

Galan Gets Probated Sentence

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

A six-man, six-woman jury reduced an aggravated assault charge against Inez Galan to misdemeanor assault then handed him a six-month probated sentence in 222nd District Court late Wednesday night.

The jury deliberated two hours before finding Galan guilty of assault at 8:20 p.m. and another 45 minutes following the punishment phase of the trial before deciding on probation.

Galan was on trial for the Feb. 18 stabbing of Johnny Sierra in the 100 block of N. Main. Sierra, who testified Tuesday in the two-day trial, had been stabbed twice in the chest during an altercation with Galan.

Prosecuting attorney Lorin Constanzo had attempted to show that Galan "knowingly and intentionally" attacked Sierra with a knife in order to induce "bodily injury or death."

Defense attorney R.C. Hoelscher, in final arguments before the jury Wednesday night, said that testimony of state witnesses had not proven had not shown that Galan had intended to induce bodily injury to Sierra.

Hoelscher, whose request for a self-defense motive was denied by District Judge Wesley Gulley prior to final arguments, occasionally picked up a three-foot-long club, used by Sierra in the fight, in the attorney's final plea to the jury.

"It was only after Johnny Sierra took that club and came down on Inez Galan and hit him in the head...Here is

New Teachers To Be Honored At C-C Banquet

Fifty-one instructors in the Hereford Independent School District will be recognized during the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce New Teachers Banquet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Community Center.

The banquet is sponsored by the culture committee of the chamber. New teachers will be sponsored by local businesses.

"We've approached the same businesses which sponsored teachers in the past, and as of this morning, we only lacked five sponsors," chamber manager F. Michael Carr said.

"This banquet is also for any other interested person. If anyone wants to make reservations, they need to contact the chamber office by Monday afternoon," Carr added.

In lieu of a featured speaker, the banquet will be highlighted by a presentation on Deaf Smith County's attributes, including the areas of agriculture, business, industry and culture.

Special music will be provided by the Hereford Chamber Singers, who will present their all-new fall program for the first time this year.

Bergland: Railroad Industry Needs Overhaul

[Editor's Note: Ag Sec. Bergland, accompanied by Rep. Kent Hance, will tour from Lubbock today by bus to view the damage inflicted by hailstorms on the South Plains. Brand farm editor Jim Stielert will also be on the bus and report on the fact-finding tour by Bergland.]

DALLAS (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says an inefficient use of boxcars forced Texas grain to be stockpiled on the ground in some places and said a "total reshaping" of the railroad industry is in order.

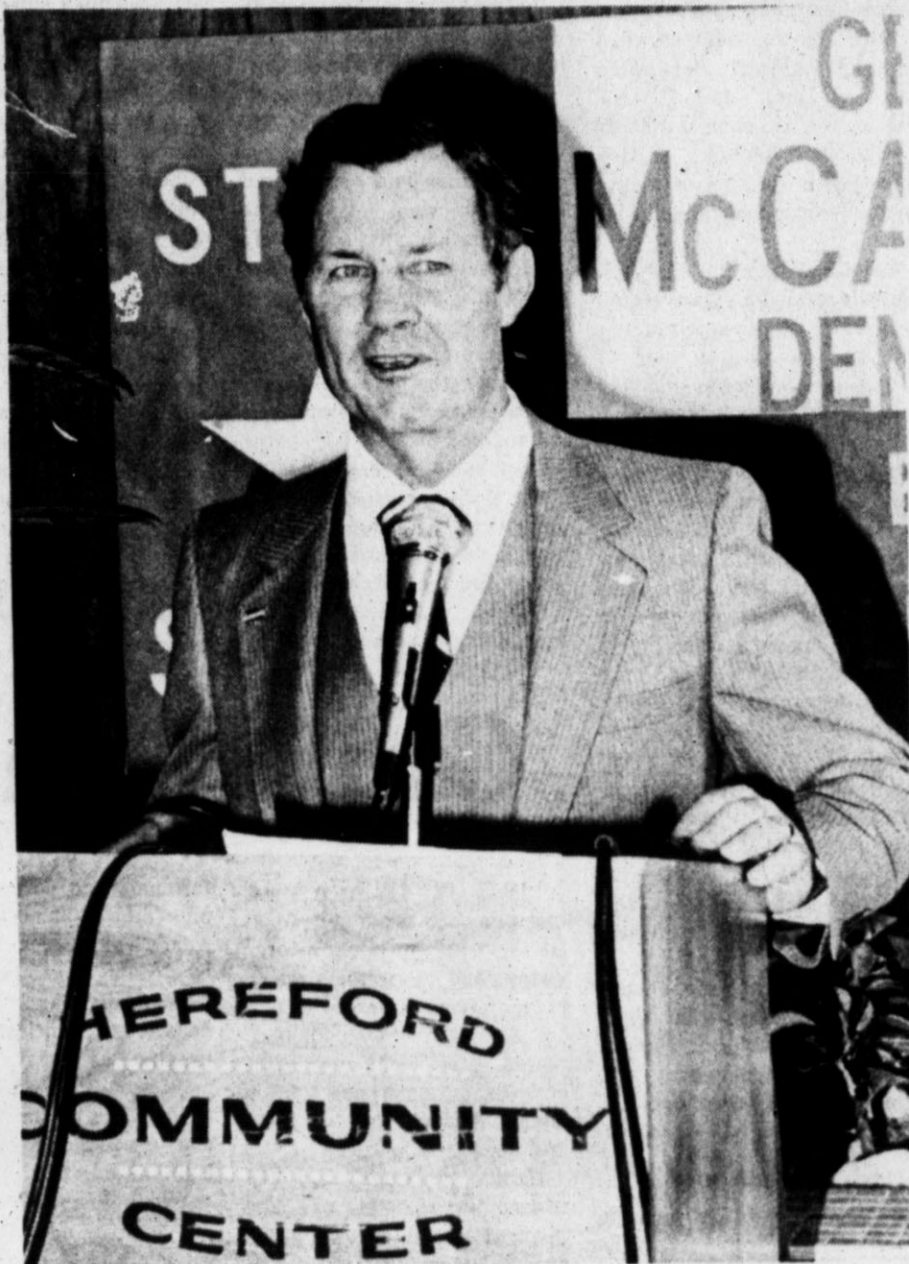

However, Bergland told an audience in Dallas Wednesday — including West Texas farmers who watched grain spill into streets while awaiting delivery two months ago — that the transportation industry is functioning better than generally believed.

The number of boxcars is not the problem, said Bergland. "They're just not efficiently used."

However he acknowledged problems with the railroads.

"I think the time will come when we'll have to rebuild our railroads. It will take 10 to 20 years, but we need to get started," he said.

McCathern Announces Candidacy for Senate

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Staff Writer

Claiming that 31st District Senator Bob Price of Pampa has been "ineffective in representing the district" and likening the current state of affairs in state and national government to the aftermath of Pearl Harbor, Gerald McCathern of Hereford announced his candidacy Wednesday morning for the state senate seat currently held by Price.

McCathern, a prominent individual in the often-controversial American Agriculture Movement over the past two years, made the announcement in a special news conference at the Hereford Community Center.

"The problems confronting us today in energy, inflation, education and taxation demand that we have the best qualified persons possible serving in our state legislature. I can and will dedicate my time to being a servant of the people of District 31, a senator that the people can be proud to have representing them," stated McCathern.

The Hereford farmer and AAM leader cited a background which has included working in the oil fields as a roustabout and roughneck in addition to his farming experiences in the local area and his leadership in the AAM as qualifications for the state office.

During a news conference which followed McCathern's announcement of his candidacy Wednesday morning, members of the area media queried McCathern about his reasons for running, and specifically, his basic criticism of Senator Price.

"I feel Senator Price has been ineffective in representing the district. He introduced 33 bills in the past session and got only one through, and that had something to do with wishing John Wayne a speedy recovery," stated McCathern.

"I can remember after Pearl Harbor when I was anxious to get into the service and fight for my country as soon as possible. I have that same type feeling that followed Pearl Harbor today. Economic problems threaten our whole society and it's time for us to get involved. This is my way of doing so," he added.

McCathern was asked why he is seeking the 31st District Senate seat, rather than another which might benefit agriculture more, such as a membership on the state agriculture committee or U.S. congressman.

"I have to admit that I'll be really short of funds, and that it would be really difficult to seek some of these other offices, where the campaign expenses would be great. As far as Congress, why run for a post where a good job is already being done by Rep. Kent Hance and Rep. Jack Hightower? The state senate is important, however. There's hardly anyone in the state senate right now who understands the needs of this district. We produce 22.5 percent of Texas' gross farm income up here but the folks in the senate don't know this. If I get elected, I can help educate urban congressmen about our problems and get them working for us instead of against us," he stated.

Members of the media also asked McCathern how he felt his association with the American Agriculture Movement would affect his success as a candidate.

"My association with the AAM has to be considered a definite plus for me. The goals I will continue to have are to solve the state and nation's economic problems," the candidate commented.

McCathern responded to a question concerning education and teacher pay raises by claiming that "fiscal responsibility is the key," and added the state's children are still entitled to quality education.

"It's a mistake the state legislature doesn't meet more often," stated McCathern in response to a query concerning his opinion on annual sessions of the legislature.

"Annual sessions need to be considered very carefully," he added.

McCathern replied that he "wouldn't be a candidate if I weren't satisfied with the present salary of legislators."

Concerning the use of food as a weapon, McCathern replied.

Kennedy Having Little Impact on Carter

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's emergence as a likely challenger for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination is having little visible impact on President Carter's autumn political plans. Carter, according to aides and political advisers, will do little campaign-type traveling before November and will not hasten an announcement of his own candidacy because of Kennedy's moves.

In fact, the one new item added to Carter's political agenda for the coming six weeks was prompted largely by the president's decision to leave heavy politicking for later, as he had planned before the Massachusetts senator moved closer to a direct challenge.

The added item is a get-together here with 150 to 200 prominent Democratic supporters from around the country, who, by their presence, will seek to demonstrate that Kennedy has no monopoly on the allegiance of party wheelhorses.

The idea emerged from a meeting of Carter backers Monday night at the Watergate apartment of Robert Strauss, a political ally who is Carter's special Mideast peace negotiator.

Some at the meeting urged that the president, who was not present, hasten an announcement of his candidacy because of Kennedy.

Administration sources who asked not to be named reported Wednesday that

White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan and Carter press secretary Jody Powell argued that the president should bide his time, concentrating in the coming weeks on his effort to build a record of legislative success in Congress.

A clear majority agreed, after which the idea of a dinner or similarly well-publicized function for Carter supporters was broached because participants from outside Washington "said they had people who were itching to get going" in support of the president, a White House aide said.

He added that there was general agreement the president should not openly campaign so far in advance of the presidential primaries, the first of which occurs Feb. 26 in New Hampshire.

The function for which no date has been set, is being organized by Robert J. Keefe, a political consultant and Carter ally.

Another result of the meeting was a move Tuesday by Powell to dispel any doubts about the president's quest for reelection. "I can't imagine that there is any doubt in anyone's mind" about that, he said.

At present, Carter has only two trips on his tentative schedule this fall — to Chicago Oct. 15 for a Democratic fund-raiser and to Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20.

The Cambridge event will find Carter sharing the platform with Kennedy at the dedication of the John F. Kennedy Library.

Powell told reporters Wednesday that Carter's immediate travel itinerary is so skimpy there are no present plans for him to visit Florida again in advance of a mid-November non-binding vote among Democratic convention participants on

Congress Might Still Approve Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House's latest rejection of a pay raise for members of Congress and high-level bureaucrats may not be the last blow in the battle.

New life was breathed into the proposal Wednesday through an oversight by opponents of the pay increase, even though the House voted 219-191 to kill the measure.

As a result, the bill — which would add $4,025 a year to the $57,500 congressmen now get — remained technically alive on the House floor and could be brought up again today if supporters want.

There was no indication supporters would attempt to reverse the vote. But the possibility existed until tonight's House adjournment.

To get the bill brought up again, supporters must find one opponent willing to ask that the vote be reconsidered, a request likely to bring that congressman under fire from his constituents.

And then the supporters must either: —Find enough new supporters willing to go on record in favor of a pay raise to overturn the defeat.

—Or, find opponents who secretly want the pay raise but fear political repercussions if they vote for it. Then, they must persuade those congressmen that Wednesday's vote put them on record as opposing the pay raise and persuade them to stay away from the floor if the bill is brought up again.

The reason the bill remained alive is that no one asked that a motion to reconsider the vote be prohibited, normally a routine request. As a result, a motion to reconsider was allowed until the close of business today.

The House rejected the salary increase on a roll call vote on the legislation to which the pay raise was attached.

Earlier, the House had approved, on an unrecorded 156-64 vote, an amendment that would give a 7 percent raise to congressmen and senators and to all federal judges and bureaucrats making at least $47,500 a year.

It was the second time this year the Chamber of Commerce Board Reviews Projects, Teacher Fete

Plans for the New Teacher Banquet, scheduled Sept. 25, were discussed and other projects reviewed when Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce directors held a monthly session Wednesday afternoon at the C of C board room.

