An Important Legacy for Our Children

Future Panhandle Water Needs Reviewed

The Future of Water

Andy Kershen, a member of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce water committee and a director of Water, Inc., points out Hereford on a map showing the area water levels as foreseen for the year 2020. Kershen displayed the map at a water meeting held at the Caison House Tuesday night. The meeting was sponsored by the chamber. The map was prepared by Wayne Wyatt of the Texas Water Development Board.

"We must consider the legacy we will leave our children, and water will play an important role in that legacy," James Hull, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce water committee and director of Water Inc., told those attending a special meeting concerning water problems held at the Caison House Tuesday evening.

The meeting was sponsored by the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce and arranged by the chamber's water committee.

AN AUDIENCE of about 35 local businessmen and farmers heard a discussion of proposed legislation which would permit organization of water districts for the purpose of buying and distributing imported water, and viewed maps of Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro and Oldham counties prepared by the Texas Water Development Board showing available ground water as foreseen in the year 2020.

Tommy Swann, staff economist with Water Inc. explained House Bill 1997, which is now before the Texas legislature. The bill would create water import authorities.

Duncan Ellison, executive director of Water Inc. was originally scheduled to speak on the bill but was called to appear in Austin before a legislative committee on water importation Tuesday night and was unable to attend.

Swann told his audience that he is "more optimistic than ever about water importation, and one of the big steps that has been taken on the matter is the introduction of HB 1997."

He explained that the bill would allow creation of water authorities with control over imported water. The authorities also would have taxing and bond issuing power.

Governor Acts Fast To Appoint Dumas Attorney District Judge

MIKE METCALF
...New District Judge

In surprisingly quick action, Gov. Dolph Briscoe Monday announced the appointment of Mike Metcalf, Dumas district attorney, as 69th Judicial District Judge to succeed the late Archie McDonald.

The 35-year-old Dumas attorney became an active candidate for the appointment last Friday. Judge McDonald died suddenly earlier in the week of an apparent heart attack.

The 69th District bar association met Saturday in Amarillo and voted to poll its members for a recommendation on the appointment. The poll was scheduled to start Monday, and results were to be sent to the governor. However, Briscoe's appointment was announced Monday.

The quick appointment surprised local attorneys, although they had generally taken a "hands-off" attitude due to a bill presently in the Legislature which seeks a new Deaf Smith-Oldham district. The Hereford Bar Association claims the new district is needed to meet a heavy court load.

Metcalf, who grew up in Dalhart, has practiced law in Dumas since 1970, and was appointed DA in 1971 to fill an unexpired term. He was elected to the job in 1972. He is a graduate of Texas A&M and of the University of Houston law school.

His appointment will run until the next general election, November, 1976, at which time an election will be held for the remainder of McDonald's term, which runs through 1978.

The 69th district includes the counties of Deaf Smith, Moore, Dallam, Sherman, Hartley and Oldham. Deaf Smith County has the heaviest court load and pays more of the expense of the district, with Moore and Dallam ranking next. The judge for the district has resided in Dumas or Dalhart for the past 28 years.

In a statement last Friday, Metcalf said, "I am hoping for the appointment on the grounds that five years as district attorney have provided wide experience in trial work, and on a good acquaintanceship with the judge's work and the judicial district."

The proposal to form a new judicial district of Deaf Smith and Oldham counties is by no means assured. While local attorneys feel they have a good case for a new district, it had been reported that 17 new districts are being sought in the Legislature. Funds may not be available to establish that many districts.

Should a new district be formed, Hereford attorney Bruce Miller has announced as an active candidate for appointment. The names of Hereford attorney Rex Easterwood and Vega attorney Rex Brainerd have also been mentioned for the position.

Tickets Still Available For C of C Seminar

Hereford citizens who plan to participate in the Successful Living Seminar, scheduled here Monday and Tuesday nights, are urged to sign up at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office this week.

The seminar, sponsored by the C of C, is co-authored and conducted by Ron Willingham of Amarillo. He cooperated in formulating the seminar with Dr. Maxwell Maltz, famed author who was to appear here before his recent death.

Possibilities represented by the seminar appear to have aroused much interest in the community, and a large enrollment is expected.

Main purpose of the three-hour sessions, according to Willingham, will be to: (1) Help people identify their desires or goals, (2) Help them learn a system to reach their goals, and (3) arouse enthusiasm within them about the possibility of attaining the goals.

Willingham has written numerous books on self improvement. His most recent book is "Life Is What You Make It." It contains an introduction by the late Dr. Maltz, author of "Psycho Cybernetics."

Cost of the seminar is $25 a person. It will be conducted from 7 to 10 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday.

Press Conference Set For New Firm

Some happy news will officially befall Hereford Friday as a representative of Sue Ann Inc., a Dallas based garment manufacturer, will join Deaf Smith Chamber of commerce officials in announcing the firm's plans to locate a plant here.

It is the first piece of good news concerning the local economy in some time and is the result of long hours spent trying to gain a new industry in Hereford. One garment firm had been solicited earlier but the arrangements fell through.

The first release of the good news was made Saturday by Dick Geries, chairman of the chamber industrial development committee.

The firm decided to locate here based largely on the fact that Hereford and the area has a great potential in the availability of women employees for sewing machine operators. The firm will build a brand new building to house its operation with an initial payroll of about 150 persons and a potential of 300 employes.

At the Friday news conference, set sometime late in the morning, joint announcement is expected of an industrial foundation, a strong force in raising money to construct a building. The foundation will build the structure and sign a 10-year lease with the firm.

The company, found in 1944, manufactures a name brand line of women's sportwear. It presently has seven plants in operation with the Hereford plant being the eighth.

A total of about $22 million in sales were recorded by the company for the year ending March, 1975. This represents a giant growth as only about $13 million in sales were recorded the previous year. It markets in 40 states from 3,200 accounts.

County Costs Considered By Commissioners Court

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

Cost considerations consisted of most of the action at a Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court meeting Monday as it decided to advertise for bids on paving the Bull Barn parking lot and discussed five other items pertaining to expenses.

Moving through the 18-item agenda in about three and half hours, the commissioners also tabled a move to set the tax percentage rate, approved use of the Bull Barn facilities for the All Girl Rodeo dance and the election of the annual Fiesta Queen, canvassed votes of the recent amendment election, accepted a resolution supporting the interstate highway through here and discussed participation in a foster care program of the State Department of Public Welfare.

The other expense items included approval of reimbursement to Justice of the Peace Glen Nelson for a recent trip, and discussion on the following items: collection of old accounts for commissioners, cost quotations for a new air conditioning unit for the courthouse, purchase of new drapes for the whole courthouse and use of funds for a 1971 Highway 60 Road bond certificate of deposit.

THE BULL BARN paving will be lumped with paving for the east side of the courthouse in a bid to be advertised over the next month. It will be opened at the commissioners first June meeting, June 9.

The project will involve patching all holes and putting a hot-mix seal coat over the specified areas.

Among the discussion on the expense items, the commissioners agreed that all of them ought to wait until the next budget year when they can be accounted for in relation to other expenses. This was based on the fact that the drapes and possibly a new air conditioning unit would not be needed until next year.

The present air-conditioning condensing unit works with circulated water and is presently rusting out after servicing the courthouse since 1959. However, it is expected to last through the summer. A new unit would probably have to be an air-circulated model as the water types are no longer popular nor produced as much because cities have outlawed them due to high build ups of mineral deposits from water.

A new air-conditioning unit would cost about $8,400 and the drapes would cost as much as $15,000.

NELSON WAS APPROVED for a reimbursement of $127.80 for a trip which was considered emergency business for the county as he went to solicit support for a bill which would raise the maximum limit for small claims court cases from $200 to $500.

County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley discussed a road bond which is due and settled with the court the percentage received from certificate of deposits. It was thought that six per cent was given even on amounts kept in deposit for a few months, but the bank contract reads "six per cent per annum," which means that per cent on amounts deposited for a yea or more.

More discussion than expected arose from the approval for the use of the Bull Barn. The court approved the facility for election of a Fiesta Queen and dance on August 15 and for the All Girl Rodeo May 16 and 17. The Little Bull Barn is being used for the Rodeo.

Commissioner Bruce Coleman said, "I'm concerned that we are starting to run a dance hall at the Bull Barn. We should limit its use." But, the commission agreed that in no way could a national event such as the All Girl rodeo be refused.

COMMISSIONER JAMES VOYLES said that too much time was wasted in meeting discussing individual requests for the facility and said a general policy should be formulated. County Judge Sam Morgan concurred and it was agreed that a meeting would be called to consider nothing but policy matters.

B.F. Cain, county clerk, was instructed to gather all information concerning policy so the court could compile a policy manual. This would include personnel policy statements.

The commissioners followed the City Council in approving a resolution backing the proposed interstate highway which is being considered along the Highway 60-70 route from Las Cruces, N.M., to Amarillo. The resolution was drafted by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and governmental bodies all along the route are being asked for a renewed support of the interstate.

Robbie Edwards of the State Department of Public Welfare, explained a program the court could participate in to take care of child abuse and other foster home cases. The program, authorized by the new Family Code, involves the county appointing workers in processing foster care cases.

"It could save the county up to $750 a year and take care of the county's responsibility in that area," she said. The county would sign a contract with the state in setting aside a certain amount of money to pay foster parents for caring for their assigned children.

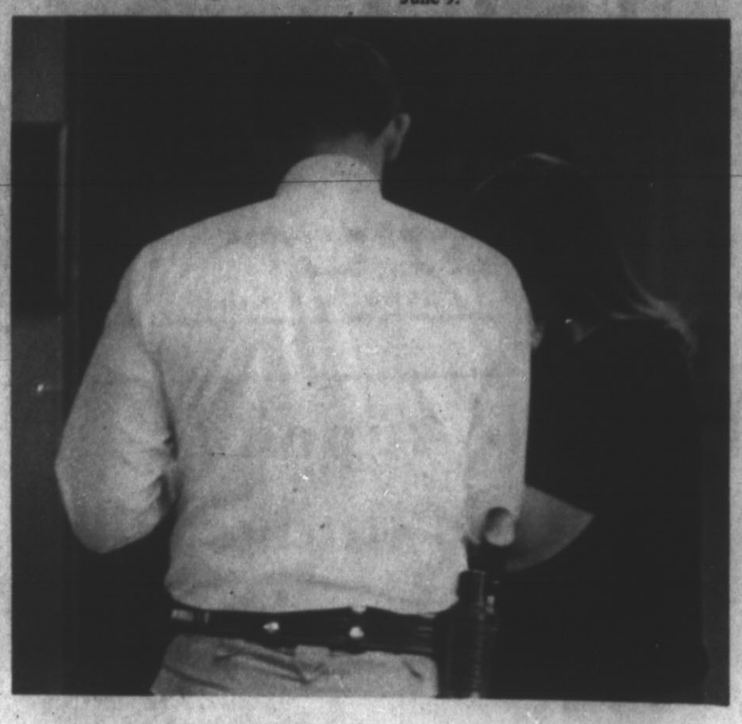
THE ONLY OBJECTION to the program was setting up a new board and it was suggested the present County Juvenile Board be appointed as the other board with County Welfare Director Jewel Smith as an advisor. The commissioners delayed action until further financial information could be furnished as to the present cost to the county. The program was recommended by Mrs. Smith.

The commissioners also delayed action on setting the tax percentage until the budget is computed . It is presently 24 per cent.

Old accounts were reviewed and each of the commissioners discussed the possibility of filing some in small claims courts if necessary. First letters will be sent to the persons owing the county money saying that further action might result if accounts remain due.

Finally, the county commissioners approved a gasoline line for Calvin Goodin in precinct 2 and toured the county library basement to inspect the new Cowgirl Hall of Fame and the need for electrical sockets in the basement.

More basement lighting also was approved.



