Brown Says Cheap Food Policy To Reduce Farmer Numbers

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

State Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said during a joint meeting of three Hereford civic clubs that the "cheap food policy" of the Carter administration will continue to force farmers out of business.

Brown also talked about gasohol, promising that two plants would be constructed in Texas within a year, and the need to import water to the Panhandle during a meeting of the Noon Lions, Noon Kiwanians and Hereford Rotarians Thursday at the Community

Brown said that Americans pay 18.6 percent of their disposable income for food.

"Disposable income is going to have to go up to 30 percent in this country for agriculture to survive," he said. "I am concerned about farmers getting 100 percent of parity, but I'm more concerned about the government's cheap food policy. It's the reason that 67 percent of Texans who lived on farms and ranches in 1921 is down to three percent.

"We don't have a farm program--we have a food program. But you take the agriculture away from Hereford, and the sand will blow.

Brown promised his department would help in getting water to the High Plains and vowed that "two refineries this year will be selling gasohol.'

Gasohol is fuel-grade alcohol made from corn and has been pushed for continually by Brown and the Texas Corn Growers Association the last several

"Texas is the third most bountiful producer of agricultural products in the nation. We are hopeful that some of our current surplus production can soon be used to produce fuel alcohol in this state and help ease our budget-busting dependence on imported petroleum.' Brown said.

"There are still several tough obstacles to overcome...," he said, adding that one of those was the state Legislature's refusal to allow the manufacturer of gasohol in Texas.

"One of the most important benefits of gasohol production is that it would provide an additional market outlet for many of our surplus agricultural products." Brown said.

"But it would not reduce food production or export capabilities because much of the alcohol production comes from the use of by-products and crops not suitable for food.

"With the price of oil being dictated to us from foreign countries, it is time to get serious about alternatives. It's time to put present technology into action and push for full development of agriculturallyderived fuels.

He said: "We've had lots of plans and lots of engineering studies, but we haven't gotten anything done. "We're not doing a good job of selling, and we

Egyptian President Unhappy with Proposals

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - President Carter is taking his Mideast peace pilgrimage aboard the oldest train in Africa for rolling talks with Egypt's Anwar Sadat on a see-and-be-seen trip among the masses who farm the verdant delta of the Nile.

Carter and the Egyptian president, said by U.S. officials to be unhappy with American proposals for a treaty with Israel, arranged to board an open car today on the special ceremonial train for the journey through blooming cotton and cheering

The two leaders are taking their negotiations to ancient Alexandria, on the Mediterranean shore, where the American president and his wife, Rosalynn, will spend the night at Ras El Tin, the oldest palace in Egypt.

They will return to Cairo by helicopter Saturday for a final working lunch before Carter flies to Jerusalem for at least three days of treaty talks with Prime Minister Menachem Begin. Carter tentatively is scheduled to return home Monday,

School Page Make Debut

"Making The Grade," a special page aimed at increasing public awareness of the school system, makes its debut in today's BRAND. The Hereford Independent School District is sponsoring the page to explain programs and policies of the school district.

Dr. Harrell L. Holder, superintendent of schools, announced this week that the publication is being initiated as part of a new five-year management plan to improve school-community relations.

"The importance of a well informed public is realized in the day-by-day administration of your schools," stated Dr. Holder. "Our surveys have indicated that school-community relations need more attention both by our staff and the general public."

A series of the special pages will be published under the direction of Mal Manchee, director of program development for HISD. All articles will be prepared by school officials, and the page is presented as public service by the school district.

Lions Honor Herman Ford With Request

A proposal to rename the Hereford YMCA Service Club Olympics in honor of Herman Ford was presented in the joint meeting of the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs here Thursday.

Gayle Cotten, president of the Hereford Lions Club, presented the resolution which recommended that the "Y" board officially title the olympics as "The Herman Ford Service Club Olympics."

Ford died last week at the age of 72. A longtime insurance agent here, he was a charter member of Hereford Rotary Club and was active in the First Christian Church, the Masons and Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. He had also been active in the service club olympics.

The resolution, unanimously approved by the Llons' board, drew an enthusiastic response from the audience here Thursday. It read:

"Whereas Hereman Ford was devoted to the betterment of our community, and whereas Ford was devoted to the purpose of civic clubs in our community and, whereas Ford was devoted to the welfare of the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, and whereas Ford was an active participant in the YMCA Service Club Olympics:

"Be it resolved that a recommendation be made to the Hereford YMCA Board of Directors that they rename the YMCA Service Club Olympics and that the olympics be known as the Herman Ford Service Club Olymthan two dozen other House members introduced a bill Thursday they said would remedy the situation and cut insurance premiums.

