State, Local Power Lost To Washington

City Manager Disapproves of Voting Rights Act

By JOE LACKEY
 Brand Staff Writer

The United States Senate and House of Representatives recently agreed to extend the 1965 Voting Rights Act through 1982, and to include Texas in the states covered by the law.

Should President Ford sign the measure, as he is expected to do, then Texas will be covered by the provisions of the act, designed to make certain that minority groups are not prevented from voting because of possible racial discrimination.

The states originally covered by the measure are located in the Deep South. At first, the act was designed to include blacks, but the recent action in Washington brings Texas under coverage of the law, and also includes minority groups other than blacks.

THE ACT has been controversial since its inception. Advocates of the law argue that it has enfranchised hundreds of thousands of blacks in the South who had been prevented by racists from voting for years. But opponents argue that racism has not affected black voting patterns, and that the law is just one more example of loss of freedom to big government, of increasing centralization of power in Washington and loss of power by state and local governmental entities.

Dudley Bayne, Hereford city manager, expressed disapproval of the extension of the coverage of the act to Texas. "This law makes you wonder how much longer we will have our freedom before the people in Washington take it away," he said.

The city manager specifically criticized the provision of the act which requires federal approval for municipal annexation of territory which might affect voting patterns. Theoretically, this might mean that Hereford might wish to annex a certain area, but if it was determined that such annexation might influence voting patterns, then approval from Washington might have to be secured before the annexation could become official.

Other aspects of the new law, according to the Texas Municipal League, are that no polling place may be relocated nor any precinct boundary line changed by a city without federal approval; no change in the method of electing city council persons (such as a change from at-large elections to elections by single-member districts, and vice versa) may be made without federal approval; and no change in the method of electing an official (such as a change from election to appointment) may be accomplished without federal approval.

THE VOTING RIGHTS Act requires, in general, that prior to enforcing any change affecting voting, every city must obtain either a judicial or an executive determination that the proposed change will not result in the denial or abridgement of the right to vote on account of race or color.

This means that city officials who implement any such change without the specific approval of the Attorney General or the appropriate federal judicial body are in violation of federal law.

The Texas Municipal League has also stated that the phrase "change affecting voting" means any voting qualification, prerequisite to voting, standard, practice, or procedure different from that in force at the time the Voting Rights Act becomes applicable to a particular unit of government, however minor or indirect the difference might appear to be.

Governor Briscoe opposed the extension of the Act to Texas. President Ford and some Deep South Senators supported an attempt to extend the Act to all fifty states, but this maneuver failed, and the President is expected to sign the measure.

Relating to possible violations of the law, the Act states that "Any individual or group may send to the Attorney General information concerning a change affecting voting" if it is suspected that the change will violate the Act.

The Act provides for federal registrars and poll watchers wherever there is a suspicion or complaint of interference with voting rights.

TEXAS' SENATORIAL delegation split on the vote in the Senate on the measure, with Senator Tower voting against extension of the Act and Senator Bentsen, a candidate for president, voting for extension.

Texas Secretary of State Mark White bitterly opposed the measure, and organized a campaign to defeat extension of the act. His campaign had no success, however.

U.S. Representative Barbara Jordan of Houston proposed extension of provisions of the act to language as well as racial minorities, and proposed that the act be extended to those states with more than five per cent minority of voters or potential voters whose mother tongue is other than English. Further, she proposed that states be covered if less than 50 per cent of the voting age population voted in the 1972 presidential election.

Texas has a high percentage of Spanish-speaking groups, as well as a high percentage of black citizens. And Texas' voting in presidential elections has traditionally lagged behind the national average.

Since the law was enacted for Southeastern states ten years ago, a total of 317 federal examiners have been sent to monitor elections in 73 counties in five states, an average of 32 inspections per year. Of the 476 requests to change voting places or procedures in areas covered by the law since 1975, there have been 163 rejections by U.S. Attorney Generals.

Fun Breakfast Planned Tuesday

The time is drawing near when the early morning alarm will mean fun and games, not the drudgery that is so often associated with the first minutes of the day.

No, it won't be a permanent situation, but it will happen at least once as about 250 persons gather for the third Chamber "Fun" Breakfast at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school cafeteria.

Also, an added incentive will be the chance to win one of two $100 cash drawings. All in attendance will automatically be qualified for one of the drawings with the other being only for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce members.

Bill Albright, executive vice president of the C of C, said plans for the event are running smooth, but that arrangements will be even smoother if advance reservations are made. This can be done by calling 364-3333 (C of C office).

Tickets are priced at $2.25 each, which will buy a choice breakfast of eggs, pancakes, meats, plenty of coffee and more. The last breakfast held in June ran into a minor snag as food ran out before all were served. But the experience of the past two meals are expected to benefit Tuesday's breakfast.

Comical games are in store for the early morning eaters as a select few will be asked to test their skills at what kids do best—play. Musical entertainment will be provided and humorous emcees also are on tap.

The presentation of the Hereford Bull Chip Award will climax the morning when an unsuspecting recipient will be asked to step forward. The last one was won by Butch White for his contributions in organizing the All-Girl Rodeo in May.

The award was started to honor those in town for their civic achievements as those from foreign parts are given the Hereford Bull Award. The bull chip is given in jest, but it is highly valued.

The Sugarland Mall Merchants Association is sponsoring this breakfast by covering all peripheral expenses besides the meal.

Those who have attended in the past have enjoyed a good time, so the C of C hopes for a bigger crowd this time as all residents and their guests are welcome.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says you ought to deal with other folks faults as gently as you do with your own.

Definitions: A discussion is a swapping of knowledge; an argument is a swapping of ignorance.

A breakfast meeting at 6:30 doesn't sound to appealing to some folks, but the Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast Tuesday morning will be an exception. If you don't show, you'll be sure to miss out on some fun and fellowship, and you could miss picking up $100 in cash!

If you haven't made reservations, be sure to call the chamber office before noon Monday. C of C officials need to get a head count so there will be enough food.

Formby Reelected To Chair Tech Regents

EL PASO (Sp.)—Clint Formby of Hereford was reelected chairman of the Texas Tech University Board of Regents here Friday, and the regents took action on several important items of business—including approval of architect's plans for a $1.4 million building to house El Paso's Regional Academic Health Center.

Regents also approved implementation of phase 2 of the Tech ag facility project, which provides for moving ag facilities to a location near New Deal. The move will clear the Texas Tech University School of Medicine campus.

University regents also took action on the controversial Indiana Avenue, clearing the way for the immediate start of construction of that street through the Tech campus. The board approved right turn lanes for Indiana Avenue at 19th and 4th streets.

Formby said the board "would work with the Lubbock City Council in discussions with the Texas Highway Department in Austin regarding long range traffic plans."

The board also approved drawing for a new addition to the textile research center, and approved schematics for a Ranching Heritage Orientation Center to be constructed at a cost of about $210,000. No action was taken on the bowl policy for the football team, or the post-season-basketball tournament policy.

Regents did approve divisional status for the Department of Architecture within the College of Engineering, and established four divisions in the College of Arts and Sciences. The four: Communications, Humanities and Social Sciences, Mathematics and Sciences, and Fine Arts.

District Judge To Hear Guilty Pleas; No Jury Trials Set

Although District Court was scheduled to be in session beginning Monday, no jury trials will result this week because there are no cases to hear.

District Judge Mike Metcalf will be here Monday, Thursday and Friday of this week and may hear some guilty pleas, according to a representative of the District Clerk's office.

A new grand jury will organize Friday, August 8 for the six month term which begins this week. The selection of a foreman will be conducted Friday.

The 12-member grand jury panel will be selected from a list of 20 prospective jurors. The list was developed by the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury Commission.

Those called to possibly serve are Paul Abalos, James Gentry, Mrs. A.B. Jacobs, Mrs. Pat Smith, Fred Boren, Mrs. Robert Strain, Rev. C.W. Allen, Mrs. Barnell Landers, Sammie Peters, Mrs. Jim Scott, and Mrs. Elmo Hall.

Also selected are George T. Jones, Mrs. W.B. Wilson, R.A. Daniel, Billy Wayne Sisson, Bill Cleavinger, Mrs. Carolin Higgins, Travis McGaughey, Manuel Galvan and Joe Del Toro.

Tennis Contract, Speed Limits on City Agenda

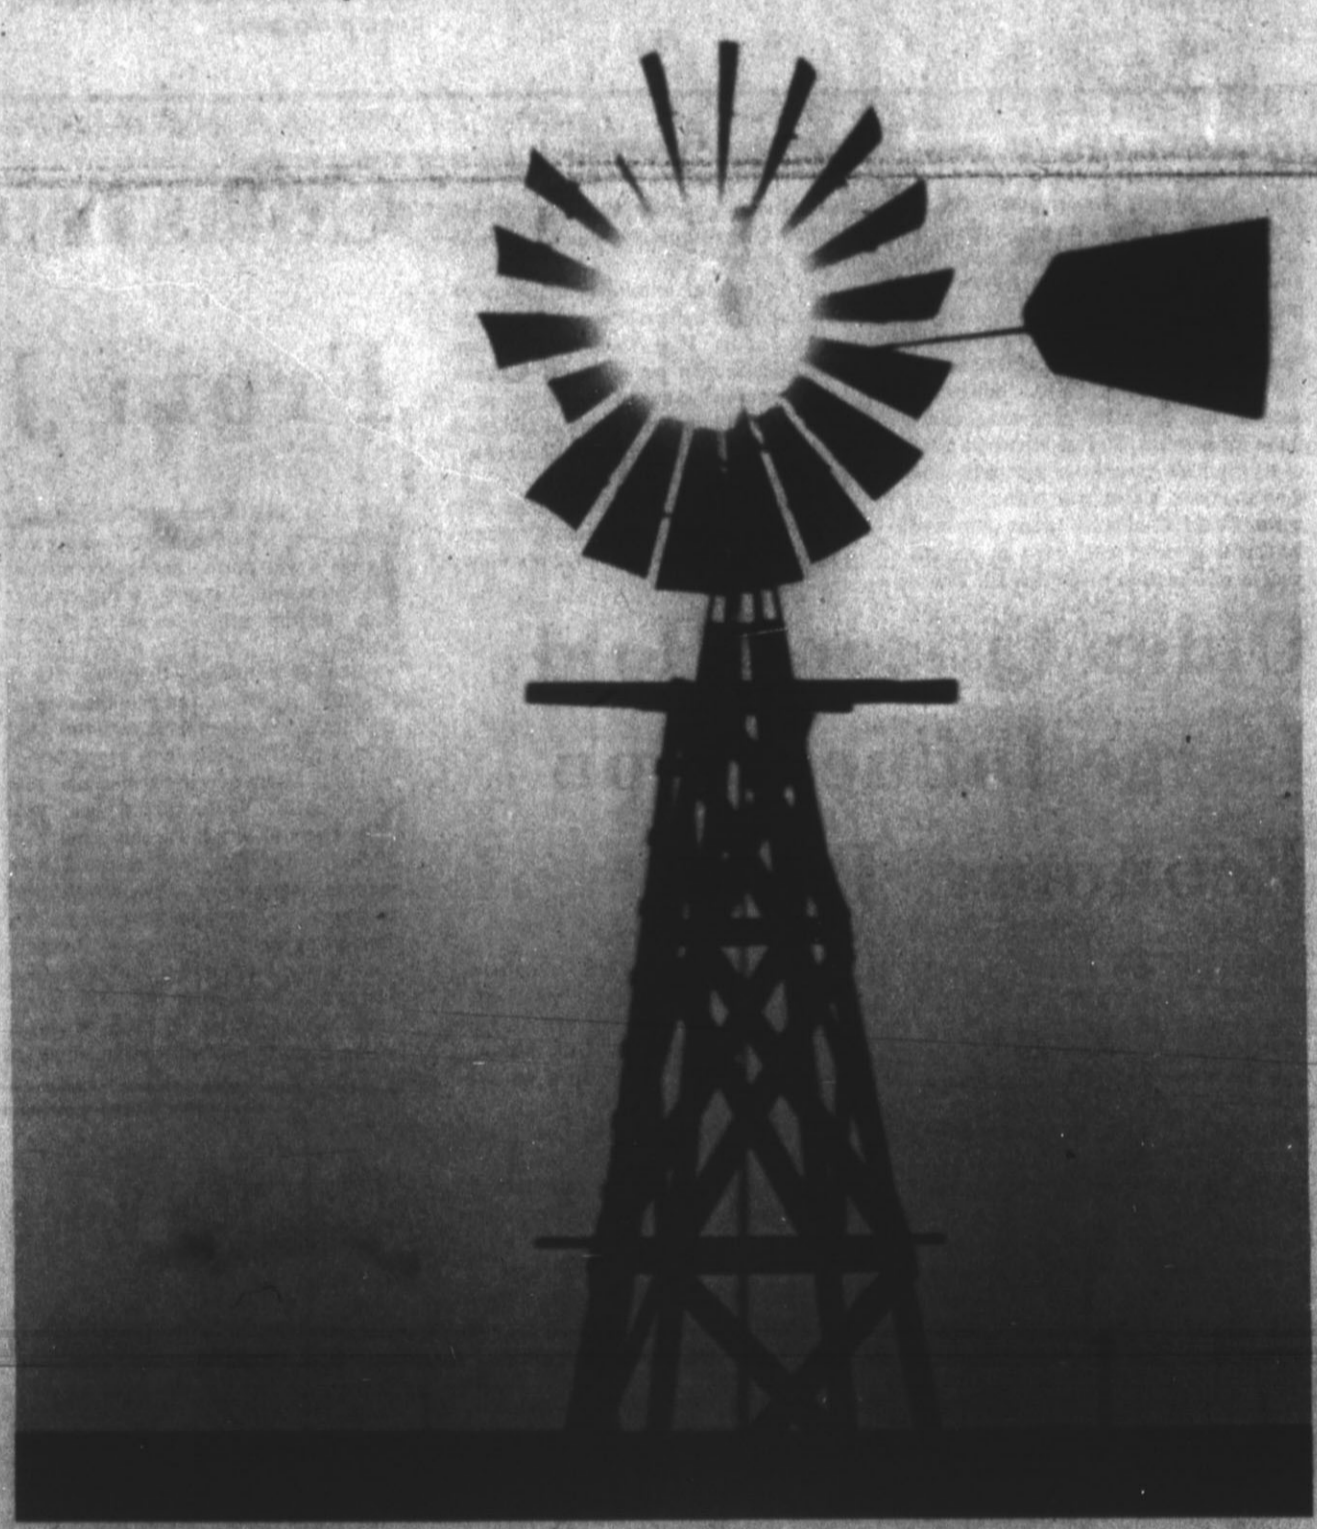

The city commission will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Monday in City Hall to consider a two-item agenda.

Commissioners will discuss the contract for the tennis courts being built at the high school in cooperation with the school and the county. Since the school board tabled the tennis matter at a recent meeting because bids were considered too high, final action on the contract is not expected at the City Commission meeting.

The commissioners will also consider speed limits on West Park Avenue. The state recently conducted a survey of traffic there, and has recommended setting a 30 MPH speed limit from U.S. 385 to Texas Street, a 40 MPH limit from Texas Street to a point 475 feet east of Kingwood St., a 45 MPH limit from that point to the East right-of-way line of Mimosa St., and a 50 MPH limit from the Mimosa St. right-of-way line to the west city limit.

Lower speed limits on West Park were necessitated by the location of the new school there.

A Day's End
 Darkness falls across the plains in this dramatic scene as the sun sets for another day behind the antique blades of a once used windmill. As the day ends so seems an era of pioneer existence as portrayed by the still machine that pumped the water that was so necessary for the Panhandle settlers.

Chamber Selling Pageant Tickets

Tickets for the Top O' Texas Pageant at Pampa Friday are available at the Chamber of Commerce Office, it has been announced. Admission prices are $2 per adult and $1 per child.

Miss Hereford Monica Herring will be an entrant in the annual pageant, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium. The local lass is being sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

For further information about this week's pageant, see the inside pages of today's Brand.

Jurors Told Not To Report

Those citizens who were notified to serve on petit juries this week need not report for duty according to the District Clerk Lola Faye Veazey.

While the petit jurors do not have to report, the members of the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury do have to report in order to indict cases presented by the Criminal District Attorney. The grand jury meets Friday to organize itself for the new term which begins Monday.

Despite what Uncle Sam or anyone else says, nothing is free. If you dance the tune, you gotta pay the fiddler—one way or another.

And, unless a good many of the people in Hereford, Austin, Washington, D.C. and other parts of this nation learn soon that nothing is free, we may not be around here to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the nation.

For example, under the terms of the Food Stamp Act passed by Congress in (See HEREFORD BULL, Page 2A)

Modern machinery makes the harvesting of white potatoes a one pass operation. (Upper Right) An exhausted youngster dozes on a pile of sacks in a field of red potatoes. Entire families take part in the work of gathering the potatoes and sacking them when hand crews are called for. (Lower Left) Field worker gathers Viking variety red potatoes, leaving full sacks in neat rows. (Lower Right) A tractor-drawn potato digger deposits red potatoes in neat rows to await sacking by field workers. At center of photo, worker carries on backbreaking labor of sacking the potatoes while, in background, tractor-mounted conveyor machinery picks up sacks of potatoes, emptying the tubers into a truck. Harvesting of the county's potato crop is about half complete, with prices remaining good.

1964, the federal government was to provide stamps for needy families in order to raise their nutritional levels. The aim was good—the administration of the program has been lousy.

The first year the program was in operation, 367,000 Americans received the stamps at a cost of $30.5 million. It seemed like an ideal program—something for nothing. By last March, a total of 19.1 million Americans were receiving food stamps at a cost of $5 billion!

One Congressional study has estimated by this time next year, some 60 million people will be able to participate in the food stamp program at a cost of $10 billion. There's only 80 million people in the U.S. work force.

And it's free? Wrong. This year, 68 per cent of the federal budget will be paid by the middle class—those earning from $12,000 to $35,000 per year. Yet at a time their cost of living has soared 52 per cent, inflation and increased taxes at all levels have dropped their disposable income 4.3 per cent this year.

