

Hereford Trustees Approve 5-Year Plan

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Hereford Independent School District trustees Tuesday night approved a five-year plan for improvement needed in four major areas as identified by school officials after more than two years of study.

The plan, submitted to trustees by HISD program development director Mal Manchee, lists objectives over the next five years in reading, mathematics, school-community relationship and bilingual education.

Manchee said the plan, devised by specially-appointed committees during the present school year, is the result of several philosophies and goals which were identified by other committees in the 1976-77 school year.

"Last year, in year two of this thing, we completed our self-evaluation process, which was the second step," Manchee said.

"And now, this plan lists four areas determined to be specific areas to be studied. These are from the goals we selected in 1977," he said.

Manchee said the extensive plan, which lists deficiencies in each of the four areas, includes a yearly evaluation by the board of trustees "to see what we've accomplished."

The board studied the plan, considered by the Texas Education Agency as a major step for the Hereford school district, for more than an hour before granting approval.

All seven trustees were present Tuesday and voted unanimously to approve the plan. Oralia Guzman Gamez, outspoken in recent months concerning the school district and one of the clients in a lawsuit which resulted in a special election being called for four trustee positions, attended Tuesday's meeting to ask the board to hire more high school counselors and a Mexican-American or bilingual principal at Hereford High School.

She also voiced concern over rumors she had heard concerning a proposal to drop bilingual education in the school district. "We need bilingual education for our children," she said before being assured by Superintendent Harrell

Holder that there was nothing to the rumors.

Mrs. Gamez submitted a petition asking the board to hire either Louis Montana, bilingual education director for the school district, or John Dominguez, a Tierra Blanca Elementary teacher and incoming Classroom Teachers Association president, as high school principal to replace Jerry Don George.

George announced his resignation after accepting the principalship at Plainview High School.

"It would be important for parents (to have a bilingual principal). Many parents don't speak English and they don't like to come talk to the principal with another person who speaks English," Mrs. Gamez said.

"I have two petitions now from inside the school district," Holder responded. "One is signed by every member of the high school staff. Each of these petitions is endorsing a person for the job of high school principal."

"I have assured the staff that we will take applications from anyone who wants

Rationing Faces Vote In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's fight to win standby gasoline rationing authority is facing a crucial vote in the Senate, with Sen. Henry M. Jackson warning "the alternative is to tolerate anarchy at the gasoline pump."

Senate leaders including Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, predicted passage today in a close vote.

Carter ditched two earlier standby rationing proposals and sent Congress an entirely new version Tuesday, one that would distribute rationing coupons based on how much gasoline states generally use.

Those in states where gasoline use per vehicle is high would receive the largest share of the coupons.

Carter's original plan would have allocated the fuel solely on the basis of the number of registered vehicles in a household.

Number of vehicles still plays a role. But a family in a state with high monthly gasoline use, such as Arkansas or Texas, would get more gas coupons for each vehicle under the new Carter proposal than would a similar family with the same number of cars in a low per-vehicle gasoline use state such as Hawaii, Rhode Island, Montana or North Dakota.

As with an earlier attempt, a compromise, eligibility for coupons would be limited to three cars per household.

The 11-hour White House revisions on gasoline rationing were clearly an attempt to pick up needed support in the Senate.

Carter's original plan faced near-certain rejection on the floor, and a less drastically modified version was turned down Monday on a 126 vote in the Senate Energy Committee.

"I think this is the last time around if we don't pass this, we're not going to see a standby plan on gasoline," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, whose state would receive one of the largest per-vehicle ration allocations under the new plan.

But Bentsen said there is no way in which you can offer a plan which is good in one state which will not have some adverse impact in another, predicted passage.

With the ink on the new plan barely dry, the Energy Committee passed it 97-0 and it was rushed to the Senate floor.

The plan will die Friday unless both chambers approve it.

FFA Honorees

LeAnne Hughes, left, outgoing president of the Hereford FFA, was named as the recipient of the DeKalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award, as well as the FFA Scholarship Award during the 45th annual FFA Parent-Member Banquet at the HHS cafeteria last night, to sweep two of the evening's top awards. LeAnne Hughes, outgoing president of the Hereford FFA, was named as the recipient of the coveted DeKalb Award to highlight the 45th annual Hereford FFA Parent-Member Banquet last night at the HHS cafeteria.

A crowd of nearly 200 was on hand to witness the presentation of awards to local FFA members and supporters.

Miss Hughes was recognized for scholastic achievement and supervised agriculture activities during her four year enrollment in the vocational agriculture program here.

A senior, her projects have included show lambs, barrows and steers, as well as breeding ewes.

Selected as an area FFA officer for next year, she has been a member of the National Honor Society for three years, and is ranked in the top 20 percent of her class. She was also named as the winner of the FFA Scholarship Award.

Ray Schlabs, president of the Hereford Young Farmers also announced the winner of the third HYF agriculture scholarship of $250.

Brad Glover was named as the scholarship recipient, but was unable to attend last night's award ceremonies due to an injury suffered during a recent high school rodeo.

Members of the Hereford FFA chapter selected Jim Steiert, farm editor of the Hereford Brand as their Honorary Chapter Farmer for 1978-79, and inducted Steiert into the chapter as an honorary member in special ceremonies, which cited Steiert's support of the local chapter through publicizing its various activities.

Don Lawson, outgoing secretary of the Hereford FFA was named as the winner of The Hereford Brand's second annual

"FFA Comeback Award" during the event, which honored FFA members and supporters for their accomplishments during the past year. A crowd of nearly 200 was on hand for the parent-member festivities, which concluded with the installation of a new slate of FFA officers. [Brand photos by Jim Steiert]

Elderly Exemption Gets Okay

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Sen. Grant Jones, 56, wanted to restrict homestead tax breaks for older Texans. Sen. Carl Parker, 12 years younger, was on the opposite - or older - side.

In what he referred to as a "Dignity Amendment," Parker won a 24-7 vote Tuesday to provide a $10,000 homestead exemption for all elderly Texans.

The Senate Finance Committee had voted to restrict the exemption to elderly Texans with an annual income of $10,000 or less.

"This is akin to signing a pauper's oath," protested Parker, D-Port Arthur. "It robs them of their dignity - it's just not right. ... You're splitting in the eye of every elderly citizen in your district."

The Senate passed the bill implementing the popular 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, 30-1, and returned it to the House for action on changes made by the Senate.

The House, however, refused to accept Senate changes and a five-member conference committee was appointed to try to work out a compromise with a similar Senate committee.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, the lone dissenter, said, "The timber barons will get all the tax breaks, along with the land developers and speculators."

"Help the needy, not the greedy," said

Hance To Hold

Town Hall Meeting

U.S. Congressman Kent Hance will hold a "town hall" meeting here Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Center.

The town meeting is designed to give residents an opportunity to talk with their representative on how things are going in Washington and how they affect Deaf Smith County and the 19th Congressional District.

Rep. Hance, who won election to replace the veteran George Mahon, has covered the entire district with his "town hall" meetings. He started in the southern part of the district some weeks ago, and the Hereford visit will complete the tour. He is fulfilling a campaign promise in conducting these meetings.

All interested citizens are urged to attend the meeting and discuss the issues affecting Deaf Smith County and the area.

Q-My question is about persons that sell ice cream, snow cones and similar items in the evenings. My children have been paying a tax on these items. When I asked one of the drivers where his tax card was, the person told me it was torn off by some children and he hadn't replaced it yet. Are they right in charging tax? Do they have to have a tax card in view for the public.

A-According to Sylvester Bonilla of the state comptroller's regional office in Amarillo, a sales tax must be charged on ice cream goods when someone does not buy six or more of the items in a package. Buying individual items such as these requires a tax. Bonilla said that an ice cream truck should either have the sales tax permit displayed on a window or other location or the driver should be able to furnish the permit number upon demand of an investigator for the comptroller's office.

Firemen Seek Funds For Extrication Tool

Hereford volunteer firemen have announced a country music concert and two bank funds as part of their efforts to raise $6,000 for a metal ripping rescue tool.

"The Golden Years of Country Music," a South Plains College road show highlighting 50 years of country music history, will be sponsored by the fire department at 8:30 p.m. June 8 in Whiteface Stadium.

Tickets for the show are available from many volunteer firemen and at Hereford State Bank, First National Bank, Hereford Volunteer Fire Department and Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce for $2 (general admission) and $3 (chair seats).

