Chinese Seek US, Taiwan Cut

PEKING (AP) - Communist party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng held a last-minute meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance today, presumably to tell him that if diplomatic relations are to be established between the United States and China, Washington has got to make concessions by cutting its ties with Taiwan.

Meeting a high-ranking member of the Carter Administration for the first time, Mao Tse-tung's successor said both President Carter and Vance had stated "explicitly" that they would be guided by the 1972 Shanghai Communique, which recognized Taiwan as an integral part of China and promised progressively closer ties between Peking and Washington.

"We appreciate that," said Hua. The Chinese leader said he understood Vance considered his visit "an exploratory one."

"We also think it's good for the new administration to send someone here to explore China and to get to know the leaders of China," Hua said.

Vance's meeting with Hua followed four negotiating sessions with Foreign Minister Huang Hua and a discussion and dinner Wednesday with Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, one of China's three top leaders.

The secretary of state, in a dinner toast to his Chinese host, said the United States "looks forward to the movement forward of the relations of our two nations."

He said his talks had been candid, "useful and helpful." And he assured the Chinese that the Carter Administration is committed to the 1972 Shanghai Communique signed by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai which pledged the two countries to move closer together.

"We believe this visit to Peking is an important step toward progress along that road," said Vance.

Teng in his toast told the American visitor: "Our view is that we should move forward to full normalization of relations." He said that would be good for people all over the world.

But Hua in a speech to the Chinese Communist party congress last Thursday reiterated his government's previous terms for diplomatic relations with the United States. The United States, he said, must break diplomatic relations with the Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan, withdraw its military forces and installations from Taiwan and the Formosa Strait, and abrogate its mutual defense treaty with the Nationalists.

There was no expectation that he would modify these demands a week later.

U.S. officials say American policy is to avoid even the appearance of abandoning the Nationalists. There has been speculation, however, that the United States might offer to break diplomatic relations with the Taipei government while continuing the military alliance and the multi-billion-dollar trade between the United States and Taiwan.

Mrs. Davis Faces More Examination

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - Sometimes tearful but not wavering, Priscilla Davis faced a new round of vigorous cross examination today in the capital murder trial of her estranged husband, Cullen.

The shaggy blond witness for the prosecution was making her fourth appearance in as many days and all things pointed to the stormiest confrontation to date.

Her adversary, Richard "Racehorse" Hayne, the most flamboyant of the crack Davis defense team.

Mrs. Davis has repeatedly named Dava, 43, as the gunman in black who wounded her and killed her lover Stan Farr in a midnight ambush last August at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

However, Davis is on trial only for the slaying of Mrs. Davis' daughter Andrea, 12, whose body was found lying in a basement utility room.

Haynes took the state's star witness through a day-long examination Wednesday of her friends, acquaintances, lovers, lifestyle and her previous testimony.

He touched on topics ranging from drugs to guns and set off a flurry of courtroom excitement when he produced a color photograph of Mrs. Davis with a partially nude male friend.

Prosecutors blocked the poster-size photo from admission as evidence but the defense indicated it would renew its efforts later to get it to the jury.

Although not visibly disturbed by the photo, Mrs. Davis broke into tears during the closing moments of testimony as she recalled events leading up to her brush with death.

She steadfastly maintained that Davis was the man in black, wearing a shoulder length woman's wig, who stepped from a stairwell, said "Hi" and shot her in the chest.

In a surprise series of questions about the killer, there was this exchange between Haynes and the witness:

"Was the subject Horace Copeland?" Haynes asked.

"No sir," she replied.

"Was it W.T. Rufner?"

"No, it was Cullen Davis."

"Was it Robert Downing?"

"No sir."

"Was it David Hack?"

"No sir."

Switching abruptly to a previous statement by Mrs. Davis, Haynes pointed out her earlier remarks conflicted in part with her trial testimony.

As she struggled to explain her emotions at the time, Mrs. Davis said when she saw the bloody handprints on a wall and door of the mansion she knew something was wrong.

"I saw the blood," she said, gesturing nervously with her hands. "My whole mind was going...I wanted to find Andrea. I screamed: 'Stan, come down here, Stan!'"

"I was getting more and more panicky," she said, when her voice broke at that point and the judge ordered an end to the day's testimony.

Afterwards, Haynes would not discuss the names he tossed at the witness.

Davis dismissed reporters' questions by identifying those persons simply as "characters in the drama."

Mrs. Davis previously identified her companion in the photograph as W.T. Rufner but told Haynes she did not recall the picture being taken.

Although the judge ruled the photograph inadmissible, the prosecutor grumbled, "the damage was done."

July Trade Deficit 4th Worst

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States had a deficit in its trade with other nations of more than $2.3 billion in July, an improvement over the June trade deficit but still the fourth worst trade month on record, the Commerce Department said today.

Contributing to the improvement in the nation's trade picture in July was a decline of $307 million in imports of foreign oil during the month. Total petroleum imports in July were valued at just under $3.6 billion.

The nation had an over all record trade deficit of $2.8 billion in 1972.

The small improvement in the July trade figures was unlikely to end concern that the continuing large U.S. trade deficit could contribute to a further decline in the value of the U.S. dollar in international money markets.

Since the United States has been buying more than it has been selling, the nations' trading partners are accumulating large surpluses in American dollars. The surplus dollars tend to decline in value as they continue to build.

The Commerce Department said exports rose slightly during July to a total of $10.149 billion, an increase of four-tenths of one per cent over June. Imports declined to $12.476 billion, down 3.5 per cent from the record June total of $12.932 billion.

In addition to the drop in imports of petroleum products, there were also reduced imports of coffee, iron and steel, aircraft, and nonelectrical machinery.

Coffee imports were cut by more than one-third to $248 million, a drop of $119 million from the June total.

On the export side there were increases in foreign sales of electrical machinery, military aircraft, office machines, electrical equipment, chemicals, and rice and wheat.

While many economists have expressed concern over the recent trade deficits, it seems clear that the United States is pursuing a policy of buying more from other nations than it is selling to help the economies of other nations and also to help them pay for their own oil import needs.

Oil importing nations, including the United States, are expected to have a total deficit of their trade with member

Carrots, Lettuce Up Next in Vegetable Harvest

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Vegetable harvesting in Deaf Smith County is entering its "second half" after the final truckloads of two major vegetable crops were delivered to local packing sheds over the weekend and early this week.

Spokesmen for three local packing firms indicated they have now concluded the 1977 potato and onion harvest, and some local sheds are now gearing up for the upcoming carrot and lettuce harvest.

Wes Fisher of Dick Barrett Produce Inc. reported that his shed closed out the potato harvest Saturday night.

We're just about through here in the local area. The only potatoes still being packed are coming from the Hart area, in neighboring Castro County," said Fisher.

Commenting on the potato harvest, Fisher continued, "Potato yields were generally good. We've had a pretty decent year in the vegetable business. The only fly in the ointment was the red potatoes. We closed out the white potatoes with a good market, but the market for reds was so poor that some were simply left in the ground. The prices weren't high enough to warrant digging."

Fisher pointed out that onions which were grown from seed, rather than the sets which are usually planted here, will be coming to market in the next two to three weeks.

"The onion market is pretty sloppy right now. It's the same situation local growers faced with their red potatoes. The crop in the northern states came in earlier than usual on both the red potatoes and onions, and farmers here lost their gamble," said Fisher, referring to the chance area farmers take each year in growing vegetables.

Profitability in vegetable production in the Magic Triangle area depends to a great extent on the time at which the crop comes off.

Although farmers here raise only a small acreage of vegetables, they normally catch the market before it becomes flooded with the produce from other states and thus enjoy a higher price for their vegetables.

But when the crop comes in early in neighboring states, local farmers face a depressed market.

Fisher was well pleased with the potato yields in the local area this year, estimating the average yield at approximately 200 hundredweights per acre.

Potatoes are normally marketed in sacked units of 100 pounds.

Recent rains have stalled the full-scale opening of another phase of the vegetable harvest here, as local farmers prepare to move carrots to market.

Kenneth Klechak of the A&P Tea Co. office here reported, "We're still rained out on carrots at this time."

He added that harvesting should begin as soon as fields are sufficiently dry.

"It's hard to say just what the market is going to look like this early, we're just dragging our feet until we can begin packing carrots," he added.

At least two local sheds will be packing lettuce this fall after closing out their potato operations.

Bud Snyder of E.C. Reinauer & Sons reported that the lettuce crop is "coming along pretty good", although a few acres of the leafy vegetable have been lost in recent heavy rains.

"We should be cutting lettuce around Sept. 15. We have no way of knowing what the market will do, it is strictly a day to day thing, and our local market depends basically on what happens in California," he added.

Lettuce was the only paying crop for most local vegetable growers in 1976 as they saw the market soar to an astonishing peak of $10 per carton last fall.

