

TRLA Asks for HISD Ballot Wording Changes

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Ballots for the Hereford Independent School District special election on April 28 will include instructions stating that voters may select four candidates "or fewer", a phrase which will put HISD in a class by itself among state political subdivisions.

The Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal Aid asked the school district this week to word instructions on the ballot stating that voters do not have to mark four choices on ballots, even though there are four trustee positions involved in the at-large election.

Seven candidates are seeking those four positions. TRLA further asked HISD officials

Instruction Phrasing To Be Unique in State

to post a notice at the Community Center--the polling place for this Saturday's regular election--with instructions stating that voters do not have to mark two names, although there are two positions open.

Three candidates are running for those two positions: Another candidate is running unopposed for an unexpired one-year term.

"The way we tried to approach this upcoming election is, because these ballots had already come out, it wouldn't be the sort of thing that would warrant holding up an election or printing new ballots. I suggested, and Dr. Holder (Superintendent Harrell Holder) agreed, that we put notices in the newspaper and at the polling place what the procedure was," said TRLA lawyer Bill Beardall.

"For April 28, the ballots had not been printed up yet. We caught them in time to convey on them exactly what the voting procedure was," Beardall said.

The school district agreed to TRLA's requests. "To me, if we can clarify the ballot so that the voters understand it, without moving from a position of neutrality, then I feel we should," Holder said.

The April 7 ballot will still instruct voters to "vote for two." The April 28 ballot would have said to vote for four.

A spokesman for Hart Graphics, an Austin firm which prints ballots for approximately 1,000 governmental entities in Texas including 450 school districts, said that all of the ballots in at-large elections contain instructions similar to those opposed by TRLA.

"All that we print, if they are voting at-large, state how many they are voting for. That's what our ballot form has on it," said Jerry Eades, manager of city-county-district sales for Hart Graphics.

"Hereford's April 28 ballot will be the only one we print that has something else on it."

Eades said that "around 50 percent" of the entities have at-large election systems.

Hart Graphics, according to Beardall, "is not a legal authority for this sort of thing."

However, a staff attorney in the elections division of the secretary of state's office, said that when a ballot says to vote for two, "it is uniformly interpreted to mean vote for two or fewer--it is universally used in Texas."

The attorney, Buzz Garry of Austin, added that his office did not believe the phrase "Vote For Four" to be used on the April 28 ballots would mislead voters.

"I have no question under state law that an instruction of 'vote for four' is legal. And it will be legal until a federal court tells them to use instructions other than that," Garry said.

Since the Hereford ISD had not used the at-large system since 1974, Beardall said persons might be confused about the voting method.

"This election procedure that is at-large has not been used for several

Senate Exempts Gasohol from State Tax

Gas Hike Likely With Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is unveiling a new energy blueprint for the nation tonight that will boost gasoline prices, perhaps by as much as 15 cents a gallon over the next two years, and add measurably to inflation.

Carter's plan, triggered by higher prices by oil exporting countries and an interruption in supplies from Iran, includes the gradual lifting of price controls on U.S.-produced oil.

Another component, facing an uncertain fate in Congress, would levy a new tax aimed at curbing windfall profits for the oil industry.

The basic components of Carter's plan were outlined by White House officials who asked not to be identified.

Although a number of congressional sources say they doubt the tax can be enacted, Carter is expected to sweeten the pot by suggesting the extra tax revenues be earmarked for programs designed to conserve oil by encouraging production of gasohol - a blend of unleaded gasoline and grain alcohol - and the development of solar and other energy sources, all of which have support in Congress.

The decontrol portion of Carter's new energy plan does not require action by Congress and officials say the president will go ahead with it regardless of whether Congress approves the windfall tax proposal.

Carter goes on television from his Oval Office at 9 p.m. EST for a radio-television announcement of plans to gradually decontrol domestic crude oil prices starting June 1, with total decontrol scheduled by September 1981.

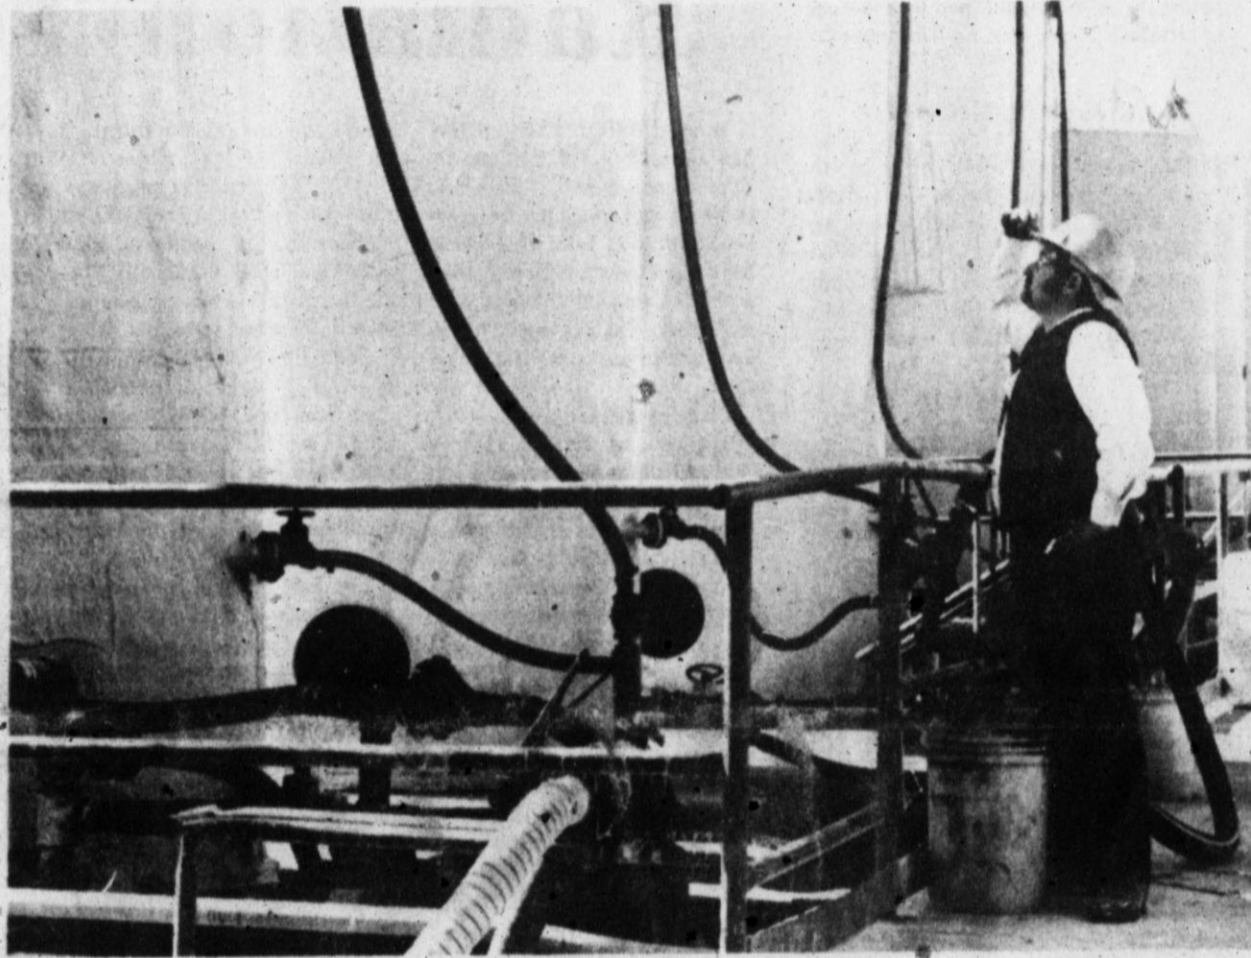

Estimates of at-the-pump results of his strategy to both discourage consumption and encourage production through higher prices vary widely.

Gasoline could go up 7 cents to 15 cents per gallon by 1981, according to some unofficial estimates. But the American Petroleum Institute, an industry group, recently issued a study asserting that phased decontrol would add just 5 cents to each gallon of gasoline over the 2½-year span.

The inflationary impact is equally uncertain, with some forecasters seeing each stage of decontrol adding one-half of one percent to the federal cost of living index.

Carter's energy address will reflect

March Wholesale Prices Reveal Inflation Continuing Skyward

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wholesale prices increased another 1 percent in March, the same as in February, as inflation continued to rage at the highest level in more than four years, the government said today.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices, which eventually are reflected in the prices that consumers pay, rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 14.1 percent during the first three months of 1979. It was the largest quarterly advance since the fourth quarter of 1974.

But a hint of some future relief from rising food prices was contained in the March price report. Consumer food prices were up 1.2 percent, the smallest increase this year, and prices of crude foodstuffs rose just 0.2 percent, down sharply from the 3.8 percent increase the month before.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices were higher in March for beef and veal, which were up sharply for the fourth consecutive month, and for eggs, home heating oil, gasoline and shoes.

Overall prices of non-food goods rose 0.9 percent, the same as in February.

The price report showed inflation continuing at well above 10 percent, a rate that has the Carter administration searching for ways to strengthen its battered wage and price guideline program.

The administration is expected soon to announce plans for a consumer watch on price increases at the local level to supplement government efforts to restrain inflation.

The Labor Department's wholesale price report is now officially called the Producer Price Index, which measures prices of goods at three levels before they are sold to consumers and industrial users.

Prices in March were up 1 percent for all three levels: crude goods, meaning before processing; intermediate goods, meaning after some processing; and finished goods, which are ready for sale to the consumer.

Overall wholesale prices had risen by 1.3 percent in January before dipping slightly to one percent in February and March.

Carter's chief anti-inflation strategist, Alfred E. Kahn, had been scheduled to announce the consumer watch on prices today, but a news briefing on the program was called off Wednesday with no new date set.

A spokesman for Kahn didn't give any reason for the change in plans, but it appeared Kahn didn't want his announcements to compete for attention with President Carter's energy speech tonight.

Meanwhile, officials of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, the agency headed by Kahn, said they have found that some companies thought to be violating the administration's price guidelines may be in compliance after all.

Kahn has recently denounced companies he said were violating the guidelines, warning that the names of four companies would be made public if they couldn't justify their prices.

However, council spokesman Joe Carter said Wednesday at least one of the AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Motor fuel taxes on the mixture of gasoline and alcohol known as "gasohol" should be suspended until the new fuel becomes competitive, the Texas Senate decided Wednesday.

A voice vote sent to the House a bill by Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, that would exempt from the state 5-cent gasoline tax any gasoline that contains at least 10 percent alcohol by volume.

An amendment attached by Sen. Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, would bring the exemption to an automatic end in 1989. It could be phased out earlier if the "gasohol" got to be 10 percent or more of the retail sale of gasoline.

"It would greatly expand the demand for our agricultural products ... it would provide a much cleaner burning fuel," Price said.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown has testified that gasohol could be made from sweet potatoes, persimmons, watermelons, groundup mesquite trees "anything that has sugar content."

Senators voted 16-13 to accept House amendments to a bill making it harder to open a pawnshop, sending the measure to Gov. Bill Clements for signature or veto.

