

MSI Studies Local Ambulance Situation

An Oregon ambulance company which recently contracted with the City of Amarillo to provide service may assist Deaf Smith County in initiating a paramedic-type operation. The Brand learned Wednesday.

Officials from Medical Services Inc., the Eugene, Ore. company, met with Deaf Smith County commissioners and Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard to discuss MSI philosophies and the possibility of the firm assisting with a service to replace the one currently provided by Hereford's two funeral homes.

MSI president Bill Leonard told The Brand he could not definitely say whether his company would make a proposal to set up shop in Hereford, "but, I would say at this stage of the game, the answer is yes. If we were not interested (in coming to Deaf Smith County), we would not have come down there today (Wednesday)." Leonard, MSI Amarillo manager Steve Athey and company executive Tracy Skeen of Eugene attended the meeting at Deaf Smith General Hospital after County Judge Glen Nelson asked Bullard to contact MSI about the possibility of providing a service.

Bullard has stated on numerous occasions recently, including city and county commission meetings, that the hospital would run an ambulance service, but only if the city and county would provide funding. The proposal was warmly received by city commissioners but the county commission all but rejected it.

Hereford's two funeral companies—Gilliland-Watson and Smith & Co.—have stated they want out of the ambulance business, although John Gilliland, himself a paramedic, has said he would like to remain affiliated with a local service.

Leonard told the local officials Wednesday that MSI would initiate a study of Deaf Smith County to determine the feasibility of utilizing the hospital and local volunteers, along with MSI equipment and a full-time company paramedic, in an ambulance service.

"All we have decided is that MSI will come in and look at a system where they can assist us in the operation of an ambulance service that we can jointly work together, and through that joint cooperation, have a cost-effective program," Bullard said.

Leonard said that by using local volunteers, MSI's charge to the county would be reduced from a subsidy of a full-scale MSI operation.

"We feel we have the capability of tailoring a package that citizens in and around Hereford would be satisfied with," Leonard said. "As of today, we are starting a survey of the area there and (See AMBULANCE, Page 2)

Pope Ignores Demands To Allow Fem Priests

By GEORGE CORNELL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pope John Paul II again rejected liberals' demands to admit women to the Roman Catholic priesthood and reminded an audience of thousands today that "priesthood is forever."

The pope told priests, nuns and laymen gathered at Philadelphia's Civic Center for a Mass that the Bible specifically excludes women from the priesthood. This decision, he said, "is not a statement about human rights, nor an exclusion of women from holiness and mission in the Church. Rather, this decision expresses the conviction of the church about this particular dimension of the gift of priesthood by which God was chosen to shepherd his flock."

He stressed the importance of priestly celibacy — a theme he also sounded in an address to seminarians Wednesday night.

"You are a priest for eternity," he said today, speaking in Latin to the Civic Center crowd of 24,000 which included at least one priest from every diocese in the United States. Then he added: "We do not return the gift once given. It cannot be that God who gave the impulse to say 'Yes,' now wishes to hear 'No.'"

"Nor should it surprise the world that the call of God through the Church continues to offer us a celibate ministry ..."

The issues of women in the priesthood and priestly celibacy are controversial ones in the United States. Half a dozen women — one of them carrying a sign reading, "God is an Equal Opportunity Employer" — demonstrated outside the cardinal's residence where John Paul spent Wednesday night.

About 10,000 priests in this country were given dispensations to return to lay status in the past decade. But the dispensations — which free a priest to marry without fear of excommunication — reportedly stopped when John Paul became pope almost a year ago.

The pope began the fourth day of his week-long U.S. tour with visits to churches in two ethnic neighborhoods, where he said stressed the importance of Jesus in everyday life and said that peoples of diverse heritages are united in Christ despite differences in culture and language.

"What really matters in life is that we are loved by Christ and that we love him in return ... Everything else is secondary," said the pope as he led morning prayers at the Church of St. Peter, site of the tomb of St. John Neumann, the first American man to be canonized.

Later, speaking in Spanish to 1,400 Hispanic parishoners, John Paul, who has drawn the biggest crowds of his American tour in Philadelphia, noted that Neumann was an immigrant "and he experienced many of the difficulties that you yourselves have encountered: the difficulties of language, of a different culture, of social adaptation."

He told the Hispanics that their heritage could be "a witness of unity within a pluralism of religion, culture and social living."

Wholesale Prices Show Large Spurt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices surged ahead 1.4 percent in September, the largest monthly increase in nearly five years, the government said today.

The rise in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index, the worst so far this year, was blamed on continuing increases in fuel costs and a new boost in food prices, particularly beef and veal.

The index is watched closely because increases in the wholesale level usually are reflected in a month or two at retail stores.

Consumers already are paying prices at retail nearly 12 percent higher than a year ago, and the new wholesale figures suggest that more inflation is likely.

The September wholesale increase was the third consecutive monthly rise of more than 1 percent. It also was the largest since a 2 percent jump in October 1974, the year in which the nation's previous inflation record was set.

The wholesale prices for energy goods climbed 6.8 percent last month, up one percentage point from the previous month.

Food items were up 1.8 percent last month, compared with 1.2 percent in August. From April through July, food prices had shown no change or had declined.

"Beef and veal prices rose sharply in September following four months of decline," the report said. "Prices for pork rose for the second consecutive month following five consecutive decreases."

Non-food items were up 1.3 percent, about the same as in August.

The index in September stood at 220.4, meaning that goods that cost $100 in 1967 cost $220.40 last month. The figure was 11.8 percent ahead of September 1978, the report said.

Several related figures gave these results:

- The prices of energy goods one step ahead of retail outlets were up 55.9 percent from September 1978.
- All prices in the third quarter advanced at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 15.7 percent. This means that if there is no change in the inflation trend, prices a year from now will be more than 15 percent higher at the wholesale level than they are today.

The September changes reflect a jump in recent months in prices paid to farmers and the continued impact of the 60 percent increase in crude oil prices imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries since the start of the year.

Labor Department economist Craig Howell said analysts could not be sure when the crude price increases would finish filtering through the U.S. economy.

"It takes a while for those things to work their way through the system," Howell said. "It's hard to say when the last round of OPEC prices (approved July 1) will work its way through."

Construction Increases In Hereford

Hereford had its best month of the year in September for construction starts with 20 building permits issued for a total value of $622,680.

For the first month of the year, housing construction led the way, as builders, applied for nine permits for single-family residences valued at $355,200.

The construction for 1979 was boosted to $1,859,178 with the strong construction month, but still is way below last year's approximately $4 million total for the same period.

Fenley-Sumrow Builders of Amarillo were issued four permits for new residences, valued at $224,200. Houses being constructed by the Amarillo firm are valued at $67,000 $48,000, $55,200 and $54,000.

John Craig, also an Amarillo builder, applied for permits on new residences valued at $28,500, $27,800, $27,500, $27,300 and $26,900.

The largest permit of the month was issued to Hereford Country Club for an addition costing $239,000.

Construction starts in September far exceeded any month during the year. In August, there were 15 permits issued for buildings valued at $172,700.

Other permits in September were issued to T.G. Hasten, carpenter, $400; Clinton Jackson, storage, $1,500; Nicholas Garcia, add on to residence, $3,000; W.H. Walser, addition to residence, $4,000; Fred Mulkey, construct and enclose carport and garage, $880; John Brownlow, alter and repair residence, $1,000; Ovel Joe Mendoza, move in mobile home, $4,000; Amila Rios, carpenter, $1,000; Mack Tubb, storage, $4,000; and Antonio Cuellar, add on to residence, $2,000.

Lifetime Resident, Beautician Dies

Molly Jo Schofield, a lifetime resident of Hereford, died at 12:30 a.m. today in Prairie Acres Nursing Home in Friona at the age of 58.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday in Rose Chapel of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home with the Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in West Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Schofield was born March 17, 1921 in Hereford. She was a beautician and resided at 814 W. Park Ave. She was a member of First Baptist Church.

She has three survivors, Mike Clark, Bill Roberson of Amarillo and Imogene Pogue of Spearman.

Soviets May Increase Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another short harvest is driving the Soviet Union into the U.S. grain market in a big way, raising the possibility that wheat and corn sales to the Russians may rise to a record level in the coming year.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the Soviet Union has been told it can buy up to 25 million metric tons of wheat and corn in the year that began Oct. 1. That is 60 percent more than the 15.7 million metric tons actually purchased in 1978-79 and would represent about 10 percent of the U.S. crop.

The Soviets had prior authorization to buy 17 million tons last year — compared to the 15.7 million actually purchased — and Undersecretary Dale E. Hathaway noted that the permission to purchase 25 million tons this year does not necessarily mean the Russians will actually buy that much.

The Agriculture Department currently estimates that the Soviet Union, beset by a poor harvest this year, will import around 32.5 million metric tons of grain next year from all foreign sources, including the United States.

Hathaway told reporters the nod to the Soviets simply means they can buy up to 25 million metric tons during the next 12 months without further consultation with

HUD Approves $109,800 Grant For San Jose Sewer System

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded a $109,800 grant for the construction of a sewer system at the San Jose Labor Camp in Deaf Smith County, a spokesman for Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Wednesday.

The Bentsen aide said that HUD notified the senator's office Wednesday concerning the grant, which county officials hope will be combined with $240,000 from the federal Environmental Development Agency.

EDA had required the HUD matching funds before it would take action on its proposed grant.

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development has advised Sen. Bentsen that a $109,800 community-development grant was being awarded to Deaf Smith County, and the purpose of it is for sewer improvements in the community of San Jose. HUD said it is an "eminent threat," the aide said.

"In the advisory sent over here, they did not describe it any further, but we understand the problem is with inadequate sewage facilities which create the threat of contaminated ground water and other problems associated with sewage," he added.

County Judge Glen Nelson said today that he has not been notified of the grant approval.

"I have not been informed. All I know about it is what I've read in the news releases," Nelson said.

The judge said the grant, combined with EDA funds if they also are approved, will be used to construct sewage lines and booster station. The lines would be connected to a main line from the City of Hereford's sewage-treatment facility.

"Evidently, we're going to get the EDA funds because they are working together on this thing. The HUD grant was matching funds; EDA couldn't go 100 percent," Nelson said.

The original grant application filed by the county, which acted on official behalf of the San Jose Fresh Water Supply District, was rejected by EDA because the county had not yet received approval from the city to use the sewage-treatment facility.

"They couldn't go that big a grant because it would have thrown two disposal systems into an area with rather small population," Nelson said.

After it had received permission from the city to use the facility, the county applied for an "eminent threat" grant with HUD and EDA.

San Jose has been without sewage lines since it was founded more than 30 years ago. Most of the 600 residents use cesspools, open pits and outhouses for sewage.

A HUD grant for construction of a water system was approved last year.

Gold Prices Lose Some Shine In International War of Nerves

NEW YORK (AP) — Arab money has forced the price of gold up, and American threats have knocked it part way down. Now anxious traders are waiting for the next round in the war of nerves.

The price of gold shot up from $281 to $444 a troy ounce in eight weeks before going on a roller-coaster ride this week. In a matter of hours Tuesday, bullion prices swung from $444 to $405, back to $438 and down again to $414.

Turbulence continued Wednesday. Gold prices dropped as low as $390 before recovering to $393.50 for a troy ounce, which is about 10 percent larger than the airdrop since ouce commonly used in American measurements. Prices in Europe moved to $394.50 in early trading today.

The price started swinging Tuesday when U.S. officials hinted they might increase government gold sales to drive down gold prices and support the sagging dollar.

There is little doubt among traders that gold's stunning rise has been caused by Middle East oil money, which has been pouring into bullion exchanges.

Speculators, sniffing the chance to ride the wave to profits, jumped aboard, adding to the upward momentum.

"I'm amazed at the number of people who wouldn't buy gold at $150 who call up now and want to be told to buy it at $400," said Morton Rom, a gold analyst at Mocatia Metals, one of the world's major bullion trading houses.

But the nerves of many of the recent buyers cracked Tuesday after Treasury Undersecretary Anthony Solomon warned that the United States could increase its gold sales, now at 750,000 ounces a month, to undermine the price of bullion by increasing the supply.

"You could bring about a very substantial price correction, depending on how big (government) sales were," Solomon said. That statement was quickly distributed around the world by news organizations and within minutes the price of gold plummeted $39 to as low as $405 in London.

The price came back, only to plunge again when it was reported the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Paul A. Volcker, unexpectedly left a conference (See GOLD, Page 2)

U.S. officials.

Under a grain-purchase agreement worked out in 1975, Russia is committed to buy a minimum quantity of U.S. wheat and corn each year. If substantially larger amounts are desired, the agreement requires U.S. approval.

Announcement of the agreement for the coming year was made after discussions earlier Wednesday with Soviet officials.

Hathaway said the United States has a huge supply of grain, including a record corn crop that farmers now are harvesting.

