

Death Toll Up to 46 in Tornadoes

Survivors' Memories To Remain

WICHITA FALLS (AP) - The stunned survivors of the tornado that dealt death and destruction to Wichita Falls Tuesday evening found places to rest, but no sanctuary from the haunting memories of the storm that ravaged their lives.

Mrs. Eleanor Gant pushed her soggy house shoes along the floor with a bare toe as she sat in the First Baptist Church in downtown Wichita Falls.

She laughed, almost philosophically, about the destruction of the home she occupied since 1953.

"It's hard to start over at my age. I don't know what I'll do when I get home...I mean...I forgot I haven't got a house to go home to."

"I heard the warning. I grabbed a pillow and ran into my hall. I heard the whole ceiling ripping off above me. All that fiberglass fell on me," she said shaking her head.

"I just had that home paid for four years."

Her new-found companion, Mrs. M.C. Hicks, had time enough to throw open the windows of her home before the twister struck. It didn't matter. The house was demolished anyway.

"I said don't anybody look back," she said later recalling her family's flight from the whirling black cloud. "I'll never forget it."

"I can start over any place now. I couldn't rebuild there. I just couldn't do it."

A blonde woman, who asked not to be identified, sat rubbing her feet in the gymnasium at Midwestern State University talking mostly of other's tragedies although her house had been destroyed.

"The only thing left of my house is the closet I was lying in. I got so scared I just layed there and prayed," she said. "I have never seen anything more awful in my life. I've been through five hurricanes, but hurricanes are nothing compared to this. Take me back to hurricanes."

"I don't have anything to do now but see who else needs help. There are lost lives here...I just lost a house. I've seen people in and out of here that have lost their husbands and all. That's heart breaking."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says it's hard for a man to keep a chip on his shoulder if you allow him to take a bow.

An old timer is one who remembers when the government was criticized for extravagance in giving away seeds.

WHEN WE HEARD about the Vernon tornado Tuesday afternoon, we picked up the phone to try and reach the publisher of the newspaper there. By a stroke of luck, the call went through and we got a first-hand report about one hour after the deadly tornado had hit.

Larry Crabtree, the publisher, said the phone lines had been jammed and he was surprised to hear from me. After a brief conversation, he asked me to make some calls for him as it was difficult to get a line out of town. The newspaper office was still in business at that time and still had electricity.

One of the amazing things about a tornado is the complete destruction found in one part of town, while folks in another area may not realize it has hit. That was the case here in 1971 when a tornado inflicted heavy damage on the east side of town.

The Associated Press wire reports this morning indicated the death toll was still climbing in Wichita Falls. Names of victims still had not been released.

THE BRAND won some of the top honors in a regional newspaper contest and received the awards last weekend at Amarillo. We'd like to brag a little on some of our staff members for their work. Editor Paul Sims brought home a plaque for first place in column writing, and a second in news writing. Women's editor Kerrie Steiert got a plaque for her department's pages covering family news.

A special farm and ranch edition last year took a second-place award in the contest, and Jim Steiert compiled most of the news copy and photos. A sports photo by Bob Nigh, who is now the advertising manager, also won a second place.

Sims was also elected as vice president (See BULL, Page 2)

Trustee Officer Election Delayed

Until After April 28 Voting

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

A mandated special election on April 28 forced the postponement of the annual reorganization of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees Tuesday night during their regular monthly meeting.

The reorganization, which includes election of officers, has been done every year following the regular trustee election in early April.

But officers were not elected Tuesday since there are four board members whose terms were ordered to expire by a federal three-judge panel in a ruling made last month in Dallas.

The judges said that trustees James Gentry, Clark Andrews, Mack Tubb and Jim Arney were elected under an illegal system of voting, the place system, and therefore were illegally sitting on the board. An election, at the school district's earliest convenience, was ordered, then scheduled by trustees for April 28.

A special meeting will be called within four days after that election in order to elect officers, board president James Gentry said Tuesday.

"That's what the law says even though the judges told us we didn't have to follow the law with this election. They just said we had to have the election," Gentry said.

Returns from Saturday's election were canvassed and certified as official during the meeting, and re-elected trustees David Hutchins and Sallie Strain were sworn into office by Deaf Smith County Clerk B.F. Cain. Paul Ramirez, elected to an unexpired one-year term also was sworn in and took his place on the board which he had resigned from last year.

Ramirez resigned last year to comply with a Texas nepotism statute which made it illegal for a person to serve on the board when his wife had worked in the school system for less than two years.

Ramirez' wife, an aide, has now worked in the system for more than two years.

Debbis Knox and Margie Daniels who represented Hereford Senior Citizens Association asked trustees if the school district would allow their organization to use the entire stage area in the Central

House Shoots Down Legal Bingo

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The House has failed by 16 votes to send the voters a constitutional amendment legalizing church bingo games.

One lawmaker compared the games with money changers in the temple and said Jesus would vote against the bill.

Needing 100 votes to go on the November 1980 ballot, Senate-approved measure SJR18 stayed alive with an 84-47 majority. The House will vote at least one more time on the measure.

Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque, said bingo is a perennial legislative issue and would "continue to come up until the people of Texas bite the bullet and face the facts."

Criss mustered an 83-46 vote to table an amendment by Rep. Ron Bird, D-San Antonio, guaranteeing that non-profit charitable organizations could raise money with bingo for health, welfare or social causes.

Bird said the San Antonio vice squad, in effects, lets such bingo games operate but under strict guidelines.

Debate was low-key until Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, took the floor.

Hollowell, a Baptist, said bingo does not belong in churches.

"When Christ went into Jerusalem shortly before his crucifixion, he went into the temple and chased out the money changers, saying this is the house of God and not a den of thieves," Hollowell said.

"I have not read in the scripture that Christ ever changed his mind. I cast my vote with him," said Hollowell, a Baptist layman.

Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, said he had "letter after letter from the elderly people of Texas who say bingo is the only form of entertainment they have."

"Those people who play bingo are good, God-fearing people, just as you and I are," he said.

The constitutional amendment would limit the games to the premises of the religious, veterans, volunteer fire department or organizations supporting medical research and treatment. It also would require all proceeds to be spent in Texas for the charitable purposes of the organizations.

Senators climaxed days of filibusters and negotiations by passing to the House, 23-8, a bill making it harder for consumers to collect triple damages from businessmen under the state's deceptive trade practices law.

They also passed, 22-9, and sent the House a much-criticized bill allowing car dealers to add a documentary fee of up to $35 to the price of automobiles.

Senate-approved changes in the Texas Consumer Protection Act would require allow a consumer to collect triple damages for deception only if he could

Carter: Use Windfall Profits Tax To Find More Oil, Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter says he'll work with Congress or do the job himself as long as the results meet his demand: America's oil companies must use half of any new profits from decontrolled oil prices to search for more oil or gas.

Carter's signal that he might need congressional help to back up the demand he made in his energy speech last Thursday came during a Tuesday news conference in which he also apparently softened his standby gasoline-rationing position to put it more in line with Senate wishes.

Congress has already given frosty receptions to Carter's request for a 50 percent tax on "windfall profits" expected to flow from the phased oil decontrol he's ordered to begin June 1 and to his standby federal gasoline-rationing program calling for purchase coupons based in part on the number of cars a person owns.

Under Carter's decontrol plan, half of all "excess profits" would go into a special fund for development of alternate energy sources and for cushioning the blow of inevitably higher energy prices for poor people.

For the remaining profits, estimated at $6 billion over three years, Carter said, "The nation has a right to expect that all this new income will be used for exploration for new oil and gas, and not to buy timberlands and department stores."

He said he would support constraints imposed by either the executive branch or Congress on the oil companies' use of profits. But neither Carter nor other administration officials would say what actions he might take aside from proposing legislation to Congress.

As for gasoline-rationing, Carter said that before the Energy Department imposed rationing requirements, "my own inclination is to let the states make the first effort to meet reduced consumption standards."

On other subjects brought up at the news conference, Carter said:

"He continues to support the use of nuclear energy despite the recent accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant in Pennsylvania. "There is no way for us to abandon the nuclear supply of energy in our country for the foreseeable future," he said.

"Progress continues in strategic arms limitation talks, but "there are still a few issues that remain to be resolved - clarifications in the stance of the American negotiators and the Soviet negotiators."

"He knows of no violations of law concerning loans of more than $6.5 million by the National Bank of Georgia to his family peanut business, and he will cooperate fully with federal investigations of the loans."

