Pickup starts Saturday

History books arrive

The new Deaf Smith County history books arrived from the publishers today and residents who ordered them may pick up their copies at the County Bull Barn beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Distribution will be from the Bull Barn from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday until further notice, according to Troyce Hanna, chairman of Project County History committee which produced the book under sponsorship of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. Mrs. Hanna emphasized that anyone who picks up a book that was ordered in the name of another person, must present some written authorization from the purchaser.

At the time the book is claimed, the purchaser will also receive any photos and other material he submitted for use in family stories or other sections of the book. Authorization will be needed also to pick up material which was submitted by another person.

"We are very pleased that the books arrived well before Christmas, since many purchasers wanted them for gifts," Mrs. Hanna said. "We have had numerous inquiries in recent weeks from people eager to see their copies as well as to get books intended for gifts."

The committee is pleased, too, with the quality and appearance of the books, which are all that we had expected. With dozens of volunteer helpers, we have been working the past two years to make this history as complete as is possible in one volume. Our only regret is that we did not have more space for all the material which was available."

Use of the Bull Barn as the distribution center will be more convenient for those picking up their order, Mrs. Hanna said, with plenty of space inside as well as on the parking lot. A large staff of volunteers will be on duty each day to speed up distribution.

Lung fund tree to be in mall

The second annual Christmas Seal Tree will be up in Sugarland Mall Saturday, waiting to be decorated by cardboard canes representing shoppers' donations, according to Jewell Smith, volunteer coordinator of the Hereford effort for the American Lung Association.

Last year nearly $800 was raised in the project. Shoppers who make a donation are allowed to sign a cardboard candy cane and hang it on the tree. The campaign will continue through Dec. 20.

Everyone likes gift tradition

"I just feel, and this sounds a little corny, that you put a lot of love into it," is the opinion of Shirley Zevely on her family's tradition of giving only — yes, only — homemade gifts.

The tradition began as part of the Zevely clan was making gifts, then as families got bigger and older the rest of the folks took it up. For the past five years they have drawn names and made one "big" gift for that person.

"We kind of suit that gift to the person," Mrs. Zevely said. "We've just had a ball with it."

She said more time is spent putting one's self into a gift and so, more time thinking about that person. Making gifts stirs the creativity, too. She said her husband, Daryl, once bought three sizes of nails and a board and just sat piddling in the floor until he came up with an idea. His finished work was a nail sculpture of a windmill.

Zevely has a sister who paints; Mrs. Zevely sews and bakes; their oldest son, Clay, does leather work and made a saddle one year; Scott makes wood-framed clocks; and Ann can crochet and latch-hook.

The grandparents came up one year with bulletin boards cut in the shape of huge tennis shoes for the teenagers.

Craftiness is on their tree, too. Mrs. Zevely said she and her husband have an ornament from their first Christmas together, something from everywhere they have lived and things their children made.

"It's kind of pushing out the things you buy," she said. "Everyone likes something homemade."

Wave of tornadoes hits Mississippi valley states

By BETSY BROWN KRAFT
Associated Press Writer

A freak December wave of tornadoes tore through three states in the Mississippi Valley, killing seven people, injuring more than 140 and leaving hundreds homeless today from wind damage or floods caused by thunderstorms.

Heavy rain from the thunderstorms and twisters in Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois also swelled rivers to flood stage, leaving water waist-high in some homes and 3 1/2 feet deep in streets.

The violent storms were touched off Thursday when a cold front moving east bumped into unseasonably warm air that was setting record temperatures across the Ohio Valley, forecasters said.

The twisters were "very unusual for this time of year," said Hugh Crowther of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, Mo.

But the West got a break when skies cleared after a storm that killed 18 people as it marched from the Pacific to the Dakotas headed into Canada. And most of the nation enjoyed balmy days that set records for the date.

The twisters killed three people in Arkansas and four in Illinois and injured an estimated 86 people, authorities said. In Missouri, tornadoes injured 63 more.

One victim died when a trailer park in Alexander, Ark., was hit by tornado winds, damaging up to 175 mobile homes.

"It's mostly nothing left but slabs," said state police Lt. John Bailey.

When the storm hit the victim's home, "The tornado picked it up and carried it across the street," said Pat Hampel, 28, who watched. "It looked like a lumber truck had been dumped on it."

A nearby car "was laid open like somebody had put a grenade in it," Hampel said.

Funnel clouds touched down in town after town in Arkansas, hitting especially hard in Alexander, western Little Rock and rural Rose Bud. About eight tornadoes, some touching down more than once, moved along two general paths, said forecaster George Wilken.

Up to 30,000 Arkansas Power & Light Co. customers lost electricity during the storm, but power was restored to all but 5,000 by late Thursday night.

Water from the Little Buffalo River rushed over a bridge in Jasper, and forced 150 people in Parthenon to flee their houses.

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., sent President Reagan a telegram Thursday asking for federal assistance for the state, an aide said.

The Williamsburg Nursing Home near Little Rock reported damage but no injuries as patients moved into the hallways and sang Christmas carols while tornado sirens wailed.

Jayroe named top Realtor

BY O.G. NIEMAN
Publisher-Editor

Melvin Jayroe, owner of Top Properties, Inc., was named "Realtor of the Year" during the annual Hereford Board of Realtors banquet Thursday night at the country club.

Approximately 70 persons witnessed the surprise selection of Jayroe, the installation of new board officers, presentation of special awards, and inspired by the music of Johnny Ray Watson.

Mark Andrews, recipient of the "Realtor" award last year, recognized Jayroe's outstanding accomplishments in real estate during an "off" year and cited his leadership as board president during 1981-82. Jayroe received a special plaque for the coveted honor.

Pat Ferguson succeeded Jayroe as board president. Other officers installed for the new year included Marn Tyler, vice president; Carolyn Maupin, secretary-treasurer; and Juanita Phillips, director.

Installing officer was Bob Meyer of Austin, data processor manager for the Texas Association of Realtors. Jayroe also recognized officers who worked with him this past year — Lloyd Sharp, vice president; and directors Charlie Hill, Jim Mercer and Mark Andrews.

A special plaque was presented to Carolyn Maupin for her work as secretary-treasurer the past year. Hill remains as a director this year along with James Gentry and state director Marie Griffin.

For the special entertainment, Watson sang gospel and Christmas songs. The Hereford resident ministers with Christian music throughout the area and counsels with young people. He was introduced by a close friend, John David Bryant.

A social hour preceded the installation banquet. Deaf Smith Abstract sponsored this event.

PUC to remain governor appointed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state Sunset Advisory Commission made only a few changes in state utility regulation, deciding not to switch the way Texans choose their utility commissioners.

The 10-member panel, which reviews state agencies and then makes recommendations to the Legislature, declined Thursday to recommend that Public Utility Commissioners be elected instead of appointed or that Railroad Commissioners be appointed rather than elected.

Consumer groups have criticized the three-member PUC as being too closely allied with utility companies because it is not beholden to the public through elections.

