WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumers are outraged about food prices, especially those for meat and milk, but only slightly more than 1 percent think farmers are responsible, according to an annual study of attitudes taken for supermarkets and food processors.

In fact, two out of five of those asked by the Yankelovich, Skelly and hite research firm and the Food Marketing Institute "don't really feel that anyone can be blamed," their report this week said.

Among the 61 percent who do perceive a villain, 39 percent of them blame the government, 18 percent blame the "middleman." 10 percent say the public, generally is responsible for feeding inflation and 8 blame labor unions.

Only 3 percent pointed a finger at supermarkets and 2 percent cited farmers. An additional 2 percent named food manufacturers separately, one of the largest segments of the "middleman" category that processes, ships and markets the food produced by farmers.

Robert A. Dobkin, a vice president of the trade association of major retailers and wholesalers, said in releasing the report, "Getting the best nutrition buy for the dollar is of rising interest to shoppers. Survey subjects felt that industry has not yet met customer expectations on this new priority.

"Consumers report a decline in their standards of living compared to one year ago and a loss of confidence in the future," Dobkin said. "Rising food prices have become the central consumer concern in the battle to cope with inflation, with meat prices received as the major villain.'

The report showed, however, that food costs are much less of a major personal concern now than in the winter of 1974, the end of two straight years of 14.5 percent hikes in food prices.

Food prices this year are officially expected to average close to 11 percent above 1978 averages. But a year ago only 43 percent registered food prices as a major concern, compared to 58 percent now and 76 percent five years ago.

The report also showed a gain of almost

Jobless Rate Continues Below Six Percent Despite July Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate rose slightly in July to 5.7 percent, making a full year in which the jobless rate has been below 6 percent, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the number of persons without jobs -5,848,000 - was little changed from June but there were signs of possible future deterioration in the job market.

Showers Return To County

By JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

After one evening's absence, showers returned to widespread portions of Deaf Smith County last night, keeping the initial days of August wet and thunderous.

Thunderheads built from two direction; yesterdas with heavy cours forming to the northwest and east of Hereford.

Showers began around 8 o'clock last night and continued for upwards of two hours in some localities.

The city of Hereford was in line for some of the heaviest rainfall in last night's storm, with KPAN radio here logging a total of .90 inches of moisture, to bring this week's rainfall accumulation for the city to over an inch. To the north of Hereford, a spokesman for Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center reported one inch of rainfall at that location, while no report was available from the Farmer's Corner area due to static over the phone lines in that vicinity.

East of Hereford, high winds and blowing dirt came in advance of last night's showers. Wind-driven rainfall made visibility difficult for motorists traveling in the Umbarger area, and steady rain continued for well over two hours in a stretch from Dawn to

A spokesman for Dawn Co-Op reported that only .50 inches of rain fell at that community, however.

Scattered showers again dotted the dryland country west and northwest of Hereford, storing up more soil moisture for the sowing of the dryland wheat crop and giving a boost to grain sorghum.

J.F. Martin of Walcott reported .50 inches of rainfall at his farm, while Mrs. Bill Page indicated that .25 inches fell at her husband's farm at Bootleg Corner. Only a sprinkle was reported at the

how much companies expect to pay in claims. Lower loss estimates would mean less need for rate increases.

Insurance rates are based in part on

An industry spokesman said insurance losses will continue to rise despite the energy crisis.

Inflated medical and repair costs and the popularity of high-risk subcompact cars force insurance companies to seek higher rates, said J.M. Eddins, a Baltimore, Md., insurance actuary.

The 1973-1974 Arab embargo and gas shortage did nothing to reduce car insurance claims in the long run, Eddins said. The board should not repeat its 1974 mistake when rates were set artificially low and jumped 17 percent the next year, he added.

"But in 1974 you did not have the 50 percent rise in gas prices in the preceding year and you didn't have 25 percent of that 50 percent jump occurring in the last three months of the period," Olson said.

"I just don't think it's (the gas shortage) going to go away," he added. "Individuals are changing their driving

The board staff has recommended an 8.9 percent auto insurance rate increase that would be effective. Nov. 1, Staff actuary Gaylon Daniel said companies need more revenue because the average claim payment has risen dramatically despite fewer claims being filed.

The board granted a 3.2 percent statewide increase last year. Board Chairman William Daves said the panel will announce its decision on new rates within a month.