It was the latest in a series of skirmishes between trial lawyers and insurance companies over who deserves the blame for a series of insurance crises.

"The 'Insurance Rate Relief and Reporting Act' is designed to save Texas insurance consumers an estimated $300 million to $500 million in property and casualty insurance premiums," Maloney said at a news conference.

Key provisions of the bill would: -Base insurance rates on insurance companies' actual expenses and losses in

Bergland Assures Japanese That Exports To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although he has said it many times in the last two years. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is taking special pains to assure Japan the United States does not plan any embargo on farm exports.

Bergland said Thursday this assurance was given by President Carter "as recently as three days ago.'

Embargoes on some U.S. farm exports were temporarily imposed in the mid-1970s, when it appeared to some that supplies were running out. The Carter administration has pledged repeatedly that no such lids would be imposed.

Moreover, there is a huge supply of grain now, compared to 1973-74. Soybean supplies have been kept from building sharply by large export business, but farmers are expected to boost plantings again this year.

"The government of the United States has no intention of imposing an agricultural embargo on any commodity to your country or any other," Bergland told a U.S.-Japan agricultural trade conference here.

"The market will work in an open and free and uncluttered fashion," he said. Japan's ambassador to the United Stats, Fumihiko Togo, told the group a few minutes earlier that the U.S.

Senate Postpones

Limit on Earnings

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate, without a roll-call vote, has decided to delay imposing for four years an $8,600 limit on how much its members may earn above their $57,500 salary.

They are thus free to earn an extra $25,000 a year for speeches and unlimited additional income from law practices and other private sources.

Sen. Ted Stevens said delaying the limitation "will help avoid inflationary pressures."

The new requirement is now scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1983. It applied technically since last Jan. 1.

Senators are thus left with only one limit on their outside income: the $25,000 annual ceiling on speaking fees imposed by federal election laws.

Stevens, an Alaska Republican, said that, "while it is not easy to provide college educations to five children, keep homes in two of the highest cost cities in the nation and travel back and forth regularly, I have not lost money while

Crane Depicted

As Sex Lover

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - New Hampshire's best-known conservative newspaper has tossed a grenade into the previously quiet race between the two top conservative contenders for the 1980

Republican presidential nomination. Ronald Reagan and Rep. Phillip Crane.

The Manchester Union Leader, in a front-page story Thursday, quoted a unidentified source purporting to be a former Crane staff member as saying that the Illinois congressman was "just too good looking," that "women are always throwing themselves all over him," and that he "once told a friend he was committed to bedding down 1,000 different women."

Part of the article also was attributed to an unidentified source purporting to be a Reagan staffer, who reportedly said that when Crane served as the former California governor's Illinois campaign chairman in 1976, he spent most of his time in the hotel cocktail lounge with friends, many of them women.

Below the article, the Union Leader the only daily newspaper with a statewide circulation - carried an editorial backing Reagan for president in 1980. It also supported him in 1976.

Crane, after reading the article, called on Reagan to fire the aide who supposedly supplied the "false, scandalous information."

Flood Waters Force

Hundreds To Evacuate By The Associated Press

Authorities in Illinois and Indiana kept a close watch today on the Kankakee River and two large ice jams that have caused flooding and led to the evacuation of hundreds of people.

A spokesman for the Kankakee auxiliary police Civil Defense unit in Illinois said today that the situation was

"To say what will happen today is unpredictable," he said.

'When the ice lets loose from a jam, there's no telling what will happen. Right now the water is about 5 feet above normal, but the condition is stable. Both the jams are standing high and fluctuation of a few inches could mean trouble.

"We're getting some help from the weather though, and that's a good sign. The ice is getting soft and crumbling from the jams in pieces.

On Thursday, the jam at the Interstate 57 bridge some 60 miles south-southwest of Chicago broke, sending what a river patrol spokesman described as a "surge" of water downstream but causing no damage or new evacuations.

Since Sunday, about 500 families along the Kankakee River in Illinois have been forced from their homes.

Elsewhere around the nation, a cold front continued to push southward across the Dakotas, bringing snow, gusty winds and colder temperatures to the area.

Teamsters Threaten

To Disregard Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Teamsters union is threatening to barrel through President Carter's anti-inflation wage guidelines with pay raise demands that more than double the 7 percent voluntary limit called for by Carter.

