK (AP)- The uncertainty of business is no more vividly illustrated than in the fortunes of two Memphis, Tenn., companies- Cook Industries, Inc., and Union Planters National Bank.

The directions taken by those two concerns- both well known nationally and internationallyare good examples of the fact that nothing is predictable in corporate life.

Just a few short years ago. the concerns were speeding full-steam in opposite directions. Cook, under the tutelage of chairman E.W. 'Ned' Cook. was a high-flying commodities company that had grown to become one of the five-largest grain exporting firms in the country.

The company's young, aggressive staff, said to be among the best-paid in the industry. came up with coup after coup in arranging huge grain sales abroad. Between 1972 and 1974, Cook's pretax earnings sky rocketed to $80 million from $4 million. The company was the pride of the city.

At the same time, there also was another company in the city that was attracting headlines in newspapers around the country. But most of the space being devoted to Union Planters- UPwas dealing with the $742.5 million deposit bank's financial troubles, and the plethora of lawsuits implicating members of the bank's management were involved in fraud and kickback schemes.

While observers were praising the successes of Cook, they were wondering out loud when UP would go down for the third time in the nearby Mississippi River. The bank had a loss of nearly $17 million in 1974 and a deficit of $2.8 million a year

It hasn't happened. In fact, just a few short years later, the situation is reversed. UP apparently has pulled itself up from the basement- at one time it had been labeled by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency as the No. 1 troubled bank in the country- and cook is being hit by financial chaos that threatens its very existence.

Business watchers attribute the shifts to the company's top officers- Cook, the UP's chairman and chief executive officer, William M. Matthews Jr. They say that as Cook Industries' successes mounted, Cook delegated more and more authority to his top management. With that delegation of authority went the internal controls that could have prevented Cook's current sta-

The situation at Union Planters is different. Matthews' 16-and 18-hour days already are legend in the area. And his one-man-rule manner has turned off many townspeople, as well as colleagues. But in the three years he has spent at the Memphis bank, he has been able to turn a nearly hopeless situation around.

Just last week, Union Planters reported its second quarter results, and the numbers gave further proof that the bank is, indeed, on its way 13-7-tfc to financial recovery. The firm's first half earnings at $784,559, or 25 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $2.7 million, or 86 cents a share, a year before. Though the profit figures are small by major bank standards. they nonetheless are significant advances by UP. First of all, they represent operating earnings. And secondly, they look turn this bank around," the 44-year-old executive says. 'The situation when I came here was just unbelievable. "We had low-level employes, making $12,000 a year, who were wearing diamond rings and driving to work in Continentals. Nobody in the previous management ever thought to ask how they could afford it. Now we have enough ex-employees in jail to open a branch."

Matthews' aggressiveness also is paying off in the electronic banking area, where UP has taken a huge lead in Memphis that augurs well for its future. Matthews claims, as do some bank analysts, that UP is in the forefront of banks in the country in electronic banking.

Across town, at Cook Industries, things aren't as rosy, and information is much more difficult to get.

The apparent demise of Cook Industries began a few months ago, when in the period of few weeks, a corporate empire was nearly brought to its knees.

The company was required to disclose information about questionable payments abroad to start things off. Then, in rapid succession, it announced million, or $7.47 a share, in the first nine months of its fiscal year; that its expected a deficit of $60 million for the fiscal fourth quarter; and that the top two officers in its agriproducts group the one responsible for the huge losses were resigning. Trading in Cook shares on the American Stock Exchange was halted and the company began to sell off many of its assets and that it had a loss of $27.4 lay off employes. Rumors began to circulate that the company would scale back sharply and become basically a cotton firm. leaving the much- more volatile grain business altogether.

Ned Cook has refused to comment on the developments throughout the turmoil, choosing instead to allow commodities experts and the press to speculate on the company's
