Landry: Look, legend are intact

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Put yourself in Tom Landry's shoes for a moment.

You have given 29-plus years of your life for the pursuit of a dream, a goal, a well-done job. You have reached the summit, won more post-season football games than any other coach in professional football history, won world championships, won the hearts of so many people that your football team is America's Team.

Then a new guy, who you don't even know, doesn't have the decency to come in and say thanks or kiss my ring or anything else. A guy who, like Warren Hasse said Tuesday night, "Burns his bridges ahead of him."

You find out you're fired, out of a job, out the door, finished, by watching television.

For a man to have had his life short-circuited in such a big hurry, Tom Landry didn't show much animosity about the New Dallas Cowboys in his speech to a huge crowd at the annual athletic banquet at Boys Ranch on Tuesday night.

Tom's still the same old Tom. Even-keeled, stone-faced. Tom didn't wear The Hat, but he did wear The Look.

It was the same Look he had when Roger Staubach won 20 of 24 games in which the Cowboys trailed in the fourth quarter during his career. The same Look when the Cowboys lost those games to the Steelers and the 49ers and the Packers, or the Look when his Cowboys won those games against the Dolphins and the Broncos.

Tom Landry talked about things like adversity and goal-setting to the crowd of boys and adults there to see him. He told how his belief in Jesus Christ helped him when he helped form the Cowboys in 1960, went through the lean early years, the successful seventies when his Cowboys won more games than any other team in any other decade, and when he was shoved out the door while not even being told his services were no longer needed.

Landry relied on 1 Corinthians, where the apostle Paul tells what is needed to run the Great Race, for most of his philosophy in dealing with the Cowboys when he was the coach and when he wasn't the coach.

Paul talked about things like preparation, how you must give of yourself to earn rewards. "Paul would have been a heckuva football player," Landry interjected.

If Paul had ended there, then Landry might not have made it this far in 1989. But Tom Landry is a man who knows he has an even greater reward coming.

Tom Landry wasn't always a Christian. He was a church-goer during his childhood in Mission, but he wasn't a Christian until 1959, after he had been a star player at the University of Texas, and the New York football Yankees and giants.

"I had been an all-pro, and we had won the World Championship, but it was still empty," Landry said. "I had an emptiness despite the successes. Before I became a born-again Christian, football was No. 1, then my family, and God was on down the line. Now Jesus Christ is the No. 1 thing in my life."

He talked about how his christian philosophy helped him and others mold the Cowboys from that first 0-11-1 season in 1960, when George Halas told him the Cowboys were the worst football team he had ever seen, into two-time Super Bowl champions.

And he talked about how God has given everyone talent, but not everyone has fulfilled their promise.

Case in point: Walt Garrison, Cowboys' fullback.

"Garrison wasn't big, and he wasn't fast, but he had a big heart," Landry said. "Of course the tailback was Calvin Hill, so that took a lot of pressure off of Walt."

Landry recalled a better time against the Bears, at Wrigley Field, where the Cowboys were faking the handoff to Hill and giving the ball to Garrison. The fullback was picking up six yards a carry, and the Bears, especially Dick Butkus, were frustrated.

"We thought we had found the play that would work, and Butkus was out there calling us names," Landry said. "Finally, Butkus decides to key on Garrison. We ran the play again, and there was Butkus, just waiting on Garrison. Walt figured he could run over him, but Butkus just knocked him straight backward."

"Butkus told him that if he came through there again, he'd bite his head off. Walt told him, 'Dick, go ahead and do that. You'll have more brains in your stomach than you have in your head.'"

Landry didn't focus on the bad times. He focused on the fun, the teams of Garrison and Staubach, and how much fun he had wearing The Look and becoming The Legend.

And he showed that The Look and The Legend came from his one slogan ("I'm not a slogan man," Landry said) he's had during all of his years as Cowboys' coach.

"The quality of life is proportionate to your commitment to excellence."

Clements not going 'Hightower-bashing'

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican Gov. Bill Clements' suggestions that he might veto legislation that would put the Democratic state agriculture commissioner out of a job is not "Jim Hightower-bashing," says the Texas House speaker.

"Really, I don't think it's a Jim Hightower-bashing ... I don't think that's the case, where (Clements) just dislikes Jim Hightower," said Gib Lewis, a Fort Worth Democrat. "I think it's a case where he wants to make sure that the person who has that position has a thorough knowledge and background in agriculture and will make good decisions based on that background and knowledge," Lewis told reporters Tuesday.

But, Lewis said, he thinks Hightower lacks enough support in the House to overcome a veto by Clements of Sunset legislation that would continue his job.

"No, I don't think there's enough votes to do it ... I'd question seriously whether I'd even recognize someone for the motion" to consider overriding a veto, Lewis said.

It would require a two-thirds vote of the House and Senate to override a veto.

"I think that if we did that it would be a very partisan, bitter debate," Lewis said. "We've gone along real well this year because we don't have that bitter, partisan battle in the House and I'm going to do everything I can to keep that from happening."

"I'm not saying I wouldn't allow House action on a veto "if someone had the votes to do it," Lewis said. "But as far as (someone) jumping out there and making a motion and spending half a day debating a dead issue, I am not going to allow that to happen."

The legislation, written by the Sunset Advisory Committee, reflects a routine review of the Texas Department of Agriculture. It would continue the agency's operations, including keeping the commissioner's post an elected office.

Clements has indicated he might veto the legislation and make the commissioner's post appointive, putting Hightower out of a job. Some farm and cattle organizations have urged him to do so.

Andy Welch, a spokesman for Hightower, said, "We have not even counted those (House and Senate) votes ... This thing has sailed along."

The Senate easily approved the legislation and a House committee Monday sent it to the full House.

Prison reform almost ready for conference

AUSTIN (AP) - A House-Senate conference committee could begin studying a prison reform package as early as next week if the House passes its bill soon, legislative leaders say.

House members combined several prison reform measures in one package to hurry the legislation to the Senate, which is awaiting House action.

Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, author of the Senate prison bill, said Tuesday he was waiting for the House measure before moving his proposal to the full Senate.

He said the Senate bill will be rewritten to include differences with the House bill.

The combined House proposals, expected to reach the floor Wednesday, will replace a bill by Rep. Allen Hightower to fund 20,000 new prison beds and expand community sentencing options to alleviate state prison crowding.

The bills set out the alternative programs and facilities needed for them, said Hightower, D-Huntsville. He said he hoped the package of bills would pass the House more quickly than the individual proposals.

"When you lay the fingers together, all of the 10 bills ... you get the full impact of what the whole project does," said Hightower, D-Huntsville.

Hightower predicted the legislation would be passed with most parts intact.

"The (House) Speaker told me to take the package last session ... He said fix the problem," Hightower said. "The bill that I have is the best attempt that I can make."

"Now, if the Senate or somebody else changes the numbers, then I'll have to live with whatever comes out of this legislative body," he said.

Hightower said the Senate bill differs "in the number of bonds and the number of beds, but other than that, it's 99 percent the same" as the combined House bills.

Legislators and Gov. Bill Clements have agreed to the need for about 10,800 new prison beds.

Alternative facilities, such as so-called boot camp prisons, would help alleviate state prison overcrowding, which has backed up thousands of felons in county jails.

The state Conference of Urban Counties, led by Bexar County Judge Tom Vickers, has urged lawmakers to remove provisions from both house's bills requiring state prisons to remain under 95 percent capacity.

The quota provision reflects a federal court order, lawmakers have said.

McFarland, Hightower and House Speaker Gib Lewis said they have been talking with Vickers and other county judges about their concerns.

"They trust this Legislature but they maybe don't trust future Legislatures" not to shift the prison overcrowding burden permanently to county jails, Lewis told reporters Tuesday.