Ironically, the three-man Railroad Commission, its members elected, is often criticized as being too allied with its industry because members can accept campaign contributions from companies they regulate.

But Sunset Commission members declined to recommend prohibiting Railroad Commissioners from receiving campaign contributions from companies regulated by the agency.

The commission made several important recommendations for changes in the PUC's regulation process, but favored few changes in the Railroad Commission. A proposal to call the agency the state "Energy and Transportation Agency" failed by one vote.

Possession of "unidentified oil" would be a felony under a proposal adopted by the commission. The panel also will recommend that the Railroad Commission monitor royalty payments between operators and mineral rights owners.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, proposed all three PUC members be elected and prohibited from taking campaign money from anyone who might be regulated by the PUC. The motion failed. He then offered a motion that two of the three PUC members be elected, the third remaining a gubernatorial appointment. It failed.

Caperton then proposed the three commissioners be appointed, but that they represent separate constituencies — residential consumers, the utility industry and the general public. That motion failed, too.

The commission did, however, vote to have PUC hold regular hearings on "major" rate cases to save consumers from having to travel to Austin to complain about rate hikes.

Hereford still in on search

Canyon Police Chief Jess McMullen said today that investigation into the location of a murder suspect seen in Hereford Wednesday will continue with questioning of person who had contact with a man fitting the suspect's description.

McMullen said that Shad Leith, 24, probably spent Wednesday afternoon here in an "aimless move" and for no other reason than to get out of Canyon after Howard Terry Drake, 24, was found beaten to death in his home Wednesday morning.

Leith probably headed west, according to McMullen, who said bulletins are out in all states.

The Canyon chief said today that reports of Drake's body being nude when found were erroneous. He also said there was no sign of a violent struggle at the scene, a trailer home on 17th Street.

Mexican gas prices double

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The new government launched its program to save Mexico's economy by doubling the price of gasoline. It hopes to reduce costly subsidies by discouraging U.S. motorists from filling up across the border.

The Commerce Ministry issued a statement Thursday night announcing steep hikes — effective immediately — not only in the cost of gas, but for petroleum products as well.

Prices at the pumps soared from the equivalent of 54 cents to $1.04 for one gallon of regular gasoline. Diesel fuel skyrocketed from 21 cents to about 54 cents per gallon, while premium jumped from 81 cents to about $1.60.

Domestic natural gas prices rose more than 50 percent, and some petrochemical products registered 100 percent increases.

The ministry said that in addition to "gradually reducing subsidies for the use of automobiles," the price hikes were designed to "reduce as much as possible the subsidy of gasoline consumed by U.S. border residents."

An average of more than 35,000 barrels of regular gasoline alone is sold daily along Mexico's 1,760-mile border with the United States, according to official estimates.

Most of it presumably is sold to U.S. residents who have found Mexico's prices low enough to make a trip

Former officer arrested for bribery

KOUNTZE, Texas (AP) — A former police officer and three other people have been charged with bribery and burglary in an alleged scheme to steal more than 100 pounds of marijuana from the Hardin County sheriff's property room.

Sheriff H.R. Holzapfel said the four, all from Kountze, were arrested early Thursday morning after two men left the evidence room with marijuana that had an estimated street value of $60,000 to $80,000.

Charles Huey Holland, 35, who resigned from the Kountze Police Department on Monday, was jailed on $60,000 bond on two counts of bribery and one count of burglary.

Justice of the Peace Sid Johnson said he also set a bond of $21,000 on two counts of bribery and one count of burglary against Gary Wayne Denby, 30, and bonds of $14,000 each against both Rhonda Lee Gorsha, 30, and Viva Joy Nance, 22, who are charged with one count of bribery and one count of burglary.

One man contacted part-time Deputy Tommy Clark earlier about "setting up the deal" and offered him a third of the "take" if he would help distract officials while the marijuana was being removed, the sheriff said.

Clark notified authorities of the offer and was wired with hidden microphones when he met the men at a cafe, Holzapfel said.

The men deposited two plastic bags filled with marijuana in a garbage dumpster outside the courthouse and were arrested as they backed a car up to the dumpster, the sheriff said.

Holland, who also worked as a police officer in Vidor and as a dispatcher for Hardin County, resigned his Kountze position Monday after Police Chief James Greenway resigned.

Greenway had been suspended after he was accused of leaving the scene of an accident last week.

Holland said Greenway's resignation prompted him to quit.

Murder indictment returned in death

MARSHALL, Texas (AP) — A 24-year-old Marshall woman was jailed today in lieu of $100,000 bond following her indictment on murder charges in the death of her infant daughter.

Sherry Ellen Allman faces two counts of murder and two counts of injury to a child as a result of an indictment returned by a Harrison County grand jury Thursday.

The panel did not indict Mrs. Allman's husband, Marvin, who testified before the panel for three hours. But District Attorney Sam Baxter said the case could be presented again if new evidence is uncovered.

The Allmans were arrested Nov. 13 after an autopsy indicated their 3-month-old daughter, Sherry Lynn, died from fractures to her skull, neck, arms and ribs. Officials initially believed the infant died of sudden death syndrome.

Allman was released from jail Nov. 23 when Peace Justice Don Steelman ruled there was not enough evidence to hold him.

Mrs. Allman also has been indicted on second-degree murder charges in Kansas City, Mo., for the 1976 death of her 4-month-old son, Marvin.

Another son, Joseph, died in 1978, but Missouri officials said they did not file charges because of insufficient evidence.

Missouri authorities were notified when a check of hospital records by Harrison County officials revealed the two other deaths.

Murder and injury to a child both carry penalties of five to 99 years or life in prison. Second-degree murder is punishable by a prison term ranging from 10 years to life.

Texaco to eliminate 600 jobs at plant

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Texaco Inc. says it will use layoffs, transfers and normal attrition to eliminate about 600 jobs during the next year at its Port Arthur plant.

The jobs will be eliminated as part of an efficiency move that will include shifting three of the plant's departments to facilities located closer to the markets they serve, said Texaco spokesman Charles Rentz.

He said some layoffs could begin within the next couple of months and continue in the first quarter of 1983. Some of the 600 workers will leave through normal attrition and others will be reassigned to other jobs in the company, he said.

Heroes or troublemakers?

Cowboys stir up dust

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — From Tom Mix to Gene Autry, Oklahomans have immortalized men in the saddle. They revel in a rugged lifestyle now blurred by nostalgia.

But after 200 years on the Prairie — and on the eve of the National Finals Rodeo — the cowboy can still stir up a dust storm of controversy.

Is he the hero or the troublemaker of the Old West?

Oklahoma City psychologist Melvyn Price claims the cowboy makes a poor hero figure. University of Oklahoma history professor William Savage says the cowboy's image is more appearance than substance.

Price says the cowboy image is more appearance than substance. "The image of a man in Oklahoma goes back to the cowboy, a guy who defeats evil but never gets what he wants. Most cowboys never got the woman in the end; they usually got a horse and rode off to the next Dodge City," Price said.