"He sees no immediate prospect for reinstatement of a military draft. "We are meeting the requirements of the armed forces adequately," he said.

"He does not favor a proposed constitutional amendment under consideration in Congress that would have the effect of nullifying a Supreme Court decision forbidding prayer in public schools. "I think it ought to be an individual matter between a person and God," he said.

"He hopes to submit a balanced federal budget in January but isn't making any promises."

Wichita Falls, Vernon Hit

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - National Guard troops patrolled the debris-strewn streets of this North Texas city of 96,000 today in the wake of several killer tornadoes which wreaked havoc here and in two other Texas towns. At least 46 died in Texas.

Gov. Bill Clements and his staff were to tour the areas this morning.

Vernon, a town of 11,500 about 75 miles to the northwest, had at least 12 persons killed when the first major twister tore a quarter-mile-wide path through the southern part of the city.

Two hours later, Wichita Falls was hit, with two shopping malls bearing the brunt of the attack. The path of destruction was eight miles long and ranged in width from a half mile to a mile and a half.

More than 700 persons were injured, and an unknown number were buried under the rubble of demolished homes and stores.

Ironically, some of those injured in Vernon were taken to Wichita Falls hospitals.

"We were taking injured in from Vernon when this one hit here," said Dr. James Lee, medical coordinator for the Red Cross in Wichita Falls.

Another tornado later struck Harrold, a small town nine miles west of Vernon, killing one person.

Across the Red River in Oklahoma, a twister killed four persons in Lawton, north of Wichita Falls and northeast of Vernon.

Other tornadoes were reported about the same time in outlying areas of Texas but authorities could not say how many touched down.

There was damage at Lockett, six miles southwest of Vernon, and one touched down without damage or injury in a rural area near Seymour, due south of Vernon.

Early today funnel clouds were sighted near Sadler, Sherman, Bridgeport, Bowie and near Tioga, all in large North Central Texas area east-southeast of Wichita Falls and north of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The damage in Wichita Falls and Vernon was devastating.

"There are literally thousands of people homeless," said Record-News reporter Rocky Scott, who watched the tornado from the Wichita County courthouse.

"As the storm started you could see the clouds being sucked into the center of the storm - the debris and huge pieces of house roofs, and tree limbs. All of a sudden there was a tremendous roar, and the storm appeared to move very quickly. It seemed like it lasted about five or six minutes and it looked like a huge snow storm," Scott said.

The injured and homeless were taken to school gymnasiums and other makeshift emergency centers.

One woman, asked not to be identified,

Q-I would like to know why "Love of Life" was taken off CBS-TV in the mornings. It was one of my favorite shows.

A--CBS didn't take "Love of Life" off the air; KFDA-TV in Amarillo did, and the reasons included a kid's show, program reshuffling and economics. That's the summation of Jack Byrd, operations director for KFDA, Channel 10. According to Byrd, KVII, Channel 7, dropped "Sesame Street," the all-time favorite among children's educational TV programs. Dropping the show created quite a furor in the Amarillo area, and Channel 10 was the recipient of calls from people asking if the station would pick up "Sesame Street." Well, the station did, and put it on the air from 9-10 a.m. Monday through Friday. In order to add the program, Byrd said, his station had to make time for it. "Donahue" and "Dinah" were the two half-hour shows in that time slot and were followed by "Love of Life" at 10:30. Byrd said that since "Sesame Street" is an educational program, the station receives no advertising revenue from it. So, "Donahue," a widely-watched talk show, was expanded to an hour to make up some of that lost revenue. Since March 19, "Sesame Street" has been seen from 9-10 a.m. and "Donahue" from 10-11. The poor ratings of "Love of Life" made it even more unprofitable for KFDA to keep it on the air, Byrd said. But, there is good news, too, he added. CBS, the network, will change the time slot of "Love of Life" to 3 p.m. each weekday on April 23 in an attempt to boost the show's poor ratings. And KFDA, on that date, will return the show to the local airways.

Ex-Iranian Officials Executed Today

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Revolutionary firing squads executed 11 more leaders of the shah's regime today, including former cabinet ministers, secret police chiefs, the speaker of Parliament for 15 years and the commander of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's Imperial Guard.

Six generals were among those who died.

The executions were carried out before dawn, Tehran Radio said, and brought to 101 the number of men put to death since the forces of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ousted the last royal government two months ago.

Those shot today included two former chiefs of SAVAK, the shah's secret police, Gens. Hassan Pakravan and Nasser Moquaddam; Gen. Ali Neshat, the Imperial Guard commander; Gen. Mohammad Taghi Majidi, who headed a military court that tried rebels against the shah; Gen. Ali Hojat Kashani, who was accused of largescale embezzlement, and Brig. Hessein Ai Bayat, a member of Parliament, senior police official and governor of the city of Zanjan.

Pakravan had also been information minister and ambassador to Pakistan and France.

Consumer Protection Changes Pass Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Senate has voted to change - one senator said destroy - a consumer protection law that purportedly was once hailed as a model for the other 49 states.

Sen. Bill Meier's proposed changes in the 1973 law cleared the Senate, 23-8, on Tuesday, after surviving two filibusters a week apart.

The final vote climaxed a bitter debate that appeared on the verge of turning into a personal confrontation between Meier and Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston.

"The Consumer Destruction Act of 1979," was Sen. Lloyd Doggett's epithet for Meier's proposal, which now goes to the House.

Doggett, D-Austin, led a group of senators who stalled for a total of 24 hours in an attempt to arouse enough public support against the measure.

The Senate bill would require proof that a merchant's alleged deception amounted to a deliberate "unconscionable act" before the customer could collect triple damages, which are viewed by some as a deterrent to business fraud.

Doggett also objected the list of deceptive trade practices was shortened, and only the attorney general would be able to bring class-action suits.

"If you just steal a little from a lot of folks, nothing will happen," Doggett protested.

Kampala Falls To Tanzanians

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) - Kampala, President Idi Amin's capital, fell to an invasion force of Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles early today, and by morning only scattered pockets of Ugandan troops were resisting in the city.

Amin was reported to have left Kampala Tuesday for his new headquarters in Jinja, 50 miles to the east. It was not known yet whether the invaders would pursue him.

"The fascist dictator is finished," loudspeakers told Ugandan troops still holding out. They were urged to surrender.

The invaders started into Kampala Tuesday afternoon from the north and south after a night-long artillery bombardment, followed by a fierce rocket, artillery and jet fighter attack in the morning and early afternoon. Despite the heavy bombardment, there was little visible damage to homes and commercial buildings.

Lee Marvin Trial Enters Final Stages

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Michelle Triola Marvin's lawyer tearfully urged a judge to give the former showgirl half of Lee Marvin's millions, crying out: "I implore this court to treat her fairly."

Marvin Mitchelson was the last lawyer to speak in final arguments at the Hollywood-style courtroom drama of love and money neared its crucial last act Tuesday.

His comments came at the end of nearly six hours of summations in which Marvin's chief attorney, A. David Kagon, said the actor never promised Miss Marvin a share of property and insisted that she is entitled to nothing.

"One of the reasons people don't get married," Kagon said, "is that they don't want the responsibilities and obligations."

The last words in the landmark case were left to Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall, who said he will ponder some 8,000 pages of testimony before issuing a written ruling.

Marshall, who said he hopes to rule early next week, must decide whether Miss Marvin is entitled to half the fortune Marvin made during the six years the actor and the former showgirl lived together as lovers. Miss Marvin's suit asks specifically for $1.8 million.

"He took both halves and we want our half back, or part of our half back," Mitchelson told the judge.

IS THERE really an oil shortage? It depends on who you talk with or whose statement you read.

Rep. Philip Crane (R) of Illinois says the U.S. has oil and gas reserves to last 135 years and that this nation could, by careful measures, have sufficient energy from this source until we could phase in alternate sources of energy. He claims there is more oil in the shale of four Western states than is being produced in all OPEC nations now.

The Department of Energy, says Rep. Crane, is a fiasco and should be abolished at once. As you may know, or guessed, Crane is a conservative and has long been at odds with the Carter administration. He says DOE is too concerned with sharing the shortages instead of finding energy sources.

Crane, who is a Republican presidential candidate, also attacks Ted Kennedy's national health plan. He says more than half of the health costs are caused by inflation and are factors over which medical people have no control. Crane points out that Americans now spend 8.9 percent of the gross national product for health care, which is less than they spend for tobacco, liquor or recreation. He adds that in England, where there is a government health program, the common waiting period for a hernia operation is 18 to 22 months.

School Board

School gymnasium for cafeteria space.