U.S. 'Report card' is gloomy

WASHINGTON (AP) - American education is stagnating by nearly every measure in a new comparison of school performance across the country, Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos said today in releasing the discouraging report card.

The sixth annual State Education Performance Chart shows a decline in the national high school graduation rate and falling scores on college entrance exams in half the states.

"We must do better," Cavazos said in a statement accompanying the report. "We must revitalize education in America. I am challenging states and districts to establish education improvement targets."

Cavazos said he would write every governor, state schools chief and school board president in the country to urge them to adopt his targets, which include boosting high school graduation rates to 90 percent and cutting in half the number of children who fail a grade.

"These goals are doable," he said. "We must focus not on the minimum, but on the best."

The controversial performance chart, known as the wall chart, shows a general lack of progress despite the continuing spate of reform efforts and ever-rising education spending - up to $3,977 per student on this year's chart compared to $3,756 last year.

National scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) fell from 906 to 904 (on a scale of 400 to 1,600) from 1987 to 1988. Fully 14 of the 22 states in which the SAT is the dominant college entrance exam registered declines.

Scores on the American College Testing Program (ACT), on a scale of 1 to 36, showed a scant .1-point gain. And 11 of the 28 states in which the ACT dominates posted decreases.

Looking at trends since the first wall chart was issued in 1982, one bright note was a continuous rise in the percentage of students taking the Advanced Placement test qualifying them for college credit, from 5 to 11 percent. The department attributed the climb largely to doubled Hispanic involvement and an 83 percent increase in participation by blacks.

The high school graduation rate rose from 69.5 percent in the first chart to 71.7 percent in 1985. But it fell slightly in 1986 to 71.6 percent and dropped to 71.1 percent in 1987, the latest year for which statistics could be calculated.

Minnesota ranked first with a high school completion rate of 90.6 percent, while the District of Columbia was last at 55.5 percent. Wyoming showed the most improvement, zooming from 25th in 1982 to second in 1987; Michigan did the worst, falling from 28th to 48th.

The department noted that Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina and the District, all with relatively high poverty rates, have registered some of the largest increases in college entrance test scores since 1982. It said this shows that states with large proportions of disadvantaged students can make great progress.

However, while South Carolina showed the most improvement of any state, with a 48-point gain in SAT scores since 1982, it still ranked dead last this year among the 22 states in which the SAT is the dominant test, with a score of 838. The District was second from the bottom despite healthy gains.

Alabama tied for the top in ACT improvement, up nine-tenths of a point since 1982, but was ranked 21st of the 28 states this year where most students take the ACT. Mississippi was came up 28th or last, with an average score of 16.2.

Mississippi also ranked last - this time among all the states - in per-pupil spending. The state spent $2,350 per student in 1988. Alaska was the highest at $8,010, followed by New York at $6,497.

The wall chart also compares states on teacher salaries, pupil-teacher ratios and education reform efforts. Alaskan teachers were paid the highest in 1988, $40,424, while South Dakotans were at the bottom with $19,758. The national average last year was $28,008, up from $19,274 in 1982.

School Bell award

Betty Volkman, left, president of the Hereford Educators Association, presents the Texas State Teachers Association School Bell Award to John Brooks, managing editor of the Brand, on Tuesday. Brooks and the Brand were cited for outstanding continuous coverage of school events at last weekend's TSTA state convention.

WASHINGTON - American education is stagnating by nearly every measure in a new comparison of school performance across the country, Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos said today in releasing the discouraging report card.

WASHINGTON - President Bush is getting everything he wanted and more from the House Banking Committee to prevent S&Ls from tapping the taxpayers for another bailout, but only in exchange for new low-income housing initiatives.

UNDATED - Consumers, environmentalists and politicians around the country have begun a "war of words and actions" against Exxon with a one-day boycott campaign over its huge oil spill.

BEIJING - The government rejected student protesters' ultimatum that it recognize their new independent associations or face further pro-democracy street demonstrations.

SEOUL, South Korea - Six riot troops are killed, some leaping to their deaths wrapped in flames, after police raid a university to rescue five officers held hostage by radical students.

WASHINGTON - Senate investigators say they've discovered at least two "silence-for-money" deals between builders of a Texas nuclear power plant and workers who received payments in return for dropping allegations of safety hazards.

WASHINGTON - Thousands of public water systems across the country will have to improve their purification equipment to reduce chemical contamination and comply with new Environmental Protection Agency standards.

NEW YORK - Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis is not the frail, whispery-voiced woman the American people saw standing by the side of President Kennedy, says the author of an unauthorized biography of the former first lady.

State

HARLINGEN - The number of Salvadorans actively fighting deportation is expected to increase with a judge's order that they be advised of their legal rights.

HOUSTON - Exxon responded quickly to the Alaskan oil spill and is committed to cleaning it up although at least two government agencies should share with the company some of the blame for what's become the nation's biggest oil accident, Exxon U.S.A. President William D. Stevens says.

EL PASO - El Paso Electric Co. is suspending its dividend payments on common stock this year because the Public Utility Commission didn't grant the rate increase the utility wanted, the company says.

SAN ANTONIO - Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, still stinging from earlier criticism about his appearances on television during the investigation of the ritual slayings in Mexico, has defended his appearance on two nationally syndicated television talk shows.

AUSTIN - Lawmakers and education officials said more money is needed to equalize funding between rich and poor school districts, but the $500 million increase in public education funding is all the state can afford. "I think it's as much as can be done under the circumstances," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby; State Board of Insurance nominee Paul Wrotenbery says he would not hesitate to make "radical" changes in the insurance department if there were solid reasons for doing so; A House-Senate conference committee could begin studying a prison reform package as early as next week if the House passes its bill soon, legislative leaders say; No applications for a Class 1 pari-mutuel horse racing license for the Dallas-Fort Worth area were received by the deadline, the Texas Racing Commission said; An anti-crime package given the green light by the House gives notice to "those who would hold our children hostage with drugs that we are here to fight," Gov. Bill Clements says; Republican Gov. Bill Clements' suggestions that he might veto legislation that would put the Democratic state agriculture commissioner out of a job is not "Jim Hightower-bashing," says the Texas House speaker; An elderly woman who was kept in public mental hospitals for 51 of her 70 years has been awarded $505,000 in her lawsuit against the state, a verdict that officials say could open the door to other suits.

Looking around Hereford we'd like to call your attention to several things that are underway. Plans are now being finalized for the location of a new bowling center. The facility should be in full operation by mid-summer. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Minson are moving to Hereford this month to operate the bowling lanes. Two groups are currently working on a location for a twin or three screen cinema theatre. This look very encouraging.

It takes two . . . The Chamber & You

BY: F. MICHAEL CARR
The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is pleased to once again have the opportunity to have a regular column to share some of the happenings around Hereford and Deaf Smith County. The purpose of "The Chamber and You" is intended to be informative and hopefully enjoyable.

The Chamber column will be provided by guest writers. These writers will include Chamber Board members, community leaders, and local businessmen. We may not have all the answers but we do want to share some issues with you and also some things of which we all need to be aware.

During the month of May the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will be focusing on membership development and retention. Our membership provides both the manpower and the funds to provide an effective program of work. Hereford has much to be proud of but we also have many goals to attain and work toward. We can do much of this by working together. We need the support of all our citizens. If you're not a Chamber member we hope you'll consider joining this next month.

Hereford, Texas has a lot of Hustle left in it! As we begin to look around us we will notice a great deal of the Hustlin' Hereford attitude taking place. This is evidenced by the new ideas emerging from local industries from the expansion of local businesses to attract new potential and address growing markets and needs. In addition, Hereford continues to attract and add new retail and commercial firms. The limit of this growth is up to all of us. These limits are influenced by our attitude. Let's let everyone know that things are on the grow in Hereford and that we're proud of our town.

