Recession Signs Stronger, Say Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The twin effects of recession and high inflation racked the economy in August as the unemployment rate rose to 6 percent — the highest in more than a year — and wholesale prices advanced by 1.2 percent, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the rise in unemployment from a 5.7 percent rate in July marked the first time that the jobless rate had been at the 6 percent level since July 1977.

The Carter Administration had expected unemployment to rise in August as a result of the recession that began in the spring. Labor Department economist John Bregger said the latest jobless reports provides "very strong evidence of a downturn."

But inflation also continued to rage in August as prices at the wholesale level showed the biggest monthly advance since January, the department said in a separate report. The rise in wholesale prices was paced by another steep climb in the cost of energy products and the first increase in food prices since March.

The government said wholesale prices at the stage just before goods reach consumers rose 11.1 percent during the previous 12 months. Inflation at the consumer level has been running slightly higher — at a 13 percent rate this year.

Wholesale prices are an important measure of future inflation because they signal price trends likely to occur at the retail level a few months later.

The simultaneous release of the two gloomy economy reports underscored President Carter's dilemma in trying to combat high inflation through tight fiscal policies while at the same time trying to keep from aggravating a recession that could mean high unemployment in the 1980 election year.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed people rose by 300,000 during August to 6.1 million, with most of the increase resulting from factory layoffs.

Total employment fell by 310,000 jobs in August to 96.9 million, the government said, following a rise of 450,000 jobs in July.

Unemployment rates for virtually all major groups of workers based on age, sex and race increased last month.

During the prior 12-month period, the unemployment rate had been remarkably stable, ranging from 5.9 percent to a five-year low of 5.6 percent reached in June.

The government said employment has shown virtually no growth since March, after increasing by a strong 2.1 million jobs during the six months previous to March.

Those figures provided strong evidence of the economic slowdown that has gripped the economy since the

Graduate Paramedics

Hereford residents Jerry Walls, left, and John Gilliland, next to Walls, were graduated as paramedics by the Panhandle Emergency Medical Services System Thursday night in Amarillo after undergoing more than 500 hours of classroom training. Congratulating them are Dr. Duffy McBryer of Hereford, a member of the PEMSS board, and Dr. Robert Boyd of Washington D.C., national director of Emergency Medical Services, a branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Dr. Boyd spoke to the 41 Panhandle graduates and other interested guests during the banquet held at Sutphen's Barbeque. As qualified paramedics, Walls and Gilliland, who graduated as the No. 3 student in class performance, allow an ambulance to become similar to an emergency room on wheels in providing emergency care for Deaf Smith County. Labor Union Offers Support for SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO is formally lining up in support of the proposed SALT II treaty, but the future of the pact remains clouded by controversy over the presence of a brigade of Soviet combat troops in Cuba.

Stab Wounds Resulted In 2 Deaths

Autopsies performed Thursday on two 41-year-old brothers-in-law who died following an apparent fight at 107 Ave. J, Wednesday night showed that cause of death in each instance was a stab wound.

Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal ordered the autopsies on Mario Salazar Coronado, 902 E. 16th, and Jose Inez Gutierrez, 107 Ave. J, to determine whether another weapon may have contributed to their deaths. A baseball bat may have been used by a third party to attack Gutierrez, Neal had stated.

Coronado was found in the street in front of 197 Ave. J and Gutierrez was on the sidewalk when police received a report of a fight at the residence.

The two men were brothers-in-law, according to police.

District Atty. Roland Saul said today he did not know if charges would be filed in connection with either death.

"We're not filing any charges right now," Saul said. "After all the lab work is completed, we'll put it together and take it to the grand jury for their consideration."

Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of the labor federation, was relaying the AFL-CIO's previously announced support of the treaty to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd is raising the possibility that full Senate consideration of the treaty could be delayed to prevent the debate from being "miscolored" by the Cuban controversy.

And Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is on record as warning that the treaty will not be ratified as long as the troops remain stationed in Cuba.

Byrd said there is "no reason" the treaty has to come to the floor Oct. 1, as presently planned. "It could be Nov. 1, or Dec. 1, or as late as mid-December," he said Thursday.

Byrd commented in reacting to a proposal by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., that the Senate vote to suspend consideration of the treaty until the Cuban situation is resolved, either by removal of the 2,000 to 3,000 combat troops said to be stationed there or by a statement from President Carter that they pose no threat to the United States or its allies.

Byrd said the Dole resolution would undercut the authority of the Foreign Relations Committee, take away Byrd's flexibility as majority leader and "place the Senate in a straitjacket."

Byrd said it is unlikely he would schedule the treaty for floor consideration while the Cuban controversy remains an overriding issue. He asked the Senate for time "to permit the efforts of diplomacy to work to resolve this matter."

Local Trio May Run for Senate

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Three Democratic Hereford residents—a radio station owner, a farmer and an assistant to the state speaker of the House—have announced they may run for the State Senate in an effort to unseat Republican Bob Price of Pampa.

KPAN radio station owner Clint Formby, American Agriculture Movement leader Gerald McCathern and Bill Clayton aide Bill Sarpalius have told The Brand in the last two days that they may seek the Democratic nomination for the 31st senatorial district.

Formby narrowed down his time period for making an announcement more than the other candidates, stating Thursday he will make a decision within the next two or three weeks. McCathern and Sarpalius both said a decision would be forthcoming but did not pin down when they would announce their intentions.

Formby, in a news release issued Thursday, said he has "seriously considered" the possibility of announcing as a Democratic nominee. He said he would discuss the possibility with members of his family on an upcoming vacation.

"I feel that it is only fair to my family, my business, and my friends and supporters that a decision to seek this important office deserves very careful and sincere consideration. I will make an announcement of my own intentions in two or three weeks," Formby said.

Sounding more like a candidate, he added, "The Panhandle deserves strong and aggressive leadership in Austin; our area deserves the best possible person available to represent us in the State Senate."

Formby has been a Hereford resident for 27 years. He is a partner with his uncle, Marshall Formby of Plainview, in the ownership of radio stations in Hereford, Levelland, Tyler and Temple.

Formby, 56, is on the board of directors of banks in Crosbyton and Petersburg. He is past chairman of the National Association of Broadcasters and serves on the Board of Regents of Texas Tech University.

McCathern, former state delegate in the national American Agriculture Movement and wagonmaster in the AAM's national tractorcade to Washington, D.C. last January, said he has not yet made up his mind about the Senate race next spring.

"I've talked to some of the people in the different counties in the district to see what they think about it. So far, everybody has encouraged me to go ahead and run," McCathern said.

Negotiators Study Standby Gas Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate negotiators are beginning their search for a compromise standby gasoline rationing bill but wide differences remain between the two chambers.

The panel was meeting for the first time today to reconcile House and Senate versions of the legislation, which is part of President Carter's overall energy program.

Carter has asked Congress to give him the power to order gasoline rationing in the event of a grave fuel shortage. But weakening amendments attached by the House earlier this summer were deemed unacceptable by both the White House and Senate leaders.

Thus the conference panel was named and given the chore of developing a bill capable of winning acceptance in both the House and Senate.

The task won't be easy since differences between the two bills are vast.

For instance, the Senate-passed version doesn't even specifically authorize rationing but gives the President a broad grant of authority to take a variety of energy-conservation steps during an energy crisis.

House and Senate energy staff members met through the August recess to iron out minor differences and develop ground rules for the conference and the White House has delivered its proposed modifications.

Among provisions the White House would like to see dropped are exemptions to current thermostat restrictions, a requirement that special supplies of fuel be set aside for farmers and home-heating oil users, and a "trigger" prohibiting rationing from even being considered unless the shortage is at least 20 percent.

Sources who asked not to be identified said the 20-percent trigger probably will be retained but that there's a good chance the conferees will go along with Carter's request that the thermostat and fuel set-aside provisions be dropped.

On another piece of energy legislation, the House Commerce Committee voted repeatedly Thursday against attempts to limit the power a proposed national Energy Mobilization Board would have to speed development of high priority energy projects. A final vote on a bill creating the board was put off until next week.

Carter has endorsed legislation to create the board, and while the proposal has wide support in Congress, there is considerable debate over how broad the panel's authority should be.

Susie McGee—She Outlearned Her Lessons

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Susie McGee has always—well, at least since she was a 4-year-old in the Panhandle town of Stinnett—liked to play the piano. It was the instruction she could have done without.

"I hated lessons," said Mrs. Dwight McGee, a professional performer since her college days at West Texas State University. "I took lessons for 10 years after my brother had taught me the basic things. 'I hated every minute of the lessons. I always enjoyed playing what Susie wanted to play, not what the teacher wanted me to play.'"