The district had already permitted the association to use the stage but officials asked Knox to save the north portion as a dressing room or restroom for persons using the adjacent gymnasium.

Knox said seven Panhandle Regional Planning Commission representatives toured the facility Monday in connection with Hereford's application for a grant to renovate the stage and kitchen so seniors could institute an expanded meal program.

"They said we probably would get the grant but our chances would be better if we had the entire stage area," Knox said. He added that without the north portion, the area could seat around 36 persons, with the entire area containing seating capacity of "between 70 and 80."

The total amount of the grant is $22,000, although the association has received more than $5,000 from Deaf Smith County for required matching funds.

Knox suggested that the association construct an eight fold partition separating the stage and gymnasium. That would leave 10 feet to the ceiling of the gymnasium.

"We could build a strong ceiling on top of our partition and you could use that top part for a dressing room," Knox said.

Superintendent Harrell Holder said "flying basketballs" might be a problem when they land on top of the ceiling. He suggested using chicken wire to keep out basketballs.

The board approved Knox's request. Tubb expressed his appreciation to the association "for putting that thing (Central School facilities) to good use."

Trustees accepted a $1 per employee rate increase for health insurance coverage by Blue Cross-Blue Shield, which said the new rates were necessary to comply with federal law governing pregnancies.

Pregnancies, according to the law, are due benefits similar to other surgical disabilities.

The board approved a request from the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, represented by Randy Laing, to use the football stadium on June 8 for a fund-raising project. A musical group from South Plains Junior College in Levelland will perform on that date to help raise funds for a tool to be used in rescuing persons trapped in vehicles.

The board took no action on dedicating 10 feet of its La Plata Junior High School property for an alley, which would extend north and south from La Plata Dr. To Sycamore. The dedication request was submitted by an individual planning to construct a 32-unit housing area.

Gentry appointed Ramirez, Arney and Hutchins to a committee to investigate the feasibility of the dedication.

The board hired Mike Purcell of White Deer as high school track coach for the remainder of this school and 1979-80. It also hired Fermin Handez for 1979-80 at

La Plata and accepted resignations from Darlene Clark, Nelva Swopes, Eva Garcia and Lena Sanders.

Holder told trustees that the $1.2 million Title I and Title I Migrant programs of the school district are being audited. In presenting his monthly report, Holder added that a 60x28 wood-frame building will be constructed on the north end of the high school and will be used for two classrooms.

Tax assessor-collector Fred Fox reported that March current collections totaled $20,950. The monthly total, including delinquent taxes, was $24,424, bringing the yearly total to $2.65 million.

The enrollment report for April 10 showed 5,345 students in the school system, compared to 5,258 on April 11 last year. Average daily attendance, which affects the amount of state funds, passed last year's figure for the first time this school year, Holder said.

Wartes said that 3,292 meals were served in the school cafeterias last in March, compared to 3,145 last year.

The monthly curriculum report was presented by John Matthews, instructor of the high school coordinated vocational academic education program which stresses both worksite and classroom for disadvantaged students.

Frank Zinser Jr., Raymond Schlabs and Troys Carmichael were appointed to the school district's tax board of equalization.

sat and rubbed her feet and reflected on her luck, if one could call that.

"The only thing left of my house is the closet I was lying in," she said. "I got so scared I just laid there and prayed. I've been through five hurricanes, but hurricanes are nothing compared to this. Take me back to hurricanes."

Bob Draper, county disaster chairman for the Red Cross, said 33 were known dead in Wichita Falls. The toll could run much higher when workers get into many neighborhoods previously inaccessible, he said.

Lee, medical coordinator for civil defense in Wichita Falls, said 500 persons - 300 at Wichita General Hospital and 200 at Bethenia Hospital - had major injuries requiring surgery, hospitalization or extended doctor's care.

The injured were being admitted as fast as others could be dismissed, said Peggy Horn, nursing supervisor at Wichita General Hospital.

"I think we are going to have one horror after another when they clear the rubble," she said.

Most of the seriously injured are in the recovery room, the intensive care unit and the coronary care unit because those three have lights.

However, an extra generator was being brought in from Fort Sill, Okla., approximately 50 miles to the north.

The hospital is overflowing. It normally has 285 beds, but beds have been set up in halls and other areas. The pediatric center also has been commandeered and the beds are overflowing, she said.

"The recovery room was lined wall to wall all night," said Ms. Horn, who described the night as "orderly confusion."

About 200 other persons were treated for minor injuries at nursing homes in the city by paramedics from Sheppard Air Force Base.

Draper said the twister buried shoppers at two malls leveled in the southwest portion of the city. Others were believed covered by the debris of their collapsed homes.

An employee of the Owens & Brumley Funeral Home in Wichita Falls said 10 bodies were brought there - none, however, from the Sikes Shopping Mall, the hardest hit of the shopping centers.

Marty Sabota, a reporter for the Wichita Falls Times, said she saw at least 10 bodies at a makeshift morgue at the Sikes shopping center.

Newsman Joe Tom White of KWFT said when the twister hit the Sikes mall "everything was sucked up - people, merchandise, everything."

Hundreds of homes in the Faith Village residential area were destroyed.

"It sounded like a runaway freight train running right over you," said Joe Ezell, manager of Underwood's Barbecue Restaurant. Ezell herded about 60 customers into a small storage area when he heard the roar. A few minutes later, when he opened the door, the rest of the restaurant was gone.

KTRN, the only radio station on the air, issued frantic pleas from the Red Cross for blood and for fuel to operate the city's emergency vehicles.

Wichita Falls Mayor Kenneth Hill made an impassioned plea over radio for the residents prowling the streets to "please go home." He estimated property damage "in the millions."

The mayor urged residents to conserve water and said, "We don't know when power will be restored."

Capt. Terry Denson, with the Texas National Guard in Austin, said Gov. Bill Clements' office authorized the activation of 150 guardsmen from three units in Wichita Falls and Bowie to assist in search and rescue operations.

City Editor Bill McGee said "hospitals and civil defense forces are in absolute chaos."

Wichita Falls high school ROTC units were called out to join National Guardsmen, military reservist, city and county employees in directing traffic, guarding the numerous downed power lines and protecting stores from potential looters.

The front wall of the Johnson & Johnson plant on the city's southwest side was wiped away by the tornado, and trailers from a nearby mobile home park shot across the highway from the force of the wind.

A safe in the National Guard armory exploded, leaving night sticks and incomplete M-16 rifles exposed.

The bloodied wreckage of 20 cars were smashed underneath a bridge and into the abutment. Roofs were sheared away from some of the vehicles and several were battered until they could no longer be recognized as cars.

In Vernon, hospital administrator Billy Robertson said Wilbarger General HosWichita Falls and Altus, Okla. Some of the injured also were taken to a hospital in Henrietta, Okla.

prove a merchant had deliberately and "unconscionably" misled him or her.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, who filibustered against the bill last week, called it the "Consumer Destruction Act of 1979," but Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, said it redressed an imbalance in the marketplace between consumers and business.

The Senate also passed, 25-5, and sent the House a bill raising the legal drinking age from 18 to 19.

The House failed by one vote, 99-35, to approve a constitutional amendment (HFR102) that would prohibit a state income tax - either personal or corporate.

The measure can come up again, however, and the fact that 15 representatives missed the roll call would suggest it will get the necessary 100 votes next time.

House members approved, 121-11, and sent to the Senate a constitutional amendment (HJR54) allowing husbands and wives to make agreements for dividing the income from their separate property.

Also sent to the Senate, 129-3, was a constitutional amendment HJR51 authorizing state and local governments to pay insurance premiums for their employees to mutual insurance companies.

House members passed 118-17 and sent to the Senate a bill (HB1375) that would provide criminal penalties for harboring a runaway child. Harboring a runaway, however, would not be a crime if one notified the child's parents or the police within 24 hours.

The House defeated, 54-81, a bill HB940 exempting commercial bus lines from sales taxes for repairs and House members passed and sent to the Senate bills that would:

O.B. SOUTHERN

O.B. Southern, 67, died Tuesday in Deaf Smith General Hospital where he had undergone major surgery Monday morning. Mr. Southern resided at the Holiday Hotel for several years.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Roberts Brothers Funeral Home of Hooker. The services will be held in the Tyrone Church of Christ with interment in the Tyrone Cemetery.

Police Check Into Break-In

Marn Tyler reported that someone broke into 132 Aspen and did $15 worth of damage to the inside of the residence.

Police said a chandelier was broken and screens were taken off windows in the house.