The union is asking the trucking industry for a first-year wage increase of 14 percent, sources say, while demanding full cost-of-living protection on top of

The 300,000 truck drivers and warehouse workers affected by the contract talks now make an average of $9.40 an hour in straight-time wages.

The union's demand is for a flat $1.35 hourly raise, plus additional increases tied to the inflation rate, said the sources, who requested anonymity.

The current agreement expires March 31. A top union official has expressed confidence the two sides can reach a settlement by the deadline to avert a potentially crippling nationwide strike.

In all, the union is seeking $2.35 over three years, a 25 percent general wage increase. When major fringe benefits and the cost-of-living raises are added, the demand equals a 50 percent to 55 percent boost overall.

One administration official acknowledged Thursday that the union's initial offer is "way above the guidelines."

settlement. "We'll stay as long as we have to," Powell said. Carter's negotiations with Sadat looked a lot like a replay of his tug of war with Begin last week in Washington - with no guarantee of an ending as happy as the finale to the Begin talks. After five days of tough negotiating, Begin left Washington with new U.S. proposals for a treaty between Israel and Egypt. The Israeli cabinet okayed the proposals Monday, and Begin said if Egypt accepted the proposals a treaty could be signed in a few weeks.

But when Carter arrived in Cairo Thursday he ran head-long into Egyptian counter-proposals. Terms were not disclosed. But one American official said 21/2 hours of talks between Carter and Sadat focused "almost entirely upon the unresolved issues."

"You can assume the Egyptians are not very happy" about the U.S. suggestions for the treaty, said a top White House official who asked not to be identified. It was understood that Carter would be very reluctant to modify the proposals, however, because he had rejected Begin's demands for changes.

One U.S. official cautioned against optimism or pessimism, saying, "It's too early to tell how the meetings here will turn out." He urged reporters to leave it right in the middle." U.S. proposals, he said, did not totally satisfy either Egypt or Israel.

One sticking point has been the issue of 1.1 million Palestinians living in Israeli-occupied territory on the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Sadat wants a timetable for the civil autonomy Begin has promised them. But Begin opposes linking Palestinian autonomy to the treaty.

A reported proposal for compromise would set a target date for implementing the autonomy, but no hard deadline.

Another sticking point has been a clause saying the Egyptian-Israeli treaty supercedes all previous conflicting agreements. Sadat has insisted that the treaty not take precedence over Egypt's commitment to assist other Arab countires in self-defense against Israel.

Also in question are U.S. military guarantees of Israeli security. Begin said a mutual defense pact was mentioned during his talks with Carter in Washington. Should the United States formally propose such a pact, Begin said, "I would recommend that we accept it."

Special Visitor To Share Poetry Appreciation At West Central

The fourth, fifth and sixth graders at West Central Elementary School are going to have a visitor. During the week of March 19-23, Mr. David Yates from New Braunfels will be at the school to share with and help the students to read, write and appreciate poetry.

Mr. Yates is married to an elementary school

Media Center Is Exciting Place

The Media Center at West Central School is one of the most exciting places in school. The room is large, the shelves are filled with interesting books, and the pretty, warm colors make it an inviting place for the children to come.

Every child in the school, from the four-year olds to the sixth graders, is scheduled to come to the Media Center once a week. They come to listen to a story, to learn about using the library, to check out books, and to read for enjoyment. Older children can come to the Media Center when they are doing research, when they have finished their regular work in their unit, or when they need to check books in or out.

A part of the scheduled time children spend in the Media Center is used to teach them about caring for books, being responsible for their books, selecting the right book, using the card catalog, and using reference materials.

By using the Media Center at school, children are developing a love for books, for reading, and for the enjoyment that comes from both.

Music Plan: Have Fun While Lagrning

Students at Bluebonn we fun while learning through the music prog ? This program strives to build an understanding 1 enjoyment of music through student involveragin and participation.

Mrs. Kerry Lorey, music specialist, works with grades one through six on a daily schedule which. allows 15 minutes for first, and 20 minutes for students in grades 2-6. Classes are kept to a size of 18 to 27 students whenever possible to provide more opportunity for individual and small group

Special attention is given to improving regular classroom studies through the use of music. As an example, in an effort to build on the curriculum of geography and social studies, students explore the. music of other lands and know how various cultural differences effect the music of the people of the world.

The music classes in all grades provide the music used in pluebonnet's daily morning exercises. This is accomplished by students singing patriotic songs which are tape-recorded and then played through the intercom system to all classrooms.