"You can spot a cowboy real easy. He wore a hat, boots and jeans. He was a loner, a survivor, a narcissist. It was just him and his six-barrel. He was scared to death of intimacy and responsibility."

But people make cowboys into heroes for the same reason they made knights in shining armor the champions of the Middle Ages — out of a need to strengthen their own identities, he said.

"Cowboys are seen as basically honest, undefeatable and chivalrous. We try to endow the cowboy with divine characteristics that we'd like to find in ourselves. We give a hero a medal out of our own need."

Modern man has not lost his need for them, Price said. He has even created heroes that don't exist.

"For that matter, E.T. was a cowboy. He saved the boys' lives and made the earth a better place to live. But in the end, he got on his horse and left. He cleaned up Dodge City," Price said.

Savage said the cowboy's historical roots are hard to pinpoint.

"It is full of nostalgia. We have no accurate profile of them, no idea how many there were. That's what makes the cowboy such a suitable hero — he's obscure."

"Astronauts were supposed to be the next great American heroes, but it never happened. We knew everything about them including how they went to the bathroom in their space suits."

Savage says cowboys have been unnecessarily glorified as an occupational group.

"A cowboy was an underpaid, unskilled laborer. No one ever wanted to be a cowboy if there was something better to do."

Krakel strongly disagrees.

"I resent the defamation of the cowboy's character by nitwits like Savage who don't know which end of a cow gets up first," Krakel said.

"The cowboy's era may have been short, but its magic is eternal. It's the only image of America that is still loved and appreciated around the world."

"Academics have taken upon themselves to discredit the cowboy and the distortion of the movies can't be associated with the real cowboy. He is a different breed in America."

"He eats, drinks, walks and dresses different. When you shake his hands you feel the gnarled hands that have thrown hundreds of rope loops."

Krakel said the cowboy never thought of himself as a hero.

"But I guess if you followed a herd of cattle for 90 days or helped an old cow deliver her calf in the middle of a blizzard, that's a form of heroics, but not the kind you pin a medal on for."

Krakel said the cowboy will always be important to Oklahoma as a symbol of the state's individualism.

"Thirty percent of the people who settled in the state in the great land run were cowboys. The whole foundation of Oklahoma is based on a cowboy tradition. It's in our bone marrow."

Artificial heart patient doing well

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A retired dentist who became the first recipient of a permanent artificial heart was doing "very nicely" today, able to write notes to nurses in his first day of life with the new organ, doctors said.

Barney B. Clark, 61, was in critical but promising condition and resting comfortably early today, said Kate Woodworth, a University of Utah Medical Center spokeswoman.

The next several days will be critical as doctors monitor Clark for any complications, said Dr. William C. DeVries, who headed the 15-member surgical team that implanted the device Thursday morning.

"I don't think you should go away without an appreciation of the difficulty of the recovery," said Dr. Robert Jarvik, who invented the polyurethane heart, known as the Jarvik-7.

Potential complications include pneumonia, infections, collapsed lungs and blood clots, but the possibility of rejection — the bane of human heart transplants — does not exist because there is no foreign tissue to set off the body's attack mechanism.

If Clark continues to improve, a respirator connected to a tube in his windpipe, preventing speech, will be withdrawn and he could move to a specially modified house in a couple of weeks, DeVries said. Clark is from Federal Way, Wash., a Seattle suburb.

"His vital signs are good and he is responding," said medical center spokeswoman Pam Fogle. At one point Thursday, Clark communicated to nurses that he had a sore throat, she said.

He also wrote "HO" on a notepad and passed it to a nurse. "What he was asking for was water. It took them a few minutes for them to realize that was what he wanted," she said.

Previous uses of artificial hearts in humans have been stopgap measures to buy time until donated human hearts were available for transplant.

"I'm very pleased and hopeful," DeVries, chief of cardio-thoracic surgery for the medical center, said at a news conference Thursday. "It appears to be going very nicely."

Clark is tethered by 6-foot hoses to an air-driven compressor. The compressor and accompanying equipment, which weigh 375 pounds, are on a cart, but Jarvik and others at the university's Division of Artificial Organs are working on a suitcase-sized portable compressor.

DeVries said he would not schedule more implants until results from Clark's operation are clear, and he said it was too early to tell what the experimental implant means for others with heart problems. But eventually, he said, it may help an estimated 50,000 people per year, including up to 10,000 victims of cardiomyopathy, the inoperative, degenerative heart disease from which Clark suffered.

PUC — from page one

The panel also approved of the idea of an independent utility council to represent ratepayers, but decided to leave the details up to the Legislature. Having a special consumer counsel at the Railroad Commission was rejected.

The commission in effect eliminated the controversial fuel adjustment clause, which now allows utility companies automatically to pass on to consumers 100 percent of the rise in what the company pays for fuel.

It softened its proposal somewhat by voting to eliminate the "automatic nature" of the cost.

Under another proposal adopted by the commissioners, the utility companies will be required to give "lifeline" rates to utility consumers over 65 years old who meet low-income guidelines.

"Lifeline" rates are lower rates for basic service.

The PUC will be asked, if the Legislature approves, to develop a long-term, statewide energy plan. The PUC also should require utility companies to present alternatives to constructing new plants when they seek certification, the panel decided.

The panel declined to recommend any changes in the way PUC handled "construction work in progress" in making rates. PUC has been criticized for granting too high a "CWIP" allowance, resulting in consumers paying for current construction that may not produce any energy for years.

PUC argues the liberal CWIP allowance helps keep costs down by helping utility companies maintain high bond ratings.

to flood stage, and a half-dozen families were evacuated from Perryville, northwest of Little Rock.

Officers had to wade in through waist-deep water. Perry County Sheriff Ray Byrd said, "Some of the ladies and children had to be carried out."

In Illinois, one tornado that slammed into a trailer court near New Baden killed three people and injured an estimated 50 others. As many as 30 of the victims were hospitalized and about 100 people were left homeless, said Chuck Jones, a spokesman for the state Emergency Services and Disaster Agency.

New Baden, a town of 2,000, was left without electricity or telephone service. Operations of the Southern Railroad were disrupted when debris from the trailer park fell onto the tracks.

Much of Illinois was under a flash flood watch today as heavy rains caused flooding in a widespread area including Springfield, Bloomington and Chicago.

Water in the streets ran more than a foot deep in Springfield streets and 3 1/2 feet deep in Bloomington.

Power was knocked out to 2,300 people in the Peoria area.

Five tornadoes were reported in Missouri on Thursday. Almost 7 inches of rain fell in parts of the state, and was expected to send some rivers nearly 10 feet above flood stage today.

Many roads were flooded and a flash flood watch was in effect for most of Missouri.

A tornado destroyed a truck stop just south of Cabool, Mo., ripping off the roof, uprooting gas pumps and flipping cars.