Officers issued 20 traffic citations, 18 for speeding, in an otherwise dull day for Hereford police. One ticket was issued for no driver's license and another for an expired motor vehicle inspection sticker.

MARY LOIS GREER

Mrs. Mary Lois Greer, 85, of King's Manor Methodist Home, died yesterday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Thursday in Pleasant Valley Methodist Church with the Rev. James Futch, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery in Amarillo under direction of Blackburn-Shaw Martin Road Chapel.

Why Not The Best

Jimmy Carter might have remained in the Navy.

It was his Navy superior, Adm. H.G. Rickover, who detected a greater potential and advised, "Why not be the best?"

Subsequently, Carter wrote a book under that title: "Why Not The Best?"

Mister President, Sir, in your selection of federal judges, why not the best?

Much has been said and written about the significance of the selection of the next Supreme Court justice. He may tilt the now balanced court to the left or right.

Less mentioned but no less important is the selection of the 152 new trial and appellate judges authorized by Congress.

About 25 judges retire or resign each year. Add to these the carry-over vacancies plus the 152 new judgeships and President Carter will appoint more than half as many judges as were in place when he became President.

Why is this so important? Most decisions are made in these lower level courts.

District courts will decide some 126,000 cases.

Eleven Courts of Appeal will decide some 18,000 cases.

The Supreme Court can hear only about 175 cases-about one case in 700.

Jimmy Carter, campaigning, promised, "All federal judges and prosecutors should be appointed strictly on the basis of merit, without any consideration of political aspect of influence."

Yet the record shows that each of Carter's three predecessors, Gerald Ford, Richard Nixon and Lyndon Johnson, appointed a higher percentage of judges from the opposition party.

Of Carter's district judge appointments, so far, only 4.4 percent have gone to Republicans; Court of Appeals appointments, no Republicans.

Indeed, though this President promised "no politics" in the judiciary, 75 percent of his Court of Appeals nominees were political activists!

Americans can thank God for the American Bar Assn.'s Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary. For 35 years this committee has fought sporadic efforts by Presidents and senators to seat on the bench incompetents, alcoholics, unethical political hacks.

As a result, in our federal judiciary, scandal is almost nonexistent, dishonesty almost unknown.

This committee ranks most Carter appointees so far as well-qualified, but about one-third rank no higher than simply "qualified."

Mister President, why not the best?

Music Study Club Elects Officers

Hereford Music Study Club met for its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Joe Hacker. Co-hostesses were Mmes. W.E. Dameron, A.J. Schroeter, and J.C. McCracken.

President, Mrs. Wayne Thomas presided and gave a report of the State Convention from which she recently returned.

Also on the agenda was the election of officers who will serve for the next two years. Those elected were Mmes. Wesley Gulley, president; Tom Burdett, 1st vice president; Sid Shaw, 2nd vice president; Bob Sims, recording secretary; Sam Long, secretary; A.J. Schroeter, treasurer; and J.R. Allison, reporter and historian.

The program, "Other Modern Europeans and the New Music," was lead by Mrs. Tom Burdett. The new music of the 20th Century was the topic of study. Music studied included Tonal and Atonal, as well as Serial and Electronic music.

The hymn of the month was given by Mrs. Wesley Gulley, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Thomas.

Sonata No. III by Hindemith was given by Mrs. Burdett, piano solo. The Bell Prelude by Purvis was presented by Mrs. Walser on the organ and Mrs. Thomas on the piano.

The Sally Gardens by Britten was given by Mrs. Allred, vocal solo; and Mrs. Cansler, piano. Scaramouche No. III by Milhaud was given by Mrs. Walser and Mrs. Hacker on two pianos.

New directions in music were discussed by members after the program, and a tape recording of electronic music was played.

Members in attendance were Mmes. J.R. Allison, Lynton Allred, Tom Burdett, Allen Cansler, W.E. Dameron, Wesley Fisher, Wesley Gulley, Joe Hacker, J.C. McCracken, J.D. Neill, Joe Reinauer, A.J. Schroeter, Sid Shaw, Bob Sims, Wayne Thomas, Ken Walser, C.J. Mountz, S.O. Wilson, Harold Close, Ellis Coombes, and Frances Dameron.

Each child wrote a friendly letter, consisting of their name and a return address, and placed it into their balloons filled with helium. The children released their balloons and hope they are found and answered.

Methodists Hosting Holy Week Services

Inter-denominational Holy Week services are continuing at First United Methodist Church each day until Friday. The public is invited to attend the worship services, which are being held from 12:05-12:35 p.m. daily.

The Rev. Bob Huffaker, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, will be directing today's service. Presenting the sermon will be the Rev. Charles Threewit, vicar at St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Special music is to be offered by Carl Lorey.

Bringing the message Thursday will be the Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist Church. Ermilo Montemayor, pastor of San Pablo United Methodist Church, will be directing the service. Ray Owens, associate pastor of First Christian Church, will lead special music.

Concluding the week's services will be Friday's sermon, to be brought by the Rev. George Belford, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. Mack McCarter, pastor of First Christian Church, will be in charge of the service. Special music will be performed by First United Methodist Church.

Other clergyman who have participated in Holy Week services earlier in the week are the Rev. William D. McReynolds, minister of First United Methodist Church; the Rev. Paul Haefner, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church; and the Rev. C.W. Allen, pastor of St. John's Baptist Church.

Ray Owens will be leading hymns by the congregation throughout the week.

Study Club Tours E.B. Black House

Veleda Study Club met Monday night in the E.B. Black House. The program was brought by Helen Rose.

She spoke on the beginning and early years of Hereford. She included in her speech the effects of the railroad, the controversy over the construction of the courthouse. She described one of the elegant parties held in 1910, the memorial rose garden in the back of the E.B. Black House, and gave members a tour of the house. She also informed members that the E.B. Black House has been recently acknowledged by the National Register of Historic Places.

Business was conducted after the program and the nominating committee of officers for next year were elected. These included Jean Ruther, Teddie Poindexter and Ruth Owen.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served after the business discussion.

The next meeting is scheduled for April 23 in the home of DeAnn Sisson.

Those members present were Mmes. Howard Birdwell, Bill Bradley, Gid Brown, Johnny Brownlow, J.D. Gilbert, Kenneth McLain, Richard Ottesen, John Poindexter, George Ritter, Laurence Ruther, Bill Walden and Frank Zinser.

Ann Landers

Unpayable Debts

DEAR ANN LANDERS: HELP! We're drowning. In debt, that is. Inflation, foolishness, credit cards, and no will power have combined to put my husband and me right behind that well-known eight-ball.

We are honorable people and will pay what we owe, but it's going to take a long time. The sleepless nights caused by dunning letters and phone calls are beginning to get to both my husband and me.

There must be other couples with young children who are in the same kettle of fish. Please tell us what to do. — Once Upon a Never Again.

DEAR O.: Welcome to the club. Here's a plan of action for people like you.

Go in person, if it is humanly possible to the store manager or credit chief of all the places where you owe money. Tell them you are financially strapped but have every intention of paying your bill as soon as you are able. Ask for their patience and understanding and you'll get it.

Next — go to the bank where you do business and ask to talk to the credit counselor. Learn if it makes sense for you to take out a loan so you can pay off everyone and owe just the bank.

Last step: go home. Get a scissors and cut your credit cards into small pieces — and vow to stay out of the stores.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that people have been made aware of the problems of the battered wife and are setting up shelters and counseling services, may I call your attention to a more insidious problem — the emotionally battered woman?

This victim shows no broken bones or bruises. Her hurt is psychic. Confidence and self-worth have been completely eroded. She may require long and extensive psychiatric treatment or end up a suicide.

The man in such a situation is just as sick as the physical brute but he uses a sneakier weapon. The woman is tortured by the fear of losing custody of her children if she should get the strength to leave him. (Judges often take a dim view of the mother who is undergoing psychiatric care.)

I am hoping and praying that you will print this letter and make some comments. If you have any suggestions I'd like to see them in print, also. — R.R.

DEAR R.R.: Mental anguish can be just as destructive as physical abuse, but a woman need not remain passive and allow herself to be mentally tortured.

There are a number of organizations that offer counseling services, often for a modest fee. Check the phone book for the Family Service Association, Salvation Army, or YWCA.

When a situation is hopeless and there is no chance for a decent life together, therapy can give a woman the strength to leave. A wife who stays with a husband who destroys her self-esteem and kills her spirit is in the same category as the wife who allows her husband to repeatedly blacken her eyes and rearrange her bridgework.

