

Trustees Hold Emergency Session

Lawsuit Filed Against School Board

BY O.G. NIEMAN

The Hereford office of the Texas Rural Legal Aid confirmed today that it has filed a class action suit against the Hereford School Board, seeking to have trustee elections of 1977 and 1978 declared "null and void" and further calling for the district to hold an election for those four board seats at the next regular election on April 7.

David Hashmall, TRLA attorney, had recently written the school's attorney to request that the next election be for all school board seats, whether their regular terms were to expire or not. However, the board Tuesday evening called the election for April 7 for the two expiring terms, as well as one vacant seat to fill an unexpired one-year term.

The school board held a special meeting at 7:30 this morning. James Gentry, board president, said trustees went into executive session to discuss the lawsuit and then, in open session, voted to authorize the school's attorney to "take whatever actions he deems necessary in defending the lawsuit."

Gentry, and attorney Ernest Langley, each said the only comment they could make concerning the litigation was that the board felt the elections of 1977 and 1978 were legally held.

Hashmall confirmed Wednesday evening that the class action suit "on behalf of all Mexican-American voters in the Hereford Independent School District" had been filed in federal district court in Amarillo on Monday.

Named as plaintiffs in the suit were Irene Cantu, Agapita Cantu and Orilla Guzman. Named as defendants were the Hereford School Board, with Jallie Strain, Mack Tubb, James Gentry, Jim Arney and Clark Andrews listed individually. Trustee David Hutchins was not listed.

In the suit, the plaintiffs also seek an alternate relief of requiring a special election to fill the four board seats. Hashmall explained that this was sought in the event the courts do not take action prior to the regular election on April 7.

The three-year terms of Jallie Strain and David Hutchins expire in April, and the board called for an at-large election to fill these two posts. In addition, the election calls for an at-large vote on the one-year unexpired term of Paul Rameriz, who resigned last year after he learned there was a conflict in serving on the board while his wife was employed with the school district.

Both Strain and Hutchins have announced their intent to seek re-election, and Rameriz plans to be a candidate for the unexpired term. His wife's employment with the school now has been of sufficient length so as not to conflict with the nepotism law.

In the at-large system, which the district formerly used, the two candidates receiving the most votes from the entire list of candidates will be elected to the two seats. The same rule applies in the election for the unexpired term—the one candidate receiving the most votes wins the seat.

A copy of the suit shows that the plaintiffs seek some of the following reliefs:

(1) to certify the action as a class action suit; (2) to convene a three-judge court to hear the action;

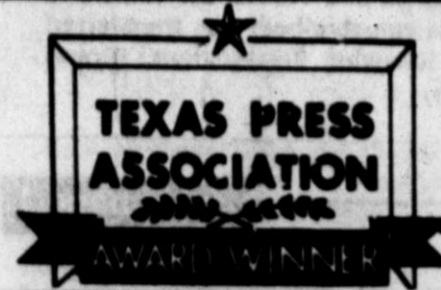

(3) to enter a declaratory judgment that the elections for trustees held in April 1977 and April 1978 are null, void and of no effect, and that the seats filled by those elections are declared vacant because they violated the Voting Rights Act—provided, however, that trustees presently holding those seats shall continue to serve until their successors are duly qualified;

(4) to issue a temporary restraining order requiring defendants, their agents or employees, to immediately initiate and pursue all steps, actions and preparations necessary for the holding of an election for the four board seats held by trustees elects in 1977 and 1978, so the election for those four seats can occur concurrently with the next regular election on or about April 1, 1979.

(5) upon hearing, issue a preliminary injunction requiring defendants to hold an election for the four board seats at the next regular election in April 1979; (6) in the alternative, issue a preliminary injunction requiring defendants to hold an election at the earliest feasible time for those seats.

The action is another step in a continuing litigation which began in 1974 after the school district changed its voting system from the at-large method to the place method. In 1976, the Justice Department issued a letter of objection to the numbered places, majority run-off (See SUIT, Page 2)

American Evacuation of Iran Recommended

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The U.S. Embassy admitted today it "cannot protect American lives in Tehran" and announced plans for emergency evacuation flights Saturday as heavy fighting was reported for the third day in the northwest city of Tabriz.

Iranian journalists reported hundreds killed in factional fighting Tuesday and Wednesday in Tabriz, Iran's fourth largest city. Radio Tehran said 42 more were killed in three southern cities Wednesday as the new government installed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution struggled to establish control over the country.

"We are in phase three of emergency evacuation," an embassy statement read to anxious U.S. citizens said. "We cannot protect American lives in Tehran. You are allowed one suitcase per person. Evacuation planes will begin flying 17 February."

"Phase three" appeared to refer to the recommended evacuation of virtually all Americans in the country. The embassy cannot order Americans to leave unless they are employed by the U.S. government or are government dependents.

Ambassador William Sullivan, briefly held prisoner along with 101 other Americans by gunmen who stormed the embassy Wednesday, told one telephone caller: "We can't do anything until Saturday or Sunday. We're on an evacuation status if we can get people out. We can't get anyone out yet."

He advised the caller to stay indoors and off the streets. "I wouldn't go out if I were you," he added.

The embassy resumed limited operations with a skeleton staff following Wednesday's raid. The big problem was communications since the gunmen shot up the switchboard and the embassy staff destroyed other equipment to keep it from being captured.

Informed sources said a Pan American jetliner was in Bahrain, 600 miles south of Tehran in the Persian Gulf, ready to fly out Americans if the government of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan gave its permission. The government closed Tehran's international airport along with all frontier crossing points. Sources said Khomeini has ordered all workers including those in civil aviation to return to their jobs Saturday after months of strikes which helped drive the shah from the country.

Today was a national holiday marking the death of the Prophet Mohammed and Friday is the Moslem Sabbath.

The embassy feared for the safety of its evacuees from the time they left their homes until they took off. With anti-American feeling running high among leftist supporters of the revolution and thousands of weapons in their hands, there was a strong possibility of attacks on the way to the airport or at the field.

The British Embassy said Royal Air Force planes also were standing by to fly out 500-600 of the 1,600 Britons believed left in Tehran. An embassy spokesman said he hoped the flights would begin Friday or Saturday.

U.S. officials in Washington said 1,700 of the nearly 7,000 Americans still in Iran were ready to leave immediately.

They said the government hoped to reduce those remaining to no more than 2,000 government officials, businessmen, teachers and others.

Before the revolution against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi moved into high gear last fall, there were 55,000 Americans in Iran.

The evacuation was planned because of the attack on the embassy Wednesday by gunmen who killed one Iranian employee, wounded two Marine guards and held Sullivan and 101 other Americans captive for several hours. They were freed by Deputy Premier Ibrahim Yazdi and guerrillas loyal to the new government.

U.S. Officials Irritated At Portillo Outburst

MEXICO CITY (AP) - U.S. officials are reacting with surprise and even irritation to a no-nonsense public lecture directed at visiting President Carter by his Mexican host, President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Lopez Portillo's pointed call Wednesday that the United States accord his country "respectful, fair and worthy treatment" found U.S. Embassy officials privately expressing surprise. A high White House official expressed concern that the Mexicans do not get carried away with their tough talk.

The U.S. reaction cast at least a momentary question mark over today's talks between the two leaders on some of the thorniest issues that divide them: energy dealings, immigration and trade.

After the morning meeting, Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, were flying by helicopter to a remote pig farm village 100 miles south of the Mexican capital to tour a swine facility and irrigation plant.

Even stronger than the U.S. Embassy reaction to the host president's remarks at the outset of Carter's 48-hour visit was that of the White House official, who asked not to be identified.

His objections seemed directed less at Lopez Portillo's call for fair and equitable treatment and more to other sections of his toast at a luncheon for the Carter.

For example, Lopez Portillo seemed to refer to last year's Energy Department veto of a privately negotiated U.S. purchase of Mexican natural gas when he told Carter:

"Among permanent, not casual neighbors, surprise moves and sudden deceit or abuse are poisonous fruits that sooner or later have a reverse effect."

Given the often-stormy history of U.S.-Mexican relations, the White House official said: "I suppose a certain amount of this is permissible for home consumption. I would hope they don't get carried away with this. It would not serve anyone's cause."

The Energy Department veto of the gas deal so angered Mexican officials that Foreign Minister Santiago Roel called U.S. Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger a liar.

"Having high-ranking Mexican officials calling high-ranking American officials liars certainly doesn't help things," the Carter aide said. "Whether it detracts from anything remains to be seen."

This official insisted the Energy Department gave Mexico ample advance warning that it found the asking price for its gas too high.

Although Lopez Portillo doubtless had his domestic constituents in mind during his locally televised toast, it seemed equally apparent he wanted to deliver a message to Carter.

In essence, he called for an end to paternalistic or patronizing attitudes on the part of the United States and a submerging of prejudices on both sides of the border.

Head Launches Survey On Effects of 55 Limit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Rep. Fred Head has begun a survey he hopes will show that middle-income and poor Texans bear the brunt of the 55 mph speed limit.

His bill that would raise the limit to 70 mph was sent to a House subcommittee Wednesday night after Head, D-Athens, called for an end to federal highway "blackmail."

Federal officials have warned that any state deciding to disregard the lower limit faces loss of highway funds.

"Somebody's got to have the confrontation. I don't know anybody better than a bunch of Texans to do that," Head told the House Transportation Committee.

Also sent to a subcommittee for more study was a proposal to forbid insurance penalties and drivers' license suspensions for speeding violations between 55 and 70 mph.

Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, the bill's sponsor, said paying the speeding ticket is punishment enough. "I don't think it ought to come back to you," he said.

Head maintained that wealthier Texans escape the 55 mph limit because they are more likely to use planes for long distance travel or can hire an attorney to fight a speeding ticket.