There's no such thing as a free ride, free food stamps, or free federal revenue sharing funds. Sooner or later, we all pay the fiddler.

Older Citizens Hold Large Influence on Economy, Polls

(Spl)—Deaf Smith County's over-65 population is growing in importance—numerically, economically and politically.

The latest figures show that this age group has been one of the fastest growing and that its influence at the polls and in the market place has been increasing proportionately. About 1 out of every 16 persons, locally, is now 65-years-old or older.

Nationally, there are now more than 22 million men and women in that age bracket. They represent 10 per cent of the total population. In Deaf Smith County they represent 6.3 per cent.

For many of them, income is the No. 1 problem. Inflation during the past few years has made it difficult for people on small fixed incomes to make both ends meet. All in all, about 17 per cent of those over 65 cannot get along without public assistance, according to the Department of Commerce.

The bulk, on the other hand, are managing satisfactorily on their own. Many of them have income from one or more sources—social security, pensions, interest, dividends, annuities and, frequently, from wages. About 1 out of every 5 are in the labor force. Their earnings account for a third of all the income of older people.

In Deaf Smith County, the latest government figures show, 47.9 per cent of the men over 65 and 12.2 per cent of the women are in the labor force. Most of them hold part-time jobs.

Although the median income of families in the over-65 category is only around $6,500, it adds up to an impressive $70 billion or so in the aggregate.

That is money that gets spent promptly for food, housing, household operations, medicines, clothing and the like.

The size of this spending power has led industrial firms to cater to their special tastes and wants, devising products to suit them.

Politically, too, their influence has become strong, not only because of their number, but because most of them go to the polls on election day. About 70 per cent of oldsters vote, a far greater proportion than in other groups.

They have been raising their voices in Washington, lately, seeking a better national health program and the right to earn more than $2,520 a year without loss of social security benefits.

Construction During July Falls From June's Loftier Level

Construction in Hereford during July amounted to $234,551 in value, about half of what it was during June, according to building permits issued by the city tax office for new structures within the city limits.

Although building activity was cut in two, July experienced an average amount of building when compared with the other months in 1975. Last month's total brings total of building permits issued this year to $1,836,117, outstripping last year when it was $1,683,950 at this time.

Most of the July total resulted from permits issued for new residential housing as well as from a permit for the plant being built by Brownlow Brothers Construction Co. for the Sue Ann, Inc. garment manufacturing firm. The plant, to be located off of Highway 60 West behind Boots West, will consist of about 12,000 Square feet and is expected to be finished within 120-150 days. It will employ up to about 150 employees at first and bring in an annual payroll of about $750,000.

The Sue Ann Inc. plant was financed through contributions to the Hereford Industrial Foundation, Inc., the name listed on the permit.

Permits this year reflect a more stable trend than in 1974 as the totals so far have remained above the $100,000 level. July of 1974 resulted in the biggest slump in the past two years as only $45,850 in building was recorded. The month before had been the highest for the year at $427,250.

Last month was the highest monthly total so far in 1975 with $490,820 in construction, indicating a more open market than the rock bottom experienced in 1974. It hit the lowest total in November, 1974 with only $41,100.

The most prosperity to date was in April with $377,195; May with $330,001; and June. The other months and building permit totals were January, $140,450; February, $76,350; and March, $186,750.

Four new residential structures were started in July for a total value of $130,000. This is usually a good sign as more persons are able to afford houses. These included two $34,000 houses built by Bob Aderdell, a $26,000 residence planned by Floyd McGee and a $36,000 home for Richard Bunch.

In June, six new residences were planned for a dollar value of $287,000.

Other permits issued last month include:

—$1,400; Antonio Garcia; moving in mobile home.

—$300; Ascension Rangel Jr.; constructing storage building.

—$400; Aquilino Flores; constructing garage.

—$8,600; Marin Gavina Sr.; utility and bath facility.

—$10,000; Joe. L. Rodriguez; moving in mobile home.

—$300; P.E. Tarr; altering residence.

—$301; Charles D. Kelley; adding on screened patio.

—$4,500; Rodney Laubhan; constructing storage and cellar facility.

—$8,600; W.V. Strune; constructing addition to residence.

—$600; Howard Ashley; moving in storage building.

—$2,550; W.G. Crow; altering and repairing residence.

The Voice of Business

BY RICHARD L. LESHER, President
United States Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON—When asked to describe "the single, most serious deficiency" in the U.S. Postal Service, Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) replied: "The main problem is that the Postmaster General does not have his own money invested in it."

What the Senator meant, of course, is that any management becomes much more concerned about cost control and efficiency when it has a direct financial incentive to do so. And therein might lie a clue to better control of the federal budget.

In private industry, a manager gains fame and success by contributing to an increase in profits. There are many paths to that objective, but they all amount, in one way or another, to increasing efficiency; that is, to serving the customer better at a lower relative cost.

In a bureaucracy, though, the incentives are entirely different. The importance of a bureaucrat is measured by the size of the budget he commands, and by the rate of its growth. Congress contributes to this order of precedence in the federal government by using the size of appropriations as an indication of its degree of concern for hot national problems.

Now, highly motivated, capable people will seek to advance by the rules of the game they are playing. And there are a lot of good people in the federal bureaucracy. So, it is only natural that they should strive mightily to increase—not reduce—their budgets. As long as that is the best route to higher pay and promotion, how can we expect them to behave otherwise?

All of which brings me to the topic of the federal pay scale. Whether it should be increased, decreased, juggled or left alone is the subject of much debate in Washington these days.

Average pay for a worker in the private sector in 1973 was $8,900 a year. Average pay for a federal civil servant at the time was $12,964. While that sounds as though the government worker is overpaid, defenders of the system point out that the mix of federal jobs is not the same as that in the private sector.

On the other hand, critics of the system say that while federal pay has been raised to make it "comparable" to pay in certain private-sector jobs, federal fringe benefits are considerably better than those available elsewhere, making the total package favor the civil service.

And another across-the-board civil service pay raise is in the offing, with debate centering on whether it should be 5 per cent, as the President proposes, or 8.66 per cent, as advocated by the Civil Service Commission and the Office of Management and Budget, or something else.

Meanwhile, the salary at the top levels of the civil service has been frozen, for a variety of reasons, at $36,000 for the last five years.

Personally, I suspect that the average American taxpayer thinks the civil service pay scale looks pretty generous already. And yet, I'm sure most people would agree that what any individual civil servant makes, within reason, is less important than the total cost of the system. Which is what started me thinking about incentives.

Right now, those people stuck at the $36,000 ceiling can't have much of an incentive of any kind. But just giving them a straight raise will perpetuate the old system, where more people get more money by hiring more people to spend more money.

Well, aren't we smart enough to devise some system whereby the pay of the top civil servants, at least, is determined in part by their ability to increase output on the same budget, or maintain output on a lower budget? It might pay to give it some thought.

Letters to the Editor

[Editor's Note: The following letter to the editor was sent by certified mail to The Hereford Brand in response to an editorial column on the opinion page of last Sunday's issue. It was sent by Dorell Jones, temporary chairman of the recently formed Deaf Smith County Property Owners and Users Association.

The letter is printed here, without any editing, just as it was submitted to the newspaper.]

Dear Sir,
The Deaf Smith County Property Owners & User's Association, now known as D.S.C.P.O.&U. Association want to thank Bobby Templeton of the Hereford Brand for his "Time for true tax talk;" in the July 27th Sunday Brand, in placing the tax blame, and I Quote, feel we were forced by our No new taxes, Governor Dolph Briscoe, Unquote. At least the Governor knows how Bobby feels, glad its his statement and not ours, to bring politics into the tax issue. We have sent a copy to our Governor for his evaluation. Bobby's journalistic efforts has been the best thing, to date for the Association prospects who read his article, have kept the phone ringing to join in the peoples movement. We want to say "Thank You Bobby" keep up the good work.

Yours truly,
D.S.C.P.O.&U. Association

Dear Editor:

I think since I am referred to several times in articles written in The Hereford Brand concerning my appearance before the Hereford Independent School Board that it would be only fair if all my remarks were reported in their entirety.

I am not complaining about the tax only, or who caused it. I am complaining about the fairness of the tax structure and the poor judgement used by the person recommending the percentage of tax increase.

I told the school board that I had appeared before the Board of Equalization earlier and was not satisfied with the results. That is why I was appearing before the school board. The school board has increased my assessment value of property from 45 to 60 per cent, as they have many other people.

I had asked the Equalization Board to tell me what 100 per cent value of the merchandise in my store was. No one could tell me. I asked the school board the same question. Still no one could tell me. My point I was trying to make was: How can anyone decide on what percentage of assessment should be placed on property such as merchandise in stores when no one knows what 100 per cent of the value of the property is?

Then I asked the board the definition of a "marketable item." I stated Webster's Dictionary said it was "a given item at a given price at given time." This is why I asked the question about what 100 per cent of my merchandise was. Sometimes I buy an item which costs, for example, $600. I get a fair mark-up on this item, but suppose it doesn't sell and I end up putting it on a sidewalk sale for $300. I only get back half of my cost. That is the value of that item at that time.

Mr. Click was asked by the board about the figure I rendered at the end of 1974. He stated that he believed what the figure was and that the value of my merchandise was the figure I rendered. He also stated that many merchants did not render true inventories and then they would not let anyone see their books. These people had their inventory figures, or assessment values, raised by the taxing organization. I turned to Mr. Click and asked him if he had ever made the desire known to me that he would like to see my books and he said, "no." I told him my books were open for him to see and that I had rendered a true inventory figure.

I further asked the school board what the definition of the word "equalization" was. I did not believe the Equalization Board was trying to do much to equalize the tax structure in this county, as it was their responsibility to do so.

I stated, as an example of this but pointed out very definitely that I did not feel the farmer should have additional tax burdens placed upon him as he was the livelihood of all of us in this area, that some farmland in this school district was valued at $175 an acre based upon a 1961 assessment value and that my merchandise was based on a 1975 assessment value—of which no one knows what 100 per cent of the value was.

I then asked the school superintendent if it was true that he bought most of his clothes out of town, or in Dallas. I further asked him if he recommended to his teachers and other non-retail businessmen that they go to a particular place in Dallas, also to buy their clothes.

He denied the fact of recommending to anyone that they go to Dallas to buy their clothes. He said if people asked him where he got his clothes, he told them. He further stated that he bought a few suits out of town.

The point I was trying to make, as I told the school board, was that our superintendent recommended 22 or 23 per cent raise in school taxes a few months ago, and this what the board passed. I told the board I felt anyone who had the power to set the tax rate which myself and other merchants pay, should be the first person to support local merchants—not me, particularly. I am not the only merchant in town with the same complaint. I am the only one on that has stated the complaint in a public meeting.

Mr. Editor, I do not have anything against Mr. Hartman as a school administrator, but I think he uses poor judgement in the area of not supporting local merchants. Then, I told the board there were some ways to reduce taxes: (1) By cutting down school expenses, (2) Forcing every citizen to pay his or her fair share of taxes—I feel there a great many in the school district who pay no taxes at all, (3) By changes in policy, (4) By school officials and others spending their money at home as much as possible, so merchants and others can afford to pay the tax increases needed to run our school system, and (5) —suggested the board spend as much of the taxpayers money in Hereford as possible on school purchases; for example, I have been afforded only one opportunity in three years to bid on any item purchased by the schools.

Mr. Editor, I am not opposed to a good school system as education is important to everyone, and I would be the first to say let's have the best. But let's be fair about taxes and let's help each other. Let's don't tell a taxpayer what per cent he has to pay and then not support local stores, or spend tax money out of town if it can be spent at home.

I agree with you a man does have the right to spend his money where he pleases. But not everyone sets the tax rate on school taxes. Not everyone is paid a salary by the taxpayers, furnished a new car every year and an expense account paid for by taxpayers. I will also agree with you that our superintendent does run a good school organization. If I have offended Mr. Hartman, then I apologize to him publicly. I was trying to show the board, along with other remarks, the unfairness of it all.

School taxes are not the only concern. We pay a percentage for county and city taxes and when you put them all together, it is quite a chunk of a person's income. What percentage of tax will we be paying in 10 years? This concerns me greatly. Small businessmen like myself will not be able to pay the tax levies if we have increases such as 23 per cent at one time.

I may be an irresponsible and irrational taxpayer as you refer to in your column, but I am a taxpayer and I am concerned and looking for solutions. It is not just the school or the superintendent buying out of town that concerns me. This could be put on anyone.

For example, if everyone went out of town to buy autos, where would the automobile dealers be in this town? If me and every merchant bought our insurance on our merchandise out of town, where would the insurance business be? If the farmers bought their implements out of the county, where would the implement dealers be? It can go on and on. If we are to be a growing community and have tax money for our schools and other needs, then we need to help each other and keep our money at home. I realize this is a two way street. The merchant has to want business and has to want to bring the needs of the people to the community.

Let me close by assuring you and the people of Deaf Smith County that I belong to no organization and represent no one but myself. I stand on my own two feet. It is a sad day in the community or any other community when a man is called irresponsible and irrational when he stands up and says what he thinks and believes.

This is a constitutional right that all of us have. It is time people stood up for what they believe in many areas.

I realized that me and my business would probably be hurt by taking this stand, but people should not get mad or irritated at a person for standing up for what he believes. I always have and always will.

Let me assure you I had nothing to do with the formation of the organization called the Property Owners and Users Association. I am not a member of the organization and do not intend to be. I stand alone on my own principles and I do not need an organization to lean on.

My wife and I have tried to bring fashion and quality in men's clothes to the people of Hereford, along with friendly service and guaranteed satisfaction at a competitive price. We will continue to do so. We try to support the activities of the community and will continue to do so. But let's don't call a man irresponsible and irrational for saying what he believes. Again, all of us have that right.

Sincerely,
Bill Frazier

Band Rehearsals Begin Tomorrow

That Big Red Band from Hustlin' Land is assembling for another season of marching entertainment during Hereford High School Whiteface football season.

Randy Vaughn, band director, has announced that sophomores who have pre-registered in band should be at the HHS band hall at 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday for initial rehearsals. Each evening session will last approximately two and a half hours.

Sophomore, junior and senior band students will meet at 7 p.m. in the band hall August 11, 12, and 14. Vaughn stated that more than 180 students have registered to participate in the band and approximately 180 of them will march in each performance.

Dog Poisoning Is Reported

A Hereford resident who lives on Brevard Street notified The Brand this week that an incident of dog poisoning has recently occurred in that area.

The individual reported that a family pet, which was kept in the yard at all times, died when someone apparently threw poison over the fence.

"I think this is a really inhumane way to treat animals, especially when they are doing no harm to anyone and are special to their owners," the individual commented.

In addition to taking a toll of family pets, the practice is also hazardous to young children, as they might come in contact with the poison.

CROP Pledges More Wheat, Corn For India, Bangladesh

Some 8,000 metric tons of wheat pledged by CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, will be sent to India and Bangladesh in the last six months of 1975. This pledge was made by the CROP Staff at the climax of their Annual Conference just ended in Dayton, Ohio. In addition, the staff has promised 756 metric tons of shelled corn for India, Indonesia and Niger yet this year.

These totals, the largest amount of the commodities ever pledged by CWS/CROP, are part of a dramatic, worldwide effort to stem the tide of immediate starvation while building for a future free from hunger. CROP is appealing to people from all walks of life, all denominations and persuasions, to join with them in this effort.

These foodstuffs will be used in India and the other nations as wages on food-for-work projects-projects that represent the very "heart" of development for the future.

Food-for-work projects include the construction of earthen dams and irrigation systems which will provide water to grow bigger, better crops in the years ahead. Other food-for-work projects such as building roads allow villagers to transport their goods to market, gaining them a stronger foothold in the economy of their country. Food-for-work projects enable people to feed themselves by the sweat of their brow, the labor of their hands, while building the means of self-sufficiency.

Food to provide the wages is essential to these projects, and CWS/CROP, with the support of participating denominations and people in communities across America, have accepted the challenge to furnish it.

The Rev. Ronald E. Stenning, National Director of CROP, has just returned from Asia where he saw first-hand the utilization of CROP/CWS wheat in food-for-work projects. "The cooperation among agencies is fantastic...it was really heartening to see food from CWS/CROP, United Methodist Committee on Relief, Lutheran World Relief and many other agencies being used on these projects. This outpouring of concern coming together at a food-for-work project is really what development is all about!"

In addition to the pledged wheat and shelled corn, CROP has already, in 1975, sent 1,000 metric tons of wheat and more than 275,000 lbs. of split beans to India, 500 metric tons of wheat to Bangladesh, 5,000 lbs. of non-fat dry milk and 50,000 lbs. of split beans to Niger, and more than 90,000 lbs. of split beans to Indonesia.

In Mr. Stenning's words, "After my trip, I realized that we'd just scratched the surface with the food we'd sent so far and that they could use every ton, every ounce we could get to them. That's why we've accepted the exciting challenge of procuring 8,000 metric tons of wheat and 756 metric tons of shelled corn. We hope that everyone across the United States will join with us in meeting this challenge. It's a goal we are committed to reach, the future of millions of people depends upon our reaching it, and I'm sure with the help of everyone we will meet this goal."

BOOTS FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY AT A SAVINGS

IF YOU RECEIVE A SOCIAL SECURITY CHECK... PLEASE READ THIS!

THE HEREFORD STATE BANK IS NOW OFFERING A NEW SERVICE AT NO EXTRA CHARGE TO ALL RECIPIENTS OF SOCIAL SECURITY & SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY CHECKS.

HERE ARE SOME ADVANTAGES OF THIS PROGRAM:

- Your check goes directly into your account and we send you a deposit slip immediately.
- You don't have to stand in line to cash or deposit your check.
- You don't have to worry about losing your check after you receive it or having it stolen from your mailbox.
- Even if you are away from home, your money is available in your account instead of sitting in your mailbox.

