Insurance Board Hikes Rates by 8.9% Average

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Insurance Board Chairman William Daves says Texans can soften the blow of an 8.9 percent statewide average rise in autorates by price shopping for coverage.

The board ordered the increase Thursday, taking effect with policies written or renewed on Nov. 1.

When Texans buy coverage after Nov.

1, they can get lower premiums if they carpool or ride the bus to work at least half the time.

Board members set up a new rating used as transportation to and from work.

Daves said shopping for car insurance can pay because the board allows many-companies to charge less than the standard rates prescribed by the board.

"The premiums under certain conditions are reduced up to 25 percent. I certainly encourage consumers to ask their agents or companies what they can do to qualify for reduced insurance premiums," Daves said.

The rate increase will add an estimated $98 million to the $1.1 billion per year that Texans pay in insurance premiums on private passenger cars.

Insurance companies wanted a 21.7

percent average increase that would have boosted total premiums $239.8 million a Board member Durwood Manford acknowledged the companies' request but moved to go along with the 8.9 percent increase recommended by board actuaries.

He said he was "taking into consideration that there may be some reduced driving because of the gasoline shortage," even though available statistics aren't recent enough to prove it.

Actual premium increases will vary widely from the statewide average, depending on a driver's age, location, make and model of car and the use made

Board actuaries say the typical insured car is a 1979 medium-priced Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth, driven to and from work but not used in business. No man under 25 or woman under 21 is allowed to drive it. Coverage consists of $200-deductible collision, $50-deductible comprehensive, $5,000 personal injury protection and liability insurance of up to $20,000 per accident for injuries and $5,000 for property damage.

The carpool credit would provide a 10.3 percent cut in collision premiums in all counties and a 5.4 percent reduction in liability premiums in 10 counties—Harris, Dallas, Bexar, Tarrant, El Paso, Orange, Nueces, Webb, Jefferson and Galveston counties.

No other counties would get the 5.4 percent liability credit because those who (See INSURANCE, Page 2)

Elena May Halt Oil-Spill Cleanup

CORPUS CHRISTI: Texas (AP) —
Tropical Storm Elena could throw beach cleanup operations off schedule if she brings high winds and heavy rains today to portions of the Texas coast stained by Mexican oil.

"We're really at the mercy of Mother Nature." said Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency and one of several federal officials monitoring the runaway crude.

"If it's too stormy and rainy, like it got earlier at Port Isabel, we've already seen that the crews can't work," Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark said Thursday.

Work parties, which have collected more than 44,000 gallons of oil and several thousand pounds of debris from Texas beaches, had hoped to clean large sections of shoreline for the Labor Day holiday weekend.

"It's too soon to tell," Meacham said of Elena's possible effect on the spill. "One of the strange things of this oil spill is that it is really a wait-and-see situation. What might look like it's coming ashore today could be pushed back into the gulf tomorrow."

. A federal multi-agency force monitoring the spill at first thought gulf currents were working in their favor Thursday by flowing south and taking oil away from breeding grounds for marine life.

However, the fickle currents reversed direction and began heading north again.

Reconnaisance flights resumed Thursday after being grounded by a tropical depression that washed South Texas with heavy rains this week. Survey teams reported heavy concentrations of thick brown oil rolling up along a 25-mile stretch of the Padre Island National Seashore. Additional patches were sighted just off those beaches.

Scientists got good news Thursday from biologists who reported no oil in certain checkpoints in the southern Lagura Madre. The area is home to many marine wildlife and is a breeding and nesting ground for numerous species.

A similar check of the northern end of the Laguna Madre detected some oil, but officials said it could have seeped in from a tanker that overflowed with diesel oil in invoked that theme at Emory University in Atlanta with a sober appeal to blacks and Jews to weather the storm over the resignation of United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young.

"We must not permit diversity to degenerate into division," Carter said.

At a town meeting on energy a few hours later in Tampa, he sounded the same theme. By facing the energy crisis together, Carter said, "We can have a better life, a happier life.... Our nation can be unified more, families can be closer."

The underlying political theme was unity too — unity behind candidate Carter.

He reached out repeatedly to shake hands at airports. In Tampa, neither the pouring rain nor the thunder and lightning could stop him.

Wearing a gray rain slicker and at one point donning a red fireman's hat to keep dry, the president continued the style he favored during his Mississippi River cruise last week and greeted crowds from one end of a restraining rope to the other. His wife, Rosalynn, did the same.

The Florida stop, particularly, was rife with political undercurrents since Democrats there plan a straw poll on presidential candidates in November.

It also holds one of the nation's first primaries and is the scene of an effort to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the Democratic nomination.

Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., predicted a "three-ring circus" at the state convention in November unless Kennedy withdraws unequivocally.

In Atlanta, to an outdoor audience that included Coretta Scott King, wife of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., the president called on blacks and Jews to set aside their differences in the interest of national unity.

"Black Americans and Jewish Americans have worked side by side for generations." he said. "Both groups have suffered too much pain, too much persecution, too much bigotry to compound that suffering in any way."

Warning that other nations are in danger of being orn apart by ethnic, political and religious divisions, Carter implored: "We must seek resolution of differences, and we must stand with each other to prevent all these quarrels of the world from being imported into our own

Young, who was scheduled to appear with Carter at Emory but was called back to the United Nations, resigned Aug. 15 after he violated U.S. policy by meeting with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Saying Young's work has "helped millions of poor and oppressed people throughout the world," the president drew applause when he added: "He speaks from the heart. He speaks out of a deep commitment. He speaks out of religious conscience. And he speaks with a preacher's eloquence."

At the town meeting in Tampa, where an excited crowd of 2,000 applauded and cheered repeatedly. Carter beckoned Americans to stop placing blame for the energy crisis and instead to "see what we

Hereford is the last of a dying breed with its present ambulance setup, said two funeral home directors Thursday, while supporting a proposal to upgrade the city's emergency medical services (EMS) system.

Representatives of a committee appointed to determine the feasibility of initiating an EMS system in Deaf Smith County on par with other ambulance services in the Panhandle met with the funeral home directors Thursday fternoon in the chamber of commerce board room.

Those attending the meeting included Gililland-Watson Funeral Home director John Gililland, Smith & Co. director Ron Smith, Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard, Mayor Bartley Oowell, County Judge Glen Nelson, City Commissioner Bud Eades, Drs. Bill Patton and Duffy McBrayer, hospital district board member Jerry Smith, chamber manager Michael Carr, Smith & Co. ambulance driver Gary Phipps, Charles Watson (of Gililland-Watson) and four Hereford police officers.

The committee, after hearing reasons why the two funeral homes cannot continue to operate ambulance services, supported a proposal to create an EMS system costing somewhere between $38,850 and $172,500.

Bullard said he would propose to aspital district directors today that Deaf Smith General operates the ambulance system if the city and county commissions agree to support it financially.

"With our past experience of responding to calls, we are probably in the best position to assume a large part of the responsibility," said. Bullard, who added that the hospital district cannot financially afford to assist in the system's funding.

"In our fiscal-year budget, which will be approved tomorrow (today), we do not have any monies in there whatsoever to assist in the operation of an ambulance service other than the one we already have. Last year, we allocated $35,000 to indigent care and we will spend over $100,000. We just don't have any monies laid out to do any type of ambulance service other than what we

The hospital can only do the legwork in creating an ambulance softice because "we've got a situation similar to Ron and John's," Bullard said.

That situation was discussed in length by the two funeral home directors, who said that running ambulance services has not been profitable enough for them to continue.

"We cannot indefinitely continue the type of service we've been providing." Smith said. "We just can't afford it."

He said that Deaf Smith County has fallen "behind the times--even Dimmitt and Friona have systems more advanced than we have."

Hospital District Ups Tax Rate 4 Cents

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors raised the tax rate four cents to make up for the cost of indigent care, then approved a $2,487,193 budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The tax rate was raised from 21 cents per 24 percent valuation to 25 cents, the same rate used by the hospital district up until 1976, when it lowered taxes by four cents.

In other business this morning, directors said they did not want the hospital district to operate an ambulance service in the county, but authorized Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard to supervise a feasibility study on the issue discussed in a meeting of medical personnel and government officials in a meeting Thursday afternoon.

The tax rate was raised after indigent-care expenses went up $66,000 over the budgeted amount of $35,000 in 1978-79.

"We have only recently begun identifying indigent care as opposed to bad debts," board president Frank Zinser said.

"We're spreading this indigent burden over the general taxpayer instead of putting it all on the hospital and the hospital patient." he added.

The new tax rate will provide a total of $245,887 in income, of which $25,625 will have off the 1968 hand interest and

Bullard anticipated that 94.6 percent of the hospital district tax roll would be collected.

The new budget predicts the following increases: eight percent for patient prices, 12 percent for loss on accounts, seven percent for payroll, nine percent for cost of supplies and 25 percent for employee benefits, which includes health

Based on a projected total of 11,350 patient days, cost per day of each hospital day will average $87.51.

