That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says you can have the world at your feet, but that won't keep your corns from hurting.

We should give thanks to our men of science. Do you realize that if it hadn't been for Thomas Edison, we would all be watching television by candlelight?

LOCAL YOUNGSTERS return to the classrooms Thursday, but school activities is already underway. Teachers met for orientation Monday and students are registering today. Teachers meet again for a workshop Wednesday, preparing for the start of classes the following day.

IT SEEMED SO far away but the day has finally arrived. They're going away to college. There are mixed emotions because you have a feeling that they'll never really come home again.

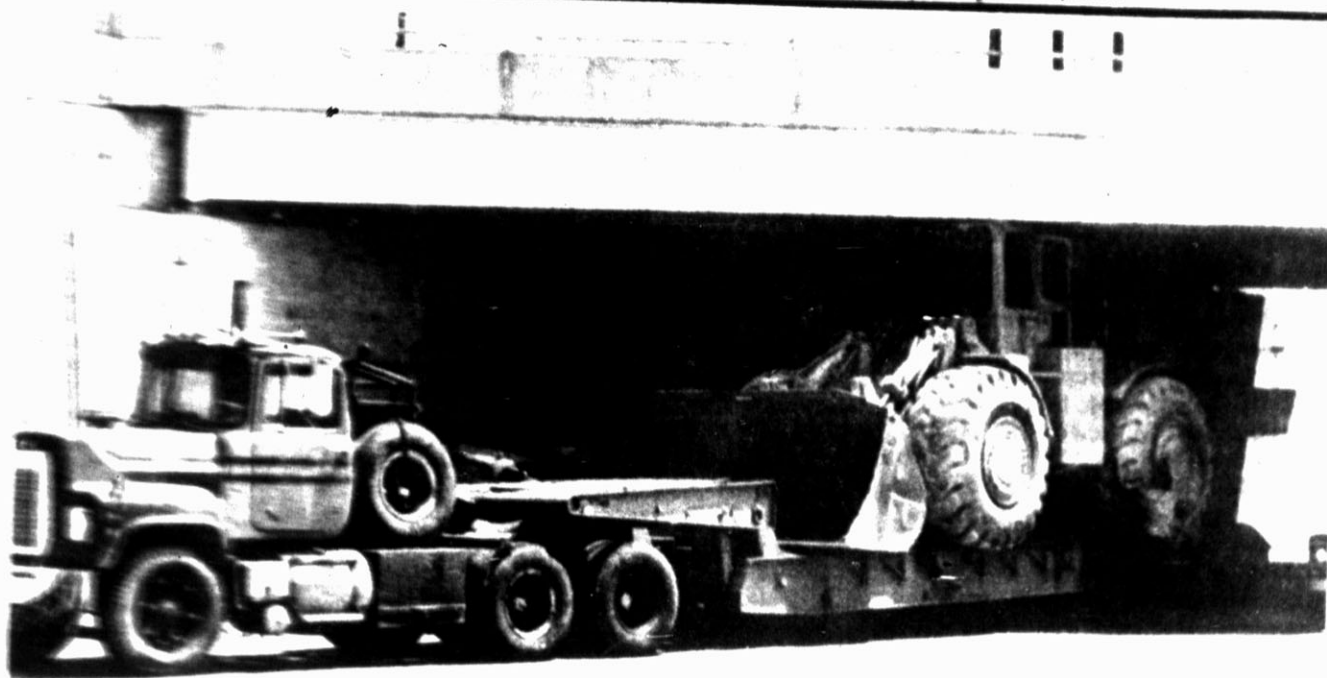

There is a sense of pride, but there is still much apprehension. What is it that you haven't told them? You've tried to absorb some of the knocks up to now, but have you been too protective?

Maybe you have one big consolation. If the twig was bent in the right direction, it will grow straight and tall. You either did the job of providing your children with the fundamental principles of honesty, integrity, loyalty and duty, or the job doesn't get done.

You can't pack up a set of values for them to carry away to college. If they haven't found them in your day-to-day living, they aren't going to pick them up from strangers after they leave your bed and board.

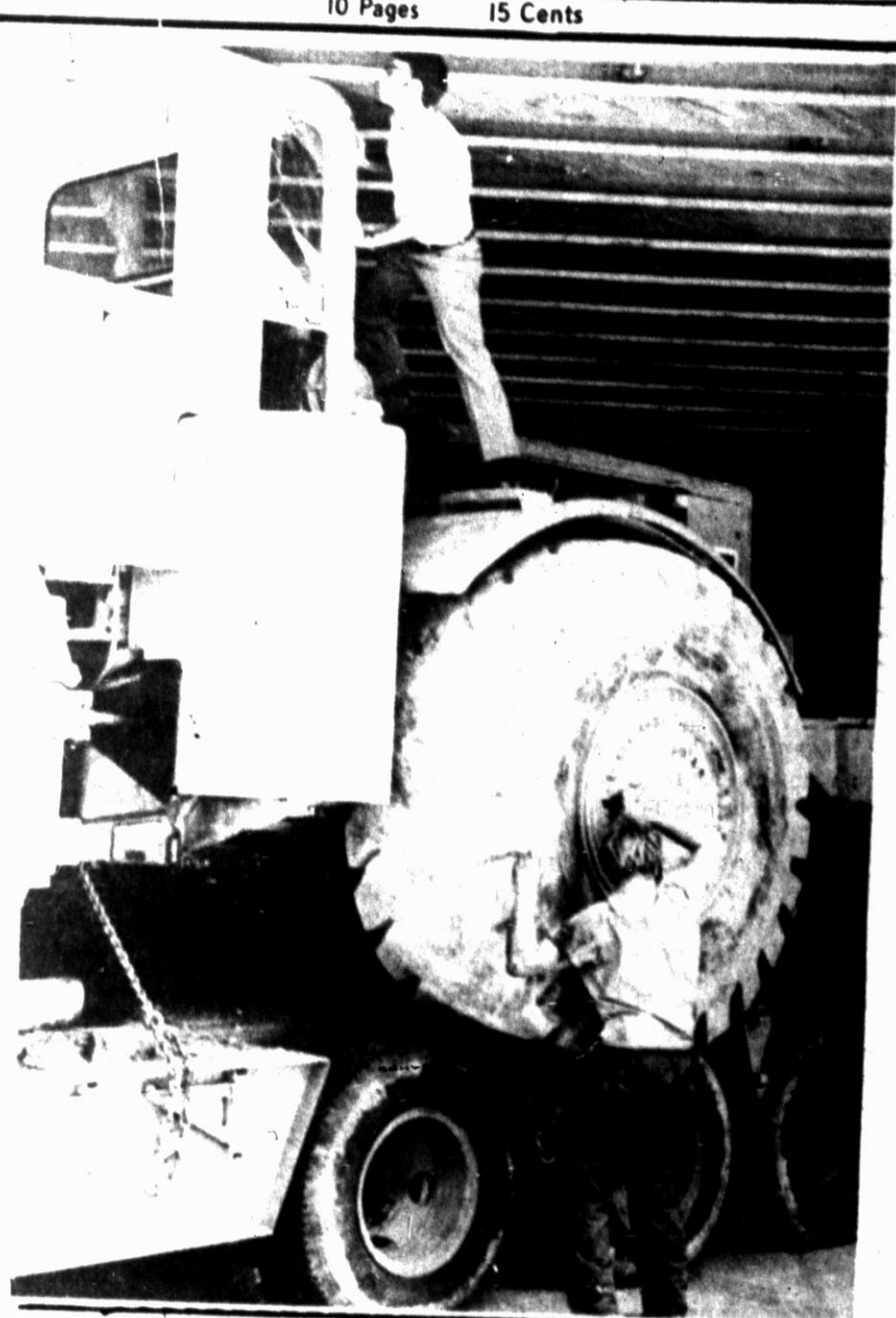

There was a lot of yesterday we don't

Stuck Truck

A Caterpillar 988 front end loader being hauled by the Jake Diehl Construction Machinery Company became stuck under the railroad overpass on south Highway 385 Monday afternoon. Here, Al Johnson surveys the situation while Elmer Long lets some air out of one of the loader's tires to lower it. The accident caused minor slowdown of traffic on the highway for about two hours before the truck and its cargo finally cleared the obstacle. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh)

Complex Drainage Discussed

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor
Chas. Cosper, president of Kid's Inc., asked local Smith County commissioners Monday for assistance in creating a drainage system at the proposed baseball complex. (Staff photo by Whittier)

Baseball fields will cover eight acres of the complex, situated on 31 acres of land. Cosper asked the commissioners during their regular session to assist in moving dirt to the complex to create a drainage system.

"It doesn't seem to me to be any problem to design the thing to shift what dirt is there," Commissioner Bruce Coleman told Cosper, who replied he would check into the matter.

Cosper reported that the City of Hereford and Kid's Inc., have donated $13,000 each for construction of the complex.

Other groups who have donated money include Deaf Smith County, $3,000; The Lions Club, $750; American Legion, $500; and the Rotary Club, $300. Donations total $30,550.

A federal grant to be used toward construction of the complex was awarded to Hereford last week in the amount of $31,500.

Paul Catoe of the Texas Panhandle Community Action Agency, funded under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), reported on the agency's different functions Monday.

Catoe discussed Title I programs, which included classroom training, on the job training, public service employment, work experience and supportive services for eligible persons ages 14 years and older.

Eligible persons for the Title I programs are those individuals who are unemployed a full calendar week prior to week of application with the agency, the unemployed and the economically disadvantaged.

Supportive services include child care, transportation assistance (16 cents a mile to and from the job or classroom), residential support (assistance in paying rent) and medical care.

Catoe told the commissioners court that Deaf Smith County had been allocated $139,720 at the start of the current fiscal year for the Title I programs.

There is a balance of $19,736 left from that figure to spend in August and September before the new fiscal year begins.

Commissioners in other business approved County Judge Sam Morgan to head a law library committee responsible for maintaining the law books. Persons wanting to use the books will have to check them out to enable the committee to keep closer tabs on the library.

An offer to purchase the small house on the Black House property for $5,000 was refused by the commissioners. The offer included the purchase of the land around

Blood Mobile To Seek Donations

Residents are encouraged to give the gift of life tomorrow by reporting to the blood mobile at the Community Center to contribute blood. The mobile unit, which represents Coffee Memorial Blood Bank at Amarillo, will be stationed here from 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Blood donations may be designated for several local accounts, including that of Larry Bain, who has required numerous transfusions. Also, donations can be given in order to secure "blood insurance," according to Marlene Watson, chairman of the local blood drive.