A spokesman for the Texas Trial Lawyers Association said Texas insurance premiums are too high because companies are allowed to claim too much in business expenses.

The board formula allows companies 6.5 cents out of the car insurance premium dollar for general overhead.

Nationwide figures show companies spend 4.5 percent of premium income for business expenses, said Mike Gallagher, immediate past president of the plaintiff's lawyers association. Actual expenses for Texas companies surely are less than the 6.5 percent, he added.

If companies' actual expenses are less, then ratepayers should enjoy lower premiums, Gallagher said.

The 1979 Legislature rejected a bill that would have made the insurance board consider actual expenses and investment income in deciding how much consumers should pay.

"With your premium dollars, Aetna loaned Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nev., $60 million," the lawyer said. "Yet none of that invested return is considered in the ratemaking process."

Kennedy Bill Would Restrict Gun Use

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today introduced guncontrol legislation that would outlaw the cheap handguns most often used in crimes and tighten restrictions on the sale of other weapons.

The Massachusetts Democrat, whose brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was assassinated with a pistol in 1968, is sponsoring the bill at the request of guncontrol forces who accused President Carter of reneging on a campaign promise to champion their cause.

The proposal immediately drew praise from gun-control advocates but the wrath of the gun lobby. The Gun Owner of America called it an "outrageous effort to disarm the American people.' The new bill would:

-Ban the manufacture, importing and all trading in "Saturday night specials," cheap, easily concealed handguns. A 1968 law passed after the slayings of Robert Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., bans importation of these guns but allows assembly in this country of foreign produced

-Establish a definition of "Saturday night specials" based on how easily such weapons can be concealed and on their potential for crime rather than sporting

-Require police departments to verify the eligibility of handgun purchasers. Federal law already prohibits purchases by criminals, the insane and certain other people and requires buyers to fill out identification forms, but does not require that the information be verified.

-Require that all handgun transfers, whether the original purchase or later sales, take place through licensed dealers. While someone owning a handgun now would be free to keep it, its disposal would be regulated.

-Prohibit pawnbrokers from dealing in handguns and tighten the licensing requirements for other dealers. -Require manufacturers to keep track

Ex-Math Teacher Getting Used to 'Your Honor'

By PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

JoEd Cupell is "Judge" but it's taken him a long time to get used to the title.

"I used to look around when someone said, "Hey, Judge," to see if it's me they were talking to, but after a year or so, you get used to it a little," said Cupell, who taught for 36 years and ran a trucking company on the side before he was appointed municipal judge early last

"I applied for the job because I was out of teaching and I felt that these younger fellas needed to be on the trucks. And I decided the opportunity to meet people was too good to pass up," Cupell said.

"I enjoy it. I like meeting people." A lot of those he meets don't come into circumstances. Cupell's court handles all Class G misdemeanors, which include traffic violations.

"You make more contacts in this job than a lot of people make in their jobs. But some of those contacts aren't the most pleasant in the world," he said.

"My philosophy in teaching was to treat people equally and in that respect, this job is similar to teaching. Another thing I believe is people that come in here need to see the relationship of what they've done to how it affects other

"I don't think you're going to change anything through sermonizing to people. So I don't do it. I've learned that you're not going to change a lot of people in this become law-abiding citizens."

Cupell, whose office has drastically increased the amount of fines for the city, said he does not handle a speeder as he would a shoplifter.

"They are completely different things. For one thing, a traffic violation is not malicious," he said.

"There are two things I base a decision on when handling a traffic violation. The first is, is it a valid ticket? Did they do what the officer said they did? The seond one is whether or not whatever they did is a violation of the law.'

If it is, Cupell's philosophy is that the person should be fined.