The hospital anticipates total net revenue of $2,487,193, which is $29,905 more than total expenses. Hospital payroll will run $1,186,535, which includes the seven percent increase. It will cost the hospital $766,494 for supplies and operation of the facility.

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources have confirmed the existence in Cuba of Soviet combat troops — possibly some 2,300 to 3,000 men, says Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Sen. Frank Church.

Church Thursday called on President Carter to insist on immediate withdrawal of the brigade of ground-combat troops.

"The United States cannot permit the island to become a Russian military base, 90 miles from our shores, nor can we allow Cuba to be used as a springboard for Russian military intervention in the Western hemisphere," Church said.

Church, an Idaho Democrat, said he and other members of the committee heard reports several weeks ago of a Soviet troop buildup in Cuba. He said members of the committee agreed to say nothing until the reports were confirmed.

Church said Secretary of State Cyrus Vance called him Thursday to confirm the buildup. He said "American intelligence units" confirmed existence of the Soviets, but he said he could not disclose the type of operation involved.

DALLAS (AP) - Officials of SEDCO said today six of their employees were killed with three other victims in a plane crash in a remote area of northern Canada during a crew change at an offshore drilling rig.

The crash occurred two days ago at 11 p.m. local time as a Bradley Air Charter plane was attempting to land near Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island in far northeastern Canada about 100 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

"They were all key employees," said Charles Purbaugh, vice president for operations of the Dallas-based drilling equipment company that was founded by Gov. Clements.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hog farmers, who have seen their market prices plummet this year, may get at least a psychological boost by an Agriculture Department decision to buy pork for this fall's school lunch program.

More poultry also will be bought than in previous years in an effort to trim costs of buying more expensive beef, mostly in the form of hamburger, for the school lunch program.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said Thursday the purchases of canned pork will be the first by USDA in significant quantity in at least five-years. Records show the last substantial pork purchases were in 1974-75.

Last April, the Council on Wage and Price Stability told Agriculture, the Defense Department and the Veterans Administration to reduce beef purchases as a way of fighting inflation and to buy more less-expensive pork and poultry.

Ms. Foreman told a reporter that the pork buying for schools is primarily a result of the White House order.

cluding those paid by USDA for school donations, have climbed sharply the last couple of years, Ms. Foreman said pork is a relative bargain right now.

Cattle prices have dipped this summer from their peaks of last spring, but hog prices at the farm have declined even more sharply.

The department also is buying ground beef for schools, beginning with purchases announced on Aug. 16. Those will continue until enough is bought under the reduced program for the 1979-80 school year.

Last year, ground beef purchases totaled 80.6 million pounds at an average wholesale cost to USDA of about $1.16 a pound. Previously, in 1977-78, ground beef for schools totaled 93.9 million pounds at an average of 72 cents a pound.

So far in the current program, about 4 million pounds have been purchased at an average cost of $1.19 a pound, with some as high as $1.26 a pound in the most recent weekly orders.

Schools To Feed Pork

The meat is offered by processors under bids, and USDA has rejected many of the offerings because of prices being too high. In the latest bids, for example, a top of $1.42 a pound was rejected.

About 26 million children regularly eat in cafeterias in the 94,000 schools that participate in the program. The donated commodities from USDA are in addition to federal and state money that is allocated to help schools operate their meal programs

WASHINGTON (AP) -Charles B. Jennings, who has been in charge of packers and stockyards regulatory operations in the Agriculture Department the last two years, says he plans to leave his $47,-500-a-year job in a few weeks.

Jennings, 61, said Thursday he has set no date for leaving the post but hopes to make the move "fairly soon" and probably no later than Oct. 1.

Before being named to the post by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland on June 30, 1977, Jennings for Teven years was president of the Kansas City Stock Yards Co. Earlier, from 1962 to 1970, he was president of the American Stockyards Association headquarted here.

Asked about his plans, Jennings said, "I have none at this time. I'm going to wait until I'm out of this job and see what develops." Of his decision to resign, Jennings said, "I didn't come in planning to make a career out of government, it was a temporary thing."

Another factor in his decision to leave, Jennings said, is the changed character of the job.

When Jennings joined the department, he was named administrator of the Packers and Stockyards Administration, a separate agency. Subsequently, however, the agency was blended into a reorganized Agricultural Marketing Service where it now is a subdivision of the agency. Jennings' main responsibility has been to oversee the department's enforcement of the Packers and Stockyards Act, which regulates business practices of those engaged in the buying and selling of livestock, meat and poultry.