Individuals who have had family members requiring blood transfusions in recent months are asked to contact Mrs. Watson, 364-1470.

Cloud Seeding Vote Today in Castro Co.

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

The fate of weather modification activities in three more Panhandle and South Plains counties is being decided today as voters cast their ballots in Castro, Bailey and Floyd counties to determine if Plains Weather Improvement Association and Atmospheric Inc. will be allowed to continue their cloud seeding.

Opponents of weather modification have petitioned for a number of elections in the past month following controversial hearings on the issue in Lubbock last spring.

As the emotional weather issue became more heated last spring, at least one opponent of weather modification threatened to invest in an anti-aircraft gun if weather modification flights continued over his property.

While the statement was apparently brought on solely in the heat of the moment, Citizens For Natural Weather, a group of some 4,000 farmers opposed to cloud seeding, is bringing down the high flying cloud seeders at the polls without firing shots.

The initial vote on cloud seeding was cast recently in Briscoe County, where the practice was voted down by a margin of over 100-1.

In other elections held Saturday, the issue was soundly defeated in Swisher, Randall and Hockley counties, while weather modification supporters scored a partial victory in Lamb County.

Weather modification firms may already be in serious trouble following Saturday's elections however, as results will be binding on any company for a period of two years. Where negative votes result, no weather modification firm

Carter, Committee Owe $1,700 for Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential spokesman Jody Powell, conceding that Jimmy Carter and his campaign committee owe more than $1,700 for flights on an airplane owned by a bank Bert Lance once headed, says a complete review of Carter's campaign records may take four years.

Powell said Monday that the tab for flights in 1975 and 1976 on the plane of the National Bank of Georgia was $1,793.70.

He said the Carter campaign committee would use leftover campaign funds to reimburse the bank at least $865.80. Carter could end up paying the remaining $927.90 if it is determined that the flights involved were not legitimate campaign expenses, the spokesman said.

Powell said at the daily White House news briefing that "the President has decided he will personally reimburse any may be issued permits to conduct programs for a period of two years following the election in target areas, and not until a future election changes results in operational areas.

Spokesmen for the weather modification firms have already indicated that unless a large area supports weather modification, the practice will have to be abandoned as activities over small, isolated areas would be economically unfeasible.

Eight precincts in Lamb County approved weather modification activities Saturday in the largest show of support for cloud seeding since elections on the issue began.

In Swisher County, a stronghold of opposition, the final tally was 1,812 against to 33 in favor concerning Atmospheric Inc. and 1,878 against to 34 in favor for PWIA.

Randall County voters opposed Atmospheric by a margin of 123-1. All four precincts in Hockley County solidly opposed cloud seeding.

Target area votes will be considered as a whole by the Texas Water Development Board prior to renewal of permits for weather modification firms. As a result, Saturday's election in Lamb County proved favorable for the two firms.

Weather modification could gain additional support in the elections underway in neighboring Castro County today, although opposition groups in that area have been quite vocal in recent weeks.

An election on weather modification in Deaf Smith County has not been called as of yet, although weather modification flights occur in an operational area involving the southeast corner of the county.

portion of the flights that were not campaign expenditures.

The press secretary said the five flights in the twin-engine Beechcraft airplane carried Carter around Georgia and into Tennessee for campaign events, meetings, a dinner with Lance and a vacation at a coastal resort.

Lance, Carter's budget director, is a longtime personal friend of the President and was head of the National Bank of Georgia at the time of the flights.

Questions about the flights arose last Thursday when Lance held a news conference after the Comptroller of the Currency released a report on the personal finances of the budget director. The report said an investigation had found no evidence to warrant criminal prosecution of Lance in connection with his personal finances.

Hereford Youth Transferred To Shrine Burns Hospital

Thanks to the efforts of the local Oasis Shrine Club members, a 15-month-old Hereford boy was in the Shrine Burns Hospital in Galveston today to undergo skin grafts to mend burns sustained about three weeks ago.

Michael Garza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Garza of Hereford, was accidentally burned some three weeks ago when he pulled a pan of hot grease off the kitchen stove. The most severe burns were on the top of the youth's head. He had been hospitalized at Deaf Smith General since the time the doctors advised that skin grafts would be needed to heal spots on top of the youth's head.

Rex Easterwood, president of the Oasis Shrine Club, said local Shriners began to be case and worked through to bring Shriners to get the boy admitted to the Shrine Burns Hospital. The local club took care of the transportation, with Shriners C.P. Worthan providing his plane.

Early Monday morning, Worthan flew the youth and his mother to Galveston, accompanied by local airport manager John Smith, Easterwood, J.W. Robinson, and the lad's father were at the airport Monday morning to see the group off. Easterwood reported that Robinson made most of the arrangements for the trip.

Garza is employed by Greigo Dragline Service and the family resides in the San Jose addition. The youth is expected to be in Galveston for at least a week.

10 Mexicans Die In Bus Hijacking

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ten Mexicans died in a hail of grenade shrapnel and gunfire when police stormed a bus hijacked by two leftists in an attempt to free a comrade from prison.

Officials said one of the hijackers exploded a grenade as police charged the bus early Monday on a highway in central Mexico. The blast killed five of the passengers and one of the hijackers. The second hijacker was shot and wounded, a spokesman said.

Gunfire killed four more persons, the spokesman said. But officials would not say whether the lethal bullets were fired by the police or the hijackers.

Five persons were seriously hurt.

About 40 passengers — all Mexican — were aboard the bus, the spokesman said.

Davis Wife Testifies About 'Man in Black'

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Blonde socialite Priscilla Davis returns to the witness stand today to tell a jury of the "man in black" who triggered a savage shooting spree last summer at her showplace Fort Worth mansion.

And, as she has done previously, she is expected to see her estranged husband as the gunman who killed two and wounded two in the midnight Aug. 6 assault.

The small, shapely Mrs. Davis, 36, is the state's key witness in the capital murder trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, 43.

She testified only briefly Monday and did not touch on the shootings.

Davis is on trial for the slaying of his stepdaughter, Andrea, 12. He is accused also of the shooting death of Stan Farr, 30, and the wounding of Priscilla and a young visitor to the mansion, Gus Gavrel.

Elvis Wills Fortune To Family Members

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley, who gave diamonds to girlfriends and Cadillacs to strangers, left his fortune to his family and excluded his former wife and his fiancee in his will.

The will, filed for probate Monday, likely will be "the biggest ever filed in the state of Tennessee," said Probate Court Judge Joseph Evans.

Presley, 42, was found unconscious at his Graceland mansion last Tuesday and pronounced dead of a heart attack at Baptist Hospital.

An inventory of Presley's wealth, expected to be several million dollars, is being prepared and court officials said it may be longer than the usual two months before it can be filed.

"The size and complexity of it may cause them to run into difficulty in filing it in 60 days," Probate Court Clerk Bobby Dunavant said.

The rock 'n' roll superstar's 62-year-old father, Vernon Presley, once a Mississippi sharecropper, was named executor of the will.

VICTORIA, Canada (AP) — Actor Sebastian Cabot, who played the bearded butler in the television series Family Affair, died early today of a stroke at his home here. He was 59.

Police Report

Robert Huckert, 519 Star, told Hereford police that sometime between Friday and Monday somebody took a tire and rim from the back end of his pickup.

Value of the missing items is $105.

Angie DeLaCorda, 208 Norton reported that somebody forced open the front door of her house and stole two table lamps and a bullfigther statue.

Raul Saldona, 410 Ave. E. reported that a juvenile was trespassing on his property at 12:50 a.m. Saturday. Police released the suspect to juvenile authorities.

Alfredo Villa Lopez told police somebody stole his car Friday night.

Police found the car, which was wrecked, Saturday morning by Trico Electronics on Highway 60.

Police arrested a 14-year-old suspect Saturday on charges of cultivation of marijuana after an informant reported the youth was growing the suspected drug in a bedroom closet.

A search warrant revealed four plants, four to five inches tall, in the closet. The youth was released to juvenile authorities.

Lester Sims, 320 Star, told police that somebody drove a vehicle across his lawn about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Police investigated minor traffic accidents Monday at 5:38 p.m. on the golf course parking lot and 5:02 p.m. in the 300 block of Ave. C.

Good Rains Fall On Area Farmland

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Thunderstorms which moved into the area late Sunday gave Deaf Smith County farmland their best rainfall, then poured light showers on the city early Monday morning as an unusually wet August continued.

The most outstanding rainfall reports came from dryland farms to the west of the city, where land should now be in good shape to receive the winter wheat crop.

Bill Page reported that .80 inches of moisture fell at his farm in the Bootleg Corner area, while a total of 2.10 inches fell five miles west of that location, and over two inches fell south of his farm.

"This should really set a lot of guys up just right for getting their wheat planted," Page commented.

Bruce Coleman of the Walcott community reported that .70 inches of moisture fell at his farm Sunday night, while 2.10 inches was measured at the Garcia Community Building and 1.30 inches was measured at the Walcott community proper.

"A few people have planted a little wheat this way, but we're still too wet here at the farm. Some farmers may have to run sweeps over their land to kill the volunteer wheat before they plant, but most are pretty well ready to go in and sow the crop, once the fields are dry enough," said Coleman.

Rainfall was also favorable on farmland to the north of the city.

The Raymond Schlabs farm five miles north of Hereford recorded 1.20 inches of moisture while a spokesman for Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center reported 1.10 inches of rain in that vicinity.

The Easter community to the south of Hereford finally got in on a summer shower after missing out on numerous occasions during the past month.

A spokesman for Easter Grain reported a 1.70 inch rainfall accumulation over a two day period.

To the east of Hereford, Dawn Co-Op recorded .90 inches at that community.

H.L. Hershey reported that 80 inches fell at his farm 13 miles northeast of the city.

KPAN radio logged a total of .60 inches for the city at its studios on East Fifth, while a report of .90 inches was received from 524 East 15th.

Property farmed by Griffin & Brand on the city's northern edge received .50 inches and the Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant measured .63 inches.

BRENT SIGLE

Brent Sigle, 19-year-old Hereford native, was killed Monday in an industrial accident at Muleshoe, where he was employed as a welder for Allied Millrights.

Sigle was working atop a concrete elevator owned by Muleshoe Co-op when he fell 60 feet to the ground. He was rushed to a Muleshoe hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The death was ruled accidental.

Services are planned at 10 a.m. Wednesday in First United Methodist Church with Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Park under direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Lane Remains Serious After Wreck

Scott Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Lane of Hereford remained in serious condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo today, suffering from head injuries following a truck-pickup collision near Dimmitt Sunday.

