

County Passes Bond Resolution for Plant

Thermonetics Planning Facility

Graphic Aftermath

The graveled parking lot of the Community Center is shown here, littered with beer bottles and broken glass following a Saturday night of traffic on "The Drag." Parking lots lining the drag route are prime spots for teenagers and young adults to gather at night. This situation has met with mixed reactions from property owners who must clean-up their premises "on the morning after." This is the second part of a series on the drag and its impact on the community. [Brand photo by Denise Smith]

Deaf Smith County commissioners Monday cleared the way for a company which produces methane gas, livestock feed and fertilizer from cattle manure to construct a $6 million facility employing approximately 50 persons near Hereford.

Commissioners passed a resolution in Monday's regular semi-monthly meeting which approves the issuance of tax-exempt solid waste disposal system revenue bonds to be used by Thermonetics Inc. of Oklahoma City for financing the project.

Thermonetics for the past two years has been making plans to move to cattle-rich Deaf Smith county but production in bringing the Guymon, Okla., plant to capacity have thwarted the move. The company, in its initial plans to construct near Hereford, had stated it would build two plants instead of the single $6 million facility.

Monday's resolution allowed Thermonetics to proceed with engineering and design plans for the Hereford facility, which will be one of the largest industries in the local area.

Hereford attorney John Aikin, employed at short notice by commissioners Monday at the expense of Thermonetics requested a 60-day delay in passage of the resolution to ensure that the county was under no liability, but Thermonetics marketing director Ron James said a stall might thwart plans to move to the Texas Panhandle.

"The problem the company has is we cannot begin design and engineering of the plant for two or three months. If we waited 60 days, we couldn't even begin until at least December," James said.

"Besides that, our contracts with the feedlots expire Feb. 1," he added.

"I understand that the commissioners have to be assured they aren't putting any liability on the county, but I haven't heard anything so far that would put a liability on the county."

Aikin, hired in the absence of Deaf Smith County District Atty. Roland Saul, said a letter drawn up by Thermonetics' bond attorney Ray Hutchison of Dallas on Deaf Smith County stationery and addressed to county president James M. Samis should state that bond issuance is subject to the approval of commissioners.

Aikin also requested a letter from Thermonetics should make official what James had told commissioners in a

The Drag—Trail of Trash?

Businessmen's Outlook Good Despite Young People's Litter

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second story in a three-part series studying the teenage "drag" and its impact on the community. This segment is concerned with the predicament of property owners along the drag route, who must contend with littering and, at times, vandalism.

Written by
KERRIE STEIERT
Researched by DENISE SMITH

The majority of business owners who have property lining "the drag" have resigned themselves to the philosophy that "kids will be kids" and a few local merchants go so far as to say they are pleased to have teenagers on the premises.

However, none of the property owners involved is enthused about the discarded beer bottles and other trash which accumulates on their parking lots while the teenagers are grouped there. The littering is most prevalent on the parking lots of the Community Center, Radio Shack/One Hour Martiniizing, Gebo's and Montgomery Wards.

The employees of Montgomery Ward spend approximately half an hour collecting trash from their parking lot after the drag's heavy weekend traffic. "The teenagers do leave a mess on the parking lot with their broken bottles and such, but they keep burglars away," according to Dan Hanley, manager of the local Wards outlet. He added, "They (the youths) have nothing else to do, no recreation, so they ride the drag. Perhaps a recreation center would help keep them out of trouble."

Ruben Gutierrez, owner-operator of Gutierrez Fina Station on 25 Mile Ave. is particularly aware of the expensive waste of gasoline by teenagers and young adults on the drag. "With gas priced at 85.9 for regular, I think they are wasting gas."

he said. Gutierrez has fielded complaints from customers who are upset by the broken glass left in the teenagers' wake. "I try to pick them up every morning, but sometimes I get too busy," Gutierrez posted "No Parking" signs on his property but teenagers reportedly ran over them.

Norman Kerr, owner of The Radio Shack, stated that he is "glad to have the teenagers on the property," surmising that "99 percent of them are great kids." He termed the littering problem as "serious," saying that only half of the youths throw their trash in the dumpster behind the building.

Kerr doubts that the provision of more recreation facilities in Hereford would reduce the drag's popularity. "Even if we did have more activities here, teenagers would still ride the drag. It's a natural thing to do—riding the drag."

Kerr said that he has no problems in dealing with the youths who park on his property. "Only one percent cause the problems of broken glass and windows. If the teenagers are caught doing damage to the property or littering, they should be made to pick up the mess, sweep the streets or pay for the damage. It's a coopeable problem," he concluded.

One business manager, who asked not to be identified, stated that he had little problem with the teenagers and did not mind their presence as long as they kept the property clean. This sentiment was echoed by other merchants.

However, the drag's negative aspects partially influenced one business owner in moving her firm to another location away from the teenager's beaten path. (This merchant also wished to remain anonymous.) "I saw the sale of marijuana three times on my property and had to call the police several times to break up fights."

This businesswoman incurred $1,400 in damages to her

Commission Selects Coleman For Appraisal District Board

Deaf Smith County commissioners appointed Bruce Coleman as the county's representative on the county Tax Appraisal District board during a lengthy regular meeting Monday.

Coleman, who is commissioner of Precinct 3, actually was only being nominated for the position. An election called by various political subdivisions in the county will be conducted at 2 p.m. next Monday in the Hereford Independent School District board room to determine members of the board.

Representatives of the entities agreed in a recent meeting that the board should be balanced, with one member from each of the subdivisions. The Hereford and Walcott school districts, Deaf Smith County, City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County Hospital District all will be represented on the board following the election.

The single tax-appraisal district is part of Senate Bill 621 which passed the State Legislature and a requirement of the Tax Relief Amendment passed last November by Texas voters.

In other business during Monday's day-long meeting, the commission accepted bids on repairs to the Bull Barn and museum roofs, purchased radars for the Texas Department of Public Safety, discussed payment on a pauper's burial plot and examined an engineer's report on moving the county law library to the fourth floor of the courthouse.