Suspect Arraigned

Glenda Finley, 27, of Hereford conceals her face behind a deputy following her arraignment before JP Glen Nelson Tuesday morning. She was arrested in connection with a daylight robbery which occurred in Hereford April 16. Her bond was set at $10,000.

Brother, Sister Held For Morning Robbery

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's officers and Hereford police arrested a suspect Monday night in connection with a daylight robbery which occurred about a block from the county courthouse April 16.

Officers arrested Glenda Finley, 27, of Hereford about 10 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff Travis McPherson reported Tuesday morning that a second suspect in the case, Melvin Archer, 36, of Phoenix, Ariz. is in the custody of Phoenix police in lieu of $50,000 bond and had indicated that he will waive extradition.

Archer and Mrs. Finley are brother and sister.

Both were arrested in connection with an April 16 robbery in downtown Hereford in which approximately $9,500 in cash and checks was taken. A man accosted Jean Watts of 222 Aspen, a bookkeeper at Thriftway Supermarket in the incident, and took a bank bag she was carrying which contained the cash and checks. Mrs. Watts was returning to the grocery store with the bank bag at the time of the robbery.

Mrs. Finley was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Glen Nelson Tuesday morning and her bond was set at $10,000.

Both McPherson and City Police Chief Don Brush expressed appreciation for the testimony of witnesses that led to the arrest of the suspects.

"If it hadn't been for some good strong witnesses who came forward with their information, we wouldn't have been able to make these arrests. Law enforcement isn't possible without the aid of the citizenry, and we appreciate the help we have been given in this case," said McPherson.

Accidents Occupy Police Blotter

Hereford officers were kept busy with a number of accidents and two arrests for drunk in public over the weekend.

A 1973 Mercury operated by Wanda A. Lumpee of New Mexico and a 1975 Plymouth operated by Martha Valadez of 701 Knight collided on the parking lot at Sugarland Mall Saturday.

In another Saturday accident, a 1974 Ford operated by Manuel Cruz Ortiz of Lubbock and a 1973 Ford pickup operated by Gary Wayne Bentley of Rt. 4, Hereford, collided at intersection of Highway 60 and 385.

Officers are investigating the theft of a small portable television from the Judy McBeth residence at 508 Union. The theft apparently occurred Sunday night and according to police reports the thief gained entry through a window.

Roger Odom of 1003 Union reported the theft of a four-cycle gas engine from his garage about noon Sunday.

City police are currently investigating an incident of indecent exposure which occurred Tuesday afternoon in the 400 block of East 6th Street.

A student at Stanton Junior High reported to police that a white male in his late 20's exposed himself to her.

1973 Buick operated by Dorothy F. Mercer of 112 Aspen and a 1969 Pontiac operated by Ernesto Garza Jr. of 815 Knight collided at the intersection of Park Avenue and 385 Wednesday.

Officers checked out an accident involving a 1972 Pontiac driven by Greg Lee Hooser of 602 Star and a 1971 Plymouth driven by Agnes Karen Connelly of 150 Center Street Thursday. The vehicles collided in the 1000 block of East Union.

A fire hydrant located in the 600 block of West Park was damaged in an accident Tuesday.

James David Riggall of 236 West 3rd lost control of his 1970 Chevrolet and the vehicle struck the hydrant.

Dear Dr. Esse: I know that you must have readers with all kinds of beliefs — and disbeliefs. Those who are extremely religious and those who are atheists. Nevertheless, I believe that whoever they are, they may find some suggestions in the Bible that are health-giving and treasures of wisdom. Here are some:

Proverbs 4:22, God's word is life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh.

Proverbs 16:24, Pleasant words are as an honeycomb, sweet to the soul and health to the bones.

Proverbs 17:22, A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones.

Proverbs 24:13, Eat thou honey because it is good.

Proverbs 4:23, Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.

James 4:8, Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you, and purify your hearts ye double-minded.

Matthew: 5:8, Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Proverbs 16:20, Who trusteth in the Lord, happy is he. Only the wise will take heed.

be set up by the Water Rights Commission.

"A contractually available source of water would have to be at hand before the authorities could be set up," Swann explained.

Swann pointed out that he hasn't heard of any serious opposition to the bill and believes it has good chance of passing.

"The governor and lieutenant governor are in favor of it, Water Inc. supports the bill and a number of people from the High Plains united behind the bill are in Austin tonight (Tuesday) expressing their support for it," said Swann.

Swann also explained that the governor is presently in the process of talking with the governors of adjacent states to determine if a source of water is available.

"Governor Edwards of Louisiana had indicated that he is in favor of letting Texas have some of his state's excess water. I feel we're in much better shape now on the availability of water," Swann commented.

According to Swann, new principles and standards have been applied to a study of the benefit-cost ratio of the importation project and have put the project in a more favorable position.

Swann reported that Duncan Ellison returned from a meeting of the National Water conference in Washington last week and was "very optimistic" about the chances for water importation in the future.

"The United Nations indicates that world food production must double by the year 1980, and must increase at an even larger rate after that. The High Plains of Texas and portions of eastern New Mexico would be the ideal areas in which to increase this production with the aid of water importation," said the economist.

ANDY KERSHEN, a member of the C of C water committee and a director of Water Inc., displayed two maps showing the present water status of Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro and Oldham counties and the status of water is foreseen in 2020.

The maps were prepared by Wayne Wyatt of the Texas Water Development Board.

"For all practical purposes, Deaf Smith County and most surrounding counties will be out of underground water for irrigation 25 years from now according to this map," Kershen said.

He explained that the maps were based on the present underground water supply and present consumption rates.

"Most of us intend to stay in this area, we know we will get imported water some day, but in the meantime we really have to conserve water and get people to start planning," said Kershen.

"A lot of water is wasted through poor or improper irrigation. In fact, we may irrigate too much. We have to keep looking for more efficient ways to utilize our irrigation water. If we could just learn to hold our rain water, not let any of it get away, it would cut down on irrigation considerably," he added.

Once it was a source of pride for Texans that they enjoyed thelowest per capita number of state employees of any state in the nation. No more, according to the Texas Association of Taxpayers. During the past four years, public employment in Texas has grown nearly 22 per cent faster than population.

Based on this growth rate, the equivalent of 30,000 new employees will be added to the non-education sector of state government along over the remainder of this decade, while no more than 10,000 would be needed if public employment grew no faster than total population.

If Texas were to merely limit employment growth to the population growth rate, the taxpayers would save over a billion dollars in salaries, fringe benefits, and construction costs during the next five years. Gov. Briscoe has called for a 5 per cent reduction in state employment and said it could be accomplished through normal attrition—pointing out that he has reduced his office payroll by 7 per cent.

The need to reduce public employment is catching on. Overnight results cannot be expected, but public pressure can bring cutbacks without reducing efficiency.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

The Legislature accomplished what some people have termed "an unachievable task" April 9 when it voted to send a new article-by-article constitutional revision package to Texas voters Nov. 4.

The victory was the result of over a year of study, revision and unsuccessful attempts to pass a document during last year's Constitutional Convention.

Two days after the deadlock of the convention in July, I called for the passage of a revised constitution during this session. I firmly believed that Texas did not need to spend millions of dollars more on another convention, when this session of the Legislature had the opportunity and background to accomplish the task.

With this in mind, I appointed a hard-working constitutional revision committee in January, and they began working to revise and polish the convention document. On March 24, the committee reported favorably to the House floor a similar version of the convention document without the separate submissions attached.

The Senate quickly adopted the work product of the House committee and sent it back to the House for its approval.

I was proud to use the voting privilege of the Speaker's chair to endorse this document. It is recognized by experts as one of the most readable and understandable state constitutions in the nation.

Of course, any document of its size cannot be fully satisfactory to everyone's desires, but I believe it is a sound document the voters of Texas will approve overwhelmingly in November.

A brief summary of the highlights of the document include the following provisions of interest:

- The Legislature will meet annually for alternate 140-day and 90-day sessions.
- The state would be under a unified court system consisting of the Supreme Court, courts of appeals, district courts and circuit courts. The Court of Criminal Appeals would merge with the Supreme Court and the intermediate courts of appeals would be given criminal as well as civil jurisdiction.
- Through a new local government article, counties would gain ordinance-making powers and have ability to change the structure of their governments.
- Texas would continue the "pay as you go" provision against state debt.
- No sales tax could be levied on food, drugs, feed, fertilizer or farm equipment.
- Under a statement of general policy, the Legislature would be given the duty to provide equitable support of public schools, insuring every student an equal educational opportunity.
- The creation of a special higher education fund for state colleges financed by a 10 cent per $100 assessed valuation of property taxes. The Legislature would be responsible annually for assessing the financial needs of colleges outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems, and would determine the allocation of the fund.

Some 30 new freshman House members who did not participate in the Constitutional Convention are to be applauded for their work on the document. They added a fresh outlook and approach to debate and offered valuable input to its content.

Rebates, Refunds To Offset Recent Income Tax Payments

(SPS)—Some financial aid will soon be on the way for residents of Deaf Smith County.

A total of $3,218,000 will be flowing in from Washington, a partial offset to the funds they sent in the opposite direction recently in paying their 1974 income taxes.

Essentially, it represents a two-part payout. The bulk of it, approximately $2,424,000, will be coming back in the form of refunds to local taxpayers who overpaid on their taxes during the past year because the amount withheld from their paychecks was more than was required.

Most of the other money they will be receiving consists of the rebates on their 1974 taxes that Congress and the Administration approved last month.

Deaf Smith County residents will recover an estimated 794,000 in such rebates.

In addition, local persons who are recipients of Social Security, people getting railroad pensions and the aged, the blind and the disabled who are on welfare will receive $50 each.

This bonus will in no way affect the increase in monthly benefits they are scheduled to get later this year under separate legislation.

Nationally, a substantial amount of money is being put back into the hands of consumers with the hope that they will start spending more freely and get the economy moving forward.

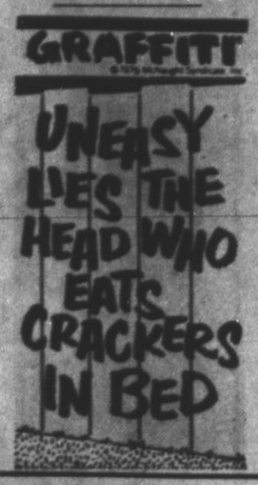
The total going to individuals in these direct payments figures out to $37.8 billion, of which $28 billion is in refunds, $8.1 billion in rebates and $1.7 billion in the $50 checks.

According to the latest Treasury Department reports, the refunds are running at the rate of $386 each. This compares with $361 last year.

As for the rebates, the range is from $100 to a maximum of $200. Those who paid less than $100 in taxes will get all their money back.

The new bill provides, also, for reductions on 1975 taxes in the amount of $7.8 billion, including a $30 tax credit for each taxpayer and dependent.

Taxpayers need file no application to receive their rebates, it is noted. They will start going out the early part of May. It is expected that all of them will be issued before the end of June.



VA Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—I'm an 18 year old son of a World War II veteran who died two months ago. Am I eligible for a GI loan from the Veterans Adminstration?

A.—No. Only unmarried widows or widowers of service personnel killed on active duty, or of veterans who died from service-connected disabilities, and spouses of service personnel missing in action or captured for more than 90 days, are eligible for GI home loans.

Q—Do Veterans Adminstration hospitals and clinics take care of reservists injured reporting to, or returning from the military training?

A—Yes. Medical care is available for injuries and illnesses which occur during travel time as specified in the reservist's military orders. Both active duty and inactive duty training are considered active duty for this purpose.

Q—Some six million veterans were released from military service between 1955 and 1966. Is it true that these veterans have an additional two years to use their GI Bill benefits under a recent law?

A—Yes. Under a law approved in July 1974 (PL 93-337), veterans released during that period who have not exhausted entitlement have 10 years or until May 1976, whichever is later, to complete training. Farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training are available to them until Aug. 30, 1977.

Q.—I find I'm not cut out for the type training I'm taking under the GI Bill. Can I switch to something else?