Lane was one of three occupants of a pickup which collided with a truck near the Tam Anne Community in Castro County.

Ben Holcomb of Dimmitt was the driver of the pickup and suffered superficial cuts, while the third occupant, Jesse Lane of Hereford, was uninjured.

A DPS spokesman in Dimmitt reported that the accident occurred at the intersection of two county roads, approximately 17 miles southwest of Dimmitt.

The driver of the truck was uninjured.

Flights

The biggest questions involve a flight on June 13 to Sea Island, Ga., from Americus, Ga., and a return flight on June 19. Powell said Carter has asked White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz to ask the Federal Election Commission to determine who should pay for the flights, valued at $657.90.

Powell said Monday accountants and the commission are reviewing campaign records from Carter's 1976 campaign. He predicted it may be 1981 before the

Robert Shaw Juggles His Roles As Writer, Actor, Father of 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Shaw, actor, writer and father, says he's torn between the two professions.

"Maybe I'd be a better writer if not an actor, or a better actor if not a writer," he muses.

But Shaw clearly relishes his role as father to a "regiment" of ten children and asserts that he spends more time with his family than most fathers.

The 49-year-old Englishman is best known as the fellow devoured by the shark in the movie "Jaws," as the subway hijacker burned to a crisp in "The Taking of Pelham One Two Three," as "Black Sunday's" driven Israeli agent and, most recently, as a crusty deep sea expert in "The Deep."

This Robert Shaw, the actor, is also Robert Shaw, the author, who in 1962 won Britain's esteemed Hawththeden Prize for "the best work of imaginative literature," a distinction he shares with Evelyn Waugh and Graham Greene.

"It's the only prize I've ever won that I've paid any regard to walk a political tightrope with the rest of the cast" and actor because "it gives you a certain objectivity. You can see the other side of the question."

Savoring a piece of English toffee, Shaw sinks into his armchair, plunks his feet on the coffee table and makes a joke of his script "patchwork."

"If you think the pictures I've done are bad, you should have seen them before I rewrote them."

"The dialogue in my novels is better than pretty well any other novelist," he asserts. "Most novelists cannot write dialogue. My books sound best when they're read aloud."

Shaw has written five novels and is at work on a sixth, to be called "The Ice Floe." The subject is Manhatttan and old people and Shaw says it's "part myth and part autobiographical."

When he writes his own part, it's easier for him to get into the role but there's one problem — "I can't remember the lines because I've rewritten them so many times."

Peddling Pizzazz

Dichter Deals with Desires

NEW YORK (NEA) — Now! The folks who brought you Dial soap bring you — the same old Dial soap

But not so's you can tell. They went and hired Dr Ernest Dichter, a round, fair, crinkly doctor of psychology — he has degrees from the University of Vienna, his home city, and the Sorbonne — to put some pizzazz in Dial's image.

Dr Dichter and his company, Ernest Dichter Associates International, Ltd., up there in Croton-on-Hudson, have been peddling pizzazz for almost 40 years to car companies, newspapers, finance companies, networks — whoever will pay his $5,000 to $50,000 fees.

So it probably didn't take him long to tell Dial how to push their product without changing anything but the appearance.

Get rid of the shine on the wrapper, for one thing, he said. We're not kids in this culture any more, you know. We're becoming sophisticated and you don't have to dazzle us with beads like some tribe in the bush before you waltz off with our treasure.

It's okay to keep the colors — gold, white, pink and aqua — because they're basically young colors, the kind you find in plant and animal life (not that he actually knows what old colors are, seeing as how there's no call for them). Just make them richer, deeper tones, he went on.

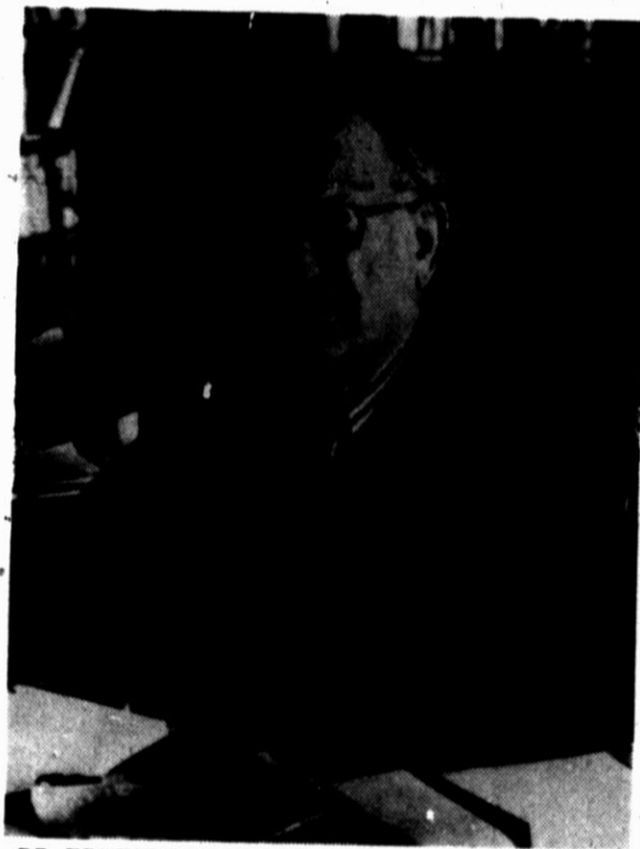

And put a picture of the bar on the wrapper so people can see it's sculptured now, rounded, more suited to the palm. Use the packaging to create a bridge, not a barrier, in other words. Arouse their curiosity to see the thing in the flesh, so to speak.

Aha, Dial said. You just may have something there. Dichter knew he had because all these conclusions had come out of the testing his interviewers had done with a group of housewives in Westchester, who were as good a group as any to test soap on since most people use soap.

"My interviewers, who are usually psychologists, behavioral scientists or college professors who want to make extra money, use what I call an interpretative research technique — which I pioneered — as opposed to a descriptive technique," he says.

"In descriptive research, you ask how many blouses do you own, or what kind of soap do you use, etc. The trouble is you usually get rationalizations and unlikely explanations when you ask why, as opposed to real motivations."

Interpretative research, on the other hand, is designed to trap the interviewee into revealing himself. "It's a

DR. ERNEST DICHTER: "I did not invent human nature. People keep on saying 'yes' to the Ten Commandments and keep on breaking them."

mini-psychoanalysis usually without a couch," he says, chucking.

You line up the housewives, in this case, and present them with various options and say, do you feel warm or cold toward this, or how would you rate these as to how refreshing they are, etc.?"

A little tallying and you know what'll sell.

Dichter's doctors found out some other things as well in this particular study.

First, as we all know, there are tub people and shower people. "The shower or non-essence person just wants to get clean. But the tub person, my guess is Peter Ustinov is one, he uses the commercial he's doing now." He's happy with himself. He's not ascetic, not a Jesuit.

"Anyway, this study told us we're all drifting slowly into hedonism, an enjoyment of life." Which means Ustinov's tub people may soon overflow the shower people.

The Judeo-Christian theories made us all feel guilty and did the preliminary work for the soap manufacturers, particularly Protestantism with its cleanliness is next to godliness," he says.

Now, we're easing up on dirt a little and relaxing with our bodies (Dial's new version downsays any deodorizing properties). We're going in to the bathroom — which is getting larger all the time — not just because we have to, but because we want to luxuriate and lather up a storm.

"Whatever the color of a soap," Dichter says, "lather is always white and there's a magic quality attributed to it. It's a symbol of creation. Venus came out of foam. By bathing, we are recreating ourselves. And going to the bath — hm," he makes a note to himself. "the word spa may come from esperanza, hope, the fountain of youth."

Well, whether you buy Dial, Palmolive, Ivory, et al, or make your own, we wanted to know why a man trained to heal minds (in the best of circumstances) spent his time finagling people into buying things.

"This work is fascinating. I'm a cultural anthropologist, interested in why we do all kinds of funny things that have no rational sense.

"I'll admit the individual is not very much happier because he uses a nice soap, but as long as there's freedom of choice, I don't think there's too much danger with the hidden persuader." It's not that hidden and not that persuasive," he insists.

Besides, the techniques he developed to get people to break old buying habits and thereby conquer prejudices, could be used, say, to stop them from smoking. He has worked for the cancer society and the Red Cross, too, he says, in addition to cigarette companies.

But when you come down to it, the world's business is to make a living and that's what he's doing, looking human nature squarely behind the eye and tempting its deepest desires.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

AUSTIN—Three major Texas water agencies are moving toward consolidation September 1 into a massive Texas Department of Water Resources.

Acting heads of the new super-agency were named last week to begin supervising the reorganization. The two men considered most-likely contenders for the water "czar" position were passed over.

Charles E. Nemir, 45, who had served as assistant executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board, will be acting executive director of TDWR. Acting deputy director will be Dick Whittington, 49, who has been deputy director of the Texas Water Quality Board.

The 65th legislature ordered combining of the Water Quality Board, Water Development Board and Water Rights Commission.

James M. Rose, TWDB executive director, and Hugh Yantis, executive director of TWQB, were seen as top contenders to head the consolidated department.

Rose announced that he will pass up an offer to remain on the new governing board's staff and launch a planning, consulting and developing firm, offering to assist small towns and other units with governmental assistance programs.

The six-member Water Development Board will be the operating board for the new department.

The Water Quality Board will become a division of water quality and the Water Rights Commission will continue to handle water permit matters under the new department's board umbrella.

Appointments Galore

Dolph Briscoe made a flood of new judicial appointments during the last two weeks.

Resignation of Justice Tom Reavley from the State Supreme Court effective in October led to appointment of Chief Justice T. C. Chadick of Texarkana, Sixth Court of Civil Appeals, to succeed to the top bench.

Briscoe then appointed Sixth Court Justice William J. Cornelius of Jefferson to replace Chadick on the Texarkana intermediate court bench, and he named Stephen Oden of Texarkana to the Sixth Court associate justice position which had been held by Cornelius since 1973.

The governor moved Beaumont District Judge Harold R. Clayton to the Ninth Court of Civil Appeals to fill a vacancy.

He also appointed Carlton B. Dodson of Lubbock to an associate justice's place on the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, succeeding Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo who was named chief justice of the intermediate court.

In the flurry, Briscoe appointed judges to 25 new district courts created by the legislature this year and named incumbent judges of 31 domestic relations and juvenile courts to converted district courts of general jurisdiction.

Agency Created

The legislature declined to create a state agency to help assure equal treatment of women, but the governor established one anyway by executive order.