Rescue teams used axes and chain saws to move fallen trees while rushing to help 10 people injured when a pair of tornadoes touched down in the Mark Twain National Forest in southeastern Missouri.

Meanwhile, warm weather melted thoughts of Christmas in cities from Detroit to Charleston, W.Va., where records were shattered with temperatures of 67 and 78 degrees, respectively. It was 71 in Chicago.

It was 75 in Cincinnati, 70 in Cleveland and 68 in Toledo. In Michigan, the mercury climbed to record levels in 11 cities, including 67 degrees in Grand Rapids.

The South steamed under 87-degree heat in Orlando, Fla., with 83 in Tallahassee, Fla., and 85 in Montgomery, Ala.

In Southern California, up to 21,500 power customers were still without electricity after Tuesday's storm. Most were expected to be back in service by tonight.

south of the border worthwhile whenever they need to fill up their tanks.

Referring specifically to diesel fuel, the ministry statement said efforts would be made to stop its flow across the border "by applying domestic prices that gradually reduce differences with international prices."

The price increases, the first to be announced since President Miguel de la Madrid took office Wednesday, were widely expected as part of his pledge to cut government spending and eliminate a multibillion-dollar budget deficit.

De la Madrid's predecessor, Jose Lopez Portillo, is blamed for overambitious spending that doubled Mexico's foreign debt in the last three years. The debt now stands at $81 billion, largest in the Third World.

Mexican consumers — already coping with runaway inflation that has approached triple-digit figures in recent months — were expected to bear the brunt of gas price increases in the form of higher costs for food and other basic commodities.

Observers noted that Mexico's last two gasoline price increases, in January and again in August, were followed soon after by major devaluations of the peso currency here.

'Army of God' member ordered returned to Illinois

HOUSTON (AP) — A 20-year-old member of the "Army of God" has implicated himself and two others in the kidnapping of an Illinois abortion clinic operator and his wife, an FBI agent testified.

FBI agent Greg Snider said Matthew Maxson Moore, of Alvin, Texas, admitted after his arrest Nov. 21 that he, his brother and another Texas man were involved in the abduction of Dr. Hector Zevallos, 54, and his wife, Rosalie Jean, 45.

Moore was indicted by an Illinois federal grand jury Monday on two counts of conspiracy and attempting to obstruct interstate commerce. Also charged were his brother, Wayne Allen Moore, 18, of New Caney, and Don Benny Anderson, 41, of Pearland, Texas.

The trio was arrested for allegedly kidnapping the Zevallos' from their Edwardsville, Ill., home last August and holding them in captivity for eight days.

At an extradition hearing here Thursday, U.S. Magistrate Ray McQuary ordered the elder Moore returned to the Southern District of Illinois.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Larry Finder said Moore would be returned to East St. Louis, Ill., "within the next few days."

Acting out repressed anger

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a divorced career woman with an eight-year-old child. My job demands that I spend long hours and some weekends away from home, but Louise is well cared for by a middle-aged housekeeper who is extremely dependable and a strict disciplinarian. Last week a neighbor told me Louise had tied up their tiny poodle with wrapping twine and the dog almost choked to death. I was horrified and spoke to Louise about it. She said she was pretending the dog was a naughty boy and she didn't mean to hurt him.

This morning I looked out my bedroom window and saw Louise hitting a stray kitten with a big stick. I rushed downstairs. She said the kitten had been bad and she was punishing her.

I am concerned about my daughter's behaviour. --No Sig In Sarasota

DEAR SARA: Your eight-year-old is acting out repressed anger. Perhaps that strict disciplinarian may be a lot stricter than you realize, and Louise is taking out her resentment on whatever is handy.

Talk to Louise and find out what kind of punishment she has been getting from her housekeeper. Rearrange your work schedule so you can spend more time at home. And please consider engaging another housekeeper.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

The letter from the old gentleman in Erie, Pa., who was afraid to go to the dentist because he was scared to death of the pain, received good advice. You told him modern dentistry has made tremendous advances and dental care today can be virtually painless.

I am horrified of the dentist for another reason. It is the fear of being strapped in that chair. I cannot stand the thought of not being able to move my head much less getting up and walking around for a minute.

I've tried three dentists and explained the problem, but it gets worse instead of better. Can you help? --Greensboro, N.C.

DEAR N.C. What you need is a patient, compassionate dentist. If you can't find one in Greensboro, try Raleigh or Durham.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Everyone dumps on you. May I have my turn? It's browners. No, I don't work in a store. I am a receptionist in an office that occupies the top floor of a new building.

Every yokel who comes to town wanders in here and wants to look out our windows. Don't they realize this is a place of business? Everyone who comes through the door says, "Gee, this is the highest I have been in my whole life. Do you mind if I look around?" Then they wander from office to office, interrupting everybody -- repeating the same dumb line. "Gee, I've never been so high up."

I am expected to greet the public with a smile. I do my best, but it's getting harder and harder. --Counting To 10 In Iowa

DEAR COUNTING: Iowa!!!! I'll not name the city. It wouldn't do your business much good.

Simply say to the gawkers, "Sorry, we aren't open to the public for security reasons. We hope you understand."

Psychologist believes cultural differences affect counseling

LUBBOCK - Cultural differences can affect the success of psychological and academic counseling, says Texas Tech University psychologist Jesse C. Ingram.

Ingram, who teaches cross-cultural counseling at the university, believes cultural barriers must be overcome in an initial session for future counseling to be successful. In many instances, counselors are not versed in cross-cultural counseling. Ingram believes this can be dangerous as far as setting a negative pattern for future counseling sessions.

"Cross-cultural counseling as a discipline has not quite earned legitimacy," Ingram says. "There are many beneficial effects, such as trust, which can be established when counselor and client come from different cultures and have a successful session."

"Unfortunately, there is a greater danger of having a negative experience when a counselor is not trained in cross-cultural counseling."

Ingram said a black child is often taught not to trust white people and vice versa.

"This preconceived idea can create a barrier when there is a white counselor," he said.

Language is the number one vehicle in building rapport between client and counselor who come from a different culture, Ingram noted.

"If a counselor isn't speaking the same language as his client, a session is not going to be effective," Ingram said. "A counselor must be honest and accepting and show the client what he is saying expresses his true feelings."

"Ethnic minority children have different values than the majority, Ingram said. This can cause problems if a counselor has no cross-cultural training."

"Minority children are oriented differently to time, money, life goals and relationships," Ingram said. "Minority children want to plan for today because they feel tomorrow is not promised."

These value differences are most prevalent in academic counseling where time and money must be invested in achieving, according to the majority's values, a brighter future.

Ingram said it is also important that a counselor observe non-verbal behavior in a session.

"Verbal messages don't always agree with what the body is saying," Ingram said. "A counselor should hear what a client is saying both in verbal communication and body language."

A client who does not look the counselor in the eye could be demonstrating more than shyness, he said. A lack of eye contact could show distrust, a respect for authority or a lack of self-esteem.

