

Commissioners Delay Courthouse Repairs

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County commissioners resumed consideration of specifications for repairs to the county courthouse this morning as they re-convened after an adjournment of a regular commission meeting Monday.

The courthouse repairs issue was a major item of business during Monday's session, and commissioners also approved six nominees to the county child welfare board.

Commissioners also approved a request by the Hereford Young Farmers to use well sand as the floor covering for the Bull Barn during their annual junior livestock show in January.

Although the opening of bids on a project to repair cracks and other structural damage of the courthouse was included on the agenda for Monday's meeting, commissioners eventually decided to return all bids to those submitting them and to extend the period for submitting bids for another two weeks.

County Clerk B.F. Cain consulted the minutes of recent meetings and informed the commission that it had not actually called for bids on courthouse repairs, and should make sure that the procedure was carried out legally.

Commissioners expressed concern that the opening of bids on Monday might have posed an unfair advantage to other bidders submitting their bids at a later date, and Commissioner James Voyles then moved that the county continue to advertise for bids on the project for two more weeks and open the bids at that time.

The motion received unanimous approval.

A representative of Wiley Hicks Construction Co. of Hereford spoke to the commissioners concerning the possibility of re-working specifications for the repair project to delete unnecessary items and to further define specifically what repair work was desired.

The spokesman particularly stressed repairs to the stairs on the south side of the courthouse, emphasizing that pouring an overlay and improving the stairs would cut out the need for other items in the original list of specifications.

Commissioners voted to adjourn the commission meeting until this morning to proceed with the drawing of the new specifications for the courthouse repairs.

Mrs. Sherry Hoover reported to the commission on nominees for the Child Welfare Board.

Names proposed to the commissioners included Louis Montano, Jewel Smith, JoAnn Duvall, Ernestina Tijerina and Billy Fave Ham, along with Mrs. Hoover. Commissioners unanimously approved the nominees, and Mrs. Hoover reported that she will continue to seek a nominee for the seventh position on the board.

Hereford Young Farmers President Jim Campbell and YF members Ray Schlabs and Roy Carlson spoke to commissioners concerning the desire of the local organization to use sand in the Bull Barn show ring at this year's livestock show.

According to Campbell, sand has been used as the show ring liner in past years, but cost is becoming prohibitive and sources of the material are becoming difficult to locate.

"We'd save having to raise the entry fees for the kids by using sand in the show ring," stated Campbell.

Commissioner Austin Rose pointed out the problems connected with cleaning the sand out of the Bull Barn following the stock show, but told the YF delegation that if the organization would arrange to provide labor to assist in clearing away the sand, he would not oppose the use of sand in the show ring on a trial basis.

Rose made a motion to permit the use of sand in the show ring, and the motion received unanimous approval.

Commissioners briefly reviewed a list of applications for the position of county librarian, and County Judge Glen Nelson informed commissioners that current regulations require counties to maintain a person with a degree in library science after they reach 25,000 population.

"It's not clear if the individual must be the librarian, or merely a member of the

Cold Air Moves Into Panhandle

A brisk Arctic cold front moved into the Texas Panhandle with gusty winds and cool temperatures today, quite a contrast from Monday's weather which resulted in some record-breaking high temperatures.

It was 95 in Hereford Monday, but was only expected to be around 60 for an afternoon high today and in the upper 30's tonight.

Northerly winds, with gusts up to 40 miles per hour made it unpleasant for Hereford residents on their way to work this morning, but National Weather Service forecasters in Amarillo said the winds would diminish to 15 to 20 miles per hour later this afternoon.

It will be around 70 degrees Wednesday, the NWS said.

Northerly winds were gusting to 50 miles per hour in some parts of the Panhandle today and kicked up dust in some areas, cutting visibility to a mile.

Temperatures were in the 70s over most of the state before dawn today, but were only in the low to mid 40s in the Panhandle. Hereford's low was 43, making it one of the coolest spots in the nation.

It was hot throughout the state Monday, with the National Weather Service in Fort Worth reporting that at least six stations recorded high temperatures at or above the century mark. Records for hot weather were reported in at least eight locations.

Abilene reported a high of 102 degrees, a mark that shattered a 23-year-old record of 95 degrees. It was hotter in Childress, though, where the mercury climbed to 103 degrees—not a record for the date but enough to be the high in Texas.

Other new records were set in Midland, 100 degrees; Wichita Falls, 100; Lubbock, 98; San Angelo, 99; Del Rio, 97; Dallas-Fort Worth, 96; and El Paso, 95.

The NWS said the cold front would reach southern sections of Texas by late this afternoon, and it was expected to be windy and much cooler today over most of the western and northern sections of the state.

Widely scattered showers or thunder-showers were predicted for South Central and Southeast Texas.

Clothed for Cold

Dana Ulibarri, left, and Kim West, juniors at Hereford High School, found things quite chilly on their way to classes this morning after a northern cold front moved into the Hereford area. Coats were evident throughout town today as the temperatures plunged into the lower 40s and winds gusted up to 40 miles per hour. The thermometer was expected to dip to the upper 30s tonight, but forecasters said it would be fair and warmer Wednesday. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Bilingual-Ed Expansion Attacked

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texas' top public school administrator says that responsibility for teaching bilingual education lies in the home and not in the classroom.

Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen proposed that the expansion of bilingual education be halted until there is proof the program is working.

"We should not expand bilingual education until we know that it's good," Bowen told members of the Texas

Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of School Administrators at a joint meeting.

The state will spend about $4.5 million this school year on bilingual education, a program where the basic learning skills are taught in Spanish to Mexican-American children.

He said the responsibility for maintaining a culture's language lies with the home and community and not the school.

"Without proficiency is the dominant language of this country, joining the mainstream is impossible," he said.

Citing conflicting studies on bilingual education, Bowen said, "The jury is still out."

Bowen, who stepped up as the TEA's top man Sept. 1, said the State Board of Education should not compel bilingual education past the third grade until accurate data on its effects are available.

"For 200 years this country has been well served by the melting pot concept of one nation, one people, one common language," Bowen said. "Race and language are extremely important elements of any group's heritage and should be maintained. But the responsibility for such language and cultural maintenance is with the home, the family, the community and not with the school."

With school days limited to seven hours, Bowen said, "we simply don't have time to be all things to all people. We cannot solve all of society's social problems."

Ruben Bonilla of Corpus Christi, national head of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said if Bowen cannot recognize the need for bilingual education in Texas schools, he should consider resigning.

"In the first place it is outlandish and the height of absurdity for one of our highest educational administrators to speak in obviously disparaging tones regarding our Spanish-speaking children. It smacks of irresponsibility for educators to blame educational shortcomings on the teachings of home life."

Bonilla said bilingual education in most schools in Texas is not implemented properly, is underfunded or when implemented is done so without enthusiasm by administrators.

"The man is obviously turning his back on the statistical data that shows the Spanish speaking of Texas still have the lowest attainment of education."

On other matters, Bowen told the administrators that the message from parents is clear — they want their children to be able to effectively handle the three R's.

"And I don't mean running, rassing and romance, either," he said.

He said Texans have made it clear they are interested in the basics.

Bowen called for an unprecedented five-year plan to make Texas schools the best in one of the three R's — reading.

"Let us take reading as the basic. Let me make it clear that I'm suggesting that we concentrate all of our resources — both human and monetary — for the next five years on reading. Then we look at student achievement. I believe we will be pleased," he said.

He also called for tighter discipline and

Dollar Strengthens Behind Board Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board's stepped-up attack on inflation should deepen the expected recession, say three leading economists. Yet, they add, there is no alternative.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, meanwhile, called the board's sweeping initiative "good news" and pledged to back the actions with other steps, if necessary.