COMMENTARY

William Steif

Drugmaker's story

C. Joseph Stetler and David S. Kessler think this column has been unfair to their organizations. Stetler is president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the drug maker's lobby. Kessler is manager of regulatory affairs for Knoll Pharmaceutical Co., Whippany, N.J.

Stetler says this column, in discussing the Health, Education and Welfare Department's "Guide to Drug Prices," did not "fully or accurately explain our position. We think consumers should have access to price information about prescriptions. Our objections to the HEW price book deal with the type of information the government has assembled and its method of making it available to the public."

Stetler also objects to this column's statement that "medicines often are marked up 100 percent or more from wholesale to retail." He says "manufacturers have no voice whatsoever in the decision of how much markup is added...That is determined by the pharmacist...The percentage stated in your column is inflated and inaccurate."

That leads to Kessler's complaint. His company makes Dilaudid, a drug 12 times as potent as morphine in curbing the pain of cancer. This column used Dilaudid as an example of drug-price inflation and suggested that HEW's guide could be used by doctors, pharmacists and consumers as a way to check costs of comparable drugs.

Kessler says his firm "sells to a wholesaler, who then adds a small markup and sells Dilaudid to pharmacies or hospitals; they in turn mark up the Dilaudid and sell it to patients." The company has "absolutely no control" over markups.

Stetler says that of every $1 spent at a pharmacy on a prescription drug, an average of 50 cents goes to the manufacturer, 6 cents to the wholesaler, the other 44 cents to the pharmacist.

"Less than 6 cents of the pharmaceutical manufacturer's dollar share is profit," says Stetler. But pharmacists say their profit margins are even lower, 3 to 5 percent.

What's happened to the markup?

Part of the answer, PMA says, is that some of the markup goes to maintain unprofitable lines. Some, Stetler says, goes to "research and development" ($1.4 billion in 1978). Part goes to the pharmacist's fee for filling a prescription, now $2.60 on average.

He objects to HEW's "Guide to Drug Prices" because it's based on comparative wholesale prices. He says the manufacturers want HEW to "provide average retail price information, since this would give consumers and physicians a better idea of actual prices at the prescription counter."

PMA felt so strongly about this it filed suit last December in federal court at Baltimore to stop publication of HEW's guide.

But HEW is pushing ahead. The guide was scheduled for publication in January but is now due to be mailed in May, with prices updated to last November. It will compare prices of "multiple-source" drugs, the same items made by different manufacturers; it will offer "daily therapy cost" — the price of a usual dose prescribed daily for the average patient. And it will reprint pertinent parts of the Food and Drug Administration's list of interchangeable drugs.

Unless halted by the courts, HEW will mail the guide to 350,000 doctors and druggists. Consumers can have it by writing for it in care of the Health Care Financing Administration, 330 C St., SW, Washington, DC 20201.

Stetler may have a point when he complains that retail, rather than wholesale prices should be compared in the guide. But if you're in your 60s or older — one in four buyers of drugs is in that category — you probably don't care. What you want is something that will provide price comparisons.

If Stetler is serious when he says drug costs are "a heavy out-of-pocket burden for many older people on fixed incomes," his association will work with HEW instead of bucking it.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 11, the 101st day of 1979. There are 264 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1899, the Philippine Islands were transferred from Spain to the United States as part of the settlement of the Spanish-American War.

On this date: In 1921, a telephone line between the United States and Cuba was opened by President Warren Harding.

In 1951, President Harry Truman relieved General Douglas MacArthur of his command in the Far East.

In 1961, France served notice it no longer would contribute men or money to United Nations military operations.

Ten years ago: The United States and the Soviet Union were considering ways to provide peaceful nuclear services to nations that renounced having their own atomic arms.

Five years ago: The House Judiciary Committee issued a subpoena ordering President Richard Nixon to turn over all Watergate material previously requested by the committee.

One year ago: Israeli forces began withdrawing from part of southern Lebanon in the first move toward compliance with a U-N call for complete withdrawal.

Today's birthdays: New York Governor Hugh Carey is 60 years old. Mrs. Ethel Kennedy is 51.

Astros End Dodger Streak

HOUSTON (AP) - Throughout his eight-year career with the Houston Astros, J.R. Richard has been criticized for his inconsistent pitching, a dogma the tall right-hander has been forced to endure.

"You have to take the bad with the good," said Richard, who struck out 13 and established a major league record with six wild pitches in Houston's 2-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night.

"When things go bad, the worse thing you can do is worry about what you're doing wrong. 'I was aiming the ball tonight, and that got me into trouble,'" he said. "Maybe some of them should have been stopped, but I'm not easy to catch sometimes."

The six wild pitches broke the major league mark of five in one contest last accomplished by Larry Chaney of Brooklyn in 1918.

"I definitely think I had better stuff tonight than I did in the opener when he pitched 5 1/2 innings in Houston's victory over Atlanta. They got my best stuff at the end, and I beat them with it," he said.

Houston scored its only two runs of the game in the fourth inning on consecutive doubles by Cesar Cedeno, Jose Cruz and Enos Cabell off losing pitcher Burt Hooton, 0-1.

Los Angeles came back with a run in the fifth, when Dusty Baker led off with a single and took second on Richard's third wild pitch of the game. Baker scored on Joe Ferguson's double to the left field wall.

Richard, who scattered six hits in winning his second game of the season in as many starts, was tested again in the sixth when Reggie Smith opened the inning with a single and stole second base. Steve Garvey followed with an infield hit, moving Smith to third, and later advanced to second on Richard's record-tying fifth wild pitch.

However, Richard, the major-league strikeout leader last season, came back to strike out Ron Cey, Baker and Rick Monday to end the threat and help snap the Dodgers' four-game winning streak.

The victory was Richard's eighth straight over the defending National League champions, and aided the Astros to their best start since 1968.

Bruce Bochy, who replaced Houston's injured regular catcher, Alan Ashby, said catching Richard was an experience.

"It could have been my worse night ever," said Bochy, who was told he would have to replace Ashby less than four hours before the start of the game. "I'll bet I have about a dozen bruises."

"I didn't expect a rough night like this, but the first time I caught him last year, he threw 184 pitches. That was quite a start," he said.

The Dodgers threatened in the ninth when Ferguson walked with one out and Richard wild-pitched pinch-runner Teddy Martinez into scoring position. Martinez advanced to third on pinch-hitter Von Joshua's fly-out to deep center field, but was stranded when Davey Lopes struck out to end the game.

"Richard is the best," said Lopes, who struck out three times. "His fast ball and his slider are one-two, or two-one, however you want to put it."

Rose Powers Phillies

Pete Rose, who cost the Phillies' $3.2 million for a four-year contract during the off-season, began paying dividends against the Pirates. Rose ripped two doubles and a single, walked once and scored once, while advancing two places on baseball's all-time career list. The two doubles lifted Rose's career total of 504, putting him ahead of Charley Gehringer for eighth place, and his four at-bats increased his total to 10,210, passing Tris Speaker for eighth place on the all-time list.

McCovey's Single Helps Giants Win

John Tamargo, the Giants' No. 3 catcher, was the hero, blasting a two-out, two-run pinch homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, breaking a 2-2 tie. But it was Willie McCovey, the Giants' 41-year-old elder statesman who was given the most applause by the crowd of 56,196, the largest opening-day attendance for the Giants in Candlestick Park history.

McCovey, who singles preceding Tamargo's game-winning shot, received three standing ovations - during the pre-game introduction of players, when he came out to pinch hit and when he was removed for a pinch runner. McCovey has three pinch hits in three attempts this year.

Braves Win 1st

Jerry Royster, who lost his shortstop job to Vepe Frias during spring training but now is playing third base because of an injury to Bob Horner, stroked four hits, drove in one run and scored another for Atlanta. Dale Murphy added a solo homer for the Braves.

Expos Edge Mets

Montreal broke a 2-2 tie in the 14th on Jerry White's pinch single and Andre Dawson's RBI triple.

"It was a good game, I thought," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams, reflecting on the four-hour marathon. "We owe ourselves a beer. We earned one."

Cards Blast Cubs

St. Louis used the long ball and the combined seven-hit pitching of Bob Skyes, Darold Knowles and Tom Bruno to beat the Cubs in a game delayed by rain for 53 minutes at the start of the seventh inning. The Cards' runs came on two-run homers by Lou Brock and George Hendrick, a two-run triple by Tony Scott and an RBI triple by Keith Hernandez.

