That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says nothing is impossible to a willing heart.

I played golf with Jack Nicklaus the other day. Well, at least I think it was him. After I hit the ball, he said, "Boy, if you're a golfer, I'm Jack Nicklaus!"

JOHN OHLIG, 18, received his Eagle Scout badge Monday night during a Court of Honor. It is a coveted award, and only one percent of all Boy Scouts achieve the honor. But, this one is even more meaningful for the Ohlig family as all five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ohlig have earned the Eagle. All five were members of Troop 50 in Hereford. Wade is now 20; Ronny, 22; Tony, 24; and Billy, 28.

THE WIFE AND I, along with five other Hereford couples, attended the Lions International convention in Montreal, Canada this past week. We found Montreal to be a great host for the approximately 50,000 guests from around the world. Except for a few problems in making airline connections back home, we believe the local Lions and their wives thoroughly enjoyed the visit to Canada.

Others making the trip were Sid Shaw, Gayle Cotten, Nicks Farris, Raymond White, Rocky Lee, and their wives.

The citizens of Montreal, for the most part, are a friendly people with an immense pride in their city. Montreal, with almost three million population, is in the Canadian province of Quebec. While Montreal seems to be a dual-language city—English and French, some of the Lions who visited Quebec City reported French was the dominant language there—even those who were bilingual preferred to use French only.

Aside from the historic sites to visit, Montreal still reaps tourists—from the structures and other remains of the 1976

Q—Is there a law that determines the number of people who may ride in a vehicle?

A—Any number of persons may ride in a vehicle as long as the driver's view or manipulation of the car is not impaired, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. The law states that "there shall not be more people in the vehicle so as to interfere with the driver's view from the front, back or sides, nor interfere with the driver's manipulation of the steering mechanism." It often depends on the type of vehicle or size of the occupants whether or not a citation is written.

Landscape, Garden Clinic Set

A horticultural landscape and garden clinic, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension office and the Bud to Blossom Hereford Garden and Garden Beautiful clubs will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Community Center.

The program is designed to provide the latest information and assist area residents with problems in their yards and gardens.

A panel of specialists will be participating in the clinic.

Dr. Roland Roberts, area Extension vegetable specialist will speak on keys to a productive summer garden, and Extension Landscape Horticulturist Everett Janie will offer landscaping tips.

Home and garden insect control will be addressed by Dr. Carl Patrick, and landscape and garden disease control will be the topic of Dr. Robert Berry.

The panel of program members will then offer a diagnostic clinic and provide consultation on landscape and garden problems from 3-5 p.m.

According to County Extension Agent Justin McBride, garden clinic participants are invited to bring along specimens of insects, diseased plants, or indications of other problems in their yards and gardens for identification by the panel of specialists, and advice on how to correct the problem.

OPEC To Raise Oil Base

Homegrown Groceries

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - The 13 members of the organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries apparently are ready to agree on a new base price of $20 a barrel for crude oil, $3 above their present average price, sources in the cartel said.

The sources said the agreement to be announced today at the end of a two-day OPEC pricing meeting also calls for an end to the leap-frogging surcharges of the past three months and another meeting in September, three months ahead of schedule, to take a new look at the price situation.

The price of $20 for a 42-gallon barrel of crude would add as much as 5 cents a gallon to U.S. gasoline and heating oil prices, analysts said.

The $20 price would be a compromise between Saudi Arabia, which pressed for $18 a barrel, and such militants as Libya, Iran and Iraq, which argued for $23 to $27 a barrel.

The official base price of OPEC oil has been $14.55 a barrel since March 1, but the average price has risen to $17 a barrel because of surcharges added on by all members of the cartel except Saudi Arabia because of the shortage of supply due to the reduction in Iranian production.

The surcharges threw world oil markets into turmoil. They also worried some OPEC members because they indicated a break in the pricing unity that has generally kept their foreign customers from playing off the members of the cartel against each other.

Judge Thwarts Suit Against Grain Firms

A class-action lawsuit which included area farmers among its plaintiffs, alleging that several major U.S. grain exporting firms manipulated wheat prices in 1972 by suppressing news of a pending Russian grain sale has been dismissed by a federal judge in Oklahoma City.

Hereford attorney James Witherspoon was representing farmers in the $330 million lawsuit, and Joe Zinser was the representative plaintiff from the local area.

U.S. District Judge Fred A. Daugherty dismissed the suit Monday, ruling that farmers from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma involved in the suit could not claim "class action treatment" due to a 1977 ruling by the Supreme Court.

In 1973, three original lawsuits were consolidated into a single case, naming as defendants Continental Grain Co., Cargill Inc., Louis Dreyfus Corp., Cook Industries Inc., Garnac Grain Co. and Bunge Corp.

In their lawsuit, wheat farmers from the Tri-State area alleged that the USDA and the defendant companies "cooperated with each other so that farmers sold their wheat at $1.30 per bushel when the Russians were paying about $1.65 per bushel."

The federal judge reversed himself with Monday's decision, having earlier ruled that the suit was a class action seeking redress for 43,000 Oklahoma farmers, 12,000 Texas farmers and 1,500 New Mexico farmers.

Daugherty cited a Supreme Court ruling Monday, however, which held that only those directly involved in a sale could file a class-action anti-trust lawsuit.

Under those terms, only about 366 of the farmers would qualify, and the judge ruled that they could file individual suits.

The judge ruled that the rest of the farmers, sold their wheat indirectly to the companies through cooperatives.

A spokesman for the Witherspoon Law firm here reported this morning that the class action procedure had represented "every local farmer who grew wheat during the period of the Russian wheat sale."

The law firm spokesman indicated that an appeal of the ruling is pending.

Truckers Converge On Austin

By The Associated Press

Texas truckers revved up for a meeting with Gov. Bill Clements in Austin today, after a spokesman for independent haulers assured truck company executives the independents want to settle their problem peacefully.

Truckers traveling in convoys from San Antonio, El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock and East Texas were scheduled to meet with Clements in his private office at 11 a.m.

One security officer said the Department of Public Safety had received reports that as many as 2,000 trucks might converge on the Capitol in a busy downtown area.

Gov. Cliff Finch of Mississippi was riding with truckers to California to get a first-hand look at their fuel problems and was in the Dallas-Fort Worth area

Groups Demand Inflation's End

WASHINGTON (AP) - A diverse coalition of 70 consumer, labor and senior citizen groups is calling on President Carter and Congress to take immediate steps to end what it calls the "silent tax" of inflation.

The coalition, Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities, includes the AFL-CIO, the Consumer Federation of America, the National Council of Senior Citizens and the National Women's Political Caucus.

It is urging Carter and Capitol Hill to take steps the coalition says could cut the annual inflation rate by 3 percentage points over the next 18 months.

The group's news conference today followed by less than 24 hours the government's announcement that consumer prices rose a dramatic 1.1 percent in May, the fourth straight month that saw prices up at least a full 1 percent.

COIN argues that inflation, like a tax, reduces a family's buying power. Last year's percent inflation rate, for example, reduced what each consumer's dollar bought by cents.

Of most concern to COIN are rising prices for food, housing, fuel and medical care. Items that constitute about two-thirds of the average family's spending.

Food and fuel prices have been the most troublesome this year. Although food prices rose only a moderate 0.7 percent in May, each of the five preceding months registered gains of at least 1 percent.

Gasoline prices rose 5 percent in May, "bringing the increase so far this year to an annual rate of 55.1 percent," the Labor Department said in releasing the May-price report. Fuel oil prices, up significantly for the fourth consecutive month, rose 5.3 percent.

Overall, prices have been rising at an annual rate of 13.4 percent, about double the Carter administration's target.

COIN's members believe the time is right for their proposals.

"They are going into an election year," Gar Alperovitz, the organization's economics adviser, said of the public officials to whom the appeal is being aimed. "They have to get the message that they can't keep doing what they are doing because it isn't working."

Proposals in the "short-term agenda" COIN proposed to break the upward price spiral include:

- Reversal of the president's action to decontrol domestic crude oil prices.