"I've thought for a long time that middle income and poor people pay most of the tickets," he said.

Head's staff is surveying 500 tickets selected at random by the Department of Public Safety and will see if any conclusions can be drawn," he added.

Head said his proposal to raise the speed limit is designed to return to Texas "the right to exercise the privilege that I think should be regulated at the state level."

Gov. Bill Clements said last week he opposed any plan to raise the speed limit because Texas could lose $300 million annually in federal highway funds. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby added his opposition to the speed limit proposal Wednesday.

Head said fuel could be saved more efficiently by other methods than cutting

Seeking Farm Solutions

Clarence Martin, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee and Ed Coltharp, executive vice president of the WTCC discuss farm issues with Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee Chairman Bobby Veigel during a special session at the chamber office yesterday. Veigel requested the WTCC's assistance in an effort to obtain a clearance for the use of the pesticide Azodrin on corn for the coming year, in an effort to bring a major spider mite problem under control in the High Plains corn producing region. The WTCC spokesmen indicated the WTCC will assist with the project, provided there is no evidence of detriment resulting from the use of the pesticide. [Brand photo by Jim Stelert]

Ag Committee Requests Help On Azodrin Clearance

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Representatives of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in Hereford Wednesday afternoon for a meeting with the Agriculture Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, came in line for some tough questions concerning the WTCC's role in supporting the agricultural industry of the High Plains.

Ed Coltharp, executive vice president of the WTCC and Clarence Martin, chairman of the WTCC's ag committee, were quizzed about the organization's position on parity income for agriculture, the overall farm commodity price issue and other problems relative to the current status of agriculture throughout the West Texas area and much of the nation.

Wednesday's meeting was held for the purpose of discussion of combined efforts of the WTCC and the local chamber in helping to resolve some of the area's unique farm problems.

Coltharp and Martin opened the floor to discussions of particular concern to the local agriculture industry early-on in the session, and received an earful in short order.

Ag committee members questioned the duo about the possibility of resolutions from the WTCC in support of the parity concept for agriculture, in addition to requesting the WTCC's assistance in seeking a clearance for the use of the pesticide Azodrin on spider mites in corn for the coming crop year.

"Ag committee member Harlan Vanderzee, a director of the WTCC, questioned Coltharp about the WTCC's position concerning parity.

"We support the concept that there should be opportunity available for farmers or any businessman to have a reasonable opportunity to make a profit. We haven't taken a specific stand on parity," Coltharp commented.

Vanderzee then asked if the WTCC opposes measures that deny parity.

Coltharp replied, "This comes back to the concept of specific issues, and our stands on individual issues such as the cotton dust standard, beef importation, etc. addresses the problem."

"No it doesn't," Vanderzee responded. "The price issue addresses the problem. We must have some strong firm stand on an equitable price for commodities. Our problem in agricultural areas is price," he stated.

Coltharp then advised the ag committee members to build their case for such issues as parity and price stands and present them to the WTCC through committee process.

"So far, things like that have never gotten out of committee," he warned.

Bobby Veigel, chairman of the ag committee, then advised the WTCC representatives of the problems area farmers are having with spider mites, and requested their support in seeking a clearance for a new pesticide to be used against the pest.

Leland Shelton, who has been working on a project to obtain EPA clearance of the pesticide Azodrin for use on corn, spoke on behalf of area corn growers in requesting the WTCC's assistance.

"The new pesticides act has caused a lot of restrictions, and a special local need

Testifying Farmers Paint Dismal Agriculture Scene

WASHINGTON (AP) - "No longer can a father justify encouraging his son to go into agriculture," Georgia farmer Tommy Fulford told the House Agriculture Committee Wednesday.

"Our farm, of which I am the fifth generation, is at a standstill," said Fulford as he and 20 other protesting farmers explained their problems and needs to the panel for more than two hours.

"We pay your salaries. We are your bosses. We respectfully request that you act to relieve this economic crisis. If you fail to act, all America has to lose is the family farm and the beloved rural way of life," said Jerry Legg, an Oklahoma wheat grower.

Bud Bitner of Walsh, Colo., a founder of the American Agriculture group, said the government's estimates of damage to the area where police have its tractors corralled - more than $2 billion by last week - have been "grossly exaggerated..."

but, as any of you know, locking a bull in a china closet will definitely result in damage."

Linda Vowels of Latah County, Idaho, said higher price supports would not be inflationary as opponents claim because farmers would use the income to buy goods, helping the economy.

The farmers' testimony covered topics from soil conservation to bankers' discrimination against black farmers.

But the core of the farmers' gripe is that inflation is driving them out of business and keeping them from pulling even with other workers.

Their opponents argue that rising food prices are hurting consumers.

The farmers are seeking boosts in grain and cotton support prices to 90 percent of parity, a formula based on the purchasing power farmers had in 1910-14. At 90 percent parity, for example, a farmer

Alaskan Oil Won't Fill Iranian Gap

NEW YORK (AP) - Despite reports last year of a possible glut, oil flowing through the Alaska Pipeline has been allocated for U.S. use and cannot fill the gap created by the Iranian oil cutoff, industry analysts say.

"Every bit of Alaska oil that could be produced has been marketed. It's not sitting in tanks someplace," said Pitt Curtis, a spokesman for Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, which controls 53 percent of the oil reserves at Prudhoe Bay, the pipeline's northern end. "There never was a crude oil glut."

The pipeline, an $8 billion project, opened two years ago and is pumping 1.2 million barrels of crude oil a day into the lower 48 states, about 6 percent of U.S. consumption. By law, Alaska oil cannot be exported, except for small amounts to Canada and Mexico.

Oil from the North Slope flows through the pipeline to the Alaska port of Valdez and is shipped to points on the West Coast, where the supply far outpaces demand. This led to fears of an oil glut last summer.

Larry Goldstein, an economist at the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry group, said the term "glut" was misunderstood. "All it means is that the local market on the West Coast can't absorb all it gets, so you send it elsewhere."

Full Report Sought On Ambassador's Death

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department, acting on the orders of a "very angry" President Carter, wants a full report on the Soviet Union on the "actions by the Soviet advisers involved in" the death of the U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter disclosed Wednesday that Soviet advisers were at the scene of violence in Afghanistan earlier in the day which claimed the life of Ambassador Adolph "Spillie" Dubs.

"We are angry and upset," said a spokesman for Carter. He added that the department was trying to find out exactly what happened before deciding how to proceed.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher, acting in the direction of the president, who is in Mexico, summoned Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to the State Department to discuss the matter.

In Mexico City, officials with the president said he was "very angry" about the incident.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said, "The more you read about this, the more outrageous it becomes."

Spokesman Carter said Christopher expressed to Dobrynin "in the strongest terms the shock of the U.S. government" over Soviet actions during the incident.

According to witnesses, Dubs was shot and killed as Afghan police and their Soviet advisers stormed the hotel rooms where he was being held by a group of Islamic terrorists.

Fundamental Changes In SS Are Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Social Security Administration is outlining fundamental changes that would give married women more Social Security benefits in their own right instead of treating them merely as their husbands' dependents.

One of the two major approaches outlined in the study would split earnings evenly between husband and wife, regardless of who worked during the marriage; the other option would set up a two-tier system to guarantee everyone a flat $122-a-month benefit at age 65, plus whatever benefits he or she earned as a worker.

Divorcees would fare better and disability insurance coverage would be improved for women under either plan. But a surviving parent would get a dependent's benefit only until the family's youngest child turned 7, instead of 18.

And the proposed changes would result in a net reduction in benefits for traditional one-earner families in which the wife never worked outside the home and thus never paid into the Social Security system.

Although the woman's benefits in those cases would be credited to her individually, the couple's combined benefit would be up to 19 percent lower than under the present system.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Without continued American aid, the flow of illegal aliens from Latin America is sure to continue, the State Department's highest ranking Mexican-American told Congress.

American taxpayers need to make a "critical investment in the future well-being and security of the United States" by increasing aid to Latin America, Abelardo L. Valdez added on Wednesday.

Valdez, an Agency for International Development assistant administrator, told the House subcommittee on inter-American affairs, that the increased funds "is not really 'foreign' assistance, but a critical investment...an investment for Pennsylvania and Texas and New York as well as Bolivia, Honduras and the Dominican Republic."

But without continuing American support, claimed Valdez, the Caribbean and Latin American countries will lapse into cities of "unmanageable size filled with millions of under-educated, jobless and under-employed workers and choked by congestion, pollution and energy shortages. Millions will be trying to escape across international boundaries to pockets of growth in nearby countries and northward to the United States, creating growing tensions between countries."

farm families' incomes this year probably will come from their jobs in town. Of the record $6,050 after-tax income per farm person last year, only $2,830 came from farming.

His testimony showed that, despite a 40 percent leap in net farm income last year, the average farmer still makes $90.70 from all sources for each $100 made by an average nonfarmer.

Since 1967, the government's base year for tracking inflation, consumer prices have risen 95.4 percent and the per capita income of the nonfarming population has climbed by 168.8 percent, to $6,665.

Over the same period, total per capita income of farm families shot up 257.8 percent, with their off-farm income alone more than tripling.

But farm income has dropped in two of the last six years while nonfarmers' incomes have climbed steadily. Hjort's charts showed.

Chief Agriculture Department economist Howard W. Hjort told the House Appropriations Committee's agriculture sub-committee Tuesday that any gains in provision now exists. The state can issue a permit if it is evident the need is there, but basically, we need widespread support to get it done. We've used every registered chemical with no control, and this is not just a problem in the Hereford area. It involves the entire High Plains corn growing area," said Shelton.

calling for specific information on the issue.

"If we don't find any hard evidence of any detriment from the use of this pesticide, I believe the WTCC would be ready to do what it can," he stated.