"The physical appearance of the counselor is also important in cross-cultural counseling," Ingram said. "A client will notice how a counselor reacts to his setting and how he dresses."

Moeller nation's best; Nebraska stat leader

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

Two high school football teams from the state of Texas are among the Super 25, according to USA Today.

But, unfortunately for each, their season is over. Odessa Permian, which had been ranked 2nd for some time, dropped to 8th after its 8-7 loss to Eules Trinity last weekend. Port Arthur Jefferson, ranked 17th saw its season end a couple of weeks ago.

The top schoolboy team in the nation, according to USA Today, is Moeller High of Cincinnati. You remember Moeller, don't you.

That's where current Notre Dame head coach Gerry Faust came from.

Moeller, which is 13-0, won the Division I state title in Ohio last weekend, beating previously undefeated Massillon Washington, 35-14, before an all-time state playoff record crowd of 42,000 at Ohio State University.

With just a sprinkling of games remaining this weekend, Nebraska has a virtual stranglehold on three NCAA statistical championships.

The Cornhuskers, who play Hawaii in their regular season finale Saturday, lead the nation (Division I-A) in scoring, rushing and total offense.

They are averaging 41.5 points a game, 386.6 yards rushing and 513.5 yards overall.

Long Beach State is the No. 1 passing team (326.8). Defensive statistics leaders find three different teams atop the heap.

Virginia Tech has allowed 49.5 yards a game rushing, to easily outdistance San Jose State (73.1). Missouri has allowed 123.5 yards a game passing (Kansas is next at 127.5), and Arizona State is the total defense leader, giving up 228.9 yards a game.

Arkansas, which faces Texas Saturday, has allowed 8.2 points per game. Arizona State is next, allowing 11.3 per game.

Texas, however, is the nation's leader in fumbles recovered with 24, while top-ranked Georgia has intercepted the most passes (35).

Pittsburgh, SMU's opponent in the Cotton Bowl, has lost the fewest fumbles (5).

According to Green Bay head coach Bart Starr, New York Jets linebacker Stan Binka is "a hoodlum."

Binka hit wide receiver John Jefferson in the face last Sunday, knocking the Packer star out of the game (eventually won by the Jets 15-13).

"That type of act is the act of a hoodlum and hoodlums should not have the privilege of playing in our game," said Starr. "It's a blatant cheap shot... nothing else."

Binka, though, disagreed with Starr.

"I was trying to hit him (Jefferson) in the shoulder pads, but he is shorter than I thought, and I got him in the face."

This season's most ludicrous statement, concerning NFL fans' apathy following the strike, was probably made by Jimmy "The Greek" on last Sunday's NFL Today show.

Said "The Greek," "The fans will be back this week. There will be half the number of no-shows this week, than there were the first week."

Well, Greek, guess again.

The first week following the strike there were 115,386 no-shows.

The second week, there were 117,417.

What about this week Greek?

49ers edge Rams

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — San Francisco's Super Bowl champions could be on the road back after a near-disastrous start this season. But Coach Bill Walsh wishes he had a running game to go with Joe Montana's passing.

The San Francisco quarterback threw for 305 yards Thursday night to tie the National Football League record of four straight games of 300 or more passing yards set by San Diego's Dan Fouts in 1979.

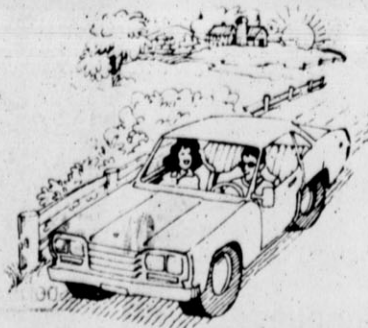

Forty-four of the yards came in a fourth-period comeback drive that lifted the 49ers to a 30-24 victory over the Los Angeles Rams in their nationally televised aerial battle. The teams combined for 636 yards through the air while rushing for only 113 yards.

The victory raised San Francisco's record to 2-3 in this strike-interrupted season while Los Angeles fell to 1-4. Before the game, Walsh had said he didn't believe a 1-4 team could make the approaching Super Bowl playoffs. Four games remain for both the 49ers and Rams.

"We had to go to the air because they bottled up our running game, which we had hoped would work," said Walsh.

Giants 7-point pick over Oilers

Cowboys favored against 'Skins

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

There's nothing quite like a Thanksgiving feast and a nice, long rest to lift the spirits. The Dallas Cowboys have had both — two good reasons to like them Sunday in Washington.

The Redskins are the National Football League's only unbeaten team and, no, they haven't been doing it with mirrors. They began getting their act together midway in 1981 and neither spring nor the strike has interrupted it.

Still, a few extra days off and the chance to use them in training camp in this bizarre season have got to help the Cowboys.

Conversely, nothing can help the Baltimore Colts. Not winning is one thing. Not scoring is another. Not even crossing midfield is yet another.

Last week's record against the spread: 6-6. For the season: 32-21.

This week's picks (home teams in caps):

Dallas minus 2½ vs. WASHINGTON: Every game this year has been a struggle of sorts for the 'Skins. This one will be no different, except for the outcome. It'll probably be a field goal that decides it — but it won't be one of Mark Moseley's. Take the Cowboys.

Cincinnati minus 14 vs. BALTIMORE: Will the Colts score? Will they win? Will anybody show up? Answers: Maybe. No. There's a sucker born every minute. Take the Bengals.

NEW YORK GIANTS minus 7 vs. Houston: Rob

Carpenter probably signed just so he could take a run at the Oilers. Why not? Every one else is doing it. Take the Giants.

MIAMI minus 6 vs. Minnesota: The more Dolphins Coach Don Shula toys with his two quarterbacks, the less likely he is to keep the team winning. Take the Vikings.

DETROIT even vs. New York Jets: Unlike the Cowboys, the only thing the Lions have going for them is the layoff. And, like the Dolphins, they're playing quarterback roulette. Take the Jets.

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS minus 7 vs. Seattle: If the Seahawks can knock off a quarterback a week, they've got a shot at the playoffs.

Take the Raiders. CHICAGO even vs. New England: Steve Grogan's got New England humming again. The Bears' offense is still hibernating. Take the Patriots.

Also take: Buffalo plus 1½ over GREEN BAY

NEW ORLEANS minus 2 over Tampa Bay

San Diego minus 2½ over CLEVELAND

DENVER minus 4 over Atlanta

PHILADELPHIA minus 5½ over St. Louis

PITTSBURGH (no line) over Kansas City

In Levelland Tournament

Herd gals rip Permian, boys bow to Morton

LEVELLAND — Hereford's girls evened their season record, while the boys dropped a heartbreaker in first-round action Thursday in the Levelland Basketball Tournament here.

The girls, with Stephanie Foster tossing in 23 points and Sherri Ellis adding a dozen, rolled past Odessa Permian, 49-33. As a result, they'll meet Vernon, a 48-29 winner over Pampa, in a second-round contest. The boys were edged by Morton, 57-56.