The total music program at Bluebonnet is designed to give students many varied opportunities to enjoy and succeed in music. It stresses creative movement and expression in a free and relaxed classroom setting. Music strives to give a student more confidence in himself, and through this builds within himself a better self-image.

teacher, has three children and is presently teaching for the English department at Southwestern State University in San Marcos. In the past he has taught high school journalism and was church editor for the Dallas Times Herald and police reporter for the Houston Chronicle. In 1974 he was selected as one of the top four journalism teachers in Texas. In addition he has also taught creative writing.

With the assistance of the Texas Commission of the Arts and Humanities, the National Endowment for the Arts and the United States Office of Education the district is indeed fortunate to have Mr. Yates visit us. And, not only will our visiting poet share his work and ideas with the students, he has also been invited to visit with a number of local organizations in the evenings.

We wish to extend a Hereford welcome to Mr. Yates and hope that he enjoys his stay with us as much as we are going to enjoy his visit.

Handicapped Given Special Opportunities

Northwest Elementary has a group of very special people in its school. These special people are handicapped in some way and are given the kind of special educational opportunities that will meet their special needs through Special Education classes.

Students with various handicapping conditions are provided individual or small group help. Some of the handicapping conditions served through Special Education at Northwest Elementary are the physically handicapped, auditorily handicapped, language and/or learning disabled, mentally retarded, students with emotional adjustment problems, and the speech handicapped.

Another group of special people, the Special Education teachers, help these handicapped students to make sure that they are placed in the right classes and that they receive the kind of education they need so that all of their abilities can be developed to their fullest.

The special teachers at Northwest are proud of their special children and would like to invite you to visit the special programs anytime.

Business Math Vital

In August of 1978 high school and junior high school began studying the mathametric abilities of students after they leave school, either by graduation or by dropping out. It was pointed out to them by various tocal businessmen that when young people begin working, they lack many essential skills in business mathematics.

As a result, the mathematics teachers of La Plata decided to experiment with a short 2 to 3 week program in consumer and business mathematics. We are using workbooks, entitled -It's Your Money and have set up mini-courses that will last 2 to 3 weeks.

The program covers such topics as paychecks, deductions, budgeting, wise shopping, geometry in the home, charge accounts, installment buying, loans, auto and life insurance, tax. It is known that all of these topics cannot be fully covered in such a short time, however, it is hoped that students can be made aware of some of these things, so that they will become better consumers and better workers in their jobs.

In Junior High and Kigh School

Students Can Develop Business Skills

Students who want to develop business skills, which will allow them to enter business-oriented jobs, and those who want to prepare for further education in business, have that opportunity in the Business Department of Hereford Independent School District.

Students are presented with many chances to gain knowledge through guest speakers, field trips to businesses, and business observations as well as through classroom which include job simulations. They also receive instructions in related areas such as completing job applications, development of proper business attitudes, and are made aware of educational and career opportunities. Students are encouraged to realize that proper skills plus a good, positive attitude will help bring them success in whatever field they

Junior high school courses available for students are Personal-Use Typing followed by Typing I and General Business. The high school offers Typing I, Typing II, Accouting I and II. Business Law, Business Organization and Management, Data Processing, Keypunch, Personal-Use Typing, and Shorthand.

The district has provided modern equipment for these classes. In high school, students use IBM Selectric typewriters in typing and shorthand, adding machines and electronic calculators in accounting, and card punch machines and a data recorder in data processing.

The doors to the exciting, fast-moving world of the future can be opened through courses in BUSINESS.

School-Community Relations Are Given High Priority In Survey

BY DR. HARRELL L. HOLDER

The improvement of school-community relations has been given a high priority in the new five-year management plan currently being developed by the Hereford Independent School District. This has been identified in our surveys as an area needing more attention both by our staff and the general public. The importance of a well informed public is realized in the day by day administration of your schools.

Publications such as these are aimed at increasing your awareness of what is really happening in the Hereford Schools. We honestly solicit your suggestions which you feel might assist us in finding effective lines of communication with every facet of the community.

The Board of Education and staff are proud of the many services available to the children of this district. We also realize there are some areas where improvement may be needed. We want to continue to work side by side with all of the citizens of this school district in an effort to keep our schools among the finest in the entire state. Let this be your special invitation to visit your schools or come by the central office and let us explain any program or policy which you may feel needs clarification.

Improving Reading Ability

An important program in the Hereford Independent Schools is one to improve the reading ability of students. Students who need to progress in reading skills are identified through achievement tests and are taught in small groups. At Aikman Elementary, in grades 4 through 6, information is collected from several sources to develop an ability chart on each students. Teachers Mary Hendrickson and Jaquetta Glass are pictured as they help several students in the resource room at Aikman.