A—Yes, but constant changes are not allowed. Suggest you check with the Veterans Adminstration regional office which has your records.

Q—My grandfather, a World War II veteran, will be 65 years old in two years. Will he be eligible for Veterans Administration pension?

A—VA pensions, based on need, may be granted if at age 65 a veteran's income does not exceed $300 a year if he is single, or $4,200 if he has dependents.

Q—When is the deadline for veterans discharge on or after April 3, 1970, and before August 1, 1974, to apply for the low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI offered by the Veterans Adminstration?

A—Application and first premium must be submitted before August 2, 1975, to: Office of Service's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102.

Fertilizer Tonnage Declines

Fertilizer tonnage and amount of plant nuturients per ton have declined in Texas, a trend that could have a negative effect on rural economics.

Dr. Flake Fisher, director of the Feed and Fertilizer Control Service, said tonnage from Sept. 1, 1974, through Mar. 31, 1975, is 1,378,653 tons—a 31 per cent drop in one year.

Fisher said quantity of plant nutrients per ton is also reduced an estimated 10 per cent for the same time period. Therefore, total fertilizer nutrients used by Texas farmers and ranchers may be down by fully one-third.

What might be the economic impact of the trend?

Fisher says reduced yield per acre leads to less total gross revenue to Texas agriculture and fewer expenditures in local economics. Business activity slows down.

Every reduction of $1 spent for fertilizer may reduce economic activity in a local area as much as $3. The result is rapid decline of the typical rural Texas community, the director said.

Lower output of farm goods, he added, almost invariably leads to higher retail prices for food.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—A utilities regulatory bill finally surfaced in the Senate but immediately ran into stiff criticism after early indications it might pass promptly.

The bill (SB 42) remained on high center while sponsors tried to satisfy complaints with amendments.

A Texas Coalition for Utility Regulation spokesman termed the Senate bill "a monopoly's dream and a consumer's nightmare."

Some charged it would mean an automatic rate increase for most utilities because of provisions of the rating formula. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby termed this concern a "misapprehension."

The bill would set up a three-member appointed Public Utility Commission with jurisdiction over intrastate telephone rates.

Cities would retain jurisdiction over electric and gas rates. The Utilities Commission would have jurisdiction over electric rates outside city limits, while the Railroad Commission would have jurisdiction over gas rates outside municipal boundaries.

Appeals from electric rate decisions by cities would go to the Utilities Commission. Appeals in gas rate cases would go to the Railroad Commission.

SPEED BILL KILLED

The Senate sent the so-called "no-pain" speed bill to a painful end.

Senators voted down 10-19 the House-passed measure which sought to limit fines for speeding violations under 70 mph to $25 (including court costs). The original bill also would have prevented 55-70 mph speeding violations from being entered in drivers' records for insurance premium enhancement and license suspension purposes.

The legislature earlier extended the present 55 mph speed limit to conform with federal energy-saving requirements. Enforcement apparently will be "monitored" by the federal government.

SUPERINTENDENTS AXED

Thirty-nine county school superintendents would receive no more state aid under a bill passed by the Senate and returned to the House.

The measure (HB 226) would take away state support for superintendents in Jasper, Newton, Sabine, Anderson, Atascosa, Austin, Bexar, Brazos, Burleson, Camp, Crosby, Delta, Donley, Eastland, Gonzales, Gregg, Hardin, Harrison, Hunt, Jack, Jones, Karnes, LaSalle, Leon, Liberty, Medina, Orange, Red River, Robertson, Rusk, San Augustine, San Jacinto, Starr, Tarrant, Tyler, Upshur, Walker, Waller and Washington Counties.

COURTS SPEAK

Third Court of Civil Appeals held a lawsuit claiming Secretary of State Mark White Jr. helped dissolve a corporation in an improper manner can be tried in Travis County.

A Nueces County man should be released from custody for contempt, since he had a right not to answer a question put to him at a deposition taking, the Texas Supreme Court held.

A Dallas County black won a new trial on rape charges. The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the case, on grounds the trial judge would not allow the defendant's attorneys to question prospective jurors about racial prejudice.

AG OPINIONS

Alien children are entitled to attend public schools in their home district, regardless of whether they are legally or illegally within the U.S., Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill held:

There is no difference in rights reinstated by a pardon or a restoration to citizenship. But a restoration to citizenship might not satisfy a requirement that a pardon and a proof of innocence are necessary for an award of compensation to a wrongfully-convicted person.

The federal election campaign act amendments supercede Texas Election Code expense reporting requirements for candidates for federal office.

Preliminary and tentative suggestions in a school board committee report are excepted from disclosure under the Open Records Act, as are charges against identifiable individuals.

WINNERS NAMED

Winners of the Governor's 1974 Industrial Expansion Awards were named by Texas Industrial Commission for civic and economic contributions to their communities.

Winners were Mooney Aircraft Corp. of Kerrville, Amoco Chemical Corp. of Alvin, Timex Corp. of Abilene, G&H Casting Corp. of Slaton, Inca Metal Products Corp. of Lewisville and Mr. Fine of Athens.

The award winners will be honored in ceremonies during May. Fourteen other companies were selected for special citation.

SHORT SNORTS

Mrs. Selma Wells of Houston was named to the State Board of Pardons and Paroles. She is the first woman member, and the first black, on the board.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe urged fellow governors to join him in demanding full information on a federal plan to produce electricity by thermonuclear bomb explosions in salt domes of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

Sixty-three grants totalling $5.2 million have been authorized for improvements in the Texas criminal-justice system.

Retails bonded by Wisconsin Surety Corporation must get new bonds, Comptroller Bob Bullock warned, since the company has gone into receivership.

Bike Fatality Rate Lowest

How safe is a bicycle? That depends almost entirely on its driver. It's as simple as that.

The fatality rate per 100,000 bicyclists reached the lowest point in history during 1973, according to the most recent statistics released by the National Safety Council.

But as far as the manufacturers are concerned, that record isn't good enough. One injury is too many. One death is appalling. Their target? Zero accidents. Is there anyone who would aim any lower?

The American bicycle is built to meet critical safety requirements. All members of the Bicycle Manufacturers Association voluntarily conform to the BMA/6 safety regulations. Now the government plans to add new manufacturing strictures.

But there is only so much that can be built into a bike. The rest must be built into its driver. Every study shows the same thing. In the great majority of accidents, the fault lies with the man, woman or child operating the vehicle.

Extension Biologist In Demand

Dick DeArment, an experienced Texas Parks and Wildlife Department project biologist, has been appointed as an extension biologist for the Texas High Plains.

"I will cover all the counties from the San Angelo area north to the Oklahoma Panhandle," DeArment stated today.

"Those individuals interested in improving the wildlife habitat on their property should write to my office at Box 122, Wheeler, TX 79096," DeArment continued.

Many landowners are concerned about the decrease in wildlife habitat not only in Texas but everywhere. However, there is something that they can do for game species on their property.

The stockings of surplus or extra birds or animals has proven to be a waste of time and money in most cases.

The land can only hold so many deer, turkey or quail and only after improvement of cover, food and protection will an increase in these species be noted.

DeArment's job will cover such subjects as: how much cover is needed, what food plants should be made available and how many deer or quail the land holds now and if improvement of the habitat is warrented.

The projected goal of the extension biologist is to improve the habitat of a landowner without cutting into the farming or ranching operations.

Most of the land now used for ranching or farming has a stable population of wildlife. Through the extension program, it is hoped that an increase in the number of surplus wildlife species will occur allowing the landowners and sportsmen to increase the size of their game bag.

Some of the projects of particular interest are the ring-necked pheasant, bobwhite quail and deer habitat improvement.

Again, a letter from the landowner to DeArment requesting ideas and assistance on habitat improvements is required and it is hoped that the extension program will help wildlife in Texas.

A World-wide Fight

View From The Plains

BY J.D. PEER

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

One of the earliest residents of Texas, the prairie chicken, is at it again.

Every spring at this time, these grassland residents move onto the same booming grounds and there the cocks or males strut and boom by sucking air into the sacs located on their neck. This noise and show is to attract the hens that are waiting outside the booming grounds. As the hen walks into the open area, all of the males will immediately show his stuff and then the hen will pick her mate.

At one time, these game birds, the lesser prairie chicken, ranged over all of Texas but, increased plowing of native grasslands has now reduced the habitat to only a few areas in northwest Texas. The last stronghold of the bird include areas in Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum and Lamb counties on the south plains and about 15 counties in the northeastern part of the Texas panhandle.

The requirements for these game birds is more demanding than those of the quail or dove. Large tracts of native grasslands with sagebrush, mesquite or post oak are required. This type of land is disappearing fast.

A stable population of birds exist on the remaining large tracts of grasslands and the annual prairie chicken hunt held each fall helps to harvest surplus birds. The elimination of this hunt would not increase the range of the birds according to Dick DeArment, Extension biologist, at Wheeler.

"The prairie chicken will never become populated across the plains as it once was in the early days," DeArment said.

"The Texas Parks & Wildlife Department is trying to help maintain the existing habitat and annual game bird census counts are conducted on the booming grounds to keep tabs on the population," DeArment continued.

The demand for more food to feed the hungry people have placed a high priority on farming land and this in turn has affected all species of wildlife but, not as much as it has the lesser prairie chicken.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Removing Kinks From Line

Every time you load your freshwater reel, either spinning or casting, there will be kinks in your line. This regardless of how careful you are in winding on a new spool of monofilament.

But, there's a quick cure.

Climb aboard your favorite floater, crank up the powerhouse and spin out into the lake far enough from shore to permit release of the line slowly and completely down to the bare spool. Then, continuing to drive slowly, rewind until all of the line is back on the spool.

One point to remember is to trail only the line behind the boat—no lure on it, not even a swivel.

A 10 or 15 minute ride is sufficient to remove all kinks.

Follow the same procedure to remove line twists that result from trolling.

Watch What's Following

Want to know which lure interests the fish most?

Okay, after each cast drag the lure alongside the boat, or dock, or wherever you're fishing—and on past you—before you lift it out of the water. While doing so, watch closely to see if fish are following the bait.

It does happen. In fact it's amazing how many fish follow the lure right up to the boat, then dart away when they see you.

Anyway, it's a good inkling as to what lure interests the fish.

Many a bass has hit a lure right alongside the boat, or just as the angler was about to bring the bait in for another cast. It's quite a surprise, too, because it's just not expected.

But, if you want an even greater thrill, let it happen in the darkness of night. That'll scare the living daylights out of you!

Hendrix In Course At A&M

Herman O'Dell Hendrix of Hereford is enrolled in a telephone technicians course at Texas A&M University.

The two-week training program prepares technicians in key systems installation and repair. It is conducted by the Power and Communications Division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service (TEES). Classes continue through May 2.

Hendrix works for the West Texas Rural Telephone CO-op Incc.

He and four other trainees under instructor C.R. Gutherie are learning proper installation and trouble clearing methods for relay and transistorized typed of key telephone system.

Each students installs each type of system including two central office lines, dial and manual intercom each. Lamp functions and all circuitry are checked for proper operation.

The training is only a segment of the total telephone technicians program of TEES division. Personnel from throughout Texas and several other states train at the TAMU Research Annex facilities.

Numerous other programs are provided by other TEES divisions to help make life better for people of Texas. They are in law enforcement, fire fighting, municipal inspection, teacher training and heavy equipment operation, among others.

Pair Return From Washington

Pat Robbins and Bill Walden represented this county recently by participating in the 1975 Farm Bureau President's Conference at Washington, D.C.

Included in a group of about 240 Texans attending the assembly were county FB leaders, wives and Texas FB staff members. Leaders met with Texas Congressmen, Senators and Secretay of Agriculture Earl Butz.

American Farm Bureau Administration President, William J. Kuhfuss and the Washington D.C. AFBF office staff discussed the Washington Situation at a banquet. Those at the convention toured numerous sights at the capital including Ford's Theatre, the Capitol building, the Supreme Court building, the Library of Congress, the White House and the Smithsonian Museum.