A prospective pawnbroker would have to prove he or she had liquid assets of $50,000, double the existing requirement. Persons already holding pawnshop licenses would not be affected.

Parker and Sen. Lloyd Doggett.

D-Austin, protested it would make it too hard for a beginner to start a pawn shop.

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, said the bill would protect not only regular pawn shops but "also filling stations and used car lots that operate as illegal pawn shops now."

The House passed on voice vote and sent to Clements a bill that would raise the maximum state tuition subsidy for students at private colleges from $600 a year to half the cost of educating a student at a public university. That cost is $2,500 per year currently.

Also sent to Clements, 127-3, was a bill enabling the comptroller to transfer surplus state funds to general revenue to cover a temporary deficiency.

Gaining tentative House approval was a bill setting out a procedure to enable retarded persons over age 12 to donate kidneys to relatives, with safeguards to protect their rights.

The bill arose from a situation at Seguin. Courts permitted the transplant but said the Legislature needed to provide guidelines.

Also winning tentative House approval were bills that would:

- Establish a state-subsidized system of juvenile probation under the existing Texas Adult Probation Commission, whose name would be changed to Texas Probation Commission.

- Provide a possible jail sentence of up to 180 days for selling skunks and armadillos or possessing them for sale.

$7 Million Bilingual Plan Passes Committee

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A committee audience applauded Wednesday as a senator with only a passing knowledge of Spanish dashed in to cast the deciding vote on a $7 million bilingual education program.

Minutes before, a bilingual San Antonio school official had called the program "corrupt" and suggested the Senate investigate it.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, spent five minutes in Capitol corridors and rooms hunting two senators to send the bill to the floor on a 6-0 vote.

No. 6 was Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, who joined Truan, then a House member, to sponsor the original bilingual education bills in 1967. He said he knew only a little Spanish.

Access to bilingual education is now mandatory through the third grade in school districts with large Spanish-speaking populations, and Truan's proposal would extend the program through grade five.

Truan's last-minute amendment cut the estimated $9.1 million cost by $2 million.

Truan, D-Corpus Christi, introduced his bill after the State Board of Education refused Nov. 11 to extend the program through the fifth grade.

Jose Vara, the school official who was the lone witness against the bill, said he recalled speakers that day criticizing board members as "gringo racists" and demanding that "board members, their children and their children's children" be forced to learn Spanish.

"I always thought bilingual programs in Texas were designed to teach English," said Vara, director of plant operations for the South San Antonio,

International Winter Wheat Crop Survives Severe Winter Cold

WASHINGTON (AP) - Major winter grain areas of the world have come through the severe cold weather in "fairly normal" shape, although there are prospects some harvests may be smaller than last year's.

The assessment was made by the Agriculture Department in a report issued Wednesday. It did not include crop production forecasts for 1979.

Although still months away from harvest, the condition of winter crops at this time often is a key to final production. The foreign crops also bear heavily on world market prices and prospects for U.S. grain farmers.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service, in an analysis based on field reports as of March 15, said its survey covered Western and Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, North Africa and parts of Asia, including China.

It did not assess the condition of the U.S. winter wheat crop, but other current reports say it generally is in "fair to mostly good" shape.

Foreign production of winter grain in the Northern Hemisphere accounts for about 30 percent of the world's total grain and about 50 percent of the world's grain consumed directly as food for humans.

Last year the Soviet Union harvested a record total grain crop of 235 million metric tons, up from 195.5 million metric tons in 1977.

As a result, the Soviets have cut back sharply on U.S. grain purchases this year, and their harvests prospects for 1979 will have an important effect on future imports.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

Conversely, China has had poor harvests in recent years and has bought large quantities of U.S. grain, with indications that regular purchases are likely in the future.

The agency said "prolonged heavy rains and late harvesting of 1978 crops" disrupted last fall's planting of winter grain in northern European parts of the Soviet Union and in parts of Eastern Europe.

"On the other hand, uncommonly dry weather last fall precluded timely sowing or germination of winter grains in portions of China, North Africa, Eastern Europe, France and the Middle East, but recent moisture conditions have allowed for more optimism in some of those

Cause of Incident

Sought by Officials

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - With a stable but still highly radioactive reactor ready for a cold shutdown, attention shifted to the cause of the Three Mile Island nuclear accident.

Engineers said three separate human errors contributed significantly to crippling the power plant eight days ago, at least one in violation of Federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission regulations.

NRC engineer Darrell Eisenhut, who briefed the five NRC commissioners Wednesday, said mechanical as well as design problems also were "major contributors" to the accident. But he emphasized that eight similar plants around the country could continue to operate "without undue risk to the health and safety for the public."

Physicists working round the clock at the contaminated Susquehanna River site examined a number of reactor shutdown options, including one proposed by the plant's designer, Babcock & Wilcox, that could do the job in 10 days.

"There's been a steady improvement in the status of the plant," said NRC official Harold Denton, who is personally supervising the work on orders from President Carter. "We've made a lot of progress in planning for eventual recovery of the core, which remains stable."

Denton said the Babcock & Wilcox plan proposed for the cold shutdown - bringing the reactor to the point where it could no longer pose any risk of escaping control - was getting highest priority.

Policeman Convicted

Of Perjury, Obstruction

HOUSTON (AP) - An ex-Houston policeman - saying "I haven't done anything to deserve the verdict" - says he was convicted of perjury and obstruction of justice because the jury finally got tired of deliberating.

Danny Mays, 29, and another ex-officer, 32-year-old Norval Wayne Holloway, were found guilty Wednesday by a federal jury of lying to a grand jury and of participating in a conspiracy to make it appear a slain Louisiana teen-ager was armed when they shot him to death two years ago.

Both were acquitted of more serious charges, however - Mays of violating the civil rights of Randy Webster, 17, of Shreveport, La., by fatally shooting him, and Holloway of accessory after the fact to the civil rights charge.

A third ex-officer, 38-year-old Paul Dillon, was acquitted of perjury, conspiracy in the coverup and accessory to the civil rights charge.

All three officers were fired in the follow-up probe into the slaying of Webster, which determined that a gun found on Webster had been planted by police. The gun came from a police property room, where records indicated it had been destroyed.

"I think they just got tired of being in there and they compromised," said Mays of the jury, which deliberated eight days. "I haven't done anything to deserve the verdict."

Committee Approves

Drug Substitutions

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Persons over 65 pay 25 percent of the national drug bill, and one older Texan was so excited about committee approval of a drug substitution bill that he spread the news throughout the press room.

The bill allowing the substitution of cheaper - but equivalent - drugs for brand name drugs was sent to the Senate on a 3-2 vote of the human resources committee Wednesday.

The measure was voted to give physicians, close control over substitutions.

Based on a survey of 60 drugs, it has been estimated that the bill could save Texans up to $22 million a year.

The rate of brand-name prescribing has soared from 10 percent in 1969 to 90 percent in 1972, according to committee information.

Witnesses for consumer groups, including the elderly, who often pay high percentages of their income for drugs, supported the proposal.

The sponsor, committee chairman Clet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said he had "tried to deal effectively with all legitimate objections, but there are some drug manufacturers you're never going to convince."

Despite repeated objections of the Texas Medical Association, Brooks said many physicians support a revised measure drawn up in subcommittee.

Amin Disappears

As Capital Overrun

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Residents of Kampala described Idi Amin's capital as a deserted and silent no-man's land today, with Libyan defenders retreating on one side and Tanzanian and exile invaders massed on the other.

"The fighting has pretty well died down, and the Libyans are on the road east to Jinja," a diplomat in Nairobi reported after contacting people in the Ugandan capital.

"The people there are relieved, even ecstatic. They believe it's all over in terms of any fighting."

Residents described a surrealistic calm - food was almost gone and gasoline was nonexistent, but at one country club a handful of golfers emerged for a game. Radio Uganda went on the air as usual with anti-Tanzanian tirades and pop music.

Diplomats said the invading Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles were massed in the southern and western sections of town, in no apparent rush to occupy the whole city after their two-month drive on Kampala.

Amin's whereabouts were publicly unknown. He was last sighted two days ago in the eastern border areas he still controls, confidently predicting victory even though his armies were evaporating before the invaders and the Libyans were in retreat.

Authorities Probe Hospital Death

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) - Authorities are looking into the death of an Abilene woman, who according to the death certificate, died following the accidental administration of a dose of a solution containing formaldehyde.

Ollie Sutton, the husband of Shirley Jean Sutton, requested an autopsy and a police investigation following the death of his 35-year-old wife at Hendrick Medical Center.

But Sutton said he would not hesitate to go into the hospital for treatment.

"I have an uncle who is a heart patient and he says 'Oh, I'm afraid to go to Hendrick.' I'm not afraid to go back ... It was a human error; not the building itself, but someone inside," said Sutton.

The Abilene Reporter-News obtained a copy of the death certificate signed by Dr. L.W. Fichtelner. In a copyright story, the newspaper said the certificate shows that the formaldehyde was the immediate cause of Mrs. Sutton's death on March 27. She was admitted March 19 for routine tests.

Police Chief Warren Dodson has ordered an investigation into the death, which has been ruled accidental.

Dodson issued a statement Monday night which said hospital officials "welcomed the investigation" and have "offered the wholehearted cooperation of the hospital."

Dodson said he had "no idea" how long the investigation would take, but that he had put a detective on special assignment to handle the case.

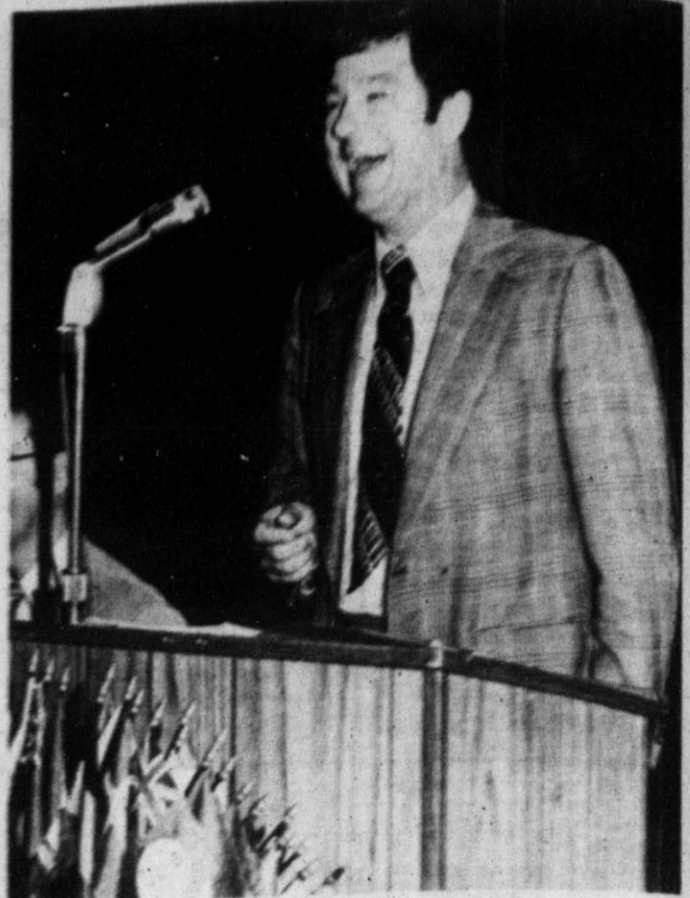

Hospital spokesmen have declined to comment on the incident or the investigation while the investigation is underway.