Migrant Program Used To Improve Reading Skills

The Hereford Independent Schools, through the Migrant Program, is working on improving reading. At Aikman Elementary in grades 4 through 6, information is collected from several sources to put together an ability chart on each child. Scores from several achievement tests which are given in reading and teacher-prepared tests on materials covered in class have been recorded so the students needs may be better

We started early in the year developing basic listening skills, working on sounds, learning to read faster with better understanding and word meaning for daily living.

From the students' charts we can see a great deal of reading progress in almost all children in the program.

During part of the day, the students are taught in small groups in the Resource Room with a certified teacher. The teacher is assisted by a

Stanton Encourages Competitive Spirit

The spirit of competition is encouraged at Stanton Junior High. Students are given the opportunity both in and out of the classroom to compete.

Stanton had fifty-five students who entered the Scholastic Art Awards in Amarillo recently. These entries included pen and ink, charcoal, photography, pastels, tempra, three-dimension, pottery, and other forms of art.

Some of the Texas History classes will have students competing in a History Fair later this month. The projects will be about Texas' past. present, and future history, and will be on display during Texas Education Week in March.

Stanton faculty members encourage students to enter competitive activities when the opportunity arises. Students will have the opportunity to be in competition, individually, or in groups in music-band, choir, and/or orchestra, art, VOCT, industrial arts, athletics, intramurals, science, math, essay contests, spelling, home economics, FFA, and history during this school year.

This competition greatly adds to the total learning situation at Stanton and will benefit the students by allowing and expand their kowledge or the subjects they study in class.

teacher aide. The rest of the day the teacher and aide help these students in individual classrooms during their regular reading classes.

In this program the district continues to look for new and better teaching materials in order to do a more thorough and successful job.

Math Program Gives Help Where Needed

The Title I Math program at Shirley Elementary is set up to help children in grades 1 through 6, who are behind in their regular work. Students come to the resource room each day and work with a teacher and teacher aide in improving their Teachers in the building send students to this class when testing shows a need. When students improve and can do the regular class work they return to their classes.

At the beginning of each school year the students are tested with achievement tests and teacher made tests. The results of the tests determine where the children need help. Various different programs, are used to determine the individual student needs.

Audio-visual equipment such as, the Digitor, System 80 and Mini-system series captures the interest of learners of all age abilities. They motivate students as each program allow the child to advance at his own rate of learning.

These programs present every possible number fact in addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division and proceeds from simple to complex. The students must answer correctly before the next problem is presented. The correct answer is always displayed and the student never sees a "wrong" answer.

This provides concentrated drill and learning opportunities in one or more number skills. Various activities, such as games provide competive practice which leads to improvement in self-competition and speed in mastery, development of small motor coordination, and visual skills. -

Many of the students ask each day if it's their time for work with these different activities.

By providing these different programs, a wealth of ideas for exciting, challenging activities, help prepare the student for a more successful future. The serious business of learning can be great fun.

Christians Reluctant To Talk About Faith

NEW YORK (AP) - A lot of Christians are reluctant to talk about their faith to people outside the church. This was brought out in a recent survey among members of the Lutheran Church in America and it has been cited as a damper on religious vitality in modern society.

"I would be shy about talking to others about my faith, another commented. Also: "I couldn't communicate very well what the Gospel means to me. I'd feel I was imposing my beliefs on others." "Talking about religion and faith is really the pastor's job."

That contemporary tendency to reticence about faith has been widely noted in the more sedate or "dignified" denominations, as they're sometimes described, in contrast to the evangelical-style churches. It is the latter that have grown fastest lately, while the others mostly have sagged.

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?" And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle" of a great depression."

The Hereford Whitefaces capitalized on its six run third inning to wallop the visiting Palo Duro Dons, 13-2 in non-district baseball action yesterday at Whiteface field.

Ernie Suarez led the Herd attack, going 3-4 at the plate including two triples. Other Whitefaces gaining extra base hits were Don Weemes with two triples and Lee Schultz with a double.

Kevin Bunch, winning pitcher and now 2-0, allowed only one hit in the four complete innings he pitched. Schultz relieved Bunch in the fifth inning to gain his first save of the young

The 'Faces, now 2-1 for the season, started slow and fell behind 1-0 after the first inning when Bunch threw a wild pitch for the Dons' first run. The Herd did not score until the third, but when they did it was in convincing fashion, bringing six runs across the plate before the visitors could retire the streaking Whitefaces. Hereford added two more runs in the fourth inning and five in the sixth to finish its scoring for the game. Palo Duro meanwhile could only get to first base via the walk, which Bunch surrendered six times-The first hit by Palo Duro came in the third inning, a single to left field by Lee Anthony.