Commissioners also were read a letter from County Home Economist Joyce Shipp by County Judge Glen Nelson. Mrs. Shipp, whose resignation was accepted by the commission two weeks ago because her family is moving to Tyler, said in her latest letter that she might not be named to the home economist post of Smith County and therefore may not be moving to Tyler.

The letter said she would know her position by next Monday. Mrs. Shipp and a black woman, whose employment is being pursued by a black member of the Smith County Commission, are candidates for the Tyler position, according to commissioners.

Commissioners accepted bids for repairs to the leaky Bull Barn and museum roofs but tabled action on repairing the roof at the library until a controversy over the existing guarantee

Walcott ISD Approves '79-80 Budget

Members of the Walcott school board met Monday night and adopted the budget for the 1978-79 academic year, as well as electing a representative to the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District board.

Estimated total expenditures of $232,697 were approved by trustees as they reviewed the budget for the academic year.

In a budget-related action, board members voted to participate in the national school lunch program, and approved the income eligibility scale for the program.

Dan Hall was elected to serve as the Walcott representative to the Deaf Smith Tax Appraisal District board.

Board members voted to award a depository contract for school banking to the First National Bank of Hereford after reviewing bids submitted by that firm, in addition to Friona State Bank and First State Bank of Dimmitt.

Among bills paid was $4,028 for tuition for students from grades 9-12 who come into the Hereford school system from Walcott.

Trustees reviewed a copy of a letter from the Texas Education Agency indicating that the Walcott school has been given full accreditation status.

Following routine reports, board members took a tour of the campus and school building for inspection of renovations and improvements, including remodeling of the administrative offices.

Government Watching Over Food Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chief inflation adviser says he hopes the food industry will "look again" to make sure it is giving consumers a fair shake on food prices now that it knows the government is looking over its shoulders.

Alfred Kahn made the statement after Carter summoned 16 food industry representatives, including top executives of major supermarket chains, to the White House Monday to demonstrate his concern over rising retail prices.

Carter told the group he was "particularly disturbed" that supermarket prices have been going up when farm prices have been coming down. "We are very concerned about this trend," he emphasized during the meeting, which lasted more than an hour.

But a supermarket spokesman, Robert O. Aders of the Food Marketing Institute, said Carter was told he had been given faulty data on food prices. Aders also said the food representatives stressed that they were not gouging the consumer.

"I'm sure we convinced the president there has been no profiteering at all," Aders, who is president of the institute, told reporters after the meeting.

He didn't deny that retail prices might still be increasing while farm prices are declining.

Aders also said any real relief from rising food prices depends on controlling inflation, as the cost of food goes up along with everything else. "It all depends on the general inflation rate," he said.

Oil Patches Hit Padre Island

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Thick, gooey patches of oil from a runaway Mexican well have begun to wash ashore on sections of Padre Island, and scientists predicted more muck from the world's largest oil spill would hit the hard-packed sand today.

But authorities also said the oil does not appear to threaten the multi-million dollar tourist beaches and will be relatively easy to clean.

A 25-foot-square, six-inch-deep patch slid onto an uninhabited beach about 28 miles south of Port Aransas late Monday, the Coast Guard reported. The patch hit land approximately eight miles south of the nearest resort areas of North Padre Island, a region reachable only by a five-mile drive along the beach.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration computers predicted Monday night that coastal winds would step up this afternoon, driving more offshore patches onto the beaches just north of Baffin Bay, about 30 miles south of Corpus Christi.

Coast Guard cleanup crews were dispatched to the messy beaches today.

"It will be pretty easy to clean up," said Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency. "The sand there is hard and the oil won't sink in as easily. The impact at this point is expected to be negligible."

NOAA scientists said numerous patches of sheen and mousse—a heavy, frothy layer of oil mixed with sea water—were hovering just off the coastline Monday night.

Some blobs were as close as one mile off Port Mansfield and a huge slick, 37 miles long and two miles wide, was spotted about 92 miles southeast of Corpus Christi, authorities said. That massive slick is about 30 percent mousse, scientists said.

Meacham also said "extremely light concentrations of oil particles have been detected by NOAA scientists in (environmentally sensitive) Laguna Madre." The impact at this point is still considered "negligible," Meacham said.

A new 6-inch mesh skirt will be attached to a boom set up across Port Mansfield Cut, a waterway leading into Laguna Madre. A similar skirt, designed to catch tar balls and oil slipping under the boom, was washed away by night tides.

Meacham also said scattered oil patches have washed aground on the Mexican shore south of Brownsville.

"It looks pretty bad down there," he said.

Rodeo Draws 252 Entries, 42 Parade Units

There will be 252 cowgirls, including some of the nation's best, competing in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo Thursday through Saturday at the Riders Club Arena, rodeo chairman Jim Tucker announced Monday.

Monday was the entry deadline for the rodeo, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. each day.

"It won't be the biggest rodeo—we had 400 or so entries in our first one—but it will be bigger than last year and a lot better," Tucker said.

Several top-10-ranked cowgirls will participate in events which include bareback-bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, goat tying, team roping, barrel racing and steer unloading.

Advance tickets for the rodeo remain on sale at the cowgirl hall of fame on the lower floor of the library, both Hereford banks and Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office for $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Tickets also are available from any member of the Hereford Jaycees.

Tickets will be sold at the door each night for $4 and $2, respectively, Tucker said.

Among events surrounding rodeo weekend is a parade through downtown

Hereford beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Sugarland Mall parking lot. There were 42 parade entries as of 5 p.m. Monday, with the deadline for entering floats, marching units, antique cars or other units set for 5 p.m. Wednesday at the chamber office.

Speaker of the House Bill Clayton of Springlake, and State Senator Bob Price of Pampa, have agreed to appear in Saturday's parade.

Rodeo dances featuring Kenny Dale and Red Steagall will begin at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, respectively, at the Bull Barn. Tickets are on sale for the dances at the same locations which have advance rodeo tickets.

A barbecue is scheduled for 5 p.m. at the Bull Barn, and the public is invited. An "old fiddlers contest" will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday in Dameron Park and feature entrants in junior, senior and open divisions from throughout the state, according to contest chairman Glen Nelson.

Magazines covering this year's rodeo will be Texas Woman, Texas Monthly, Southern Living, World of Rodeo, Rodeo News and Horse and Horseman.

