

Gasmen Warn Texans Against 'Panic Buying'

By JAMES R. KING
Associated Press Writer

As long as Texas motorists don't start "panic buying" gasoline they can avoid the miseries affecting the West Coast, fuel suppliers and retailers say.

Service stations operators agree supplies in Texas are as tight as they have been since the 1973-74 oil embargo, but so far the state has avoided long lines at the pumps that California motorists have suffered.

The only problems in Texas have generally been shorter station operating hours, some lines, and some limiting of sales, an Associated Press survey shows.

The survey also showed:
-The fuel situation is slightly tighter in the big cities than it is in rural areas, but generally the problem is not concentrated in any one area of the state.
-Most reports of lines at the pumps are less than five cars deep, but one station in Houston experienced a line of about 20 cars.

-Service stations are receiving only 60 to 80 percent of the amount of gasoline they sold in May of last year.

-Up to 90 percent of the filling stations in Texas cities are closed on Sundays.

-Motorists are more likely to find stations open along Interstate highways than inside the cities.

There is no relief in sight, and it will be especially hard to buy gasoline during the Memorial Day holiday because many stations will have run out of their May allocations by then.

Many Texas fuel merchants feel Californians are to blame for their own shortages.

"They created their own problems out there" by panic buying and because of the publicity, said Bill Ligon, director of the 1,300-member Texas Service Station Association.

"The papers show a picture of a long line, but don't say what percentage of the stations have long lines. You know how suggestive the American people are. First thing you know you're going to have panic buying in Texas," he said.

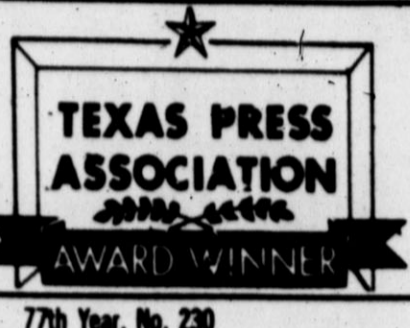

"Let's don't create a problem that we don't have."

Most service stations are stretching their reduced monthly allotments in Texas by limiting their daily sales and then closing for the day, according to O.W. Brauss, who distributes Shell gasoline to stations in North, West and Central Texas.

"Most try to stay open at least part of the day Saturday, and then close on Sunday. Monday morning lines are beginning to form because people used

Manhunt for Senators Continues

There are bigger things in life than money... bills, for instance.

ALL VIETNAM veterans in Deaf Smith County will be recognized at a May 30 joint meeting of civic and service organizations. If you know of some Vietnam veteran who might deserve special recognition for community service, submit a nomination to the county judge's office or the C of C office.

THE HEREFORD Whiteface gridders closed their Spring drills with an intra-squad game Friday evening, and it was an impressive contest. The players were apparently well divided, as the outcome was in doubt to the closing minute of action. Coach Don Cumpton and his staff have a spirited and talented group of players, and next season should be an interesting one for local football fans!

Q—Some time ago, you were asked a question about how much it cost taxpayers for the school district to fight the lawsuit filed by Texas Rural Legal Aid and then hold an election. I would like to know how much it cost the taxpayers for the school district to sue the federal government over the place system.

A—School district officials report that $23,567 was spent in their fight against the Justice Department over the disputed place system. Of course, some of that was for the submission of a pre-clearance request, required by the Justice Department when a political entity changes its voting procedure, like from the at-large to place system. Pre-clearance requests must be written and filed by an attorney.

E.B. Black House Designated 'Recorded Texas Landmark'

The historic E.B. Black residence in Hereford has been recently designated a Recorded Texas Landmark. It was announced by Cecil E. Burney, Chairman of the Texas Historical Commission. The residence has also been entered in the National Register of Historic Places.

As a result of meeting the State's requirements for this official designation, a Texas Historical Building marker with an interpretive plate, giving a capsule history of the structure, has been installed on the building.

A dedication ceremony for the marker will be held on the grounds of the house at 508 West Third Street in Hereford on May 27 at 3 p.m., it was announced by A.J. Schroeter, Chairman of the Deaf Smith County Historical Commission. A certificate designating the building a Recorded Landmark will be presented at the ceremony by Glenda G. Morgan of Odessa, a member of the Texas Historical Commission. William C. Griggs, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, will be guest speaker.

The inscription on the marker reads:

300 Seniors To Graduate

Hereford High will graduate 300 seniors during exercises beginning at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Whiteface Stadium.

In case of inclement weather, graduation will be moved to the La Plata gymnasium.

Seniors were scheduled to have baccalaureate services at 8 p.m. today either at Whiteface Stadium or the La Plata gymnasium.

The Rev. Bob Huffaker, First Nazarene Church, will provide the invocation today, the Rev. Doug Manning, First Baptist Church, the sermon, and the Rev. Johnny Tims, Frio Baptist Church, the benediction.

During commencement exercises Tuesday, Principal Jerry Don George will name the outstanding student as picked by Hereford High School faculty.

Panel Probes Rise in Assaults

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County grand jurors, concerned about the dramatic increase in aggravated assaults in Hereford last year, have been investigating possible reasons for the problem. The Brand has learned.

The grand jury, impaneled in January, subpoenaed and questioned county, city and school district officials over the last four months concerning the rise in aggravated assaults in 1978 compared to the previous year.

In 1977, Hereford police investigated 35 aggravated assaults. Last year, there were 103 similar offenses reported to police. The clearance rate for aggravated assaults last year was 35 percent, compared to 89 percent in 1977.

Crime Breakfast To Be Tuesday

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's business committee will sponsor a breakfast meeting on ways to prevent crime and how to prosecute hot-check writers at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Community Center.

The public is invited to the breakfast, but reservations must be made by Monday, according to the chamber office. Cost per person is $3, which covers the expense of the buffet breakfast.

The program will be presented by the county district attorney's office, sheriff's office and city police department. Information will be supplied on how to discourage burglary, shoplifting, employee theft and vandalism.

The grand jury, which has completed its investigation, will make recommendations to county and city officials concerning the problem.

Among those who reportedly testified before the grand jury were City Manager Dudley Bayne, Sheriff Travis McPherson and La Plata Junior High School Principal Jerry Richburg.

"They just wanted to know what the trouble was," McPherson told The Brand. "It (the investigation) was to try to find out why we had such an increase in assaults and what it would take to lessen it."

McPherson said he thought the reason

Interest Groups Pour Bundles into State Politics

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Special interest groups poured $1.88 million into Texas lawmakers' campaign funds in 1978, including half a million for legislators without even an opponent.

The $1.88 million is 55 percent of the total $3.39 million legislators reported collecting in 1978, said a copyrighted story appearing in Harte-Hanks newspapers in Texas.

"Most legislators say all that special-interest groups get for their contributions is access. Special-interest groups say that's all they want or need."

There are 847 political action committees registered with the state, representing almost every important business or professional concern.

Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, collected the most special-interest money in 1978, a total of $103,275, the series said. That included a $27,500 gift from Tex-Pac, a doctors' group. Andujar's husband is a physician.

"The amount of contribution doesn't matter," Mrs. Andujar told the Harte-Hanks reporter. "You can't buy my vote. I vote my conscience. I'm honored by the businesses that support me."

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, had $28,644 from special interest groups, the largest amount for an opposed candidate in the House.

"The ones that contribute never ask a thing," Lewis said. "Those that try to beat my butt are always the first ones down here asking for favors."

House Speaker Bill Clayton was unopposed but accepted $75,350 from special-interest groups in 1978, the Harte-Hanks story said. That was the most for any unopposed candidate in the House.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, led unopposed candidates in the Senate. Although only halfway through his four-year term, Schwartz, accepted $12,105 from special-interest groups in 1978, according to official records. Schwartz said it would be impossible for him to raise the money needed for a 1980 re-election bid in less than two years.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, was second among unopposed in the House with $12,300 from special interests.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, was second in the Senate with $98,575.

Not all legislators accept money from special-interest sources, the Harte-Hanks story said.

Rep. Forrest Green, D-Corsicana, says refusing special-interest contributions makes him independent.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the powerful Senate finance committee, says he waited until this year to accept contributions for his 1980 re-election bid. "During my campaign I accepted money from anyone as long as they understand there are no strings attached," Jones said. "I won't make any commitments on issues tied to campaign contributions."

The Harte-Hanks story said special-interest contributions to successful legislative candidates increased 44 percent from $1,304,508 in 1976 to $1,880,361 in 1978.

The biggest spender in 1978 was Tex-Pac, the doctors' lobby, with $229,600 or 93,000 more than 1976. Robert Stluka, Tex-Pac treasurer, said the contributions paved the way to talk with legislators about more than 300 health-related bills in the 1979 Legislature.

Two years ago Texas trial lawyers outspent doctors, much of it over medical malpractice legislation, or a total of $163,000. The trial lawyers dropped to $106,525 in 1978, the Harte-Hanks story said.

Dentists gave lawmakers $73,657 in 1978, compared to $40,100 in 1976.

"Our policy is to contribute to the incumbent, unless he's been anti-dentistry," said Bill K. Forbus, chairman of Den-Pac.

Certified Public Accountants gave lawmakers $61,300 last year. "We don't intend to sway votes, we just want somebody to listen to our view," said Bob West, a CPAPac member.

Sal-Pac, which represents savings and loan interest-contributed $42,500 last year. The group is active in pushing legislation for higher home loan interest rates.

Real estate men contributed the second highest total in 1978, $162,056.

Some sources estimate one-third to one-half of the campaign finance reports received form 800 candidates by the Secretary of State are faulty in some way, the Harte-Hanks story said.

"It's like filling out any government form," said Secretary of State George Strake. "Ninety-nine percent of the mistakes are honest."

Missed deadlines, omission of dates and other details and gaps and overlaps in reporting periods are typical errors.

Technically, most errors are punishable by a fine. However, the Harte-Hanks story said, Strake has not reported any violations to prosecutors. When mistakes are found, letters are written requesting additional information.

"We're trying to do what's reasonable. We don't think we were instructed to be policemen," Strake said.

Retail Beef & Prices

Show Smaller Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - Retail beef prices rose 3.1 percent in April, but it was the smallest increase of the year, according to new government figures.

Also, the Agriculture Department said Friday, retail pork prices dropped an average of 4 percent last month. That was the sharpest drop in pork prices in about two and a half years.

Farmers have stepped up hog production this year and their market prices have dropped sharply.

But the beef supply depends on much longer breeding and growth cycles for cattle and it will be several years before production is able to match demand again.

The April decline was the second in a row for retail pork prices, following a dip of 0.1 percent in March. According to department records, the 4 percent drop was the sharpest since retail pork prices dropped 5.9 percent in Nov. 1976.

Prices of U.S. Choice-grade beef averaged a record of almost $2.33 a pound on an all-cut basis in April, compared to slightly less than $2.26 in March.

Silkwood Children

Awarded $10.50

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A federal jury awarded the three children of the late Karen Silkwood $10.5 million Friday, finding that the Kerr-McGee Corp. was negligent in its operation of a nuclear fuel plant where she worked when she became contaminated with plutonium. It is the first time that a U.S. nuclear products firm has been held liable for radioactive contamination that occurred outside its plant.

Several organizations hailed the verdict as a victory for workers' rights and women's rights and said it will set a precedent for other radiation contamination cases.

"We will definitely, absolutely appeal," said Bill Paul, Kerr-McGee's chief counsel.

Miss Silkwood, 28, was a lab technician at Kerr-McGee fuel processing plant at Crescent, Okla., when she died in a Nov. 13, 1974, car crash, the week after she and her apartment were found to have been contaminated with radioactive plutonium.

The three-man, three-woman jury that returned the verdict of $10 million in punitive damages and $505,000 in actual damages rejected the company's assertion that Miss Silkwood stole plutonium and took it to her Edmond, Okla., apartment to spike her urine samples. The company contends that she did this to back her charges of unsafe working conditions.

Exports Expected

To Reach Record

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm exports, a cornerstone of the U.S. agricultural economy, are now expected to total a record of $32 billion this fiscal year, up 17.2 percent from last season.

The new estimate, announced Friday by the Agriculture Department, also is $1.7 billion more than officials had predicted three months ago for the fiscal year that will end Sept. 30. Exports in 1977-78 totaled $27.3 billion, a record.

Officials said the volume of commodities is expected to reach a record of 126.8 million metric tons, up 4 percent from 121.7 million last fiscal year, the previous high. In February, volume was projected at 121.9 million metric tons, only slightly more than last year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. The department's outlook board said in its report that "most of the anticipated growth is due to higher unit values" of many commodities, including wheat, soybean meal, meat, tallow, soybeans, corn, tobacco and cotton.

Significant gains in tonnage from last year were reported for soybeans, grain, tobacco and rice.

Roloff Measure

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Radio evangelist Lester Roloff's legislative efforts to avoid state licensing of his homes for wayward youngsters have taken a possibly fatal setback.

The House, whose presiding officer was in Roloff's corner, voted 78-59, to delay action on the "Brother Roloff Bill" until May 26.

That's two days before the regular legislative session ends, and under House rules the bill could not be debated then.

"I'm glad that the House decided not to involve itself in what I feel was an attempt by the state's chief executive officer, Governor Clements, and the state's chief law enforcement officer, Attorney General Mark White, to squirm off the political griddle," said Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls.

Allred, a part-time minister in the Christian Church Disciples of Christ, led the House fight against the bill.

Gov. Bill Clements who received campaign help from Roloff and his allies, also had declared himself in favor of exempting the Roloff homes from licensing and inspection by the State Department of Human Resources.

The Austin American-Statesman quoted sponsors of the Roloff bill as saying it had been drafted in the offices of Clements and White.

Energy Crisis Compared to 1941

WASHINGTON (AP) - It all sounds very familiar: a campaign for energy conservation, an effort to promote car pooling and lower driving speeds, a call for Sunday gasoline station shutdowns.

None of it worked, in part because people did not believe there really was a gas shortage. That was the summer of 1941.

But not even World War II was enough to convince Americans to cut their gasoline consumption voluntarily, and the efforts at persuasion yielded to the compulsion of rationing. The pattern hasn't changed much in 38 years. But with no demonstrable nationwide crisis to force action, the administration does not appear likely to get rationing authority.

Congress long ago instructed the White House to submit a standby rationing program. When President Carter finally got around to it, he had to overhaul his program in order to get it through the Senate, and the House wouldn't buy it at all.

The president called that "a remarkable display of political timidity" and told Congress to figure out its own plan. But House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. says there aren't enough votes to approve any rationing plan.

Gasoline always has been a topic to inspire political timidity, since most motorists also are voters. When a majority of them believe the oil shortage is a hoax, it becomes far more difficult for a politician to tell his constituents they may have to get by on less fuel.

"We do not have an energy crisis," said Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, as the House argued the standby rationing plan. Symms said it is the government's fault.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, one of only seven Republicans to support the Carter plan, took the politically risky route. "We should not kid anyone that if we just jigger the rationing formula one way or another people can continue with their present driving habits," he said. "That is just not possible and we had better impress that fact on the American people." Since the whole idea of any rationing plan is to reduce consumption and spread a shortage equitably, Anderson's observation made sense if not good politics. Carter's plan was to distribute rationing coupons on the basis of car registrations.

Special City Commission

Meet Is Short

Hereford city commissioners Thursday extended Water Industries' contract with the city in order to have an additional well drilled in northwest Hereford.

The special meeting lasted only a few minutes. Commissioners will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Monday to appoint three members to the city tax equalization board, authorize aerial application of insect-control chemicals and discuss Southwestern Public Service Company's recently enacted rate increase.

Applications Accepted For Summer Youth Jobs

Applications are still being accepted for the Deaf Smith County Summer Youth Employment program, which will begin June 4, according to county Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) coordinator Loretta Kindfather.

The program is designed to develop work skills in the county's young people and provide lower-income in-school youth the opportunity to earn money for school expenses.

Persons between the ages of 14 and 22 will be considered for jobs at various county work sites. Applications may be obtained through May 31 from Mrs. Kindfather in the CETA office of the county courthouse or from Gene Brock at Hereford High School.

Obituaries

FRIEDA B. WYSSMANN - Mrs. John (Frieda B.) Wyssmann, 72, of Covington, Okla., died May 13 while attending church services at Covington. She was the mother of a Hereford resident, John R. Wyssmann, 228 Ave. B. She was also the grandmother of Bob Wyssmann of Hereford.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Covington, where Mrs. Wyssmann was buried.

Born Nov. 13, 1896 in Canton, Kans., she moved to Oklahoma as a child. She married John Wyssmann Feb. 16, 1916, at Fairmont, Okla. He died in 1966.

Mrs. Wyssmann had been a resident of Covington since 1928.

She is survived by four daughters, two sons, a sister, 28 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren.

Police Have Suspect In Shooting Incident

Danny Hernandez, 16, was critically wounded by a rifle shot at 407 E. 13th late Friday night. Police received a call concerning the shooting at 11:26 p.m.

Saturday, no arrests had been made but police had a suspect. "That's all we can release at this time. It's still under investigation," a police department spokesman said. Police arrested a 24-year-old female on a shoplifting charge Friday after she allegedly stole $21.47 worth of items from M.E. Moses Co., Sugarland Mall.

A Dimmitt man was arrested in the Sears parking lot, 5th and Main, at 12:18 a.m. Friday on charges of drunk and in control of a motor vehicle and misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Officers investigated three minor traffic accidents Friday.

Hospital Experiences Low Patient Days

Deaf Smith General Hospital experienced a decrease in patient days and lost $6,953 in April, according to a report presented to the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board last week.

Hospital administrator Jim Bullard said the decrease and related revenue loss was not a surprise.

"April is historically nonproductive as far as patient days," Bullard said.

Last month, there were 875 patient days in April and $6,953 in expenses over revenue, according to the report. In April, 1978, there were 718 patient days.

In March, Bullard said, there were 1,021 patient days.

The hospital district board during its brief and routine meeting amended its bylaws to allow vacancies of office on the board to be filled for the unexpired terms by a majority vote of the remaining directors. County commissioner would have appointed board members under the previous bylaw.

The bylaws were changed so that the board could appoint a replacement for Kathryn Acton, who announced her resignation at the meeting. Mrs. Acton and her husband are moving from Hereford.

The board discussed possible replacements for Mrs. Acton in an executive session following the open portion of the meeting.

Assaults

may be a change in attitudes. "I suppose people are just getting more violent, but I'm not sure what the answer is. We just don't know why the sudden increase in violent crimes. It concerns me," he said.

McPherson said his office has been unable to control assaults because deputies are not paid overtime. "I'm not so much understaffed at the present time. But we have a problem having enough people on all the time. My people don't get paid overtime, and I can't ask them to put in any more than they already do."

Bayne said he was asked about turnover in the police department and the pay scale. Neither is a problem, he said.

"I think it was determined they were not (problems). I don't consider ours a large turnover and our pay scale is higher than any community in the area. We're at Amarillo's or above," Bayne said. "As to what they're looking into (assaults), I think that's a problem."

Richburg said he was asked about violence "from the school's standpoint. I told them that in relation to violent crimes in school, there's not any way we can prevent them without getting a rumor ahead of time."

Fugitives

said Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston. "The system is not to hide out, to be a fugitive from the law and to give yourself a fancy name."

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, said, "It's an embarrassment." The "Brother Roloff" bill, exempting child care institutions from state regulation if children are placed in their custody by court order, received a possibly farial blow in the House.

The legislation would have exempted from state licensing and inspection several homes for wayward young people operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Representatives voted 78-50 to postpone the bill until May 26, two days before the regular legislative session ends.

Cancer patients whose chemotherapy causes nausea could legally use marijuana for relief under a bill that gained tentative House approval. The measure faces one more House vote before going to the Senate.

A consumer protection bill for bereaved relatives, which also continues state regulation of undertakers, won final House approval Friday, 136-0.

The bill preserving the State board of Morticians and compelling undertakers to obey two dozen consumer protection rules returns to the Senate for action on changes made by the House.

The State Bar of Texas would be retained as a state agency under legislation approved by a 120-15 House vote. The bill also would preserve the rule that all lawyers must be members of the state bar to practice law. Six non-lawyers would be added to the bar's 36-member board of directors.

All legal questions as to the legality of the bar's ownership of the Texas Law Center and the $6 million debt to build the structure would be removed. In addition, the Texas Supreme Court would have to approve the bar's annual budget after holding public hearings on it.

Two other agencies - the State Board of Private Accountancy and the Texas Cosmetology Commission - also were extended under House action Friday. The Senate must consider House amendments on the extension of all three agencies.

Legislation authorizing 18 percent interest on chiefly commercial loans of $250,000 or more was tentatively approved by an 82-47 House vote. The measure, which faces a final House vote, lowers the current minimum of $500,000 for high-interest commercial loans and would let proprietors as well as corporations borrow at the higher rates.

Deaf persons would receive more authority on the Texas Commission for the Deaf under a bill approved by a 121-3 House vote.

The commission would be expanded from six to nine members with a greater representation of deaf persons, professionals serving the deaf and parents of deaf children. The measure returns to the Senate for consideration of House amendments.

Gasoline

gasoline during the weekend. During the middle of the week it goes pretty smooth," said Brauss.

He said the situation will probably get worse toward the end of the month as retailers use up their allocations and "we could have more lines. We're talking about four to five cars - not long lines," he said. "Also, supplies are tighter in the metropolitan areas than in rural areas."

Glenn Nilsson, executive director of the Houston-based Lone Star Service Station Association, said rural supplies may be higher because city dwellers are afraid to journey into the countryside.

"We're probably going to have a tight supply toward the end of the month especially in the metropolitan centers more than in the rural areas," Nilsson said.

The Texas Coast, where much of the nation's gasoline is refined, was not immune to the tight supplies.

"We're having shortages on the Gulf Coast as well as other places in the country," said Texaco spokesman Chris Kiersied.

Nilsson said Houston has already experienced "some panic buying."

"We're not running into long lines, except in the immediate downtown area when people are stopping for gas on their way home from work."

One station reported a line of between 20 and 22 cars on May 11.

"There is some panic buying," he said. "The majority of people in the lines were working off the top half of their tanks."

Spot checks in Dallas reveal that many stations are closing their pumps at midday and 90 percent are shut off by nightfall. The weekend problems have moved to weekdays. Unleaded gas is in short supply and likely to continue that way, the Dallas AAA said.

Both Nilsson and Ligon said if stations in Texas are closed during the long Memorial Day weekend it will be for lack of gasoline - and not part of a protest against government pricing policies threatened by some stations nationally.

"There is no protest involved, but everyone I've talked to - 35 or 40 stations - say they will be closed Memorial Day," Nilsson said.

"By any logical standards, our earnings are not excessive."

— Maurice F. Granville, chairman of Texaco, reporting his oil firm's profits for the first quarter of 1979 surpassed the 1978 total by 81 percent. Texaco's first-quarter net income rose to $366.3 million from $189.7 million.

"Some people complain when you stake a goat on a front lawn."

— Harold Norris, an El Cajon, Calif., accountant, predicting his new Rent-A-Goat service won't catch on in America's suburbs. Most of his initial customers have used the rented goats to eat underbrush in canyons.

We want to make the non-smoker a peer that younger students will look up to.

— Dr. E.L. Wynder, reporting in the New England Journal of Medicine that efforts to prevent children from smoking cigarettes has been ineffective. He says current programs fail to resolve the problem of social pressures.

"On the whole, I am convinced that the sacrificial lamb in the years of governmental inquiries has been the truth."