Sutton told the Abilene newspaper he did not think the attending physician or hospital administrators were responsible for the accident.

"An individual down the line made the mistake," said Sutton.

"I'm not vindictive. I'm not one to pass judgement. I'm not bitter. I'm hurt, but I'm not bitter," said Sutton.

He said he was told by a doctor that formaldehyde was not supposed to be on the hospital's fourth floor, where his wife was undergoing tests.

Radiation To Remain

WASHINGTON (AP) - HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Wednesday that while there is no immediate apparent health hazard from the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant accident, residents living near the plant will continue to be exposed to radiation for some time.

The secretary of health, education and welfare told the Senate Human Resources health subcommittee that "great uncertainties still remain about the relationship between cancer deaths and low-level radiation."

At the first major congressional inquiry into the nation's worst nuclear accident, Califano said persons living within five miles of the Pennsylvania plant so far have received as much as 80 millirems of radiation - roughly one-third the exposure that most people receive in an entire year.

Even at that level of radiation, Califano said, "we would still expect to find no additional cancer deaths about the 4,500 which would normally be expected in this population."

He said radioactive material released from the plant will lose its radioactivity very gradually. "The cumulative exposure to the population - although at very low levels - will continue for at least some time in the future," he said.

"We must also recognize that the difficulties involved in cleaning up the plant and that additional released during the cleanup operations are possible," Califano testified.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the subcommittee chairman, opened the hearing by urging the government to guarantee free medical examinations for people exposed to radiation in the vicinity of Three Mile Island.

Kennedy also urged creation of an independent agency to investigate nuclear accidents of any kind.

He cited "the poor track record of the federal government in leveling with the American people about the health effects of low-level radiation."

Califano said the 2 million people living within 50 miles of the plant received an average of nine-tenths of a millirem. Califano said this dosage should pose no health threat of any kind.

But he acknowledged "large gaps in our knowledge" about the long-range effects of exposure to low levels of radiation. And he testified that officials have not yet begun to calculate the possible health risks to workers at the plant.

Douglas M. Costle, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, testified at the standing-room-only hearing the EPA calculates that radiation exposure of people living within the five-mile radius could produce one additional case of fatal cancer for every million persons.

Bhutto Hanged In Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)

Former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, who led Pakistan from 1971 to 1977, was hanged at 2 a.m. Wednesday at Rawalpindi's central jail on charges of ordering the murder of a political opponent. The hanging, carried out despite clemency pleas from world leaders, was greeted with shock and dismay in foreign capitals.

President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, who ousted Bhutto in a July 1977 coup and installed a strict Muslim penal code, refused to commute the sentence despite pleas from the United States, Britain, China, the Soviet Union, the Vatican and others.

Zia's government said the body of the 51-year-old leader of the Pakistan People's Party was flown to Maunabo, his birthplace in southern Pakistan, where it was buried in the presence of two witnesses and one of his two wives eight hours after the execution.

Although newspapers reported the hanging in special editions shortly after dawn, the government delayed the official broadcast announcement until after the burial. There were no reports of rioting despite widespread predictions that Bhutto's execution would spark violence among his large following in the poor, heavily Muslim nation of 75 million.

However, hundreds of demonstrators protesting Bhutto's execution marched through the Muslim city of Springar in neighboring Indian-ruled Kashmir, and police opened fire and injured one of them when the mob stoned the U.N. Observer headquarters and burned a U.N.

flag. It was not clear why the U.N. facility was a target.

In Rawalpindi, police moved about the city and security officials searched people entering the leading hotel who were not registered guests. The searches said they were looking for weapons and that the operation was connected with Bhutto's execution.

People on the streets of Rawalpindi discussed the execution and read special editions of newspapers. Many said they were not surprised because recent statements by Zia and other government officials pointed to execution. Some were sullen while others seemed relieved that the case that preoccupied Pakistan for more than a year was finally over.

Britain's Prime Minister James Callaghan expressed "deep regret" at the news and said he had repeated his appeal for clemency on Tuesday.

The Australian senate passed a resolution deploring the execution. Vice President Adam Malik of Indonesia expressed sympathy for Bhutto's family "without interfering in the internal affairs of Pakistan. I have appealed to the government. Even the pope has appealed," Malik said.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, who made a new appeal for clemency only hours before Bhutto was hanged, expressed his "profound emotion" at the execution.

One of Bhutto's sons, Shah Nawaz Bhutto, 20, living in London, called Zia a murderer and said the hanging was carried out because of "desperation and fear."

Ballots

years," Board said.

The Hereford school district voted in 1974 to change from the at-large system to place system. In 1975, the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965 was amended to include Texas and was made retroactive to include all changes in voting procedures since 1972. It required political subdivisions to seek approval for those changes from the Justice Department.

The place system with majority runoff requirement "might be discriminatory," the Justice Department stated in its written refusal to approve Hereford's request.

HISD sued the Justice Department and, after a series of courtroom battles, was told by a federal three-judge panel last year that it must comply with the federal Voting Rights Act and drop the place system with majority runoff requirement.

District officials instead dropped the runoff requirement and submitted a simple place system to the Justice Department for approval. That plan, also was rejected, and the school board earlier this year voted to go back to the at-large system.

The at-large system permits single-shot voting, the right of different ethnic groups to cast ballots for candidates of their race only, according to a North Carolina district court ruling often referred to in Justice Department briefs.

Three Mexican-American TRLA clients sued the Hereford school board, the members of which were elected under the place system and were therefore illegally sitting as trustees, according to the suit.

A federal three-judge panel in Dallas during March ruled that the April 7 election involving three candidates seeking two three-year terms and another running unopposed for an unexpired term would proceed as scheduled. The judges also ruled that the remaining four board members must give up their seats, then seek re-election if they desired to remain on the board.

That second ruling necessitated the April 28 election.

Police Charge 3 With Intoxication

Hereford police arrested two adults and a juvenile at 12:58 a.m. today for public intoxication.

The three persons were found by police in a car in Veteran's Park.

Another person was charged with driving while intoxicated after he was stopped at Ave. A and 13th at 2:25 a.m.

Police are investigating a report of an harassing telephone call to a woman Wednesday.

Also Wednesday, police were called to open a locked car, investigate an unfound fight in the 800 block of Irving and find a lost child in the 800 block of E. 3rd. The child was later found by the mother.

Police received a call Wednesday afternoon concerning a crying baby inside a car at Sugarland Mall. The mother returned from the mall after police arrived and said she had left the child alone for three or four minutes.

Wednesday, police issued 17 traffic citations - 11 for speeding, one for expired motor vehicle inspection sticker, two for running stop signs, one for striking a fixed object, one for no-driver's license and one for an expired driver's license.

A minor accident was investigated Wednesday afternoon in the 100 block of N. Highway 385.

companies has justified its prices, it appears a second may be able to justify them, and the other two are still providing information to the government.

He said "more than eight" additional companies have been informed they are in probable non-compliance with the guidelines, meaning they could be publicly named if they can't convince their government they are within the guidelines.

But Carter indicated it may be at least a couple of weeks before any company is named, if any are named at all. "We have not at this time told anybody they are in non-compliance," he said.

The voluntary price guidelines call for companies to hold price increases in 1979 to one-half of one percent below the average price increases for the past two years.

Judge Violated Man's Rights With Sentence, Court Rules

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - State District Judge Peter Lowry of Austin violated Houston insurance promoter Aubrey Gerald Gordon's rights when he sentenced Gordon to 14 days in jail for contempt, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

Gordon is at the center of a State Insurance Board investigation of a middle man scheme that may have cost insurance companies out of millions of dollars.

Gordon denies any wrongdoing.

Lowry had sentenced him to two weeks in jail for failing to produce certain assets of his Phoenix Companies and Eagle Financial Services, which were placed in receivership.

The insurance board contends Gordon received credit life and health premiums from bank customers in the name of several different insurance companies. But through "creative computer programming," board officials say, he did not send all the premiums forward to the companies but withheld some for himself.

Similar allegations are made in lawsuits filed against Gordon by insurance companies.

The Supreme Court said

Lowry's contempt order was illegal because Gordon was not properly notified he would have to defend himself for allegedly disobeying a temporary injunction to produce certain property of the insurance operation.

Instead, the notice to Gordon referred to a temporary restraining order that already had expired, the court said.

"We ... hold that in situations of contempt committed outside the presence of the court, the contempt judgment must be based on ... legal process that contains full and unambiguous notification of the accusation of contempt," the high court said.

Wheat

areas," the report said.

Although no production estimates were included, the analysis said the area planted to winter grain in the Northern Hemisphere probably is reduced from last year.

"Moreover, since weather was exceptional for the 1978 crop, it is likely that neither the soil moisture and temperature levels thus far this year, nor weather conditions for the balance of the season, will permit yields to match the record levels attained in many areas last year," the report said.

Looking more closely at the Soviet Union, analysts said the area planted to winter grains last fall totaled about 33 million hectares, down 4 million hectares from the previous two years.

A hectare is about 2.47 acres. However, despite probable "significant losses" in December to winterkill, the total Soviet winter grain crop may have emerged this spring with no more than the average losses of 15 percent to 17 percent.

"Therefore, unless March and April weather conditions bring considerable damage, the winter grain area harvested this summer will be close to the average of the past five years," the report said.

In China, last fall's plantings of winter wheat were as much as 8 percent below the previous year's because of late seeding and drought in some areas.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

One of the most common reactions I get from people when we first meet is, "I thought you were taller." I really feel rotten about it because I sense their disappointment. First, I apologize to them for writing tall and then reassure them that I am still growing.

It's always been this way. Being short is akin to the common cold. They'll never find a cure for it. It's just something we have to live with.

Being a girl, I can sometimes get away with being short, but it's the men and boys I feel sorry for. For some unexplained reason, being short must be accompanied by some redeeming virtue. For years I have heard mothers play the game.

"My son is short, but he has a wonderful personality." (Compared, I suppose, to having a rotten personality ... but he IS tall.)

"He's short, but he's fast." (Hopefully this refers to sports.)

"He's short, but he has long legs." (?)

"He's short, but he's kind to his mother."

One of the first sentences I learned at my mother's knee when I was being prepared for the dating game was "How tall is he?" It didn't matter if my prospective date had a 30-pound nose, dirt under his fingernails, and burnt barns to release tension — if he was tall, he was acceptable.

I picked up the habit. When our first son was born, I instinctively picked up his foot, measured it and said, "He has big feet. That means he's going to be tall." Soon after that, I made notches in the doorway every six months to reassure myself.

There is an unwritten law that men must tower over women as a show of strength and superiority. I remember once on a television show in a major city, the host sat on cushions to appear taller than his female co-host.

I know a lot of short men. Some of them are my best friends. I took one to lunch last week. One of them even slouched. Hopefully, we are getting away from the stigma of being short.

As I said to an audience last week, "Gosh, I thought you'd all be taller."

One came up afterward and said, "I've been sick."