Dianne Pingree, publisher of Texas Woman, will serve as parade marshal.

Oil May Lessen Hurricane Chances

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Believe it or not, there might be a good side to those massive slicks of runaway Mexican crude oil threatening the Texas coast. The coating of oil, it seems, could lessen the chances of a deadly hurricane lashing the area, says a scientist battling the spill.

"There is some credibility to the opinion that the amount of oil out there will have some effect on either the development of a hurricane in the oil zone or the strength of a hurricane that might pass over the area," said John Robinson of the NCAA, who coordinates the government task force.

The world's largest oil spill, from a Mexican offshore well that blew out June 3, covers literally thousands of square miles in the Gulf of Mexico from a wellhead in the Gulf of Campeche more than 500 miles northward to Corpus Christi.

The well has been spewing more than 20,000 barrels of oil into the Gulf daily. Meanwhile, a Texas coast that hasn't had a serious hurricane in almost a decade is in the middle of the hurricane season.

Gabler Blasts

Health Book Topics

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Ninth-grade girls should learn about self-examination for breast cancer but a mixed health science class is not the place to teach it, says textbook reviewer Norma Gabler.

"I think the information is fantastic and I wish it was given a long time ago," Mrs. Gabler said Monday at the annual State Textbook Committee hearing.

"But what are we going to do about the boys in the class, excuse them? And what if the teacher is a man?" the Longview critic asked. "I think it would be embarrassing but the boys might find it exciting."

A girls' physical education class would be a better place to discuss the matter, she said.

Mrs. Gabler objected to suggested discussion subjects in "Health, Everyday of Life" by Scott, Foresman and Co.

The 18-year veteran critic started off the four-day hearings on 44 textbooks worth $6.8 million that are proposed for use in Texas high schools beginning 1980-1981.

The 15-member textbook committee of teachers and school administrators will recommend which books should be adopted in September. The State board of Education will make final selections in November.

Judge To Testify

In Davis Trial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A soft-spoken Texas judge will tell a jury today how he posed as a dead man in an FBI scenario that led to the arrest of millionaire Cullen Davis.

Prosecutors contend it was a snapshot of the "slain" judge that convinced Davis last summer to hand over $25,000 to friend-turned-informant David McCrory.

Minutes later, a small army of officers seized Davis and charged him with soliciting the murder of Joe Eidson.

Eidson, 61, then the judge presiding over the Davis divorce case, was the leadoff witness Monday in the murder-for-hire retrial of the Fort Worth industrialist.

Davis, 45, testified previously that he was never shown the snapshot of Eidson and that the $25,000 was money he had been holding for McCrory for "safekeeping."

The jury in the original trial could not reach a verdict, and a mistrial was declared.

Davis says he was framed by his ex-wife, Priscilla, 38, from whom he was divorced last spring after Eidson had removed himself from the case.

Prosecutors endeavored Monday to establish a motive for the judge's murder.

Clements, Mexican Governor Meet

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) - Texas Gov. Bill Clements and Gov. Enrique Cardenas Gonzalez of the adjoining Mexican state of Tamaulipas meet today to discuss mutual problems.

The two governors also were expected to discuss the Mexican oil spill that has affected the beaches and waters of both states.

Officially, the agenda called for talks on undocumented workers who cross the Rio grande to work in the United States, border drug traffic, oil and gas production, industrial development and exchange of agricultural products.

There was considerable ceremony on the schedule also, however.

Clements, accompanied by Mrs. Clements, was to place a wreath on the monument honoring the first governor of Tamaulipas, General Jose Bernardo Gutierrez de Lara. Then Clements will be officially received by Mayor Jorge Bladimir Joch, and tour a government housing project.

The two governors will speak to a session of the Tamaulipas congress, before their talks in the governor's palace.

Woman Injured

Mrs. Austin Rose, Harrison Highway, received minor injuries this morning when her pickup drove off an embankment on Farm to Market 2856 approximately five miles southwest of Hereford. Hereford volunteer firemen were called to the scene after receiving word that Mrs. Rose may have been trapped inside the vehicle. Mrs. Rose was hospitalized but a spokesperson at Deaf Smith General Hospital said she probably would be released today. [Brand photo by Paul Sims]

Deaths Estimated Up to 25,000

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Unofficial press estimates of the death toll in the Machu River dam disaster ranged from 10,000 to 25,000 today as more monsoon rains hampered relief efforts and the search for bodies.

The Hindustan Times said its estimate of 25,000 victims was based on the populations of Morvi and the nearby villages of Lilapur and Adepur, all hard hit when the swollen river flooded over one dam and broke through another one below it late Saturday in the northwestern state of Gujarat.

The United News of India said the toll could go as high as 10,000, and state officials said at least 1,000 drowned in and around Morvi.

The worst previous dam disaster on record occurred in 1962 at Belluno, Italy, where 2,300 died.

Flights bringing food and rescue workers were canceled Monday because of the weather. Buses were dispatched to Morvi with relief supplies and they were to evacuate survivors. But their progress was slowed by washed out roads.

Morvi is near the center of Gujarat state, about 300 miles northwest of Bombay. A city of 60,000 people, it was once the capital of a maharajah's realm and was a prosperous community on the banks of the Machu.

Saturday night, after more than 20 inches of rain in 24 hours, the flooded river burst an 80-foot-high earth dam four miles above the city. A wall of water 18 feet high crashed over the sleeping town, burying much of it in mud.

"I hastily collected my family and climbed to the roof. The water in no time had filled up to the ceiling level."

The flood waters ran off quickly, leaving thousands of shattered buildings and mud up to the second floor of some buildings.

Officers To Auction Off Items

Recovered and unclaimed articles in the possession of the Hereford Police Department are being offered for sale through a sealed-bid procedure, Detective Vernon Hope announced.

The items, which include bicycles, tires and wheels, tape recorders, skill saws, a paint sprayer and a set of file drawers, can be viewed at the police department between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. each day.

Offers will be accepted through sealed bids until Friday at 2 p.m. Each application should include the item number, name and address and price that is being offered.

Hope added that any bid, as long as it is reasonable will be considered. He said the proceeds will go to the city of Hereford into a general fund.