The WTCC representatives listed some of the specific agriculture-related activities of their organization, pointing out WTCC has long opposed the importation of beef, strongly supported the Bentsen bill on meat imports, favors free markets, supports a workable program to legally utilize labor from Mexico, and favors activities of such organizations as Water Inc. in seeking water resources for Texas.

Valentine Classified Section Draws Classic Verse in Houston

BY ROB WOOD

HOUSTON (AP) - There are many ways to say "I love you" on Valentine's Day but some Houstonians used the classified ad section to bring such sweet messages as: "Bob, my blood would be boiling, if your head wasn't balding."

Then the message to "Big Creep-Roses are red, violets are blue, to get lost on the road again would be heaven with you. Love Na Noo."

Or how about this one to Ben: "Bread is bread, cheese is cheese, but what's a kiss without a squeeze?"

These and many others appeared in the Valentine's Day edition of the Houston Post where a special section is set aside for a love message on this day of love. For a few bucks, anyone can let their feelings be known. Cindy had this note for Eddie: "This year it's Thee and me and Baby makes Three. Well, not quite."

Alma paid for an ad to tell Earl: "You curl my toes with your cute little nose."

From Beth to "Puddles" was: "Remember the first Sunday, every 5th Monday and most Tuesdays."

Speaking of "Puddles," apparently a lot of the guys and dolls would be somewhat redfaced if their nicknames were known. How about Little Princess, Boo Boo, Butch, Cricket, Dougie Bear, Sweetie Face, Missouri City Kitty, Oogie and Schnoogie, Toots and Dummy.

The sentimental ones, the ones with heart, must include these two:

"To a fat old woman from a dirty old man."

"Be my Valentine or I'll puke."
The best for last:

"Be my Valentine. Borrow some Valentine money today. Make someone happy." Signed Kipperman's Pawn Brokers.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor: The following is an open letter to the residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith County:

The Texas Legislature is presently considering a budget request made by the Texas State Library that involves an additional $1.2 million in state funding for 1980 and another $1.1 million for 1981 for the Statewide Library Development portion of their budget. It is believed that these increases will allow the statewide library systems programs to be maintained at their present level and to keep up with the present rate of inflation.

The last word from Austin was that the Legislative Budget Board has not only not recommended an increase, but has suggested a cut in these funds. It is believed that the only action that will save the budget request now is a show of support by concerned citizens.

The decision regarding the allocation of funds now rest with the House and Senate appropriations committee. If you are interested in your local library, please write these committees and express your support. Tell them what your library systems means to your library and community.

ALLEY OOP by Dave Graue

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

IN WASHINGTON Martha Angle and Robert Walters Who is to judge?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Who judges the judges? For more than four decades, concerned members of Congress have searched in vain for an answer to the troublesome question of how to properly discipline federal judges whose conduct fails to meet the standard of "good behavior."

That phrase comes from Article II of the Constitution, which provides that all federal judges "shall hold their offices during good behavior." The Constitution offers no guidance on enforcing that undefined standard, but Article II says:

"The president, vice president and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Although virtually all historians, scholars and lawyers agree that judges are included in the category of "civil officers," most believe that impeachment is not the only constitutionally acceptable means of discipline.

But for almost 200 years, impeachment has been used exclusively to punish judges found guilty of engaging in improper or illegal conduct after being nominated by the president and confirmed by the Senate to lifetime posts on the bench.

That remedy has been used only sparingly, however, in part because the conduct of the vast majority of judges is commendable, complex and time-consuming process.

The work of both houses of Congress must be set aside while the House conducts the impeachment proceeding, followed by a Senate trial on the charges.

Thomas Jefferson described that procedure as "a bungling way, an impractical thing, a mere scarecrow." Woodrow Wilson referred to it as "little more than an empty menace."

Since the founding of the nation, only 56 judges have been impeached by Congress. Of that number, only nine were impeached by the House and only four were convicted by the Senate and removed from their positions.

Thousands of men and women have served on the federal bench during that period, and the notion that there have been only four "rotten apples" in the judicial "barrel" lacks credibility.

No less an authority than Warren E. Burger, chief justice of the United States, noted in a 1958 speech: "I would not presume to say how many United States judges now in active service are not physically able to perform their work adequately, but every observer knows that there are more than a few."

During the 1930s, unsuccessful efforts to establish a disciplinary procedure for wayward judges were initiated by Rep. Hatton W. Summers, D-Tex., and Sens. Carl T. Hayden, D-Ariz., and William G. McAdoo, D-Calif. In the late 1940s, another vain attempt was made by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md.

In more recent years, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., has introduced carefully drafted legislation to establish a Commission and Court on Judicial Conduct and Disability.

Using a procedure already applicable in almost every state, the commission would screen complaints against judges, referring only the most serious allegations to an elaborate five-step judicial proceeding.

All cases would be considered in secret to shield judges from premature and unwarranted publicity. If found guilty, a judge would be subject to censure, removal or involuntary retirement.

Supported by the American Bar Association, American Judicature Society and the Justice Department, Nunn's bill was passed by the Senate last year but never considered by the House. The legislation will be reintroduced this year and merits full congressional approval.

"We are living in a time when our public institutions are under examination and the courts are not exempt," says Attorney General Griffin B. Bell. "A citizen should be afforded a clear method for complaining against the courts."

THOUGHTS

Thursday

Getting oil out of rocks dates back to the time of Moses, but geologists are not mentioned in the Bible.

"So the Lord alone did lead him... and he made him to suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock." Deut. 32: 12-13.

Friday

"Gleanings" are a part of the humanitarian provisions of the Pentateuchal code to provide for the poor, the fatherless, and the widow. The verb form now means "to collect with patient and minute labor."

"And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest." Lev. 19: 9

Saturday

"The Scarlet Letter" was Hawthorne's novel (1850) and the scarlet letter was the scarlet "A" once used as a mark of adultery, probably in allusion to the "scarlet woman."

"... and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet colored seat... and the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet color... having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication." Rev. 17: 3-4

Chicago gangster Al Capone died in 1947.

Ann Landers

Ending Sex Drive

DEAR ANN: As a young divorcee, being a good Christian, I was determined to have no hassle with men or sex in any way, shape or form. I experimented with a salt pack, using ordinary table salt, leaving it directly on the private area for about 20 minutes. It worked like a miracle. In fact it WAS a miracle. Never again have I been a slave to that form of temptation. I was about 30 years of age at the time. I remarried and discovered I can take sex or leave it. When one's mate isn't in the mood, or is out of town, or if a student needs to concentrate on studies, there is no need to be bothered with sexual urges. The effect of an application is quite long-lasting.

however, you obviously psych yourself out. There's nothing wrong with that -- but a sugar pack would probably work just as well. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married when I was 18. I knew I wasn't in love with my husband and he knew it, but he convinced me that I would grow to love him in time.

I kept counting my blessings -- telling myself how lucky I was -- but I knew in my heart our relationship was becoming emptier and emptier. Then it happened. When I was 35, I fell in love for the first time. The man was married. We tried not to let our feelings surface because we knew too many people would be hurt.

We have not seen each other for four years but there are still days when I become so overwhelmed with memories that life is unbearable. I want to be with him so much I ache.

Please, Ann, tell your young readers who are thinking of getting married to make sure they are really in love. It's the magic ingredient that can make the differences 25 years later. How I wish I had held out for the real thing. -- Crying On The

DEAR CRYING: There is nothing left to tell them. You said it all. Under "Love" in The Ann Landers Encyclopedia I wrote: "If you have love, you have everything. If you don't have it, no matter what else you have -- it's not enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other evening our mother gave us quite a scare. She had some bad chest pains. (This has happened before.) We've begged her to see a doctor but she refuses. I believe her fear of bad news is what keeps her from going.

Mom has always been impressed with your good sense. We believe if you tell her to see a doctor she'll do it. We would be very grateful if you'd print this letter and give Mom some of your commonsense advice. -- Tuned Out

DEAR OUT: This is for Mom: Lady, please go to the doctor and find out if you have a heart problem, or maybe you should stop eating so much chopped liver, marinated herring and pickles.

Information never hurt anyone, but ignorance can be disastrous. Please -- be a good girl and make an appointment TODAY.

Royalty for a Day

Marie Sears and L.J. "Pinkie" Matthews were crowned Queen and King of the Valentine's Day celebration yesterday at the Senior Citizens Center. Entertainment during the party was a version of The Newlywed Game and music from a band of "musicians" playing the kazoo, washboard, tin pan, skillet and trash can. [Brand photo by Denise Smith.]

Rebekahs Plan Convention

Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met in regular session Tuesday evening with twenty members present. Noble Grand, Karrol Rettman, presided at the business meeting.

Some members are still on the sick list and 52 visits had been made during the past week.

A "Dismissal Certificate" was granted to a former member of the Hereford Lodge. At age 83 she has been re-enacted into Faith Rebekah Lodge #26 at Ft. Sumner, New Mexico.

A member never gets too old to become active again. If you have become inactive why not come back and be with us again.

New members are always welcome also, and you can become a member without having a member of your family who is affiliated with Odd Fellow or Rebekah Lodge.

Following the business meeting the Panhandle Association planning committee met and discussed progress made in preparation for the meeting to be held in Hereford April 27-29.

Attending were Karrol Rettman, Lydia Hopson, Bessie Laurence, Susie Curtisinger, Anna Conklin, Ada Hollabaugh, Gladys Everts, Gene Bishop, Guy Lawrence, Faye Brownlow, Glissie Shelton, Helen Sowell, Mary Flowers, Verna Sowell, Blanche Williamson, Bessie Sauley, Frances Parker, Peggy Lemons, Edna Mathes and Nellie Beauford.