The "ideal" system, as outlined in Dr. Patton's report, calls for a modulance (ambulance) with advanced life support; an ambulance with basic life support, telemetry, radio equipment, insurance, $100,000 in salaries for one year and

$3,000 for training courses. The system would involve 10 full-time paid emergency medical technicians. The "practical" system would include the leasing of the funeral homes' ambulances and paying for insurance, radios, $20,000 in salaries and $3,000 for training courses.

The report states that the system would include "using existing vehicles either leased or purhcased from present owners, using existing telemetry and radio equipment and using two paid personnel as a nucleus with the remainder volunteers...'

declined to accept a proposal discussed by a special committee Thursday which would make the hospital responsible for an ambulance service in the county when Hereford's two funeral homes got out of the business.

"I think the funeral homes can run it better than we can." Warner Lawson told Bullard.

That cause, he adds, demands mustering of the "entire human and spiritual" resources of mankind.

Such rallying calls for combined religious effort marked the opening this week of the conference's 10-day assembly at Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey, bringing together 350 leaders of 10 major world religions.

It's the first time that the 10year-old conference has met in the United States, following prior assemblies in 1970 in Japan and 1974 in Belgium.

Also for the first time, religious leaders from communist China - nine Christians, Buddhists and Moslems - are participating, along with those from 45 other countries and all continents.

Terming presence of the Chinese religious leaders "an event of historic importance," Nikkyo Niwano, head of Japan's Buddhist lay movement, Rissho Kosei-kai, an an honorary conference chairman, said:

"It is not possible to discuss 'the true world' at an international conference without representation from China, with its one billion people."

Besides Christians, Buddhists and Moslems, delegates also include Hindus, Confucianists, Jains, Jews, Shintoists, Sikhs and Zorastrians.

Rangers Blast Red Sox, 6-0

BOSTON (AP) — Time is tunning out on the slump-ridden, injury-riddled Boston Red Sox in the American League East race.

Even a return from a dismal 2-6 road trip to Fenway Park failed to halt the skidding Red Sox, who fell 91/4 games behind the first place Baltimore Orioles in the division.

The Texas Rangers, whose hopes in the AL West have faded since the All-Star break, shelled Boston ace Dennis Eckersley and breezed to a 6-0 victory Thursday night behind the two-hit pitching of veteran righthander Doc Medich.

Medich allowed only singles by Tom Poquette in the fourth and Bob Watson in the eighth. He was helped by three double plays which resulted in Boston leaving only one runner on base.

With a 2-8 record in the last 10 outings, Baltimore's magic number for eliminating Boston is down to 23. Any combination of 23 Baltimore victories and Boston defeats and it's wait 'til next year for the Red Sox.

The Rangers, 1-6 coming here and 11-31 since the All-Star break, jumped on Eckersley, 16-8, for 10 hits, including Al Oliver's 12th homer. Reliever Bill Campbell allowed only one hit, a run-scoring double by Steve Comer, also 13.0.

Richie Zisk in the ninth, in three innings.

While Eckersley lost his third straight, Medich continued his mastery of the Red Sox. Winless in five previous starts, Medich evened his record 6-6 in easy fashion, boosting his record against Boston to 7-0 since his last defeat by the Red Sox. That was more than five years ago, on Aug. 4, 1974.

"He pitched a darn good game and give him credit, but we're hurting," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said after missing four injured regulars from his starting lineup.

"We're trying; but it's awfully tough. Changes? What else do I have. I'm just trying to put nine healthy guys out Zimmer admitted that "we've got to cut a couple of games off their lead" before the Red Sox face the high-flying Orioles in Good Pitch seven games in September.

The Boston manager, who has been in baseball for 30 years, realizes it's a tough task ahead.

but refuses to give up. "I've seen a lot of miracles in baseball - and that's what we've got to hope for now," he said.

The Red Sox try to get back on the winning track tonight, sending veteran Mike Torrez to the mound. Torrez, 13-9, is due' to be opposed by the Rangers'

While the Angels were losing 7-1 in Cleveland, the Royals were rolling to an 8-3 victory over the comeback club of a year ago, the New York Yankees.

"I think there were doubts in our minds, but we weren't going to throw in the towel," Brett said. "The Yankees did it last year. We can do it, too." In the rest of the American League, Baltimore beat Minnesota 5-4, Texas blanked Boston 6-0. Detroit edged Oakland 8-7, Seaftle defeated Toronto 8-2 and, in 12 innings, Milwaukee beat Chicago 4-3. Darrell Porter was Kansas City's big gun with a three-run homer in the first inning off Luis Tiant, who gave up six runs in three innings before being Nolan Ryan, ripped for five runs in five innings, said: "Our pitching has to quit getting us into a hole early in the game. It makes it tough on our hitters to have to try to keep coming back.' Len Barker pitched a six-hitter and Ron Hassey drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the first inning to lead the Indians to their eighth victory in the last eight-games. Orioles 5, Twins 4

Baltimore's Mike Flanagan, an unhappy 19-game winner a year ago, chalked up No.19 ear-

Paul Molitor led off with a single and two outs later Gorman Thomas was given an intentional walk. But Ben Oglivie and Lezcano also walked to give the Brewers their 15th victory in the last 19 games.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said Thursday that he feels in some instances the 1979 Razorbacks "are being underrated."