Vice president Jake Webb presided in the absence of president Ken Rogers. No action was taken at the meeting since a quorum was not present.

New teachers will be welcomed to the community at the annual banquet next Tuesday night in the Community Center. Four speakers will briefly outline the Hereford story, and special entertainment will be provided by the Chamber Singers.

Executive vice president Mike Carr announced that the health and safety committee will sponsor a Defensive Driving Course here Oct. 16th and 18th. The classes will be conducted 6:30 to 10 p.m. each of the evenings and registration is only $2.50 for course. Any licensed driver may sign up at the chamber office. Dr. Dennis Cannon and Dean Fox are heading up the project.

Carr also reminded directors that the chamber's next Fun Breakfast is scheduled next Thursday, Sept. 27. He reported that organizational plans have begun for the C of C Follies, set for Nov. 15-17.

Speedy Nieman, chairman of the Past Presidents' committee, reported that the group had initiated plans to visit home offices of industrial firms in Hereford. Ken Rogers, Raymond White and Dick Montgomery made the first such trip this week, going to St. Louis to visit the Ralston-Purina headquarters.

Mary Herring, president of the Women's Division, reported that plans have been made for the annual Women's Emphasis Days program. Following a quarterly meeting on Oct. 2, the special events for Women's Emphasis Days will be conducted on Oct. 3-4.

Attending the meeting were directors Jake Webb, Milton Adams, Speedy Nieman, Jonny Cloud, Butch White and Mary Herring.

Vatican Shows Concern over Pope-Visit Fuss

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Flim-flam artists in Boston are peddling fake tickets for seats at a papal Mass, and officials in Chicago are piling concrete blocks on a parking garage to test whether it can support the throngs of people expected to attend Pope Paul II's Mass there.

Meanwhile, squabbles over who will pay for what during the pope's visit next month are being ironed out, and church officials at the Vatican are puzzled over the fuss.

"It's ridiculous," said the Rev. Vincent O'Keefe, an American Jesuit official, reacting to controversy over use of public property for Masses and public money for crowd control and the construction of platforms.

An Italian prelate, who asked not to be identified, said, "It's a classic case of one being unable to see the forest for the trees. The pope is not only a religious leader. He is a world leader and a head of state. I am puzzled why his visit cannot be perceived as a joyous and peaceful occasion that will help bring them together."

In Boston, state Rep. Michael F. Flaherty warned that hucksters are going door to door in some neighborhoods offering for $4.50 tickets to a Mass on Oct. 1, the first day of John Paul's six-day visit to the United States.

"The Mass on the Boston Common is free to everyone," Flaherty said. "These con schemers are committing a most heinous crime...."

Flaherty said he knew of one elderly woman who purchased a ticket for a "seat of honor" at the Mass.

An crowd that could reach 2 million people is expected for a Mass on Oct. 5 in Chicago's Grant Park. Officials say it is likely thousands unable to get into the park will seek a nearby vantage point, like the roof of the Monroe Street Underground Garage.

In Des Moines, church officials estimate the pope's four-hour visit Oct. 4 will cost about $1.2 million. Aides to the Des Moines Diocese said public money would be used only for security and the church would pay for the rest.

The city of Boston appropriated $750,000 Wednesday for crowd control during the visit. A day earlier the Boston Archdiocese announced it would spend $150,000 for platforms and altars for the papal Mass.

Authorities in New York say they expect to use 11,000 police officers at a cost of $2.5 million to $3 million during the papal visit. The Archdiocese will rent Yankee and Shea stadiums and pay for altars to be used in papal Masses, satisfying the New York Civil Liberties Union.

In Philadelphia, where the pope will say Mass Oct. 3, archdiocesan officials announced about 1,000 priests will give communion with 30,000 wafers baked by 22 Sisters of the Cross, a cloistered order.

Priests are expected to bring additional wafers, and officials estimate as many as 250,000 of the crowd of perhaps one million may be able to receive communion.

White to Sue Clements'

Operation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White says he will sue SEDCO — the drilling company founded by Gov. Bill Clements — and Pemex, the national Mexican oil firm, as a result of the offshore oil spill that soiled Texas beaches.

White also said he would sue one of Pemex's contractors, Permargo.

White said in an interview taped for showing Sunday that he will try to assess responsibility for what he called "mismanagement, negligent operation and negligently maintained equipment."

He said he would probably wait to file suit until after President Carter and Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo meet in Washington Sept. 28-29.

White was interviewed for "Capitol Eye."

Dollar Falls, Gold Up

Again in Trading

LONDON (AP) — The dollar spiraled downward on European money markets today as some dealers predicted a renewed crisis of confidence in the U.S. currency. Gold again reached record highs in European bullion centers, but subsided in late trading.

The dollar hit 11-month lows in Milan and Frankfurt and was lower in Tokyo.

West Germany's Bundesbank, the country's central monetary authority, announced it bought up $15.5 million to prop up the dollar when it dropped from 1.8073 late Wednesday to a late fixing of 1.7745 marks. It was first time the dollar dipped below 1.80 marks in 11 months and was the lowest value since shortly before President Carter announced a dollar support package last Nov. 1.

The dollar also hit a low for the year against the Italian lira in Milan, but the Bank of Italy did not grant any support to the U.S. currency despite significant selling pressure.

The dollar, weaker for the fourth consecutive session in Milan, was fixed at 806.05 lire, down from 813.30 late Wednesday.

In Tokyo, the U.S. currency plunged more than a yen in heavy trading.

Representatives Nix

1980 Fed Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — A suddenly rebellious House is forcing Democratic leaders to take a second look at a $548.6 billion 1980 budget that went down to surprising defeat.

The House rejected the spending package, 213-192, Wednesday night as Republicans joined with some conservative and liberal Democrats in an unusual coalition against the budget.

The vote sends the budget back to committee, where it is expected to be changed only slightly before being returned to the floor next week. The 1980 budget year begins Oct. 1.

The unexpected rejection came just hours after the House refused to join the Senate in raising defense spending. However, the budget's defeat seemed to result from dissatisfaction with overall spending levels, rather than from the defense issue.

On a 62-36 vote Wednesday, the Senate approved its $546.3 billion version of the 1980 budget, containing 3 percent growth in 1980 defense spending over and above inflation. The Senate also included non-binding 5 percent "real growth" defense increases for fiscal 1981 and 1982.

The House budget would increase 1980 defense spending by about 1 percent after inflation.

Defeat of the budget clearly caught members of the House Budget Committee by surprise.

U.S. Beef Program

Announced by USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has formally recommended setting up a national beef research and promotion program financed by cattle producers.

Officials said Wednesday the "recommended decision" to establish the program was based on evidence gathered at public hearings earlier this week.

Under the plan, authorized by Congress in the Beef Research and Information Act of 1976, producers would be assessed up to 0.2 percent of the value of cattle sold. After that, the rate could be changed but would not be allowed to exceed 0.5 percent of the cattle's value.

A beef board made up of producers would collect the assessments. Producers who did not want to contribute to the program would be able to ask for refunds.

Written comments on the recommendation will be accepted until Nov. 5. They can be sent to: Hearing Clerk, Room 1077-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

After the comments are reviewed, the department will make a final decision. If that decision is in favor of the proposal, producers will vote on it in a national referendum.

Plan Easy on Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's wage guidelines have taken a battering from organized labor in the past year. They've been defiled by machinists, stretched nearly to the breaking point by teamsters, simply ignored by auto workers.

But as an unusually crowded year of contract bargaining nears an end, the administration says its wage standards — which are voluntary — have done well in the face of strong union defiance and rampant inflation.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall says the guidelines have reined in large wage settlements without provoking a year of punishing labor strife that had been predicted for 1979.

Carter's 7 percent annual wage ceiling was expected to provoke a disruptive auto strike to close out 1979's bargaining schedule. Instead, General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers, the last major union to negotiate national contracts in 1979, settled last weekend on a new industry pattern agreement without a strike — the first time that has happened in 15 years.

Labor peace at GM apparently was achieved at the expense of the guidelines. Administration officials believe the settlement will boost wages and benefits by more than 30 percent over three years.

And this follows national contract agreements that gave Teamsters above a 9 percent yearly increase in wages and benefits, airline mechanics 34 percent over three years, rubber workers 35 to 40 percent in a three-year contract, construction workers 10 to 11 percent a year, and electrical workers 30 percent over three years.

Overall, an estimated 3 million workers are affected by these major contracts.

One presidential inflation adviser estimates that wage settlements this year are averaging 8 1/2 percent — well above the guidelines — even though weak unions and unorganized workers generally have been held to increases within the voluntary 7 percent pay ceiling.

Despite the many large settlements won by big unions, the government has declared only two national contracts to be above the guidelines. In the other cases, notably the Teamsters settlement, the government stretched the guidelines through special exemptions.

And, the administration refuses to let the GM settlement and the other big increases dampen its praise for the voluntary guidelines.

"Without the program, wage settlements would have been higher by at least 4 percent or two," said the inflation adviser, who asked not to be identified.

"Despite a lot of bruises and batterings, the wage standard really did have a decelerating effect on overall wages," he said.

Marshall said the guidelines "obviously fared a lot better in the earlier part of the year than the latter part," when inflation rose to a 13 percent annual rate — twice what the administration expected when it set the wage guidelines last fall.

Nevertheless, Marshall said, "nobody would doubt" that the guidelines held wage settlements down.

That kind of restraint was accomplished, he said, without provoking prolonged, economically crippling strikes by recalcitrant unions.

The year had its share of national strikes — by teamsters in the trucking industry, mechanics at United Airlines, electrical workers at Westinghouse.

But Marshall said there still were fewer and less disruptive walkouts than had been feared last fall, when tough-talking administration inflation fighters urged companies to take strikes rather than give in to excessive union wage demands.

Spokesmen for organized labor agree that the guidelines suppressed wages, a trend that has angered them.

"On balance, they have restrained worker wages, but in a sense that they weren't ever intended to," said AFL-CIO research director Rudy Oswald.

Initially, the guidelines were intended to keep workers up with inflation," he said. But he added that the administration should have seen its price restraint program was failing and relaxed its wage guidelines.

Administration officials have acknowledged that the price guidelines have not curbed inflation, in large part because they do not cover food, fuel, housing and interest rates — the major causes of inflation.

Some powerful unions, like the UAW, dealt with what they felt was an unfair program by simply declaring that the wage guidelines were dead and ignoring them in bargaining.

The AFL-CIO and a number of member unions challenged the guidelines in a court suit contesting the administration's authority to withhold federal contracts from companies that violate the guidelines. The AFL-CIO lost in the U.S. Court of Appeals, but a request for the Supreme Court to take the case remains active.

Gulf Rains Deep

HOUSTON (AP) — A storm

that punished the South Texas coast with hurricane-force winds and torrential downpours, forcing hundreds of persons to evacuate flooded homes, roared past Southeast Texas early today, apparently sparing already flooded Houston more problems.

Earlier forecasts had indicated the Houston area and the upper Texas coast might get an additional 10 inches of rainfall.

Rain was falling in Houston early today, but not as heavy as had been earlier forecast.

Forecasters called for the rain to end from west to east across Southeast Texas today.

But authorities feared that bayous filled with water from earlier rains might flood more as the runoff increased.

The storm had been drifting slowly towards Houston, but it picked up speed and moved into Louisiana early today.

But Houston was not without flooding problems.

Harris County Deputy Sheriff Frank Balcone estimated that 3,000 persons had to be evacuated from their homes in the county.

Harris County assistant Civil Defense director John Caswell said "We've had more widespread flooding, more requests rescues and opened more shelters than at any time I know of."

Red Cross spokesman Bill Baron of Harris County said 600 persons were in seven emergency shelters in the county early today. He said he did not know how many persons were in the shelters in other counties, but he said the Red Cross has 12 shelters in Brazoria County, 11 in Galveston County, 2 in Matagorda County and one each in Wharton and Fort Bend counties.

Many major Houston streets, including sections of major freeways and portion of Interstate 10, were closed because of high water.

At least 300 Corpus Christi residents and several hundred other area residents were driven from their homes Wednesday by flooding, and water several feet deep was reported in houses and vehicles in parts of the city.

Aransas Pass was drenched by 13 inches of rain Wednesday and Corpus Christi reported eight inches.

Winds gusted up to 86 miles per hour — hurricane force winds are 74 mph or more — as police used high-rise buses to evacuate people.

Cecil Palmer, chief meteorologist for the National Weather System in Alvin, said Wednesday that his office was keeping close tabs on the storm's steady, but slow drift toward Houston, where some area residents already have been forced to flee from rising waters.

The county sheriff's department marine division was using boats to evacuate those who wanted to leave from Seacrest, a subdivision in southeast Harris County hard hit when heavy rain drenched the area during Tropical Storm Claudette July 26-27.

"We have more Houston streets flooded than I've ever seen before," Caswell said Wednesday evening.

Houston already had received more than four inches of rain by Wednesday night, and some areas had eight inches within a 24-hour period.

Utner subdivisions that experienced flooding included Sagemont, Sage Meadows, Kirkmont and Kirkwood.