Denver Nuggets Outduel Lakers

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer So who needs George McGinnis?

Apparently not the Denver Nuggets. Center Dan Issel outplayed Los Angeles' mighty Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Tom Boswell contributed 19 points as a starter in place of the injured McGinnis as the Nuggets defeated the Lakers 110-105 Wednesday night in the opening game of their National Basketball Association playoff mini-series.

Denver can wrap up its best-of-three first-round series with a victory at Los Angeles Friday night.

In Wednesday night's other playoff game, the Phoenix Suns beat the Portland Trail Blazers 107-103. The second game of that series will be played in Portland Friday night.

The two Eastern Conference series get under way tonight, with the New Jersey Nets at Philadelphia Flyers and Atlanta Hawks at Houston Rockets. Issel led the Nuggets with a season-high 30 points, including a three-point play that gave Denver its biggest lead at 85-67 with 4:52 left in the third period.

Los Angeles got its fast break going and outscored the Nuggets 23-8, to close within three, but could come no closer as David Thompson hit a free throw and Issel and Charlie Scott contributed torrid ligaments in his left ankle March 30 and has not played since. He was reactivated by the Nuggets in order to become eligible for the playoffs, but isn't expected to play until the late rounds, if at all.

"If there was a key statistic, I'd say it was rebounding," said Denver Coach Donniss Walsh. "We beat them 45-37 on the boards, even without McGinnis. Issel played Abdul-Jabbar as well as anyone can, keeping him occupied the whole game, and Boswell gave us a big lift inside."

Lakers Coach Jerry West said his team dug itself too much of a hole. "We played very well the last 18 minutes, but we buried ourselves early," he said. "I think we'll play better at home on Friday."

Phoenix led by 10 midway through the first period before Portland rallied to close within one at 102-101 with 1:15 to go. A basket by Paul Westphal and a free throw by Walter Davis gave the Suns a four-point lead, and a basket by Portland's Ron Brewer was offset by a basket by Davis in the closing seconds.

Westphal led the Suns with 28 points and Davis had 25, with Davis getting 11 points in the fourth quarter and Westphal 10.

Rookies Ron Brewer and Mychal Thompson were high scorers for Portland with 26 and 22 points, respectively.

Phoenix shot 56 percent in the game to Portland's 48 percent, making up for a 45-30 rebounding deficit.

VANCOUVER (AP) - The Vancouver Canadians of the Pacific Coast League have announced a chance of their major league baseball affiliation from the Oakland A's to the Milwaukee Brewers.

Manager John Kelske, who handled Milwaukee's PCL team last year in Spokane, Wash., says the Canadians won't be losing near as many players to the Brewers this season as the Canadians did to the A's. There were 77 player changes among the Canadians last year.

Vancouver opens the Pacific Coast League schedule Wednesday night in Albuquerque, N.M., against the Dukes, top farm club of Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League.

Monterey Takes Two From Herd

With all the winds and some occasional blowing dust, the umpires at the Hereford-Monterey game yesterday had to take periodic breaks to get the grit out of their eyes.

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

Monterey continued its dominance over the Hereford Whiteface baseball team, sweeping a doubleheader from the Herd, 25-8 and 11-5 in district 4-4A action yesterday.

In the first game, the Plainsmen used two consecutive big innings to submerge any Whiteface hopes of an upset as the visitors scored seven and 11 runs in the third and fourth frames enroute to the win.

Unable to find a pitcher that could stop the Plainsmen's offensive attack, the Herd gave up 12 walks and 12 hits in the first contest.

Ernie Suarez started on the mound for Coach David Ashby's charges, before being replaced in the third by sophomore Norman Hill, who was then relieved by James Dudding in the fourth.

With winds in excess of 60 miles per hour, hits were on the long side, with nine extra base hits being collected by the two teams. Don Weemes whalloped his second homer of the year, clearing the rightfield fence with a two run shot in the third inning.

The second game was much closer, as the Whitefaces kept the game close, trailing 8-4 in the fourth frame. Monterey scored twice more in the fifth, and the Whitefaces, with the bases loaded and no outs in the fifth could not bring a runner across the plate.

The problem of leaving runners on base has been a nemesis of Coach Ashby all year and the second game was no exception as the Herd left eight runners on the bases.

John Wagner collected his first roundtripper in the seventh inning of the last game, but it was a case of too little too late for the 'Faces as they dropped their fourth consecutive district contest.

In other district play, the Lubbock High-Coronado doubleheader was rained out, and Plainview was off for the day.

Next action for the Whitefaces, 7-11, will be a doubleheader against the Jeagule leading Mustangs of Coronado Saturday, April 14.

Rangers Massacre Indians

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Rangers never had such relief.

When the Rangers obtained Sparky Lyle from the New York Yankees and Jim Kern from the Cleveland Indians in the off-season, warning flags went up around the American League.

Kern's brilliant four and two-thirds innings of four-hit relief coupled with Al Oliver's two home runs into a '38 mile-an-hour gale snuffed out the Indians 5-0 Tuesday night in the Rangers' home opener.

"This is an improved Ranger club because they have relief pitching for the first time ever," said Cleveland third baseman Toby Harrah, who spent all his career at Texas and Washington before being traded in the off-season. "I felt we had a chance to win the past two seasons but the management would not go out and get help for our bullpen."

The Rangers lost 19 games last year in the late innings because they didn't have a stopper.

Ironically, it was Kern who stopped his former teammates after Doyle Alexander went four and two-thirds innings before he got into trouble—one out short of qualifying for a victory.

"If that's all the confidence he (manager Pat Corrales) has in me, he should have started someone else," sniffed a miffed Alexander.

Corrales, who took over for the fired Billy Hunter on the last day of the 1978 season, said "Doyle did get a win. A Texas Ranger win."

Oliver tagged Cleveland starter Rick Wise 0-2 for a 370-foot solo homer in the first inning then cracked a two-run shot in the third inning.

"The homerun is not my trademark," said Oliver, who received a standing ovation in his first at-bat. "I heard those fans and wanted to do something for them. It's one of my biggest thrills. I'm definitely not a power hitter although I could be if I chose that route."

Kern said he got no particular charge out of beating his old teammates.

"I don't enjoy beating those guys," said Kern. "I was in the organization 11 years and they always tried hard. I guess it was significant, though, that in my first time out as a Ranger I beat Cleveland."

Alexander got into trouble when he permitted a single and walked two batters to load the bases in the fifth. Kern came on to force Andre Thornton to fly out.

"I had a four-run lead and I was out for a win," said Alexander. "There was no justification for him (Corrales) to take me out."

Last year Alexander would have been given the chance.

SOCCER

NEW YORK - Phil Woosnam, commissioner of the North American Soccer League, said that the NASL would begin a regular indoor season next November with 14 of its 24 teams participating.

Woosnam said the teams planning to compete in the 1979-1980 indoor season, are Atlanta, California, Detroit, Fort Lauderdale, Houston, Los Angeles, Memphis, Minnesota, New England, Rochester, San Diego, San Jose, Tampa Bay and Tulsa.

Chicago and Dallas are expected to field indoor teams for the 1980-81 season after construction is completed on arenas in those cities.

The league, to be known as NASL Indoor Soccer, will feature six players on a team with free substitution from a roster of 14 players. The games will be divided into four quarters of 15 minutes each. In case of ties, sudden death overtime will be played.

Rodeo Team Places Five In Events

The Hereford High School Rodeo team garnered four places in the recent Happy Tri-State Rodeo, with Sid Howard of Hereford having the top finish, a third in calf roping. Other individuals with top finishes were Tonja Willson, a fifth in barrel racing, Brett Cunningham, a seventh in calf roping and Steve McConnell and Joe Smith, a sixth in team roping.

Howard collected four points in the overall standings, while Willson added two to her total. Next action for the team will be this weekend in Plainview.

Scott Regional Golf Qualifier

Barbara Scott, Hereford's only female golfer competing in the district 4-4A race, won a trip to the regional tournament, finishing second in the district with a total of 330.

Howard collected four points in the overall standings, while

Ann Horn of Plainview was the district medalist, with a combined score of 306.

Miss Scott, a regional qualifier all three years, and a state qualifier in her sophomore year will be playing on the Meadowbrook Municipal Course in Lubbock April 20-21.

With rounds of 50-99-92-89, and no chance to play on her home course, Scott outdistanced the third place medalist by 12 shots.

Martin: Yankees Are Still My Team

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

If you happen to see a thin man with a black mustache, collar pulled up around his face, surreptitiously sneaking into a remote corner of Yankee Stadium, don't panic. No need to call the FBI.