The items have been recovered as stolen property or have been found or picked up and turned into the police.

Paul Harvey News

You Can Run
But You Can't Hide

Now we're told the Three Mile Island mishap would have amounted to nothing at all had established emergency procedures been followed.

Before another such incident mobilizes the TV networks and gets blown up all out of proportion to its real significance, let's put the subject of radiation exposure in perspective.

Because overexposure to radiation can cause cancer, and because the effects are cumulative over a lifetime, every year or so medical scientists change their minds about "how much is too much."

The most recent government directive states that a radiation worker should be exposed to no more than 5,000 millirems of X-radiation per year.

Yet the media made much of early readings around Three Mile Island recording "radiation leakage which had polluted the atmosphere and adjacent cropland with three millirems of radioactivity."

You are exposed to more than that every day just from the pavement and concrete buildings to which you are inevitably exposed.

You can run but you can't hide. Natural radiation from the earth under your feet exposes each of us to an average 60 millirems every year.

Try to fly away from it and in an airplane you are bombarded by cosmic radiation amounting to more than half a millirem every hour.

The masonry and wallboard in your home "leaks" radiation, exposing you to another 40 millirems a year.

If you sunbathe you really get bombarded.

And yet you'll see nuclear power plants picketed by bareheaded, underdressed sun-tanned characters puffing on cigarettes.

Although the newest medical X-ray devices have minimized exposure to radiologists and their patients, you're still going to soak up and retain 20 millirems from the "fastest" medical or dental X-ray.

This is what President Carter meant when he advised Congress that generating the energy needed by our nation involves calculated risk; therefore, reasonable trade-offs are necessary.

From the most efficient and modern 1,000 MW coal generating plant the offsite population will be exposed to as much as 380 millirems a year. A nuclear power plant is presently limited by law to releasing no more than 10 millirems.

We accept more calculated risk in our daily use of electricity.

Indeed, where workers in industrial radiography are limited to 5,000 millirems exposure each year, anybody wearing a plutonium-powered pacemaker heartbeat regulator is exposing himself to more than that.

Happily.

Police Say Activity Remains Light

Hereford police followed an unusually-quiet weekend with an uneventful Monday, according to reports.

"It's been just real quiet," a police department spokesman said this morning.

Officers issued five traffic citations Monday, unlocked a woman's car at Sugarland Mall, investigated a barking-dog report and received a complaint about children shooting a BB gun.

firm's air conditioning system which she believes was caused by teenagers loitering on her property. After a police investigation, she was told that juvenile suspects were in hand. The businesswoman filed charges but was never informed of the results of the case.

Sgt. David Wheeler, a City Police officer, explained that the department will investigate all vandalism reports. If the suspect is a juvenile (17 years old or younger) it is not necessary for the property owner to file a complaint because this can be done by the police. If the suspect is above the age of 17, the property owner is responsible for filing charges. After a complaint is filed involving a minor, the case is referred to the juvenile authorities. It is the district attorney's decision whether to prosecute the case, based on recommendations from the juvenile board.

Sgt. Wheeler clarified the police department's role, saying, "The police only investigate the incident, makes its report and acts as a witness. After that, it's out of our hands."

If a property owner objects to trespassers, the law states that he (or she) must verbally ask the persons to leave the property or must have the premises posted, according to Sgt. Wheeler.

(In the concluding part of this series, The Brand will examine the responsibilities and views of the parents of teenagers concerning use and abuse of the drag.)

can be worked out. Mayfield Roofing Co. of Amarillo reportedly has stated that the guarantee only covers defects in workmanship and does not include stopping the leaks. Commissioners contacted a Hereford firm which contracted the roofing company to look into the matter.

The court accepted a $7,751 bid from Brownlow Brothers of Hereford to repair the Bull Barn roof and a $2,870 bid from Lydick's Roofing Co. of Amarillo for the museum roof.

Commissioners agreed to lease four radars from Decatur Electronics for local DPS troopers. The lease price on the radars is $533.18 a month, compared to the total purchase cost of $10,600.

The engineer's report on moving the law library from the commissioners courtroom to an area next to the district attorney's office on the fourth floor stated that he planned to place bags of cement weighing 200 pounds per square foot on the proposed floor for 48 hours to see if it would hold up under the weight.

Commissioners found the report humorous but agreed to pay the engineer $210 for his work.

In another light moment, commissioners turned down a request from an inmate in the county jail to have Home Box Office, a local all-movie channel, installed. The inmate complained of reruns which he said prisoners had to watch but did not enjoy.

Under state law, counties must finance the burials of persons deemed as "paupers" under an official definition. About two weeks ago, an elderly woman died, and her husband could not afford funeral expenses.

Commissioners, through the county welfare office, approved burial expenses to Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home, but withheld action on paying the cemetery for the burial plot until they receive more information on their actual obligation.

In additional business, the court: --purchased a backhoe for Precinct 1 from Case Power and Equipment of Hereford, the highest of three bidders, for $19,389, which includes trade-in.

--bought a trailer for $3,082 (which includes trade) from West Texas Equipment.

--reappointed 1978 voting precinct judges and alternates for 1980.

--tabled action on a proposed subdivision submitted by Sam Nunnally, the purchase of a new or used mowing tractor from Case Power and Equipment until James Voyles, commissioner of Precinct 4, has a chance to examine the used model submitted in a bid, hiring an Amarillo tax attorney's firm as legal advisor for the countywide Tax Appraisal District and the purchase of a postage meter from Pitney Bowes Co.

--allowed Continental Telephone Co. to cross a county road in Precinct 4 with a cable.

--raised payments to jurors to $6 for those who are called as prospective panel members and $10 for those who actually serve, in accordance with the $6 minimum compensation required by a new state law.

--and approved the monthly fire report. Commissioner J.F. Martin of Precinct 1 moved to purchase the Case backhoe because "it's a hometown company and it will be closed for repairs" and the West Texas Equipment trailer, which was nearly $3,000 more expensive than a Case model, because "it best fits our needs."

Resolution

special meeting two weeks ago and during Monday's meeting.

Hutchinson, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, last year, said there would be "no problem" with either request.

Aikin also asked that Thermometics be limited to a $6 million facility.