He said that when forecasters look at his young team they "are not aware of the potential we might have."

Although he feels his Razorbacks can spring some ambushes, Holtz said he is troubled because "we are not making the progress I think we should . . . We have a young team and winning doesn't seem to be the most important on our mind . . . Right now we are unsettled."

The third-year Arkansas coach added quickly "I do not look upon this as a rebuilding year. I was given the advice once never to prepare a team for a new coach. We do have talent.

Although Arkansas lost 12 starters, seven of them on defense, Holtz said Arkansas could be a good team if the de-

They finished last season with identical 9-7 records, a slim one game behind the American Conference champion Denver Broncos. Now the Seattle Seahawks and San Diego Chargers have playoff ambitions of their own and they'll test them out on each other Sunday as the National Football League's 60th season gets underway.

McCrory Testifies About Davis Murder Talk

- Star prosecution witness David McCrory's testimony that millionaire Cullen Davis admitted to committing murder and bragged that he had "gotten away with it once," sparked a hurried and futile motion for a mistrial in the continuing Davis

McCrory revealed the alleged admission during his first day on the stand Thursday, causing a flurry at both defense and prosecution tables.

State District Judge Gordon Gray denied the motion for mistrial, and did not instruct jurors to disregard McCrory's statement.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland was questioning McCrory about a series of meetings with Davis when McCrory volunteer the startling information.

"Was the killing or the possible killings of any other persons discussed, mentioned alluded to-by Cullen Davis or yourself at this meeting?" Strickland asked.

"When he told me that I knew that he was serious, he said "I've gotten away with it once ... " McCrory said before he was interrupted by defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes' request to approach the bench.

Davis was acquitted in the murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, by an Amarillo jury. But murder and assault charges growing out of a midnight shooting spree at Davis' $6 million mansion are still pending against the wealthy industrialist.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) others, Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, and mansion visitor Gus "Bubba" Gavrel Jr., were wounded.

Davis is standing trial here on charges he solicited the murder of State District Judge Joe Eidson and others on an alleged "hit" list. McCrory claims Davis ordered him to negotiate the hits - but the 41-year-old witness went to the FBI instead.

During the motion for mistrial, Haynes said McCrory had never made such a statement in previous testimony and "that the remark of Mr. McCrory in the presence of the jury ... to the effect that the defendant confessed to the felony offense of murder and that he had before gotten away with it ... is so prejudicial and inflammatory in view o of the tremendous publicity that has attended the trial of Cullen Davis in Amarillo." McCrory earlier had told jurors that in a series of meetings beginning in January of 1978, Davis said he wanted someone to kill Beverly Bass, Gavrel's girlfriend and the lone, unwounded survivor of the August, 1976, shooting spree.

"He said he wanted Beverly Bass killed. He said she was the only one who the jury believed ... he said he couldn't afford to let Beverly Bass get on the stand against him again." "He (Davis) told me he had decided on a plan or a couple of plans which he thought would work in the killing of Beverly Bass," McCrory said. He said the plans included planting heroin near the body to make police think "it was a dope-related killing" or hacking Ms. Bass' body into pieces and hid-

Ms. Bass, 21, testified in Amarillo she saw Davis gun down her boyfriend, Gavrel, as they drove up to the showplace home for a visit. She said the gunman then chased her as she fled the mansion grounds screaming for help.

McCrory said Davis told him he was willing to pay between $25,000 and $30,000 to see Ms. Bass dead.

McCrory said at a meeting in late June of 1978, Cullen added other names, including his step- thetic to him. Gavrel, 24, has a daughter, Dee Davis, to the "enemies list."

"(Davis was) telling me he thought since Beverly and Bubba (Gavrel) were together so much, it would be a good idea to get Beverly, Bubba, Bubba's father and possibly Dee Davis all at one time and just kill them all at once."

Outside the presence of the jury, McCrory said Davis told him he wanted Gavrel, paralyzed by the shooting, dead because jurors would be sympa-

"He (Davis) said that he wanted that little (expletive) killed because he had a big, fat lawsuit against him and it was going to be just one hell of a hassle..." McCrory said. "He, said that he didn't want Bubba coming up in court on crutches because everybody in town knew what had happened, and coming in paralyzed on or crutches or in a wheelchair ... it'd just be Amarillo all over.