- Congressional passage of a ceiling on hospital cost increases.

- Exploration of fast-tracking anti-inflationary rebates or subsidies in the food sector."

- The establishment of reserve requirements for mortgage loans that would lower mortgage interest rates.

Several of the measures have been considered, with little success, in Congress.

Grains Taken Out of Farmers' Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oats and barley have been called out of the farmer-owned grain reserve and the booming market may soon trigger removal of wheat, corn and sorghum.

The law requires that the grains be taken from the reserve once market prices pass specific levels, which are set above federal support prices.

"That does not mean farmers have to sell their crops," Agriculture Undersecretary Dale E. Hathaway said Tuesday. "They just have to pay back the loans within 30 days."

Hathaway outlined the procedures to reporters three hours before calling in the loans under which the grain is held. It was the first full release of part of the reserves since the Carter administration established them in 1977 as a way to reverse falling grain prices.

Normally, 10-month loans are available to grain growers at the price-support rate, but they pay interest and storage costs. Under the reserves program, 3-year loans at the same rate are available to those who agree to hold their crop until prices rise, with USDA paying storage.

Producers in counties with severe storage of transportation problems will have at least another 30 days to redeem the loans, Hathaway said.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices in each county will evaluate marketing problems, notify farmers that their loans have been called in and give them a date for redemption, Hathaway said.

Some farm-state Republicans in the House were working on legislation earlier in the day to prevent what they called "dumping of the reserves" into a market already distorted by fuel problems and truckers' strikes.

Other members of Congress are known to be worried about the calling in of the reserve loans when the fate of this season's grain crops is still so uncertain and exports of food and feed grains are picking up.

"Once a reserve is called, it ceases to exist," Hathaway noted. Prices probably would have to fall to nearly the support levels before reserves would be re-established.

Any reserves that aren't redeemed are forfeited to USDA, which in turn can sell them in the market to recover costs.

Official reports by Hathaway and others of problems with the Soviet Union's wheat crop this year have spurred grain prices in recent weeks, even though record stockpiles are still on hand after three bumper crops.

The Russians have bought about 13.2 million metric tons of U.S. grain in the year ending Sept. 30, plus 1.18 million tons of soybeans. They are expected to buy no more than 1.8 million tons more wheat or corn, he said.

Hathaway, who met with Soviet grain buyers two weeks ago in Moscow, reported they have said nothing yet about their U.S. plans for the 1979-80 export season. They are expected to buy between 21 million and 28 million tons from various countries.

July 4th Program Scheduled

There won't be a fireworks display at the park this year, but don't get the idea that all has been forgotten about celebrating Independence Day next Wednesday.

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce has planned a special flag ceremony for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the county courthouse, with U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, to be the featured speaker.

The Chamber Singers will perform at the ceremony, along with singer Sherry White Talley. Local dignitaries will provide special comments, followed by a talk by Hance, District 19 representative.

Lemonade will be served at the celebration, which is open to the public.

Hereford volunteer firemen and city commissioners decided to not put on the fireworks display this year at Veteran's Park for safety reasons.

"It just got too dangerous," Fire Marshal Jay Spain said. "The people abused it last year. We asked them not to pop fireworks down there in the crowd, but kids would throw firecrackers over on people and burn vinyl tops on cars."

"There just wasn't any way we could police the crowd—just too many people. So it was a mutual agreement with everybody that we not have a fireworks display this year."

President Holds Japanese Seminar

SHIMODA, Japan (AP) — Taking a holiday from summitry, President Carter held a "town meeting" today that developed into a seminar on child-rearing, the family and race relations.

Questions put to Carter by ultra-polite Japanese gathered in a steamy junior high school gymnasium dealt largely with everyday human concerns — a far cry from the tough queries about energy, inflation and foreign policy that have marked similar sessions back home.

The visiting president did manage to touch on the two issues that will dominate the seven-nation Tokyo economic summit that begins Thursday: energy and the plight of Indochinese refugees.

At the outset of the hour-long meeting, Carter called once again for the industrial democracies to reduce oil imports, achieve greater conservation and develop solar power and synthetic fuels.

On the refugee problem, Carter said: "I hope that the United Nations will very quickly arouse interest among all 150 nations on earth to receive ... refugees, and that all of us might focus our criticism or influence on Vietnam to relieve this growing problem at its source."

Henley Murder Trial Enters Final Stages

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Lawyers prepared final arguments Tuesday in the retrial of Elmer Wayne Henley, accused of luring Houston-area boys into a homosexual torture and death plot and helping to kill six of the 26 victims himself.

Henley, now 23 but a teenager at the time of the crime, was convicted of the killings in a 1974 trial, but that verdict — along with a sentence of 994 years in prison — was overturned on appeal.

Harris County District Attorney Carol Vance called a procession of witnesses here who recalled what Henley had told them when he was arrested in August 1973. The defense offered no evidence or testimony, and the trial was recessed until Wednesday morning when the charge to the jury and final arguments were scheduled.

Pasadena, Texas, police recalled that Henley had telephoned and told them he had shot and killed Dean Corll. Henley has said that Corll, 33, an electrician, was the mastermind of the death spree in the Houston suburb.

"He said he procured boys for Dean Corll's sexual desires," Pasadena policeman Sydney Smith testified. "He named six individuals he personally participated in killing."

Guerrillas Advance In Somoza Overthrow

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista guerrillas were reported advancing northward from the Costa Rican border, attacking towns south of Managua and locked in "ferocious fighting" in the capital in their war to oust President Anastasio Somoza.

Sources linked to the rebels claimed Tuesday they had broken through national guard lines that had blocked their advance northward from the Costa Rican frontier.

The sources said the guerrillas were striking toward La Virgen, six miles south of Rivas where they hoped to set up their provisional government. Rivas is 16 miles north of the border, and La Virgen is the site of a national guard compound and infantry training school.

But a spokesman for the guard, Somoza's army and police force, said reports of the Sandinista advance in the south were "totally false." He said Somoza's troops "made a slight tactical pullback to avoid charged that the national was threatening the Costa Rican border." He claimed the guard was holding the Sandinistas approximately four miles north of the border and was inflicting heavy casualties with mortars, artillery and air attacks.

Gasoline Lines Lengthen in Texas

By The Associated Press
Gasoline lines in Texas' two biggest urban centers lengthened slightly Tuesday in the second day of an odd-even rationing plan, but were still shorter than the marathon lines of a week ago, a spot check showed.

Five more counties will join Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties in the restricted sales plan at midnight Wednesday.

Several stations in Dallas had no lines at all Tuesday morning, when only motorists with even-numbered license plates were eligible to buy gasoline.

Several stations in Dallas had no lines at all Tuesday morning, when only motorists with even-numbered license plates were eligible to buy gasoline.

But generally, gasoline customers in the three counties reported waiting 20 to 40 minutes to tank up. Drivers of cars with even-numbered tags said this was their first chance to buy gasoline since Friday because most stations were closed during the weekend and they missed Monday, an odd day.