Proceeds from the show, which will feature more than 40 classic hits, will go toward the purchase of a rescue tool called "jaws of life" by fire departments.

Funds at both Hereford banks have been established under the title "Jaws of Life Fund" for persons wishing to donate to the fire department's effort.

"We have to have other things, too, and our budget is only so much. That's why we're going to the community and asking their help instead of going to the city commission. It's one way we can keep taxes down, too," fire Marshal Jay Spain said.

"This way," assistant fire chief Reuben McGilvary said, "the community is helping to purchase a piece of equipment that they can have used to save their lives possibly someday." Spain said the principle of the "jaws of life" is: "you don't take the victim out of the automobile, you take the automobile away from around the victim."

Fire departments in canyon, Happy, Tulia, Amarillo, Muleshoe and Friona all have the rescue tool, according to McGilvary.

"We can do without it, but can the people," Spain said. "By conventional means, it would take much longer to get a person out."

Russians Buy Huge Corn Load

WASHINGTON (AP) - After weeks of rumors that it soon would bounce into the U.S. grain market again in a big way, the Soviet Union has sealed a huge order for U.S. corn, one of the biggest in recent years.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday the new sale is for 1.15 million metric tons of corn, to be delivered this year.

Officials said the sale was reported to USDA by private exporting companies who arrange their own contracts with the Soviet Union and other countries.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland also announced the new sales at a news conference in Chicago.

According to the department the Soviets now have bought about 6.89 million metric tons of corn and 2.53 million metric tons of wheat for delivery through Sept. 30, the end of the third year of a marketing agreement that calls for Russia to buy minimum amounts of grain annually.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

The combined total sold to the Soviet Union so far this year - about 9.4 million metric tons - compares with around 14.8 million metric tons the Soviet Union recently ordered to join his breakaway state in southern Lebanon.

A spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization confirmed the movement, and the Iraqi News Agency said there were 30 Israeli tanks and about 300 soldiers in the force.

However, it was not clear if the tanks were being redeployed within Haddad's enclave or had actually moved into the area from Israel.

Meanwhile, the Tel Aviv command reported an Israeli army patrol clashed with a band of Palestinian guerrillas on the Israeli-Lebanese border early today.

Israeli Tanks Set For Lebanon Battle

By The Associated Press

Twenty-five Israeli and Christian tanks and an unknown number of soldiers were reported to have taken up positions in southern Lebanon today following three days of Israeli air strikes against guerrilla targets and another terrorist attempt across the frontier.

The provincial governor in the southern port city of Sidon said the tanks entered Shakara and were near Braachit, both six miles north of the border and about 15 miles east of Tyre.

Braachit is one of several towns that Israeli-backed Maj. Saad Haddad recently ordered to join his breakaway state in southern Lebanon.

A spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization confirmed the movement, and the Iraqi News Agency said there were 30 Israeli tanks and about 300 soldiers in the force.

ordered in the agreement's second year, which ended last Sept. 30.

Under the pact, the Soviets were committed to buying at least 6 million metric tons of the two grains each year and up to a maximum of 8 million metric tons if it chooses.

But if more than 8 million metric tons is wanted, the United States must give its approval. Last fall, the Soviets were told they could buy up to 5 million metric tons in the third year if they chose, the same as in 1977-78.

Only corn and wheat are covered by the agreement - a five-year pact that will end Sept. 30, 1981.

Inflation To Be Higher Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - Even as the Carter administration raises its inflation forecast to at least 8.5 percent, some private economists are warning that price boosts for such necessities as food, energy and housing will far exceed that rate.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal admitted Tuesday that the administration had "screwed up" by predicting only a 7.4 percent inflation rate for 1979.

"I would be surprised if we're below 8 1/2 percent," he told a Senate appropriations subcommittee.

Barry Bosworth, the director of the president's Council on Wage and Price Stability, later agreed with Blumenthal's prediction.

At a dinner of the Society of American Business and Economic Writers, he said inflation now is "absolutely inconsistent with forecasts last October."

The revised prediction threatens to weaken labor's already hard stand against President Carter's 7 percent wage guideline, a COWPS spokesman acknowledged.

Leak of Documents Concerns Feds

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amid growing concern that gasoline shortages could spread from California, the Energy Department says leaks of internal documents to an oil industry group may threaten public confidence in the way the department makes rules and policy.

to apply, and the principal I recommend to the board will be someone who has a proven record."

Mrs. Gamez said there are "not enough" counselors at Hereford High and we are all aware that we have many more students than we did before."

She said it has taken "as many as three weeks" for students to see a counselor. "I think our students deserve help when they need it," she said.

Mrs. Gamez said her son received an "F" for a test paper he had submitted with a tear in it then had to wait three weeks before the counselor would see him.

"Then when he saw her, she said, 'You're lucky you got an F. In my day, you would have gotten a zero,'" Mrs. Gamez said.

"Did you talk to the counselor about it," trustee Paul Ramirez asked.

"No, my son did. He's a young man, and I don't feel like I should go and argue for him all the time," she answered.

Mrs. Gamez also suggested that the school district involve itself with several federal programs "to provide a better education for our children."

Holder, who examined a list of proposed federal programs submitted by Mrs. Gamez, said the district already is involved "in about half of these and we've applied for some of the others."

Board president Sallie Strain thanked Mrs. Gamez "for your concern" and promised that the board would strive to provide as good an education as possible for Hereford young people.

The board, in a 5-2 vote, decided to not grant an easement for a 10-foot right-of-way on the east side of La Plata. A builder, who was not named at the meeting, had requested the right-of-way for an alley to be used for a proposed apartment complex.

David Hutchins moved to approve the easement since the complex would provide "enough tax revenue to more than pay for this land" and added that "the 10 feet of land would never be missed."

Taxes

Mauzy, D-Dallas.

The constitutional amendment known as the Tax Relief Amendment was adopted overwhelmingly by voters last November. It was put on the ballot by a special summer legislative session in the wake of the passage of California's Proposition 13.

"We gave ourselves more relief than anybody else. We got a lot of ink about how we had 'relieved' everybody recalled Parker.

The only automatic provision exempted $5,000 of the market value of each owner-occupied house in Texas from school district property taxes.

House members voted in mid-March to exempt two cars, vans or pickup trucks per family from property taxes, but the Senate decided to extend the exemption to all passenger cars or "light trucks" not used to produce income.

Governing bodies of taxing units, however, could tax cars and trucks if they were willing to risk public disfavor. The Senate bill also would:

A report by the department's inspector general found that the American Petroleum Institute, which counts among its members the nation's largest oil companies, had advance access to a number of internal department documents.

Thomas S. Williamson Jr., deputy inspector general, said those documents included draft rules "that would directly affect the financial interests of API's member oil companies."

The report said department employees acted "in good faith" in sharing the information. But it added "the practical effect of their conduct has been to favor a major industry group over other interest groups and members of the public."

Williamson said the inspector general's office was concerned "about the broader implications of these findings for public confidence in the integrity of DOE's procedures for rulemaking and policy formulation."

House Ag Panel Votes To Up Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Over the objections of the Carter administration, the House Agriculture Committee has voted to expand various rural housing and development loan programs by almost $2 billion.

President Carter had asked that ceilings for the programs be reduced by $400 million.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, in a letter to the panel, opposed both those increases and an increase in the size of rural towns eligible for aid with their community facilities and a section setting aside 25 percent of the farming loans for poor farmers and ranchers.

Under the House bill, passed Tuesday by voice vote, up to $5.82 billion a year could be appropriated for the various programs, compared to this year's estimated $3.93 billion in loans and guarantees and the $3.52 billion sought by Carter.

Later Tuesday, the Senate Agriculture

Committee passed a companion measure with program ceilings totalling $2.29 billion above Carter's request, but without the other sections Bergland opposed.

Bouncing Baby Returned to Mom

PASADENA, Texas (AP) - At first she thought it was "just a box or something in the road." But after Wanda Bedenbaugh swerved to avoid hitting the object, she saw it was a baby strapped in an infant's seat lying in the middle of a highway during the morning rush hour Tuesday.

"I stopped in the middle of the street, backed up close to where the baby was and opened the doors on both sides of her pickup truck to block traffic," said Mrs. Bedenbaugh, 40.