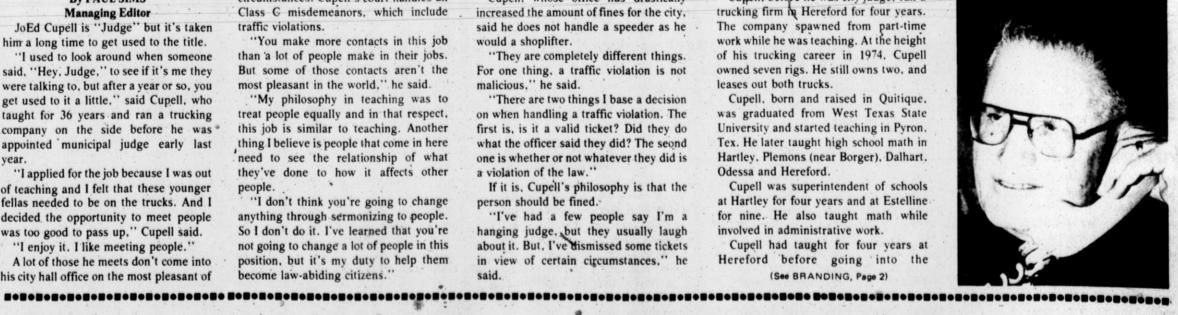

"I've had a few people say I'm a hanging judge, but they usually laugh about it. But, I've dismissed some tickets

Cupett, before he was city judge, ran a trucking firm in Hereford for four years. The company spawned from part-time work while he was teaching. At the height of his trucking career in 1974, Cupell owned seven rigs. He still owns two, and leases out both trucks. Cupell, born and raised in Quitique, was graduated from West Texas State University and started teaching in Pyron. Tex. He later taught high school math in Hartley, Plemons (near Borger), Dalhart, Odessa and Hereford.

Cupell was superintendent of schools at Hartley for four years and at Estelline for nine. He also taught math while involved in administrative work.

U.S. Waters Sunday

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (A) Government scientists preparing for a long and costly battle against a Mexican oil slick are now predicting the runaway crude will spill into U.S. waters Sunday.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration official John Robinson also predicted Thursday that the first traces of the oil may hit the South Texas coast Tuesday.

We expect to be here a long time." Robinson, who is in charge of the scientific team here, said.

It took about two months for the oil from the blown-out Bay of Compeche well to make the trek to near U.S. waters. The latest flights over the spill area showed the oil to be about 40 to 50 miles south of Brownsville. It has already spewed globs of tarry oil onto several Mexican beaches.

The leading edge of the slick is expected to drift within 10 to 15 miles east of the South Texas coast this weekend. About 150 scientists, engineers and Coast Guardsmen are now heading U.S. efforts against the effort.

Bentsen To Recommend One Hispanic Judge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Only one Mexican-American will be among those U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen will recommend to fill four federal judgeships in the heavily-Hispanic Western District of Texas, the San Antonio Express said

The newspaper quoted federal sources as saying Bentsen would recommend State District Court Judges H.F. "Hippo" Garcia and Fred Shannon of San Antonio, Odessa attorney Lucius Bunton and U.S. Magistrate Harry Lee Hudspeth of El Paso.

Bentsen spokesman Jack Devore declined comment, but said the senator would make his recommendations soon.

Garcia, Shannon and Bunton, contacted by the Express, declined to confirm or deny the report. Hudspeth was not available for comment.

If confirmed, Garcia would become the first Mexican-American named to a judgeship in the sprawling district, which stretches from Waco 600 miles westward to El Paso. Garcia would be the third Hispanic federal judge in Texas.

Mexican-American leaders, displaying Southwest Voter Registration Education Project figures that show 33 percent of the district's residents are Hispanic, head demanded that Bentsen recommend at least two Mexican-Americans.

Feds Say Stations May Charge For Services Other Than Gas

By MARK POTTS AP Business Writer

If you pull into a gas station and say, "Fill 'er up, check the oil and wipe the windows," chances are you will have to pay only for the gasoline, even though the government now allows service stations to charge for the other services. Dealers say they won't take advantage of the new rule for fear of alienating customers, but many aren't wasting any time in taking advantage of another rule that sets a new ceiling on mark-ups over wholesale prices. Those dealers with prices above the ceiling, however, aren't hurrying to lower prices.

The rules went into effect Wednesday, along with one allowing surcharges for the use of credit cards. But that regulation was vetoed Thursday by the Federal Trade Commission, which said it violated the federal Truth in Lending Act.

Although they have complained in recent months that they aren't making enough money, dealers interviewed Thursday said charging for traditionally free services was not the way to increase

"You must be joking," said Louis Kremen, a Sunoco dealer in New York City. "How long do you think my customers would stay with me?"

"We just don't believe in charging for checking oil or washing windows," said Randie McClung, manager of Emery Hills Texaco in Chamblee, Ga. "As long as a man's standing there anyway pumping gas, he might as well be helping the customer."