Amtrak Asks Judge To Allow Lines Cut

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Amtrak hopes to convince a federal judge today that he should lift his restraining order and allow the passenger railway to pull three of its lines out of service.

Amtrak filed a motion Monday to dismiss Judge Frank Thesis' order, and the judge set a hearing for 10 a.m. today.

Thesis' order of Friday gave new life to the Lone Star, from Chicago to Houston; the North Coast Hiawatha, from Chicago to Seattle; and the Floridian, from Chicago to Miami. The trains were among five scheduled for elimination last Monday.

Although the order has kept the lines in service since Monday, Amtrak has taken its employees out of several dozen depots, made seats on the trains unreserved and dropped dining cars and sleepers from the trains. Amtrak has claimed President Carter's signature on an Amtrak reorganization bill last weekend mandates elimination of the three trains. And the railways has said Thesis' order now conflicts with law.

Space Center Denies

Moon Rocks Missing

Prices for intermediate goods rose 1.5 percent last month, compared with 1.2 percent and 1.9 percent, respectively, in preceding months. At the crude level, prices were up 2.1 percent in September, compared with 0.1 percent in August.

Both figures suggest further future increases at the finished goods level in the index.

Georgia State University's Economic Forecasting Project, which each month issues predictions of wholesale price changes in advance of the official announcement, said it expected the government's September data to show a 1.3 percent increase.

That would match the January rate, the largest for a single month this year.

The Houston Post and the Houston Chronicle reported today the draft report was released Wednesday to newsmen in Washington by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee with jurisdiction over NASA funding.

The report was said to contend the amount of lunar materials brought from the moon and those now accountable for by the moon rock curator was uncertain.

"This uncertainty resulted from the lack of promptly establishing and then maintaining adequate control and accountability for all lunar materials after arrival on Earth, although significant changes were made in the system in 1972," the report stated.

Arkansas Men

Sentenced to Die

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Circuit Judge Charles Eddy on Wednesday sentenced an emotionless Paul Ruiz and Earl Van Denton to die in the electric chair June 3, 1980.

Eddy issued the sentence recommended by a Conway County Circuit Court jury. The jury deliberated on punishment for one hour and 20 minutes Wednesday.

The same jury found Ruiz and Denton guilty Tuesday of capital murder in the 1977 slayings of Marvin Richie of Magazine and Opal James of Havana. That verdict took the jury 70 minutes.

Richie was the Magazine marshal. James was a Corps of Engineers park ranger.

When asked by Eddy if they had anything to say, Ruiz declined. Denton said, "The attorneys said it all."

Under Arkansas law, a person receiving the death penalty is granted an automatic appeal to the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Defense attorneys Ike Laws of Russellville and Joe Cambiano of Morrilton were visibly upset by the jury's recommendation.

Anti-DOE Measure

Rejected by Governors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The poor and elderly and the Department of Energy came out on top in the final hour of the Southern Governor's Conference.

The governors blocked a move to recommend against earmarking any money raised by a so-called windfall profits tax to help people on low and fixed income pay soaring utility bills.

And a resolution that Congress abolish the Department of Energy was watered down when Energy Secretary Charles Duncan made a flying trip to confer with the governors in private.

The DOE had drawn sharp criticism alleging inefficiency and lack of comprehension.

Actually, none of the 20 resolutions approved by 10 governors in Wednesday's windup of the three-day meeting had any force, other than political weight. That was enough for Duncan to act to head off one proposed by Louisiana's Gov. Edwin Edwards. He wanted three little words: "Abolish the DOE."

As finally passed, with no opposition, it was three paragraphs saying that if the DOE doesn't take actions that stimulate production of energy it should be abolished.

Pope Reaches Throngs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The rain ended, the sun poked through and "the pope with electricity," "the pope with magic" came to Philadelphia. More than one million people were touched by that magic.

Never mind that he was late and he hurried a bit. John Paul II was a bigger hit here than hockey goalie Bernie Parent and the Philadelphia Flyers were when they paraded through town after winning back-to-back Stanley Cup championships. He drew more people than the Liberty Bell did during the Bicentennial.

Broad Street, the papal route to the heart of the city, was a cocoon of fluttering flags — the gold and white of the Vatican, the blue and yellow of the city, the red, white and blue.

Tens of thousands lined the sidewalks, standing on tiptoes seven deep and craning their necks to catch a glimpse. Kids perched in trees and climbed bare beams in buildings under construction to have a look.

It was a welcome fit for a pope.

"He has some kind of magic," said Jim Burke, 59, a retired federal employee from Haddon Heights, N.J.

"He is our friend. He is our shepherd on Earth," said Burke's wife, Vera. To touch him "would have been the greatest moment of my life. I would have compared it to looking into my husband's eyes after the priest pronounced us man and wife."

She and the others were held back by 5,178 wooden police sawhorses as the pontiff passed, a warm smile creasing his craggy face.

Clara Brown, a 73-year-old

Baptist, was there.

"He's a God-sent man," she said. "He's everybody's man. When God hung upon the cross, nothing came down but red blood. It wasn't white, black, Italian or Jew. It was one color."

Curbs became pews and people wept in unabashed joy at having found peace in the Holy Father.

"It seems like the pope came here just for people like me," said an old woman named Julia. She wouldn't give her last name. "I didn't go to church for three years after my husband died. It's like I got mad at God," she said, her eyes welling with tears.

"It's like he's saying, 'Come back to church.' He's come in me to pull it out of me," she said, pointing to her heart. "It feels like I should go back. I'm alone and I miss it terribly."

Waitress Sandra Costa, 61, who attended High Mass on Logan Circle, said, "This pope has electricity."

"I usually don't get excited about anything, but this one has me turned on. I've been hyper all day," she said.

Because the pontiff was running late, the motorcade went by at a good clip, the multitudes swaying to see the back of his bare head.

"All I saw was a white blur," said Connie Carlson, 47, who left looking dejected. "It wasn't worth it. I couldn't even tell you what he looked like."

But for Margaret Masanova, 59, the quick look was "a thrill of a lifetime... When I saw his face it gave me the goose bumps. It was like a ray of light."

FTC Accuses Sales Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

Federal Trade Commission judge Wednesday accused a Tucson, Ariz.-based land sales firm of "vicious consumer fraud" and ordered it to move to assist its customers.

Administrative Law Judge Ernest G. Barnes also recommended that federal courts be asked to order the Horizon Corp., to make refunds to past consumers.

The subdivisions involved in the case, the FTC said, are Paradise Hills and Rio Communities in New Mexico, Horizon City and Waterwood in Texas and Arizona Sunsites and Whispering Ranch in Arizona.

A spokesman for Horizon said the decision will be appealed to the full Federal Trade Commission and criticized the commission for making the decision public before sending copies to Horizon.

Barnes ruled that Horizon had made misrepresentations in national advertising, promotional literature, oral sales presentations and films.

"The ultimate lack of value is a lot that nobody wants. The fact that there is no resale market for Horizon's lots, even after some of the property has been held for up to 15 years, is a strong indictment of Horizon's sales programs," Barnes wrote.

Horizon spokesman Sam Ostrow in New York said Horizon's "legal counsel was denied a copy of the FTC press release and summary report related to the ruling of an administrative law judge this morning until long after it was released to the press."

He said a further statement will be issued after the order is studied. Horizon has 30 days to appeal to the full commission and Ostrow said there will be an appeal, "no question about that."

Barnes ruling said that Horizon took millions of dollars from unsuspecting consumers for "virtually worthless desert land."

Between 1969 and 1974 the firm had sales of land totaling more than $369 million, according to Barnes.

Horizon represented the land to be a good investment, Barnes ruled, while "Horizon's lots are not only bad investments, they are worthless investments."

Barnes ordered the company to begin providing prospective customers with a notice that the land being sold should not be considered an investment, giving details of available utilities and providing a 10-day cooling off period for customers to change their minds.

Persons, buying land they haven't seen would be given a year to visit the land and then have five days after that visit to change their mind.

And, Barnes ordered Horizon to contact all previous customers and advise them they can stop making payments and take a tax loss, or sue Horizon or trade the lot for another.

USDA Releases Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

Agriculture Department has released more than half a billion bushels of old-crop corn that farmers have stored under the government's grain reserve program.

Officials announced the action Wednesday, just as this fall's harvest of new grain is getting underway in the major Corn Belt areas.

The 1979 corn crop is estimated at a record of 7.27 billion bushels, but demand for the grain in the coming year is expected to be even larger than the huge crop.

Release of the stored grain theoretically adds to the available supply and could dampen market prices from their relatively high levels at the present time.

The stored corn was released because prices have risen above a trigger point used in the storage program.

Weldon Denny of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said the most recent average price of corn at the farm was $2.52 a bushel, two cents above the release price of $2.50 a bushel.

Thus, farmers have the option of repaying government price support loans received when they stored the corn in the program and then selling or using it as they choose. However, they are not required to redeem the grain at this time.

Farmers have about 540.3 million bushels of corn still in the reserve, a program intended to keep the grain off the market for as long as three years — or until market prices go up enough to trigger its release.

Initially, producers stored 732 million bushels of corn under the program. Prices rose to the trigger level June 19 but then sagged, resulting in USDA canceling the release status on July 31.

During the previous release, however, farmers redeemed 191.7 million bushels of corn before it was locked up again.

Denny said the department will review the corn situation again on Nov. 30 to see if it should continue in release status.

With the release of corn, all grain in the reserve program now is available for use or sale by farmers.

Initially, about 1.3 billion bushels of grain — mostly corn and wheat — were in the reserve. Of the 413 million bushels of wheat put into storage, farmers as of Sept. 28 had redeemed 159.7 million bushels.

"Prices of wheat are still high enough so it will continue to be released at least through Oct. 31. The release price of wheat is $3.29 a bushel.

Currently, the average farm price of wheat is $3.89 a bushel, officials said.

Other commodities in the reserve include:

economic activity in the this year's third quarter was stronger than initially predicted.

The August improvement was attributed to strength in durable goods, electrical and non-electrical machinery and aircraft industries; the report showed.

But steel orders fell $600 million, or 11.9 percent, with the $4.5 billion in August steel orders "the lowest recorded since October 1977."

Shipments in August totaled $142.4 billion, up 1 percent from July's $141.1 billion.

Inventories rose $2.4 billion in August to $219.4 billion. The 1.1 percent increase was down slightly from the 1.2 percent rise in July, the report showed.

The inventories-to-shippments ratio stood at 1.54 in August for the third consecutive month.

"The market is not being entirely sane," he said Wednesday. "Insanity exhibits itself in strange ways, including these large swings in the market."

What the Arabs know, and will do, is a major topic of conversation among gold traders.

"The Arabs don't just have inside information, they are the inside," said James Sinclair, a New York gold analyst. "You have to wonder what they know."

Sinclair suspects they know that a new oil crisis is coming.

Nichols, on the other hand, thinks the Arabs might just sell the gold they bought at bargain prices. "The market is not going to be a stable market, but is going to be determined by a small number of very powerful participants," he said. "Maybe they'll decide enough is enough and take their profits while the little guy rushes in."

Eyes now are focused on Washington, where gold sales could be part of a dollar-support program. Saudi Arabia's finance minister demanded such a program Wednesday and hinted about higher oil prices if the dollar continued to lose value.

But a U.S. program to support the dollar probably would include still higher interest rates, which could drive the United States deeper into recession...

"He has some kind of magic," said Jim Burke, a retired federal employee, speaking for the multitudes who came from the coal mines of Pennsylvania, the farms of Ohio and the towns of southern New Jersey to welcome the pontiff.

The carnival-like atmosphere prevailed from the moment the pope's plane, Shepherd I, arrived.

"A spiritual Pennsylvania," Gov. Dick Thornburgh called him. "Our source of joy," said Mayor Frank Rizzo. "Unrestrained joy," Philadelphia's Cardinal John Krol echoed to a crowd in the copper-domed Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul.

Police Called On Vandalisms

Hereford police received reports Wednesday of a stolen motorcycle helmet, two egg incidents and a brawl at the Blue Water Garden Apts.

Officers were dispatched to the apartments where a fight involving eight people in three different families had started. One person, an adult female, was charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

Mrs. Jeane Coker, 1105 Union, said her motorcycle helmet, valued at $35, was taken sometime Wednesday.

Mrs. Lawona Guynes, 143 Ironwood, reported that someone egged her house, and Melba Hickman, 311 Austin Rd., said that her car was egged. Two juveniles were arrested in connection with the latter incident.

Officers investigated no accidents Wednesday and issued 12 citations for moving traffic violations.

Czar Nicholas II of Russia and his family were shot to death in 1918 in the cellar of the house where they were imprisoned. The Communist Soviet of Ekaterinburg had decided to execute the royal Romanov family when it learned that the Czechoslovak Legion was advancing in its direction.

Pope Accepts Iowa Invite

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Shown the sights of three of America's big Eastern cities, Pope John Paul II today samples rural life in the United States, drawn to Iowa by a personal letter from a farmer.