The baby was lying face down in one lane of a busy four-lane divided highway in this Houston suburb.

"I saw it wasn't moving and I was afraid it was dead. I just couldn't believe it hadn't been run over. But when I turned it over it started crying," she said. "I was never so glad to hear a baby crying in my life."

Mrs. Bedenbaugh was reporting the incident to police when the baby's worried mother arrived. She told officers she and her husband placed the child on the roof of their car while loading two other children and then drove off, forgetting about the baby.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I'm writing to you again because I wish to thank the three students (who responded to my letter) for their concern and information, and also to all other students and non-students who have called, visited and written to me. I also thank you for this column, which helps us communicate in a more civilized way.

I also have more information for the public of all ages. The superintendent of schools informed me that all students can have restroom facilities (during the lunch period) inside the school's building and if any student gets into trouble for doing so, should let him know.

Miss Charlotte McClure, counselor, has informed me that students needing assistance or more information about the upward Bound should contact her. She also has address of proper official at West Texas State. Miss McClure advises juniors to register before school is over in order to have full benefits in their senior year.

This program has been available since 1969. Those interested in information about Federal Student Financial aid for college can write Samuel Saenz, Office of Educational Programs, 1200 Main Tower Bldg., Dallas, 75202. Those who want information or have suggestions on the Bilingual Education can contact Dr. Ernesto Perez, State Director of Bilingual Education, 11th & Brazos, Austin, Tx.

When I joined the G.I. Forum for women (educational association), I learned that ignorance was my best friend, pity, but I realize ever since that knowledge is all around us—that all we need is to reach out and hold on to it. "Let there by light, and there was light."

We have many free programs, especially for those who can't afford them, because taxes take away what little money they have left over, and if by using them (free programs) is abusing them... please let's abuse in the name of progress.

If it was up to me I'd give all students in general a free college education and free lunch also, rather than invest tax money in war, or in an expensive mistress for big politicians in Washington.

Last week I was granted a spot on the agenda of the School Board meeting. I was also nominated along with two other parents at Stanton Junior High for the Statewide Advisory Committee. I promise to do my best!

Sincerely,
Oralia Guzman G.

Trade Act Softened

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A bill softening the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act by eliminating automatic triple damages for gypped consumers gained House committee approval Tuesday.

An 11-4 vote of the House State Affairs Committee sent the bill to the House floor for debate.

The measure is a rewrite, sponsored by Rep. Danny Hill, D-Amarillo, of a Senate passed bill SB357 authored by Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules.

"We are for the Hill bill," said Gerhardt Schulle, lobbyist for the Texas real estate industry.

Lobbyists for the Texas Consumer Association said their only hope now is for substantial revision of the Hill bill on the floor of the House.

Tax assessor-collector Fred Fox reported the year's total collections, which include delinquents, stood at $2,685,970, slightly ahead of last year. April's current collections totaled $22,777, with $12,438 in delinquent taxes.

Holder brought trustees up to date on legislative bills which would affect the district and praised the Senate version of a school finance bill, which he said would provide more revenue than the House measure.

Holder said a bill might be approved within a week.

The board approved several state and local regulations to be included in the district's policy manuals. Approval of the policies was a routine action.

Mrs. Strain told trustees that she, Cumpion, Holder, assistant superintendent Larry Waries and officials from the high school and La Plata met on Tuesday to discuss scheduling problems for basketball teams at the two schools.

As it stands now, La Plata plays its games in its own gym on Mondays and Thursdays. High school teams play on Tuesday and Friday. High school teams are only able to practice a La Plata on Wednesdays.

With the implementation of Title IX in the school district, Mrs. Strain said girls' teams would have equal access to the gymnasiums as the boys.

The officials discussed three options, according to Mrs. Strain.

One would involve all high school games and practice sessions being held at La Plata, while La Plata games and practices would be moved to the high school gymnasium. Another would be to keep high school teams at HHS and La Plata teams at their own school. The third would be to leave things as they are.

The board took no action on the possibilities.

exemptions in those areas, Jones said, would "create an absolutely intolerable circumstance for the remainder of the taxpaying group of child-raising age."

"This has the potential for literally wrecking some taxing entities," said Jones, D-Abilene. "It's hard for me to understand tax exemptions based on age alone."

To win support for some type of restriction, Jones tried to raise the permissible income level to $15,000 then $20,00, but the Senate rejected any income test for the elderly.

The Legislative Budget Board has estimated the bill would result in the loss of $397.7 million in school district taxes in 1980-81, with the $10,000 exemption costing districts about $10 million a year.

The major impact of the bill, the board said, would be the loss of taxes as a result of the special valuation of farm, ranch and timber land.

Partial state reimbursement for local revenue losses is set out in another pending Senate bill.

Exempt intangible property from taxation, except for intangibles already subject to taxation, mainly bank stock.

In opposing Parker's amendment, Jones, the Senate sponsor of the bill, said in many areas more than half the population is 65 or older, and "an increasingly large number of the population is going to be over 65." To permit such high property tax

Miss Hair Earns WTSU Scholarship

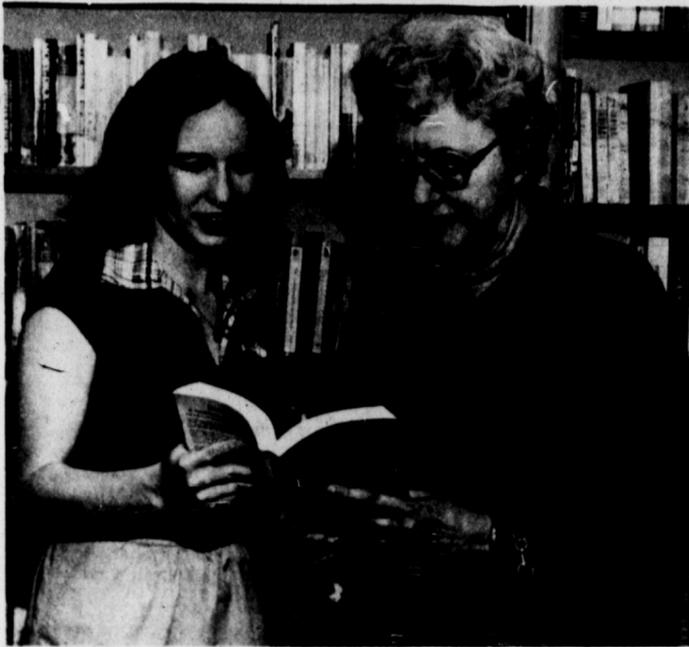

CANYON--The first West Texas State University Helen White Moore Scholarship recipient is Jeanne Hair, a senior elementary education major from Hereford.

Miss Hair has been granted $200 for her studies in the 1979-80 academic year.

The scholarship fund was established by the friends and former students of Mrs. Moore, who taught in the WT Demonstration school from 1930-1946 before joining the college English faculty. She retired as an associate professor of English in 1975.

Those wishing to contribute to the fund should make their checks payable to the WTSU foundation--Helen White Moore Scholarship Fund, and send them to the WTSU English Department.

Miss Hair is the daughter of Mrs. Doris Hair of 209 Star St. in Hereford.

Receiving Scholarship

WTSU senior Jeanne Hair, left, of Hereford was selected to receive the first Helen White Moore Scholarship awarded at West Texas State.

Western Tribute

Shown here is a bronze sculpture of "The Cowboy" by George B. Marks of Albuquerque, N.M., whose works will be displayed here during the Plains Art Show and Sale May 11-13 in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Marks records the West of today with the authority of one who knows livestock and the men who work with them. His work has been recognized by judges in numerous art competitions. He has published three books and exhibited his sculpture in the Hall of Fame's first show here.

Newspaper Needing Graduates Pictures

The Brand is preparing its annual salute to the graduating class of Hereford High School. The Brand will publish pictures of the 1979 graduating class, if they have been provided.

Listed below are those students who have not provided a black and white, billfold size picture. Students whose names do not appear below should not bring photos because the school has already provided them.

Pictures are missing for the following:

Genealogical Society To Hold Garage Sale

The Deal Smith County Genealogical Society convened recently in the County Library for their monthly meeting. Plans for a fund-raising project were discussed.

It was decided that a garage sale would be held June 9 in the home of Garth Thomas, with proceeds from the sale being used to buy genealogy books for the library.