Dawn Club Holds Valentine Party

Dawn Community Center was the site Friday evening of the Husband's Supper hosted by members of Dawn Music Club.

A brief business session was presided over by Mrs. Ray Stewart as several members made plans to attend "Street Car Named Desire" at West Texas State University Feb. 23.

Mrs. Dale Wofford gave a resume on the life of Scott Joplin, one of the first composers of ragtime music. "Maple Leaf Rag" was one of his first compositions. He is also famous for "The Entertainer," the melody revived in the hit motion picture, "The Sting."

Mrs. R.E. Curtisinger entertained with a song and dance routine to the music of "I Got Rhythm." Mrs. Carl Wimberley was accompanist.

Guest performer Douglas Strange rendered from the piano a medley of "Malaguena," "Bless the Children," and "The Pink Panther." He concluded with "Nadia's Theme" by Barry DeVarzon and Perry Botkin Jr.

Mrs. Stewart read a poem, "I Love Thee."

The dinner party was brought to a climax as Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart were presented with a heart-shaped cake in honor of their 32nd wedding anniversary.

In attendance were Messrs. and Mmes. Stewart, Ronnie Johnson, Jerry Parker, Carl Wimberley, Alfred Smith, Reese Stewart, Johnnie B. Caraway, L.W. Tooley, Dale Wofford, Mrs. Curtisinger and Douglas Strange.

Sweetheart Banquet Held by Baptists

First Baptist Church members staged their first annual Sweetheart Banquet Wednesday evening in the new facilities at the Community Center.

The Rev. Doug Manning, pastor, acted as Master of Ceremonies for the dinner, catered by K-Bob's Steak House. Approximately 225 were in attendance.

Guest speaker for the evening was Keith Wiginton, pastor of First Baptist Church at Altus, Okla. His topic was "Is Your Marriage a Duel of Duet?" Problems which he cited as causes for marriage failure included selfishness, poor communication and a failure to understand one's marriage partner. Ruby Moultrie of Dimmitt entertained the crowd with several songs. She was accompanied by Dee Ann Clark on the piano.

Making arrangements for last night's banquet were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Owen, and Mr. Butch White, co-chairmen.

Giving the invocation was Wayne Thomas. One pound of sweet potatoes provides four to five one-half cup servings, says a consumer marketing information specialist, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Residents Attend Statewide Session

Helen Nelson of Hereford was among those accompanying husbands at the 21st Annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference. Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, the conference theme was improving county government.

Keynote speakers were Texas Governor Bill Clements, Reagan Brown, Texas commissioner of agriculture and Mark White, Texas attorney general, along with Judge W.C. Davis, Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Conference topics included local government, federal highway funding, taxation, law enforcement and jail standards. More than 650 persons attended the statewide conference in College Station. A wives' luncheon during the conference featured presentations on coronary-pulmonary resuscitation training and weight control.

Home economics specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service made the presentations and hosted the luncheon. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist was among the hostesses.

Nazarene Church Youth Selling Light Bulbs

The Hereford Nazarene Youth Choir is out to "Light up the Town". They have Sylvania Light Bulbs to sell as a fund raising project for their summer trip. In July, the choir will be traveling to Canada for a four day revival in Calgary, Alberta. The choir needs public support so local residents are asked to buy their light bulbs from a youth choir member.

Also, the choir is providing a fund raising service called "Rent-a-Teen". If an individual has any odd jobs to be done, one can contact Terry Huffaker or Ted Taylor at Hereford Nazarene Church, 364-1375 or 364-6534.

Don't use too much detergent in the washer, advises Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Oversudsing makes the washing machine work harder and wastes energy, she points out.

Dolphins' Young Hired By Giants

NEW YORK (AP) - For the second time in five years, the New York Giants have turned to the Miami Dolphins for help.

This time it was George Young they turned to. The Giants are hoping for a little more luck than they had with the first man they plucked from Don Shula's regime.

Young, 48, the Dolphins director of pro scouting, was named Wednesday as the Giants general manager, ending almost two months of internal squabbling between the team's uncle-nephew co-owners.

In 1974, the Giants hired Shula's top assistant, Bill Arnsparger, to take over for the fired Alex Webster as head coach. But Arnsparger was let go after 2½ seasons and a 7-28 record.

"We were not able to get all of Don Shula, I'm glad to get his right arm," Giants co-owner Wellington Mara said. "George is a real working man's working man. He's done the job of five people down in Miami. He won't meet any situation he hasn't met before."

Young was introduced at a news conference barely four hours after signing a five-year contract. He said the Giants contacted him Tuesday morning after receiving permission from the Dolphins. He flew to New York Wednesday morning, was offered the job and accepted it.

"I think the benefit I might bring to the team is I have a lot of experience and one of the things I've done is coach," Young said. "I know how much leeway a coach has to have. The head coach has to do a lot of things that I can help him with."

Young, a former scout, offensive line coach, offensive coordinator and personnel director for the Baltimore Colts, succeeds Andy Robustelli, who resigned Dec. 18, the same day Coach John McVay was fired and one day after the team completed a 6-10 season.

Young's first responsibility will be selecting McVay's successor. The Maras have already interviewed Seattle's Jerry Rhome and Joe Restic of Harvard. Dallas offensive coordinator Dan Reeves is also considered a top candidate.

"Haste is not going to make the decision, being rational is going to make the decision," Young said.

Trade No Help To Knicks Or Celtics

Who got the best of the big trade between the New York Knicks and Boston Celtics? The Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs, that's who.

The outmanned Knicks, minus high-scoring Bob McAdoo, were no match for the Pacers, dropping a 106-97 decision after trailing by as many as 25 points.

And the Boston Celtics, despite McAdoo's 21 points, were blown away by the San Antonio Spurs 149-119.

From the psychological standpoint, you know guys like McAdoo and Spencer Haywood are gone," said Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard, "but you've still got to go out and do it."

McAdoo didn't. "I don't know what I'm doing on offense right now," the league's third leading scorer admitted after getting 19 of his 21 points in the final period. "I felt lost out there. It's a feeling I've never had before."

In other National Basketball Association games, Kansas City nipped Philadelphia 108-106, Detroit shaded Denver 111-107, Seattle drubbed Atlanta 116-104, Milwaukee trimmed New Jersey 115-94 and Golden State whipped New Orleans 113-101.

Kids Our Only Hope Says 'Rosie' Grier

NEW YORK (AP) - Roosevelt "Rosie" Grier pointed with pride at the rose patches that decorated the arm and leg of his blue denim jeans.

"Needlepoint - I did it myself," said the hulking, bearded Goliath, once, at 320 pounds, the terror of the New York Giants in the National Football League. He was notorious in his day as the crusher who didn't indulge in individual tackles. He simply grabbed an armful of the enemy and peeled them off - as he might a banana - until he came to the man with the ball.

The practice became one of the sport's hallowed cliches. Now he is involved in gentler pursuits. His priorities, in order, are: kids, love, understanding, kids, old people, communication, kids.

"Look at national budgets all over the world," he says. "The United States, Russia, China - billions for defense. Billions for destruction. Less and less for education, recreation, human things."

"That's why I'm so hepped on kids. They're our only hope."

Rosie flew across country from his home in Los Angeles Wednesday to attend the Pre-American Toy Fair, featuring among other items strategy football games promoted by a pair of the NFL's current stars, quarterback Steve Grogan of the New England Patriots and punter Ray Guy of the Oakland Raiders.

The massive defensive tackle of the 1950s and 1960s agreed to attend only if allowed to say a few words in behalf of his pet project, the United Nations International Childrens Appeal, which shares in the proceeds of every game sold.

Two dozen people showed up. "Look, man, if we'd advertised a murder down here, the place would be jammed," Grier said. "But something for the kids - who cares? Can't be bothered. Kids were made to be seen, not heard - remember?"

"That's our trouble. We got to talk to the kids. We got to listen to them. We live in a chaotic world where everybody's talking about bombs and war and revolutions. We're all frightened, suspicious and uncaring."

"Let's start communicating - especially with the kids." It is a unique and incongruous role for the monstrous lineman who had a reputation for savagery as a player and who went on to adopt a tough guy image in numerous movie and TV appearances.

He had a key part in "Hijack," featuring Charlton Heston, and played a vengeful, beak-busting private eye in TV's "Kojak" serial. He has been in eight or nine movies, twice as many TV shows.

Grier said his life took on new meaning after he saw Robert Kennedy gunned down in a Los Angeles hotel in June 1968. He and Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson were instrumental in apprehending the assassin, Sirhan Sirhan.

"For a long time, I was so distressed and mixed up I didn't know what to do with myself," he said. "I wandered listlessly.

Then I got involved in a movement called Giant Step, of which I am the president. It's simple - just everybody hooking up together."

Hayes Searching For Higher Consistency

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - Mark Hayes has a goal this year.

"Consistency," the quiet man from Oklahoma said before teeing off today in the first round of the $250,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm really looking for a higher degree of consistency. I've had some success, but I can't say that I'm pleased with my progress on the tour so far. I'm not as consistent as I want to be. This business of finishing in the top 10 this week, then missing the cut the next two weeks, that's not the idea. So my goal for the year is to put together a more consistent season." At this early stage of the PGA Tour, he's achieved that goal. His record probably is the most consistent on the tour.

In four starts this year Hayes has lost in a playoff, finished third 12th and 14th, a performance that ranked him fourth on the money-winning list and stamped him a prime candidate for the title this week.

Hayes, 29, is in his seventh season as a touring pro. His quiet, unassuming manner makes him an unknown quantity to many fans, but his record is one that is studied with envy and respect by his fellow tourists.

Ponies Grab Bluechippers

By The Associated Press
SMU's Ron Meyer had the whole league buzzing on Wednesday when he hauled down seven bluechippers on the first day Southwest Conference schools could ink high school football players to letters of intent.