Mrs. McGee, who found herself playing by ear by the time she was 9 and becoming as good as her teachers, has performed with numerous dance bands, her latest being a quartet comprised of three other Hereford residents—Marion Carter, Tommie Weemes and Cal Garrett, with whom she recorded an album, "My Way."

"We've sold about 700 of the albums," she said. "We didn't make any money; in fact, we probably lost some on it. Cal and I have enough albums for our kids to have Frisbees for a lifetime."

She started playing as a young girl with the encouragement of her mother, took lessons for 10 years, then joined a high school trio.

"My mother had a piano when I was a little girl. I was encouraged, not forced, to play it. My folks didn't have much money but one thing my mom wanted to spend her money on was my piano lessons," Mrs. McGee said.

When she was 6, she was scheduled to play a simple version of "Chopsticks" at a piano recital at First Baptist Church in Stinnett.

"Nobody at the recital knew I could really cut loose and play the piano. Well, I got up there and played it real simple, like I was supposed to play it, and then I couldn't help myself. I really got after it and started playing it like Jerry Lee Lewis. It embarrassed by folks to death, but I got a standing ovation."

"In high school, I played with a little band. We played very, very seldom, like when we had our western days at the school. Then, I started playing with a real country-western band after high school. We played in Berger—in a bar. It was good experience and we had a lot of fun. I

Hurricane David Moves into Canada

By The Associated Press
Tropical Storm David today rumbled into Canada, leaving behind a swath of death and destruction across the Caribbean and along the Atlantic Coast from Florida to Maine. The storm continued to lose strength as headed for Newfoundland.

Thousands of homes remained without power as governors along the U.S. Coast surveyed the damage left by the killer storm and prepared to ask the federal government for help rebuilding houses, businesses and wind-lashed farms.

Early estimates indicated the storm took a toll of nearly $100 million, including $60 million in Florida and $29 million in Baltimore, as it sparked torrential rains and tornadoes that were blamed for the deaths of at least 15 people in the United States. The storm has claimed more than 1,100 lives since it was spawned in the Caribbean last week.

But as skies cleared, the toll was far less severe than many officials had anticipated.

Mexicans Use Sprays on Spill

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND* Texas (AP)—Mexican authorities are trying to break up a patch of oil 135 miles south of Brownsville with aerial chemical sprays, American officials Thursday.

"They've been fairly successful with that spraying technique so far," said

Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency. "It's been done mainly around the well site."

The U.S. Coast Guard did not estimate the size of the latest portion of the world's largest oil spill to float towards the Texas Coast. Reconnaissance flights spotted the patch Wednesday.

Thick brown crude continues pouring from the runaway Mexican well in the Bay of Campeche. It took the oil two months to reach Texas beaches following the June 3 blowout.

The Coast Guard announced Thursday that an additional $3 million has been made available to fight the spill.

Two congressional committees will hold joint hearings Saturday and Sunday in Corpus Christi on the spill's cause, its damages and who is to blame.

Mayor Glen McGehee of this resort community already is blaming the federal government for past and future losses suffered by the tourist industry.

Carter To Announce MX-Deployment Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter is ready to announce plans for a $33 billion deployment of 200 new MX mobile missiles around protected "racetrack" courses in the West. White House sources say.

Although senior administration officials reached a basic consensus on the plan a month ago, a formal announcement planned today was delayed pending a final presidential decision as well as checks with governors and others in the affected states.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Carter agreed with his advisers that the "racetrack" option would minimize disruption of the countryside while protecting the large new missiles from destruction should the Soviet Union ever launch a surprise attack.

Carter decided in June to develop the 190,000-pound missiles, this country's largest, but withheld a decision on how they would be moved and protected.

The accepted option would place the missiles and their 700,000-pound transporters on a series of surface roads, forming closed courses not unlike angular racetracks.

Chrysler Expects To Lose $700 Million

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp., gearing up to reveal its government bailout proposal, announced it will lose more than $700 million this year, a record for a U.S. corporation.

The loss announcement came Thursday as a financial journal said bank loans to the ailing No. 3 automaker are now considered "doubtful."

Chrysler said because of a three-week delay in 1980 model production and the $400 rebates it used to sell its inventory of 1979 vehicles, pre-tax losses this year would top previous published estimates of $600 million to $700 million.

Chrysler initiated the rebates to spur sales and pare its bulging inventories of larger models. The record for a year's losses is now held by Singer Corp., which lost $452 million in 1975.

Chrysler, which is to deliver its bailout proposal to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller in a few days, lost $207 million in the second quarter. In all of last year, it lost $205 million.

The report on the downgrading of the rating of Chrysler loans came from a daily banking newspaper, American Banker. The journal said the Federal Reserve Board had classified $500 million in loans to Chrysler by banks around the country as "doubtful," the lowest classification short of default.

Haynes Rips Witness

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)

Lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes opened his attack on David McCrory's credibility with detailed questions about the erratic job and marital history of the state's key witness.

Using a poster-sized calendar, Haynes led McCrory through the various jobs he held in 1978 — jobs in carpentry, construction and sales. Haynes also touched on McCrory's four marriages and quoted prosecutors as calling the 41-year-old witness a "floater."

McCrory testified Thursday afternoon he has not held a salaried job in more than a year as part of the federal Witness Protection Program. The program, which gave McCrory and his family new identities in another city, also provides $950 per month in living expenses.

McCrory said he went into the program "for the protection of me and my family" shortly after betraying Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis last August.

Davis was arrested Aug. 20, 1978, and is standing trial on charges he tried to hire the murder of his divorcee, Joe Eidsen. Davis has since been granted a divorce from Priscilla Davis.

McCrory also testified Davis gave him $5,000 to do "investigative work" and the witness said he listed the sum on his 1978 income tax return. McCrory said his role as an investigator later changed to that of a mediator to hire a "hit man" to kill Eidsen and others.

Earlier Thursday, prosecutor Jack Strickland queried McCrory about the tape-recorded meeting with Davis that led to the industrialist's arrest. The parking lot meeting was secretly filmed and recorded, and the synchronized version of those tapes was shown to jurors Thursday morning.

During that meeting McCrory said he showed Davis "faked" proof of Eidsen's "death." The men also discussed the next victims of what McCrory has testified was Davis' "hit list" of 15 persons.

"Who do you want next?" McCrory asked on the tape.

"Uh, the ones we talked about," Davis replied.

"Bev. Bubba..." McCrory said.

"Yeah," Davis said. McCrory has testified that during an earlier meeting Davis told him to have Beverly Bass and Gus "Bubba" Gavrel Jr. killed prior to the judge.

Miss Bass and Gavrel testified in an 1977 murder trial that Davis was the black-clad gunman who shot Gavrel Aug. 2, 1976, during a midnight shooting spree at the $6-million-dollar Davis mansion. Davis later was acquitted in the death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter; one of two persons killed that night.

"I asked who he wanted killed next," McCrory said Thursday. On Friday (Aug. 18, 1978) Cullen instructed me to go back to the original plan. I had actually made a mistake in getting the judge 'killed' rather than Beverly Bass. I had to have some explanation for getting Judge Eidsen killed rather than Beverly Bass."

McCrory said his explanation to Davis was that the New Orleans "hit man" could not be reached in time to change plans.

Texans Defend Alamo

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)

Outraged Texans are again coming to the defense of the hallowed Alamo — this time against Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, who says the historic mission-fortress symbolizes all that's wrong in the United States' relations with Mexico.

Texas officials chastised the Arizona governor Thursday for his remarks at a Wednesday luncheon in San Antonio, the site of the fabled "Cradle of Texas Liberty."

Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton said Babbitt should tend to his own state's relations with Mexico and stop trying to "fire up emotions" between Anglos and Hispanics in Texas.

Texas Attorney General Mark White agreed and threw in an impromptu Texas history lesson for Babbitt. But one San Antonio attorney just suggested that Babbitt give Arizona back to Mexico if the governor is so interested in improving U.S.-Mexico relations.

Babbitt, a Democrat, made the controversial remarks Wednesday when he was addressing a luncheon given in his honor by two Mexican-American groups.

"We must forge a new relationship based on recognition of Mexico as an equal. But the Alamo is a symbol of the problem in our relationship with Mexico... a sacred symbol to Texans and an extension of the American ideal. But to Mexico, it's a symbol of territory lost, a nation plundered by overbearing gringo neighbors," Babbitt said.

The Arizona governor said both sides should readjust their thinking on such symbols.