The high prices set a record in the local area, and were spurred primarily by a crop failure in California.

Local growers will be hoping for a repeat performance this year, but aren't getting their hopes too high.

Doctor Testifies In Jim Croce Suit

DALLAS (AP) - The plane crash that killed singer Jim Croce and four others may have occurred by the pilot becoming disoriented, according to a physician's testimony.

Dr. Harry Gibbons, a former Federal Aviation Administration official, testified Wednesday for the plaintiffs, Croce's widow and survivors of other crash victims.

The Croce group filed suit in U.S. District Court here against Roberts Airways and Mustang Aviation of Dallas. They allege the pilot, Robert Elliott, who also died in the crash, caused the mishap.

Thomson to Answer House Questions

Investigators had sought to question her earlier, but she insisted on answering the committee's questions only in public, saying she feared secret testimony would be distorted against her.

Handyman Charged For Sexual Conduct

PONITAC, Mich. (AP) - Wayne Thomas Heacock is a neighborhood Pied Piper, adored by all the children, approved of by their parents.

Today, the 34-year-old handyman is charged with criminal sexual conduct. Investigators believe that for 20 years he ran a "sex school" for children that "graduated" almost 200 youngsters and awarded prizes for performance.

Heacock is in the Oakland County jail under $125,000 bond. He pleaded innocent at his district court arraignment Wednesday on a five-count charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct with a 9-year-old boy. Heacock requested a court-appointed attorney.

Describing the case as "probably the largest child molesting incident in the history of this office," Oakland County Prosecutor I. Brooks Patterson said handwritten diaries found in Heacock's home detailed sexual encounters with youngsters, mainly boys. The diaries dated back to 1957.

Ashley Threats Caused Firing Claims Bell

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - A key factor in the decision to fire former Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. executive James Ashley was his threats to sue the firm and damage its reputation, according to the testimony of a top Bell official.

Louis Bailey, Southwestern Bell's vice president for operations, said Wednesday that reports compiled by Bell security agents concerning Ashley were also considered in making the decision.

Bailey's testimony was a part of the firm's defense in a $29 million damage suit filed by Ashley and the family of T.O. Gravitt, who headed Bell's Texas operations when he committed suicide on Oct. 17, 1974.

State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry refused to allow Bell attorneys to place into evidence the thick, bound volumes containing the reports of the Bell security agents. Curry, however, reserved the right to change his decision later.

GM to Raise '78 Car Prices

NEW YORK (AP) - Automobiles today are a better buy than they were 15 years ago, said the General Motors executive a few weeks before his company announced it would raise '78 prices an average of 5.7 per cent.

Robert Lund, vice president, and general manager of its Chevrolet division, explained that if you adjusted for inflation, and included the equipment and safety-emission items on today's cars, the 1962 Impala would cost $6,000.

But that isn't the entire story: A peculiarity of automobile retailing is that you pay for the transportation costs, even though it is quite logical to assume the car dealer might not be able to sell you a car if it wasn't shipped to him.

These transportation costs are made even more peculiar by the use of a formula to ascertain how much you should pay. It doesn't matter if the car is shipped from Michigan, California or New York - the buyer pays the same freight.

That is, a Los Angeles purchaser of the 1977 Impala pays $401 in transportation charges no matter if the car is assembled in Michigan or in California, the GM people explained. A Chicagoan pays $101, a Baltimore resident $193.

These costs also have risen, of course, but by how much couldn't be determined immediately because the GM records were buried in the dusty file vault. Be assured, however, that the odds are very high that they increased.

And then, of course, there are those new increases coming up, although in fairness it should be noted that a 5.7 per cent increase is little more than an adjustment for inflation, to say nothing of what GM claims is better quality.

Other substantial improvements are included, such as automatic versus manual transmission, coolant recovery system versus none at all, more powerful ignition system, better tires, power steering, disc brakes and more.

Interspersed, however, are those other items, including an ash tray lamp, folding front seat armrest, flow through ventilation and similar items that some people might take for granted.

The 1977 model is also described as having an "overall roominess index" superior to the 1962 edition, but apparently not in one dimension where it counts a lot, the hips. That dimension - described as space to sit between doors - shrank on the 1977 model by 8.5 square inches in front, 8.1 in the rear.

Safety and emission standards have added $537 in additional hardware to the 1977 car, the GM spokesman said, and "economics and others," which represents part of the

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention a problem faced by a minority of people living on the far western edge of Deaf Smith County and the surrounding area.

We have lived in Deaf Smith County - one-half mile from the state line - for over four years. We live an equal distance (48 miles) from two shopping areas - Clovis and Hereford. We use the services of hospital, doctors, dentists, druggist, newspaper, etc. in Hereford. We also do much of our shopping in your town. Our mailing address, however, is New Mexico.

The problem we and our neighbors are finding it increasingly difficult to have our checks accepted for payment in some of your larger stores because of our out-of-state address.

A neighbor who has moved to this area within the last year went to Hereford Saturday to shop for school clothes for her daughter. After spending time selecting four pieces of material, having it cut, and choosing sewing notions and patterns, she proceeded to pay for her purchases. The store manager, when asked to okay her check, very rudely refused to accept it because of the out-of-state bank and address.

A major grocery-chain store in Hereford had already told her that they would not accept such a check. She came home, after driving approximately 100 miles round trip, practically empty-handed and certainly humiliated and disappointed.

I realize that stores have a monumental problem in the form of bad checks and that precautions must be taken. I feel however that if we have paper identification, we should be treated as the honest citizens we are. We are fast tired of the discrimination in "Friendly Hereford" whose slogan is "Shop Hereford First!"

Thank you for the opportunity of "letting off some steam."

Sincerely,
Linda Riley

U.S. May Help Northern Irish

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's chief spokesman said Wednesday that reports of U.S. economic aid to Northern Ireland are overblown but that discussions are underway to see what the United States could do in a very limited way to bring peace to the area.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said President Carter had not been aware of the efforts until now, but would have been if the United States were planning a major initiative.

Powell said that after talking with Carter he determined that "at the request of members of Congress, the State Department has explored with the governments of Great Britain and Northern Ireland the question of what, if anything, this government might do of a very limited nature that might be helpful to support our long-held position favoring an end of violence and the beginning of peace in Northern Ireland."

British and Irish reporters said Tuesday that Carter is ready to offer American aid to Northern Ireland and as an incentive to peace. Powell said the story has been "vastly overplayed."

"Any assistance we could render would be of a very limited nature," the press secretary said.

He said Carter will review suggestions developed by the State Department and that any action will be made public.

Plan May Affect Coffee

NEW YORK (AP) - Coffee industry spokesman said Wednesday they do not know if a Mexican proposal to create a fund to regulate coffee prices world wide will affect U.S. coffee prices.

"I don't think it would have any immediate effect, but I just don't know," said a spokesman for a national coffee organization who asked not to be identified by name. "I don't know how it would operate so it is premature to comment."

Mexico has proposed creation of a fund with contributions from both exporting and importing nations, and the plan was approved Tuesday by 11 Latin American coffee producing nations meeting in Mexico City.

The purpose of the fund, according to a statement issued after the meeting, would be to avoid "excessive fluctuations in prices."

"We don't have enough information to really predict what is going to happen, whether or not this will affect coffee prices," said a spokesman for Folgers Coffee Co., a subsidiary of Procter & Gamble Co., the giant soap, toiletries and food producer.

General Foods Corp., the nation's largest coffee producer, had no immediate comment.

Mexican officials said they would go to Nairobi, Kenya, later this month to seek support for the fund from African coffee producers.

Rebekahs, IOOF Promote 'Gift of Life' Program

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Texas are sponsors of the "Gift of Life" program of the Kidney Foundation. Through this program, an individual can donate their kidneys, or any other organ, for transplantation after death. Members of the local Rebekah and IOOF Lodges are available to give presentations explaining how organs may be donated.

For centuries, man has dreamed of the time when diseased or injured organs of the body could be replaced by healthy ones. Kidney transplantation, after a decade of intensive research effort, is an accepted therapy for selected patients dying of end-stage kidney disease.

Corneas of the eyes and heart valves have been successfully transplanted in numerous instances. Possibly the next decade will witness similar advances in heart, liver, lung and bone marrow transplantation.

Replacement of other organs is not far behind—transplantation of the pancreas, spleen, tendons, intestines, bone, cartilage, blood vessels, skin and even the larynx has already been performed in selected cases in man.

Historically, transplantation was first tried in experimental animals around the turn of the century. Once it became apparent that the body refused to accept foreign tissue, interest in the field subsided until 1945 when the artificial kidney was developed. This device can temporarily sustain the life of a patient with kidney failure until a healthy new kidney is transplanted.