The Chamber in cooperation with the Hereford Area Economic Development Council has recently made 4 proposals to prospective firms and is also working with a local company on a possible expansion. In addition, Mr. Bud Eades, Director of the EDC reports that over 75 contact letters have been mailed this month to firms who have shown an interest in Hereford.

The economic development process is one of patience and perseverance. It takes a total, dedicated effort over many years to be successful. It's our responsibility to always strive to better our community. We have some of the best industries a town could want right here. It's our job to support them but to also work for new growth.

In closing the success and strength of our Chamber is up to its membership. The Chamber can make a difference with everyone's help. Remember, it takes two, "the Chamber and You". Hope you have a great week!

Local Roundup Juvenile reports investigated

Disturbances involving juveniles dominated activities investigated by the Hereford Police Department overnight.

A fight between juveniles was reported in the 700 block of night. One 18-year-old male required stitches from a cut received during that disturbance.

An officer on patrol discovered two 13-year-old boys taking soft drinks from a truck on Tuesday. The juveniles' families were notified, and the matter was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Other incidents investigated by city police were: Theft of beer at a convenience store on Park Avenue; a break-in to an automobile parked at Hereford High School; a rock-throwing incident at Bluebonnet Elementary School; a prowler in the 300 block of Avenue K; an individual leaving a city motel without paying his bill; and a woman receiving harassing phone calls.

City police issued ten citations and investigated two minor traffic accidents.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department made four fire calls Tuesday. A vehicle fire was extinguished at Horizon Seed; a shed fire was reported on South Main Street; a grass fire was reported at Dawn; and a vehicle fire was reported two miles west of town at Holly Sugar.

Four persons arrested

Officers from the Hereford Police Department arrested a 42-year-old male for assault in connection with a domestic dispute.

Arrests made by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department were: A 39-year-old male arrested for driving while intoxicated; a 28-year-old female arrested on a warrant for perjury; and a 28-year-old male arrested on a warrant for violation of probation.

Deputies were called to assist in a civil matter north of town.

Cloudy, rain chance

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. The high will be 48, with east winds 5-15 mph becoming north after midnight.

Thursday will be partly sunny with a high of 78. North winds will be 10-15 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 48 after a high Tuesday of 80.

Winners at VOCT contest

Lucy Hastings, left, and Christina Perez competed in a state VOCT contest April 28-29 in Odessa. Hastings won first place in both notebook and photo panel, and Perez was second in prepared speech and third in extemporaneous speaking.

Money to equalize education funding

AUSTIN (AP) - Lawmakers and education officials said more money is needed to equalize funding between rich and poor school districts, but the $500 million increase in public education funding is all the state can afford.

"I think it's as much as can be done under the circumstances," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby on Tuesday after the Senate sent the funding bill to the House on a 31-0 vote.

State Board of Education Chairman Monte Hasie of Lubbock said, "We understand the state's economic difficulties, but we believe that this is a great step forward in an effort to improve adequacy and equity in the school finance system."

But representatives of poor school districts said the $500 million over the next two years was only a Band-Aid.

"It's like you're dying of hunger and you get another meal, so you're going to live another day," said Craig Foster, executive director of the Equity Center, an association comprised of poor schools.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said his funding bill represented the first outlay of a $2 billion state commitment over the next five years to try to erase the disparity between schools in poor and rich areas of the state.

"The longest journey begins with the first step. This puts us on the road to equity," said Parker, who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

In addition to the school funding increase, the Senate passed measures that would provide state support for the construction of school buildings and reward school districts that improve student academic performance.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, voted for the increase, but said, "obviously we need to do more than $500 million."

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1989. There are 242 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 3, 1802, Washington, D.C., was incorporated as a city, with the mayor to be appointed by the president, and the council elected by property owners.

On this date:

In 1654, a bridge in Rowley, Mass., was permitted to charge a toll for animals, while people crossed for free.

In 1765, the first U.S. medical school was proposed at the College of Philadelphia, now the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1916, Irish nationalist Patrick Pearse and two others were executed by the British for their roles in the Easter Rising.

In 1921, West Virginia imposed the first state sales tax.

In 1933, Nellie T. Ross became the first woman director of the U.S. Mint.

In 1937, Margaret Mitchell won a Pulitzer Prize for her novel, "Gone With the Wind."

In 1948, Pulitzer prizes were awarded to playwright Tennessee Williams for "A Streetcar Named Desire" and to novelist James Michener for "Tales of the South Pacific."

In 1948, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that covenants prohibiting the sale of real estate to blacks and other minorities were legally unenforceable.

In 1971, anti-war protesters, calling themselves the "Mayday Tribe," began four days of demonstrations in Washington aimed at shutting down the nation's capital.

In 1978, "Sun Day" fell on a Wednesday as thousands of people extolling the virtues of solar energy held ceremonies, demonstrations and other events across the country.

In 1986, in NASA's first post-Challenger launch, an unmanned Delta rocket lost power in its main engine shortly after liftoff, forcing safety officers to destroy it by remote control.

In 1987, The Miami Herald said its reporters had observed a young woman entering a Washington townhouse belonging to Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart.

Ten years ago: Conservative Party leader Margaret Thatcher was chosen to become Britain's first female prime minister as the Tories ousted the incumbent Labor Party government of James Callaghan in parliamentary elections.

Five years ago: Pope John Paul II arrived in Seoul, South Korea, to begin a tour of Asia and the Pacific.

One year ago: The White House acknowledged that first lady Nancy Reagan had used astrological advice to help schedule her husband's activities, after a report about unflattering revelations in an about-to-be published memoir by former chief of staff Donald Regan.

Today's birthdays: Broadway librettist Betty Comden is 70. Folk singer Pete Seeger is 70. Singer James Brown is 61. Singer Engelbert Humperdinck is 53. Singer Frankie Valli is 52. Magician Doug Henning is 42.

Thought for today: "No woman in my time will be Prime Minister ... Anyway, I wouldn't want to be PM; you have to give yourself to it 100 percent." - Margaret Thatcher, in an October 1969 interview with the "Sunday Telegraph" of London.

DEAR READERS: I ran across a gold mine of information and want to share it with you. The subject is so ordinary that you will probably laugh. It's eggs. I, too, thought that I knew all there was to know about the subject but I was wrong.

Take this test and you'll be surprised at what you didn't know. It's from the Mayo Clinic Nutrition letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has asked for a divorce. He says he doesn't love me. I'm shocked and heartbroken. We have been married 44 years. I'm 62 and he is 63.

DEAR D.R.: We called Jackson, Miss., and spoke with Larry E. Clark, special assistance attorney general. He suggested that you get your own lawyer. If both parties do not agree to a "no-fault" divorce, there are special considerations of which you should be aware.

WHAT IS YOUR EGG SAFETY SENSE?

Our marriage was never very good. Sixteen years ago I asked him for a divorce and he begged me to stay, so I did. The same thing happened five years ago.

I firmly believe that a woman who stays with a man who doesn't want her has a very slim chance for happiness. You are better off alone, dear.

Answer true or false to these questions to find out how many tips you know for preventing bacterial growth in the eggs you eat.

Although we were never happy together I had become resigned to the situation and decided to stay married forever. I now feel that I've invested too much in this marriage to let him pull out.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

1. All commercial Grade A and AA eggs have been washed and sanitized.
2. Eggs should be refrigerated in their original carton at 40 degrees Fahrenheit.
3. Cracked or leaking eggs are probably safe to eat.
4. Never leave eggs or egg-containing foods at room temperature for more than two hours.

I have begged my husband not to go through with the divorce, but he says his mind is made up. We have been to his lawyer, but I have not agreed to anything.

I don't know what to do, Ann. This is really making me sick. All I do is cry. Please advise me.--D.R.

books were given to patients. President Mary Lou Spinhome announced that this year's convention will be held June 5-7 in Houston.