New Bridge Form To Be Introduced

A new form of competitive bridge play without the tense and rigid structure of many duplicate games is being introduced here by Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club as part of a continent-wide experiment by the American Contract Bridge League.

Seletta Gholson, director of the local Duplicate Bridge Club, said the new program will place emphasis on matches between pairs of players not on a comparison with all players in a game.

Mrs. Gholson explained the new game will first be played during the Bridge Club's session April 6, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Deaf Smith Rural Cooperative Medallion Room. This introductory session will be open to all persons interested in bridge play. Pairs of entries are welcomed, but partnerships will be arranged for individuals, Mrs. Gholson said. A nominal fee will be charged per pair.

The new game version has scores based on four deal matches against other pairs without comparison across the field. Many of the formalities of the usual duplicate play have been eliminated, according to Mrs. Gholson.

Anyone interested in the new game may contact Mrs. Gholson at 364-0007 for additional information or partnership arrangements.

When making home repairs and remodeling, get two or three written estimates from contractors, Claudia Kerbel recommends.

Advance checking can save some costly surprises later, points out the consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In 1810, Marie Louise of Austria married Napoleon by proxy.

Enrollment Reaches 284

Women's Division Passes Goal

The Chamber of Commerce Women's Division topped their membership goal of 270 in '79 by enrolling 284 new members. It was announced Tuesday evening during the quarterly meeting of the Chamber Women at the Community Center.

Mary Herring, president, called the meeting to order and praised the efforts of the membership drive committee, which was directed by Betty Gilbert in cooperation with Glenda Geries, membership chairman. Seventy-eight new members were enrolled during the drive with 32 of those recruits attending Tuesday evening's dinner meeting.

A $20 cash prize was awarded to Carrol Ann Simmons who enrolled the most new members

(11) during the drive. A second place prize of $20 went to Avis Blakely in recognition of her efforts during the membership contest. As a further bonus for participating in the drive, dinner theater tickets were presented in a drawing to Mrs. Simmons and Janice Carr.

Tammie Stringer, who is leaving the end of her term as Mrs. Tees Hereford, was a special guest of the Women's Division Tuesday night. She addressed the group, expressing her appreciation for their sponsorship of the local scholarship program. She stated that she had enjoyed her reign as Mrs. Tees and asked local parents to encourage their cool daughters to enter the upcoming pageant on April 25.

In addition to the upcoming pageant, members were reminded of the following spring and summer projects: Tennis Tournament, April 21-22; Beautification Week, April 23-28; Little Miss Pageant, May 5; Pet Show, May 6; Tour of Arrowhead Mills during May; and Independence Day observance, July 4.

Helen Lee read the invocation at Tuesday's dinner and entertainment was provided by Lori Hinton, who sang and accompanied herself on the guitar.

Nests of Easter eggs in spring baskets decorated each table and a potted plant of miniature yellow chrysanthemums centered the head table. The mums were given to Lucille Edwards in a drawing. Olivia Denning was in charge of the decorations.

Dr. Bud Albracht, local chiropractor from Amarillo, presented the evening's program, touching on a variety of health topics. Dr. Albracht, who gives health programs at least 25 times each year, is studying and beginning to practice acupuncture, an ancient healing art developed by the Chinese. The technique, which does not involve the usage of drugs, was introduced in the United States approximately 40 years ago but did not become popular until President Nixon's visits to China. Dr. Albracht explained. The chiropractor talked with the audience about individual health problems and demonstrated the various pressure points of the body as they relate to acupuncture.

Recognizing Efforts

Betty Gilbert, left, is seen presenting a dinner theater ticket to Carrol Ann Simmons, who also won first place in the membership drive contest of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. Shown at right is Avis Blakely, who earned second place for enrolling members in the Women's Division. Mrs. Gilbert, chairman of the membership drive, awarded $30 and $20 cash prizes to Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Blakely, respectively. [Brand photo]

Ann Landers

One Of Many

DEAR ANN: The wet noodle has been in retirement for quite a while. Well -- bring it out again. You've got ten lashes coming for not seeing beyond your nose when that fellow wrote in and complained about "fat slob" and "abled-bodied" people parking in spaces reserved for the handicapped. I'm overweight so I would probably be classified by you as a "fat slob" -- but I also have a severe asthmatic condition and cannot walk more than a few steps without being winded. If the weather is cold I dare not go out at all.

My mother, who has heart trouble, is the picture of health. You would never know to look at her that she has any physical problem whatever. She must be driven to the nearest entrances at all times. These spaces reserved for the handicapped are a godsend to both of us.

So please, Ann, next time folks write and complain about healthy fat slob taking up spaces reserved for the handicapped, say a word in our behalf. Just because we aren't in wheelchairs or on crutches doesn't mean we are not severely disabled. -- One Of Many apologies to you and all others who wrote to give me a well-deserved clobbering. There are too many folks who are physically fit and hog the parking spaces and it is to them that I address my plea: "Appreciate how lucky you are that you don't NEED to use these parking places -- and leave them for those who do."

DEAR ANN: Our 16-year-old son left home in January because he got fed up with being told what to do. He lived with friends from coast to coast, bumming all the way, getting kicked out by their parents regularly. Now he has come home, stone broke, hair down to his shoulders, smelling like a six-week-old piece of horse-meat.

My husband and I decided he could live here so long as he cleaned himself up and stopped running around nights. He has been out until 3:00 a.m. nearly every morning with a bunch of creepy kids who look and smell like he does. He has informed us that he has no intention of meeting any of our conditions and that we cannot throw him out because the law in this state says we are responsible for him until he has reached his majority.

The whole family is in a constant uproar because of this kid. He does whatever he pleases and has no regard for anyone. What can we do? -- Distraught Parents

DEAR PARENTS: First, please know that your son is just as sick of himself as you are. He is angry, insecure, rudderless and miserable. A hostile kid is a troubled kid. Since there is no communication between you and him, I suggest an intermediary, someone the boy can talk to -- a physician, a clergyman, a coach or a counselor. The boy needs therapy but it cannot be forced on him -- he must accept it willingly. Then you and your husband should go for counseling. This problem is a family matter.

The boy is right when he says you cannot throw him out because he is a minor. You can, however, place him in a detention home if he becomes unmanageable. (I don't recommend it.) Most detention homes are factories that produce hardened criminals. Your son's hostility did not develop overnight, so don't expect miracles. Be patient and remember that the child who is least lovable needs love the most.

Exemplar Chapter Considers Business

Several items of correspondence were considered by members of Xi Epsilon Alpha, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Tuesday night during a business meeting in First National Bank Community Room.

Barbara Kendall, XEA president, called the meeting to order and read an invitation from L'Allegra Study Club to their general plant sale May 5. A letter was read from West Texas State University concerning the luncheon to be held April 21 in honor of recipients of the Panhandle Distinguished Service Awards.

A letter of thanks was received from King's Manor Methodist Home and Westgate Nursing Home in appreciation for XEA's gifts of toiletry items on a regular basis.

Toni Jones, ways and means committee chairman, announced that volunteers will be needed April 21 to act as chaperones during a teen dance at the Community Center. XEA will be sponsoring the dance as a fund-raising project.

The exemplar chapter cancelled their next meeting in lieu of Sorority Rituals, which will begin at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, April 17 at the Community Center.

Sandy Owsey presented the program, "Keeping Score."

Pam Fogo and Jan Walsler served as hostesses.

Other members in attendance were Alene Tindal, Opal Glenn, Barbara Burkhalter, Jo Ann Richburg, Ilajejan Brinkman, Cheryl Bullard, Debra Cook, Bonnie Decker, Phyllis Neill, Karren Ruland, Lynn Sciumbato, Lillie Shipman, Mary Sledge, Linda Thorell, Janey Lou Whitaker and Dixie Williamson.

COMMENTARY

Donald F. Graff Triumph into tragedy?

The plot in South Africa's opinion-manipulation scandal thickens — and thickens and thickens. It already has reached into the highest political levels of that country, shaking the once rock-like stability of the Afrikaner-dominated government. Now it is nibbling at the fringes of U.S. politics.

Congressional ethics committees have taken a preliminary look into the possibility that South African funds may have been used to influence several recent campaigns, without finding anything sufficiently conclusive to justify a full-scale inquiry. But the way this byzantine affair has been developing day by day, that situation could be subject to very sudden change.

The key figure is Eschel M. Rhoadie, cashiered Information Ministry official who directed a secretly funded multimillion-dollar project to buy a better image for South Africa and its racial policies. Much of the money is reported to have gone into bribes to supposed "opinion makers" in the United States and Western Europe, and much is suspected of having gone into private South African pockets. The flaming issue in South Africa is who in the government knew how much of what was going on.

On this subject, Rhoadie, who is in cushy exile in Europe, apparently knows more than enough bodies are buried to start his own cemetery. His piecemeal revelation of embarrassing details has political leaders back home at each others' throats and governments a continuing press, at home and abroad.

It was the South African press that initially brought the scandal out of the closets of Pretoria into the full light of public scrutiny. In this respect, the affair does justify the frequent comparisons to Watergate. In both cases, the press has pursued inquiries into suspected irregularities in high places despite determined official opposition.

But there is a crucial difference. The efforts of the American press to inquire and publish may have been opposed, but the right to do so was never in question. This has the backing of law rooted in the Constitution. The South African press is not in so advantageous a position. The weight of South African law affecting the press tilts heavily to the government's advantage.

While on occasion publication of scandal developments has been suppressed, the real wonder may be that the government has not employed its legal weapons more often. It continues, however, to threaten the press with dire consequences should the revelations continue.

Under the circumstances, the unfolding of the scandal is a remarkable demonstration of what a partially free but determined press can accomplish. The English-language press has, in fact, been the most potent obstacle to the establishment of a fully authoritarian system in South Africa during the 30-year reign of the Nationalist Party. It has emerged as the real democratic opposition as other parties have been reduced to token representation in parliament.

In the current confrontation, the English-language papers are as usual in the forefront, particularly the Rand Daily Mail of Johannesburg. What is unusual is that much of the Afrikaans press is also disturbed by evidence of corruption at the top and is questioning the propriety of a government it has been accustomed to supporting unreservedly. In a society such as Afrikanerdom where moral rectitude is institutionalized, the political repercussions are serious.

The scandal is unlikely to topple the government. But it may force an early election in which it would be the preeminent issue, the strongest one the opposition has had against the Nationalists in three decades.

Another consequence may well be that the government will follow through on its threats of retaliation, tightening restrictions on the press. Legislation has already been drafted. In such an event, the revelation of the information scandal may turn out to be a victory for freedom of information, but a Pyrrhic one, with the real loser being not the press but South Africa.

Frito Letting Corn Contracts in Moore County

BY JIM STEIERT

Brand Farm Editor
Frito-Lay Inc. of Dallas, recently involved with area farmers in negotiations over food corn production contracts, has apparently offered Panhandle grower contracts outside the South Plains region for the first time.

The Dallas-based firm will purchase 40 to 50 million pounds of food-grade corn this fall in the Moore County area near Dumas and Etter, according to reports from Moore County Grain Handling Company.

The grain will be produced by approximately 20 Moore County growers at a price of $5.25 per hundredweight, a full 25 cents per cwt. under the price farmers in the Dimmitt and Hereford areas were able to negotiate for their yellow food-grade corn produced for F-L.