— Utah Gov. Scott Matheson, charged the U.S. government, for years, had concealed the dangers of radiation from atomic bomb testing in Nevada in the 1950s. Health experts are reviewing the long-term difficulties.

"I think I'm through driving."

— Mrs. Bessie Richardson, 83, after driving a U-Haul truck 1,700 miles from Coolidge, Ariz., to Caseyville, Ill., in four days. With her car in tow, Mrs. Richardson (accompanied by a 78-year-old traveling companion) was transporting her furniture in order to move in with her widowed daughter.

Vietnam Veterans' Names Sought For Special Program

All Vietnam veterans will be recognized and special Presidential Certificates will be presented to some in a Vietnam Veterans Week program here May 30.

A steering committee composed of representatives from service and veterans organizations has made plans for a joint luncheon May 30 in conjunction with the Lion's Club weekly meeting.

In order to insure that all Vietnam veterans of the county are recognized, citizens and veterans are being asked to submit names to the county judge's office, or to the chamber of commerce office. There is a form in this issue of The Brand for that purpose.

Judge Glen Nelson, chairman of the steering committee, is also urging citizens to submit nominations for those Vietnam veterans who might be eligible for the special Presidential Certificate, which honors them for community service. Nominations will be accepted at the judge's office, or the C of C office.

Tentative plans have been made for a banquet to be sponsored by the two veterans' organizations — The VFW and American Legion.

Vietnam Veterans Week, May 28-June 3, has been proclaimed by President Jimmy Carter and Gov. Bill Clements. Both proclamations point to a lack of recognition for those who served in Southeast Asia, due to the unpopularity of the Vietnam action. Gov. Clements urges all citizens to take this occasion "to express their sincere appreciation to the Vietnam Era Veterans." There are some 500,000 Vietnam veterans living in Texas.

Hereford TRLA Office Files Complaint in Dimmitt

The Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal aid has filed a complaint with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare against Plains Memorial hospital in Dimmitt for alleged violations of the hospital's agreement in the federal Hill-Burton program.

Under the voluntary Hill-Burton program, hospitals receiving money for construction from the government agree to give free care or reduced costs to persons requiring admittance. The hospital must not refuse medical treatment to any persons because of lack of money. TRLA attorney David Hashmall was quoted as saying by the Castro County News.

HEW will have up to six months to rule on the complaint and its ruling could serve as the basis for a civil suit against the hospital, Hashmall said, according to the Dimmitt newspaper.

Business Profits At Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business profits continued at record levels in the first three months of this year, with much of the gain attributed to inflation, the government said Friday.

But, when adjusted for taxes and inflation, profits from current production actually showed a 6 percent drop in the first quarter to an annual $166 billion total, a Commerce Department statement said.

"That's the first decline since the first quarter of last year, when weather was awful and there was a coal strike," said department spokesman Kenneth A. Petrick.

Hereford Realtor Gets Special Certification

Hereford Realtor Melvin G. Jayroe has been awarded the certified residential specialist (CRS) designation by the Realtors National Marketing Institute, the primary educational affiliate of the National Association of Realtors.

The award was announced during the Marketing Institute's annual May meetings in Chicago. Hereford now has two CRS designees, Gene Campbell, who works with Jayroe at Lone Star Agency, also was recently honored.

To earn the CRS designation, a candidate must previously have earned the Graduate Realtors Institute designation from the national association by completing required courses. The designee also must have several years' experience in residential sales.

Jayroe is co-owner and manager of the real estate department of Lone Star, 601 N. Main. He is a member of the Lions Club, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Toastmasters, United Way, Brothers Big Sisters and West Texas State University Ex-Students Association.

Mexico's Oil Reserves Too High, Says Expert

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 40 billion barrels of oil Mexico has claimed to hold in proved reserves is far too high an estimate. The Los Angeles Times quoted petroleum experts as saying in today's edition.

Numerous petroleum experts in Mexico City and the United States said Mexico has large quantities of oil, but not nearly as much as Mexican officials have estimated, the paper reported.

One key source said the figure may be half what the Mexican government has estimated.

James W. Watson, senior vice president of DeGolyer and MacNaughton, the U.S. firm hired by Mexico to certify its oil discoveries, said Mexico's proved oil reserves are well below 28 billion barrels.

"We've reminded the Mexican government over and over about the danger of losing credibility," Watson said. "We've been trying to hold them back."

HEREFORD FIRE RISK THIS WEEK: HIGH

If you think you're protected from the threat of death by fire because you own a smoke detector, you may be in for a rude awakening. Fires can move with lightning speed, and while a smoke detector will give you extra time, it won't tell you what to do. More than 5,000 Americans will die in home fires this year, according to the National Safety Council. Most of these deaths will occur in fires at night. Many people will put their lives in jeopardy when they wake disoriented and unable to think quickly and clearly. In these cases fear and panic can be as dangerous as the fire itself. Some people will injure themselves when they panic and run through smoke and flames to other rooms of the house or jump from high windows.

THE REAL CRISIS

The real crisis of the fuel crisis is not that some Californians are beating up one another while they wait in line for gas. Californians should be used to waiting in line by now. They had to line up to get in the place. They line up on freeways, at hot-dog stands and bathrooms, so why not gas stations?

A few more weeks of this and the folks out there might be more willing to let the ships carrying crude from Alaska park in one of their ports. They might even let a pipeline be built across their precious state.

The real crisis of the fuel crisis is not even the changes it may bring to our life styles. Who knows, some of the changes might be good.

What if...it caused us all to slow down about four notches not just in highway speed but in life rate.

What if...it restored neighborhoods and communities. These died when we all found out how to get to another town in a hurry. When it was the only thing going, the community barn dance was marvelous. We have been looking for a substitute for it ever since. The lack of gas might bring us home again.

What if...there developed a great enough shortage of energy that no one anywhere in the world could ever waste any of it on war. Nations would just have to say, "I would like to fight you but I can't get the oil. Maybe next year, or how about my neighboring country. They have a little extra. Maybe they would like a war."

The real crisis of the fuel crisis is not what it will do to us. The real crisis is no one believes there is a crisis. I do not mean this in the sense of everyone thinking the oil companies are holding back waiting for the big price. Let the stuff hit a buck a gallon and see how much they suddenly find.

The crisis is, our government has told us there is a crisis and no one knows whether to believe them or not. If we have lost faith in the credibility of our government to this degree, then we are in a crisis indeed. A democracy can stand unless its people believe in it. The fuel crisis reminds us once again how much of this belief we have lost.

The losing of it is the crisis!

Warm fuzzies,

Plan Is Sick

Medical care in the United States has become big business, an industry that is now taking in an estimated $200 billion a year. The cost of health care has been increasing faster than the general cost of living. Americans today are spending four times as much on health care as they did in 1950.

The health care industry is the third largest in the U.S., employing almost five million people. But unlike other industries, where competition provides a keen incentive to keep prices down, there is almost no cost competition in medicine.

Americans have assumed that when it comes to medical care, you get what you pay for — that the higher the bill the better the care. Only recently have patients begun to question whether they are paying for more than they are getting.

The rise of private medical insurance plans and government plans such as Medicaid and Medicare that pay whatever is charged by whomever the patient selects have further reduced the patient's incentive to price shop and the medical profession's incentive to hold down prices. The approach thus has been to find new ways to pay the ever-escalating medical bills with little attention paid to providing quality care at less cost.

That is the problem with the Carter administration's proposal for a national health insurance plan that would, by 1983, provide catastrophic coverage for all Americans and increase Medicaid and Medicare benefits. Projected costs would be $10 to $15 billion in the first year alone. It is a scheme which simply asks medical consumers to pay more and more through taxes, and raises medical costs through additional bureaucratic paperwork.

The solution must come from the private sector — from patients and insurance plans using their purchasing power to force cost controls on the medical industry, by, for example, eliminating wasteful, duplicating and underused facilities and services.

The administration's proposal seems to make as much sense as paying a brain surgeon's fees to treat a cut finger.

Thumbing Back

50 YEARS AGO

"Beautiful," an over-worked but nevertheless potent word, seems to be the only word that will describe Hereford's new $80,000 Baptist church which inside and out is uniquely and unusually beautiful for a church. This colorful edifice is a brilliant answer to those peevish persons who complain that Protestant churches are drab, unattractive "plants" of cement and brick.

First Pete Engle bought a lot of unmarketable old cows. Then he bought a grinder and fed the cows ground feed, native grain and bundle stuff. The cows fattened quickly. When Engle sold them recently they brought 10 cents per pound.

Two movie stars, a Pioneer Day Parade, and at least 22 floats in the Pioneer Day Parade will be among the attractions which will be featured during the three-day celebration.

From Hollywood, Forrest Tucker and Tony Romano, his partner, who is also classified as a top-notch entertainer, are coming. They are being brought to Hereford through the co-operation of the Hereford, Texas Water Company, which distributes water from "the town without a toothache" on a commercial basis.

10 YEARS AGO

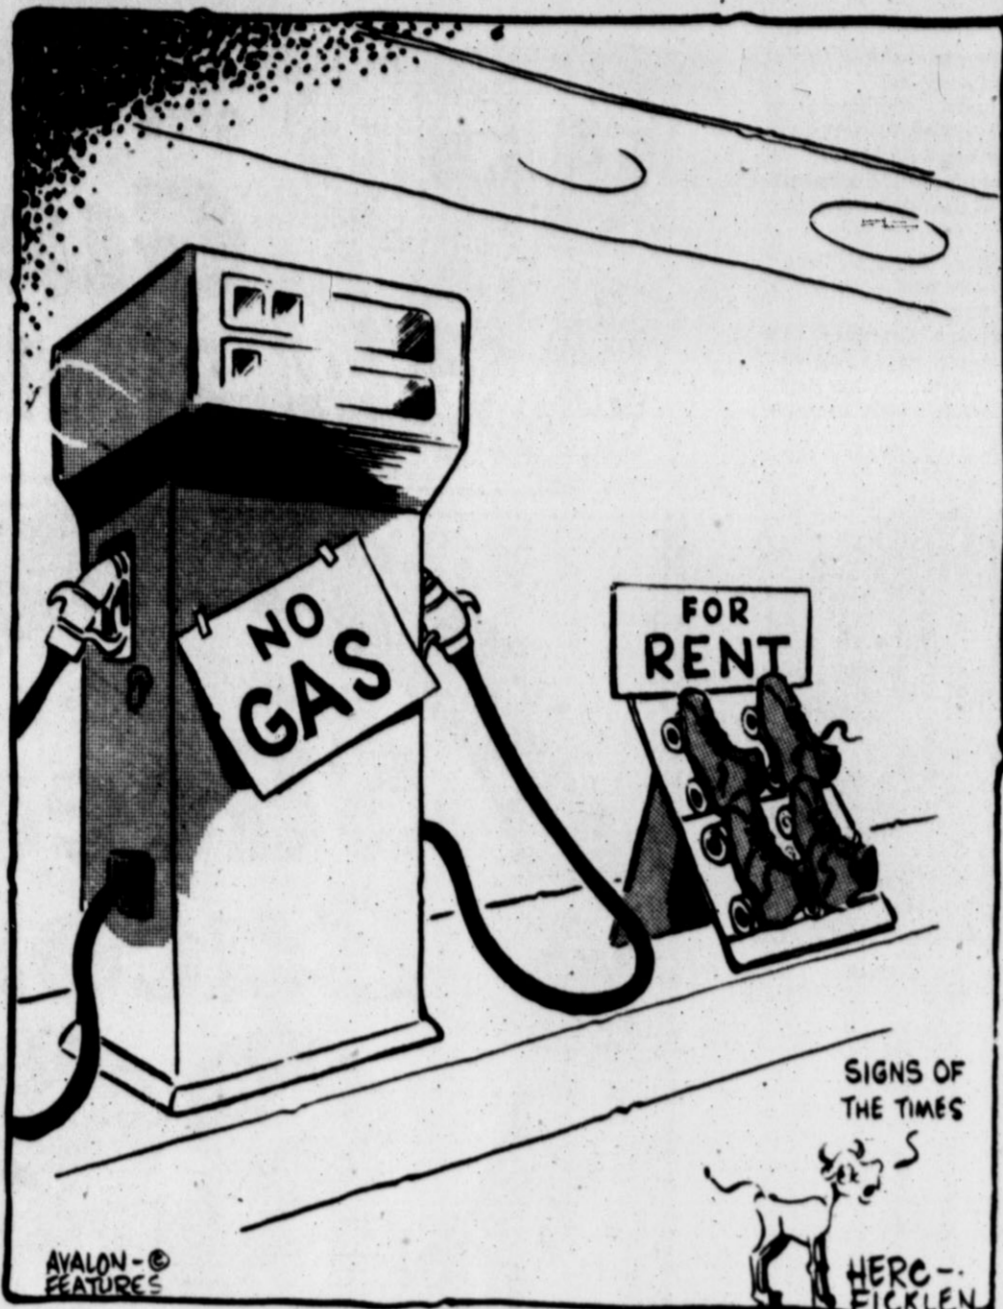

Although the total vote count which decided the $500,000 hospital bond issue was half that of the two previous bond elections here, Deaf Smith County voters still marked another step toward progress by passing the issue almost exactly two to one.

Fiddling While We Line Up

WASHINGTON (NEA) - As an act of statesmanship, the refusal of Congress to grant President Carter standby gasoline rationing authority ranks about on a par with Nero's famous fiddling routine.

There is, it seems, nothing quite like the energy problem — especially as it affects that great American love object, the automobile — to bring out the worst in the nation's lawmakers.

It's too bad the House members who rejected the president's plan so blithely on a Thursday afternoon promptly fled town for their usual long weekend. Had they stuck around, they might have enjoyed a preview of coming attractions in the long lines of panicky drivers which promptly formed at Washington area gas stations and sucked the pumps dry within 36 hours.

As Carter himself observed following the House vote last week, anyone who wants to see gasoline rationed "has taken leave of their senses." But anyone who thinks rationing is worse than the sort of chaos that hit this area over the weekend and continues unabated in California is even crazier.

Many House members are now trying to blame inept administration lobbying for the demise of the standby rationing plan, charging that Carter's representatives failed to explain it properly, left too many questions unanswered and made too many last-minute changes.

This is one time, however, when such excuses simply won't wash. The rationing plan was on Capitol Hill a full 60 days and was, with the rest of the president's energy package, the subject of extensive hearings.

Only in the last few days before the vote did opposition to the plan surface, and then it was almost entirely parochial in nature. Senators and House members were not attacking the Carter proposal because it was imperfect as a national blueprint, but because of its impact on their own states or districts.

The changes Carter was forced to accept in order to push his plan through the Senate turned out to make it harder to sell in the House. The president was caught in a no-win situation as every individual legislator scrambled to protect his or her own constituents regardless of the effect on the rest of the country.

What is particularly disturbing about the congressional performance is the fact that the entire flap erupted over a purely precautionary move on Carter's part. The president wasn't seeking to institute rationing anytime in the immediate future; he was simply seeking authority to act when and if supply shortages become critical. Before he could implement any rationing plan, both houses of Congress would get another crack — and the chance to veto an unacceptable program.

Three successive presidents, two Republicans and one Democrat, have tried throughout this decade to persuade Congress to face up to the implications of an ever-growing energy crisis. All three have been repeatedly rebuffed by lawmakers who refuse to acknowledge that sacrifices are unavoidable and the only question is how to spread them most equitably.

No one can keep the rain from falling merely by refusing to buy an umbrella, and Congress cannot prevent gasoline shortages from developing simply by rejecting the concept of rationing.

If the president is denied authority to ration gasoline once supplies run low, then the oil companies and individual dealers will do it for him — and in a far more arbitrary, capricious and expensive fashion than any plan the government might impose.

Bootleg Philosopher

Government Fish Story

[Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm examines a couple of light items this week.]

Dear Editor:

I've concluded you can look high and low for something funny and find it in both places.

For example, the Supreme Court ruled last week that it is not unconstitutional to carry minnows from one state to another.

Another example: when California adopted the odd-even gas rationing plan where car owners with license plates ending in an odd number can buy gas one day, those with an even number the next, wouldn't it could get that far is what's funny — the High Court put on its black robes, pondered, and announced that the way it understands the Constitution it's all right to carry a minnow from one state to another.

The court failed to say, in protection of the minnows, what size minnow-bucket is Constitutional.

Another example: when California adopted the odd-even gas rationing plan where car owners with license plates ending in an odd number can buy gas one day, those with an even number the next, wouldn't you know it wouldn't take more than 30 minutes for somebody with an odd number, needing gas on an even-number day, to figure out a way to beat the system? Just borrow a friend's even-number license plate and rush down to the service station and fill up.

I don't recommend this. The government will eventually capture you and when the case gets to the Supreme Court there's no telling how the court will rule, after it gets through seining for minnows.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Who's Doing the Ripping Off?

WASHINGTON (AP) - It's spring. America is in full blossom and the countryside grows more beautiful by the day. But this year, many Americans have been distracted from that beauty by an increasingly ugly reality — the energy crisis, which has given way to longer lines, higher prices and hotter tempers at the gas pumps.

The public is looking for explanations and leadership. But it's gotten little more than hot air — irresponsible rhetoric suggesting our energy crisis might disappear if enough Americans simply go after the petroleum industry with a hatchet, and if enough of them form vigilante groups to spy on each other and force down "unreasonable prices." I do not have all the answers, but let me share with you a few facts.

First, the oil companies are not creating a shortage to increase prices. A real shortage already exists. The seeds of that shortage were planted in late 1971 when the federal government — supposedly to "protect" consumers — decided to "artificially" control domestic oil prices. The effect was precisely the opposite because through its decision the United States government flashed the following message to the rest of the world: We don't care how much it costs to drill deep wells and explore for oil. (An offshore installation can cost hundreds of millions of dollars.) The price our domestic producers receive will remain fixed, and we're going to rely on the goodwill of foreign oil producers to ensure the balance of our energy needs at reasonable prices.

Result? As costs rose, domestic exploration predictably began drying up. The United States became progressively more dependent upon the OPEC cartel, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. And OPEC has vividly demonstrated that it has the gift of grab. OPEC now jacks up prices (an increase of approximately 500 percent per barrel in six years), and manipulates supplies almost at will. The United States is dangerously vulnerable.

Our immediate problems pinpoint that vulnerability. The revolution in Iran led to a temporary but complete interruption in that country's oil exports. Those exports have not been resumed, but not at their prior levels. That means the United States is now receiving about 700,000 barrels a day less than it normally would, which represents a shortfall of about 3.5 percent of normal supplies. Not much you might say, and you'd be right. But look what else is happening to aggravate the problem.

While we are seeing a reduction in the supply of crude oil, we are also witnessing a tremendous increase in the demand for gasoline—demand for unleaded gasoline is up more than 20 percent over last year. The government has mandated the increased use of unleaded fuel, even though it gobbles up more oil per barrel in the refining process than does leaded fuel.

And to make matters worse, expensive government price and environmental regulations have sharply reduced our refining capacity. Only one major refinery has been built anywhere in the United States for six years, and none on the East coast for 20 years. What a way to run a country that runs on gasoline!

The federal government also insists refineries process a greater share of their crude oil into home heating oil than into gasoline stocks—just the opposite of what usually happens at this time of year. Hopefully this additional sacrifice of gasoline supplies will at least prevent schools, offices and homes from being without heat.

Finally, the oil companies have had to voluntarily reduce the amount of gas they deliver to their stations under contract to try to lessen the impact of the gasoline shortage. Stations are being allocated gas on the basis of the quantity of gas they sold during 1977-78, not on the basis of their overhead. That means self-service stations might receive more gas than full-service stations, even though the latter need to sell more gas to cover their high overhead and stay in business.

These are just some of the reasons why lines at service stations are lengthening and prices are rising. Still, even at 80 cents a gallon, gas costs less than half here than it does in much of Europe. In fact, since 1939, the price of gas has risen less than most of the food we eat, and a wage earner works fewer minutes to purchase a gallon today than his counterpart did in 1939.

Who really makes the money on the gas you buy? From the time the oil leaves the sand in the Mideast to the moment it fills up your tank as gasoline, all government, both foreign and domestic, can take up to 65 cents of every dollar you pay. And after subtracting costs for refining, storage, transportation, marketing and local dealers, the oil companies are left with about two cents net profit. The real question Americans should be asking is: Who's ripping off whom?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The Hereford Chamber Singers wishes to express its appreciation for the support which the Hereford Brand has shown during these past four years.

Without this help, the recently performed concerts could not have been as successful as they were. It is the desire of the Singers that, with the continued assistance or organizations such as yours, the motto of "Human Relations through Music" may indeed be fulfilled.

This next Tuesday the Business Committee of the Chamber will be sponsoring a breakfast seminar to discuss various types of crime that are prevalent in this area. To go along with this, ways to help prevent or slow down these crimes will be discussed.

The seminar will be conducted by the District Attorney's office, the Sheriff's Department and the Police Department. Each group will discuss specific areas that are of most concern to us.

This seminar will prove very worthwhile to all of our Hereford business employers and also the employees. In order for all of our Hereford businesses to maintain the profits that are necessary, it is very important to be certain that we are doing all that we can in helping prevent an increase in all types of crime.

Some of the types of crime that will be discussed will include "hot checks," shoplifting and vandalism. There are some changes in the laws that relate to these various crimes and these will also be discussed.

The crime seminar is open to the public. It will begin at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Community Center. This public service project is being held for all of the Hereford area. It will be an excellent opportunity for both employers and employees to find out about the things that hurt us the most. This will also be for farmers and ranchers.

Call in your reservation by calling 364-3333. The cost is $3. the cost of the breakfast.

Plan now for your place of business to be represented.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department will be sponsoring a special musical concert on June 8, at the Hereford High School Football Stadium. The purpose of the concert will be to purchase new life saving equipment for Hereford.

The concert will be conducted by a group from South Plains College. You might recall that the Chamber sponsored this group year before last. They now have an all-new excellent show.

This is a very worthwhile project, so plan now to attend.

Children Like Sponges' Soak Up Our Behavior

[Editor's note: The following was written by Family Services Center caseworker Peggy Avent in conjunction with National Mental Health Month.]

One of the most perplexing problems facing families today is the dilemma of how to guide our children to become responsible, emotionally healthy individuals. The old methods of discipline that we learned as children don't seem to work today with the new generation of young people.

The Family Service Center is an agency which deals with mental health and we believe that an important part of this is helping the ordinary family learn how to deal with the problems their children present. Parents don't have to be perfect. This causes guilt and sets unrealistic goals for the children. Your child doesn't have to be perfect either. Children are like sponges that soak up our patterns of behavior, and learn how to solve problems and deal with life by watching us. Parents shouldn't totally sacrifice for their children but should give them encouragement whenever possible.

New approaches in child guidance are increasingly focusing on helping the child take responsibility for his own action through respect, encouragement, and natural logical consequences. More and more child guidance clinics and counselors are turning to the guidance of Rudolf Dreikurs and his book, Children: The Challenge, to help deal with the problems parents and children are dealing with now.

Dreikurs points out that in order for any discipline to be effective the parents must have a good relationship with their children based on love and respect. It is important to understand that more than anything else a child needs to feel like he belongs and is noticed. He may make wrong conclusions about how he can find this feeling of belonging.

Dreikurs believes that the concepts of reward and punishment are outdated. A child soon believes a reward is his right and demands a reward for everything. He believes that punishment gives him the right to punish his parents by refusing to eat or study, or by fighting or other disturbing misbehavior.

Natural and logical consequences are ways in which the child is allowed to take responsibility for his own behavior and learn from it. Natural consequences are the direct result of the child's behavior. For example: A child is careless, falls down, and hurts his knee. Next time he will be more careful.