The language develops new words before most of us learn the old ones.

ANCA To Conduct May Tour In Texas

The American National Cattlemen's Association will conduct an intensive three-day Industry Action Tour in Texas May 6, 7 and 8.

Led by ANCA President Gordon Van Vleck, the delegation of cattlemen will examine their industry's problems in a series of ten meetings to be held in as many cities over the three day period.

Van Vleck will meet personally with the Texas cattlemen to gain the benefit of their views on the current cattle-crisis. He will outline the actions ANCA has taken—and will take—to deal with critical issues.

Accompanying Van Vleck will be Hilmar Moore of Richmond, Texas, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and Rob Brown of Throckmorton, immediate past president of the American Simmental Association.

Tour stops will include Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo and Abilene on May 6, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Houston on May 7, and Wichita Falls and Fort Worth on May 8.

The ANCA President will discuss all issues of importance to Texas cattlemen with particular emphasis on legislation currently under consideration by Congress.

"Land use planning is at the top of our list of crucial issues," Van Vleck said. "Both the State of Texas and the national Congress are now working on legislation which could have a catastrophic effect on cattlemen."

The Beef Research and Consumer Education Act is another priority issue along with meat import restrictions and the USDA beef grading revisions which are currently bogged down in a law suit.

"I doubt very much if we'll run out of issues to discuss during this tour," Van Vleck said. "We want to get the input of Texas cattlemen on the biggest problems facing them right now, and we want to report to them on the action ANCA is taking in their behalf.

Gift for Sweetheart

Tommy Loerwald, outgoing president of Hereford Key Club, presented club sweetheart Laurie Young with gifts during the annual Parent Appreciation-Leadership Installation Banquet Monday night in Civic Club Center. Loerwald also presented gifts to Kiwanis Club advisors. Pete Hale was installed as new president.

Livestock Exports, Imports Reviewed

U.S. exports of livestock and livestock products totaled $1.57 billion in 1974, up 10 per cent from record levels a year earlier, according to Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The greatest export increases were in animal fat and furskins. Lard exports were also up 42 per cent and edible tallow exports tripled.

"However, red meat exports were down considerably from '73 levels due to a cut-back of beef exports to Canada and prod exports to Japan. Variety meat exports were also down somewhat," notes the specialist.

Uvacek says that live cattle exports were off considerably despite a 30,000 head increase in shipments to Mexico. During 1974 Mexico also became a valuable market for U.S. sheep and goats.

While overall exports increased from 1973 to 1974, imports of livestock and livestock products dropped significantly.

"Total imports of livestock and livestock products in 1974 were down 19 per cent from year earlier levels. Meats and meat products subject to the Meat Import Law were also down in both quantity and value. The Meat Import Law covers fresh, chilled and frozen beef, veal, mutton and goat meat."

According to Uvacek, the decline of these imports was due in part to the unattractive prices for which manufacturing quality meat sold during 1974.

SCHOOLS & VIOLENCE

A Senate subcommittee has estimated that 70,000 U.S. teachers are victims of serious physical assaults each year and that school vandalism now costs about a half-billion dollars a year.

Farmers plan a cut in 1975 corn planting.

Mike Hull Installs Officers

Pete Hale Installed As New Key Club President

Pete Hale was installed as the 1975-76 president and awards were presented by Tommy Loerwald when the Key Club held its annual Parent Appreciation-Leadership Installation Banquet Monday night at the Civic Club Center.

"Living with a sense of values" was the theme of a message by guest speaker Bob Wear, minister of the Central Church of Christ. "Living is not easy—it's a problem-solving situation," Wear told his audience.

When a man builds a house, Wear told the young Key Club members, he selects good materials or he can cut corners and use cheap materials. "You are building a life...I urge you to pick the best materials, the best elements to make up that life," Wear emphasized.

Loerwald, the outgoing president, presented special awards to several Kiwanians, as well as to the club sweetheart Laurie Young. The high school club is sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs.

Faculty advisor Gene Brock was praised for his work with the organization, and special recognition went to Bobby Owen, division Key Club chairman; Armon Lauderback, Noon Club chairman; Tommy Rossen, Breakfast Club chairman; and Dean Herring, former division chairman. Special guests included Kiwanis Club presidents R.C. Hoelscher and Danny Vermillion; high school principal Jerry George and assistant Gene Barkowsky.

The Key Club sent 18 representatives to Dallas the past weekend for the Texas-Oklahoma district convention. In the annual club activity contest, Hereford ranked 13th among almost 300 clubs. Hereford's Mike Hull will be the District 33 lieutenant governor next year.

Other new officers installed Monday night included Mike Foster, vice president; Kent Herring, secretary; Rowan Alexander, treasurer; Steve Cornelius and Dave Charest, senior directors; and Mike Oglesby and Dale Tarr, junior directors.

Loerwald served as mastor of ceremonies for the annual banquet. Craig Nieman, vice president, introduced the guest speaker, and Hale introduced special guests and recognized the parents attending. Hull installed the new officers. Lynn Tarr led the pledge to the flag; Kevin Malone worded the invocation, and Dirk Vander Zee read the benediction scripture.

Sophisticated Entertainment

Ray Jenkins plays away on his violin as his accompanist Bette Stewart, a ninth grader at La Plata, follows along at the Rotary Luncheon Monday.

Violinist Entertains Rotary Club Monday

Rotarians were treated to a bit of sophisticated entertainment at their Monday luncheon as Ray Jenkins of the Hereford School District performed three violin numbers along with his accompanist Bette Stewart, a 9th grader at La Plata Junior High School.

He explained that the schools music programs have progressed significantly over the years citing recent competition awards as evidence. Jenkins is in charge of the woodwinds instruction for three elementary schools, conducts the orchestra at La Plata and helps with the secondary schools music programs.

The woodwinds instruction began about six years ago and Jenkins said that it has gone upward since students receiving instruction in the lower grades have now advanced higher and added to the programs in the upper grades.

Jenkins is a member of the Amarillo Symphonic Orchestra.

"I really enjoy the job here teaching young students to play," he said. "It's a multiple task to teach the students proper coordination for the instruments and the right way to read music and we're learning something new all the time."

In other business, Rotarian Rodger Ruland reported that about $400 was raised off the volleyball tournament held Friday and Saturday. He said it was difficult to coordinate the workloads but that next year it would be handled in an easier way based on the problems of this year's tournament.

The members were reminded of the barbecue being served for the All Girl Rodeo on May 17.

Officer of the Month

Paul Ramirez, right, is honored by Rotarians Monday as the officer of the Month. He is with the city police department. Presenting the award is Rotarian Don Samuels, Department of Public Safety officer. He also received the award earlier in the year.

Band Awards

Mahota Manning and Syndy Moore, members of the La Plata Junior High Band display the trophy and plaque the band won last weekend at the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo. The band received a First Division Award and an award as the outstanding junior high band at the festival. Some 33 junior high bands competed. Jim Priest is the La Plata band director.

Herd Management Important To Cattlemen

Proper management of the beef breeding herd is essential if cattlemen are going to stay in business during these times of low market prices, contends a beef cattle researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Cattlemen must give closer attention to reproduction in their herds," emphasizes Dr. J.N. Wiltbank, with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Station at Beeville.

"Reproduction has to be a year round thing if cows are to stay in good shape and calve regularly.

"Cows should calve early in the calving season. Early calving is especially important in heifers to get the reproductive cycle off to a good start. Early calving cows have a larger calf crop and a better overall reproductive performance."

Wiltbank also emphasizes the need for separating various groups of cows and feeding them according to their needs. "Young cows are slower coming into heat than older cows, so they need to be separated and fed better. In addition to the young cows, the herd should also be sorted into thin cows, fat cows and cows that have calved. All these have different nutrient requirements."

The overall condition of the cow is vital for top reproductive performance, he notes. Pregnancy can increase 20 to 30 per cent for cows in good condition compared to those that are thin. Cows should gain 120 to 140 pounds during pregnancy since they will drop that much weight at calving. Of course, the cow's nutrient requirements will double after calving so more feed will be needed.

Phosphorus is a key element for top reproductive performance and should be available at all times, Wiltbank notes.

The research scientist also stresses the need for early weaning of calves. "Early weaning is especially important when forage is short and feeding costs are high. Calves can be weaned at 40-50 days of age and can be placed on dry feed."

In determining when to begin breeding heifers, Wiltbank notes that the time of puberty is influenced by the age, weight and particular breed of cattle. Heifers must reach certain weights to start their estrus cycles at 14-15 months of age.

Gas Hearings Are Moved

Hearings to determine the future of natural gas for irrigation fuel will be held soon in three southwestern U.S. cities, although observers predict the issue will ultimately be decided by the Supreme Court.

The three sessions, each expected to last three days, will be held in Lubbock, Alburquerque, N.M. and Phoenix, Ariz.

There will be no curtailment of natural gas for irrigation until the hearings are over and the initial decision is reached by an administrative law judge, according to a spokesman in the Washington office of Sen. John Tower of Texas.

The future of natural gas as a farm fuel has been in question since the Federal Power Commission issued a ruling last December which lowered the use of natural gas for agriculture from second to third priority.

Although that decision applied only to customers of El Paso Natural Gas Company, observers believe the action will eventually result in curtailment of natural gas as a farm fuel throughout the United States.

Spokesmen for agriculture feel such curtailment would have a devastating effect on production of food and fiber.

Officers and staff of Grain Sorghum Producers Association, headquartered in Lubbock, have worked full time since the December ruling to block the curtailment and have sought to move the hearings from Washington to the Southwest where farmers will be hardest hit by loss of natural gas.

Working with the High Plains Gas Users Association and Southwest Consumers Association, GSPA spokesmen have continually stressed the technical and economic impossibility of converting irrigation to alternate fuel sources.

GSPA vice president Mabry Foreman of Felt, Okla. and research director Jack King have met regularly with legislators in Washington, personnel of the FPC, representatives of the Federal Energy Agency and U.S. Department of Agriculture, attempting to demonstrate the impossibility of converting commonly used automotive irrigation engines from natural gas to gasoline or propane.

A study by Dr. James Osborn of Texas Tech University indicates conversion to gasoline would increase hourly fuel costs 320 per cent for 150 h.p. engine.

Conversion to propane, according to the study, would increase hourly costs 282 per cent.

The annual cost of a 3,000 hour irrigation season on the same 150 h.p. engine would jump from $3,570 for natural gas to $15,000 for gasoline and $13,650 for propane, according to the study.

Texas Taxe$

By BOB BULLOCK
State Comptroller

Austin—It has often been said that there is nothing certain but death and taxes. Perhaps the line was originally meant to apply to our inheritance taxes.

The Texas inheritance tax is one of the most overlooked state taxes, probably because it has liberal exemptions and is so much smaller than federal estate taxes. The Comptroller's Department collects about $50 million in inheritance taxes annually, one of the minor sources of state revenue.

We get reports on only a fraction of the persons who die and leave things of value to their heirs. Last year we looked at more than 31,500 returns but found only 15,000 of them to be taxable.

The Texas tax is completely different from the federal tax. The federal tax is levied on the deceased person's estate, regardless of who inherits it or how it is divided, and the tax is taken before the estate is divided.

Our tax is levied on the persons who receive the inheritance and the exemptions and rates vary according to the several classes of heirs.

The first class of heirs includes the spouse, mother, father, son, daughter, and grandchildren. Regardless of the number of heirs, each heir in this class is given a $25,000 exemption before the tax applies.

The rates for this classification, after the $25,000 exemption, are one per cent for inheritances between $25,000 and $50,000, two per cent for $50,000 to $100,000, three per cent for $100,000 to $200,000, four per cent for $200,000 to $500,000, five per cent for $500,000 to $1 million, and six per cent above $1 million.