If anyone would like to donate items for the garage sale they should contact Garth Thomas, 364-2913 or Brenda Hardisty, 364-0847.

A letter was mentioned to the Society concerning a man named Charles Proctor and some land that he purchased in the area. A request was made for the Society to help in locating further information.

The program for the evening was taped interviews by some of the settlers of the area.

Volunteers Alter Date Of Meeting

The Red Cross Uniformed Volunteers have postponed their meeting from Thursday, May 10, to Thursday, May 31, when they will meet for lunch in the Dawn home of Geneva Miller.

The May 31st luncheon will be held in honor of Corinne Neely, who served as executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter before retirement. She now resides in California.

Actress Sarah Bernhardt, famed by a knee injury in 1905, had her leg amputated in 1914 but continued to perform until her death in 1923.

Ann Landers Transmissible Diseases

DEAR READERS: If you are not sexually active, skip this column. It will not interest you. If such is not the case, I urge you to read it.

The letter is from Samuel R. Knox, National Program Director of the American Social Health Association:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As in the past, I am writing to keep you informed on sexually transmissible diseases. As you know, genital herpes is now regarded as epidemic in this country. There are approximately five million cases of it. The number is growing rapidly because it is highly contagious and as yet we have no cure for it.

The disease is known as Herpes Type 2. It appears approximately two to ten days after exposure. Fluid-filled lesions or sores appear around the genital areas--and sometimes around the buttocks and on the thighs. The lesions may be extremely painful--accompanied by swollen lymph glands, fever, aching muscles and a "sickly" feeling.

The sores (they often resemble blisters) will eventually dry up and disappear within a week or a month, but don't let the apparent "cure" deceive you. Even though the symptoms have disappeared, the virus has not. Chances are excellent that the lesions will reappear.

Women who have Herpes Type 2 should not fail to have Pap smears regularly--twice a year. In case of pregnancy, there should be careful monitoring by a physician to minimize the risk to the unborn child.

Since there is no known cure for this viral disease, victims are left to fend for themselves in seeking relief--often turning to unproductive home remedies. In the worst cases they chase unsubstantiated, often potentially dangerous solutions. The results are costly, physically, emotionally and financially.

And now the good news. A national organization has been formed to help those who are victims of Herpes Type 2. It is called HELP. The purpose of HELP is to provide information on the latest research and other information about this disease. HELP will publish a newsletter which contains do's and don'ts for successfully coping with recurrences.

Those who wish to join should write to: HELP, Box 100, Palo Alto, Cal. 94302.

Those who want information about Herpes Type 2 should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the same address.

Thank you, Ann, for getting this vital information before the public. I apologize for pressing you but your influence in this country is enormous and we need all the visibility we can get.--Sincerely, Samuel R. Knox, National Program Director, American Social Health Association

Chamber Women's Board Reviews Eventful Month

Several Chamber Women's Division activities -- including two pageants, a pet show, tennis tournament and beautification campaign--were reviewed yesterday by the Chamber Women's Board, who wrapped up a busy month's agenda.

Mary Herring, president, called the executive session to order Tuesday in the Chamber Board Room.

All of the past month's WD events were termed successful, with several of the projects breaking records for involvement. Leading the list of achievements was the April 28th Miss Hereford Pageant, which attracted a total of 26 entrants, more than any of the previous eight contests. Winning top honors at the pageant were Lynn Mitts, who was named Miss Hereford, and Diane Warden as Miss Teen.

The Chamber Women's other pageant, the Little Miss Hereford contest, was staged May 5, also drawing the most entrants in its history. Ninety-eight girls competed for four titles in the junior pageant.

On the following day, May 6, the Chamber Women offered three prizes in each of 18 categories at a pet show in the Bull Barn. A number of children under the age of 16 entered all varieties of pets in the contest.

In a review of the city's recent beautification drive, it was revealed that improvement efforts are being directed on each of Hereford's triangle lots. Also, Camp Fire Girls are bedding flowering plants in the downtown area. The beautification drive will be a continuing project of the Women's Division throughout this year.

Although a popular event, the C of C Women's Tennis Tournament this month was not a financial success, it was reported.

Turning to new business, it was announced that the Chamber women will sponsor a tour of the Arrowhead Mills facilities on Thursday, May 17. Joe Hacker will conduct the tour, which will begin at 2 p.m. Interested persons are invited to assemble at the Chamber office or at The Country Store (an adjunct of Arrowhead Mills) at 2 p.m. on the 17th.

The largest-scale activity on the Chamber Women's summer horizon is the July 4th celebration here. Mary Thomas is chairing that committee, which has already begun preparations.

Other upcoming activities discussed by the board included the YMCA Anything Goes event on July 15. Entry deadline is June 8. The Chamber Women agreed to send a team of five women to the contest.

The board of directors commended the efforts of Joan Bookout, blood drive chairman. The blood drive resulted in 111 pints of blood donated last month and will be having a display at Saturday's Health Fair.

Refco and the Howard Johnson residence have been named as Beauty Spots for the month of May. It was reported that the Beauty Spots signs had been stolen again, so board members agreed that the new steel signs donated by Realor Gene Campbell should be chained to each monthly sites.

It was announced that John Morton has been named Artist of the Month at the Chamber office, where his works will soon be displayed.

Members learned that the Animal Action Committee participated in the recent Rabies Clinic here. Also, it was reported that Helen Rose, who was the Chamber Women's candidate for the Distinguished Service Award offered by West Texas State, attended the luncheon honoring the award nominees and recipients.

The Women's Division has enrolled 86 new members this spring, bringing total enrollment to 288.

The next board session is scheduled June 5.

In attendance Tuesday were Frances Berry, Glenda Gerics, Lalean Henry, Marcia Snyder, Olivia Denning, Mrs. Herring and a guest, Lavon Nicman, representing The Brand.

Manor Plans Social For Mrs. Ritter

The public is invited to attend a Garden Party honoring Molly Ritter, the new hostess for King's Manor Methodist Home, Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m. in Kamar Garden Room.

She is from Clarendon.

Some kelp tablets contain high arsenic levels, points out Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Researchers report high levels of arsenic in the urine of people who took kelp tablets. Arsenic exposure of industrial workers is linked with cancer. Mrs. Sweeten reports.

Barnes To Head Local AAU Track

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor
 The Hereford AAU program will begin practice May 14, with Gail Barnes heading up the program it was announced.
 Barnes, a local coach at La Plata Junior High School and Hereford High, said that the program is open to anyone that is interested from age 6 to adult.
 "We had about 50 members last year and we are hoping to have at least 75 this year, but 100 kids would be excellent," Barnes said. "This is a real good opportunity for the kids that ran track in school and want to keep in shape and work on their techniques and abilities during the summer."

also at four. When school is out there will also be practices in the morning.
 Barnes has been in Hereford for two years, who with her husband Kenny, are employed as coaches and teachers in the school system. A graduate of West Texas State University, Barnes came here from Hart where she was the assistant track and basketball coach.
 A graduate of White Deer High School, Barnes took part in the AAU program at that time and feels that it is worth the time of the individuals and the coaches.

 "This is a good program as far as the feeding the school track teams, but it is fulfilling for the individual as well, with the chance to compete in your age level just for the fun of it," Barnes said.
 Along with Barnes, Dean Fox, Weldon Knabe and Victor Cantu will be assisting in the program.

Kiwanis Tourney Winners Named

The Kiwanis First Annual Panhandle Golf Tournament completed play Monday with Pat Kilpatrick of the South Amarillo Kiwanis club winning first place.
 The tournament, sponsored by the local Kiwanis club, was played with the Peoria Handicap system, thus allowing each golfer with a fair chance to win the 18 hole affair.
 Second place was captured by Dean Herring of the Noon Kiwanis of Hereford and third was won by Howard Birdwell, also of Hereford.

Trophies were given in special categories for events such as long ball hitting - won Tom Simons of Hereford, closest to the pin - won by Buddy Sears of Downtown Amarillo and entrant from the most distant point - won by Jack Frost of Oklahoma City.
 Frost, the Texas-Oklahoma District Secretary and John Weival of El Reno, Oklahoma, T-O sports chairman, took part in the annual affair.
 Proceeds from the tournament which drew 39 entries, will go to the T-O Kiwanis Foundation.