It's not an anarchist. It's only Billy Martin, looking for a safe spot from which to watch a Yankee baseball game.

"I feel lost, like some kind of an intruder," says the fiery on-again-off-again manager of New York's world baseball champions. "I'd like to watch some games but I feel uncomfortable, like a black cat, every time I get near the team."

"If I show up in the locker room or on the field, I am surrounded by the press guys, wanting to know what gives. Then George Steinbrenner thinks I'm pressuring him. It's hard for me to watch from the stands. People swarm all over me."

The fiery, 51-year-old Martin is a man in limbo. After resigning on July 24 last season while up to his eyeballs in controversy, he was rehired dramatically five days later with a dramatic electronic scoreboard announcement by owner Steinbrenner that Martin would be back in 1980.

It was a public relations coup. Billy's adoring fans at the Old-Timers' Day game went wild. Billy went into hibernation, but not for long.

He was accused of belting a sportswriter in a Reno, Nev., bar last November and was subsequently sued for $20,000. He showed up at spring training in Fort Lauderdale and reportedly gave the impression he felt Steinbrenner was giving him the old "Don't-call-us, we'll call you" treatment. Also he was linked to another bar room brawl, never substantiated.

Steinbrenner was livid. The sometimes bombastic Yankee owner said that if Martin expected to return as manager he would, in effect, have to keep his nose clean. "It's a two-way bargain," George warned.

"Keep my nose clean, hell," Billy says. "I'm myself - Billy Martin. Nobody's going to change that. Others, all the way back to Babe Ruth, have had their scrapes. I don't believe in double standards."

In his interim role as scout of the Yankees' minor league talent and spy on possible future free agents, Billy has steered clear of the team he guided to American League pennants in 1976 and 1977 and World Series victory in 1977 - but not largely by choice.

"I try to watch the games on television," Martin says. "I can't do it. I feel like all my turns are coming out. I have to get the things off. Lem's done a great job, but I still consider it my team. I've got to get back to the dugout."

Martin showed up in Salisbury, N.C., to receive a headliner award from the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association.

He shrugged off suggestions that he would never be back as Yankee manager, that Steinbrenner was planning to ditch him.

"I will be back," he vowed. "George has told me too many times that the job is mine in 1980. I believe him."

NCAA To Begin A&M Probe

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -- Within a week, the National Collegiate Athletic Association will begin an investigation into a special car loan received by Texas A&M football player Mack Moore, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said Tuesday night.

The investigation, the Star-Telegram said, will center on a special commercial loan that Moore arranged with a Dallas bank to purchase a 1979 sports car one month after enrolling at A&M.

"It's a matter of getting someone free to look into the matter," a source told Jim Dent of the Star-Telegram.

A&M Athletic Director Marvin Tate was ill Tuesday and unavailable for comment.

Dr. Charles Sampson, the chairman of the faculty athletic council, was out of town and also unavailable for comment.

McGuire Bulls Talk

CHICAGO (AP) - Former Marquette University basketball coach Al McGuire will be having serious talks with the Chicago Bulls about taking a management job with the National Basketball Association team, his attorney says.

McGuire, who works as a television sports commentator, reportedly has said he is not interested in going back into coaching, but his Chicago attorney said Tuesday there may be a management job in store for McGuire.

The attorney, Charles Besser, said the Bulls have expressed "extreme interest" in hiring McGuire and that serious discussions will be held soon.

Hawks-Rockets Series Begin

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets, putting their best on the line after a rocky regular season, host nemesis Atlanta tonight at the Summit in a first round game of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The second game of the best-of-three mini-series will be played Friday at Atlanta's Omni and a third game, if necessary, would return to Houston on Sunday.

The Rockets developed an irritating penchant for blowing third-quarter leads but corrected themselves with an amazing stretch run that included victories in five of their last seven games.

Houston defeated division champions San Antonio at home and Washington on the road on consecutive days to gain the all-important home court advantage against the Hawks.

Atlanta used a full bag of defensive tricks to beat Houston three of four games during the regular season but finished third in the NBA Central division behind winner San Antonio and second-place Houston.

"Offensively, we've just got to be sure we get into our stuff (offense)," Harris said. "They can cause you so many problems with their changing defenses and you need to have the discipline to get into your offense and get the shots you want."

"If you are alert you can take advantage of a spread defense because it will leave somebody open and if we can get the ball to that guy we've got some shooters that can knock it in the hole."

Houston lost to the New York Knicks and Cleveland, a pair of non-playoff teams, during the final stretch that possibly kept them from winning the Central Division title. It was similar to their up-and-down performance the entire season.

"We had 16 or 17 games right here in our hands," Rockets guard Slick Watts said, squeezing his fist. "And we blew them. If we had won those games that we gave away, we'd be 15 games ahead of Washington in wins."

The defending NBA champion Bullets, who had the best regular season record in the NBA this season, are awaiting the winner of the best-of-three Houston-Atlanta series.

Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown said he is concerned about Houston's Moses Malone, who led the NBA in rebounding with a 17.6 average and averaged 28 points and 18 rebounds in four regular season games against the Hawks.

"Whatever we're doing with Moses must be wrong," Brown said. "The bleeping guy is killing us. We've just got to get somebody to slow him down."

Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke realizes the problem Brown faces but doesn't give him much hope.

"If Mo is on his game, it doesn't make any difference who is guarding him," Nissalke said.

Nissalke's problem will be containing the high-scoring John Drew, who pilfered the Rockets defense in the regular season.

"If Drew has a big night and I'm talking about 28 to 30 points, it will be a tough night," Nissalke said. "And we haven't been too good at stopping him."

Brewer's Caldwell Records Shutout

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Not only is Mike Caldwell after Ron Guidry's Cy Young Award, it looks like he's out to make people forget Guidry as well.

The Milwaukee left-hander, runner-up to Guidry in last year's Cy Young voting, hurled a five-hitter Tuesday and stretched his string of scoreless innings to 17 as the Brewers blanked the Boston Red Sox 3-0.

Meanwhile, Guidry also was staked to a 3-0 lead but he and New York relief ace Rich Gossage failed to hold it, although the Yankees rallied to nip the Baltimore Orioles 7-6.

Robin Yount supplied a homer and sacrifice fly as the Brewers won their home opener before a crowd of 54,392.

In other AL action, the Minnesota Twins trounced the California Angels 8-1, the Texas Rangers whipped the Cleveland Indians 5-0, the Toronto Blue Jays crushed the Chicago White Sox 10-2 and the Seattle Mariners downed the Oakland A's 4-1. The Detroit-Kansas City game was rained out.

Yankees 7, Orioles 6
Reggie Jackson's two-run pinch homer in the eighth inning and a solo blast by Graig Nettles rallied New York after the Yankees blew a 3-0 lead in the seventh inning. Jackson connected, off rookie reliever Sammy Stewart, slicing an opposite-field drive into the left-field bleachers following a pinch single by Jay Johnstone.

Nettles, who singled and scored on a triple by Bucky Dent in the fifth and singled home one of two New York runs in the sixth, then homered for a 6-4 lead. Thurman Munson singled home what proved to be the winning run in the ninth after Dent opened with a double. The Orioles scored twice in the bottom of the ninth.

Twins 8, Angels 1

Veteran Jerry Koonsman shut out California for seven innings in his American League debut in the first meeting between the Twins and Angels since the Rod Carew deal. Carew grounded out twice and walked three times for California while Ron Jackson hit a two-run homer and Ken Landreaux delivered an RBI single for Minnesota.

Koonsman, who spent 11 seasons with the New York Mets, outdueled Frank Tanana, allowing eight hits, walking four and striking out five in 7 1/2 innings.

Blue Jays 10, White Sox 2
Bob Bailor drove in three runs and Rick Bosetti, John Mayberry and Dave McKay each knocked in two while 20-year-old pitcher Phil Huffman made a successful major league debut as Toronto spoiled the White Sox' home opener.

Bird, Celtic Talks Apart

BOSTON (AP) - Indiana State star Larry Bird apparently wants to be the highest paid player in National Basketball Association history, asking a $6 million, six-year contract from the Boston Celtics.

The opening salvo in the contract talks was fired Tuesday by Bird's Boston-based agent, Bob Woolf, who met for three hours with Celtics President Red Auerbach.

The team made a counter offer, believed to be about $500,000 per year, but Auerbach wouldn't comment. He did say the two sides "are apart," while Woolf termed the gap "substantial."

Both sides say Bird wants a six-year contract, and talks will resume Thursday.