Brothers and sisters are another classification and they get a $10,000 exemption. Their graduated rates start at three per cent. Aunts, uncles and cousins get a $1,000 exemption and their rates start at four per cent. Unrelated persons receive a $500 exemption and rates start at five per cent.

Property and money passed on to charitable, educational or religious organizations are, of course, exempt from inheritance taxes.

The $25,000 exemption for members of the immediate family means our tax doesn't fall on many heirs, and yet we know we are missing some taxable inheritances. To correct this, we are simplifying reporting forms, changing death reports sent by the counties and trying to make the public more aware of the state tax.

The law requires inheritance tax returns to be filed with us within nine months of the date of death. Failure to do so can subject the heir to penalties of up to 10 per cent.

Some efforts have been made in the Legislature to increase the exemptions and perhaps the Legislature would be justified in doing so.

Area Communities In CIP Competition

The Adrian and Wildorado communities, both of Oldham County, are being considered as winners in the 1975 District 1 Community Improvement Program, according to District Agents Paul Gross and Sue Farris, coordinators for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Wildorado will be judged at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday and Adrian will be judged at 2 p.m. Kerrick Community of Dallam County is also being considered for the award.

The winning community will receive a check for $100 and advance to the regional competition where it will vie against the best from three other Extension Service districts.

Second place will receive $75, third place $50 and fourth $25. Judges will be Tim Shaunty, Extension resource development specialist, Amarillo; Mack Heald, Parmer County Extension Agent; and Mrs. Joyce Shipp, Deaf Smith County Extension Agent.

The district winner will be judged in the regionals the week of May 12-16. The state finals, matching the four regional winners, will be decided the week of May 26-30.

Gross said a total of 158 communities from 69 counties will be competing this year for statewide recognition and $7,375 in cash awards. The state champion will earn $850 and a silver tray enroute to its No. 1 position, he noted.

The 1974 state winner was Dike from Hopkins County in northeast Texas.

Participation in the program is restricted to communities of fewer than 1,000 people.

It has been sponsored since 1959 by a number of investor-owned Texas electric utilities in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Gerald Ford, President, on an additional Consumer Agency:

"It is my conviction that the best way to protect the consumer is to improve the existing institution of government."

TMTA Reveals Trucking Is Big Business In County

Trucks and buses are big business in Deaf Smith County, and figures recently released by the Texas Motor Transportation Association prove it. In 1974, Deaf Smith County alone, 1,532 persons were employed by the trucking industry. They earned $12,855,012.

According to TMTA, the association representing the truck and bus industry in Texas, truck registrations in Deaf Smith County in 1974 were 5,5547 and the total value of trucks in use totaled $7,599,390.

Statewide, trucks and buses give employment to 677,800-that's one out of every six non-farm paychecks. Obviously, the truck and bus industry is a big one. And no other business more directly affects the daily lives of all Texans than do these two forms of motor transportation. The clothes people wear, the food they eat, the items they use in making a living—all come at least part way by truck.

In fact, Texas needs trucks more than do most states because 63 per cent of the communities in the Lone Star State depend entirely on trucks for transportation. They have no other kind of shipping service. This number includes 49 county seats and 21 entire counties. And many of the communities which have other transportation service depend on trucks for the smaller shipments which railroads cannot handle

The industries in Texas which are linked to the truck and bus industry are many. For example, trucks are irreplaceable in the movement of Texas fruits and vegetables.

More than 262 million in cash receipts were received by Texas farmers in 1973 for their production of fresh fruits and vagetables. Approximately 1.6 billion pounds were shipped to the nation's principle markets—of this amount, 1.4 billion pounds, or 83 per cent, arrived by truck.

And trucks not only transport Texas fruits and vegetables to the dining rooms of the nation, but also they fill the markets and restaurants of Texas with fruits and vegetables from throughout the country. For instance, in 1973, 94.3 per cent of all fruit and vegetable shipments arriving in Dallas from other parts of the country were shipped there by truck.

Trucks are also partners with the petroleum industry, and oil field motor carriers experienced an upsurge in traffic due to an increase in petroleum drilling activity. A total of 202 oil field carriers moved drilling rigs 16,988 times during 1973. These carriers operate more than 6,000 motor vehicles and employ more than 36,000 persons whose average annual income per person is $10,550

High Ceilings Make Extra Room Possible

High Ceilings make an extra room possible for the family who cannot afford more costly remodeling, a housing and home furnishings specialist suggests.

"Addition of overhead galleries, lofts and balconies are some of the ways a family can use exceptionally high ceilings in both old and new houses for more space," Mrs. Jane Berry with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service explained.

"Adding a gallery, loft or balcony—instead of another full story—uses only a small portion of overhead space.

"That way, the family can retain the home's spacious feeling and achieve a really unique architectural feature, while, perhaps, easing the space 'crunch.'

"Few new homes today are built with galleries or lofts, because architects tend to think it more thrifty and sensible to build a full second story," the specialist observed.

"However, when homes with two-story rooms are remodeled, sometimes a gallery or loft can solve an architectural problem or create new space.

The specialist also pointed to a feeling of "spaciousness because it provides space set off from the rest of a room.

Concerning functions of a gallery, loft or balcony, Mrs. Berry said each structure is suitable for use as a study, playroom, dining or sleeping room, library or storage area.

"This new space also adds to the overall square footage of a house, while it gives the family more room," the specialist said.

Presidential Primary Bill Totes $200,000 Price Tag

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A bill is being considered in the state legislature for presidential primary in Texas. Much opposition has arisen over it for cost as well as political reasons. The following article was circulated across the state by the following legislators: Rep. Dan Kubiak, Rep. Jim Mattox, Rep. Sarah Weddington and Mrs. Carrin Patman.)

The State Comptroller's office has put an estimated 1976 price-tag of $200,000.00 on a presidential primary bill now awaiting action by a conference committee of the Texas House and Senate. Under the important pay-as-you-go provision in the Texas Constitution, the State Comptroller is charged with making cost estimates, prior to certifying that legislative appropriations will cover proposed expenditures.

The controversial primary bill, H.B. 679, by Rep. Tom Schieffer of Ft. Worth and Senator Don Adams of Jasper, has been widely touted as a bill specifically designed to boost U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen's presidential chances in the state.

Three State Representatives and a former Democratic National Committeewoman responded to the $200,000 estimate with statements protesting what they termed the "exorbitant cost" of the bill "in view of the many more pressing needs of the people of this state which are already having to go unmet because of the lack of adequate funds."

Representative Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, a leading proponent of better education commented, "It is heart-breaking to me to think that we could spend $200,000 to elect less than 140 delegates to two brief national conventions (Democratic and Republican) where their only important function will be to cast one pre-decided vote.

"That is a cost to the taxpayers of this state of about $1,500.00 per delegate for a single one-week, one-time duty. In contrast, many of our public school teachers make less than half that amount for a full month's important work of teaching our children in the classroom.

"We're talking," continued Kubiak, "about nearly a quarter of a million dollars. That kind of money is so badly needed for our schools right now."

Rep. Sarah Weddington of Austin believes that the projected high cost of the measure "will considerably strengthen the case for having the bill expire automatically in 1977." (The Senate, in floor action, amended the bill to include a "self-destruct" clause which—if kept in the final version approved by both Houses—will make it a one-time operation for 1976 only.)

"I do not believe," said Weddington, "it is the present mood of the Texas legislature—which is certainly anxious to avoid an unnecessary new tax bill—to commit ourselves indefinitely to large expenditures of funds which may not serve the long-range needs and interests of the people of this state."

Rep. Jim Mattock of Dallas said, "This bill essentially returns us to the old days of Unit Rule and of delegates hand-picked by VIP's at the top. It allows a candidate with a mere plurality of the popular vote in a district to take all the delegates. People may go for it once, if they feel it will help a 'favorite son,' but they certainly don't want to be struck with it for the next 50 years."

Mrs. Carrin Patman, a former Democratic National Committeewoman and member of the national party's Commission on Delegate Selection and Party Structure, said, "This bill straps on the backs of Texas taxpayers a cost that has traditionally been borne by the parties and the presidential candidates. Electing convention delegates is essentially a party matter, and control of the process—as well as its cost—should remain in the hands of our dedicated local and state party officials.

"This bill gives the privilege of choosing most of the delegates to a handful of presidential candidate operating out of offices in Washington, D.C., and forecloses the traditional opportunity that rank-and-file Democrats in Texas have had to compete for these slots."

The Whiteface

The Hereford Brand, Hereford, Texas, Thursday May 1, 1975

Bull Corner

With the South Vietnamese government on the verge of collapse, people are debating whether the United States government should have or should not have sent troops to help fight a war against Communism.

Is it too late for American intervention, or is it none of our business? We the Whiteface Staff ask for your opinion.

"I think that we should have gone to Vietnam with a different attitude than before. I mean to go over to win, not to just stop the advancement, but at the slow up in the war now if we go over now we should drive the communists clear back. Also we failed last time because the people stopped backing the war and really just "gave up."

Roger Bradley, 12th grade

"I do think it is too late, but I think we should help the people and children who want out of Vietnam. Since we did interfere in before, I think we owe the people places to live, by bringing the kids over here."

Betty Parrish, 11th grade

"It is much too late for American intervention in Vietnam. The enemy is much too close to the capital already."

Jay Manion, 11th grade

"I think that they should have never started this war. But since they have I think that we should help them out at their time of need and try to keep out of all the wars we can."

Kieth Shore, 11th grade

"To me its none of our business. But since the war has started and they asked for our help we should, but not get in any further."

Cynthia Pena, 11th grade

"I think that they should help them because they are defenseless and they could not fight the war alone. But I think that we shouldn't bring their people over here, because we have enough problems as it is and we don't need more problems."

Horace Gamez, 10th grade

"I think it's only fair for us to help them. We butted in and told them we'd help them, then we pull out, and they'd get killed anyway. So it's partly our fault."

Alma Gamez, 10th grade

"I don't think America intervention was totally logical because of the fact that North Vietnam had the power to demolish South Vietnam, therefore the U.S. intervention was called for.

John Mays, 11th grade

"I don't think the U.S. should have got mixed up with it because the U.S. has enough problems already."

Mario Gamez, 11th grade

"On the Vietnam War the U.S. should not have gotten involved in the war, because the communist are going to take over Vietnam. And the U.S. is just wasting money for they intended to take the war to help them out. They should have stayed out.

Curtis Stoerner

"I think that we should help South Vietnam. They are defenseless and if they have ever needed our help its now."

Liz Perz, 11th grade

"America has and always will be a 'police state,' in which it takes care of all the smaller unfortunate countries. How can communism be stopped if it is right behind you? We need to get involved.

Ruben Mancillas, 12th grade

"I don't think America should be in the war even though the communists might take over Vietnam. The war has gone on long enough and if we get in it will be even longer."

Robert Scott, 11th grade

"We don't think we should get involved at all. Because we have problems of our own to worry about. But since we butted in we should stay in.

Band In Music Fete

The Hereford High School Band and orchestra competed in the Buccaneer Music Festival last Thursday through Saturday in Corpus Christi.

The Orchestra received a II rating in concert and the band received a III rating in concert.

When the two groups were not participating, free time was given to the members to spend on the beach. Enroute to Corpus a visit to San Antonio was spent Thursday.

The contest selections for the orchestra included "Concerto Grosso" a string number and "Russian Sailors Dance." The band played "Lincolnshire Posy" and "Finale from Kalinnikov's 1st Symphony in G Minor."

Other bands in the competition from the state included Lake Highlands, Richardson from Dallas, Odessa Permian and Lubbock Monterey. No other bands in this area participated in the festival.

The band has received six superior ratings and three excellent ratings in the UIL competition.

The band is presently preparing some selections to play for graduation.

County Tour To Trace History

Reservations for a bus tour of the eastern half of Deaf Smith County on Saturday must be made before 5 p.m. today at the Chamber of Commerce office. The public is invited.