"Treasury Department regulations require the governing body of any political subdivision, if it approves the issuance of bonds, to go along with any amount needed to pay for construction of the facilities and equipment and for acquisition of land," Hutchinson told the court.

Aikin said the most important thing commissioners should require is an official letter from Thermometics "on what we've been told today and what we can rely on."

James, after meeting in a separate room with Aikin, Hutchinson and the latter's partner, Rayford Price of Dallas, signed a letter authorized by Samis in a telephone conversation. The letter stated that a resolution would be passed by commissioners only if:

indentures and all other documents...be submitted to your commissioners court and must be approved in form and substance prior to the use of any such documents."

"...current estimates received by us indicate that the costs and thus the bond issue will not exceed $6 million, but that this does not include any reserve for one year's servicing."

"...the county shall not be called upon to build more than one mile of road and that any costs incurred for access to said plant whether it be road building or other for more than one mile shall be added to the bond issue or paid by Thermometics Inc."

Commissioner Bruce Coleman, after reading the letter, said the only thing still preventing passage of the resolution is his knowledge about "the location of the project and road construction."

James said property taxes collected by the county on the facility would pay for a mile of road in two years.

Commissioners agreed with the statement, committed the county to building one mile of road at an estimated cost of $50,000, then passed the resolution.

The bonds, created by the County Solid Waste disposal Act, are designed to finance construction of industry which has a problem with pollution, such as the type associated with cattle manure. The bonds, which require no tax financing, will be purchased by private individuals who will be paid interest.

The bonds will be issued in the name of Deaf Smith County. They will be guaranteed by Dallas Cowboys owner Clint Murchison, who owns Thermometics.

James would not disclose where the company plans to construct the facility.

"All I can tell you is we will build in Hereford pending financing of the project," James told The Brand following the lengthy meeting with commissioners.

Thermometics has received nationwide facility for its process of converting cattle waste to valuable methane gas.

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce officials have told The Brand that the Hereford plant will primarily produce fertilizer and cattle feed.

Reigning Miss Texas To Relinquish Crown

[EDITOR'S NOTE: Miss Hereford Lynn Mitts is currently in El Paso for the 1980 Miss Texas-USA Pageant. Miss Mitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mitts, is sponsored in the state competition by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.]

"The Eyes of Texas" were watching as Miss Texas USA 1979, Anne Hinnant, represented the Lone Star State in the recent Miss USA Pageant held in Biloxi, Mississippi. The striking native of Houston, who stands 5-feet-9 and weighs 128 lbs., was selected to the Top Twelve Finalists during the national televised extravaganza. Anne will relinquish her crown this month to one of 90 young women from across the state who are now gathering in El Paso for the 1980 Miss Texas USA Pageant. The pageant, which will be televised live statewide on August 20, will celebrate its fifth anniversary in association with the Miss USA/Universe Corporation.

Miss Hinnant said, "I feel like I'm just getting started even though I was crowned in August. I never expected to be doing this, having not previously participated in any types of beauty pageants. I have had so many new experiences and it's been good to meet some of the many people of Texas. Being Miss Texas has presented countless opportunities to me for the future. I'm ready for anything now!"

The 19-year-old beauty is a junior student at Trinity University in San Antonio. Had she not been named Miss Texas, her immediate plans were to further her studies in the field of geology and business and to embark on a land surveying career. Since winning the title, career interests have blossomed, with different ideas and plans.

"Schooling has always been very important to me and I do want to finish my work and get my college degree. However, for the future—who knows? I'm not sure but I know there's a lot to do out there and I think I want to go and try some different things."

Anne, who represented Harris County in the state pageant, was the second young woman from the Houston area to win the contest since its beginning in 1975. Crowned by the reigning Miss Universe, Margaret Gardiner, before a standing capacity crowd in addition to an estimated four million live television audience, Miss Texas received her official flowers, banner and trophy from such special guests as Miss USA 1978, Judi Andersen; Miss Texas 1978, Barbra Horan and from Houston, Miss Texas and Miss USA of 1977, Kim Tomes.

Her ambition—"I consider happiness as my true life ambition. To have a successful career without happiness within myself would mean an incomplete life to me. I want to be able to relate to others by sharing my thoughts and emotions with them. Being Miss Texas has given me an excellent chance to do just that."

4-H Firsthand

4-H AIMED AT EDUCATION
By AGNES TAYLOR
Assistant County
Extension Agent

The purpose of 4-H, as a youth development program, is to educate young people.

4-H is a program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19 and is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

4-H can help youth develop intelligent behavior by providing them information or knowledge, a positive self-concept, and an awareness of their social setting.

Without information or knowledge, a young person has no basis on which to act. Just a list of rules and facts will not satisfy personal or social needs. Instead, an effective youth program focuses on relevant knowledge and the development of a knowledge-getting process. When a 4-H'er identifies what 4-H project he wants to do and how he wants to do it, he is learning how to learn.

Along with information and a knowledge-getting process, a young person must feel that he or she is capable of solving a problem. When he does feel able or capable, he has developed a positive self-concept. In contrast, when a youth has a negative self-concept, or feels inadequate, he will not act even if he has the necessary knowledge to solve the problem confronting him.

In any youth program, the interaction of a young person with an adult leader and other youth allows opportunities for praise, encouragement and rewards. This kind of feedback can strongly influence the way a youth thinks about himself.

Living in a social setting also lends to the development of intelligent behavior. A youth's behavior is motivated by his needs. For a newborn, physical needs such as food and comfort are a main concern. But the older the youth, the more his behavior will be motivated by acceptance from his peers.

As a youth learns through trial and error the kind of behavior that is expected of him, he also learns the acceptable values, beliefs and goals of society.

Through individual projects, group activities and adult volunteer leadership, the 4-H program attempts to help boys and girls acquire skills that will lead to self-directed and lifelong learning.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Ann Landers

Depressed People

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you published a letter from a woman who suffered from depression. Her signature was, "Getting Well in Indiana."

The letter contained some do's and don'ts for people who must live with a depressed person. But how does the friends of such a person hang on to his or her sanity?