The rebuttals poured in Thursday. "Certainly Texas and Mexico have some problems, such as illegal aliens, but it's not going to help for a governor from some other state to come over here and try to fire up emotions," said Clayton. "It could do some irreparable damage to the relations between Texans and the people on the other side of the border."

White added, "The heroes of the Alamo don't need defending against a politician two states away."

"Who the hell does he think he is? If he's so damn sincere, let him give the state of Arizona back to Mexico," said prominent San Antonio attorney Fred Seman.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, agreed from his Washington office.

"He (Babbitt) is grossly ignorant," Gonzalez said.

"If anything, the Alamo was a victory for the Mexicans. They won the Alamo. This dumb and ignorant Arizona governor expresses the mythological and the crass ignorance and, of course, it's a shrink of liberty."

"His symbolism is all mixed up, and his history and his statements are thoroughly confused and ignorant and unjust to a very great struggle, which involves more than he implies is the North American gringo trading Mexico's territory. For a governor of Arizona to be so ignorant is unpardonable."

Gonzalez also said the logical extension of Babbitt's remarks, if they were correct, would be to return the territory to Mexico including Arizona. And he said he would like to see Babbitt just try and get elected in Mexico.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican, has been a target of repeated criticism by Babbitt, who says Clements had an "imperialistic" attitude in recent discussions with Mexican border governors. That feud began simmering at a June conference of American border governors.

Clements was on a tour of Eastern Europe and not immediately available for comment.

White, however, took it upon himself to brief Babbitt in Texas history. "It should be noted that the Arizona governor has his historical facts mixed up. The battle at the Alamo did not take place during the war of 1846 between the U.S. and Mexico. The Alamo was part of Texas' fight for liberty, which was backed by Mexicans and Anglos alike and decided in 1836 at San Jacinto."

A small band of Texans, including frontiersmen Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie, was wiped out March 6, 1836 by more than 1,000 Mexican troops. The battle followed a crucial 13-day siege that gave Texas armies time to regroup and eventually win the Texas Revolution.

The Republic of Texas joined the United States in late 1845, prompting the Mexican War, which led to Mexico giving up what is now the southwestern United States.

Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens and one of those attending the luncheon, said he and other Mexican-American leaders support Babbitt's statements.

"Texas suffers from an Alamo mentality," said Bonilla. "As a result of that, Mexican-Americans have been denied access to political and social systems of this state and country.

"We support Gov. Babbitt's statements. We have our pride as Texans in the Alamo, but we also recognize that the United States for many years has maintained a paternalistic attitude toward Mexico."

San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell consulted with Babbitt on Thursday and said she felt the governor meant no harm.

"The governor assures me that he shares the Texas view of the Alamo as a sacred symbol," she said. "He also was understanding of the fact that the Alamo may be perceived differently in Mexico and was trying to point out that a difference in understanding and perception may be a key to current problems in the U.S. relationship with Mexico."

Babbitt had come to San Antonio to study the city's downtown tourist development along the San Antonio River for a similar project in Phoenix. Almost half of San Antonio's estimated 800,000 residents have Spanish surnames.

Before his luncheon, Babbitt met with several Texas Mexican-American leaders.

The 1.2 percent rise in wholesale prices during August compared with a 1.1 percent rise in July and was the highest increase since January, when the index advanced 1.3 percent.

If wholesale prices were to advance for a full year at the August rate, prices would jump by about 15 percent over the 12 months.

The Labor Department said food prices at wholesale rose 1.2 percent in August after showing no change in July and declining during the three prior months.

Prices for finished energy goods rose 5.8 percent, only slightly less than the 6.2 percent advance in the previous month.

The wholesale price index, also known as the Producer Price Index for Finished Goods, stood at 217.3 through August. That means that a group of goods that cost $100 in the base year of 1967 cost $217.30 last month.

The government said wholesale prices further down the production pipeline, known as the intermediate level, rose 1.2 percent in August following a 1.9 percent rise in July.

At the earliest, or crude, level of production, wholesale prices advanced only 0.1 percent, the smallest rise since April. Prices at that stage jumped 1.8 percent in July.

Although the unemployment rate rose slightly in July to 5.7 percent, government economists said the increase was too small to indicate the recession was taking a toll in the labor market.

However, most government and private economists predicted August would mark the start of a steady rise in unemployment resulting from the recession that began in the second quarter.

Washington economist Michael K. Evans predicted the first "big jump" in unemployment will occur in September. So far, unemployment hasn't increased much, he said, because there are substantial costs in firing workers, and employers "don't want to lay workers off until they see the whites of the eyes of the recession."

wouldn't even think about running," McCathern said.

"I worked in the oilfields, too. The two largest industries in this district are agriculture and oil and gas," said McCathern, who holds a degree in petroleum geology from Texas Tech University.

Sarapalius, 31, has worked for Rep. Clayton for more than two years, traveling throughout the Speaker's Panhandle-South Plains district in a van equipped as a mobile office.

"I'm thinking very seriously about it. At this point things look very favorable," Sarapalius said. "I plan to make my decision between now and February."

Sarapalius, who holds a master's degree in agriculture, was state president of Future Farmers of America in 1968-69. He taught vocational agriculture and worked in the admissions office at Boys Ranch.

"I feel I understand a lot of the problems we're facing today. For example, in education, I'm a former school teacher, and in agriculture, I have a degree in agriculture. I feel like I'm knowledgeable of the legislative process. I've been dealing with people's problems and community problems in working with Clayton for the last two years," Sarapalius said.

Concerning the fact that he, Formby and McCathern are considering a shot at the Senate, Sarapalius said, "I think it's going to hurt all three of us. But, I can't base my decision on things I hear in Hereford, on what people are saying in Hereford. You've got to base your decision on what strength you have throughout the entire senatorial district."

"Right now, all I'm doing is considering this."

Senate Race

"would not be wise," he added. "Anybody who runs from Hereford is going to be influential in getting rural votes. If that happened, we'd split enough votes that somebody from one of the bigger cities would probably win the election," he said.

McCathern, 52, has lobbied in Washington D.C. for higher prices for farmers since 1960. For the last two years, he has been one of the most outspoken members of the AAM and has written a book on the movement's recent farm strike and lobbying efforts in the nation's capital.

"I'm no different than anybody else that has a feeling of patriotism and wants to straighten out the problems we've got. Because of the fact I do have that feeling and because I've done a lot of things for the past 20 years to help our agriculture producers, I feel I'm more than qualified to help all the people in this district, or I

Police Arrest 2 For Drunk Driving

Hereford police arrested a man and woman for driving while intoxicated after midnight today in separate offenses, and also charged the man with unlawfully carrying a weapon in his car.

Police said a .45 caliber revolver was found in the man's possession. He was arrested at the intersection of Park Ave. and Miles around 1:15 a.m.

The woman was stopped in front of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home on 6th St.

Gibson's Discount Center reported that someone stole a revolver from the sporting goods department Thursday.

Officers Thursday also investigated an argument between a man and school officials at Aikman Elementary School, a verbal threat of an assault at Hereford High School, a family quarrel in the 500 block of Knight, an accidental burglar alarm at Spangler's Jewelry in Sugarland Mall, a disturbance at Furr's Supermarket and a report of four wild cats at the Grand E Trailer Park.

Patrolman Cecil Guthrie captured the cats, reported by a woman at the trailer courts.

Special Services Planned This Month

September Sunday nights will be special at the First United Methodist Church, with a whole month of out-of-the-ordinary services planned.

This week the congregation will be hosts to the Rev. Ermilo Montemayor, pastor, and members of San Pablo United Methodist Church. The guest pastor will give the sermon and visitors from the San Pablo congregation will present special music.

Afterward there will be a meeting for fellowship and refreshments in First UMC Fellowship hall, for everyone present.

Rev. William D. McReynolds, pastor, invites all residents of Hereford to this and the other meetings in the series.

On Sept. 16 the hour will be devoted to singing, with songs by various choirs of the church, adult and children's, as well as by the entire congregation. Doug Henry is the choir director and will lead the group in favorite songs.

Youth will be in the spotlight Sept. 23, when Rev. Sammie Ellis, associate pastor at Friona UMC, will be the speaker and the host church's Welcome Back Singers will be the special musicians.

All these meetings will begin at 7 p.m. For the final Sunday of the Month, Sept. 30, there will be a covered dish supper honoring church school workers and teachers, and new members of the church. It is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall.

ARE WE TEACHING RESPECT?

I hear a lot of comment today about the lack of respect among the young people. Supposedly they have no respect for people, property or themselves!

If any of these accusations are true, we need to take a long hard look at the adult world and its relationship to our youth.