The nominating committee reported on the slate of officers: president, Anna Stindt; vice president, Sadie Shaw; secretary, Alice Koenig; treasurer, Baxter London; and reporter, Ruth Lueb.

Recognized as guests were Gary Moore and Phyllis Morrison. Members present included Spinhome, Lueb, Helen Brown, Nell Culpepper, Mary Kovacs, Quintna Waits, Bertha Deutmann, Shaw, Olga Harris, Grace Covington, Stindt, Mary Williamson, Theda Seiver, Koenig and Irene Reinart.

Lueb reported that for the month of April, members had worked 198 hours and 11 care bears and 34 baby

Cowbirds make no nest. They lay their eggs in the nests of other birds.

Planning reception

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce health and safety committee will be hosting a reception from 2-4 p.m. Sunday at the E.B. Black House to acquaint residents with local doctors. The general public is invited to the affair which will honor full-time full-time practicing physicians, dentists, veterinarians, chiropractors, etc. Refreshments will be served by members of the Women's Division. Discussing the event are (from left) Dr. Robert Clark and Dr. Nadir Khuri, surgeons; Monta Cochran, R.N., reception planning committee member; and Bobby Moore, Chamber member.

Peeler, Monti honored with shower Sunday

Bryan Peeler and Lauren Monti were honored with a couple's shower Sunday at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. They plan to exchange wedding vows June 3 in Houston.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Peeler of Hereford and the bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Monti of Houston.

Shower guests were invited to register by Melanie Peeler, the prospective groom's sister, and guests were welcomed by the honorees and Buddy and Alva Lee Peeler.

Refreshments of cookies, fruits, coffee and punch were served by Joyce Allred and Dolores Foster from a table covered with an ivory linen cloth accented with wide embroidery edging. Further enhancing the table were crystal and silver appointments and a silk arrangement of mauve carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

Serving as host couples were Boyd and Dolores Foster, Raymond and Hanna Hill, Lynton and Joyce Allred, Homer and June Rudd, Waldo and Carolyn Baxter, Eldon and June Owens, Joe and Ida Schumacher, John and Rose Marie Robinson, Joe and Marcella Soliz, Bob and Nancy Josseland, Jerry and Karen Payne, Wendel and Merle Clark, Wister and Leta Clevenger, Clint and Margaret Formby, Charlie and Margaret Bell and Gene and Velta King.

More citizens link diet with coronary problems

There is a growing perception by many Americans that links diet with heart disease problems.

Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said more people are eating more selectively in an attempt to reduce blood cholesterol levels.

"They believe the way to a healthy heart is through the stomach, and are attempting to reduce the risk of heart disease," Sweeten said.

She said the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute and other related groups are continuing their educational efforts on behalf of healthier hearts.

The institute suggests these tips to lower blood cholesterol and reduce risk of heart disease:

- Less than 30 percent of total daily calories should come from fat, and less than 10 percent of calories should come from saturated fat.
- No more than 10 percent of the 30 percent of calories should come from polyunsaturated fat, and 10 percent or more of the total fat calories should come from monounsaturated fat sources.
- Between 50 to 60 percent of daily calories should come from carbohydrates.
- A daily diet should contain less than 300 milligrams of cholesterol, and calorie intake should be adjusted to achieve or maintain a desirable weight.
- While pure protein or carbohydrates contain four calories per gram, pure fat contains nine calories per gram. Alcohol provides four calories per gram.

Sweeten said Food and Drug Administration health and diet surveys conducted in 1986 showed that 43 percent of the people who responded believed that fats and fatty foods caused heart disease and 40 percent said cholesterol caused heart disease. In a 1988 survey, 55 percent said fats and fatty foods caused heart disease and 45 percent indicated cholesterol was a risk factor.

The specialist said that people wanting to have their blood cholesterol checked may have tests prescribed by a physician and performed in a laboratory meeting standards set by Centers for Disease Control.

Sweeten said that new, portable cholesterol screening equipment is available at pharmacies, hospitals, health fairs and other locations to make blood cholesterol measurement readily available, rapid and quite affordable.

CINCINNATI (AP) - New from Duncan Hines: Oat Bran & Honey and Oat Bran Blueberry muffin mixes. Each muffin contains as much dietary fiber as a breakfast bowl of fruit bran cereal, according to company officials.

The muffins contain no preservatives, no artificial flavors and no palm oil. To help reduce intake of dietary cholesterol, consumers can choose to make the muffin with 2 egg whites instead of 1 egg.

Cancer survivors celebrate June 4

Texas cancer patients will join with friends, family, health professionals and the American Cancer Society Sunday, June 4, to celebrate the second annual Cancer Survivors Day.

Local events held in communities across the state will provide a festive atmosphere dramatizing the significant gains being made in cancer treatments and prognosis.

"We have good news to share about gains in cancer survival," said George N. Peters, M.D., Dallas, chairman of the American Cancer Society's Patient Services committee in Texas. "Almost one out of two cancer patients diagnosed today will be alive in five years. That's a substantial improvement over the one in three survival rate common in the 1960s," Peters said.

The American Cancer Society estimates 160,000 Texas with a cancer history are alive today and can be considered cured. Another 84,000 are receiving treatment for their disease this year. Nationwide, five million Americans are cancer survivors.

The first National Cancer Survivors Day was held June 5, 1988, and sponsored by the American Cancer Society and Coping Magazine, a national publication for cancer patients.

"Our events serve two purposes," said Susan Rutherford, Dallas, chairman of the Society's state Patient Services Promotion subcommittee. "The Survivors Day activities will be designed to demonstrate life and hope after a cancer diagnosis and to celebrate the progress being made," she said.

"But the day will also remind us that cancer survivors face some problems related to re-employment, re-insurance and even social re-entry," Rutherford said. "It is our hope that recognition of the many personal victories being won in fighting cancer will change attitudes and unfortunate stigmas often attached to this disease," she said.

Survivors and their families and friends will join with local American Cancer Society volunteers, doctors, nurses, social workers and other health professionals, hospitals, treatment centers and other community groups to celebrate Survivors Day this year.

Last year, events included picnics, contests, survivors' panels, music, entertainment, balloon releases, official ceremonies and community recognition services.

For information about local events planned for this June 4, contact your local American Cancer Society office or volunteers.

NEW YORK (AP) - If you're one of those people who can't wear gold jewelry because it marks your skin, take heart. You can wear it if it is squeaky clean. Really clean.

It seems that "dermographia" is created by a chemical mix of tiny particles of dirt on the gold and on the skin. When the two collide, "gold smudge" is left.

Stephen Aletti, president of the Jewelry Industry Council, says metals or alloys capable of leaving skin marks include gold of less than 18K, silver, copper, aluminum, nickel, zinc, tin, lead and brass.

Dirt is key to "gold smudge"

Skin contaminants, says Aletti, include make-up, particularly that which contains titanium dioxide and calcium carbonate, and airborn particles such as dust, cement and stucco.

Dry skin also is a factor, according to Aletti, because it increases the abrasive action.

Abrasion can occur either from friction between jewelry parts (chain, strap, etc.), or as a result of friction with hard substances in cosmetics.

Club observes 80th anniversary

The GFWC/TFWC Pioneer Study Club observed its 80th anniversary and 100th anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs April 25 with a reception and tea in the lounge of the Hereford Community Center.

The club was organized in 1909 and federated in 1910 making it one of the oldest clubs sharing an 80th birthday in this district. During the years, the club has received numerous awards in federated work. This year members won 10 district awards.

Approximately 100 guests registered at the afternoon affair. Out-of-town guests represented Amarillo, Dimmitt, Summerfield, Dawn and Canyon.