Logical consequences are established by the parents and are the direct result of the child's misbehavior. For example if a school age child is late for dinner, instead of reminding or punishing, mother should quietly remove his plate. No matter how angry or upset the child becomes the parents should remain friendly and assume that the child was not hungry enough to come when dinner was served. Mother should not lecture him about being on time, and she should not give in and fix a special plate for him.

Instead of parents using superior strength and authority to maintain order, the child can learn the right behavior through his own experience.

Children want so very much to be a part of the family, yet when they try to do their part, to gain recognition, or to find a place they are constantly discouraged. We constantly make them feel we doubt and think of them as inept, unskilled, and generally inferior and we show our superiority. Encouragement is a continuous process aimed at giving the child a sense of self-respect and feelings of accomplishment. A bruised knee will mend. Bruised courage may last a lifetime.

VFW Conducts Drive For Sickroom Items

Dick Oakes, VFW Post Commander, announced Friday that the Veterans of Foreign Wars is conducting a campaign to obtain sickroom equipment which will be used on a free and temporary basis by residents of Deaf Smith County.

The equipment will be located to serve residents "quickly and conveniently in their homes," Oakes said.

"This sickroom equipment is being paid for through the sales of subscriptions of well-known magazines. No donations will be accepted by the salesman who calls on you, or by the organization. We feel that this equipment will help our people in time of need, and it is hoped that residents of our county will co-operate in this worthwhile endeavor.

"You will receive full value for the money expended and at the same time help place this fine equipment in our community for the free use of our neighbors."

Clerk-Carrier Exams Set By Local Post Office

Hereford Postmaster Nolan Grady has announced that clerk-carrier entrance examinations will continue through 4:30 p.m. Friday and urged "all those interested" to apply for the job-related test.

"I do not want to give the impression we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," Grady said. "I anticipate approximately four vacancies will occur in the next two years which will be filled by hiring people from our updated register."

Application forms for the exam may be picked up at the Hereford Post Office from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Starting salary for clerk-carriers, part-time flexible, is $7.53 per hour, with step increases up to $8.82 per hour over an eight-year period, Grady said.

Carter Rated As Good Comic

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter chalked up a virtuoso performance as a comic at a recent dinner of the White House Correspondents' Association. He jibed at potential political rivals and poked fun at assembled reporters more than once.

"Put away your crayons," he told the journalists, facetiously insisting his talk was off the record.

Naturally, Carter didn't suggest, "perhaps an editor might divide his paper into four chapters, heading the first, Truths; second, Probabilities; third, Possibilities; fourth, Lies."

That was Thomas Jefferson's line in 1807, and other early presidents also signaled they might have been able to adapt to an era of White House jokers and TV sitcoms.

Later on came such quipsters as Abraham Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy and Woodrow Wilson, who was a funnier man than is commonly thought.

Told by a Republican senator that "we were praying for you" during an illness, Democrat Wilson asked: "Which way, senator?"

The Father of his Country would hardly qualify as Johnny Carson of presidents. But he got off a few, too, notes Bill Adler in his book, "Presidential Wit from Washington to Johnson."

George Washington once wrote a letter to a woman who had penned a poem about him. Such an assignment, he said, would be like "the edict of the Pharaoh which compelled the children of Israel to manufacture bricks without the necessary ingredients."

That type of self-deprecating humor has been a favorite of modern presidents. Said John F. Kennedy in 1961: "I do not think it entirely inappropriate to introduce myself to this audience. I am the man who accompanied Jacqueline Kennedy to Paris...."

Congress has always been a good target. Jefferson cracked in 1821:

"If congressmen talk too much, how can it be otherwise in a body to which the people send one hundred and fifty lawyers, whose trade it is to question everything, yield nothing, and talk by the hour?"

No Grover Cleveland wit is listed in the book, but he and all presidents might be covered by Harry Truman's remark:

"Any man who has had the job I've had and didn't have a sense of humor wouldn't be here."

Oliver Cromwell dissolved the Long Parliament in 1653.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, May 20, the 140th day of 1979. There are 225 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Homestead Act, opening millions of acres of land to settlement in the American West.

On this date: In 1507, Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1861, North Carolina voted to secede from the Union. In 1902, the United States ended its occupation of Cuba. In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight across the Atlantic to Paris, taking off from New York's Roosevelt Field in his monoplane, The Spirit of St. Louis.

In 1943, during World War II, the United States and Britain ratified a treaty abolishing extra-territorial rights in China. In 1968, the U.S. Supreme Court reaffirmed the right to a jury trial for anyone charged with a serious crime.

Ten years ago: The United Presbyterian Church urged the Nixon Administration to recognize the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro and lift the embargo on trade with Cuba.

Five years ago: U.S. District Judge John Sirica rejected White House arguments and ordered President Richard Nixon to turn over Watergate tapes and other records subpoenaed by a special prosecutor.

One year ago: The FBI disclosed the arrest of two Soviet employees of the United Nations on spy charges as they were picking up classified documents in Woodbridge, New Jersey.

Today's birthdays: Actor James Stewart is 71. Hockey star Stan Mikita is 39. Manager Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is 48.

Thought for today: The secret of success is constancy of purpose. — Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister, 1804-1881.

Hospital Fund Started Is For Carlson

A special hospital fund for Elmer Carlson of Hereford has been established at Hereford State Bank, according to friends of the Carlson family.

Carlson is at St. Anthony Catholic Hospital in Amarillo following a farm accident April 30. The bed of a truck on which he was working collapsed on Carlson, causing him to sustain a broken back, ruptured diaphragm and broken ribs.

Donations may be made to Carlson through the fund. France's Marshal Bernadotte was proclaimed Charles XIV of Sweden in 1818.

Fuentes Interceptions The Key

Maroons Edge Whites In Annual Game

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

The defensive heroics of Rickey Fuentes stole the show for the Maroon squad Friday evening as he and his teammates surprised the White team, 19-15 in the annual Maroon-White game in the conclusion of the Hereford Whitefaces Spring Training.

The Whites, led by the quarterbacking of Derek Dirks, scored first, moving the ball 65 yards in the initial quarter, to take a 7-0 lead.

Big plays for the Whites were a 19 yard run by freshman Ray Harris when the team was faced with a third and 17 situation. The following play, a pass from Dirks to wide receiver Wayne High moved the ball to the 17 yard line, and from there, runs by Joe Walker and Dirks took the ball into the endzone.

The extra-point attempt was good off the bare foot of soccer-style kicker Scott Daniels, as he boomed the ball out of the playing area into the street.

The Maroons came alive in the second period, as Harold Terry free on a long run to give the team its first tally of the night. The point after attempt by Steve Bartelsius blocked which kept the Whites in front 7-6.

For the rest of the first half and the third quarter, the teams exchanged turns at trying to move the ball, but the defenses showed their strength, with neither team moving the ball much more than twenty yards per possession.

The fourth period began with the White team moving the ball on the way to scoring again when Fuentes came up with his first steal of the game, on a 15 yard toss from Dirks and over the middle.

Fuentes returned the ball 21 yards before the White offense-turned defense could stop him. Two passes by Alan Wartes to flanker Keith Adams moved the ball inside the 10 and runs up the middle by Joe Mitchum and Wartes gave the Maroon team the lead for the first time in the game. An attempted fake kick-end around by Edward Dominguez was unsuccessful as the score read 12-7.

On the following series starting from their own 35, the White team, with over six minutes remaining, lost the ball to Fuentes and the Maroon team once again, as a one-handed grab by Fuentes on the sideline and a return to inside the 10 gave Mitchum the chance he needed to show his inside strength as he bulled over on two straight carries and with a good pat gave the Maroon's a 19-7 lead.

The Whites again started on their 35 and this time were more successful as they made steady strides down the field to score on a keeper by quarterback Dirks.

After a muffed kick try and a penalty, the Whites converted a two point play to narrow the Maroon's edge to 19-15.

The rest of the time remaining was spent with both teams trying to control the ball, the Whites for a score and the Maroon's to run the clock out and preserve their victory.

A maroon fumble in White territory gave the Whites one last hope, but the failure to move the ball ten yards in four plays ruined any chance of a comeback. With less than a minute remaining the Maroons just ran the clock out and finished the night as the victor.

Mariners Rout Rangers

SEATTLE (AP) - Larry Cox returned to Seattle after a year away, and that season made all the difference.

"Playing more in Chicago last year helped," said the Mariners' catcher. "That's the main thing, playing more. I was confident, I knew I could hit."

Cox, being the plate Friday night, drove the five runs with a double and a single to lead Seattle to a 13-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"Cox's timely hits broke the game open for us," said Seattle manager Darrell Johnson.

Cox is hitting .400 for the year and has 8 hits in his last 13 at bats.

Seattle spotted the Rangers three runs when starter Rick Honeycutt gave up three hits and walk in the one third of an inning he threw. John Ellis' two-run double sent Honeycutt to the showers and brought out John Montague. Montague retired the next two batters in the first and went on to post 6 1/2 innings of strong relief.

Montague gave up only three hits and two runs before giving way to Shane Rawley in the eighth.

"I'm good for about four or five innings," said Montague. "After that I am draggery."

By that time, the Mariners had the game well in hand, with ruppert Jones and Willie Horton each contributing home runs to the 13-hit attack.

It was the third consecutive game that Jones had homered. Horton was three for four with three runs and two RBI, extending his hitting streak to a career-high 15 games.

"They kicked the heck out of us" said Texas manager Pat Corrales.

Golfers Try For U.S. Open

Hereford will have three golfers trying to make the first round cut of the qualifying for the United States Open, Mike Horton, local golf pro announced. Horton, Dana Rush and Tommy Weaver will be going to Lubbock Monday to play in the 36-hole first round of local qualifying in the nation-wide elimination tournament. Horton stated that about one in 10 golfers make it past the first round of qualifying.

Another Hereford product, Curtis Stoerner, the club pro at the Friona Country Club, will also be after one of the elusive spots.

Horton made the cut in the first round last year and moved on to Dallas where he played in the regional qualifying tournament.

Weaver, an all-district player for the Whitefaces two years ago, and currently a member of the West Texas State golf team will be making his first attempt at the goal of playing in the Open.

"We will be playing at Hillcrest in Lubbock," Weaver said, "and it will probably take at least a score of 140 to make it to the next tournament."

(AP) - During the 1978-79 basketball season, the Atlantic Coast Conference did not use a jump ball. Instead, it alternated possession out of bounds.

"I think it was making the best of a bad situation," commented Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "It was just too tough for a 5-10 official to throw the ball up properly between two seven-foot centers. I would much rather see the ball dropped from the scoreboard, giving every player on the floor an equal shot at it."

Yankees Bomb Torrez

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports writer
The New York Yankees opened in Boston with a hit performance.

"I'm just glad that when you get beat by 10 runs it only counts one game instead of three," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer after a 10-0 rout by the world champions Friday night.

It was the first meeting for the Yankees and Red Sox since last fall's dramatic American League East playoff, and New York's margin this time was far more pronounced than that tingling 5-4 victory. This time, the Yankees made it easy for themselves by blasting out 17 hits.

"There's not much sense talking about it because we didn't get any runs," said a dispirited Zimmer. "It's over with - we'll just have to start again tomorrow."

Jim Beattie was one of the Yankee stars this time, hurling a four-hitter. The performance was considerably more satisfying to the young right-hander than his showing in Fenway Park last June, when he was shelled by the heavy-hitting Boston team. "Even though I bombed here last June and shipped back to the minor leagues for a while, I like playing here," said Beattie, a former Dartmouth College star. "It's sort of like pitching at home because all my family lives close by."

In the other American League games, California turned back Chicago 7-3; Minnesota trimmed Kansas City 10-6 in 10 innings; Baltimore edged Toronto 7-6 in 11 innings; Detroit stopped Cleveland 5-3; Milwaukee blanked Oakland 8-0 and Seattle hammered Texas 13-5.

Reggie Jackson capped a three-run fifth inning with a (bases-loaded,) ground-rule double to key the Yankee victory. Former Yankee Mike Torrez, the loser in last year's playoff game, was cuffed around once again by his old teammates. Torrez was tagged for 10 hits before being replaced in the eighth, when the Yankees scored four insurance runs.

New York's Bucky Dent, who hit a three-run homer in last year's playoff game, was booed by many in the crowd of 33,694 at Fenway when he first came to bat against Torrez.

Angels 7, White Sox 3
Frank Tanana overcame a shaky start to earn his first victory in nearly a month, combining with Mark Clear on a seven-hitter as California beat Chicago.

Tanana, 3-3, who hadn't won since April 20 and hadn't pitched for 12 days because of a pulled groin muscle, settled down after allowing hits to four of the first five batters he faced.

Tanana was removed because of a blister on his pitching hand after giving up six hits in 51-3 innings. Clear came on at that point and held the White Sox to one hit the rest of the way to earn his third save.

Twins 10, Royals 6
Hosken Powell capped a four-run 10th inning with a two-run single to lead Minnesota over Kansas City. Royals relief ace Al Hrabosky issued two bases-loaded walks before Powell's hit.

Hrabosky relieved rookie Renie Martin with one out and runners at first and second. He then walked Butch Wynegar, Bobby Randall and John Castino before Powell, who had four hits, delivered. Hot-handed Mike Marshall set the Royals down in order in the 10th to gain his seventh victory of the young season.

Orleans 7, Blue Jays 6
Al Bumbry's single in the 11th inning scored Eddie Murray from second base with the winning run as Baltimore defeated Toronto. Murray, who scored three runs in the game, walked with one out in the 11th and advanced to second on a wild pitch by loser Dave

In 1994, Paul Runyan led all pro golfers with earnings of $6,767, but in 1978 Tom Watson was tops with $362,428.

Friesleben.
Bumbry, who entered the game as a defensive replacement in the 10th, drove in the winning run in his only time at bat.

Tigers 5, Indians 3
Mark Wagner's two-run double in the ninth inning led Detroit over Cleveland. Wagner came into the game when Lou Whitaker was ejected for arguing an umpire's call in the fifth and hit a line drive into the left-center field gap to break a 3-3 tie.

Brewers 8, A's 0
Left-hander Bill Travers fired a three-hitter as Milwaukee beat Oakland and handed the A's their eighth straight loss. Cecil Cooper knocked in three runs with two singles and a bases-loaded walk and Paul Molitor belted a double and homer to pace the winners.

Oakland's Mickey Klutts, Rob Picciolo and Manager Jim Marshall all were evicted from the game for arguing with the umpires at the beginning of the eighth inning.

Dandridge Comes Through For Bullets

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) - When the chips were down, Bobby Dandridge knew it was up to him to make the shot that would enable the Washington Bullets to defend their NBA championship against the Seattle SuperSonics.

"It makes you feel good that you are capable of shooting that shot," said Dandridge after the Bullets defeated the San Antonio Spurs 107-105 Friday night to win the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final series 4-3.

"I was working for the best possible shot. I knew they would try to double me if I went back into the center so I just put it up."

Dandridge, the Bullets' high scorer with 37 points, hit a 12-foot jumper from the right base line with just eight seconds left to lift Washington into the championship round against Seattle, the same team the Bullets defeated for the title in seven games a year ago.

The best-of-seven championship series opens Sunday in the Capital Centre, with Game 2 here Thursday. The following two games will be played in Seattle May 27 and May 29.

"It's a shame either team had to lose that thing," said Washington Coach Dick Motta, whose club rallied from a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit.

"They played this series good enough to win. This may have been two of my most difficult weeks in basketball."

However, San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, as he did on Wednesday night, blasted the referees, particularly John Vanak.

"We had it and they took it away from us," he said of the referees. "The calls he (Vanak) made stole the game from us. Vanak gave them the game. Calls you just don't make, he was making for them. They took the heart out of us."

Motta said it was tough mentally being down in the series 3-1 and "in the back of your mind you know you're the better basketball team."

In winning, Washington became only the third team in the NBA's 33-year history to overcome a 3-1 deficit to win a seven-game series. The others were Boston in 1968 and Los Angeles in 1970.

Asked about the final Dandridge shot, Motta said,

"Bobby had the ball and we told the rest of the guys to get out of the way. It was just what we had been doing all year long."

However, San Antonio still had time for another shot. Elvin Hayes, who had 25 points and seven blocked shots, rejected a short jumper by the Spurs' James Silas. The ball went to Larry Kenon but Dandridge stole it as the clock ran out.

"San Antonio usually goes to Silas on the last play, especially when Gervin is hot," said Dandridge, who guarded Gervin the last seven minutes. "I just fronted Gervin and tried to keep the ball away from him."

Gervin, who scored 42 points even though he was shut out in the first quarter, said simply: "It's summertime for me. It's all over. Go talk to the winners."

Maverick 'A' Golf Team Wins

The team of Alan Wartes, Tony Flores, Steve George, Bob Foster and Kerry Beard took a 40 stroke lead into the final round of Friday junior high district golf tournament and according to Wartes before the round "We should just hang 'em up if we lose that kind of lead."

Well the quintet will continue to play the links as they shot a blistering 316 for the final 18 holes to blitz the second place team, Stanton 'A' by 20 strokes.

The Maverick 'A' team finished the three round tour with a 952 total to wrap up its first district title in golf. Stanton 'A' finished a distant second at 1012, with the La Plata 'B' third with a 1022.

Canyon 'A' was the first non-Hereford team to break into the higher finishes as they took fourth with a 1090 total. Borger was next at 1098, with Dumas at 1118, Stanton 'B' at 1143 and Canyon 'B' with a total of 1230.

The individual race for medalist was won in a playoff by Wartes over teammates Flores and George. Wartes took the win after the first hole of the playoff the Flores edged George for second on the third extra hole.

Wartes, Flores and George finished the 36 hole tour with a 238 score or a 79 average for 18 holes. Both Wartes and Flores are freshmen with George a seventh-grader.

The team's final score on the course in Hereford especially pleased Coach Terry Russell, Hereford High School golf coach.

"The course record is a 297, and the way it was laid out today it played as long as it is capable of being," Russell said. "I'm really looking forward to having some of those freshmen such as Wartes, Flores, Foster and Dudding of Stanton next year. With this talent and the return of five lettermen from this year's team we should be very tough in the district race."

"And besides when you have people like these guys on the team it makes the whole team play better, since the competition to make the team is at a high level."

The Whitefaces finished in fourth place in this year's district round, with Miles Goforth being tabbed to the all-district team.

Number 1 Fan Of Sonics Gets 2nd Chance For NBA Title

SEATTLE (AP) - Sam Schulman, Seattle's No. 1 basketball fan, is getting another chance to win the world championship that slipped from his SuperSonics' grasp a year ago.

From his courtside seat, Schulman, the Sonics' president and principal owner, experienced the election of victory and the depression of defeat as Seattle battled the Washington Bullets in the final, frantic moments in Game 7 of last year's National Basketball Association championship series.

It was Seattle's first appearance in the finals, the Sonics lost the game 105-99, and Schulman had to wonder if his team would ever get that far in the playoffs again.

Seattle's prospects for this season were dimmed last summer when Marvin Webster, the Sonics' 7-foot-4 center who was a key in the club's race through the playoffs, defected to the New York Knicks.

Then, his replacement, 6-10 second-year pro Tom LaGarde, was lost early this season because of knee surgery.

But Coach Lenny Wilkens moved power forward Jack Sikma to center and 6-8, 245-pound Lonnie Shelton, acquired from the Knicks as part of the compensation to Seattle for Webster, was moved into Sikma's old spot.

The team regrouped and developed into one of the best in the league.

The high point of the season came Thursday night when the Sonics edged the Phoenix Suns 114-110 to win their second straight Western Conference title and another shot at the world championship.

Several of the Sonics said they were going to be glued to the television set Friday night to watch the Eastern Conference championship game between the Bullets and the San Antonio Spurs, which the Bullets won in the last few seconds, 107-105.

Seattle plays Game 1 of the NBA final series Sunday on Washington's home court.

The Sonics needed a pair of Sikma free throws with two seconds remaining to beat the Suns Thursday night and win the best-of-seven series 4-3.

Seattle led 100-85 with 6:04 left but the Suns whittled the margin to just two points before it was over. The close finish was partly Wilkens' fault.

Wilkens replaced his front line players with 20 seconds left and a 112-104 lead to accord them an ovation from the Kingdom crowd of 37,552. Phoenix scored six quick points to close within two points with four seconds left before Sikma was fouled and sank his clutch free throws.

"We wanted to give our guys a chance for some recognition," said Wilkens. Then he grinned and added: "My wife (Marilyn) had already told me never to do that again ... and I won't."

The tight finish, after Seattle apparently had victory in the bag, caused many Sonics hearts to pump faster.

"I hardly ever criticize, but you can't play around with a team like that," said a relieved Schulman after the game. "But I feel great now, just great."

Niekro Gives Astros Rare Win

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's Joe Niekro has been the closest thing to a stopper the Astros have had during the past two weeks.

Niekro hurled a four-hitter and recorded his second straight complete game as the Astros trimmed the San Diego Padres 3-2 Friday night for only their sixth win in their last 18 games.

"We weren't down, but we were starting to wonder what was going on," he said.

Niekro, 4-2, who enjoys pitching in the Astrodome because of his great success with his knuckleball indoors, said he got into trouble with the pitch on two occasions and had to turn to another pitch.

"Gene Richards hit knuckleballs for the triple and the home run," he said. "Whenever I needed a big out against lefthanders, I went with my slider."

Richards' third-inning triple and Broderick Perkins' RBI grounder pushed San Deigo into a brief 1-0 lead.

Niekro scored the tying run in the bottom of the inning after he reached base on third baseman Kurt Bevaqua's fielding error, moved to second on a sacrifice and took third on a single by Craig Reynolds.

Jeff Leonard's single to right drove him across the plate and the Astros went ahead two innings later on Alan Ashby's first National League home run.

Richards' second home run of the season, an eighth inning blast into the right field seats, tied the score, but Houston came back with a run in the bottom of the inning to take the victory.

A bunt single by Reynolds and a controversial stolen base preceded Enos Cabell's infield single, which moved Reynolds to third with two out. Jose Cruz followed with a bloop single to center off losing pitcher Rolie Fingers, 2-3.

"None of the three hits would have broken a pane of glass," Fingers said. "A bunt single, an infield hit and a broken bat hit put it all together and it spells '1'."

Reynolds said the bunt put two strikes against him was the first time this year he had tried that.

"But I'll do that sometimes I'm facing a pitcher that's real tough, and he gets ahead of me on the count like that," he said.

The loss was San Diego's third in its last four games. It dropped the Padres 8½ games behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Houston is not 2½ games behind the Reds and 1½ games ahead of third-place

Bid Favorite In Small Preakness Field

BALTIMORE (AP) - Spectacular Bid, winner of 11 straight stakes races, was an overwhelming favorite yesterday to add the Preakness Stakes to his accomplishments in pursuit of becoming the third straight Triple Crown winner.

Because the Hawksworth Farm colt is Maryland-owned, Maryland-riden and Maryland-trained, Pimlico race course was expected to surpass the record crowd of 81,261 set last year when Affirmed outdueled Alydar.

Spectacular Bid, who will be ridden by 19-year-old Ronnie Franklin for owners Harry, Teresa and Tom Meyerhoff, drawed only four rivals for the 13-16 mile Preakness, second leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown. All the rivals come from the Kentucky Derby which Spectacular Bid won by 2½ lengths.