How many adults have said and believe, "all 16 year old kids are alike; they'll take advantage of you every chance they get!" With that attitude, you can be sure that all 16 year olds will be treated alike instead of like individual human beings with separate goals and needs.

How often does an adult say "excuse me" or "thank you" to a child over 2 years old? (We utter amenities to the little ones only in an attempt to get that expensive vase out of their grasp!)

I sincerely feel that if we, as adults, will begin each relationship with a young person showing respect for him as a fellow human, we will see a change emerge in the attitude and respect exhibited by the kids.

Progressive Chapter Begins New Season

Following the summer recess, Progressive Extension Homemakers Club resumed their meetings Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Bill Carmichael.

Mrs. E.C. Hammett, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Carmichael led the opening exercise by reading "A Time for Choosing."

In business, members disapproved a proposal to order nametags for Extension Homemakers in the county. Also, Mrs. Taft McGee and Mrs. Horace Hershey were elected to serve as voting delegates at the Rural Homemakers Day in Amarillo in October. The recreation period was a brief exercise program led by Mrs. Carmichael.

Progressive's next meeting will be a joint session with Ford EH Club at 9:30 a.m. on Sept. 18 in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Members present at Tuesday's meeting were Mes. Tom Melugin, Floyd McGee, Taft McGee, E.C. Hammett, P.L. Carmichael, Johnny Townsend and Helen Parsons.

Ann Landers Homosexuality Disease

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are probably fed up with letters from homosexuals. Well, this one will be different. I hope you will print it because I am not the only one who feels this way. I am, however, one of the few who will admit it. I believe it is my duty to speak out for those who don't have the courage.

Being gay is not of my choosing. I remember having sexual fantasies at the age of five, and they weren't about girls—they were about members of my own sex. To this day I don't know if I am the way I am because I was born different, whether my parents' attitude influenced me in this direction, or what. But I am definitely gay, and no matter what the reasons, it doesn't matter much.

I have traveled in homosexual circles for a long time and it may surprise your readers to know that most of us are not limp-wristed, lisping sissy-types. As a matter of fact, no one would ever point a finger at me. There is not a single so-called gay trait in my looks, speech or behavior pattern. I have kept my true identity so well-hidden that members of my family have no idea I am not perfectly straight. Furthermore, I hope they never find out. My parents would die. (Sometimes I think I'll explode when my mother and aunts suggest a lovely "date" for me.)

I am not asking for sympathy or heaven forbid, pity. What I AM asking for is understanding. Individuals who are crippled are treated with compassion by decent people. Well, we are emotionally crippled. It happened at some stage in our development and we are stuck with it. Although some gays say straight, most of us would give anything if we were.

I hope you will let me have my say publicly. Ann, those people out there need to know that we have no interest in molesting little children, misleading unsuspecting women or dressing up in high heels. (The vast majority of closet dressers--transvestites--are not homosexuals).

I know this letter is much too long to publish, but I hope you will trim it down and use some of it. So many folks need educating and your column is one of the very best places for them to learn. Thank you for all the good you have done. --Closed in The Southland

DEAR SOUTHLAND: I didn't trim a word. Here's your letter, exactly as you wrote it, with my thanks for expressing yourself so honestly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was married to a wonderful woman for 16 beautiful years. We had one child, a daughter. My wife died three years ago. Our daughter was 14 at the time. She was so upset at her mother's death she asked me to promise I would never get married again. I did so. Periodically, at three- or four-month intervals, she reminded me of that promise and asked me to "promise again."

Last year I began to keep company with a very fine woman. I would like to marry her, but as recently as last month my daughter asked if I remembered my vow. She must have read my mind. What should I do?--X.X.X.

DEAR X.X.X.: That promise was made when your heart was heavy and your judgment clouded. Your daughter should have extracted it--and you shouldn't have made it. Take your daughter to your clergyman and ask HIM to decide. He will give you the proper counsel, and from him it will sound different. I hope.

Cookout Plans Discussed By Bippus Homemakers

Plans for a family cookout were made by members of Bippus Extension Homemakers Club Wednesday afternoon during a meeting in the home of Mrs. C.F. Homfeld.

The cookout is scheduled on the evening of Sept. 29 at the Bippus Community building.

The business meeting was called to order by the chapter president Mrs. Jerry Homfeld. Mrs. Jimmy Bradley acted as secretary in the absence of that officer.

Assistant county extension agent Agnes Taylor presented a program, entitled "Seven Keys to a Happy Life." Also, members made small crafts under the direction of Mrs. Jerry Homfeld during the recreation period.

Other members present were Mrs. J.V. Hall and Mrs. Dan Hall.

The club's next meeting is scheduled at 2 p.m. Oct. 10 in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Bradley.

Toastmasters To Attend Area Speech Contest

The Hereford Toastmaster's Club met yesterday morning under the direction of Toastmaster Bettie Roberts.

Greg Black presented a variety of subjects to members present as toastmaster. The topic speaker for the morning was Bob Hillerby.

Prepared speeches were delivered by Rocky Lee and Victor Cantu. These were evaluated by Dr. Milton Adams and Loretta Kindsfater.

It was announced during the session that the fall humorous speech contest will be held in Canyon tonight with Loretta Kindsfater, Ray Artho, Clyde Bonner and B.J. Gilliland participating.

IN WASHINGTON

Martha Angle and Robert Walters
Uncle Sam is benevolent

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Does there exist anywhere a landlord whose generosity includes a provision in the standard lease agreement allowing evicted tenants to receive full compensation for all improvements made during their occupancy? There is indeed such a benevolent soul. He's Uncle Sam, specifically the Interior Department's National Park Service, which pays millions of dollars for the honor of ridding the national parks of companies that fail to provide adequate tourist facilities.

The payments are required by a provision of a 1965 law that defines the "possessory interest" of those who are granted NPS contracts to operate concessions serving park visitors.

If NPS wants to terminate a contract because of unsatisfactory performance, the concessionaire must be compensated for the current cost of reconstruction, less depreciation, of all of its "structures, fixtures or improvements acquired or constructed" within the park.

A current case in point involves the General Host Corp., a conglomerate corporation that in 1966 was awarded NPS contracts to be the principal concessionaire at two of the country's biggest national parks.

They are Everglades National Park in Florida and Yellowstone National Park, whose territory includes portions of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

By 1976, NPS decided that General Host was running what one agency official describes as a "pretty miserable" operation at Everglades. But it cost $1.3 million in public funds to buy out the firm's "possessory interest" in park facilities.

At Yellowstone, General Host was operating a highly successful business. Information disclosed at a Senate hearing shows that the corporation's subsidiary in the park last year had a net worth of $13 million, retained earnings of $4 million and profits of more than $2.9 million.

But little of that money was being spent on the park. One Interior Department investigation concluded that General Host's management "cannot respond to visitor needs because the company is not oriented to service to the public but only to the generation of profit dollars."

According to the National Parks and Conservation Association, NPS officials found "unsanitary kitchen operations, run-down buildings, shabby furnishings" and "accommodations (that) are uncomfortable, inconvenient and unsafe."

NPS has terminated General Host's role as Yellowstone concessionaire on the grounds that the firm operated "in violation of the contract" and provided "unsatisfactory service." But Congress now is being asked for a special $15 million appropriation to pay the corporation for its "possessory interest."

The park service has compounded its problems by routinely signing concession contracts for long terms — often 10, 20 or 30 years — and granting the recipients "preferential rights" to renew and provide additional services or facilities needed.

That preferential right of renewal "discourages competition" and means that "outsiders have virtually no chance to get a concession," warns the Interior Department's inspector general.

As a result, many of the country's biggest and most popular national parks are perpetually dominated by the major corporations that can afford to bid on the concession contracts.

"In certain instances, it appears that the concessionaire, not the park service, operates the park area," a pair of House subcommittee observers in one report highly critical of NPS.

There is a better way. Visitor facilities in the parks can — and should — be financed through franchise fees, public funds or possibly a quasi-public trust fund.

Professionals could still be retained to operate the visitor facilities — but under limited management contracts drafted to prevent public parks from becoming private preserves.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Cramer
It's on the cards

DEAR POLLY — I have some very nice playing cards that are soiled and I wonder if there is any way they can be cleaned. — ANNE

DEAR ANNE — You might use a dough-type wallpaper cleaner. Also, you could dampen a soft cloth, dip it in baking soda and wipe each side of each card. After cleaning either way sprinkle talcum powder on the cards and shuffle a time or two to restore that slick feeling. You must be patient to undertake such a job. In many cases it would be better to use that time to buy some new cards. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have a couple of energy savers. When I need melted butter for a crumb pie crust I put the needed amount in a pie plate, set it on the top of my toaster and push the button down two different times. By then the butter is melted. When I only want to soften the butter to get in frosting I put it in a bowl that is put on the gas stove pilot light.