ANSWERS TO SOME OF THE QUESTIONS MOST USUALLY ASKED:

1. Why is there so much interest today in the direct deposit of social security checks?
The Treasury Department has initiated a program to encourage the recipients of all recurring Federal payments to deposit these directly into a financial institution. Under this plan, an individual can have his check sent directly to The Hereford State Bank for deposit.
2. How will I benefit from direct deposit of my social security check?
It saves a special trip to the bank just to deposit your check. It eliminates worry about the check being lost or stolen in the mail. And, any time you are away from home or cannot come to the bank, your check is automatically deposited for you.
3. Can I have it deposited to my savings account as well as my checking account?
If you want a portion to go into the savings each month, ask your bank about an automatic transfer of a specified amount each month from checking into savings. By law your Social Security check must be directed to one specific account, either checking or savings.
4. How do I sign up for this service?
Simply complete the government form (SF1199) available at The Hereford State Bank Personnel at the bank will be glad to help you complete the form.
5. How do I get the information needed to complete the forms?
All the Social Security information you will need is on your monthly check or in your initial award letter from Social Security. If you need any assistance or have any questions, your bank will be glad to assist you.
6. Do I send the form directly to social security?
No, you should complete the top half of the form only and take it or mail it to your bank. They will complete the form, sending one copy to you and one to Social Security.
7. After I sign up, when will the bank start receiving my check?
It should take about a month for the form to be processed. At the start of the program, it could take slightly longer.
8. What about terminating the direct deposit program?
Simply contact the Social Security office and request that they start sending the checks directly to you. Also notify your bank.
9. Is there any charge for this service?
No, it is completely free service of The Hereford State Bank.
10. What if the amount of my check changes?
The correct amount of your check will be deposited each month.
11. I get payments from both the social security and supplemental income. Do I have to fill out two forms?
Yes, a separate form is necessary for each check you receive.
12. My spouse and I receive a check jointly. Can we use direct deposit?
Yes, just so the account in which it is deposited is in both your names.
13. Can I deposit my check directly to my spouse's account?
No, the account to which your check is deposited must carry your name.
14. Can my minor children's checks be deposited to my checking account?
If the checks carry your name as representative payee, they may be deposited to your checking account. If you wish to deposit these funds to a savings account, you must have a separate account for each child.

YOU MAY COME INTO THE BANK AND WE WILL ASSIST YOU IN COMPLETING THE VERY BRIEF FORM OR YOU CAN CLIP OUT THE FORM BELOW AND WE WILL MAIL YOU FORMS TO BE COMPLETED.

Labor Day Telethon Features New Talent

America's greatest entertainment spectacular, the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, will be broadcast again this year over KFDD-TV Channel 10, starting at 10:30 P.M., Sunday, August 31, and ending at 10:30 P.M., Monday, September 1.

The annual super-show, featuring comedy, music, and dance, will be broadcast live from Del Webb's Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas. Ed McMahon will be Jerry's anchorman again this year.

The Telethon, held to benefit the research and patient service programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) will be beamed to over 190 stations in the continental U.S., including Alaska, and will be seen live via satellite in Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Arthur Forrest, producer-director of Telethon '75, is helping Jerry line up more new talent than ever to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Telethon. New stars will be joining such veteran Telethon celebrities as Sammy Davis, Jr., David Harman, Wayne Newton, Carol Lawrence, Don Ho, and Chad Everett. Also Helping Jerry will be a host of sports stars headed by Miami Dolphins quarterback Bob Griese, Chairman of MDA's National Sports Committee.

Last year's Telethon, ninth in the annual series, raised over $16.1-million for the fight against muscular dystrophy. Jerry Lewis predicts an even greater response this year, because, he says, "The wonderful generosity of the people in this country just keeps snowballing. I know the caring will keep on growing until it's big enough to produce a cure. I look forward to the Telethon every year—but this year especially because we'll be seen and heard more widely than ever before. And that means more money to give more kids with Muscular Dystrophy new hope."

KFDD will cut away from the network show for ten minutes every hour to introduce leading citizens, physicians, and dignitaries, and to present reports on MDA activities in the Pampa area.

Ashleys Gives 10-Speed Bike To Young Girl

Ashley's Outlet Store in Sugarland Mall held a contest this week in which a 10-speed bicycle was presented to Treasa Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Smith of 201 Star.

She won the prize after her name was drawn from a collection of entry blanks. The presentation was made by Ron Sanders, store manager.

The contest was held in conjunction with the store's back-to-school promotion.

Exhibits Of The Month

Mrs. William D. Askew, top photo, is shown with her painting of her son and his horse "Punkin." Below, Mrs. Arthur V. Dettmann displays her varied collection of cups, which she has gathered for the past 65 years. Both of these works will be on exhibit at Deaf Smith County Library throughout the month of August.

Library Features August Displays

Oil paintings of Mrs. William D. Askew and a cup collection assembled by Mrs. Arthur V. Dettmann are being featured this month at Deaf Smith County Library.

Inspired by the rambling ranch houses in eastern New Mexico, Mrs. Askew began to paint about 25 years ago. She brought her hobby with her when she and her husband came to Hereford 17 years ago. She has studied several levels of artistic instruction, including a couple of semesters at West Texas State University. Her favorite subjects for canvases are old buildings and semi-abstract.

Representing nostalgic memories of "some very interesting and active years," Mrs. Dettmann's cup collection dates back to 1910, when her father bought her a small red and white glass cup at a carnival in Wagon Mound, N.M. Throughout her childhood, she received numerous demitasse cups from friends who were padding her mother's collection.

Mrs. Dettmann's interest in these items was spurred when a personal acquaintance brought her a cup from Canada. On trips to square dances and target shooting competition, which interested her husband, the local woman often returned with souvenir cups. She retains many of the pieces from her mother's collection which contains antique cups at least 60 years old. Other additions were obtained by Mrs. Dettmann, a teacher, while she chaperoned senior class trips.

By Bill Albright, Executive VP Chamber of Commerce

The other day a fella told me "Why should I join the Chamber, you don't buy what I'm selling?" I guess in a way he's got a point!

But it's a pretty weak one! If he bases his value of the Chamber of Commerce on what the Chamber can "buy" from him—he's missed the whole reason for a Chamber of Commerce.

Coffee will begin at 6:15-as will the music. Breakfast line starts at 6:30-you'll be out before 6:00 a.m. and I know you'll have a good time. Remember 6:30 a.m. TUESDAY morning, High School Cafeteria. Call 364-3333 and let us know you're coming. This month's sponsor is Sugarland Merchants.

The only reason we have a Chamber is to help make our community a "better place to live and earn a living." It's designed to promote civic activities that are good for the majority of the people; to help advertise our community to order to bring "fame and fortune" to our people; and to help bring in "new dollars" in order to stabilize the economy.

Thank goodness, most folks understand that. If they didn't I'd have to drive a different car each month, get my hair trimmed in a half a dozen different barber shops each week and take my meals in a different restaurant each day. Kind of ridiculous, but a few folks do feel that way only because they don't recognize the real worth of our Chamber. If you know of any like that—please set 'em straight—or let the office know and I'll give it a try.

Talk about ambassadors of Hereford. The most recent group to promote our great community are the fabulous "Chamber Singers" from Hustlin' Hereford. Bill Dovers and his crew of vocal volunteers "wowed 'em" at the capital in Austin. (Ty Orsborn of the Speaker's Office made two personal phone calls to us to tell us of the overwhelming reaction from the performance at the Rotunda.) This was followed by two standing ovations from the Austin Downtown Lions Club and that night in San Antonio some 500 professional Choral Directors rose to their feet midway through the first half of the program and applauded for almost ten (10) minutes. To say the response was indescribable is obvious and it was an unforgettable experience, not only for the audience but for our Chamber Singers. Congratulations and hats off to a really great group of folks representing a really great community. (Say, that fella I spoke of earlier ought to take note of just these last two activities to get an idea of "his" Chamber in action.) Remember it takes three-YOU-Your Chamber and ME and plenty of HUSTLE, HUSTLE, HUSTLE!

The FUN Breakfast is really building up a head of steam. The breakfast itself is worth the price of admission but when we add the entertainment, the fun and fellowship and the chance to win some real cold cash—it's the greatest bargain of the month. But folks, PLEASE call in your reservation by noon tomorrow. We must have them ran out of food last time because twice as many people came as made reservations.

Girls in bathing suits look especially good now.

Army Reunions Set

With the current booming housing situation in Lubbock it is hard to imagine a time when there was such a tremendous need for housing here that many military men and their families actually stayed in the homes of Lubbock citizens.

The housing shortage was just one of the many problems encountered when Lubbock Army Air Field and South Plains Army Air Field first opened here during the early part of WWII. Though the problems seemed endless they were all resolved one way or another and the two military bases made a contribution to the U.S. war effort that was equalled by few other communities. The men and women who encountered those problems, and solved them, will be back in town soon as the first reunion for all military and civilian personnel who served on the bases during WWII will be held at Reese AFB on August 16.

A full day of activities is planned and maximum time is being allowed for all who attend to rekindle old acquaintances and friendships. The day will begin with registration at the Reese AFB theater at 10:30 a.m. which will be followed by a brief program and welcoming remarks. A Bar-B-Q will be held at noon at the Reese base park, with an exhibit of photographs and materials from the two bases at the party house in the park. The afternoon will be used for tours or renewing old friendships.

The reunion, expected to attract hundreds for this first attempt, is being sponsored by the Governmental Affairs Committee of The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Anyone wanting more information concerning the reunion should contact the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Box 561, ATTN: Military Reunion, Lubbock, 79408, or call Area Code 806-763-4666 and ask for Dick Moseley.

Away It Goes

Helen Ann McWhorter slams the ball down the fairway, demonstrating the form which enabled her to achieve a hole-in-one on number 14 Sunday at the Municipal Golf Course. She used an eight iron for the ace on the 135 yard, par three hole. The foursome in which she was playing Sunday was four under par on number 14, as her husband, D.A. McWhorter, had a birdie on the hole, her son, Mike also had a two, and her daughter, Cindy, had a par three.

Golf Set Here

The Men's City Golf Tournament has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, August 9 and 10, at the Municipal Golf Course. Entrants must be 18 years of age and older. The tourney will consist of 36 holes medal play. The tournament will be flighted by handicaps. Play will begin at 2 p.m. both days. Jimmy Holmes of Hereford is the defending champion.

Also, a Junior Golf Tournament will be held in conjunction with the men's tournament. Boys aged 6 to 17 are eligible to enter. Players will be bracketed by ages. Play begins at 9 a.m. each day in the junior division. The entry fee for the men's division is $12.50, and for the junior division, $2.00. Gift certificates for merchandise will be awarded winners in the men's division.

Entries must be in by 5 p.m. Friday, August 8.

Edward Kennedy, Senator (D-Mass): "This administration seems to understand inflation only when it comes to the defense budget."

Prepares To Hit

Jimmy Holmes of Hereford prepares to hit one of the long, accurate shots for which he is known. He has been one of the top participants in golf tournaments in the Panhandle area for several years, and will defend his local title at the Men's City Golf Tournament, slated for Saturday and Sunday. He won the event last year with rounds of 68 and 73.

BASEBALL

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Billy Martin rubs management the wrong way and that's the story of his firing at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas. But he is a competitor and puts together competing teams.

The basic dispute at Texas was whether emphasis should be placed on veterans or youngsters. Martin relied more on veterans, some acquired by trades. Did this help land the Tigers where they are today?

His critics say Martin is all for today and that failure to bring on youngsters leads to lean years after his inevitable departure.

But his backers point to the amazing turnaround of the Rangers in 1974 as conclusive proof that, whatever his methods, they work wonders.

Martin took over a club that had been a bad last and which didn't have much hope of being in the pennant chase. Yet last September they gunned down the world champion Oakland A's impressively with a late charge which might have won the marbles if it had begun earlier. That's why Billy was manager of the year. Can he change in twelve months?

EVEL PLANS 'REVENGE' JUMP

Daredevil Motorcyclist Evel Knisel seeks revenge. The famed 36-year-old stuntman, who landed in the hospital May 26 (Memorial Day) when he failed to clear 13 buses before 75,000 onlookers at London's Wembley Stadium, wants to try again.

Hurting through the air in excess of 100 mph, he just missed clearing the last row of buses — single-deck types, not the double-deckers. After the fall he somersaulted over the handlebars and slid along the ground before the machine crashed on top of him.

Evel is now at his home in Butte, Mont., recovering from a crushed vertebra, broken pelvis and a fractured right hand.

The showman, who graduated last week from two crutches to one, was told by his doctor that his healing was three weeks ahead of schedule.

"Knisel will try again to even the score with his latest stunts at London in early October before an expected crowd of 100,000.

The blond and handsome 6-foot, 175-pounder said he had a feeling he was going to miss.

"I didn't have the speed I wanted. Those buses were eight and a half feet wide, U.S. buses are eight feet.

"When I found out, I didn't have time to get the proper gearing over there on a plane, I said I would jump anyway.

"When you think you've got a fighting chance you go out there and do it.

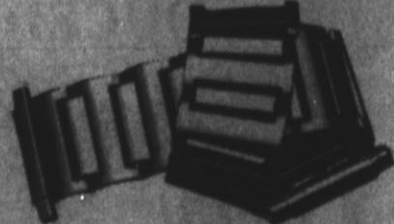

"But I told Frank Gifford, who was doing a TV commentary, that my chances were less than 50-50."

Asked why he had gone back on his decision never to jump again, Evel said: "Because I don't know of three people in the world who can draw 100,000 people to Wembley Stadium.

"But I can. That's something to be proud of, and it's a responsibility. That's why.

Penney's Gives Music to Schools

The response from thousands of high schools and colleges throughout the country to the new collection of music for the Bicentennial celebration has been uniformly enthusiastic, according to Clea Corlis, store manager of JCPenney here.

"School music groups are planning Bicentennial Musical Celebration concerts next fall with this new music," Corlis said. "In our own area, packages of the Celebration music have been received by Hereford High School, Dimmitt and Friess High Schools, and the Choral Music by the Chamber of Commerce "Community Singers".

Thirty-five new and historically important compositions reflecting America's 200-year musical heritage were scored, arranged and printed for distribution to America's high schools and colleges as JCPenney's Bicentennial gift to America. The three boxes of music—one each for band, orchestra and chorus—comprise the Bicentennial Musical Celebration, 30 numbers from musical archives and five newly-commissioned works by contemporary composers.

"Opening the box was like another Christmas day," the music director of a high school in Chicago wrote. "...A remarkable contribution to music education and a splendid way to celebrate the Bicentennial," another wrote from Blauvelt, New York.

"Orders for the music are still coming in," Corlis said. "The response from schools in the Texas Panhandle as well as from throughout the country has reassured us that we chose the most appropriate way to recognize our Bicentennial."

Distribution of the music packages will continue through next fall. Those schools who have not received their music or who failed to send in their requests earlier are advised to contact the manager of their nearest JCPenney store, Corlis said.

"Some schools sent in their requests but somehow failed to list name and address," he added.

The Bicentennial Musical Celebration was assembled by a blue ribbon panel of musicians and music educators from throughout the country. They

In addition, five new works were commissioned to eminent contemporary composers—"Man of La Mancha" composer Mitch Leigh, Pulitzer Prize-winner Norman Dello Joio, jazzman David Baker, Black classicist Adolphus C. Hallstork, and Californian Roger Nixon, noted for his compositions for band.

The musical celebration was the first major Bicentennial project originating in the private sector to be awarded the coveted official recognition by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, the Federal agency coordinating the nation's 200th birthday activities.

Veterans' Queries Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—The law provides a grant not to exceed $3,300 for certain disabled veterans toward purchase of an automobile. If a veteran received this grant when the amount was lower, can he show use the difference toward purchase of another automobile?

A—No; however, the law does provide for repair or replacement of adaptive equipment necessary for safe operation of an automobile acquired under this benefit.

Q—I used the specially adapted housing grant when it was $12,500. This grant has now been raised to $25,000. Am I entitled to the difference on another house?

A—No. This is a one-time benefit for eligible veterans.

Q—I am a son of a veteran who died of service-connected causes. I received dependency and indemnity compensation after age 18 while attending college until I married. I am now 20 and divorced. Will benefits be restored since I am still attending school?

A—Yes. DIC payments for eligible children may be paid between the ages of 18 and 23, while enrolled in a VA-approved school. Benefits are terminated when the child marries. Since Jan. 1, 1975, benefits may be restored if the marriage is terminated due to death or divorce.

Political Bias

Congress has voted to continue the federal government's price control of oil and this latest move ought to convince the oil industry that it may as well give up trying to talk common sense to politicians who don't hear what the oil companies are saying.

These politicians, notably Senators Scoop Jackson and Adlai Stevenson, are convinced that the oil companies are making a killing from the oil scarcity and are determined to force prices down by passing a bill.

Evidently a majority of Congress is determined to use the oil industry as the whipping post for most of the ills of this country.

Regardless of the facts and figures presented to them, they refuse to budge.

Jack Allen of Perryton's Alpar Resources, and an officer of the nation's independent oil industry, was in Washington last week to take part in efforts to talk some sense into the heads of Senators, pointing out that when you take away the incentive to risk money in drilling for oil and take the profit out of producing it, you do not have more domestic oil, but less. And you have more dependence upon foreign oil.

All of this slipped past the Senators without a second glance.

We have had a sudden sharp rise in the demand for gasoline and a decline in gasoline stocks, plus the simultaneous announcement of gasoline price boosts by refiners on July 1.

Jackson says this clearly indicates a manufactured shortage on the part of the oil companies. Stevenson says it is a classic study in the power of the oil companies.

They overlook the fact that the Federal Energy Agency has written rules and regulations designed to restrict and regulate the production and distribution of gas and oil products. They forget that they voted a series of taxes on oil which boosted the price.

These Northern and Eastern Senators who live in areas without oil and gas production ought to spend some time in the oil patch. They might find that not everybody connected with the oil industry is rolling in wealth and that right now the independent oil people are fighting for their lives, in real danger of being legislated out of business.

The price of hunting for oil has skyrocketed, with drilling costs, pipe, machinery, fuel, everything up. That's why the producers don't get real excited about drilling for oil at a controlled price of $5.25 per barrel while they might risk more capital if the price were higher.