General Assembly, who finished second in that first leg, is expected to set the pace with Flying Paster, the California colt who ran a disappointing fifth behind Spectacular Bid. Golden Act, the third-place finisher in the Derby, and Screen King, who was sixth at Churchill Downs, both are late finishers.

Spectacular Bid, a Kentucky-bred, $37,000 yearling purchase, would become the youngest millionaire in racing history if he wins the Preakness.

With 14 victories in 16 career starts, the son of Bold Bidder has earnings of $958,287.

The forecast was for cloudy weather with temperatures in the 70s and 20 percent chance of rain.

Post time for the race is 5:38 EDT. All starters will carry 126 pounds.

On Feb. 15 when nominations closed for the Preakness, 253 3-year-olds were nominated. Today's Preakness field was the smallest since Citation beat three rivals in 1948.

Eddie Arcaro, who rode Citation to a front running 5½ length victory and a $2.20 payoff in 1948, was here to serve as ABC-TV color commentator.

For the first time in history, the Preakness drew no starters other than those in the Derby field.

General Assembly and Golden Act, who ran 2-3 in the Derby, Flying Paster, who was fifth, and Screen King, who was sixth, completed the field.

Despite the small field, the purse was the highest in Preakness history, $235,300, with $165,000 to the winner.

As odds on choice, Spectacular Bid was seeking to become the 12th Triple Crown winner in history and the third straight following Seattle Slew and Affirmed. The third leg, the Belmont Stakes, is set for June 9.

"I've got the best horse," said Buddy Delp, trainer of Hawksworth Farm's Spectacular Bid. "All these trainers know that. Sometimes the best horse doesn't win. That's what makes horse racing."

Braves Bomb Blue

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Coming into Atlanta Stadium can mess up any pitcher's head. But Vida Blue says his was that way long before he faced the Braves Friday night.

Blue, who won his first four games for San Francisco this year, has been hit hard and his record has slipped to 6-4. Dale Murphy of Atlanta hit him the hardest with two of his three home runs that drove in five runs and carried the Braves to a 6-4 victory over the Giants. Bob Horner also homered off Blue.

In the rest of the National League it was Houston 3, San Diego 2; Pittsburgh 9, Chicago 5; Montreal 5, Philadelphia 3, and Cincinnati 7, Los Angeles 6. St. Louis at New York was rained out.

"I'm just in a rut and I've got to get out of it," said Blue. "I don't think I'm thinking right. Right now I'm just expecting bad things to happen. Murphy's hot now. The ball probably looks 10 times as big to him."

"This stadium is worse than Fenway Park, because in all three sections of the park here the ball will carry," Blue said, comparing Atlanta's home-run heaven with Boston's bandbox and its famed Green Monster wall in left field. "At least at Fenway you only have to worry about a couple of spots."

Astros 3, Padres 2
Joe Niekro's four-hitter and Jose Cruz's tie-breaking single in the eighth inning carried Houston past Rolie Finger and the Padres. Cruz got his blooper after Craig Reynolds beat out a bunt and Enos Cabell got an infield single.

"None of the three hits would have broken a pane of glass," muttered Fingers, the loser. "A bunt single, an infield hit and a broken-bat hit - put it all together and it spells 'L'."

Pirates 9, Cubs 5
Chicago, a 23-22 loser to Philadelphia on Thursday, gave up a mere nine runs to the Pirates as Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer and Dave Parker and Steve Nicosia had solo shots.

But Ken Holtzman didn't get off so easily. With the Cubs' bullpen worn out from the previous day's slugfest, he went the distance and gave up all 13 Pittsburgh hits. Chicago's Dave Kingman, who hit three homers against the Phils, got No. 13 of the year against the Bucs.

Expos 5, Phils 3
Andre Dawson capped a three-run seventh inning with a two-run homer to give the Expos their victory in Philadelphia.

Dick Ruthven was shooting for his seventh victory and, with a 3-1 lead going into the seventh, seemed to have it secured. But Ellis Valentine doubled and came around on grounders by Larry Parrish and Chris Speier. Then Tommy Hutton got a pinch-single. Dawson got his 10th homer and Ruthven got his first loss.

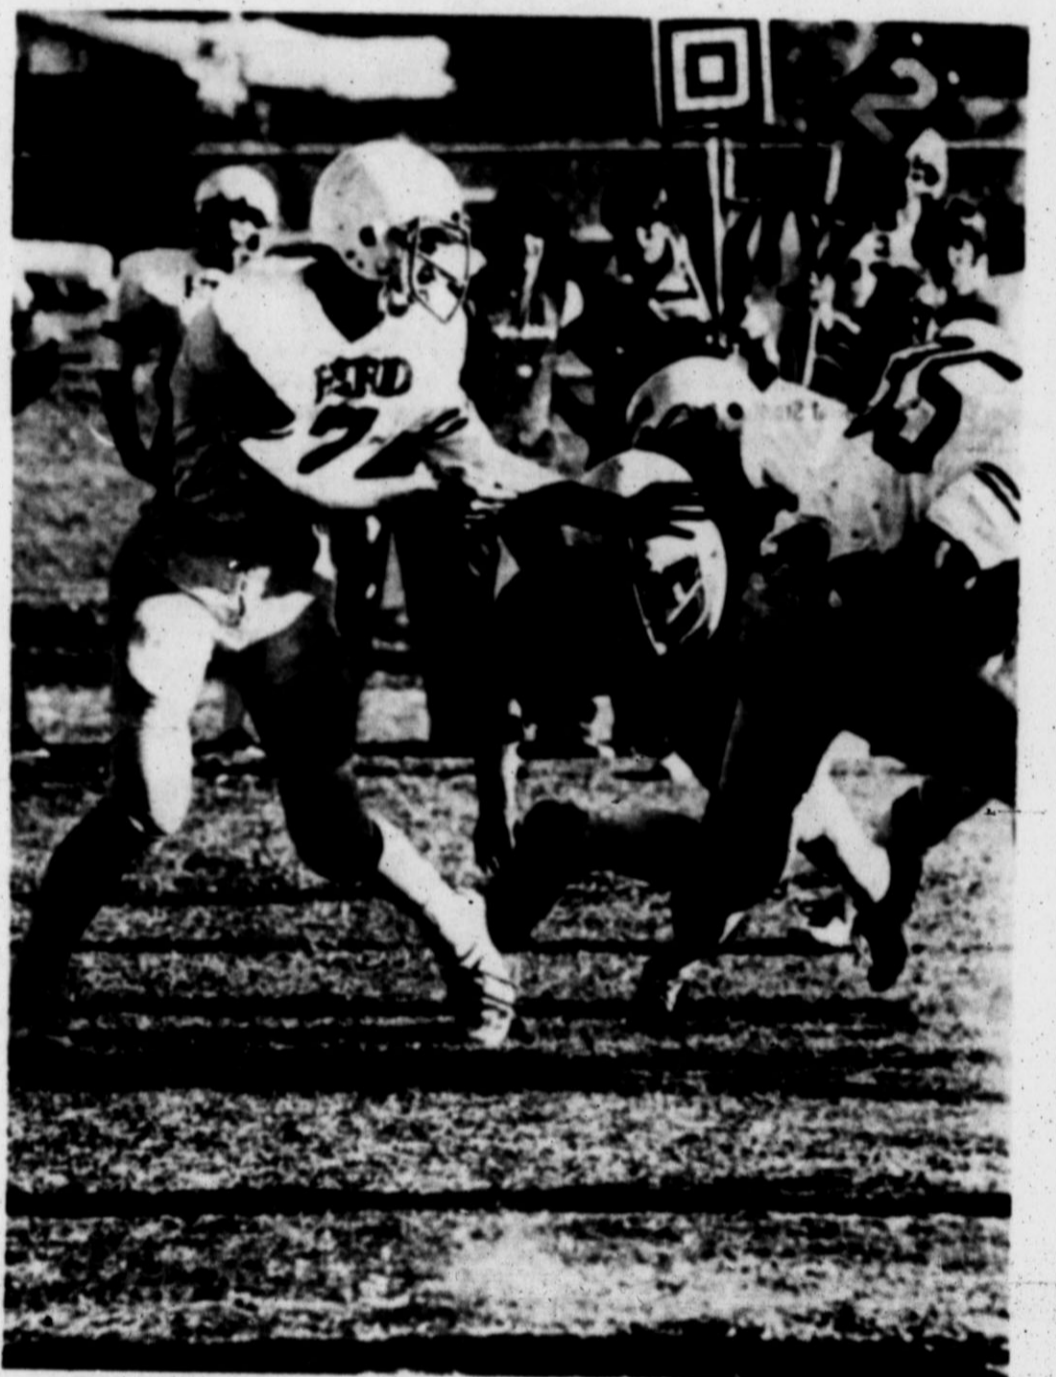

Reds 7, Dodgers 6
Joe Morgan led off the Reds' ninth inning with a single, Paul Blair bunted him to second, then Dan Driessen sent him steaming home with a looping single which charging Los Angeles left fielder Dusty Baker couldn't quite handle.

The Dodgers trailed 6-2 heading into the eighth inning, then tworon homers by Bill Russell and Steve Garvey tied it.

BUG-O-GRAM From A-1 Pest Control

Along with the coming of Spring and warm weather, unfortunately comes the hatching and infestation of many different "Creepy Crawlers". One such "Creepy Crawler" is the "Water-Bug" or Oriental Cockroach which is 1. to 1½ inches long with a shiny dark brown or black color.

Infestations are usually located in dark, damp areas such as drains, basements, crawl spaces and floor level cabinets containing water pipes. These roaches are also found infesting shrubs and foliage around homes. The Oriental Cockroach is one of the filthiest of the roach family, spreading many diseases and viruses as well as being the intermediate host for 12 species of hookworms and round worms.

Umps Working, But Not Happy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Major league umpires went back to work Saturday, richer, with a feeling they have proven their importance to baseball but still bitter after four months of angry negotiations.

The 52 umpires were happy over the $2.5 million package negotiated by attorney Richie Phillips, but they were disturbed they had to work with eight of the men that took their places during the job action.

Paul Runge, a National League umpire and vice president of the Major League Umpires Association, expressed the group's sentiments.

"I promised baseball not to unduly harass any of their 'scab' umpires and I will not," Runge said. "But there is nothing that says I have to introduce them to my friends, ride in the same cab or have a drink with them."

Phillips negotiated a contract which raised salaries by $5,000 to $22,000 for first-year umpires to a contract scale of $50,000 - a $10,000 increase - for one with 20 years experience. Salaries would go to $28,000 after the fifth year, $38,000 after 10 years, and $45,000 after 15 years.

The new three-year contract, which replaced a five-year basic agreement signed in 1977, also gave the umpires increases in per diem pay and two weeks in-season vacation. The per diem increases were from $53 last season to $67 this year, $72 in 1980 and $77 in 1981.

Despite an apparent victory in the long awaited settlement the umpires were very unsettled over being joined by eight men signed to major league contracts during the work stoppage. This prompted a vehement and sometimes loud debate during a 4½-hour meeting Friday in a Philadelphia motel.

Phillips presided over the umpires' session and announced unanimous acceptance of the agreement. While in New York American League President Lee MacPhail and National League President Chub Feeney made a simultaneous announcement.

"We are glad this situation is resolved after many 'good faith' bargaining sessions with Mr. Phillips," MacPhail and Feeney said in a joint statement.

Lopez Loves The Attention

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) - Nancy Lopez loves all the attention she gets on the women's golf tour - and dreads the day it might end.

"It's fun when you're winning," she says. "I think about the girls that don't win and that must be tough. I think about the day that might happen to me. People are very important to me. If I'm not winning, I still want the people to ask for my autograph."

Nancy might be the only golfer who gets writer's cramp playing a round of golf.

"I love to sign autographs," she said before the start of today's $100,000 LPGA tournament at the Upper Montclair Country Club. "But it's tough to walk and sign at the same time. My back hurts."

Lopez' meteoric rise to prominence stood the golf world on its ear last summer as the personable 22-year-old reeled off a record-setting five straight victories on her way to nine triumphs in her rookie year. Her omnipresent smile, good looks and obvious talent gave the women's game a much-needed shot in the arm.

"It's hard to understand people making a big deal out of you," Lopez conceded. "I never thought I was a big deal. But I love the attention. When the people stop asking for autographs, then I'll worry."

"I've gotten so spoiled from it, I don't know if I can be a normal person anymore," she laughed. "I think the fans respond a lot easier to me than before - it's like they know me."

Lopez is off to a quick start again this year, capturing three of the seven tournaments she's entered, pocketing $88,475. Goals are not something Nancy sets for herself, although she said - smiling, of course - that it would be nice to be the first woman golfer to break the $200,000 barrier.

It won't be easy, because Lopez, who became Mrs. Tim Melton in January, plans to compete in just 21 tournaments this year.

"Because I have to defend nine titles, it's made it kind of tough for me," she said. "And I want to have children but I don't want to wait 10 years. I feel my marriage is more important but my golf life is pulling me. I'm fighting that right now."

Lopez says she enjoys playing housewife as much as she enjoys playing golf.

"I love being around the house. My husband works from three until midnight and I feel like I have to stay up to meet him. And that's not me. I like to go to bed early and get up early," she said.

"It's more lonely on the tour now that I'm married. I'm not used to sleeping by myself. The girls go to discos at night but I don't. I don't think my husband would approve."

Baseball's statement also expressed appreciation of a "generally fine job that substitute umpires did in most areas around the country."

"We are pleased with the new, young umpires we have brought up to our staff during this period," MacPhail and Feeney said.

The umpires, however, were not so pleased.

Harry Wendelstedt, a National League umpire, fought vigorously against retaining the eight newcomers but finally was forced to accept the inevitable.

"This is a democratic society. I was voted down," said Wendelstedt. "I'm in the minority ... I had no choice if I want to make a living in baseball."

It really wasn't so much that Wendelstedt was voted down but that MacPhail and Feeney were adamant on the issue, and the umpires had to give in at area to gain in others.

Few Fans See SWC Win Tri-Conference Meet

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - By the time it was all over, you could count the fans in the vast 80,000-seat Memorial Stadium.

One eagle-eye from the press box said there were 52. Whatever the number of die-hard fans left at the end of the unique tri-conference meet Friday night, Cleburne Price's brainstorm fell on some rocky ground.

The track and field meet was competitive as the Southwest Conference surprised the Western Athletic Conference, 198 to 189, with the Southeastern Conference a distance third at 16.

But there were only some 500 fans in Memorial Stadium at the start of the meet. It was final exam week at the University of Texas, and people simply didn't come. The track meet took a red ink bath.

"I'm disappointed," admitted meet director Price, who said earlier in the week. "If not the greatest this will be one of the greatest meets ever held in this part of the country."

It would have taken an estimated 4,000 paying fans for the meet to break even because Price paid lodging, meal and travel money to the contestants.

Also, the meet was missing some big names like Auburn sprint king Harvey Clance who decided not to come. Even Rich Edwards of Houston, the SWC 100-meter king, declined to run in his specialty.

The participants, who got watches for first place and travel bags for second, loved the meet.

"I really like the concept of this meet," said Texas-El Paso's Jerome Deal who again took the measure of Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey in the 100-meter dash. "It's a lot of fun banding together as a league. I'm a little disappointed that some of the top guys in my events were not here."

Special jerseys, which also came out of Price's budget, were worn for the meet. The SWC had orange jerseys, the SEC red and the WAC, green.

The WAC had gone into the meet favored because of UTEP which is a strong contender for the NCAA title in two weeks.

One of the bigger surprises of the evening and also what proved to be the turning point was a SWC sweep in the 800-meter run with Baylor's Todd Harbor winning. Hereford's James Mays, Texas Tech, finished a close second in the race.

The SWC took the lead at that point after 11 events and never gave it up.

Wise Takes NAIA Decathlon

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - Gary Wise of Azusa Pacific missed the record by a narrow 90 points, but won the NAIA decathlon championships Friday. He compiled 7,461 points.

Greg Derscheid of Spring Arbor, Mich., finished second with 7,341 points although he won only one event, the javelin with a throw of 203-5.

Wise won the high hurdles, long jump and tied for the high jump during the two-day event. He finished eighth in the recent Texas Relays decathlon.

Derscheid made a run at Wise when Wise tied for last in the pole vault.

"I'm a long jumper-high hurdler converted to a decathlete and the pole vault is really tough for me," Wise said. "Wise cleared just 12.5% in the vault. They can say anybody can go to 15 feet, but I guess I'm not anybody."

Here are the final point totals: Wise, 7,416; Derscheid, 7,341;

Zenon Smiechowski of Simon Fraser, Canada, 7,033; Cecil Griffin of Jackson State, Miss., 6,852; John Harrell, Stephen F. Austin, 6,793; David Tolson, Point Loma, Calif., 6,732; Bob Bayless, Oklahoma Christian, 6,669; Alan Stahlecher, Anams State, Colo., 6,565.

In other events: John Turton of Fresno Pacific won the discus with a toss of 176-4, defeating Martin Guerrero of Abilene Christian by 2 inches.

Joseph Curtis of Chicago State raced to a 14.1 to win the 110-meter hurdles.

Dear Mrs. Owens -

We, too, wish we had thought of 'Mornin' a long time ago.

But as you know, when KPAN began broadcasting, Chip was just a sparkle in his mother's eye (he hadn't been born yet); and Tom hadn't learned the facts of life (about West Texas being a more suitable place to live than East Texas.) (Chip now has learned so much that he's decided to go back to college and complete his degree this summer.)

Anyway, thanks so much for your nice note.

(By the way: it was in 1948 that KPAN became a reality. And it causes us to wonder--if you've been listening since then, aren't your ears getting a little tired? We suggest that you take a break, and that you insist that Eldon let you go with him on his next High Country outing.)

Sincerely,

Buddy Recker

Taylor-Meiwes Marriage Vows Read

The nuptial Mass was celebrated Saturday evening in St. Ann's Catholic Church for Miss Brenda Sue Taylor of Canyon and Christopher Paul Meiwes of Hereford. The wedding was performed by Father Jack Gist, pastor, and the Homily was presented by Father Pete DiBenedetto, pastor of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church at Vega.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor of Canyon and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Meiwes, Route 4.

Attending the bride were her two sisters, Tere Taylor and Debbie Crowner, and Marianne Wieck of Umberger. Groomsmen were Scott Hall, best man, Dennis Schilling of Hereford and the bride's brother, Greg Taylor, Canyon.

Cindy and Don Meiwes appeared as flower girl and ring bearer for their brother's wedding. Acting as acolytes were the groom's brothers, Mike and Dan Meiwes. Another brother, Steve Meiwes Jr. read scripture during the ceremony. Special music was presented by vocalists Kenny Stull and Deena Fletcher, Canyon, while Marcella Crabtree provided organ accompaniment.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of angel-mist peau de soie and Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with high neckline. The wedding gown was fashioned with empire waistline, long camelot sleeves and contoured silhouette skirt with back fullness. Lace trimmed the neckline.

The bride attendants wore yellow quiana dresses designed with empire waistline and slipper-length skirt. Each carried a single silk rose tied with blue satin. The flower girl was dressed similarly to the other attendants and held a basket of silk rosebuds.

The wedding reception followed immediately afterwards in the Parish Hall. Wedding cake was served to guests by the groom's sister-in-law, Janet Meiwes and Monica Friemel of Umberger. The groom's cake was served by his sister, Jo Ann Meiwes and his cousin, Karen Meiwes of Moran, Kans. Presiding at the registry was Jo Ann Meiwes.

The serving table was centered with a centerpiece combining the wedding party's bouquets. Draping the table was a yellow cloth and lace overlay. All of the silk flowers for the wedding were handmade by the groom's mother.

For a honeymoon trip to Orlando, Fla., the bride wore a three-piece pantsuit as a traveling costume. The newlyweds will be at home after May 25 on Route 5 west of Hereford, where he is engaged in farming and ranching.

The bride graduated from Canyon High School in 1978 and attended West Texas State University. The groom graduated in 1977 from Hereford High School.

50th Anniversary To Be Celebrated

The graduating class of 1929 of Hereford High School is planning to observe its 50th Anniversary Friday, May 25 with a dinner at K-Bobs Steak House at 6:30 a.m.

On May 26, at the Hereford Pioneer Day lunch, the group has planned to reserve a special table for classmates.

Other classmates and friends, are invited to come by and visit at either or both of the planned events. One or more of the teachers at Hereford High School are expected to attend.

Local planning committee include Ruby Thompson Carmichael, Ruby Wade Stevenson, Leatrus Walser Clark and Georgia Sparkman Andrews.

Ordination Service Scheduled Locally

Nancy Brink Splieth, a native of Hereford, will be presented for ordination into the ministry of the Christian Church during services this morning at First Christian Church. All interested persons are invited to attend the worship service and ordination, which will begin at 10:50 a.m. Mrs. Splieth is the daughter of Dr. Eugene Brink, former pastor of the First Christian Church here.

The Christian Women's Fellowship will be hosting a covered dish luncheon immediately after this morning's service in the church Fellowship Hall.

Select beans, peas and lentils with a bright, uniform color, a consumer marketing information specialist recommends. Loss of color usually indicates long storage, lack of freshness and a product that will take longer to cook. Gwendolynne Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, points out. Eating quality, however, is not affected, she adds.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I love the story about the Burbank appliance dealer who was having a tough time getting rid of discarded appliances. He kept putting them in the alley but there wasn't a service organization or a city truck in the world that would pick them up. Finally, he got a brainstorm. He marked a price on them and by the end of the day they were all stolen.

Sometimes, when you can't beat the system, you just have to work within its confines. I found that out long ago with children. The only way we could get one of the kids to wash and was the car was to let him have it for a date.

To get the lawn mowed, we invested in a riding mower. They killed one another for the chance to cut the grass. When my daughter's bedroom became a fire hazard, all I had to do was say, "Why don't you have a slumber party?" Within hours, she had brought it up to health standards.

It was sneaky, but I used to move leftovers by putting a note on them saying, "DO NOT TOUCH. THIS IS FOR THE PARTY."

The other day I was at the phone when I noted a message scribbled in my husband's handwriting: "Carpers 6 p.m. dinner, Wednesday."

I remembered the Carpers. Her first name was either Bambi, Popah, Cupcake, Sleepy, Happy, Sneezzy - or one of the dwarfs. I couldn't remember which. I was at her house once and felt like a fool when I ate a strawberry in a small dish in her bathroom and it was soap.

Well, I wasn't going to be caught with my décor down when they came to dinner. I set about replacing light bulbs in every room in the house, bought live plants where before there had been death and brownness. Cleared off the countertop. Took the ironing board down, bought a set of matching glasses and took all the empty shampoo bottles out of the shower.

I brought in the sled from the porch, scratched a "THIS HOUSE IS BEING PATROLLED BY A TWO-YEAR-OLD" decal off my kitchen window and took a manger scene out of the bookcase.

My husband looked around and said, "I forgot to tell you. We're invited to the Carpers' for dinner Wednesday."

I had been beaten at my own game.

Couple To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Gene Welch of Route 3, Friona have announced the engagement of their daughter, Varla Lanae to Terry Royce Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. V.R. Wilcox, also of Friona. Vows will be exchanged June 22 in First Baptist Church of Friona at 7 p.m. The bride-elect is a senior at Friona High School and will graduate this month. The prospective bridegroom is a 1978 graduate of Friona High School and is presently attending West Texas State University. The Welch's are former Hereford residents.