According to David Swinford of Moore County Grain Handling, Frito-Lay contracts were secured for the Moore County area after six months of negotiations, and 5,000 to 7,000 acres of food-grade corn will now be produced on the North Plains for the Dallas-based firm.

"This is the first time for Frito-Lay to step out of the South Plains area and seek producer contracts elsewhere in the past 15 years or more," claimed Swinford.

Area farmers turned down a $5.25 yellow corn production contract offer from F-L, claiming it failed to meet the higher cost of production associated with raising food-grade corn.

Through the efforts of the High Plains Farm Bargaining Association, area farmers succeeded in getting contract offers in the local area raised from an initial $5 per cwt. across the board for both white and yellow corn to final contract figures of $5.50 per cwt. for food-grade yellow corn and $7 per cwt. for lower-yielding food-grade white corn.

The same stringent standards will apply to the corn grown in the Dumas area, as are applied to food-grade corn on the South Plains, according to Swinford.

Dockages for excess moisture, crackage or other damage to the crop will apparently be in effect.

Area growers used these stringent standards as an argument that the cost of producing food-grade corn is actually higher than commercial corn due to lower yields, the necessity of leaving the crop in the field longer for drydown, and the fact that dockages take a good deal of the premium price off the top when the grain is delivered.

Swinford indicated that

Dumas area farmers signing the food corn contracts must also use special methods in growing, combining and handling the food-grade corn, and added that cost of production for Moore County farmers signing contracts will "probably be $20 an acre more than commercial corn."

High Plains Council Reviews Aquifer Study

DALLAS-FORT WORTH -- The High Plains Study Council held its annual meeting here recently to review the work plan of the federally authorized and funded Economic Development Administration's six-state Ogallala Aquifer Area study and to elect officers.

Forty-two attended the meeting at the Airport Marina Hotel. Dayle Williamson of Lincoln, Neb. was elected chairman to succeed A.L. Black of Friona, Texas. Williamson is executive secretary of the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission, and Black is chairman of the Texas Water Development Board which is the policy making body of the state's water agency, the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Bezner Attends Land Bank Meet

Frank Bezner of Hereford, has just returned from Houston where he represented the Federal Land Bank Association of Hereford at the 34th Annual Stockholders Meeting of The Federal Land Bank of Houston. The meeting, held at the Houston Oaks Hotel, was attended by members of 64 Federal Land Bank Associations in Texas. There were about 650 persons in attendance.

Thomas H. Benson, President, in his report to the stockholders, stated that there was an increasing demand for new loans in 1978. This was the second largest year in the Bank's history with $245.5 million in loans and it appears the demand for loans will continue.

"In this time of historic highs in interest rates the advantages of the variable rate loans is apparent to the farmers and ranchers of Texas.

"87 percent of our loans are on the variable rate, and our borrowers have 8 1/2 percent interest rate as compared with the 11 1/2 percent prime rate."

Speakers for the meeting included Dr. Gary Schwendman, Dean, College of Business Administration, University of Kansas Governor John Carlin was elected vice chairman, and Morgan Smith, commissioner of the Colorado Department of Agriculture, was named secretary. All will serve one-year terms.

Black was appointed to a second term as chairman of the liaison committee of the council, a group composed of representatives from each state in the council who meet frequently to coordinate the work of the States and Federal agencies and advise the full council on the technical matters.

Council membership is composed of governors or their designates from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado, and Nebraska.

The council represents the member states in the organization in the conduct of a $6 million study authorized by Congress in 1976 to, "assure an adequate supply of food to the nation and to promote the economic vitality of the High Plains region."

The act further instructed the Secretary of Commerce in cooperation with the Secretary of the Army, to develop plans to increase water supplies in the area and report thereon to the Congress. In formulating these plans, the secretary is directed to examine the feasibility of various alternatives to accomplish these objectives.

A general contractor, Camp, Dresser and McKee, was selected late last year to conduct and coordinate the study, with the U.S. Corps of Engineers conducting the water importation studies.

Several resolutions were adopted without dissent relating to membership and operation of the study. Included were: Observer states may be admitted to the Council Liaison Committee from states neighboring the six-state area, upon designation by their governors because of the expressed desire to observe and coordinate with the High Plains Study Council.

The Council adopted a recommendation from the liaison committee dealing with transmittal of the general contractor's master plan of study wherein the plan of study will be transmitted to the Secretary of Commerce and the Congress to fulfill interim report requirements of P.L. 94-587.

Other resolutions concerned recommendations for allocation of federal monies to member states for the state study work which will be incorporated into the regional study, and plans for a briefing of the Ogallala area congressional delegation later this year regarding the plan of study and progress of the work.

Representing Texas at the meeting were Black and Harvey Davis, executive director of the Texas Department of Water Resources. Dr. Herbert Grubb, chief of planning and development for the department, gave reports on liaison committee work.

Each state representative gave the council an update of activities in his area. The general contractor's report was made by Harvey Banks, Brig. Gen. James Donovan of Dallas, commander of the Southwestern Division of the Corps of Engineers at Dallas, reported on plans for the importation study. James A. Power Jr. of Topeka, Kan., executive director of the Kansas Water Resources Board, made the combined states report to the council.

Caulkins Swimming Is Good Lifestyle

By Elle Grossman
NEW YORK (NEA) - One recent morning, Martha Caulkins — blue-eyed, tawny, all-America type with soda pop personality — sat on a bed in a New York hotel room and effervesced about swimming while her daughter, Tracy, finished in the bathroom. Mrs. Caulkins doesn't swim much but Tracy, 16, does. Last year she won 10 gold medals in national and world amateur competition, and set three individual world records. This year, an international panel of sportswriters named her 1978 Pinch Woman Athlete of the World. She and her mother were in town to pick up the award which Tracy could keep, and the $10,000 check which, as an amateur, she couldn't. But the money was still going home to Nashville, to the Nashville Aquatic Club where Tracy has spent much of her life. "When we moved to Nashville from Minnesota, our older son and daughter were on swim teams and they asked Tracy to join because they needed younger swimmers," Mrs. Caulkins says, laughing. "They meant that once you win, you're hooked." From then on, the Caulkins usually spent one week-end a month traveling to local AAU competitions, paying their own room and board, entry fees, etc. Saturday and Sunday they'd watch Tracy swim seven or eight times against "maybe 30 to 60 girls in her age group." The better she swam, the farther they went after stiffer competition, so the more it cost what with fees at the Nashville Aquatic Club ($75 yearly membership, $40 monthly to work out) and all. "We don't want to know how much we've spent," Mrs. Caulkins says, "but it's been worth every penny of it. The friends we meet, that Tracy makes. The travel. She's competed in Australia and Russia which the AAU paid for because she's on the national team. She knows kids all over the world and people know her." Mrs. Caulkins beams. Besides that, swimming to win helps in regular life. "It prepares you for anything else you decide to do," she says, although neither she nor her husband, Thomas, an educational researcher, was ever a competitor. "If Tracy works half as hard in any profession, she'll be guaranteed success," she says. "She knows how to dedicate herself and isn't afraid to hurt a bit (she suffers elbow tendonitis occasionally)."

The bathroom door opens and Tracy enters. Damp, pale, with curly brown hair and braces on her teeth, she's 5-feet-9, 125 pounds. She sits on the bed her mother vacates and says she swims because "I like it. It's hard to swim well when you don't want to," although, yes, "I'd feel like I'd let a lot of people down if I stopped. But she doesn't want to. There's so much to be gained later on, although it's hard to pinpoint. "I haven't thought much about a career," she says. "I'll probably swim through college because college swimming is getting better. They're offering more scholarships. "And swimming helps you learn things," she says, like how to handle pressure, which Tracy does by...? She looks at her mother and shrugs. "I don't let it bother me."

Devlin High On Winter Sports

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (NEA) - The north woods spirit of this remote Adirondacks village is on his ruddy Irish face. Gray is beginning to fleck his black hair — after all, he is 57 years old now.

Art Devlin feels comfortable enough on the boulevards of Paris or New York or in the bierstube of Kitzbuehl. And not unrecognized either because he is a television personality and once was among the best, most daring ski jumpers in the world.

woods and climbed a tall spruce tree practically smack in the middle of the ski jumping platform erected just outside of town.

From the branches, he watched Birger Ruud of Norway soar to an Olympic gold medal while thousands below gaped at this new spectacle, for Americans, of ski jumping.

"I'd been playing around on little bumps," recalls Art. He used to make a homemade jump out of his father's cedar barrels and got his rear end warmed for tampering with them. ("There was nothing like that home brew during Prohibition," he smiles in recollection. "I wish I'd kept the formula.")

"Well," he continues, "I saw the frosting on the cake the day that Norwegian won the Olympics. The cheering, the crowd, the medals. Birger Ruud became my Babe Ruth."

Every day after school, he used to run the two and a half miles to the jumping area, carrying the cumbersome 252-centimeter skis on his shoulders. Then he'd have to tamp down the landing area with those skis, side-stepping tediously up the hill. And in the waning winter light, he was lucky if he got in two jumps.

By the time he was 17, before his father even knew he had ever jumped competitively, Art had gone out to St. Paul, Minn., and won the national championships.

Ski jumping became his obsession and his career. But World War II interceded. He became a bomber pilot in the 15th Air Force, flying over Europe. After the war, he got $15 a week and his meals as the summer sports director at the posh Lake Placid Club so he could be free to jump in the winter.

He was the best in North America, and he competed for the U.S. team in the Winter Olympics of 1948, '52 and '56. But the best he could ever do was an eighth place finish at Cortina in 1956. Scandinavians dominated the sport.

He qualified again for the American team at Squaw Valley in 1960, but that was just to show he could do it. Ski jumping isn't for 38-year-old guys with shaky reflexes, even a natural dare devil like Devlin.

Tex Schramm, now famed as the architect of the NFL

Dallas Cowboys, was then doing a stint in television with CBS, which was going to telecast the Squaw Valley Games. Tex, looking for expertise, called Devlin.

But this is home, where he was born on the very site of what is now his own modern 50-unit motel, and he remains a "woodchuck" — a local yokel, who's bringing the rest of the world to him.

Art Devlin was one of the instrumental forces in bringing the XIIIth Winter Olympiad to Lake Placid next February — he's the vice president of the Organizing Committee.

Spurs One Win From Division Championship

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - The Spurs' George Gervin says he wants to drink champagne Saturday night in Houston.

San Antonio took a step in the direction Wednesday night of winning a tie for the National Basketball Association's Central Division title with a 110-103 victory over the playoff-bound New Jersey Nets.

The triumph, coupled with Houston's 121-120 loss in Philadelphia Wednesday, gave the Spurs a two and a half game advantage in the Central Division race.

Houston and San Antonio will meet to head Saturday night in the Summit in Houston.

The Spurs captured their third straight win and swept the four-game series with the Nets behind Gervin's 30-point performance Wednesday.

San Antonio, which normally shoots around 50 percent from the field, managed just 42 percent and the Nets hit only 41 percent.

"It was hard to get motivated when a game is as ragged as this one was," said Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer. "We were not playing our game, but still they were not capable of beating us."