"That's ridiculous," said Harold Crowell of Parkway Mobil in Somerville, Mass. "Most people who have been in the business for a long time frown on it. If you're a neighborhood service station, all you'd create is a lot of bad will."

"Nobody's gonna do that because the first time you do that you're going to have a shooting," said Bill Mountyre, a Shell dealer in Louisville, Ky.

The dealers also were unhappy with the new rule on mark-ups, under which they can charge no more than 15.4 cents per gallon more than the wholesale price of gasoline, before taxes are added. The dealers were restricted to their profit margin of six years ago, plus a few cents for inflation.

"If we have a 15.4-cent margin, 10 percent of our stations would go out of business very shortly and 25 percent would in the long run," said Paul Hay, director of the Santa Clara County (Calif.) Service Station Dealers Association.

About 700 dealers protested "the rules Wednesday in Washington.

Many dealers who were charging more than the new rule allowed didn't seem in any hurry to reduce prices. Jihong Yoo, operator of an Exxon station in Washington, D.C., said his price was still 1.8 cents above the limit because no one had bothered to explain the new regulations to him. And Tom Meeks, who's running Jay's Shell in Landover, Md., while his father is on vacation, said he first will talk to his father before lowering prices.

Some dealers whose mark-ups were below the ceiling, however, were quick to Peanuts for Energy?

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) -President Carter, who favors development of alternate fuels, might find one very close to home - in the Carter family peanut warehouse.

Scientists at the Army's Construction Engineering Research Laboratory are preparing to test peanut hulls to find out how they burn as fuel.

Eventually, they may be used with coal, or instead of coal, to fire boilers at military installations and perhaps at small civilian power plants.

It all began when a Georgia firm contacted Steve Hathaway at the Champaign lab.

"Are you interested in pelletized peanut hulls?" a company official asked Hathaway.

Hathaway, who has tested refuse-derived fuel and wood pellets as alternate fuels, agreed it was an interesting idea to test peanut hulls pressed into pellets, but said he had not previously thought about nut shells as an energy source.

"Not in my wildest dreams," said Hathaway.

Bill Lehmberg of the Gold energy source.

"He sent me a little box of the pellets," said Hathaway. "Then we got 300 pounds."

Lehmburg said peanut hulls can present a problem since many peanuts are consumed out of the shell - in bags or cans, in candy, in peanut butter - and the processors have to find a way to dispose of them.

"For years, we've been looking for ways to use peanut shells," said Lehmberg. "At times of the year, you can't get rid of them.

Gold Kist turns some into pellets as a fiber source for livestock, and makes others into cat litter and artificial fireplace

The Dothan Oil Mill in Dothan, Ala., which shells peanuts and produces peanut oil, has found another way to use the shells. The firm's operation requires steam, and it had burned coal, natural gas and oil to fire its boilers.

But, now the firm grinds up the peanut shells and blows them into the boiler, where they are burned:

"One-hundred percent of our lanta was anxious for Hath- nut hulls," said Rhett Bryson, away to test the shells as an executive vice president. "They burn well because they're dry.

There is very little moisture in the hulls."

The peanut-shell pellets will be the first alternate fuel burned in the Champaign lab's new test furnace. "I sent them to Steve because of this sophisticated machine he has that is supposed to tell us everything we need to know about burning peanut hulls," Lehmberg said, referring to Hathaway. The tests will reveal the burning characteristics of the peanut-shell pellets. They also will tell scientists whether existing coal-fired boilers and fuel-handling equipment must be modified before the pellets are substituted as the energy source. Lehmberg said the peanut-year from the peanut industry. said Lehmberg. The answer to how much energy that would produce depends on the tests.

Since transportation costs are high, the location of the hulls is important. About 70 percent of the nation's peanuts are produced in the southeast - Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Another 20 percent come from Virginia and North Carolina and 10 percent from Texas and Oklahoma. There are, of course, lots of power plants in the Southwest and the other states.

KEEPING UP

WE MUST KEEP UP, but not as part of what some people call "the rat race." This "keeping up" about which we are so concerned has nothing to do with "status seeking." It is not concerned with keeping up with anybody, but is a practical and economic necessity.

WE BUILD A HOUSE, or fix up a house; and, in order to protect our work and investment, we must "keep up" this house. If it is neglected, it soon begins to decrease in value, and eventually, it is useless. If the neglect continues long enough, the house becomes valueless. "Keeping it up" is more effective and more economically wise than trying to fix it up after a long period of neglect.