Tides along the Gulf Coast were three to four feet higher than normal Wednesday, closing state highway 87 between High Island and Sabine Pass.

About 6,000 people in the Corpus Christi vicinity lost their electricity and more than 8,600 telephones were out. Two inches of water was reported in City Hall.

Crews worked all Wednesday night trying to restore power to areas of Corpus Christi blacked out by the storm.

Many roads were closed along the South Texas Coast Wednesday, including U.S. 181 north of the city where the highway spans Nueces Bay; state highways 70 and 35, both to Port Aransas; and Park Roads 22 and 53; and Farm Road 892. Kennedy Causeway also was closed.

The heavy downpours hit hardest in the early morning hours, with 7 to 13 inches of rain reported in a 24-hour period throughout the city.

Wednesday's flooding rains in Houston came less than two months after a deluge that caused between $750 million and $1 billion in Harris and Galveston counties.

"The real tragedy is that these people have just completed cleanup of their homes from the last flood," said Jim Green, assistant Harris County flood control director. "Now they will have to start all over again."

Forecasters called for decreasing cloudiness with rain and showers ending from the west across the eastern half of Texas today. West Texas was to have mostly clear skies.

Highs today were to be mostly in the upper 70s to lower 80s except in far South Texas where readings were expected to be in the lower 90s.

Heavy rain was falling across much of East Texas early today. Lufkin had 1.50 inches of rain by early today.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s in West Texas to the 60s and 70s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 51 at Dalhart to 77 at Beaumont.

"The President has indicated to the Russians that we may not sell them any more grain if they maintain troops in Cuba, so I guess we're already using food as a weapon. We have been selling a big portion of our production to foreign lands for many years at prices under our actual production costs. Grain is oil, any way you look at it. We take oil and convert it to grain. We buy oil at $20 a barrel, then sell it for $7. We are servants of the world right now, and we won't correct the situation until we realize the importance of our commodities and start taking care of ourselves first."

McCathern was asked to rank his top opposition for the senate seat, but quipped, "I don't think I'll have any tough opposition in the primary."

McCathern claimed that his background will allow him to relate to the problems of factions including labor, business, education, the oil and gas industry, and agriculture.

Assault

Inez—he's dizzy, but if he really wanted to assault Johnny, here is Johnny lying on the ground. Why didn't Inez walk over there and plug him a couple of times," Hoelscher said.

"Only after Inez got hit in the head, did the knife come up. It was an automatic reaction," he said.

Galan had testified earlier in the day that he had thrown up the knife accidentally and had only stabbed Sierra once.

Constanzo, in final arguments, said that if the knife was an accident, Sierra, "who, like me, is a big man," would have been struck in the stomach, not in the upper portion of the chest.

"He never intended to kill or hurt him," Hoelscher argued.

"This was no accident in any manner whatsoever," Constanzo said.

McCathern grew up in the Pampa area and following service as an aviation engineer in the Air Force in Europe during World War II he entered Texas Tech University, where he received a degree in petroleum geology.

He worked in the Permian Basin area as a geologist prior to moving to Hereford, where he took up farming.

He and his wife, the former Bonnie Traueck of Lubbock, are the parents of three children.

McCathern is a past chairman of the agriculture committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, and served as vice president of the Texas State National Farmers Organization.

He also served as secretary of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, and was a director of the U.S. Feedgrains Council.

government to stop inflation.

"Instead of depending on constrictions and control the incentive should be provided to producers," he said.

"Inflation will be brought under control when we start practicing constraint in our public and private life."

Bergland said current beef import laws need to be changed and cattlemen need to maintain a proper balance in the sizes of their herds. "We've got to avoid this boom and bust cycle," he said.

Bergland also said several programs are under way to try to find alternate fuel sources. He said farmers should have no problems with fuel this year or next.

About popular cries seeking straight

Prosecution Retires

By KATHLEEN CARROLL
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors have rested their murder solicitation case against millionaire Cullen Davis, paving the way for defense attorneys to begin their tale of conspiracy and elaborate subterfuge.

Defense attorneys would not say who their first witness would be, but subpoenaed Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, late Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Davis was the first defense witness to take the stand at an earlier murder-for-hire trial in Houston.

That proceeding ended in a mistrial when jurors deadlocked 8-4 for conviction. Davis is accused of concocting a scheme to buy the murder of his divorce judge, Joe Eidson.

Davis contends he was the victim of an elaborate frame devised by his ex-wife, former Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson and key prosecution witness David McCrory.

At 12:18 p.m. Wednesday, prosecutor Jack Strickland announced suddenly that "the state rests its case."

Judge Gordon Gray later denied a routine motion by defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes for an instructed verdict of innocent and adjourned.

Over the last five and a half weeks, prosecutors have woven their case against Davis through the testimony of eight witnesses.

Strickland, however, hinted that there may be more surprises in store from the state.

"Anybody who thinks this case is over is in for a nasty surprise," he said.

The state took only three weeks to present its case in Houston, and the length of Strickland's case renewed speculation that this trial could last until Christmas.

Davis, 45, told reporters the state's case "is in shambles."

"I'm just glad they finally stopped," he said.

Among the state's witnesses were four FBI agents, an FBI photographer, a former district attorney's investigator, the purported victim, Eidson, and McCrory, a former Davis buddy-turned-informant.

McCrory was on the stand 11 days, seven under grueling cross-examination. Through McCrory, prosecutors introduced two tape recordings of meetings where mass murder was discussed.

The meticulous cross-examination was designed to chip away at McCrory's credibility. Haynes later characterized McCrory's testimony as full of "misstatements, errors or out-and-out lies."

"Our witnesses will be more probative and will offer clear proof of conspiracy we attempted to prove at Houston," said defense lawyer Steve Sumner.

"We're going to present a much better-organized defense ... there will be some similarities and some surprises," he said.

"This is just more of the defense for all seasons," Strickland quipped. "All things come to those who wait. And there is plenty of time ... plenty of time."

"Traditionally, a mistrial works in favor of the defense," he continued. "But in this case, it imposes a hell of a lot of restrictions on the defense, too. If they think their witnesses can get up on the stand and play fast and loose with the truth, they're going to be reminded of their previous testimony."

"It's an age-old rule of tit-for-tat."

Alleged McInnis Victim Testifies about Claim

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — The intended target of a murder-conspiracy plot allegedly arranged by Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis wiped away tears Wednesday as he testified McInnis once claimed to the real father of the man's daughter.

Noe Villanueva took the witness stand in the first day of testimony at McInnis' civil disbarment trial. He returns today for further questioning.

The district attorney faces loss of his law license because of allegations by the State Bar of Texas that he violated professional standards of conduct.

The bar alleges McInnis harassed Villanueva using his official capacity while representing the man's ex-wife in a civil child custody battle. The district attorney allegedly filed unfounded criminal charges against Villanueva and caused his repeated-arrest merely to find the child in the custody fight, says the bar.

McInnis allegedly tried to obtain a hit man to kill Villanueva in Reynosa, Mexico, the bar says in another portion of his formal complaint.

"He told me Patricia (Villanueva's ex-wife) was very lovely and he asked me if I knew who she was going out with," the witness said. "He told me his daughter was very pretty."

"Mr. McInnis referred to your daughter as his daughter?" asked State Bar lawyer Jerry Zunker.

"Yes," Villanueva replied. The bar's witness said he talked with McInnis Oct. 10, 1976, after being arrested for violating a court order that gave his ex-wife custody of the child.

Villanueva admitted he took the child from his former spouse and went to Houston for more than a year until he was arrested on Oct. 6, 1976.

After returning to Hidalgo County, he said McInnis visited him in jail and asked where the little girl was.

"He said I had better start doing what he said because he wasn't going to put up with me anymore," the 27-year-old man said.

Villanueva did not testify about the alleged murder-conspiracy plot, which the State Bar says took shape in 1978.

McInnis claims other county officials and law enforcement officers conspired to get him out of office.

Lewis said in opening arguments that local Sheriff Brig Marmolejo got a Hidalgo County jail inmate to wear a microphone and then tricked McInnis into answering questions about the alleged plot.

Marmolejo even tried to talk to the governor about appointing one of the sheriff's "cronies" as district attorney, Lewis added.

In the disbarment suit, the jury will decide if McInnis has violated certain standards of professional conduct. If the jury agrees with the bar's formal complaint, State District Judge Joe B. Evins will decide whether to disbar McInnis.

The longtime prosecutor, who won murder convictions over the arguments of defense attorney Percy Foreman of Houston, is suspended from office pending a separate suit to remove him from office.

Earlier state and federal charges against McInnis of criminal murder-conspiracy have been dropped.

But he still faces federal charges he lied to a grand jury about the purported scheme.

Demo Woman Endorses Ted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Democratic National Committeewoman Billie Carr, saying Americans have "lost hope" in President Carter, has joined the growing movement to draft Sen. Edward Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"This has not been an easy decision," Ms. Carr, the leader of liberal Texas Democrats, said Wednesday by phone from Houston.

"I have the utmost respect for President Carter. I feel he has made some important contributions to our country. I also hoped he could be a two-term president," she added.

"However, I feel it is time to face facts. Support of the president is at an all-time low. People have lost hope. It would take a major miracle for the president to get re-elected to a second term," said Ms. Carr.

The addition of Ms. Carr and her followers gives added strength to the grass roots Kennedy organizations that have sprouted across Texas in the past six weeks.

Kennedy organizations, registered with the Federal Election Commission, have been formed in San Antonio, Dallas and El Paso to urge the Massachusetts senator to challenge Carter for the 1980 Democratic nomination. Similar organizations are forming in Austin and Houston.

Members of the State Democratic Committee who lead the Dallas and San Antonio groups say they are attempting to secure thousands of signatures on petitions urging Kennedy to run.

The groups also plan to begin constructing a campaign organization, working at the precinct level to pinpoint supporters and secure delegates to the 1980 state and national conventions.

State Democratic Committeeman Richard Solo, co-chairman of the Texas for Kennedy-North Texas group in Dallas, said that if Kennedy becomes a formal candidate the organizations would then be turned over to his campaign leaders and serve as the foundation for Kennedy's Texas campaign organization.

Kennedy has given indications in the past month that he might become an official candidate.

Ms. Carr said Wednesday she became convinced Kennedy would run after his family recently agreed to his candidacy. Although she acknowledged that she is a longtime Kennedy supporter, Ms. Carr said she planned to support Carter for a second term and didn't think Kennedy would run.

"I've had two problems with a Draft Kennedy program," she said. "First, I have never felt a candidate for public office should have to be drafted. I like candidates to make their own decisions. Second, I hesitated because of a keen sensitivity and respect for his family's concerns and feelings."

Texasan John White, the Carter-appointed Democratic national chairman, had said such a Kennedy-Carter fight would split the party and elect a Republican president. But he backed off those statements Tuesday, saying that the competition "doesn't have to" split the party.

Ms. Carr agreed, saying, "I don't intend to get in a name-calling, bloody battle. I can support President Carter's reelection if he's nominated again. I don't think there will be a falling out."

By DON KENDALL
 AP Farm Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite prospects that U.S. farm exports will continue growing, the Agriculture Department has a fairly grim view of how things are going in the world at large. Other federal agencies, including the State Department, may have more to say about U.S. policy abroad, but USDA has to keep an eye on happenings overseas for their effect on the Iowa corn crop, for example. Put simply, if foreign buyers don't have the cash to buy U.S. grain, soybeans, cotton, tobacco or other commodities, farmers in Iowa and elsewhere will suffer because surpluses build up and prices go down. Such an extreme isn't happening right now, but a new analysis by USDA's outlook board indicates that many countries are suffering a severe crunch from inflation and other economic factors that eventually will have an impact on farmers. The report, released Wednesday, is a summary of a more detailed analysis due in a few weeks. "A slowdown in world economic expansion is likely in 1980," the report said. "Lagging investment and chronic inflation, exacerbated by the sharp oil price rises, have reduced growth prospects in many developed countries." "Inflation rates are likely to remain high through 1980," it continued. "The higher import bills will worsen trade and payments deficits." Moreover, in the poorer, developing countries, "economic prospects ... are also deteriorating," the report said. Current deficits of those countries

"are expected to rise sharply in 1979 and further in 1980" which could force some food-importing countries to rely more heavily on U.S. concessional sales under aid programs. On the brighter side, the report noted earlier projections that U.S. farm exports, estimated at a record value of about $32 billion in the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30, are expected to rise to $35 billion to $40 billion in 1979-80. The report said harvest shortfalls in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and some other countries "will cause substantial growth in grain trade" worldwide in 1979-80, probably a gain of about 10 percent. "Because of limited supplies and transportation difficulties in some other exporting countries, the United States will provide much of the forecast increase."

Fire Destroys 90,000 Brush Acres

By The Associated Press
A 16,000-acre fire singed the city limits of Ventura as hundreds of firefighters battling hot weather and erratic winds struggled to quell at least 16 blazes consuming 90,000 acres of California brush and timber. Since Saturday, 44 homes have been destroyed by the fires.