Tourney Winners

The Hereford Kiwanis Clubs sponsored the Panhandle Kiwanis Golf Tournament Monday with 39 Kiwanians participating. Winners of the specialty events were Tom Simons [lower left] for longest hit and Buddy Sears [lower right] for closest to the pin. First place was Pat Kilpatrick of [upper center], Dean Herring, second [upper right] and Howard Birdwell, third, [upper left.]

Mule Racing New Sport For Bettors

By JEANIE ESAJIAN
Associated Press Writer
 SANGER, Calif. (AP) — As Mosco pounds down the track, his four legs driving and neck outstretched, he has the unmistakable mark of a champion.
 Equally unmistakable are those mule ears. But Mosco isn't just any mule. He is the champion of the world.
 In his first year in the infant sport, the 4-year-old has won mule racing's unofficial triple crown.
 He was named Running Mule of the Year, the American Mule Association's champion for 1978, and last July won the Larry Chimbole Mule Championship of the World, the first pari-mutel mule race.

 "He is the Affirmed of mule racing," says LaVerne Ordway of nearby Fresno, secretary of the American Mule Racing Association.
 Mosco lost only two of 21 starts in the racing circuit that draws mostly from the southwestern United States.
 At Bishop, Calif., a Mojave Desert town called the Mule Capital of the World, Mosco won a 440-yard race named for former California Assemblyman Larry Chimbole who authored legislation establishing a five-year pilot program of parimutuel mule racing.
 The victory gave Mosco's owners the lion's share of the $3,500 purse, raising his earnings to $8,000 in 1978. Mule-racing purses are considerably below those of horse racing.

 Co-owner Al Dodds began training Mosco at age 2 1/2, along with race horses he trains for himself and others at his Silver D-Bar Ranch here.
 "It's a little tougher training a mule," says Dodds, 38. "They require a lot more foundation riding before you start working them."
 He says mules aren't as kind as a horse and are harder to handle.
 "They are half burro and that burro will show up. Lots of times, mules are ornery out of fear. They have more natural fear of man than a horse does."

WASHINGTON (AP)
 Mitch Kupchak, the Washington Bullets outstanding reserve, has played his last game this season for the defending world champion National Basketball Association team.
 In fact, if he wants to see the Bullets' game tonight in Texas, he'll have to watch it on television from his room at Sibley Hospital where he is lying in traction with an ailing back.
 The Bullets are tied 1-1 with the San Antonio Spurs in the best-of-seven series for the Eastern Conference championship.

 Although whirlpool and heat treatments failed to cure his injury, suffered March 17, Kupchak insisted on playing in Sunday's game against the Spurs.
 "I don't think they really wanted me to play, but it was the most significant game of the year," he said. "If we had lost, it would have been very, very unlikely that we would have won this series. I wanted to play so badly."

 Kupchak got his wish for a victory as the Bullets beat the Spurs 115-95 Sunday after dropping the series opener.
 Kupchak had offered to play for five minutes in each half to give Elvin Hayes and Wes Unseld some time off, but his second trip to the court lasted only 88 seconds.
 "I went up for a jump shot and somebody stepped on my foot," he said. "Half my body went up and the other half went down. I started to run down court and my knees sort of buckled. I knew that was it."

COMMENTARY

Donald F. Graff

Why not New Hampshire?

There are any number of ways of knowing that a presidential election year is almost upon us without going to the bother of checking a calendar.

Harold Stassen announces his candidacy. Democratic hopefuls commence to cut each other up with glee and in public; Republicans, with some embarrassment and wishing they could do it in a bit more privacy.

And complaints about the first presidential primary, New Hampshire's, begin to be heard in the land.

What's wrong with the New Hampshire primary? Plenty. It comes too soon. The campaigning drags on too long and turns serious politics into a media event (there's a difference these days?). It draws too many publicity-seeking candidates and generates too much publicity for the wrong reason — simply because it is first. It skews presidential handicapping at the very outset by setting up one sparsely populated Northeast state as a national political barometer. It shouldn't happen.

As the august Washington Post mused in an editorially laid-back moment recently: "What if they gave a New Hampshire primary and nobody came?"

Fat chance. The closest New Hampshire has come in recent times to anything resembling such neglect was in 1964 when there were no candidates on the Democratic ballot. Even so, Lyndon Johnson edged Robert Kennedy in a thoroughly publicized write-in contest.

The popular conception of the New Hampshire primary as 1) a political tag match swarming with contenders and 2) a killer of giants is of fairly recent origin. The first is a carryover from the 1972 and 1976 primaries, in each of which five major and less so Democratic names fought it out. The latter is a semi-myth dating from 1968 when Sen. Eugene McCarthy came close but did not defeat President Lyndon Johnson, himself not a declared candidate but a write-in. That vote revealed the strength of the Vietnam issue and exposed Johnson's vulnerability, it did not create them. It merely hastened Johnson's withdrawal, which succeeding primaries under any circumstances would have compelled.

New Hampshire attracts so much attention and criticism primarily because it is first, and the strenuous effort the state makes to maintain that distinction is about the only of the event's many excesses that can be laid to the blame of New Hampshire itself. Beyond that, the objections are really to the entire process of electing a president, American style, and to an extent are justified.

There is too much hype. The primaries are confusing, uncoordinated, dragged out and exhausting for the candidates and, worse, the media types who have to cover them and consequently do most of the criticizing.

But they do perform a function. The United States is a continental nation of widely diverse conditions and interests. The country could not get to know the candidates nor the candidates the country in the type of tightly scheduled, limited duration campaign of which Britain has just provided an example.

Candidates are not preselected by party procedures as in Britain and other parliamentary democracies, nor would we want them to be. The primaries are a means of providing popular input into party selection and of thinning the field before the finals. If they had not developed naturally in the course of our political evolution, something very like them probably would have had to be developed deliberately created.

So why not New Hampshire?

After all, the presidential selection process has to start somewhere. And the country could do much worse than place that responsibility on a state whose voters have given every indication that they take it and their politics seriously, whatever the antics of the hordes of outsiders who descend upon them quadrennially.

High Honored

Chuck High, a Tarleton State University senior from Hereford, received his all-conference and Player of the Week certificates from Texan coach Buddy Fornes May 2 at the annual all-sports cookout in Stephenville's City Park. High led the TIAA in rushing last season as Tarleton went 8-1-1 and finished the year ranked No. 4 in Division II of the NAIA. High is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wallace. Another Hereford-ex, senior linebacker Wayne Schumacher, was named Outstanding Defensive Player but was unable to attend the cookout. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Schumacher.

Tarkington Leaves Field For TV Booth

ATLANTA (AP) - Minnesota Viking quarterback Francis Tarkington, who holds all of pro football's major passing records, has retired to join Howard Cosell's team on "Monday Night Football."

"I could have played another year," said Tarkington, who played 18 years in the National Football League with the Minnesota Vikings and the New York Giants. He led the Vikings to three Super Bowl appearances, but he could not win one. "But I was very sensitive about going out of the game when I was productive," Tarkington said in an interview Tuesday. "I did not want to go out of the game as a lame duck, nonproductive quarterback. Last Year I had what I consider my most productive year. I contributed more to my team than any year that I played."

"I've had fun. I've had heartache. I've been beaten. I've won," said Tarkington, who played 26 years of football including four in high school at Athens, Ga., and four at the University of Georgia in Athens. He was drafted by the infant Minnesota Vikings in the third round in 1961 but was traded to the Giants in 1967. He was traded back to Minnesota in 1972 and led the Vikings to the Super Bowl in 1974, 1975 and 1977.

Tarkington's NFL records include most yards gained passing, 47,003; most passes completed, 3,686; most consecutive seasons passing for 2,000 or more yards, 16; most passes, 6,467; most completions, 3,686; and most touchdown passes, 342.

Asked if he felt his football career was unfulfilled because the Vikings never won a Super Bowl, he said, "If we'd won one it would still be unfulfilled, because you never do all that you want to do."

Tarkington's dashes out of the pocket confounded NFL defenses. Huge defensive linemen wore themselves out chasing him from sideline to sideline. Tarkington said he decided to quit three years ago and told the Vikings so when he signed his last three-year contract. "Those three years were up after the LA Rams game this year," he said.