WE BUY AN AUTOMOBILE, and, if we do not know, we soon learn that its performance declines in just a short time unless we follow the recommended practices of "keeping it up." There is no other way to obtain satisfactory service, and to protect our investment.

"KEEPING UP" IS perhaps the most rewarding of all activities. This essential function is equally applicable to the tangible and the intangible. It applies to both people and things, the things we build and use. Many problems, some very difficult ones, develop just because of failure to keep up. It may be the neglected house, or automobile, or it may be neglected health; or the neglected mind; and RIGHT NOW, it seems to be our 'neglected' country.

LOSS IS INEVITABLE when-loss of beauty; loss of health; or the loss of personal effectiveness; or some other loss, even the loss of our country. We cannot afford such losses.

The real tragedy is in the fact that all of it could have been prevented; it can be prevented. RESOURCES, MATERIAL AND HUMAN, are vital to our personal and collective well-

All of us know what waste and misuse of our resources is doing to us. It may be impossible to 'keep up' some of these resources (Not if stopped our wastefulness); but must that is essential to supply our needs can be replaced as it is used, and other supplies can be conserved. We are thankful for the growing regard for CONSERVATION and WISE

USAGE.

WE MUST KEEP UP such resources as our forests, our water supplies, our land productiveness, and everything else that can be "kept up." It is astrounding that so much of what we need is lost through unnecessary deterioration, neglect, waste, abuse and carelessness. All of this can and must be stopped. It is even more important that we "keep up" all phases of human resources.

"KEEPING UP" is a philosophy that must be embraced by more and more people. It must be applied in each personal life experience. and it must be made prominent in every facet of our social order.

WE WILL NOT RECEIVE MORE; but we can "keep up" what we have, and not leave this important work to politicians and other hirelings.

Obituaries

Jennie Ethel Clark, 90, died this morning in her home, 836 West Park Ave. after a lengthy illness.

BIG AND LITTLE PEOPLE

What comes to your mind when someone says "He is a big man." or "She is such a little person?" The concept of big or little may refer to size. Sometimes people use the concept to refer to a person's age. Today let's consider the concept as to a person's inner qualities.

A person who is small in stature may be big in heart. Conversely, someone who is big physically may be very small or miserly in spirit. Let's look at a few examples of what I am referring to.

First let's consider some examples of small people:

-- Someone who lets his children roam the neighborhood, but reports a neighbor's harmless dog who gets out in spite of all efforts to keep him

-- Someone who reports a neighbor child's riding of a moped, which is virtually noiseless.

-- Someone who "bad mouths" another, but only behind his back.

-- A worker who agrees to work with a group on some project but sabotages all efforts to make the project workable.

-- A person who is very friendly sometimes, but at other times does not even recognize your existence. So much for the negative, now let's recognize some really big a struggling college student's tuition, anonymously. -A very kind person who cleans someone's house because the owner is extremely busy or unable to do so. -- Someone who shares his family for special occasions, and even ordinary occasions, with someone who has no family. -- Someone who obtains blood insurance, by donating blood, for someone who is physically unable to give blood. -- Someone who takes young children for the day, to give their mother a welcomed break. -- Someone who stops when you run out of gas. He not only takes you to a station, but puts the gas in, starts your car, and follows you back to the station to fill the tank for you.

When I really get to thinking about it, there are many more "big" people than "little" people. Isn't this a comforting thought? Wouldn't it be a distressing world if the big people were only those who were big in stature. This week, let's work on recognizing the "big" people and leave the "little" people to their own people to their own pettiness. You will find also, that the Big far outnumber and outweigh, in value, the Little.

FBI Charges Man With Conspiring

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a self-employed stereo dealer and charged him with conspiring to steal a highly classified Air Force radar jamming device for use in smuggling gold and artifacts out of Mexico.

The FBI charged Roy Pozos, 28, with conspiracy to steal an electronic countermeasures pod (ECM) valued at $250,000 and the classified operating manuals that go with it.

Pozos was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Phil Sanders and jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond at the federal holding facility in the Williamson County jail in Georgetown.

In an affidavit that accompanied the complaint, FBI agent Michael Burns said the FBI was tipped about the alleged plot by Kirk Alan Jamison, manager of the Colony North and French Place Apartments in Austin.