Four hours were set aside for Iowa in the popular pontiff's busy week-long schedule. Des Moines was the smallest city on his itinerary and the only one without a stop at the bishop's cathedral.

On tap, instead, were a visit to a tiny country church and Mass at an outdoor farming museum at an altar built of timbers from a 100-year-old barn.

The inclusion of Des Moines on the itinerary puzzled some observers and drew criticism from others. Cities with large Catholic populations complained that Des Moines should not have been included because the Iowa population is only 18 percent Catholic.

The impetus to include Des Moines came in mid-summer when Joe Hays, a 39-year-old farmer from Truro, wrote to the pope suggesting he visit Iowa to see how the food for the world is grown. An added drawing card was the presence in Des Moines of the headquarters of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference.

As well as bringing the pope to Iowa, Hays' handwritten letter has brought the community closer, says the head of the volunteers who are preparing for the pope's visit.

"This has been like no other thing that has ever happened and it has been a totally different environment," said Sister Ghislaine Dumont, who has managed Bishop Maurice Dingman's residence for 11 years. The volunteer effort has been centered in the bishop's home.

"The relationships we've made here are going to last. As rich as we are to have the pope with us, the visit is making us develop our own new lifestyle," she said, citing such volunteer efforts as offering accommodation to out-of-town visitors, cooking meals and doing repair work at the bishop's residence.

Many of the hundreds of volunteers are already planning to meet every Oct. 4 to relive the spirit they have experienced the past month, she said.

"Lots of people have said, 'Let's do it over at Joe Hays' farm,'" volunteer Mary Bleimehl said of the reunion plans.

The rural theme in Hays' letter has been echoed in almost all the preparations for the papal visit.

John Paul's first stop was St. Patrick's Catholic Church, a little country chapel in Irish Settlement south of Des Moines, to say a prayer in the frame church and afterward visit with the 205 parishioners, most of them descendants of the Irish immigrants who settled here after fleeing the potato famine.

"It's so unlike anything else he'll see in America," said the Rev. John Richter, St. Patrick's pastor. "No crowd, no city, no big church. He'll find a great sense of community and homeness."

The next stop, by helicopter, was Living History Farms, a 600-acre outdoor farming museum, for Mass before an anticipated crowd of 250,000.

Davis Accuser Said in Scheme

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defense attorney Steve Sumner has told jurors testimony from two defense witnesses shows Cullen Davis' chief accuser was involved in a personal scheme during the time he was supposed to be working with the FBI toward Davis' arrest.

The two witnesses testified in the murder-solicitation trial that star state witness David McCrory placed an "urgent," unmonitored telephone call to the millionaire defendant two days before Davis' arrest.

The witnesses, current or former employees at the Davis-owned Frigette Corp., testified the call reached Davis at 9:55 a.m. on Aug. 18, 1978, two days before he was arrested.

McCrory previously denied making the call and, equally important according to Sumner, FBI agents say they are unaware of such a call.

"That's an important point," Sumner told the jury Wednesday afternoon. "McCrory was acting behind the backs of the FBI ... at a time when he was under their direction and control.

"He was conducting his own plan and scheme ... and he was not honest with the FBI about his activities."

The time of the reported phone call was just minutes before McCrory was to meet with FBI agent Ron Jannings to map out strategy in the Davis investigation.

McCrory has testified Davis tried to get him to arrange the contract killings of several people, including Davis' divorce judge Joe Eidson, during the summer of 1978. McCrory says he went to the FBI instead, helping them with their investigation which culminated in Davis' arrest on Aug. 20, 1978.

Davis claims the whole scenario was a frame-up concocted by McCrory. Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson and Davis' former wife Priscilla. All three have denied that accusation.

Donald F. Graff

Bokassa I is out of the emperor business. Good riddance to imperial rubbish. As contemporary tyrants go even in his turbulent part of the world, he was strictly bottom of the line. Bokassa, it may be remembered, is the one-time French colonial army noncom whose no-expense-parade coronation cost the rough equivalent of the gross national product of his impoverished country, the Central African Republic, which he retitled Empire. He was more recently in the news in connection with the murders of scores — by some reports hundreds — of schoolboys, a disciplinary action he believed to have personally undertaken when the students demonstrated against compulsory school uniforms. In Bokassa's empire, school uniforms were serious business. Their manufacture was the monopoly of a firm controlled by one of the nine imperial wives. The surprising thing about Bokassa's unseating from his diamond-studded gold throne is not that it occurred so soon after his self-coronation but that it was accomplished virtually without bloodshed. In that part of the world, even a change of power by nominally democratic election tends to have a sanguine aspect. The reason was the arrival of French troops who put a stop to a brief outburst of looting of Bokassa family enterprises and now police a tranquil capital, Bangui. Fortunately but not by pure chance, they were able to reach the scene quickly from bases in nearby Gabon and Chad. Which points up one of the more interesting aspects of the coup — the effectiveness of the continuing French presence in Africa. When Charles de Gaulle dismantled the French African empire in the early '60s, it was not with the intention that the French would actually leave Africa. The political basis of the relationship with the former possessions changed, but the French were to continue to play key roles in their various governments as well as militarily and economically. Under de Gaulle and his successors, they have done so in most of the former French territories and in some that weren't. French military bases are scattered across central and western Africa. French economic interests dominate the region (and the Central African Republic, with large uranium interests, is of special interest to France as a nuclear power). There is an annual summit gathering of French-speaking African states, including former Belgian colonies. And France has been in the forefront of the international response to recent upheavals in Zaïre, the former Belgian Congo. A current Paris project would group moderate African regimes such as Cameroon, Gabon, Ivory Coast, Mali, Niger, Senegal and Upper Volta — all former colonies — in a mutual defense agreement under French direction. A formal alliance has yet to be concluded, but a close association already exists. Some of these governments were apparently co-conspirators with France in arranging Bokassa's overthrow, a move they are reported to have been considering for some time but delayed until a suitably non-radical replacement could be found. The one the French and friends came up with is David Dacko, Bokassa's cousin who also happens to be his predecessor, the country's first president whom Bokassa deposed in seizing power. Dacko has more than previous experience going for him — he is enthusiastically pro-French. Somewhat to their embarrassment, he is being publicly profuse in his thanks to his French friends. Without them, he says, there would have been no prospect of deposing Bokassa. So now things are back to pre-Bokassa normal and Central Africa is again a nominal republic. And as for the French technique in disposing of empires, one of their own sayings describes the situation perfectly: Plus ça change, plus c'est la même chose. The more things change, the more they are the same.

Churchill Says Mimic Was Good

LONDON (AP) — The determined, defiant words were Winston Churchill's. But the deep and resolute voice that heartened Hitler's foes with the promise that Britons would fight for the last inch of British ground and would never surrender was a BBC actor's, the staidin revealed after 39 years.

"Very nice," said Churchill when he heard Norman Shelley's impersonation of him. "He's even got my teeth right."

The date was June 4, 1940, and Churchill was reporting to the House of Commons on the defeat of the British army in France and its evacuation from Dunkirk. But Britain would never give in, he declared.

"We shall not flag or fail," he said. "We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields, and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills. We shall never surrender."

Churchill had been prime minister for only 26 days. He was too busy with the war to repeat the speech for the broadcasts he felt were needed to defy Hitler, to buck up Britain's forces and her territories overseas and to reassure the Americans that the British would not collapse like the French.

He ordered the British Council to find a double for his voice. The council went to the British Broadcasting Corp., and the BBC produced Shelley, a staff actor who played A.A. Milne's bear, Winnie the Pooh, on a children's program.

Shelley, now 76, told the Daily Mail he was a fan of the other Winnie and had imitated his unmistakable voice around the BBC.

"Someone must have remembered this," he said, "because they summoned me to the old Transcription Service studios near Regent's Park. I gave them a copy of his speech, sat me down and told me to get on with it."

"It was just another job. As I recall, I did it in a couple of takes. I was sworn to secrecy about the whole thing, but I can't see that it matters now."

Daily Express columnist Jean Rook disagreed.

"It's like being told the Parthenon is reinforced concrete and the Mona Lisa is an enlarged holiday snap," she wrote. "It smashes the illusions and breaks the hearts of millions... We won the war on Winnie's words. At them like rats. Used them like an air-raid shelter. Fired them, like ack-ack, at the enemy. Rang them like church bells when it was over."

A BBC spokesman said Shelley's recording was beamed overseas but was not broadcast to Britain. Churchill himself later recorded all his major wartime speeches on phonograph records. He died in 1965 at the age of 90.

Paul Harvey News

The Boat People

News pictures of the "boat people" of Vietnam bring into our living rooms an unspoken plea to rescue these unfortunate people.

In our churches pulpits flame with righteous appeals for these destitute brothers and sisters. Jane Fonda hosts celebrity parties to mobilize the public conscience and to raise money for resettling the boat people.

This is our right-now fad philanthropy which Americans may somehow imagine will cleanse us from the unrighteousness of our earlier blunders that compounded the devastation of the homeland of the boat people.

President Carter urges us to throw open wider our gates and our hearts.

Do we know what we are doing?

Our President, our State Department and most media have construed the boat people to be victims of "political persecution."

Congressmen George Miller of California and Daniel Akaka of Hawaii, who recently returned from Vietnam, found no substantiation for this premise.

The boat people are fleeing horrendous economic devastation worsened by U.S. trade embargoes against that nation.

Thus we have the conspicuous hypocrisy of the United States contributing to an economic climate which results in massive poverty, then parking our Seventh Fleet offshore to rescue the victims of that poverty.

There is another problem that results from throwing our country open to hundreds of thousands of immigrants whose history and traditions are not compatible with our Judeo-Christian concept of responsibilities.

For examples: Vietnamese fishermen in our Gulf waters construe "freedom" to mean that they may place their crab traps wherever they want—ignoring local customs and courtesies relating to spacing.

This has resulted in at least one confrontation in which a Seadrift, Texas, fisherman was allegedly killed by a Vietnamese refugee.

Other refugee fishermen in the area understandably find themselves increasingly unwelcome.

In West Chicago a family from Laos took a 13-year-young bride for one of their sons in a manner they insist is customary back home. In this country it is kidnapping.

Further, despite advance pledges to keep the Asian refugees off welfare rolls, 90 percent are on welfare within a year of their arrival.

The latest figures indicate that about a third of the total remain on welfare.

Those who take jobs tend to be industrious but, even as the rest of us, promptly grow weary of the low-pay mundane jobs and restively seek something better. The turnover rate is high.

They are not solving our problem of joblessness among dishwashers and janitors; they are compounding that problem.

I know! Paul Harvey, you sound heartless!

Texas Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee has approved three Texans for federal judgeships, including the promotion of state Supreme Court Justice Sam Johnson to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hugh Gibson of Galveston and Jerry Buchmeyer of Dallas also received the Senate Judiciary Committee's approval Tuesday for their nominations as federal judges.

The nominations next must be confirmed by the full Senate.

Gibson, a state district court judge, would fill the vacancy in the Southern District of Texas created by Finis Cowan's resignation.

Buchmeyer is nominated for the Northern District position held by U.S. District Judge William M. Taylor, who took senior status in February.

Buchmeyer is a member of a Dallas law firm.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas regents have designated this year's freshman class at UT-Austin as the Centennial Class of 1983.

The freshman class, which will graduate during UT's 100th anniversary observance in 1983, also is the largest freshman class in the school's history.

David Hershey, director of admissions and records, said there are 5,787 freshmen, a 6.4 percent increase from last fall.

The freshman class includes 72 National Merit Scholars and more than 100 high school valedictorians.

Total enrollment this fall also set a record. The preliminary count was 44,079, an increase of 984 from last year.

ROMA, Texas (AP) — Construction workers are near completion of a new international bridge scheduled to open Oct. 27.

The $1.2 million structure will link this Starr County town with the community of Miguel Aleman in Mexico.

The U.S. Economic Development Administration provided a grant for the bridge but other facilities such as tollbooths, customs facilities and immigration service offices are being financed with county-issued revenue bonds.

Farther south along the Rio Grande, officials at Donna, Texas, have received a federal permit to build the U.S. side of a bridge leading to Rio Bravo, Mexico. Construction and completion of the bridge is several years away.

DALLAS (AP) — The response to Dallas' two downtown buses that are decorated to look like bunnies has been good, but there's no rush to convert the rest of the fleet.

The bunny buses sport rabbit ears and painted-on whiskers, mouth and nose. They symbolize the inexpensive "hop-a-bus" service that takes passengers around the downtown area.

Marketing director Jerry Johnson said conversion of the other buses in the downtown-only fleet is a "low priority" item, but eventually will be accomplished.

"When you've got a winner, there's no sense changing," Johnson said.

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Fire department officials say that an arson spree Tuesday left 13 cars damaged, two houses destroyed and $500,000 in damage, all during a 35-minute span.

No injuries were reported.