The victory evened the girls' season record at 2-2. They led virtually the entire way, grabbing a 11-6 advantage after one period. Permian narrowed the gap to four points (21-17) by halftime, but Hereford outscored the Panther gals, 18-7, in the third quarter to open a 15-point bulge.

For the boys though, it was a frustrating loss... their third in as many starts.

"We outscored them by four field goals," head coach Bobby Decker noted, "but lost the game from the free throw line. We were four of six from the line, but they were 13 of 20."

"We had a chance to win the game at the final buzzer, but Steve (Welch) missed a jump shot from near the free shot line."

Welch and Brian Taylor led the way with 14 points. Terry Shelton added 12 points and had a team-high eight rebounds. Gary Long chipped in with eight points, while Jeff Streun added four. Steve Barrett and Robert Abalos had two points each to round out the Herd scoring.

For the game, Hereford shot 47 percent from the field (26 of 55).

"We probably didn't play as well against Morton as we did last Friday against Dimmitt (in a 66-60 loss)," Decker added, "but we could have won."

As a result of Thursday's loss, Hereford was scheduled to meet Muleshoe today at 2 p.m. in a loser's bracket game. Muleshoe lost its first-round game to tourney host Levelland, 58-37.

In the other boys' games, Estacado beat the Levelland JV, 66-35, and Snyder edged Monterey, 50-49.

In the girls' division, host Levelland raced past Odessa High, 80-31; Vernon clipped Pampa, 48-29; Dimmitt blasted Snyder, 72-36; Post edged Clovis, 51-48 and Lubbock High defeated El Paso High, 41-32.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — No. 6 Arkansas and No. 12 Texas, the top two teams in the Southwest Conference in defense and offense, close out the regular season Saturday, but they will not be playing for the top spot in the SWC.

Kickoff in the nationally televised game is 2:50 p.m. CST.

Southern Methodist, 10-0-1, clinched its second consecutive SWC football championship Nov. 20, rallying to tie Arkansas 17-17 with a controversial pass interference call setting up SMU's final touchdown.

Texas fell to SMU 30-17 after a deflected pass bounced off a Texas defender's arm into an SMU receiver's hands on a 79-yard scoring play.

In the other 9th grade game at LaPlata, the LaPlata Red team cruised past Plainview Blue, 44-31.

Mavericks move above .500

By The Associated Press

For many National Basketball Association teams, an 8-7 record might not seem like much. But for Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta, it's almost heaven.
"I'm very pleased with this club. It's one heck of a start," said Motta after the Mavericks went over the .500 mark with a 110-100 victory over the Golden State Warriors Thursday night.

Tulsa loses lease with parent club

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Tulsa Drillers, the 1982 Texas League baseball champions, have lost their lease with their parent Texas Rangers, according to major league team's general manager.
In a Thursday telephone interview from Arlington, Texas, Joe Klein confirmed that internal problems and unpaid debts on the part of the Tulsa team forced the lease cancellation.
The Drillers are controlled by Sports of Tulsa, Inc., whose general manager, Merrill Eckstein, scheduled an 11 a.m. news conference today to discuss the future of the club.
Klein left open the possibility of a reconciliation, indicating he would be willing to listen to the Drillers' plans to settle the outstanding lawsuits and other claims.

Although Motta admits he's not buying my tickets for the playoffs yet, it's quite a turnaround for the once-hapless Mavericks, who last season lost 24 games by the time they had won eight.

For the first time this season, the Mavericks got 20-point performances from four of their players: Mark Aguirre with 27 points, Rolando Blackman with 22 and Jay Vincent and Kelvin Ransey with 20 apiece. Ransey said he played his best game of the year in a new role—coming off the bench.
"My body was alive as it can be," said Ransey, who came to Dallas last summer in a trade with Portland for Wayne Cooper and a draft choice. "I've never come off the bench before and it's new to me. I'm just glad that I'm finally playing well."
It was the eighth straight road loss for the Warriors, who also have lost eight of their last nine games and have fallen to 5-12 for the season.
In other NBA action, Utah turned back Portland 119-112 and Philadelphia beat Phoenix 116-108.
The Mavericks never trailed after taking a 54-33 lead late in the second quarter but had to overcome a 40-point deficit.

Woffords observe 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wofford were honored Saturday with a reception at the First National Bank in Portales, N.M., to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. It was hosted by members of their families.

Wofford married the former Mae Pape at the Church of the Nazarene in Portales on Nov. 27, 1957.

The couple has three children, including Alan Wofford and his wife Sherill who live in Portales with their daughter, Katie; Rayma of Hereford; and Bert, a student at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales.

Wofford is employed by Lloyd Newton as a transport operator and his wife is a travel consultant at Hereford Travel Center. The couple has lived in Hereford since April of 1980, when they moved here from Dawn.

Nazarene youth to present musical

A musical entitled "The Witness" will be presented at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Church of the Nazarene, Ironwood and La Plata.

Members of the Crossroads Youth Choir from the church will be performing the musical in Biblical costumes and with full stage lights.

The musical portrays the life of Christ as told by Jesus' friend and follower, Peter, played by Eric Murray, and reviews a number of New Testament events which involved other disciples and characters.

Choir members portraying these Biblical characters include Melanie Davis, Don Carl Tardy and Cody Davis, Cynthia Lady, Charlie Suarez, Vickie Cosper, and Ann Zevely.

Everyone is invited to attend. Youth minister of the Church of the Nazarene is Ted Taylor and the Rev. Bob Huffaker is pastor.

Two-paycheck couples most vulnerable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two-paycheck couples experience less financial strain in marriage than the traditional husband and wife, but they are more likely to get divorced, say two social scientists from the University of Minnesota.

"When both partners work, it reduces the financial stress but it quadruples the interpersonal stresses," Hamilton McCubbin, head of the family social science department at the University of Minnesota, said. "Roles change. There are problems that don't get solved, tasks that don't get done. It's an enormous stress on families."

After giving a seminar on family stress Tuesday at the Outlook Conference, sponsored by the Agriculture Department, McCubbin and a university colleague, Joan Patterson, said in an interview that two-career couples are more likely to divorce when the wife has more money and has enough confidence to be financially and emotionally independent of her husband.

"The notion of dependence kept a lot of families together (in the past)," said Ms. Patterson. "That changes when both partners have incomes."

A working woman gets support from people other than her husband and divorce becomes a more realistic option, she said.

McCubbin, who also heads a family research project for the Army, said that working couples have a better chance to make their marriage survive if they establish their career pattern before they have children or don't have children at all.

"You have to resolve your major problems before you have children," he said. "To make these marriages work, you have to work out the nuts and bolts first."

Census Bureau figures show that in 1981, almost half of the nation's 43.3 million marriages were two-paycheck households. Census studies also show that in the last decade, the number of one-parent families headed by a divorced woman grew 181 percent, from 956,000 in 1970 to 2.7 million in 1981.