I tried to be supportive to a depressed neighbor and it was hell. The woman was on tranquilizers, sleeping pills, anti-depressants and booze. She was seeing a psychiatrist twice a week.

In the meantime, I had problems of my own. My depressed neighbor phoned me all hours of the day and night and talked endlessly. She never wanted any advice. She only needed someone on the other end to listen to her yell, "The world is rotten! There is no God! Everybody is treating me like a dog."

I'm a good-hearted person, Ann, but I'm no saint. After a solid year of listening to her rant and rave, I realized I had to extricate myself from the relationship for the sake of my own mental health.

This woman has not spoken to me for three months, and I'm sure I have added to her misery because she can now say one more person has "let her down." -- Drained Dry

DEAR DRY: Don't be guilt-tripped by a depressed person's hostility. Survival is the name of the game, honey. When your own mental health is threatened, it's OK to say, "Sorry, I can't take it anymore."

Proceeds of the sale will go to the newly-formed Deaf Smith County 4-H Council, to be made up of representatives from each 4-H chapter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I never dreamed I would ever end up writing to Ann Landers, but to be perfectly honest, I don't know where else to turn. My problem is one which I'm sure is shared by a great many older people who are living on a fixed income, as I am.

I have 21 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. Nearly every week one of my grandchildren or great-grandchildren has a birthday. This, in addition to Christmas, means an outlay of money I simply don't have.

When I was growing up, a dollar in a greeting card meant something -- but no more. Also, I cannot give to one and not the other, even though I see the in-town youngsters more frequently and feel closer to them. Do you see a solution? -- Flattened By Inflation But Hate To Give Up

DEAR FLATTENED: Most grannies can bake. A tin of homemade cookies is always a much-appreciated gift. And it's something only you can give.

Look in your cookbook for other ideas. Caramel apples or a few fancy cupcakes or a gelatin mold for the in-town youngsters would be most welcome. If you use your imagination, you don't need to spend much money, dear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a traveling man and is on the road more than half the time. When he's home he is too tired to discipline our four children -- so the job is mine and I do a pretty good job of it.

When Phil tells the kids to do something, they ask me if they "have to." Phil says they don't respect him, and I'm heartsick. Ann, what can I do about it? -- Royal Oak

DEAR R.O.: Insist that the children do as their father says. They own him obedience. But if he wants their respect, he's going to have to earn it -- one day at a time.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression.

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse.

Whereupon the father thought,

"Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Hogs Talent Good But Not Tested

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series on 1979 football prospects for Southwest Conference football teams. Next: Texas.

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz, who cracked up Johnny Carson with his one-liners, is at a loss for words and his Razorbacks are to blame.

"It's more difficult to talk about this team than any team I've been around," he said. "When I talk about individual athletes I can get more positive, but anything you say about the team would be conjecture," he said. "We have ability, native ability, but we haven't seen them through adversity, the pressures, how they react to all the intrusions that occur during the course of the season."

"The only thing I can really evaluate is the overall attitude of the team and it's a very good attitude," he said.

Offensively, the Razorbacks are missing quarterback Ron Calcagni and running backs Ben Cowins, Jerry Eckwood and Micheal Forrest.

Defensively, they are without six players who started three years and another two-year starter.

"The defense will be one that gets better as the season goes along," he said.

"You only make steel by putting it through fire and they haven't been through fire. Individually, they have confidence in themselves but they haven't been through what they need to develop confidence in the guy next to them."

"Like last year, Jimmy Walker had complete confidence in Dan Hampton and Hampton in Dale White. All three had confidence in Larry Jackson and William Hampton at linebacker. The offensive line had confidence in the backs."

Offensively, Holtz says he has high hopes.

"We're going to be extremely exciting," he says. "But I'm worried about the consistency. When you have young, inexperienced football players they are going to make some great plays, but they are also going to make some bad ones."

"The big strength of our defensive football team is that we have people who can run," he says. "The problem is inexperience."

Holtz says Mike Massey "is probably as talented a line-backer as any in the country," but that he may be missing the savvy of Jackson and W. Hampton.

D. Hampton and Walker manned the defensive tackles for the past three years and Holtz says their successors —

Jim Elliott and Danny Phillips — are about where Hampton and Walker were two years ago.

For the second year in a row, the secondary may be the biggest problem.

"I felt our defense was better last year than the year before except for the secondary," Holtz said. "Consequently, we gave up more points than we did the preceding year. Our secondary is probably the biggest single key on our football team."

Kevin Evans and Hugh Jernigan have ability if they can stay healthy. Randy Wessinger will probably start at one cornerback unless he is needed at quarterback. Freshmen may be No. 2 at several spots.

McWhorter in first. Karl Mannschreck and Judy Mitts in second and Keith Hansen and Carol Zinser in consolation.

Houston Streaks To 4-1 Win Over Expos

HOUSTON (AP) — It's the second half of the season, and Houston righthander J.R. Richard seems unbeatable, something he wasn't before the All Star break.

"He's come on like this in the second half the last four years," said Astros Manager Bill Virdon. "He always struggles some during the first half of the season, then finishes strong."

The description could have fit Monday's game between the Astros and the Montreal Expos, who threatened to break the game open early only to see their offense fizzle as the Astros took a 4-1 victory.

After winning four in a row at the beginning of the season, Richard went into a slump that left him with a record of 7-11 at its midpoint.

Since then he has been untouchable, just as he was Monday when he won his fifth straight with a complete game in which he struck out seven Expos to up his major league-leading total to 216 and set down 19 Montreal batters in a row following a double hit off his first pitch by Warren Cromartie.

"He's what you call a stopper," Montreal Manager Dick Williams said of Richard. "If you don't get to him early, you usually don't get to him. We had our chance and didn't do anything with it."

"He had a good fastball, a hard slider and a super curve, and he didn't walk a man all night," Williams continued. "He's a guy they think they've got a good chance to win with every time he goes out."

Astros rightfielder Jeff Leonard put on an offensive show Monday, running his hitting streak to nine games with a three-for-three night that included two singles, a double and an RBI. Centerfielder Terry Puhl added three singles and an RBI to the Houston onslaught.