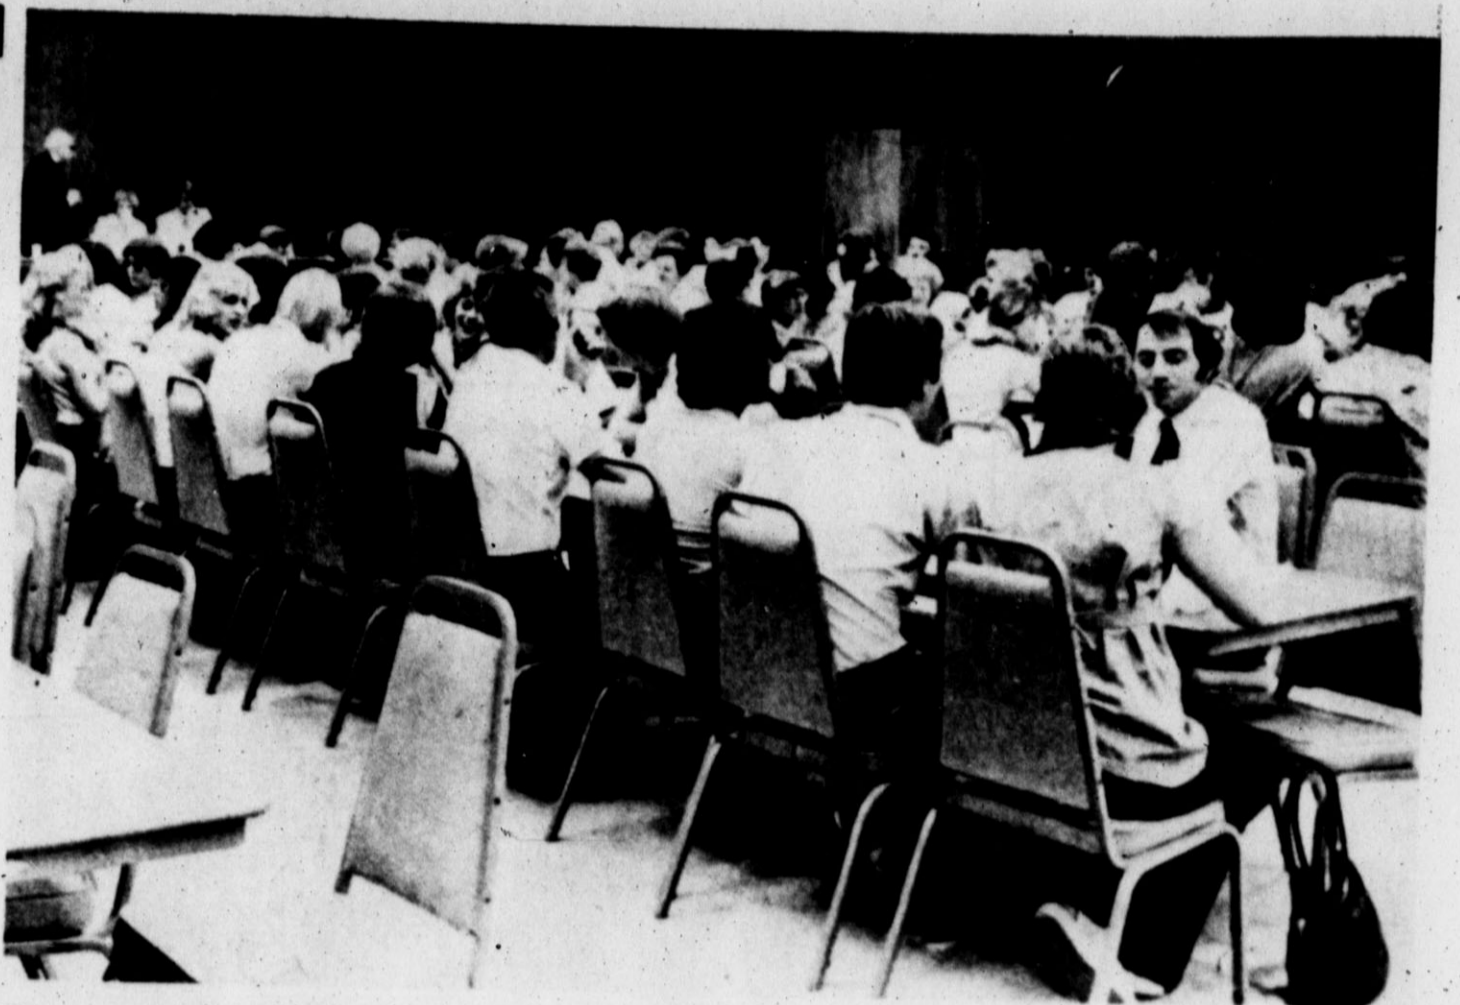

Many predicted Thursday would see shorter lines.

Lines were "longer than yesterday, but not by a whole lot," said Exxon attendant Faye Dodson of Fort Worth.

Gov. Bill Clements' has added Brazoria, Collin, Liberty, Ellis and Montgomery counties to the odd-even plan beginning at 12:01 a.m. Thursday.

West Texas — Sunny through Thursday. Fair tonight except partly cloudy with widely scattered thunderstorms this afternoon and evening mainly extreme south. Warmer central and east. Highs mostly in the 90s except near 105 Big Bend lowlands. Lows 62 to 72 except upper 50s mountains.

Promotion Dinner

Approximately 150 business managers and sales personnel attended a Sales Seminar hosted here last night by The Hereford Brand. Those in attendance represented businesses and firms participating in a two-month special advertising promotion sponsored by The Brand. Louis Capone, a sales and marketing consultant from Austin, conducted the 90-minute seminar following the dinner. Title for the seminar was "How to Win Customers and Increase Sales." The advertising promotion will be published in The Brand each Tuesday for seven more weeks.

Russia Building New Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials have learned to their surprise that the Soviet Union is developing three new types of heavy bombers, government sources report.

A Soviet negotiator made the disclosure to American representatives at Geneva, Switzerland, during technical talks that preceded last week's signing of the SALT II agreement limiting strategic weapons, said the sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

Previously, U.S. intelligence officials have said the Soviets were working on a single new type of long-range bomber, which they expect to emerge as roughly comparable to the U.S. supersonic B-1. President Carter canceled the B-1 two years ago.

Pentagon officials say they are at a loss to explain why the Russians volunteered information on the bombers being developed, one of which, they said, could be a cruise missile carrier.

"It took our folks by surprise," said one U.S. government source.

According to Carter administration sources, neither Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, Defense Minister Dimitri Ustinov nor any other senior Soviet official mentioned the three new heavy bomber developments at the Vienna summit talks which ended with the signing of the SALT II treaty.

Burnt River Clean

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ten years ago, Cleveland became the butt of jokes nationwide when the heavily industrialized city's fouled and debris-ridden Cuyahoga River caught fire.

"Never mind the fact that the river had also burned in 1936 and 1952 — it was the June 22, 1969, blaze that sparked the nation's imagination.

Today officials say that while the river, which empties into Lake Erie, is not completely clean, much of the oily sludge that fed the flames of the 1969 fire has disappeared. And best of all, a few forms of marine life have come back.

River watchers and those who work along its banks say the water has changed from a murky black to a more normal brown.

"It's improved," said Douglas C. Hasbrouck, chief of the Northeast District Office of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

"It's not a suitable habitat for warm-water fish, but it isn't a septic tank anymore," he said. "In fact some fish have returned to the river. And tests of the water's quality of the lower Cuyahoga show that it is chemically stable."

Hasbrouck said the river is not clean, but the chemical balance does not fluctuate daily as it did in 1969, largely because "the industrial plants along its banks don't dump directly into the river any more."

In fact, industries along the twisting river, including Republic Steel, Jones Laughlin Steel and DuPont, have recently reported their water intake screens have been clogged with fish, and not oil and debris as in the past.

what police call an extra detail — hiring out to a merchant for an after-hours police job. Such jobs, at $7.50 an hour minimum, beef up police pay. For patrolman, with supplemental pay wrapped in, the scale is $14,000 a year.

Cops Say Its Still The Same

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Almost four months after the first police strike in New Orleans history ended, the 1,200 cops who walked off the job and disrupted this year's Mardi Gras festival are still singing the blues.

"Basically we are running the same course we were on before the strike," said patrolman David Bordon, treasurer of the Police Association of Louisiana. "Nothing has changed. Little by little, guys are getting fed up. After a while you are going to see the same thing again."

Bordon can be expected to say things like that — especially after being demoted recently from sergeant to patrolman for what the department called "unsatisfactory performance."

However, roughly the same complaints turn up in random talks with other officers, who usually ask that they not be named.

"Nobody tries any more," said a veteran sergeant, who restlessly patrolled a supermarket parking lot, keeping an eye out for muggers, car strippers and thieves, during a recent interview.

Fireworks Discharge Keep Police Busy

Hereford police have investigated numerous complaints this week concerning the discharge of fireworks inside the city limits this week.

"We've had several calls already," Sgt. Joe Brown said. "Citations will be given to kids when they're firing firecrackers. If we warn them once, and they do it again, they will be fined on the parents are liable for their under-age kids."