Jamison, who reportedly left town two weeks ago, said he was approached June 21 by an apartment employee who arranged a meeting with Pozos.

He said the employee suggested that as an Air Force veteran with contacts at nearby Bergstrom Air Force Base he might be able to help Pozos. The three met at a restaurant on Interstate 35 in North Austin. Burns said in his affidavit, and "Pozos explained that he had a friend who had a DC-3 airplane that Texas encourage the im-

Testimony Reveals Buy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - An El Paso man says he flew to Colombia for Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra, connected for 13.2 pounds of high quality cocaine and put his life on the line as collateral so Chagra could receive the dope on credit. Henry Wallace testified Wednesday under an immunity from prosecution. Cross-examination by Chagra's attorneys was expected today.

Chagra, 34, is charged with being the kingpin of a conspiracy to smuggle marijuana and cocaine into the United States from Colombia.

He could receive 10 years to life imprisonment if convicted of a "continuing criminal enterprise" count, plus a $100,000 fine and confiscation of any profits he made from the illicit drug trade.

Wallace said he not only helped Chagra smuggle cocaine but also arranged to have 30,000 of marijuana - later tons seized off the Florida coast by federal authorities - shipped

"My first words to Mr. Chagra were, 'Are you the boss? Are you Mr. Chagra?' " Wallace said.

"What did he reply?" asked Assistant U.S. Attorney Carl Pierce of San Antonio. "Yes," Wallace said.

Some weeks later, he said, Chagra came to Wallace's home in Berino, N.M., and "asked my help with a plan he had ... to import six kilos of cocaine from Colombia." A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

He said Chagra told him he needed the money to pay income taxes. He said Chagra was having trouble with the Internal Revenue Service and was 'afraid of being indicted."

Wallace said he rounded up 'capital' and an airplane for the venture, then found that Chagra wanted him to go to Colombia to make the connection for the drug. He said he flew to Colombia in October 1977.

"Did you actually obtain the cocaine?" Pierce asked.

'Yes, ... from Raul Royce. with Leonel Gomez Cardenas acting as intermediary," Wallace replied: Royce, he testified, told him Chagra had been "his American connection for several

He said the purchase price of the cocaine originally was thought to be $60,000 but turned out to be $180,000 for the six kilos.

"What did they say would happen to the collateral if the debt was not paid?" Pierce

"I would be killed. It wasn't specifically said I would be killed. I would never return to the United States is what they said," answered Wallace, a stocky man with horn-rimmed glasses and a mustache.

He said Chagra and a pilot tried to fly to Colombia about Oct. 21, 1977, but had to make a forced landing in the Bahamas because of engine trouble.

Chagra finally arrived at a dirt air strip on Nov. 1, Wallace testified.

"I gave him six kilos of cocaine, six packages wrapped with tape," Wallace said.

Meanwhile, he said, he and Chagra had decided to invest the profits from the cocaine in a shipload of marijuana. Wallace said he arranged to have 30,000 pounds of marijuana loaded on the "Dona Petra" about Dec. 23, 1977, under a captain sent to Colombia by Chagra.

He said Chagra talked with the Colombians by phone to persuade them to let him have the $2.4 million worth of marijuana on credit.

They "knew of his reputation for paying in Colombia" and agreed to the transaction, with an $80,000 down payment, sent by courier. Wallace said.

'What did he expect to sell it for?" Pierce asked.

"Two hundred fifty dollars per pound in 1,000-pound lots," Wallace said, or a total of about $7.5 million.

Despite his continuing role as collateral in the cocaine deal, Wallace said, he was allowed to leave Colombia after the "Dona Petra" embarked for the Florida

He said Royce went with him to Florida, talked with Chagra and satisfied himself the money for the cocaine was forthcom-

Chagra, he said, was offloading two other ships with marijuana.

When the "Dona Petra" arrived, he said. Chagra told the crew it would be off-loaded in a couple of days, but by then federal authorities had confiscated the ship "on New Year's Eve." Wallace said he later flew to Colombia again for Chagra, taking Royce $130,000 for the original cocaine purchase and receiving another three kilos on credit. He said he left behind radio and navigational equipment and a sea captain named "Harry the Hat" for a future marijuana shipment.