We have a situation that is serious. It is not whether or not we have cheap gasoline with which to drive our automobiles. It is whether we will have any gasoline at all. If our domestic oil industry shrinks very much, we will be in serious shape, indeed. The problem is how to put that idea across to politicians whose constituents cling to the belief that everybody connected with the oil industry is filthy rich.

ONE YEAR AGO

A Hereford woman died as the result of a shooting in Farwell, N.M. She was found shot to death in a car parked behind a television repair shop in the New Mexico city. Her ex-husband was charged with murder. Hereford's booming building program almost came to a standstill in July of 1974. Only 14 building permits, totaling $46,624, were issued for the month. This was the lowest total for any one month since February of 1973. Building revenue for the year amounted to $1,084,675. Tommy Overstreet, the popular country and western recording star, appeared in concert here at the Bull Barn for two hours to raise money for Girlstown. His group, the Nashville Express, also appeared. The concert was sponsored by the Lions Club as the culmination of carnival week. Clint Formby of Hereford was elected chairman of the board of regents for Texas Tech University. Formby is a graduate of Texas Tech. Employees of Holly Sugar Corporation's Shoup plant here won a trophy for showing the most improved performance of any of Holly's factories during 1973. Plans were being made for Texas Attorney General John Hill to speak here.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Texas Football Magazine predicted that Hereford would finish last in the district football race. 1970 was Hereford's first year to compete in AAAA action. The local team surprised everyone, however, and had a good season on the way to attaining prominence in the highest level of Texas schoolboy football. Clayton Threadgill narrowly escaped death when the small plane in which he was flying crashed in a field northwest of Hereford. F.L. Eicke was enjoying a pond stocked purely for recreational purposes on his farm north of Hereford. The pond had been stocked with catfish and filled with clean, cool irrigation water. Representatives of the Deaf Smith County Public Health Clinic asked the city commission for its help in paying for the utilities needed in the operation of the program. 1970 was a particularly hot year, with the temperature frequently soaring past the century mark.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Action was taken on Hereford's growing health problem as Dr. L.B. Barnett, County Health Officer, announced that he was condemning all of the outdoor toilets at the Labor Camp southwest of town and that measures would have to be taken in the camp to cover garbage and trash cans and to provide for proper disposal of the refuse. Wet, rainy weather held up the 1969 potato harvest. Had it not been for the rain, local harvest...It was reported that irrigated pasture grasses better when fertilized. Funds were being collected to pay for expenses of the celebration of the opening of Harrison Highway. Barbecue was provided free to the public at that celebration.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Hereford Chamber of Commerce was planning a "good will" trip to Grady and Bellview, N.M. It was planned that a caravan of Hereford businessmen would travel to the neighboring cities for the purposes of getting better acquainted and advertising the Deaf Smith County Fair, scheduled for September 18 and 19, 1925. This was the first of a number of caravan trips into different communities. Rain continued to fall constantly over the plains area. More than 2½ inches fell during a one-week period, insuring feed and cotton crops.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY—Houston's Rice Hotel, which closed earlier this year, owed its existence, in part, to good detective work.

Multimillionaire William Marsh Rice acquired the Capitol Hotel at that location in 1886. He intended that the hotel and the rest of his estate would be used to endow a university in his name. His plan proved to be the prelude to his murder, however. Here is the story:

In September, 1900, a New York bank clerk was handed two certified checks for $25,000 and $65,000 signed by Mr. Rice and made out to an Albert L. Patrick. The clerk, suspicious of the signatures, insisted on checking with Mr. Rice. He was found dead, apparently of a heart attack.

Patrick, a lawyer, swore that the checks were payments due him for legal work. He also produced a will making him the principal beneficiary of the Rice estate. New York police, however, ordered an autopsy on the body of Rice and a full investigation of the incident.

The investigation showed that Rice had died of poison and that Patrick had never been his attorney. It developed that Charles F. Jones, Rice's secretary, had concocted the murder and the forged will and checks.

James A. Baker, Rice's long-time Houston attorney, produced a valid will leaving most of the estate to found an institution "for the advancement of literature, science and art." It also directed that the Capitol Hotel be renamed the Rice.

Thus a suspicious bank clerk and good police work combined to give Houston both a major university and a world famous hotel.

THE LAST WORD—Katherine Anne Porter, the Texas-born writer whose books are among the most widely praised in American literature, has plotted her exit from this world as carefully as she did the incidents in her Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "Ship of Fools." Miss Porter, now 85 and a resident of Prince George's County, Md., dislikes undertakers and wants no funeral service. To escape both, she has ordered a $160 pine coffin from a mail order carpentry shop and has directed that her body be wrapped in linen and cremated.

Born in 1890 at Indian Creek, Brown County, and raised at Kyle, Hays County, Miss Porter left Texas as a young girl. Her one novel, plus three books of short stories, have brought her critical acclaim as one of the greatest of modern writers.

POLITICAL PALAVER—The first Texan of Mexican descent was elected to the Legislature in 1846.

It was 91 years before another was selected by the voters.

In 1846, Joe Antonio Navarro of Bexar County was elected to the Legislature. He served one term.

No other Mexican-American was elected until 1957 when Bexar County voters chose Henry B. Gonzales as their representative. He served in the House of Representatives until his election to Congress.

Postal Prices Could Spell Doom To Press Freedom

Some rather startling recommendations were made recently by the administrative law judge of the Postal Rate Commission concerning future postal rates. If followed, these recommendations could spell disaster for the United States Postal Service itself and for freedom of the press as we know it.

Among other things, the judge proposes increasing the price of a first-class stamp to cents to 8½ cents. Sounds fine from the consumer's point of view, doesn't it? Well, it's not. And the reason is that judge wants to make up the loss in first-class revenues by inordinate increases in the costs of mailing magazines, newspapers, books and packages. Actually, his plan would wind up costing the consumer more—not less.

And what does his plan do to the USPS? It means a reduction of $900-million in first-class revenues, and tell doubtful prospect that this will be made up by the certain reduction in usage of the other classes of mail. Not to mention the fact that there is already a $6.1-billion deficit facing the postal service. Bankruptcy? Certainly a possibility.

Moreover, the judge's proposals could also

Utility Regulation-- A Risky Place In History

It would be nice if we could all be listed in the history books for one action or another. Naturally this isn't possible, but how unfair it would be for someone else to try and capitalize on the historical actions of others. Sort of like a scientist taking credit for some other researcher's efforts.

Well such is the situation between two Panhandle towns—Hereford and Canyon. It was back on March 17 when the Hereford City Commission thought they went down in the history books by enacting a utility regulation ordinance detailing stricter procedures for utility companies to follow in requesting higher rate increases.

And now, Canyon comes along and claims to be the first of Panhandle area cities to think about passing a utilities regulation ordinance, at least so says the town's paper, The Canyon News. While it might be that the territory to the west of our neighbor city is considered nothingness, it is more likely that an oversight, way over the skies of Hereford, has caused one more of Hereford's progressive actions to go unnoticed.

I don't blame the Canyon paper for necessarily trying to let original credit go to its own governmental body since it really adds prestige to report an event of possible historical significance.

However the real damage comes from the fact that other towns don't pay as much attention to each other as they should through their local mediums. For instance, the Hereford City Commissioners were taking what they considered a big risk by challenging the all powerful utility companies when they passed the ordinance even to the point of possibly going to court to test its contents. This they thought was not for themselves but a step forward for other cities in the Panhandle, where it is said everyone bands together for a common cause.

Well as it turned out, no other cities particularly paid any attention to us and the utilities were probably delighted that we didn't carry any more weight than we did. In the meantime, the companies were still content to receive their 100 per cent pass through on increased cost of resources such as natural gas and the consumer continued to receive the raw end of the deal.

Anyway, the story in the July 31 issue of the Canyon News spells out the attempts of Canyon city government to provide the "proving ground" for a utility regulation law. However, Hereford took that chance 4 1/2 months ago after considering such action for a month.

It was City Attorney Earnest Langley who said, "Gentlemen, I believe you have made history tonight." And this was said after it was agreed that since no other city was taking the lead, then Hereford ought to halt any further encroachment by utility powerhouses.

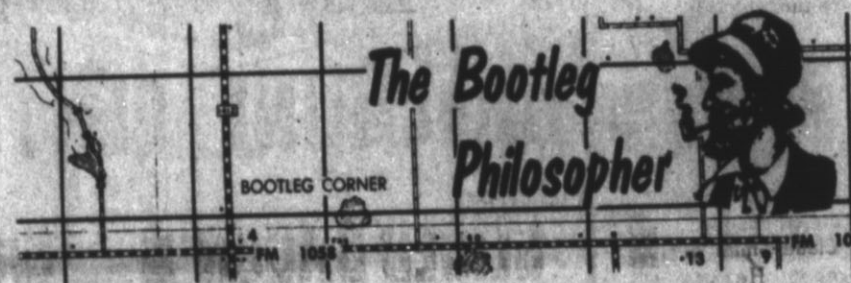

It definitely was no small risk as the utilities are obviously interested in blocking any kind of government control. The state legislature this year passed a much needed law to control the telephone companies leaving the electric and gas firms on an optional basis with local control. If cities desire, they may turn this control over to the state, but telephone regulation will be solely under state reins after Sept. 1, 1976.

We made our wishes known, and apparently the less the state has to do with it the better off we are.

Representatives from Pioneer Natural Gas and Southwestern Public Service Co. are expected to make strong protests at a Canyon City Commission meeting Monday against the ordinance.

What they ought to have been doing is turning their attention toward Hereford's ordinance and see what it would do to them when trying for another increase. In the meantime they survive fairly well with the 100 per cent pass through of costs.

I am indeed glad that Canyon wants to do what they can to stop runaway utility price hikes, but let's put the credit where it is deserved—in the laps of our city commissioners.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg Corner comes to the defense of the United States this week, more or less.

Dear Editor:

A lot of talk has been going on lately over the United States' standing in the world. Some people are saying that we've lost our influence, that other nations no longer respect us, that the world's regard for our vaunted power has dropped, that our voice in the councils of the world has no more authority than a Justice of the Peace trying to overrule a decision by the Supreme Court, even if he might be right.

I don't know how much authority we have left, but I want to challenge the notion that we've lost our influence. Lots of foreign countries are still learning from us.

For example, lately it has been revealed that government and political parties in other countries have been getting huge donations running into the millions and millions of dollars from American companies doing business over there.

Where do you think those countries got the idea? You know they looked at us, said look here, if the Republican and Democratic parties in the U.S. can extract vast sums of money from big corporations, let's get in on that too.

And the big companies, wanting to avoid trouble buying bananas or oil or tin, etc., or wanting to sell more military hardware or chewing gum or sodawater or grain or whatnot overseas, said Sure, we'll donate a little something to your party, or both parties, or all three or four or five or however many you have, just so the winner stays on our side.

Who says other countries aren't influenced by what we do in the U.S.?

Of course, I have a notion the big corporations wish those foreign countries would follow us a little closer and settle down to just two parties. Donating to four or five can run into big money.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

ALONG THE FRIO

By MRS. OWEN ANDREWS
Brand Correspondent

The wedding of Troy Manley to Miss Nancy Ann Scherlan of Borger Saturday is of interest to people in the area. Troy, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Manley of Hereford, and sister, Linda, (Mrs. Dennis Mesley of Amarillo) lived in the community and were active in Frio church and other activities when the children were small.

Miss Scherlan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Scherlan of Borger. The wedding was on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in St. John Catholic Church, Borger. The bride is a secretary with Amarillo Public School system and Manley is employed with Soil Conservation Service in Canyon.

He also attends WTSU. He has attended college since returning two years ago from duty with the Air Force for four years, including 18 months in Okanawa. The young couple will live in South Amarillo.

A visitor with friends and relatives in the area this week was Mrs. Stella Sevier of El Paso. She came especially to visit her mother, Mrs. Fortenberry, who lives in Westgate Nursing Home and with sister in the area.

She stayed with Mrs. Inman Larsen, one of the sisters, and Mr. Larson Monday night. Mrs. Sevier is planning to leave this weekend for a trip to England, where she expects to visit her daughter, Mrs. Arthur (Caroline) Duke and Mr. Dukefer about two weeks. Duke's parents also were to go with Mrs. Sevier on the chartered plane flight. The Dukes have been in England a year, where he is with the U.S. Civil Service.

Another visitor in the community and area the past few days was Claud Smith of Pendleton, Oregon. He was visiting his sister, Mrs. Aubry Epperson and Mrs. Ben Medlin and brother, C.M. Smith, all in Hereford; a brother, Harry of Dalhart, and other relatives. He was also looking up friends from years past.

Smith lived here in the Easter community with the family as a young boy, married and lived in the area until 1946, when he and his family moved to Oregon. He spent many years in the logging business around Roseburg and Pendleton, before retiring from such active work on account of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harkins, Sandy and Terry, have been as far as Carthage, Mo. during the past few days. They visited the Glen Andrews there on Tuesday night. They had also visited the Belingers, who are former residents of this area, and also visited an uncle of Mrs. Harkins all of whom live in northern Arkansas.

Russell stayed at home to keep things going here, while the family was away.

Recent visitors of Mrs. Carleen Dobbins and her children, the Edgar Vinsons and the Robert Dobbins, were relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clay, Vivian and Kent, of Searcy, Ark. The local people got together at the Dobbins home to visit with the relatives.

Also visiting the Dobbins family were Mrs. Dobbins brother, G.W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, of Winters. Joining the family group for visiting were another brother, Joe Scott and Mrs. Scott of Dimmitt, and Mrs. Scott's sister, Mrs. Melba Mahaffey of Fresno, Calif., who has been visiting the Dimmitt relatives.

Recent visitors of the Joe Shultz family and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shultz were Joe's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hess and Mrs. Stella Hecison, all of Alamogordo, N.M. Also coming were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Boss of Lubbock.

Visiting the Lloyd Shultzes last weekend were her brother, Mike Smith and Mrs. Smith of Corpus Christi.

Here last weekend to visit the Mobeys and all the relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Don Mobley and sons, Farmington, N.M. Also, the Herman Vinsons of Childress and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rene of Midland joined the family group. The Mobeys and Floyd Celes joined the group in a family supper with Nell Miller in Hereford Saturday night and all had Sunday dinner with Mrs. Mobley and Austin on Sunday.

Mrs. Floyd Cole and Beverly were in Lubbock Monday and Tuesday for Beverly to begin the enrollment process at Texas Tech, where she plans to attend school this year.

Santa Fe Income Down Some

Net income of Santa Fe Industries, Inc., for the second quarter of 1975 was $22.9 million, or 80 cents a share, compared with $30.3 million, or $1.18 a share in 1974, a decline of 34 per cent, John S. Reed, chairman, announced recently.

Net income for the first six months was $31.1 million, or $1.20 a share, compared with $66.8 million, or $2.31 a share during the same period last year, he reported.

Revenues for the second quarter were $342 million compared with $358 million for the same period last year. The $16 million decline reflects a drop of 15 per cent in carloads handled by Santa Fe Railway.

Reed said, however, there are some encouraging signs which are not fully reflected in the reported revenue and earnings figures for the first half. "The decline in our railroad business has now begun to level off. Aided by substantially increased carloads of grain in July the gap between last year's carloadings and this year's is narrowing. Referring to Santa Fe's oil operation, Reed pointed out that average daily production during the first six months was 47,700 barrels, compared with 46,700 a year ago.

To learn, one must listen, and that's what throws many of us.

The Abundant Life

Ease The Load

By BOB WEAR

There is a load for all of us to carry, and this is as it should be; because it is part of being human, and is one of the important challenges for each person. There is, in this connection, one very important point to remember. There are ways by which we can often "ease the load", and this must be our aim. We can "ease the load" we carry by learning all we can about living. Some of the generally recognized ways of doing this are available to all of us. Even though some people may do better than others, with the application of these ways; everybody can apply them with some degree of effectiveness.

A proper sense of values will help in two ways. To some extent, the load itself can be made lighter; and we will also have much-needed strength and understanding which will make it easier to carry our load. We can develop a reasonable degree of good judgment, and using this good judgment will prevent the addition of unnecessary weight to our load. This will also help us not to make the mistake of exaggerating; we will not make mountains out of mole hills.

WE CAN HELP "ease the load" for each other, if we keep this possibility as a constancy in our thoughts; and let it help fashion our attitude toward each other. With this observation, it is very important to realize that such efforts must be controlled by, and exerted with the very best possible judgment.

We must learn how to extend this help, without becoming overly involved. In all instances of trying to give assistance, there will be a point beyond which we cannot go. It is important that we be able to recognize this point and respect it.

"Are you easing the load of overtaxed lifters who toll down the road? Or, are you a leazer who lets others share your portion of labor, worry and care?" -Anon.

IN MOST CASES, we can help "ease the load" by our established pattern of thought and behavior. When we keep remembering to be appreciative for the good and useful things that others are doing, and let them know that we are; we are helping to "ease the load" that they are carrying.

When we let others know that we understand, and that we are wholesomely sympathetic with them; we "ease the load" they are bearing. In being charitable toward the mistakes and shortcomings of others, we will be helping "ease their load". This behavior will include diligence in refusing to criticize. Of course, we will see the realities in the lives of other people; but we will be encouraging and building up, rather than discouraging and tearing down.

With wise attitudes and actions, we can "ease the load" for ourselves; and, to some extent, for each other.

Basic Strength

When people are strong, in the best way of being strong; they have a much better chance to take care of, support and protect themselves and everything they hold dear. This is strength of spirit, strength of character; which is always the "basic strength" upon which all other strength must ultimately depend for support. In fact, physical; economic; political; and other such strength cannot long endure without the basic human "strength of spirit".

To live profitably and comfortably, a man must have both material success and spiritual fiber. -A.A.M.

THERE IS GREAT NEED for such strength, and this need is individual and collective. We can be strong, and we can help each other to be strong. With a consciousness of the need, the realization that this need can be filled, and the willingness to try; and continue trying; it can be done.