MARGIE

DEAR POLLY — L.M. can remove that musty odor from her books by putting them in a paper bag, sprinkle with whole or ground cloves, clamp bag shut and let them stand for a month. This has worked for me on a rag doll, toys and a traveling bag. — MRS.A.B.

DEAR POLLY — When I have leftover egg yolks after making something that calls for the whites only I poach the yolks, cool them and then put through a sieve. They are nice for salads, canapes and garnishes.

After washing slacks or any trousers I always hang them by the legs. The weight of the wet garment will remove almost all the wrinkles and they need little pressing.

Instead of buying new blanket edging when the binding is worn I crochet an edge on both sides of the covering. — AUDREY

Artist's Work on Display at Bank

The works of Western artists Justin Wells and Jim Thomas continue to be on display today at the Hereford State Bank. The large display features the efforts of Wells, a native of Elk City, Oklahoma and Thomas, who hails from Amarillo.

Wells likes to do just one thing—draw horses. More specifically, he sketches and paints the people, animals, and landscapes associated with the horse culture of the American West. He is interested in all periods of the American frontier. Favorite subjects include trail herds of longhorns and the American Indian.

Thomas prefers sculpture over painting in his work. A founding member of the prestigious Texas Cowboy Artists Association, he was one of the TCA artists chosen to illustrate "XIT-The American Cowboy," a major new art book. Thomas began his serious interest in art in 1966, gradually changing over from agricultural advertising and marketing to fulltime artist by 1970. Since that time, his work has gained national acceptance.

Wells, who now also resides in Amarillo, is a member of the TCA and raises as well as trains registered quarter horses. "Knowing how a horse operates by personal experience rather than by observation above enables the artist's imagination to communicate the reality of a scene much more effectively," he says.

This is the basis of Wells' philosophy of art—one should paint what he knows and has experienced.

Thomas was nominated for official Texas State Artist of 1975 by the Texas Legislature. He was also nominated for the 1976 West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Achievement Man of the Year Award, winning that award in 1977.

The work of both artists will be on display in the Hereford State Bank lobby through regular business hours today.

Catholics Won't Give

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP)—The United Way in Corpus Christi area may lose more than $800,000 if area Roman Catholics follow the advice of Bishop Thomas Drury and refuse to donate, a United Way official said Thursday.

Drury said Catholics should not support the United Way because last June Planned Parenthood, which provides birth control counseling and other services, became an agent of the Corpus Christi United Way.

There are more than 25,000 Catholic families in the Coastal Bend, or about a third of the population.

Monsignor William T. Thompson, vicar general of the Coastal Bend diocese, said there has been tremendous support shown to the bishop by area Catholics. "Many people who have been workers have resigned, and many have refused to contribute," he said.

Thompson said the bishop waited until near the beginning of the United Way's kickoff activities to make this announcement because "it was hoped that perhaps they might change their minds, or this final commitment would not be made, because the United Way knew the bishop's position."

Thompson said Drury deplored taking this stand because he has personally contributed to the United Way in the past. "The bishop felt that he could in no way support or contribute to an organization that directly or indirectly advocated abortion."

The bishop said he advised the 90 priests in the area to urge church members not to contribute because of "the constant teaching of the church on the sanctity of human life and our obligation to safeguard the lives of unborn babies."

Merriman Morton, a United Way campaign chairman, said the goal of the Coastal Bend area that includes Corpus Christi and area towns is $2.8 million. Of that figure, Planned parenthood would receive about $2,500.

Drury said, "Without wishing to be divisive, I am compelled to call our Catholic people to stand firm in refusing direct or indirect aid to the United Way. At the same time, I exhort them to contribute directly not only to our own worthwhile Catholic charities but also to all other agencies that do not encourage or support abortion."

Planned parenthood provides counseling on birth control, problem pregnancies, pregnancy testing, and referral services for unwed mothers and adoptions.

The Corpus Christi City Council Wednesday cancelled a presentation by United Way to avoid disagreements with councilmen who oppose contributing to the United Way. However, more than 200 people attended the Wednesday United Way kickoff luncheon, twice as many as last year.

Lauscha Perfects Ornament Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—It was 130 years ago, in the storybook German town of Lauscha, perched high in the mountains 60 miles north of Nuremberg, that the first blown-glass Christmas tree ornaments were produced by a local chemist named Louis Greiner-Schlotzger.

According to Phillip Snyder, author of "The Christmas Tree Book," the first Christmas tree ornaments were glass balls which were hung from trees by strings attached to small corks plugged into one end of each ball. The first ornaments were made by the craftsmen of Lauscha for their own families, but as news of these unique decorations spread, demand grew.

Word soon reached the United States, prompting buyers from stores throughout the country — including F.W. Woolworth himself — to make annual visits to Lauscha when they were buying toys and dolls in the nearby Nuremberg and Sonneberg areas, Snyder relates.

As demand grew, the glassblower craftsmen of Lauscha were soon working as much as 15 hours a day in the small workshops attached to their homes, making as many as 600 ornaments each day.

By 1900, the Lauscha glassblowers had perfected the use of molds to form intricate ornaments, creating new jobs for artists.

Over the years, thousands of different molds were produced by these skilled artists. Every conceivable fruit and vegetable was made, as were dogs, cats, monkeys and bears — and, of course, all types of Santa Claus figures and snowmen. It is estimated that more than 3,000 different designs were created from the 1880s to 1939.

One of the most enduring and popular patterns was a bird with a tail made of hair-fine strands of spun glass. The imaginative craftsmen of Lauscha produced glass boats with cardboard sails, pear-shaped balls with a face like the man in the moon, 4-inch-high snowmen with three children dancing around them and even popular American comic strip characters.

By 1930, approximately 2,000 homes and 6,000 people in the immediate vicinity of Lauscha were involved in the Christmas tree ornament trade. Their craft was almost unchanged since it had first begun at the turn of the century.

After World War II and the division of Germany, Lauscha ended up 10 miles inside East Germany where the government had little interest in trying to rebuild the craft. The American government attempted to help West Germany re-establish an ornament industry but the country's booming economy drew young workers to more lucrative jobs.

By 1974, according to Snyder, there were fewer than 25 makers of old-fashioned ornaments left in West Germany. About 150 ornament makers remained in Lauscha, the original home of millions of beautiful, fragile glass ornaments which for so many Christmases had fascinated both adults and children.

industry has been working hard itself to gain support on Capitol Hill for amendments that would restrict hide exports. It says controls are needed in view of the smaller supply caused by a sharply reduced cattle slaughter.

But the NCA, the Agriculture Department, some other farm groups and segments of the meat industry contend export controls are short-sighted and would mean a slowdown in the expansion now under way in the U.S. cattle industry.

The main interest now is in the House, where amendments have been or will be offered to legislation extending the Export Administration Act.

In recent reports to its members, the NCA agreed that global hide production is down "mainly as a result of the cyclical reduction in cattle slaughter," but added that the U.S. cattle and packing industries "are producing more hides than the domestic leather industry can use."

Prices of hides, before they began slipping from their peaks earlier this year, more than doubled what they were two years ago.

"All the hides they can use, and more, are available if they will pay the going price," the NCA said of the leather industry's complaint about costs.

According to the industry, more than 80 percent of America's cattle hides are being shipped abroad, up from less than 50 percent four years ago.

"Controls on hide exports wouldn't be enough to revive the U.S. leather goods industry," says the NCA. "It's been going downhill for the last 23 years. In 1978, leather goods production was 18 percent less than in 1955, while the output of all non-durable manufacturing increased by 170 percent."

The National Independent Meat Packers Association, which has sided with the NCA against export controls, says a quota on overseas shipments "would have an immediate effect" of pushing hide prices down further from their peaks last spring.

"This is not a guarantee, however, that the price of shoes and other leather goods would do the same," the association said. "Export quotas were implemented in 1966 and attempted in 1972. As expected, the price of hides dropped, but the price of shoes continued to go up."

Further, in the overall cost of shoes, "the best available estimate is that leather makes up about 10 percent of the retail cost of men's shoes," it said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two foreign market development groups are in the process of merging into a new organization to be called U.S. Wheat Associates Inc.

The merger involves Great Plains Wheat Inc. and Western Wheat Associates. Great Plains' office here said its directors recently voted unanimously to "accept in principle" the recommended bylaws and articles of incorporation for the consolidation.

Directors of Western Wheat earlier had voted approval.

The two organizations are supported by wheat producers through their respective state wheat commissions in Colorado, Kansas, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Wyoming.