"My people have just about had it," said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Dave Blaine of the firefighters who have come from as far as Maine to help control the flames. "Some of them have been at it now for two weeks and they're in as much danger from heat stroke or heart attack as they are from the fires," he said.

Hundreds of people in the Ventura area fled their homes Wednesday when that blaze, which began Tuesday, came within two miles of the city limits. Fire department officials said later the city of 64,800 was in no danger and only a barn was destroyed before fire fighters beat back the blaze. "It was quite a sight to see — the fire coming up toward the town," said Ventura County Fire Capt. Dick Perry. "It was like a wall of flames." Meanwhile, a half-dozen houses were in ashes near Goleta, in Santa Barbara County 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles, after a 4,000-acre fire roared through Eagle Canyon and into the Los Padres National Forest. Fires also burned across 40,000 acres in the Angeles National Forest above Los Angeles, including 3,000 acres north of Claremont in eastern Los Angeles County. In Northern California, 8,200 acres of forest burned near Placerville, 50 miles northeast of Sacramento, and 3,000 acres went up in flames in Plumas County, 110 miles northeast of Sacramento. The Claremont blaze, which began Wednesday, spread rapidly and for a time threatened about 50 cabins in Palmer Canyon. Los Angeles County Fire Department spokeswoman Faye Nagy said that 350 firefighters backed by helicopters laden with chemicals battled through brush up to 25 feet high to save structures. "Helicopters were dropping their loads right on top of homes," she said. Meantime, the California Division of Forestry was battling its biggest fire of the year in San Diego County as erratic winds sent flames racing across more than 5,500 acres of brush in rural Dulzura, 30 miles east of San Diego. In the Angeles National Forest 20 miles north of Los Angeles, firemen reported Wednesday that the end was in sight for the mammoth Sage Fire, which had charred 31,000 acres of brushland.

Seek to Snap Bulldog Streak

Herd Tackles Borger

Following a good week of drills that had all of the coaching staff pleased, the "Hostile Herd" will be looking for its second consecutive victory of the 1979 season here Friday night when they host the unbeaten Borger Bulldogs.

When the 7:30 p.m. kickoff arrives Friday, the Herd will be seeking its first triumph over Borger since 1974. The Bulldogs took a 13-0 win last year; routed the Herd by 40-6 the year before, and scored close 28-21 and 19-18 wins in 1975-76. Hereford edged the Dogs by 16-15 in '74, by 15-12 in '73, and romped by 33-0 in 1972.

The AAA Bulldogs, a traditional non-conference foe, will bring a philosophy of ball control into the clash, using a strong rushing attack from a wing-T formation. Borger runs a basic 5-2 defense with variations.

While the offense aims to control the ball, the Borger defense will rely on strength and size to stop the Whiteface's veer offense. Herd coach Don Cumpston believes Borger's strong points will be team size and overall strength on both sides of the ball.

Offensively, the Bulldogs are guided by a 6-6, 210-pound quarterback who has the ability to pass or run with the ball. "Borger goes with the basics and rely on execution and good techniques to win ball games," stated Cumpston.

The Herd coach also noted that Borger uses the play-action pass frequently, "so our defensive secondary will have to be alert on every play and not commit too early to the run."

Cumpston said the Borger team is "probably the best coached and has the best personnel combinations that we've faced thus far, and the key for us will be our mental attitude.

A couple of Whiteface are sidelined for the contest. Captain Robbie Fish, an offensive and defensive starter, has been sick this week and unable to work out. Lineman Thane Wright has not been in action this season due to a broken knuckle. Running back Joe Walker injured a shoulder in practice Tuesday, but he is expected to be ready for the encounter.

The Whitefaces will continue to go with the veer-oriented offense, which is beginning to fall into place, according to Coach Cumpston. He feels the team is beginning to execute the intricate system with more confidence.

Hereford's quick and hard-hitting defensive unit, which responded so well in the late stages of the Palo Duro game, may be severely tested again this week.

Alabama, Texas, USC, Penn State Are Favored

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

There's nothing like college football to turn grown, dignified men and women into a babel of banner-waving, horn-tooting juveniles. They go into spasms over cleated knights in plastic and synthetic armor who spend three hours wrestling for a result that makes the mob want to tear down the goalposts.

The combatants are distinguishable by their flamboyant colors and weird nicknames. There are scores of Tigers and Bears, plus Trojans, Spartans, Boilermakers, Spiders and even Webfoots and Buckeyes (a hard Ohio nut with a big brown eye).

But in the final analysis, only mathematics count. Last week our score was a gaudy 41-8. .837 with the Fighting Irish (Notre Dame) and Bruins (UCLA) the surprise specials. Season score: 71-20, .780.

Expect no drastic upheavals this week.

Southern California 33, Minnesota 20: How can a Trojan on a white horse be unseated by a Gopher?

Alabama 37, Baylor 7: They call them the Crimson Tide, Red Elephants and Scarlet Doom. This one is the Bear (Bryant) vs. the Bears.

Oklahoma 47, Tulsa 13: The always formidable Sooners rely on a wishbone ball-handling Houdini named Julius Caesar Watts. Wot?

Texas 34, Iowa State 9: The belated debut of the "Hook 'Em Horns" gang. The Longhorns have a hatchet man named Hatchett.

Purdue 19, Notre Dame 15: The Boilermakers will do a little sodering, on last week's conquerors of Michigan.

Michigan 43, Kansas 3: Speaking of Michigan, they bounce back with B.J. Dickey and a more diversified attack. What's a Wolverine?

$2.4 Million Needed to Send U.S. Olympic Team to Russia

By JOHN MOSSMAN

AP Sports Writer

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

(AP) — Some 528 athletes and another 138 staff members will comprise the United States entourage to the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow, a U.S. Olympic Committee spokesman says.

The cost of sending those 666 persons is estimated at $2.4 million, which includes transportation, processing and housing.

"We'll be able to cover that cost through our fund-raising efforts," Mike Moran, assistant director of communications for the USOC, said Wednesday.

Moran said the USOC quadrennial fund-raising campaign for the period from 1976-80 had reached $20.2 million by the end of August, and another $9 million was expected from corporate participation. Donations generally aren't earmarked for a specific event or Olympic function.

The USOC has a total budget of $25,750,000 for the four-year period, which includes the cost of the Moscow Games and an estimated $950,000 for the Winter Games in Lake Placid. Not included in that budget figure is the cost of staging the National Sports Festival and operating the USOC training centers.

"Our main concerns now are in paying for the Festival and the training centers," Moran said. "All our other expenses appear to be covered."

Moran explained that the 138 staffers who will go to Moscow include coaches, managers, team physicians and "a very few U.S. Olympic House people — maybe a half dozen from the headquarters here in Colorado Springs."

He emphasized that all non-athletes will serve in some administrative capacity, such as coordinating press services, transportation, housing, tickets or food.

The American entourage will assemble and be processed somewhere in West Germany about two weeks prior to the start of the Moscow Games, Moran said, and the athletes and staff then will go to Moscow in shifts depending on the schedule of athletic events. He said the exact site and date of the assembling and processing hasn't yet been determined.

Years ago, my brother bought my share in a family farm. He did not record the deed. Upon my brother's death, my nephew inherited the property. He now wishes to sell the farm and wants me to execute a quit claim deed. What is a quit claim deed?

Quit claim deeds are sometimes used in real estate transactions to clear title to property, particularly if other substantiating records were lost or not filed. In giving your nephew a quit claim deed, you indicate you no longer have any claims against the title to the property (because you sold it to your brother). By quit claim deed, you relinquish any interest you had in the property, but you do not guarantee what those interests were. You also guarantee the transfer of any interest you might have once had in the property.

Royals Beat Angels; Reds Slip By Padres

Bench's Homer Pads Cincinnati Lead

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It doesn't take much to get Johnny Bench excited. Just throw him into a pennant race and watch him go to work.

Bench's two-run homer gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres and boosted their lead in the National League West to 2 1/4 games over Houston, which lost to Atlanta 6-5.

"I don't know how he could play any better, unless he got a hit every time up," said Reds Manager John McNamara of his star catcher, who is hitting .282 with 22 home runs and 75 RBI and has been the team's hottest hitter down the stretch.

"He's had a very good year, especially since the All-Star break, when he's hit over .300. And he's done some job catching."

Bench, whose torrid second half of the season places him among the favorites for the NL's most valuable player award, isn't exactly enjoying the grind.

"I'm going to be 50 years old before this thing is over," he said. "It's wears you out. I'm tired mentally and physically."

Not many people expected the Astros to remain close for so long. Bench was asked if Houston, which entertains the Reds' for three games this weekend, can win the division with a rookie catcher — Bruce Bochy.

"Not unless his name is Johnny Bench," he said with a smile.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh's lead over Montreal in the NL East was reduced to one game when the Pirates split a two-night double-header in Philadelphia, winning 9-6 and losing 6-5, while the Expos took a pair from the Mets, 3-1 and 4-1. St. Louis and Chicago split their twinbill, with the Cards victorious 6-3, then falling 3-2 in 10 innings. Los Angeles beat San Francisco 7-2.

Braves 6, Astros 5

Glenn Hubbard slammed a three-run homer and Bob Horner had a two-run shot to pace the Braves, who had another hero in Gary Matthews.

With the tying run on second and two out in the ninth, Art

Howe belted a long drive to right field which Matthews caught over his shoulder while tumbling to the ground.

Pirates 9-5, Phillies 6-6

The Pirates rallied from a 6-1 deficit with eight runs in the last two innings of the first game, then were given a dose of the same medicine by the Phillies in the nightcap. Philadelphia was down 5-1 but took the second contest when rookie Keith Moreland singled in the tying run in the sixth and pinch-hitter Pete Mackanin's fielder's choice delivered the winning tally.

In the first game, Manny Sanguillen's pinch-hit triple broke a 6-6 tie in the ninth. Philadelphia had jumped in front mostly thanks to a grand-slam homer by Mike Schmidt in the seventh. The Pirates got three in the eighth on four singles and an error.

It was the 40th time the Pirates have come from behind to win this season.

Expos 3-4, Mets 1-1

After tough losses to the Pirates Monday and Tuesday, Montreal might have seemed ready to collapse. But strong pitching by Rudy May, who threw a six-hitter in the nightcap, and Ross Grimsley, who won his first game since June 26, boosted the Expos within a game of the East lead.

The Expos won the second game despite a first-inning collision that saw second baseman Dave Cash get cut on the head and right fielder Ellis Valentine bruise his jaw. Both players had to leave the game.

Substitute shortstop Speier and Cash each homered in the nightcap. In the opener, Tony Perez knocked in two runs and scored the other for Montreal.

Cardinals 6-2, Cubs 3-3

Dave Kingman had two home runs to increase his major-league leading total to 47 but it was a 10th-inning shot by Jerry Martin that clinched the Cubs' second-game victory. St. Louis won the opener as Ken Reitz and Keith Hernandez had two-run triples and Ted Simmons homered.

Kansas City Still Two Games Behind

AP Sports Writer

"The object," said Kansas City's Hal McRae, "is to win this thing — not run away with it." The subject was the American League's West Division title.

McRae and the second-place Royals beat the division-leading California Angels 6-4 Wednesday night, winning for the second time in the three games of this series but repaying exactly where they were when the set began — two games behind.

"I looked up at the scoreboard and suddenly it occurred to me: We're going to play 162 games and we're going to end up in a tie," said Kansas City third baseman George Brett, who had two hits and drove in a run. "I really think there's a chance it will happen."

It happened last year in the East, when the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox decided divisional honors in a one-game playoff. And, since the Royals and Angels meet four times more this season, Brett's prophecy may be realized.

"The only thing that will matter," said McRae, "is who's best in October. If we get into the playoffs, this thing will be history."

Darrell Porter drove in three runs while Larry Gura and two relievers combined on a six-hitter to defeat the Angels.

Meanwhile, the Chicago White Sox shut out the Minnesota Twins 6-0, the Detroit Tigers upended the Baltimore Orioles 5-0, the Boston Red Sox blasted the Toronto Blue Jays 8-0, the New York Yankees trimmed the Cleveland Indians 2-0, the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland A's 9-4 and the Milwaukee Brewers bombed the Seattle Mariners, 12-1.

White Sox 6, Twins 0

Twins Manager Gene Mauch admits he's playing favorites in the battle for the West top spot: he wants Minnesota to win it. But the Twins were shut out a second consecutive time by the lowly White Sox.

The Twins managed just four hits off Ross Baumgarten and now haven't scored in 18 innings. Chet Lemon and Jim Morrison hit two-run singles for the winners.

Tigers 5, Orioles 0

Steve Kemp scored one run and drove in another, backing the four-hit pitching of Jack Morris and carrying the Tigers past the Orioles.

The loss, coupled with Milwaukee's rout of Seattle, left at three Baltimore's magic number for clinching the East Division crown.

Red Sox 8, Blue Jays 0

Butch Hobson cracked a pair of doubles and drove in three runs, backing Bob Stanley's three-hitter and powering Boston past Toronto.