How great is our desire to do it? We do have such potential, and we have a reasonably good chance to realize our potential. This will have to be the very best quality of human behavior.

This "basic strength" is not as elusive as our general actions make it appear to be; it is not out of our reach. With the adoption of a strong sense of values; renewed respect for the generally well-known traits of good character, such as honesty, decency, morality, industriousness, frugality, and wise stewardship; we can become strong. We can become strong, in the only dependable and enduring way known to mankind.

We can help each other, in the development and maintenance of this "basic strength". In fact, we must help each other; if we are ever able to realize our potential, and meet the challenge of the day. This can be done, and we must think, and talk, and act with the conviction that it can be done. The doing will more than justify the great efforts.

"IT IS MUCH BETTER to give hope and strength and courage, than money. The best help is not to bear the troubles of others for them, but to inspire them with courage and energy to bear their own burdens for themselves, and meet with the difficulties of life bravely. To help others is no easy matter, but requires a clear head and wise judgement, as well as a warm heart." -J. Lubbock.

Self-indulgence is not the way to become strong, but is probably the quickest and surest way to become weak. This does not mean that we must be harsh and severe with ourselves, but it does mean that there must be wise and benevolent self-denial and self-management. It also means that there must be unwavering devotion to the best known principles of human conduct.

Our outer physical and material strength must be supported by our well-developed inner strength; our "basic strength".

Students Chat

Abnormal Watermelon Season

AUSTIN—Short supplies brought on by poor weather conditions have caused watermelon prices to rise this summer.

"It has been an abnormal season for watermelon," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "Harvest was late in the Lower Rio Grande Valley because of the drought there."

He added that melons in the Dilly-Pearsall area were hurt by hail.

White said the watermelon season had peaked and supplies were declining. He said prices probably would fluctuate between now and mid-August when the commercial season in Texas ends.

Status Symbol Still

White bread has been a status symbol since the days of the Egyptian Pharaohs, who required slaves to sift flour through silk cloths to get it clean and white. To many people in developing countries, white bread still represents a higher standard of living.

More than 33 million 4-H alumni continue to live the 4-H motto: To Make the Best Better.

History Of Ag College Being Formulated At Texas Tech

More than five decades of documentation and memorabilia preserved in the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech are providing a wealth of information for the development of a history of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the university.

"The development of the College of Agricultural Sciences from an embryonic department through status as a school and into a full-blown college is a part of the overall history of Texas Tech," said Dr. Anson R. Bertrand, dean of the college. "The college has developed and grown through the full spectrum of offer bachelors, masters and doctoral degrees."

"This rapid growth was due, in part, to the dedication of the founders of the institution and its early faculty," Bertrand said. "But it also is due to the help of the agricultural industry and of the friends of the institution. It therefore is fitting that the 50th anniversary of the college be marked by a formal history as a part of the celebration of the university's golden anniversary."

Dr. Donald E. Green, an award winning historian, is writing the college history. "History is a stream, not a series of isolated events," Green said. "The history of an institution has to show the relationship of the institution to the region in which it is located."

"As the region influences the institution," Green said, "so does the institution influence the region. It is difficult to measure this influence because it is never quantitative, it is qualitative."

The diversity of materials available in Texas Tech's Southwest Collection is helpful in measuring the relationships and influences he is seeking, according to Green.

"As the university archives and a regional historical repository, the Southwest Collection holds as fine a collection of institutional materials as any I have seen," Green said. The author is working with the archives' collections of correspondence, documents, memoranda, photographs and programs of special events gathered throughout the institution's history.

"The oral history section of the Southwest Collection has been of special use during this project," Green said. "The oral history brings to life the recollections and interpretations of some of the original faculty and administrators. Their thoughts and the hard data available present a colorful and accurate accounting of the institution's history."

Green received the Friends of the Dallas Library Award for 1973 of Texas Institute of Letters for his book, "Land of the Underground Rain: Irrigation on the Texas High Plains, 1910-1970." Much of the research for that book was done at the Southwest Collection. He also presented his research notes and manuscripts to the Tech repository upon completion of the work.

Green currently is associate professor of history at Central State University, Edmond, Okla. He holds degrees from Abilene Christian College, Texas Tech and the University of Oklahoma.

Green is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Green of Wellington, Tex. His wife, Omelia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Crawford of Tulla, Tex.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There's a growing chance President Ford will soon have the chance to make his first Supreme Court nomination. Justice William Douglas is determined to return to the court in October but his left arm is still useless and he can only take a step or two without a wheel chair.

The High Court—President Ford—Justice Douglas—Too Ill—

Douglas, 76, suffered a serious stroke; he also uses an internal heart aid. Thus chances seem strong that sooner or later the ailing Justice will realize the safest course is that he resign to reduce his activities.

Eight Justices is an awkward number since the likelihood of the votes is considerably enhanced, especially with the present court which is evenly split on so many fundamental issues. (The 5-4 split decisions of recent years are sometimes liberal and sometimes conservative, depending on the philosophy of several pivotal Justices.)

President Ford has not yet made a selection for the high court. President Nixon named four of its present members. Two Southerners Mr. Nixon nominated were rejected.

Brief, Very Brief

- Soviet denies it plans bases in Libya.
- Rise in oil imports seen despite Ford's action.
- Ford reported weighing Democratic rivals.
- Army and Air Force to cut officers.
- Alaska court backs marijuana in home.
- Military control of Portuguese politics urged.
- U.S. and Philippines begin talks on bases.
- U.S. track team finds Dodge fan in China.
- Bar group asks more legal aid for the poor.

BIBLE VERSE

"A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger."

- Where is the quotation found in the Bible?
- Who is the author?
- What is the value of the book?
- What king helped preserve these words?

Answers To Bible Verse

- Proverbs 15:1.
- Solomon.
- Something of a guide for practical living.
- Hezekiah.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

By Clay R. Pollan

Note planetary ruler of your birth symbol FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, AUG. 4, 1975

★ If your birthday occurs this week... you enjoy good relations with your associates and profit from them in many ways. You strive always to maintain a happy, comfortable home. Unfortunately, there are those who do not understand your motives and will try to tarnish your honor. Social life is accelerated now. Place trust in Aries and Taurus persons.

Aries Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 Pluto
Pressure mounts in personal affairs. Some people seem to take delight in frustrating you. Avoid panic. Reinforce your position and be calm, deliberate. The loyalty of friends will surface. You'll be surprised as to how many real friends you have and will be gratified by their practical support.

Taurus Apr. 20 - May 20 Venus
Emphasis is on what you want to achieve and how you go about doing it. To attain your desires, keep to basic goals and permit no one to divert you. Sift facts from fancy and hew to the line of practical procedure. You'll uncover hitherto overlooked ways to progress. If there's opposition, meet it head-on.

Gemini May 21 - June 20 Mercury
You can establish very amicable relationships now. Keep in touch with someone who holds the key to your fortunes. Be optimistic and outgoing at all times. You can trust certain folks nearby to lend a hand. Pay special attention to the opposite sex. Thoughtful gifts will help. Don't rush. Weigh your actions.

Cancer June 21 - July 22 Moon
Excitement tingles the air. Social affairs accelerate. You may be attending a very glamorous gathering. Dress your best and show off your fine sparkle. Do some nice entertaining on your own part. Ask friends to your home, play games, have fun. Artistic, self-expressive activities give the greatest enjoyment.

Leo July 23 - Aug. 22 Sun
A week to be careful, cautiously so. Slight accidents could happen. While driving, an accident could be embarrassing, even if it's not your fault. Little mishaps could lurk in the confines of your home. It's a time for observing customs and conventions. Friends are inclined to be mean and selfish.

Youth Praise Lion

Tommy Bowling, advisor for the Leo Club, was presented a special plaque by the youth organization's president, Cindy Ruther, during the Hereford Lions Club luncheon meeting Wednesday. The Lions sponsor the high school club and Bowling was cited for his work and encouragement with the Leo Club. Cindy also presented a scrapbook of activities to the entire club for its sponsorship.

Constitution Will Pass, Sherman Tells Lions

Listing the strong points of the proposed new Texas Constitution, as well as some areas that may draw criticism, State Sen. Max Sherman told the Hereford Lions Club members and guest here Wednesday that he feels voters will approve the eight articles of revision in the Nov. 4 election.

Sen. Sherman said he personally favors adoption of all eight propositions even though he is not in total agreement with all articles. "They compromise on controversial matters but maintain the flexibility such a document needs," he pointed out.

Sherman was guest speaker at the Lions Club meeting at noon Wednesday in Civic Club Center. Earlier he held a press conference and visited with local residents at the C of C office.

In a special presentation at the Lions' luncheon, Leo Club president Cindy Ruther presented club advisor Tommy Bowling with a special plaque for his work with the high school organization the past year. She also presented the club with a certificate of appreciation for sponsoring the youth organization.

The November ballot will list eight propositions and voters can "pick and choose" without endorsing the whole package. In the absence of organized opposition, Sherman feels voters may approve all of the articles.

If the first proposition passes, the legislature will meet for a special 90-day implementation session in January. The first proposition provides for separation of powers and the legislative and executive branches of government. If the first proposition fails but others pass, Gov. Dolph Briscoe is mandated to call a special session later in the year.

With the eight articles, the new constitution would consist of about 17,500 words—less than half as many as the present constitution, adopted in 1876 and amended many times. Sherman said the 1876 document was very restrictive and was "designed for a particular time." It has been amended about 220 times.

Sherman pointed out that the mayor's race in Houston is the only other election he knows of that will be held at the time of the constitutional revision vote.

"It should help to bring out a lot of voters there and could represent a substantial percentage of the statewide vote on the constitutional revision," he added.

In his opinion, the document provides for accountability in government and better budget control. In addition to the sessions now on odd years, the new document provides for 90-day sessions on even-number years. Sherman believes this is desirable and will help provide better budget control.

The senator thinks the constitution strengthens local government. It maintains city home rule for municipalities and provides for ordinance-making powers for county governments. It does not provide for county home rule.

Sherman recommended two booklets to citizens who want to study the constitutional revision proposals. One, published by the state, is titled "Information Booklet on Constitutional Revision", and the other is a commercial publication, "Citizens Guide to the New Texas Constitution." The latter is expected to be available on news stands.

A lifelong resident of the Panhandle, Sen. Sherman represents the 31st District, which includes 26 counties. He is 11th in seniority in the Texas Senate. He is currently serving as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, is vice president of the committee on the Texas Constitution, and is a member of the finance and jurisprudence committees.

The 40-year-old senator was elected Senate President Pro Tem by his colleagues in 1973-74, the highest honor the senate can bestow on one of its members. He also served as Governor for a Day last year.

Ceremony Performed Beneath Floral Arch

An archway embroidered with pink roses and greenery formed the background for the marriage of Miss Olga Granadoz and Steve Ramirez Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Conducting the ceremony was the Rev. Jose Gilligan, pastor.

The couple are children of Mr. and Mrs. David Granadoz of 204 Blevins and Mr. and Mrs. Esteban Ramirez of 118 Ave. H.

White satin bows marked the aisle for the processional, which included Miss Norma Cantu, the bride's cousin, maid of honor. George Ramirez served his brother as best man.

Attendant couples were Messrs. and Mmes. Oberlin Garcia, John Torres, Manuel Gavina, Joe Martinez, Pablo Liscano, Martin Alejandro, Bobby Griego, Tony Gomez, Jesse Castillo, Ventura Rojas and Guadalupe Ortiz, plus Miss Macrina Huiza and Abel Estrada.

Chrysanthemums mounted on lace were carried by junior bridesmaids, who were Romelia Ortiz, Dora Gonzalez, Sylvia Casarez, Martha Estrada, Sandra Estrada, Lupe Liscano, Helen Luna, Mary Jane Cano and Marina Liscano. Each wore a long, pastel dress with matching picture hat.

Formal length gowns of bright pink chiffon were worn by bridal attendants. Each dress was styled with natural waistline, V-neckline and long sleeves. Complementing the ensembles were carnation corsages and brief veils attached with bows.

The wedding reception was held after the marriage in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company. Refreshments were served by Mmes. Bobby Griego, Eluterio Madrigal and Esteban Ramirez.

Pink roses created from icing cascaded down the three-tiered wedding cake which was topped by traditional bride and groom figurines and encircled by four heart-shaped layers. The serving table was covered in white linen.

Signatures of wedding guests were secured by Mrs. John Torres.

For her going-away ensemble, Mrs. Ramirez wore a blue pantsuit with corresponding accessories. The couple will reside at 213 Ave. A.

The recent bride is a 1974 graduate of Hereford High School. Ramirez served three years in the U.S. Army after attending HHS. He is currently employed by Suit's Auto Supply.

Out-of-town guests who attended the ceremony Saturday included Mr. and Mrs. Oberlin Garcia of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Cantu Jr. of Conroe and Mrs. Jesus Cantu of Orange Grove.

To Voice Nuptial Vows

Miss Diana Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wyatt Watkins of 341 Centre, and Edward Belling, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Belling of Granite City, Ill., are engaged to marry. A graduate of Hereford High School, the bride-elect has completed her freshman year at Texas Tech University, where she is a member of Women's Service Organization. She is employed as a sales clerk at Wong's Imports. Belling, a graduate of Granite City High School North, majors in art and instructs guitar lessons at the National School of Music. He also plays bass in a band.

Summer Party Is Thursday

Frank Huckert's residence, 3 miles south of Summerfield, will be the scene of an ice cream social at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The public is invited and guests are asked to bring homemade ice cream or cake.

For further information, contact Mrs. Henry Kuper, 357-2388.

Farewell Said To Mrs. Fangman

A farewell party was given Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Boyd Foster, 126 Juniper, in honor of Mrs. Arnold Fangman, who resides west of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fangman, who have lived here for 13 years, will be moving to Dumas, where he will be engaged in farming.

Wicker donkey figures flanking a bouquet of fresh flowers centered the serving table, which was draped by a blue linen cloth trimmed in cluny lace. Refreshments of cookies and punch were served to approximately 30 guests.

Hostesses who assisted Mrs. Foster were Mmes. Joe Arho, Marcel Fishbacher and J.W. Stengel.

Candlelight Wedding Solemnized At Dawn

A honeymoon trip to Colorado began Saturday after the afternoon marriage of Miss Sharon Lynette Owens and Ronald Wayne Johnson in Dawn Baptist Church. The Rev. F.E. Suttie, former pastor, officiated.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Owens of 340 Centre and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson, Route 1.

English ivy and other greenery defined the two pair of candelabra which centered around the marriage altar, flanked by gladiolus bouquets on pedestals. Palm leaves skirted the decoration.

The bride's sister, Miss Terri Owens, served as maid of honor while Ray Johnson attended his brother as best man.

Other bridesmaids included Miss Lorraine Hudson and Miss Kathy Owens, the bride's sister. Groomsmen were Jerry Johnson, brother of the bridegroom, and Jay Boren.

Assisting as ushers were Gary Yosten; Ted Elcker and Jim Marsh.

Kim and Kelly Smith, twin cousins of the bride were flower girls in the processional while their brother, Keith, carried the wedding bands. All three are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Smith of Dawn.

Wedding tapers were lighted by the bride's cousins, Jennifer and Rusty Garrett, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Garrett of Altus, Okla.

"Twelfth of Never," "First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" and "The Lord's Prayer," were rendered during the service by Mrs. Ray Stewart of Dawn. Background accompanist was Mrs. Carl Wimberly, also of Dawn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white silk organza patterned with empire waistline. Venetian lace roses ornamented the wedding ring neckline on her fitted bodice. Matching lace motifs were applied on her long sheer bishop sleeves which gathered into deep cuffs.

Floral lace formed a crescent on the center front of her A-line skirt. A circular chapel train attached at the center back waistline with a white satin bow. Her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was clasped by a tiara of crystal and seed pearls.

Her accessories included a gold bracelet which is approximately 60 years old and belonged to her great-grandmother. She carried a cascading bride's bouquet of pink roses and white chrysanthemums resting atop a white Bible and crested by English ivy.

Pastel hues of pink, yellow and mint green were respectively represented by bridesmaids' gowns. Each dress was fashioned with empire waistline, short bouffant sleeves and ruffled neckline. They carried single chrysanthemums which coordinated with the color of each ensemble.

Similar styling was depicted by candelighters' dresses which were made of pastel orchid fabric. Flower girls wore blue.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Owens chose to wear a floor-length gown of blue polyester crepe with brief matching cape. The bridegroom's mother wore a tip-toe length dress of pink polyester.

Rainbow tones brightened a large heart which centered the serving table at a reception in Dawn community center after the wedding. Miss Babbette Stengel served the three-tiered bride's cake which was encircled by three smaller heart-shaped cakes. Strawberry punch was poured by Miss Rhonda Hager and Miss Pam Cosper. German chocolate cake crowned with chrysanthemums, roses and daisies was offered at the groom's table, where Miss Viki Poe of Amarillo and Miss Janice Cannon of Buisa presided. The latter pair are the bridegroom's cousins.

For a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Mrs. Johnson wore a pastel blue polyester pantsuit trimmed in plaid. Her accessories included a blue chiffon scarf which she tied around her neck and a corsage of pink roses lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home after August 8 near Dawn.

Mrs. Johnson has attended West Texas State University where she is working on a speech and hearing therapy major. She has been employed on campus at the testing and counseling center.

Johnson also attended WTSU after graduation from Hereford High School where he was active on the varsity football squad and in Future Farmers of America. He has chosen animal science as a major.

Miss Julie Owens, the bride's aunt, presided at the guest registry. Noted from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Garrett of Altus, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Jones Skaggs and Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Thomason, all of Mangum, Okla.; Mrs. Norman Miller and Mrs. O.T. Hewitt, both of Friona; Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Johnson of Muleshoe; Mr. and Mrs. H.D. Weeter of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. James Poe and Mr. and Mrs. Webb Johnson, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Hearn of Mesquite; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cannon of Buisa.

The wedding party were guests of the bridegroom's parents at a rehearsal dinner Friday night at K-Bob's Steak House. Other pre-nuptial courtesies which honored the bride were showers in the home of Mrs. Les Combs, in Dawn Community Center and in the home of Mrs. James Tilley.