He told a New Orleans bankers' convention Monday the United States is "determined" to maintain the dollar's stability around the world.

The Federal Reserve Board's action Saturday came as much to support the beleaguered dollar as to curb excessive use of credit, which fuels inflation.

The dollar did strengthen on world currency markets Monday, while the price of gold fell sharply.

The board's moves, including a hike in its bank lending rate from 11 percent to 12 percent, "guarantees" a recession, said Otto Eckstein, head of Data Resources Inc., of Cambridge, Mass. "But the truth is we need it."

He and Michael Evans of Evans Economics in Washington predicted the prime rate banks charge their best customers will reach 15 percent by December, compared with 13.5 percent now.

This would force many businesses to curtail hiring, cut production and lay off workers, they said.

George Perry of the Brookings Institution said, "The recession will be deeper than it might have been." But, he added, "The board didn't have a great deal of choice."

Miller said he does not believe the tight-money moves will deepen the

Senate Committee Hears Push for SALT Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is making a final plea before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for early ratification of the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union.

The committee, wrapping up its hearings into the dimmest corners of the complicated and controversial pact, scheduled repeat appearances today by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and other high officials.

At the same time, it was questioning Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., about the Senate Intelligence Committee's conclusion that ratification of the pact would enhance the capability of the United States to monitor Soviet strategic developments.

Both of those sessions were being conducted in private.

Meanwhile, the Senate Armed Services Committee, in separate hearings on the treaty, had on tap appearances from two of the pact's leading critics.

They are former Navy Secretary and presidential adviser Paul Nitze and retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward Rowny, who was the representative of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the SALT talks.

Both men previously appeared before the Foreign Relations Committee.

The highly classified report on U.S. monitoring capabilities Goldwater and Bayh were presenting is the product of a two-year committee study.

A 10-page unclassified version, made public Friday, concluded that in the absence of the SALT II treaty, the Soviet Union "would be free to take more sweeping measures, such as unrestrained concealment and deception, which would make monitoring (its) strategic forces still more difficult."

The White House and the Defense Department said the report virtually ends the heated debate over whether or not Soviet compliance with the pact is verifiable.

But treaty opponents disputed that view and Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, a leading congressional expert on monitoring technology, said he remains concerned that adherence to the treaty may in fact be unverifiable.

Although the Foreign Relations Committee has all but completed its hearings, the Armed Services panel will hear some 20 witnesses in hearings continuing through Oct. 23.

Most of those already have appeared before the Foreign Relations Committee, which retains final jurisdiction over the question of whether the pact will be sent to the full Senate.

Officials Say Public Unaware Of Upcoming Water Shortage

HOUSTON (AP) — A congressman, a federal official, and a New York City engineer agree that the American public is not aware of the dangers of a water crisis or of how many billions of dollars it would take to solve the problem.

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, said at the 52nd convention of the Water Pollution Control Federation Monday that the United States is facing a water crisis, "that must be solved or the energy shortage will look like a tea party."

The congressman, chairman of the House subcommittee that handles all water-related legislation, said some sections of the nation will face water shortages in the future unless Congress can come up with a plan to move the fluid from areas of abundance to sections of shortage.

He said most Americans are not aware of this problem, nor do they understand how much money is needed for solutions.

"Federal funds are becoming tighter and we must make good use of every dollar we get. Traditional approaches to water problems no longer work and we must find new answers."

Martin Lang, president of the 27,000-member federation, said the nation's quality mission "is largely in the hands of lawyers who regard engineers with wary skepticism, and who are more comfortable with injunctions, fines and other legal penalties."

"Lawyers may try to achieve water qualities with show-cause orders, but eventually the answer will be provided by engineering and scientific efforts."

Lang, a former New York City water engineer, also said, "The public has not been adequately informed about water pollution problems." Neither the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the news media nor elected officials have been able to convey to the public the cost of water pollution control, he said.

He said the federation had always been concerned about the clean water act passed by Congress in 1972.

"It promised to provide fishable, swimmable waters virtually everywhere in one decade. It could not be done and we knew it."

Adelene Harrison, a regional director for the EPA, told the conference that the public has not been convinced of the importance of water pollution control or proper sewage treatment.

She said, "Three of every four municipal treatment plants in the southwest region do not meet minimum requirements. No longer can we be content to simply make plans and pour concrete. We have simply failed to sell our program and this is a necessity."

The EPA official said the federal government cannot handle the situation alone and "we must have public participation."

"We have been using our dollars wrongly and we must understand that each community has a different problem and a different need."

There are 12,000 delegates attending the five-day conference, where many technical aspects of water control are being discussed by experts from 50 states and several foreign countries.

Activists Claim

Victory at Seabrook

SEABROOK, N.H. (AP) - Hundreds of anti-nuclear protesters, many proudly nursing wounds received in battles with police, today were withdrawing from the woods, marshes and highways ringing the Seabrook atomic power plant.

Their four-day effort to occupy the partially completed plant was lost, but the activists called it a victory. They said the tear gas, Mace, fire hoses and clubs they faced "have taught us what it's all about and will strengthen the movement."

"The only reason the civil rights and anti-war efforts were successful was because people showed they had the guts to take the worst the opposition could throw at them and hold their ground," said one protester, Daniel Upton of Hartford, Conn.

"This weekend, for the first time, the anti-nuke movement faced that same challenge, and we showed that we too have guts," he said as he held up a bandaged arm he claimed was broken by a police club.

Clements Says Texas

Running Out of Oil

WACO, Texas (AP) - Texas is running out of oil and its oil production could drop by as much as 600,000 barrels over the next three years, Gov. Bill Clements told a group of Baylor University students.

During a swing through Waco Monday, the governor said oil production already is down in Texas by 600,000 barrels and the state stands to lose that much again by 1982.

"There is no more important subject facing our nation, and there is no more complex problem than that of energy," he said, advocating the exploration of alternate means of energy, including coal, synthetic fuels and nuclear power.

Clements plugged nuclear power plants, noting that four would be operating in Texas in the 1980s.

"I wish we had four more," he said.

The deputy secretary of defense for President Nixon and President Ford told the Waco Rotary Club earlier that he is opposed to the SALT II treaty because of "technical difficulties."

He predicted the treaty would not come up for ratification until after the 1980 election.

Davis Enters 3rd

Day of Testimony

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Cullen Davis continues to weave his tale of conspiracy, deceit and betrayal during his third day on the witness stand today.

The 46-year-old millionaire defendant was called to the stand in his murder-for-hire trial Thursday morning. Lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes has been taking his wealthy client through the events of 1978 that led to Davis' Aug. 20 arrest. The defense opened its case for two weeks.

Jurors did not hear testimony Monday because of the Columbus Day holiday.

Prosecutors maintain Davis concocted an elaborate scheme to hire the murder of his divorcee, Joe Edson, and a host of others, including his estranged wife, Priscilla, his brother and his step-daughter.

No one was harmed.

Davis, however, steadfastly contends that he was framed in an equally elaborate plot devised by Priscilla, from whom is now divorced, former Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson, and key prosecution witness David McCrory.

Democrat Leader

Predicts Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - A key Democrat predicts Congress will pass a tax cut at least $20 billion next spring, but delay its impact until the fall unless "the bottom falls out of the economy" sooner.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, told a conference of certified public accountants Monday that he expects 50 percent to 75 percent of the tax cut to go to individuals to help restore purchasing power lost to inflation.

The rest would go to business, probably under his proposal for accelerated depreciation of business equipment and plants, he said.

Jones said it is his "judgment" Congress will pass tax cut in April and make it take effect next Oct. 1.