Briscoe, with a sweep of the pen last week, ordered into effect, a 15-member Commission on the Status of Women.

The body will distribute information on women's employment and activities, develop policies to assure equal treatment, draft programs to expand services and contributions of women and make recommendations to help assure full use of the work force.

AG Opinions

State agencies may not refuse to hire a qualified handicapped person because of the handicap, Atty. Gen. John Hill held in a new opinion. But Hill said the agencies cannot establish a special system to reimburse travel expenses of the handicapped who are unable to drive their own cars.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Dallas County must pay the premium for the "errors and omissions" insurance policy law requires the county clerk to obtain.

A former Texas Army National Guard officer is not entitled to access to a report of an investigation of allegations against him, since it tends to reveal identity of informants.

A bank outside the county seat can be used as a county depository without violating prohibitions against branch banking.

Interest on time deposits of the state employees insurance and benefits fund must be credited to the fund itself and not to state general revenue accounts.

Welfare Chief Retires

State Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell announced his retirement effective August 31.

Vowell, 62, made his surprise announcement because, he said, the Welfare Department is moving into a new era of radical change in programs.

He said the Welfare Board should be able to select a new commissioner with longer to serve than he, since he is nearing mandatory retirement age.

He served six years as commissioner after a 31-year public service career which included a vice chancellorship with The University of Texas System and director of state special schools.

Gov. Briscoe lauded Vowell's long service.

Short Snorts

Gross sales by Texas businesses totaled $33.8 billion for the first three months of 1977—a 19.4 per cent jump over January-March of 1976.

Texas wheat crop is now estimated at 117.5 million bushels, a 2.5 million increase from last month.

First appointees have been announced to a Commission on Public School Finance, charged with developing a new method of determining local district ability to support education.

Rural areas continue to suffer from a shortage of registered nurses, in spite of a large increase in nurses since the 1960s.

The infant death rate in Texas last year dropped to an all-time low of 16 per 1,000 live births.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels and cancer accounted for two of every three deaths in Texas during 1976. The overall mortality rate was 8.06 deaths per 1,000.

The seventh Texas First job matching fair will be held in Marshall September 17.

Al Hardy's Love Affair with Commuters

Roadside Shepherd Cheers His Flock

"Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man."
— S. W. Foss

By Tom Tiede

GLEN BURNIE, Md. — (NEA) — Some years ago, when Albert J. Hardy retired, he walked out on his porch one morning to watch the rest of the world go to work. When a friend passed, looking beat in the commuter snarl, Hardy waved to cheer him on. And so it began. Al Hardy's post retirement avocation: roadside bonhomie.

Each day, a.m. and p.m., as the traffic lines up on Crain Highway, the 72-year-old Hardy comes out of his curbside home to greet it. Smiling, nodding, he deposits himself in the webbing of a wobbly lawn chair, stuffs his cheek with Red Man chewing tobacco, and waves joy and encouragement to a legion of motorists.

"Hi, babe."
"Hello, brother."
"Honk."
It is an extraordinary ritual, and an altogether inspiring one. Some motorists are startled, others are suspicious, but few are unmoved.

During rush hours Hardy will wave to thousands of passers-by, nearly all of whom wave back. "I'm sharing happiness," the old man explains, "when I see someone with no smile I give him one of my own."

Actually, it wouldn't seem that Al Hardy has much to smile about. Born a black man in the cruelties of the Old South, raised as a $2 per day laborer on a sharecropper's farm, he is in the eighth decade of his life "poor as a one feather chicken," and partly crippled from the wretched effects of two rather severe strokes.

Yet, as he sees it, "God don't give us no burden we can't bear." Besides, he adds, a man of his age has no gripe coming. "Look at all these people what died in their 30s, or even in their 20s, brother, if you got a little pain when you're in your 70s, it just reminds you that you're still alive enough to feel it."

That Hardy feels his pain is obvious. He walks with a crutch, has a stiff right leg, and moves about his modest property with measured deliberation. But, no complaints. "If I get too tired, I maybe will fall asleep in the chair. But someone on the road will honk to remind me of my duty. Life is sweet when you ain't alone."

By no means is Hardy alone. In seven years as a roadside bonhomie he has waved to perhaps a half million motorists and personally befriended thousands of them. "If I miss a day, some folks stop by to see if I'm okay." Others, after purchasing new cars, go slow past the Hardy home so that he will continue to recognize them.

"A SMILE IS AS GOOD AS A PRAYER," says 72-year-old Albert J. Hardy, who feels that the commuters who daily pass his home are "just like family." "I'm sharing happiness," he says. "When I see someone with no smile, I give him one of my own."

Then there are those who bear him gifts. Schoolkids bring the old man donuts, housewives stop off with coffee Hardy appreciates the sentiment, but does not let it get out of hand. Once when a woman came by with a winter scarf, Hardy saw she did not have one of her own, and wrapped it gently around her shoulders with many thanks.

Not every motorist is considerate. Teenagers have thrown pop bottles at Hardy. Rednecks have made obscene gestures. But the bonhomie turns away wrath with a toothless smile. "I remember a boy who called me a nigger, and I just waved as usual. I guess he felt ashamed about it, because that night he came to my house to apologize."

Hardy says the nasties are the exceptions. And he likes to think all motorists "got love in them, only some shows it less than others." He tells of drivers who have passed him for months, refusing to wave. "Then one day they'll lift a finger, or a hand, and pretty soon they smile and wave and honk their horn like everyone else."

In this latter respect, Hardy may be not so much a bonhomie as a cleric of a curbside ministry. "A smile is as good as a prayer," he says, and strangers who wave at each other engage in a meaningful religion. Indeed, at times, motorists do stop to talk to the old man, telling of personal worries and seeking advice or help.

Not incidentally, Hardy is a minister. He is a grade school dropout who returned to formal education late in life, mostly by way of bible school correspondence. Presently he is one of five pastors at a small church in nearby Baltimore. "I'm there every weekend," he says, "otherwise I'm right here by the side of the highway."

The highway is a busy one. And therefore so is Hardy. He rises at 6:30 a.m. and waves until the lines thin. Then he catches the afternoon shoppers before bracing himself for the evening rush. Inclement weather may alter the schedule, but for it he is at his post six to seven hours a day, six days a week, the year round.

"I love them all," he says of the motorists, "they are just like family. This one woman, she come by throwing kisses at me, then the next day her husband come by and he threw kisses at me too. I said to myself this is getting good, so I started throwing kisses back. We got an orgy going now. This is the happiest highway in the state."

The Sons of Liberty flag, first flown at Cambridge, Mass., in 1775, was a green, pine tree on a plain red field.

Yoyo Weight Syndrome Dangerous to Health

People who move rapidly up and down the weight ladder are inviting serious health hazards en route, a prominent nutritionist warned today.

This strong note of caution against falling prey to the so called "yo-yo syndrome" where people lose weight quickly and then regain it almost as rapidly—was sounded by Dr. William H. Sebrell, Medical Director of Weight Watchers International, Inc., and former Director of the National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Sebrell's comments, reported here by Adele McGinty, Area Director of Weight Watchers in West Texas, were made in light of recent "fad diets" that have arrived on the scene.

"It's not that difficult to lose weight quickly through semi-starvation or through any number of quick weight loss diets," said Dr. Sebrell.

"But what the dieters frequently find is that not too long after they have dropped that excess weight, the pounds will creep back—slowly but surely, until they find that the supreme effort to lose weight has met with ultimate failure," he said.

"The missing, yet vital, element in these quick weight loss diets is education," said Dr. Sebrell, who also is former Director of the Institute of Human Nutrition at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons.

He explained that the individual who wants to achieve a svelte figure almost overnight, "may display the willpower to realize his goal, but he usually does nothing about reeducating his eating habits so that he will keep that weight off."

"It's essential to recognize that the person who loses pounds quickly does not lose his craving for fattening foods at the same time. A sweet tooth, for example, doesn't go sour because someone is shedding weight at breakneck speed," Dr. Sebrell said.

"The person who has always consumed food in great abundance (usually the cause of the weight problem in the first place) will, in all likelihood, find himself again eating to excess after he has lost a considerable amount of weight.

"For long-term weight loss, it is imperative to have both a nutritionally sound food program, and an equally important behavior oriented eating management program.

From a medical standpoint, Dr. Sebrell made the following observations about quick weight loss diets:

Some of the adverse effects that have already been observed or that may require stopping a quick weight loss diet, supplementation, or medical treatment, are changes in liver and kidney function, low blood pressure, anemia, vitamin deficiencies, diarrhea, or constipation, and changes in blood chemistry.

These diets can be hazardous to individuals who have heart disease, kidney disease or diabetes.

For a person to self-medicate and self-prescribe, is extremely dangerous.

Dr. Sebrell added: "There are some members of society who are so desperate in their search to control obesity, that they will self-prescribe and medicate. But there is no panacea."

Freed Rallies Cards Over LA

By HERSCHEL NISSERSON
AP Sports Writer

In Baldwin Park, Calif., Mrs. Margie Freed knew a baseball game isn't over until the last man is out. Her son, Roger, proved that Monday night.

Freed's three-run pinch hitter with one out capped a seven-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning and lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. It was the fourth home run of the season for the 31-year-old utility man, who is hitting .256 in sparse action with the Cards after twice winning Minor League Player of the Year honors.

"I knew my mother was watching," Freed said. "I kept telling myself I was going to hit one for mom. She never gives up until the game's over. She's been a baseball nut ever since I was in Little League."

Despite the loss, the Dodgers remained 9½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West when the Montreal Expos downed the Reds 5-1. In the NL East, the Philadelphia Phillies boosted their lead to 7½ games over Pittsburgh by edging the Atlanta Braves 5-4 while the Pirates were dropping a 3-0 squeaker to the San Diego Padres.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs nipped the San Francisco Giants 3-2 and the New York Mets shamed the Houston Astros, 2-1. Los Angeles had built a 6-1 lead on Steve Yeager's grand slam in a five-run third inning and a run-scoring infield hit in the sixth by 41-year-old Vic Davallo. Davallo collected his first two hits in the majors since 1974.

Then the Cardinals erupted against starter Burt Hooton and relievers Lance Rautzhan and Charlie Hough.

Expos 5, Reds 1
Rookie Sam Mejias drilled three hits and made a sensational catch in center field and Warren Cromartie hit a two-run homer to help Wayne Twitchell post his fourth victory and second over the Reds.

Phillies 5, Braves 4
Pinch-hitter Tim McCarver started a tie-breaking two-run seventh inning with a walk. Dave Johnson, another pinch-hitter, drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single. McCarver took second on a wild pitch and Bake McBride, who homered in the fifth inning, beat out a grounder to short. When Pat Rockett's throw to first was high, McCarver scored the tie-breaking run.