There will be no charge for the tour, however $3 will be required to pay for the luncheon to be served at Dawn Community Building by women of that community.

The bus will depart Hereford State Bank at 9:30 a.m. for the Saturday excursion which is sponsored by the Women's Division, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Co-chairmen are Mrs. M.C. Adams and Mrs. Stan Knox.

Included on the route will be an Indian camp site, the trail of a Santa Fe Expedition aimed at organizing Texas jurisdiction in that area in 1841, the McKenzie Trail where U.S. soldiers pursued Comanche Indians, pioneer ranch and school sites, a barn once used as a broom factory and the prisoner of war camp activated during World War II.

Tour guide will be Major Schroeter, longtime resident who is well acquainted with the history of this area.

This route was to be covered on a similar tour last year but rain forced cancellation. A previous tour took visitors over the west part of the county.

First stop on the tour will be the Municipal Airport and will then proceed to the site of the Askren School where Mrs. Lester Galley and Mrs. Bess Werner taught during pioneer days. On the Orval Galley farm nearby is a barn built in 1898 where a broom factory was once located.

Landmarks in the Ford community, where 70 sections were traded for a thousand sewing machines in an 1870 land deal, will be on the tour route. Also, tourists will view sites of the old Higgins School and the Dean Post Office.

Camp sites of the Santa Fe Expedition of Tierra Blanca Creek will be pointed out as well as the trail bordering the creek followed by Gen. McKenzie on his way to Palo Duro Canyon for the battle which drove the Comanche Indians from the Panhandle.

Other spots to be visited are the Palo Duro Church and Cemetery, established in 1900 as the first rural church in the county, the Day Ranch and school, location of a spring on the Jowell Ranch where baptisms were held and the marker commemorating a cowboy strike in the early 1880's.

Summer Heat Hard On Home Insulation

Summer heat makes the heaviest demands on house insulation, Denise Beigbeder, housing and home furnishings specialist, contended this week.

"In view of rising energy costs for this summer, now may be the time to examine the insulation in the house," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

The average wall should have at least four inches of mineral wool, wood or fiberglas, or three-layer aluminum foil insulation, she advised.

"Five or six inches of flexible insulation in the ceiling provide sufficient protection against cold. But four-layer aluminum foil is better when summer cooling needs are greater.

"Unheated basements and crawl spaces should have at least two inches of insulation for efficient energy consumption," she pointed out.

In reviewing home insulation needs, also consider the amount of window space in the house. About 26 per cent of heat loss or gain occurs here.

"Protect window areas during the summer months with outside means—overhangs, awnings or shade trees. Protective measures inside the house offer little protection after the sun hits the windows.

"Although providing additional insulation may appear a major investment, a savings of 25 per cent in fuel costs should help the improvement pay for itself," she noted.

Funds Projects Are Discussed By Homemakers

Ways and means projects were discussed Monday by members of Busy Homemakers Home Demonstration Club in Southwesters Public Service Reddy Room.

As a program, members experimented with a technique called "inklings." This method consists of placing sheer paper on an inked frame to create a picture.

Mrs. Gilbert Arellano Jr. was hostess to members present, who were Mmes. Savas Celaya, Joe Gonzalez, David Arellano, Johnny Amaro, Bolivar Herrera Jr. and Larry Lopez Sr. and Miss Carol Arellano.

Joyce Shipp, county extension agent, will demonstrate making dip 'n' drape dolls at the next meeting, May 12 in the Celaya home, 217 Catalpa.

Homesewing Saves Money

Homesewing of clothing is definitely a savings—it saves an average of two-thirds the cost of comparable ready-to-wear items, according to Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She suggested some money saving ideas to help homesewers reap additional benefits.

—Take time to study fashion trends for fabrics, designs and trims.

"If in doubt concerning whether a certain design or fabric will be becoming, try on similar ready-to-wear items before investing."

—Using as much accumulated fabric notions as possible before buying more.

"Hoarding or stockpiling costs extra since fashion and fabric trends change often, rapidly dating past years' purchases. Add currently fashionalbe trims and companion fabrics in current design lines to update what is one hand," the specialist advised.

—Buy multi-design patterns. Patterns that contain several garment pieces and variations are often the same price as those with only one.

—Modify well-fitting and fashionable patterns already on hand by varying with unique fabric or trim selections. Pattern pieces may be switched in the same size, brand and basic shape.

"For example, switch sleeve pattern pieces that are stitched into the same basic armseye seam. If in doubt, compare pattern pieces for similarities by lining up one on the other."

—Make maximum use of the sewing machine by regularly following manufacturer's instructions for cleaning and oiling. Machine life will be prolonged and repair bills reduced.

—Know your sewing abilities. Abandoned projects due to selection too difficult to sew patterns or fabrics cost money.

—Plan ahead. Be flexible. Think before acting.

Penalize Americans, Foreigners Richer

By James W. Phelps

And while we're doing it, let's contribute to shortages of vital energy we need to keep our economy going.

Crazy? Yes. But that's "today's logic" according to our control-minded politicians.

The control prices of domestic oil at $5.25 a barrel. This discourages its production and limits the amount of money American companies and American stockholders can make. This, in turn, limits the capital they have available to find twice as much and become billionaires.

When we pay a billion dollars to an Arab for his oil, the whole billion is gone.

When we pay a billion dollars to an American oil company, about half of it goes to our government in taxes (on the corporation and on individuals who receive dividends). The remainder is used to help our economy.

The part left over that remains in the hands of the oil companies is invested in seeking and developing more oil Is it bad? It provides more jobs for Americans and helps make us more self-sufficient from an energy standpoint.

The part left over in the hands of stockholders is used (a) to buy things or (b) as savings. The money that is spent spurs our economy and makes jobs for Americans. The money that is saved acts as capital to finance purchases and capital expenditures by others—and both make jobs for Americans. The money that is saved acts as capital to finance purchases and capital expenditures by others—and both make jobs for Americans.

Controls mean shortages. As long as we permit our government to control the price of anything, that thing will be in shorter and shorter supply.

Public Invited To Share On May Fellowship Day

Residents are cordially invited to observe May Fellowhip Day with Church Women United at a covered dish luncheon at 12 noon Friday in First Presbyterian Church. Nursery services will be provided.

Initiated in 1933, May Fellowhsip Day has become a traditional time for church women across the country to emphasize the creative and healing relations possible among people in every community.

This year's theme "Open To Live Fully," is an invitation to "experience total awareness as individuals living life to full potential, encouraging personal growth and sharing in the lives of others." For Christian women, this also means "becoming open to those who have been damaged by society or cast out because of past acts and to those deprived because of economic situation."

Church Women United is committed in the 70's to open opportunities for women in transition. "In an agenda which includes a full life for all, CWU will endeavor to broaden the consciousness of women, affirming their full individuality," stated a spokesman.

"We strive to rectify the injustices which saddle many women with educational, economic and physical handicaps. Also, we aim to assist women in transition situations—housing and jobs for families moving from poverty to control of adequate incomes and re-entry of those burdened by prison records."

On May Fellowhhip Day, Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic members in 2,000 units of Church Women United will celebrate a litany of dedication to be "Open To Live Fully." In many communities, worship services will focus on women and the prison system and women in poverty.

German Setting Adopted For World War II Drama

Aspects of the drama which unfolded in Germany during World War II are detailed this week in featured books at Deaf Smith County Library.

"Hitler" by Joachim Fest offers captivating insight into the warped individual who hypnotized Germans and foreigners alike prior to World War II. Hitler, the frustrated artist, became the stage director of gigantic mass demonstrations, a consummate organizer of effects.

David Irving records "The Rise and Fall of the Luftwaffe" in his book. Erhard Milch, agressive creator of the German Air Force, is the subject of this colorful publication which traces his career. His rise to State Secretary of Air and development of German air strength are described from extensive diaries and notebooks kept by Milch.

The library is open to the public free of charge on Monday and Thursday from 9 a.m.-9 p.m., weekdays from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. and Saturday until noon.

HITLER
by Joachim Fest

The leading nonfiction best seller in Germany since its publication, with translations in preparation in seventeen countries, Fest's monumental work on the most fateful historical figure of our time stands out as a towering achievement.

Absorbingly readable, it relates and interprets the extraordinary dramatic story of a man's and a nation's rise from impotence and insignificance to a brief period of absolute power, as Germany and Hitler, from shared premises, entered into their covenant.

Convincingly, Fest exhibits the true source of Hitler's overwhelming dynamics, the basis of his stupendous initial success in peace and war, and finally the real effects of his policies to this day. He shows Hitler as the receptacle of the fears and resentments of a shaken social order, gifted with an uncanny instinct for all that was hollow behind the appearance of power, at home and abroad.

Though a warped human being, he was neither a clown nor puppet, as many liked to think! Hitler appears as an enormously astute politician, impressing and hypnotizing Germans and foreigners alike with the scope of his projects and the theatricals of their presentation. Hitler, the frustrated artist, becomes the stage director of gigantic mass demonstrations, a consummate organizer of effects.

The Germany of the times comes vividly alive with its contrasts of misery and grandiosity, with its fierce strife and the varied company of both its good and evil figures. The preliminaries of World War II are unraveled with skillful lucidity, Hitler's purposeful actions contrasted with the hesitancy of hubris of his opponents.

In the last analysis, however, Fest uncovers in Hitler a constantly destructive personality who aimed for and achieved destruction on an unprecedented scale, not least because an insecure world gave him his opportunities. In the final irony, he changed the world irrevocably, though not as he wished or foresaw, for all of us.

THE RISE AND FALL OF THE LUFTWAFFE
By David Irving

Erhard Milch: airman, airline tycoon, senior field marshall after Georing of the Luftwaffe, and finally prisoner of war; The Rise and Fall of the Luftwaffe traces the career of the brilliant, aggressive creator of Germany's air force in World War II.

A fighter-squadron commander during World War I, Milch at age 33 became one of the directors of Germany's newly formed state airline, Lufthansa.

"IF you like to think of me as having once been energetic," he advised friends and enemies alike, "I suggest you now add the word ruthless—or multiply by it, whatever is easier by your sliderule."

Milch's dynamic and superb organizational skills, characterized by Time magazine as being similar to those of "an able and energetic U.S. businessman," rescued the faltering Lufthansa and attracted the attention of Hitler.

In 1933 Milch was named State Secretary for Air and from that post, he engineered the emergence in 1939 of Hitler's Germany—forbidding any military aircraft whatever by the Treaty of Versailles—as the strongest air power in the world.

But talent of Milch's caliber proved to be rare; Goering's poor leadership and the weakness of the Minister in Charge of Armaments, Ernest Udet, had crippled the technical arm of the Luftwaffe by corruption and incompetance.

German air strentgh dwindled, and like so much of Hitler's Wehrmacht, the air force came to be bureaucratic nightmare.

Using the extensive notebooks and diaries that Milch kept through his career, David Irving describes the field marshal's rise and his later uneasy relationships with Speer, Goering and Hitler as jealous and brazen grabs for power (to which Milch eventually fell victim erupted openly.

Yet even disgrace, even after his sentence to life imprisonment at the Nuremburg trials, Milch, who never read past page twenty of Mein Kampf, remained as intensely loyal as the day he had declared of Hitler: "Even if he commanded me to walk across the waves to him, I would unhesitantingly obey."

For God So Loved The World

Cathedrals

Medieval man built cathedral's as monuments to their faith in God. The vaulted ceilings and stained glass windows are wondrous in their beauty.

Today, we still build great churches, but we now believe that our greatest monuments to God are our acts of love and generosity to our fellow men. Each time we perform a deed of love for another, we place another stone on our monument to God. This is our most lasting monument.

Cleanup Effort

Members of Hereford's Cub Pack 151 gathered at the Tierra Blanca Creek Nature Area Saturday to clean up litter. Here, Scouts and their leaders gather up trash and cans in the creek bed at the area. The second, third and fourth grade students took a first step on behalf of the community in an effort to clean up and improve the area.