He said he gave the three kilos of cocaine to Chagra.

Wallace said he and Chagra had no dealings after March 1978 when "he broke off communications with me.'

By then, he said, he had been arrested in New Orleans for cocaine possession and had agreed to cooperate with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration. After another cocaine arrest last year in Denver, he began cooperating fully with federal authorities, Wallace said.

He said federal authorities promised he would not be prosecuted as a result of his selfincrimination in the Chagra trial. He also said they promised to inform state authorities in Louisiana and Colorado of his cooperation.

Chagra originally was to have been tried before U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., but Wood was assassinated in San Antonio on May 29, and federal Judge William Sessions of El Paso took the case.

Uranium Tax Urged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - An energy advisory committee has recommended that the Legislature levy a uranium production tax, which the committee estimates could bring in at last $200 million during the 1980s.

The committee also offered recommendations on the emotional issue of the storage of nuclear waste, some of which remains potentially dangerous for thousands of years.

The Advisory Committee on Nuclear Energy of the Texas Energy Advisory Council said Thursday the Office of Nuclear Waste Isolation in Columbus, Ohio, has narrowed from 263 to eight the salt domes it is considering for underground nuclear storage in the interior Gulf

The eight include the Keechi, Palestine and Oakwood domes in East Texas. The committee said salt formations in the Permian Basin near Amarillo also are under study.

The committee recommended that this friend wished to fly to plementation of one or more

If a tax equal to 5 percent of the sales price of uranium were levied, the committee said, the state could expect $12 million in revenue in 1980 and at least $200 million during the 1980s.

The tax would cost the average nuclear fuel ratepayer less than 5 cents a month, the committee estimated.

The committee said 1.9 million pounds of uranium were produced in Texas in 1977, primarily south and southeast of San Antonio, but production is expected to increase to six million pounds by next year.

The committee noted that a severance tax of about 7.5 percent of the wellhead price is imposed on natural gas production in Texas and a 4.6 percent tax is imposed on oil production.

The first hearing is scheduled for Sept. 7 in Lubbock, followed by hearings on Sept. 8 in Austin, Sept. 10 in Houston and Sept. 11 in Dallas

The committee also recommended that:

-The state health department require prior notice of shipments of radioactive materials, establish preferred routes and develop a transportation surveillance program.

-The state develop an emergency plan to deal with nuclear accidents, with the Department of Public Safety in charge. -The Legislature enact a law to allow the state health department to continue to license and regulate the uranium mining and milling industry in Texas.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - It was in rare day off for Thurman Munson, one of those special, private times he could spend with his family in the midst of a long and exhausting baseball season.

So the New York Yankee star came back to Ohio to see his wife and three children and to spend a relaxing afternoon Thursday flying his private jet.

Then it happened, the plane plunging into the ground. flames lighting up the airfield - and Munson dead.

"I saw an aircraft totally involved in flames," said Jeff Kashburn, a sheriff's deputy who rushed to the scene at the Canton-Akron airport. "I tried, but couldn't come closer than 30 feet because of the intensity of the flames. The body was burned beyond recognition."

Officials said the 32-year-old Yankee captain and team leader was killed at 4:02 p.m. EDT while practicing take-offs and landings in his Cessna Citation, a twin-engine jet.

Two other men aboard the plane, David Hall, 32, and Jerry D. Anderson, 31, were injured, but neither was seriously hurt.

A spokesman at Children's Hospital in Akron said Hall, Munson's flight instructor from Canton, was in fair condition with burns on his hands. Anderson, of Canton, a close friend of the 11-year Yankee catcher, was and crashed about 1,000 feet commissioner's office. "I studied for my pilot's license and received it during the winter." Munson went on in "Thurman Munson: An Autobigraphy." "Now ... it's possible for me to fly from New York to Canton and I frequently go home even during home stands."

But if Munson displayed gentility and genuine compassion as a family man, this was not his generally accepted image in the press. Munson was a tough, hard-nosed player often given to fighting moods.

Even he once admitted during his stormy, if successful, career with the Yankees:

"I'm a little too belligerent. I cuss and swear at people. I yell at umpires and maybe I'm a little too tough at home sometimes. I don't sign as many autographs as I should and haven't always been very good with the writers."

Replacement For "Too Tall" Tough

By TOM HARRIGAN AP Sports Writer

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Replacing "Too Tall" as a Dallas Cowboys' defensive end has been proving too much for an assortment of smaller understudies.