A clerk at Seven-11, Park Ave. and U.S. 385 told police Monday night that six juveniles stole a can of Spam.

Donald Fasek reported that a tool pouch was stolen from his pickup Tuesday. The value of the pouch and tools was placed at $200.

Hereford Independent School District officials told police that someone drove over the grass, tearing it up, in front of the high school auditorium.

Police issued two traffic citations for unsafe lane change, one for leaving the scene of an accident and another for running a stop sign Tuesday.

Singer's Father Dead At Age 63

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Vernon Presley, father of the late rock 'n' roll great Elvis Presley, died Tuesday in a Memphis hospital, Shelby County Mayor Bill Morris said. He was 63.

Presley had been hospitalized for heart problems three times in the past seven months. He entered Baptist Hospital on May 29 after complaining of irregular heartbeat.

Presley, who also was a diabetic, first suffered a heart attack in 1975.

His son died of heart failure 20 months ago.

Presley was born in Tupelo, Miss., and worked as a carpenter, sharecropper and painter to support his wife, Gladys Love Smith Presley, and son.

The Presleys moved to Memphis in 1948 with most of their belongings crammed into a 1939 Dodge.

After his son became an international singing sensation, Presley managed his affairs at Graceland, the late entertainer's Memphis estate; and traveled with his son on tours. After the singer's death, his father was named executor of his estate.

Elvis Presley died Aug. 16, 1977, at the age of 42. His mother died Aug. 14, 1958, also of a heart-attack, and is buried on the grounds of Graceland beside her son.

Vernon Presley was remarried July 3, 1960, in Huntsville, Ala., to Davada "Dee" Elliot Stanley. That marriage ended in divorce in November 1977, after a three-year separation.

Vernon Presley was the third beneficiary listed in the will, after Elvis' daughter, Lisa Marie, and grandmother, Minnie Mae Presley.

The value of the singer's estate hasn't been determined, but in late December 1978 records were filed in Probate Court indicating the estate had earned almost $5 million since Elvis' death 16 months earlier.

Olympics. Professional baseball, football and soccer teams use the Olympic Stadium. And, with the Expo baseball team leading its division, the Stadium is packing them in for the current baseball season.

But, one of the big attractions for the city is the Metro system and the underground shopping centers. The Metro subway system, installed for the Olympics, has been expanding ever since and new routes are on the drawing board. The transit system is well policed and provides a fast, efficient method of moving people in the big city.

One businessman in Montreal told us, during a subway ride, that he usually just wears a sweater in the harsh, old wintertime. He explained that he could leave his apartment complex and go immediately underground to the Metro, ride to the terminal under his office building and never be exposed to the wind and snow. If his wife needed a few groceries, he could stop at an underground market on the way home.

Inflation

ing cartel OPEC raises prices — led Barry Bosworth, director of the president's Council on Wage and Price Stability, to warn. "You can't look for any significant moderation in inflation in the next few months."

Bosworth also admitted to the Joint Economic Committee of Congress that "I would say that the fight against inflation has not gone well."

That's precisely the point COIN intended to make at its gathering.

It was, in essence, a call to action for Americans to prod the government and "to expose inflationary business practices."

"Current economic policies offer little prospect that these (inflation) numbers will be reduced substantially in the foreseeable future," says COIN's literature.

"This silent tax devastates most consumers, but where is the consumer voice in the inflation debate? it asks.

Carter's anti-inflation program has centered on budget restraint and tighter monetary policy. It was stepped up last fall with the establishment of voluntary wage and price guidelines.

COIN points to the current double-digit annual inflation rate as evidence that the Carter approach — and that of his predecessors — has not worked.

"Except for short periods, all these efforts have failed to have a significant impact on inflation... What is surprising is that, despite their repeated failure, these approaches continue to be taken seriously as the relevant options," the coalition's statement says.

The nation cannot continue, it concludes, "hoping, somehow, to muddle through."

million bushels of barley technically were already on the market.

The law releases farmers from their contracts and USDA stops paying storage when the average market price is 25 percent above the support price. Those levels were reached May 11 for oats, June 5 for barley, May 16 for wheat and June 19 for corn.

Feedgrain reserve loans must be called when prices top 140 percent of the support rate. The magic number for oats was a national five-day running average of $1.44 a bushel. For barley, it was $2.31 a bushel.

The call point for wheat is 75 percent above the support, or $4.11 a bushel, about 14 cents above prices after Monday's trading, Hathaway said.

Corn prices then were 8 cents below the trigger point of $2.80 a bushel and grain sorghum prices were within 24 cents of $4.75 per hundredweight.

About 375.8 million bushels of wheat and 733.4 million bushels of corn were in the reserve last Friday.

OPEC

willing to compromise on $20, and he and Libyan Oil Minister Ezzedin Ali Mabruk said Saudi Arabia was willing to accept that price for the sake of unity in the cartel.

"The Saudis would come up a little bit and the radicals would come down a little bit," said Ebrahimzadeh. "Somewhere in the middle here would be a price without surcharges."

If the compromise breaks down, OPEC might be left with a two-tier pricing system, with Saudi Arabia, the biggest producer, again charging several dollars less than other members.

The oil ministers during the first day of their meeting Tuesday approved in principle the addition of $800 million to the OPEC fund for the aid of underdeveloped countries, the chief sufferers from the cartel's price increases. The proposal now goes to their finance ministers.

The addition would raise the fund's balance to more than $1 billion. It is used to soften the impact of OPEC's higher prices on the poorer nations.

In Tokyo, President Carter was reported preparing to ask the other six industrial countries at the Tokyo summit meeting to join the United States in setting targets to limit oil imports through 1980.

The goal would be to reduce global imports about 2 million barrels a day, the amount by which demand now exceeds supply, said Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. He told reporters he discussed the plan with officials of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait and they liked it.

Truckers

Tuesday.

In recognition of the truckers' protests against rising diesel prices, the Texas Railroad Commission held an unprecedented statewide meeting in Austin on Tuesday to discuss problems of the transportation industry.

General counsel Walter Caven of the Texas Railroad Association said fuel costs rose by 307 percent from 1967 to 1978 and "have been climbing by an unbelievable rate since January."

"If the railroads stopped running," Caven said, "this country would be completely paralyzed in less than 30 days."

Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said as a result of the energy shortage,

"We are perhaps in more peril today than at the beginning of World War II — the only difference is we're not losing men on the battlefield. We're in a war for the economic survival of our nation."

Bill Hoadley of the South Texas Independent Truckers Association said independent truckers are "completely and totally shut down in the state of Texas because it is not profitable for us to operate."

He reminded truck company executives the independents' protest in Texas had been non-violent and no attempt had been made to interfere with motorists obtaining gas. "We can all work together and do so in a peaceful fashion," he said. "It looks like the railroad commission is making a sincere effort to see that our problems are solved," said Hoadley.

"That's a beautiful attitude," said Railroad Commissioner John Poerner.

"We are dedicated to keeping up with increased costs" by raising freight rates and handling rate requests as rapidly as possible, he added.

Later, Hoadley told reporters the independent truckers association would seek a 40 percent increase in freight rates.

Wayne Cudd of Cudd Brothers in Wellington, Texas, a livestock carrier, protested calls for deregulation of the transportation industry. He said the effect "would be to increase the number of independent truckers involved in headlines about violence."

All-Star Squads Chosen

Tigers Blast Twins 19-4 To Win League

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

The Tigers, seeded number two in the Babe Ruth Championship game, used the pitching of Steve George and the hitting of Rod Simon and Mickey Stengel to overwhelm the top seeded Twins, 19-4 in the final game of the regular season last night.

After the game, all-stars for the 13 year olds and the 15 year olds were selected for play in the post-season competition. The game started with no scoring until the third frame when both teams were able to push two tallies across the plate. The Tigers then went on the rampage, scoring 10 runs in the fifth and seven in the sixth to stop the game because of the 12 run rule.

While the Tigers offense pulled out all the stops, the defense did their job, allowing the Twins to only score twice more before the game ended.