Although the first clinical trials in kidney transplantation met with ultimate failure, the transplanted kidneys survived longer than anyone had predicted from animal experiments. This experience emphasized the necessity for carefully controlled investigations on man himself if new treatment methods were to be successfully developed.

In the 1950's, animal research and the experience with a small number of successful transplants between identical twins provided a rudimentary understanding of the graft rejection process. By 1961, a group of potent "immunosuppressive" drugs had been developed which enabled prolonged function of transplanted kidneys.

Transplantation research, perhaps more than any other medical development in this century, exemplifies the interplay between cellular biology, laboratory experimentation and clinical research. Together, these disciplines are striving to develop a treatment for patients suffering from a multitude of other organs in the body are to function in a healthy manner. When the kidneys are functioning in a healthy manner, they dispose of wastes adequately; they remove substances from the bloodstream that are otherwise harmful. This is why the kidneys can be referred to as "The Master Chemists of the unrecognized diseases of the kidneys. Kidney disease is the fourth leading health problem in the United States today.

KIDNEY TRANSPLANTATION is a technique in which a normal kidney from a donor is surgically grafted to the blood vessels and bladder of the patient. Transplantation of the human kidney is no longer experimental but is accepted therapy for patients whose kidneys have failed.

More than 20,000 successful kidney transplants have been performed and in recent years many patients who have received a kidney from another person to replace kidneys destroyed by disease have been restored to productive life.

Although the main problem in kidney transplantation is the rejection factor; the chances for a successful kidney transplant have greatly improved due to the development of more effective immunosuppressive drugs and tissue-typing.

Since often a patient does not have a relative suitable or willing to act as a donor, kidneys taken at time of death are increasingly needed.

A network of tissue-typing centers has been established throughout the country where donor kidneys, when they become available, are typed and matched by computer with the most compatible kidney patient awaiting transplant.

With the chances of finding an excellent tissue match between unrelated persons about 1 in 1,000, a very large pool of donors is necessary to find the ideal match.

The National Kidney Foundation is helping to fill this need for kidney donors through its nation-wide Organ Donor Program. A Uniform Organ Donor Card and information concerning the gift of kidneys and other organs after death to save the lives of others is available from members of the Rebekah and IOOF Lodges.

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act makes Uniform Donor Cards available on a national basis. They are wallet-sized legal documents valid in all states. Donor cards may be obtained from the National Kidney Foundation upon request and must be signed in the presence of two witnesses.

Any individual of sound mind and at least 18 years of age may give all or any part of his body, the gift to take effect upon his death.

Leading members of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions are on record in support of organ transplantation—the "gift of life."

chronic diseases. Teams of medical specialists are currently concerned with three major problems: a) a search for more effective methods to attenuate the graft rejection response; b) the procurement and preservation of suitable organs for implantation; and c) the development and refinement of mechanical devices to temporarily assist or supplement the function of vital organs, especially the kidney, heart and lung.

The outlook for significantly improving the health and longevity of man through transplantation is exceedingly hopeful if the currently imperfect methods of controlling the graft rejection response can be refined.

FUNCTIONING KIDNEYS or their equivalent are essential to survival. If both kidneys in an otherwise normal individual were to cease to function for any reason, and if no medical care were available, death would inevitably occur within less than three to four weeks.

An important notation about man's kidneys is the fact that each kidney has developed the ability to function many times greater than it is called upon to perform in a normal situation. Complete removal of one kidney does not place an undue strain on the remaining kidney.

Human kidneys are responsible for maintaining the delicate chemical balance required if all Body. The functions of the kidneys are vital—1) clean waste materials and excess fluids from the blood, 2) filter the blood, retaining some compounds, excreting others, and 3) help regulate blood pressure and red blood cell count.

The numerous types of kidney disease vary, depending on the nature and cause of the specific disease and the different parts of the kidneys that are affected. Consequently there are different kinds of impairment of kidney function. For instance, there are diseases of the kidneys which may not impair function, but may cause illness.

Also, the invasion of bacteria into the kidneys can result in infection, manifested by fever, backache and other symptoms. Such an infection, if not recognized and treated promptly, may not immediately interfere with the work of the kidneys. On the other hand, some of the major diseases of the kidneys result in impairment of kidney function, which if unchecked, can cause a serious state of ill health known as uremia. At least 50,000 persons of both sexes and all ages died each year due to some form of kidney disease before the artificial kidney and transplantation became common.

Authorities estimate that well over 8 million Americans have diseased kidneys. Recent samplings indicate that at least 3,300,000 Americans have

Friday's Box Supper Leads Rebekah Agenda

The "old-fashioned" box supper to take place Friday night in IOOF Temple was an important item of discussion during the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah lodge #228 Tuesday evening.

Members expressed enthusiasm about the event, which will be open to the public.

Other business included appointment of committees who will serve during the 75th anniversary celebration Oct. 9.

Local lodge members expressed regret upon learning of the resignation of the vice president of Texas State Rebekah Assembly. Best wishes were forwarded to the successor.

Cheese prices vary with "curing," says Gwen Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The older the cheese, the costlier. Cheeses are cured from two to twelve months, the specialist says, so when flavor is not of first concern, use a "younger" cheese.

Field Trip Rocks Studied Monday

Chunks and slabs of rock taken during a field trip to McKenzie Lake near Tulia were displayed by members of Deaf Smith Lapidary Club Monday night during their monthly meeting at the Community Center.

Also on exhibit were a large number of slabs which had been identified by Sam Morgan, who explained the varying specimens.

Due to the success of the recent expedition to Lake McKenzie, members tentatively planned another trip there on Sept. 20. The group also discussed the possibility of a trip to New Mexico. Persons interested in the latter proposal are asked to contact Dale Henson, vice president.

Joe Williams furnished the door prize, an onyx cabashon, which was won by Frances Rape in a drawing.

Henson, who directed the routine business session, introduced Mr. and Mrs. Julian Perrin and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cirino as guests.

Afterwards, the group adjourned for an ice cream social. Those present included Messrs. and Mrs. Jake King, Lester Rape, Clarence Botts, Bud Cawthon, Orlan Newell, Cecil Lady, Weldon Roberson, Morgan, Henson and Becky and Delbert Ruland.

Glacial Origin

Any large mass of snow and ice on the land which lasts many years is a glacier. Glaciers are formed over a number of years where more snow falls than melts. As this snow accumulates and becomes thicker, it is compressed and changed into dense, solid ice. Also, the mass of snow and ice tends to flow due to its own weight.

Scribbles AND Scratches

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

NEVER HAVE figured out the "If you were born today" part of a newspaper horoscope. What newborn infant is going to be reading the paper?

IT DOESN'T PAY to be organized. I cite a case in point.

Wearry with the annual yuletide battle with my fellow Christmas shoppers, I decided that this year I was going to plan ahead and not be worried with last-minute gifts. The final freeze of winter had barely thawed when I was searching the catalogue for crafty gifts, which I could make during the summer and, voila, have ready to give as Christmas presents. I had not anticipated embezzlement, postal red tape and an elusive New York lawyer to shaft my plans right in a well-meaning-but-naive heart. But, back to my sad little saga:

It was in early May when I placed an order for $35 worth of stitchery kits, to be sewn (I thought) by my loving fingers. I innocently believed that all procedures were advancing in proper order when two weeks later my bank statement showed that the company had dutifully (and speedily) cashed my check.

Months passed...The summer days grew hotter, my patience wore thinner and the trips to the post office increased in frequency. But still no merchandise arrived.

As August approached, I began to have gruesome suspicions, so I wrote a letter to the company which had gladly taken my money, but was hesitating when it came to delivery. The letter returned unopened with a stamp in pretty pink ink, stating "Return to sender" and "Out of business."

Panic set in. But, I reasoned, this is not the American way. Surely they can't get away with such base thievery in the land of credit cards, layaway plans and no down payment. There were agencies to protect me as a consumer. A light bulb was suddenly illuminated above me, decreeing "Call your Better Business Bureau."

I did and they were very helpful. I learned that "Creative Village" (they're creative alright) and other related firms had declared bankruptcy. Wonderful.

I was given the name, address and telephone number of the lawyer who would be representing these fallen firms in their file for bankruptcy. Deciding on a direct approach, I placed a person-to-person telephone call to this attorney, who had burrowed into an obscure office in New York City.

Although it was not easy to comprehend his secretary's Bronx dialogue, the long distance operator and I finally understood that Mr. Bullsnot was on the other line. Could we wait?

Yes we could, if it was not more than one minute.

It was. As a matter of fact, Mr. B. never got off that other line so Ms. Operator and I ended our call.

Okay, I would write a letter to this attorney and ask if there was any chance of my being reimbursed by his sinking clients. The communique is duly addressed, licked, stamped.