Monica Herring To Vie For Title

Miss Hereford Monica Herring will again be before the footlights Friday evening as she seeks the Miss Top O' Texas title in M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium in Pampa. She is sponsored by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Contestants will be judged in formal attire and one-piece swimsuits by out-of-town payment officials who will base their decision on beauty, personality, poise and figure.

First prize in the contest will be $250 cash with the first runner-up receiving $100 cash and the second runner-up earning $50 cash. Should Miss Herring win the crown, she would represent Pampa on special occasions, subject to request.

The May graduate of Hereford High School will travel to Pampa Thursday for an evening rehearsal and she will appear at the Pampa Country Club Friday morning for an interview and luncheon with the judges.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Herring, the native beauty recently represented this city at the annual Miss Texas Pageant in Fort Worth. She has blue eyes, blond hair and stands 5 feet and 6 inches.

Couple At Home After Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lee Frazier are at home in Wichita Falls after their marriage July 19 in the Church of Christ at Iowa Park.

Mrs. Frazier was Susan Gail Bonner before the ceremony, which was identical to the wedding which united her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bonner of 315 S. 25 Mile Ave. in 1949. Boyd Taylor, minister of the Church of Christ of Garland, was officiant at the recent service and the one 26 years ago.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Frazier of Iowa Park, will receive his degree from Midwestern University in December. He is employed by John B. Barbour Trucking Company.

White gladiolas, carnations and stock bedecked the altar area for the twilight marriage. Seven-branched candelabra were arranged in pyramid silhouette. Votive candles in holders decorated with greenery and bows marked church pews.

Bridal attendants were Miss Kathy Rhone of Wichita Falls, maid of honor, and Mrs. Ricky Ricks and Miss Sheila Watson.

Greg Frazier served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were James Frazier and Daryl Frazier, his other brothers. Ushering guests were Lyle Bonner, the bride's brother and Jeff Watts.

The bridegroom's sisters, Debbie and Stephanie Frazier, lighted wedding tapers.

Nuptial music was provided by an ensemble composed of Misses Nedra Payne, Lisa Payne, Donna Baldwin, Mary Hollars and Troy Grisham, Tommy Payne, Johnny Williams and Steve King.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown of white organza trimmed with Chantilly lace over peau de soie. Ruffled lace outlined the waist in yoke design, traced the satin collar, continued over the shoulders and defined the fitted back. Wide bands of white satin formed the cuffs on her sheer bishop sleeves and encircled the waistline. Her full skirt merged into a semi-cathedral train.

The veil of bridal illusion drifted from a camelot coil and she carried a nosegay of white carnations, greenery and baby-breath.

The newlyweds greeted guests with other members of the wedding party at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church in Iowa Park. Presiding at the registry was Miss Jill Watts.

House party members included Mrs. Gary Davis, sister of the bridegroom, and Mmes. David Hensley, Kenneth Garrett, George Boles and Teresa Garrett.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Iowa Park High School. Mrs. Frazier attended Midwestern University and is employed by Wichita General Hospital. Frazier attended Texas University before transferring to Midwestern.

Special wedding guests from Sweetwater were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nunn and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S.W. Bonner.

October Wedding Stated

An October 11 marriage in St. Anthony's Catholic Church is planned by Miss Patsy Paetzold and Lt. Scott Douglass, it has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward "Bud" Paetzold, Route 3. The prospective bridegroom, who was recently commissioned as a 2nd lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Douglass of Fort Worth. Possessing a degree in political science from West Texas State University, he is currently stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Miss Paetzold, who attended local schools, is a May graduate of WTSU with a degree in nursing. She is employed by St. Anthony's Hospital at Amarillo.

Small Ceremony Unites Lubbock Couple Here

Miss Juanita Lujan of Lubbock was the bride of Manuel Gallegos, also of Lubbock, Friday evening in St. Joseph's Catholic Church with the Rev. Jose Gilligan, pastor, presiding. Miss Lujan, a relocation counselor for the urban renewal program at Lubbock, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Lujan, Lubbock. Gallegos, a 1960 graduate of Hereford High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Gallegos of 430 Ave. D.

Mrs. Hope Herrera, the bridegroom's sister, was the only bridal attendant. Israel Herrera was best man.

The Herrera's daughter, Consuelo, and Hugh Villarreal carried the wedding rings. Hugh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Villarreal.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor-length gown of imported lace, which fell in tiers around her bouffant skirt. Lace scallops formed the neckline on her shepherds bodice, which was cut to a natural waistline. Small ruffles encircled the wrists on her long fitted sleeves of sheer lace. Her full skirt swept into a chapel train.

A band of glass flowers clasped her fingertip veil of bridal illusion which fell in three tiers, each bordered by lace scallops. She carried an artificial bouquet of glass flowers, seed pearls and white streamers.

For an heirloom piece, she borrowed an ivory rosary belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped by traditional bride and groom figurines was served during a reception following the wedding. The pair will be at home in Lubbock, where he is a sophomore studying political science at Texas Tech University. He is employed by Meadowbrooke Golf Course. His wife is a graduate of Estacado High School at Lubbock.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Watts, former residents now of Amarillo, are the parents of a son, Steven Russell, born July 29. He weighed 7 lbs. 5 oz.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Verdon Watts of 800 E. 3rd. Mr. and Mrs. Bob R. Hefley of Lubbock are the maternal grandparents.

To Marry In September

The betrothal of Miss Sandra Willis and Richard D. McPeak has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Willis of 122 Star. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. McPeak. The ceremony is scheduled to be conducted September 6 in San Jacinto Baptist Church, Amarillo. Miss Willis is a graduate of West Texas State University and is employed by the City of Amarillo. Employed by the AMF Corporation at Houston, McPeak attended WTSU and graduated from Amarillo College.

Nuptials Pronounced Here Saturday

William Ray Gage, former local resident now of Amarillo, and Miss Rhea Ann Wesson exchanged marital vows at dusk Saturday in First Baptist Church. Performing the candle-light service was the Rev. Doug Manning, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. T.E. Seigler of 216 Center and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gage, Muleshoe.

Two large bouquets of white gladiolas, blue lillian daisies and babybreath flanked the altar which was lighted by a pair of candelabra entwined with boxwood ivy. White cloth draped the kneeling bench at the front of the sanctuary.

Miss Gaye Wesson of Mansfield served her sister as maid of honor for the double-ring wedding. Appearing as best man was the bridegroom's brother, Eddie Gage of Amarillo.

Escorting guests were Craig Solomon, Kelly Lea and Kevin Lea.

Candles were lighted by another of the bridegroom's brothers, Dondie Gage of Muleshoe, and Wayne Wood of Monahans.

Zelda Ellison of Dimmitt provided organ accompaniment for Miss Donna Kendall as she sang "Wedding Song," "Annie's Song," "The Lord's Prayer" and "We've Only Just Begun." Prelude selections were "If," "My Sweet Lady" and "Follow Me."

Given in marriage by her step-brother, Steve Seigler of Dallas, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white polyester nylon scattered with lace appliques and seed pearls. Lace daisy motifs edged the scalloped cameo neckline and the bodice, front and back. The empire waistline was denoted by a tiny satin bow at center front. Matching lace embellished her sheer bishop sleeves which gathered at the wrists in shallow cuffs.

The A-line skirt, which swept into a chapel train, was bordered by a flounce of ruching. Complementary lace scallops traced her fingertip veil of bridal illusion which fell from a headpiece of lace garnished with seed pearls. Her snowsong bridal bouquet was formed of white roses, white ball pompons, babybreath and cascading English ivy.

For jewelry, she wore a necklace holding a blue opal surrounded by silver leaf petals, given to her by her bridegroom.

The single bridal attendant wore a slipper-length dress of blue polyester organza embroidered with small white daisies and designed with an empire waistline. Her ensemble was completed by a blue picture hat and a white wicker basket filled with blue carnations, white daisy pompons, babybreath and English ivy.

Mothers of the couple were presented corsages of yellow roses, white daisies and babybreath.

A wedding cake topped with blue carnations and white daisies was served by Mrs. Eddie Gage during a reception in the church Fellowship Hall after the wedding. Centering the serving table was a silver candelabra. Mrs. Steve Seigler ladled punch.

Other members of the house party included Mmes. Lewis Lea, Lee Drake, Earnest Langley, Henry Solomon and Bob Brooks.

Miss LaJuana Matchett registered guests, who included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Riethmayer of Waco, Bill Corbett of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wood of Muleshoe, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gage of Cirde Back and Mrs. Gladis Landis of Dallas.

For a honeymoon trip to mountainous areas of Colorado, Mrs. Gage wore a blue floral dress accessorized by narrow white lace trim and a corsage taken from the bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home at Amarillo after August 10.

A 1974 graduate of Hereford High School, the recent bride attended Southwest Texas State University where she was on the Dean's Honor Roll. With a math major, she will be attending West Texas State University at Canyon this fall.

Employed by Pleasant Valley Lumber Company in Amarillo, Gage attended STSU where he majored in art. He graduated from Muleshoe High School after attending Hereford High School.

Scherlen-Manley Vows Exchanged

The marriage of Miss Nancy Ann Scherlen of Borger and Troy Ray Manley of Canyon was solemnized in an early afternoon ceremony Saturday in St. John's Catholic Church, Borger. The Rev. Richard Neyer, pastor, officiated.

Borger. Manley, a former resident, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady L. Manley of 900 Sioux.

Decorations for the service were twin bouquets of yellow and white gladiolas, spring flowers and babybreath flanking the altar.

Miss Carley Wells of Borger was maid of honor, in addition to Mrs. Dennis Moseley of Canyon, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. James D. Anderson and Miss Vanesa White, both of Borger.

The bride's brother, Thomas R. Scherlen of Amarillo, served as best man. Groomsmen included Jim Row of Caddo, Okla., Dennis Moseley and Sid Ricks, both of Canyon.

Wedding guests were escorted by Jim Mills of Abernathy and D.P. Fowler of Amarillo.

Jennifer Wells, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells of Borger, was the flower girl.

Assisting as altar boys were Johnny Scherlen of San Antonio and Robert Schwind of Borger.

"Time In A Bottle" and "Wedding Song" were featured by vocalist Don Shipman of Borger. Mrs. Tom Kock, also of Borger, accompanied him at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper-length gown of white silk polyester and re-embroidered lace. Appliques of lace screened the fitted bodice, low sculptured neckline and Juliet sleeves. Her A-line skirt swept to back fullness, creating a cathedral train.

Seed pearls traced the lace petals on a camelot cap, which held the tiered veil of illusion, bordered in lace. Her bridal bouquet included daisies, babybreath and streamers.

Yellow gingham-checked dresses were worn by bridal attendants. Each costume was patterned with brief bouyant sleeves, cameo neckline, A-line skirt and natural waistline encircled by a sash which tied in a bow. Complementing the ensembles were white picture hats trimmed in lace and gingham and nosegays of daisies and babybreath.

Refreshments were served after the wedding at a reception in Borger Country Club. The wedding cake was served by Miss Angela Hefner of Borger while coffee was poured by Miss Susan Snider of Borger and Miss Kathy Reagan of Dallas.

Guests were greeted at the registry by Mr. Thomas R. Scherlen of Amarillo.

Others assisting were Miss Eileen Scherlen of San Antonio and Miss Diana Mechler, of Finley, Ohio.

For a honeymoon trip to Colorado, Mrs. Manley wore a white pleated skirt with tailored navy blue jacket, top stitched in white. The couple will be at home after Wednesday in Canyon, where he is employed by the Soil Conservation Service. He is attending West Texas State University and is a graduate of Hereford High School. His wife completed high school studies at Borger.

Marriage Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Grannt Hanna, who live northwest of the city, have announced the engagement of their daughter Cynthia to Stephen Shattles of Gilmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.V. Shattles. The ceremony will be performed in First United Methodist Church on September 6. A 1968 graduate of Hereford High School, the future bride graduated with honors from Texas Women's University with a Bachelor of science degree in home economics education. She is presently employed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as Upshure County Extension Agent, home economics. Her fiancé is employed by National Homes of Tyler. He served four years in the U.S. Air Force after graduation in 1966 from Gilmer High School.

Miss Evelyn Urbanczyk, who plans to marry Michael Morrison August 21 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, received a pre-nuptial courtesy Saturday afternoon in the L.J. Jones Jr. home, 218 N. Texas.

Guests were greeted at the door by the honoree, her mother, Mrs. C.F. Urbanczyk, her fiance's mother, Mrs. Cecil Morrison, her fiance's grandmother, Mrs. M.C. Muse and Mrs. Jones.

Cake and punch were served from a table centered with an artificial arrangement of white daisies scattered with lime green forget-me-nots. The bouquet was given to Miss Urbanczyk. White lace over a lime green liner draped the refreshment table, where Mrs. Bob Schmucker and Mrs. Connie R Urbanczyk presided.

Seated at the guest registry was Mrs. Sidney Urbanczyk. Hostess assisting Mrs. Jones included Mmes. Mike Solomon, Carl Schumbato, Leaton Noyes, Charles Schlabs, Frank Knabe, Allen Evers, Elmer Rehnart, Clarence Betson, Raymond Schlabs, Norbert Skypala and Gordon Elliott. Also, Mmes. Comings And Goings At King's Manor

By FAY GAUGGEL

The Rev. Dewitt Seago, our chaplain, has been working at Ceta Canyon with a group of Methodist young people who are preparing for leadership in youth groups in district churches. King's Manor recently had four of these young people for lunch. They also toured our Campus. They were as follows: Brenda Pairs and Donna Copeland of Lubbock, David L. White of Pampa, and Ronnie Thomason of Spur.

King's Manor artist of the month has been J.R. Thornton whose rug hooking activities have gained the admiration of us all. His latest creation hangs in the Manor dining room. He has hooked six of these beauties, the first being a gift to a daughter in Amarillo.

A warm, warm (90 degree to be exact) welcome to our habitual travelers, Evadne Cox, Lucile Naylor and Ruby Stevenson. More about their travels later.

The Rev. and Mrs. R.T. Dyess of Spade and Mrs. Augusta Jones of Plainview were recent guests of Mrs. Henry Vaughan.

Mrs. Price, the next to a granddaughter as wedding gift who lives in Germany with her husband, who is in the Air Corps. Mr. Thornton has also helped with a baby's bed quilt for a great-grandchild. Mr. Thornton is no sissy, let us assure you. He is the type who simply has to feel himself getting something done.

Frank M. McLaughlin of Honolulu, Hawaii made a visit last week to his mother, Mrs. Rubey McLaughlin, here in the Manor.

Housewife Conducts Survey On Hoarding Of Canning Lids

A Hereford woman, fed up with not being able to find the canning jar lids she needs, recently took action to discover the reason for the shortage, then conducted her own local survey to disprove one of the reasons cited by a major manufacturer of home canning supplies.

Mrs. H.E. Miller of 428 Star noted that local women can't find the replacement lids they need for home canning, and contacted Bill Albright, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce for help in determining just why ample supplies of the lids are not available.

Albright in turn contacted Kerr Glass Corp. on the matter. A spokesman for the firm told Albright that American women have "hoarded a five year supply of lids". After receiving the response from Kerr, Albright suggested that Mrs. Miller conduct a survey locally to determine if women really are hoarding lids.

Mrs. Miller undertook the project, saying "Someone's got to start somewhere, to do something about this problem of a shortage of lids."

According to Mrs. Miller, her survey revealed that local women are far from hoarding the lids, they don't have any to hoard in the first place.

Unhappy with the company's blaming of American housewives for a portion of the problem, Mrs. Miller sent the following letter to the Kerr Glass Corp. in Sand Springs, Okla. Tuesday.

Dear Sirs, Last week our chamber of commerce manager Mr. Albright called you people about the scarcity of fruit jar lids in our stores. You informed him that the women were hoarding them, so at his suggestion I made a survey and found this to be untrue in our country.

Not one woman that I contacted is hoarding them. Then, the Ball Food jar scandal came over the news. What a pity! Canning time. No lids. Gardens going to waste.

Oh yes, we can buy plenty of fruit jars with lids and rings and throw away our old jars. This would make the American husband the goat. Work all day for nothing but waste!

I have used Kerr fruit jar lids for years because they seal well, but in the last three years they do not seal as well as in the past. This is a common complaint of many women, not just me. Why?

I am sorry to have to write this letter, but feel compelled to defend the American housewife.

This is true. Now it is your turn to speak. We will be expecting a letter by return mail.

Most Sincerely, Mrs. H.E. Miller 428 Star Hereford, Tex.

"I'm tired of the American housewife being the one that is made light of. I think people need to rise up about these things," commented Mrs. Miller.

"With American women working as hard as they are to conserve I think this whole issue is a shame. I just got mad about the whole thing and decided to try and do something to help, she added.

Betrothal Announced

Miss Vicki Lynn Broadway of Wichita Falls will be the bride of David Ireland Henslee January 3, 1976. The couple are the children of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry R. Broadway of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Henslee of 123 Star. The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Hereford High School, is the grandson of Mrs. H.E. Henslee of 304 McKinley. He has completed four years of pre-med studies at Texas Tech University and will begin post graduate work at the School of Physical Therapy in Denton. He belongs to Sigma Nu fraternity. His fiancee graduated from S.H. Rider High School at Wichita Falls and is a senior at Texas Tech, where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan You probably know that rice, so versatile and acceptable, is economical and delicious.

Almond Chicken with Rice

- 3 c cooked rice
- 1/2 c sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 c almonds blanched
- 3 T salad oil
- 1 clove garlic cut
- 1 t salt
- 1 c cubed bamboo shoots (canned)
- 1/2 c thinly sliced water chestnuts (canned)
- 1/2 c thinly sliced celery
- 1 c diced cold chicken
- 2 T liquid (1 tablespoon each from bamboo shoot and water chestnut cans)

Brown almonds in 1 tablespoon oil. Set aside. With a table fork, mash garlic into salt in skillet. Add 1 tablespoon oil and then bamboo shoots and mushrooms. Brown lightly. Add liquid. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat 5 minutes. Add water chestnuts, celery and 1/2 of the almonds. Just heat through. Celery and chestnuts should remain crisp.