Mayor Charles Clack announced a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

Investigators said the arson path covered five miles. They said those responsible stuffed trash or paper into the cars, then lit it. In two instances, the cars were parked in garages, and flames engulfed the attached houses.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — San Antonio must provide police protection and other services to an eight-acre tract obtained by an educational service center from the federal government, Attorney General Mark White held Wednesday.

The Region 20 service center was given the tract in 1975, with the federal government reserving a right of access during times of emergency.

White said he believed "federal jurisdiction over the land has been relinquished, and the city of San Antonio has the same power, obligation and duty to furnish police protection and other city services to the area in question that it has to furnish such protection and services to other areas of the city."

Tornado Rips Town, Injures 100 Persons

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. (AP) — A freak tornado described as "a big monster" killed one person, left more than 100 hospitalized and caused damage estimated at well over $100 million as it churned through north-central Connecticut.

The Wednesday afternoon twister, which accompanied a storm with vicious 86 mph winds, destroyed a collection of rare airplanes and blew away homes and businesses through parts of Windsor and Windsor Locks.

"They wandered around saying, 'Gee, my house just blew away,'" the Rev. James Silver said of the survivors of the brutal storm. Silver's Congregational Church in Poquonock lost its roof and steeple to the winds, rare in New England.

Gov. Ella Grasso, who lives in Windsor Locks, declared an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew in the stricken area to prevent looting and vandalism. She dispatched 200 National Guardsmen to enforce the curfew and patrol the area, a swath about three miles long and up to a mile wide. Mrs. Grasso, whose home was not damaged, said an application for federal disaster aid was being drawn up.

Bradley International, the state's major airport, was closed today, its regular and backup electrical power knocked out and the airfield strewn with the splintered wreckage of helicopters and airplanes.

"It looks like it's been bombed," said state Transportation Commissioner Arthur Powers. Rescue efforts after the storm were hindered because most of the Connecticut National Guard's helicopter fleet was destroyed. The few available helicopters were flown in from other parts of the state to airlift the most seriously injured to hospitals while roads remained blocked by debris.

The funnel cloud — unexpected by weather forecasters — destroyed the airport's Bradley Air Museum and its collection of rare and antique military aircraft.

There was no immediate count of the number left homeless by the twister. Authorities planned to search again today to determine if any victims were trapped beneath the rubble of the scores of homes and businesses crumpled by the surge of wind.

Killed when flying lumber bashed into his pickup truck was William Kowalsky, 24, of Manchester, authorities reported. Officials reported 118 persons hospitalized. Ten, including a 10-month-old baby, were in critical condition.

About 180 other persons were given treatment at makeshift first-aid stations or released after hospital treatment, according to Dr. Douglas Lloyd, the state public health commissioner.

The National Weather Service at the airport had issued no tornado watch advisory when a wave of thunderstorms moved into the state. When the twister struck just before 3 p.m., forecasters reported 86 mph winds and issued a severe thunderstorm warning.

Because the twister struck so close to the NWS office, radar was unable to detect it, said Roland Laro, meteorologist in charge.

Firemen Stop Tank Pressure

HOUSTON (AP) — Firefighters working under a curfew of a day managed to relieve the pressure on a chemical tank truck that threatened to explode and spread a cloud of toxic fumes over an area of Southeast Houston.

Leaking fumes hospitalized 3 firefighters, injured seven others and forced the precautionary evacuation of about 1,000 persons Wednesday afternoon before two valves could be turned to reduce the mounting pressure inside the AMF Tuboscope Inc. tank truck.

Company officials said pressure inside the tank reached 97 pounds per square inch — twice its rated capacity and almost 10 times normal.

District Fire Chief D.E. Crowder said if the tank truck had exploded it would have caused a disaster similar to one earlier this year in Houston when a seven-alarm, multi-million dollar fire destroyed the Woodway apartment complex.

The incident prompted the evacuation of three area schools and traffic was blocked on Loop 610 South and its major arteries to the south for about five hours.

Crowder said the pressure began building when a mixture of phenol, water, formaldehyde and methanol being transferred from one tank truck to another came in contact with an alkali residue in the second truck.

The gas produced by the sudden chemical reaction caused the temperature and pressure inside the insulated tank to leap dramatically, Crowder said.

Both had reached critical levels when firefighters arrived and began trying to cool the tank with a spray of water, Crowder said.

He said Tuboscope officials told him of two valves on the truck, and under a curtain of water, firefighters slipped up to the truck and opened the valves.

The water absorbed much of vapor escaping from the truck, but wouldn't "save your life if it exploded," Crowder said.

By 2:20 p.m. — about four hours after the incident began — the danger was over, the fire chief said.

If the chemical mixture had exploded, Crowder said, it would have expanded to 3,000 times its normal volume. Phenol is deadly in as small a concentration as 10,000 parts per million, he added.

"But that's what we get paid for," he said. "If it works, we're heroes. If it doesn't, we're bums."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 4, the 277th day of 1979. There are 88 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1957, the Space Age began as the Soviet Union put the first man-made satellite into orbit around the Earth.

On this date:

In 1777, the British defeated American forces in the Revolutionary War battle of Germantown in Pennsylvania.

In 1824, the Republic of Mexico was proclaimed.

In 1910, Portugal's monarchy ended as King Manuel fled to escape revolutionaries.

In 1965, Pope Paul VI addressed the United Nations General Assembly, appealing for world peace.

In 1968, the leaders of Czechoslovakia acceded to Soviet demands and agreed to the indefinite stationing of foreign troops in their country.

In 1976, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz resigned and apologized for remarks about blacks that were interpreted as racist.

Ten years ago: China announced two nuclear tests, including a hydrogen bomb explosion, in the atmosphere.

Five years ago: The White House put a hold order on a large sale of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union and said it acted to discourage speculation and curb inflation.

One year ago: The Carter Administration, which had debated for two weeks about permitting a visit by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, said it had decided to grant a visa.

Today's birthdays: Actor Charlton Heston is 55 years old. Pitcher Ed Hallicki of the San Francisco Giants is 29. Writer Alvin Toffler is 51.

Thought for today: The individual who has experienced solitude will not easily become a victim of mass suggestion — physicist Albert Einstein, 1879-1955.

Masters Injured on Stairs

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Mrs. Karen Master Davis, wife of millionaire Cullen Davis, was being treated in a Fort Worth hospital today for injuries she suffered when she fell down a flight of stairs in Davis' $6 million mansion.

"I'm doing okay. I have a great deal of pain in my shoulders and back, but they're giving me medication and physical therapy," she said.

Mrs. Davis, who married the millionaire only hours after his long and bitter divorce proceedings with his ex-wife, Priscilla, ended, said the fall aggravated injuries she suffered in an automobile accident eight years ago.

Although she is supposed to stay in the hospital as long as two weeks, Mrs. Davis assured reporters she would be able to leave the hospital to testify as a defense witness during her husband's trial on murder solicitation charges. Davis is being tried here on charges of attempting to hire a "hit man" to kill the judge who was presiding over his divorce proceedings.

Bounced to Death?

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman who was bouncing on the bed of a New York City hotel plunged to her death from the 20th floor when she bounced out the window, her husband told police.

Police said Sylvia Maninrios, of Montevideo, Uruguay, was found dead early today on the sidewalk outside the Taft Hotel in midtown Manhattan. Her husband, Bruno, 29, explained she had been bouncing on the hotel room bed and accidentally bounced right through the window, police said.

Maninrios was held for questioning, police said.

Further information was not immediately available.

George Town, Texas (AP) — Funeral services for R.M. Medley, former athletic director and coach at Southwestern University will be held Friday 2 p.m. in Georgetown.

Medley, 81, died Sunday.

He was a graduate of Missouri Wesleyan College where he was the first athlete to letter in four major sports. In 1923, he became athletic director and coach at McMurry College, Abilene, where he remained for 16 years. He joined the Southwestern faculty in 1939 and served as head coach of all sports until retirement in 1969.

Survivors include his wife, a son, Dr. David Medley, Irving, and a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Rowley, Seguin.

ROMA, Texas (AP) — Construction workers are near completion of a new international bridge scheduled to open Oct. 27.

The $1.2 million structure will link this Starr County town with the community of Miguel Aleman in Mexico.

The U.S. Economic Development Administration provided a grant for the bridge but other facilities such as tollbooths, customs facilities and immigration service offices are being financed with county-issued revenue bonds.

Farther south along the Rio Grande, officials at Donna, Texas, have received a federal permit to build the U.S. side of a bridge leading to Rio Bravo, Mexico. Construction and completion of the bridge is several years away.

DALLAS (AP) — The response to Dallas' two downtown buses that are decorated to look like bunnies has been good, but there's no rush to convert the rest of the fleet.

The bunny buses sport rabbit ears and painted-on whiskers, mouth and nose. They symbolize the inexpensive "hop-a-bus" service that takes passengers around the downtown area.

Marketing director Jerry Johnson said conversion of the other buses in the downtown-only fleet is a "low priority" item, but eventually will be accomplished.

"When you've got a winner, there's no sense changing," Johnson said.

Orioles, Pirates Need Extra Innings to Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles like to finish their games with a flourish, but they can't be accused of getting off to slow starts in postseason competition.

When John Lowenstein belted a two-out, 10th-inning pinch homer to give Baltimore a 6-3 victory over the California Angels Wednesday night, it marked the 37th late-inning triumph for the Orioles this season.

It also gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five American League championship series while extending to 10 their string of first-game victories in playoff and World Series action.

The series continued here today with 23-game winner Mike Flanagan pitching for the Orioles against 16-game winner Dave Frost.

"When they open the door for us, we're going to step through," said Doug DeCinces, who singled to launch the winning rally. "That's one of the things that has made us successful all year. A team can't let up against us for a minute or we'll find a way to beat them."

Lowenstein, used sparingly after severely spraining his left ankle on Aug. 9, batted for Mark Belanger after California Manager Jim Fregosi ordered an intentional walk to Al Bumbry.

In his first appearance in postseason play, he hit the first pinch homer in AL playoff history. During the regular season, he hit 11 homers and drove in 34 runs in 197 times at bat.

On an 0-2 pitch from reliever

John Montague, the left-handed battering Lowenstein sliced a drive which barely reached the left field bleacher seats near the foul pole.

"When I hit the ball, I knew it would at least hit the wall and the game was over," Lowenstein said after returning to the field for a curtain call requested by a record Baltimore playoff crowd of 52,787.

Montague came in at the start of the eighth after starter Nolan Ryan developed cramps in his right calf. He said of his third consecutive forkball delivery: "I got this one up. It's a hazard of the pitch."

Lowenstein hit only .217 as a pinch-hitter during the regular season, with five hits and one run batted in. But Manager Earl Weaver, who relies on even the most esoteric of statistics, noted that Lowenstein was one-for-one against Montague this season.

Fregosi said he wanted Bumbry walked with DeCinces on second, following a sacrifice bunt by Rich Dauer, because "My feeling was that I'd rather pitch to a guy who hasn't been in the ball game."

Fregosi said Montague didn't throw a bad pitch, but that a stiff wind had blown the ball back into fair territory.

The California manager also contended that second baseman Bobby Grich had misjudged a pop fly by DeCinces in the third, allowing DeCinces to reach second.

With that opening, the Orioles scored two unearned runs on a double by Rick Dempsey and a single by Belanger.

The two runs offset the pair driver in by California's Dan Ford on a first-inning homer and a third-inning double.

The Orioles went ahead 3-2 on a fourth-inning sacrifice fly by DeCinces, but the Angels pulled even in the sixth on a run-producing double by Grich.

Ryan, with a 5-13 record against Baltimore, struck out five of the first six batters he faced and tied a major league playoff record by fanning the first four.

The winning pitcher was Don Stanhouse, who hurled the final inning in relief of starter Jim Palmer — a 20-game winner in eight of the last nine seasons.

Gold Sox Increased 1979 Attendance

Last autumn, upon assuming the ownership of the Gold Sox, John Dittrich vowed that 1979 would be a better year for Amarillo's baseball fans. Now that the Texas League season has gone into the books, it's nice to report that he was able, at least in a small way, to make good on that promise. For while the Gold Sox registered the poorest overall won-lost record in the league this season, they can point to an increase in their attendance over 1978. Moreover, that rise of 4557 fans was the fourth-best increase in the Texas League this season, trailing only El Paso, Shreveport and Arkansas.

The complete breakdown of the figures shows that the Gold Sox finished sixth in total attendance, ahead of Tulsa and Shreveport. However, their rate of increase was 8.58 percent, twice the rate for the league as a whole, and the second highest increase percentage in the Texas League. Only the Shreveport Captains, who raised their attendance by a remarkable 23.88 percent topped the Gold Sox in this department. Seven of the eight teams in the league reported better attendance in 1979 than in 1978, with only the San Antonio Dodgers showing any decrease.