McCrory and his family now live with new identities in another city under the federal Witness Protection Program. He returned to Fort Worth flanked by U.S. Marshals and sporting a fresh, conservative haircut and trim moustache.

Citing McCrory's appearance at Davis' bond hearing last August, Haynes complained to Gray that "this witness has never before said some of the things he's saying here." "Now, he's not bound by what he said before," Gray said. "He's just bound to tell

Fishermen Upset Over Vietnamese

PALACIOS, Texas (AP) -Truyen Van Trhn stood calmly before an angry, hostile group of 125 Texas fishermen in this sleepy little fishing community Thursday night and told them what they least wanted to hear - he had just bought a fishing

"I borrowed the money from my father and my brothers," the Vietnamese refugee said. "I've had it for about two weeks, but I'm not doing too well, either."

Trhn stood as the lone representative of his countrymen before a hostile, angry crowd wary and fearful of their new competitors. The refugee fishermen have become the focal point of loud protests from native fishermen who claim the foreign influx will force them out of business within five years.

Trhn sat quietly in the rear of the Palacios Recreation Hall and listened as veteran Texas shriump and crab fishermen discussed ways to end the migration of Vietnamese fishermen to this area.

They mostly feared having their fishing grounds overpopulated and depleted by the refugees, but there were other, more bizarre worries expressed.

"They could be setting up a whole network of mines along the coast," one woman said emotionally. "I see them out there in their boats, but we

of a great depression."

The foreign situation is terrible.

Whereupon the father thought,

"Well, my son's been to college, doing.'

Bo Cunningham, spokesman for a group called "PISCES," was far more concerned with too many fishing boats flooding into the area.

"We understand there will be about 600,000 Vietnamese coming into this country next year, and it seems like they are all coming to Texas," Cunningham said. "A great number of them will settle in the east, but they are a warm-climate people and when the first of winter hits, they will come to the coast.

"At the present rate of escalation, within the next five years you're going to see people who were born and raised in this industry looking for other jobs.'

Another fisherman, Ed Lambright of Port O'Connor, said the refugee fishermen did not observe common courtesies normally practiced by native fishermen.

"We have what you call a gentlemen's agreement that we don't crowd each other." Lambright said. "But the Vietnamese will pull right across our rigs, and this is the type of thing that causes bad feelings."

Lambright charged that his civil rights were being violated because Vietnamese fishermen were taking away from his jncome. Cunningham added, "I think every senator and representative in Washington should Vietnamese and we'll see how they like it." At a nearby trailer park where most of the Vietnamese refugees live, Dang Lan Ba talked duietly while watching his countrymen mend their

"We don't want any trouble," he said. "We just want to live here peacefully and live by the rules.

Ba said prior to leaving his native country his family received only six pounds of rice per month for each person. "To get enough to eat, we'd have to go to the black market," he said. "We didn't have any free-subject that had been raised by others in private. "I'd like to know how these people can come in here in five years and buy a boat when it took me all my life," he said.,

H.M. Forester broached a

"I fought in World War II and didn't even get the GI Bill."

That question was addressed earlier in the day by, U.S. Rep Joe Wyatt, D-Texas. He said there has been plenty of conversation to the effect that Vietnamese are receiving subsidies or low-interest loans to buy boats.

"I could find that they are getting no preferential treatment," he said.

Tensions between local and refugee fishermen passed the boiling point early this month at nearby Seadrift. An American fisherman was shot to death, and two Vietnamese have been charged. Vietnamese boats were burned, and feelings in Seadrift continue to run high.

Cunningham warned the meeting that violence could result unless the federal government intervened.

His assessment agreed with that of a federal official, who declined to be identified.

"You're going to see a situation in Texas more volatile than Seadrift in the next 12 months," the official told The Associated Press.

Wyatt, who was invited to the meeting here but did not attend, backed up the official. "I think they should be scared," he said.

"I think it's volatile." Wyatt also said the situation would become a new political issue in his district. "My personal feeling is that we ought to accept the Vietnamese. At the same time, the Vietnamese present a unique situation. Unfortunately, they're not getting enough background in American customs and property rights."

The federal source said government programs for the Vietnamese were plentiful, but disjointed. "There's no handle, no coordination," he said.

Carter Still Has 'Crisis'

WASHINGTON (AP) - That crisis of confidence President Carter diagnosed six weeks ago may really be a case of the economic blues.