Recognized as special guests were Lisa Kuhlman of Canyon, Top of Texas district president; Jo Carol Lindsey of Canyon, district past president; and Beulah Lee Carter Rutherford, daughter of a charter member, Mrs. J.T. Rutherford. Mrs. Carter presented the club with several books used by the members when Mrs. Rutherford served as president in 1911.

A large floral arrangement in the club's colors of purple and white centered the refreshment table which was covered with an ornate cloth made by the late Belle Hromas for the club's 60th birthday party.

All of the club's yearbooks from 1910 to 1989, scrapbooks and minutes were on display during the tea. Also, of interest to guests were posters with pictures taken from The Hereford Brand of various events of the Pioneer Club's history, especially the women's fashions exhibited in a 1909 club picture. Paintings by Eunice Petersen that received many awards during GFWC art shows were also on display.

Since 1910, the motto for the Pioneer Study Club has been "Wisely training the physical, moral, mental and spiritual natures, maketh the perfect man."

Mitts, Scott lead Herd to 6-2 win

Bringing the heat

Hereford pitcher Jason Scott was almost untouchable in the early innings of Tuesday's game against Frenship at Whiteface Field. Scott had 10 strikeouts, and gave up just three hits and one earned run in Hereford's 6-2 win.

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor
Stuart Mitts drove in three runs and went two-for-three, while Jason Scott held Frenship hitless through 4 2-3rds innings to earn his 11th win of the season as the Hereford Whitefaces dropped Frenship 6-2 in a District 1-4A baseball game Tuesday at Whiteface Field.

The win was Hereford's 20th of the season and improved the Herd's district mark to 13-0-1. It was the final regular season home game of the year.

The teams were scoreless until the bottom of the third, when Scott singled and Glenn Parker walked. Roger McCracken smashed a double to center, giving Hereford a 2-0 lead. Kyle Andrews and Russell Backus filed the bases before Mitts doubled to right.

The ball fell in front of Frenship's right fielder, scoring McCracken and Andrews. Before the ball could be retrieved, Mitts had hustled into second and Backus had scooted to third. Backus then scored on a wild pitch to give the Herd a 5-0 lead.

Frenship's first scoring threat came in the fifth, when Scott was finally reached for a pair of hits with two outs, but Scott got out of the jam.

In the bottom of the inning, Clint Cotten hit a pop fly double to left, then Mitts brought him home with a single to left for a 6-0 Herd lead.

In the Frenship seventh, the Tigers combined a single and two Hereford errors for two runs before the Herd finally got out of the inning. Only one of the runs was earned.

Scott ran his record to 11-0, and his 10 strikeouts gave him 110 for the year and 214 for his two-plus year career.

The Herd will play Saturday at 2 p.m. at Randall, then face second-place Estacado Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Lubbock in a game that will likely decide the first- and second-place district representatives in post-season play. The teams have already clinched playoff berths, but the Herd must defeat Estacado to earn the league title.

Hold up a minute

Stuart Mitts asks for time after sliding safely into second on a third-inning double in Hereford's game with Frenship on Tuesday at Whiteface Field. Mitts' double drove in two runs to give Hereford a 4-0 lead. Mitts had two hits and three RBI to help the Herd to a 6-2 win.

Four sweep in NBA first round

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer
The networks aren't the only ones having a sweeps month in May.

Detroit, New York, Golden State and Phoenix completed 3-0 sweeps in their first-round, best-of-5 NBA playoffs Tuesday night, and two more series could end that way tonight.

The biggest shocker was Golden State, which finished eight games behind Utah in the Western Conference standings. The Warriors won 120-106 at home Tuesday night after winning twice at Salt Lake City over the favored Jazz. Golden State coach Don Nelson, who had 42 playoff victories as a coach at Milwaukee, said this was his most satisfying win.

"One year we swept Boston. But I had a veteran team," he said. "This is a young team that grew together this year, and that's what makes it so special."

In other games Tuesday, the Pistons ended Boston's shortest playoff season in 33 years with a 100-85 victory; the Knicks won their third straight close game over Philadelphia with a 116-115 decision in overtime; Phoenix overcame a 23-point second-half deficit to sweep Denver 130-121; and Milwaukee took a 2-1 lead over Atlanta by winning 117-113 in overtime.

In tonight's games, it's Cleveland at Chicago, Seattle at Houston and the Los Angeles Lakers at Portland. The Lakers and Sonics lead 2-0 and the Cavaliers and Bulls are tied 1-1.

Ted Williams served as a marine pilot for the better part of five years, taking part in two wars. But he still had a career batting average of .344.

Gil gets goodbye call

IRVING (AP) - For days, Gil Brandt dreaded to hear the telephone ring.

He knew owner Jerry Jones and coach Jimmy Johnson were debating the fate of his Dallas Cowboys' scouting department.

"It's kind of like being staked out on an ant hill while somebody gave you Chinese water torture," said Brandt, 57. "Then in one call I went from being in the mansion to being in a pup tent."

The "turk" did call and the purge was complete of the men who built the Cowboys from an expansion team in the 1960s to Super Bowl champions.

Brandt was the last member of the original foursome who built the Cowboys from scratch.

"He told me finances was the reason, that he's losing $29,000 a day," Brandt said. "He'll probably fire four or five scouts including Bob Griffin."

"I told him I know I did as good a job as possible. I feel good about the 29 years I had with the Cowboys. But it's a bad way for it to end. He didn't even shake my hand. These guys are over their heads."

Jones said the Cowboys' 10-year drought in landing top talent wasn't the reason Brandt was let go.

"We just felt the way we wanted to go in the scouting department was without Gil," Jones said.

Johnson was more succinct. "We had a difference in philosophy on how you go about drafting players," Johnson said. "Our coaches will play a large part in the evaluation and selection of players and we'll go with a smaller scouting department."

The Cowboys will be more active in picking up cuts from preseason rosters and not depend as heavily on free agents.

Johnson and Brandt were thought to be close friends, particularly since Brandt helped Johnson get the head coaching job of the Miami Hurricanes.

"We have friendships but sometimes business decisions have to be made," Johnson said. "It's best that we start from scratch in the scouting department."

Johnson said the Cowboys lost their edge in getting free agents when other clubs caught onto the game.

Brandt was a baby photographer who dabbled in evaluating professional football talent when he was hired by club president Tex Schramm.

Schramm, Brandt, owner Clint Murchison, and coach Tom Landry built the team in 1960 starting with an office in the Automobile Club building just off Central Expressway.

McGwire, A's (literally) bash Blue Jays, 8-5

By The Associated Press

Despite the circumstances, Mark McGwire wasn't about to become selective when he stepped to the plate with the Oakland Athletics a run down with one out separating them from a loss to the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I was sitting on anything," McGwire joked in explaining why he swung at a very high pitch against Toronto reliever Tom Henke. Once he hit it, there was little doubt the ball would find its way into the left field seats at Exhibition Stadium for a grand slam that gave the A's an 8-5 victory Tuesday night.

"He's just one of those pitchers who I've never been able to solve," McGwire said. "Tonight, I just got around on one."

McGwire said he could not remember ever having much success against Henke. And he said Henke knows it, too.

Despite his heroics, McGwire said teammates Luis Polonia and Dave Henderson deserved much of the credit. Reliever Duane Ward, 1-4, struck out the first two batters in the ninth and then allowed singles to Polonia and Henderson.

"If anyone won the ballgame, it was those two guys," McGwire said. "He (Ward) had Luis (Polonia) 0-2 and then he fouls off about five pitches then he gets a base hit. He had Henderson 0-2. He fouls off a couple pitches and then drops in a hit."

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Kansas City 5, New York 3; Baltimore 4, California 3; Boston 4, Minnesota 2; Chicago 6, Milwaukee 1; Cleveland 8, Texas 3, and Seattle 7, Detroit 2.

With two outs in the bottom of the ninth at Toronto, reliever Gene Nelson hit George Bell with a pitch and both benches emptied as the players exchanged blows. Bell was ejected.