Congressional Republicans have urged a tax cut effective Jan. 1 to curb a developing recession and to compensate taxpayers thrown into higher tax brackets as their salaries rise to keep pace with inflation.

President Carter, saying an immediate cut would increase the federal deficit and worsen inflation, has said he would consider an early tax cut only if the recession is much worse than expected.

Nitze Warns of Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a Senate hearing room today, Paul Nitze is sounding an ominous warning of impending destruction at the hands of a Soviet Union determined to conquer the United States.

It is essentially the same message he has been delivering behind the scenes for 30 years, often with an effectiveness that set the course of U.S. defense policy.

In its current version, the message has three parts: the Soviet Union is putting the United States in imminent peril; arms control agreements like SALT II only help them do it; a massive defense spending program by the United States is imperative.

With the glare of publicity surrounding the SALT II debate throwing more light than ever on Nitze's positions, controversy is surrounding him as never before.

It is a controversy rooted primarily in a reading of history that has not clearly borne out his frequent warnings over the last three decades.

Detractors say Nitze's views have exaggerated Soviet strength, helped fuel the arms race and sabotaged whatever chances have existed for Soviet-American accommodation.

"He's a paranoid prophet," says Herbert Scoville, a vice chairman of the Arms Control Association and a supporter of SALT.

Nitze and his supporters insist the United States would have been ill-advised to ignore his prior warnings. As to the sometimes-questioned accuracy of his predictions, Nitze says, "I used the best intelligence available at the time."

Both sides seem to agree on one thing: Paul Nitze is an expert who wields enormous influence. Senate staff members invariably name him when asked to cite individuals who are influential with their bosses in the ratification debate.

Nitze, slender and white-haired at 72, is an archetypal member of the Eastern foreign policy establishment. He is wealthy, and he comes from Harvard and Wall Street. He was brought into government in 1940 by James Forrestal, and he has been in and out of it ever since, serving in both the State Department and the Pentagon.

He is at once a patrician conversationalist and a man who can reel off highly technical equations to express the destructive power of Soviet missile forces.

Nitze severed his ties to government for the last time in 1974 because he disagreed with the way the Nixon administration was negotiating SALT II. A short time later, he helped form the Committee on the Present Danger and has been sounding alarms ever since.

These public warnings follow the pattern set by Nitze in classified documents as much as 30 years ago.

In 1950, as director of policy planning at the State Department, Nitze drafted a paper called National Security Memorandum 68, which helped set the American military strategy for the Cold War.

Recently declassified, the paper characterizes the Soviets as "animated by a new, fanatic faith, antithetical to our own, which seeks to impose its absolute authority over the rest of the world."

It predicted that the Soviets would have enough nuclear weapons by 1954 to lay waste to Great Britain and much of the United States. It said the United States needed greatly increased defense programs to combat the threat.

The time was not ripe for negotiating, Nitze said. "It is impossible to hope that an effective plan for international control can be negotiated unless and until the Kremlin design has been frustrated to a point at which a genuine and drastic change in Soviet politics has taken place," he wrote.

There are no published estimates that purport to know whether the Soviets indeed had the weaponry Nitze predicted they would have in 1954.

In 1957, working as a White House consultant, Nitze was co-author of a secret study called the Gaither Report, which said the Soviets soon would be able to wipe out the American B-52 force on the ground through a surprise missile attack.

Parts of the study were leaked to the press and formed the basis for the "missile gap" that John F. Kennedy cited in the 1960 campaign. In turn, that spurred the United States to develop its current force of missiles and missile-bearing submarines.

But in the early 1960s, the development of reconnaissance satellites showed that the Soviets had few working intercontinental missiles. That was why they risked war to put intermediate-range missiles in Cuba.

In the late 1960s, Nitze was back in government, helping negotiate SALT I. This time, according to his own recollection, he perceived a threat in intelligence reports that the Soviets might be developing an anti-ballistic missile system.

He successfully urged that the United States combat that threat by developing multiple-warhead missiles and insisting that they not be banned by SALT I.

Later intelligence has shown that the threatening radar sites Nitze feared have proven to be anti-aircraft defenses.

But now, Nitze perceives a threat in the deployment by the Soviets of the multiple-warhead missiles like those first developed by the United States and not banned by SALT I. They soon will be able to launch a pre-emptive strike that could wipe out American missiles as they sit in their stationary silos.

His suggested solution is to send SALT II back for extensive renegotiations and to embark on an urgent program to protect American missiles in some kind of "shell game," wherein the missiles would be shuttled secretly from hole to hole, giving the Soviets too many targets to aim at. He says the United States can build targets faster than the Soviets can add warheads.

Three R's Back in Style

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Parents want their children to be able to effectively handle the three R's, the commissioner of the Texas Education Commission says.

"And I don't mean running, razzing and romance, either," commissioner Alton Bowen told the annual conference of the Texas Association of School Administrators and the Texas Association of School Boards Monday.

He said Texans have made it clear they are interested in the basics.

Bowen called for an unprecedented five-year plan to make Texas schools the best in one of the three R's - reading.

"Let us take reading as the basic. Let me make it clear that I'm suggesting that we concentrate all of our resources - both human and monetary - for the next five years on reading. Then we look at student achievement. I believe we will be pleased," he said.

He also called for tighter discipline and more emphasis on vocational-technical studies.

The commissioner called for "sound due process" followed by punishment meted out "swiftly and justly" when disciplining school children.

"We should not allow our teachers to be abused and the learning process to be disrupted by a few rowdies in the schools," said Bowen.

He questioned the need for bilingual education and predicted the new U.S. Department of Education will not help sort out federal programs.

The responsibility for "language and cultural maintenance is with the home, the family, the community and not with the school," said Bowen.

"Without proficiency in the dominant language of this country, joining the mainstream is impossible," he said.

Citing conflicting studies of bilingual education, Bowen said: "The jury is still out."

The State Board of Education should not compel bilingual education past the third grade until accurate data on its effects are available, Bowen said.

County

staff," said Nelson. Commission members opted to leave the librarian applications open for discussion, and resumed consideration of that matter this morning.

District Attorney Roland Saul spoke to the commissioners offering advice on two items on the agenda, concerning a contract with CETA and the Community Assistance Program concerning juveniles.

Saul informed commissioners that under terms of the currently proposed CETA contract the county would be responsible for any funds that might be expended on an ineligible individual, even though that individual was signed up in good faith.

"I'd advise waiting for a clarification on those regulations before entering into a contract," stated Saul. Commissioners agreed and approved a motion to await such clarification.

Saul also indicated there may be a question with the Community Assistance program. I'm relatively sure we will have more people going to the Texas Youth Council than in the past, and this could put us in a position to cost the county some money. The county could be in a position to have to repay funding which it has not had to repay in the past. I sure thank we'll be sending more people and this matter is in limbo right now. I recommend you hold off on it until we find out something more," Saul stated.

Commission members also agreed with recession, but he cautioned: "We are in the midst of a modest recession peculiar in shape. What we have to guard against is believing that a bounce back in the third quarter (July through September) means we are heading toward a nice recovery."

He pledged to "take other, complementary actions when and if appropriate," but he was not specific.

However, he rejected applying mandatory credit controls on consumers and businessmen as an anti-inflation step.

Credit controls could range from banning credit cards to setting minimum down payments for automobile purchases

Saul's assessment of that matter. In a report on the law library, Saul informed commissioners that they will be provided with a list of items which can be kept or destroyed as preparations are made to re-locate the county law library.

In other action, the commission:

--Authorized the county judge to issue writs of election, notices of election and other instruments pertaining to election.

--Discussed available property for possible future expansion of county offices.