Yankees 2, Indians 0

Tommy John picked up his 19th victory with 82.3 innings of three-hit pitching and Reggie Jackson hit his 20th homer of the season to boost New York over Cleveland.

Rangers 9, A's 4

Mickey Rivers' two-run single highlighted the six-run third inning that helped Texas beat Oakland. Jim Sundberg walked twice in the outburst, the second time with the bases loaded.

Fund Raiser Slated

A turkey shoot, the awarding of a shotgun, Armatele plates and art prints, and the auctioning of a shotgun and art prints by prominent waterfowl artists will be included in the first-ever fund-raiser for Ducks Unlimited here Sunday.

All fund-raising activities are scheduled to be conducted at the Hereford Gun Club, just east of the Hereford Airport.

Kicking off the Hereford DU fund-raiser will be a turkey shoot, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

Fees will be $3 for five rounds in the shooting competition, and the winner of each round will receive his choice of a turkey or ham as a prize.

The turkey shoot will continue throughout the afternoon, as long as competitors desire.

The awarding of a 20 gauge, three inch magnum "Green-wing Special" shotgun will be held at approximately 3:30 p.m. The gun was donated to the Hereford DU chapter by Harrington and Richardson.

Also awarded in drawings will be art prints by prominent waterfowl artists, and two free subscriptions to "Waterfowler's World" magazine.

The feature award presentation of the afternoon will be the naming of the winner of a set of Armatele plates, which commemorate DU's "One of One" edition Browning Superposed shotgun. The shotgun, gold engraved and valued at $65,000, is the national fund-raiser for DU this year.

The winner of the DU plates in Hereford will have his name in the running with some 1,600 others from the various DU committees across the nation to win the one-in-the-world Browning shotgun.

Rounding out the DU fund-raiser in Hereford will be a waterfowl art auction, featuring remastered, limited edition art prints of original paintings by prominent waterfowl artists including Ralph J. McDonald and David Maass.

The top art offering will be one of a limited number of DU "Artist of the Year" art prints by Harry C. Adamson entitled "Wild Heritage-Widgeon," depicting a fall flight of American widgeon descending on a typical scene in a marsh area.

Also featured in the art auction will be two original paintings by Kim Poarch of Amarillo, a former Hereford resident.

All art items are matted, gilded and framed for the auction.

Proceeds from the Hereford events will go to Ducks Unlimited to help further the work of preserving vital waterfowl nesting habitat in Canada, where 70 percent of North American waterfowl are hatched.

All interested sportsmen and conservationists are invited to attend the fund-raising events and turkey shoot.

Judge Robert L. Carter of the Southern District of New York ruled that NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien was excessive in his compensation to the Sonics in the New York Knicks' signing of Webster.

O'Brien said he was "appalled" at Judge Carter's ruling and announced that he has directed the league's counsel "to determine the NBA's right of appeal."

Larry Fleisher, head of the NBA Players Association, which took the matter to court, said, in his opinion, Shelton would be returned to the Knicks along with the $450,000 and "Vinnie Johnson, the player Seattle drafted with the draft choice it was awarded."

"I'm not going to waste my time thinking about what could happen," Shelton said. "I have no control over the situation. I'm going to continue to work out."

"I hope they (the Knicks and Sonics) can settle the difference with money and not have to bother with the personal life of the players."

Carter, however, refused to comment on the status of the two players and the money.

Section C Fills Up by State Officials

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Department of Corrections Director George Beto, like 231 others who have reservations for section C, considers it a great honor.

But it's an honor Beto, former Attorney General John Hill, former Gov. Allan Shivers and other present and former state officials can probably wait for.

According to the index cards stored in a little box here, there are no vacancies in sections B, D and F of the State Cemetery. The cards show there are 232 present and former state officials of varying fame waiting to get into section C.

The state bought the tract in 1854 — three years after Gen. Edward Burleson of Texas Revolution fame was buried there. Since then over 2,000 Confederate veterans and their wives and scores of state officials have been interred in the State Cemetery. The Civil War veterans are buried beneath tiny white markers that the state bought for $5 apiece.

Burial here is by application only. The legislature has formulated guidelines as to who can be buried on the grounds. The first group the legislators allowed to be buried here are themselves. Next on the list are present and former elected state officials. Officials appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate are also eligible. Non-officials can only get in by governor's proclamation or concurrent resolutions from legislators. Several authors and journalists have received such special designation.

"Those are the ones who have to call the governor and say, 'Hey, look, I'm a famous Texan or a historical figure,'" said Dorothy Mitchell, the state employee who keeps track of the reservations.

The reservations include former high-ranking state officials and men who served brief stints in the Legislature. Hill has section C, row AA, space 18 reserved. Shivers will be buried in section C, row AN, space nine.

Col. Wilson Spier, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety has a spot reserved near Beto's section C spot.

While many former officials have gone to the trouble of picking a burial site, Beto has taken the planning a bit further. "It was at the insistence of my wife," Beto said of the plainly elegant marker that carries his and his wife's names. "She didn't want to have to mess with it...I guess I shouldn't put it that way. I picked out the stone. She told me not to get anything too pretentious."

Isn't it a bit spooky to gaze at a tombstone with your name on it?

"It reminds you, as the scriptures say, your days are numbered," Beto said.

Clifford Beaver, superintendent of grounds for the State Purchasing and General Services Commission, is in charge of

Miners Didn't See Writing

LEAD, S.D. (AP) — The price of gold is surging to record highs, and union members at the Homestake Mine wish they had seen its dizzying ascent coming.

Employees at the 103-year-old gold mine, the largest in the Northern Hemisphere, receive a wage bonus based on the price of gold. In June, the union agreed to a three-year contract that based the bonus ceiling on a price of $330 an ounce.

But gold closed in New York on Tuesday at $376 an ounce, yet another record in its climb, and union leaders were shaking their heads.

They were surprised that gold had ever reached the $330-an-ounce level, let alone such higher record levels less than four months after the contract was signed. "Hindsight's always better...." said Gordon Renner, spokesman for the 1,250-member United Steelworkers of America union local. "Homestake will get fat and we'll get skinny."

Homestake produced about 20 percent of the gold mined in the United States last year — a volume worth more than $105 million at Tuesday's prices. The union settlement, reached in the final hours of negotiation with the Homestake Mining Co., set up a bonus plan triggered when gold hit $275 an ounce. That price was reached almost immediately after the contract was signed.

Under the plan, all the mine's 1,600 employees receive an hourly bonus of seven cents for each $5 increase in the gold market, up to a maximum of 80 cents an hour, which was reached at the $330 level. The bonus, along with other contract bonuses, are added to the employee's regular salary — $7.55 an hour for a top miner.

The fast rise in gold prices also surprised officials at Homestake, the only major underground gold mine in the United States. "No, we certainly didn't have any idea it would reach this high this fast," said Ralph Tibble, assistant general manager of the mine, which last year produced 285,000 ounces of gold.

"We're wondering what's going to happen. It could go down in price just as fast as it's gone up. We don't know where it will settle," he said. Renner said the union tried to negotiate an open-ended gold bonus, but finally settled on the $330-an-ounce ceiling, thinking it was "a pretty good range." Under an open-ended plan using the existing criteria for determining bonus increments, the employees' bonus today would be more than 50 cents higher.

Union members, who have watched the gold market closely since their first gold bonus went into effect in the late 1960s, are disgruntled with their lack of foresight and may try to re-open negotiations, Renner said.

"I think it's nearly impossible, but we'll try," he said. Tibble said Homestake management doesn't anticipate any changes in the contract.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, Sept. 20, the 263rd day of 1979. There are 102 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1519, the Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, set out from Spain on a voyage to find a western passage to the Indies. One of his ships eventually circled the world.

On this date: In 480 B.C., the Greeks defeated the Persians in a decisive naval engagement, the Battle of Salamis in the Aegean Sea. In 1565, Spaniards massacred French Huguenots at Port Royal, Fla.

In 1881, Chester Arthur took the oath as the 21st President of the United States after the death of President James Garfield, who was shot by an assassin in July.

In 1938, a hurricane swept over parts of New Jersey, New York and New England, taking nearly 700 lives.

In 1973, the British-French supersonic airliner, Concorde, made its first landing in the U.S. at the dedication of the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

In 1977, Vietnam was admitted to the United Nations.

Ten years ago: A Vietnamese airliner and an American Air Force jet collided over South Vietnam, killing 64 Vietnamese.

Five years ago: The estimated death toll was put at 8,000 in northern Honduras as Hurricane Fifi lashed the Central American country.

One year ago: South Africa's Prime Minister John Vorster announced his resignation without giving a reason.

Today's birthdays: Actress Sophia Loren is 45. Fashion designer James Galanos is 55.

Thought for today: I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man who lives in it so that his place will be proud of him — President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

ABC New Shows Not Too Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC kicked off its 1979-80 prime-time season a week ahead of the competition, and the early start — though a strong one — left some doubts about the front-running network's new shows.

Of ABC's premiering programs in the week ending Sept. 16, only "Benson," was among the 10 highest-rated, No. 6, while "Detective School" finished 30th, "240-Robert" 32nd, "The Lazarus Syndrome" 34th and "Out of the Blue" 57th.

On the other hand, it was hardly a bad week for last season's No. 1 network. ABC listed 10 of the first 11 shows ranked by the A.C. Nielsen Co., with "Charlie's Angels" No. 1 followed by "Love Boat" and "Three's Company."

NBC and CBS began their fall programming, officially, the night of Sept. 17, but both sought to counter ABC's early start with some formidable shows.

For NBC, the effort was something of a disappointment. The network's three-hour "Bob Hope on the Road to China" extravaganza was third in the ratings in its slot Sunday night, 26th overall. And the rerun of "Holocaust," the prominent four-part miniseries of last season, was only moderately successful in the ratings — Part I in the repeat was No. 31 in the ratings.

CBS did well, however, with a Sunday night made-for-television movie, "The Tenth Month," starring Carol Burnett. It finished the week 16th, ahead of NBC's Hope special.

Bentzen said he has proposed legislation that would make the first $500 in savings account interest exempt from taxation. He said the first $1,000 on a joint filing would be exempt.

"I can think of no other initiative that would be a more effective stimulus to saving our economy," he said.

Private Group Aids Blind Commission — A private non-profit corporation, headed by former officials of the State Commission for the Blind, has agreed to pay $482,254 to the commission.

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle, whose office conducted an 11-month investigation into the matter, said Visual Research Foundation will make the payment during the next 12 months.

A state auditor's report showed "contributions" of $13,500 were made to VFR by Hermann Hospital Foundation of Houston. The money was reportedly in return for payments by the commission to Hermann Hospital for blind patients treated at the facility.

Burt Risley, former commission executive director, was listed as a registered agent for VFR. Charles Hoehne, former commission assistant director, was VFR's secretary.

Earle said the "donation arrangement" with organizations funded by the commission continued for about five years. VFR was founded in 1971. The district attorney said the agreement marks the end of the investigation. "Our objectives in this inquiry were to preserve the integrity of the Blind Commission and to see that the State of Texas suffered no loss of its public moneys. This restitution accomplishes both of these objectives," he said.

Corpus Christi Gets Soaking

rainfall in the Corpus Christi area early today.

Some residents of north and central sections of Corpus Christi had to be evacuated to higher ground. Street flooding was widespread in Corpus Christi and in the Aransas Pass area.

Unofficial rainfall reports showed that 6.7 inches of rain fell during the night at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Corpus Christi police used city buses to get around in flooded streets. Motorists were warned of flooded underpasses and low lying areas.

The National Weather Service also reported an area near Houston received 14 inches of rain in a 36-hour period. An area on the west side of Houston was devastated by a tornado late Tuesday. There were no reports of serious injuries, but damage was into the millions of dollars and several persons suffered minor injuries.

The low pressure system was not associated in any way with erratic Tropical Storm Henri located in the Gulf of Mexico southeast of Tampico, forecasters said.

The National Weather Service said the low pressure system was located early today southeast of Corpus Christi and was expected to move generally northeastward at 10-12 mph today.

The system was to be monitored closely today to see if it acquires any characteristics of a tropical storm, forecasters said. Sustained winds of 37 mph were reported at Corpus Christi and gusts reached 53 mph at times. It was windy all along the Texas coast early today, prompting the National Weather Service to urge small craft from Brownsville to Biloxi, Miss., to remain in port.

The Corpus Christi area was under a flash flood warning early today and most of South Texas and much of Southeast Texas was under a flash flood watch. The flash flood watches also covered southeast sections of North Texas.

The flash flood watch for South Texas covered an area along and to the south and east of a line from 50 miles south of Alice to San Antonio to Austin to 50 miles east of Lufkin, including Houston and San Antonio.

Forecasters warned that the area under the flash flood watch

Bentzen Encourages Increased Productivity

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentzen says greater productivity is essential if the United States is going to overcome inflation.

The Texas Democrat spoke Monday at a news conference and at a meeting of the Independent Bankers Association of Texas.

He said economic trends "long and short, are not encouraging."

"Today," Bentzen said, "the United States ranks dead last among major industrial nations in terms of productivity increase."

He said the problem was not the fault of the workers but in "outdated plants and equipment."