Rick Honeycutt, 1-0, pitched 2 2-3 innings and Eric Plunk got the last out for his first save.

Pat Borders' RBI single had given the Blue Jays a 5-4 lead in the eighth and Rance Mulliniks hit a grand slam in the first against Bob Welch.

Royals 5, Yankees 3

Luis de los Santos hit a two-run, go-ahead single in the seventh inning and Mark Gubicza pitched a six-hitter, leading Kansas City past New York.

de los Santos, playing in his first game of the season since his week-end recall from the minors, singled to left after Tommy John, 2-4, loaded the bases.

Jesse Barfield went 1-for-4 in his New York debut, getting a single in the second.

Orioles 4, Angels 3

Jim Traber's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning gave Baltimore the victory over California.

Brady Anderson led off the ninth with a double off reliever Willie Fraser, 0-2.

Greg Olson, 3-0, got the victory in relief of Jose Bautista. Olson pitched two innings, allowing one hit.

Red Sox 4, Twins 2

Ellis Burks hit a three-run homer in a four-run eighth inning for Boston.

Burks' homer off reliever Jeff Reardon negated a strong performance by starter Fred Toliver, who carried a no-hitter for 5 2-3 innings.

Rich Gedman began the rally by singling to left against Toliver and gave way to pinch-runner Marty Barrett.

White Sox 6, Brewers 1

Ron Kittle and Ivan Calderon hit two-run homers as Chicago ended Chris Bosio's four-game winning streak.

Eric King, 2-3, gave up five hits including a run-scoring single to Robin Yount in the first inning.

Mariners 7, Tigers 2

Seattle's Jeffrey Leonard hit a grand slam and Mike Dunne limited Detroit to six hits over seven innings.

After two-out singles by Harold Reynolds and Henry Cotto in the third, Alvin Davis walked on four straight pitches, setting up Leonard's sixth career slam, off Charles Hudson, 0-2.

Indians 8, Rangers 3

Cory Snyder hit a three-run homer and drove in four runs, and Greg Swindell pitched a strong 7 1-3 innings to lead Cleveland.

The Rangers led 2-1 in the sixth when Snyder hit his fifth homer of the season, off Jamie Moyer, 3-1.

Swindell, 3-0, allowed seven hits, struck out six and did not walk a batter as the Indians swept the two-game series.

Hershiser shuts out Bucs

By The Associated Press

Orel Hershiser changed his style. The result remained the same.

Hershiser, the 1988 Cy Young Award winner in the National League and a postseason hero for Los Angeles, pitched his first shutout of the year, a six-hitter in a 7-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Tuesday night. The Dodgers have a string of 21 shutout innings.

But he didn't do things normally, even if the outcome was familiar.

"This ball club is a club that attacks the ball," he said of the Pirates. "It's a fastball-hitting ballclub, they love to attack the ball, they're a good, young team that has a lot of good hitters, even though a lot of them are hurt."

"I had a tough time with them last year because of my approach. I was aggressive and went right after them, first-pitch fastball."

"Tonight, I changed my style because they roughed me up a bit last year. I wasn't going with the hard sinker right away."

"Barry Bonds, on the first pitch of the ball game, I threw a curveball and he hit it off the end of the bat for a base hit. When will you ever see me throw a curveball on the first pitch of a game?"

It was one of the rare pitches the Pirates could handle. Hershiser struck out six and didn't walk anyone in his first complete game of 1989.

Elsewhere, it was New York 7,

Atlanta 1; San Diego 7, St. Louis 1; San Francisco 4, Chicago 0; Montreal 6, Cincinnati 4, and Houston 12, Philadelphia 4.

While the Pirates continued to struggle offensively, Rick Dempsey hit a three-run homer in the fifth and Chris Gwynn had three hits for the Dodgers.

Mets 7, Braves 1

At Atlanta, Bob Ojeda pitched a five-hitter through eight innings for his first victory since nearly severing the tip of his left middle finger in a gardening accident last September.

Ojeda, 1-3, almost severed the upper portion of the finger on his pitching hand with an electric hedgeclipper last Sept. 21.

Darryl Strawberry had a two-run homer.

Padres 7, Cardinals 1

Jack Clark, who left St. Louis as a free agent after the 1987 season to sign with the Yankees, got his first hit against his former team, a three-run homer to start a five-run third inning at San Diego.

Clark drove a 2-2 pitch from Scott Terry over the center field wall.

Ed Whitson pitched a six-hitter in breaking St. Louis' six-game winning streak. John Kruk had a two-run homer for the Padres and Pedro Guerrero homered for the Cardinals.

Giants 4, Cubs 0

At San Francisco, Rich Gossage got back at the Cubs, who released him just before the season.

Gossage came on for Rick Reuschel with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth. Gossage got Vance Law to pop out and Shawon Dunston to ground out.

In the ninth, Gossage fanned two.

Kevin Mitchell had a two-run homer in the sixth.

Expos 6, Reds 4

At Montreal, Otis Nixon's two-out single in the eighth inning broke a 3-3 tie, then he scored from first base on Tim Raines' single.

Spike Owen doubled just inside the first base bag off reliever Kent Tekulve, 0-1, to start the winning rally.

Ken Griffey homered in the ninth for Cincinnati.

Astros 12, Phillies 4

At Philadelphia, the Astros had their biggest offensive output of the season with 17 hits. Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer and an RBI single, Kevin Bass was 4-for-5 and scored two runs, and Bill Doran had three hits and three RBIs.

Phillies manager Nick Leyva was disappointed with the performance of Floyd Youmans, who lasted only 1 2-3 innings.

"I know he can pitch better than that," Leyva said. "I won't be afraid to move him to the bullpen. I'm going to go with the best available pitchers."

Lietzke defends title at Nelson

DALLAS (AP) - It's a new and very different situation for Bruce Lietzke, who will defend his title this week in the $1 million Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

The title defense is not new, of course. That's happened with some frequency to the 37-year-old veteran who has collected 11 victories in a 15-year PGA Tour career.

It's the setting. "I don't have that motel room to get geared up in," Lietzke said before a practice round at the TPC at Las Colinas.

He's at home, a new home, one he moved into a few months after winning this tournament last year.

"At home I don't play golf. I work on my cars (his hobby) or fish or play with the kids. I don't play golf at home. I play golf on the road."

But Lietzke, who moved here from tiny Jay, Okla., now is only 20 minutes away from the course where the tournament begins Thursday.

Not that he's complaining. "It's nice to be home. That's the best there is. Sleeping in your own bed, eating home cooking, having your family with you."

Home economists trained in national child-care effort

Today many children come home from school, not to loving arms and a warm smile, but to an empty dwelling because their parents are at work.

Concern is increasing across the nation for these youngsters, often referred to as "latchkey children."

This growing concern has prompted a national outreach program by the American Home Economics Association and Whirlpool foundation called Project Home Safe.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, there currently are about 2.1 million latchkey children in this country although some projections are much higher.

In Texas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Texas Home Economics Association, is launching a full-scale program directed toward Project Home Safe by training home economists and other concerned individuals.

The initial training effort involves the South Central Texas area, with Dr. Sarah Anderson, extension family sciences specialist, and Irene Keating, extension district director for South Central Texas, coordinating the training.

A total of 54 individuals are enrolled in the training. Upon completion, each participant will contract to do a minimum of 40 hours of volunteer service by September 1989 to improve the welfare of latchkey children,

Anderson said. "Many latchkey children must take responsibility for their own care," Anderson said. "They do cooking and cleaning and operate major appliances on their own."

A recent study by Whirlpool Corporation found that in 71 percent of all American homes that fit the latchkey category, children under 14 are regularly using major home appliances. In all households with children 14 and under, 56 percent are operating appliances.