But the uproar could erupt into a real "Mustang Mania" bombshell today if the state's two premier running backs jump on the bandwagon, as many feel they will.

Eric Dickerson of Sealy and Craig James of Houston Stratford were the big names who made headlines Wednesday - not by signing, but by not signing.

James had said he'd sign with SMU and Dickerson had avowed he'd become a Texas Aggie. But Dickerson changed his mind over the weekend - "I'm not going to no expletive A&M" - and met with Meyer and his staff Sunday.

A wavering James then backed off from signing with the Ponies after being hit with rumors from other recruiters - that the NCAA was investigating Dickerson because of a 1979 gold Trans Am automobile Dickerson took possession of late Friday, and that Dickerson was going to SMU.

"I don't believe SMU is in violation of the rules, but I want to be sure. You know Eric got a car, and I don't know what's happening," James said.

"If someone says SMU is under investigation, it's a flat lie," Meyer said, and James later announced he is solidly in the SMU camp and will sign tonight.

Already in the SMU fold are some of the finest talent in America on Southwest Conference letter-of-intent day.

If the Mustangs can keep all their talent through national signing day next Wednesday, they will have an awesome haul.

"It's not a question of whether SMU will be in the Top Ten in the country but whether they will be in the top three," said an SWC insider.

SMU signed such talent as running backs Charles Wagoner of Dallas Carter, Mike Charles of Houston Kashmere, Lott McIlhenny of Highland Park and Pete Collins of Duncanville.

The Mustangs also roped wide receiver Mitchell Bennett of Bonham, tackle Michael Carter of Dallas Jefferson, and defensive back Stanley Godine of Houston Kashmere. All members of the Dallas Times Herald 1978 bluechip list compiled in a secret ballot of SWC coaches.

Also signing with SMU was quarterback Layne Walker of Clovis, N.M., the player of the year in New Mexico, and teammate defensive tackle Kevin Jennings of Clovis.

Texas signed bluechip quarterback Rick McIvor of Fort Stockton, tight end Dewey Turner of Lubbock Estacado and running back Carl Robinson of Temple.

Arkansas got a bluechipper in lineman Billy Ray Smith of Plano while Baylor landed chipper quarterback Kyle Money of Dallas Samuel.

Texas Tech bagged bluechip quarterback Mark James of Gregory-Portland and tackle Matt Harlien of Corpus Christi King.

Dickerson said his grandmother, a real estate agent in Houston, had promised to buy him the car if he signed to play college football in Texas, but added:

"It's nobody's business. I don't care what they think. I don't have to explain anything to anybody except the NCAA, and the NCAA investigator is satisfied."

Dickerson had visited Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Southern Cal, then later scheduled a visit to Texas, which he canceled to visit Texas A&M instead.

He said he originally wanted to attend Texas Tech because the Red Raiders were badly in need of a running back, but that the area was too desolate when he visited.

He said he wasn't interested in USC and would have liked to sign with Oklahoma except it would be too far away for his grandmother to visit him and see him play regularly.

A factor in his backing away from Texas A&M apparently was he felt he was being hounded too much by a prominent businessman in Sealy, an Aggie supporter.

Ray Harroun, driving a Marmon, won the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in 1911.

Heidens Aiming At Skating First

INZELL, West Germany (AP) - Eric and Beth Heidens, the sister and brother speed skating stars from Madison, Wis., have been sweeping up titles in different parts of the world in recently.

This weekend they'll be together, though, and they are poised to seize two more world speed skating titles in the sprint championships in the Bavarian Alps. It would be a feat never accomplished by members of the same family.

Eric, 20, and Beth, 19, who skated off with the men's and women's all-around titles earlier this month, are acknowledged by Europeans to follow perhaps the toughest year-around training program in the sport. Both are avid cyclists and soccer players, and both maintain a skating, running and weight-lifting program overseen by Coach Diane Holm, a 1972 Olympic gold medalist in the 1,500 meters.

The all-around victory last weekend in Oslo, Norway, was the third consecutive all-around crown for Eric, who is also the defending champion in sprints.

The University of Wisconsin pre-med student is regarded by skating experts as the sport's greatest performer ever. He combines explosive starts in sprints with stamina and tactical brilliance in long races.

The slender six-footer is so phenomenal, experts say, he could become the Mark Spitz of speed skating by sweeping all five men's gold medals at the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Beth is just 5 feet 1 and 100 pounds, tiny in comparison to the robust Russians and East Germans. But she outskated her rivals Feb. 4 to win her first all-around title at The Hague, Holland. The title was decided in four races over 500, 1,000, 1,500 and 3,000 meters.

The University of Wisconsin student is modest about her own chances in the sprints, but confident her brother will defend his crown.

"I personally do not consider myself a favorite. But my brother is the greatest. He should win the sprints again and go on to take several gold medals at the Olympics," she said during training Wednesday.

Men and women racers from 19 nations will race the 500 and 100-meter events on both days at Inzell's artificial track. The teams for the first time include one from Mainland China.

Beth's toughest competition is expected to come from Soviet racer Lybov Zhdchikova and East Germany's Christa Rothemberger.

Eric's biggest rivals are Frode Roenning of Norway, last year's sprints runner-up, Gagan Boucher of Canada and Evgeny Kulikov of the Soviet Union.

Kulikov holds the world's 500-meter spring record of 37.0 seconds, hand-timed at the favorable high-altitude track at Alma Ata in the Soviet Union.

Heiden clocked 38.22 seconds in the all-around event last weekend, and also swept the 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000-meter events.

Eric says the close-knit relationship among the U.S. team members is what keeps his moral high.

"It's not only intense training but the fact that all members of our team are good friends," he said. "Our performances are improved because we all have well-balanced personalities."

Opportune Dudley Sparks Buffalo

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Rick Dudley, returning to the scene of his prime, didn't take long to find the scoring touch for the Buffalo Sabres.

Reacquired by the Sabres after 3½ productive years with the World Hockey Association Cincinnati Stingers, Dudley scored just 19 seconds into his first shift Tuesday night in starting Buffalo to its 2-1 victory over the New York Islanders.

He had averaged 35 goals per season with the Stingers, but the team's financial needs reportedly forced his sale to the Sabres, who had been after him for some time.

"I was kind of nervous coming back," said the 30-year-old left wing, whose tension was relieved when the sellout crowd at Memorial Auditorium gave him a lengthy ovation when he skated onto the ice at 1:02 of the first period Wednesday night.

At 1:21, he batted in the rebound of a Danny Gare shot to put Buffalo ahead.

"It gave me a little chill to hear them cheer like that," said Dudley, seated in the locker he had occupied during his two full seasons with the Sabres - 1973-74 and 1974-75, when he scored 13 and 31 goals, respectively.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. - Eliot Teltscher upset third-seeded John McEnroe 6-7, 7-5, 7-6 in the $250,000 Tennis Games.

In other matches, Jimmy Connors beat Switzerland's Heinz Günthardt 6-0, 6-4, Spain's Jose Higueras defeated Bob Carmichael of Australia 7-6, 6-1; Dick Stockton beat Pat Dupre 7-6, 6-4 and Bob Lutz whipped Chile's Alvaro Fillol 6-1, 6-3.

BASEBALL
BOSTON - Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' 39-year-old superstar, threatened to sit out the 1979 season unless his demands are met for a new contract.

Yastrzemski wants to renegotiate his contract on the basis of Jim Rice's seven-year pact worth about $5 million.

Yastrzemski said earlier that he would honor his 1979 contract while negotiating for 1980 and 1981. He claimed the two-year contract he signed last spring contained a renegotiable clause for salary.

In three consecutive World Series, 1948-49-50, the first game ended with a 1-0 decision.

He has won more than $100,000 in each of the last three seasons and, in the same period, has won three titles. Victory escaped him last year, but he was second in three tournaments.

"Of course you want to win," he said. "But the lack of winning isn't what disappoints me about last year. It's the lack of consistency. If you're playing at a consistently high level, the wins are going to come."

One very nearly came to him in the Bing Crosby this year. But he blew it with a 4-putt from six feet away late in the round. He eventually lost in a playoff, after playing that critical green second time. He was asked if, in the playoff and in view of his 4-putt problems minutes before, he was worried about the green.

"No," Hayes drawled. "I figured I knew it pretty well. I'd had lots of practice on it."

He was fresh from a week off when he started off today on the 6,708-yard, par-70 Randolph Municipal course, which was pressed into service on a once-only basis while the usual tournament site, Tucson National, is being renovated.

Among his top challengers in the 144-man field were defending champion Tom Watson, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller, Arnold Palmer and the men who finished 1-2 last week in Hawaii, Hubert Green and Ruzzy Zoeller.

NBC will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Branyan's 41 Lead 'Horns Over Baylor

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The old gag used to go that there were only two sports at the University of Texas - football and spring football. Well, it's time to make room for basketball... and Texas may be playing that this spring.

The 12th-ranked Longhorns, led by Tyrone Branyan's career-high 41 points, played the game the way it was meant to be played Wednesday night, thrashing Baylor 102-83. Texas captured the National Invitation Tournament last spring but Baylor Coach Jim Haller sees bigger and better things in the Longhorns' future.

"If they keep playing this well, they will win the national championship," he raved. Well, perhaps, but if they beat Texas Tech and Southern Methodist in their next two outings they will at least win the Southwest Conference crown.

Texas was one of six members of The Associated Press Top Twenty in action Wednesday night and all six came through unscathed.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina crushed William & Mary 85-60 as Al Wood scored 16 points and Dave Colescott added 14; No. 5 Duke got 21 points from Mike Gminski and walloped North Carolina State 66-48 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game; No. 11 Arkansas trounced SMU 71-55 in an SWC contest behind U.S. Reed's 18 points; No. 16 Georgetown used Craig Shelton's 21 points and John Duren's 18 to defeat Stonehill 69-59 and Earl Cureton scored 32 points and grabbed 23 rebounds to pace No. 18 Detroit past St. Bonaventure 106-101 in overtime.