McCubbin said that because of the traditional upbringing most people have experienced, two-paycheck marriages, require role adjustments, particularly for men.

"It requires a major shift in values for males," he said. "To make it work, you have to downplay your career. You can't be at the office all the time. You have to have cooking and childcare responsibilities. To give a fair share, you have to cut into work."

Ms. Patterson said those who suffer most are couples now in their middle years who got married with one set of ideas about their roles and switched them after the pattern of their marriage was set.

"Families that stay in the roles they were reared in and can't switch gears are those that have the hardest time," she said. "The middle-year couples are the sacrificial lambs. They pay an enormous price."

Evelyn Tallant attends conference in Atlanta

Evelyn Tallant, pastor of Grace Gospel Church, recently returned from Atlanta '82, the first national pastors' conference on kingdom principles demonstrated in the local church.

Hosted by Bishop Earl Paulk of Chapel Hill Harvester Church in Decatur, Ga., the conference brought together leaders from all denominational backgrounds to exchange ideas and participate in demonstrations of successful local church activities.

Other conference speakers were well-known author and educator, Dr. Judson Cornwall, and Iverna Tompkins, popular Christian leader.

The conference was the first in a series of national and international meetings which will assemble Christian leaders to address matters of global impact.

The next such conference will be held in Benin, Nigeria, in March, followed in April, 1983, when bishops from around the world will meet in Atlanta with religious, congressional and other governmental leaders to address major world issues and policy.

Campaign Costs Texas

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Democrat Mark White wrested the governor's post from incumbent Bill Clements despite being outspent nearly 2-1, according to campaign reports filed here.

White's report, filed Thursday, showed the attorney general spent $7.1 million and relied heavily on loans to beat Republican Clements, who spent $13.1 million.

The totals showed White spent a relatively miserly $4.20 for each of the approximately 1.7 million votes he pulled. Clements' tab for each of his 1.5 million votes was $8.94.

White reported total expenditures of $7,129,778 for the campaign and $7,923,628 raised, including $4.9 million in loans. The Democratic challenger actually outspent Clements during the final reporting period — Oct. 24 through Nov. 27.

NOW U.S. SAVINGS BONDS OFFER OPPORTUNITY WITHOUT RISK.

The biggest improvement in 40 years.

A message from Donald T. Regan, Secretary of the Treasury.

New Variable Interest Rate.

Finding the ideal investment is something everyone dreams about. For most, that might be one with a variable interest rate. One that lets you share in the rates offered in today's securities market.

But it must be safe. A plan where you can never lose principal and where rates can't drop below a certain level.

That kind of opportunity may sound too good to be true. But it is available now to everyone, even the saver with as little as $25 to invest.

It's the United States Savings Bond. A vastly improved Bond that has become one of the most unique savings instruments you can buy today.

On November 1, 1982, the Savings Bond interest rate changed from fixed to variable. And there is no limit on how high the rate can go. Now virtually every Bond holder, present and future, has a chance to enjoy a return previously available only to those with much more money to invest.

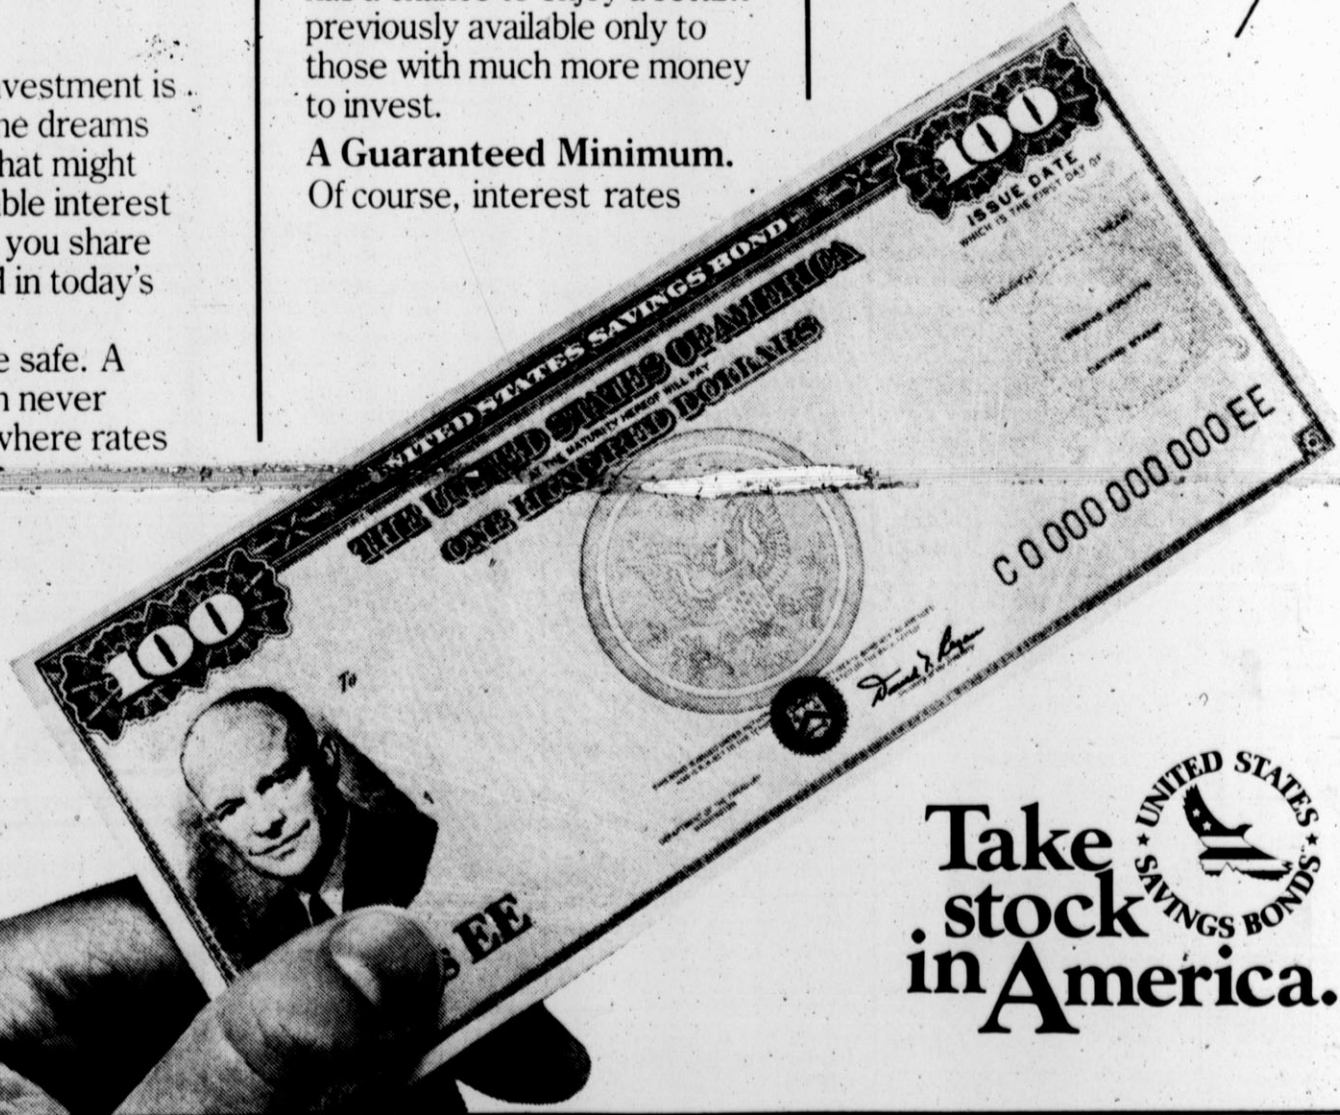

A Guaranteed Minimum.
Of course, interest rates will fluctuate. But the new variable rate guarantees you'll "never lose."