Roon Arledge, president of

ABC News and Sports, Tarkington will join Cosell and announced in New York that Frank Gifford on the "Monday

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and consolation. Dead line for entry is Wednesday May, 16, with only 16 entries allowed. To enter contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Jabbar's Mom Proud Of Son's Deeds

NEW YORK (AP) - They had gathered in the ninth floor dining room of the New York Athletic Club - newsmen, sportsmen, marketing and promotional types - to pay tribute to the "Athlete of the Decade."

At one end of the room, a large but strikingly attractive black woman stood alone - almost as if lost in the gabbing, glass-tinkling crowd.

"That's Mrs. Alcindor," someone whispered. "Jabbar must be the winner."

What a nice present for "Mother's Day."

When the directors of the American Cancer Society poll opened the envelope, however - in Hollywood Oscar fashion - it was a golfer, Jack Nicklaus, and not the 7-foot-2 inch pro basketball star, who was awarded the unique trophy.

Cora Alcindor was disappointed - as any mother might be - but she took the news in good grace.

"He was always a good boy - never gave me or his father an ounce of trouble," she said of her beanstalk son, who changed his name from Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor, Jr., to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and went on to become the leading player in the National Basketball Association.

"Before the Muslims got him, he went to Catholic schools, always behaved himself and made good grades. He was an altar boy and sang in the church choir."

"Both his father and I were very unhappy when he became a Muslim. I got over it, finally deciding he was a grown man with his own life to live. I don't think Lewis ever forgave him."

The Alcindors - Jabbar was an only son - lived in the middle class Washington Heights section of Manhattan. The elder Alcindor was a transit policeman.

"Low started growing early and was always bigger than his classmates," Cora said. "He was 6-8 by the time he was 13 and shot up to his full height in high school. But he was never made to feel self-conscious. Teachers always gave him things to do that the smaller children couldn't do."

After high school, the college offers came.

"You wouldn't believe what some of them offered us - under the table, too," the mother said. "Texas, Boston College, North Carolina and Michigan State - they tried the hardest."

"I remember Texas offered us a trip to the White House and a visit with President Johnson on the way to Austin. I was dying to go, but my boy said 'no.' Then John Wooden of UCLA paid us a visit. He was such a nice, honest man. My boy said, 'I want to go to UCLA.' UCLA it was - and nobody was ever sorry."

During Jabbar's varsity career, UCLA won three NCAA championships with a combined 88-2 record. Jabbar scored 2,325 points. Milwaukee won a coin toss from Phoenix to get Jabbar in the NBA draft, then came his sensational pro career.

"I don't think about that Muslim thing any more," Cora said. "My son has given us a nice home in Queens and three lovely grandchildren - Habiba, Kareem and Salama. A mother couldn't ask for more."

Astros Suffer 4th Loss In Five Games

HOUSTON (AP) - Dane Iorg hit 24 home runs in the minor leagues last year, but he says none of them counted.

Iorg, in his third major league season, blasted his first big league homer in a pinch-hitting role Tuesday night to help St. Louis to a 4-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

"This one was for real," Iorg said. "I hit 24 home runs last year, but none of them counted. The big leagues count."

Iorg's hit, a seventh-inning shot off losing pitcher Ken Forsch, 3-2, tied the score at 1-1. George Hendrick's three-run homer one inning later provided the Cardinals with their margin of victory.

Pete Vuckovich, 3-2, scattered eight hits over the first seven and two-thirds innings to pick up the victory. Vuckovich received late-inning relief help from Mark Littell and Darold Knowles as the Cardinals sent Houston down to its fourth loss in its last five games.

Bob Watson scored Houston's only run of the game when he led off the fifth inning with a single, advanced to second on a sacrifice, moved to third on a balk and came home on Forsch's single.

With the score tied 1-1 in the eighth, Forsch ran into trouble when, with two out, Keith Hernandez singled and Ted Simmons walked. Hendrick followed with his second home run of the season, a 400-foot blast into the left-field seats.

Vuckovich was relieved to see Hendrick provide the Cardinals with a three-run cushion.

"It was sheer bliss," Vuckovich said. "I really respect the Astros. They can beat you throughout the lineup. You just have to take the victories when you can get them." The loss, only the Astros' second in 10 home games, sliced Houston's lead over second-place Cincinnati to 1/2-game in the National League West.

Slo-Pitch Tourney Scheduled

A men's slo-pitch softball tournament will be held May 18-20 in Plainview under the sponsorship of the Xi Pi Zeta sorority.

The tourney is open to area teams. Entry fee is $60 per team, and deadline for entries is May 16.

Interested persons can contact Mrs. John Pennington in Plainview, 296-5103 or write to 3405 Garland.

Expo's Sanderson Has 1-Hitter Against Giants

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Andre Dawson was playing a step or so too deep in center field and Rodney Scott was playing a shade too shallow at second base, which is why Scott Sanderson never had the chance to try with the idea of a no-hitter.

"You're always going to regret a hit like that. But we were playing him right and he's a good hitter. You've got to give him all the credit," Sanderson said after Terry Whitfield punched a bar-bundle single to short-center field in the first inning, the only hit off the Montreal right hander.

Dawson gave the Expos the only hit they really needed, a fifth-inning single off Ed Hahnke that broke a scoreless tie, then Larry Parrish scaled Tuesday night's 4-0 victory with a three-run homer off reliever Randy Moffitt.

In the rest of the National League, Cincinnati edged Chicago 8-7, St. Louis beat Houston 4-1, Atlanta defeated Pittsburgh 4-1, Philadelphia shaded San Diego 8-7 in 12 innings and Los Angeles nipped New York 3-2.

Reds 8, Cubs 7

Dave Concepcion hit his third homer of the season plus a double and single, driving in three Cincinnati runs and scoring three against the Cubs in Coors Field. It was the Reds' sixth victory in seven games and enabled them to move within one-half game of first place Houston in the West.

Cardinals 4, Astros 1

Keith Hernandez singled, Ted Simmons walked, then George Hendrick pounced a Ken Forsch pitch over the all for St. Louis' tie-breaking homer against the sagging Astros.

Pinch-hitter Dane Iorg's first major league homer accounted for the Cardinals' other run in the seventh inning. Forsch singled home Houston's lone run in the fifth. It was the Astros' fourth loss in five games but only their second loss in 10 games at home this year.

Braves 4, Pirates 1

"I threw strikes. That's the key to pitching," Eddie Solomon said after he shackled Pittsburgh on three hits to half Atlanta's five-game skid. The Braves jumped on Rick Rhoden for three runs in the second inning, two on Darrel Chaney's double.

Solomon was picked for the Pirates' run in the first inning on Omar Moreno's triple and Tim Lincecum's sacrifice fly.

Phillies 8, Padres 7

Pete Rose hit a two-run single in the sixth inning and a tie-breaking two-run double in the 12th to lead the Phils to their comeback victory over San Diego. Rose's double off John D'Acquisto was his third hit of the game and came after Rudy Meoli and Bake McBride walked and Larry Bowa singled. Meoli was thrown out at the plate trying to score on Bowa's hit.

Dodgers 3, Mets 2

Dusty Baker doubled off Dale Murphy, took third on Gary Thomasson's single and came home on Joe Ferguson's tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the seventh inning to give rookie Rick Sutcliffe and the Dodgers their victory over the Mets.

RBI singles by Ed Kranepool in the first inning and Lee Mazzilli in the third gave New York a 2-0 lead. The Dodgers scored a run in the bottom of the third when Ferguson walked and Dave Lopez tripled. They tied it three innings later on Ron Cey's RBI single.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Beating insomnia

DEAR DR. LAMB - My friends and I all read your column and we'd like for you to write something about insomnia. Last night I couldn't go to sleep so I finally took some Somnux and followed other recommendations but it didn't seem to do any good and I was awake all night. I'm sure a lot of people would be interested in your comments about this.
DEAR READER - It's a very frequent problem. The first question the doctor has to answer is if the person really has insomnia or not. You'd be surprised how many people think they only slept two or three hours during the night when in fact they may have slept six or eight. There seems to be some illusion of time during the sleep hours that confuses people entirely about how many hours they were actually asleep. This has been adequately proved by actual sleep studies in people.
Unfortunately, a lot of the sleeping preparations you can buy without a prescription don't help a great deal. The amount that you're permitted to use often won't induce sleep. If you take more than is recommended on the package, you'll start getting too much of some of the medicines and this can be dangerous. In a few instances, people who have taken excessive amounts of preparations they could buy themselves have reported to hospital emergency rooms with a reaction that looks like they've been on a drug trip. This can lead to serious confusion about diagnoses and have rather drastic consequences.