Bentzen said tax laws place a penalty on savings and modernizing machinery.

"The steel industry in this country is so far out of date it's ridiculous," he said. "It can't be competitive with the Japanese and Germans—they are much more modern."

Bentzen also said he believed the Mexicans were making a serious mistake when they reject a out of hand any liability for the oil spill on the Texas shore.

"Mexico has been developing into a strong economic power and they have to act like one and ... accept the responsibilities," he said.

Bentzen suggested the United States remove an 18 percent duty now placed on imported rail cars built in Mexico. He said the nation is short about 120,000 freight cars and a two-year exemption on the duty would allow the country to "catch up."

"We can also increase productivity in America by providing new incentives for research and development, by cutting back — way back — on cumbersome government regulations, by eliminating quirks in the tax code that penalize innovation and by providing more generous depreciation scales," he said.

Bentzen said he has proposed legislation that would make the first $500 in savings account interest exempt from taxation. He said the first $1,000 on a joint filing would be exempt.

"I can think of no other initiative that would be a more effective stimulus to saving our economy," he said.

LOST AND FOUND PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Ten laboratory mice were recently turned in at the Prague Central Lost and Found Office.

Mice are unusual among the finds turned in to the office. Most frequent are bags, coats, sweaters and umbrellas. The office has also received soccer balls and auto tires.

Auxiliary Reviews District Meeting

A report of the District VFW Auxiliary meeting held last weekend at Plainview was presented Monday night to members of VFW Post #4818 Auxiliary during a business session at the rock clubhouse.

Marie Goheen, president, called the meeting to order and plans were discussed for the District president's address here on Oct. 15. Dean Loerwald of Plainview is currently serving as district president.

Plans for a housewares party to be hosted by Erma Murphy were tentatively considered with a final date yet to be named. Also, it was announced that the local Auxiliary will host the District meeting here Dec. 8-9. Patriotic instructor Helen Sowell presented a brief program on the past Presidents of the United States.

Other than those already mentioned, in attendance Monday evening were Bessie Saulcy, Edith Richardson, Essie Martin, Doris Coffin, Erma Murphy and Doris Wilson.

Local Beauticians Attend World's Fair

Karren Ruland of Carousel Beauty Salon, Pat Rhodes of Pat's Primp Salon, Phyllis Neill and Linda Kay Sorrells of A-1 Beauty Salon participated in the 'Expo '79' World's Fair of Cosmetic Arts and Science in San Antonio Sept. 15-17.

Armstrong-McCall's celebrated 40 years of products and service to the cosmetic profession in hosting this event. More than 12,000 cosmetologists and barber hairstylists attended classes performed by the countries leading national and international artists.

Dr. Joyce Brothers gave a discussion of "The Psychology of Human Relations in the Hair Styling Salon" to those in attendance.

The exhibit hall included booths for lectures and demonstrations for new and upcoming styles, fashions and products.

DECA Installation

Fair Ribbons Won By Local Women

Three local women won honors Saturday in the culinary division of the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Mrs. E.H. (Lena) Vaughan won a first place for her Italian cream cake which also took third place honors in the to-be-iced cake class. Mrs. Vaughan also captured first place ribbons for her carrot cake, custard pie and caramel candy. She won a second place for her apple pie. Mrs. Jim (Shirley) Carlson won second place honors for her quick bread, apricot-prune cake and chocolate layer cake.

Another local woman, Mary Van Pelt of Summerfield, won first place recognition for her grape jam.

Hereford Week Set By Dinner Theatre

Local residents are reminded that Sept. 24-29 has been designated as Hereford Week by Country Squire Dinner Theatre, located at 1-40 and Grand in Amarillo. A $2 donation will be contributed to the Deaf Smith County United Way by Country Squire each time a local resident attends the theatre next week.

In order for a donation to be properly credited to the local United Way, residents must inform the theatre receptionist that they are from Hereford.

Reservations may be made by calling 372-4441.

Currently playing at the Country Squire is the Broadway comedy "Boeing, Boeing," which follows the romantic misadventures of an airline pilot who gets tripped up in his designing affairs with three stewardesses.

Buffet suppers are served at the Country Squire from 6:30-7:30 p.m. with preshow entertainment beginning at 7:30. The performance begins at 8 o'clock.

Constitution Week Begins

Mayor Bartley Dowell signed a proclamation declaring Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week Tuesday afternoon in his office. During this week citizens are urged to pay special attention to the Federal Constitution and the advantages of American Citizenship by the Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution [DAR]. At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

As I sat in the dental chair having stitches put into my mouth, the dentist said, "You're not going to do a funny column about this, are you?"

My teeth came dangerously close to his hand and I wanted to say, "Of course I am...just as soon as I get the lightpiece I'm doing on World War II out of the typewriter."

I have no sense of humor whatsoever when it comes to my own pain. I'm really funny that way. The more it hurts, the less I laugh.

The less I laugh, the funnier everyone around me becomes. I guess I never realized before how sadistic a family can be. Here I am--my mouth stuck down in its prime--and they're dancing around like they're auditioning for The Comedy Store.

"Hey, look at you. You're in stitches and I haven't even told the joke yet."

"Look at all the weight you're going to lose by not being able to eat. Already you look $300 thinner."

"I knew a woman who had her jaws wired shut. She choked to death on orange juice."

"Sit down and let me tell you what I feel about life."

"Mom can't come to the phone now, she's hitting the bottle." (This when I was coaxing syrup into the blender).

"Hey, Mom...do your impersonation for Ralph. Come on. Listen to this. Say, 'You help me and together we'll solve our problems.' Smile at the same time. Who do you think it is? Give up? Jimmy Carter!"

As I painfully wrapped my parched lips around a straw my husband said, "You want to go out to dinner or something?"

My eyes widened in shock as I shook my head no.

"Isn't that just like a woman?" he said. "They bug you every day of the week to take you out to eat and the moment someone suggests it they back down. I was going to take you to that expensive French restaurant. We went there back when you had an impacted wisdom tooth, remember?"

Just then, the kids came in with a couple of large pizzas. "How about some of the soft parts?" they offered. (My eyes welled with tears.) "Don't get too choked up about it. The soft part is the part that didn't get done."

And people wonder why some mothers are becoming registered terrorists for Planned Parenthood.

One hundred and ninety two years ago, strong-willed men gathered in Philadelphia to mend and remold a divided land. The Articles of Confederation which had gone into effect in 1781 had failed, and the task of creating a new national government was immense. The Daughters of the American Revolution remind you that this week is Constitution Week, and urge you to know and to use the liberties provided for you by our Constitution. Read your Constitution. Read your Constitution.

Plans for Show Begun By Rebekah Members

Stanton Dogie Roundup

A newly-organized club at Stanton, Future Artists of America, elected officers this week. The president for this year is Pam Nixon, vice president is Debbie Beltran and sharing the secretary position are Marcus Tijerina and Jeff McBrayer. Representative for the eighth grade is Donnie Anderson and for the seventh, Bonnie Kindrick. Meetings for the club will be held every Monday afternoon at 3:30. Art students from each grade are invited to attend. The first project for the club will be making windbreaker emblems. Andy Wilks is sponsor for the club.

Congratulations, Coach Salinas, for winning the golf tournament. We'll count that as another honor for Stanton! Coach Salinas is defensive coach for our football teams.

Individual pictures were taken today. As soon as these are received, the Dogie Staff will have plenty of work to do, as this will be the beginning of the first big job for preparing the yearbook. Each picture must be identified with name and grade, alphabetized, and divided into page groupings. Our photographers have been busy taking snapshots of beginning of school activities.

We had our first Pep Rally today, and our freshmen are playing Bovina at Bovina and the eighth grade is playing Borger here. Our seventh grade battled to a 0-0 tie against Canyon Tuesday, with Stanton's defense doing a great job on scoring threats.

Next week's ball games will be Seventh playing Dumas Black here, Tuesday; the Eighth playing Plainview Red here and the Freshmen playing Pampa here on Thursday. All the games are at 4 o'clock, with the Seventh and Eighth at La Plata and the Freshmen playing at the Stadium.

Benefit From Working Moms

COLLEGE STATION — "Working mothers" are "real mothers," too, says a family life education specialist, Diane Welch.

Families often benefit from a mother's outside employment, she says.

Mrs. Welch is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

According to recent studies, a "working mother" provides her family with several major benefits directly related to her outside employment.

In addition to material benefits, families in many cases become closer as they share responsibilities.

Also, family members' abilities to think through and make independent decisions often increase.

Researchers found other facts that seem to dispel "myths" about "working mothers." Here are a few:

1) The divorce rate is no higher among "working-mother" families than in other families.

2) When women are working by choice, both spouses report significantly fewer marital tensions—and greater levels of marital satisfaction.

3) Amounts of "quality time" or "attentive time" spent with children is about the same for "working mothers" as it is for full-time-homemaker mothers.

4) No constant differences appear in children of "working-mother" families or other families — concerning school grades, peer relationships, social adjustment, intellectual achievement or delinquency.

However, there are several factors which do influence the ability of the family unit or of individual members to adjust and adapt to outside employment of the mother.

Among these are the attitudes of the mother and other family members regarding her outside employment, the quality of child care during the mother's absence, management of household responsibilities and the character of time spent in family interaction.

In general, the studies conclude that "real mothers" are found at home and in the work force, Mrs. Welch says.

Birth Death Overseas Often Hard to Certify

COLLEGE STATION — Need a birth or death certificate on a U.S. citizen who was born in a foreign country or died there?

There are steps you can take to help speed up the process, says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES
If a U.S. citizen was born in a foreign country and if the birth was reported to an American Consular, write to Authentication Officer, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520.

Be sure to submit a signed statement which fully identifies the subject file.

This must be done by the U.S. citizen himself, a parent or an authorized agent, according to the Privacy Act of 1974.

Two types of certificates are available—a full copy (form FS-240) or a short form (DS)1350.

Full-copy types are a complete copy of the original Consular Report of Birth as it was filed.

Short forms simply give the name, sex, date and place of birth.

Both types are valid, and each copy costs $3. Checks or money orders are acceptable.

Adopted citizens may obtain certificates in their adopted name when they submit proof that the adoption was legal.

DEATH CERTIFICATES
Reports of deaths of U.S. citizens who died in foreign countries are made to the nearest U.S. consular office, which forwards them to the U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520 where they are permanently filed—except in cases of military personnel.

For copies of these reports, write to the Office of Special Consular Services, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520. Fee is $3.

MILITARY PERSONNEL
For death certificates on U.S. Army, Navy or Air Force personnel, write to the Secretary of Defense, Washington, D.C. 20301.

For members of the U.S. Coast Guard, write to the Commandment, P.S., U.S. Coast Guard, Washington, D.C. 20226.

SHIP, AIRCRAFT
When a birth or death occurs on the high seas—whether on a vessel or an aircraft, the place of record-filing depends on the direction in which the vessel or aircraft was headed when the event occurred.

1) If it was outbound from the United States or docked or landed at a foreign port, write to the U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520.

2) If it was inbound to the United States, write to the registration authority in the city where the vessel or aircraft docked or landed.

3) If the vessel was of U.S. registry, contact the U.S. Coast Guard facility at the port of entry.

BOOKLETS AVAILABLE
For more information on obtaining birth or death certificates, there are booklets available from the U.S. government.

"Where to Write for Birth and Death Records of U.S. Citizens Who Were Born or Died Outside of the United States" (HE 20.6206: B53/2) is one.

It gives information on recording and obtaining birth records from foreign countries, records of alien children adopted by U.S. citizens and how to obtain death records.

The other booklet is titled "Where to Write for Birth and Death Records in United States and Outlying Areas" (HE 20.6202: B53/978).

It lists an address for each state in the United States.

To get these booklets, write: Government Publications Bookstore, 720 N. Main, Majestic Building, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Ann Landers

Marital Conflict

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please arbitrate this matter and eliminate a lot of marital conflict. We have agreed that your decision will put an end to the arguing.

My husband likes to stir all his food together on his dinner plate—for instance, meat loaf, peas, mashed potatoes and beef. When I serve a salad, he stirs that in, too. Can you imagine how this mess looks? To say it makes me gag is putting it mildly. He says he likes it that way, and it all goes into the same stomach anyway—so what's the difference?

I am willing to go along with his nutty behavior when we're at home, but when we eat in a restaurant or have dinner with friends, I say he should knock it off and eat the way the rest of us do. He keeps saying, "I have the right to be myself. I'm not hurting anybody, so get off my back." What's the verdict?—No Appetite

DEAR N.A.: He IS hurting somebody—the people who must look at him. He's making them sick.

Tell the little man it's time he climbed out of his high chair, took off the bib and ate like a grown-up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I saw myself in your column today in the letter signed, "Anonymous." The woman wrote about a four-year-old hyperactive son she could not control. Five years ago, I was that mother.

I spanked my child until my hand hurt trying to get him to behave. He was a mess and I was a nervous wreck.

In desperation, we consulted a psychologist. He directed us to a regional children's center, where we took a course in directive parental counseling—a form of behavior modification. The results were fantastic.