THE VIKINGS
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Vikings" is scheduled to open at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in October of 1980. The museum calls it "the largest and most comprehensive exhibition ever organized on the storied seafaring people of ancient Scandinavia." It says objects in the exhibit will be drawn from museums and other collections in Denmark, Germany, Britain, Finland, Iceland, Ireland, Norway and Sweden. It says the objects "will be organized to reveal aspects of Viking religion and way of life as well as to show the Vikings as warriors, traders and explorers of Europe and the North Atlantic." Before its New York showing, the exhibit will be at the British Museum in London, beginning Feb. 14, 1980.

Improper laundry techniques may gradually accumulate on a garment and go unnoticed until after the seventh or eighth laundry, reports Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Lubbock Couple Wed Saturday

MRS. RALPH JENKINS HARDING III
...nee Ginger Newton

Porcelain vases containing carnations and daisies in tones of blue and white flanked the altar of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Lubbock Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Ginger Marie Newton and Ralph Jenkins Harding III. Reading the ceremony was Father William Nix, vicar.

The bride, a former resident of Hereford, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newton, 907 S. Main St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harding Jr. of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson of Shallowater attended the bride and groom as best man and matron of honor.

Brothers of the couple, Roy Newton of Hereford and Steve Harding of Lubbock, served as ushers.

Traditional wedding music was performed at the organ by Imogene Holt.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a slipper-length wedding dress of peau de soie overlaid with sheer chiffon. Venise lace motifs jeweled with seed pearls were applied on the cameo neckline, fitted bodice and down the front of her full skirt. Her sheer bishop sleeves gathered into fitted cuffs, which flared in ruffles over her hands.

Matching lace appliques adorned her Chapel train.

Covering her shoulders was a double-tiered veil of illusion, cascading from a lace headpiece. She held a nosegay of white carnations, daisies and roses.

The matron of honor wore a formal length dress of blue floral fabric overlaid with matching voile. The dress was styled with blouson bodice gathered to a natural waistline. She carried a cluster of blue and white daisies and carnations.

The newlyweds received their guests after the nuptial service in the parish hall, where they were registered by the groom's cousin, Mrs. Ed Putty. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alton Hartley, Lisa Blakely, Kathy Berry and Sidney Ann Williamson. Others assisting were Mmes. Gene Watson, Charles Titsworth and Jorita Shaffer.

Pale blue confectionate roses trimmed the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a white satin bell and beaded bear. At the groom's table were a chocolate sheet cake and champagne fountain.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will be at home in Odessa, where he will be employed by Getty Oil.

A 1974 graduate of Hereford

High School, the bride received her bachelors degree in business administration from Texas Tech University in 1978. She earned her masters of science degree in finance this month from Tech.

The groom graduated from Monterey High School in Lubbock in 1974. He received his bachelor of science degree in petroleum engineering this month from Tech.

Among the out-of-town guests attending Saturday's ceremony were Mrs. Ed Putty and son Brad of Lake Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Newton of Decatur; and Miss Kathy Barry from Louisiana.

Bride-Elect Feted At Recent Shower

Miss Sandra Kleuskens, Bride-elect of Phillip Eugene Whitson of Dumas, was honored recently with a prenuptial tea in the Dawn Community Center.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Carl Kleuskens, her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Max Hoffman and her sister, Mrs. Tommy Brown.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of blue and white were depicted at the serving tables, appointed in silver and crystal.

White bouquets decorated the two refreshments tables.

Serving as hostesses at the tea were Mmes. Carroll Adams, Clarence Betzen, Marvin Diller, Al Lee, Richard Lupton, Virgil Owens, Joe Reinauer, Alfred Smith, Pat Smith, Robert Strain, Ray Stewart, Carl Wimberly and Kent Carlisle.

Annual Pioneer Day To Be Celebrated

The Mid-Plains Pioneer Association will be holding its annual reunion here Saturday, May 26 at the Community Center.

All interested persons are urged to attend Pioneer Day festivities.

Registration will begin at 9:30 Saturday morning with members of Pioneer Study Club filling their traditional role as hostesses. Coffee and donuts will be served.

Highlight of the day will be the noon luncheon, during which the "Pioneer of the Year" will be named by KPAN Radio. Awards will also be presented to the oldest individuals present and to those who have traveled the greatest distance.

The Pioneer Association will provide the main course and beverages for the noon meal; guests are asked to bring side dishes and desserts.

The Association will convene Saturday morning for a brief business session. Currently serving as officers are Bill Brady, president; Vesta Mae Nunley, vice president; and Mary Fraser, secretary.

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty sculptures by George Segal will be on view at the Whitney Museum of American Art May 23 through Sept. 9.

The museum says, "This retrospective of works created during the past 20 years provides an overview of Segal's artistic development and an opportunity to observe the full range of his ideas and achievements."

The exhibition was organized by the Walker Art Center of Minneapolis.

Farm & Ranch Club Installs Officers

Members of Farm & Ranch Club met at Four-Way Crossing Restaurant Thursday for their annual installation luncheon.

Vesta Mae Nunley called the meeting to order and members answered roll call with suggestions for the club yearbook.

Mrs. Nunley conducted the installation, placing the following in office: Dorothy Weaver, president; Jessie Mae Thomas, vice president; Dorothy Worthan, secretary-treasurer; Corinne Odom, reporter; Joyce Geiger, historian; and Mrs. Nunley, parliamentarian.

The floating prize was awarded to Mrs. Odom.

In addition to the new officers, members present were Francis Mae Miller and Lou Hall.

The club will recess for summer. The next meeting is slated Sept. 20 with Jessie Mae Thomas acting as hostess.

Last-Lea Ceremony Solemnized

As a symbol of their marriage, Miss Barbara Lynn Last and Michael J. Lea, both of Amarillo, lighted a Unity candle Saturday afternoon after exchanging nuptial vows in St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Officiating at the Candlelight ceremony was Deacon Kenneth Arho.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Last of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of an Amarillo couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Lea.

Bouquets of carnations and daisies flanked the main altar, where the Unity candle and an arrangement of apricot-tinted gladiolas were placed. White bows marked the center aisle.

Chosen to serve as honor attendants were the bride's sister, Debbie Last, maid of honor, and Joe Ed Clements of Amarillo, best man.

Additional bridesmaids were Mrs. Mike Malone of Dublin and Mrs. Dean Pilcher, Amarillo.

Assisting as groomsmen were, Robert Amous and Danny McNeely, Amarillo.

Guests were escorted to their seats in the sanctuary by Mike Malone, Dean Pilcher and Doug Halstead of Freeport, Ill., uncle of the bride.

Tapers at the altar were lighted during the ceremony by Syla Gerk and the groom's nephew, Rusty Love.

Appearing as flower girl and ring bearer were Nikki Lindeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lindeman, and Ryan Love, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Love.

Ray Owen and Miss Donna Kindall joined voice to sing the couple's chosen selections, including "We All Are Gathered," "Bridal Vow," "Wedding Prayer" and "Mother, At Your Feet We're Kneeling." Linda Gilbert offered organ accompaniment.

Moises Salazar III sounded Trumpet Volontaire for the processional.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a traditional gown of Chantilly lace designed with cameo neckline, fitted, natural waistline and cummerbund. Sequins and pearls trimmed the shepherdess bodice and the tapered cuffs of her long lace sleeves. Her A-line skirt swept into a Chapel train, bordered by narrow lace scallops.

Matching lace edged her Chapel veil of illusion, which fell from a crown of pearls and sequins. She clasped a cascade of white roses feathered with apricot-colored chrysanthemum petals. Completing her ensemble were a diamond necklace, gift from the groom, and matching earrings, given to the bride by her parents.

The bridal attendants were dressed identically in formal gowns of apricot crepe fashioned with long sleeves, high stand-up collar, Chantilly lace yoke and pinafore overlay. Complementing their dresses were apricot summer hats trimmed with matching silk flowers and ribbon streamers. Each bridesmaid carried a single apricot silk rose with babybreath, greenery and eucalyptus.

After the ceremony, guests were invited to a wedding supper and dance in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Shelly Gerk presided at the registry. Serving coffee and punch were Kathy Grimstead and Mrs. Donnie Fangman.

The five-tiered wedding cake was iced in pale apricot and trimmed with hand-molded fondant clay flowers. Crowning the cake was a cluster of white satin bells. Decorating the serving table was a basket of apricot and brown silk flowers.

The newlyweds departed from the reception for a honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The couple will be at home in Amarillo.

The bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Hereford High

A number of out-of-town guests attended the recent wedding, representing the following cities: Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Pampa, Lubbock, Kerrville, Summerfield, Wildorado, Vega, Friona, Dublin, Dimitt, Canyon, Umbarger, Grand Prairie, Freeport, Ill., Lena, Ill., Dakota, Ill., Chickasha, Okla. and Lakewood, Colo.

The bride was honored in recent weeks at several pre-nuptial showers, including a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Raymond Gerk, a lingerie shower in the home of Mrs. Lee Rutledge and Miss Debbie Hall in Amarillo, and a champagne brunch on the morning of the wedding in the home of Mrs. R.C. Hoelscher.

BROTHERS

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — In what they believe is a first, Rhode Island state senatorial brothers Michael and James Flynn have introduced a bill that would prevent job discrimination based on age.

The "first" is not the idea of banning age discrimination, but the brotherly cooperation in introducing the bill.

Since the Flynn's are thought to be the first brothers to serve together in the chamber, they would be the only ones to have had the opportunity to co-introduce legislation.

The Flynn's cooperation even crosses party lines. James is a Democrat, and Michael is one of the state senate's five Republicans.

Hereford Study Club Conducts Installation

Using the components of a still life painting, Mary Hamlett conducted the installation of officers Thursday evening during a meeting of Hereford Study Club in the home of Beverly DeBoer.

Mrs. Hamlett compared each element of the painting to the individual responsibilities of the officers for 1979-80. Placed in office were Doris Bryant, president; Virginia Winget, vice president; Helen Spinks, secretary; Evelyn Kirby, corresponding secretary; Mildred Garrison, treasurer; Rae Poston, historian; and Mrs. DeBoer, parliamentarian.

As she conducted the installation, Mrs. Hamlett built the still life painting, using glass partitions. She framed it at the conclusion of the ceremony as "the club membership frames its officers."

In other business, members made final plans for the garage sale which was to be held Saturday.

A light supper was served to members by Mrs. DeBoer and her cohostesses, Ruth Long and Rae Poston. The club adjourned for the summer months and will not convene again until September 6.

In addition to the hostesses, members present were Mmes. Labry Ballard, N.D. Bartlett, B.F. Cain, DeBoer, Garrison, J.D. Gilbert Jr., Don Robinson, Spinks, Art Stoy, Maurice Tannahill, Ed Wilson, Winget, R.N. Yarbro, W.H. Gentry, Melvin Thompson, Merlin Kaul, R.P. Conaway and Miss Gladys Setiff.

Composer Ira Gershwin was born in 1896.

Ann Landers

Sexy Sixties

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed complaints from women living with impotent husbands. How about a complaint from the other side of the bed?

My wife (five years my junior) hit menopause and for five years fought off all advances toward lovemaking. I remained faithful to her. Finally, after plenty of misery, I put my cards on the table. She agreed to resume having sex and agreed that it had always been mutually satisfying.

No love play arouses her anymore. To me, giving as well as receiving is important. Even though I feel relaxed afterwards, the act is not satisfactory. I have tried all the tricks of bygone days to restore that old feeling, but nothing works. Is my wife unable to enjoy the act, or is it all in her mind? -- Sexy Sixties -- Who Says So?

DEAR WHO: Almost all impotence in males and frigidity in females is caused by emotional problems.

Your wife should have a checkup to make sure nothing is physically wrong. Then, together, you should have a frank talk with a gynecologist. Perhaps he can set the situation straight or suggest a counselor.

A woman in her 60s who is in good health should be enjoying sex. Those five years of famine didn't do her any good -- or you, either. When you don't use it you lose it -- at least temporarily. I hope counseling helps and that you make up for time lost.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do you insult your Catholic and Protestant readers by using such expressions as "Ten whacks with a stack of Presbyterian 'Outlooks'?" Another expression you use when you've been in error is "mea culpa."

Why is it you never say, "Ten whacks with a Talmud"? Or, "A dozen lashes with a prayer shawl"? I dare you to print this. -- Chicago

DEAR CHICAGO: I have used "mea culpa," but that phrase is merely a Latin translation of "I am to blame." Ten whacks with a stack of Presbyterian Outlooks never appeared in my column. You are confused.

I did once say, "A dozen lashes with a prayer shawl." (Someone asked about the expression, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," and I offered by own interpretation which many theologians felt was incorrect.) The prayer shawl reference (suggested punishment for myself) produced a barrage of criticism from rabbis and members of my own faith. I apologized in print and have been mighty careful ever since.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law is late for everything. I get especially annoyed when she asks me to pick her up to go to a luncheon or a club meeting. I like to be prompt and always am -- except when I have to wait for Ella.

Yesterday we had it out. Her tardiness made me 20 minutes late for a League of Women Voters meeting -- and I am the secretary. Ella became highly indignant, said people who are prompt let the world know they have little else to do. She thinks it's smart to give the impression of being very busy, occupied with many things and therefore "important."

I say to be consistently late is rude and inconsiderate and Ella is full of prunes. Comment, please. -- San Antonio

DEAR AN: People who are consistently late are not only rude and inconsiderate but poorly organized. The most important people I know rarely keep others waiting.

Creativity Offers Enrichment

COLLEGE STATION — Creativity offers a way for personal enrichment, says Patricia Lamson, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System. Everyone needs a proper environment to get in touch with their creative self.

The right environment for creativity includes:

ALONENESS

Aloneness does not mean withdrawal or constant solitude.

Encourage children to spend a few hours alone. This helps

INACTIVITY

Inactivity is not always wasting time, but these periods can be very worthwhile. They help us to use our inner resources.

DAYDREAMING

Excursions into the world of fantasy are important for discovery and developing new ideas. Creative people can be independent and go against the mainstream.

FREE THINKING

Allow time to let your mind wander in any direction without restraints. New solutions can emerge when you let your imagination run.

GULLIBILITY

Be open to any idea, no matter how absurd or stupid it may seem. It may be discarded later, but give it consideration first.

ALERTNESS

Be alert for details and new ways to use old ideas.

The study will utilize sophisticated research equipment, including specially equipped aircraft, weather radar, upper-air sounding devices and satellites.

Pool Construction Dictates High Cost

[Editor's Note: This is the second of a three-part series on swimming pools.]

COLLEGE STATION -- All swimming pools start with a hole in the yard and plumbing lines, but the steps after that mostly determine the cost, says Pat Seaman.

Mrs. Seaman is a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Amount of labor needed for construction is the key factor in swimming pool cost, she explains.

Concrete pools, the most expensive type, require the most labor.

Most are constructed by pouring or spraying. Generally their interiors are coated with plaster or paint and need resurfacing every few years.

Poured concrete pools are best for extreme cold-weather freezing problems and for poor subsurface drainage.

To make a concrete pool, the builder first arranges enough reinforcing bars around the hole to hold pool water weight.

Then, to make sprayed pools, a mixture of concrete and sand comes down through a hose under high pressure and joins with water at the nozzle. This mixture then surrounds the steel reinforcing bars to make the concrete shell.

Alpha Iota Mu Cites Birthday

Members of Alpha Iota Mu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Thursday night at the First National Bank for their annual birthday party.

President Glenda Nigh called the meeting to order and the members enjoyed a buffet dinner of barbecue and salads. After the meal, presentations were made to Brenda Thomas, Ronna Howell and Kathy Nixon for progression; Brenda Thomas, Kathy Nixon and Glenda Nigh for perfect attendance; Susan Shaw for best program; Glenda Nigh, Charla Edwards, Bonnie Bower, Ginger Wallace, Brenda Thomas, and Kathy Nixon, retiring officers; Sharon Cramer and Jan Waiser, advisors; Charla Edwards "Girl of the Year"; and to Lila Cobb, a going-away gift.

Wallace, extension officer.

After a few items of business were discussed, the meeting was adjourned and members gathered to exchange gifts which revealed secret sisters. New secret sister names for next year were then drawn. A friendship apron was auctioned to the highest bidder, Jan Waiser, who then presented it to out-going advisor Sharon Cramer.

Members attending were Glenda Nigh, Charla Edwards, Bonnie Bower, Ginger Wallace, Brenda Thomas, Kathy Nixon, Ronna Howell, Karyn Wood, Shirley Dodge, Susan Shaw, Lila Cobb, Roberta McNeese, Edlana Vinson, Mary Brinkman, Sharon Bodner, Mardel Robinson, Nancy Graves, Shera Hammett, Barbara King, and Trisha Britten, with advisors Sharon Cramer and Jan Waiser.

Pledge ritual was held for Shera Hammett and a Transfer ritual for Trisha Britten.

Installation was held for the 1979-80 officers who include Charla Edwards, president; Roberta McNeese, vice-president; Edlana Vinson, treasurer; Glenda Nigh, recording secretary; Karyn Wood, corresponding secretary; and Ginger

White's Home & Auto

Many folks still call it "White's Auto," but the actual title is "White's Home & Auto."

Tony Cortez, manager and part owner of the local White's Home & Auto, explains the difference. "A number of years ago, we started stocking more home furnishings and appliances, so we felt the name needed to include the word 'Home'."

Cortez has been here since 1962 when the Poyner Brothers bought the White's Auto store in Hereford. The Poyners also have stores in Littlefield, Muleshoe, Portales and Clovis. The White's warehouse is close by in Shallowater, too, providing quick delivery on stock for the area stores.

Besides home furnishings and appliances, auto accessories and tires and batteries, the store stocks seasonal supplies--like air conditioners, and lawn and garden supplies. This fall, there'll be a big stock of toys.

Between the Covers

By MARSHA BURCHINAL
Deaf Smith County Librarian

Among the potpourri of new books available at the Library this week, the following titles appear: RAVENBURN by Laura Black, A CERTAIN SLANT OF LIGHT by Margaret Bonanno, MARK COFFIN, U.S.S. by Allen Drury, HALLOWEEN by Ben Greer, FATHER TEN BOOM by Corrie Ten Boom, IF IT'S RAINING THIS MUST BE THE WEEKEND by Nancy Stahl, and TO ELVIS WITH LOVE by Lena Canada.

Scotland in the 1860's is the setting for RAVENBURN by Laura Black. This brooding gothic romance is spiced with violence and mystery as it tells how beautiful Katherine Irvine's future is haunted by the past.

A CERTAIN SLANT OF LIGHT is an unusually sensitive and moving story of a rare and deep friendship between two unlikely women: Sarah Morrow, an aging college professor, who has suffered a stroke and Joan, a young mother who is trying to rebuild her life after a bad marriage. As they work together to overcome the effects of Sarah's stroke, each gains a new purpose and commitment. Hope is never lost.

Mark Coffin is a bright, handsome and newly elected senator from California. He thought his honesty and dedication would see him through just about anything, but he discovers that he has a lot to learn. MARK COFFIN, U.S.S. by Allen Drury is a novel of Washington and an insider's view of the scandals that exist there and threaten to destroy careers and personal lives.

HALLOWEEN by Ben Greer is a suspenseful tale of flight and pursuit, as well as family betrayal and death. Blake returns home on Halloween Eve, a night marked with horror, and struggles with his family to keep his mother out of an insane asylum.

RAINING THIS MUST BE THE WEEKEND! is a delightfully funny romp through suburban life as it really is. For those who have enjoyed the wackiness of Erma Bombeck, do not miss this book.

FATHER TEN BOOM by Corrie Ten Boom is a loving written biography of the author's father. To those who knew him Casper Ten Boom was more than a watchmaker — he was a man of God and an inspiration to all who knew him.

The humor of Sam Levenson's new book YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE IN WHO'S WHO TO KNOW WHAT'S WHAT is based on the humor of V.U.P.s (very unimportant people). The book, according to Levenson is a compilation of anonymous wit and wisdom on the various aspects of human existence: love, marriage, family, religion, etc.

Keep Blood Pressure Checked Regularly

COLLEGE STATION
Everyone should have their blood pressure taken at regular intervals and learn what the numbers mean, advises Carla Shearer, a health education specialist.

High blood pressure is a disease for which there are no reliable symptoms. Regular blood pressure checks are the only accurate way of diagnosing high blood pressure, the specialist points out.

Ms. Shearer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When your blood pressure is taken, ask what your blood pressure reading is and obtain a clear understanding of what the numbers mean.

Below are three examples of blood pressure readings and some information about these readings:

1) 120/80 — this is about average for most adults, although a lower reading is also good.

2) 140/90 — this higher reading presents a different situation. There are a few things a physician may do for a person with this reading.

He may continue to closely monitor the person to see if there is an increase.

He may begin a mild non-drug treatment including recommendations for losing weight, lowering salt intake and more physical exercise.

Or, if there are other risk factors present, a physician may prescribe regular drug therapy.

3) 160/95 — this reading will more frequently require treatment with drugs because the person is at a greater risk of high blood pressure.

Serving the needs of people one at a time.

Computer Age Thrives in School

Hereford has a unique business which, though seeming to follow strict business guidelines, makes each year an unprecedented move.

At the end of nine months the partners in this business venture sell all property and merchandise, pay all unpaid bills and close out their bank account thus completely dissolving the business for the remainder of the year. This all takes place when sales are at their peak.

In the traditional style this makes little business sense. To the sixth-grade students enrolled in the enrichment class at Bluebonnet Elementary School it is most clear.

At the beginning of each school year the students form a partnership and, for 10 months, become "Hustling Hereford" merchants. As merchants they employ the mechanics of modern business practices, operate within the limits of a free enterprise system, and use standard bookkeeping procedures.

The students use a modern TRS-80 school-owned computer to keep records of sales, purchases, bank deposits and withdrawals. Each student demonstrates through his use of the computer skill in the art of programming as well as realizing the advantages to be gained by the use of computers in today's complex business world.

This part of the enrichment program is designed to give students closely supervised and directed experience in what can be called "the real business world." The students run their business and make decisions pertaining to purchasing, paying and selling.

They are held accountable for all transactions, so accurate record-keeping is a must. When a mistake is made such as an unpaid bill, a late charge is added to the next statement. The students find quickly that they must learn from their mistakes.

The school has a make-believe bank which serves the store as if it were a real bank. The bank issues checks, monthly bank statements and loans at today's interest rates.

The students order supplies from a store supply company which, like the bank, is run by the school. To order, the students send to the company a purchase order properly stating wanted items by description and number as listed in the company's catalog. The company's policy is not to deliver on the day the order is made which helps the students anticipate needed supplies to keep their stock complete.

The store functions as a service to the students in Bluebonnet. More important than just service is the experience gained by all involved. The students receive no money yet this May, as they close their store for the last time, each is truly richer than he or she was just ten short months before.

Kings Manor News

Ola Davis enjoyed having her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. B.A. Davis of Amarillo visit with her on Friday afternoon. With them was a friend Mrs. Etha Davis, same name but no relation.

Mrs. Vineyard of Kress has also been visiting with Evelyn and Wallace Kirby this week. It is always good to have you Mrs. Vineyard.

On Saturday Mrs. Stacy enjoyed a visit from a relative and friend who came for lunch: Mrs. Hallie Stacy of Oklahoma City, a sister-in-law, and Mrs. Willie Cabb of Anton were here. It is a pleasure to have friends and relatives stop by for a visit.

For a number of years, the ladies of King's Manor and Westgate have been royally entertained on the eve of Mother's Day by K-Bob's. This is an occasion eagerly anticipated by the recipients here. Our thanks go to those of K-Bob's who so graciously served us and to those in authority for sponsoring this kind and thoughtful deed. We do appreciate it. Approximately 22 attended from the Manor and a bus load from Westgate were your thoughtfulness and generosity.