--Reviewed the monthly fire report, which indicated local units responded to 18 county and 15 city fires in September.

--Approved monthly reports and paid bills.

options become clear. I've made a decision."

Bentzen at first said he didn't know if he would campaign in Texas for the president, but after a moment's hesitation he added: "I'm sure I'll be making an appearance with the president some days when he's down there."

When a reporter asked why he would choose Carter over the possible candidacies of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., or California Gov. Jerry Brown, Bentzen said. "Philosophically, I'm more in tune with the president....He's come around on some issues where I didn't agree with him in the past."

Bentzen cited the president's support for an increased defense budget and his plan to lift price controls from domestic oil production.

Besides imposing higher interest rates, the Federal Reserve Board is increasing reserve requirements on banks, which should shrink the funds they can loan.

ciplining school children.

"We should not allow our teachers to be abused and the learning process to be disrupted by a few rowdies in the schools," said Bowen.

The Texas senator predicted that Kennedy was certain to enter the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bentzen said Carter should not be counted out of the running despite his low standing in the polls because the power of the incumbent can cause trends to change quickly.

In supporting technical and vocational training, Bowen predicted 75 percent of future jobs in Texas will require technical or other vocational training. He complained young people are not being encouraged to enroll for such training.

Guerilla Leaders Reject Drafts

LONDON (AP) - The Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace conference appeared on the verge of collapse today as the guerrilla leaders rejected key parts of the British constitutional draft and Britain refused their demand to go ahead with negotiations for a transitional government.

Lord Carrington, the British foreign secretary and the chairman of the conference, said he would announce today what course the month-old talks would take.

Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, co-leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, objected Monday to two points favorable to the white minority in the constitution Britain proposed for its former African colony.

One provided for all white settlers to become citizens of the new country automatically. The other guaranteed financial compensation for property seized by a new black government from white owners.

The guerrilla leaders also received their demand, made at the start of the talks, that the constitutional negotiations be shelved while they, the British and Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa negotiate the establishment of a new transitional government to replace Muzorewa's biracial government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia until new elections were held.

A British spokesman said his government would consider carefully the Patriotic Front's proposals. But Carrington told Nkomo and Mugabe it would be "misleading to suggest there is any realistic prospect of agreement" on any constitution that differed materially from the draft Britain put forth last Wednesday.

The British draft constitution removed the veto over constitutional change given the white minority in the constitution. Muzorewa and other moderate black leaders agreed on early this year. It also cancelled provisions giving the whites control of the army, police, civil service and courts for five to 10 years.

Nkomo and Mugabe made two major concessions. They agreed to retention of the parliamentary system of government, with a prime minister chosen by the majority in Parliament, instead of the powerful elected president they wanted. And they agreed that the whites would have 20 per cent of the 124 seats in the proposed new Parliament even though they constitute only 3 per cent of the population.

Police Issue 45 Traffic Citations

Except for traffic violations, it would have been a quiet weekend for the Hereford Police Department.

Police issued 45 traffic violation tickets, including 10 for speeding and 7 for driving without a license. There were six each for exhibition of acceleration and safety inspection sticker expired, 5 for failure to observe stop signs, 3 for expired registrations, 2 for illegal parking and 2 for drivers under 18 violation code restrictions, and one each for parking on grass and failure to control speed.

The American Red Cross chapter reported someone egged his car Monday night. An official of Ted Lohay Oil Co. reported the office was entered last night behind Big Daddy's Restaurant, but nothing was reported missing.

Police were also investigating the report of an obscene phone call.

Bike-a-Thon Earns $2,606

A total of $2,606.20 was pledged by local citizens for the Wheels for Life bike-a-thon, which was held Saturday in Veteran's Park. All proceeds will go to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital to help in the fight against catastrophic children's diseases.

Fifty riders participated in the bike-a-thon, according to Lorine Schwertner, chairman. Mrs. Schwertner expressed her appreciation to the citizens of Hereford "for their generous support of our campaign."

She said, "Because of the diseases that St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is battling can strike any child anywhere, this money will be helping to save children's lives all over the world. It is a wonderful feeling to know that the people of our community are concerned and caring individuals and, on behalf of the children of St. Jude's, we want to thank each and every one who helped."

Paul Harvey News

Open Season On FBI Bad News

One dark day in early August a man walked into the FBI office in El Centro, Calif. and shot to death two FBI agents--then shot himself.

Apparently the killer was a social worker who was himself under investigation in a drug case.

That same day in Cleveland an FBI agent was shot to death while routinely apprehending a fugitive, a man wanted for kidnapping and armed robbery.

Three FBI agents died in the line of duty on the same day--that's unprecedented in the 70-year history of the Bureau.

FBI Director William Webster says "The killings represent the kind of senseless violence that is occurring all too frequently and to which law enforcement officers are increasingly exposed."

During the first half of the last year 48 lawmen were killed in the line of duty; in the first half of this year it was 58.

Empires are rarely destroyed from without, almost always from within.

The huns and vandals nibbled around the fringes of the Roman Empire, but eventually Rome was destroyed by Romans--who allowed their own moral, social and economic decay to do them in.

Similarly, it was not marching legions which destroyed golden age Spain and Greece and China: it was homefolks.

ed certain of the FBI's glove-off methods, people who never did like the Bureau anyway began demanding that the FBI must have its wings clipped.

These demands and the death of J. Edgar Hoover resulted in a suffocating sequence of restraints and constraints and inhibitions which not only curtailed any possible overreaction by these federal lawmen--but subjected them to such a torrent of editorial abuse that the Bureau's directors and agents were demoralized. The bad guys were emboldened.

And violent crime soared another 17 percent the first quarter of this year.

Now this unprecedented killing of FBI agents and the almost unsympathetic manner in which it was reported brings into sharp focus how far we have come in our misplaced passion for the rights of wrongdoers.

You know who gets the most respect--near reverence--on the slum side of Chicago? Not the cop. The young gangster who has done big time.

Good Crowd Reported At Recent Homes Tour

Approximately 135 guests, including out-of-town residents, attended Garden Beautiful Club's recent Fall Tour of Homes, it was announced Friday morning during the regular business session. The club convened in the home of Esther Springer with Ethel Jordan and Ruth Owen acting as hostesses.

Mrs. W.T. Carmichael, president, called the meeting to order and asked for routine reports from committee chairmen.

Ruby Sears was present as a representative of the County Historical Society to explain the needs and planned projects at the E.B. Black Historical House.

The program was presented by Mrs. Springer, who described the nature project which she is conducting at her home as a new member of the National Wildlife Federation. Mrs. Springer will follow federation guidelines in making her home a sanctuary for migrating birds.

Mrs. Springer reported that 8 percent of the population of songbirds died in the past winter. Explaining that birds are short-lived creatures, Mrs. Springer said that winter feeding can mean the difference in whether the birds survive the harsh weather. She said that 20 million Americans are now participating in the Wildlife Federation's program.

Mrs. Springer presented ten tips for a bird-feeding program: 1) Feed the birds what they want, including sunflower seeds, millet and cracked corn. 2) Discourage sparrows with sunflower seeds. 3) Experiment with commercial thistle seeds to attract canaries. 4) Use beef suet year-round in an onion bag or commercial feeder; 5) Make "fruit cakes" for the birds out of grapefruit rind, peanuts, dog food, etc. 6) Use a variety of feeders placed at ground level, on table tops or suspended in the air. 7) Place feeders at right location near evergreens; 8) Once you begin a bird-feeding program, continue it each year; 9) Learn to cope with unwanted wildlife; 10) Keep a log of which birds arrive and a record of their migrating seasons.

After her program, Mrs. Springer ushered the club through her home, showing samples of her quilts and acrylic paintings.