Make gravy by mixing 2 teaspoons cornstarch, dash salt, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 4 tablespoons water and 4 teaspoons soy sauce. Cook until liquid thickens and is smooth. Garnish with green onions and almonds. Serve with hot fluffy cooked rice.

Plan For Leisure Hours

A little organization can keep summer's lazy days from causing a work "slow down." Managing time to get work done but still have time for leisure and outdoor activities is the problem.

Some evening try listing all the tasks that should be done the next day. Trivial as it may sound, a written list helps provide needed motivation and helps a person remember what has to be done—freeing his mind for more important thoughts of the moment.

And the advantage of planning the night before is waking up the next morning to a fully planned and organized day.

Number the tasks in order of their importance. Get going on priority number one the first thing and stick with it until it's completed. Continue down the list.

If everything on the list for the day isn't done, don't worry. The most important jobs will have been completed, and in most cases, lower priority chores can wait until tomorrow, the next day, or maybe the next week.

Perhaps certain items continue to end up on the bottom or are so unimportant in comparison with others listed that they don't have to be done at all—or not as often as once thought.

Following a written list isn't the only way to save time, but it does give the added reward of scratching off a task when it's completed and this somehow makes the accomplishment seem greater.

TEXAS FAMILIES are younger and very much a part of today's mobile society—and Texas' population is growing. Currently 11.8 million persons call Texas "home."

Citing recent surveys, even as the birth rate is lowering, Texas' population continues to increase. Establishment of more families, along with longer life spans of individuals are contributing factors for the population increase.

Also, the age composition of Texas' population is changing—from a 27.9 median age in 1950, to 26.4 by 1970.

Median age indicates that one-half of the population is young, and the other half is older—about 48 per cent of all Texans are less than 25 years of age.

The decline in median age is the result of the baby boom of the late 1950's and early 1960's, as well as a slower increase rate in life expectancy.

By the 1980's, the 20 to 24-years age group and the over-60-years age group will be the two fastest growing segments of our society.

These groups will require specialized types of housing and community facilities.

In Texas, seven of every 10 persons live in urban areas of 50,000 or more people. Eighty per cent of all Texans live in cities and towns of at least 2,500 persons—and, as in most states, Texas' people are unevenly distributed across the state.

Of mobility, we see that Texans are very much a part of the mobile society.

In the next few years, 25 per cent of the population will make a move each year, as compared to the current 18 per cent. One in three of these moves will be more than 50 miles.

On a national basis, population shifts will be to the south and southwest—climate, year 'round recreation and availability of space are factors which contribute to long-distance moves.

Concerning education, we observe that the educational attainment of Texans has increased over the past several decades.

The need for education—to prepare for life and to make a living—is expanding at an accelerating rate. More young people are going to school for longer periods—and more are graduating from high school.

More persons of all ages are going to college, vocational and technical schools. More than 28 per cent of all Texans, 25 years of age and older and graduated from high school in 1970—15 per cent had some college training. About one-fourth of Texans, 25 years and older, had an eighth-grade education or less.

CONGRATULATIONS to JoAnn Wagner, Carla West and Brenda Straffuss. All three of these Deaf Smith County 4-H girls placed in the top of their respective divisions at the District I 4-H Dress Revue in Amarillo, last Tuesday. JoAnn was in the top five and will represent District I at the State Dress Revue in Dallas in October.

She was also chosen best model, best record book and best wool garment. Carla West was in the top seven of the Intermediate Division and Brenda Straffuss was in the top five of the Junior Division. Girls: We are proud of you!!

Musical Arranger Arrives

Canyon: Isaac Van Grove, musical arranger for the Palo Duro Canyon production, "Texas", arrived in Amarillo Tuesday, July 29. Mr. Van Grove will view the play for which he wrote the original music and arranged the folk materials.

Van Grove has collaborated with "Texas" author Paul Green on four other outdoor historical dramas. He has conducted many opera companies including the Chicago Civic, the Cincinnati Summer Opera and the St. Louis Municipal Opera. Mr. Van Grove was composer-arranger for the ballets of the Ruth Page company, and he has worked as musical director for Max Reinhardt in New York and Hollywood.

Van Grove is internationally famous as a coach for opera and concert singers, including Mary Garden, Grace Moore, Edward Johnson and Gladys Swarthout.

Van Grove is returning to see

"Texas" from his post as artistic director of the Inspiration Point Fine Arts Colony Opera Workshop, Eureka Springs, Arkansas. He will be accompanied to the Panhandle by his wife, Joan Van Grove, an accomplished dancer.

FARM NEWS

Manure Could Be Source Of Ethylene

Beef cattle manure has been found to yield significant amounts of ethylene, an important product derived from petroleum and natural gas.

The discovery was made at Texas Tech University by a research team working on a project supported by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's agricultural waste research program located at the Robert S. Kerr Environmental Research Laboratory at Ada, Okla.

EPA provided 75 per cent of the $100,000 project. Additional funding was supplied by Pioneer Natural Gas Company of Amarillo, and the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

Ethylene is the backbone of the plastics industry which provides a large variety of conveniences and necessities for the American people, such as toys, food wraps and parts for automobiles.

The process which, with minor adjustments, can be made to produce anhydrous ammonia synthesis gas also produces quantities of methane and ethane along with the ethylene. Synthesis gas is used in the manufacture of fertilizers while methane and ethane are major components of natural gas used for fuel.

The researchers are Dr. James E. Halligan, chairman of the Texas Tech Department of Chemical Engineering, Dr. William J. Huffman of that department and a graduate student, Roger Peterson.

"Other students, both graduate and undergraduate, have made valuable contributions to the research," Halligan said.

The researchers advise that the process still is in the developmental stage and that additional data collection and analysis are necessary.

Dr. Halligan began his research with the intention of showing that feedlot waste could be converted into synthetic gas used for the production of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer.

"It was a pleasant surprise to me when we discovered we were getting significant amounts of ethylene," he said, "and I knew it was important to repeat the lab tests on a larger scale to be sure."

R. Douglas Kreis, EPA project officer from Ada, said he sees possible future adaptation of the process to include other animal wastes, municipal refuse, and other organic solid wastes as feedstock for the production of ethylene.

"Assuming a realistic value of 10 cents per pound for ethylene, a conservative estimate of the value of the ethylene production from manure produced from a 100,000 head feedlot in the Texas high plains alone is around $1.2 million per year, Kreis said.

"Each beef animal in that area will produce about one ton of dry manure per year," Kreis explained. "Ethylene could be produced at the rate of 180 pounds per dry ton on the basis of data collected by the Texas Tech researchers."

A commercial operation capable of processing manure from 100,000 head could produce about 18 million pounds of the gas per year.

"There are an estimated 12 to 14 million tons of cattle manure produced in feedlots annually in the United States. The objective of continuing research," Kreis added, "is to optimize the process to increase the yield of ethylene."

Dr. Halligan said that evidence to date indicates that the process appears to be economically feasible for large concentrations of feedlots, and the engineers said their recommendation would be to place the ethylene production plants at the feedlot because it is easier to ship the gas by pipeline rather than transport the manure.

The most attractive option, he said, would be for the operator to feed the gas directly into a pipeline already in existence for ethylene transport. He would not estimate the economic value of such a plant to a feedlot operation because, he said, the value depends upon the market price of ethylene.

There are the extra values of disposing of manure and getting some return on the process, Halligan explained. With an estimated two to four million tons of manure produced annually by the cattle industry in West Texas alone, he said, it is evident that this new process is a constructive solution to the problem.

Dr. Huffman explained that the production of ethylene depends upon the time-temperature factor in the reactor.

"In the reactor we have achieved a different time-temperature history of both solids and gas—different from that of others who have experimented with similar processes," he said. "This allows us to generate significant quantities of useful petrochemical intermediates."

The manure in the pilot plant process yields several products—ethylene and other gases, tars, and a wastewater which must go through a purifying system, and an inert residue containing a large proportion of ash.

"The tars," Huffman said, "can be put through the process a second time. We would like, however," he said, "to do further study on the tars before we make a recommendation as to their disposal."

The dry residue may be made into charcoal briquets to fuel the process, with the ash being used for playa lake fills in areas where there are playas, like the Texas high plains. The ash also could be used for a variety of other purposes such as road fills or in construction.

Specific recommendations for cleaning the water product have not been made yet.

"There is no effort to treat the manure before it is put into the reactor," Huffman said. "We don't dry it, but we do grind it. That's all we do."

Huffman said that in wetter climates it would be necessary to add a drying process, and this would reduce the income from the total procedure.

He said the economics of the process favored the drier areas of the country from the plains states westward because the wastes could be put into the process directly from the feedlot without any processing except natural sun drying.

The research plant constructed at Texas Tech has a capacity of one-half ton of manure daily, but commercial plants would need to process 600 to 1,600 tons per day, depending upon the type of venture.

More Moving to the Country

AUSTIN--Retirees and young people are moving back to the country, reversing a 30-year trend, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reports.

Citing USDA figures for the nation, Commissioner White stated that between 1970 and 1973, population in small towns and cities grew by 4.2 per cent, while urban areas increased only 2.9 per cent.

Some reasons for the growth of nonmetro counties are increasing numbers of retired persons, improved job opportunities created by establishment of industries in suburban and rural areas, expansion of state colleges, and increased recreation activity.

In 1974 there were over 2.7 million persons 14 years of age or older doing farm work in the U.S., about 34,000 above 1973.

Delaying Chill Tenderizes Beef

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station meat scientists have found that delaying the usual quick-chilling after slaughter can have a tenderizing effect on beef carcasses.

Dr. T.R. Dutson, TAES researcher and a member of the Texas A&M University Animal Science Department, says modern cooling systems might be so fast and efficient that muscle fibers tend to contract and cause a condition known as cold-shortening. The result can be tougher meat.

Postmortem carcass temperature and its relation to beef tenderness was described by Dutson during the 67th annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science July 28-30 at Colorado State University.

He said the Experiment Station project involved carcasses from 53 beef animals. One side of each carcass was kept at an elevated temperature for 12 hours after slaughter, then hung in a near-freezing cooler.

The other halves were placed in the near-freezing cooler one hour after slaughter.

Dutson said that in all cases, delayed chilling resulted in more favorable connective tissue tenderness and overall tenderness.

These data indicate that carcass temperature in the first 12 hours after slaughter is important in determining muscle tenderness. Such tenderness increases are probably caused by a combination of a reduction in cold shortening and an increase in enzyme activity, he explained.

Where It All Began
When the U.S. constitution was adopted, eight or more of every 10 Americans lived on farms. By 1920, the census revealed for the first time that the majority of the nation's citizens were living in urban areas.

Going To Seed Profitably
The annual value of U.S. crops grown for seed alone tops $750 million.

On The Turnrow

By Jim Stolert

This has been a tough week on farmers, they've been catching flak from Washington, the AFL-CIO and a lot of others.

SOME OF THE so-called "public defenders" have been muddling over the recent grain sales to Russia, complaining about higher prices for food grains, and harassing the whole practice of agricultural exports in general.

It was infuriating to me to watch Senator Ted Kennedy grilling a grain industry representative on national TV the other day, questioning him about why the prices for farm commodities should be allowed to go up in the first place. It's easy for a rich man to criticize other for making money.

The nation's agricultural program of the late 1950's and early 1960's was based on a massive surplus of farm commodities. In fact, the government elected to pay the farmer not to produce.

I have visited with plenty of farmers who have admitted they weren't exactly proud to be operating under such a system, being forced to take handouts. But in situations such as the government put our farmers at that time, pride gives way to the instinct for survival. He didn't exactly approve of the system, but the farmer played the game in order to stay in business.

FARMERS GOT A real shiner over the system. I don't know how many uninformed people I heard complain about the farmer sitting back and doing nothing on his farm, then driving up to the ASCS offices in his Cadillac to pick up his subsidy check.

The real story concerning the whole layout and subsidy program was something else again. I know from personal experience that you didn't sit back and do nothing in order to collect. I spent plenty of time plowing layout ground, racing the weather and government-imposed deadlines in order to help qualify my dad's farm for much-needed subsidy checks that were often slow in coming due to red tape.

Those long hours of plowing layout ground didn't come free either. It cost just as much to work layout ground as cropland, it was just a different manner of plowing.

But the general public went on screaming irately about the subsidy system, all the while enjoying the benefits of massive surpluses at the expense of the farmer. Simply put, the nation's consumers got spoiled by that surplus system which depressed prices.

CONSUMERS GREW accustomed to artificially cheap products and wanted to maintain a surplus, but they didn't want to pay the farmer enough to continue operating. They were all for the free enterprise system, just so long as the farmer was going broke freely.

Now that the farmer has come upon slightly better times, he's become the scapegoat for inflation. You think the country could learn from its mistakes, but from the way Senator Kennedy, George Meesey of the AFL-CIO, the Longshorem and a lot of other people in this country act, everyone apparently wants to go back into a surplus system and resume subsidy payments so they'll have something else to beef about.

Well, the farmer is not going to go back into that surplus system if he can help it, and it isn't fair to expect him to accept artificially depressed prices for the things he has spent a fortune in producing.

—TURN—

Agriculture has been the salvation of our country's sagging export trade industry since the Arab oil embargo. Were it not for the country's agriculture exports, our country would really be in the hole where balance of trade is concerned.

EXPORTS OF FARM commodities bring much-needed capital into the country at a time when the oil-rich Middle East is robbing us blind.

If the Russians came in tomorrow and wanted to buy every car the nation's automobile manufacturers have parked on their lots, I'm sure the auto industry would jump at the opportunity.

Sure, the industry would probably move to make sure that America's needs were taken care of first, but the industry has had problems this year in moving autos, and if a massive sale of vehicles to the Russians offered them an opportunity to recover some of this year's losses, I'm sure they would take advantage of the opportunity.

IT IS NO different with wheat or corn. When you have more than you can use, why not move some of it at a profit? It is the free enterprise system so many other industries use to justify their price hikes, but somehow everyone seems to feel that the farmer is not entitled to operate under that system.

—TURN—

Statements that export sales of American agriculture products trigger rampant rounds of inflation in this country are a pet peeve of mine.

The massive sale of wheat to the Russians in 1973 provided farmers with the first opportunity they'd had in many years to gain some ground towards parity for the products they raise. While the price of everything he needed in order to produce had raced on with inflation, the farmer saw the price of his products remain the same for many years.

It wasn't the sale of the wheat which resulted in such a massive round of inflation last time, it was the imposition of artificial controls on a whole list of industries that stymied the free market process of supply and demand.

THERE WERE plenty of other factors in that onslaught of inflation too, including strikes by various industries, and, of course, the energy crunch.

If the higher-ups in Washington will let our system do its work without slamming the lid on an important export market, I feel the situation will stabilize itself.

It is understandable that consumers are concerned and demand assurances that there will be no food shortages, and in that respect, they have a right to know that they will be fed.

ON THE OTHER side of the coin, however, the farmer has every right to assurances that disastrous surpluses will not endanger his way of life.

Grass Mowers
Forages account for about 70 percent of the nutrients consumed by beef cattle over their lifetimes. Scientists say this is important since over half the total U.S. land area is not suited to cropping but to producing forage.

Subject To Zoning
Rural land in three-fourths of the nation's 3,000 counties can now be zoned by some unit of local government.

Farmers Union President Attacks Export Policies

"The Ford Administration is using a secret export control system to depress grain prices received by U.S. farmers," Jay Naman, President of the Texas Farmers Union has charged.

"This secret system is being worked out in private conversations with grain trading companies and foreign governments, according to information the Farmers Union has gleaned from trade sources.

"A limit of about 250 million bushels of wheat and 215 million bushels of corn has been set for export sales to the Soviet Union. This limit on sales to Russia is calculated to prevent grain and soybean prices from rising significantly.

"This is what we read also between the conflicting lines of what President Ford says to farmers about "Freedom from Government Meddling with Free Markets," and to consumers about keeping food prices down.

"This is the third year in a row that the Nixon-Ford administration has used controls on exports to depress farm prices. In 1973, Nixon embargoed exports of soybeans and some 40 other agricultural commodities. In 1974, Ford stopped grain sales that had already been contracted, and government officials pressured other governments and buyers all year to cut down on their purchases from the 1974 crop. That's what turned grain prices around last fall despite the shortest supplies and strongest demand since World War II.

"The Nixon-Ford deeds prove the falseness of the Nixon-Ford promise of a free market for agriculture. They want the farmer to be free to go broke when there's a surplus, but they are continuing to interfere with the market to prevent prices from going up freely when demand is strong.

"The Farmers Union recognizes that consumers deserve and demand protection against food shortages. But farmers deserve protection against surpluses too.

"It's long past time for an honest farm and food policy in this country, that will be spelled out in the full light of day and written down in the laws of the land for farmers and consumers alike to see and understand.

"We are outraged by the administration's present system of double-talk for farmers and other ordinary citizens, secret conniving with the grain traders and the communists, and political pressure on other export customers of the American farmer.

"We appeal to consumers and others who believe in fair and above-board government to support the Farmers Union's plan with a non-recourse price support loan floor of 90 per cent of parity to protect farmers in times of surpluses, and automatic release of reserves at 110 per cent of parity to protect consumers in times of shortage," Naman commented.

Beef Storage Techniques Studied

Double applications of a decontamination solution and wrapping with plastic film have been found by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to be effective techniques for long-term storage of beef.

Researchers also believe that the method offers real possibilities for more efficient handling of beef for the export market.

The system was explained here by Dr. G.C. Smith of the Texas A&M University Animal Science Department and a speaker during the annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science July 28-30 at Colorado State University.

The Experiment Station researcher said 48 beef sides (as quarters) were used to compare two decontamination methods. Using 200 pp. chlorine solution, one method was a single application 12 hours after slaughter, and the other was a double application at 12 and 24 hours after slaughter.

PVC plastic film was used at 12 and 24 hours after slaughter, and the storage intervals were 14 and 21 days.