Singles by Puhl and Leonard plus a double off the wall in centerfield by Art Howe in the fourth inning gave Houston its first two runs. They came right back with two more in the fifth. Rafael Landestoy walked, moved to second on a bunt by Craig Reynolds and took third on a throwing error to first by Expos pitcher Steve Rogers. 10-7. Puhl singled Landestoy home, and Reynolds scored moments later on a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz.

In the ninth inning, Cromartie singled, stole second, and came home on a two-out hit by Andre Dawson. But Richard ended the rally by striking out Tony Perez.

The loss dropped second-place Montreal 2½ games behind Pittsburgh in the National League East as the Pirates beat Philadelphia 9-1 Monday.

Goforth Wins Ladies' City Open

Pat Goforth won the first ever Hereford Ladies Golf Championship with a 72 and sudden death playoff win against Kay Redwine last Saturday. Mike Horton announced.

Ms. Goforth, with a handicap of 40, beat eight other golfers for the title. First prize in the 18 hole tournament was a $35 gift certificate from the pro shop.

Prizes for the top four places were given, with places awarded to the lowest net scores.

Pirates Up Lead Over Phillies

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Kent Tekulve, the Pittsburgh Pirates relief ace, can remember when the tables were turned, and he's not counting anyone out of the National League East Division race yet — least of all the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Pirates completed their four-game series at Philadelphia Monday night, winning 9-1 and taking three of the crucial games. The loss left the Phils., the defending division champions, eight games back. The Montreal Expos, who also lost Monday, are 2½ back.

"The situation was the same last year," said Tekulve, who pitched the last two innings of the series-ender. "Remember about this time last year, we played two big series with the Phillies, and they beat us good."

Houston, the West Division leader, meanwhile, was helping Pittsburgh open up the East with a 4-1 victory over the Expos behind the pitching prowess of big J.R. Richard.

In the only other NL game Monday night, Lou Brock distinguished himself with his 3,000th career hit, singling twice in St. Louis' 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Cards 3, Cubs 2
Brock singled in the first inning off Cubs right-hander Dennis Lamp for his 2,999th career hit, and his milestone hit came in the fourth on a 2-2 pitch from Lamp.

The hit struck Lamp on the right hand, bounded back toward the third base line, and Brock was on easily. Lamp left the game with a severely bruised hand.

It was Garry Templeton's sacrifice fly in the ninth, however, that gave the Cards their victory. An RBI double by Larry Bittner and a sacrifice fly by Mike Vail had tied it 2-2 in the Cubs seventh.

Brock's first single came after Templeton had singled and sent the fleet leadoff hitter to third. Templeton then scored on a grounder by Keith Hernandez.

Waters Out 2-3 Months After Knee Injury

MUENSTER, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys star defensive back Charlie Waters, injured in an exhibition loss to Seattle, underwent knee surgery today and team officials said he would be out at least two and probably three months.

Waters suffered a torn anterior cruciate — a knee ligament

— but did not have damage to the cartilage as had been feared, according to team physician Dr. Marvin Knight.

Knight, who works out of the hospital in this small North Central Texas town just south of the Oklahoma border, put Waters' right leg in a cast for six weeks.

Team spokesman Greg Aiello said, "It will be a minimum of two and probably three months before he can get back into playing condition."

Randy Hughes was tagged to play in Waters' strong safety position. Aiello said no decision had been made on Waters' roster status, but under new NFL rules adopted this year a team can place up to three players on the injured reserve list and bring them back up to one month later.

Waters, who played in his third Pro Bowl game last season, suffered the injury in Sunday night's 27-17 loss to Seattle in an open field mishap that did not involve contact with another player.

"He went to change direction, planted his foot, started to turn and it gave out" on the Kingdome's artificial turf, said Aiello.

Waters, 29, who played quarterback at Clemson, led the Cowboys in unassisted tackles last year with 76 and tied teammate Cliff Harris in interceptions with four. He made The Associated Press' second team all-NFL team last year and was voted first team All-NFL by the Pro Football Writers Association.

"We'll miss Waters. He's a leader," Coach Tom Landry said in the locker room after the Seattle game.

Hawkins Revered By Players

An AP Sports Analysis
By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

He is, quite frankly, a legend, pure and simple.

In the teeming playgrounds of New York City, where basketball is treated as something of a religion, Connie Hawkins remains the high priest of the sport.

They still talk about him in hushed tones and wonder just how good he might have been. In the summer leagues in Harlem where players outdo one another with acrobatic dunk shots and moves that border on magic, they still remember the Hawk and how basketball squandered his talent.

Connie Hawkins was 27 years old when he got to the National Basketball Association in 1969 — a rather advanced age for a rookie. A decade passed from the time he was the best high school basketball player in New York until he was allowed in the NBA. The years in between were spent in a limbo created by the rulers of the game who decided that Connie Hawkins shouldn't be allowed to play their sport.

Meet Hawkins today and you are impressed by what an articulate man he is. But in 1960, he was a semi-literate teenager, caught in the web of the college basketball fixing scandal, implicated by innuendo and painted with the broad brush that kept him out of the game he was so good at.

He had been plucked out of the University of Iowa by the Manhattan district attorney, brought home to answer questions about some men who tinkered with point spreads.

"I knew the people they were asking about," he said. "But that's all. We had talked basketball. I talked basketball with a lot of people."

He was accused of being an intermediary of introducing players to gamblers. "It was a lie," he said.

Hawkins was victimized because he couldn't defend himself. He was not exactly sophisticated in those days. "Sophisticated?" he laughed. "Hell no. I wasn't sophisticated. I was 17 and I was damned scared."

The investigators questioned him for two weeks. His story was checked and rechecked and finally he was permitted to return to Iowa. When he got there, Iowa wasn't interested anymore. He had been implicated. The fact that he was cleared meant nothing. Iowa couldn't take a chance, and neither could anybody else.

"I went home to Brooklyn, but I couldn't get into a game," he said. "Even in the schoolyards, guys were afraid to be seen with me, afraid they'd be linked to the scandal through me."

The irony of it was that Connie Hawkins was clean. He had been cleared of any involvement. But the implication was there and it was enough to freeze him out of the game.

For four years, Hawkins played with the Harlem Globetrotters, barnstorming with them, playing on the fringes of organized basketball. Then came the American Basketball League and the Pittsburgh Rens, a pretty long jump shot away from the NBA, which had barred him for life.