Another returned, unopened letter. More pink ink, but with a different message: "Moved, not forwardable, New York, N.Y." and "This piece of mail has been delayed. Advise correspondents of correct zip code as indicated." Egad, they've misplaced New York.

I've only been robbed of $35, but the issue has reached obsessive proportions by now and I make one more bulldogged effort to contact Mr. Bullsnot via telephone. Again, with the operator's assistance, his office is contacted and we are informed that Mr. Bullsnot is on an extended vacation and no, there is no one else available to assist.

I hang up, dejected and tired of dealing with invisible people. I just hope that the shadowy Mr. Bullsnot has as much trouble collecting his legal fees as I have in getting my merchandise.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

My son said to me the other day, "Did you ever hear of death by listening?"

"What's that supposed to mean?"

"It means you and Dad are driving us crazy. Ever since we decided to backpack through Europe you've treated us like babies. After all, we're 22 and 19 years old."

"Okay, spit it out. Was it the name tags I sewed in your pajamas?"

"It was the pajamas. I told you we are not taking pajamas. We are roughing it."

"I understand about roughing."

"Mom! Roughing it to you means a phone with only a 10-foot extension cord."

"If you objected to the string around your neck with the pencil coming through each sleeve, just say so."

"We told you. Don't worry. Isn't it enough that we have to listen to Dad's hypothetical situations?"

"He just wants you to have a wonderful time."

"A wonderful time. Listen to this: 'You are standing in line at immigration when you realize someone has just stolen your passport and all your traveler's checks, a junkie has just planted a shoebox of heroin in your backpack and the immigration officer does not speak English. What do you do?'"

"That's not so bad," I said. "You don't know what misery is until a passport officer looks at your picture and then you and sees the resemblance. Now THAT is trauma time. Are you taking sun tan lotion?"

"You know what this reminds me of? Of the time we went to camp and you made us take a popcorn popper."

"And it would have worked out beautifully if you had had electricity."

"Okay, son," said his father, coming into the room. "Let me give you another problem to solve. What do you do if it has rained steadily for 15 days, your airline ticket home is smeared, you have both picked up a high grade infection that is untreatable, and your mother and I are visiting your Aunt Mary for four or five days?"

"Are you taking at least one sportcoat and tie? What about a tennis racket? A shoe bag?"

"Okay, here's another one," said father. "You have just dropped your camera into the Seine when a gang of midgets surrounds you and offers you $50 for the jeans you're wearing and your underwear is full of holes and where did they go, Mother?"

"They left...and they didn't even say good-bye...or did they?"

Ann Landers Prayers Answered

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Recently I saw a TV special on incest. I doubt that many people watched it. It was aired at 11:30 p.m. and incest is a subject most folks would rather not think about. The narrator said previous statistics have been proven wrong--that incest happens much more frequently than anyone had imagined.

I believe it because I went through that special hell with my own stepfather. I was ten when it began, and not overdeveloped. I prayed every night he would go away. I was lucky. My prayers were answered. He left my mom when I was 13. I was also fortunate that he never raped me. All he wanted to do was fool around.

Now, many years later, I realize I'm not the only one. A few days ago a friend broke down and told me she had gone through the same thing with her natural father. Her nightmare lasted eight years. For some reason her father stopped bothering her when she got a steady boyfriend. Like me, she was lucky to get an understanding husband who helped her get over the emotional trauma.

The reason I am writing is to plead for more treatment centers to help those who are not as fortunate as we were. As of now, there is only one such center in the United States.

There are so many children and adults with vivid memories going through this awful nightmare. They need help, Ann. Uncommon, you say? She was my next-door neighbor--We Prayed Together Without Even Knowing It

DEAR FRIEND: I saw that superb NBC special. In fact, it was inspired by my column.

I hope they will rerun it soon. More people need to be made aware of the problem. And yes, you are right about treatment centers. We need dozens more. Here's a project for PTAs all over the nation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since my father is a dentist who has always adjusted bills for "family," I'd like to comment on the letter critical of the young dentist who did not want to do free work for relatives.

First: Setting up a practice is very expensive and there is no way to pay for it except with money received for work done.

The patients don't exactly start lining up at the door the first day.

Second: Every person who recently graduated from dental school will be incensed by the comment that they need to "experiment" on their patients. It is insulting to the schools of dental medicine as well as to the dentists to assume that they are not qualified to make professional judgments.

My father had generous relatives and friends who insisted on paying for at least part of their work. They also told everyone they knew what a conscientious young dentist he was!

After practicing dentistry for 37 years, my father still does free and "discount" work for relatives. If you want to compare his "gifts" over the years with what they gave him when he was a boy, it is obvious who gave more.--Proud Daughter, Niece, Granddaughter, Etc.

DEAR DAUGHTER: Every dentist who reads your letter will love you. And they should. You sound like a neat lady. Thanks for writing.

'Mini-Page' Caters To Young Readers

The Hereford Brand will begin publication of a 4-page "newspaper for kids" tomorrow. An educational feature for young readers, "The Mini Page" is created by Betty Debnam of Raleigh, N.C., and produced by Universal Press Syndicate.

"The Mini Page" combines news, features, jokes, puzzles and art in a clean and simple format. While the content is aimed at children about 5 to 10 years old, the paper has proven both an ideal family feature and an educational tool.

Mrs. Debnam, the author, artist and originator, was an elementary teacher for 10 years and has a master's degree in education from Duke University. She says she always had an inclination toward journalism.

Her father, W.E. Debnam, was a newspaperman and television personality in North Carolina. Her grandfather, J.E. Debnam, was a public school superintendent and editor and publisher of the North Carolina Weekly.

"The Mini Page" appears weekly in more than 200 newspapers. It has received distinguished achievement awards from the Educational Press Association of America for excellence in education in journalism. It has also received a Freedom Foundation honor certificate for outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American way of life, and the American Dental Association Science Writers award.

Joining The Brand in bringing this educational and entertaining feature each Friday will be Helen's Youth Shop, Western Auto Store, and Mr. Burger.

Specials To Be Key In Battle of Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) - Specials will be a key to winning the ratings race this year, a major advertising agency says in its report on prime time network television.

"Each network is depending on special programming to flatten the competition," Batten Barton, Durstine & Orsborn said in the report.

Its analysis of the new season further noted that viewers can expect more general and family dramas, more situation comedies, more sports shows and, of course, more specials this year.

The agency also said there was a trend toward more science fiction and fantasy programs. In addition, viewers should expect a broader scope of subjects in made-for-TV films, including wife beating, breast cancer and the loss of sexual prowess in a youth.

But there has been a 43 per cent decline since last year in the amount of programs classified as music, comedy or variety and an 11 per cent decline in action, adventure and mystery shows.

"During the past year prime time network programming has been marked by innovation, quick action and monumental change," the report said, "and this volatility will continue to influence the networks' scheduling policies for the fall season." BBD&O said that networks found it easier to make new programming less violent than to modify long-running shows such as "Kojak" and "Police Woman" for fear of losing audiences.

The "real threat" to the old police and detective action shows, the agency continued, was science fiction, such as "Six Million Dollar Man," "Bionic Woman," "Wonder Woman" and the new entries, "Man from Atlantis" and "Logan's Run."

The report said that the networks were answering their need for dramatic programs lacking violence with general and family drama shows, which have increased 50 per cent this year to occupy 18 per cent of the schedule.

32 IN THE SHADE

WASHINGTON (AP) - This summer, don't be surprised if the thermometer hits a steamy 32 degrees in the shade.

That's what the reading will be on the Celsius scale, as opposed to Fahrenheit. As America moves into the metric system, it will begin to use the thermometer invented by the 18th-century Swedish chemist, Anders Celsius, which placed the freezing point of water at zero and the boiling point at 100 degrees.

With the Fahrenheit thermometer, perfected in 1714 by the German physicist Gabriel D. Fahrenheit, water freezes at 32 and boils at 212. Zero represented the coldest temperature that anyone could produce in those days, by mixing snow with salt.

Today more than half of American households have thermometers, many of them dual scale. Many weathermen broadcast the temperature in both degrees. To convert Celsius to Fahrenheit to see how hot you'll be at 32 degrees C, multiply by nine, then divide by five and add 32. When the temperature Celsius is below zero, subtract 32 instead of adding.

Evaluation Key At Scrimmage Friday

By BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

Evaluation is the key word as the Hereford Whitefaces travel to Vega Friday night to take on the Tascosa Rebels in their sole grid scrimmage before the regular season opens one week later at Pampa.

"We're going to get a real good look at our overall personnel," Herd head coach Fred Upshaw said Wednesday just prior to the afternoon workout. "We are going to look at a lot of kids in a lot of places."

Experience is not a long suit for the 1977 Herd, and while both offensive coordinator Carroll Tucker and defensive counterpart Rick Stewart say the varsity personnel is pretty much settled upon, the scrimmage will give the coaches a good look at some players who haven't much time on the field in varsity competition.