Small-Town Police Hurt by Problems

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A police chief's lot is not a happy one — especially when he has to present a budget to the town board or handle touchy public relations chores, says Lee Smith of Syracuse University, who is coordinating a program to help small and mid-size police departments function more efficiently.

"Police training in this country is normally geared to the larger metropolitan police departments and the small department chiefs have felt left out in the cold," says Smith, assistant dean of University College.

University College, the continuing education arm of Syracuse University, is working with chiefs of police from 24 small communities in central New York State in a training program that could develop into a nationwide model.

The Criminal Justice Management Institute, believed to be the only program of its kind in the United States, is in its second year, through a grant from the State Division of

Law Professor Rated Tops on Free Speech

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Thomas I. Emerson figured in some of the nation's landmark legislation and legal decisions, gave Richard M. Nixon his first government job and almost ran for governor of Connecticut.

But the most influential work of the Yale Law School professor emeritus is probably four hefty books he wrote.

The titles may discourage the average reader: "Toward a General Theory of the First Amendment," "The System of Freedom of Expression," and the two-volume "Political and Civil Rights in the United States," which he co-authored with David Haber.

Nonetheless, retired Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. Supreme Court has hailed Emerson as "the outstanding authority in the nation on the First Amendment."

Louis Pollak, a former Yale Law School dean, calls the second book "the major treatise on free expression written in our time."

The white-haired Emerson, now 71, greets visitors to his small, book-lined Yale office with a quiet manner.

There is an unexpected lightness in his voice when he talks about his 13 years in Washington, being branded a former Communist in the early 1950s, and how the FBI compiled more than 1,500 pages on his comings and goings to at least 1973.

When he learned of his amazement in 1977 about the exhaustive surveillance, he

In larger police departments, Smith says, management jobs such as personnel hiring and firing, budgeting and public relations are usually turned over to specialists. Small departments have neither the funds nor training to present them-

Men Cook in Class

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Ada County is doing its bit to help break down traditional sex barriers. The county extension service is offering a series of cooking classes — for men only.

And it's not fancy stuff, just trying to get the most out of the food dollar.

"Lifestyles are changing. There seem to be more men rearing children on their own and more men without wives or families who must fend for themselves in the kitchen," says Peggy Pletcher, home economist.

Along with John Miller, meat specialist and barbecue par excellence, she's running a series of three classes to make men more at home in the kitchen. If they're successful, the classes will be made a regular feature of extension services.

The first session presented an overview of food preparation and buying. Cooks and would-be master chefs were given ideas on how to stretch food dollars, put the budget and menu together and provide good nutrition.

The next meeting focuses on barbecuing, with Miller putting on a demonstration of his specialty. The last session is concerned with food processors, microwave ovens and ways of preparing meals on the run.

"What we are involved in is telling men about the everyday aspects of food shopping and cooking as it applies to family-type food, whether it's for just one person, or six or more," said Ms. Pletcher.

Herd Opens Season at Pampa

Tough Defense

The Hereford Longhorn JV team opened with a strong showing here Thursday in downing Pampa's JV by 27-0. The JV had a stingy defense, as exhibited in the photo by Bruce Clark's [30] tackle of a Pampa back. Tony Rodriguez [50], in dark jersey, comes in for an assist on the play, while other Longhorn defenders fight off blockers.

JV Opens With 27-0 Triumph

Touchdowns by four individuals and a stingy defense led the Hereford Longhorn junior varsity football team to a 27-0 win over the Pampa junior varsity yesterday evening at La Plata field in the season opener for both teams.

Three of the scores came on offense and one a recovered fumble on defense as the Longhorns never allowed the Harvesters team to cross the goal although numerous opportunities due to fumbles were presented to the visitors.

The Herd's first score came in a 70 yard run by quarterback Matt Collier as the veer option opened up the outside for the sophomore field general to break free and outrun the opposition. The after point attempt by John Phibbs sailed wide to give the Longhorns a 6-0 lead.

On the ensuing kickoff, Phibbs kick eluded the Pampa return man until he was able to retrieve the ball with a host of Hereford defenders all around him where he was downed at the two yard line.

On the first play by the Pampa offense, Hereford sacked the ball carrier in the endzone for an apparent safety, but an offside by the defensive line negated the possible two points.

It turned out for the best, on the following play a fierce rush led to a Harvester fumble of which Hereford linebacker Bruce Clark recovered in the endzone for six points. The PAT by Don Delozier was successful to give the Herd a 13-0 lead with eight minutes remaining in the first half.

The Longhorns other scores did not lack in excitement as the open field running of wide receiver Felix Mungia provided the third tally for the local team on a short pass from Collier.

After taking the ball on the 25 yard line, Mungia broke four tackles in his quest to cross into paydirt. In the try for two points Collier hooked up with tight end Delozier to make the score 21-0.

The final score for the Herd came in the fourth quarter as a pitch to Phibbs on the 40 yard line ended up in the endzone as the sophomore running back broke through the line and outran the rest of defenders to make the final tally for the team.

Until the offense got on track on the defensive unit for the Longhorns, led by linebacker Ken Cosper and down lineman Dale Phillips controlled the Pampa running attack and the defensive secondary led by cornerback Mike Hill stifled the passing attack.

Teams Picked To Win Openers

"Who's No. 1?" "We're No. 1." It's a question — and response — that inspires passion among college football buffs. They start spouting it with a hoist of index finger the first week in September and don't lower it until the final tabulations after the bowl games. Even then, controversy continues to sizzle.

The "Big Two" in the pre-season poll make their debut Saturday against reputable — but not awesome opponents — and you can expect talent-loaded Southern Cal and defending titleholder Alabama to escape unmarked.

Southern California 33, Texas Tech 10: It should be a romp unless Charles White (1,760 yards and 13 TDs in 1978) takes a trip to China.

Alabama 24, Georgia Tech 14: A bitter rivalry that once had to be suspended out of fear of violence. Wishbone lightning.

Purdue 31, Wisconsin 7: A new look in the Big Ten, thanks to a 6-5 quarterback named Mark Herrmann and a slew of slick receivers.

Michigan State 46, Illinois 13: On probation last year, the Spartans could play it loose. Now they have to bite the bullet.

North Carolina State 20, East Carolina 14: The Wolfpack may be the best in their league, but Pat Dye can be hard on the molar.

Washington 30, Wyoming 10: Joe Steele, Tippecanoe and Tyler, too (Toussaint Tyler, that is — he runs over and around you.)

Texas A&M 23, Brigham Young 7 7: This is one the Aggies will have to win with their shoes on. Barefoot kicker Ron Franklin is now a pro.

The Hereford Whitefaces kickoff their 1979 grid season at Pampa tonight, and Herd Coach Don Cumpton finally came up with some probable starters this morning.

Cumpton had said this week that there were three candidates for most positions, and he couldn't possibly name the starters until after practice Thursday afternoon.

On offense, the Whitefaces will be led by junior quarterback Derek Dirks and lettermen running backs Joe Walker and Joe Mitchum. Returnees Robbie Fish and Donny Lauderback will man the guard positions in the offensive line, and letterman Keith Adams will be at the flanker position.

Newcomers John Joserand and Bert Wofford, both weighing in around 210, will be at offensive tackle berths, and Billy Simon will handle the center snaps. Felix Soliz is set to start at split end, and Scott Daniels will be at tight end.

On defense, the Herd will be led by returning lettermen Cory Christie at nose guard and Barry Morgan and Edward Dominguez at the two safety spots. Fish will also play tackle on defense, and Herbert Carillo will man one tackle spot, while Aubrey Richburg and Nick Whatley will be at defensive end. Chris Schumacher will be at linebacker along with the veteran Mitchum, while Adams and Norman Hill will be at the cornerback positions.

The Whiteface gridders have taken on the nickname of the "Hostile Herd" this year, and Coach Cumpton hopes that name will be reflected in the results of the opening contest.

Pampa opens with a new coach, Danny Palmer, this season and he has high hopes of improving on last year's 3-7 won-lost record. The Harvesters return three of their top offensive backs and Palmer has changed the attack to the Wishbone. Pampa has three returning starters on defense.

Senior fullback Doug Kennedy (170) and halfback Doug Smith (175) lead the Pampa ground attack. Starting at quarterback is 120-pound Greg Quarles, who saw some action last season. Danny Buzzard (6-4, 235) heads up the Pampa defense, which figures to be improved this year.

Hereford posted a 3-6-1 won-lost-tied record last season, and Cumpton is optimistic about his team's chances this year—particularly if some of the younger players come through in strong fashion.