The last 10 Texas-Baylor games had been decided by five points or less but Branyan helped the Longhorns pull away from a 10-10 tie with 25 first-half points, connecting on 11 of 12 from the floor. Meanwhile, Jim Krivacs, Texas' all-time leading scorer, was shut out in the first half but poured in 18 points after the intermission.

Coach Abe Lemons, who once called the 6-foot-7 Branyan too slow to play major college basketball, now terms him an "amazing individual. He's like a white buffalo - very, very rare. He's the rarest of them all.

There will never be another like him."

Branyan may be slow, but he can't jump, either.

"Well, he tried a little," Lemons joked. "He jumped from the waist up. But then he did get some rebounds. Any guy who gets 41 points is a friend of mine."

While Texas was boosting its SWC record to 12-2, Arkansas kept pace at 11-3 by trimming SMU for its eighth consecutive victory. The Razorbacks scored the last 11 points of the first half while holding SMU scoreless for 4½ minutes to take a 34-22 lead and coasted home.

North Carolina breezed to a 45-27 halftime bulge over W&M as Wood scored 14 of his 16 points and Mike O'Koren got all 13 of his in the first 20 minutes. The Tar Heels pulled out of sight by scoring the first 10 points of the second half.

Duke's Gminski had help against N.C. State from Gene Banks with 13 points and Jim Spanarkel with 12. Spanarkel becoming the second leading scorer in Duke history with 1,891 points. The game was tied at 38 with 11½ minutes left but a 12-point run helped the Blue Devils pull away.

Sluggish Georgetown led Stonehill by only 54-51 with 5:58 left but went on a 10-2 spurt to put the game away.

NBA Television Popularity Down

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
The National Basketball Association continues to have its problems as a television attraction. Going into last week's All-Star Game, ratings for NBA games on CBS were down more than 25 percent over last season. And last season was far from a banner year.

The All-Star Game itself, the league's showcase event, managed to pull a higher audience than a lackluster college game on NBC but was thoroughly beaten by a combination of "The Superstars" and the International Championship Boxing series on ABC. ABC's boxing got an 11.1 rating, meaning 11.1 percent of TV homes were tuned in, and "The Superstars" had a 9.2. The NBA All-Stars had a 7.8 rating, down from 10.1 for last season's game. The college game - Michigan State's lopsided victory over Kansas - settled for a 4.7. But throughout most of the season, NBC's college basketball has been beating the NBA.

The NBA has dropped from an average of 7.8 at a comparable time last season to 5.9 this time around. College basketball is also down - fewer people are watching TV these days - from 7.5 to 6.5 but is still doing better than the NBA. Almost everyone seems to have an opinion on why the NBA is slumping in the ratings.

Among the more popular explanations are: (a) the regular season doesn't mean anything since almost everyone makes the playoffs anyway, (b) the season is too long, (c) pro basketball is boring because the players don't hustle, (d) there are too many blacks in the league which cuts down on the white audience, (e) teams in big markets like New York and Chicago are having poor years, (f) fans can't relate to players making an average $147,000 per year, (g) there is too much regionalization, (h) there is not enough regionalization, (i) no new stars have emerged. Whatever the reason, it is clear the NBA is not a threat to

"Mork and Mindy" as a TV attraction. The league is in the first year of a 4-year, $74 million deal with CBS so it has three years to spruce up the act. Two years ago the merger brought new cities and new stars into the league and sparked some interest. But the bloom is now off the rose and the situation will doubtless get worse before it gets better. Six times in the first 75 World Series, a team lost the first two games and still bounced back to win the championship. The earth weighs six sextillion, 588 quintillion tons.

NO. 1 IN CROPS

Cold Slows Feedlots, Though Inventories Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) - Feedlot inventories of cattle are slightly higher than a year ago but the bitter cold winter has slowed down the business considerably, according to the latest government figures.

Some 8.73 million head of cattle were in feedlots in the major beef states on Feb. 1, an increase of 1 percent from a year ago, the Agriculture Department said.

Sales of beef cattle for slaughter last month, at 1.89 million head, were an all-time high for February and were up 8 percent from a year ago, the department said.

The report included inventories in seven major feedlot states. Those account for about 75 percent of the nation's beef.

But placements of new cattle in feeding pens, at 1.59 million head, dropped 4 percent from February of last year, the report showed. Severe winter weather is a major reason for the cutback.

Although production of "fed" cattle by farmers and feedlot operators has picked up significantly the past year or so-prompted by higher cattle prices and some easing of feed costs - the overall beef supply is expected to decline this year.

Producers have continued reducing herds, and cattle inventories as of Jan. 1 totaled about 110.9 million head, 16 percent below the peak of 132 million four years ago.

Thus, as fewer cows and other "non-fed" animals go to market, the overall beef supply will be down in 1979.

The seven states and their Feb. 1 feedlot cattle inventories included these increases from a year ago:

Arizona, 453,000 head of Feb. 1 and up 14 percent from a year earlier; California, 701,000 and 5 percent; Colorado, 1,035,000 and 6 percent; and Texas, 1,900,000 and 3 percent.

Feedlot cattle held steady in Nebraska on Feb. 1 compared to a year earlier at 1,700,000 head, the report showed.

Declines were reported in Iowa at 1,580,000 head, down 4 percent from a year ago, and in Kansas, which had 1,360,000 in feedlots, down 1 percent, it said.

Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist, told a House appropriations subcommittee Tuesday that rebuilding of the nation's cattle herd "is expected to begin this year, but it will take two years or more before the inventory is back to the 1978 level."

Market prices of cattle have been at record levels this winter. For example, Choice-grade steers last month averaged more than $60 per 100 pounds, compared to less than $44 a year ago.

But prices of lighter-weight feeder cattle, while of benefit to ranchers and other cow-calf producers, also are high, meaning that some feedlot operators are thinking twice about replenishing their pens, at least until warmer weather.

Water, Ag Topics For Water Inc. Member Meet

LUBBOCK - Water and agriculture will be the topics of concern at the 12th Annual Membership Meeting of Water, Inc., here Saturday in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown and Congressman Kent Hance headline the program which will begin at 9:15 a.m. in Room 111 of the Civic Center.

Hance, who in this his first term in Congress has been named to the powerful House Agriculture Committee, will deliver the keynote address after the meeting is convened. Commissioner Brown, who is noted for his humorous addresses, will be the luncheon speaker.

Registration for the meeting begins at 8 a.m. in Room 111 and costs $7.50 per person. The registration fee includes the cost of the luncheon at which Brown will speak. The meeting is open to the public.

Other participants on the program will be Harvey Davis, the executive director of the Texas Department of Water Resources; Dale Raitt, assistant regional director for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation; and Harvey O. Banks, the project director of the High Plains Ogallala Study which is being conducted by the engineering firm of Camp, Dresser and McKee, Inc.

Water, Inc., Executive Director Duncan Ellison said, "The program brings together several experts who are working at solving the program of a declining water supply in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico. While this is a regional problem, it will have national and worldwide implications because our water availability is tied directly to our agricultural productivity."

"Without adequate water over the long term," Ellison continued, "our agricultural production will decrease. The ultimate impact will be higher prices for the American consumer and decreased commodities for export. That result would be bad for the American economy."

Leading off the Water, Inc., program will be Hance, who was sworn into Congress last month, replacing George Mahon from the 19th District. Hance, a native of Dimmitt, served in the Texas Senate for four years. He is a graduate of Texas Tech University and the University of Texas School of Law.

Brown has appointed Texas Agriculture Commissioner in 1977 and subsequently was elected to a full term last year. Since he became commissioner, he has become one of the most sought after speakers in Texas because of his wit and knowledge of agriculture. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University.

As head of the Texas Department of Water Resources, Harvey Davis oversees the state agency which works to insure the state has water of adequate quantity and quality to meet future needs. Before heading up the TDWR, Davis was executive director of the Texas Soil and Water Conservation Board. He is a graduate of the University of Houston.

In the five years that Dale Raitt has been assistant regional director for the Reclamation Bureau, he has been involved in the planning, construction and operation of 40 water projects in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado. The University of Nebraska graduate has worked with the Bureau for 30 years.

Harvey O. Banks, president of the Water Resources Division of the engineering firm of Camp, Dresser and McKee, directed formulation of the California Water Plan and initiated the financing, design and construction of the $2.8 billion California Water Project. He has been a consultant to the State of Texas for formulating the state's water plan. Currently, he is project director of the High Plains Ogallala Study, a $6 million project examining the economic impact of declining water supplies in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska.

Performance proves...

The top 8 corn hybrids on the Irrigated Plains are all from Pioneer.

That's a pretty bold claim, we admit. But in farmer's fields, county agent test plots, wherever they're grown, these Pioneer brand corn hybrids consistently out-perform competitive hybrids year after year. Each hybrid has its own particular strong points that make it especially well suited for certain environmental and management conditions. When thoughtfully selected and properly managed to meet the conditions, each of these hybrids delivers top performance... winning performance that's head and shoulders above the competition.

Don't take our word for it. Ask your Pioneer dealer about yield data in your area for the last several years and see for yourself. The consistent performers... the top 8 performers are all from Pioneer!

Short Supply! 3195

High-yielding, full-season powerhouse! 3195 gets off to a good start with high seedling vigor, then makes the most of High Plains growing conditions. High test weight grain is hard textured and dries down fast. Ideal for grain or silage.