"While most home appliances are safe to operate, problems can occur with misuse," Anderson said. "That's a major concern as far as child safety is concerned."

Along with proper use of home appliances, parents must help their children learn other self-care skills, Anderson said, including good use of time, planning and preparation of nutritious snacks, and various emergency procedures.

The training sessions on Project Home Safe are dealing with a wide range of issues and concerns regarding latchkey children and working parents, including emphasis on self-care programs.

"We are particularly concerned about assessing community needs regarding child care programs and how those needs can be addressed through Project Home Safe," Anderson said. "We want to help home economists and other community leaders focus on programs for the growing number of latchkey children." Project Home Safe offers a nationwide toll-free hotline for professionals, parents and other concerned individuals to call for resources related to both supervised and self-care programs for school age children. That number 1-800-252-SAFE.

Also, a resource center on school-age child care has been established. Contact: Project Home Safe, 2010 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036-1028.

DISPLACED EASTERNERS

WAYNE, N.J. (AP) - Among the files for mail received at Drake Bakeries is a category for "displaced Easterners." This file contains letters from former East Coast residents complaining they cannot find their favorite Drake products at West Coast stores.

Because of these letters, company officials say, Drake Bakeries began this year distribution of its products to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas. Vons, a major grocery operation on the West Coast, now carries the product.

Chris Christodoulou, president and chief executive officer of Drake Bakeries, which produces 14 snack cakes and pies, says he personally reads all the letters sent to the company.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TYMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.80
2 days per word	24	4.80
3 days per word	34	6.80
4 days per word	44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

New color code now in vogue

NEW YORK (AP) - There's a brave new color code in vogue, and its descriptive words can boggle the mind.

Take nectar, for example, the virtually colorless stuff that bees extract from flowers to make honey. Then, what to make of an ad for a silk shirt the color of nectar?

A color word can be hijacked from any of several contexts - as fanciful as flora and fauna or as basic as the weather and building materials.

Ad and catalog colorists, perhaps bored with words such as red, blue, yellow and green, reach for poetry and-or elegance to give us, instead, garnet, cornflower, saffron and loden.

Those are the easy ones. Unfortunately, they also give us cork, cadet, mist and verdant.

To confuse us further, one fanciful descriptor's rhubarb is another's plum; this one's mint is another's sea glass; his sepia is her stucco.

They also tend to specialize in narrow fields. There are the bird watchers, eyes glued to their eggshell, teal and peacock. The builders, seeing nothing but hues of limestone, marble, slate, adobe and stucco.

We get a cook's tour with rhubarb, chutney and pistachio, mint and sage. Beachcombers have mediterranean, sea spray, sea glass and ocean in their minds' eyes. A continental touch comes with ecru, bisque and taupe, sienna and sepia. We are led down the gardeners' path with marigold, wisteria, willow, briar - and thorn.

Official comment is fair, inclined to be generous, to the perpetrators. "I think a color name should not mislead," says Margaret Walch, associate director of the Color Association of the United States, at

First Lady's fashions reflect current trend

By The Associated Press
Barbara Bush may be deliberately un-fashion conscious, but among women in her age group, that's fashionable.

Fashion experts say that women in the 35-65 age range are independent in choosing their clothing, and they have a lot of economic clout to exercise that independence. Quality and classic styles are the common denominators in otherwise diverse choices.

"Mrs. Bush isn't necessarily a trend setter, but she is an example of what the trend is now," says Lucille Klein, women's fashion director at the J.C. Penney department stores. "This kind of woman feels secure and self-confident. She knows she's arrived, professionally or otherwise. She's not struggling, not striving to impress people."

Barbara Mackoff, a Seattle-based psychologist, agrees. Success in business and community life have relaxed the hold of the "dress for success" dictum. "It was professional success, achievement and the security and confidence that follow" that did it. "Smart women have stopped trying to hide their own distinctive attributes."

Their attitudes toward fashion are much like those of Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Klein says. "The typical American woman is not hung up on fashion. What she wants is to look nice, to look pretty. And she wants to be comfortable with the way she looks."

She says that these older women are among the biggest customers in the stores these days. And what they're buying reflects their concern with details, quality and classic styles that can be worn for years.

"We're experiencing a return to taste," she says.

"The majority are not looking for one-year fixes," she adds.

The classics include suits, "but not what I call the Wall Street banker suits of a few years ago. The new ones are beautifully cut, with details like buttons and linings of good quality."

Other favorites are updated shirtwaist dresses, with attention to detail, cut and colors. They also like separates in street and sportswear that center around basic jackets.

They like their jewelry to look like the real thing. "What is real, or at least what looks real," Mrs. Kleins says. "The pieces are not necessarily smaller, but they are more refined."

The original title of Gone with the Wind was Tomorrow is Another Day.

Hawaii residents have the longest lifespan of any people in the U.S.-73 years on the average.

Cadet, periwinkle, flax, pacific, lapis: blues.

Midnight, ink, lake, regal: dark blues.

Maize, butter: yellows.

Saffron, citron, marigold, tangelo, sun: oranges.

Wilcox optimistic on Hereford, hub of giant agricultural industry

Automotive dealership expands on north edge of town

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

Roger Wilcox has worked from the top of the world, watched a sun that never set and criss-crossed a continent of rich valleys and green forests, but he returned to Texas to build a business cornerstone out on the north edge of Hereford.

Wilcox and partners have a piece of manicured real estate fronting on U.S. 385 that depicts America's love affair with the automobile, three acres of pampered cars, vans and pickups lined across a spacious landscape that surrounds the marketing center of Whiteface Ford, Lincoln and Mercury, Inc.

The sparkling white showrooms and service center stretch across the eastern half of the automobile center that is now among the top new-car dealerships of West Texas, an area that is larger than all of new England and has more footage than the entire West Coast from Seattle to Monterey. Hereford's Whiteface Ford line last month was number two in volume for dealerships of this size in a vast trade area that stretches from a point below Brady in the Central Texas Hill Country to the Kansas line some 600 miles to the north. It's a big business in a big country.

"First of all, I think Hereford is one of the finest places on earth to live," said Wilcox, who once traveled extensively for a high-tech electronics firm. "And secondly, I don't know of any city the size of Hereford that is as progressively minded. It seems as though folks around here are continuously looking for a better way of doing something."

With more than 125 new vehicles on the sales line at all times, Whiteface Ford has a computerized 16-bay service center adjacent to the office-and-showroom complex, with a $180,000 parts inventory.

Every nut, bolt and washer, from the tiniest switch to precision bearing sleeves, are itemized on a computerized inventory network connected electronically to a national digital system second to none. If Whiteface doesn't have the part this afternoon, odds are that the item will be in the hands of a mechanic at worktime tomorrow.

"All of our mechanics are required to attend special training schools and they continuously do in-service training as needed," said Wilcox, the dealership's president. "We have some of the finest service equipment that money can buy and have the specialized mechanics to go with it."

Wilcox also noted that Whiteface is on line with a national video and communications system that instantly dispatches any new maintenance or performance information connected with every phase of the automobile industry.

Whiteface also keeps a full line of high-quality used cars and pickups to meet the demands of the greater Hereford business and agricultural region. "There's always a chance we'll overlook something on the used cars or trucks, but we make every effort to present the used vehicles as accurately as possible," said Wilcox.

The multimillion-dollar inventory of new vehicles includes a complete line of the Fords, Lincolns and Mercurys, along with the Chrysler, Plymouth and Dodge models. They do not stock Jeeps or Eagles or Scorpio in the Lincoln-Mercury line.

Wilcox said the demand for the heavier luxury cars has made a big come back during the past couple of years, with some of the larger cars in the Lincoln and Chrysler lines being among the top showroom sellers in today's executive markets. The luxury lines, as Wilcox pointed out, include such models as the Lincoln Continentals, New Yorkers and the Plymouth Acclaim LX. The demand for these fine cars has really been good," the 44-year-old dealer added. "Of course, some of our volume sales will lean more to the moderate-priced car designed for young families."