Scouts Hold Cleanup At Tierra Blanca Creek

Members of Cub Pack 151 of Hereford took the first step on behalf of the community Saturday as they held clean-up activities at the Tierra Blanca Creek Nature Area.

The city, Soil Conservation Service and the schools entered into an agreement to set aside the 17-acre area along Tierra Blanca Creek, south of the Pony League baseball park.

According to Ronnie Wood, science teacher at Stanton Junior High and director of Saturday's cleanup, the creek area has been used for some time as a dumping ground and a riding area for motorcycles.

"The young men of Pack 151, under the leadership of R.C. Hoelscher, cleaned the creek area with determination and a sense of duty, and took the first step toward returning the area to what it should be," said Wood.

The second, third and fourth grade youngsters plucked numerous cans and bottles from the creekbed, its banks and surrounding area and even found a windshield and a car and a city street sign in the creekbed.

A truck furnished by the city was used to haul the litter away.

According to Wood, it is hoped that a nature trail will be put in at the creek sometime in the future.

"The area is a good one in which to learn more about the plant and animal life of the plains and the schools hope to use it as an outdoor classroom for teaching purposes. Ideally, the creek area is a place set aside where nature can follow its own path with out man bothering it. However, motorcycles have scarred the land and literally beaten the life out of the soil insome areas. Since the area has been set aside, the city now prohibits all motorized vehicular traffic in this place. We need the assistance of all the citizens of Hereford in helping nature restore this area to its original state," said Wood.

Dens and their members participating in Saturday's cleanup included Den 1, made up of Scott Deboer, James Fariss, Craig Hamman, Ronnie Killough, Danny Walterscheid, Mary Jo Hammon, den mother, and Carolyn Killough assistant.

Den 2 participants included Curtis Hoelscher, Brian Lady, Mark Lytal, Craig McCuistian, Doug Rains, Steven Spears, Greg Tisdale, Betty Lady, den mother and Dolores McCuistian, assistant.

Included among Den 3 participants were James Douglas Bartlett, Donnie Childers, Chris Crowley, Tray Gibson, Robbie Snyder, Labry Welty and Mary Bartlett, den mother.

Participants from Den 4 were Scott Calkins, Randal Dement, Drew Gibson, Bill Templeton, Chris Trice, Elaine Calkins, den mother, Nancy Templeton, assistant, and Mike Hale, den chief.

Assisting the Cub Scouts were Mary Ruth Hammon, Kelly Killough, Karyn McCuistian, Alison, Cynthia and Wayne Lady, Alisa Hoelscher, Elaine Elmore and Elizabeth Rains, Trent McCuistian, Doug Bartlett, Sheri Templeton and Tony Calkins.

Pack 151 is sponsored by the First Christian Church.

WSC Merchants Should Get Bonds

Comptroller Bob Bullock said today that retail merchants who have been bonded by the Wisconsin Surety Corporation, which has been put into receivership, should take immediate steps to secure new bonds.

Bullock said bonds posted by the Wisconsin company are invalid as of April 26 but that merchants who have purchased surety bonds from the company will be protected until the middle of May under the Texas Casualty Guaranty Act.

"It's regrettable that merchants who have purchased bonds with this company will be inconvenienced or maybe even suffer financial loss because the company went broke," Bullock said.

"All we can do now is try to make certain that merchants who have bonds with this company arrange to get new bonds."

Wisconsin Surety Corporation, based in Madison, Wisconsin, was closed by Wisconsin court and placed in receivership.

Bullock urged any Texas merchants who have dealings whith the company to contact the State Board of Insurance statutory liquidator Herbert Crook who now has control of the company's operations.

Bullock said that there was no way to determine how many of the state's 225,000 retail merchants may have had bonds with the comapny.

Female Job Hazards Increase

Occupational safety and health hazards are a growing problem for women workers, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Department says:

—There has not been enough research on the occupational safety and health problems facing women.

—This presents a growing problem because more and more women are moving into new kinds of jobs under protection of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and other laws.

—An important question is how to assure women and healthful conditions at work, while continuing to protect them from job descrimination.

These are some of the points made in a article, "Women Workers: Are They Special?" in the April issue of the Labor Department's Job Safety & Health magazine.

The article, written by the publication's associate editor, Phyllis Legmann, quotes several experts, among them Dr. David Wegman of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Because of the lack of enough information, he suggests, many common beliefs about women workers—that they are too weak to do heavy work, that they cannot tolerate temperature extremes as well as men, and that they are more susceptible to toxic substances—can only be considered well-cultivated myths.

The magazine quotes Dr. Wegman is urging employers to set criteria on work strength and endurance for specific jobs and then to hire individuals to meet these criteria, regardless of sex.

Pregnant women present special problems. But most authorities agree that working during pregnancy rarely creates complications, although common sense precautions are necessary, according to the publication.

As for the degree of risk to the unborn child of a mother who works, we still do not have the answers, Job Safety & Health says, quoting another expert.

There are many occupational hazards connected with some so-called "women's jobs," and in some cases women in such jobs face greater hazards than men doing different jobs in the same establishments.

For example, Job Safety & Health says survey in the District of Columbia showed that in laundries men usually ran the washing machines and women the pressers, which produced greater heat stress.

Even airline flight attendants, most of them women, have special occupational health problems, including severe leg and back pains for some of them who fly on DC-10's. Job Safety & Health says these planes fly with nose slightly above tail, and the attendants are "constantly walking uphill or downhill."

As for nurses, a recent study indicates they are prone to blood clots in their legs because they are on their feet a lot, and another study showed they suffer more miscarriages and have more defective offspring when exposed to anesthetic gases in operating rooms.

A study of beauticians and cosmetology students in Utah by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health showed a high incidence of lung problems caused by inhaling hair spray.

As women move into jobs formerly held exclusively by men, they are being exposed to the hazards of those jobs, too, the magazine points out.

"They, too, must contend with asbestos, silica, carbon monoxide, lead, and other common health hazards—as well as with new chemicals about which even less is known," the publication says.

Tech Ranch Center To Open Sundays

The Sunday visiting hours will be in effect through October.

For the first time this year, individuals will be taken on guided tours. A new program will serve weekday visitors, There will be two tours a day, each for 20 persons, served on a first-come, first-served basis. The first tour will start at 10 a.m. and the second at 1:30 p.m.

Organizations may make special arrangements for tours.

The center authentically depicts the history of ranching in America's West, through the restoration and furnishing the notable ranch structures which have been moved to the site at the Museum of Texas Tech University, 4th Street and Indiana Avenue, Lubbock.

KC's Hold Sausage Supper

The public is invited to a sausage supper Sunday at 7 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The fund-raising project is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, Hereford Council.

Charge for the meal will be $2.25 for adults and $1 for children. Games will be played following the meal.

Proceeds from the sausage supper will be used to finance the Pro Life Program in the Hereford community.

Grocery Specials Forecast

New supplies of canned fruits and vegetables signal "specials" on some items at supermarkets this week, one observer says.

Consumers should watch for "Dollar Days" that feature "two for-" or "three for-" specials, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt advised.

"Consider buying these if they are foods you use regularly—and if you have proper storage space," the consumer marketing information specialist added.

Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, named apples, applesauce and peaches among processed products now in good supply.

"Fresh fruits at economical prices include oranges and apples.

"However, fresh vegetable supplies are running moderately smaller this season," the specialist noted.

"Dry yellow onions and potatoes remain in good supply—with cabbage, carrots and cooking greens also at economical prices.

"Beets, head lettuce, celery and green onions have attractive prices, too, but cantaloupe, pineapple and strawberries have slightly high price tags."

In meat departments, beef values appear on round steaks and roasts, ground beef, chuck roasts and steaks—and calf and beef liver, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"Fryer chickens remain a good buy, pricewise, with best values on whole birds."

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Adequate food storage space allows for more flexible buying—such as buying a large amount of food in season for freezing, or purchasing several cans of one food when it's offered at special prices.

Reyna Takes Field Training

Army Specialist Four Manuel Reyna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Z Reyna of 206 Fuller participated in a field training exercise on the Island of Oahu, Hawaii.

The training consisted of airmobile operations and live fire exercises.

He is a wireman in the 25th Infantry Division here in Hawaii.

People once believed that a sudden feeling of lightheartedness would lead to an equally sudden death.

FHA GOES TO STATE

The annual FHA State Meeting was held April 17-18 at San Antonio. Theme for this year was "Pass it On."

Those attending the meeting were Ann Bradley, Isabel Pena, Ann Zetzche, Sandra Stallings, Ernestine High and Debbie Smith.

Other areas participating were Canyon, Tulia, Matador and Valley. The program included Dr. William Purkey, speaker for Friday morning. He is an internationally known lecturer and author. Also appearing was Jerry Clower, one of the top country humorists.

The FHA state chorus was conducted by Dwain Marshall, director of vocal music for Temple Independent School District. Ann Zetzche was selected after try outs to be a part of the performing choir at the meeting. The songs they sang were "Sunshine On My Shoulder" and "People."

The audience participated in singing songs such as "Pass it On" and "Homemakers of America" for relaxers.

"I felt that it was a better state meeting this year. The girls could relate to the program and it was of interest to them. Purkey was really good and I think the girls enjoyed him," remarked Mrs. Martha Layman, FHA advisor.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Pesticides may have their drawbacks, but they are among the most useful tools available in meeting agricultural and health needs in Texas.

Man's need for food and fiber is increasing with the population, says the State Health Department, and advancing technology is helping today's farmers and ranchers meet the demands.

Eighty-four per cent of Texas land is devoted to agriculture, and the industry adds some $7.5 billion to the Texas economy. Vegetables, milk, fruits, nuts, honey, natural fibers, meat, eggs, grain—all bear the Texas brand. But wrestling them from the soil is not easy. Texans are affected by the age-old problems of weather, rodents, insects and weeds. Among the conditions influencing the work of these farmers and ranchers is a relatively new condition: ecological awareness.

If man is to raise sufficient foodstuffs, it has become apparent that fertilizers and pesticides are necessary in their production. It is obvious also that public health considerations must be given to such measures as fly and mosquito control and protection of warehoused foodstuffs.

And, it has become equally apparent that strict controls are necessary for the application and use of pesticides.

A bulletin from the United States Environmental Protection Agency has a statement on pesticides:

"Pesticides are of great benefit to man. They have saved millions of lives through control of disease-carrying insects. They have minimized catastrophic crop damage by insects, weeds, plant diseases, rodents and other pests, preserved valuable forest and parkland from insect destruction and protected households against damaging beetles, moths and other bugs. Generally, they have provided a higher quality of life for man.

"However, pest control chemicals are poisons that, if used improperly or without sufficient knowledge of their side effects, can endanger man and animals due to their toxicity. In addition, potential future hazards to human health and wildlife can be created by residues from some longlived pesticides that may build up in the food chain and cause widespread contamination of the environment."

The Texas State Department of Health has long had a hand in the environmental monitoring of pesticide levels and operates a pesticides laboratory at San Benito. While pesticide levels in the environment are greatest near the areas of use, they have been found in the Antarctic and other areas far from the points of application.

One Federal Insecticide Act dates back to 1910, but it was superceded by the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act of 1947. In 1970 authority was transferred from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to the Environmental Protection Agency when the EPA was established. Protection of the consumer against harmful residues in food is guided by two agencies. EPA sets the tolerance levels and the Food and Drug Administration has responsibility of enforcement. The Health Department has a Food and Drug Division.

In 1971, efforts were begun to remove many pesticides from the market bases on potential future hazards to man and the environment.

Still another step was taken with the Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act of 1972. This law requires the proper application of pesticides to assure greater protection of man and the environment. It extends federal registration and regulation to all pesticides, including those distributed or used within a state. All provisions of the law must be in effect by October, 1976.