Members in attendance were Mmes. Carmichael, Wayne Jones, Baxter London, A.L. Jordan, L.H. Lookingbill, Dorothy Noland, W.G. Owen, Don Robinson, Deward Robinson, Joe Story, Charlie Hood and V.O. Hennen.

The clubs next meeting is scheduled Nov. 2 in the home of Mrs. Wilbur Axe for a program on formal gardens by Mrs. Carmichael.

National 4-H Week Being Cited Locally

This is National 4-H Week and in observance of the longtime youth program, The Brand will be spotlighting local 4-H clubs in each issue this week. Being featured today are Ford and Argen Draper 4-H Clubs:

The Ford Community 4-H Club presently has 19 members enrolled. The club meets on the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Ford community clubhouse. Mrs. Warren Gee is the club's organizational leader.

Programs planned this year include record books, parliamentary procedure, public speaking, method demonstrations, and a report from the 4-H Congress. Other club activities will include a Christmas party, Fun Day and a club awards dinner.

At present, eight club members are participating in a foods workshop, designed to help members learn about nutrition and preparation of food. The first workshop session was a demonstration given by Mrs. Carl Strauss on grinding wheat for flour. The wheat flour was then used in preparing bread loaves, rolls and bread sticks. Karen Friemel showed how to serve wheat grains as a cereal, called "wheat berries".

Other workshops planned this year are a study of photography and the use and care of small engines.

The Argen Draper 4-H Chapter is an all-girl club which meets on the third Tuesday of each month at 4 p.m. at the Community Center. There are 17 members currently enrolled.

Among the informative projects to be studied by the club this year are foods and nutrition, clothing, child care, community improvement and other topics.

Girls who are between the ages of 9-19 are invited to join the Argen Draper chapter, which is named in honor of former Extension Agent, Mrs. Tom Draper.

Huntington's Disease

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read in the paper that a 14-year-old girl whose grandfather and uncle died from Huntington's disease (her mother has it now) wants to be sterilized so she will not risk passing it on to future generations. I admire the girl's judgment. My friend does not agree--on religious grounds.

Please tell me something about Huntington's disease. There seems to be so little information around. If it's as horrible as it sounds, people should be better informed. Also, do you think the government should automatically sterilize people who have inherited diseases so they can't pass them on?--Walnut Creek Inquiry

DEAR W.C. INQ.: I am not in favor of the government "automatically" sterilizing anybody. This should be a personal and private decision.

As for Huntington's disease, it is a devastating, inherited illness that affects the nervous system. Symptoms usually do not appear until the person is 35 or 40 years of age, although they can show up much earlier.

Victims lose control of their facial and body movements, one muscle at a time. They lose their balance and fall. They suddenly flail around, which can be embarrassing. In time, this insidious disease can create severe emotional problems, depression and violent behavior. It cripples, then kills.

About 25,000 Americans have this illness, and the chances for passing it on are 50-50. Anyone who wants to learn more about Huntington's disease or help support research should write to either, or both: Hereditary Disease Foundation, 9701 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212--National Huntington's Disease Assn., 1441 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10018 (P.S.

Remember that beautiful actress Jennifer Jones? She has virtually devoted her life to helping victims of this dreaded disease. An orchid to that dear woman.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Like many others who write to you, I know the answer--but I need to have you agree with me so I can show the column to someone to prove I am right. The "someone" in my case is an aunt.

Mother has a birthmark on her neck. It is a large brown spot that looks like a mouse. Aunt Mae insists Mama was "marked" because Grandma was frightened by a rat that ran across her feet when she was pregnant with my mother. Aunt Mae also insists the reason I blush easily is because my mother's apron caught fire when she was carrying me. Please comment.--Caldwell, Idaho, Reader about "marking" unborn children persist although there is no scientific evidence. Showing this column to Aunt Mae won't change her mind. Superstitious people are beyond reach.

DEAR CALDWELL: Stories

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What should a mother do when she finds pornographic material hidden in the bedroom of a 19-year-old son? Does this indicate perversion?

I was shocked at the pictures in the magazines (I didn't know such filth existed), and now I'm at a loss to know how to deal with it.

My son is intelligent, a good student, has no steady girl but enjoys socializing. Please respond soon because I am--Concerned in Macon, Ga.

DEAR MACON: Do nothing. Dirty pictures have been around for a long time, and there is no evidence that interest in pornography is waning. Hopefully your son will outgrow his need for this kind of stimulation.

I know you've seen them advertised. Sometimes they're called lounging sacks. Other times they're referred to as body quilts.

Whatever, you can't open a magazine these days without seeing a family sitting around the living room in plaid sleeping bags zipped up to their throats with only their eyes peeking out. According to the blurb next to them, this is what the well-dressed family will be wearing during the coming winter's fuel crisis.

Okay, forget the fact that it will take you 32 ring-a-dings to reach the telephone. Forget that no matter how hard you try, you'll still look as sexy as an unmade bed. Forget what it's going to sound like when your son answers the door and says, "Mom can't come to the door now. She has a bag on."

Just ask yourself, "Is this the answer?" This is not the first energy crisis I have lived through. When I was ten years old and coal was 50 cents a bag, a decision was made that winter to shut off all the rooms and heat only the kitchen. That decision had an unparalleled effect on my life. Not only did it build character, it unearthed talents I never knew I possessed.

I discovered in the mornings I could run the 50 yards from my bedroom to the kitchen in an unprecedented two and one half seconds (the record that year was five seconds) WITHOUT MY FEET TOUCHING THE FLOOR.

When I had to practice piano in an unheated room, I could play the Minute Waltz in 26 seconds.

I could stand on a kitchen chair (heat rises) and eat breakfast and carry on a conversation with people on the floor like a normal person.

I could jump under the covers of my bed and emerge three minutes later fully clothed without so much as putting a wrinkle in my skirt.

Whenever the doorbell rang on the Siberian side of the house, I could go into self-hypnosis and feign deafness. To this day, I never hear a doorbell ring.

Oh, sure, we could sit around next winter like quilted mermaids, but where is the adventure of getting to the sealed-off room, the challenge of running through the darkness, dodging sofas and chairs, creating smoke when your warm breath meets the cold air and finally reaching the room with the oven on?

You can't get that kind of a thrill sitting around in the sack.

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Texas Farm Bureau will spend $2.7 million to add two stories to its four-story headquarters in Waco, farm bureau President Carroll Chaloupka said.

Chaloupka said construction will begin Jan. 1 and will be completed in the mid-1980s.

The president said more space is needed because the organization is growing rapidly, along with its member services. Chaloupka said the farm bureau's membership has more than 245,000 member families.

New programs added since 1971, when the original building was constructed, include commodity divisions, political education programs, research and legal services and public relations activities, he said.

Severo Gomez said he heard a baby crying while he was taking his morning walk Monday.

"In this tiny box, I found a baby," he said.

Gomez said he took the baby to a nearby bakery and called police.

Welfare workers said the child had been washed, the umbilical cord cut and the boy wrapped in a blanket.

The Texas Commission on the arts will have $3.4 million to spend during the next two years.

Nelson, Rogers Shine

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Willie Nelson, an "outlaw" with an ace up his sleeve, joined Kenny Rogers and his hit "The Gambler" as blue-chip winners at the nationally televised Country Music Association awards show.

Nelson won the prestigious entertainer of the year award Monday night, while Rogers raked in three honors at the 13th annual awards show at the Grand Ole Opry House.

Rogers, host of the show, won top male vocalist, album of the year for "The Gambler" and duo of the year with Dottie West.