"Basically we've looked at our people as close as we can at this point," Tucker commented. "Although our team is pretty much set we still have some kids who lack experience and need to be seen under fire."

"This scrimmage is really important to us," Stewart echoed. "We have to evaluate what we are going to use this year as well as evaluating our personnel."

A trio of problem areas are faced by Stewart and the defensive coaches. The "faces" appear solid at the line and linebacker positions, but some question marks still exist at one defensive end spot, the nose guard position, and in the secondary.

"We'll be looking at quite a few kids at those places," Stewart revealed. "We appear to be set in some others, but it could all change following the scrimmage."

The coach reported that competition is high for the trouble spots listed. The Herd will run the Oklahoma 5-2 defense at the Rebels, including a few variations.

"We think the kids we have in the secondary are excellent athletes and are coming along really well, but again what we lack is the experience," Stewart added.

The secondary will be led this year by veteran head hunter Greg Hennington, the only pass defender who started all of the "Faces" contests last season.

Offensively, Tucker said the main objective against Tascosa is to put together two "sustained drives" during the fray, regardless of points going on the board.

"We need to move the ball from one end of the field to the other at least twice during the scrimmage," Tucker said. "We will limit our running plays and will be putting the ball in the air a lot."

Quarterbacks Kelly Kitchens and Jackie Mercer will direct the Herd offense in the scrimmage. "We will throw a lot because we have some receivers we need to see catch the ball," Tucker added.

The main targets of the Kitchens and Mercer aerials will be Chris Hill and Robert Graves.

"Our main objectives are to improve on our execution and to gain some consistency," Upshaw said. "We've got to execute the things we've been working on for the past ten days."

Consistency will be a big factor the coach feels. "It will be a key for us in the workout," he said. "Consistency has been a big problem for us in the past, and we're working on it hard."

"We have got to be able to stop someone and on the other hand be able to move the ball consistently," he concluded.

The scrimmage will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday night at Vega. It is scheduled to last about an hour-and-a-half Upshaw reported. Officials will be on hand, and the respective offenses will be given three downs to make a first down. The ball will be moved on up if the offense fails to make the goal, however.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Midland Lee football players illegally used football dummies during the non-contact conditioning period last week, the University Interscholastic League confirmed Wednesday.

UIL director Bailey Marshall said it was his understanding that the dummies were used Aug. 15, 16, 17 and possibly on the 18th as well.

The UIL's district executive committee were meeting Wednesday to decide what to do about the violation, Marshall said.

reporting a television newscast that showed players using the dummies.

Aug. 15 was the first day fall drills were permitted, but contact equipment was not allowed to be used under UIL rules until Aug. 19, Marshall said. It was his understanding that the dummies were used Aug. 15, 16, 17 and possibly on the 18th as well.

The UIL's district executive committee were meeting Wednesday to decide what to do about the violation, Marshall said.

Marv Webb and Jeff Leonard each collected four hits, leading the San Antonio Dodgers to a 9-1 victory over the El Paso in the Texas League, while Jackson closed out its season at home Wednesday with a 2-1 win over Shreveport.

San Antonio collected 17 hits and pulled within two games of the West Division leaders El Paso.

COLLEGE STATION, Tx. (AP) - Texas A&M defensive teams have allowed an average of less than 10 points per game and forced an average of eight punts and four turnovers per game the past three years.

Every Aggie defensive starter, that has graduated the past two years has signed a pro contract in addition to four backups from last year's team who signed free agent contracts.

With only three defensive regulars returning this season -linebacker Kevin Monk, cornerback Mike Williams and safety Carl Grulich-the glory days of the Aggie defense may be fading.

"Nobody can stay on top forever," Coach Melvin Robertson said.

But if the Aggies' high-powered offense, directed by quarterback David Walker and carried by mammoth fullback George Woodard, can perform to expectations, A&M could match last season's 10-2 record that included a victory over Florida in the Sun Bowl.

"For the past few years we've had to dominate people on defense to get going," Robertson said. "We don't have the firepower to do that right off this year. But we've got an offense that can move the ball."

"That should allow us to get by with a little bit younger bunch on defense. If the offense can score a few points, that will allow us to do a few things."

"We're not unarmed. It's just a little green that's all but we'll take care of that the first three weeks of the season. They're a very aggressive bunch. They've been letting us know there's not going to be that much of a drop off."

Robertson hopes the Aggies' heavy offensive weaponry will stand up early in the season and allow the young defensive timber time to season.

"I'd like to have the best offense in the country with us sitting on the bench all the time," Robertson said. "You're in pretty good shape if you can keep your offense on the field scoring points. We need to save our energy for the dance after the game."

The new defensive line likely will include ends Eddie Heath and Phil Bennett and tackles Johnnie Donahue and Steve Spitzberger. Frank Lemons and Jimmy Kocruel will join

Hairy Hrabosky Happy Once Again

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

St. Louis reliever Al Hrabosky believes his strength lies in his facial decoration.

"I feel comfortable and happy with myself," Hrabosky said Wednesday. And that can only mean bad news for opposing batters.

With his beard, Hrabosky was one of the National League's top relievers, the feared "Mad Hungarian." Then he was instructed to shave.

"Before he was allowed to grow his beard back, I was a miserable person," Hrabosky said. "Baseball was a job. There was no fun."

"Now I'm getting happier and happier."

Hrabosky came on in the eighth inning for starter John Urrea and got the final four outs as the Cardinals edged the San Francisco Giants 3-2.

In other NL games Wednesday, Los Angeles nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings. Atlanta edged Chicago 4-3. Cincinnati bombed New York 11-4 and Houston defeated Philadelphia 3-1.

Urrea, a rookie gave up just four hits before Hrabosky came on in the eighth. But the St. Louis hitters didn't get that many hits off Giants' starter Ed Halicki.

Halicki was touched for three hits in the first inning, including consecutive triples by Jerry Mumphrey and Garry Templeton. But the Cardinals scored the eventual winning run in the fourth without getting a hit as Mike Anderson walked, stole second, moved to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch.

Astros 3, Phillies 1

Joe Nickro's five-hitter was backed by Enos Cabell, who drove in a pair of runs with a double and a single to lead Houston over Philadelphia. The victory snapped Houston's six-game losing streak and ended the Phillies six-game winning string.

Reds 11, Mets 4

Home runs by Joe Morgan and George Foster powered Cincinnati over New York. Daye Concepcion chipped in with four of the Reds 15 hits. Doug Capilla, 6-4, recorded his third career victory over the Mets without a loss.

Dodgers 2, Pirates 1
Lee Eacy scored on Reggie Smith's single with two outs in the 10th inning to lead Los Angeles over Pittsburgh.

Unknown Reception Awaits Phipps Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) - The biggest question about tonight's National Football League pre-season meeting between the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns is what kind of reception the fans will give quarterback Mike Phipps.

The former Browns' quarterback says he doesn't care, but it will be interesting to see what his "homecoming" will be like after seven years of a love-hate relationship with the Cleveland fans.

The Bears, 3-1, and the Browns, 1-2, are preparing for the regular season. Phipps, who will play the first three quarters against his ex-teammates, says that is all that is on his mind.

"I'm really going to enjoy this," he said. "I hope I do well, but if I don't, it won't be the end of the world. It's just an exhibition game and the exhibition season has never been too popular in my mind."

Phipps, traded to the Bears last winter for two draft choices, is in a battle for Chicago's No. 1 quarterback job with incumbent Bob Avellini. It was Avellini's turn to start in Jack Pardee's rotation, but the Bears' coach switched so that Phipps could get the major share of the action against his old teammates.

In Cleveland, Phipps often was booed lustily by the fans and blamed for most of the ills the Browns suffered. The big raps against him were that he never approached the potential he showed at Purdue and that the Browns traded popular receiver Paul Warfield in order to get a No. 1 draft choice they used to pick Phipps.

"Truly, I don't think they (the Browns fans) appreciate what I've done," Phipps said this week. "They all seem to remember the bad things and not the good. I walked away with good memories. If they want to blame me for a couple of bad years, they can."

Cleveland will start Brian Sipe at quarterback against Phipps. Sipe became the Browns' quarterback after Phipps suffered a shoulder separation in the 1976 season opener.

Cleveland star running back Greg Pruitt remains sidelined with a pulled muscle. Starting in his place will be Eddie Payton, getting a chance to match skills against his younger brother, Bears star Walter Payton.

The elder Payton, bothered by injuries said, "I'll play. I've got to show my little brother what I can do. And we've got a whole busload of people coming in to see us play."

In NFL personnel movements, veteran wide receiver Gerald Tinker - attempting a comeback from a knee injury that sidelined him all last year - was waived by the Green Bay Packers.