One of our residents, Myna Mac Love, celebrated her 90th birthday this week. That is an occasion many do not attain, and we congratulate you Myna, on having reached this age and still able to enjoy good health, friends, and family. On Sunday afternoon an Open House Tea was held for all friends able to attend in the American Legion Hall, sponsored by her daughters and family. Quite a number of our residents were able to attend and wish Myna future health and happiness.

Guests for our Sunday luncheon included the following: Bertie Hale had two guests, her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mahler of Amarillo. Eunice Petersen's sons were here. Richard is from Amarillo and Robert and his wife from Lubbock. Maggie Thompson's son of Big Spring with his wife came. They are R.W. (Stormy) Thompson and wife Nancy.

Roberta Wilson's nephew and wife of Oklahoma City, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson were with her. Evelyn and Wallace Kirby and her mother, Mrs. Vineyard and daughter, Jan.

Dorothy Coombes from Westgate ate lunch with her mother, Grace Coombes on this day also.

It is always a pleasure to have guests with us any day and especially on Mother's Day. Mothers like to be remembered and we appreciate these people being with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dodson were in Canyon Monday visiting relatives. Their tiny grand nieces Allison Leight Weaver and Brandii Funk performed in "Dance Thru Outer Space" a review by the Tuck School of Dance.

On Wednesday afternoon, a Garden party was held between the Manor and Westgate for the purpose of honoring our new hostess, Mrs. Molly Ritter. Bea Noland introduced her to the group and Molly responded with words of thanks and a promise to try to learn to know each one personally. Pop Corn and punch were served by Lucile Naylor and Vena Hudson. Annie Ruth Thomas and Evadne Cox made an effort to secure the registration of all. These names were presented to the honoree, Mrs. Ritter, with the instructions that she learn the names of all residents and visitors present. Despite the strong wind we had a good time and enjoyed the outing.

We were happy to have 18 ladies of the United Methodist Church of Borger visit us on Thursday. They came in the morning and were divided into two groups to be led by Alice Rahifs, our assistant administrator, and Evelyn Kirby in order to be shown our Home, grounds, Westgate, and the cottages. By noon they gathered in the dining room for dinner. They were scattered throughout the dining area so that they might meet as many residents as possible.

After dinner the tour continued for those who had not gotten around in the morning. Among the ladies here was Mrs. Elsie Andress, the mother of our associate pastor, Scott Andress. It is always a pleasure to have these visitors with us. We are always glad to show our Home to others and tell of what we have to offer.

On Thursday evening, residents and a few guests gathered in Lamar Garden Room to hear a book review to be given by Evadne. She reviewed the Far Journey by Loula Grace Erdman. This is a story of a young couple moving from Missouri to the Panhandle of Texas, more specifically to Old Mobeetie. This location was of special interest to the reviewer as this had been her home in childhood days and could remember many of the places and incidents in the story.

The Rev. Mack McCarter, pastor of First Christian Church, led our devotional services on Tuesday evening. Ray Owens, music director, came also and led the song service. Rev. McCarter read from the second chapter of Mark which records the incident of the paralyzed man being brought to Jesus for healing. Because of the crowd there he had to be let down through the roof in order to reach Jesus.

Rev. McCarter pointed out that we have paralyzed people walking around today. We need eyes to see a paralyzed person. We need to be sensitive to the needs of people around us. We need to be able to take our sick to Jesus for help. Some of the problems confronting us are the same as with those friends of the sick man. The crowds around us interfere with our seeing Jesus. We too, can have a roof above us that will prevent our getting to Jesus. The skeptics were there also, people who were afraid of being ridiculed. We are like that too. We don't want to be ridiculed. The faith of friends was there too, friends who helped this sick person just by being present when needed.

Because it is about 90 percent air, snow is an excellent insulator, according to the National Geographic Society. Snow helps keep croplands warm and can provide a refuge for small animals that burrow into it.

The first recorded passenger flight in Canada of a heavier-than-air machine was made in 1907. The flight was made in Alexander Graham Bell's tetrahedral kite, Cygnet, by Lt. Thomas Selfridge of the U.S. Army.

Knox Earns Doctorate Degree In Electrical Engineering

Stephen O. Knox, a native of Hereford, received his Doctor of Philosophy in Electrical Engineering at the Texas Tech University 53rd Annual Commencement May 11 in Lubbock.

Dr. Knox is married to the former Susan Carmichael of Friona, and has a daughter, Erin. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Knox of Hereford.

He is a member of Eta Kappa Nu, Sigma Xi, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, American Physical Society, and is listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest. He was a National Science Foundation Undergraduate Research Participant in the summer of 1972, and was selected by the IEEE Nuclear and Plasma Sciences Society as an Outstanding Graduate Student in 1976. Dr. Knox has co-authored scientific journal articles and has presented papers at several conferences.

He is a graduate of Hereford High School and was an undergraduate student of Abilene Christian College and West Texas State University, studying mathematics. A student in Electrical Engineering School at Texas Tech University, he became involved in the plasma laboratory as an undergraduate assistant.

While a senior, he modified an existing plasma device for a radio-frequency wave propagation experiment. This work was further developed while he was a graduate student and was expanded to form the topic for a Master's Thesis.

Beginning in April 1976, Dr. Knox directed the construction of and made major engineering contributions to a new toroidal plasma research facility within the Electrical Engineering Department. The radio-frequency wave propagation experiments which are the topic of his dissertation were performed on this machine.

His work was performed at the Plasma Laboratory of the Electrical Engineering Department at Texas Tech University and concerns the development of Nuclear Fusion power reactors. This research intimately involves harnessing the energy of the sun and stars for power generation on earth.

Dr. Knox has been a member of the Research Faculty of the Department of Nuclear Engineering at the University of Washington in Seattle, Wash. since October 1978.

DANGEROUS FOR KIDS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Keep nuts — especially roasted nuts — away from children under 5 years old, says Dr. Leslie Bernstein.

Bernstein, chairman of the University Medical Center's Department of Otorhinolaryngology, says he and other doctors in his department treat many people who have accidentally inhaled solid particles such as nuts, many of them children.

A child died recently because peanuts accidentally became lodged in his breathing passages, he said.

What if, despite all precautions, an accident happens? "If a child is choking, try to have someone call an ambulance — or do it yourself if no one else is around," he said. "Then hold the child upside down and slap him on the back sharply several times.

"If the child turns blue and stops breathing you should consider mouth-to-mouth resuscitation."

COMMENCEMENT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Playwright Tennessee Williams will deliver the commencement address at the University of Pennsylvania's 223rd commencement exercises May 21. Williams received Pulitzer Prizes for two of his plays, "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kuehler of Groom have announced the engagement of their daughter, Karla Jeanese of Amarillo to Donald Joseph Vasek of Hereford. He is the son of Mrs. Cecilia Vasek and the late Charles Vasek. The couple plans to wed August 11 at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church in Groom. The bride-elect is a graduate of Amarillo Junior College in Medical Record Technology. She is presently employed by High Plains Dermatology Center in Amarillo. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Oklahoma State Tech. He is presently employed by Brown Sheet Metal in Hereford as a refrigeration and air-conditioning technician.

Marn Tyler Elected To Regional Council

Marn Tyler of Marn Tyler Realtors in Hereford was elected secretary of the High Plains Council of Electronic Realty Associates (ERA) during a recent meeting in Amarillo.

The council is comprised of nine brokers in the Panhandle and New Mexico.

At the meeting, it was reported that the council has raised $2,000 in a drive for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. "We will be having some fund-raising activities locally in the near future," Mrs. Tyler said.

INVESTIGATE SECURITIES

Investigate before buying securities—whether considering securities for the first time or adding securities to those already owned.

Reliable information is available on many securities. Reputable brokerage houses or stock salesmen will furnish this information and explain it.

Observe a few simple rules before investing:

1) Don't speculate. Speculation sometimes serves a useful purpose, but it is a field for experts.

The prices of speculative securities may fluctuate widely—not only for sound economic reasons but also because of unfounded tips and rumors.

In the long run, someone loses money and it is usually the amateur speculator.

2) Beware of "confidence" men.

If a stranger calls and begins a high-pressure sales talk about letting you in on a "sure thing" with "quick profits," ask yourself a few questions.

Did he get your name from a "sucker's" list?

Why doesn't he (or his firm) sell the stock to relatives and friends if it is so good?

How can he truthfully say that he'll "double your money" in 30 days, 60 days, or even a year?

3) Do business with well-known and trusted firms.

Where securities are offered to finance a company, the law usually requires the seller to furnish a "prospectus" or "offering circular."

These are copies of papers filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and contain information intended to assist investors in evaluating the merits of securities being issued.

Ask the salesman for a copy of the prospectus or offering circular.

Also ask him to put all other information in writing and mail it to you.

Read it and save the information and the envelope that it came in.

If you don't understand it, consult a broker, banker, or any other experienced person you know and trust. Don't hesitate to get competent advice.

4) Be a careful investor. Before deciding to buy securities, check your financial situation.

Have you made provisions for a home?

Do you have adequate life insurance?

Do you have a comfortable balance in your bank account? Don't draw out of a savings account or sell government bonds to speculate in stocks.

If you decide to go ahead and buy securities, keep in mind that the value of the investment can go down as well as up. No one can guarantee the market price of a security a month or a year from now.

If you have complaints, contact the closest Securities and Exchange Commission:

—Ft. Worth Regional Office, 411 West 7th Street, Ft. Worth, TX 76102, or —Houston Branch Office, Federal Office and Courts Building, 515 Rusk Ave., Room 5615, Houston, TX 77002.

WEEKLY TIPS:

*Bike riders should obey all traffic signs and signals. Always ride as near to the right side as possible and in the same direction as motor vehicles.

*Shop harder to get the best buy for your need. Save 10 to 25 percent by comparing prices and qualities, using seasonal sales, buying goods only when they will serve the purpose and avoiding excessive amounts, qualities, or features in goods.

*A salt substitute can cause death—if it is potassium chloride and if it is over-used. Use this product only if a doctor prescribes it—and follow instructions.

*Turn off all lights and air conditioning to save energy while you're away on vacation. And, empty the refrigerator, disconnect it from the power outlet, and leave the door ajar.

*For maximum shelf life, do not return unused cream after a pitcher to its original container. Store it separately in the refrigerator. Try to pour only the amount needed at one time.

Citizenship Recognition

Brother Seeks Info on Former Hereford Lady

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Mrs. Wayne Cox, formerly of Hereford, is asked to contact Mrs. Nell Norvell of Hereford.

Mrs. Cox's brother is looking for Mrs. Cox for a family reunion in June, according to Mrs. Norvell.

Mrs. Cox was born in Hereford in 1928 and was graduated from Hereford High in 1946. Her maiden name is Marie William, and she is the daughter of the late C.B. Williams of Hereford.

In 1965, Mrs. Cox lived in Brigham City, Utah.

"If any of her classmates here have kept in touch with her and know where she is, she's got a brother that would really like to find her," Mrs. Norvell said.

When an actor plays two parts in the same play, the second role is traditionally listed in the program as being played by George Spelvin.

Choir Participants

The Junior and Primary Choirs will present their final concert of the season Wednesday, at 7 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall at First Christian Church. The children's musical "It's Cool in The Furnace" is about Daniel, Nebuchadnezzar, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. Following the musical, certificates of choir participation and awards for good attendance will be presented to all graded choir members following the musical. Those students participating are, back row from left, Diana Devers, Cherri Welty, Sarah Fish, Monica

Musical Notes

The faculty of La Plata Junior High School's Music department deserve high praise for their excellent display of student ability at the Spring concert presented the evening of Tuesday, May 15.

Bill Dever's Choral group, the collective talent of 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th grades immediately captured the audience with a clever novelty number followed by a sedate work of traditional form and climaxed by a medley of theme of two television shows Happy Days and Laverne and Shirley.

No sooner had the young singers drawn their first un-studied breath, than their leader dashed from the gymnasium stage at La Plata to the Hereford High School cafeteria to direct the Hereford High School Boy's Choir in the entertainment for members of the school board. As Elva Devers scurried along with him, I assume she acted as the group's accompanist. Whatever would we do without her.

Was the La Plata audience left high and dry? (Geographically simple in this area!) Indeed not! Jim Priest, long-time bandmaster, immediately led his "zeal and zest" musicians in the stirring march, "Spartans of Tomorrow," followed by an arrangement of Princess Leia's theme from Star Wars, plus two "pop numbers," "Disco Inferno" and sharply contrasting "Tropical Twilight." How's that for variety?

Comprising the third segment of the program was the contribution of the school orchestra under the adept guidance of Ray Jenkins. The string section played the reflective "Try to Remember" and the compelling theme from the movie "Exodus." From classical repertory, the full orchestra performed Moussorgsky's "Hopak" and Bizet's unforgettable "Farandole." Another concert worthy of comment is one which was held in the Hereford High School auditorium May 10. Pooling their efforts and assets, Ray Jenkins and Jay Thompson created two stringed orchestras whose members are drawn from the six elementary schools in the school system. Listeners were offered music by the fifth grade string orchestra, completing its first year of existence, and by the sixth grade string orchestra, completing its second year. Jay Thompson who incidentally, agreed with Ray Jenkins, orchestral instructor at La Plata, that this concert showed promise of a bright future for these budding artists.

If the future belongs to the young, surely it is in large part to dedicated teachers who inspire, instruct, discipline, develop and stabilize our children. In no field is this more clearly evident than in music. Let the music sound!

The Hereford Music Club will present a pupil of Kathlee Palmer, Cindy Duckworth, contralto, in a senior voice recital, Monday, May 21 at 8 p.m. Contributing to the program will be Rebecca Rudd, violinist and Elva Devers, accompanist. The public is cordially invited to attend this happy event which will be staged at Deaf Smith County Library, Heritage Room.

At 7:30 p.m. May 23, First Christian Church will be the scene of a children's musical, "It's Cool in the Furnace" based on the Biblical account, the script by Grace Hawthorn and music is Burt Red's. Ray Owens, director of Music Ministry, will conduct the Hawthorn and music is Burt Red's. Ray Owens, director of Music Ministry, will conduct the thirty-two members of the Junior and Primary Choir. A sixth grader, Matt Gilliland, will portray King Nebuchadnezzar and a fourth grader, Dale West, will enact the role of Daniel. This should prove an interesting and rewarding experience for young and old. The public is invited. Happy listening...

Residents Invited to 'Funfest' In Amarillo Over Weekend

Amarillo's Thompson Park will be transformed into a festival of fun during Funfest May 26-28, Memorial weekend.

The second annual Funfest is sponsored by the Junior League of Amarillo and the city Parks and Recreation Department. Last year, more than 50,000 people from throughout the tri-state area enjoyed the games, food and entertainment of Funfest.

Funfest '79 will be open 12 noon to 9 p.m. daily. Admission cost is $1. free for children under six years old.

"Funfest offers so many attractions, there is certainly going to be something that everyone can enjoy," said Charles "Gallimore, executive director of the Amarillo Board of Convention and Visitors Activities. "Memorial weekend is an excellent time for people from throughout the tri-state area to visit Amarillo. What better way to kick off the summer season than with a festival of fun?"

More than 50 non-profit organizations have joined the Funfest committee to provide a wide variety of games and food. Continuous musical entertainment has also been arranged, along with art and sports exhibitions, marathon races and a hot-air balloon lift.

Musical entertainment ranging from jazz to disco to gospel -- will be presented on four Funfest stages. Entertainers from throughout the Panhandle will be featured, including the Tri-State Blue Grass Express of Amarillo, Richard Spears of Hereford and a quartet from "TEXAS," a musical produced annually at Palo Duro Canyon. In addition, the Fourth U.S. Marine Corps Aircraft Wing Band, stationed in New Orleans, La., will perform.

For children ages 12 and under, there will be a special area for games and entertainment -- Fantasyland. More than 20 free activities will be available at Fantasyland, where Mother Goose and other storybook characters will greet children as they enter through Fantasyland Rainbow.

A free trip to the Boston Marathon will be top prize in the Funfest Marathon, a race that covers more than 26 miles and ends west of the Funfest grounds. A half-marathon run is also scheduled.

The distance run, the first event of Funfest '79, begins May 26th at 7 a.m. As the first-place marathon runner crosses the finish line, at approximately 9:15 a.m., four hot-air balloons will soar into the air.

Another special event of Funfest will be FunAuction. A number of items will be sold to the highest bidder beginning May 27th at 3 p.m.

A new event of Funfest '79 is the Memorial Day 10,000-meter run. Runners will be entered in seven different categories for the race, which covers a course of more than six miles. The race begins at 11:00 a.m., May 28th. Because parking at Thompson Park will be limited, free shuttle busses will run from the Amarillo Civic Center to the Funfest site. Shuttle busses will stop every 15 minutes at the Civic Center, downtown at 3rd and Buchanan, and will take passengers to the Funfest gates. Buses will run from 10:30 a.m. until 9:30 p.m.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A highlight of the five-day Leonard Bernstein Festival, May 4-8 in Kansas City, will be the world premiere of a major dance event, says Maurice Peress, music director of the Kansas City Philharmonic.

Judith Jamison, a performer for the noted Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, will star in the production, according to Peress. Choreography is by John Butler. The ballet music is based on Bernstein's "Three Meditations from 'Mass'."

"PRESERV-A-SHINE"

NEVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN. How would you like to have a car that stayed shiny and repelled dirt?

A car that looked like it just sailed out of the showroom, month after month.

A car that required no work from you. Other than the occasional wash.

Sound Good? Call Tidy Car.

If your car is brand new, we'll keep it looking that way. If it's showing its years, we'll clean and shine the years away.

Tidy Car's Preserv-A-Shine can do just that -- give your car a showroom shine and preserve it for the life of the car.

Preserv-A-Shine is not a wax. It's an exclusive formula that's actually tuffed into the surface of the car to give a protective glass-like shine that seals out the harmful effect of oxidation, salt, snow, and sun.

The Preserv-A-Shine process includes initial treatment and an annual cleaning and re-sealant job. And it means you'll never have to wax your car again. Guaranteed in writing.

"VINYLROOF REVITALIZATION & PROTECTION"

Your vinyl roof will look like new for months, and months with a vinyl treatment that helps repel dirt, grime, & pollution. Protects vinyl & leather interiors, too.

400 Million Bushel Stockpile Loosed

Release of Reserves 'Crashes' Wheat

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

A market-triggered release of wheat that had been stored under the government's three year wheat reserve program has local agriculture officials concerned with the bearing the move will have on the market price of the golden commodity as another harvest season rapidly approaches.

Late Wednesday, the Agriculture Department announced that the farm price of wheat had risen enough so that farmers, if they choose, can pay off price support loans and sell the grain on the open market.

More than 400 million bushels of wheat, equal to 20 percent of last year's harvest, are stored under provisions of the program, intended to keep grain off the market until prices go up.

The reserve program provides that farmers can store wheat, corn and feedgrains under the USDA's loan program for up to three years and receive federal payments to help defray storage costs.

Under reserve program provisions, if the market price of the wheat rises to 140 percent of the loan rate of $2.35 per bushel, the farmers, at their option, can pay off the loans and sell the grain.

The trigger point of $3.29 per bushel was reached Wednesday afternoon, and the release was announced by USDA, although official word on the action wasn't received locally until mid-morning Thursday.

Word of the release had an immediate detrimental effect on the local wheat market, which had reached $3.31 per bushel prior to the release.

Wheat plummeted to $3.15 per bu. Thursday morning and had only recovered to $3.17 per bushel by closing time that day.

Wheat remained at the $3.17 level on Friday.

John Fuston, executive director of the Deaf Smith County ASCS reported that 198 producers have wheat in the reserve program in the county, and that a total of 1,265,575 bushels of wheat is involved.

Some 50,000 bushels of wheat were taken out of the local reserve on Thursday in an initial reaction to the USDA release.

"We're certainly hoping the release measure won't crash the market, but it sure looks like it has done so. There's not much margin of profit in wheat right now," stated Fuston.

According to Fuston, producers will have until June 29 to redeem their wheat under the release announced Wednesday.

He reported the local ASCS office has received numerous calls concerning the wheat release by USDA, and that the move has aroused considerable local concern.

A spokesman for a local grain firm reported Friday that the release has "blown apart" the local wheat market, which was finally posting a slow recovery from low prices that had prevailed for months in the wake of a huge wheat harvest nationwide.

Another spokesman for a local commodity trading office reported that interest in wheat was sluggish and that very little activity was noted in the cash wheat market Friday, primarily due to the release.

Bill Nelson of the Texas Wheat Producers Association of Amarillo commented that wheat industry representatives found the release announcement something less than totally unexpected.

"When the wheat prices were going up, we were fairly sure that the Agriculture Secretary wouldn't refrain from releasing the reserve. This release action will probably have a prolonged depressing effect on the market. It responded downward immediately, and the fact that over 400 million bushels of wheat is eligible to go on the market as we enter another harvest will continue to be a price-depressing factor," commented Nelson. "The fact that wheat can be released at such a low price level, relative to its cost of production indicates the need for a higher loan rate and target price," he continued.

The TWPA spokesman pointed to factors that had led to a recent improvement in wheat prices and keys to any improvement in wheat prices in the coming months.

"Continued strong export demand had helped wheat prices, along with speculation over the late or non-planting of spring wheat in the U.S., Russia and China. Along with this was speculation that the ag secretary wouldn't allow the reserve to be released right at harvest. When that factor was removed, it triggered a downturn in wheat prices," stated Nelson.

Turning to the long-term outlook, Nelson continued, "I predict wheat prices will be near the trigger level, either slightly below or above. They will remain that way until either a mammoth international sale of wheat, or a shortfall in the spring wheat crop. Either of these could prompt rapid improvement in wheat prices."

Enough For Another Through?

A farm worker checks the seed level in his planter boxes while at the turnrow, making sure there's sufficient seed in the containers to allow him to make it to the opposite end of the field for a refill. The planting implement shown here includes a bed roller and shaper, plus water furrow sweeps, and is evidence of efforts by local farmers to be as energy efficient as possible by forming a number of operations in one trip across the field. Corn planting is continuing locally, while grain sorghum will begin going in the ground on a large scale here over the next two weeks. (Brand photo by Jim Steiert)

Young Essayist Calls for Better Management of Available Water

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article was the winning essay in Deaf Smith County in the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District's annual essay contest. Topic for the essay contest was "Conservation District's Role in Tomorrow's Water." County winner in the contest was Carla Alford, a sixth grader at Blue Bonnet Elementary.

By CARLA ALFORD

Man and most animals need water to live. Nature, has many ways to conserve and control water. But man often upsets this water balance in his desire to grow more crops. He drains ponds, swamps and wetlands. He plows under natural sod, cuts timber and straightens streams. These changes upset and reduce natural runoff.

Throughout history man has attempted to increase his water supply by trying to "make rain." He has sprayed the clouds with chemicals to make them release moisture. Often man doesn't need more water. He only needs to manage the water supply he already has.

Every district has an office that assists people in that area with resource and conservation problems. The NACD Special Committee on District Outlook has studied the resource situation with great care.

It has consulted with representatives of federal and state agencies cooperating with districts. It has studied and watched the district's objectives and has attempted to assess district accomplishments.

The committee has concluded that if districts are to grow and make their greatest contribution to our society in the future, they must expand their program to new phases of conservation and resource development. If studies are correct there exists in America a need for organized legal bodies to represent all the people, develop conservation, involve all the people, and to accept and carry out responsibilities. If it is agreed that this is the direction which we wish to move, some changes will need to be made.