NEW 3183

Contest winning yield potential with excellent disease tolerance makes 3183 an ideal companion for 3184. It also has excellent seedling vigor plus good standability and stay-green qualities.

A silage grower's dream come true (even if your plans change mid-season)! Tall with good standability and a high grain-to-stover ratio. Adapts well to the high plant populations required for top silage yields. And if your plans change, excellent grain yields make it a profitable grain crop, too.

Short Supply! 3184

Steady corn maker, popular for excellent yields and consistent performance. Strong stalks, good roots provide outstanding standability.

3780

The corn you can manage almost like sorghum. Total fertilizer, water and insecticide requirements similar to sorghum. Maximum water use period makes it an ideal companion crop to cotton. Yield average of more than 7,800 lbs./A in four years of High Plains production at 86 locations.

NEW 3311

A new hybrid you can trust like an old friend! It delivers top yields and is an outstanding companion for 3195. It silks earlier than 3195 and performs better under stress.

3541

Very early silking, a long kernel fill period, and fast drydown help 3541 produce extremely high yields for its maturity. Give 3541 the management it needs, and it could easily be your top income producer. Excellent standability, ear retention and head smut tolerance.

3360

Plant this one for your banker! It has the consistency to be the high-yielding workhorse hybrid you can rely on. Outstanding early season vigor. Excellent for silage on the Irrigated Plains.

Ask your Pioneer dealer about them NOW.

Local 4-H's Place At San Antonio

Members of the Deaf Smith County 4-H made a good showing in the San Antonio Livestock Show recently.

Randy Vogel exhibited the second place middleweight Limousin steer, while Jeff Smith showed the fifth place middleweight English cross and the eighth place heavy Simmental. Paul Smith showed the sixth place middleweight Hereford and the 17th place middleweight Simmental. Accompanying the local youths to San Antonio were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith, Herb Vogel, and Extension agents Juston McBride and Steve Kennedy.

The next show on the livestock circuit for local youngsters in the rich Houston exposition. Local exhibitors are scheduled to depart for Houston Feb. 25.

Sunflower Meeting Set

An information meeting on the benefits of producing sunflowers as a cash crop will be conducted at the Bull Barn Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting, called by Garland DePrang, Wister Clewenger and Larry Garvin, is being held to discuss the possibilities of sunflower production in the local area.

A large corporation has indicated its interest in purchasing West Texas-grown sunflowers, and the meeting organizers are currently in the process of writing production contracts.

Sunflowers are grown for oil, snack food consumption and other purposes.

Pollution Control Credits Available

COLLEGE STATION - People in the livestock business may be able to receive increased tax credits for investments in pollution control equipment and systems.

Dr. Dick Edwards and Dr. John Sweeten, both with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, point out that the 1978 Revenue Act increased to 100 percent the cost of pollution control facilities that qualifies for investment credit.

The previous law allowed only 50 percent of the cost to be applied to investment credit if a special five-year amortization schedule was used. Now, 100 percent credit is allowed for pollution control facilities, using the five-year amortization schedule.

Edwards and Sweeten note that if the facilities are financed with tax-free bonds and the five-year amortization schedule is used, then only half the costs may be applied to investment credit.

The new regulations become effective for those pollution control facilities built after Dec. 31, 1978. Facilities under construction on Dec. 31 may be prorated.

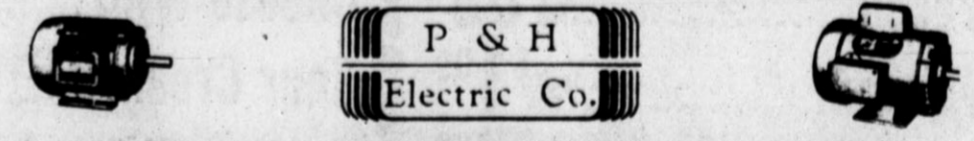

What type of facilities are eligible for the new investment credit?

Sweeten and Edwards point out that the Internal Revenue Service defines pollution systems as those certified by the applicable state or federal regulating body. The Texas Department of Water Resources is responsible for certification of water pollution control facilities while air pollution control systems are certified by the Texas Air Control Board.

Sweeten and Edwards believe the following waste management systems to be eligible for state certification-runoff control structures, irrigation systems for wastewater disposal, manure treatment lagoons, manure storage pits, aeration equipment and dead animal incinerators. Items in question are manure collection, transportation and spreading equipment and land purchases mainly for manure or wastewater disposal or for a buffering zone for air pollution.

The 1978 Revenue Act also allows the costs of single purpose agricultural structures to qualify for investment credit, point out Sweeten and Edwards.

Bergland Points to Possibility of No Set-Aside

WASHINGTON (AP) - Looking at the odds, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says drought or other severe weather in some parts of the world in the coming months could mean full production for American farmers in 1980.

that this will happen, but pointed out again Monday, as he has in the past, that "the world has produced four bumper crops back-to-back in the last four years" and that it "has never grown five good crops in a row."

annual meeting of the National Association of Conservation Districts. "It's entirely conceivable that for crop year 1980 there would be no set-aside program" to curb the production of major crops such as wheat, corn and cotton.

acreage set-aside programs were put in place to help slow down the rise in grain stockpiles, now the largest since the early 1960s.

any circumstances under which we would have as much as even 50 million acres of U.S. cropland taken out of production."

In 1972, just before U.S. grain exports soared, nearly 60 million acres of wheat and feed grains land was taken from production under federal programs.

taken off. But record wheat and corn crops in recent years have rebuilt reserves and prices tumbled from their earlier peaks.

"We could not pay for them," Bergland said. "We could not staff them. A complete regulatory program could not find enough policemen to make it work ... and such a program would be as unacceptable as the problems it would address."

TFU Opposes Hike In State's Interest Rate

AUSTIN - With total farm debt more than tripling in the last ten years, interest rates sky-rocketing, and farmers left with no alternatives to refinancing if they want to produce a crop, an official of the Texas Farmers Union has asked lawmakers to view the critical state farmers have in the rising cost of money.

of the Texas Farmers Union. "If, for example, farmers do not refinance the $1.7 billion borrowed from Texas Production Credit Associations, a fourth of the state's farms will lay idle because that's the number of farmers borrowing from that single government-chartered agency. Add to that $1.4 billion loaned in Texas by the Federal Land Bank and the untold billions borrowed from conventional institutions, and you can see how dependent agriculture is on borrowed money and how chained it is to the overwhelming cost of that money."

Addressing a hearing of the Texas Legislature considering lifting the usury ceiling on interest rates from 10 percent to 12 percent, Butler called attention to the fact that such an increase would amount to an inflated cost of money of 25 percent. Butler praised State Senator Bill Patman of Ganado, who is leading the fight against the increased usury, as "a man who is not only fighting on behalf of the consumer and homeowner, but who is championing the family farmer by opposing the greedy, reckless moneychangers."

begin pressuring farmers to incorporate in order to circumvent the law.

Thus, he said, another export and price boom could put renewed pressure on farmers to plant such land, raising further threats of damage from wind and water erosion.

Bergland made no commitments but said the grants are "something we want to look at."

Texas Farmers Union Head Condemns Bergland Comments

OKLAHOMA CITY - Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco has condemned Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland's remarks to protesting farmers in Washington last week as being "insensitive and inflammatory."

Bentsen as scource of agriculture and Butz not much better, but it appears that Bergland, hopefully the last of the 3 B's, the most insensitive, irresponsible and inflammatory of all the Secretaries of Agriculture in our history," Naman said.

ability of the Carter Administration. His infamous remark that farmers are "greedy" will go down in history as one of the most insensitive comments ever made by a Cabinet officer about the people he was hired to serve.

highest earnings in history. General Foods Corporation led the group with a 79 percent fiscal third-period earning gain, according to the Wall Street Journal. While farmers are trying to recoup their costs, and make enough profit to support their families, the people who buy from farmers and process foods are showing the highest profits in history. Why doesn't the Secretary of Agriculture label these unprecedented profits as greed?"

"The fact is that Secretary Bergland is continuing to give the farmers a black eye by blaming them for inflationary prices and making them the scapegoats for inflation. While at the same time, Bergland continues to whitewash the people who buy from farmers. These are the real culprits in the inflationary spiral."

Secretary of Labor is compassionate for the working people and speaks out in their behalf, according to Naman. Naman said that "somewhere along the line, Bergland has lost touch with the agricultural community and has become the farmer's enemy."

Corn Production Drop Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says that while 1979 crop prospects appear favorable, it is unlikely corn and other feed grains production will be as large as last year's harvests.

Despite the huge corn crop last fall - a record of about 7.1 billion bushels - export demand, larger use of it as livestock feed and the government's three-year storage program have helped keep prices relatively strong, the board said in a preliminary report.

Analysis Shows Growing Importance Of Cotton

RALEIGH - The growing importance of America's cotton producers to world trade-and vice versa-is illustrated in a new analysis by Cotton Incorporated economists.

compared with $2 billion three years earlier. The monetary value of the trade deficit of synthetic textiles has exceeded the deficit in cotton products by a wide margin in each of the last ten years.

the February issue of the Cotton Summary, Cotton Incorporated's monthly publication designed to keep cotton producers abreast of factors affecting cotton supply and demand. Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers. Supported by producers' per-bale assessments, it works for each producer through programs of research and marketing.

Daniel Troxler, associate director for demand economics, points out that the domestic textile industry is still the number one customer for U.S. cotton "and hopefully will remain so in the future."

While imports of textile products represent business missed by the U.S. textile industry, there is another side to the picture as far as American cotton producers are concerned, Troxler notes.

Comment Sought On Insurance Regulations

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is currently seeking public comment on its proposed regulations for insuring wheat in Deaf Smith County, effective with the 1980 crop year.