Up the big fifth inning, Stengel blasted a triple off the top of the outfield fence to start the scoring, pushing two runs across the plate.

Simon's contribution was a 3 for 4 night at the plate that included two singles and a double. Also knocking a triple for the Tigers was George as he helped his own cause.

The Twins were really hurt in the area of errors as the Tigers only managed 10 hits, but the Twins misplayed the ball 10 times.

Offensive stars for the Twins were Ken Cosper as he poked a triple as did Arnold Villegas. Cosper was tabbed as the losing pitcher in the contest.

The two all-star teams will begin practice Thursday night with both squads traveling to Pampa to play in the regional tournament. The tournament, which will include teams from Pampa, Randall County, the Mobiete area, Hereford and Clarendon will begin July 2 for the 13 year olds and July 9 for the older team.

Members of the younger team are Robert Martinez, Jeff Streun, Ronnie Collier, Dale Holligan, Stacy Evans, Mickey Stengel, Kraig Jones, Robby

Snyder, J.D. High, Charles White, Joe Villarreal, Mike LeFuentes, Jim Layman, Max Middleton and Dale Denny.

Gene Combees will be managing the team with help from coaches Ron Houston and Paul Holligan.

The 15 year old team has Ken Cosper, Mike Mason, Arnold Villegas, Frankie Garcia, Tony Flores, Alex Valdez, Dennis Martinez, Don Delozier, Matt Collier, Mark Collier, Steve George, Rod Simon, Alfred Ball, Raymond Martinez and Dwayne McManey.

David Ashby will be the manager of the team, with Jimmy Collier and Chuck Cosper helping with the coaching duties.

If the team wins the double elimination tournament at Pampa, both would qualify for the state tournament to be held in Graham, Tx. The older team has the possibility of going all the way to the Babe Ruth World Series, while the 13 year old competition stops at the state level.

Chamber of Commerce are entered to defend their titles in the second annual competition. Rick Wood, YMCA director said.

"Anything Goes," a day long series of games of team competition will be held at the high school field July 14. Festivities will begin with morning preliminaries with finalists advancing to the competition that evening.

Entries for this year in the women's division include Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, Le'Allegro, La Madra Mia, XI Epsilon Alpha, Young Mothers Club, Kappa Iota, Alpha Iota Mu and the St. Anthony's Women.

In the men's division Methodist men, Kappa Iota husbands, XI Epsilon Alpha men, Kiwanis I and II, Rotary Club, Deaf Smith County Jaycees and FBC men.

Cost of entry for a team is $25 with each team consisting of five members and an alternate. The team must be from a club, church group or non-profit organization.

Events to be contested include such activities as water balloon toss, an obstacle course and some type of water involved test, Wood announced. He said that the teams will be given a list of the events prior to the contest.

Entries and fees must be turned into the YMCA by July 4 with space for only 30 total teams.

Scott Playing Well Since Trade To KC

The way George Scott is playing these days for the Kansas City Royals, the faces at Boston could soon be as red as their sox.

"He is really one heck of a dedicated ballplayer," says third baseman George Brett of the newest Royal.

The Red Sox traded away their longtime slugger earlier this month, but might well be embarrassed by that decision the way the pumped-up Scott is hitting for the Royals.

Hardly showing his age which is 35 - Scott continued to look like a million Tuesday night with an RBI single in the 10th inning that provided the Royals with a 7-6 triumph over the Oakland A's.

In other American League games, the Detroit Tigers defeated Boston 6-4; the Minnesota Twins nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 8-7; the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Cleveland Indians 4-3; the New York Yankees routed the Toronto Blue Jays 11-2; the Texas Rangers stopped the California Angels 2-1 and the Seattle Mariners edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Four Capture Medals In AAU Track Meet

The Hereford Track club,

participating in the AAU meet last weekend in Amarillo, had four individuals and a relay team receive medals for their efforts.

Bradley Cloud, with a time of 27.4, finished in second in the junior division 220. In the same race, Robby Snyder was third with a time of 28.3 and Bobby Ramirez took fifth with a clocking of 29.1.

Also in the junior division, Eliseo Ramirez was third in the mile with a time of 5:46.

In the medley relay, the foursome teamed to finish in fifth with Cloud running the 220, Bobby Ramirez and Snyder running 110 yards each and Eliseo Ramirez anchoring the team with a 440.

Coach Gail Barnes said she was especially pleased with Eliseo, because he ran the mile and then came right back to run real well in the relay.

The next track meet for the team will be at Borger on July 7. This meet represents the district competition that sends entrants to the regional meet to be held in Lubbock the following week. All entrants in the intermediate and senior divisions that finish first at Borger will be eligible to compete at the regional competition. After that meet, the winners go on to the national meet in Lincoln, Neb.

Astros Pull Clutch Win From Reds

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Astros have been pulling out clutch wins with amazing regularity this season, but they had to double-clutch to move 6 1/2 games ahead of second-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

The hitting of super pinch-hitter Denny Walling, who is now starting, and player-coach Jesus Alou - the Astros' premier pinch-hitter before Walling got the job - lifted Houston past Cincinnati 6-5 Tuesday night.

"You know, we can rally with the best of them," said Walling, who was the catalyst for the eighth-inning eruption that carried Houston to the win.

Walling, almost exclusively a pinch-hitter until his recent move to starter, has hit safely in seven of his last eight games. His average in that span stands at .525 - 10-for-19, including a double, a triple, two home runs and eight RBI.

As Tuesday's game neared its end, however, it didn't look like even Walling's magic bat could turn the trick.

The Reds were ahead 5-1 going into the bottom of the eighth on the strength of two homers by George Foster - a three-run blast in the first inning and a solo shot in the fifth - and a one-run rally in the second inning.

The Astros threatened to score in three of the first four innings only to see Cincinnati pitcher Paul Moskau cut them down. Houston managed one run in the first, but left runners stranded at second and third three times.

The eighth inning seemed like more of the same. Cesar Cedeno singled and went to second when Jose Cruz walked, but Enos Cabell fanned, and there were two outs.

For the second time in the game, Walling stepped to the plate with two men on and two outs.

"I got too anxious in the first with two men on, Moskau got three high fastballs up in my eyes and I struck out," Walling said. "When I came to the plate in the eighth, he did the same-thing, only this time I was expecting it.

"I was kind of reserved after I hit it, though, because we were still behind," he added. Apparently, the rest of the team left their reserve on the bench.

Moskau was replaced by Doug Bair, who promptly served up a single to Alan Ashby and four straight balls to Rafael Landestoy.

Astros Manager Bill Virdon sent in player-coach Jesus Alou to pinch-hit. Houston's main pinch-hitter last year with a .364 average, the 37-year-old Alou was hitting a dismal .053.

He promptly ripped a double off the 390-foot sign on the right-field wall to drive Ashby and Landestoy home with the tying and winning runs.

"I've been in the game 20 years," Alou said. "Just because I was only 1-for-19 didn't mean anything to me. I had confidence I could hit the ball.

Then he paused, and grinned. "But I prayed a lot, though."

Legion Limelight

As a player that can be effective in the outfield or the infield, Jeff Hazelrigg gives the American Legion team needed help as a backup player as well as the talents of a starter.

Hazelrigg, in his second year of Legion ball, helps with the team's offensive showing also evident in the game against Palo Duro when he blasted a home run and a double to tally three RBI's for the Redbirds.

Along with this time on the diamond, Hazelrigg also enjoys basketball and is involved in the FCA and Key Club. A senior to be, Hazelrigg played on the junior varsity team last year and should be factor for the 'Faces next season in varsity level competition.

Sample's Homer Leads Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - William Amos (Bill) Sample came to the Texas Rangers with a red-hot hitting reputation, but he had spent most of the season getting cold on the bench.

But instead of pouting, the 24-year-old rookie came to the park every time batting practice was offered. He finally got his chance to play regularly when Al Oliver was injured and Richie Zisk slipped into a deep slump.

Sample delivered his biggest major league hit Tuesday night, a solo homer in the bottom of the eighth inning which gave the Rangers a 2-1 victory over the California Angels and moved them to within a game of first in the wild American League Western Division.