Tinker had been acquired on waivers from Atlanta in 1975. The Packers also waived guard Laron Jackson, acquired from Atlanta earlier this month.

The Philadelphia Eagles released veteran defensive tackle Walter Johnson to make room for newly-acquired offensive tackle Donnie Green.

Rangers Sweep Boston

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Texas and Boston spent more than eight hours at Fenway Park Wednesday night. The Rangers got a rain-delayed doubleheader sweep out of the evening; all the Red Sox got was wet.

"Just a wasted evening," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer after his Red Sox dropped their eighth consecutive game and fell into a tie with Baltimore for second place in the American League East. The Rangers defeated Boston 3-0 and 6-3 in the two-nighter, which was delayed two hours and 22 minutes in the opener.

Gaylord Perry and Adrian Devine combined to stifle the Red Sox in the opener, surrendering just three hits. Jim Sundberg's bloop double provided the only run Texas needed. In the nightcap, Jim Mason slammed his first homer since the 1976 World Series, when he was with the Yankees, for the winning run. It was only the 12th home run of Mason's career.

Claudell Washington also homered in the contest as Texas moved into second place in the AL West, two games behind pacesetter Kansas City and .001 ahead of third-place Minnesota.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore outscored Chicago 10-5. New York demolished Minnesota 11-1 and Kansas City outlasted Milwaukee 4-3 in 15 innings. Cleveland and California split a two-nighter, the Indians winning the opener 5-3 and California winning the nightcap, 5-2; Toronto swept a pair from Seattle, 7-0 and 9-3, and Oakland took two from Detroit, 3-1 and 6-5 in 10 innings.

Orioles 10, White Sox 5
Doug Decinces and Lee May each had three hits as Baltimore topped Chicago. The Orioles pounded White Sox' pitching for 19 hits, 14 off starter Steve Stone, 13-9.

"It looked like a rookie league game to me," said Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger, whose third-inning error led to a Chicago run.

Yankees 11, Twins 1
A 62-minute rain delay in the first inning may have been Minnesota's undoing. After scoring a run in the top of the inning, the Twins saw Mickey Rivers double and Reggie Jackson walk for the Yankees before the rain halted play. When the game resumed, Pete Redfern immediately surrendered Chris Chambliss' 15th homer and the rout was on.

Roy White, Bucky Dent and Mickey Rivers also slammed home runs for New York, which stretched its first-place Eastern Division lead to two games. Catfish Hunter, 9-7, hurled a four-hitter for his third straight victory.

Royals 4, Brewers 3, 15 Innings

John Wathan doubled home John Mayberry with the tie-breaking run, then scored what proved to be the winner on Amos Otis' single as Kansas City took its eighth straight game, lengthening its AL West lead to two games.

Doug Bird, 10-4, hurled 5 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, striking out seven, to earn the victory.

Indians 5-2, Angels 3-5

Cleveland beat Nolan Ryan in the opener, spoiling his attempt to become the AL's first 18-game winner. Jerry Remy's fifth-inning error on Rico Carty's grounder allowed the winning run to score. Ryan, 17-12, fanned 10, the 102nd time in his career he has struck out at least 10 men in a game.

In the nightcap, Remy knocked in three runs to provide much of the Angels' offense.

Blue Jays 7-9, Mariners 0-3

Rookie Jerry Garvin hurled a six-hitter in the opener for his first major league shutout and his ninth complete game. Hector Torres' three-run homer and solo blasts by Ron Fairly and Doug Rader provided the offense.

Torres' knocked in three more runs in the nightcap and Jesse Jefferson hurled a six-hit complete game.

A's 3-6, Tigers 1-5

Vida Blue pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven in leading Oakland to its first-game triumph. Jerry Tabb hit his fourth homer of the year to support Blue, 12-15, who out-pitched Detroit rookie standout Dave Rozema, 14-5.

Oakland completed the sweep as Mitchell Page scored from second base on a 10th-inning error by Detroit shortstop Tom Verzer.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - The National Collegiate Athletic Association's move to rejoin the U.S. Olympic Committee has prompted a call for reconciliation with the Amateur Athletic Union.

The NCAA's 18-member governing council voted Wednesday to ask its more than 840 member institutions for permission to rejoin the Olympic committee if steps toward reorganizing it are continued. Approval is expected at the NCAA's convention in January.

Show Based on Official Transcripts

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Several years ago, public TV offered two fine shows, "The White House Transcripts" and "The Watergate Cover-Up Trial," re-enacted accounts of the end of Richard M. Nixon's era. The guy who made those shows - with actors, stage sets and verbatim dialogue from the Watergate tapes and trial - is using the same technique again for four more it-really-happened programs. He's Thomas McCann, who with KERA-TV in Dallas and $625,000 from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting - CPB - has come up with "Eyewitness," a public affairs miniseries for public TV. The first one-hour show, about a jetliner crash, the Karen Ann Quinlan case and the trial of a Massachusetts masseur on a prostitution charge, is being fed stations tonight by the Public Broadcasting Service. Check local listings, as it may air on different nights in various areas. KCET here, for example, won't show it until Sept. 7. As with his first two shows, McCann says the miniseries reenacts major news stories "directly from public documents, verbatim, and we try to come as close as we possibly can to the real situation..." But there are exceptions. In the jetliner segment, about the 1974 crash of an Eastern Airlines DC9 in South Carolina that killed 71 persons, he didn't use the names of the pilot of copilot. This, he says, is both out of consideration to the fliers' families and because the copilot survived "and is trying to make a living again flying airplanes.

There was no need to use his name." He said the 10-minute segment, shown entirely in the plane's cockpit, uses the fliers' words as taped on a cockpit voice recorder, later made part of National Transportation Safety Board documents. At the end, he said, newsmen Andrew Macmillan recounts the board's findings on the probable cause of the accident.

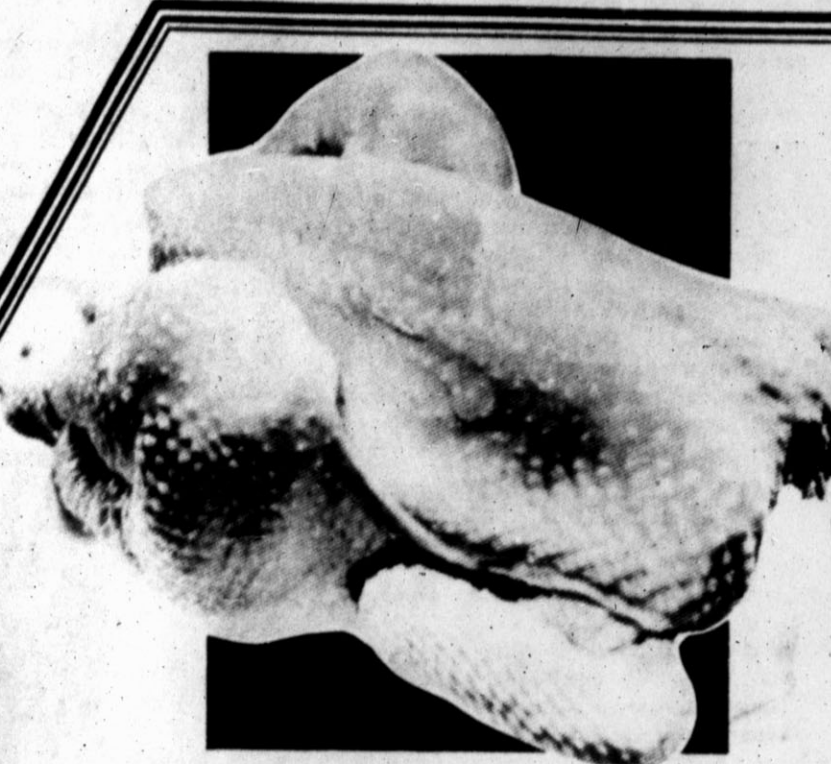

McCann says "Eyewitness" is an outgrowth of a 90-minute pilot show CPB funded for $125,000 a year ago. He said it was tested last fall in five cities - New York; Boston; Des Moines, Iowa; Birmingham, Ala., and Seattle, Washington. "It got astonishingly high marks, so they decided to fund these four programs," he said, adding that each costs about $125,000. He said all the series' reenactments are based only on official transcripts. Invented dialogue or dramatist's surmise is taboo. "I think there's less chance for distortion this way than in, say, 'Missiles of October'" - an ABC docu-drama on the Cuban missile crisis - "which is largely the product of a writer's mind," he said.

"There's more chance for objectivity and balance." McCann said he may seek CPB funding for six more "Eyewitness" shows in 1978. However, he added, he wants to see how the first four do. "I don't plan to go back to CPB until I see how the viewers like it - and the reviewers," he said.