Padres 1, Pirates 0
Gene Tenace rapped a home run in the fourth inning while rookie Bob Shirley and veteran Rollie Fingers limited Pittsburgh to seven hits. With two out in the Pirates' sixth and runners at the corners, Dave Parker broke for second and catcher Dave Roberts threw the ball into center field. Phil Garner came home from third with what he thought was the tying run only to learn that umpire Terry Tata had called the pitch to Bill Robinson an inning-ending third strike.

Cubs 3, Giants 2
Bobby Murcer's home run and run-scoring doubles by Bill Ruckner and George Mitterwald enabled Rick Reuschel, 17-5, to post his 12th victory in 13 decisions at Chicago's Wrigley Field. It also was the Cubs' eighth victory over the Giants in as many meetings.

Mets 2, Astros 1
Pinch-hitter Bruce Boisclair's two-run double in the seventh inning enabled the Mets to snap a five-game losing streak and extend Houston's skid to five games.

Texas Duo Leads at Frontier

EVERGREEN, Colo. (AP) — A pair of Texans, Rives McBee of Irving and Bert Baine of Fort Worth, share the lead as the Frontier Invitational golf tournament moves into its second day today.

McBee and Baine fired four-under-par 67s in Monday's first round to forge to the front in the $25,000, 54-hole tournament that will conclude Wednesday.

Despite gusty winds and afternoon rain showers the two carded 13 birdies between the over Hiwan Golf Club's mountain-tinged par 71, 6,981-yard course.

Baine had six birdies and only two bogeys, while McBee birdied three holes on the front side and followed with birdies on the 15th, 16th and 17th and caught Baine on the 18th with another.

Betley, who started early in the morning, strung together five birds and two bogeys to stay unchallenged until McMullen finished in mid-afternoon.

Two strokes back of the leaders was Jim Marshall of Phoenix, Ariz., with a 69. Trailing him by one shot were Ronnie Reif of Douglas, Wyo., and the leading amateur, Jack McCutchan of Indianapolis.

Bunched at 72 were pro Victor Giron of Las Vegas, N.M., Clayton Cole of Dallas, and Bob Hold and Ralph Haddad of Denver.

The 1977 edition of the Hereford Whiteface football team, currently in the midst of preparing for the upcoming season, will be introduced to local grid boosters and fans tonight when the Hereford Whiteface Booster Ice Cream Supper at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Local fans won't have to wait long to see the Herd in action with a scrimmage scheduled against Tascosa in Vega Friday evening. The regular season opens for HHS one week later at Pampa, a team Hereford downed 20-12 last season.

Only 11 lettermen return to lead the Herd this season as they try to reverse an 0-4 district mark and 3-7 record overall last year. Hereford has been picked to finish fourth in the five-team loop this year behind favorite Monterey, Plainview and Coronado in order. Lubbock High was tabbed last in the poll of district coaches.

Ticket Sales Close Friday

Season tickets for Hereford Whiteface football games this season will remain on sale until Friday, August 26 at the school business office Mrs. Bobbie Kitchens of the office has reported.

"There are only 20 seats left in section C, but there are plenty in section B remaining," Mrs. Kitchens said Monday. "We also have some people who have not picked their tickets up and we would like to have them picked up by Friday also," she added.

A total of 985 season tickets have been sold to the Herd contests for this season. No chair seats remain, however. Persons wishing to buy the season tickets at $10 for five games) may do so at the business office.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Chargers are waiving wide receiver Chip Myers and cornerback Tom Hayes in the team's drive to cut the roster to the National Football League limit of 47.

With the two cuts announced Monday, 58 men remain in camp. The Chargers have until the start of the season to carry out additional cuts.

Myers, in his 10th pro season, was acquired from Cincinnati in March. Hayes, a product of San Diego State, was drafted in 1971 by Atlanta, was acquired by the Chargers in another trade last year.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 16-year-old high school quarterback has died from internal injuries as he received in a weekend football scrimmage.

Kenneth Bennett, a junior at St. Augustine High School, died Sunday after undergoing emergency surgery. Athletic Director Andrew Davis said.

Bennett complained of stomach pains following Saturday's scrimmage at Capitol High of Baton Rouge. He was taken to a Baton Rouge hospital, where the cause of his pain was diagnosed as a stomach bruise and he was sent home. Davis said.

Hisle Outguesses Boston's Campbell

By TOM CANAVAN

Larry Hisle of the Minnesota Twins called it a guessing game when he described hitting against Boston's Bill Campbell.

Hisle, who singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning off Campbell to help Minnesota edge the Red Sox 5-4 Monday night, said the hit was just a matter of out-guessing his former teammate.

"With Bill you never know what he'll throw because he's got so many pitches," Hisle said after collecting his 98th RBI of the season. The hit kept the Twins one game behind the Kansas City Royals, two percentage points behind the Chicago White Sox and one-half game in front of fourth-place Texas in the bunched-up AL West race.

In other American League action, Kansas City nipped Baltimore 8-7. Chicago whipped New York 5-3. Texas edged Milwaukee 8-7. Oakland bested California 5-1 and the Cleveland Indians defeated Seattle 12-1 in the first game before the Mariners won the two-nighter's second game, 4-3.

The Twins rocked Boston starter Rick Wise and reliever Bill Lee for six hits and four runs in the second inning. Glenn Adams slammed a 440-foot home run to start the inning. Butch Wynegar doubled home another run and Hisle and Rod Carew contributed RBI singles.

Fourth-String QB Leads Eagles Win

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A fourth-string quarterback in the National Football League could be likened to a guy trying to walk up a down escalator. He's got big problems.

Take Mike Cordova, and almost nobody did in the NFL. He was the last quarterback selected in May's player draft. The Philadelphia Eagles decided to take a look at the Stanford graduate.

When Cordova reported to the Eagles' training camp he found himself behind quarterbacks Ron Jaworski, Roman Gabriel and John Walton. His chances of sticking were about as good as the Eagles' making the Super Bowl: slim.

Mike got the hint when he found himself sharing a locker with rookie wide receiver Mike Mastranarzo. His first job appeared to be getting his own clothes hook. Well, by now you should have Cordova's lot pretty well in focus.

Cordova persevered. He picked up loose footballs for Jaworski, Gabriel and Walton. Occasionally they let him throw a few. Eagles' Coach Dick Vermeil finally decided to give Cordova some game action against the New England Patriots Monday night.

All the 220-pound Cordova did was lead the Eagles to a pair of second-half touchdowns and an upset 21-10 victory over the 1978 Super Bowl.

Cordova threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Vince Papale in the third period, sending the Eagles ahead 14-10. He directed a 34-yard TD drive in the final quarter, rookie Jim Bettersson banging three yards for the six points. He completed four of seven passes for 47 yards in Philadelphia's second pre-season triumph in three games.

Earlier, the Patriots had taken a 10-0 lead on a one-yard first-period scoring run by Andy Johnson, and John Smith's 35-yard field goal in the second period. Jaworski's two-yard TD pass to Keith Kreple in the end zone cut it to 10-7 at halftime.

Cordova took his first NFL scoring pass calmly.

"I jumped up about six feet,"

Correction

The time for the organizational meeting of the Friday night mixed bowling league was incorrectly listed as 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 24 in a story that ran in last Friday's edition of the BRAND. The correct time for the meeting is 8 p.m. the same night. The meeting will be held in the Flame Room at the Pioneer Natural Gas building.

Organizational meetings for the Tuesday and Wednesday night women's leagues are still set for 8:30 p.m. August 31 and 7:30 p.m. August 29 in the Flame Room respectively.

Talent-Shy Ponies Get E for Effort

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University won three football games last year on true grit.

The talent-shy Mustangs parlayed a gung-ho spirit into victories over Texas Christian, North Texas and Arkansas with a narrow miss against Texas.

The cold hard facts are that SMU is going to have to take that wild-eyed attitude into the 1977 season because there's no depth and waterbug quarterback Reky Wesson is gone.

SMU gets the privilege of meeting Woody Hayes and his Ohio State legions Oct. 1 in Dallas.

And that little match against North Texas at Texas Stadium Sept. 17 isn't going to be a mild firefight what with former SMU Coach Hayden Fry hankering to hang a number of his old employers who beat him 38-31 last year.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer is the bubbly sort and you won't get much hang dog talk out of him.

"But he's realistic."

"We still don't have a whole lot of talent and depth and our schedule is murder, but look what we did with great spirit last year," said Meyer. "When we went into the year, I was afraid of going 1-10 or 0-11."

He added "A year under the system and the great spirit and VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Maurice Spencer, a four-year veteran cornerback with the New Orleans Saints, is out for the rest of the National Football League season with a broken neck.

Team doctor Ken Saer said Monday that Spencer would not be able to play again this season because of a fracture suffered in Saturday's victory over the Buffalo Bills.

Saer said Spencer would be put in traction for two weeks after which a decision will be made about whether to operate. Clarence Chapman, a second-year player from Eastern Michigan, will replace Spencer. Coach Hank Stram said.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — American League umpire Dave Phillips missed Monday's game between the Minnesota Twins and Boston Red Sox after complaining of "acute abdominal pains."

Dr. Leonard J. Michinienzi, team physician, physician for the Twins, examined Phillips and made the decision to send him home. Phillips returned to St. Louis, where he will consult with his family physician.

The Twins-Red Sox game was worked by Don Deninger, Larry McCoy and Edwin Merrill.

Trojans Still Rule West

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - The upcoming football season in the Far West looks as if it will have a strikingly familiar theme - Southern Cal the apparent power and most of the rest of the West hoping the Trojans will stumble.

Southern Cal, which finished with 11 consecutive victories after losing its opener to Missouri last season, will be without tailback Ricky Bell and quarterback Vince Evans.

But the Trojans have another in a seemingly endless line of outstanding runners in Charles White, and last year's backup quarterback, Rob Hertel, has the potential to be one of the best passers in the school's history.

Southern Cal Coach John Robinson pointed out that the Trojans, No. 2 nationally behind Pittsburgh in last season's final poll, lost 14 key players to graduation and added that the team's defense would be somewhat of a question mark in the early going this fall.

"Some people go from inexperienced players to veteran ones in about three weeks," said Robinson. "Some take two years. How quickly we make that trip from relatively inexperienced to being a competent, veteran team is the big key."