By the way, these attendance figures strictly reflect the number of people who came to see the Gold Sox play. This year, Memorial Stadium has been the site for some three dozen outside events, including the recent stunt show and motorcycle races, plus Amarillo Challenger soccer games, two country music concerts, the Europerama High-Wire show, the Over-the-Line softball tournament and American Legion and YMCA baseball. More than 17,000 people have viewed these events alone, which means that almost 75,000 people have been entertained in the ballpark in 1979.

There is even a happy note regarding the Gold Sox' on-field performance. Their 54 wins in 1979 represent ten more than they managed in 1978, and their .397 winning percentage is an improvement over last year's .331. Well, from little acorns do mighty oak trees grow.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates have taken home a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five National League championship series, but players on both sides agree that the playoffs could just as easily stand at a game apiece — or both games could have gone to Cincinnati.

The Pirates escaped the second game with a 3-2 victory in 10 innings Wednesday, aided by a controversial call on a fielding play that set up a Pittsburgh score.

Second base umpire Frank Pulli ruled that a ball hit by Pittsburgh shortstop Phil Garner in the fifth inning touched the turf before right fielder Dave Collins reached it with a sliding catch.

"I did make the catch," said Collins, who argued his case with Pulli. "I said, 'If I hadn't caught the ball, I wouldn't have come up showing it to you.'"

"I saw the pull all the way," countered Pulli. "There was no doubt about it. It's either catch or no catch. forget about the trap."

Garner went to second on a sacrifice and scored what at that time was the go-ahead run on a double by Tim Foli. "Every game seems to be like this," sighed Foli, who also singled and scored Pittsburgh's first run. Dave Parker supplied the winning run with a single in the 10th inning.

impossible for them to beat us three straight in Pittsburgh." "Nobody has ever lost the first two playoff games and won the series, but the Reds said they would come back." "We'll be the first club to do it," Collins predicted. "I believe it can be done."

"We got our backs to the wall, but we'll just go out and play the game," said Ray Knight. "This game can change instantly as long as you keep from getting d down on yourself."

Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner said the Pirates were too hot now to worry about a Cincinnati sweep.

The Reds scored a run in the second inning on singles by Dan Driessen and Ray Knight and a sacrifice fly by pitcher Frank Pastore.

Cincinnati tied it in the ninth on consecutive doubles by pinch hitter Heity Cruz and Collins. "With the score tied, one out and two men on base, Don Robinson came in to shut off the Reds after their run in the ninth by striking out Dave Concepcion and getting George Foster to ground out to second base."

The Reds used four pitchers, with reliever Doug Bair getting the loss. Robinson, the sixth and final Pittsburgh pitcher, was the winner.

The Pirates flew home Tuesday night while Cincinnati used the off day today for travel. Both teams were scheduled to work out in Three Rivers Stadium.

Mike LaCoss, 14-8 during the regular season, is expected to start for Cincinnati in the third game of the series Friday. Tanner said Bert Blyleven, 12-5, would start for Pittsburgh as the Pirates tried to nail down a World Series berth.

Texas Open Starts Today

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Forgive Ron Streck if he doesn't act properly at this week's $250,000 Texas open. He hasn't really had much practice at this defending champion business. In fact, it's his first-and only-time.

The obscure, young Oklahoma, fighting to keep on the pro tour, captured the fancy of the crowd, writers and his fellow pro golfers last year with a blistering 63-62 finish to capture the $40,000 top prize.

He's back today for the first round of this year's Texas Open, hoping for a 1979 turnaround and not really sure how a defending champion should conduct himself.

"Since I've never been a defending champion, I don't know what it's like. I guess I will find out Thursday on the first tee," he said before the tournament. "Oh, I might get teased some. Being the champ will give me a little more confidence."

"I haven't been playing very well in the last few weeks. I need to make a turnaround. I would love to play well here again," he added.

Streck, 25, had come into the 1978 tournament ranked 156th with only $6,932 in winnings. He needed to hike that in the last few tournaments to $10,000 or finish in the top 160 to earn a third year on the Professional Golfers Association Tour. He won only $11,000 his first season.

He fired a three-over par 73 in the first round. It looked like he would miss another cut and his parents even checked out of their hotel the next morning.

But Streck hit a pressure-packed six-foot putt on the par-3 18th hole the next day to salvage a 67 and barely made the cut at 140. He then set a PGA record for consecutive rounds with his 63-62 and out-distanced such stars as Lee Trevino Hubert Green, Ben Crenshaw, Lou Graham and Hale Irwin to win the tournament.

Streck is in a little better position for the 50th Texas Open, but is still only 91st on the PGA money list with $38,484. More than half of that came with his fourth-place finish in the PGA Championship early last month.

Bonnet Wins Pole

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The car had a relatively new driver and the track had a new coat of asphalt in parts but it was the same old story as the Wood Brothers Mercury driven by Neil Bonnett won the pole position for Sunday's National 500 stock car race.

Bonnett, whose speed of 164.304 mph set a new qualifying record at the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway, handed the Woods their 13th straight pole in races at the track.

The Hueytown, Ala., driver replaced David Pearson as the Woods' driver earlier this year and won the pole at the World 600 at Charlotte last spring. But after qualifying Wednesday, he said he had been a little worried, especially after Buddy Baker set the pace with a 164.179 mph run early in the afternoon.

Baker, who was the second driver to attempt to qualify and the first to break the old qualifying record, will start Sunday's $300,625 contest on the front row beside Bonnett.

The first eight drivers who qualified Wednesday surpassed the old qualifying record of 162.162 mph, set in 1969, by Cale Yarborough, who qualified in fourth with 163.849 mph.

Fifteen spots in the 40-car field were filled Wednesday, with more qualifying scheduled for today and Friday.

Richard Petty qualified ninth but he was unable to push his Chevrolet past the old record.

McEnroe Seeded No. 1

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — America's No.1 singles player, John McEnroe, will meet top Australian entry John Alexander on the first day of their Davis Cup semifinal series that starts here Friday.

America's Vitas Gerulaitis will meet Mark Edmondson of Australia in the other opening-day singles match.

Two singles will be played Friday, and the doubles between Bob Lutz and Stan Smith of the United States and Alexander and Phil Dent of Australia will be played Saturday.

Gerulaitis will meet Alexander and McEnroe will meet Edmondson in the final day's singles Sunday.

The score of a forfeited college football game is 1-0.

USC, Bama Picked To Win

Operative X-9, the top agent of our fearless prophet, was grumpy about being pulled off the baseball playoffs to make his weekly football picks. "You blew a couple of beauties last week," someone callously reminded him. "Earnie Shavers to knock out Larry Holmes and Louisiana State to upset Southern Cal."

X-9 refused to make apologies about his score — 40-12 for '79. Season record is 155-44, 799. A new day: Southern Cal 37, Washington St. 10: "Remember what happened to the Yankees and the Dodgers," warns USC Coach Robinson. Alabama 43, Wichita St. 0: The quarterback clubs are giving 56 points. The Bear's not sadistic. Notre Dame 24, Georgia Tech 14: The Yellow Jackets always play over their head against the Irish. Michigan St. 25, Michigan 20: Anything goes in this one. How high is up? Army 24, Duke 15: This is an important one for Lou Saban in Army's comeback campaign. Purdue 38, Minnesota 20:

The Boilermakers' tough schedule is putting muscles on top of muscles. Nebraska 26, New Mexico 10: You don't have to be a wino to appreciate the Huskers' Jarvis Redwine and Kerry Winemaster. Texas 34, Rice 7: The Longhorns still play the rhyming game with "Ram and Jam," the surviving Jones Boys. UCLA 32, Stanford 7: Stanford is showing a lot of consistency, up and down. Navy 27, Air Force 7: What better name for a ground gainer than Curt Gainer of the Midlands. Penn St. 28, Maryland 20: Curtis Warner of Penn St. is one of the game's top all-purpose runners. Pitt 31, Boston College 13: Pitt is still collecting dividends from its Tony Dorsett years. Louisiana St. 28, Florida 18: The Bengals should have enough from last week's emotional effort to survive this one. North Carolina St. 35, Auburn 21: State has an offensive lineman named Chuck Stone, and that's what he is as tough as. Ohio State 33, Northwestern 13: The Buckeyes are shaking off the traumatic experiences of post '78. Houston 25, Baylor 15; Arkansas 28, TCU 13; Texas A&M 14, Texas Tech 12. Vega Looking For Victory

Vega's Longhorns, with a tie and a loss in the last two games, seek to get back on the winning trail Friday night against the Friona Chieftains.

Charls Moot is the new head coach at Vega this year, and he relies heavily on fullback Freddie Fangman and halfback Rick Jones to spark the offense. Fangman scored both touchdowns last week. He was an all-district linebacker last season, while Jones was sophomore of the year.

The season. Friona took a 14-0 victory over Farwell last week to post its first win, against two losses and a tie. Vega battled to a 14-14 tie against Sanford-Fritch last week, and it was an aggressive, swarming defense that kept the Longhorns in the game.

Super Bowl XIV at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., will be the second staging of the NFL classic in that stadium.

Oilers Have Confidence

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler defensive coordinator Ed Biles will turn his "nickel" sacking machine and the team's No. 1 pass thief loose in the Astrodom Sunday as the Oilers try to maintain their regained confidence against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The game will match Houston's Earl Campbell, the NFL rushing leader with 569 yards, against St. Louis Odis Anderson, No. 3 in the NFL with 481 yards. The Oilers, 4-1 and sharing the American Football Conference Central Division lead with Cleveland and Pittsburgh, clubbed the Browns 31-10 last week in their best performance of the season.

The Cardinals come into the game with a 1-4 record, including a pair of heart-breaking losses to Dallas and Pittsburgh. Oiler Coach Bum Phillips looks at St. Louis 22-21 loss to Dallas and a 24-21 loss to Pittsburgh and says "I don't care about their 1-4 record. They had Dallas beat and they had Pittsburgh beat. That shows me that they are capable of beating anybody." St. Louis was shut out 21-0 last week by Los Angeles and penalties helped stop the Cards. "You have to expect penalties, but when you make seven in one half, that makes it hard for you to play well." St. Louis Coach Bud Wilkinson said. Wilkinson said the Oiler offense would cause problems. "Houston has been an extremely effective offensive team against everyone they played with the exception of Pittsburgh," Wilkinson said. "We will have to generate some offense ourselves and try to contain them." "Nobody is going to stop Earl Campbell, so I don't think we'll shut him out. He's an excellent football player. He runs out of the 1 so he can go either way." St. Louis will play without defensive end John Zook, who underwent knee surgery last week and has been placed on the injured reserve. Kickoff is at 1 p.m. CDT.

Goodson Ties Longhorn Record

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Walk-on John Goodson earned a scholarship by kicking four field goals against Missouri. Texas Coach Fred Akers announced Wednesday. Akers watched Goodson's fourth field goal as he narrated Texas-Missouri game films for the Longhorn Club and remarked, "That got him a school record (tie) and also got him a scholarship." Goodson, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound sophomore, tied Russell Erxleben's school record for a single game with field goals of 23, 50, 35 and 25 yards. Erxleben, an All-American, was a 1979 first-round draft choice of New Orleans in professional football. His contract reportedly made him a millionaire. No. 4 Texas whipped Missouri, 21-0, and Akers said, "We defeated them probably more completely than the score indicated." The loss dropped previously unbeaten Missouri from No. 5 to No. 15 in the college football poll. Goodson's high, long kickoffs helped pin Missouri in its end of the field. Three times Missouri started from inside its 15-yard-line and three times from the 20. The Tigers crossed midfield only once on its own power. "The kickoff team was probably the most spectacular of any of our units," Akers said. Akers also revealed that quarterback Donnie Little had a swollen right thumb and had not practiced this week for the Southwest Conference game against Rice on Saturday. Center Wes Hubert is nursing a hip bruise, defensive tackle Steve McMichael has a strained hamstring muscle and four or five Longhorns, including starting receiver Les Koenning, are out with a flu-like illness. "One of the problems we are facing right now," said Akers, "is that everyone who comes into contact with our players is still congratulating them on the Missouri game or looking forward to Oklahoma." Texas plays No. 3 Oklahoma in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on Oct. 13. The game will be nationally televised. "If Rice has conceded us a victory, they would have notified us by now," Akers said sarcastically. Oklahoma demolished Rice, 63-21, but Akers said Rice "moved the football throughout the game." Akers recalled Texas got inside Missouri's 20-yard-line six times and inside the 10 four times but scored only one touchdown. "Part of it was due to Missouri's defense but a lot of it was due to our miscues," said Akers.

Infielder Toby Harrah of the Cleveland Indians attended Ohio Northern University on a football scholarship. George Blanda, quarterback and place-kicker, played for 26 seasons in both the National and American Football Leagues.

Coming Through The Herd goes through its workouts in preparation for tomorrow night's contest against Amarillo's Tough

High. Hereford will carry a 3-1 record into the game against the Sandies. Amarillo, also 3-1 is favored. [Brand photo by Rick Grossman]

Is Hereford Ready?