Gershwin, Astaire To Be Spotlighted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three new-old musical show records soon to be released feature such people as George Gershwin, Fred and Adele Astaire, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Ethel Merman, Eddie Cantor and the legendary Bert Williams.

Williams combed the archives of recording companies and private collectors to reconstruct three shows from individual records made by the people who starred in them.

The shows are the "Ziegfeld Follies in 1919," Gershwin's 1924 "Lady Be Good," and Porter's 1934, "Anything Goes."

Williams said in an interview, "It surprised everybody except maybe the guy who thought it up - and maybe even him. It is still in print and selling well."

Recording by individual artists goes back before 1900, Williams said, citing Victor Herbert. "He was a freak on records. He recorded overtures, excerpts, songs - sometimes more than once. This material is scattered over many record labels."

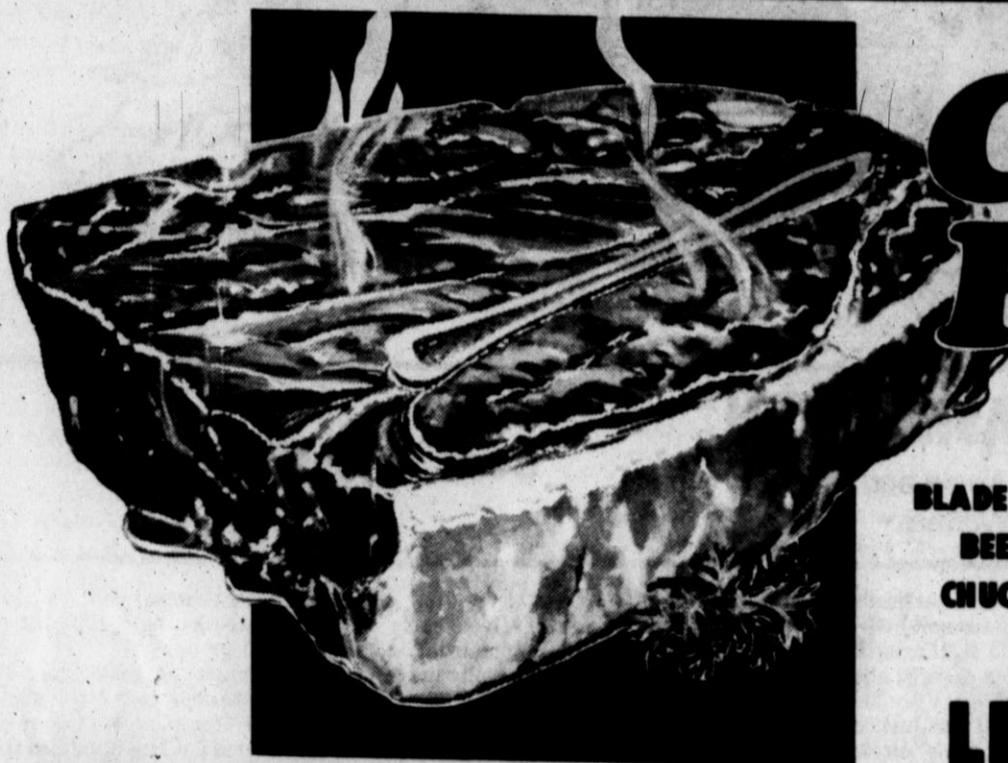

What Williams has done - he calls it archival reconstruction - is to hunt out original examples, and he said that in some instances he has found too much. He has outlined plans for 30 such records.

The first three will be issued in October if no hitches develop. The Smithsonian is able to draw on the archives of most record companies under an agreement that requires the records to be sold only by the Smithsonian, either in Washington or by mail. None are sold in retail outlets.

"GREASE" FILM
NEW YORK (AP) - Paramount Pictures has been preparing a long list of celebrities to star or make guest appearances in a filmed version of the hit Broadway musical comedy, "Grease."

Starring in the production are three-time Grammy Award-winner Olivia Newton-John, Broadway star Stockard Channing and John Travolta, who made his name in the television situation comedy "Welcome Back Kotter."

The film company said guest stars would include Eve Arden, Frankie Avalon, Joan Blondell, Sid Caesar, Alice Ghostley and the '50s-style rock 'n' roll group Sha Na Na.

Regulations Proposed To Save Farms

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interior Department, hoping to save the family farm, is proposing regulations that would force huge corporate interests in 17 states to sell more than a million acres in the arid West.

The regulations, which would go into effect in 90 days unless blocked by lawsuits, would require corporations, investors and other large landowners to sell property they hold in excess of amounts allowed in a little-enforced 1902 law.

The law was passed to place a 160-acre limit on the property a landowner may irrigate from federal water projects.

In announcing the proposal Monday, interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus noted that Congress designed water projects worth billions of dollars "primarily to place small farmers on the land." He said the new regulations are designed to carry out that congressional directive.

"Let me emphasize that these proposed regulations are not designed to jeopardize legitimate family farm operations," Andrus said. "They are designed to help the family farmer, not agribusiness." Officials said they expect the rules to be challenged by land-owning interests.

For more than 20 years the federal Bureau of Reclamation has financed water projects that convert marginal land into some of the nation's most valuable agricultural acreage. But critics have maintained that large corporations and absentee owners benefited most from the policy.

The department's new regulations would apply only to "excess lands." But Andrus said restrictions for other lands "will be prepared as soon as practicable."

Keith Higginson, Bureau of Reclamation commissioner, said the regulations would force large landowners to divest themselves of 1,074,000 acres of excess land, which would then be offered for sale to small farmers.

While the increasingly valuable fruit and vegetable acreage was, in effect, being divided in checkerboard fashion by the business interests, the government was doing little to enforce the 1902 congressional act. The law limits ownership of land receiving water from dam projects in the Rocky Mountains and on Western rivers to 160 acres. The department said it plans to enforce the law now.

The regulation would zero in on absentee owners by requiring future purchasers of excess lands to live within 50 miles of the land they wish to buy.

The rules also would require Interior Department approval of all sales of excess land to prevent current owners from receiving windfall profits.

The proposed acreage limitation does not mean farms using federal water would be limited to 160 acres. A farmer and his wife, for example, could each own 160 acres. Each also would be permitted to lease an additional 160 acres.

But corporate ownership of the affected farmlands would be limited to small, family corporations under the proposed regulations, Higginson said.

Since the productivity of the land, valued at about $1,000 an acre, already has been demonstrated, small farmers apparently would be able to finance their purchases with loans from commercial banks and federal lending institutions.

Trial Results Announced

The results of a wheat variety trial conducted at the Raymond Schlabbs farm north of Hereford during the past growing season have been released, according to Juston McBride, county agent.

The trial was conducted in cooperation with the Bushland Research Station, and the Texas Wheat Growers Association.

McBride explained that the past season marked the fifth year in which a demonstration has been planted locally to give farmers an opportunity to compare new wheat varieties, particularly varieties from the neighboring states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado.

Results of the trial were: Osage produced 70.8 bushels with a test weight of 61.6 lbs. per bushel.

Sage produced 82.1 bushels with a test weight of 61 lb. Lancoto produced 57.7 bu. at 59.2 test weight. Rall produced 79.4 bu. at 61.6 lb. test weight. Centurk yielded 84.1 bu. at 60.9 test weight.

Eagle produced 66.5 bu. at 61.3 test weight. TAM-101 produced 76 bushels with a 60 lb. test weight. TAM-103 produced 69.9 bu. at 60.3 test weight.

Larned yielded 64.4 with 60.7 test weight. Scout 66 yielded 72.6 bushels with a 61.2 lb. test weight.

All varieties were under irrigation and were sown in early October.

The plots were pre-watered and irrigated three times with no serious insect problems, according to McBride.

Bentsen Wants Action On Wheat Cutbacks

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senator Lloyd Bentsen has urged the Administration to unveil its proposals for holding wheat acreage out of production as quickly as possible.

This year, for the first time since 1973, the Administration is expected to withhold wheatland from production because of a world-wide surplus resulting from three consecutive bumper crops in the U.S. and better than average wheat harvests in other countries.

"Wheat farmers in Texas and in other parts of the nation will be planting their 1978 crops this fall. And they need to start now preparing the land for planting; plowing up last year's crop and fertilizing," Bentsen said.

"I have sent a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Bergland, urging him to announce his plans regarding a set-aside requirement for the 1978 wheat crop as quickly as possible."

"Our farmers need this information so they can get to work."

The 2.2 billion bushel U.S. wheat crop in 1976 was the largest in history, the 2.1 billion bushel crop in '75 was the second largest, and the 2.04 billion bushel crop in '77 is expected to be the third largest. By way of comparison, wheat consumption in the U.S. averages only 750 million bushels per year. World grain storage has increased by a record 84 million metric tons during the past two years.