Blackballed is a harsh term, but that's exactly what had happened to Connie Hawkins.

There are two things you can do in that situation — accept it or fight it. Eventually, Hawkins decided to fight.

In 1964, he filed a $6-million antitrust suit. The law in America, however, sometimes moves with painful deliberation and

Leach's Choice

DETROIT (AP) — Rick Leach, University of Michigan all-around football star, decided his future was in baseball. He signed with the Detroit Tigers and passed up an offer from the Denver Broncos of the National Football League.

Leach's decision may have been governed by the way the teams rated him. Denver did not select Rick until the fifth round of the NFL draft. Detroit made him a No. 1 pick.

IBM announces an "Open House" on small computers

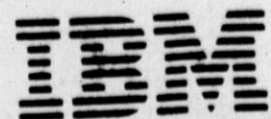

The IBM 5110 Computing System, with a price that starts at under $18,000, is proving to be what many business firms need to get started with their own small computer.

IBM invites you to an "open house" to see how a small computer can help you manage a growing business. You can drop in whenever you like on the continuous demonstrations and presentations.

You'll discover how the 5110 can handle such jobs as payroll, accounts receivable, inventory control and general ledger, as well as provide timely management reports. And how your own people can learn to run it in just a few days.

Make a note now on your calendar to stop by the 5110 "open house" at a time convenient for you. Or for more information, call us at the number below.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Questions estrogen

DEAR DR. LAMB - Several years ago my doctor prescribed Premarin for me during the menopause stage. I took this for quite a while and then, since I wasn't having any menopause symptoms, I began to decrease the amount and eventually stopped taking medicine at all. During a recent physical examination, the doctor asked me if I was still taking the Premarin and when I said no, I was told quite emphatically that I should follow his instructions since on his examination he had noted my "color was bad."

Now I've recently read in the paper that a study reported in the New England Journal of Medicine conducted at Johns Hopkins University said that it was true that female hormones can cause cancer of the uterus. I know this has been controversial for some time, but as I read the report it sounds like there's now definite evidence that this is the case. This has me terribly concerned and I really don't know what to do. I don't like to disobey my doctor but I really hesitate to take more Premarin.

DEAR READER - You're certainly right about it being a controversial subject. There are benefits from using estrogen. It isn't the first medicine that we've used to help people that also has the capacity to cause harm. Digitalis is an important life-saving drug but if you take too much, it can cause serious cardiac irregularities and other problems. You can go down the list from there.

The important point is to make the right decision in each individual case. That's why you usually have to rely on your doctor's advice based on what he's found.

The study you have referred to is pretty well documented and it does settle some of the questions that were raised. Apparently, altering the dosage or taking estrogen intermittently doesn't eliminate the increased risk of uterine cancer that it may cause. I think it's safe to say that there definitely is an increased risk. There are still some unanswered questions such as the point that some investigators raised that using progesterone, the other female hormone, helps to negate the estrogen problem. That may need further study.

Let me stress again that women who have already had a hysterectomy shouldn't have any concern at all about the increased risk of female hormones and uterine cancer. You have to have a uterus before you can develop a cancer of it. You might be surprised how often that's been misunderstood in various news releases.

Now, I don't like to be in the position of disagreeing with a physician who's seen a patient but the current weight of evidence is that you shouldn't use female hormones in a woman with her uterus intact unless there is a definite indication for them.

To give you more information on the menopause I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Since you're not having any difficulties anyway, I should think that in the midst of such a controversial discussion that you might just as well wait a while. If you start to have symptoms related to the menopause, then you could consider taking some form of estrogen.

The Royal Canadian Legion approved use of the Maple Leaf flag as the national flag of Canada in 1968.

According to the National Foundation-March of Dimes, 15 million Americans have birth defects. About 1.2 million infants, children, and adults are hospitalized each year for treatment of birth defects.

Energy-Conscious Tips Given for Lawn Care

COLLEGE STATION — Energy-conscious homeowners can take steps to reduce the energy demands of lawn care without lowering lawn benefits.

While lawns offer an aesthetic and recreational benefit, these may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care, says Dr. Richard Duble, grass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Mowing, watering, fertilizing, pest control and leaf clipping disposal are all energy-consuming requirements of lawn care. During spring and summer months lawn watering and collection and disposal of grass clippings place a heavy burden on cities for these services. Grass clippings may account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in cities during spring," notes Duble.

He offers several suggestions to help homeowners reduce these energy demands. Reducing fertilizer applications to maintenance levels—two to three pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year—will go a long way toward reducing energy demands. This will also reduce mowing requirements, water use, insect and disease problems, and grass clippings. "Excessive fertilization is the single most important factor contributing to high energy demands for lawn care," contends Duble.

Other lawn care practices to reduce energy demands include returning or composting grass clippings. Using a mulching mower can be beneficial if grass clippings are not removed, says the specialist. Also adopting proper watering practices to reduce water use can save energy. Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice.

Duble advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands. Centipede grass is ideally suited to East Texas while buffalograss is adapted to much of West and North Texas. Both of these grasses have low maintenance requirements.

In some situations ground covers such as Asiatic jasmine, English ivy or Liriope can reduce maintenance requirements effectively without sacrificing the benefits of a plant cover, says the specialist.

"It is possible to enjoy the luxury of an attractive lawn and landscape," contends Duble, "without excessive energy requirements. In fact, the net energy balance for a lawn can be in favor of energy conservation."

CrustBuster

The original folding grain drill. The same CrustBuster Grain Drill you depend on for your main crop will also plant most other grains.

Patented CrustBuster HydrauFold saves three ways: Saves hours of planting time. Tows like a 2-wheel trailer in the field, no multiple hitches to assemble.

By following recommended sprocket and spacing instructions you can plant wheat, oats, barley, rice, soybeans, milo, millet, cotton, alfalfa.

The patented CrustBuster wobble slot accurately meters seeds for uniform plant population. At low seeding rates, the wobble slot out-performs fluted or double-run feeding methods. No clutch needed to activate or stop seeding action. When drill is removed from soil, sowing stops.