Hereford's dominence of the game was evident in the catagory of errors as the Herd did not have any miscues while the Dons committed five mistakes. Other areas of play had the Whitefaces pounding out 11 hits to three to the Dons.

Aggies Enjoying NIT Play Is Tarkanian Guilty?

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) -Texas A&M's Aggies made their debut in the National Invitational Tourney and liked it so much they've decided they might as well go ahead and win the thing.

"I think we might just go on and win this little tournament." said Aggie forward Vernon Smith, who had a big hand in the Aggies 79-68 first-round NIT victory over New Mexico Thursday night.

"I'm ready to go farther. If we play like we did tonight, I don't see why we won't," he

And his counterpart on the other side of the floor who joined him in terrorizing the Lobos, Rynn Wright, was in total agreement.

"We can beat anybody if we play like this," said Wright, like Smith, a sophomore forward. "We've got a pretty good shot at winning this whole thing."

While the Aggies, 23-8, were flying high at the University of New Mexico Arena, they still have a ways to go before they can wing their way back to College. Station with the championship trophy. The next stop will be at Nevada-Reno where they have a date for a second round clash Monday

"Reno will be our 20th road game. They shouldn't be doing this to us," said Coach Shelby Metcalf, who feels his team has spent more than its share of time in airports this season and would like to give his players at least one more outing at home.

But being on the road, and playing before 18,038 rabid Lobo fans, didn't bother Metcalf's players, especially Smith and Wright.

The muscular duo pounded the middle for 46 points between them with each getting 23, and sparked a blistering shooting performance that sent the Lobos hopes for an NIT crown up in smoke.

Wright, a 6-foot-6, 200pounder, from Dallas, paced the Aggies marksman by hitting on 10 of 11 field goals. And he was perfect from the charity stripe Smith, a 6-7, 205 pound ace who also hails from Dallas, was 11 of 15 from the floor and connected on one of his two attempts from the free throw

They were joined in double figures by 6-11 freshman center Rudy Woods, who was 5 of 7 in field goals and free throws, as the Aggies' inside trio accounted for 61 of the club's 79 points.

With Wright, Smith and Woods getting in close for their shots, Texas A&M finished with a sizzling 62 percent shooting performance from the floor - 31

"Everybody was hitting the open man and we were getting the good shots," said Smith. "We didn't take any bad shots," said Wright. But for New Mexico the opposite was true. The Lobos put the ball up 76 times but found the range only 29 times for a dismal 38 percent showing. "You're not going to beat a good basketball team shooting like that," said New Mexico

Coach Norm Ellenberger. New Mexico, 19-10, led but once, with 9:25 to go when Larry Belin, who topped the Lobos 13 points, bur his club on top 53-52. The Wolfpack knotted the score at 54-54 seconds later on a free throw by Belin for the game's

But the Aggies rattled off 10 unanswered points for a 64-54 lead and it was time to make the reservations for Reno.

The Aggies, who normally play a man-to-man defense, used a zone and the Lobos were forced to throw up long range bombs that, more times than not, didn't fall.

'We felt they might be a little quicker than us so we went with our zone," said Smith. "We like the man better but the zone was working so good we didn't have to use the man. Our defense was

The same couldn't be said for New Mexico's pressing man-toman defense.

"We flow with our defense," said Ellenberger. "When we are scoring, the defense initiates it. I didn't think we really bothered them too much Smith concurred: their press every time. They didn't steal it from us once. We played real good."

For the Lobos it was a bitter end to a season in which they at 67. Tied at 68 were British had rallied to win 11 of their last 13 games to secure the fifth NIT bid in the school's history.

"There's no excuses." said senior guard Mark Felix. "Everybody was behind us, we had the home floor and we still "I can't say they're not the better team because the score says they were. But deep down in my heart I feel we're better. But they're a damn good team and they won. If I had to pick a NIT winner. I think they can win the whole thing."

Another senior guard, Russell Saunders, admitted the Lobos "played bad. I had no idea why we played this way but we did. I just know we lost. If I knew why, I would have prevented it."

And the Lobos said they, felt especially bad for their fans who have turned out in large numbers all season.

'They deserve better than what they got," said senior forward Phil Abney, the club's leading scorer who managed only nine points: "I feel a little hollow.'