The Administration is reportedly planning a wheat set-aside of some 20 per cent of this year's production for the 1978 wheat crop.

"But our farmers can't make their plans on the basis of rumor and speculation. They need to know with a certainty what the set-aside requirement is going to be," Bentsen said.

"I am hopeful the Department of Agriculture will announce those requirements in the next few days," Senator Bentsen said.

ASCS News Disaster Payments Could Be Changed

By JOHN FUSTON Executive Director

Wheat and feed grain farmers who have no acreage allotments or who have overplanted their allotments for these crops may become eligible for government disaster payments under the farm bill agreed to by congressional conferees, according to James E. Goad, Chairman, Texas State ASC Committee.

Under provisions of the conference bill, a farmer who has suffered reduced yields due to natural disaster may be eligible for a payment based on the number of acres actually planted for harvest. ASCS will begin accepting disaster claims from all farms for wheat and feed grains (corn, grain sorghum and barley). However, no payments may be made under these provisions until enactment of the farm bill.

Farmers who wish to file or refile a disaster claim or who wish more information concerning the disaster payment program should contact their County ASCS office.

DFCP: Producers who were approved for cost sharing on practices under this program should report completion of the practice as soon as possible. We are making payments on the completed practices at this time.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland appointed James E. Goad, Rosebud, Chairman of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Named as committee members are Joe E. Chapa, Linn; Edward L. Lehman, Jr., Vernon; John D. Smith, Sudan; and Charles W. Stenholm, Stamford. The Committee administers federal farm programs in Texas.

Goad, 64, has farmed 550 acres, producing cotton and feed grains. He also owned and operated a cotton gin. Goad belongs to the national Farmers Union and previously served on the Texas State ASC Committee from 1961 to 1969. He and his wife, Cordella, have a married daughter.

Chapa, 63, owns and operates 1500 acres on which he grows sorghum and grazes about 125 mother cows. He also operates a general merchandise store in Hidalgo County. Chapa belongs to the American Farm Bureau Association and serves on the Board of Regents for Pan American University. Chapa has two daughters and a son.

Lehman, 51, owns and manages 1500 acres growing wheat, cotton, feed grains, and alfalfa and raising 250 registered Angus cattle. He has served as a member of a marketing team for Texas Agricultural Crops in Western Europe, and as a member of both an elevator and cotton gin board of directors. Lehman belongs to the American Farm Bureau Association, Texas Angus Association and the Southwest Cattle Raisers Association. He and his wife have three sons and a daughter.

Smith, 57, owns 1900 acres, producing both dryland and irrigated cotton and milo and feeding cattle. He has owned and operated a trucking business, transporting agricultural commodities and building supplies, as well as serving as president of a local grain elevator company. Smith has held office in the Plains Cotton Council, Water, Inc., the High Plains Research Foundation, and Cotton, Inc. He and his wife, Jerry, have two daughters.

Stenholm, 39, operates 2500 acres, producing cotton, wheat, and grain sorghum, while grazing 85 mother cows and feeding about 1000 pigs each year. Mr. Stenholm currently belongs to the Texas Federation of Cooperatives, Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Growers Association, Texas Pork Producers Association, Stamford Chamber of Commerce Exchange Club and Tri-Area Livestock Show Association. He and his wife, Cindy, have two sons and a daughter.

Fertilizer Purchasing Could Show Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) - American farmers bought a record amount of fertilizer in the year ending June 30, but a top chemical corporation executive thinks the pace will decline by 5 to 7 per cent by next summer.

Fertilizer consumption, measured by the amount that left producers' facilities, rose five per cent in the year ending June 30 compared with the previous year, the Fertilizer Institute says.

A 16 per cent increase in deliveries of potash products, an 11 per cent rise in deliveries of phosphates and a 6 per cent climb in use of nitrogen totals above 51 million tons for the first time, the private association said.

Joseph P. Sullivan, a former board chairman of the institute and president of the Chicago-based chemicals division of Eastmark Inc., however, predicted in an interview that consumption would decline next year to the 1976-level of between 48 million and 49 million tons.

One reason for the expected decline, he said is that corn growers who rely heavily on fertilizer are receiving the lowest prices in five years. Slightly offsetting that trend, he said, is "the fact that farmers and their bankers now have a higher certainty about the government's intention in the way of price supports and such" because of imminent final action on the new farm and food-aid policies through 1981.

Sullivan said he expects nitrogen-related fertilizer consumption to decline only slightly. Even though prices are rising because supplies such as natural gas are tight, nitrogen products were the only group of fertilizers to be in greater supply this July than last, the institute report said.

Sullivan said he estimates a decrease in phosphate and potash deliveries of between 5 and 8 per cent.

Nonetheless, U.S. farmers will become much more dependent for nitrogen in the 1980s on imports.

Feds Under Pressure To Control Substance

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government is under increasing pressure from union and consumer groups to impose strict controls on a pest-control substance suspected of causing sterility in men and cancer in animals.

But a major manufacturer of the substance, DBCP, says its own safety guidelines are adequate.

Two federal agencies are considering requests for new controls on the chemical, and a spokesman says one agency was considering stepping in before it was asked to do so.

Concern over the health effects of the compound, known as dibromochloropropane, was heightened this month by evidence of sterility in a dozen workers who handled the substance at Dow Chemical Co.'s Magnolia, Ark., plant.

Dow suspended production Aug. 11 after tests found the men produced little or no sperm.

In another case, 10 men who worked with the chemical at an Occidental Chemical Co. plant in Lathrop, Calif., were found to be either totally sterile or to have extremely low sperm counts.

In addition, a recent National Cancer Institute study linked the pesticide to cancer in rats and mice.

On Tuesday, the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union asked the Occupational Safety and Health Administration to issue emergency temporary DBCP standards.

The union is seeking orders limiting worker exposure to DBCP, special sterility tests for workers who used the substance and continued monitoring of exposure levels in work areas.

The second request for government action came from the Health Research Group. The organization, association with consumer advocate Ralph Nader, petitioned the Environmental Protection Agency for an emergency suspension of registration for all pesticides containing DBCP.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Dow defended the safety levels it established for the substance, developed to control worms and other soil pests.

But the spokesman said workers who became sterile after handling the pesticide apparently were exposed to it within the company's safety levels. These limits were based on tests conducted more than 20 years ago showing DBCP could make animals sterile, Dow said.

An OSHA spokesman said the agency was considering an emergency standard for the pesticide even before the union filed its petition. OSHA issued a so-called notice and alert about DBCP on Aug. 16 in which it asked industry to take "appropriate action to protect employees" while the problem was being studied.

The principal manufacturers of DBCP include Dow, which markets the pesticide as Fumazone; Shell Oil Co., which calls it Nemagon Soil Fumigant; and Occidental, which makes DBCP products called CHAKEM-CO, Garden Fume and Green Light. About 30 million pounds of the chemical are produced each year.

No Post Offices Won't Stop Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) - The three families in Berry's Lick, Ky., can breathe a little easier. So can the folks in Devil's Elbow, Mo.; N.D.; and Intercourse, Pa.

The Postal Service wants to let America's small towns keep their identity even if it closes their post offices to save tax dollars.

Under the proposal due to take effect in 30 days, residents of towns whose post offices are closed can in virtually all cases receive mail addressed to their hamlets.

And the communities will still be listed in the Directory of Post Offices, often used as a reference book for place names.

The proposed regulations, published in today's Federal Register, outline the steps to be taken in closing a post office. The public has 30 days to comment before the proposal becomes final.

One postal official noted, "People in rural America are worried that if they lose the post office, they also will lose community identity."

Deputy Postmaster General William F. Bolger said many small town residents "believe that it is like being taken off the map. So if we close a post office, we will do everything we can to maintain community identity."

One example of a community whose post office loses money is Berry's Lick. The Postal Service says the facility, which served only three families, brought in only $37.67 last year while running up expenses of more than $4,000. Berry's Lick can be served by a rural delivery route, which could provide mail service at a saving to the nation's taxpayers.

The Postal Service says it expects some local opposition anytime it wants to close a post office. But resentment usually dies down after residents become used to the change, officials say.

Postmasters' organizations oppose office closings, which force the local postmaster to quit his job or move.

Bolger promised "to go to any extreme to make our actions as easy as possible on the lives of our employees."

Once the regulations take effect, the Postal Service is expected to resume its slow reduction in the number of post offices from the current 30,000.

If plants held conventions, delegates would feel at home in the Big Thicket of east Texas. Called a "biological crossroads of North America" the area is overlapped by Appalachian and southern forests, flora and fauna of the West and varieties indigenous to Mexico's subtropics.

A moratorium on closings has been in effect since July 1, 1976. When an office is closed, service is provided by rural delivery or by a local citizen who agrees to sell stamps and provide other postal functions in his store or home.