And it that's the ailment, Carter is going to have a hard time changing the mood in time to shore up his own standing for the 1980 presidential campaign. In his July 15 report to the nation, Carter said a "crisis of confidence" was eroding the national will. He said the way to begin changing it was for the government and the people to confront and solve the nation's energy problem.

Carter's assessment seems to have stemmed in large measure from the findings of his pollster, Patrick H. Caddell, who reported widespread pessimism among Americans about their own futures and about their ability to change things.

The Caddell surveys, like those of other opinion analysts, found the average American thinks things are getting worse and doubts that the average person really has any influence on the govern-

But an analysis by the journal, Public Opinion, published by The American Enterprise Institute, suggests that the mood may not be as down as some of the statistics.

the level of American con-climb in 1972, but plunged again because of Watergate, the embargo and worsening inflation.

The polls reflected another upward turn with Carter's election and the end of an economic recession, but turned downward again in 1978, as the president's own ratings began to sag. In his own assessment, Carter said the decline in public confidence had its roots in the assassinations and war of the 1960s, in Watergate, in a decade of inflation, and in the energy woes that began with the Arab oil embargo of 1973.

"Conveniently, all of those root causes predated his own entry into-office, a theme that is sure to be repeated on the campaign trail," the Public Opinion account says. But it suggests that the ups and downs of national confidence may have more to do with the economy than with past problems and crises. Since-1973, according to that analysis, confidence levels in the polls have closely paralleled economic trends. With the economy moving into recession now, that does not bode well for Carter's effort to rekindle public - and voter

High School Students Required To Take Physical Education

Physical Education at Hereford High School is offered to students in grades 10, 11, and 12.

Students are required to have Physical Education or other equivalent courses such as athletics, band, cheerleading, Distributive Education or Drill Team. One unit of credit is given for each trimester taken and a total of five credits is necessary for graduation. Students are offered the opportunity to work and relate with others, while learning skills in different sports which they can use to carry on throughout their life. The curriculum provides a general exposure to various individual and team activities. Such as gymnastics, tumbling, handball, basketball, soccer, softball, volleyball, archery, tennis, bowling and basic exercise:

The students are given the responsibility of taking care of equipment and getting along with their fellow classmates. Requirements within the class include: being on time to class, suit out every day, proper care of equipment and shower every day at the end of the class period.

Physical Education seeks to develop well-rounded, happy, healthy (mentally and physically), skilled and productive individuals. -

Elementary Pupils Look Forward To Annual Spring Track Meet, Field

Even at the onset of the school year, students on the elementary campuses look forward to the annual spring track meets as do the other schools.

Bluebonnet hosts a track meet for its students. Involved in the track meet are nearly 500 students from grades K-4 through sixth.

The purpose of the track meet is to give all students an equal opportunity to participate in individual and team competition. Emphasis is given to developing good sportsmanship attitudes in the spirit of free and unpressured competition.

The intermediate students participate in many of the standard track events including dashes and relays. The primary students run dashes but also participate in such fun events as the caterpillar, knee waddle and bunny hop.

Students participate in individual competition by racing against their peers in their grade level. Each student receives two ribbons for his efforts ranging from first place to sixth place.

· Team competition is in the form of relays and room points. The room with the highest total points in each grade level receives a trophy that remains in that room for one year.

The track meet is designed to give students an educational experience in competition with an accent on fun for all. The reward a student receives is not only in the winning of ribbons but more important is the satisfaction found in participating and knowing that "I have done my best."

Research Lab Gives Exciting Thrust To Special Program at Aikman

Aikman Elementary's program for the academically-capable student in the sixth grade operates within a self-contained classroom framework that allows for desired flexibility in its operation and provides well for the natural blending of subjects.

The 1977 addition of the research lab has strengthened and given an exciting thrust to our existing program and has enabled us to further challenge the full use of the student's abilities, broaden his base of knowledge, and cultivate skills in human relations and social living. .

In the fall of 1977, we began with an additional room equipped with 9 typewriters and numerous programs designed toward enriching our project. These directed activities provide additional opportunities for academic and personality growth, for improvement of leadership abilities and for working and sharing with others. We begin our year with much class discussion and cooperative planning of what we desire to achieve and the methods we will use in striving to attain our goals. Throughout the year we change our operations as suggestions for "a better way" come forth. Our lab operates with groups and individuals performing a variety of activities. The "each one, teach one" method is much in evidence and provides ample opportunity for the individual's wish to help others working as partners, committee members and teams, giving valuable practice in positive social experiences. After almost two years in operation the excitement and pleasure are still much in evidence and are proving to be a rewarding experience for all concerned.