UCLA, coming off a 9-2-1 season that included a 36-6 loss to Alabama in the Liberty Bowl, may provide Southern Cal its toughest challenge for the Pac-8 championship. The Bruins lost their leading all-time rusher when Wendell Tyler graduated, and multi-talented quarterback Jeff Dankworth is also gone.

But Terry Donahue, in his second year of coaching the Bruins, said he believes he will get good quarterbacking from junior Steve Bukich and sophomore Rick Bashore. And Theotis Brown, who gained 1,092 yards on 200 carries last year, will be back to spearhead the UCLA ground attack.

The UCLA defense, however, appears to be the team's strong point. Linebackers Jerry Robinson and Raymond Bell, tackle Manu Tuiaosopo and cornerback Levi Armstrong will anchor a Bruin defense that has six returning starters.

Stanford should have one of the most potent passing attacks in the West, since quarterback Guy Benjamin will be returning at quarterback. Benjamin completed 170 of his 295 passes for 1,982 yards last fall.

Coach Bill Walsh, who guided the Cardinals to a 6-5 record last season, said that although 1976's top Cardinal receiver, Tony Hill, has graduated, Stanford should have a fine corps of receivers. Bill Keller, who caught 34 passes for 447 yards, is back, and two other fast receivers, Vince Mulroy and world-class long jumper James Lofton will also provide targets for Benjamin.

At Cal, Coach Mike White expects to have the best balanced team he's had in his five years at the school. Seven starters return from both the offensive and defensive units on a team that finished 5-6 last season.

Oliver Hillmon and Markey Crane, who each gained more than 400 yards in 1976, will provide the Bears' ground power. Defensively, tackles Ralph DeLoach and Craig Watkins are expected to be standouts in the trenches, and Anthony Green is considered on the Pac-8's top defensive backs.

Washington appears to be the conference's most powerful entry from the Northwest, and, should Southern California falter, could make a run at the title.

The Huskies, 5-6 last fall, have 13 key starters returning, including 1,000-yard rusher Ron Rowland.

The Washington defense should be extremely tough to throw against, as cornerbacks Nesby Glasgow and Lance Theoudele and safeties John Edwards and Kyle Heinrich all are back.

Washington State, with 19 starters back from a 3-8 season, is a dark horse entry in the Pac-8 race. Although new Coach Warren Powers is switching to the veer offense, the Cougars will rely heavily on the passing of quarterback Jack Thompson, who threw for 2,762 yards and 20 touchdowns last year. Wide receiver Mike Levenseller, who caught 67 passes for 1,134 yards last season, provides Thompson a surehanded target.

Oregon, 4-7 last year, will also be putting much of its hopes on a passer, Jack Henderson. Henderson connected on 157 of his 298 passes for 1,582 yards in 1976.

Oregon State, winner of just two games last fall, will depend heavily on the running of James Fields and Jarvis Redwine.

Defending champion San Jose State will again be the team to beat in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Tailback Kevin Cole will key the Spartans' attack.

Long Beach will come out throwing, with either Jim Freitas, a junior college transfer, or Paul McGaffigan, a redshirt last year, directing the air attack.

At Fullerton State, quarterback Dale Bunn and running back Obie Graves, both JC transfers, are expected to help the Titans improve on their 3-7-1 showing of last year.

Fresno State features one of the best running quarterbacks on the Coast in Dean Jones, but if he's hurt, the Tigers have little depth and their title hopes will be diminished considerably.

University of Pacific's Tigers, who won just two games last year, think the return of running back Bruce Gibson, coming off a knee injury, will help turn things around.

San Diego State, bound for the Western Athletic Conference next year, should end its independent status by once again being the Far West's best non-league team. They were 10-1 in 1976 and have 11 starters back, including hard-running tailback David Turner.

Attitude A Problem For New-Look Frogs

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - Call 'em the New Look Horned Frogs.

There's a new head coach, a totally new staff and a new offensive and defensive alignments.

Unfortunately, there's that old image, the result of three successive disastrous football seasons. But Coach F.A. Dry is changing that too.

The players need to regain confidence in themselves, said Dry, and he and his staff have taken an almost militaristic approach to bring this about.

"I do not tolerate any nonsense at all," he said. "There's no doubt that when I give a command, something has to happen. But it can't be an unreasonable request."

Has hard-nosed approach worked?

"The young men have responded. We lost very few people and had very few injuries. They've worked hard at what we've asked them to do. We've got to win, and that will change their attitude."

The Dry method, obviously successful during his four years at Tulsa, gets its first test here Sept. 10 when the Frogs open the campaign against Southwest Conference rival Southern Methodist.

"I prefer not to start with a conference opponent, but you got to play them sometime," he said. "I do think starting at home is a plus. The players feel a little more secure, a little more relaxed before a home crowd."

The Frogs have abandoned the pro-set offense of Jim Shoffner and will operate from the veer with a dropback passing attack, triggered by one of three solid contenders - veterans Jimmy Dan Elzner and Stevey Bayuk or rifle-armed Don Harris.

"We've been running about 60 per cent of the time and passing 40 per cent," Dry said. "and we'd like to maintain that balance. It depends on our physical ability - and our opponents' physical ability."

"We didn't come here to try to change the players' personalities," said Dry, 45 the fifth coach in nine turbulent years to guide the founding Frogs.

"We've tried to analyze the problem and approach the problem...We've had to turn them around."

The problem was and is one of attitude.

The players need to regain confidence in themselves, said Dry, and he and his staff have taken an almost militaristic approach to bring this about.

"I do not tolerate any nonsense at all," he said. "There's no doubt that when I give a command, something has to happen. But it can't be an unreasonable request."

Split end Mike Renfro is one of the nation's premier receivers and Dry calls James Wright "as fine as tight end as I've ever coached."

Overall, TCU returns 39 lettermen, including nine offensive and seven defensive starters. The Frogs have a widely recognized need for a stronger running game and a more coordinated defensive secondary.

"But team speed is the thing we need to improve more than anything else," Dry said, adding that a number of freshly recruited youngsters could fill the gaps where needed.

Dry, one of three rookie coaches in the SWC this year, said it appears at this point that Texas Tech, Houston, Texas A&M and Arkansas are the top teams in the league.

"But not necessarily in that order," he added.

If it's any consolation to long-suffering Frog fans, all but Arkansas are not scheduled until the second half of the season.

Althea Proud Of Tennis Explosion

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) - More than a quarter century after she broke tennis's color barrier, Althea Gibson says the exorbitant salaries and worldwide attention that today's stars draw don't bother her in the least.

"I think it's great the explosion that tennis is enjoying," said Miss Gibson, who turned to professional golf as a way of "making a buck" after she found out there was no money in pro tennis 17 years ago. "I think tennis's growth is well deserved, especially women's tennis. It's just as much of a kickout of watching a Chris Evert playing as I do a Jimmy Connors. The women are just good as the men."

Miss Gibson has been called "the Jackie Robinson of women's sports" after becoming the first black woman to compete in both the Wimbledon and Forest Hills now the U.S. Open tournaments, when she played in both in 1950. After winning both tournaments back to back professional in an era when there were few tennis professionals, "because I discovered I couldn't eat cups and trophies any longer. I had to put some food on the table and go out and make living."

Miss Gibson, who was here for the Wheeling LPGA Classic, reminisced about the tennis of 20 years ago.

"I played my first tournament, the U.S. Indoor Championships, in Cleveland, and I won. Then I discovered, 'where do I go from here?'" There wasn't anywhere else to go. There weren't any tournaments and there weren't any professionals. I was kind of like a queen without a country."

Following brief flings in the nightclub business and the movies in which she played a minor role in a John Wayne western, Miss Gibson decided to take a shot at joining the ten-struggling women's professional golf tour. "I feel like I'm a natural athlete, so there was a natural transition for me from tennis to golf," said Miss Gibson. "I feel like I'm a good golfer even though I haven't had that much success since I joined the tour in 1963. I still feel like I have a winning golf game, and that's why I still like to play in a couple of tournaments every year."

Through 1976, Nolan Ryan of the California Angels had four seasons of 300 or more strikeouts.

Royals Have Gong Show

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) - If the Kansas City Royals survive their white-knuckle battle with Chicago, Texas and Minnesota in the American League West, some credit must go to an ugly, beat-up yellow gong.

George Brett picked it up in an Oriental shop three weeks ago at the end of a 1-5 road trip that appeared to peril the team's chances of repeating as division champion.

A few days later, the team began voting the "Gong Award" after each victory to the player committing the stupidest, most embarrassing mistake.

Protesting futilely amid raucous banter, the culprit takes the gong to hang at his dressing room stall until it is passed to someone else after another victory.

It is a group of adults acting silly, on the surface. But tension and anxiety are sub-surface things.

"Unless you've gone through it yourself, it's hard to understand the pressure these guys are under," said coach Steve Boros. "Something like this relieves the tension and helps keep the game fun. But they really struggle to plead their defense."

Catcher Darrell Porter got the Gong Award Sunday after the Royals beat Boston and moved one game ahead of Chicago and Minnesota and 1½ games ahead of Texas. Porter was cited for standing at the plate without realizing he had been called out on strikes.

"It adds to the feeling of fellowship and togetherness, even though I got a raw deal this time," said Porter.

It also might dissipate the anger that players can feel toward a faltering teammate.

"It helps keep the petty things to a minimum," said hitting coach Charley Lau. "The little things that can cause hard feelings."

"We do it with a definite purpose," said Boros. "It's important because of what these guys are going through and what they're going to go through."

Infielder Bob Heise got the Gong Award after fielding a ground ball and failing to throw over the head of shortstop Fred Patek.

"I got it for being unable to throw over the head of the shortest guy in the major leagues," said Heise.

Patek once got it for arguing with Herzog. When Mark Littell was removed Saturday night with a sore back even though he was pitching a no-hitter, the Gong went to reliever Steve Mingori "for breaking up the no-hitter."

"If we can keep the game fun," said Boros, "it could give us that competitive edge."

US Chasing Russia, Cuba

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) - The United States chased Cuba and the Soviet Union today, seeking supremacy in the track and field competition at the World University Games.

With 12 more gold medals at stake, the Americans sought to overcome the Russians, who had collected five so far, and the Cubans who had four, twice as many as the United States.

The closing day of track at the Levski Stadium featured American competitors as favorites in four events.

The Americans got a big boost Monday night when Clancy Edwards won the men's 200-meter dash, beating Cuban star Silvio Leonard.

The University of Southern California student braved a strong wind blowing up the straight of the track and won in 20.46 seconds, preventing Leonard from a prestigious double after his triumph in the 100-meters Sunday. Leonard was second in 20.64.