Too Slippery

David San Miguel [44] eludes a Pampa defender and chalks up a gain in Thursday afternoon's Hereford JV game, won by the Longhorns, 27-0. The Herd JV showed an explosive offense and stout defense in opening Hereford's football season on a winning note. The varsity opens at Pampa tonight.

New Grid Mentors Still after 1st Wins

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The first win is always the hardest and three of the four new National Football League coaches are still looking for it as the season moves into its second week.

Ray Perkins of the New York Giants, Ron Ehrhardt of the New England Patriots and Bill Walsh with the San Francisco 49ers try again Sunday. All three came close in last week-end's opener but close counts only in horseshoes and hand grenades. Tom Flores at Oakland was the only freshman coach to come up a winner the first time around.

The Pro Picker did all right for openers, coming up 10-4 for 714. There is no danger of overconfidence, however. The Picker has too long a memory for that.

The Picks:
NEW ENGLAND 24, N.Y. JETS 20: The Patriots came within a few minutes of kayaking the Super Bowl-champion Steelers Monday night. The Jets will offer less resistance.

WASHINGTON 20, DETROIT 13: No quarterback makes this a tough game to play as the Lions are finding out.

NEW ORLEANS 31, GREEN BAY 14: The Saints can score points. If they can just get the center snap down pat, everything will be fine.

CHICAGO 10, MINNESOTA 6: This will be an old-fashioned, grind-it-out game. There are few better grinders than the Bears' Walter Payton.

TAMPA BAY 21, BALTIMORE 17: With Bert Jones of the Colts ailing, the Bucs play another team using a backup passer. Detroit couldn't get away with that last week. Baltimore won't this week.

ST. LOUIS 17, NY GIANTS 10:

MIAMI 19, SEATTLE 17
DALLAS 28, SAN FRANCISCO 7: The Cowboys are in another class from the 49ers.

PITTSBURGH 17, HOUSTON 14: The Oilers had an awful lot of trouble with an inferior Washington club. Pittsburgh is hardly inferior.

CLEVELAND 20, KANSAS CITY 13: Coach Marv Levy has the Chiefs' convinced they can win. The Browns stole one from the Jets last week.

SAN DIEGO 27, OAKLAND 21: Dave Casper is back with the Raiders, a fact that won't go unnoticed by Ken Stabler. The Chargers, though, can put up plenty of points in a hurry.

Tanner Stops Borg's Quest for Grand Slam

NEW YORK (AP) — It is one of those unique ironies that it took one of tennis' most notorious firebrands to calm the emotions of Roscoe Tanner and turn the cannonballing left-hander into a potential champion.

"With his big serve and volley game, Roscoe had the basics to be a winner," said Tanner's tutor, Dennis Ralston, once a stormy petrel of the courts. "All he needed was to improve his all-court game and his temperament."

The 27-year-old Tennessee native learned his lessons well — reflected Wednesday night in his stunning four-set victory over the top-seeded Borg, four-time Wimbledon winner, in their quarterfinal match in the U.S. Open.

"The Wimbledon match gave me a lot of confidence," Tanner said after his victory over Borg

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis got by South African Johan Kriek 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3; while Eddie Dibbs played three games against third-seeded John McEnroe, then retired from their quarterfinal match in the U.S. Open.

Serving at 1-2, Dibbs was down 0-30 when he retired because of a pain in his back.

In women's action, second-seeded Martina Navratilova easily beat Kerry Reid 6-4, 6-1; and third-seeded Tracy Austin won her quarterfinal against Sylvia Hanika of West Germany 6-1, 6-1.

A crowd of 18,090 attended the night session at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow, a new U.S. Open record.

Tech Keeps Cool

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Last year Texas Tech was scared then spooked the devil out of Southern California before falling 17-9.

This Saturday night in Lubbock the 11-point underdog Red Raiders hope they can keep cool then beat the devil out of the No. 1 ranked Trojans.

"We were really scared last year," said Texas Tech defensive back Larry Flowers. "We had seen all those great athletes on TV and we were wondering if we were going to get blown away. Then we went out on the field (Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles) and found they weren't much different than any of the other teams we played."

Tech piled up a 9-0 lead on three Bill Adams field goals and Flowers said: "We went into the lockerroom at halftime leading and we couldn't believe it."

All-America tailback Charles

White rallied the Trojans in the second half and they wore down the thin Red Raiders.

"I know they'll remember that game from last year," said Flowers. "I expect them to be rough and ready this time."

Some 55,000 fans were expected in Jones Stadium for the heralded duel between White and Texas Tech's James Hadnot, the leading rusher in the Southwest Conference last year. Southern Cal Coach John Robinson remembers last year's meeting.

"Texas Tech will be one of the surprise teams in college football this year," said Robinson. "At the end of the year I wouldn't be surprised if they're ranked in the top 15."

"This will be as very close game—and a severe challenge for us."

In other games, Southern Methodist was a 23-point pick in an SWC matchup against Rice as the Mustangs make their debut in Texas Stadium in league play; Texas A&M was a 13-point nod over Brigham Young at Rice Stadium in Houston; Baylor was a three-touchdown choice over Lamar at Waco; and Houston and UCLA were a pick'em meeting in Los Angeles.

The Rice-SMU game will also mark the debut of the Mustangs' sensational bluechip freshman crop, including backs Eric Dickerson and Craig James. Quarterback Mike Ford of the Mustangs said the ground threat should open up All-America wide receiver Emanuel Tolbert I for bombs from Ford.

Also, there has been some behind-the-scenes simmering from Rice Coach Ray Alborn and his staff who wonder if SMU Coach Ron Meyer tried to run up the score in last year's 58-0 Mustang victory.

Astros Remain on Top With 10th-Inning Win

HOUSTON (AP) — When right-hander J.R. Richard is on the mound for the Houston Astros, the rest of the team has little to do but marvel at the pitching mastery of the major-league strikeout king.

The 6-foot-8 fireballer has struck out 258 batters this year, but more important for the Astros he is 9-2 since the All-Star break, has not been relieved in nine consecutive games, has not allowed an earned run in 37 straight innings, and has walked just 85 hitters all season.

His latest masterpiece came Thursday at the expense of the San Diego Padres, who managed just three hits while striking out nine times and losing 2-0 to the Astros, who clung tenaciously to a 1-4 game lead over second-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

"Any time your strikeouts are three times as much as your walks, you're having a great year," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon. "I don't know how he could do any better." Virdon said Richard, who now stands at 16-12 on the year, probably will start five more times, giving him a shot at the magic 20-game season.

Things have not always been so rosy for the big right-hander this year as control problems cooled off a hot start and left him 7-10 at the midpoint of the season.

"The difference is the number of walks he's giving up now," Virdon said. "He's staying ahead of the batters, and he's almost unhittable when he's ahead in the count."

Richard said he wasn't sure just what his problem was, but agreed with Virdon's assessment that lack of control was a major factor.

"If I'd figured out what was wrong, I'd have stopped it after the first loss," he said. "I guess my stuff wasn't as good, and I was getting behind and giving up too many walks."

Whatever was wrong seems to be right now, however, as evidenced by Thursday's win over the Padres, who got just two runners to second during the game.

Meanwhile, Houston came up with the only run it needed in the second inning when Enos Cabell doubled off loser Bob Ojchinko, 4-10, moved to third on a fly out and scored on catcher Luis Pujols' high-bouncing grounder to second baseman Tim Flannery.

The Astros added their insurance run in the fourth inning the same way they won their previous night's game with the Padres — a two-out, bases-loaded walk to shortstop Craig Reynolds that scored Pujols.

The only offense mounted by San Diego consisted of a lead-off single by Paul Dade in the third inning, a two-out double to left by Gene Richards in the sixth and Jay Johnstone's two-out single in the ninth. A wide throw to first by Reynolds accounted for the only other Padre baserunner.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Betsy Rapp won her third gold medal in swimming and the men's 800-meter freestyle relay team won in games record time, but the Russians extended their overall lead in the 10th World University Games.

The Russians, defending champions in these 95-nation games, now have 16 gold medals and 37 overall. The United States is a distant second with a gold — total count of 9-27.

ROWING

BLUED, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavs Dusko Mrduljas and Zlatko Celent trimmed more than a second from the qualifying time of the East German uncoxed pair they want to unseat in the Lake Bled World Rowing Championships.

The Yugoslavs qualified for Saturday's semifinals with a repechage heat victory of 7:16.61.

Orioles Clobber Jays

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver doesn't lose all of his arguments.

The manager of the Baltimore Orioles, who has been tossed out of nine games this season and has played numerous games under protest, actually had a decision reversed Thursday night.