After 14 days of storage, quarters decontaminated immediately after slaughter, then rinsed a second time and wrapped with plastic 12 hours after slaughter had the least shrink and the highest scores for meat color, odor and overall desirability. They also had the lowest bacterial count, Smith said.

The best system for storing beef quarters for 21 days, he said, also involved decontamination immediately after slaughter, rinsing a second time with chlorine solution and wrapping with plastic 12 hours after slaughter.

Irrigation's Impact
Irrigation has had a significant impact on agricultural output since 1900. Only 10% of U.S. crop acreage is now irrigated, but it provides 20% of production.

ZIMMATIC

For Rent

You're doing without a Zimmatic center pivot. Saving your hard-earned capital for other improvements. Don't want to borrow right now.

But it's costing you money every year you wait. Two ways. First, you're losing the extra crop production you get under irrigation. Second, inflation is at work. Boosting prices, dropping the value of your dollars.

Why not rent a Zimmatic under our new lease plan? Let the system pay for itself and put some extra money in the bank for you at the same time.

Our rates are reasonable. You can include freight, installation, pump...

other "above ground" items in one flexible package, tailored to your needs. Why wait to irrigate? It's just costing you money. Call us today for details on our new lease plan.

McBee, Ott To Assume New TAES Duties

Two well-known agricultural scientists—one in field crop research and other in soil science—will be assuming new responsibilities on September 1, according to Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, the state's agricultural research agency. Dr. George G. McBee, professor and resident director of research for the Experiment Station at Lubbock since September, 1969, will transfer to College Station to continue his research in field crops and teach in the department of soil and crop sciences at Texas A&M University.

Dr. Bill J. Ott, professor and resident director of research for the Experiment Station at Overton since February, 1967, will transfer to Lubbock as resident director for Experiment Station research, said Miller.

As soil scientist and agronomist, Ott has supervised research programs at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Overton, which served the entire east Texas area. He worked closely with agribusiness and producer groups in establishing the center and its research projects.

McBee, as Resident Director of Research at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, has greatly expanded the Experiment Station effort. Using a task force approach in meeting needs and problems of High Plains agriculture, McBee has provided wise and creative leadership for research programs that have wide application for the High Plains, said Miller.

"During the past year, scientists and facilities of the High Plains Research Foundation at Haltway were placed under McBee's supervision when the foundation properties were transferred to the Experiment Station, thus providing additional resources and staff for vital research work throughout the area," Miller emphasized.

McBee and his staff have made major contributions to agricultural progress that have broad interests for many areas of the nation, Miller added.

"McBee has worked closely with agricultural producers of the South Plains to strengthen research programs and develop public understanding of research.

"We have been extremely pleased with the leadership and new dimensions that he has provided for plains agriculture," Miller said.

McBee has authored or co-authored more than 40 scientific publications. He holds membership in Phi-Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Alpha Zeta. He is a member of the American Society of Plant Physiology, Southern Section A.S.P.P., American Society of Agronomy and Weed Science Society of America.

Ott will bring a diversity of experience to the resident director position at the Lubbock center, said Miller.

Before going to east Texas, Ott served as professor of agronomy at Oklahoma Panhandle A&M University and was coordinator for research between Panhandle A&M and the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station. Ott has B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Oklahoma State University, and is considered an "outstanding research administrator, adept at working with producers and agri-business leaders," said Miller.

Under Ott's direction, research programs at Overton were developed to concentrate on problems and priorities of the east Texas area. He has effectively coordinated task force research that has resulted in outstanding, practical results, Miller added.

No Profit Incentive May Cause Shortage Of Beef

In spite of record cattle numbers in the U.S., consumers may soon be faced with a shortage of Choice fed beef.

"The reasons are higher grain prices and no profit incentive for cattle feeders to put cattle on feed," said Glenn Deen, president of Texas Cattle Feeders Association, whose members last year fed 3.8 million head of cattle or 17 per cent of the U.S. total.

"Even though the USDA is predicting a record grain crop in 1975 (6.1 billion bushels of corn), it's not all in the bin," he continues. "Thus with grain prices going up, we cattle feeders have no alternative but to depend on the futures market," Deen said.

During the last four weeks, the cash price of corn has risen 13 per cent to $5.75 per cwt.

December futures for corn are $5.18 per cwt. and March is $5.30 per cwt. This translates into a cost of gain of approximately $50.00 per cwt. The futures price for fed cattle for February delivery is $41.20 per cwt. From these futures prices, the feeder must pencil out his profit or loss. "With the current price of feeder cattle, the best he can do today is to hedge a loss of $24.00 per head," Deen adds.

"The reason for the rise in grain prices (some are blaming it on the big grain export sales to Russia) is not the point in question," Deen adds. "The point is, when cost of production exceeds returns, cattle feeders must reduce placements. So, if calves are not placed on feed now, they won't come off feed in four to six months as usual."

On July 1, the USDA reported that the number of cattle on feed in the U.S. was 8.5 million head, down 15 per cent from one year ago, the smallest July 1 figure since 1967. In Texas, the largest cattle feeding state, the number on feed July 1 was 1.3 million head, compared to 1.8 million head one year ago.

The three factors that cattle feeders must ponder before placing cattle on feed, according to Deen, are (1) price of feeder cattle today, (2) cost of grain, which largely determines cost of gain in the feedlot, and (3) what the finished cattle can be hedged for, or what you can expect to sell them for in the market place on a cash basis. "There is no way feeders can pencil out a profit today," he declared.

"This does not mean a total shortage of beef; it merely means a shortage of Choice fed beef, the kind to which consumers have grown accustomed," Deen concluded. "With 140 million head of cattle in the U.S.—2 million head more than one year ago—and at current production cost levels, cattle feeders cannot compete with lower quality non-fed beef."

Vacuum Pack Booming In Beef

Vacuum packaging is booming as a way to extend storage time and to provide better shipping for beef.

Because of this boom, Sam Beebe, Texas A&M University research associate and a team of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) researchers, tested the effects of storage temperatures on vacuum packaged beef. The group also determined relationship between these temperatures and length of shelf life.

Results of the study were presented by Beebe during the 67th annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science July 29-30 at Colorado State University.

"We stored top sirloin butt primal cuts at 32 degrees F and 42 degrees F," Beebe explained and noted that beef is usually stored at 32 degrees F.

"Leaners, vacuum packaged meat that for some reason leaks air during shipping, were studied under the same conditions. At different points in the experiment, researchers took steaks from each group from the storage cooler and tested them for muscle color, surface discoloration, fat cover appearance and total desirability. "Shelf life of sirloin butts is greatly influenced by the degree of vacuum and appearance after packaging," Beebe said. "Storage at the regularly used temperature, 32 degrees F, consistently enhanced the shelf life when compared to the other temperature used in the study, 42 degrees F."

HUMUS ORGANIC PRODUCTS OF TEXAS

Hereford, Texas

Supplement with Humic Acids now for better soil fertility. PREPARE FOR YOUR WHEAT CROP EARLY!

What is Humus Organic Products?

Humus is defined in the Webster Dictionary as; Decayed vegetable matter, important to the fertility of soil.

Organic is defined as to or derived from plant and animal matter, containing carbon.

Humus is more of a soil conditioner than a fertilizer. It is as important to soil as nitrogen, Phors., potash. Soil with a good content of Humus of 4 to 5% is usually good fertile soil.

The following is why the soil needs Humus:

1. Natural Organic Chelating. Humus releases elements "locked up" in the soil and forms biological complexes with minerals and traces elements so plants can pick them up.
2. "Crumbler" Soil. Humus flocculates and opens heavy soil to give better penetration of water and oxygen. It effects the packing of soil caused by running heavy equipment in the field.
3. Decomposes Stalks. Stalks, leaves, or manures which have been spread in the field, will break down more rapidly when Humus is applied.
4. Develops Roots. Provides greater, healthier and cleaner root structure than "Commercial" alone.
5. Conserves Water. Soil improved with Humus holds water better and longer. It activates the bacteria of sponges.
6. Improves Crop Quality. Humus improves the firmness, color and sheen of crops. Vegetables will ship and "carry" better.
7. Tree Crops. Trees respond rapidly with better color and growth to produce larger yields of better crops.
8. Easily Applied. Humus is applied with a dry spreader like the dry commercial fertilizer.

"But never forget, chemical fertilizers can neither add to the Humus content nor replace it."

We have had 4 year programs with Humic Acid

Uninsured motorists involved in traffic accidents resulting in death, personal injury or property damage in excess of $250 may be subject to suspension of their driving privileges and vehicle registrations under a revision to the Texas Safety Responsibility Law.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said the new law—which was enacted during the recent Legislative session—requires DPS to evaluate traffic accidents (meeting the above criteria of seriousness) to determine if there is a "reasonable probability of judgement" against one or more of the drivers. If such a finding is made, and if the driver or owner has no liability insurance meeting the state's minimum requirement of $10,000/$20,000/$5,000, then the DPS must require the uninsured motorist believed at fault to satisfy the security provisions of the law. This may be done in one of the following ways:

- By submitting a written release signed by the other damaged parties.
- By filing an installment agreement made with the other damaged parties involved.
- By depositing security in a sufficient amount to take care of damages sustained by others and maintain proof of financial responsibility for a period of five years from the date of the accident.

Social Security Questions and Answers

[Have you a question about social security? Address it to the Social Security Administration, 317 East Third Street, Amarillo, Texas 79101. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.]

Q. I fell and broke my leg last week. It will be at least six weeks before I can go back to my job. Would I be eligible for disability benefits?

A. Not unless there are complications. To be considered disabled under social security you must have an impairment that is so severe that it will prevent you from doing any substantial gainful work and is expected to last at least 12 months.

Q. I am not yet old enough to retire. My main concern is the welfare of my daughter who is my only dependent. She is 35 years old and so severely retarded from birth that she will never be able to work. In case of my death, would she be eligible for monthly benefits?

A. Yes, she would be eligible for monthly survivor's insurance benefits. She may also be eligible if you become entitled to disability or retirement insurance benefits. She could possibly qualify now for benefits under the new Supplemental Security Income Program. Contact your nearest social security office for more information.

Q. I am 61 years of age and became totally disabled in October 1974. I have not filed application for disability benefits because a friend tells me there is a big reduction in the amount of the benefit if you apply before age 65. Is this correct?

A. No, it is not correct. If you meet the disability requirements, your benefit amount will be computed as though you were 65 years old when you became disabled. There is no reduction.

Q. Syria and Egypt to coordinate policies.

LEGAL NOTICE
The Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Box 753, Hereford, Texas, 79045, is making an application for a loan from Rural Electrification Administration which provides for the construction of approximately 9 miles of 69 KV transmission line and one 7500 KVA substation. This line will be along a general point 2 miles South of Dimmitt in Castro County, East about 2 miles, thence North about 2 miles to U.S. Highway 86, and East 5 miles. This substation will be located on this transmission line, about 4 miles West of Nazareth. The loan also provides for approximately 200 miles of distribution line to be constructed in Castro, Farmer, Qldham and Deaf Smith Counties.

B-61-3c

These facilities will make it possible for the Cooperative to meet the increasing demands for electric power of the member owners. If there are any comments on the environmental aspects of the proposed construction, it should be submitted to the Cooperative on or before September 1, 1975. Additional information may be obtained at the Cooperative office at the above address.

Vets Should Check Policy

Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Director, commented today that contrary to a misconception held by many, wills cannot change beneficiaries named on life insurance policies issued by the agency.

Coker stressed that point while reminding veterans to make certain that persons whom they intended to receive their insurance are named on their policies.

Veterans who fail to do so could add to emotional stress of survivors and cause unwarranted financial hardship, especially on widows and young children, when it is discovered the intended beneficiary was not named, Coker explained.

In such cases, the agency is obligated by law to pay insurance proceeds to the beneficiary of record. Most of the agency's policyholders are World War II veterans who carry National Service Life Insurance.

The problem of insurance benefits going to unintended recipients has arisen in most instances because the veteran simply never got around to changing an earlier listing of beneficiaries, according to Coker.

In a typical case, the veteran named his mother as beneficiary when he took out his policy. Later, when he married, he forgot to notify VA to change his beneficiary.

Coker urged any veteran who wishes to check on or change his beneficiary to contact the VA insurance center to which he pays his premiums—either in Philadelphia or St. Paul. The veteran should be sure to provide as much information as possible, including policy number, full name and address, Coker said.

By The Garden Gate With Glad

By Gladys Manjeot

IN AUGUST summer is in full swing.

The summer songs of the busy insects and winged friends fill the air. Theirs is a busy, busy song. The sun becomes very hot and the lightest summer breeze cools the warm moist brow.

Insects of every size and color are busy, busy. The gardener must keep active and get the garden chores done. It is necessary that we keep the gardens thriving, producing and maintenance continued consistently.

1. Keep up a regular spraying and dusting schedule. This is especially important for the welfare of roses. We must keep a sharp watch for signs of the chewing insects, also the sucking insects. Roses are showing blackspot and mildew. Aphids are also appearing on the tender growth, especially around the newly-formed, tiny buds. Check for these garden enemies and treat them.

You can have the spraying and dusting done commercially or do it yourself. This afternoon, Larry (my garden helper) and I sprayed everything. In the mixture we used malion and a spray for mildew and blackspot. Mixed it together and applied it generously. Again I would caution that directions as given on the containers be followed "exactly" for the best results.

I almost killed some of my new zinnia plants. I had made my morning 'round and found that something had eaten the new leaves. They looked like an intricate pattern of cutwork had been done on them. I returned to my garden store-room, picked up a can of spray and hurried out to spray the affected plants, (not reading and taking the care I should have.) The spray was for flying insects and I was

Pick them before their peak. Cut them with sharp knife and place in tap water up to the flower head. Leave for an hour or so before arranging. Remove lower foliage so that the water will flow to the blossom quicker, and they will arrange much better if properly groomed.

5. Groom the dahlias, remove faded blossoms, water as needed, not shallowly, but slow and thoroughly. Disbud for quality blossoms. If signs of mildew, treat at once, and keep up treatment consistently, as the entire plant can be destroyed very quickly.

I was in a garden this week and a pretty dark red dahlia was almost destroyed by mildew. The blossoms which had not been affected were malformed and color was not true.

In treating, be sure and saturate the soil around the root system thoroughly, in cutting the flower stems, use a sharp knife on a slant, groom, and then burn the cut end of the stem. Place in deep water and leave for an hour at least. Remove from water and wrap in newspaper for awhile before arranging.

6. Do not neglect the growing plants, shrubs, etc. Acidify the soil with acid, moist peat and sulfur, if necessary, to keep your plants happy. Most will benefit from a mulch. Clippings treating for chewing insects. Results there were badly damaged leaves and some of the plants had to be pulled up. Gardeners should be careful, act slowly (yet surely) and plants will not be mistreated.

2. Rake up and bury fallen fruits. They are likely to be wormy and disposing of them promptly helps keep the infestation down. The winds always cause some to fall and then if they are worm-eaten, they fall. This is quite a chore, but it is one which should be done regularly, at least every other day. It is not such a big chore. My crabapple tree is loaded with beautiful dark red apples, yet there are many falling, so I do watch and keep them buried. I seek out ground which needs nutrients, dig a deep hole, loosen the soil around the place chop the fruit into smaller pieces, then bury carefully and soak the soil well. This will start deterioration sooner.

3. If you have watermelons and cantaloupes, you will have a better quality if they are kept off of the ground by placing a piece of board of other material underneath them. This will prevent decay where the soil is damp and will cause the fruit to ripen more evenly.

4. Be sure and harvest fruits and vegetables when they reach their peak of maturity. Left too long, they lose their quality.

11. Crape Myrtle is very lovely now. Keep the faded blossoms cut and there will be a continuous bloom for weeks, also watch for signs of mildew or insect damages. This is one of my very favorite flowering shrubs.

12. Lawns should have good maintenance during the month of August. Many strange grasses and spreading weeds will be showing up and this month is when lawns should be fed. Also, treat for weeds, etc.

Use care in mowing. Change pattern of mowing frequently; this makes a better turf. Do not waste water, use a dependable method for lawn care and water carefully and deeply. If shallow watering is done, the turf will be shallow and can be winter killed if exposed to deep freezes and ice coverings.

THANKS TO friends for delicious fruits, vegetables, flowers, and visits, also calls. Things like this make one's day. Have a happy day and remember to share with others.

On Wall Street

By BOB HILL

A major battle will soon rage in the halls of Congress over whether domestic oil will be decontrolled and the amount of that decontrol and its timing. There will not be a clear-cut victory for either the Congress or the President—the issue will be compromised. But, the point is, the price of domestic oil will be decontrolled. This means definitely higher oil prices in this country and much higher gasoline prices over the next 36 months.

There is presently a ceiling of $5.25 per barrel on so-called "old oil," representing 60 percent of U.S. oil production. President Ford has asked Congress to remove this ceiling gradually over the next 30 months. In a surprise move, the President also asked Congress to agree to ceiling of $13.50 per barrel on foreign oil imported into the U.S., now selling for about $12.75. This step removes the price of domestic oil from any price hikes on overseas crude coming into this country. The OPEC countries have announced their intentions of getting a sharp increase in the price of their oil.

President Ford has also asked for an excise tax of $2 per barrel on all domestic oil and some kind of a windfall profits tax on the "old oil." Congress is reluctant to give the President what he wants in decontrol of oil prices. On the other hand, President Ford has the political strength to enforce his veto. Congress has rejected the Ford proposal, as expected, so a likely compromise will be to phase in decontrol over the next 36 months, coupled with a lower price ceiling on uncontrolled oil, in the neighborhood of $11.50.

Time is running out. The legislation authorizing the government to regulate oil prices and allocate fuels will expire August 31st. If President Ford and the Congress can't get an agreement hammered out by that time, the law will die and fuel prices will soar.

The Cortezes were part of a group of dealers who attended the meetings and presentations of the merchandise lines for Christmas 1975 and the fall season.

During the show, the Cortezes also received product sales training from company representatives, and were counseled concerning credit, service and advertising.