Our son quickly calmed down. He then began to do much better in school and his attitude toward us changed. Our family life is now calm, friendly and satisfying.

I took a trained person to teach us that people respond to stimuli. When you change the stimuli you change the response. I urge all parents who are experiencing this kind of problem to take your often-repeated advice: Seek professional help.—Proof In Ontario

DEAR PROOF: I'm glad you are saying it instead of me. Whenever I suggest counseling I get clobbered for "copping out." Thanks for the assist. I needed that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read something in the newspaper that shocked me. My husband says I'm naive.

According to a study done at Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, almost two-thirds of U.S. females have sexual intercourse by the time they are 19. Most of it is pre-marital. The survey was based on a representative sampling of 2,193 women in 1976.

These figures show a sharp increase over 1971. Another shocker: one in 10 U.S. women become pregnant before the age of 17.

Shocked? How about it. We await your reply.—Cullman, Ala. Pair

DEAR PAIR: Not at all. In my

Inflation Experts Advise

ATLANTA (AP) — A Georgia State University finance professor says he's ready to throw out his textbooks because of "this incredible inflation," and a banker says the consumer "just can't protect himself" from the insidious, dollar-shrinking plague.

While the consumer may not be able to keep himself out of harm's way as inflation steadily bears down upon his earnings, the professor, the banker and other financial experts do have some suggestions to soften the blow.

In separate interviews the advisers suggested these four basic steps:

- 1—Own a home.
- 2—Build a readily available cash reserve for emergency use.
- 3—Reduce or eliminate debts.
- 4—Know your spending patterns.

"I think one absolute thing for a consumer is that he ought to own his own home," said Ray E. Marchman Jr., head of the trust investment service for First National Bank of Atlanta. "There is very little in terms of investments that have outpaced inflation. Stocks haven't done it. Bonds haven't done it, and certainly most savings vehicles have not... but home ownership has beaten inflation," Marchman said.

Even those renters without large amounts of cash should "at least buy something and get started," Marchman said, "because there is no question but that (home value) is going to keep going up."

Bill Ginn, vice president of Capital Analysts, Inc., in Atlanta, said those waiting for the recession to force housing prices down probably shouldn't hold their breath. During the 1974 recession, house prices in some ranges declined because contractors had overbuilt.

But this time "we are not overbuilt," Ginn said, so "don't think you're going to see a lot of bargains."

Consumers past the home-buying stage should build up a readily available cash reserve to tide them over in case of a major income reduction or job loss as a result of the recession, which Marchman said should be relatively mild in the Southeast.

"You ought to be able to live one year on your own, if you lost your job, without going on welfare," he said.

Ginn said the reserve should be between three months' income and a year's income.

Fred R. Tonney, executive director of the Consumer Credit Counseling Service, said his office advised consumers to build at least a 90-day reserve.

Certainly the money should be kept in some interest-bearing form, but "the most important thing is to keep it available," Tonney said, meaning it shouldn't be kept in stocks or bonds which could cause financial loss if liquidated at an in-opportune time. Haines Hargrett Jr., chairman of Fulton Federal Savings and Loan, said a cash reserve was "the best protection anybody can get," and not surprisingly suggested the best place for that cash reserve is in a savings account.

But Marchman points out that passbook savings accounts offer interest rates only about half the inflation rate, meaning a consumer is in effect losing money by keeping it in a savings account rather than some other savings vehicle.

Georgia State finance professor Donald Thompson said, "In Israel, where inflation is running 60 percent, they keep cash as low as possible, and all their savings goes into real things, like gold, antiques, real estate."

Thompson didn't go so far as to advise American consumers do that, but he did counsel against putting all in a savings account.

"You would be better off putting it in money-market mutual funds, where you can get about 9.5 percent, and keep only about $100 in savings," Thompson said.

Some economists and financial advisers say it is better to spend now — rather than save — and be in debt during an inflationary period. Because of inflation, the dollars one uses to repay the debt will actually be worth less than they are now.

Ginn, however, said, "My opinion is if you've got debt you can get rid of, get rid of it. And don't create more consumer debt than you have to. My own philosophy is, I'm going to try to get completely out of consumer debt."

Budgeting, or at least knowing where the money is going, is the starting point, "for people feeling the pinch," Tonney said.

'Flagman' Now Likely To Be a Woman

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Motorists slow down when they see the bright orange sign that announces "Flagman Ahead."

But more motorists are actually stopping and chatting with the flagmen these days, as women are taking over the job of holding the "Slow" and "Stop" signs.

Faye Friberg is one of the new breed of flagmen. In 1975, she started working as a flagman for the Minnesota Highway Department. This fall she is working for Hoover Construction on Minnesota 11 in the extreme northern part of the state.

Miss Friberg, 24, says she likes the fresh air and working outside, and earns a better salary as a flagman than she did as a licensed practical nurse.

"I don't mind getting dirt on me, but I do have to wash my hair every night — especially when I'm working around the drills and compressors," she said.

"It's the most money I've ever made. I earn $8.63 an hour and anything over 40 hours a week is time and a half."

Motorists are always handing her things while she works, Miss Friberg said.

"They give me beer, pop, candy, offer sandwiches, doughnuts, cookies. You make friends with the people going by — the truck drivers and the people living in the vicinity of the project. And, I really like the guys on the job. They treat me good."

"It's got to be a lot more boring for a flagman than a flag lady. People just don't talk as much to the men. And, they don't get as angry at a girl."

But Miss Friberg says sometimes tourists get crabby when they are delayed.

"In the winter, I've even gotten blamed for the weather, and for the fact that the roads weren't plowed," she said.

Miss Friberg says the question she hears most often is, "Don't you get tired of holding that sign all day?"

"I tell them I get tired of holding ME up. When I first started this job, my feet used to get sore. Now I'm used to it. "Usually we work five days a week — four 10-hour days, and an eight-hour day on Friday. I'm tired when I get home. I go to sleep pretty easily."

When the traffic is slow, Miss Friberg says, there is a lot of time to think.

"Mainly I think about the weather. You have to dress for it — in layers — everything from jackets down to halter tops."

Goddess Guards Tunnel Workers

TOKYO (AP)—Workers digging the longest undersea tunnel in the world believe a jealous goddess protects them while they work — as long as no women enter the worksite.

It's a man's world in the Seikan Tunnel, which, when completed in 1982, will link the cities of Aomori and Hakodate in northern Japan and cut traveling time from Tokyo to Sapporo from 17 hours now to a little less than six.

The tunnel will enable Japan's famed "bullet" trains to travel at speeds of 110 miles per hour on a track 750 feet below sea level.

The working men believe the tunnel is protected by a goddess called Sanjin, who becomes jealous when women are admitted inside.

On the two occasions when women visited the site, flooding occurred soon afterward. Fearful of incurring more divine wrath, the men had the tunnel closed to women sightseers after the last visit in 1971.

They also believe it is taboo to whistle in the tunnel, for fear of summoning evil spirits.

On the first day of each month the workers pray to an image of the goddess enshrined in front of the tunnel, asking for her blessing while they work.

"Personally, I don't believe in the goddess," said a spokes-

SOME MEDICINES NEED SPECIAL PROTECTION
You know what happens to a delicious custard if you permit it to be exposed for some time in a warm place. It can turn into a dangerous killer. Therefore, you refrigerate custards to prevent this. Many medicines must be protected against a similar change or they too can be harmful.

Pharmacists are taught at college how to store all medicine and to date those which lose potency after a certain time. Some of them must be kept away from heat or light. Others we keep refrigerated till ready for use. When dispensing such medicines which are subject to change we will always inform you if there are any precautions you must observe.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours.

IN WASHINGTON

Richard E. Cohen

Compromising experience

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., is gambling that the country has learned a lesson from 1976 — that it is a mistake to elect a president who does not know how to get things done in Washington.

In contrast to candidate Jimmy Carter and former California governor Ronald Reagan — the leading 1980 GOP contender — Baker offers himself as the candidate experienced with the issues, politics and personalities that are a part of legislative dealmaking in Washington.

Baker's interesting approach could fall flat on its face. His problem is that he is not a "true believer" on many issues of great concern to the conservatives who have increasing control in Republican primaries.

Not only did he vote for the Panama Canal treaties in 1978, but he rejects the tactics and tenets of "New Right" leaders who believe the public is tired of business as usual in the nation's capital.

Baker believes that Republicans have the best shot of winning in 1980 if they select a candidate who can attract Democratic and independent voters with a centrist platform.

As Senate minority leader since 1977, he has had some success uniting the diverse corps of Republicans behind a common position on taxes, energy and national defense.

He stresses that he has spent much of his career in Washington and is experienced in the art of compromise and how the system works. He tries to remind his audience of his role in the 1973 Senate Watergate hearings by stressing that politics is an "honorable profession."

But all these pluses could also be minuses for Baker. The public may be disenchanted with politicians who try to be all things to all people.

While he has tried to place himself in the middle of the political spectrum, he has also appealed to conservatives with his strong criticism of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty pending in the Senate. Many SALT supporters believe that these attacks have not been carefully thought out.

Partly because he has always been a member of the minority party in Congress, Baker has few legislative monuments to his name. It is the job of Republicans in Congress primarily to challenge Democratic proposals, not to make their own.

Thus Baker is known primarily as a dealer rather than a thinker or manager. Like former President Gerald R. Ford, who previously had been House Republican Leader, Baker is a solid legislator who has not been in a position to demonstrate the leadership capabilities required of a president.

The Tennessee Republican spent the entire month of August trying to combat these doubts. Speaking to audiences in 25 states and Puerto Rico, he sought to build up his campaign organization and gain more public exposure.

A campaign aide said Baker was pleased with the reaction and feels his campaign is gaining momentum. During the next two months, he plans to spend half time on the campaign trail — particularly in the early primary states — and half time as Senate minority leader, working primarily on the SALT treaty.

Baker plans to launch his presidential campaign officially in November, at which time he will keep his Senate leadership post but hand over most of the duties to Minority Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the most liberal Republican presidential candidate, has told interviewers that only he and Baker can attract enough Democrats and independents to defeat a Democratic opponent. Anderson himself remains so low in the opinion polls that his nomination would be a distinct upset.

The question Howard Baker faces as his popularity lags considerably behind that of Reagan, is whether Republican voters are more interested in a candidate with a clear ideological bent or one strong on Washington experience and compromise. If they choose the latter course, Baker will be the man to beat.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

"If Jimmy runs he will win. If he wasn't going to run or couldn't win, I'd be out fishing in Georgia right now."
— Lillian Carter, mother of the U.S. president, telling Democratic Party leaders in Maine that her son can beat Teddy Kennedy if the Massachusetts senator decides to campaign for the 1980 presidential nomination.

"I cannot imagine, and no intelligent person can imagine, that we shed blood for a cheaper melon or that we sacrificed our youths for a cheaper house."

— Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, responding to critics who say Iran is worse off economically because of his Islamic revolution.

"Everyone knows you can't think and make love at the same time."
— Eloise Barnhurst, an industrial color specialist, criticizing a utility firm's plan to install amber street lights in Cape Cod, Mass. She says that color simultaneously tends to make people cautious and sexy.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—In response to undeniable needs, the 66th Legislature has passed several bills dealing with child abuse and child care.

H.B. 43 changes the definition of sexual contact to include the touching of the breast of any male or female. It is known that child molesters often abuse children of both sexes and that the former age limit hindered convictions on certain cases when the children involved were less than 10 years old.

Though we do not even like to speak of such matters, I believe we must speak about them in order that we can "speak out against them."

Two other bills, H.B. 1741 and 1742, expand and re-define what is obscene; provide stiff penalties for wholesale promoting and possession of obscene materials and for those who produce, present or direct obscene performances; and make it an offense to employ, authorize or induce a child younger than 17 to engage in a sexual performance or to produce, direct or promote an obscene performance by a child.

S.B. 394 amends previous statutes to include bodily injury to a child. Thus, in child abuse cases, the abuser could be guilty of causing bodily injury to a child though the child might not have suffered what is narrowly defined as serious bodily injury.

H.B. 1375 creates the offense of harboring a runaway. Under this law it is illegal for an adult to knowingly house a runaway child.

There are two other significant bills which will enable parents and the state to provide better care for children. S.B. 172 allows both parents to be appointed managing conservators of the children in a suit affecting the parent-child relationship. S.B. 270 requires that children who are placed under the care and custody of the Texas Department of Human Resources must be periodically reviewed by the court in order to prevent them from becoming lost in the system.

The aim of all these bills is to see that those children who are in unfortunate circumstances, such as child abuse, child neglect, divorce, etc., are given new protection, better defense, and the best arrangements that can be provided.

Tucker Honored by Lions

Floyd Tucker, center was presented with a "Privileged Membership" in the Hereford Lions Club during the club's regular meeting Wednesday at the Community Center. Lion president Speedy Nieman announced the honor, voted by the club's board of directors. At right is club sweetheart Lesly Metz. A privileged membership can be voted a Lion with more than 15 years service who goes off active status due to health or other legitimate reasons.