By RICK GROSSMAN Brand Sports Editor The Hereford High varsity football team will be facing its toughest competition to date when it travels to Amarillo tomorrow night to play the Sandies in Dick Bivens Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Following their 14-13 victory over Canyon last Friday the Herd is riding high atop a three game winning streak for the first time since 1975. The Whitefaces only loss has been the season opener to Pampa. The Herd may have momentum going into the game but momentum is a two way street. The Sandies are coming off of their own three game winning streak beating Permian, 9-0, Lubbock High 45-12, and defeating Plainview last week 7-6, in the final minute of the game. According to Amarillo Coach Larry Dippel, his teams strongest point is its defense. Against Plainview, the Sandie defense stopped the Bulldogs from scoring on four different occasions inside the Amarillo 15 yard line. As strong as its defense is though don't look for the Sandie offense not to be strong. They have "extreme team quickness," says Herd Head Coach Don Cumpton. Amarillo has a triple threat in the backfield, in running backs Ty Rickmond, Mark Mathiasier, and Shane Leduke. Jimmy Rifender is the Sandie leading receiver with 11 receptions and one touchdown. He grabbed an eight yard pass from quarterback Jeff Lamb last week against Plainview to pull the game out for Amarillo. With the exception of free safety-Barry Morgan who is out for the year following a knee injury in last week's game, the Whitefaces are in excellent health and ready to play. The defense, which was responsible for preserving last weeks victory over Canyon, will have a few adjustments to make. According to Coach Cumpton, Amarillo is a multi-offense team and the defense will have some adjusting to do. You can look for the Herd to put the ball in the air. We're going to try and throw the ball," said Coach Cumpton. "Their strength is against the run. Herd Quarterback Derek Dirks who is the leading passer in the district, with 19 completions for 312 yards will be healthy and ready to play. Amarillo Coach Dippel says his defense will just have to beat the Herd receivers deep to stop the Herd throwing game. Both teams have season records of 3-1 into the game.

Prime Time World Series is Profitable

AP Sports Writer

To say that the television networks have dictated playoff and World Series starting times and dates is only half the story. Baseball has been a more-than-willing dance partner while TV's been playing the tune.

And in doing so, baseball has forsaken the late P.K. Wrigley's notion that the national pastime was a daytime sport.

Wrigley owned the Chicago Cubs, who play all their home games in the afternoon. Wrigley Field, baseball's biggest energy saver, the only stadium without lights, conjures up the image of a World Series from a bygone era — before the 1970s — when kids played hooky or plugged themselves into transistor radios to catch the play-by-play.

Today, the only students who'll miss the World Series are those enrolled in night school.

The weekend afternoon viewers used to be baseball's target audience. The Series would begin on a Saturday in the hopes of reaching the next weekend. Baseball, of course, was interested in allowing more of its fans to see the games. And if baseball reached larger audiences, commercial spots would be worth more to baseball and the televising network.

Its obvious baseball now realizes that the biggest audience and advertising numbers are now on the weeknights in prime time. Since 1977, the Series has begun on Tuesday. Who needs the extra weekend, anyhow?

But if you listen to some TV sports executives, they'll tell you that NBC had to coax baseball out of its caves to get the World Series on prime time. Baseball, however, paints the opposite picture, labeling Commissioner Bowie Kuhn the pioneer who led a primitive network out of the Dark Ages.

The first time the World Series went on the night shift was Game 4 of the Pittsburgh-Baltimore series in 1971. It was a phenomenal success, reaching the largest TV audience ever for a baseball game — more than 56 million viewers.

"The fact is NBC resisted the change," says Kuhn. "Nonetheless the results were spectacular. The telecast produced the largest audience we ever had for a baseball game. As a result of this success, we were able to persuade NBC to expand the nighttime schedule to three games in 1972 and thereafter."

Carl Lindemann, a vice president of CBS Sports, was in charge of the sports department at NBC in 1971. He says he has "a clear recollection" of the negotiations.

"There was resistance within the network. But the sports department at NBC persuaded the network to try it," Lindemann said. "It's incredible to me that baseball's tried to take the credit. It just wasn't true. Their argument was that the World Series did well as an afternoon attraction."

And if you ask Charlie Finley, the maverick owner of the Oakland A's, he'll say it was his idea — along with orange baseballs, ballgirls and donkeys.

Cosell Gets His In Denver Bar

DALLAS (AP) — The Denver Broncos were no match for the Dallas Cowboys in Super Bowl XII, but Dallas bar patrons were no match for Denver's when it came to smashing Howard Cosell.

The ploy originated in a Denver club. The winner of a football pot gets to throw a brick through an old television set while Cosell's face is on the screen during a Monday night football broadcast.

Cosell has never been a favorite among Dallas Cowboy fans, beginning with the game three season ago when Cosell told the nation he thought Dallas fullback Robert Newhouse was just an "average" runner.

But things reached a peak in Cleveland two Mondays ago, when Cosell said he thought the Cowboys were over-glamorized and over-publicized, and said he hoped the Browns would beat Dallas that night. To add insult to injury, the Browns did just that.

Needless to say, the Viking bar patrons were in a foul mood Monday as the Green Bay-New England game came on.

Carol Graham won the right to heave a brick at Cosell's choleric countenance.

She grabbed the brick and started to psyche herself up.

"Oh, I just hate him!" she declared.

It was decided she would make the toss at halftime, when Cosell narrates the Sunday game highlights.

The first half ended. Bar owner Frieda Houlihan put a sheet of plastic over the screen and hefted a fire extinguisher. "I don't know what happens when you throw a brick through a TV," she admitted.

The commercials rolled, then ended. Ms. Graham drew back her arm when a face appeared on the screen, but it was a false alarm — a news insert by local TV anchor Iola Johnson. "No!" screamed the customers. "don't hit Iola."

More commercials. Now! There's Howard! Ms. Graham cut loose — and missed. The brick hit the TV cabinet, not the screen.

She scrambled to retrieve it, and threw again. It bonked Cosell right on the nose, but the screen didn't break.

A third time she wound up, even though Howard's face had disappeared as he narrated the highlights.

Never mind. She threw again. The screen didn't break.

The set fell to the floor and went dark.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — All 11 of the World Boxing Association's current champions will be at ringside in Pretoria Oct. 20 to watch the WBA world heavyweight title bout between John Tate of the United States and Gerrie Coetzee of South Africa, a local sponsor said today.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

It's a myth that everyone in this country looks forward to retirement. There are a few exceptions--most of them wives of the retirees.

I overheard several of them last week at lunch discussing the problem.

"You wanta have your ears pierced again?" asked a small woman with white hair.

"I don't think so, Margaret," said her elderly companion. "not unless you do. We could look at wallpaper samples."

"I'm going home," said the woman at the head of the table.

"Get hold of yourself, Faye," said Margaret. "It's only three o'clock. Frank will still be alphabetizing the spices."

"He did that yesterday. Today he was going to clean the exhaust fans and take the lime out of the teakettle."

"Well, I'm not going home yet," said Margaret. "Every time George looks at me he wants to eat. I'm still scraping eggs off the breakfast plates and he asks me what's for lunch. Since he retired, I feel like I'm hosting a Hungarian wedding."

"At least George is a little flexible," said Faye. "Frank eats breakfast with Rona, lunch with Days of Our Lives, tea with Dinah, dinner with Walter, and he was furious when I let him sleep through his snack with Tom Snyder. He told me he thought he was getting sunspots on his face. I told him they were stretch marks from overeating. What's Mac doing today, Lois?"

"Let's see, it's Thursday. This is his day to fill up the salt and pepper shakers, rearrange the living room so it doesn't dent the carpet in the same spot, vacuum the track on the sliding doors and write notes to me to clean the oven, wash down the porch and turn the mattress."

"It sure was nice when we had the house to ourselves," said Faye wistfully. "Now I dread going home. It's always something, Frank met me at the door the last time nearly hysterical and said, 'You have exactly three hours to do something with this yeast before the date on it expires.'"

All three sat there without saying anything. Then Lois said, "There's a broken traffic light at Fifth and Main."

"Let's go," said Margaret.

Ann Landers

Neglected Pianos

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been doing a slow burn about something for years. If you print my letter I will have it framed and hang it in my living room.

I am a pianist. I have a beautiful (and expensive) grand piano. It is my most cherished possession. I keep my piano in tune at all times, and it is cared for lovingly. When people come over who can play, I invite them to do so.

But I am fed up with parents who allow their children to abuse the piano when they visit in the homes of people who do care about the instrument. I've had brats crawl up on the bench and proceed to pound the keys with their fists or feet. They hang on the music rack, pick at the strings and scratch the wood.

If there were a cello on the floor, a clarinet on the table or a violin on the shelf, no one would allow a child to touch these instruments, but a piano--oh, well, go ahead and bang the hell out of it. Why?--Colby, Kans.

DEAR COLBY: Because pianos are large, formidable-looking pieces of "furniture" and no one thinks of them as fragile. A child who bangs on a piano with his fists or his feet (!) should be told, "The piano is not a toy. You may not touch it." The youngster then should be provided with something else to keep him busy--paper and pencil for drawing, crayons or a deck of cards. Use your imagination.

Food-Labeling Ideas To Influence Future

COLLEGE STATION--Food-labeling ideas from consumers will influence future labels, says Marilynn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

For a "sneak preview" of what they might include, a look at recent consumer comments gives the best clues, she says.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

These recent consumer opinions also point up questions about the most effective ways to label foods, the specialist notes.

More than 10,000 consumers across the country recently expressed their ideas on food labeling--through written comments, hearings and nationwide surveys.

Three U.S. government agencies did the asking--the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Federal Trade Commission and the Food and Drug Administration.

Consumers said they're concerned about sodium (salt) and sweetener content of foods, mandatory open dating and nutrition labeling.

Also, food fortification, identification standards and imitation foods.

"Full-ingredient" information was the major concern of those responding.

Consumers either want ingredients listed in descending order of predominance or they want percentage labeling of major ingredients or all ingredients.

Some felt that current regulations make it difficult for them to know the content of processed foods, because new processing techniques and new ingredients cause confusion.

People with special diets--or diet-related health problems--report difficulty finding or identifying foods that have ingredients of special concern, particularly ingredients that manufacturers can add without listing them on the label.

These recent opinions also raise questions about how to include information consumers want on food labels, Miss Haggard says.

Although many consumers consider full and uniform information about all ingredients "a must," they have different ideas about expressing ingredients and amounts. Some prefer graphs, and some prefer percentages.

On the other hand, manufacturers and processors face special problems, too, Miss Haggard says. Ingredients they use may vary.

For example, the type of vegetable oil or fat in a product may depend on the costs of fat at the time--in some cases.

Also, fat-to-lean content of meats can vary from animal to animal--as does the protein content of wheat flour.

Making labels reflect all of this fairly is a major concern, too, the specialist says.

Stanton Dogie Roundup

This week is the end of the first six weeks of Hereford students. Odd period tests were given at Stanton on Wednesday, and even period tests were given today. Report cards will be handed out next week.

Our freshmen boys traveled to Borger today to defend their 3-0 record by having a win over Borger and upping the record to 4-0. Seventh grade had an open date this week and our eighth grade is in Canyon.

Girls' basketball coaches, Coach Martha Roberts and Coach Joe Don Cummings, have begun the selection of the freshmen and eighth grade teams.

Coach Cummings gave us this report, "We have 123 girls in girls athletics at the present time. There are 40 in the ninth, 46 in the eighth, and 37 in the seventh. We will carry fifteen on each of the ninth and eighth teams and twenty on the seventh. The girls not on the traveling squad will participate in off-season work designed for the track season, as almost everyone will be involved in the track program."

"Our first basketball games will be at the Levelland Tournament November 30, with all three teams participating. Right now we are working basically on fundamentals during class. The ninth grade team will start working after school October 15. We hope to have all our teams picked by that time, also."

Yearbook sales begin tomorrow, October 5. The staff has been busy hanging posters, practicing sales talks, and getting the basic ideas together for the yearbook. Our order for yearbooks will depend on the number of orders placed this month during the sales campaign. The yearbooks will sell for $6 this year. Students may pay-in-full, or make a down payment of no less than $3. So, Stanton Dogies, come prepared tomorrow to place your order for your yearbook. The 1980 Dogie!!

Leadership Meeting Staged For Regional VOCT Chapters

The Hereford Whiteface Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas (VOCT), Chapter 569, traveled to Boys Ranch September 29 for a VOCT fall leadership meet.

At this meeting, officer elections were held and the Whiteface VOCT Chapter secured two area offices. Ricky Black will be serving as Area reporter and Dora Garcia will be State representative. Miss Garcia will be traveling to Wimberly, Texas in November, where she will run for the office of State president.