But Nelson, called an "outlaw" for his commitment to recording music as he prefers rather than the way the country music establishment dictates, pulled his ace and outpooled Rogers and three others for the top award. "I was in shock," the bearded, pony-tailed Nelson said after the show. "I expected Kenny to make a clean sweep. It was a good year for everybody."

Joining Rogers as a triple winner was the Charlie Daniels Band, which won single of the year for "The Devil Went Down to Georgia," instrumental group of the year and instrumentalist of the year for Daniels, a vibrant fiddler.

Barbara Mandrell was voted female vocalist of the year and veteran singer Hank Snow and the late talent agent Hubert Long were elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The Statler Brothers won vocal group of the year for the seventh time in the past eight years. "The Gambler," by Don Schlitz, won the song of the year.

Rogers, a former rock singer with the First Edition, said he was not disappointed at losing the top award to Nelson.

"How can you be disappointed when you win three awards and lose to someone like Willie Nelson," he said.

Snow, who has done charity work during the past two years to fight child abuse, is best known for his 1950 hit "I'm Movin' On" which was No. 1 on the country music charts for 26 weeks.

Among those he thanked was fellow pioneer Ernest Tubbs, who helped him get on the Grand Ole Opry in the late 1940s.

The petite Miss Mandrell, who choked back tears during her acceptance speech, said later, "To know that everyone likes what I do was the best feeling in the whole world."

Daniels dedicated his single of the year award to the late Ronnie Van Zant of the rock group Lynyrd Skynyrd, which lost several members including Van Zant in a plane crash last year. "I know Ronnie Van Zant's watching from somewhere," Daniels said. "This is for you."

A non-winner this year was Crystal Gayle, who was a finalist for entertainer of the year and female vocalist. She was voted top female vocalist the past two years.

Dolly Parton, entertainer of the year in 1978, was not a finalist for any of the awards.

The selections were made by the 5,000 singers, musicians, songwriters and others in the country music business.

Woman Kills Self After Man's Attack

BREVARD, N.C. (AP) — Three days after she killed herself, the anguished voice of Rebecca Coleman cried out in a Transylvania County courtroom, condemning the man accused of raping her and killing her friend.

After hearing the dead woman's taped statement Monday, Judge Robert Lewis gave Ronald Felix Brewer, 35, of Sapphire, life plus 20 years in prison.

Brewer pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill under a plea-bargaining agreement.

During a June 3 camping trip, Mrs. Coleman, 29, was shot eight times. She told police Brewer raped her again and again. Her companion, Lyra Rosamond McCanness, 26, was shot to death and also raped, police said.

Mrs. Coleman, a social worker, was found dead in her bed at her Asheville home last Friday, one day after Detective Hubert Brown reminded her that Brewer's trial would start Monday.

Mrs. Coleman's husband, Glenn, said she had been depressed since the attack. A .22-caliber revolver was found in the bedroom.

Brown said her death came as no surprise. She "was just dreading the trial. She just dreading that she had to go through it."

"Due to the nature of the case, I don't know how she made it this far," he said. "She had to be a very strong woman."

During a July interview — with the trial still months away — Mrs. Coleman appeared more optimistic. She told the Asheville Times, "I've got to continue with my life...you have to continue to take risks again. I want to stay busy, to be productive, to be creative."

Her taped account of the attack, interrupted often by sobbing, was recorded by police shortly after she was admitted to Transylvania Community Hospital.

She said Brewer followed them to the campground parking lot after they stopped at his mobile home to ask directions.

Brewer, she said, shot her first, then shot Miss McCanness. Then he took them to his trailer and raped them, she said.

After each attack, she said, he washed his hands and drank a cup of coffee.

"I knew I had to do something," she said. "I knew he would either finish me off or save me."

So Mrs. Coleman talked Brewer into taking her to get help after the attacks. But the car ran out of gas, she said, and Brewer went to a nearby house to call an ambulance.

"I thought, 'I can lie here and let it all go, my life, my family, my friends, the career I am trying to develop...or I can take a risk and try to get out of this alive,'" she said.

Police said Brewer gave them a statement saying he had taken a sedative and went to the parking lot.

"I took the gun out of the car. I didn't mean to shoot anyone...the gun went off. I went wild, and the gun kept firing," the statement said.

Brewer will be eligible for parole in 25 years.

Tire Blamed For Fatal Bus Crash

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — A blown-out tire has been blamed for a bus crash that killed one member of a gospel singing group and injured four others early Monday.

Police said the 15-passenger bus was carrying nine members of The Ambassadors, a singing group from Arlington Baptist College. When the tire blew, the vehicle swerved to the right and flipped over three times, landing in a ditch, authorities said.

The victim was identified as Amy Blue, 20, of Greenville. Funeral services were scheduled for 2:30 p.m. today in Greenville.

AUSTIN—State laws concerning juvenile delinquents and young offenders are carefully formulated with the hope that these children can be turned around before they become hardcore criminals.

Safeguards in our juvenile justice laws aim to prevent young offenders from bearing stigmas of their crimes, for we hope that these children will later become productive members of society.

As juvenile crime increases and we are more appalled by incidents involving juvenile offenders, we begin to feel that changes need to be made in our juvenile justice system to curb juvenile crime. We must continue to have safeguards for the future of these youthful offenders, but we must also make sure that our juvenile justice laws are strong so we can have both a fair and an effective juvenile justice system.

Bills passed during the 66th Legislature make significant improvements in our present system. S.B. 541 provides that a child taken into custody may be detained prior to a hearing if he is accused of committing a felony offense and may be dangerous to himself or others if released, or if he has previously been found to be a delinquent child or has been convicted of a penal offense punishable by a term in jail or prison. The same reasons can be given for not releasing the child from detention at the conclusion of the hearing. Thus, the bill gives more reasons for detaining a juvenile than previously allowed.

S.B. 540 provides certain conditions when photographs of a child taken into custody or detained can be made. These photographs must be immediately destroyed if the child is not identified as the offender. This is a very important bill because it statutorily sets limits as to when photographs of juveniles who later become law-abiding citizens, S.B. 46 provides that under certain circumstances juvenile files can be destroyed by order of the court on the motion of the individual. The individual must be at least 23 years old and must not have committed any felony offenses under the Penal Code.

The Legislature has struck a fair balance in these new laws between protection for society and protection for the rights of juvenile delinquents.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The controversial South Texas Nuclear Project, plagued from its beginning with large increases in construction costs, is now the object of a FBI probe and may be audited.

The Public Utility Commission, in hearings conducted last week, began taking steps to hire independent auditors to conduct the financial investigation.

The FBI is investigating a case of possible murder involving a man who was a supervisor of concrete construction at the plant. Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, said he had been reliably informed that the dead youth shortly before his death had threatened to spill the story of alleged deficiencies in concrete pouring.

Other charges of assaults and solicitations of bribes in connection with a lack of quality control checks are also being investigated.

The nuclear plant is being constructed near Bay City and is a joint venture of Houston Power and Light Company, Central Power and Light of Corpus Christi, and the cities of Austin and San Antonio. Project costs have risen from an estimated $1.3 billion last year to a new total of $2.4 billion, the latest of a series of cost hikes.

Toxic Waste Production
Meanwhile, a Washington-based, environmentalist group has reported that even though Texas ranks sixth in the nation of states generating the largest amounts of toxic and hazardous wastes, it stands only 29th in its ability to handle such materials.

The study criticized the Lone Star State for laws which do not specify toxic levels for underground water sources or discharge limits on hazardous chemicals, among other criteria.

The top five states producing large amounts of waste also ranked even lower than Texas in safeguards.