Coach Tom Landry acknowledged the problem Thursday but stressed that the Cowboys have plenty of time to work on filling the massive shoes of 6-

David Sims then carried the ball twice for eight vards and the Seahawks on the Viking 4 with a first down. Smith picked up one yard and Zorn appeared to have won the game with a three-vard touchdown pass to tight end Marcus Hatley, but Hatley was ruled to have caught the pass out of bounds.

On a third-and-three situation, Sims was tackled for a one-yard loss, and Herrera, the Seahawks' placekicker, who was acquired in a trade with Dallas prior to the start of the 1978 season, came onto the field to the cheers of an enthusiastic crowd of 60,881.

Although it was an exhibition game, the avid Kingdome crowd warmly greeted Herrera and Zorn when they came onto the field in the overtime. Zorn led the American Football Conference in passing last season, as the Seahawks established themselves with a 9-7 record in their foot-9, 270-pound Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who announced recently he is retiring at the age of 28 to become a professional boxer.

"We are not really solid there right now," Landry said of the left side of the National Football League team's defensive line, where tackle Jethro Pugh also has retired after 15 solid years.

"Larry Bethea (ill with tonsilitis) was able to practice only once this week," Landry said of the second-year 254-pounder from Michigan State who has been penciled in as Jones' replacement.

Bethea had trouble handling the position last Saturday in the Cowboys' opening preseason game, a 20-13 loss to Oakland. Bethea and rookie candidates Bruce Thornton (Illinois), Curtis Anderson (Central Ohio) and Ralph DeLoach (California) are being tried at left defensive

"We hope somebody will emerge," Landry said, adding that if such is not the case, 12vear veteran Larry Cole has played a lot of defensive end and would take over.

The Cowboys return home from training camp to play the Denver Broncos Saturday night at Texas Stadium. Landry noted that because of the Hall of Fame. Game last week at Canton, Ohio, the Cowboys received a week's head start on all of their regular season opponents.

The Cowboys have had 13 consecutive winning seasons under Landry, beginning his 20th year as the only head coach the team has ever had. Dallas has been to the Super Bowl a record five times, the last three years in succession.

Asked how long he planned to continue coaching, a mockserious Landry said: "I don't know. Maybe this is my last year. I'll quit whenever I get tired of it. But I still enjoy it." Cowboys' General Manager

Tex Schramm said Landry is in the second year of a five-year contract. Noting Landry's firstever talk of possible retirement, Schramm said, "Just like everybody else, Tom's a little tired after the two-a-day (practices) grind of the training camp. He'll coach for us until he lacks that enthusiasm to continue.'

The Cowboys showed their ultimate confidence in Landry his fourth losing season in 1963. When the team began that year with a 1-6 record, Schramm and team owner Clint Murchison, Jr., gave the coach a 10-year

On the more pressing problem of Jones' retirement to enter pro boxing, Schramm said he doesn't think the player will change his mind.

"But our door is always open to him," Schramm said. "He told us in confidence about his decision before this year's college draft. He wanted us to know if it affected our draft. If boxing doesn't work out we'd love to have him back."

One of the dangers of such a program is substituting artificial nutrition.

you're taking one potassium that one good orange will give you around 300 milli-

I'm not even sure that you're getting a completely balanced diet inasmuch as I don't know what you eat for your evening meal, but not eating either breakfast or lunch must mean that you

Pills vs. food

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate your comments on my use of 23 capsules and tablets of assorted vitamins and minerals. I'm attaching a list. I'm in my 60s and have taken these pills for over three years. My health is perfect and I feel great. My nails, skin and hair are in better condition than they've been in years. The pills assist in keeping my weight normal as I consume them in place of eating meals. I eat one meal a day and substitute the pills for breakfast and lunch. They satisfy my appetite and cause no elimination and stomach problems.

Now one of my friends is a great admirer of yours and he's always warning me about this practice. Once during a heated discussion he revealed the supremacy in which he holds you by saying, "If Dr. Lamb knew what you were doing, he would roll over in his grave." We both laughed when we realized how far from reality we had strayed, but would you be kind enough to tell us what you really think?

DEAR READER - It's always dangerous to get in the middle of a heated discussion. I'm willing to go a long way to help my readers, but not to the extent of