The main purpose of the leadership meet was motivation. The film "You Can Surpass Yourself" was shown. The idea was to motivate students to take on challenges of new ways and assignments' to instill in the student that they must work hard as individuals, and to make team efforts succeed.

In the afternoon, sessions were held on the leadership contest. These sessions were conducted to prepare students to enter the district contest which will be held during the spring.

After the conclusion of the leadership meet, the Hereford Chapters were given a tour of Boys Ranch. The tour was informative and members noted several interesting aspects about the ranch. Attending the tour with the Hereford Chapters were District VI Area Consultant, Buck Johnson; secretary, Gwen Lloyd from Plainview; Hereford Vocational Director Kenneth Helms and four of the VOCT advisors of the Hereford School system. A special thanks was extended to the Boys Ranch tour guides, Myron Bennett, Wayne Noble and Kenneth Garrett, as these boys forfeited their Saturday afternoon in town in order that all the students of Hereford could tour the ranch.

"It was truly an enjoyable day for the participating students and a good learning tool for the events coming up in the near spring. Mr. Daylon Johnson, the host, and all of the personnel at Boy's Ranch are to be commended for work that they did in making the VOCT Fall Leadership Conference a tremendous success," stated Ricky Black, area reporter.

Listening Habits Key To Good Communication

COLLEGE STATION — Communication is one of the keys to effective leadership. And communication relies heavily on good listening.

"Effective listening is difficult," points out Dr. David Ruesink with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Why?

The average person speaks at a rate of 125 to 150 words per minutes. And the human mind is capable of conscious thought at a rate much faster than that—at least four or five times faster than is normally spoken. The problem is that 75 percent of the average person's mind is not occupied by the speaker's words.

"The average person, then, listens with only about 25 percent effectiveness," notes Ruesink, a sociologist. "The mind is continually groping for something to fill the gaps. This time differential offers the listener the opportunity to make periodic mental summaries to tie the main ideas together, or to wander off on mental tangents."

How can we train ourselves to become more effective and efficient listeners?

Ruesink offers these suggestions:

- Be interested in the speaker. In his mind he is the most important person on earth and what he has to say is the most important topic at the time.

- Accept the person as he is. To permit a person's mannerism, speech, habits or dress to distract from what he is saying is essentially your loss.
- Hear the person out before judging his ideas. When he uses emotionally laden words or when he tramples on some of your pet convictions, remember that he is using only those words he understands.

--Listen to learn. When a person uses words and presents ideas that you do not understand, draw the person out by saying, "That's interesting." "I didn't know that." "That is something I have often wondered about." or "Would you explain?"

--Extract the main idea. Facts make sense only if they support a main idea. Isolated facts are like the works of a clock without the case; you know what they are, but you can't use them.

--Get interested and stay interested in what the person is saying. Faking attention is disrespectful and can be embarrassing.

"Our effectiveness as individuals, in whatever situation we may find ourselves, depends not so much on how we talk as on 'how well we listen,'" contends Ruesink.

The sociologist adds that this information on effective communications is a part of the Community Development Workshop conducted by the Extension Service.

Real Estate Tips
 by Tommy Bowling

How can I tell if my broker is doing all he can to sell my property?

When you list your property with a real estate broker, you establish an agency relationship... you are the principal and the broker is your agent. The broker agrees to work in your behalf, according to your direction, for an agreed commission... provided he performs certain functions for you. You employ the broker to find a purchaser for you, not merely to sell your property. During the life of your listing, you may expect your broker to make a continuous, bona fide effort to find a buyer for your property... at the price indicated on your listing. Besides simply putting up a "for sale" sign, your broker should advertise your property, talk about it and show it. Never, however, expect your broker to misrepresent your property to a prospective buyer.

Helpful Hints Given For Fainting Persons

COLLEGE STATION — Learn how to handle fainting—it could come in handy, says Carla Shearer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Fainting can be brought on by hunger, sight of blood, severe pain, fatigue, heat or powerful emotions, such as fear or joy.

Physically, it is usually the result of a low blood supply to the brain, the specialist explains.

Getting up quickly from a lying or sitting position may cause a person to faint.

Some of the signs that will either precede the fainting or accompany it are extremely pale and cool skin, sweating, dizziness, nausea, light-headedness and a possible numbness or tingling in the hands and feet.

Advise a person with these symptoms to sit down and lean forward with his head between his knees or have him lie down and elevate his feet. This will allow the blood to more easily circulate to the brain.

If a person has already fainted, place him in one of the two positions that will allow the blood to flow to the head. Usually with this treatment, the person regains consciousness. Ms. Shearer continues.

While helping a fainting victim, make sure that he can breathe easily. Don't let people crowd around the person, and make sure that his clothing is loose around his neck and there is no obstruction in the mouth.

Don't throw water in the face of a person who has fainted because there is danger of the person inhaling the water, she cautions.

Using an ammonia inhalant and stimulant are not generally recommended because they can do more harm than good. Especially do not use them for individuals who may have suffered a heart attack or stroke.

SNACKTIME FARE
 Cylinder Loaves
 Iced Tea or Coffee
CYLINDER LOAVES
 Cooks looking for baked products without sugar may appreciate this delicious tea bread.
 1 cup fork-stirred white all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup wholewheat flour
 3/4 cup diced pitted dates
 1 large egg
 1 cup buttermilk
 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 1/2 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

Thoroughly grease inside surface of 3 round 16-ounce cans from fruit or vegetables (each 4 by 3 inches). Stir together white flour, baking soda and salt; stir in wholewheat flour; add dates and separate pieces with fingers. Beat egg and buttermilk to blend; add to flour mixture with butter and nuts; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn into prepared cans, filling them about half full. Bake on the lowest rack of a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and tops are browned and crusty — 60 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out on wire rack to cool. Apart from tops, remaining portions of loaves will be a pale color and soft. Cool on a wire rack. Slices well. Delicious with cheese. Makes 3.

Suede Leather Comes In Easy-Care Forms

COLLEGE STATION — Today's machine-washable suede leather brings the "real thing" back to the fashion scene in easy-care form at reasonable prices, says a clothing specialist.

In fact, it's often lower priced than synthetic suedes, says Beverly Rhoades with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

New washable suedes are actually soft, pliable lambskins. They come in several colors including camel, gray, blue, brown and tan.

STYLING

Styling is somewhat limited with washable suedes, since lambskins are small.

For example, in jackets, consider using princess lines, because the small pattern pieces will fit the small pieces of suede better.

Also, remember that you can make pants only if you add a decorative seam at the knee-to cover the "splice" of suede pieces, since lambskins are not long enough to make a continuous pant leg.

HOW TO BUY

When buying skins, take the pattern with you for a trial layout so you'll know how many skins to buy.

PLACING PATTERN

In laying the pattern on the skins, use the lengthwise "grain" for major pattern pieces.

"Grain" on the skin runs parallel with the animal's backbone.

For the best results, place the top of the pattern piece at the neck section of the hide. Be sure all pieces run the same direction.

SEWING SUEDE

To sew washable suede, you need no special equipment.

Use all-purpose cotton-covered polyester thread, long-staple polyester or cotton thread.

Use a sharp or universal, medium-sized needle (size 11 or metric size 75-80).

Set the machine at 8-12 stitches per inch, and adjust the thread tension and presser-foot pressure as needed for a balanced, smooth stitch.

You might need to loosen top-thread tension a bit and reduce the presser-foot pressure slightly.

Sew with traditional "leather" techniques or use conventional methods.

Sew seams with right sides together and finger press them open.

Glue the seam allowances open with rubber cement and pound them lightly with a smooth-surface mallet.

For a conventional seam, lap suede "wrong side to right side" at the seam line and topstitch at the seamline and again one-fourth inch away—for the tailored look of a mock flat felled seam.

After topstitching, trim the seam allowances. Edges will not ravel.

When you sew suede, tie the ends of seams rather than backstitching which tends to weaken the seam.

For curved seams, as in pockets or hems, notch the fullness from the curved area in the seam allowance. Sew the facing or adjoining piece "right sides together" and turn.

Or cut a second piece or facing with the same curve and place the two "wrong" sides together. Double topstitch along the seamline. Then trim away the seam allowance for a neat curve.

Or you can finish edges with no facing or stitching—for a soft, drapable appeal.

For example, a scallop hem edge is great for vests and other such items, especially if it's decorated with numerous tiny holes for a lacy look. You can do this with a leather punch.

In working with darts, you can finger press them to one side and glue them down.

If darts are wide, cut them open and glue down each side, as in regular seams.

Finally, never throw away "leftover" pieces of hide. They make great patches, necklaces or purses.

Elected to WD Board

Three new board members were elected by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division Tuesday evening during the quarterly membership meeting at the Community Center. Shown from left are Betty Gilbert, Mary Thomas and Leatrice Clark. They will be installed to two-year terms in early January. Serving with them will be president Frances Berry, Olivia Denning, Marcia Snyder and Mary Herring. [Brand photo by Denise Smith]

Canine Heartworm Disease Spread to West Texas Area

Mosquito season may soon be over but the mosquitoes have left a trail of canine heartworm disease behind, says Dr. David T. Bechtol, president of Texas Veterinary Medical Association.

Canine heartworm disease is transmitted to dogs by mosquitoes. When biting an infected dog, a mosquito may take up blood containing immature stages of the heartworm. After a 2-week incubation period in the mosquito, they develop into infected larvae. If these larvae are transmitted by the mosquito to another dog, they migrate through the body to the heart, where they grow to adult size and can eventually lead to death for the dog, states Dr. Bechtol.

Symptoms of heartworm disease are often not apparent until the disease has reached the advanced stages. Dr. Bechtol notes that death can occur before the owner notices any illness in the dog. Symptoms that may exist in many dogs include frequent coughing, rapid tiring, and labored breathing.

Heartworm disease can be detected by a simple blood test conducted by a veterinarian. Dr. Bechtol recommends that dogs should be examined for heartworms following the mosquito season and then again in the spring. If heartworms are not detected, the veterinarian can then prescribe a sound preventive program.

"Don't wait until you see the dog is ill" urges Dr. Bechtol. "Heartworms can be detected and treated successfully in most dogs by a veterinarian before it is too late."

"Prevention is the best medicine," says Dr. Bechtol. "But owners who have had their dogs on the preventive and then stopped the program for a short while, should not put the dog back on the preventive without first testing for heartworms again or consulting their veterinarian. The preventive should only be given to a dog, that is free of heartworms."

For years the disease was found primarily along the Eastern Seaboard and Gulf State regions. Today, the disease is present in almost every area where mosquitoes exist. The disease has now spread to West Texas.

Dr. Bechtol suggests that all dog owners consult a veterinarian in their area.

'Expanding Horizons' Theme of 4-H Observance

National 4-H Week is the focal point of the annual 4-H calendar, a time when members and leaders can look at the past with pride as well as look to the future with anticipation.

National 4-H Week this year will be observed October 7-13, with the theme being "Expanding Horizons."

"4-H is expanding youths' horizons as they seek new knowledge, acquire life skills and build on personal strengths. 4-H inspires youth to stretch the limits of self, to reach out, share and learn with others. 4-H challenges youth to set high goals and to achieve them. And 4-H strengthens citizenship and leadership abilities and encourages youth and their leaders to assume positive roles in a free democratic society," according to a 4-H spokesman.

"By broadening opportunities for greater understanding and service to community, nation and world, 4-H is expanding horizons," the spokesman concluded.

The Census Bureau estimates that if recent trends continue, one in every three married persons between 25 and 35 years of age in 1975 may end their first marriage in divorce.

Revive wilted lettuce by placing it in a bowl of ice water in the refrigerator until crisp, recommends Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

MUSEUM TOUR

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — It was a different kind of trip to the art museum. The visitors reached up and touched some 15 sculpted pieces, mostly those in the museum's Oriental, Roman and Egyptian galleries.

The visitors were 12 blind Rhode Islanders who toured the Rhode Island School of Design Art Museum recently in the second program of its kind to be sponsored by the American Red Cross.

One visitor, who remembered trips to museums in the days when she had her sight, said that "sighted people are careless when they look at art.

Lawyers Work to Preserve McInnis License

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Lawyers set out today to preserve embattled Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis' law license, which is endangered by a civil disbarment suit brought by the State Bar of Texas.

Defense strategy is expected to revolve around McInnis' contention that he was set up by a conspiracy of officials who wanted him out of office.

The Bar contends McInnis violated professional standards of conduct by asking a jail inmate to arrange the hired murder of Noe Villanueva, the ex-husband of Patricia Parada.

Lawyers for the Bar finished presenting their case Wednesday after questioning several witnesses in an attempt to link McInnis romantically with Miss Parada.

Floyd Hanna, who dated Miss Parada for three years ending in 1976, testified he followed McInnis and the woman twice and once saw them kissing in the prosecutor's car.

Defense attorneys say they plan to question 35 witnesses in an effort to present their side of the case. Attorneys for the Bar have called 27 witnesses during the first 2½ weeks of the trial.