Metcalf was worried before the game the home court and the boisterous Lobo crowd might hurt his club. The Lobos. were 15-1 in their beloved "Pit" this year and 31-2 during the past two seasons.

'The odds were in their favor. But we broke Kentucky's 26-game home record earlier this season," he said after the

'We had heard they had a pretty good crowd and we just couldn't let New Mexico get a big lead or they might blow us said Wright. "But we didn't really feel pressure from that crowd.

There were some bright spots for New Mexico, though, as the Lobos did outrebound the taller Aggies 41-38 and had seven fewer turnovers 10-17. But the Lobos found out that's not enough. You have to put the ball in the hole to win, which is what the Aggies, apparently,

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Hear ye, hear ye, the case against Jerry Tarkanian is now

Is "Tark the Shark" a cheater? How strong is the NCAA evidence against him? And if he does cheat, does the punishment fit the crime? You be the judge.

Tarkanian was suspended in 1977 from coaching the University of Nevada - Las Vegas basketball team for two years, one of the worst' punishments given to a ceach in NCAA history. Investigators say the penalty stemmed from Tarkanian's pattern of alleged past violations at Long Beach State and, more importantly, an alleged effort to interfere with the NCAA probe.

The Associated Press has gained possession of confidential documents and information pertaining to the case against Long Beach and UNLV.

Long Beach went on NCAA probation for three years for violations allegedly committed in football and basketball. Half the charges against the basketball program involved fraudulent ACT American College Testing scores, enabling three athletes to enroll.

But did Tarkanian arrange for someone else to take those

"No, I'm an educator. I can't mess around with that stuff." The NCAA never connected

Carew Healthy And

Tarkanian with tampering, alleging that his assistant, Ivan Duncan, arranged for stand-ins to take the tests.

The only serious allegation linked to Tarkanian is that he promised Eugene Short, a high school All-American, that his family would be moved to Long Beach and that a job would be found for his mother.

Tarkanian denies the charge and says the Short did too. Tarkanian says his NCAA problems stem from a column he wrote, blasting the punishment of Centenary College. "I wrote that the charges were Mickey Mouse. It was the biggest mistake I ever made."

The Las Vegas charges provide less of a direct link to Tarkanian, which the NCAA attributes to "Tark the Shark" learning from mistakes and better insulting himself. The NCAA is also skeptical about the affidavits Tarkanian has produced from players which allegedly conflict with their previous testimony to investigators.

The NCAA says it never punishes anybody without proof. One coach feels otherwise in the Tarkanian case: "If you know Al Capone is killing. people, you get him on income tax evasion.

Most of the big charges against UNLV are directed against Tarkanian's predecessor, John Bayer. The most serious allegations are that Tarkanian arranged for instructor Harvey Mumford to provide prospective student-athlete David Vaughn a "B" grade in a course without attending class and that he pressured ex-player Jeep Kelley to change his testimony to the NCAA.

Tarkanian denies both char-

The NCAA investigators never interviewed anybody except Mumford, yet the Infractions Committee found Tarkanian and Mumford guilty of the charge, stating in its Confidential Report: "The Committee believes Mumford did, in fact, provide this information to the NCAA and is now attempting to remove himself from the case."

The charge of interefering with testimony strikes at the of the NCAA's investigative process. Since the NCAA lacks subpoena power, it must rely on the cooperation of players and coaches in reporting violations. The NCAA says Tarkanian coerced Kelley, its key witness, to change his testimony, prompting the severe 2-year suspension.

Kelley -- considered "flaky" by both sides in this case denied testimony he allegedly gave in May of 1975. He also has a different recollection of his phone conversations with the NCAA in 1976.

Thus, the evidence in the NCAA's harassment case comes down to a key witness who, at best, is unreliable and, at worst,, is now hostile to the NCAA.

Tarkanian admits to contacting Kelley and asking him to sign some statements.

He also admits offering to arrange for Kelley to get a tryout with a summer league, where he might be scouted by the Los Angeles Lakers, and arranging for Kelley to enter the University of Hawaii. "I would do that for all my players," he arranging came because Kelley was freely talking to the NCAA. found against Tarkanian on the interference charge.

The NCAA, contending all of Tarkanian's contacting and to catch."

Tarkanian does not claim to be a saint but can't understand why he's been singled out. "Maybe it's because we won too quickly and they assumed we were doing terrible things; We do so little cheating, it's incredible." Tarkanian was one of the several coaches who told of their ordeals during the Congress ional investigations of the subcommittee on Oversity and Investigations which concluded that the NCAA has abused its power and recommended various procedural and policy changes.