"It was only my second home run but this was a bigger thrill than my first one," said Sample. "It was a game-winner in a well-pitched game. It was also a big game for us to win."

For the Angels, it was their fifth straight loss while the Rangers took their fourth consecutive victory.

Don Aase took his sixth loss against as many wins, although he allowed only six hits.

"I threw one hanging curve and he (Sample) did what he was supposed to do with it," said Aase. "Knowing we had lost four in a row coming in tonight, I was hoping to turn things around."

Sample's blast came with two out after he had tried to bunt his way on base.

"I was just trying to get on base with the big bats coming behind me," said Sample, who missed the bunt attempt. "I really wasn't sure the ball would get out of the park after I swung. I thought it might be off the wall."

Sample was tagged as the "finest young hitter it has been my privilege to watch," by Hal Keller, the Rangers former farm director who scouted Sample.

"I feel like I have the abilities to be an everyday player," said Sample. "But I still get paid whether I pinch-hit or pinch-run. I just try to help the best I can."

Jon Matlack, who went 8 1/2 innings before getting relief help from Jim Kern, notched his fifth win in nine decisions. Kern earned his 12th save.

"I've got all those weapons in the bullpen, and I'm going to use them," said Ranger manager Pat Corrales.

Jim Anderson got the only run for the Angels in the third inning on his first major-league home run.

The victory was costly for the Rangers. Catcher Jim Sundberg was hit in the batting helmet by an Aase pitch in the sixth inning.

He was taken to Arlington Memorial Hospital where doctors said he was okay but dazed. Sundberg will be held at the hospital for 48 hours and the earliest he will be available to play for the Rangers is Friday night.

In the second game of the series tonight, Steve Comer 6-6 meets Nolan Ryan 9-4 who two-hit the Rangers a week ago.

COMMENTARY Martha Angle and Robert Walters Suitable suspicion

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In full-page newspaper advertisements appearing in 27 major cities, Exxon claims it "is not holding back products" and tells gasoline-short motorists "we're doing the best we can with what we have."

In testimony at a congressional hearing, a senior vice president of Texaco says one way to alleviate the worsening gasoline shortage is to convince the public that there's a real problem "to be approached rationally and without panic."

But amid all of the petroleum industry's repeated calls for calm and conservation, a great deal of embarrassing information about the rapidly deteriorating gasoline crisis isn't being provided to either drivers or politicians.

Much of that information is buried in the statistical report issued by the Department of Energy and the American Petroleum Institute, two organizations that traditionally have been highly protective of the oil industry.

Among the disturbing conclusions that emerge from a detailed examination of those weekly and monthly reports: Item: Despite the highly publicized interruption of United States imports of crude oil from Iran as a result of the revolution in that nation, there was no significant decline in this country's total imports late last year or early this year.

The shortfall induced by the Iranian political crisis was about 300,000 barrels per day—not the 500,000 barrels per day repeatedly cited by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger. But it was largely offset by substantially increased imports from Saudi Arabia.

In fact, during the six-month period encompassing the last quarter of 1978 and the first quarter of 1979, total imports of crude oil into the United States, compared with the same period one year earlier, actually increased by more than 75 million barrels or 6.8 percent.

Item: At the same time the major oil companies have been reducing service station allocations to 80 or 85 percent of the gasoline provided one year earlier, the industry has been increasing its stock of crude oil.

Crude stocks normally are reduced in the first quarter of each year, as high inventories built up in prior months are refined into gasoline and other products.

In January of this year, crude stocks were an unusually low 296.6 million barrels. With the industry desperate to replenish its supplies, the total rose to 297.1 million in February, 306.7 million in March, 324.4 million in April and 324.4 million in May.

But while crude oil stocks were growing, gasoline stocks were dwindling—despite the industry tradition of devoting a substantial amount of refinery capacity to gasoline production during the early months of the year.

Last August, the industry allowed gasoline stocks to drop below 209.9 million barrels—the lowest level in more than three years—and never adequately rebuilt them.

The month-by-month decline in gasoline stocks this year, in millions of barrels, looks like this: January—245.6, February—251.0, March—241.1, April—233.9 and May—220.1.

Item: For reasons the industry has never fully explained, utilization of available refinery capacity consistently has been way below average throughout 1979.

It's impossible to achieve 100 percent utilization because of periodic planned shutdowns for maintenance and repairs as well as unexpected shutdowns due to accidents. The effective maximum utilization of refinery capacity this year is well below both of those figures: January—87.2 percent, February—83.8, March—84.1, April—84.9 and May—83.6.

In summary, crude oil is available but it's being hoarded by the industry. Refinery capacity is grossly underutilized and gasoline stocks continue to dwindle. Yet the petroleum industry can't understand why it's the object of so much public suspicion.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, June 27, the 178th day of 1979. There are 187 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1950, President Harry Truman ordered the U.S. Air Force and Navy to help repel a North Korean invasion of South Korea.
On this date:
In 1844, Mormon leaders Joseph and Hyrum Smith were killed by a mob in Carthage, Ill. Brigham Young became head of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.
In 1847, New York and Boston were linked by telegraph.

In 1943, also in World War II, American bombers attacked the German-occupied city of Athens, Greece.
In 1973, President Richard Nixon vetoed a bill that would have cut off all funds for U.S. bombing operations in Cambodia.

In 1977, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that lawyers cannot constitutionally be prevented from advertising fees charged for routine legal services.

Five years ago, France and Iran signed a 10-year agreement for Iranian development that included the sale of five nuclear reactors to Iran for more than $1 billion.

One year ago: The first Polish astronaut was launched into orbit along with the Russian commander of a new Soviet spaceship.

Today's birthdays: Television actor and producer Bob Keeshan is 52. Retired airline executive Juan Trippe is 80.

Thought for today: Getting married, like getting hanged, is a great deal less dreadful than it has been made out—H.L. Mencken, 1880-1956.

New dollar coming July 2

The new Susan B. Anthony dollar will be released throughout the United States Monday, July 2.

Public Law 95-447, dated Oct. 10, 1978, authorized the issuance of the new coin, and it further provided that the minting of the Eisenhower circulating dollar coin be discontinued as of Dec. 31, 1978.

On the obverse side of the coin (front) is a profile of Susan B. Anthony, who was born in 1820 and died in 1906. Miss Anthony was an early crusader for equal rights for women and a pioneer in the drive to win for women the right to vote. In 1920, her life-long work culminated in the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution giving nationwide suffrage to women.

This is the first time that a portrait of an American woman, rather than a symbolic woman, has appeared on a circulating U.S. coin.

The reverse (back) side of the coin features the symbolic eagle of Apollo 11, landing on the moon. The Apollo 11 spacecraft was christened "The Eagle" and landed on the moon at Tranquility Base on July 20, 1969.

In tribute to the first landing on the moon, the design originally appeared on the Eisenhower dollar coin (1971-1978) in accordance with the provisions of Public Law 91-607, dated Dec. 31, 1970.

Both sides of the coin were designed by Frank Gasparro, chief engraver of the United States.

The Anthony dollar is a copper-nickel clad coin, as are all U.S. coins, valued at 10 cents or greater. It has a unique 11-sided inner border on both sides.

The coins are being minted in Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco and distributed by the Federal Reserve Banks. The Mint began production in December 1978 in order to accumulate an inventory of 500 million coins prior to their release to local banks in July, 1979. Production will continue after release at the rate of 80 million per month.

The coin weighs .3 of an ounce and is 1.04 inches in diameter.

The Treasury Department claims that among the advantages of the coin is that it can be used in vending machines to make direct purchases, thus reducing the need for bill changes.

A minimum of $4.5 million will be saved per year, since the old large Eisenhower dollar cost 8 cents to produce and each new Anthony dollar costs only 3 cents to produce.

In addition, any substitution of the dollar coin for the dollar bill will result in savings for private business as well as the Federal budget. The one-dollar bill costs nearly 12 cents to produce and lasts only 18 months in circulation—frequently in bad shape. The new dollar coin will cost 3 cents to produce and will last 15 years or more in good condition.