But after an eighth-inning double by Doug DeCinces was changed to a home run, there was a suspicion that bullpen histrionics may have led to the unneeded final run in the 5-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

The drive by the Baltimore third baseman, who hit a solo homer in the second, scored Lee May to make it 4-0, but DeCinces stopped at second when the carom was retrieved by left fielder Al Woods.

While members of the Baltimore bullpen, pointed to the edge of the bullpen dugout roof as the point of impact, Weaver hustled out to make his point of inquiry.

"I saw the left fielder go after the ball," said second base umpire Larry McCoy. "and I was unsure if the ball left the park. I had a poor angle on the play."

After conferring with third base umpire Vic Voltaggio, McCoy changed the decision and DeCinces completed circling the bases for his 13th homer of the season.

After the Orioles had beaten Toronto for the 15th consecutive time, however, and increased their lead in the American League East to 9½ games over idle Milwaukee, bullpen occupants seemed reluctant to talk about the incident.

In Thursday night's only other AL games, New York stopped Detroit 3-1 and California edged Chicago 10-9.

Eddie Murray drove in the other two Baltimore runs, on an infield grounder and a sacrifice fly, in support of the five-hit pitching of Dennis Martinez, 15-12. Martinez, who had not won since Aug. 1, struck out six while notching his 15th victory on his seventh try.

Yankees 3, Tigers 1

Willie Randolph's run-scoring bunt keyed a two-run 10th inning, leading New York over Detroit. Bucky Dent started the Yankee 10th with a two-out single off Milt Wilcox, 11-7, and took third on Bobby Murcer's double. Dent scored as Wilcox' throw to first was late on Randolph's bunt up the first base line.

Wilcox walked Oscar Gamble on a 3-2 count to load the bases and reliever Pat Underwood then uncorked a wild pitch on a 0-1 count to Reggie Jackson, allowing Murcer to score the final run.

Yankee reliever Rich Gosage, 4-2, was the winner.

Angels 10, White Sox 9
Dickie Thon's RBI double in the eighth inning rallied California over Chicago, extending the Angels' lead over second-place Kansas City in the American League West to three games.

Thon, who entered the game in the seventh because second baseman Bobby Grich was suffering from the flu, drove in the winning run off Ed Farmer, the sixth White Sox hurler.

Don Baylor had led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by Brian Downing before coming home on Thon's hit down the left field line.

Reds Win; Giant's Manager Is Fired

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

You've got to hand it to J.R. Richard, Houston Manager Bill Virdon does every fifth day.

One of the most successful pitchers in baseball since the All-Star break, the mountainous right-hander continues to mow them down with his formidable "heat."

Thursday night, he recorded his ninth victory in his last 10 starts with a 2-0, three-hit beauty over the San Diego Padres. Richard struck out nine batters to raise his major league lead to 258 for the season.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal nipped Chicago 1-0; Cincinnati routed San Francisco 12-3; Atlanta whipped Los Angeles 6-2; New York beat Philadelphia 5-3 in the opener of a double-header before dropping the second game 2-1 and St. Louis stopped Pittsburgh 8-6.

Expos 1, Cubs 0

Dave Palmer and Woodie Fryman combined to pitch a six-hitter and Gary Carter slugged a home run with one out in the ninth inning to lead Montreal over Chicago. It was the hot Expos' 10th straight victory. Carter's 20th homer broke up a pitching duel between Palmer, 8-2, and loser Lynn McGlothen, 11-11.

Reds 12, Giants 3

Johnny Bench, Dan Driessen, Dave Concepcion and George Foster homered in the first two innings to get Cincinnati off winging against San Francisco, spoiling Dave Bristol's first game as Giants manager. Tom Seaver, 14-6, allowed Rob Andrews' first two home runs of the season but won his 12th game in the last 13 decisions. Loser Bob Knepper, 9-11, lasted only one-third of an inning and left trailing 6-0.

Braves 6, Dodgers 2

Eddie Miller hit three singles, followed each with a stolen base and scored all three times and Bob Horner batted in three runs to lead Atlanta over Los Angeles. Staked to the three-run lead, Atlanta's Preston Hanna, 1-1, breezed to his first victory of the season, scattering seven hits over the seven innings he pitched. Don Sutton, 12-13, was the loser, giving up five hits in six innings.

Mets 5-1, Phillies 3-2

Doug Flynn's two-run homer in the seventh inning broke a 1-1 tie and triggered New York past Philadelphia in the first game of their double-header. Randy Lerch, 8-12, and two relief pitchers combined on a four-hitter and Garry Maddox drove in both runs as the Phillies won the second game.

Cardinals 8, Pirates 6

Ken Reitz drove in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly and Keith Hernandez had two hits and scored two runs, leading St. Louis over Pittsburgh. The Cards' triumph trimmed Pittsburgh's lead in the National League East to a single game over the Montreal Expos. It was only the third Pirate setback in 13 games.

West line of said Block 11; THENCE North with the West line of said Block 11, 100 feet to the place of beginning; alleging that Plaintiffs have title to the said land and improvements thereon under the five year and ten year Statute of Limitations, and alleging that Defendants, and their predecessors in title, have held peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said real estate under the five year and ten year Statute of Limitations and that the Defendants, and each of them, unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected Plaintiffs therefrom and unlawfully withheld from Plaintiffs the possession thereof to their damage, and Plaintiffs pray that all of the right, title and interest of the Defendants, and each of them, be divested out of them and invested in the Plaintiffs, and that the cloud cast upon Plaintiffs' title by the Defendants, and each of them, be removed; and for such further relief to which Plaintiffs may be entitled, as is more fully shown by Plaintiffs' petition on file in this suit. The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs. Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Hereford, Texas this 21st day of August A.D. 1979. One of the best ways to save gas is to keep your spouse from reading ads offering two cents off the price of something - in a store 20 miles away.
Diplomate: A concrete agreement is one in which both sides have hardened their positions and can't be budged.
Happiness is having your wife wash the awful jacket which wasn't drip-dry thus shrinking the problem of how to get out of wearing the thing.
"Fifty percent off" means they want to get rid of half; their overpriced meat, chop, says our favorite shopper.
The cynic who said that girls are like buses there'll be another along in a minute - didn't live on the seldom-if-ever line we're on.
Only you can make certain that the first person you see in the morning greets you with a smile.
How did they get rid of all the too-fat meat before packages with one opaque side were invented?

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Sodium and blood pressure

DEAR DR. LAMB - My doctor has told me to go on a low-sodium diet but hasn't given me a good source of information. I have high blood pressure and I know it has something to do with that. Could you explain?
I'm sure most doctors know the proper medications for their patients, but it would help if they would explain things so the patient understood a little better why he is required to do certain things and why he is taking medicines. Like what the medicine does to help when you take it and what would happen if you didn't. Sometimes it's difficult to just take medicines on blind faith.
What effect does sodium have on a person's blood pressure anyway?
DEAR READER - It would be wonderful if all doctors had the time to discuss the details of each illness with each patient. If they did, they wouldn't be able to see but a limited number of patients. That would significantly increase the cost per patient as well as result in a significant shortage of medical help. The public has to realize that the doctor cannot give individualized instructions to each patient. Even if you use medical assistants for this purpose and if they're qualified to do it, you still have the problem of the expense involved.
But to get to your specific question, the reason many doctors limit your salt intake if you have high blood pressure is to encourage your body to flush out excess water. When your body retains sodium salt, it also retains water. This excess water in your tissues causes your blood pressure to go up.
If you eliminate this water, either through a low-sodium diet or medicines, the blood pressure goes down. The same thing happens in a number of people if they simply are made to rest in bed. That's because bed rest also causes the body to wash out sodium and water along with it.
If a person can solve the problem with a low-sodium diet, that's usually better than taking pills. A lot of the pills used for this purpose also wash out potassium and that's not good.
That leads me to another point. Some research suggests that a moderately high potassium intake helps to protect against high blood pressure.

OUR FIRST CITIZENS CAME HERE FOR RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

On the occasion of Citizenship Day should cause us to remember that, even as we extend a warm welcome to our newest citizens by adoption, their predecessors who started this nation on its road to greatness did so for the sake of personal freedom, including the right to worship God in any manner they chose. It was they who founded the doctrine of what we still refer to as the separation of Church and State. Honor this great event by going to the Church of your choice, and taking advantage of this hard-fought freedom that is yours today because of them. And give your thanks to God for this sacred right.

"Now the Lord is that Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."
— II Corinthians 3:17

Every man, conducting himself as a good citizen, and being accountable to God alone for his religious opinions, ought to be protected in worshipping the Deity according to the dictates of his own conscience.
— George Washington