Yellowstone, created in 1872, was the first national park in the country and the world.

At one point West Virginia is less than five miles wide, but it stretches farther south than Richmond, Va.; farther north than Pittsburgh, Pa.; farther east than Buffalo, N.Y., and farther west than Port Huron, Mich.

In the sea, living forms which are too small to direct their own movement are considered plankton while nekton are those strong enough to migrate and swim.

Dinosaurs ranged from the size of a chicken to the familiar giants that may have stood as tall as a five-story building, according to National Geographic.

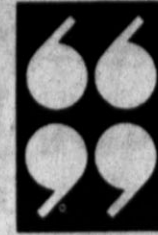

Egypt's Great Sphinx was created out of limestone and masonry around 2,900 B.C.

The annual per capita consumption of table wines by adults in the United States has doubled in the past 10 years to 1.7 gallons.

The average office worker in one hour gives off about the same amount of heat as a burning 100-watt light bulb.

The Republican Party was founded at Ripon, Wis., Feb. 28, 1854.

The 77-million-acre National Park System now takes in everything from wilderness areas to the Statue of Liberty and Alcatraz.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

"The processes of chemical evolution appear to be common in the solar system."

— Dr. Cyril Ponnamperna of the University of Maryland, noting the chemical building blocks of life have been found in two 4.6 billion-year-old meteorites. Amino acids were discovered in frozen space debris in Antarctica.

"Bombs should not upset you. You are living in a time of bombs."

— Lolita Lebron, freed by President Carter after being jailed since 1954 for her part in a Puerto Rican terrorist shooting at the House of Representatives. Unrepentant, she called for an independent Puerto Rico.

"While all other doctors were reading their morning mail, I was eating mine."

— Dr. Theodore Clark, a Pinehurst, N.C., psychiatrist, testifying at a U.S. Senate hearing in Washington on abuse of Valium — America's top-selling prescription drug. Clark received drug samples from pharmaceutical firms.

Iraq's King Faisal II was assassinated in 1958.

Welfare Women Get Training

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — "I just couldn't wait to get off welfare. I guess that was why I was so determined," says Vera Guerrero, 20-year-old mother who has gone from $287 per month from Aid to Families with Dependent Children to a job earning four times as much.

Thanks to the training she received through the San Jose Work Incentive Job Corps program, Ms. Guerrero, the mother of 4-year-old Angelo, is an electrical-mechanical draftsman with the City of San Jose.

Another former welfare recipient who earns $600 per month after receiving help from the WIN program is Irene Alarcon, 19. She began her training in November 1978 and is now an insurance secretary for a local real estate agency. Her job is to take information from applicants for real estate insurance and to prepare applications and forms for use by reviewing insurance underwriters.

Michele Genero, 23, who is training to be an auto mechanic, expects no trouble in getting a job when she finishes her curriculum.

"My dad showed me how to do a tune-up on a car when I was 12 years old," she says. "Since then I have always wanted to be an auto mechanic. I like being around cars and I like to work with my hands. This (training) is a dream come true."

Ms. Genero, who has a 2-year-old daughter, Kathleen, had received welfare payments for almost two years before she was accepted into the program, funded by the Office of Human Development services in HEW and the Department of Labor.

The WIN project, for welfare recipients, trains mothers for jobs in private industry while providing day-care services and education for their pre-school children.

"The program provided these women with the personal confidence and job-skills training they needed to become independent," says Jacqueline Simon, San Jose WIN Project coordinator.

"Once we take these women into the program, we work very closely with them to help them change their attitude and perceptions about themselves through testing, peer review and counseling."

"And while we are working on attitudes," she adds, "we are testing them for skills abilities, informing them about the real-world facts of various occupations — including hours of work, physical requirements and pay — and training them, after very careful testing, in the vocation of their choosing."

Not a small part of the success of the project to date has been the Child Development Center, which is located on the premises of a former elementary school in an area of the city with a 65 percent Hispanic population.

"This isn't just a day-care center," said Melba Lyons, center director. "The mothers bring their children here in the mornings, enjoy breakfast and lunches with them, and we teach the children social skills, colors, the alphabet, and how to read. While their mothers are learning, they are learning."

"The children, who range from infants to kindergartners, like knowing that their mothers are nearby," she pointed out. "And their mothers appreciate knowing that their children are well taken care of. This takes a lot of pressure off the mothers to find baby sitters. It works quite well."

"It's a real joy for me to see their faces or hear the thrill in their voices over the phone when they tell me that they have landed jobs," said Ms. Simon. "They are so proud of themselves."

Tomorrow Belongs to the Gutsy

Early Americans did not move westward across this continent in search of "security"; their thirst was for "opportunity." And the way was hard. But adversity is the elixir of life. If to young ears this sounds like a threadbare theme, so be it.

America's young are on the threshold of a new frontier and this one, like that one, is going to separate the men from the boys, the timid from the triumphant.

Would you believe that there are some Americans so paranoid over the very mention of the word "recession" that they are stockpiling tools and food--and guns!

The same people who dig air raid shelters for protection against attacks that never come are hoarding gold, grub and gasoline against an economic cataclysm.

Some of us have watched recessions come and go every seven years of our lives and have ridden the Wall Street roller-coaster through half a century of ups and downs and ups. We have watched all the pusillanimous pessimists get ulcers on their ulcers unto death.

But we have also watched with excitement as Americans of courage and vision--bailed, themselves out of all kinds of trouble with machines that talk and roll and fly--even beyond the sky.

Those of us who have seen Americans at their best when they had to be are waiting with our eagerest ever anticipation as the curtain goes up on the unprecedentedly pregnant 1980s.

Yet here is the latest public opinion survey by George Gallup's pollsters showing that 66 percent of Americans expect bad times for the next 12 months; 59 percent anticipate bad times for the next five years.

Sindlinger of Sindlinger Opinion Research says, "The American people are scared to death!"

Horsefeathers! Because our economy has been going uphill in overdrive it had to throttle back or blow a gasket.

I recognize evidence of some anxiety.

Sales of home freezers up 10 percent; sales of gasoline storage tanks up; firewood in short supply, prices of gold and silver soaring.

A book called "How to Prosper During the Coming Bad Years" is on the best-seller list. The author urges laying away a year's supply of dehydrated food, stockpiling stout clothing and spare parts and guns and ammunition and shame on him!

I know few creatures more despicable than a merchant of fear.

Here is a Chicago lawyer beating his breast and proclaiming, "Whoever is our next President will be the captain of the Titanic!"

If only in the development of optional energies, this next decade will be the most exciting--and the most fruitful--in the history of our Republic.

But it will be then as it ever was--an opportunity only for the adventuresome.

Tomorrow belongs to the gutsy.

The scaredy-cats don't even enjoy today.

Couple Seeking Crafts

PLAINVILLE, Conn. (AP) — Clare and Burges Smith probably would have gone into the business of importing crafts from the world's developing nations even if they hadn't been arrested in Haiti on suspicion of being Cuban spies.

But that's another story. "No one looked less like Cuban spies than Burges and me with our sporty clothes and tennis rackets," recalled Mrs. Smith, who with her husband operates "Primitive Artisan," an unusual importing firm that specializes in crafts and curiosities from Third World countries.

But as a result of their accidental arrest while on vacation, and their subsequent detention in Haiti in the early 1960s, they made a number of friends on that Caribbean island and that led them to their present business.

Today, with 15 years of experience behind them, the Smiths scour the back country in some of the world's most remote lands looking for handicrafts to bring back to the old mill that houses their business here in central Connecticut.

"They are traditional skills, all of them," said Mrs. Smith, referring to the crafts-filled warehouse. "We are providing a market for their skills."

Three or four times a year, the Smiths make buying trips from southern Mexico to Sri Lanka, stopping in between in places like Thailand, the Philippines, northwest Pakistan, Fiji and the Solomon Islands.

"We have not yet gone to Africa, but that's just because we haven't had the time," Mrs. Smith said.

The Smiths buy crafts on the local level from self-help groups, village cooperatives and church groups. The crafts the Smiths are seeking, which they wholesale to dealers, boutiques and department stores in the United States, are not usually a central part of the economy in the countries where they are made.

"Everything we deal in are crafts and crafts are not a major part of the economy. It's what they do between crops," she said.

She noted that large orders of one particular type of handicraft from a village had been known to result in the villagers' abandoning their crops.

"It's important not to disrupt the economy," she said.

Sir Robert Walpole believed that soap was a cure for bladder stones and daily took one ounce of soap dissolved in three pints of lime water.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Variations in height

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 29-year-old male and I'm 5 feet 6. I jog three to four miles a week for 20 minutes each time, usually on a dirt or grass surface. Is there any possibility that continued jogging through the years will cause some kind of settling or compaction of my spine or back causing me to become even shorter, if even only by one inch?

I know it will cause my muscles to shorten in my legs but I don't think that would actually make me shorter. Also is there absolutely any way, either through foods or exercise, that I could increase my height? I've read ads in magazines saying there is.

DEAR READER — You may be surprised to know that most normal people vary in height at different times of the day. A person is usually tallest in the morning when he first gets up and shortest at the end of the evening before he goes to bed. The reason is related to the little pillow-like structures between the vertebrae.

They are filled with fluid and semi-solid material. In the normal course of walking through the day, these little pillows become moderately compressed so a person's height may vary from one-half to an inch as a result of this process.

Your jogging is not going to cause any structural change in your back and it's not going to make any major difference in your height. Certainly, the vertebrae themselves will not be decreased in size.

At the onset of the manned space program, I was amused by some of the astronaut candidates who were just barely too tall to fit in our early space vehicles. A couple of these potential astronauts went out and walked and ran all day and asked to be measured again at the end of the day to see if they could then fit into the space couch for the launch vehicle.

When you're lying down at night, the little pillows between the spine regain their full vertical expansion because they're not subject to body weight. I should point out to you that simple standing will compress these little pillows due to the body weight factor alone even without jogging.

Since you are a jogger you might as well learn now about the safe and sane way to jog to avoid future risks. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-4. A Perspective On Jogging Deaths. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I wish there were some way that you could increase your height at this age but there isn't, short of having bone grafts to extend the length of your thighbones.

Incidentally, jogging will not shorten your leg muscles. In fact, well-done stretch exercises, which should accompany jogging, tend to cause your leg muscles to be more supple rather than contract.

A normal person's skeletal growth stops at least by the early 20s and usually sooner. Bone growth stops when the growth zone in the long bones in the legs calcify completely. Up to that point in time, there is a zone of cartilage that continues to grow causing the increase in height.

Marshmallows are hard

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I wonder if anyone knows what to do with marshmallows that have gotten hard. Also what can one do with unused stale coffee? — MARIE

DEAR MARIE — I always put such marshmallows in a wire strainer and hold over a pan of boiling water. I am sure the readers will be sending us some ideas for using stale coffee. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The easiest and quickest way I have found to control ants on the counter or sink is to blot them with a piece of masking tape. With a little pressure the ants stick to the tape. Ants and tape can be disposed together. — ALICE

DEAR POLLY — Mothers with little ones can help keep their fingers out of electric fans by making nylon net covers to fit over the fans. Air gets through but not fingers. — NANCY

DEAR POLLY — In these days of rising food costs cutting down on food waste is essential. I would like to share some of my ideas for using leftovers. I keep a large covered bowl in my refrigerator and several times a week when we have mashed potatoes those left over are put in the bowl. At the end of the week add eggs, grated onion and salt and pepper to the potatoes, whip them up in a mixer and then make into small patties to fry. Also a bit of baking powder can be added and spoonfuls dropped into the deep fryer.

Corn is saved the same way and used for a Sunday morning treat. I add milk, eggs, flour, baking powder and bit of salt and drop a spoonful at a time into hot fat. The leftover corn becomes corn fritters. Leftover hot dogs are mixed with cooked macaroni along with eggs and then fried in a skillet with a bit of margarine or cooking oil. Stretching one's food dollar can become a fun game. — RITA

Police Protect Shopping Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) —

Troops, police and bomb disposal teams fanned out through crowded streets today to protect Israelis shopping for the Jewish New Year after a Palestinian bomb ripped through a Jerusalem mall, killing at least one person and injuring 42.

Israeli state radio said a second person died in the blast Wednesday but police said the victim was so badly mangled they thought at first he was dead, then realized he was alive and in critical condition. Four other victims were reported in serious condition.

Police said the bomb was hidden in the hollow frame of a bicycle left leaning against the wall of the popular Alno Cafe in the crowded Ben Yehuda Street mall.

The blast hurled metal from the bicycle and slivers of glass from the cafe's windows into the sidewalk crowds, splattering the streets with the victims' blood.

"I was sitting in the cafe, and didn't see anything unusual," said Maya Shalmiel. "Suddenly the lights blinked out and I heard the explosion. What a blast — it was maddening."

Customers poured out the back way in a scene of "pandemonium — shouts, hysteria," said Leor Avital, 17, who was making a telephone call from a nearby phone booth when the bomb exploded.

Police said a second bicycle bomb was spotted and was detonated by a bomb disposal team without causing injury. Authorities said a number of Arabs in the area were taken in for questioning.