THE NEW Susan B. Anthony Dollar Coin will be available to the public Monday, July 2, and is the first coin of regular issue to feature an American woman, an early supporter of women's rights and suffrage. The coin, shown on top, features an 11-sided inner border and is compared with a quarter in the center and the Eisenhower silver dollar, shown on the bottom. The new coins are slightly larger than a quarter, and should last a minimum of 15 years, compared with about one and a half years for the average dollar bill. The Eisenhower dollar minting has ceased.

Consumer Prices Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued rapid increase in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products helped push consumer prices up 1.1 percent in May, the fourth straight monthly increase of 1 percent or more, the government said Tuesday.

Still, there was some moderation in food prices, which rose 0.7 percent last month. This led Labor Department economist Patrick Jackman to suggest that "the food situation, for the long run, is starting to look better."

Food prices had been increasing at rates near 1 percent since December, so the May rise of 0.7 percent represented the first relief. The decline had been expected because of recent moderation of farm and wholesale food prices.

The Consumer Price Index stood in May at 214.1, meaning that a marketbasket of goods and services that cost consumers $100 in the 1967 base period cost $214.10 last month.

The Labor Department said the index was 10.8 percent higher than a year ago.

Farm prices fell 1 percent in April and went up a moderate 0.75 percent in May. Wholesale food prices went down a total of 1.6 percent in the same months.

Economists agreed, however, that a number of factors could prevent that price slowing from being passed on to consumers.

Most important are higher food transportation costs that could result from government fuel accommodations to end a strike by independent truckers and higher costs for imported oil.

Also, the president's anti-inflation council reported recently that wholesalers, food processors and retailers have been rapidly increasing their profit margins, contributing to the food price acceleration in early months of the year.

In a negative development Monday, a Commerce Department official, who asked not to be named, said the department's "econometric model" for the April-June quarter shows preliminary estimates of a downturn in the U.S. economy.

The official said the early estimate indicates a drop at the annual rate of 2.4 percent in the gross national product for the three-month quarter. But he said the report is a "very preliminary estimate" based on incomplete figures.

Ann Landers Inconsiderate Shopper

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a grocery sacker. On Thursday night a man and his retarded son come in to buy groceries.

While the man does the shopping the boy comes over and tries to help sack groceries. He means well and knows pretty much how to sack, but he bugs the regular sackers, the checkers, and some of the customers.

Last Thursday he was sacking for this old lady. She got mad at him because he put the cookies on the bottom. I went over and said I'd change the stuff around. I didn't want the boy's feelings to get hurt. When I carried the old lady's box of groceries to the car she said, "The store shouldn't allow half wits in the place."

I didn't reply because I didn't know what to say. Afterwards, I was sort of ashamed for not being able to find the right words. Can you help me out for next time? — Wish I Were Smarter

DEAR FRIEND: You've got a heart big enough to make up for your inability to find the "right" words. I'll take your kind and say for next time: — "Look, lady, the poor fellow is a little retarded but he wants to feel useful and you ought to admire him instead of finding fault. People like that need encouragement, not criticism."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have two daughters, one is 18; the other 16. I have always maintained good communication with my girls and we've discussed sex on many occasions. I do not believe in sex without marriage and they led me to believe they agreed. The 18-year-old felt quite strongly about remaining a virgin until marriage — even though she'd been dating a young man steadily for a year.

Three months ago I was shocked to learn that the 18-year-old is having sex with her boyfriend. My feelings of disappointment and anger run very deep. Although I still don't approve of her behavior, I'm trying to maintain the same relationship with her that existed before.

Both my husband and I hate the fact that she has been sneaking around and lying to us. I, especially, feel betrayed and have opened my mouth a few times when I should have kept it shut.

Recently I tried to discuss pregnancy and birth control with her but she said she didn't want to talk about it — at least not with me. Should I just drop the subject — or keep trying? My husband and I have done our best to bring up our daughters with values and morals, but it appears we have been failures. I am — Heartsick And Looking For Consolation

DEAR H AND L: I hope you realize the trouble you are having is with yourself and not with your daughter. She has chosen the way she wants to go. Accept it and stay off the subject.

I do not feel that you have failed as parents because your 18-year-old daughter did not save her virginity for the wedding night. Had she been able to do so, bravo — but she didn't — so don't try to saw dust.

My position on high school sex is negative; as it always has been. Today, however, young people mature earlier physically. Add the pressure of advertising, movies, and TV, and you have an overloaded circuit in a sex-oriented society. Twenty-five years ago, I would have called your daughter a tramp, but not today.

Juveniles' Names Can Be Published

WASHINGTON (AP) — A state cannot punish a newspaper for accurately publishing the name of a juvenile charged with a crime, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

In an 8-0 decision, the court said it has held in a number of cases, as it did in this one, "that if a newspaper lawfully obtains truthful information about a matter of public significance, then state officials may not constitutionally punish publication of the information."

The case concerned the publishing the name of a juvenile by the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail and the Charleston Gazette. Reporters for both papers had obtained the name of a 14-year-old who allegedly shot a classmate simply by asking various witnesses, the police and a prosecutor.

Fire swept through New York City's business district in 1835.

Home heating oil prices rose 5.3 percent. It was the fourth consecutive large increase and helped push the overall cost of housing up 1.2 percent in May.

Jackman said the rise in petroleum products was responsible for one-fifth of the increase in consumer prices.

Treat skin disorders

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been having surgery for the removal of several large actinic keratoses. One was 9 centimeters by 2 1/2 centimeters. They heal perfectly each time. Now more are developing all over my neck. At times they are very irritating. I can't have them all removed. What causes this condition and what can I do to reduce their growth?

DEAR READER - I think it's very important for people who have skin disorders to let a doctor look at the problem. A proper diagnosis often cannot be made without actually seeing what the person is talking about. By your use of the term "actinic keratoses" I assume that your doctor has told you that's what you have. These are usually the large brownish or grayish spots that develop on the skin in response to exposure to sun.

I notice from your letter that you come from a sunny climate. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The Health Letter I'm sending you discusses in greater detail problems such as the spots that you are developing on the skin. You probably already have quite a bit of skin damage as a result of exposure to the sun through the years. Nevertheless, it's important for you to try to limit your sun exposure to slow down or prevent such changes.

I think you should probably use one of the sunscreens daily, winter and summer. The effective sunscreens contain PABA. You can also use a physical blocker during the sunnier parts of the day if you have to be out. Of course, one important means of preventing such problems is avoiding exposure to the sun, at least in the parts of the day when the rays are the strongest.

Usually it's important to remove these spots, as some of them can progress to skin cancer. There are some salves which can be prescribed by your physician that will remove them chemically. The choice of whether surgery or chemical salves should be used depends on the spot.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate it if you could help me out regarding a question I have about hiatal hernia. I read in your column that the pain can be intense enough to bring tears to the eyes of a strong man. I lost the column and that item is of importance to me. I already have your booklet on hiatal hernia.

DEAR READER - The hiatal hernia itself usually doesn't cause any pain. The problem is that you can have a leakage of the acid digestive material out of the stomach into the lower esophagus. The acid irritation of the esophagus can cause burning or it can cause the esophagus to go into a spasm. This is basically a muscle cramp.

The esophagus is a long muscular tube, and it can cramp just as other muscles do. It's this muscle cramp or esophageal spasm that can cause the severe pain that was referred to in my previous column.

Many people have hiatal hernias and never have any symptoms from them; others can have esophageal spasms and not have hiatal hernias.

indicative of damage to the heart muscle or a myocardial infarction. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris to help you sort out the differences among these conditions. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Breathlessness can be associated with either angina or a heart attack. The duration again is important. Finally, a person can have a complete heart attack with significant damage to the heart muscle and not have any pain at all. If he does have pain, it's so mild that it's completely ignored.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column about angina pectoris. I want to know if there are other forms of it. I was hospitalized for three weeks because of anginal attacks and carry Nitrostat with me always, but your column talked mostly about pain in the chest.