"That will help us going into Houston, I think."

The Spurs lead 46-43 at the half, but scored only 16 points in the second quarter. That was the lowest number of points made by the Spurs in the second period of any game this season, and the 46 point halftime score tied San Antonio's halftime low.

However, the Spurs outscored the Nets 32-20 in the third period and Gervin secured 24 of his final total in the last half.

"We haven't forgotten the last Houston game here," said Gervin, referring to a pair of free throws by Moses Malone after time had run out to provide Houston with a 117-116 victory.

"We will be motivated and want sweet revenge," said Gervin.

Ed Jordan lead all New Jersey scorers, collecting 18 points.

"That is as hard as we can play," said New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery, about the Net's who dropped their 12th straight road game.

"I was not disappointed with the effort. We can't get into a running game with the Spurs," said Loughery. "For the first half we slowed them down pretty well but when you shoot poorly you can't get back on defense and that's why you get burned."

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Three Southwest Conference basketball coaches apparently were persuasive Wednesday as a Senate committee voted to open summer basketball and football camps to high school athletes.

Sen. Ron Clower's bill was sent to the Senate floor on a 6-1 vote.

Coach Sonny Allen of Southern Methodist University said summer basketball camps are similar to summer school - "You go to make up deficiencies or take advanced courses."

Allen said 4,000 high school students are on the SMU campus each summer for such activities as cheerleading and twirling, but University Interscholastic League rules punish athletes for attending basketball camps.

Under UIL rules, a high school basketball or football player who attends a summer training camp loses eligibility.

The rule has widespread support among high school coaches and administrators.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons told the Senate Education Committee more Texans might play on Texas Longhorns basketball teams if high school players could go to summer camp.

Lemons said it seems "sinister" to take away eligibility for attending a basketball camp.

L.W. McConachie of the Texas High School Coaches Association said according to the Dallas Morning News, Allen makes $30,000 a year off his summer basketball camp. Pre-high schoolers can attend summer camps.

"He's just a little jealous" because Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton makes $90,000, McConachie said, "and he wants your blessing to get his fee up."

Allen walked to the committee table and said, "To say that I'm jealous of Eddie Sutton is certainly not true. I don't know why he (McConachie) would make that statement. He doesn't know me."

Lemons also has a summer camp, and Coach Gerald Myers of Texas Tech said the response to camps at Texas Tech has been "99 percent positive."

Coach Harry Masch of Lanier High School in Austin joined the SWC coaches and former regent chairman Frank Erwin of the University of Texas in supporting Clower's bill. Masch said his sons, ages 9 and 11, went to camps "without being pressured" in lieu of getting birthday presents.

Erwin described the UIL, which opposed the bill, as "arrogant, unreasonable and arbitrary."

"If excellence is what you want, this is a chance to get excellence in an area Texas students are not permitted to be excellent," said Erwin.

The reference was to Lemons' comment that "we would like to use more Texas players in our program ... but other states are so far ahead of us," partly because of prohibitions against summer camps. Lemons said Texas gyms "are locked up like tombs in the summer."

UIL Director Bailey Marshall said approval of Clower's bill would mean "there will be utter chaos as far as schools are concerned over who can do what. You may be setting a serious precedent, telling athletic groups what their rules and regulations should be."

Clower, D-Garland, said if the Legislature should enact his bill, the UIL could still regulate the camps.

Baseball Predictions Forecast

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Peanuts, popcorn, predictions, popoffs and pressure - that's the harbinger of the major league baseball season, beginning its long, hot summer run this week.

How many rash words will have to be eaten by the end of the six-month grind? How many boasts will be fulfilled and how many regrets will be drowned in a cold glass of beer at the end of the 162-game season?

Take careful note, then wait and see:

Sparky Lyle, the New York Yankees' castoff Cy Young winner, now a Texas Ranger, who got partial revenge with his kiss-and-tell "Bronx Zoo" tome: "I can't wait to face the Yankees. I hope to break George Steinbrenner's heart the way he broke mine."

Dave Parker, the Pittsburgh Pirates' $900,000-a-year Goliath, who must prove himself worthy of the game's highest price tag: "I'm not worried. I think I am the best, hardest working player in baseball. I don't see any reason I can't win the Triple Crown batting average, home runs, runs-batted-in."

Pete Rose, justifying his break with the Cincinnati Reds and his $800,000-a-year contract with the Phillies, as told to Penthouse Magazine: "Loyalty is a two-way street. I don't think the Reds showed Sparky Anderson any loyalty when they fired him ... The Reds sure as hell didn't show me any loyalty."

On value to the Phillies: "I think I'm real good for morale and spirit and things like that. I've been told I can wake up a couple of guys on the team who are really super players (Mike Schmidt, for example)."

George Steinbrenner, Yankee owner: "Billy Martin will be back as manager in 1980 if he keeps his part of the bargain."

Bob Lemon, interim Yankee manager: "I get tired of pulling on this uniform every day. I don't want to manage after 1979."

Lou Brock, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder and speed merchant: "There are two plateaus in baseball I would naturally like to attain - 3,000 hits and 1,000 stolen bases. The first I feel sure I can reach, the second is out of the question." The 39-year-old Brock starts the season with 2,900 hits, thus needing only 100. He would need to add 83 stolen bases to his all-time record of 917.

Reggie Jackson, Yankees: "I will hit 40 home runs this year. I would have done it last year if Billy (Billy Martin, replaced in midseason as manager) had given me the chance."

Earl Weaver, manager of the Baltimore Orioles: "I'll bet the family estate that we hit more home runs than the Yankees."

That wouldn't be news. Last year the Orioles out-homered the world champs 153-125. The Milwaukee Brewers led the American League with 173.

Bill Veec, president of the Chicago White Sox: "The Brewers have been more successful in the free agent draft than anybody - the Yankees, California Angels, you name 'em. Larry Hise and Sal Bando have been great additions. Outside of Reggie Jackson and Rich Gossage, the Yankees haven't got much use out of their free agent guys, and there's no way to prove Sparky Lyle wouldn't have done the job if the Yankees hadn't got Gossage."

Tennis Tourney Set

The Second Annual Hereford Women's Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament is set to begin April 21, with the finals slated for April 22.

According to Lucy Rogers, tournament chairperson, four entries in the event. Entries can be picked up at the chamber office or at the local schools.

Bullets Have Best NBA Record

By The Associated Press

As befitting a champion, the Washington Bullets have clinched the best season record in the National Basketball Association. And as befitting a player considered the most exciting in the sport, Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers won a game in dramatic fashion, hitting a dunk shot with one second remaining.

The Bullets, last season's league champions and this season's Atlantic Division titleholders, raised their record to an imposing 54-25, routing the defenseless Boston Celtics 145-119 Wednesday night. With only three games remaining in the regular season, no team can match the Bullets' mark.

Erving, meanwhile, is the player the 76ers would like to see do it himself. And he did it Wednesday, slamming in the winning field goal just before the final buzzer as Philadelphia edged the Houston Rockets 121-120.

Meanwhile, the San Antonio Spurs clinched a tie for the Central Division title, beating the New Jersey Nets 110-103, and the Kansas City Kings clinched a playoff berth, outlasting the Los Angeles Lakers 115-111 in overtime.

In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns extended their winning streak to seven with a 105-95 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers, the Seattle SuperSonics trimmed the San Diego Clippers 115-107, the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Milwaukee Bucks 118-109, and the Indiana Pacers downed the Cleveland Cavaliers 102-95.

Cauthen Wows British Racing Officials

LONDON (AP) - Steve "The Kid" Cauthen, America's 18-year-old wonder jockey, wowed Britain's hard-bitten racing aficionados Thursday as few have wowed them before.

They had nothing but praise and yet more praise Wednesday for the cool way he handled his first British news conference here the previous day, and they predicted British race-goers will love him too.

Cauthen, who has ridden 944 winners worth $12 million in the United States since May 1976, arrived in England this week to spend the summer riding for millionaire owner Robert Sangster. He is scheduled to ride his first race in England on Saturday at Salisbury.

"Not since the arrival of Tod Sloan, the first top American to try his luck here 80 years ago, has there been such a stir in British racing," wrote Jim Stanford in the Daily Mail.

"Steve Cauthen's presence in this country is a heaven-sent bonus to British racing as a spectator sport," wrote John Oaksey in the Daily Telegraph. "I wish him all the luck that's going."

Sangster has guaranteed him earnings of $200,000, and if he does well here he could treble or even quadruple that.

Entry fees for singles and doubles will be four dollars per event. Classifications will be sixth grade through junior high, high school through 23 years old, 24-35 years old and 36 and up. The last two classes will have both A and B divisions.

Garagiola Brings Life To Booth

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Joe Garagiola, a witty bullpen pitcher once banished to the bench because he could bring life to the dugout, will be bringing his unique brand of humor to the broadcast booth when NBC begins another season of baseball coverage Saturday.

In his final season in 1954, Garagiola played in only five games but proved invaluable to New York Giants Manager Leo Durocher as a bench jockey extraordinaire. Since then, Garagiola has sharpened his tongue, moving from ballplayer to announcer, a route taken by many former athletes. But he did it a little differently - and with a different result.

First, he wasn't a star player or a big name, appearing only once in more than 81 games during his 12-year National League career with St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York, while compiling a lifetime batting average of .257.

Second, he began his broadcasting career as a color man but eventually became top banana as a respected play-by-play announcer, which is a little like playing shortstop after years behind the plate.

Garagiola shares the NBC booth with Tony Kubek, a former shortstop with the New York Yankees. But the booth is about all they share.

"Tony and I disagree on baseball a lot," said Garagiola. "He's more of a baseball purist than I am. He hates the designated hitter; I love it. He thinks infielders should be protected around second base; I think they're fair game."

"We're like two guys sitting on the bench who disagree on baseball strategy and philosophy. I think it's great stuff."

One widely circulated report last year concluded that Kubek and Garagiola were indeed like two guys on the bench - Billy Martin and Reggie Jackson at their feudin' best.

But everyone connected with NBC's baseball broadcasts calls that report ludicrous. "I couldn't believe it when I saw that story," Garagiola said, his voice cracking with anger. "Tony and I have never had any problem at all. It was just ridiculous."

Garagiola, also seen on the tube as car huckster and a personality on the Today Show, bristles at suggestions that he is more show biz and less journalism.

"That's nonsense," he said. "I like to consider myself an announcer who tells what I know and what I find out. I tell the facts with a light line. But I still tell the facts."

"I just don't happen to think that the 'Super Bowl or the World Series should be treated as high Mass.'"

A funny thing happened Wednesday to Tom Seaver and Frank Tanana, two of baseball's best pitchers ... only it wasn't very funny to Seaver and Tanana.

Seaver got through the first inning all right, but was kayoed with two out in the second as the San Francisco Giants clubbed the Reds 11-5 in the traditional National League opener in Cincinnati.

Tanana fared a little better but still came away a loser. He served up home runs to Larry Cox, Willie Horton and a tie-breaking two-run shot to Leon Roberts in the sixth inning as the Seattle Mariners stunned the highly regarded California Angels 5-4 in the American League inaugural.