These won't be easy, nor will they come about overnight. Many problems have arisen because the country has had a plentiful and easily available water supply. Water has been cheap and people have been careless and wasteful. The supply of cheap, easily available water is now shrinking in the United States.

A DECLINE in cattle slaughter, which indicates the tight and expensive supplies of cattle available, is reflected in the number of meat packing companies which are being forced to lay off workers, notes Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

"These layoffs have hit many of the largest cattle producing states, including Texas," Brown said. "It indicates how short supplies of cattle are. For consumers looking for reasons for the rising cost of beef, this is a good place to start."

Brown noted that for the first quarter of this year, cattle slaughter in the United States, at 2.9 million head, was down

House Should Consider Measure Next Month

Cleavinger Still Optimistic Over Sugar Bill Despite Delay in House Ways, Means Committee

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Area sugar beet producers and their fellows from throughout the domestic sugar industry are still awaiting action on a sugar bill that was expected to be passed early in the current session of Congress, but has been in a holding pattern virtually since the first of the year.

Legislation creating a domestic sugar policy is particularly crucial to the nation's beet and sugar cane growers, and although there have been some disappointments at the long delay in obtaining a workable policy. Bill Cleavinger, president of the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association remains optimistic.

Cleavinger reports that action on the sugar policy should be forthcoming by the first week of June.

"The sugar bill has been held up in the House Ways and Means committee. There were some problems with the bill about two weeks ago—some differences between cane growers in Hawaii and Louisiana over language in the proposal, but all of that has been worked out now. Now the measure is waiting on House approval, and I believe it will be brought up on the floor of the House the first week of June," stated Cleavinger.

The proposal pending before the House includes a price objective of 16.3 cents per pound, based on the raw spot price in New York. This would translate into a price of about 20 cents per pound, paid to local growers, according to Cleavinger.

"The legislation includes provisions for up to 1/2 cent per pound payment to producers if sugar fails to reach the price objective. Provisions for mandatory quotas on a country by country basis are also included, if tariffs and import fees fail to work," the Wildorado sugar beet farmer continued.

Although the Carter administration came out with its own recommendations for sugar legislation, based on a price level of approximately 15.8 cents per pound. Cleavinger reports that the administration will apparently support the present sugar legislation in its current form.

The Carter administration had posed problems in efforts to nail down sugar legislation during 1978, and its switch to concentrating on devising a domestic sugar policy during this congressional session came as somewhat of a surprise to some circles.

"Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland gives the present sugar legislation better than a 50-50 chance for approval, and even Howard Hjort, chief USDA economist has indicated he favors the present legislation," stated Cleavinger.

Cleavinger, who has already made three trips to Washington on behalf of local beet growers, reports he'll be making at least one more trip to the nation's capital when the sugar legislation comes up for a critical vote in the House.

"Consumer-oriented urban areas are still our main source of opposition. They're not worried about tomorrow, just today, and the sugar industry is taking some criticism about inflation, especially with the high cost of beef and fuel. Some folks just don't realize the domestic sugar industry has been foundering for the past several years, and that we could get into a situation very similar to what we have in oil unless we provide growers a decent price and preserve our domestic production of sugar," commented Cleavinger.

According to the beet association president, the Senate is expected to approve whatever sugar legislation is passed out by the House.

"The present legislation should mean about $2-$3 per ton more for our beets on the crop that we're growing now," Cleavinger explained.

"There are still some minor differences in the legislation to be worked out, but the cane and beet people are still pretty well united, and the corn sweetener people are working with us, although we had some differences earlier. That is all part of the compromises that have been worked out, however. Representatives from all sec-ments are united in their belief that we have to have sugar legislation if we are going to continue to have a domestic sugar industry," Cleavinger stated.

Sperry New Holland Planning Expansion

Sperry New Holland has announced plans for building a new plant in Columbus, Nebraska, and a major expansion of the Mountville department of its plant at New Holland, Pennsylvania. The expansion is needed to keep pace with the company's expanding sales in North America, according to Jack Keister, vice president and general manager of the North American Division.

Already underway is a 260,000 sq. ft. addition at Mountville, Pa., where the company operates a 90,000 sq. ft. facility as a department of the main plant at New Holland, Pa. The new facility will continue to operate under the New Holland plant management.

Columbus, Nebraska, has been selected for the 260,000 sq. ft. midwestern plant. It is located between Grand Island and Omaha and will bring to three the Sperry New Holland plants operating in Nebraska. The new plant construction will get underway this summer and completion is slated for late 1980. The other Sperry New Holland plants are located at Grand Island and Lexington.

What products will be built at the new facilities has not yet been determined. The Columbus plant will have an initial work force of about 200 persons. The Mountville operation will require a substantial increase in the number of employees there.

Sperry New Holland also has plants in Fowler, Ca., and Belleville, Pa., as well as in several overseas locations. Expansion programs at other plants, engineering facilities and branch office warehouses was recently announced by the company.

Checking New Variety

Doctors B.A. Stewart and K.B. Porter inspect heads of TAM 105, a new wheat variety to be introduced at a special wheat tour scheduled May 24 at 1 p.m. at the USDA Research Center at Bushland. Researchers feel the new wheat variety has the potential to produce more grain than wheat presently grown under irrigated conditions.

Wheat Research Field Tour Scheduled Thursday

AMARILLO - There will be a field tour of wheat research at the USDA Research Center at Bushland May 24, at 1 p.m. Dr. B.A. Stewart, USDA Director of the facility, invites all people interested in wheat to attend. The tour will feature several new wheat varieties from Texas and surrounding states.

The 1.5 hour tour will start at 1 p.m. and continue at 15 minute intervals as required, according to Dr. G.B. Thompson, Research Director for the Texas A&M Research Center at Amarillo.

Development of new wheat varieties will be described by Dr. K.B. Porter, wheat breeder with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Growers will be able to get a first-hand look at TAM 105 and TAM 106, new wheat varieties that will be distributed to certified seed growers in 1979. "We are excited about TAM 105 and we believe it will produce more grain than wheat presently grown under irrigation in the High Plains," Porter said.

In addition, plots of triticale, oats, barley and hybrid wheat will be shown by Dr. Earl Gilmore from the Texas A&M Center at Vernon. New wheat varieties from other states and commercial companies that can be observed are Newton, Bennett, Cheyney, Rocky, Payne, Wings, Centurk 78, Vona, Lindon, Tex Red and Rall. Advantages and disadvantages of these varieties will be discussed by Dr. Frank Petr, Texas Agricultural Extension Service Agronomist at Amarillo.

A dryland small grain nursery will be described by Gary Peterson, wheat researcher from Bushland.

Other stops on the tour will include an irrigated wheat experiment described by Jack Musick, USDA Agricultural Engineer, and an irrigated wheat sunflower rotation being tested by Dr. Paul Unger, USDA Soil Scientist.

Furrow diking and conservation bench experiments will also be observed.

Dr. Nolan Clark, USDA Agricultural Engineer will discuss research on wind energy at the end of the tour.

The event will be sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Agricultural Research, Science and Education Administration, USDA, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Texas Wheat Producers Association.

Hesston Sponsors Ag Salute Competition for FFA Members

For the second consecutive year, Hesston Corporation with the cooperation of Oglesby Equipment Co., and other Hesston farm equipment dealers throughout North America are sponsoring a "Salute To Agriculture" essay contest for members of the Future Farmers of America that will be developed into a public service television message to be aired during the telecast of the 1979 National Finals Rodeo in December.

FFA members are being asked to submit a message in 100 words or less on the importance of agriculture to the economy and standard of living in North America, including Canada. A total of $2500 in prize money will be awarded among entries. First place winner will receive $500; four second place winners will receive $250 each and ten third place winners, $100 each. Winners will be announced at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City on November 7.

The first place entry will be developed into a 60 second public service message to be aired over a special Hesston Rodeo television network of approximately 200 stations in the United States and Canada that are scheduled to carry the final performance of the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City in early December.

Last year's winning message submitted by Jim Ramsbottom, member of the Belleville, Kansas chapter of the FFA, was selected from more than 2500 entries received from FFA members around the U.S.

The contest is open to all active, dues-paying members of the FFA. Entry forms and complete rules are available from Hesston Corporation and any of the local Hesston farm equipment dealers throughout North America, or from the National and State FFA offices.

Entries must be submitted no later than September 30, 1979, directly to Hesston Corporation, Hesston, Kansas 67062, Attn: Salute to Agriculture Contest.

Each entry must contain the name, date of submission, address, phone number of the entrant, and the name of his FFA Chapter. The entries will be judged by a panel of agri-industry executives.

Kochia weeds are suddenly drawing a great deal of attention among stockmen.

Seems this "weed" that has proven so tough to control in certain crops has been shown to be higher in protein than alfalfa during certain growth stages.

As a matter of fact, a few area farmers have resorted to "farming weeds" to give this crop a try. A few have gone so far as to put in a portion or a whole circle under center pivot irrigation.

If there's any sure way to wipe out a weed though, just discover that it's good for something and try to grow it.

It might shoot upwards at the rate of six inches a day with nothing but opposition to its presence, but if it's like most crops, it will surely find a way to founder with a fellow doing everything he can to make it grow.

Some of our area wheat farmers and ranchers have been wise to kochia for several years now. In its young stages, it provides good grazing that can often supplement a thin stand of grass or about-gone wheat.

I'm willing to consider lease terms on grazing rights on a considerable stand of this stuff around my homestead, if anybody's interested.

Now, if we could just find something bindweed is good for.

I've been working hard at farming weeds myself for a number of years.

This darned stuff that looks like okra, sweet corn, tomatoes and cantaloupe keeps growing up through it though.

I try to keep it hood out, but a few vegetables manage to survive through the summer, and somehow, they don't seem to choke out all those good weeds.

By midsummer and into August, I've about decided to join the vegetables, instead of trying to lick them, and my experimentation has shown that all those pesky vegetables growing amidst my weed farm are fairly decent in protein content for the dinner table.

As for my weeds, they most often are left to fend for themselves, and the selected species that manage to hang on display incredible vigor, doing their best to crowd out and overshadow all that corn.

Of course, if I'd plant my own weed crop each spring, instead of counting on the wind, the neighbor's dog and fourteen other factors to do it, I'd probably have a lot better stand, and a whole lot more weeds out there to compete with those "tough" vegetables.

But then, there wouldn't be all that challenge of farming weeds either that comes with letting 'em make their own way.

The handshake originated in medieval Europe as a gesture between two men to show that each was unarmed.

Texas Crops Report

Panhandle Wheat Heads; Moisture Still Short

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Texas farmers are making up for lost time as drier fields and warmer soil temperatures are finally allowing them to plant spring crops, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cultivating is moving ahead in the Coastal Bend in fields that have dried out sufficiently. Sprigging of new Coastal bermudagrass pastures is moving ahead rapidly as weather permits.

About half of the cotton acreage in the Coastal Bend and southward is squaring, with fleahoppers and boll weevils reported heavy in Extension District 12. Pfannstiel said. Sorghum crops are beginning to head in that area, and corn also is progressing rapidly.

The hay harvest is moving ahead as fields dry out in south, central and eastern counties, with good yield potentials.

The onion harvest is about complete in the Rio Grande Valley, and harvesting of peppers and cantaloupes should begin there within the next 10 days.

Disease damage is increasing in cantaloupe and honeydew melon fields due to the weather. The Coastal Bend cucumber harvest has been slowed by rains, while home gardens and farm gardens are beginning to produce a variety of vegetables.

The season's first peaches are expected to be harvested in Gillespie County within the next two weeks, and elsewhere peaches are making rapid progress. Pecans appear to be setting a good crop in most areas. Spraying to control the costly pecan nut casebearer has started in some counties.

Throughout the state, livestock are in good to excellent condition as the calving season nears an end. Except for some counties in west and southwest Texas, most ranges are in above-average condition.

Reports from district Extension agents showed these conditions:

PANHANDLE: Some counties remain short of moisture. Planting of cotton and some sorghum is under way. Wheat is about 50 percent headed, and alfalfa is blooming. Cool weather has slowed growth of corn. Ranges are improving.

SOUTH PLAINS: Rain is needed prior to planting in dryland areas, although good subsoil moisture is present. Cotton is being planted on irrigated land, about 60 percent complete in northern counties. Corn planting is virtually complete: first alfalfa cutting under way. Wheat, sugar beets look good.

ROLLING PLAINS: Rain is needed for maximum wheat production and pasture improvement. Major cotton planting should begin after May 20, the crop's uniform planting date. Weeds are heavy in native pastures. Hybrid sudan is growing well, with some army worm damage. Corn and vegetables are progressing.

NORTH CENTRAL: Army worms are heavy in wheat, and insects are damaging some oats. Greenbugs and aphids are showing up in sorghum and some cotton is being replanted.

NORTHEAST: Crops and ranges need sunshine. Hay is growing well, with some counties already cutting and baling. Insects have damaged some tomatoes. Pecans are blooming and the peach crop is setting. Fertilization of pastures continues as a major activity, along with spraying of fruit trees, soil preparation and planting.

FAR WEST: All counties need rain. Cotton planting continues and is nearly complete in some areas, while sorghum planting varies according to available moisture. Small grains are ripening; alfalfa is being cut for hay and pelleting. Sheep shearing continues. Despite dry ranges, livestock continue in good condition.

WEST CENTRAL: Sorghum planting is under way and cotton planting is just beginning in most areas. Planting of both crops is 90 percent complete in Schleicher County. Callahan County has a record wheat crop. Planting of hay is in full swing. Weeds are a major problem on ranges.

CENTRAL: Many fields

Abuse of Rangeland Avoided by Resting Pastures

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

J.L. Woodford has improved the productivity of some 3,700 acres of rangeland on his farm and ranch operation northeast of Hereford simply by "resting" his pastures whenever the opportunity has presented itself.

The "rest period" amounts to deferred grazing over the summer months, which Woodford includes in his program of range management, along with measures to keep the range stocked at the proper level.

According to John Paclik, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Deaf Smith and Randall counties, many of the native grass species making up area pastures are extensively overused, thus reducing their productivity to a considerable degree.

But even an occasional deferment of grazing on native grass ranges can result in vastly improved vigor and performance on the part of available grasses, the range specialist pointed out.

Woodford, who became involved in agriculture in the local area in 1928, first became acquainted with deferred grazing while completing a Great Plains Conservation Program contract on his rangeland in the 1960's.

Under the provisions of the contract, a period of deferred grazing was included on re-seeded rangeland, and after witnessing the dividends such a practice paid on the re-seeded acreage, the local agriculturalist expanded the deferment program to much of the remainder of his range.

but added that corrective measures to allow the range to recover are the key to avoiding damage to native grasses.

"Even with occasional overgrazing, it's not hard to tell the difference in ranges that have been taken care of, and those that haven't," stated Paclik.

Woodford utilized a cow herd on his rangeland at one time, but today runs strictly stocker animals, and shoots for a pound of gain per day per animal.

"A pound-and-a-half is an outstanding daily gain, and we try for around a pound. You may get in a situation where you don't get any gain, then get a good rain on the pastures and go on and make it okay," Woodford maintained.

According to Paclik, the local farmer and rancher is stocking his rangeland at about the recommended rate to avoid costly overgrazing.

"Using a standard formula and figuring stockers, Mr. Woodford has his range stocked at a rate of about one animal unit per 25 acres, which is within the carrying capacity of his available grass," stated the range conservationist.

Woodford has seen local rangeland for over 50 years now, having arrived when some of the native grasses were yet to be enclosed by fences.

Asked how his pastures of today rank with those of the early years here, prior to extremely heavy grazing pressure, he commented, "The grass is as good now as it was then where it hasn't been abused."

And simply by closing gates and "resting" tracts of grassland, Woodford is carefully avoiding that abuse.

'Resting' Boosts Grass

John Paclik, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service and J.L. Woodford examine blue grama grass that got a big shot in the arm through a program of deferred grazing on Woodford's farm and ranch operation northeast of Hereford. Woodford rests native grass pastures whenever possible, and attempts to keep ranges stocked with cattle at the proper rate in order to avoid overgrazing and subsequent damage to a valuable grazing resource. Information on deferred grazing and other sound range management practices is available at the local SCS office. [Brand photo by Jim Steiert] remain too wet for farmers to resume cotton planting, which is running behind schedule due to prolonged wet weather. Central Texas reports the most green.

lush growth that it has had in many years. Small grains are nearing maturity, with some lodging reported in wheat. Some cotton re-planting is under way, and some sorghum is yet to be planted in Bell and McLennan Counties. Pecans are setting good crop.

EAST: The first hay cuttings are due to begin this week if open weather continues. Corn is nearly planted; sorghum is being planted, and peanut planting is starting. Vegetable gardens are improving with warmer weather, although insects are becoming a problem. Pecan and peach crops—are progressing well.

SOUTHWEST AND UPPER GULF COAST: As field conditions dry, farmers are completing planting of rice, cotton and sorghum. Some hay is being cut in Montgomery County. Land is being prepared for soybean planting; vegetables are progressing. Some webworms and scab showing up in peaches; pecans are making good set.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Hay cutting, cultivating and planting continues as fields dry. Some wet fields continue to delay planting of cotton, sorghum and corn. Some bean harvesting has started and other home garden crops are progressing. Livestock remain in good condition, with pastures average to above.

SOUTHWEST: Soybean planting has begun. Most other crops have been planted. Cotton, sorghum and corn are growing rapidly. Farmers in southern counties are harvesting wheat and oats, and other areas should begin combining the crops soon. A good nut set is reported in pecans, and spraying to control the pecan nut casebearer has started. Some areas in Frio, LaSalle, Dimmitt and Sutton Counties need rain.

COASTAL BEND: Wet weather has again delayed field work, causing serious problems in some areas. The cucumber harvest has been slowed by rain. Cotton is squaring, corn is beginning to tassel and sorghum is beginning to head. Rice is 75 percent emerged, and some flax is blooming. Hay is being cut in drier areas.

SOUTH: Wet fields have halted most vegetable harvesting, and led to disease damage in cantaloupe and honeydew fields. About half the cotton is squaring.

"I've overgrazed my rangeland at times, and there are times when it just can't be helped. I do try to rest the grass after a period of overgrazing however, to give it an opportunity to recover," he continued.

Paclik agreed that occasional overgrazing is difficult to avoid,

Potato Board to Host Program on Ag Exports

New ideas for exporters of food and agricultural products will be unveiled June 21-22 at The Potato Board Export Forum in Denver at Writers' Manor. The program is not solely potato-oriented so the forum is ideal for anyone in agriculture.

The 14 speakers include businessmen whose operations are heavily export-oriented plus experts in export financing, transportation and global weather forecasting.

Keynote speaker is James S. Peters, president of Samsonite Corporation's International Group. Luncheon speakers are Robert S. FitzSimmons, deputy director for marketing of the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service's Horticulture and Tropical Products division, and K.C. Chiwara, president of Pentax Corp. who will tell U.S.

salesmen how to get more sales in Japan. The transportation panel includes representatives from a steamship firm, railroad, freight forwarder, the Federal Maritime Administration and a state agricultural transportation specialist. Another panel will have foreign university students describing homeland food preferences and receptivity to U.S. foods.

The $25 advance registration fee includes two lunches plus a large workbook of materials and publications for developing and expanding exports. Single-day registration is $20. After June 15 the two-day fee is $30. Only 125 registrations will be accepted. Reduced room rates are available through The Potato Board, 1385 So. Colorado Blvd., #512, Denver, Co. 80222.

Your vegetable garden—protect it with a Hudson sprayer and produce more!

Bugs and disease can ruin your vegetables!

To grow big, red, juicy tomatoes and healthy, good-tasting vegetables, you need to protect them from destructive insects and disease. The easiest and most effective way is to spray or dust the right way. For best results, use a Hudson sprayer.

Here's why: The spray extension and adjustable nozzle make it easy for you to spray all parts of the plant for total protection. Especially under leaves where bugs hide and diseases start.

It's easy to mix the proportions of spray concentrate and water exactly as recommended. And Hudson sprayers have instant on-off control so you can spray only necessary small amounts. No wasteful drenching. This saves you money. And it protects the environment, too.

How you spray does make a difference! So for best growing results, choose from the line of best sprayers and dusters—Hudson. You'll find them where lawn and garden products are sold.

Cotton Safety Search Could Open New Markets

RALEIGH — Prompted by government and public interest in consumer product safety, Cotton Incorporated has reorganized part of its research effort into a Product Safety Research Department to ensure that cotton products are hazard-free and to develop new markets for cotton safety fabrics.

"Through research conducted by our product safety research department, we intend to prove how cotton can be engineered to provide safety in hazardous conditions," explains Hal E. Brockman, vice president for textile research and development. "This new department will be expanding our efforts to develop new markets in the growing field of safety apparel for cotton produced in this country."

At the same time, Brockmann said, "We want to confirm the safety of cotton and the chemical treatments used on cotton. This way, we can keep the textile industry and appropriate government agencies aware of the safety of cotton and its various chemical treatments so that there will be no unnecessary regulations on chemical finishes for fabrics that might restrict cotton markets. This means keeping abreast of the activities of over a dozen federal agencies, industry-wide groups, and research centers."

Dr. William F. Baitinger, previously manager of fire retardance research, is director of product safety research. The department replaces the fire retardance research department.

Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers. Supported by producers' per bale assessments, it works for each producer through programs of research and marketing.

A defensive campaign on product safety is necessary because some chemicals used in fabrics have had their safety challenged, explains Brockmann. He says there have been occasions in the past where cotton lost substantial markets because both federal agencies adopting regulations and segments of the textile industry that had to comply with them lacked full information on what chemicals were and were not used on cotton.

"You have got to have someone on the spot in Washington at those agency meetings who understands

Cotton Passes Test

Dr. Bill Baitinger, director of product safety research for Cotton Incorporated, tests some flame-retardant, all-cotton fabric using a device that allows him to predict performance in the oxygen-rich environment aboard NASA's space shuttle flight. Safety apparel advanced through Cotton Incorporated research has been adopted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration [NASA], the New York City Fire Department, the U.S. Forestry Service, and other governmental agencies and industries that require specialized safety apparel.

cotton and who can address the details of chemical technology," adds Brockmann. "In that respect we will be working closely with the National Cotton Council, which can lobby for or against specific regulations or legislation."

"Cotton Incorporated is determined to prevent any future losses of cotton's markets resulting from regulations based on misinformation or incomplete data," Brockmann says. "At the same time, we want to take full advantage of the opportunity to expand cotton's markets in the developing field of safety products."

Baitinger sees the two main opportunities as involving apparel that provides heat insulation and flame resistance for fire departments and apparel that provides flame resistance for public utilities.

"There are a lot of opportunities opening up in the field of fire retardant products," says Baitinger. "Because of cotton's natural characteristics, there is no other fabric that you can do more with chemically and mechanically than cotton."

"We are trying to expand the use of cotton in markets that have a potential of over 100,000 bales annually," Baitinger adds.

Cotton Incorporated already has had success in the market with its introduction of "Fire Stop" fabrics, predominantly cotton fabrics that meet applicable industry standards for flame resistance.

The New York Fire Department has adopted "Fire Stop" uniforms as the official uniform for its firefighters, and the fire retardant fabrics have been adopted for use by public utilities, steel workers, automotive industry welders, and other fire departments.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has adopted "Fire Stop" fabric for the training and flight uniforms for its space shuttle astronauts.

The product safety issue has come to the fore because of a problem with synthetic flame-resistant sleepwear, explains Baitinger.