The crowd whistled and jeered Leonard - who holds a season's best in the world with 20.08 - as he crossed the finish line.

The strongest American event today appeared to be the men's 400-meter hurdles. Tom Andrews, also from Southern Cal, dominated the semifinals, winning his heat in 49.50 seconds Monday.

The Americans also had strong challengers in the men's high jump with Franklin Jacobs of Fairleigh Dickinson University, in the 5,000 meters with Duncan McDonald of Stanford University, and in the two men's relays, the 400 and 1,600 meters.

It would be a big surprise if the big Soviet team fails to beat the Americans in gold medals. The Russians have sent a strong team to the Games, while the Americans have reserved many of their best athletes for the World Cup competition at Dusseldorf, West Germany next month.

The U.S. continued to fare well in basketball. The men's team beat the Russians 129-94 as Darrell Griffith of the University of Louisville led the way with 25 points.

The American women also won, beating Taiwan 89-55 for their fourth consecutive triumph.

University of Pacific's Tigers, who won just two games last year, think the return of running back Bruce Gibson, coming off a knee injury, will help turn things around.

San Diego State, bound for the Western Athletic Conference next year, should end its independent status by once again being the Far West's best non-league team. They were 10-1 in 1976 and have 11 starters back, including hard-running tailback David Turner.

Pitcher Jim Rooker of the Pittsburgh Pirates hit two home runs in one game in 1969 when he was with Kansas City.

The versatile Bill Robinson, a man of many positions, was named Pittsburgh Pirate Player of the Year in 1976 by his teammates.

In 1974, Rennie Stennett, Pittsburgh Pirate second baseman, played in 59 straight games without making an error.

Kent Tekulve, Pittsburgh Pirate relief pitcher, did not hurl professionally until he was 22 years old.

In 1904, the great Cy Young, then with the Boston Red Sox, walked only 28 men in 380 innings, an average of one base on balls every 13½ innings.

Miss Sisson Earns Degree

Miss Shayln Sisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wayne Sisson, 114 Liveoak, received her bachelor of science degree in education Aug. 13 during commencement exercises at Baylor University at Waco.

Miss Sisson is a 1973 graduate of Hereford High School.

Baylor president Abner W. McCall delivered the traditional charge to the 400 graduating students.

More than 230 Baylor students received bachelor's degrees and over 150 received master's degrees. Doctoral degrees were conferred on 16 students.

Midland attorney Emil C. Rassman received Baylor's honorary doctor of laws degree, the highest honor awarded by the university. Rassman served 16 years on the Board of Regents of the Texas State University System.

Thirty-seven students received doctor of jurisprudence degrees during law school commencement Aug. 6.

The next dance will be held in the Community Center at 8:30 p.m. Sept. 2nd.

Ann Landers Busy Body Blues

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the husband who complained because his wife was not interested in sex. You told him to sharpen up his technique, take her to a motel—away from the kids—buy her a new nightie and some bubble bath. Well, dear, there's a lot more to it than that.

There is nothing wrong with my husband's technique, but I have very little interest in sex. Why? Because Larry is a "joiner." He is involved in almost every organization in the community. He has meetings every night and sleeps all weekend so he can start going to meetings again on Monday.

Larry is very handy at fixing things but there are at least two dozen things that need to be done around here which he can't do because he is too busy. I take out the garbage, pay the bills, do all the repairs I know how, write to his parents, mow the lawn, etc. He'd be completely helpless if I died suddenly.

The children hardly know him. I do all the disciplining, help them with their homework and put them to bed.

Larry is a good man and would be terribly hurt if he knew I was writing this letter. I've tried to talk to him but he cannot see my point of view and I know he will never change.

When he turns to me at night and tries to get romantic, I don't feel loved. I feel used. I don't refuse him but I don't enjoy him. I'm not asking for advice. It's hopeless. Sign me—Bubble Bath Won't Help

DEAR FRIEND: True, bubble bath won't—but counseling might. You need to understand why Larry finds more satisfaction out of the house than in. If he could skip a meeting and go with you to a therapist or clergyman it would be a giant step in the right direction.

Your defeatist attitude is another clue. You sound like a downer. The clubwork is an upper. People tend to gravitate towards places that give them a lift. So get going, honey. You need outside help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In two months I will be marrying a lovely girl. I need a quick answer from someone who knows more about weddings and good taste than I do.

It's going to be a large wedding and I've offered to help defray part of the expenses. My future in-laws say they can handle it. (She is their only daughter.)

The thing that bothers me most is they plan to have artificial flowers, not only on the altar but even the corsages and boutonniers. When my mother is handed a corsage of wax flowers I don't want to be anywhere around. She will just die.

It isn't as if the wedding is planned for the dead of winter when flowers are expensive. There will be loads of fresh flowers around at reasonable prices in August. Please, Ann, comment.—Bachelor Button

DEAR BUTTON: I'm a great one to tell people to MYOB but not this time. Your wedding is your business even though you aren't paying for it. Insist on buying the flowers as your "love contribution" to the happiest day of your life. Then make a date with a florist. Artificial corsages at a wedding would be the pits!

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Years ago, I swore off going to Mexico because I had a biological intolerance for gift shops. The condition is called Montezuma II's revenge. (Few people realize this, but there were two Montezumas. Montezuma I is credited with lending his name to an urgency Americans refer to as the Green Apple Two-Step. Montezuma II is generally known as the patron saint of gift shops. Both are unkind to foreigners.)

With Montezuma II's revenge, I wouldn't be in the country five minutes before I got severe stomach cramps, my right hand would stiffen into the shape of a credit card, my step would quicken and I'd rush out into the streets shouting, "Cuanto! Cuanto?"

Despite all my precautions, on my recent vacation to Europe, I fell victim to the malady. Sometimes, early in the morning, I would leave my room and wander up and down sniffing the wind and saying, "I smell gift shops. Don't worry, I'll just buy a few cards and be back in time for lunch."

My husband was less than sympathetic. "Will you get hold of yourself!" Remember, you're on a ship and the last port when you tried to swim ashore you nearly drowned.

I was a woman obsessed. I bought a head scarf that when worn in the rain gave me a navy blue face. I bought a toilet tissue holder carved out of wood and held by a man with one tooth. I bought keyrings, flags, patches, and a left-handed letter opener made out of reindeer antlers.

After awhile, I couldn't sit on a sight-seeing bus any longer than an hour or so before leaning over to the bus driver and saying, "Aren't we going to make a gift-shop stop soon?"

"Is it absolutely necessary?" he'd plead.

"Are you willing to take a chance it isn't?"

I bought boxes of matches, T-shirts, paperweights, pennants, ships in bottles, small glass ducks, corkscrews, and rocks with the Lord's Prayer on them.

I bought a moose for my charm bracelet, a cocktail apron, three cheese slicers with fur handles, a Spanish doll for my bed, a small chicken coming out of a soapstone egg, ashtrays, a set of coasters, a linen caddy with months I couldn't translate and a wild boar cookbook.

One night I met a woman with Montezuma I's Revenge roaming the deck. "I ate the lettuce," she said miserably. "What's your excuse?"

"I spent it."

Miss Terri Louann Hill, bride-elect of James Phillip Livers, was honored Saturday morning with a prenuptial shower in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas.

The wedding is to be solemnized Saturday in First Baptist Church.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Alvina Hill, her grandmother, Mrs. Q.O. Brown and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Joe D. Livers.

After being registered by Paula Wiley, guests were served refreshments by Kathy Wilson and Lori Steinkruger. Lined with royal blue fabric, an antique cutwork cloth draped the table. A crystal epergne, serving as the centerpiece, held casading ivy, babybreath and blue asters.

Hostesses at the courtesy were Mmes. Mack Tubb, Aaron Bourland, Rick Stewart, Howard Birdwell, Earl Green, Roy Stallings, Pat Robbins, Wendell Clark, Bob Adams, W.C. Russell, Norman Kerr, Stewart Rowan and Patsy Giles.

"Create" a child's closet, suggests Glenda Moore, housing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

If closet space is at a premium in your child's room, install a clothes rod as part of the decor, the specialist suggests.

Cave Denies Davis Release

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - A judge cut short Cullen Davis' temporary freedom Monday as the state prepared to call its star witness in the capital murder trial of the Fort Worth millionaire.

As a dejected Davis learned of the action, his estranged wife Priscilla sat in a nearby room waiting to testify for the prosecution.

Davis, 43, is on trial in the 1976 death of his stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn, 12, one of the slain in a shooting spree at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth last summer.

Stan Farr, 30, Priscilla's boyfriend, also was killed. Mrs. Davis and Gus Gavrel, 22, a chance visitor to the mansion, were wounded.

State District Court Judge Tom Cave of Fort Worth denied the defense application for bond 48 hours after the Amarillo trial judge temporarily freed Davis on $1 million bond.

The decision obviously hit Davis like a bombshell. "About as bad as your feelings can hurt you."

Cave moved the murder case to Amarillo after a mistrial in Fort Worth, but retained jurisdiction over the bond issue.

"I think it was correct and in accordance with the law," a prosecutor said of Cave's ruling.

"Disappointing," said a defense lawyer. "Whatever we can do, we will do. We will not terminate our bond actions on his behalf."

Davis spent his two nights of freedom secluded in a suite of motel rooms directly across the courtyard from where Priscilla and her entourage were housed.

"What kind of sicko would park his behind in the same hotel?" Mrs. Davis declared angrily. "That's just like Cullen."

The state meanwhile, led off its case with Domestic Relations Court Judge Joe Eidson of Fort Worth; who had presided over the bitterly contested divorce of Priscilla and her husband.

The judge testified he issued a restraining order in 1974 prohibiting Davis from visiting the mansion and that order was in effect the night of the shootings.

He told also of increasing Mrs. Davis' support payments to $5,000 monthly and Ordering Davis to pay thousands of dollars to her attorneys and to other creditors.

Eidson's ruling Aug. 2, 1976, came only hours before the shootings.

On cross examination, the defense brought out that at the time of the increase there was an "assertion" that she needed additional money to support Farr with whom she was sharing the mansion.

Outside the courtroom, Mrs. Davis said:

"I'm not saying I'm Miss Goodie Twoshoes, but their only defense of Cullen is to destroy me. I realize that while Cullen is the one on trial, it's really me they're after."

"They're treating this like a smutty divorce when in reality it is a murder. A 12-year-old child was killed. They seem to forget. I never will."

A TIRING JOB, one might think. But tossing tires was not only fun but profitable for Denver Boy Scouts. They collected more than 4,000 old tires, netting their troops some $1,300, in a drive sponsored by local retirees.