Today's NL schedule has two day games, with the New York Mets playing the Cubs in Chicago and the San Diego Padres visiting the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

In the AL, the Toronto Blue Jays play a night game against the Royals in Kansas City while the Milwaukee Brewers meet the world champion Yankees in New York and the Boston Red Sox entertain the Cleveland Indians in day games. The scheduled Texas-at-Detroit afternoon contest was postponed by rain and snow.

The rest of the openers, including Texas-Detroit, are set for Friday.

Seaver was charged with seven runs, four of them earned, in 1 1/2 innings. Mike Ivie singled and homered in San Francisco's eight-run second inning while Terry Whitfield collected four hits. Vida Blue went the route for the Giants, scattering nine hits.

Seaver, who began the season with a 219-117 lifetime record and a 2.51 earned run average, said he felt good, but in getting the ball over the plate he made it too easy to hit.

"That's something I'll have to work on the next couple of days," he said.

Tanana, who yielded nine hits last week for personal reasons.

MANILA, Philippines - Sweden's Sven Davidson upset Frank Sedgman of Australia 6-2, 5-7, 6-2 while Australian Neale Fraser defeated Pancho Gonzales 6-4, 6-4 in the semifinals of the $20,000 Manila Grand Masters Tennis Tournament.

OSAKA, Japan - Francoise Durr of France and Betty Stove of The Netherlands beat Mary Carillo and Sherry Acker in the first round of a $150,000 women's doubles tennis tournament.

In other matches, Australians Kerry Reid and Wendy Turnbull scored a 4-6, 7-5, 7-5 victory over Virginia Wade of Great Britain and Janet Newberry, while Lesley Hunt of Australia and Sharon Walsh defeated Ann Smith and Rosemary Casals 7-6, 1-6, 6-3.

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands - Peter Fleming beat Buster Mottram of Great Britain 6-3, 6-4, while Johan Kriek of South Africa defeated Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina 6-4, 6-2 in the second round of the WCT tennis tournament.

Umpires Upset With Pryor

CINCINNATI (AP) - Striking major league umpires say they've been sold out by Paul Pryor, the only umpire who has signed a contract with the National League for the baseball season.

Pryor called balls and strikes in the major league season opener here Wednesday while 25 other major league umpires marched outside Riverfront Stadium in an informational picket.

"I wouldn't want to be in a foxhole with the guy (Pryor) with the enemy coming," said umpire Bruce Froemming. "There's no way I could stand next to Paul Pryor and feel good."

Froemming said Pryor, 51, had received an $8,000 raise because of the umpires' collective bargaining agreement two years ago but had turned his back on his fellow umpires by signing a contract with the league.

"I feel sorry for Paul that he sold his soul like that," Froemming said.

After the game, which San Francisco won 11-5, Pryor told his side of the story. "I signed for personal and financial reasons," he said. "I hadn't had those two reasons. I'd be with them (the striking umpires). I walked the picket line in 1970 during the playoffs between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati."

Pryor said he hopes the contract dispute will end soon. "I wish the thing could get over and everyone would go back to work," he said. "I hope they understand. If they come back, I'll wish them well."

But Pryor may not find the other league umpires willing to forgive and forget.

"I have no sympathy with him," said umpire Ed Vargo, who would be starting his 20th season. "My feeling toward Paul will never be the same."

The umpires wore signs saying "Baseball unfair to umpires" as they walked outside the stadium. They left as soon as the game started.

with many of them heading for other cities where games were scheduled for Thursday.

"We're with you guys," one fan shouted as he walked toward the stadium. Some members of a local pipefitters union joined the march.

Major league umpires make from $17,500 to more than $40,000 a year and receive $53 a day expense money.

Hereford's James Mays, a sophomore at Texas Tech University, continued his assault on the school's time for the halfmile with a personal best of 1:49.6 in last week's Texas Tech Invitational track meet.

Mays, who won the state schoolboy 880 title as a senior for the Whitefaces, was just .6 of a second off the national qualifying time for the NCAA meet.

This weekend, the Tech speedster will be anchoring the Red Raider 2-mile relay team and leading off in the distance medley at the Texas Relays. According to Corky Ogelsby, head track coach at Tech, Mays has yet to do his best and that his potential is unlimited.

Tech will be on their home track one last meet before the SWC meet May 14. The Tech meet will be a three team meet set for April 14.

According to Coach Ogelsby, Mays will need a time of at least 1:48.0 to win the 800 at the conference meet. He noted that the Southwest Conference has some exceptionally strong halfmilers, with the fastest, a 1:47.1, by Bruce Gingrich of Rice. There are ten individuals with times under 1:51.7, with Mays having the third best in the group.

Paul Bell, Hereford's allround athlete, attempted a new venture, and came away a little bit worse for wear. While playing frisbee Sunday afternoon, Bell injured his elbow, and for a while it was feared that he would be out of track for the season.

The prognosis proved to be a hyperextended elbow, causing him quite a bit of pain but still able to compete.

According to Coach Don Cumpton, the track team is starting to look 'real good' and this week will be chance to run against some strong teams.

The team's first chance to see the district competition will be next week when the Whitefaces compete in the South Plains Invitational in Levelland. Cumpton feels that the team can compete with anyone on the track, but will need to produce in the field events to capture the overall team title.

Among the district's top performers is Plainview's Kenneth Storey in the high jump. Storey has the best jump of any Texas schoolboy with a 7-0 jump. Right behind him is last year's state champ, Chuck Perry of Monterey with a 6-10 effort.

Bell is the top threat in the quarter of 220, and the 'Faces Juan Flores and Glenn Yosten top threats in the 880. Joining Bell in the 440 is Norman Brown, who has been clocked in the quarter at less than 51.0.

The Whiteface track will be the scene of a major college meet April 19, Coach Cumpton announced. West Texas State University will be holding its invitation meet here in Hereford due to its track not being in good condition. Not many details are known of the meet, but WT's track team is rated as one of the best in the Missouri Valley Conference and it should be exciting to see them in action.

Two local volleyball teams, Boots and Saddles and the Hereford Brand were in the finals in last weekend's Simms Volleyball Tournament, with the Boots and Saddles winning its third consecutive tourney trophy. A veteran team, the players are Weldon Knabe, Jimmy White, Barry Roberts, J.R. Blackwell, John Burkhalter, Don Lesley, and some help from Mitchell Bell.

The Hereford Brand, a newly formed team, consists of Greg Powell, Carey Black, Larry Roberts, Marc Herring, Kent Herring and Reid Herring, and Craig Nieman.

Rangers, Tiger Game Postponed

DETROIT (AP) - The Detroit Tigers' opening day game with the Texas Rangers scheduled for Thursday will be played Friday because of bad weather, the baseball club announced.

Tiger fans holding tickets who cannot use them for the re-scheduled game at 1:30 p.m. Friday can get refunds at the Tiger Stadium advance ticket office until 6 p.m. Thursday, a Tigers spokesman said.

It was snowing in Detroit Wednesday and the National Weather Service had posted a travelers advisory for southeastern Lower Michigan. About two inches of snow covered the ground in late afternoon and one to two more inches were expected at night.

Because of the opening day sellout and a reduced number of seats due to stadium renovation, the game was to have been televised by WDIV-TV in Detroit.

But the rescheduled game will not be telecast

Factors Hurt Higher Market

NEW YORK (AP) - You may not have noticed it, but stocks are up this year. Shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose 10.5 percent through March; American Stock Exchange shares rose 18.5 percent.

You may not have noticed because, as Merrill Lynch points out, 45 percent to 50 percent of the investment services have been bearish through much of the period. But there are other reasons too. Many.

Midwest discord was interpreted as negative for the market. So was China's Vietnam offensive. And the acceleration of inflation. And the failure so far of the guidelines. And the oil and nuclear setbacks.

Market activity itself might have given a negative impression. The big mutual funds accumulated cash rather than stocks. And many individuals did too; they stored more than $13 billion in money market funds.

Still, as Interactive Data

Corporation found in a computer analysis, those first-quarter gains on the two major exchanges were bigger than for all of 1978, when prices rose, respectively, 5.4 percent and 17.3 percent.

The over the counter market also fared well, with gains averaging 15.3 percent for the first three months of the year, just slightly below the 15.9 percent increase for all of 1978.

The increases were widespread too. Increases were found for no less than 82 percent of Big Board stocks, 81.9 percent of Amex shares, and 75.6 percent of over the counter stocks.

Measured almost any way, the market rose. The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 7.10 percent, the Big Board's composite index 6.53 percent, and the Standard & Poor's 500-stock average 5.70 percent.

Of course you can go too far with these statistics. You cannot forget that the stock market is always an up-down affair.

Last year, for example, wasn't a poor market year at least until the final quarter. Then prices dipped sharply, setting the stage for this year's first-quarter upturn. The two moves offset each other.

Still, the latest move is the one that carries hopes with it, and a lot of people now have their hopes up. If the market could advance against such odds, they say, it must be built on a solid base.

Wright Investors Service believes the strength reflects feelings that a moderation of inflation and interest rates will accompany an economic slowdown and prove beneficial to stocks later this year.

Agreeing, other analysts point to the bullish potential of those billions which individuals now hold in money market funds, plus additional billions that mutual funds have yet to commit to stocks.

There is little doubt that the strength of dividend growth, and the current levels being paid, has had a positive impact on prices. Some shares, including those of General Motors, now pay in double digits.

Other companies, many of them blue chip manufacturers, are paying up to 8 percent or so while selling at single-digit multiples of their prices.

With prices considered low in relation to earnings, and with dividends high enough to nearly negate the impact of inflation, many investors seem to have concluded that market risk is relatively low.

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) - Bakers have discovered a way to make flour absorb more water, according to the Water Quality Association.

The technique involves using water that is deionized, or virtually mineral-free, a spokesman said, explaining that though the flour may absorb only 3-5 percent more water, the effects are important.

With greater moisture content, bread has longer shelf life, smoother texture and requires less yeast and other ingredients.

Why Criminals

Get Away With It

How come so many criminals get away with it?

It is well established that swift and certain punishment is the most effective crime deterrent--yet in New York only 42 percent of felony arrests end in conviction.

In Los Angeles 46 percent. In Baltimore 44 percent. In Washington, D.C., 33 percent. And in Chicago only 26 percent of felons found guilty ever go to jail.

How come?

Brian Forst directs research for the Institute of Law and Social Research in Washington. He has put computers to work to track down why arrests for serious crimes so often fail in court; why in every major U.S. city fewer than half of convicted felons ever go to jail; in Chicago only about one-fourth do.

It's his studied conclusion that the blame must be shared by police, prosecutors and judges.

Police first. The District of Columbia has 2,418 policemen. The computer reveals that more than half of all convictions result from arrests made by a small corps of 249 officers. Again, 10 percent of all arresting officers accounted for half of all felony convictions. At the other extreme, 31 percent of all arresting officers last year did not make a single arrest which ended in conviction.

Obviously, some officers know how to collect the evidence and the supportive witnesses to make a case stick; some do not.

What's the incentive for the policeman? Until now I know of nobody having kept score. As is officers are recognized and rewarded for the "quantity" of arrests, but not for their "quality."