When it came to naming the models favorite among the younger set, Wilcox grinned a bit and handed back a fast answer--"Pick-ups...that Ford F series is the hottest thing on wheels when it comes to these Texas youngsters." Wilcox backs his opinion with his pocketbook by displaying rows and rows of new pickups across the Whiteface display center. And not a fleck of dust was visible from the polished chrome bumpers to the taillights.

"The youngsters out here take great pride in their pickups and cars and generally speaking, the younger set keeps their vehicles in tip-top shape and spotless from bumper-to-bumper," said Wilcox, who also takes great pride in talking about the people of Hereford.

Wilcox is optimistic about the economy of the Golden Spread where Hereford has been the hub of the giant agriculture industry for nearly a hundred years. From a vast production of vegetables, grain and cattle came related industries that in turn spun off related businesses into even greater production realms.

More than two dozen food manufacturing firms may be found on one side of the tally sheet with an equal number of livestock feed manufacturing operations on the other. And out in the middle of the manufacturing row are seed, vegetable and commodity distributors sandwiched with dozens of dealerships representing nearly every make and model of livestock and agricultural equipment known to mankind.

Having the largest concentration of feeder cattle in the world, the greater Hereford area will finish more than 2.8 million grain-fed cattle in 1989, with much of this high-quality beef earmarked for international markets. All of this livestock production is topped with giant meat packing plants and a motorized freight industry that touches every terminal market in the continental United States. This is what Wilcox sees when he frequently speaks of "My Country."

"Sales in the larger vans have dropped off some during the last three or four years but now the mini-vans are coming on strong because women can see out of them," said Wilcox, in showing the various trends in model popularity. "We are now turning out one of the most versatile sets of automobiles ever produced in the history of the industry."

Born in Plainview, Wilcox was the son of Virgil and Ola Wilcox who farmed at various points on the South Plains and the Texas Panhandle, including Kress, Hart and Friona. He spent his grade-school years at Friona, but at an early age, he moved with his parents to eastern Oklahoma where his father farmed for U.S. Sen. Robert Kerr, an Oklahoma family who were leaders in all phases of Southwest agriculture.

Wilcox graduated from Poccola High School in 1963 and attended the University of Tulsa where he became an electronic engineer for a Tulsa electronics firm by the name of LeBarge, Inc., a St. Louis-based company that specialized in high-tech electronic equipment for the military.

While speaking of the move from Eastern Oklahoma to the Texas Panhandle region, Wilcox said his wife was a little nervous at first, "but you couldn't tear her away from Hereford now...she and the family just love it here."

The Wilcox family consists of three daughters: Debbie, whose husband, Rick Dunham, is a third-

HUSTLE HEREFORD

ROGER WILCOX: "I think Hereford is one of the finest places on earth to live . . . I don't know of any city the size of Hereford that is as progressively minded."

Business briefs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Hereford businesses are urged to submit briefs about professional accomplishments for inclusion on the "Hustle" page of the Brand each Wednesday. The articles should be submitted by Monday for the Wednesday newspaper. The articles will run on an as-space-permits basis.

is "Creating a Nation of Neighbors." The week is designed to celebrate private property and home ownership.

Several of the agents will be showcasing their "open houses" in Sunday's Brand.

Open house

Hereford Realtors will be hosting open houses at several locations in Hereford on Sunday to celebrate National Real Estate Week, currently underway.

Agencies planning to host open houses as part of the special week include Lone Star, HCR, Top Properties, Don Tardy, Marn Tyler, Mark Andrews and Wartes.

Hacker named

Shannon Hacker of the La Plata Agency of Hereford has been awarded the Accredited Customer Service Representative designation by the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas.

To earn the ASCR designation an individual must attend eight days of intensive insurance training and pass two comprehensive examinations. In order to keep her ASCR designation Miss Hacker will attend classes each year designed to give agents current information on changes in the insurance industry.

The ASCR is a nationally-recognized program which is designed to give agents information to specifically help their clients receive better insurance services.

AROUND TOWN: The All Star Sports Center, 108 S. 25 Mile Ave., held its grand opening, starting Monday, and Hereford will now have a store to provide all types of athletic items and accessories. . . Two more ribbon-cutting ceremonies are planned Friday by the Hereford Hustlers. Originals Unlimited, a special ladies' wear store, is located at 711 S. 25 Mile Ave., and Cowboy Carwash will celebrate its opening under new ownership. Gerry Taylor and Diet Center have relocated to 607 N. Main St.

All Star Sports Center opens

The Hereford Hustlers held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for All Star Sports Center Monday as the new store had its grand opening. Located at US-385 and US-60 next to Town & Country Food Store, the new firm features sporting accessory needs for all sports. Owner Ron Weishaar and wife, Jan, are shown in the center as employees, guests and Hustlers watch the ribbon cutting. Customers may register all week for free merchandise to be given away on Saturday, May 7.

year dental student in San Antonio, as competitive as possible."

Though Whiteface is not designated as a heavy-truck division, it does handle trucks up to 1 1/2 tons and stocks a full line of four-wheel drives in both the Ford and Dodge pickups.

"I really love the automobile business," said Wilcox, as he reminisced over various incidents in the industry during the past decade. "We've seen some pretty tough times along the way, but as an example of our expansion, we started out with three employees in 1985 and now we have 24 . . . and a fair-sized payroll."

In the recent move to the present location on U.S. Highway 385, Wilcox handled all of the office and showroom designing, putting together in one building almost everything he had liked in other agencies. He then added a bit of individualism in giving the auto center a personal touch...such as a winding staircase to second-floor offices and a show-room openness having an atrium profile. Everything from the service bays to the show-room floor is spanking clean and sparkling white. And the entire staff has a customer approach that reveals the same type of openness in business.

Before moving into the new car dealership business, Wilcox travelled the continent for the Oklahoma firm that manufactured sophisticated electronic equipment, basically for the military...intrusions, detection devices. During the first 10 years with LaBarge, Wilcox worked as a design engineer then moved into electronic sales for about four years. At that time, the St. Louis-based company built satellite equipment designed for weather-data gathering stations manned by the military, U.S. Corps of Engineers and National Weather Service.

"During those years with LaBarge, I traveled quite extensively and was on many of the military bases on the North American Continent," said Wilcox. "One of the projects included the installation of a weather station in Alaska up north of Fairbanks in the Arctic Circle. The working conditions weren't so bad but I never got used to seeing the sun all the time...it would sort of go down pretty close to the horizon then just drift along for a while before coming back up into the sky."

As an example of the high-tech qualities involved in the Alaskan weather station, the Arctic installation would transmit on a periodic schedule to a satellite over Hawaii which in turn transmitted signals back to Washington, D.C., then into Maryland to the national headquarters of the National Weather Service where they recorded real-time data on what the weather was doing on the opposite side of the world...or at the top of the world.

Wilcox and his partners have a bit of homespun philosophy relating to the automobile industry that should be heeded at the factory levels--"We live in a type of society where people are going to drive...and they're either going to drive a new car or they are going to repair the one they're driving--we intend to have a business that will adequately serve all of these needs."

"We're a people business and people is all we've got when you get right down to the bottom line. Everybody is selling something and we really enjoy what we're selling--it's the fine people of this great Southwest that makes our work in Hereford so very rewarding."

In comparing the first three months of 1988 with the first quarter of 1989, Wilcox said that sales have just about doubled this year. "We're really pleased with the volume of business, but I must give a lot of the credit to the people of Hereford who have been making a concerted effort to purchase products at home rather than going off to some other place to trade. I think the merchants of Hereford have seen the need to be