"Why have I had to suffer what I have suffered over the last six years at the hands of the NCAA? I honestly don't know."

Tarkanian can certainly be faulted for not stressing education, for breaking some of the NCAA's rules and looking the other way on the violations committed by assistants and others close to his program.

But the evidence against Tarkanian, after two of the most exhaustive investigations in NCAA history, would probably not convict him in any court in the land.

True or not, the NCAA punishment does not fit the crime; yet Tarkanian carries the reputation of a criminal.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons, a former president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, has a down-home way of putting Tarkanian's travails into perspective:

"Reminds me of the guy drivin' down the road doin' 60 and everybody is passin' him goin' 80. A cop stops the guy and he says, 'Why me?' And the cop says, 'Cause you're easier

Tarnished porch fixture

DEAR POLLY - Our old brass porch lighting fixture is tarnished and some areas are painted over so I would like some suggestions concerning refinish-

DEAR T.J.M. - My decision would be determined by whether or not the fixture is brass or brass plated. You could remove the paint with a commercial paint remover and then try cleaning all the brass with a regular brass cleaner or a paste of salt and vinegar but do rinse off well. If this does not improve the fixture's looks you had better take it to a brass refinisher and have it replated and lacquered OR repaint the entire fixture black or whatever color you would like. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My son lives in an old farm house that has an odor we cannot get rid of even though we have painted the walls and woodwork and washed everything that is washable. We have used room deodorizers but nothing has helped so I hope someone has some Pointers for us. - E.N.

DEAR POLLY - We had a peculiar odor in a closet so we put some washing ammonia in an open container and placed it in the closed closet. Cigarette smokers can freshen their smoke filled coats, sweaters, etc., by placing them in the clothes dryer with an ammonia dampened cloth and turn on "Fluff" for a few minutes. The house can be kept quite smoke free by placing small open containers of ammonia here and there but DO BE SURE to keep it out of reach of pets and children - D.S.T.

DEAR POLLY - For many years I have kept all my spices in alphabetical order in my cupboard thus making it much easier and faster to find what I am looking for. Educate natural reflexes

HEALTH

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am an 83-year-old woman and in good health except for constipation, which I've had most of my life. I take Metamucil for bulk and about one-fourth teaspoon of Senokot. Also, I take mineral oil for lubrication and that seems to help.

I drink lots of water, get exercise and drive my own car. I only weigh 82 pounds and I'm 4 feet 11 inches tall. What is the best time for me to take medicine like I'm taking? Should I take mineral oil at bedtime on an empty stomach? Also, I take Metamucil and the in a glass of milk. Should this be taken at bedtime too?

Kindly get me straight. DEAR READER - I'm sorry to hear that you're taking so many things for your bowel function. Sometimes it's very difficult to reverse such a pattern, particularly if it is a longstanding habit of many years as seems to be your case. The bowel usually functions normally in most people if it's not abused.

Unfortunately, many people do abuse the colon by using harsh laxatives, eating the wrong foods and developing habits that don't permit the colon to establish its own rhythm and natural Senokot is a chemical laxative. I am sending you the Health Letter number 12-8, Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories, to give you more information on these products. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Chemical laxatives stimulate the colon to contract and it is wrong to take these all the time.

Mineral oil has a lot o. drawbacks and I think the best choice here would be to stop it entirely. People who use mineral oil sometimes make it difficult for their own small intestine to absorb important vitamins and minerals. Besides that, part of the mineral oil is absorbed and is treated as a foreign body inside the organs. Then, of course, it has the unpleasant social problem of sometimes leaking through the rectum. I'm afraid I just can't recommend mineral oil. The Metamucil, of course, provides bulk. Often that is what a person needs and, hopefully, most people will get it from natural food products. The best ones are the cereal fibers which you can get from whole grain cereals that provide bran. A proper diet that includes a sufficient emount of bulk, an adequate amount of liquids and an exercise program and proper bowel training go a long way toward solving the problems of chronic constipation. How do you train the bowel? You eat a good breakfast that includes an and at least two large glasses of fluids and then go to the bathroom. You make the trip to the bathroom daily, whether or not there is any elimination. You may need to use an enema every three days or so until the reflex action is established. In the course of time, by following this ritual, you can educate the natural reflexes that occur in your_body and solve your problem.

You can take your Metamucil any time of the day or even twice a day, if you wish, or you can use foods that contain bulk for break-fast and other meals as went I would surely like to see you get off the chemical laxative habit and the mineral oil.