Our focus in the lab has been Language Arts, but because of its natural relationship to other subjects studied, many times several subjects are studied simultaneously.

Reading is taught with a variety of materials and techniques. Reading textbooks are used along with other materials developed by specialists in the field. Teacher-guided selection of library books is also used. This process of selection allows student-choice, but it also provides teacher-involved reinforcement in reading.

Language skills taught include spelling, vocabulary and creative writing. Listening skills, thinking skills, and writing skills all have special materials designed for the student. All of these materials are closely atuned to the needs of the individual student through an ongoing evaluation system by the teacher and the student.

Many motivating and exciting additions are a part of the research lab program. The most popular of these additions has been the students' opportunity to learn to use the typewriter. The research lab program has given new life to our existing program.

4th Graders Make Film

All the fourth-grade students at West Central Elementary School produced their own colorful filmstrip on traffic safety with materials provided by the Texas Office of Traffic Safety at the close of the last school year.

This project has been expanded each year for the past three years and begins with an indepth study of safety procedures followed by a visit from a representative of the Hereford Police Department. The officer presents a program on bicycle safety. Finally, through the use of a kit entitled, "The Safest Show on Earth," provided to the fourth-grade teachers by the Texas Office of Traffic Safety, the students create drawings for use in a full-color, sound filmstrip.

After the students finish their drawings, they are processed into a filmstrip by Media Intensive Learning Corporation, designers of the program. The filmstrip is then returned to the class originating the drawings, along with a lively soundtrack cassette tape narrated by children. Both the filmstrip and the cassette then become the property of that class.

This is when the real fun begins. Watching the expressions on the faces of those students when they view their artwork on the big screen. It is a time they will never forget.

A study made of over 15,000 students in Texas by the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory has shown that participants in "The Safest Show on Earth" registered a 10 percent gain in knowledge and a 25 percent increase in positive traffic safety attitudes. It is because of these improvements that the teachers at West Central plan to use "The Safest Show on Earth" this year.

Library Plays Important Role

Freedom of inquiry is basic and essential in education.

At La Plata Junor High, we believe that young people must have access to information on a wide variety of subjects and be able to interpret this information from different points of view in order to exercise critical judgment. It is the primary responsibility of the library to implement, enrich, and support the educational program of the school by making available a wide range of materials. The objectives of the library are concerned with development of reading skills, literary tastes, instruction in use of books and libraries, and establishment of a learning environment.

The circulation record shows that approximately 1,000 books are checked out by the seventh, eighth and ninth grade students of La Plata Junior High each month. Not only are books checked out for reading pleasure but a large number of this circulation covers academic activities, such as special reports for various classes. Many teachers take advantage of the library's facilities by bringing their classes to the library for a supervised research

The library contains a wide assortment of reference books, encyclopedias and other reference materials for both student and teacher use. Some teachers encourage students to make use of the large selection of audio-visual materials which are housed in the library.

In the fall of each year, the library sponsors a book fair, whereby each student is given the opportunity to visit the library and view paperback selections on display. Any student wishing to purchase a book for personal use may do so at this time.

Homemaking Program Greatly Extended in Local Schools

Homemaking classes are not what they used to be, not what they used to be, not what they used to be...not so many years ago.

When the mothers of students who are enrolled in today's Homemaking classes took Homemaking, they probably had one semester of cooking and one semester of sewing each year. Until recently, few schools offered Homemaking for boys.

The Homemaking program in our schools has been greatly extended and offers many opportunities for both boys and girls in Hereford's junior highs and high school. At the present time, Stanton Junior High offers Homemaking in eighth and ninth grades.

. One of the main objectives of Homemaking classes is to make students aware of their changing roles in today's society. The program includes the study of personality growth, family relationships, home management, consumer education, clothing (wardrobe planning and construction), choosing a vocation, home furnishings, child development and

The education gained from Homemaking classes has many values, as it unifies knowledge from science, art, social studies, psychology and mathematics. Homemaking emphasizes such skills as cooking, sewing, wise money management, getting along with people, and budgeting time, money and energy.

The importance of good citizenship and of taking part in social and civic affairs is also a part of Homemaking courses taught in the Hereford decreased physical activity characteristic of our society is a major factor. For that reason it may be that the manual labor that you're doing is a help. One of the important aspects of preventing backaches is to maintain good strength of your abdominal muscles. Unless you already have back problems that might be made worse with certain exercises, you could concentrate on sit-ups and leg lifts to help strengthen your abdominal muscles.

The Homemaking classes provide a strong foundation, whether the student is taking the courses for their own personal use or in planning a career.

Learning To Sew .