Woolf would neither confirm nor deny a request for $1 million per year.

He said David Thompson of the Denver Nuggets is the highest paid NBA player, at $800,000 per season, adding,

"If you were starting an NBA team, who would you rather have, Thompson or Bird?"

The agent said Bird himself "doesn't know what he wants. That's why he hired me - to make sure he gets a fair contract for someone of his stature."

The Celtics, 29-53 this season, need Bird badly. Woolf said. Auerbach countered that Bird needs Boston because, "No one will pay him if he doesn't play. He's a great player, but we'll operate without him. We've been in business 33 years."

Auerbach added he will begin making player trades when the NBA playoffs end, if not sooner.

Hours after Harry Mangurian became sole owner, of the Celtics, buying out partner John Y. Brown, a Kentucky gubernatorial hopeful, Auerbach said, "Now nothing can sidetrack me. We're on our way. Things are going to be taken care of."

The Celtics drafted Bird No. 1 last year as a junior. Bird then led Indiana State to the NCAA finals, winning player-of-the-year honors. If Boston can't sign the French Lick, Ind., native by the NBA June draft, he goes back in the talent pool.

Woolf and Auerbach are old adversaries, stemming from the agent's negotiation of a new pact for John Havlicek during the NBA war with the defunct American Basketball Association.

"We want to get to the point of a final offer soon," Woolf said. "Bird's in an unusual situation. Boston is his first choice. The question is, how badly do the Celtics want Bird."

THE STATE OF TEXAS TO: FRED G. BROWN, AND THE HEIRS, UNKNOWN HEIRS, DEVISEES AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SAID FRED G. BROWN, DECEASED, THEIR HEIRS, UNKNOWN HEIRS, DEVISEES AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES, Defendants. Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable District Court 222nd Judicial District of Deaf Smith County at the Court House thereof, in Hereford, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 7th day of May A.D. 1979, then and there to answer Plaintiff's First Amended Original Petition filed in said Court, on the 19th day of March A.D. 1979, in this cause, numbered DC-8873 on the docket of said court and styled LEE EARL UMSTED Plaintiff, vs. FRED G. BROWN, ET AL Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit:
The nature of this suit, briefly stated, is one of trespass to try title, in which Plaintiff, for cause of action, sues for title to and possession of the North 16 feet of the South 40 feet of Lot No. 4 in Block No. 21, Whitehead Addition to the Town of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas, alleging that Plaintiff and his predecessors in title have held peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said real estate under the ten-year Statute of Limitations, and that Defendants, and each of them, unlawfully entered upon the said premises and ejected Plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withhold from him the possession thereof to his damage, as more fully shown by Plaintiff's petition on file in said suit.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Hereford, Texas this 19th day of March A.D. 1979.

Attest:

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Possibilities of reversal

DEAR DR. LAMB - My future will depend on your answer. Five years ago I had a tubal ligation because I was unable to use birth control pills, diaphragms or IUDs. I had two children so it seemed like a good idea. Two years ago I lost my children and my husband. Now I'm engaged to a wonderful man who would love a family. He read awhile back that experiments have been successfully completed in reversing a tubal ligation. I'm 28 and in excellent health. Have these experiments been successful? I really would like to start another family but I'm afraid that my tubal ligation is totally irreversible.
DEAR READER - Yes. Some women have had their tubal ligations reversed. It's the older operations that are the easiest ones to reverse. The newer more simplified techniques may involve electrical coagulation of the little tiny tube. This often means a much larger area of destruction of tissue. That makes it much more difficult to reconstruct the tubes if they can be reconstructed at all.
So the answer to your question rests in part with how much tubal damage was incurred when you induced sterilization. Even in the older methods when the tube was simply severed and tied, the reconstruction process is not always successful. I would suggest that you go see a gynecologist and review with him the type of tubal ligation you had and perhaps with tests he can get some idea as to what your chances might be of obtaining a reversal at this time.
I know that circumstances often change and this is sometimes a very good reason for changing your mind about whether you want to be sterile or not but I do wish that everyone who contemplates a surgical procedure to induce sterility, either male or female, would really consider the operation as permanent. I don't think a person should have such a procedure without being absolutely certain that there's no chance whatsoever in the future that he or she will want to have the procedure reversed.

After-Effects of 3-Mile Incident May Be Light

[EDITOR'S NOTE: The big worry at the stricken Three Mile Island nuclear power plant was radiation. How much would escape, with what effects? This second of five articles reports on what happened at Harrisburg and what effects it is likely to have, both on health and public policy.]

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER and KEVIN McKEAN
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — At its worst moments, the worst accident in civilian U.S. nuclear history exposed people watching from across the Susquehanna River to the equivalent of a chest X ray an hour.

Other times, the radiation leaking from the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant near here was barely detectable.

The accident sent 50,000 people fleeing from their homes, caused evacuation of pregnant women and small children within a five-mile radius, and raised serious problems for the nuclear industry.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission says the radiation released was so small that the odds are against even a single person dying of cancer over the next 20 years as a result of the accident.

But other scientists point out that the number of cancer deaths may not reflect the total number of cancers.

So what then is known about radiation from the Harrisburg plant?

The State Department of Environmental Resources has calculated that a person living a mile from the plant received an extra 45 millirems of radiation in the seven days following the March 28 accident. That is the same as 45 one-thousandths of a rem. It is a little more than the standard measure of human absorbed radiation.

For comparison, the background radiation from natural sources in the Harrisburg area is about 80 millirems a year. And in Denver, where the mile high altitude reduces some of the atmospheric protection from cosmic rays, natural background exposes residents to 200 millirems a year.

The state said that if a person stood outside the Three Mile Island plant and ran around following the "plume" of radiation trickling from the plant, he could have received 95 millirems in the accident.

People five miles away received an average of 1.1 millirems; those 10 miles away less than a millirem and at 20 miles away people were exposed to only one-third of a millirem.

But these exposures, the amount for direct radiation, mean only a small amount of health exposure has occurred in the Pennsylvania countryside.

One of the most studies of these studies of the health of human beings, gland and organ malfunction, stress and tumors.

Each of the Atomic Energy Commission inspectors who work full time at the plant, measuring radiation, found 130 in-cosmic rays from January near the plant. But the last Chinese Academy tests, seen today, 130 levels to 400 picorads a liter and the trigger point for human health protection is 12,000 picorads per liter.

Health officials said the risk was small. Despite the relatively low level of the releases, measured in the Three Mile Island accident, it is likely to have a profound impact on radiation standards set by the federal government.

Four plant workers exceeded the 5,000 millirem limit while fighting to control the reactor. But they exceeded the dose before March 31, and when a new quarter began on April 1, they went back to work.

Radiation, if the plant site range as high as 20 millirems a year, is not a health hazard in the 30 millirems a year, the NRC equivalent of a chest X ray an hour.

But at most times, the health effects of the radiation near the plant were only a few millirems a year.

But the question is how much of an effect on each individual, said Radford, who is chairman of a National Academy of Sciences committee on the health effects of radiation.

The committee of Biologists, Ethel D. Fisher, Radford was supported by the NRC, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Energy.

Radford said the NRC's radiation standards are based on a 100-year life expectancy, and that the NRC's standards are based on a 70-year life expectancy.

Truck Shutdown Enters 2nd Week

DETROIT (AP) — Shutdowns and short shifts stemming from a shortage of parts spread through the auto industry as a Teamsters union strike and truck industry lockout entered its second week.

More than 124,000 hourly workers were laid off in the industry as Chrysler Corp., the nation's third largest automaker, virtually shut down its operations Monday. The company said 85,000 workers would be laid off at about 40 plants until a settlement is reached between the trucking industry and the Teamsters union.

Bargaining was scheduled to resume today in Washington between officials representing 500 major trucking firms and 235,000 Teamsters. Two days of apparently fruitless negotiations broke off Friday. Both sides divided largely over President Carter's anti-inflation wage guidelines, say they won't budge from bargaining positions that prompted the work stoppage.

Dunn Speaks To Realtors

Bella Dunn, Amarillo Realtor, was guest speaker for the monthly meeting of the Hereford Board of Realtors Tuesday at noon at the country club.

Ms. Dunn, who had recently attended Realtor meetings in Austin and in Washington, D.C., discussed various pieces of legislation which could affect the real estate industry.

Neill Cooper presided at the board meeting, and Jeanne Coker introduced the guest speaker. Cooper reminded members of a regional Texas Association of Realtors meeting in Amarillo April 25.