Texas Mineral Rights
Over $25 million was netted last week from a lease sale of mineral rights on state-owned land. State Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the minimum production royalty was raised from 20 percent to 25 percent, allowing the state to receive $1 out of every $4 produced on about 361,000 acres.

AG Opinions
Texas Board of Corrections chairman James Windham has asked Attorney General Mark White for a legal opinion on the constitutionality of a new prison rule restricting inmates rights to voice grievances by petition.

The rule has been challenged by Rep. Joe Hernandez, D-San Antonio, who has sponsored prisoner legislation in past legislative sessions.

The royalty and some $25 million in bonuses paid for drilling rights to oil and gas will be added to the Permanent School Fund, an endowment for primary and secondary education which totals now almost $2.1 billion.

More Energy Appeal
Gov. Bill Clements successfully sponsored a resolution at the Southern Governor's Conference at New Orleans to send a message to the Department of Energy to develop more energy.

The resolution underscores feelings of the governors that the department is hindering energy development more than helping it. The vote followed a good-will visit by new energy chief Charles Duncan, Jr., Clements' fellow Texan.

Railroad Commission Race
And still on the subject of energy, a Driboll state representative announced last week he will seek in 1980 a post on the Texas Railroad Commission, the state agency which regulates oil and gas production as well as railroad and trucking industries.

Arthur "Buddy" Temple III, a millionaire and four-term legislator, will challenge incumbent John Poerner who is expected to seek re-election. Temple, known as a progressive in the Texas House of Representatives, was an unsuccessful challenger of Speaker Bill Clayton.

Johnson Approved
A Senate committee has approved the nomination of Texas Supreme Court Justice Sam Johnson to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. If confirmed by the full Senate, Johnson will join fellow Justice Thomas M. Reavley, whose appointment to the circuit bench was confirmed earlier this year.

Politicians Testy Despite Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's something about October. The leaves begin to turn color, the nights grow nippy and congressional tempers get short.

No one is sure why nastiness seems to creep into House and Senate debates this time of year.

In even-numbered years, October signals the approach of Election Day when voters tend to display an unpleasant ability to recall the wrong votes, the embarrassing speeches. But in odd-numbered years like this one, when no one is up for re-election, the October blahs are harder to understand.

Whatever the reason, this year is proving one of the testiest in memory.

The House and Senate are at war over the congressional pay issue. And when they're not saying nasty things about the House, senators are snapping at each other.

During a recent session Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., interrupted a roll call to make a brief appeal for support of his strategy on the pay raise legislation.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., shot out of his seat: "Can a senator make a speech in the middle of a vote?"

"No," replied Byrd, aware that it was a clear violation of the rules.

The strongest Senate "rule" is the elaborate courtesy members display toward one another. The favored form of address is "the distinguished senator from wherever" — even if the speaker thinks his colleague's only distinguishing characteristic is his abysmal ignorance.

Once again, Goldwater and Byrd tossed aside pretensions of politeness when Byrd wanted permission to offer an amendment to the pay-raise bill, a move that could be blocked by the objection of any senator.

"I object," said Goldwater, while Byrd was in mid-sentence.

"Will the senator allow me to finish?" asked the majority leader.

"I do not have to explain it," replied Goldwater. "I object."

On yet another occasion, Byrd clashed with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., over the difference between "implied" and "inferred."

"You are saying I implied something," said Helms. "I implied nothing. I stated facts and conclusions. The senator can infer anything he pleases. There is a difference between implied and inferred."

"I learned that in high school," said Byrd.

"It does not show," retorted Helms.

Benito Juarez, the founder of modern Mexico, died in 1872 at age 66. Juarez became governor of Oaxaca at 41 and was active in the military and political turmoil of the mid-century. A year after he was elected president, the French emperor sent an army to install an Austrian prince as ruler of Mexico, and Juarez led a successful resistance.

Save a life

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like your opinion concerning children a year old or younger who put objects in their mouths to chew when they're cutting their teeth. I mean pencils, pens, screwdrivers, the tops from medicine droppers. The child I'm talking about hasn't swallowed any of these yet that I know of. A child could accidentally choke or get hurt on these. Would you give some advice to parents in your column about this?

DEAR READER - You're right. One of the recommendations made to parents of a small child is to keep objects away that he or she might be able to get into the mouth or choke on or swallow. It's natural for children when they're cutting their teeth to want to bite on something. In fact, that's the purpose for teething rings and such devices. It's also important for parents to learn what to do if their child does choke on something - food or a solid object. There's been a lot of publicity about the Heimlich maneuver in the past few years and it's well deserved. Many children and adults die from choking. A number of years ago this was usually described in middle-aged or older people who were eating in the cafe. It came to be termed the "cafe coronary," the choking attack so closely resembled a heart attack. The whole principle of the maneuver is to put pressure on the abdomen in such a way as to cause the diaphragm to move up in the chest. When you do this, it is like squeezing on the lungs. Since the lungs are just inflated bellows, compressing them forces air out of the windpipe. As the air is forced out the windpipe, it may pop out whatever is clogging the windpipe, whether it's food or an object.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life: Heart And Lung Arrest. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It provides you information both on what to do in the presence of a cardiac arrest and what to do if the respiration is blocked.

As The Health Letter I'm sending you explains, the procedure is different in small children and infants than it is in adults. In the adult the fist is used to put pressure in the put of the stomach and suddenly force the stomach inward, thereby forcing the diaphragm upward. This is too crude for small children or infants and you need to use the fingers or the thumb but the basic principle is the same.

World Series To Begin Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver is concerned about losing the use of his designated hitter as the Orioles prepared to open the 1979 World Series tonight against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"It certainly is going to make a difference," said Weaver, boss of the American League champions.

Manager Chuck Tanner of the National League champion Pirates made it clear he would rather play without the DH, an American League institution disavowed by the National League.

"We haven't had to do without it since the 1971 World Series," lamented Weaver. "Lee May (the Orioles DH in the regular season) was a big part of our offense. What effect it has will depend on the other eight guys in our starting lineup," Weaver said.

Tanner, who managed in the American League and is familiar with the DH's affect on the game, estimated it was worth half-a-run a game.

"But I'd rather manage without it," said the Pirates' field boss. "It's a different ball game. Pitchers stay in longer. You don't need the long reliever. And why shouldn't a good hitting pitcher bat? Why should he be penalized?"

The DH is used every other year in the Series, and last year, when the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, Reggie Jackson had nine hits in 23 at bats with two home runs and eight RBI. The Dodgers' main DH was Lee Lacy, who went 2-for-14.

May hit 19 home runs and had 69 RBI this season as the Orioles DH. Obviously, the Baltimore offense has to suffer.

Bruce Kison, Pittsburgh's starting pitcher in the first of the best-of-seven game Series, had eight hits, scored eight runs, drove in six, including four with a grand-slam home run. He hit just 145.

But the only contact Orioles' starter Mike Flanagan has had with the bat is seeing it in somebody else's hands. Flanagan, however, was 23-9 with a 2.65 ERA and is the big favorite to win the Cy Young Award as the AL's outstanding pitcher. He was baseball's winningest pitcher this year.

Kison was 13-4 with a 3.14 ERA, and was outstanding in the Pirates' September drive to the NL Eastern Division title, winning his last five. He's also 4-0 in postseason play.

The last time the Pirates were in the Series was 1971. The last time the Orioles were in the Series was 1971. Kison pitched one-hit ball for 61-3 innings in miracles. All the cleat marks and divots from the football game have been filled in. They worked on their hands and knees to do the job. It will be playable. That is, without rain.

Baltimore, which led the majors with 102 victories this season, beat the West Division champion California Angels 3-1 in the playoffs, and hosts the first two games. The middle three are scheduled for Pittsburgh, and the final pair, if needed, in Baltimore.