Jurors have heard taped conversations in which McInnis allegedly discussed the plot with inmate Daniel Rodriguez and said he would ask Miss Parada to lure Villanueva to Mexico and his death.

Villanueva was not killed.

FBI agent Teresa Caywood testified she and former FBI agent John Caldwell trailed McInnis and the woman last spring shortly before the two were indicted on federal murder-conspiracy charges.

Those indictments later were dropped but McInnis and Miss Parada still face a federal trial on charges of lying to the grand jury about the alleged plot.

Lawyers for McInnis in the civil disbarment trial discounted the FBI surveillance as establishing nothing except an attorney-client relationship between the prosecutor and Miss Parada.

McInnis had represented the woman as a private attorney in a bitter child custody fight with Villanueva.

Two of Miss Parada's former co-workers at a medical clinic said McInnis frequently called her at work. And an employee in the district attorney's office said Miss Parada visited McInnis at work about "100 times" in 1977.

McInnis refused Tuesday to answer any questions by bar attorney Jerry Zunker on grounds he might incriminate himself. Zunker asked him at one point when he and Miss Parada "had become lovers."

State District Judge Joe B. Evins warned lawyers on both sides Wednesday not to inject extraneous remarks into the record that would improperly influence jurors and prolong the trial. He threatened to hold attorneys in contempt of court if they disobeyed the instruction.

If jurors agree with the bar's complaints against McInnis, Evins will decide whether to disbar him.

Zimmerman to Death Row

HOUSTON (AP) — Charles Zimmerman is on his way to death row for the second time in two years, but his attorney predicted Zimmerman will win an appeal of his latest conviction for the murder of his 10-year-old niece.

"This case will be retried again," said Terry Glaiser Wednesday after a district court jury recommended Zimmerman be sentenced to death by lethal injection for abducting and killing Ramona Abner.

Witnesses said Zimmerman took the girl from her Jacinto City school in March 1977. The girl's nearly decapitated body was found the next day at a construction site.

District Judge Frank Price overturned Zimmerman's first conviction and death sentence. The judge ruled a confession used to convict Zimmerman had been coerced by Jacinto City police officers.

Zimmerman has testified just once during the proceedings, in a 1977 pretrial hearing when he accused Jacinto City Police Chief Alan Jamail of torturing the confession from him.

In the second trial, prosecutor Ken Sparks introduced as evidence letters written by Zimmerman to his wife from the Harris County Jail in 1977.

One of the letters contains a plea by Zimmerman for his wife's support. In it, he blamed his crime on mental problems stemming from childhood and the Vietnam War.

"In my childhood, I did crazy things like start fires and kill animals," the letter said. "In Vietnam, it was always young girls, 10 and up to 15 years old. I would go out and strike back at all the women."

"If I met or saw a woman, I would rape her and sometimes beat her up and sometimes as young as 12 or 13," the letter continued. "I know I always used a knife and sometimes I cut them."

Most of the unspecified crimes Zimmerman mentioned in the letter allegedly occurred when he and his wife lived in Indiana.

Glaiser said the admittance of the letter will be the basis for his client's appeal.

"That letter is not admissible," Glaiser said. "It represents privileged communication between husband and wife and since it was written from jail it should have been considered an oral confession."

Don't Unleash Kids in Cars

NEW YORK (NEA) - Wave bye-bye and now everybody into the station wagon: baby up front in the middle, in her plastic feeding seat; little John next to her with an old toy steering wheel someone found to keep him quiet.

And the other kids in the cargo area. It's a long ride and they can use the luggage for building blocks when they're bored with the cross-word puzzles and cut-out books (don't forget pencils and scissors).

They can also fight over the sheep dog who'll be strolling around and chewing the skates. All set? Depress the door lock button and open the window so the kids can call out, "See you soon."

With luck, they will. According to Brian O'Neill, vice-president of research of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety in Washington, D.C., as they now sit, the kids are in the best position for the worst damage in an accident.

The accident which, of course, only happens to other people. Killing them.

"Between the ages of 1 and 35, motor vehicle accidents are the leading cause of death," O'Neill says. "And every year between 1,500 and 1,700 children under the age of 12 die as passengers (HEW and Department of Transportation statistics)."

The Institute is trying to decrease those numbers with the help of insurance company funding only because, O'Neill says, "in this instance, our interest is the same: to reduce highway deaths. But we're not a trade association. We're a non-profit public interest research organization."

Unlike the baby, though, little John will be facing forward because his mouth is so big. "Designers have recognized that as a child gets a voice and mind of its own, he's less likely to be content to face backward."

His toy steering wheel, however, should be facing the peeling in the garbage. "They've been outlawed because in a crash, they function just like a spear aimed at the child's head. So if one has been handed down, get rid of it."

And go one step further with the baby and little John in their restraints. "Unless you tie those restraints down with the lap seat belt, they're useless," O'Neill says. "All you've done otherwise is put the child in something that's free to fly around inside the car in a collision."
Anything not tied down will do that in a crash - luggage, skates, the sheep dog, people - and bang against the interior of the car and everything else in it. Or fly through a window.

Well, you can't strap down the sheep dog. Maybe he should have stayed home - with those pencils and scissors. "The movement in a crash is very sudden," O'Neill says, "and children can stab themselves very nastily with any sharp, pointed objects."

Give them books they can look at, or read. About safe car travel, for instance.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS!!! Be a part of a new and growing business in Herford. NEEDED: Manicurist for sculptured nails, pedicures, nail tips. ALSO: Ex hairstylist interested in skin care and make-up techniques. Send qualifications and telephone number to Box 2151, Herford, Texas. Excellent salary for right people.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Treating cataracts

DEAR DR. LAMB - Will a drop of honey in each eye every night for three weeks clear a cataract? I have heard over the radio that honey will cure arthritis and it is good for cataracts. I had cataract surgery on both eyes but my sister has to have cataract surgery in the near future.
DEAR READER - No honey will not cure or prevent cataracts.
A cataract involves changes of the lens inside the eye. If you look at the eye closely and note the pupil, the lens is situated some distance behind the pupil itself. It's a globular, jelly-like structure that in your youth is very flexible. It has a circle of muscles around it which contract and relax, thereby compressing the lens as needed or allowing it to expand. This change in the jelly-like lens is how it is focused automatically so you can look near or far.
When the lens is clear, it transmits clear light rays and you should be able to see clearly and distinctly if all of the rest of the eye is normal, too. That, by the way, is important because you can have other problems besides cataracts that can cause poor vision. When the lens gets cloudy and has trouble transmitting light, then the things you look at begin to look blurred. This is what a cataract really is.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-6. Your Cataracts Are Coming. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
As The Health Letter I'm sending you explains, the lens of the eye has certain tissue similarities to that of your skin. It constantly forms new cells. In the case of your skin, the old cells are simply shed from the surface. There isn't any place for old cells to go in the lens of your eye. The new cells form at the outside and the old cells are pushed to the interior part of the lens itself. These are damaged cells and cause the cloudy changes in the lens. That's why age is the most common cause of cataracts.

There are a number of other things that can contribute to the early development of cataracts but age still is the most important factor.
Not everyone who has cataracts needs surgery. Many people have these opacities in the lens of the eye and can still see rather well, particularly with the aid of glasses. If that's the case, it's too early to do surgery. These small areas of opacification in the lens are sometimes referred to as immature cataracts.

Still other patients have additional disease in the eye that affects the vision to the point that doing cataract surgery won't help a great deal. That's why the decision as to whether surgery should be done or not has to be based on a careful eye examination by your ophthalmologist.

As you will see from The Health Letter I'm sending you, there are a lot of important considerations about cataracts, including what kind of glasses or contact lenses you might have after surgery. In general, if the cataract is the only significant eye pathology, surgery combined with contact lenses after surgery provides very suitable vision.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am the mother of a normal, healthy 2-year-old daughter. I buy her vitamins and I notice that some contain a substance called folic acid and some do not. This is listed as a necessary nutrient. What is folic acid? Is it necessary to buy vitamins that supply it? If not, what foods contain it?
DEAR READER - Folic acid is so named because it's found in foliage such as spinach. It's present in abundant amounts in fresh, leafy vegetables and other fresh vegetables and fruits.
It is easily destroyed with cooking. That's why fresh leafy salads are important in your diet.
Folic acid has some of the same functions in your body as vitamin B-12. As you may know, a deficiency in vitamin B-12 can cause pernicious anemia. The anemia usually occurs because a person has a fundamental disturbance in his digestive tract and cannot properly absorb vitamin B-12. That, incidentally, is why vitamin B-12 is usually given in shots rather than as pills. That way it does get into the circulation.
Both folic acid and vitamin B-12 will correct certain anemias. But both substances have a generalized effect on the body.
If you're consuming a lot of folic acid and happen to have a vitamin B-12 deficiency, the folic acid will mask the B-12 deficiency. While everything looks proper and an anemia may be corrected, there may be degeneration of the spinal cord associated with B-12 deficiency. This can become permanent. That's why doctors became alarmed about the public getting excessive amounts of folic acid and that also explains why some vitamin preparations don't contain folic acid, and even those that do usually contain it in very small amounts.
Whether your daughter needs folic acid at all depends a lot upon the rest of her diet and you should talk to your pediatrician about this.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm so concerned about my eyes. I didn't go to the eye doctor because I was so scared. What do you think about my case? I have developed a white ring around the brown of my eyes. I've had it for two or more years. When I first noticed it, it scared me so bad I'd wake up at night fearing blindness, yet nothing happened. My father used to have the same thing and nothing happened to him either. I've seen several people with this ring. I'm 64 years old. Could this occur in older people?
DEAR READER - I suspect that you're describing what we call the arcus senilis. It is a change in the eye that's noted in some people as they get older. It does not have a good correlation with aging or any diseases we associate with aging or diseases of the eye so you've worried a lot about nothing. Of course, you should have regular eye examinations at your age anyway, but I wouldn't become frightened because of the arcus senilis ring that you have observed.
READERS WHO WANT information on mental changes with aging can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 14-2. The Aging Mind. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Popcorn stays fresh

DEAR POLLY - I hope somebody can tell me how to store popcorn so it will retain the proper moisture level for good popping. I keep popcorn that is to be used soon in the freezer and find it pops much better.
A 46-ounce jar can be great to use for holding yarn when knitting or crocheting. - PEGGY
DEAR PEGGY - A wholesale dealer in popcorn told me that small quantities of popcorn should be kept in plastic or rubberized containers with tight-fitting lids. The popcorn can be stored in a cupboard at room temperature but never in a basement or such place that might be damp. Stored this way the corn should stay in good shape for a minimum of two to three months. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My vacuum sweeper would not pick up the dog hairs that covered my scoured rug. In desperation I put on my corrugated rubber soled shoes, scraped my foot along the rug and the hairs came up by the handfuls. - MRS. M.D.

DEAR POLLY - When my dog had an ear infection he had to take pills three times a day. As we all know some dogs are very finicky about pills, as mine is, so I hit on the idea of pushing a capsule in the middle of a teaspoon of ice cream. He gulped it down quickly and the ice cream coated the capsule so it slid down easily. Hope this helps other frantic dog lovers. - JEANIE

DEAR POLLY - When putting adhesive-backed decorator plastic on kitchen cupboard shelves allow an extra inch at each side and the back so it will come up and cover the cracks. Food particles can then be wiped off easily instead of having to dig them out of the cracks. - FRANKIE

DEAR POLLY - We tried everything we knew of to get rid of weevils, then moved a couple of years ago and they are still pestering us. I thought I had packed carefully but it did no good so please help me. They are the only bugs we have. - MRS. E.J.

DEAR MRS. E.J. - It sounds to me as if you moved the weevils too. They were probably lurking in some food you seldom use. Sometimes they are brought home from the store where they stayed too long on the shelves during warm weather. Try to find the offending item. Anything that seems questionable should be burned.
It sounds as if you may need a professional to get rid of them all. If you spray with an insecticide yourself, wash all cupboards and storage places thoroughly, fumigate and keep closed long enough for it to work. After they have all disappeared keep a few bay leaves in your flour canister, in corn meal, cereals and anything that might attract them. The bay leaves do not impart a taste to the other foods. I have used them for years as have many others living in humid areas. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - For years I have followed my grandmother's advice and washed and dried a few nice stones that I put in with flour, corn meal or anything else that might attract bugs. It has always worked. - MRS. S.E.T.
DEAR POLLY - I have discovered that housework can actually be enjoyable when accompanied by soft instrumental music - no singing is required. Find a radio station that will provide this and try it. - MRS. L.H.

DEAR POLLY - While raking leaves and twigs we gather little kindling pieces and put them in a medium-size grocery bag that we then close or seal. The next time we want a fire in the fireplace we put one of these bags at the base. It is so neat and clean and one match will light the paper bag that lights the kindling that lights the logs. If we had grandchildren this would be their happy little autumn project. - LAURIE