Weather conditions in 1978 were exceptionally good, and the average corn yield of 101 bushels per harvested acre was a record," the department's outlook board said, "While it would be unusual for the favorable conditions of 1978 to repeat this year, heavy precipitation and snow cover over much of the major grain-producing areas is encouraging for 1979 crop prospects."

USDA Loan Guarantee Will Help Electric Cooperative

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new loan guarantee by the Agriculture Department is expected to help a North Dakota electric cooperative build a new generating plant that will serve one million people in an eight-state area.

The guarantee, for $1.4 billion, was announced Tuesday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Cooperative, Bismarck, N.D. About 1 million people from 300,000 rural families, farms, ranches and businesses will benefit from the project, Bergland said.

Many factors contributed to the decline in domestic use of cotton, the Cotton Incorporated economist notes.

Looking ahead, Troxler says the principle of "comparative advantage" should rule, over time, in matters of international trade.

Executive Order No. 12044, issued by President Jimmy Carter on March 23, 1978, directs all executive agencies to actively seek public participation in improving existing and future regulations.

"In recent years, however, as Cotton Incorporated has moved to rebuild its market, the synthetic fiber producers have been helped by government regulations, such as the cotton dust standard. These regulations have made it more difficult for U.S. mills to use cotton and have encouraged the use of synthetic fibers."

"America's cotton producers can take heart that this seems to mean that their position as a world leader in export-oriented cotton production is growing," he adds. "It would be unfortunate, however, if the position of the domestic textile industry would continue to be weakened by government regulations alone."

The High Plains Farm Bargaining Association, in the negotiating sessions with Frito Lay, has presented verified and auditor-prepared cost of production studies. These studies have included efficient producers and averages of efficient producers. The costs have all shown a very small variance of cost, within a few cents per hundredweight, and they further confirm that '6 per hundred for yellow food grade corn and '7 per hundred for white food grade corn are bare minimum prices, and are in fact low, considering that producers were paid higher prices for similar food corns as far back as 1975 when inflationary cost had not increased to 1979 level.

We urge you to read, consider, and understand all contract provisions of delivery, color, cracks, starch cracks, moisture, discounts, and examine provisions in all offered contracts from anyone, and make sure that they are not food grain provision contracts at or near commercial grain prices. Some contracts may at first appear attractive, but may contain extra requirements for lower moisture, lower cracks, foreign matter, color, starch cracks, longer delivery distance, along with higher discounts for any increases in tolerance, that may result in prices much lower than first appeared.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN — In the first-ever "State of the Judiciary" address, Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court pointed to the poultry sum Texans spend on their courts and called on the Legislature to grease the skids of the judicial system. Greenhill reminded legislators that only one-third of one percent of the state's total budget is spent on the judicial system. He predicted that by 1980 the nine-judge Court of Criminal Appeals would face a caseload of 6,000 with each case taking from a year to 18 months to rule on.

To kick the administration of justice into high gear, Greenhill proposed intermediate courts to handle cases now brought directly to the Court of Criminal Appeals. And, to prevent a judicial traffic-jam, the chief justice asked that judges be allowed to speed up the jury selection in criminal matters as they do now in civil cases.

Greenhill's suggestion that civil appellate courts with light dockets be allowed to handle criminal cases did not sit well with Court of Criminal Appeals Presiding Judge John A. Onion — Greenhill's counterpart on Texas' top criminal court.

Onion agreed the criminal appeals system faced an enormous strain but thought intermediate courts would offer the most effective relief.

Interestingly enough, the first bill signed by Gov. Bill Clements since taking office Jan. 16 approved expansion of civil appeals courts in Dallas and Houston.

Primary Pushed

The governor answered: "I'm not much of a referee," when asked about skirmishes that might occur over a new presidential primary law for Texas. "I'm more of a participant," Clements explained.

Sticking to his word, the governor said he would veto legislation moving the date of the election primary from May to late summer or early fall (reducing campaign time), but Clements said he was pleased to hear Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton were moving toward passage of a primary bill. "The people of Texas want a presidential primary. That's what's important," said Clements.

The first rattling of swords over the state budget came this week when Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene insisted the governor quit demanding a $1 billion slash in taxes without specifying what state services he would eliminate. Clements said his budget (to come soon) would be less than the spending draft of the Legislative Budget Board. The LBB document would increase state spending by 22 percent. Clements called that amount "excessive."

In other activities, the governor created the Mayors Advisory Committee by executive order and said again he is opposed to state funding of a proposed support off the coast of Texas. Clements does support the use of state money to get the project started.

Finally, Clements wanted no "misunderstandings" about his backing of the use of wiretaps in narcotics cases. "I'm for it," he said, with safeguards. "The people of Texas want a strenuous effort with respect to this drug problem."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Feb. 15, the 46th day of 1979. There are 319 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1896, the U.S. battleship Maine blew up in Havana harbor, and 260 crewmen were killed. Spain's guilt in the act was not established, but public opinion in the United States was inflamed, and the Spanish-American War followed.

On this date: In 1564, Italian astronomer Galileo was born in the city of Pisa.

In 1764, St. Louis was established as a fur trading post.

In 1933, President-elect Franklin Roosevelt narrowly escaped assassination in Miami. A shot fired at Roosevelt missed him but killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

In 1942, the British colony of Singapore surrendered to the Japanese in World War II.

In 1973, the United States and Cuba signed an agreement calling for the prosecution or extradition of hijackers of planes and ships.

In 1977, President Carter's mother, Lillian Carter, received a warm welcome in a town in India where she had served in the U.S. Peace Corps 10 years earlier.

Ten years ago: Four U.S. aquanauts began a two-month experiment of living in a capsule moored 42 feet under the sea in the Virgin Islands.

Five years ago: Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn arrived in Switzerland after being exiled from his homeland.

One year ago: An agreement was announced in Rhodesia to bring blacks into key roles in the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Today's birthdays: Song writer Harold Arlen is 74. Third baseman Ron Cey of the Los Angeles Dodgers is 31. Former football coach Earl "Red" Blaik is 82.

Thought for today: You can't push yourself forward by pushing yourself on the back — anonymous.

NEW PUBLISHING

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johns Hopkins University Press says it plans to start a publishing program in poetry and short fiction in the spring of 1979.

Each year two works — either poetry or short fiction — will be published.

The university says the program will provide a forum for writers of superior artistic standards, whether they are already widely known or are talented newcomers.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Absorbing vitamin C

DEAR DR. LAMB — We read your column saying that 100 mg of vitamin C was all the bloodstream would absorb. We were very surprised about that. We haven't had a cold for two years now and attributed it to the fact that we ate a grapefruit and at least one orange a day in addition to the 100 mg of vitamin C we took. Now we wonder how many other vitamins fall into this category. We know that the minimum requirement is printed on all the bottles, but we don't know whether more would be beneficial. Could too much be harmful?

DEAR READER — You can absorb quite a bit of vitamin C into the bloodstream, but it won't stay there very long because the excess will be eliminated by the kidneys. In fact, vitamin C is eliminated on a daily basis. That's one reason people need an adequate vitamin C intake every day. I like to see people get that from good fresh fruit and vegetables. It's hard to improve on that source.

I want everyone to realize that the kidneys are in the body to filter out things your body doesn't need. The specific and clearest example is ordinary water. If you drink a lot of water, it won't be too long until it will be running out your kidneys. Why? Because it's more water than your body needs.

If the blood level of sugar gets too high, the sugar goes out in the urine. You see this all the time in diabetics who have high blood sugars. The same thing happens with water soluble vitamins. That's why you can't have a super level of vitamin C in the bloodstream.

I'd like to correct one misimpression you have about daily requirements of vitamins. The values printed on all bottles these days are recommended daily dietary allowances (RDA). That's a great deal more than the minimum daily requirement for health. If you are consuming the recommended daily allowance of vitamins and are an average, healthy person, that should provide you a good safety factor against the possibility of having any vitamin deficiency.

The only people who need more vitamins than these amounts are those who have an illness or, for one reason or another, can't absorb vitamins. It follows that a well-balanced diet will work very well for most people. If a person isn't getting a well-balanced diet for any reason, any of the common daily vitamin supplements

Court System Better Under Burger

There is absolutely no decision President Carter could be called upon to make—short of a declaration of war—which would be more significant than his choice for the next member of the United States Supreme Court.

There is no court vacancy and none imminent, yet either this President or the next one will likely "tilt" a now evenly balanced Supreme Court either to the right or to the left.

We are not doing nothing about our nation's congested and oftentimes inefficient and sometimes corrupt court systems.

—Just this past year, for example, your odds for justice improved.

For the first time in a decade additional Appeals Court judges were authorized and federal District Court judges were added for the first time since 1970. The total 25 percent increases in judgeships was the largest in any one year in American history.

Though all the additional judges are not yet in place, the increased efforts of sitting judges and the assistance of scores of retired judges have allowed our courts to handle nearly 8 percent more cases than the year previous.

State and local courts were able to dispose of small claims including sensitive family problems and such with increasing dispatch due to new procedures which were studied and recommended by the 1976 "Pound Conference."

Nor is that all.

The Department of Justice has established three test projects in Atlanta, Kansas City and Los Angeles, to seek informal, inexpensive means of dealing with landlord/tenant arguments and shopkeeper-customer quarrels.

Three federal districts are now experimenting with "arbitration" of some federal civil cases to try to keep them out of the courts—at a saving in time and money to everybody concerned—including taxpayers.

Until recent years our 50 court systems operated in virtual isolation; that was largely remedied last year by the accomplishments of the National Center for State Courts and Federal Judicial Center.

The former will immeasurably expedite the proceedings in 23,000 state and local courts.

The latter has already "retrained" more than 90 percent of federal judges now in office.

Starting in 1978, computers were used in approximately assigning cases to West Coast judges.