Weaver admitted he was having trouble deciding on a starting lineup because of his inability to use the DH. If he decided to put May in the lineup it meant moving a lot of players around defensively. The odds are May's Series role will be as a pinch hitter.

The Orioles are expected to start John Lowenstein in left

Stargell, captain of the Pirates and a leading candidate for the NL Most Valuable Player award, played on the 1971 Pirates in their Series triumph over the Orioles. He refused, however, to compare the teams.

The Orioles were listed as 6-5 favorites to win the opener, and given a slight edge for the Series because of four games scheduled here.

Pitchers scheduled for Game Two Wednesday night are Jim Palmer for Baltimore and Bert Blyleven for the Pirates. Palmer, according to Weaver, will be the only right-handed starter in the Series against the pre-dominantly left-handed power-hitting National League.

AP Top 5 Retain Position

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The top five teams, led by Southern California, remained the same today in The Associated Press college football poll while Washington slipped past Houston into sixth place and Auburn cracked the Top Twenty for the first time this season, replacing Tennessee.

The Trojans of Southern Cal, 50-21 winners over Washington State, received 53 first-place votes and 1,285 of a possible 1,400 points from a nationwide panel of 65 sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama, Oklahoma and Texas held down the 2-3-4 spots, as they have since the preseason poll.

Alabama, which blanked Wichita State 38-0, received 11 first-place votes and 1,248 points. Oklahoma, which trounced Colorado 49-24, received 1,126 points while the other first-place ballot went to Texas, which defeated Rice 26-9. The Longhorns totaled 1,101 points.

Nebraska retained fifth place with 1,059 points following a 57-0 rout of New Mexico State.

However, Washington, seventh a week ago, crushed Oregon State 41-0 and edged past Houston into sixth place with 889 points. The Cougars, who squeaked past Baylor 13-10, dropped from sixth to seventh with 884 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten, just as they did last week, were Ohio State, Florida State and Notre Dame. Ohio State beat Northwestern 16-7 and earned 781 points. Florida State blanked Louisville 27-0 and received 756 points while Notre Dame held off Georgia Tech 21-13 and polled 664 points.

The Second Ten consists of Michigan, Arkansas, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Missouri, Brigham Young, North Carolina State, Auburn, Michigan State and Purdue.

Last week it was Michigan, Purdue, Arkansas, N.C. State, Missouri, Michigan State, LSU, North Carolina, Tennessee and BYU.

Previously unbeaten Tennessee lost to Mississippi State 28-9 and fell out of the rankings. That made room for Auburn, which handed N.C. State its first setback 44-31.

Brand Football Winners

Six games were the least amount missed in last week's Hereford Brand football contest and once again it took the tie breaker to determine the winners.

Taking home the $25 first prize will be Hap Cavness who missed six games and was one point off in the tiebreaker. He guessed the total score of the Notre Dame, Georgia Tech game would be 35. Notre Dame won the game 21-13 for a total score of 34.

In second place and winning $15 was Raymond Lueb who also missed six games and had a tie breaker score of 48.

Their was a tie for third between Max Reed and Steve Barret. Each missed seven games and they both had a tiebreaker score of 35, and will split the $10 third place prize.

Others missing seven games were Joe Don Cummings, George Ochs, Rich Nunley, Cawthon Bryant, Carlton Richardson, Danny Rice, Jo Stagner, Marie Loerwald, Karen Compton, Dana Rush, Georgia Collins, Daniel Higgins and Eugene Knox.

28 contestants missed eight games, while 38 missed nine games. Their were a total of 231 entries.

Texas vs. Oklahoma Top College Game

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — This is the time of the year — Texas-Oklahoma time — when college football gets exciting and serious, says Texas Coach Fred Akers.

Asked jokingly if Texas was ready to play Arkansas this weekend, Akers smiled and said, "They (football games) usually get exciting — if not before, at least by this time of the year."

Akers described the Texas-Oklahoma football game as the top game in college football, and he said it will be "intensely fought."

Oklahoma and Texas will match unbeaten and untied records at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday before a sellout crowd of 73,032 and a national television audience.

Kickoff will be at approximately 3 p.m. CDT.

No. 3 Oklahoma is 4-0 and has averaged 45.5 points a game even with its regulars resting in the second half. No. 4 Texas has yielded only 18 points — and one touchdown — in three victories.

Akers said at his regular weekly news conference Monday that Oklahoma is better offensively than the OU team that defeated Texas, 31-10, last year.

He also said Texas has a better team than it did in 1978, but he added, "We have to get some things straightened out, especially on offense."

"Oklahoma has a fine football team. They have one every year — and so do we," said Akers. "I don't see much change in the circumstances... It's the No. 1 game in the country, and it's going to be an intensely fought football game."

Akers was told Oklahoma had lost 11 players to pro football this year, and he said, "Apparently they've got high-quality replacements. It doesn't seem to have slowed them down much."

Asked if the Oklahoma defense might be weaker since Colorado had scored 24 points and Rice 21, Akers replied, "They didn't do it in the first half."

Oklahoma led Rice 42-0 at halftime and demolished the Owls 63-21 on Sept. 29. By comparison, Texas led Rice only 16-3 at halftime Saturday night and struggled to a 26-9 victory.

Akers said the Oklahoma offense, featuring 1978 Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims at running back, "hasn't been extended. I haven't put a pencil to it, but they probably have the largest offensive line in the United States — any league — they've got to average 260 pounds."

Asked how Texas might stop Sims, Akers replied, "I don't know that. I know this — you can't just concentrate on Billy Sims, because they have sufficient quality that if you concentrate on him, the others can kill you."

It was mentioned that Oklahoma usually has fumble problems early in the season, and Akers replied, "Oklahoma fumbles against everybody, then they get serious against us and don't fumble."

"I hope we do the same thing with moving around (motion penalties) — it's time to get serious."

Asked about Texas' numerous five-yard motion penalties in the Rice game and Texas' inability to score touchdowns this season, Akers said, "It's lack of execution. It's not always at the same point. It's not always the same person or the same play."

Texas had the ball 11 times on the Rice side of the 50-yard line Saturday night but scored only two touchdowns, including a final tally with 48 seconds left in the game.

"It's nothing we can't cure," Akers said, but he added that Texas might simplify its goal line offense.

Told Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer was concerned about his team's short kickoffs, Akers said, "If he's concerned about his kicking, we can share feelings with him. We have an established (place)kicker but our punting is not even average."

John Goodson has kicked nine of 12 field goals for Texas, including a 50-yarder, but has averaged only 32.5 yards on nine punts.

Akers said Goodson or senior quarterback Ted Constanzo would punt against Oklahoma.

Texas quarterback Donnie Little sat out the second half of the Rice game with his right thumb wrapped in ice, but Akers said he thought he would be ready to play against Oklahoma.

Junior offensive guard Alan Williams, "who is our second-team offensive line," had surgery scheduled on his thumb and will miss at least a month of the season, Akers said. Sophomore Mike Babb will replace Williams.

Kick team specialist Charles Vaelavik also will miss the Oklahoma game with an injured shoulder.

Cornerback Vance Bedford bruised his knee, and Bedford's sub, Adrian Price, had a bruise above the knee, but Akers indicated they would play.

Akers said Texas coaches had selected tackle Bill Acker as the most valuable defensive player in the Rice game. Acker had 10 tackles, including two quarterback sacks, and pressured Rice quarterback Randy Hertel twice.

Wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones, who grabbed seven passes for 79 yards — including four third-down tosses for first downs — was named the MVP on offense.

"Johnny's play outside really did open up our inside running game," said Akers.