Most of my trouble is usually a feeling of being choked up or a deep ache in the lower arm from the elbow to the wrist or in the back of the upper shoulders. The Nitrostat takes the pain away. I almost never get the chest pain that you referred to, and yet the doctors say I have angina.

The pain is not too severe. Luckily, I know my limitations and abide by them. I can't stand extreme cold or overexerting without getting the feeling of being choked up and my teeth aching.

I am 85 years old and still have all my own teeth. No dentures and seldom have any cavities.

I have to take Nitrostat once or twice a week. I have all my faculties; until I was hospitalized, I was active, driving my own car, gardening and so forth. I'm interested in why my pains are not in the chest or under the breastbone.

DEAR READER - The common type of pain caused by angina pectoris - transitory heart pain - is located in the center of the chest, but that's not the only place that you can have the pain. It can be just below the breastbone or it can be in the jaw, shoulders, upper arms, lower arms and even the fingers. When the fingers are involved, it's most often the ring and little fingers.

While it's usually in the left arm and hand, it can also involve the right arm and hand or both, and the pain can radiate to the jaw as you mentioned. If the pain is in the jaw only and there's no associated pain in the chest, this can lead to considerable confusion, sometimes causing people to think they're having dental problems. They may even have dental work done before the true nature of the pain is recognized.

Court Says Malice Doesn't Need To Be Proved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a decision that could carry broad impact for the news media, ruled Thursday that persons accused of crimes do not automatically have to prove "actual malice" to win a libel lawsuit.

The ruling could make reporters and their news organizations easier targets for libel lawsuits stemming from reporting based on public criminal records or open court proceedings.

In its decision, the court voted "to reject the further contention... that any person who engages in criminal conduct automatically becomes a public figure for purposes of comment on a limited range of issues relating to his conviction."

"To hold otherwise would create an 'open season' for all who sought to defame persons convicted of a crime," Justice William H. Rehnquist wrote for a six-member majority.

Reversing a federal appeals court ruling, the court revitalized the libel suit of an Arlington, Va., man who claims he was wrongly identified as a Soviet spy.

Rehnquist's opinion was joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Byron R. White, Lewis R. Powell Jr. and John Paul Stevens.

Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Thurgood Marshall joined in a concurring opinion that stopped short of the broad language used by Rehnquist. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. dissented.

Born in Russia 61 years ago, Ilya Wolston emigrated to the United States from England in 1932. He joined the U.S. Army in 1942 and was trained as a Russian interpreter. After leaving the Army, Wolston worked in various government jobs.

In 1957, the FBI arrested Jack Soble, Wolston's uncle, on espionage charges. Soble pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven years in prison.

During that period, Wolston was subpoenaed on several occasions by a federal grand jury in New York City. He traveled from Washington to appear before the panel each time — with one exception.

For not complying with the last subpoena, he was charged with criminal contempt. Wolston pleaded guilty and was given a one-year suspended sentence. At no time did the criminal investigation and prosecution of Soble implicate Wolston in any wrongdoing.

Two years later, in 1959, a Soble associate, Boris Morros, wrote a book about his career as a double agent for the FBI. In it, he quoted Soble as identifying Wolston as an espionage collaborator. But Morros made the point that Soble was "a confirmed liar."

In 1960, a published FBI report identified Wolston as a Soviet spy. It is not clear whether the report's sole source was Morros' book, but other facts in the report were erroneous.

John Barron, then an associate editor for Reader's Digest, began extensive research in the late 1960s into the Soviet spy network. It led to a 1974 book called "KGB: The Secret Work of Soviet Agents."

The 460-page book made only one reference to Wolston, and that was to identify him as one of several Soviet agents "convicted of espionage or perjury and/or contempt following espionage indictments."

Barron's statement was based on the 1960 FBI document.

Wolston sued Barron and his publishers, Reader's Digest Press, but the suit was dismissed by a trial judge who ruled that Wolston was a "public figure" and had not proved "actual malice" on Barron's part.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington upheld that ruling; but Tuesday's decision strikes down the lower court holdings and reinstates the lawsuit.

Sheriff Can't Be Sued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 6-3 Tuesday that a Texas sheriff may not be sued by a man who was arrested by mistake and held prisoner for eight days.

Reversing a federal appeals court ruling, the justices said Potter County Sheriff T.L. Baker is immune from the lawsuit because the case did not involve any denial of constitutional rights.

The suit had stemmed from the Dec. 26, 1972 arrest in Dallas of Linnie Carl McCollan, who was transferred to the Potter County jail four days later.

He was held over the New Year's holiday until Baker returned on Jan. 2, 1973 and determined that McCollan had been mistaken for his brother Leonard.

Linnie McCollan's suit had charged Baker with false arrest and false imprisonment. He also sued the arresting officer and the Dallas police chief, but the complaints against them had been dismissed previously.

A federal trial judge ruled that Baker was immune from the suit, but the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said he enjoyed no such immunity.

Tuesday's ruling sided with the trial judge and dismissed the suit.

In essence, the opinion by Justice William H. Rehnquist said that law enforcement officials may not be sued for damages when they arrest the wrong person because of "simple negligence."

Stating that McCollan's detention in the Potter County jail might have been "wrongful," Rehnquist said, "we think it gives rise to no claim under the United States Constitution."

The basis of McCollan's suit had been a deprivation of his due-process rights as guaranteed by the Constitution's 14th Amendment. His lawyers said a civil rights law dating back to the Reconstruction era allowed the lawsuit to be filed.

Tuesday the court disagreed. "The 14th Amendment does not protect against all deprivations of liberty. It protects only against deprivations of liberty accomplished 'without due process of law'... having been deprived of no rights secured under the Constitution," (McCollan) had no claims recognizable under the civil rights law," Rehnquist said.

Justices John Paul Stevens, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented. McCollan's lawsuit should go to trial, they said.

In a joint opinion by Stevens they said: "When a state deprives a person of his liberty after his arrest, the Constitution requires that it be prepared to justify not only the initial arrest, but the continued detention as well."

The dissent added: "The record in this case makes clear that the procedures employed by the sheriff of Potter County, Texas, at the time were not reasonably calculated to establish that a person being detained... was in fact the person believed to be guilty of the offense."

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — An obscure trial underway in U.S. District Court, Manhattan, drew a sizeable audience of mostly women admirers, when actor Paul Newman appeared to give testimony.

Newman testified for more than an hour Monday in a civil suit involving filming rights to an auto racing story, "Stand On It."

The trial stemmed from a suit filed by First Artists Productions Co. Ltd., in which Newman is part owner. First Artists is seeking more than $1 million damages from authors William Neely and Robert K. Ottum, and their agent, Gloria Saffir, Inc. It claimed the defendants broke a contract giving First Artists an option on exclusive movie rights to the story by contracting with another firm.

MIAMI (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt says his newborn son marks the end for me of one life that held more than its share of tragedy.

Hunt's wife, Laura, 34, gave birth to Austin Daring Hunt Sunday morning. It was the first child for Mrs. Hunt, formerly Laura E. Martin of Albany, Ga.

Hunt, 60, was a lookout in June 1972 when five burglars entered the Democratic offices at the Watergate complex in Washington.

He pleaded guilty to conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping and served 32 months in prison. He was paroled in February 1978.

Since his release, Hunt has written spy novels and lectured.

"My wife and I are happy and grateful for the birth of our first child," Hunt said Monday. "In a very real way, the baby marks the end for me of one life that held more than its share of tragedy."

Hunt has four other children by his first wife, who died in a jetliner crash in 1973.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Rules Committee, Rep. Richard Bolling, probably will be away from his duties through July after voluntarily entering an alcoholism program, his aides say.

Certainly he will not be back before the Fourth of July recess, Nancy Lowe, an administrative assistant for the Missouri Democrat, said Monday. "I would imagine depending on the treatment and what the doctors tell him, he would be out most of the month of July."

Mrs. Lowe said Bolling, 63 and in his 16th term in Congress, voluntarily entered the Alcoholism Rehabilitation Service at the Bethesda Naval Hospital last week.

"He is very confident he can lick this problem," she said. "He says this is something he should have done and he is doing it."