I'd like to caution all my readers not to take more of any sleeping preparation than the container recommends even if they don't go to sleep. It's better to have a sleepless night than a misadventure at the hospital emergency room.
Many of the sleeping preparations that are prescribed by doctors won't have much effect for more than two or three weeks at a time. The body quickly adapts to them and then you're right back where you started.
I've discussed in The Health Letter I'm sending you alterations in life style that help a lot of people go to sleep. Daily exercise is important, but don't do a lot of physical exercise in the hours preceding your normal bedtime. That may make you stay awake. The same applies to mental exercises. Don't do anything mentally taxing just before going to bed.

College students sometimes have trouble going to sleep at night because they've been studying intently up to the very time they want to turn out the lights and go to sleep. Sometimes the brain and emotions don't switch off that easily.
You should establish regular habits. That means going to bed at the same time, eliminating all noise and light and making yourself as comfortable as possible.
It's also a poor idea to discuss family problems or review past disappointments in the hours preceding bedtime. In many instances a few sensible alterations in life style and formation of a regular habit will solve some people's insomnia. When you're able to do it that way it certainly beats the drug route.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I am the unfortunate sufferer of trigeminal neuralgia. I have had it for three years now since I was 75.
I take medicine for relief but the drug seems to be losing its potency. What triggers this condition? I'm told there's no cure and that the culprit is the fifth nerve and if you take it out, the face will be deformed permanently. Please give me your opinion and also if the medicine I'm taking will be harmful.

DEAR READER - Trigeminal neuralgia is also known as tic douloureux. This term refers to sudden attacks of severe pain. The pain can be so severe that a person literally feels knocked to the floor. The lancinating sharp pains extend usually into the jaw. They may be precipitated by brushing teeth, touching or any number of different minor stimuli.
Some cases can be managed with medicines but even the most effective medicines don't work in all cases.
The disorder is caused through some abnormality in the sensory nerves that supply the head and face area, which as you've said are from the fifth nerve. Cutting these nerves will cause problems such as numbness or even paralysis. For that reason newer techniques have been directed toward isolating the pain fibers in the nerve and destroying those electrically.

Remove rusty look

DEAR POLLY - I have some old railroad spikes that I would like to give to friends and relatives but I would first like to remove the old rusty look they have. I think they could be used as paperweights but would like to know if any of the readers have any better ideas. - RUTH
DEAR RUTH - Doubtless there is some sort of sentimental reason for saving these iron spikes. The rust could be removed with a good commercial rust remover and then I would paint them a flat black. Your idea for using them as paperweights sounds like a good one but I am sure you will be hearing from some of our ingenious readers. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - When making ice cubes ahead for a party I put the cubes in a double brown paper bag instead of a cellophane one to keep them from freezing together. They not only stay separated but they keep much longer. - EVIE
DEAR POLLY - I am answering Mrs. G.A. who has a lingering musty odor in her mattress and box springs that have been stored for quite a time. I have found the following most effective in the drawers of antique furniture: Place several sheets of fabric softener such as you use in the dryer between the mattress and springs and then also on top of the mattress before putting the pad and bottom sheet on. I also put a sheet inside each fresh pillowcase when I change the beds. - MRS. E.T.
DEAR POLLY - Apples will not crack while baking if you peel a one-inch band around the middle of each of them.
My Pet Peeve is with the TV hostess who keeps yacking while a guest cook is trying to demonstrate the procedure.
My question is - what is a newspaper coupon clipper?
- MRS. S.J.
DEAR MRS. S.J. - Your letter is being printed so your question will soon be answered. Hope you find the clipper. - POLLY
Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Economy Falls For 3rd Month

NEW YORK (AP) - The U.S. economy is now probing its way through murky weather.
If you were piloting the economy - assuming it could be piloted - you would be buffeted by conflicts.
You must act even though you're uncertain of vital data. Only reluctantly would you take decisive action in such circumstances. And when you did, your decision might be made with your instincts, rather than the mass of conflicting data.
That, to some degree, is the dilemma faced by those officials in the Carter administration and the Federal Reserve Board who must monitor and attempt to guide an economy of more than $2 trillion.
There's no limit to the advice and statistical data available. But what it adds up to is a decision made as much by hunch as by science.
The Index of Leading Economic Indicators fell in March for the third straight month. Once it was believed that three straight signaled a recession coming.
"It looks to me like the index is throwing off some fairly mixed signals," said William Cox, Commerce department deputy analyst. Very true; the index showed rises in both the workweek and the layoff rate.
Is there guidance in the consumer mood? Little. Surveys show buyers are depressed; they also show them buying up a storm. Can credit give guidance? Little. March extensions reached a record; so did repayments.
The employment figures? In April, employment declined sharply but the level of unemployment, seasonally adjusted, rose only one-tenth of one percentage point to 5.8 percent.
Can you get some guidance from business spending plans? They're way up: McGraw-Hill says business will spend $177.9 billion on capital improvements, the sharpest rise since 1966.
But analysis say industry in the past used the hiatus of a downturn to improve its equipment and plant. Maybe business expects another downturn?
The pace of housing doesn't seem to offer clear guidance. It seems almost immune to high prices, high interest, and sometimes tight money.
In seeking guidance from economists you find almost a consensus: there will be a downturn, perhaps beginning during the second half of the year. But then they said the same thing a year ago.
Moreover, you recall the great doubts economists have about their own discipline.
"Seminole" means "runaways" and the Indians of the tribe were originally refugees from whites in the Carolinas and Georgia.

Royals Lose Two Players, Game Against Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Frank White says he knows Texas Ranger pitcher Ed Farmer wasn't trying to hit him and teammate Al Cowens, but that the way Farmer was throwing he belonged in the clubhouse, not on the mound. White suffered a broken right thumb and Cowens a broken left jaw when hit by pitches in Texas 8-7 victory over Kansas City Tuesday night. Cowens, Kansas City's right fielder, was taken off the field on a stretcher and was operated on after the game in an Arlington hospital.

"I was lucky I got my hands up, or he would have hit me in the face, too," said White, the Royals' second baseman. After the game, White was placed on the disabled list for 15 days and Cowens for 21. "I don't know what their pitching situation is, but the way he was pitching, he should have been out of the ball game. I've seen him pitch before, and he's never been wild that I remember. Maybe he was just trying to be impressive and was just overthrowing," White said. Farmer, a 6-5, 205-pound righthander, was making his first major league start since 1974, when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies. He had made five appearances for the Rangers this season, all in relief, and earned the starting job with a two-hit performance in five innings of relief Friday when he beat Chicago, 7-6.

Manager White Herzog said. Farmer hit White on the second pitch of the game, and the Royals jumped off to a 3-0 lead. The game quickly developed into a slugfest, with John Ellis' three-run homer and Jim Sunberg's two-run homer the main blows for Texas.

second baseman U.L. Washington dropped the ball on Richie Zisk's grounder, and Oliver scored what proved to be the winning run on Gary Gray's single.

Ed Rodriguez took over for Gura, 1-4, and the only hit he allowed the rest of the way was Bell's infield hit in the seventh. In other American League games, the Minnesota Twins blasted the Toronto Blue Jays 16-6; the California Angels routed the Boston Red Sox 10-2; the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Cleveland Indians 9-5; the Baltimore Orioles turned back the Oakland A's 8-2; the Detroit Tigers outscored the Chicago White Sox 10-8 and the New York Yankees defeated the Seattle Mariners 5-3.

Rebounds Tell Story In Suns-Sonics Series

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Rebounding is causing concern for the Seattle SuperSonics, who return home to find their playoff series against the Phoenix Suns tied at 2-2.

The SuperSonics, the defending National Basketball Association Western Conference champions, out-muscled the Suns in the first two games of the best-of-seven set, picking up 119-92 and 109-106 victories before home town crowds.

However, the Suns closed the rebounding gap in Game 3 Sunday in Phoenix, and slipped past the Sonics, 119-104. Tuesday night, the Suns finally won the battle of the boards, 49-40, and beat the SuperSonics, 100-91, before a sellout crowd of 12,660 at Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Game 5 is set for Friday in Seattle.

"We can't let that happen (get out-rebounded) and expect to win," said Seattle center Jack Sikma, who averaged 15.6 points a game during the regular season and 12.4 rebounds.