Do-It-Yourselfers Build Own Planes

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. (AP) - Chuck Paton is building a helicopter he doesn't know how to fly, but his fellow aviation club members aren't worried about his future as a pilot.

For the past three years, the 47-year-old laboratory supervisor at Westinghouse Electric Corp. has spent most of his evening and weekend hours patiently working on his chopper.

"It's not unusual for one of our men to finish a plane before learning how to fly," said Dick Funkhouser of nearby Coraopolis, a long-time member of the Experimental Aircraft Association's Beaver Valley chapter.

"Some guys just have the urge to build a plane."

Paton, a chapter member for the past several years, said he first saw an ad for a helicopter kit in an aircraft trade magazine.

"When I saw what the finished product looked like at an air show, I was hooked," he recalled.

Paton's Rotor Way Scorpion, which costs about $9,000, is nearly complete outside the garage of his Beaver County home. It is one of about a dozen chapter projects now under way.

Funkhouser is constructing a World War I Sopwith Pup biplane from wood he hand-picked from a local lumberyard. Earl Wilderoder of Beaver Falls is building a Great Lakes biplane. Chapter vice president Dick Hall of Aliquippa is at work on a single-seater Baby Ace he designed himself.

Most of the members, like Paton, were trained in the service, but the rest of their backgrounds are varied.

"We've got everything from bankers to steelworkers to engineers in our club," Funkhouser said. "We've got guys who never finished high school and we've got guys with masters degrees. Our common interest is that we want to build aircraft."

Hall, a licensed aircraft mechanic who supervises U.S. Steel's bulk mail center in Pittsburgh, has built several planes for others. His Sopwith Pup is only the second plane he intended to build for himself.

"I built a regular-sized Baby Ace in 1955, but it was too small for my long legs," Hall said with a laugh. "This time I decided to custom build the whole thing myself to make sure it was the right fit."

Moon Instruments Won't Be Monitored

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Instruments left on the moon by Apollo astronauts, transmitting scientific data to earth since late 1969, will no longer be monitored after September, the Johnson Space Center announced Monday.

Some of the instruments probably have, scientists believe, the capability of continuing such transmissions another four years.

But monitoring of the transmissions is scheduled to halt Sept. 30, says Wilbert F. Eichleman, chief of the Johnson Space Center payload requirements and operations branch.

"I sure hate to see them go but NASA headquarters has notified us there will be no funds for operations beyond Sept. 30," Eichleman said.

The lunar instruments that have lasted the longest and provided the most data are seismometers that record moonquakes and objects striking the lunar surface. Four seismometers still are in operation.

Other instruments have measured the moon's magnetic field and gravity, detected heat flowing from within the lunar surface, and sampled the solar wind and lunar ionosphere.

During the Apollo lunar landing missions the instruments were known as "ASEP"—Apollo Scientific Experiments Package. The transmitted data has been received in a small control at the Space Center.

The Bendix Corp. designed the packages and provides support for the operations.

Roy Kelly, a senior Bendix engineer, said the transmissions will not be shut down after Sept. 30.

Today In History

By the Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 23, the 235th day of 1977. There are 130 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, King George III of England proclaimed that there was open rebellion in the American Colonies.

On this date:

In 1500, Christopher Columbus was accused of mistreating natives in Haiti. He was arrested and ordered sent back to Spain in chains.

In 1869, followers of Mary Baker Eddy obtained a charter in Lynn, Mass., to organize the Church of Christ, Scientist.

In 1914, Japan declared war on Germany in World War One.

In 1937, Japanese military forces landed at the Chinese city of Shanghai.

In 1944, Allied troops fighting in France in World War Two captured the port of Marseille.

In 1947, an audience of 15,000 at the Hollywood Bowl heard President Harry Truman's daughter, Margaret, give her first public concert as a singer.

Ten years ago: France announced it would increase its cultural and technical aid to the Canadian province of Quebec to help French Canada preserve its heritage.

Five years ago: South Vietnamese troops were fighting hard to try to recapture the enemy-held district capital of Queson.

One year ago: An Egyptian airliner with more than 100 people aboard was seized by seven Arab guerrillas shortly after takeoff from Cairo but was recaptured at an airport in southern Egypt.

Today's birthdays: Dancer Gene Kelly is 65 years old. Singer Tex Williams is 60.

Thought for today: "Don't be afraid to take a big step if it is indicated. You can't cross a chasm in two small jumps." - David Lloyd George, British statesman, 1863-1945.

Lie Detector Tests Given to Policemen

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) - The task of giving lie detector tests to 24 Alice, Tex., policemen, was on schedule Monday, Department of Public Safety officials said.

Texas Ranger Gene Powell said the results of the polygraph examinations would be made available to the Jim Wells county grand jury, which had asked for DPS help in its probe of the police department.

Powell said he would make no further comment until the investigation was completed.

Alice police Lt. Gabriel Chapa said Monday that the Alice officers would make the 50-mile trip to Corpus Christi in groups of three or four. Chapa said he thought all officers should be examined by Friday.

painting jobs on this helicopter," Paton said with a craftsman's pride. "For a while there were little flecks of foul-smelling brown dust all over the house when I was sanding down the first coat of paint."

Hill Says FPC Orders Pose Threat to Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill says a case pending in a New Orleans appeals court is a serious threat to any new natural gas discovered in Texas.

Hill charged the Federal Power Commission with trying to take gas away from Texans in violation of basic property laws in a brief filed Monday with the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans. He asked the court to overrule two FPC orders directed at Houston oilman Dan Harrison.

Hill said the FPC orders could mean that any new gas supply discovered in Texas would have to be sold to pipelines serving other states.

The FPC told Harrison to sell natural gas he discovered in Crockett County to Northern Natural Gas Co., an interstate pipeline serving the Midwest. The FPC blocked Harrison from selling to Intratex or LoVaca, which serve Texas consumers and industry.

The FPC orders say that John Crawford, another Houston independent, had previously sold gas to Northern from a lease covering the same area. The FPC claimed that, because of Crawford's sale, any gas ever found in the area would have to be sold to Northern.

Hill contended in his brief that Crawford's lease had expired before Harrison took a lease and drilled his discovery well. He said the order, in effect, says that Crawford could commit gas he did not own.

"The FPC orders pose a serious threat to Texas," Hill said, "because all over the state producers like Crawford once sold gas to interstate pipelines like Northern, under leases that have now expired."

Japan Promotes Use of Unknown Deep Sea Fish

TOKYO (AP) - For a fish-eating people, the Japanese still approach some deep sea fish as ugly or unknown, but in the age of 200-mile zones, they are taking another look at these aquatic animals and ways to cook them.

Shrimp-like crustaceans, for example, can be mixed with chopped onions, celery, mushrooms, white wine, bread crumbs and butter and spread on crackers.

Deep-sea fish with sweet vinegar sauce is made with silverfish, whiptail or hake - fish caught south of the equator and fairly unknown in Japan - with rice wine, ginger, egg yolk, soy sauce, vinegar, green peppers and pineapple.

These are just a couple of the hundreds of recipes being developed. A number were distributed to thousands of people during a food week fair in Tokyo, where samples of the foods were offered.

"It's the first time I've eaten it and it's quite good," said 76-year-old Mitsugoro Kokaji of Tokyo, trying the crustaceans, "oki-ami" in Japanese.

"It doesn't taste too much like fish," said Mrs. Masami Yabe, 44, also of Tokyo.

The food week fair is a bi-annual event sponsored by the Agriculture and Forestry Ministry, the Economic Planning Agency and the Tokyo metropolitan government. What made this one different was its big new exhibit under the theme, "Eating Habits in the Age of 200-Mile Economic Zones."

With the United States, the Soviet Union and Canada already having declared 200-mile zones, Japanese fishermen will be netting less tuna, bonito, salmon, herring and other popular fish, which supply the Japanese with 51 per cent of their animal protein.

The effects of higher prices for fewer fish will not be felt for some time, officials say, but the fishery agency nonetheless has embarked on a program to raise enthusiasm for and knowledge about unpopular and unknown fish.

It has built a 3,300-ton deep-sea fishing vessel, targeted $700,000 each year for eight years to promote mackerel, sardines and other fish available to Japan, and stepped up research on the shrimp-like crustaceans, an important food for fishes and whales and a future protein source for humans.

Police Chief Juan Rodriguez said earlier that he and his men had volunteered to take the examinations. Rodriguez had said he would be the first in line to take the test.

The probe began last month when Alice Mayor Ron Reid went before the Jim Wells county grand jury to ask the panel to look into any connection between the police department and the illegal drug flow through the South Texas city.

Reid said he had also asked Texas Atty Gen. John Hill to help in the investigation. Alice sits on U.S. 281, which has been referred to as the "marijuana highway" because of its link between southern-Texas border cities and major Texas cities to the north.

Shortly after Reid's request a former Alice police officer was one of six men arrested in San Antonio on marijuana possession charges.

Before taking his request to the grand jury, Reid said the city's residents were "fed up" with drug trafficking in the town.

"I'm not criticizing the Alice police department, but to use the fox to watch the chickens just doesn't make much sense to me," Reid said.

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) - "We are caught in the 'lifestyle' diseases," says Dr. Mary McLaughlin, Director of Community Medicine at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center.

"Heart disease and accidents, two major killers, can be traced to a great degree to lifestyle," she explains. "One's mode of living is probably primary in the case of emphysema, cirrhosis of the liver and at least two types of cancer. It is also a basic factor in venereal disease, in alcoholism, in obesity, in the ills resulting from drug abuse."

Lifestyle plays a primary or contributory role in chronic illnesses such as mental illness, ulcer, diabetes, and, in the case of stroke, it is an important element, she adds.

"We need to dust off some of the old-fashioned, common sense health rules even though this may require some radical changes in the way we live," says the physician, former Commissioner of Health for New York City and later Commissioner of Health for Suffolk County.

Doctor Cites Lifestyle Role In Illnesses

Dr. McLaughlin cites a study of 7,000 adults who were followed for over five years. After that period of time, the health status of those in the group who consistently observed seven prescribed health rules was roughly the same as people 30 years younger who did not follow any special health regimen.

The study was conducted by Dr. Lester Breslow, Dean of the School of Public Health, University of California at Los Angeles, and Dr. N.B. Belloc of the Human Population Laboratory of the California State Department of Public Health.

"We do not have cures for many of today's primary health problems," she says. "We have no vaccine to prevent alcoholism nor do we have a pill to cure lung cancer. Our only real hope, then, lies in prevention. Only by repatterning our behavior to eliminate destructive habits can we practice prevention."