Next, the prosecutor: The large city district attorney has such an awesome overload of cases--many of which could be and ought to be adjudicated in some smaller jurisdiction--that each simply cannot receive the attention it deserves. Often one office must process a thousand felony arrests per month.

Next, the judges: Mr. Forst is not as tough in criticizing judges as some others we've heard from. Nonetheless, he says that where judges preside over relatively few criminal cases that come to trial, they influence the outcome of many other cases.

Example: Six percent of all arrests made in Washington, D.C., do not end in conviction because the accused flies the coop. Some judge has set such generous bail conditions that any criminal is tempted to make a run for it and many do.

On television, most felony court trials are decided after matching skillful courtroom histrionics by two brilliant attorneys.

In real life, an arrest usually fails at the decision of the prosecutor not to proceed with the case because of insufficient testimony, insufficient evidence, plea bargaining--or because he is too busy.

One thing more: Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger recently told the American Bar Assn. (ABA) that we have too many criminals committing crimes while free on bail pending trial on other charges.

Not only does crime pay, this way, but most any criminal knows he can get two for the price of one.

Buchanan Dies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) - Edgar Buchanan, the gravelly voiced character actor who appeared in dozens of western movies and the television series "Petticoat Junction," died early Wednesday, a spokesman for Eisenhower Memorial Hospital said. He had recently undergone brain surgery.

Buchanan, 76, never recovered from the operation Jan. 29 to remove a tube placed in his brain four years earlier to help overcome poor circulation of spinal fluids, said spokesman John Millrany.

Buchanan died at 6:15 a.m. PST. The exact cause of death was not immediately known.

For years, Buchanan was best known as a character actor in westerns, including "When the Daltons Rode," "Escape to Gory," "Texas," "The Desperadoes," "Buffalo Bill" and "Coroner Creek."

Hospital officials said earlier that when the tube was removed, surgeons found that Buchanan had contracted meningitis. While recovering at the hospital, officials said, the aging actor caught pneumonia.

In a film career that spanned three decades, Buchanan appeared as a character actor in more than 80 movies and 150 television dramas before landing a steady role as Uncle Joe in CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction" series in the 1960s.

Seminole Land Sold in Auction

SEMINOLE, Texas (AP) - A group of religious pilgrims fighting to remain in the United States lost an investment of $2 million and two years of their time when the land they were farming was sold at auction Tuesday.

The Lamesa National Bank, which held the note against the land, was the only bidder, and put up $1 million.

The Mennonites arrived near this West Texas city in 1977 from Mexico and Canada, searching for a place they could settle permanently. However, they had the wrong type of visa for permanent residence.

They first tried to establish themselves as Americans by purchasing 6,400 acres of land outside Seminole. The land did not produce enough bounty to sustain the colony of 550, however, and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service would not recognize agricultural endeavor as the basis for permanent residence.

The colonists gradually moved off the land, seeking jobs in town, and now they have defaulted on a $225,037.50 payment that was due Feb. 15.

Meanwhile, the Senate Judiciary Committee is considering a bill by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, to allow the Mennonites to remain in West Texas. The INS has agreed not to deport the Mennonites while Bentsen's legislation is under consideration.

AP Reveals System

NEW YORK (AP) - The Associated Press announced Wednesday that it will establish a "broadcast-quality satellite delivery system for its 660-affiliate radio network.

The news service said it would file an application shortly with the Federal Communications Commission, seeking licensing for 15-foot earth stations in 37 cities.

"We have signed a lease agreement with California Microwave, Inc., for 15-foot earth stations in the 37 cities," said Keith Fuller, president of AP.

"With these earth stations we hope to bring the advantage of high-quality satellite circuits to a large number of broadcast stations affiliated with the AP Radio Network, and also start delivering certain limited data services to newspapers."

The 15-foot earth stations will be installed on frequency coordinated sites by CMI, an electronics manufacturing concern headquartered in Sunnyvale, Calif. The earth stations will be licensed to and maintained by The Associated Press. AP is negotiating for transponder space to serve the distribution system.

Last month, AP received FCC approval for a one-year test of satellite operation using 10-foot and smaller dish antennas.

The AP has entered into a contingency contract with CMI for a minimum of 400 small-aperture terminals.

Plans call for use of satellite links and then in some cases the use of leased telephone lines for further distribution in the vicinity. Telephone lines are now used for delivery of almost all AP services.

The cities in which the initial 37 earth stations will be located are:

- Albany, N.Y.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Baltimore; Birmingham, Ala.; Boston; Buffalo, N.Y.; Charlotte, N.C.; Chicago; Cincinnati; Cleveland; Dallas; Denver; Detroit; Hartford, Conn.; Houston; Indianapolis; Kansas City; Los Angeles; Louisville, Ky.; Memphis, Tenn.; Miami; Milwaukee; Minneapolis; New Haven, Conn.; New Orleans, Omaha; Orlando, Fla.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Pittsburgh; Portland, Ore.; Rochester, N.Y.; San Diego; San Francisco; Seattle; St. Louis, Mo.; Tampa, Fla.; and Washington.

Post Office Schedules Carrier Examinations

A substitute rural carrier and record examination will be open to the public at the Hereford Post Office through 4:30 p.m. Friday, according to Postmaster Nolan Grady.

Grady said that the job-related test may lead to Postal Service employment.

A substitute rural carrier works during the absence of the regular rural carrier. Regular rural carrier positions are filled by appointing a senior substitute rural carrier of record, Grady said.

The positions are suited to persons seeking part-time employment, which may lead to a full-time career.

Approximate starting salary for a substitute rural carrier of record in the Hereford Post Office is $7 per hour. Rural carriers also receive 19½ cents per mile.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Tip top shape — but big

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 34-year-old woman, 5 feet 10 with a large frame and weigh 186 pounds. I run four and a half miles six days a week, bike four miles six days a week and swim at least one and a half hours a week. I only consume 1200 to 1300 calories and that's a balanced diet. Also, I'm very active during the day and spend very little time sitting. Why does my weight stay high? Is it most beneficial to do push ups, leg lifts, pull ups and sit ups every day or every other day? I would appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER — You sound like you're in top shape. Since you're 5 feet 10 and have a large frame, it follows that you are just a big woman. There is nothing wrong with that.

You need to learn to think in terms of the difference between fat and muscle. That determines whether or not you need to lose weight and how much. You can tell by noticing how much fat there is under your skin. The waist and small of the back is a good place to check that. If you have much of a fat roll around the middle, then you do have some fat to lose, but if you're all muscle, forget it.

I'm rather dubious about your statement that you only eat 1200 to 1300 calories a day, particularly if you're telling the truth about how much physical activity you do. A person your size would normally use 1500 calories a day if they just stayed in bed all day and did nothing. There is a basic law of nature that you can't change, any more than you can change the fact the sun comes up in the east. Energy is neither created nor destroyed. This is called the law of conservation of energy. If you are going to spend that much energy, you'll need to consume an equal amount of energy to keep from losing weight.

I'm so convinced that either your story isn't true or else that you need some help on how to count calories that I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. This is a balanced diet of about 1300 calories a day. If you stick to that and follow the exercise you're doing, I'm confident that you will lose weight. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Regarding how frequently you should do the set of exercises you mentioned, it depends upon what your goal is. If you want to use up calories, the more frequent the better. If you are interested in growing muscles, then you really only need to do them about every other day. In fact, good studies show that once you've developed good muscle size and strength, a good program that uses the muscles to their fullest extent once a week is adequate to maintain them.

Calisthenic exercises as you describe do not stimulate large muscle development. Muscles get only as large as they need to be to lift a given weight. The larger the weight you lift, the larger the muscles become. Pull ups might cause you to develop large arm muscles because they must support all 186 pounds of your body weight.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me if there is anything I can do for ringing in the ears? They also sound like birds chirping all the time. I have had this problem for several years. I take various kinds of medicine and I think some of them may be the cause.

DEAR READER — Welcome to the club. Well over 30 million adults in the United States have similar symptoms. Go see an ear specialist for an examination. A couple of years ago there were a limited number of things that could be done for people with this problem. Now there are some things that can help.

People who have noises in the ear associated with hearing loss often benefit from proper fitting with a hearing aid. Incidentally, some people have hearing loss and don't know it because the loss doesn't involve the range of sounds used for normal human conversation.

People who have no hearing defect can have the sounds masked, in your case, masking the chirping. A little device that looks exactly like a hearing aid can be attached to the ear to provide a continuous broad spectrum noise that is not nearly so irritating. This external noise, rather than making matters worse, helps because it masks the annoying sound. Very good results have been reported with this device, called a tinnitus masker.

You should realize that this annoying problem is a symptom. It can be caused by a number of different factors, one of which is medicine. Simple aspirin can cause the problem in some people. Of course, if it is caused by something specific like that, your doctor can determine the cause and correct it for you. Otherwise, take heart, there are some methods available that could provide you the relief you're seeking.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about cirrhosis of the liver. I have been told that I have cirrhosis of the liver, but I have never even tasted any alcoholic beverages of any kind nor have I ever smoked.

DEAR READER — You know, cirrhosis of the liver means scarring of the liver. This scarring occurs because of previous injury or damage to the liver. There are many ways that the liver can be injured, even as a result of right heart failure. Fluid accumulation in the liver, stretches it and results in injuries. Also, the liver can be injured from a variety of toxins, infectious agents and from disorders of the formation and drainage of bile.

About 60 percent of all the cases of cirrhosis of the liver are caused from the excessive use of alcohol. That means about 40 percent of the people with cirrhosis of the liver have it for some other reason. Obviously, you fall in the 40 percent category.

How serious cirrhosis of the liver is literally depends upon how much permanent damage to the liver has occurred. That is extremely variable.

When it becomes ice, water swells 9 percent over its original volume, forming a wedge that may exert 30,000 pounds of pressure per square inch.

Polly Cramer

Ink stain won't wash

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — A ballpoint pen accidentally got in with a load of colored clothes and the main tail it was my husband's wash-and-wear work pants. I tried hair spray but it did not work so would appreciate other suggestions — DORIS.

DEAR DORIS — If the water were hot you may have set the stains but you might try placing the pants with stains down on some paper towels, sprinkle the back of the stains with a dry cleaning solution and hopefully transfer them to the towels. If any stains remain rub with bar soap, rinse and launder. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My daughter taught me something that I should have known myself if I had used a bit of common sense. After washing wooden handled utensils drain them with the wooden part up — otherwise the water runs down into the wood and causes it to rot. — HATTIE.

DEAR POLLY — To prevent an odor when cooking sauerkraut and other such vegetables place a piece of fresh white bread on the pan lid and the bread will absorb steam and odor.

DEAR POLLY — When going to a club meeting or family gathering put a brown store sack in your purse and when you take off your boots put them in the sack that has your name printed on it. The floor stays clean and you will have no trouble finding your own boots when ready to leave. — MRS. M.B.

DEAR POLLY — Shirley wrote that she removed the odor of fresh fish from her hands by washing them with soap and sugar but my way is less expensive. Prepare your dish water for cleaning the tools you have used and moisten your hands with cold water. Put one-fourth teaspoon either dry or prepared mustard on your hands and use as if it were soap. Rinse off in the dish water and wash the tools. No fish smell. Some may prefer using a bit more mustard. — VERA