"We need to control the boards. We're the big team and they're the quick team. We'll have to work harder and do a better job the next time on the boards."

The 6-foot-11 Sikma was held to five points and nine rebounds Tuesday night.

"You can't depend on your shots day in and day out," added guard Dennis Johnson, who had 21 points in the losing effort. "But the defense can remain constant, and rebounding."

However, Johnson promised the SuperSonics would "be all right when we get back to Seattle."

The Suns saw a 15-point lead in the second period evaporate and Seattle take a 69-67 lead with 5:49 left in the third quarter. A layup by Lonnie Shelton culminated a run in which Seattle outscored Phoenix, 19-9.

The comeback was keyed by Gus Williams, who scored six of his 22 points on the night in that stretch.

However, the Suns tied it 17 seconds later on a baseline shot by Paul Westphal and went ahead for good with 5:08 left on an 18-footer by Walter Davis, who led all scorers with 27 points.

The Suns, leading 81-77 going into the final period, put the game on ice as they hit 12 unanswered points to go ahead, 93-77, with 6:20 remaining in the game. Half of that scoring punch was provided by reserve guard Ted McClain, who converted on shots from 10 and 12 feet out, as well as a layup.

The Suns upped their lead to 17 points before Seattle began to gradually cut the margin, although the game was out of reach by then.

Behind Davis, who also had nine rebounds, the Suns got 21 points from Westphal while backup forward Garfield Heard had a game high 12 rebounds.

"It was a wail of the game of us," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "I think we seem to be getting more aggressive on the defensive boards as the series progresses."

"And, I think as long as we can stay aggressive on the defensive boards and get the fast break going, we're going to be in great shape."

Trolinder, Willson Lead Rodeoers

Cathy Trolinder and Tania Willson led the Hereford High School Rodeo Team in the Claude and Stratford Tri-State Rodeos, with the need of compiling points for the Tri-state finals the goal.

At Claude, Miss Trolinder placed third in goat tying with a time of 13.585 and Miss Willson was second in breakaway roping and fourth in goat tying at Stratford.

The other HHS finish at Stratford was a fifth by Brett Cunningham in team roping with a time of 17.395.

Cunningham's partner was Halee Reed of Spearman.

BASKETBALL GENES
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kiki Vandeweghe of UCLA was gifted with all-star basketball genes when he was born.

His father, Ernie Vandeweghe, was a star at Colgate and also in the pro game. His uncle on his mother's side, Mel Hutchins, was a crack performer at Brigham Young.

To add some good-looks icing to the cake, his mother, Colleen Hutchins Vandeweghe, was a Miss America.

Textbook Doesn't Cover Unsold

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — There's no textbook way, says San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, to neutralize the rebounding of powerful Washington center Wes Unseld. You've just got to slug it out with him and hope for a few favorable decisions from the referees.

The 6-foot-7, 250-pound Unseld, whom Moe says is the strongest basketball player he's ever seen, has collected 40 points and 41 rebounds in the first two games of the best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference championship series.

The Spurs host Washington tonight for Game 3 and Moe says Unseld will again be a major concern.

"Unseld has been the key for them so far," Moe said Tuesday. "We just have to get as physical with him as we can. We have to be more determined to get to the ball and hit him more than he's hitting us."

"Unseld isn't going to trick you, he's just like a bulldozer. He just shoves people out of there," added Moe.

Unseld got 26 points and 22 rebounds — 10 of them on the crucial offensive boards — as the defending NBA champion Bullets routed San Antonio 115-95 Sunday in Landover, Md.

"I don't know if you could play much better than Wes did Sunday," Washington Coach Dick Motta said Tuesday.

But with explosive Washington forwards Elvin Hayes and Bobby Dandridge on the court, Moe says there's no way the Spurs can double-team Unseld. That leaves 6-8, 230-pound forward Mark Olberding alone on the massive Washington center.

"There's no technical way to stop him. We can't double-team him with the other guys they've got," said Moe. "We've just got to get physical and we've just got to hope they call a few fouls on him and hope for some three second calls.

"There aren't enough men for them to put two on all of our players. One guy can't contend with Wes," said Motta. "If they concentrate on blocking him, Hayes and Dandridge will score. And my guards will start hitting their shots sooner or later."

Moe said the Spurs, whose patented running style allowed them to lead the league in scoring this season with nearly 120 points per game, might have to again switch to the slow game tonight if Washington's running gets out of hand.

"Whether we run will all depend. If we're not getting out of the blocks good, if they're running us, then we'll go into the slow game," said Moe. "We have been more successful at the slow game than they have."

Moe has successfully used the slower game in the playoffs against both Philadelphia and Washington.

"We like it when they change," said Motta. "That must mean they're afraid of us. We don't change for anybody." Explosive San Antonio guard George Gervin, the NBA's scoring champion for two consecutive seasons, missed Tuesday's practice because of a sore right shoulder. He also had a two-run single and a two-run double.

Both benches cleared three times as a beanball war erupted in the game and four players were ejected.

Angels 10, Red Sox 2
Joe Rudi smashed his 10th major league grand slam home run and Carney Lansford added two homers as California routed Boston behind the seven-hit pitching of Chris Knapp.

"We were due to score some runs," said California Manager Jim Fregose, whose Angels had lost nine of their last 13 games.

Brewers 9, Indians 5
Sixto Lezcano slammed a three-run homer to cap a seven-run Milwaukee fifth inning, kept alive by Bobby Bonds' error in right field, as the Brewers defeated Cleveland Bonds' error, on a drive off the bat of Ben Oglivie, should have been the third out of the inning, but instead allowed two runs to score.

Orioles 8, A's 2
Eddie Murray, Lee May and Gary Roenicke hit consecutive eighth-inning home runs, leading Baltimore over Oakland. The Orioles, winning their 16th game in their last 18, also rapped four doubles and enabled Mike Flanagan to gain his fifth triumph against two losses.

Tigers 10, White Sox 8
Jerry Morales drove in three runs with a homer and a double, while Steve Kemp, Jason Thompson and Lance Parish knocked in two runs each to lead Detroit past Chicago.

The Tigers scored four runs in the first off Francisco Barrios, who didn't get anyone out, and never lost the lead.

Yankees 5, Mariners 3
New York defeated Seattle for the first time in five meetings this year, rallying with four runs in the fifth inning — two of them on Willie Randolph's triple.

The game marked the return to the starting rotation of Jim Beattie, 1-1, who began the season in the minors despite winning a game in both the 1978 American League playoffs and the World Series.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Washington Capitals center Guy Charron, who underwent a successful operation to remove torn cartilage in his left knee, was expected to return home today, the National Hockey League club announced.

Lloyd defeated JoAnn Russell 6-1, 6-2. Dianne Franzholt of Australia beat Daniela Porzio of Italy 6-0, 7-6. Tracy Austin defeated Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 7-5, 6-2. Evonne Goellang of Australia downed Jeanne Duval 6-3, 6-3. Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia upset Australia's Wendy Turnbull 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, and Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia beat South Africa's Greet Stevens 6-3, 7-5.

Charron, 30, also suffered a small tear in the cartilage of his right knee, but Pat Palumbo, the club's orthopedic surgeon, said Tuesday the tear may heal on its own.

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Mike Jones, a running back from Grambling, has signed with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League, the team announced today.

LONDON (AP) — Liverpool defeated Aston Villa 3-0 to clinch the English soccer Championship for the third time in four years.

Jones, 21, started for Grambling the past two years. He has been clocked at 4.6

Liverpool, led by Kevin Keegan, won the league title in 1976 and 1977. Last season Keegan moved to Germany to play for Hamburg and Liverpool surrendered the league title to Nottingham Forest. This was Liverpool's 11th championship triumph since 1901.

In doubles competition, Alexander and Phil Dent had split wets with Ashe and Stan Smith when the match was called because of darkness. Australia took the first set 6-4 and the U.S. won the second 7-6. The third set will be completed today.

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis Cardinal Lou Brock, hot on the trail of the 3,000 hit plateau, was named National League player of the week.

Victories by Uli Pinner and Rolf Gering gave West Germany a 2-1 victory over Mexico in another Group B matchup.

In addition, Minnesota Twins relief ace Mike Marshall was named American League Player of the Week. Marshall, who leads the league with nine saves, compiled a 3-0 record with two saves last week.