Researchers two years ago alleged that Tris, a chemical used to make some synthetic fabrics flame resistant, could cause cancer. In the subsequent public scare, cotton lost a lot of its sleepwear markets, even though Tris was never used on cotton fabrics and even though cotton sleepwear has passed the same toxicity tests that Tris had failed, explains Baitinger.

"Because those researchers questioned the toxicity of chemical treatments for fire resistance, we now have people questioning the toxicity of treatments for all sorts of fabric," Baitinger says.

"Since all the way of preparing textile fabrics involve chemical processes, there are potential threats to many textile markets," he adds.

"That is why it is imperative that we have someone available to provide regulatory agencies, trade associations, and various toxicological institutes with information about cotton. We are concerned with public safety, but we are also concerned that with such an emotional issue all the facts be brought to light. Our product safety research department will be there to bring to light the facts."

Baitinger anticipates that the questions raised about flame resistance treatments for sleepwear will be settled satisfactorily this year, and then Cotton Incorporated can resume its sleepwear program, he says.

The department is a three-member staff at full complement, with the added consulting services of Dr. Leonard Smith, former vice president and associate director for flame retardance research, who recently retired.

"Our progress and accomplishment may be reflected more in what doesn't happen rather than in what does happen," says Baitinger. "If we accomplish our goal, it will mean we won't lose something we might have lost. We recognize the importance of defensive activities."

The Alaskan Lands legislation passed the House during the past week, and is now bound for a showdown in the Senate. Although far from home, this legislation will still have a major bearing on the continuation of sport hunting in our country.

The measure forwarded to the Senate could severely restrict access to wilderness lands in Alaska, thus effectively prohibiting hunting in some of the choicest grounds in that vast state. The Udall proposal which would designate many of these areas as limited access and preclude their use by hunters is supported by numerous anti-hunting groups.

Sportsmen should remain concerned over the Alaskan lands issue, and make their feelings known to their senator while there is still time.

In speaking to your senator, ask him to fight to keep the widest possible areas of Alaskan lands open to hunting. The Huckaby Amendment, as passed by the House Interior Committee would provide for this, placing 20.5 million acres into parks and 21.6 million acres into preserves.

Request that full access to all conservation units be guaranteed—mandated by legislation to continue hunting as it has traditionally been carried out in Alaska.

Also, encourage your senator to support legislation that would mandate sport hunting by law on national preserves and refuges. Ask him to uphold state management of resident species of game and fish, and provide for federal management of habitat on federal lands.

Anti-hunting groups and the uninformed are closing the gates of Alaska to the nation's sportsmen, and only if we act now can we preserve a portion of this great wilderness hunting ground and its colorful wildlife species for those who truly care.

Jim Clarke, president of the Hereford Gun Club informs me that the local trap shooting facility will get back on a regular schedule in June, after holidays wiped out both regularly scheduled shooting dates this month.

Informal shoots are scheduled for Sunday, June 10, and Sunday, June 24, and night shoots are tentatively scheduled to get underway in late June.

Clarke also hopes to organize a trap shooting league at the local range, to include scattergunners from Hereford, Dimmitt, Dawn and the Simms community.

Prizes would be awarded for first through fourth place, and high average and high series trophies would also be awarded.

SD

The Range and Wildlife department of Texas Tech University has some pheasant study projects underway currently in neighboring Castro County, and the time spent in researching this important gamebird species could prove quite beneficial to our area.

Initial studies are being concentrated on nesting and habitat for the pheasants, and studies are also underway on the pesticide residues in the birds themselves.

An early check on residues failed to turn up any in the birds, which speaks well for the population, and subsequent studies during the summer should tell a lot more.

We hope to have a feature on one of the Tech teams conducting the pheasant study sometime in the near future.

Ducks Unlimited Hosts International Convention

CHICAGO — Some 700 volunteer leaders of this country's largest waterfowl conservation organization attended Ducks Unlimited's 42nd International Convention on Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, May 1-5. The convention marked the second time Ducks Unlimited has held its annual meeting in South Carolina, a meeting which this year paid tribute to over 40 years of conservation cooperation between Ducks Unlimited and its Canadian construction counterpart, DU (Canada).

According to Ducks Unlimited Executive Vice President Dale E. Whitesell, DU's Board of Trustees approved a record $14.5 million (Canadian currency) commitment to be transferred to DU (Canada) during 1979. Whitesell said the funds would be channeled into a DU (Canada) construction program designed to complete 162 projects encompassing some 100,000 new habitat acres. He also announced the commitment of over a quarter of a million dollars to be sent to Ducks Unlimited de Mexico (DUMAC) during 1979 for the development of prime wintering waterfowl habitat.

"Coming through with the funds needed to support a habitat preservation and restoration program of this magnitude is going to demand one whale of a nationwide fund-raising effort on the part of our volunteers during 1979," said Whitesell. "But we've picked up some experience over the past forty years which comes in handy when confronting critical conservation fund-raising challenges. The most significant factor we have working for us is, quite simply, the enthusiasm of our volunteers. Our fund-raising goal for 1979 stands at an even $20 million, and our volunteers consider this a solid pledge ensuring that the race to save diminishing North American waterfowl habitat will continue to be run."

City, Missouri. Other top Ducks Unlimited officers reelected at the Hilton Head Island Convention include Chairman of the Board Henry J. Nave, of Pinehurst, North Carolina; Vice Chairman of the Board Chester F. Dolley, of Los Angeles, California; and Executive Committee Chairman Gaylord Donnelly, of Chicago, Illinois.

Fishermen Missing Fish Tags, Rewards

AUSTIN — Recent surveys by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department indicate that some Gulf Coast area fishermen are catching tagged fish but fail to notice the tags.

This represents a double loss, points out Gary Matlock, coastal finfish program director. "When the tag is not reported we lose the information it could tell us, and the fisherman doesn't receive the cash award for returning the tag."

Each returned tag is worth at least $1, Matlock said, thanks to the Gulf Coast Conservation Association which is providing award money. The tags also may be worth $5, $6 or $25, depending upon the fisherman's luck.

Actually the abdominal tags are not visible on the fish, but the tags are attached to a piece of yellow plastic tubing

County Resolutions Sought

Backlash Against Longer Pheasant Season is Noted

By JIM STEIERT
Outdoors Editor

A backlash against the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission's recent decision to nearly double the length of the pheasant season in the Panhandle is apparently being set off in the "Magic Triangle" area, long-renowned as one of the finest pheasant hunting regions in the state.

Parmer County commissioners passed a resolution in their regular session during the past week opposing the 30-day season approved by the P&W commission, and forwarded copies of the resolution to the executive director of the Parks & Wildlife Dept., District P&W Supervisor Calvin Tow of Amarillo and game warden Chuck Cosper, who serves Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties.

Efforts are currently in the formative stage to seek a similar resolution from Deaf Smith County commissioners, and action may also be sought from the Castro County commissioner's court by landowners in that neighboring region. The P&W commission approved extending the pheasant season from 16 to 30 days during a session in Austin April 26, and although landowners and sportsmen from the local "Magic Triangle" region and other counties in the Panhandle regulatory district voiced op-

Quail Limits May be Increased

AUSTIN — Texas quail hunters may be able to take advantage of any increased quail production as a result of a decision by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The commission in its public hearing in Austin last month authorized the Parks and Wildlife Department to defer setting bag limits on quail in regulatory authority counties until after the quail nesting season is completed.

The final decision on quail bag and possession limits will be announced sometime in September.

position to the season extension, their taped testimony was not heard by P&W commissioners during their Austin meeting.

Local landowners objected to the extended season primarily on the basis of the inconvenience and hardship that would be imposed on them in watching their property for a full 30-day period with a heavy influx of hunters into the region.

Landowners have managed to cope with problems of hunters entering their property without permission during the 16 day seasons which had become traditional in recent years, but a nearly-doubled season could sorely try the patience of landowners and law enforcement officials.

Some landowners and sportsmen also objected to the extended season on a biological basis, arguing that a shortage of available habitat could lead to problems if hunting pressure is increased significantly.

Local residents interested in a county commission resolution in opposition to the extended pheasant season are being urged to attend the commissioner's court session at which the issue is expected to be brought up.

The issue is tentatively scheduled for the commissioner's court agenda on Tuesday, May 29.

The season dates will be generally the same as last year. In the Panhandle, Permian Basin, Trans-Pecos and South Texas areas the season will be Oct. 27, 1979, through Feb. 3, 1980. In the remainder of counties under the department's regulatory authority, the season will be Nov. 17, 1979, through Feb. 17, 1980.

Currently the bag limit on quail statewide is 12 birds per day, but department officials deferred setting the 1979-80 limits in order to take advantage of any increases in quail production brought about by favorable nesting conditions.

Horace Gore, the department's upland game program leader, said widespread rains throughout the state have made nesting conditions appear "extremely good," and he said high quail populations are a definite possibility.

Gore said biologists will complete 266 census routes, each 20 miles in length, during the late summer to determine quail population trends.

The department's Guide to 1979-80 Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Regulations booklet which will be available at hunting license outlets across the state in late summer will contain specific quail season dates for each county, but will not list bag limits.

With 12 Pound Total

Norman Clayton Wins Tourney

By JIM STEIERT
Outdoors Editor

Members of the Triangle Bass Masters from Hereford and Earth competed in a regular monthly tournament at Conchas Lake in New Mexico last weekend, and enjoyed an outstanding fishing outing.

Norman Clayton of Earth, a consistent top performer in the club, captured first place honors in last weekend's tourney, landing a total of 12 pounds of bass during the day-long tournament.

Clayton also took big fish honors for the outing, bringing in a largemouth that tipped the scales at just ounces under four pounds.

Clayton teamed with his son Sandy for the team championship as well.

Cletus Clayton of Earth took second place in the fishing tournament; and Hereford anglers Lester Nixon and Foyd Neal tied for third.

The second place total was five pounds, seven ounces of bass, and Nixon and Neal each landed four pounds, 12 ounces.

Fishing got underway on Conchas under overcast conditions that gave way to sunlight and sent the fish into the shallows.

Cloud cover redeveloped near the end of the tournament day. Excellent water conditions greeted the anglers participating in the tournament, with water content of the lake well up.

Local anglers reported that walleyes were aggressively taking baits during the tourney, and a number of walleye in addition to bass were landed on crankbaits and plastic worms.

The next regular meeting of the Triangle Bass Masters will be conducted Monday, June 4 at Earth.

Bass Masters members will compete in a tournament at Ute Lake at Logan, New Mexico on Saturday, June 9.

Orca, the killer whale, will often flip its prey 30 feet in the air several times before eating it, according to International Wildlife magazine. The eight-ton cetacean uses its tail to propel penguins, seals, and dolphins into the air.

Blasters

The Tierra Blanca Blasters muzzle loading and blackpowder firearm club will conduct a shoot at its range southeast of Hereford today.

Activities are scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m. at the new club range, located 1/2 mile north of LaPosta store and east behind the old house in the area. Shooting will be conducted in a sand pit at the location.

According to club spokesman Chuck Cosper, shooters will need to fire "from the pouch" for today's shoot, due to the lack of loading tables at the shoot site.

Turkey, bullseye, chuck and buffalo targets will be featured in today's shoot, as well as split-the-post competition.

Events will be timed, and team competitions may also be featured.

A business meeting of the newly-formed shooting club will also be conducted.

Individuals interested in blackpowder shooting sports are invited to attend the competition.

Rabies Cases Are On Upswing

COLLEGE STATION — Rabies a disease all but forgotten by many people, is once again on the upswing.

Cases of rabies have increased sharply in many areas of Texas, points out Dr. Jim Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

There were more laboratory-confirmed cases in Texas last year than any other year since 1961. And 1979 is off to a rousing start.

The first quarter of this year produced over twice the number of cases reported in 1978's first quarter, notes Armstrong. He says 80 to 90 percent of the cases are in skunks. However, domestic animal cases are increasing.

Twenty-two rabid dogs have been reported in the El Paso area, possibly due to rabid stray dogs in Mexico, he says. As a result, special immunization clinics have been set up to increase the vaccination level. Armstrong says intensive stray dog pick-up activities are under way on both sides of the river.

The veterinarian says the keys to rabies control are public awareness, pet vaccination (both dogs and cats) and stray animal control.

There are 3.7 million dogs in Texas, yet only 1.25 million rabies vaccinations are given annually by Texas veterinarians, Armstrong points out. A 70 percent vaccination level is considered the minimum necessary for rabies control.

During the first four months of 1979, laboratory confirmed cases through the Texas Department of Health totalled 370, compared to 183 confirmed lab cases for the corresponding period in 1978, representing an increase of over 100 percent.

"Of the 370 cases this year, 139 of them were confirmed in April alone. About 80 percent of all confirmed cases have been in skunks, and the Department of Health has announced that 46.2 percent of all skunks examined have been positive," notes Armstrong.

Cases confirmed through the laboratory during the first three weeks of April include: Skunks, 108; foxes, 2; bats, 4; raccoons, 2; cats, 1; dogs, 6; horses, 2; and cattle, 7. Although the two horses were confirmed in Brazos County, they were brought here for testing from the Houston and Hempstead areas, the lab report indicated.

Burdett Named P&WD Enforcement Director

AUSTIN — Chester Burdett has been named director of law enforcement for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

WILDLIFE SHOULD REMAIN WILD

LUBBOCK — This is the time of the year when most species of young animals and birds are seen by people fishing, hiking or camping in Texas. Many well-intentioned persons decide that these young species of wildlife have been abandoned and take them home as a pet.

"There are several reasons these young wildlife should be left in the field since it is not illegal but it is always harmful or even fatal to the animal itself," said David Dvorak, wildlife biologist.

"Texas law prohibits confining or penning game animals or birds and most persons do not know how or what to feed the young wildlife once it is at their residence," Dvorak continued.

Even if the young wildlife adapts to the human surroundings, they often become dangerous to their captors, pets, children and property when grown the biologist continued.

Young animals are rarely abandoned by their parents. Most are hidden while the parent goes off to feed where it can keep a watchful eye on its offspring.

Many animals and birds are natural carriers of disease and insects which can become hazardous or even deadly to humans. The best known examples are rabies in skunks and fleas on prairie dogs.

Most of these cute animals have sharp teeth and will bite in self-defense. Usually, the young children at home are the recipient of these attacks.

If a person knows the animal is orphaned or abandoned, such as a road kill, contact the nearest Texas game warden or P&WD office giving location of the animal to be rescued.

PAWD PUTS OUT FISH

CANYON — Many lakes in northwest Texas are now receiving stockings of non-native game fish such as walleye, striped and striped hybrids, and, smallmouth bass which will fill the acres of water not used or inhabited by our native species of fish.

"The goal of 40-50 million walleye eggs is high, but a good season at lake Meredith and additional eggs from other states should fill our stocking needs," said Joe Kraai, P&WD fishery biologist.

Many lakes will or already have been stocked with walleye including: Fort Phantom Hill and Clyde lakes near Abilene; Moss Creek City lake near Big Spring; and White River and Buffalo Springs lakes on the South Plains according to Kraai.

One of the biggest news items among fishermen in Texas is the Florida strain of the largemouth bass stocked in several lakes in our state. Most of the large Florida largemouth have come from central or east Texas, but the P&WD has already stocked these fighters in Lake Theo at Caprock Canyons State Park near Quitaque and more will be stocked in Greenbelt lake near Clarendon.

Smallmouth bass fishing is growing with a new state record now on the book. Both Lake Theo and White River lake will receive stockings of these scrappy fighters this spring.

The stripers and striped hybrids continue to make news at many West Texas lakes. Lake Diversion near Wichita Falls will receive these fast-growing hybrids this spring.

These releases are only a part of the continuing P&WD fish stocking program with a goal of furnishing Texas anglers a variety of fighting, good-eating fish to catch. Additional stockings of native fish such as largemouth bass and catfish are scheduled this spring and summer, also.

The Venus's Fly Trap, an insect-eating plant, takes between 10 and 35 days to digest one small bug, the National Wildlife Federation reports.

There are more elk and deer in the U.S. today than there were in 1900, according to National Wildlife magazine.

LOAN EXHIBIT
WASHINGTON (AP) - A loan exhibition from the collection of Baron Hans Heinrich Thyssen-Bornemisza of Lugano, Switzerland, will begin a nine-city tour at the National Gallery of Art this fall.
It will be the first time the collection has been shown in this country. The collection consists of 57 paintings dating from the 14th to the 19th centuries and includes works by such artists as Van Eyck, Goya, Cranach, Titian, El Greco, Rembrandt and Rubens.
The exhibit will be at the National Gallery of Art from Nov. 17 through Feb. 17, 1980. It is then scheduled to visit the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, the Denver Art Museum, Fort Worth, Texas, the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art, Kansas City, and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

BANCROFT PRIZES
NEW YORK (AP) - Columbia University has awarded the 1979 Bancroft Prizes to historian Christopher Thorne of the University of Sussex (England), and to University of Pennsylvania anthropologist Anthony F.C. Wallace.
The awards, of $4,000 each, recognize "books of exceptional merit and distinction in American history and diplomacy" which were published in 1978.
The winning books were Thorne's "Allies of a Kind: The United States, Britain and the War Against Japan, 1941-45" (Oxford University Press), and Wallace's "Rockdale: The Growth of an American Village in the Early Industrial Revolution" (Knopf).

A JELLY DOUGHNUT!

THERE'S NOTHING IN THE WORLD BETTER THAN A BIG FAT JELLY DOUGHNUT

THERE'S ONLY ONE PROBLEM...

YOU HAVE TO BE CAREFUL WHEN YOU EAT ONE

SOMETIMES WHEN YOU BITE INTO A JELLY DOUGHNUT, THE JELLY...

...SQUIRTS OUT THE SIDE!

YOU'RE... CAN YOU BAWL ME OUT LATER, SARGE, I HAVE TO LEAVE

I HOPE I CAN STAY MAD TILL HE GETS BACK

MAY I TELL YOU SOMETHING, SARGE?

I'VE BEEN STUDYING YOUR FACE. IT'S A SUBTLE BLEND OF STRANGE INCONGRUITIES. TYPICAL SERGEANT GRIMNESS, YET SOMETHING BABY-LIKE ABOUT IT

I SEE A MIXTURE OF CRUELTY AND HOSTILITY WITH A CERTAIN HEARTY WARMTH. THE FACE OF AN IGNORANT MAN IN A POSITION OF POWER THAT FEIGNS A BORED ATTITUDE OF SUPERIORITY

ALL OF THAT IN CONFLICT WITH AN UNDERLYING AND RATHER PATHETIC NEED TO BE ADMIRRED AND LIKED

NO, YOU MAY NOT TELL ME SOMETHING!!

Our Story:
WHEN SIR GAWAIN SAILED A WOLF-LIKE SMILE AND DREW HIS SWORD, THE GANG WAS READY TO CALL IT QUITS. BUT WHEN HE SAID THEY MUST CLEAN UP THIS MESS THEY HAD MADE, THEY REBELLED. THEY WERE NOT USED TO CLEANLINESS AND WOULD RATHER FIGHT.

ARN'S CLEAR YOUNG VOICE RINGS OUT: "YOU CANNOT WIN AGAINST ARMED AND ARMORED KNIGHTS, SO PUT DOWN YOUR WEAPONS AND TAKE UP A MOP!"

UNDER THE MENACE OF BRIGHT SWORDS THE COWED GANG BEGINS THEIR UNACUSTOMED TASK OF CLEANING UP THE MESS THEY HAD MADE.

DID I EVER TELL YOU THAT I WAS ONCE A PROFESSIONAL PARACHUTE JUMPER?

IT WAS A REAL DOWN-TO-EARTH JOB, BUT THINGS JUST DIDN'T OPEN UP FOR ME.

THEN I TRIED SELLING DOOR-TO-DOOR, BUT THAT WAS JUST A LOT OF HARD KNOCKS. SO I GOT AN EASY JOB IN THE CLOCK FACTORY...

.. I JUST STAND AROUND AND MAKE FACES.

WAIT!..LISTEN TO THIS!.. I ALSO WORK AS A RAILROAD CONDUCTOR PART-TIME!

DID YOU KNOW...

LINDBERGH WAS NOT THE FIRST PERSON TO FLY ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN. FLIERS HAD CROSSED IT BEFORE - BUT NEVER ALONE. LINDBERGH WAS THE FIRST PERSON TO MAKE THE LONG, NONSTOP FLIGHT ALONE.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

"WHY DOES A WHIP CRACK?"

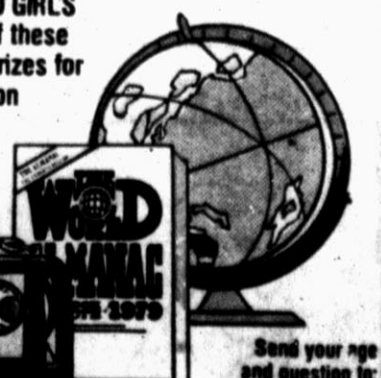

THE CRACKING NOISE A WHIP MAKES WHEN IT IS SNAPPED IS A SMALL SONIC BOOM. AT THE HEIGHT OF SUCH A SNAP, THE TIP OF THE WHIP MOVES THROUGH THE AIR SO FAST THAT IT MAKES THE SURROUNDING AIR VIBRATE VIOLENTLY, PRODUCING A SHARP SOUND WAVE. WHEN THE SOUND WAVE REACHES OUR EARS, WE HEAR A LOUD CRA-C-C-CK!

PRIZE: LINDA KAISER, DARIN HATHCOCK, DIANE MILLER, JAMEY VERCELLI WINNERS: MT. CALVARY, WI., AMARILLO, TX., FT. COLLINS, CO., MESA, AZ.

BOYS AND GIRLS Win one of these valuable prizes for the question answered here each week.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—When making cupcakes I use my gravy ladle to fill the pans as the ladle holds just the right amount of mix for one cup in the pan. This saves time, and there is less mess to clean up.—WANDA.

DEAR POLLY—A portion of the bathtub in our rented house had yellow rust stains when we moved in. I used a good cleanser and tomato ketchup generously, let it stand all night and then scrubbed. (On very bad stains this may have to be repeated.) My tub came out pretty and white.—M.R.S.

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—Here's how I keep my living room sofa slipcover in good shape. I had always been taught to put the empty rolls from paper towels down in the back to keep the cover in place, but I discovered a new idea. I took the handle from a discarded mop and slipped it down behind the seat pillow. The slipcover does not move and the back is always nice and smooth.—MRS. R.M.

DEAR POLLY—Brightly colored scraps of material can be sewn together, stuffed, and hung, mobile-fashion, in baby's room. Old, cut-up nylons make fine stuffing, and can go right in the washer.—LAURIE.

DEAR POLLY—When I use my electric skillet, I place several layers of newspaper under and behind the skillet. When the cooking or frying is finished, there are few grease spatters to wipe up.—MRS. F.C.

DEAR POLLY—I've devised a "smock" to wear when dyeing my hair, to protect my clothing from drips and spatters. It's easy and quick to cut a hole for the head, and others for armholes, in a large plastic garbage bag. This could also serve as a quickie artist's garment.—BARBARA.

POLLY'S NOTE: A neat idea, but be sure that you destroy or discard the bag after use, so that little children can't endanger themselves by playing with it.

DEAR POLLY—We are great iced tea drinkers, and as both lemons and sugar are so expensive I buy frozen lemonade crystals and add them to the tea. Try it!—KAY.

DEAR POLLY—If you plan to bring individual portions home from the ice-cream stand, take along some large plastic margarine bowls. Put a portion in each, snap on the lids, and you'll arrive home drip-free!—SHIRLEY.