The law establishes procedures—plus penalties for violations—in many areas, including proper use and classification of registration of pesticides manufacturers; procedures for storage and disposal of pesticide containers; and authority for experimental use of pesticides. States may authorize limited registrations for pesticides intended for special local needs.

Under the federal guidelines, Texas must come up with a workable plan for implementing the federal law. Taking the lead in this is the Texas Department of Agriculture, with assistance from the state Health Department, Texas A&M University and Parks and Wildlife Department. One of the major items, a state plan for certifying applicators to use pesticides for restricted uses, is now in the legislature process.

Under the new law, the State would examine and certify all users of restricted pesticides.

Canvess Named To Honor Group

Steve E. Cavness of Hereford has been elected to the Trinity University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa honor society in San Antonio.

Cavness is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Cavness of 129 W. 5th Street. He is a senior majoring in psychology.

Phi Beta Kappa is a liberal arts honor society. Members are elected by the chapter of the basis of scholastic performance and must be in 214 select universities in the United States with a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.

Food prices will increase 15 per cent in 1975, according to recent estimates. This means that families with incomes under $20,000 may have to spend from 25-50 per cent of their incomes for food, Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explains.

National Energy Policy Sought

BY LLOYD BENTSEN
UNITED STATES SENATOR

Even as the Administration and Congress worked together to revitalize our economy through the recent tax cut, the President really caused some concern with his prediction of a possible $100 billion budget deficit this year.

This must not be allowed to happen, and I am working to see that it doesn't.

Our country simply cannot afford it. Our government simply cannot assume a deficit so huge. And just as lawmakers and the President worked closely to reduce taxes for the American people, we must work in cooperation now to hold the line on Federal spending.

It is by no means as easy task. Over eight million Americans are out of work and we are still sinking deeper into the quagmire of recession. And every time another peson loses his job, tax revenue goes down. In fact, a one per cent jump in the unemployment rate costs the U.S. Treasury $12 to $15 billion in lost tax revenues.

On top of that, it costs an additional $2 to $3 billion in spending for such items as unemployment compensation.

UNCONTROLLED SPENDING

Clearly, the recession has eliminated the hope of wiping out this year's difficit entirely. But this doesn't mean that we mustn't hold the line on spending as much as possible. It does not and must not mean we have to accept the $100 billion deficit the President is talking about.

Everyone agreed on the need for the short-term economic stimulus provided by the recent tax cut. It was needed to restore some of the purchasing power Americans have lost to inflation. It was needed to pump money into our economy again, to get our factories operating and people working.

our economy again, to get our factories operating and people working.

As a shot in the arm, its benefits will go far towards restoring economic health to our nation.

But by no means should this signal a flood of uncontrolled and ill-conceived government spending for the sake of spending. Committing ourselves to long-term government spending projects now years.

Never was proper planning and judicious use of our financial resources more crucial Through such efforts, we can successfully hold the Federal deficit way below what the President is talking about.

Fortunately, the newly created Senate Budget Committee is working toward that end right now.

CONGRESS SETS SPENDING CEILING

It is setting a solid ceiling for Federal spending for fiscal 1976. Basically, the recommended budget slashes the commitments to new and long-range spending programs and restricts expenditures to those which are critical to our country's economic recovery.

Such steps should insure that the deficit stays substantially lower than the President's prediction, by at least $30 billion, and possibly more.

Before the Senate and House Budget Committees were set up last year, Congress simply allowed appropriations to pile up haphazardly throughout the year, with no way to relate income to expenditures.

The Budget Reform Act, passed last year, changes that and establishes a mechanism that permits Congress to set expenditures on the basis of tax revenue.

The Senate will soon vote on the Budget Committee's recommended ceiling for this year and whatever we pass, we are committed to live within it. All individual requests for money will then be considered in light of the priorities set and the total money available.

This is good management and it is good economics. And by holding the line on government spending, I am convinced it will have farreaching effects on our efforts to restore health and stability to our economy.

NEW DORMITORY RULES
STORRS, CONN. -- Male and female students at the University of Connecticut will be living on the same floors of two dormitories this fall when the school extends its coeducational domitory program, officials have announced.

Mrs. Hills sworn-in to Cabinet post.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—If you're like many Texans, your billfold may contain more charge cards than cash. Certainly, in the amount of purchasing power they represent, charge cards are often more valuable than dollars.

Few users of charge cards, however, have a clear idea of the amount they pay for the convenience of using such cards, or just how a store determines what to base its finance charges on, according to our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division lawyers.

But under provisions of the recently-passed federal Fair Credit Billing Act, which goes into effect next fall, consumers have some new rights regarding billings for their charge accounts. One is that a customer has 60 days after receiving a bill to register any protests about it. Within 30 days following such a protest, the creditor must answer his questions.

Another provision is that a creditor must mail bills at least 14 days before the date finance charges will be tacked onto revolving charge accounts.

Even though these new regulations aren't yet binding, the consumer still is protected from false, misleading, or deceptive acts by the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys also note that the interest rate on revolving accounts is fixed by state law, although the base on which it is calculated can be determined in several ways.

The two methods most often used at present are "previous balance" and "adjusted balance." In the "previous balance" method, the finance charge is based on the unpaid balance at the end of the previous billing period, before current payment and charge purchases are figured in.

The "adjusted balance" method is one in which any current payments are subtracted from the previous balance before finance charges are figured, but current purchases are not added on.

A method that some department store chains and bank credit card companies are turning to is the "average daily balance." This generally requires a computerized billing system, which many smaller stores don't have. The main difference between this and one of the two methods mentioned above is that in the "average daily balance" method, the earlier in the billing cycle you pay, the lower your interest charges.

Finance charges under this method are figured by adding up each day's unpaid balance and dividing the total by the number of days in the billing cycle. In one of the two forms of this method, your current purchases and payments are figured in, while in the other current purchases aren't included.

Some credit managers say few persons complain about monthly finance charges, others say they get complaints about even a few cents' possible error. Our Consumer Protection attorneys note that some consumers who do complain may not fully understand the billing procedure.

So, if you have a question about how interest charges on your revolving account are figured, check your monthly statement. The information is there, although it may seem a bit complicated. If you still have a question, contact the credit or accounting department of the company and ask for information.

If you have a complaint about a bill that cannot be resolved, get in touch with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Freezer Placement Pointers Announced

Before having her new freezer delivered, the homemaker needs to consider where to locate it, Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist, pointed out this week.

"Location of a freezer is important because it will not function well in direct sunlight, near a heat source or in an unventilated area," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Most freezers are designed for operation within certain temperature limits. When the temperature goes below freezing the life of the compressor may be shortened.

Temperatures above a certain point will cause the freezer to run frequently, and this increases operating costs and decreases the life of the appliance, she explained.

"A freezer may weigh as much as 1500 pounds when fully loaded. So it's necessary to be sure the location can support the load and has a level floor for quiet operation.

"Unless the unit has a forced air condenser, it needs at least a three-inch space above it to allow warm air to circulate," the specialist advised.

Since the appliance will probably be used frequently, locate it in an easily accessible place—next to a table or countertop.

A national beauty pageant becomes a nightmare when three desperate men in a stolen armored car attempt to steal two million dollars worth of jewelry in "The Steel Plated Security Blanket," on the ABC Television Network's "S.W.A.T.", Monday, May 5 (8:00-9:00 p.m.).

As Hondo Harrelson and the S.W.A.T. team investigate the theft of an armored car, T.J. McCabe is spending his lunch hour with his fiancee, Susan, public relations representative for the Miss American Beauty Pageant. As Miss New Mexico tries on the crown and scepter, the armored car thieves attempt to steal the jewels, taking Susan and Miss New Mexico as hostages.

Criminals plan assassination of a prime minister

Ben and Mark try to avert the planned assassination by Miami criminals of David Wallace, Prime Minister of Trinada, in "Caribe," on the ABC Television Network, Monday, May 5 (9:00-10:00 p.m.).

In "The Assassin," the Caribe Force focuses on the Miami leader of the criminal organization, Isaac Kellerman, after tricking him into revealing the date of the planned "hit." Meanwhile, professional assassin Peter Brady prepares an intricate plan for the murder, using a woman accomplice, Thea Blake, as part of his scheme.

Stacy Keach stars as Lt. Ben Logan.

Karen Morris, America's Junior Miss 1974, a native of Wyoming, will crown the new titleholder on the 18th annual "America's Junior Miss Pageant," to be presented live from Mobile, Ala., with television star Michael Landon as host, on Monday, May 5 (8:00-9:00 p.m.), on the CBS Television Network.

TV COMMENTARY

By John Smiley

MIKE CONNORS' eight year old private-eye series "Mannix" is not going to be renewed by CBS next season. The hard hitting, crime-busting private dick is not done-in yet, however. ABC or NBC may hire him to work in their cause. If they don't, there is always the possibility of syndication.

PAUL NEWMAN may be starring in a series of thought provoking TV documentaries in the near future. He seems to be convinced that the best way to get a provocative message across to the public is to make a TV show about it. Included in the documentaries may be one about the U.S. oil industry and one about the IRS.

TEN YEARS AGO 93.8 per cent of American households had TV sets. That percentage has grown to a current 97.1 per cent. Also, there are more homes with more than one set than ever before. Over 41 per cent of TV homes now have at least one extra set. Ten years ago only 4 per cent of TV homes had color sets. Today approximately 65 per cent have color sets.

LOOKING TOWARD next season, it is reported that Oscar-winning Francis Ford Coppola will write and direct a drama that could extend over several evenings in the 1976-77 season. It will be a story of the possible reaction on Earth to the first contact made with this planet by intelligence from outer space. The drama will be an NBC feature.

THE AMERICAN female's dream man, Robert Redford, will narrate a documentary called "Broken Treaty at Battle Mountain," which will air May 19 on the Public Broadcasting System. The show will depict the struggle of the Western Shoshone Indians of Nevada to retain their ancient culture and life style.

Galloping Gnus

"I do take a lot of risks," admits wildlife photographer Alan Root, adding, "but they're all calculated," as if that explains everything.

It takes a certain determination to land an airplane where you must rather than where you want to, to lie in wait in the bush with lions, to deal with suspicious poachers, to plant yourself in the path of stampeding gnus. This was the stuff of Alan Root's life for two and a half years in the Serengeti plain of East Africa.

The remarkable film footage that resulted from that period will be seen in "The Great Migration: Year of the Wildebeeste," a one-hour special narrated by Richard Widmark, Monday, May 5 (7:00-8:00 p.m.), on the CBS Television Network.

The special depicts the spectacular migration of a million wildebeeste, or gnu, across the Serengeti in search of grass and water—a migration that lasts for nearly a year and may cover 2,000 miles.

To film wildebeeste crossing rivers, Root would scout the herds from the air, land about a mile away and sneak up through the thick riverine bush to the ford.

"We'll Get By"

To Liz it sounds too good to be true: a week in Florida with George for their anniversary. But when Liz hears the good news, she wonders out loud if she can be ready in time and if the children will manage to survive by themselves, on "We'll Get By" Friday, May 2 (7:30-8:00 p.m.), on the CBS Television Network. Jack Shea directed from a script by co-producer Alan Alda.

George, who can't wait to dance, lie in the sun and swim in the moonlight, finds he not only has to convince Liz the time is ripe to get away from it all, but that Muff, Andrea and Kenny are less than enthusiastic at the prospect of being left alone by their parents.

When Mauro (Graeme Greenhowe), a gentle and sensitive lad, arrives with his family at the village seeking a permanent camp site, the local council grants them permission to remain provided they cause no trouble. But thanks to the work of two local troublemakers, a petition against the gypsies is circulated in the village, and events force Mauro into hiding. Then, because of a succession of brave and selfless acts on the boy's part, the barrier between the gypsies and the townspeople is surmounted to allow everyone to live in peaceful coexistence.

"Mauro the Gypsy" is a production of I.F.A. Ltd. for the Children's Film Foundation, Ltd. The film was directed by Laurence Henson from a screenplay by Patricia Latham.