Because, no matter how low rates may go, you're protected by a guaranteed minimum.* If you hold your Bonds to maturity, you'll absolutely double your money. And you may even do better!

So take another look at Savings Bonds—through the Payroll Savings Plan, for gifts, or for yourself and family. There's never been a better time.

Donald S. Regan

Take stock in America.

*Series EE Bonds purchased on and after 11/1/82 and held 5 years or more will earn 85% of the average yield on the 5-year Treasury securities rate. Bonds held less than 5 years will earn interest on a fixed, graduated scale—5.5% after 1 year to 7.5% at 5 years. Bonds held at least 5 years will earn a minimum guaranteed rate of 7.5% per annum, compounded semiannually, to the 10-year maturity.

The Newspaper BIBLE

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE FOREVER?

And the Father leaves all judgment of sin to His son, so that everyone will honor the Son, just as they honor the Father. But if you refuse to honor God's Son, who He sent to you, then you are certainly not honoring the Father. I say emphatically that anyone who listens to My message and believes in God who sent Me has eternal life, and will never be damned for his sins, but has already passed out of death into life. And I solemnly declare that the time is coming, in fact, it is here, when the dead shall hear My voice--the voice of the Son of God--and those who listen shall live. The Father has life in Himself, and has granted His Son to have life in Himself, and to judge the sins of all mankind because He is the Son of Man. Don't be surprised! Indeed the time is coming when all the dead in their graves shall hear the voice of God's Son, and shall rise again--those who have done good, to eternal life; and those who have continued in evil, to judgment. But I pass no judgment without consulting the Father. I judge as I am told. And My judgment is absolutely fair and just, for it is according to the will of God who sent Me and is not merely My own. (John 5:22-30)

HEALTH Help for nerve deafness

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Please tell me if anything can be done for nerve deafness. Surely when surgery can be done for other nerve problems something could be done for a person who doesn't hear the high-pitched or low-pitched sounds and therefore has become a lip reader. I can only listen to one person at a time. Is there any hope for someone like me with surgery or training to understand conversations better? A hearing aid is definitely out. I'm sure you'll agree.

Sometimes I think it is better to be totally deaf rather than hearing but not knowing what is being said.

DEAR READER - You didn't say how you knew the problem is nerve deafness. Wax in the external ear can cause loss of hearing. That is easy to fix. You can have problems with the ear drum, some of which can be fixed. Or you can have freezing together of the small bones in the middle ear, otosclerosis, which may benefit from surgery.

The degeneration of cells in the internal ear in the cochlea and nerve that transmits from it is called nerve deafness. Surgery cannot do anything for that. The central nervous system does not regenerate. I hope one day that ways will be found to change that but at present it isn't possible.

Why do you say hearing aids are out of the question? No, I don't agree. Don't let vanity keep you from hearing. It is just as important to hear as it is to be seen. And a lot of studies show that people who are popular are good listeners.

Today modern electronics have produced sophisticated hearing aids that work much better than the old ones that simply provided overall amplification. A skilled audiologist can match the amplification of the various sound frequencies in such a way to complement your hearing loss. That prevents any distortion you might have with simple amplification.

Of course, not everyone can benefit from a hearing aid. You'll need a complete hearing evaluation to determine what your problem is and if you need a hearing aid of the type that is best for you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you give me some information on actinomyces? My dad is 74 years old and he has it. My mom and dad went to a health clinic and both had X-rays. Dad had a spot on his right lung. The specialist decided surgery was necessary. He strongly suspected a malignant tumor because of the size and location of it. The fungus was removed as well as part of his right lung and part of one rib. Thank God it wasn't malignant.

He is doing well but I'm concerned about this rare disease.

DEAR READER - First, it is not a fungus. It used to be thought to be related to fungi but it is a bacteria. When it involves the lungs it can act a lot like tuberculosis. By the way, it is not contagious from one person to another. It is taken into the lungs from the throat in some manner.

It may involve other areas of the body, more often the face and neck area and may cause draining fistulae.

Since it is a bacteria, antibiotics are able to treat it. Penicillin is commonly given for a long period of time, three to six months, to insure there is no relapse. Your dad should do fine.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 14 years old and I think I have syphilis. I have never had sexual intercourse but I don't think it is hereditary because I just got the symptoms about two years ago. I don't know whether it has something to do with adolescence or not.

I have about 20 little white pimple-like things on my penis that are all on the bottom and some on the top near the scrotum. I'm scared to go to a doctor so if you can tell me if this is syphilis it would be greatly appreciated.

If I have to see a doctor will it be all right if I told her I just wanted a blood test? Then if she tells me I have syphilis I could just say, "Oh."

DEAR READER - I feel for you, knowing how much unnecessary anguish you must have experienced. Your story points out that "ignorance is not bliss," particularly as related to sex.

You do not have syphilis. And your description suggests you don't have any disease. Those little bumps are normally developing skin glands that are more prominent at puberty or, at the most, sebaceous glands. You don't get venereal disease without contact, except for the few instances transmitted to a newborn baby from the mother.

Lawyers file new appeal for man

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Lawyers for the man scheduled to become the first inmate in the nation executed by injection have asked a federal appeals court and the U.S. Supreme Court to stay Charlie Brooks Jr.'s date with death.

Brooks will be executed before sunrise Tuesday unless he receives a stay of execution from either the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans or the Supreme Court.

A three-judge panel of the 5th Circuit in Austin last week rejected Brooks' motion for a stay.

However, a motion for rehearing was filed with the 5th Circuit and the Supreme Court on Thursday, said Danny Burns, a Fort Worth lawyer representing Brooks.

"They'll have to rule on it soon, Charlie doesn't have much time," said Burns.

"We're just waiting to hear something," he said late Thursday.

If the execution goes as scheduled, Brooks, 40, would become the first person executed by injection and the first person executed in Texas since 1964.

"If God wills that I am to be executed at 12:05 Tuesday morning then I will be executed at 12:05 Tuesday morning."

But if it is not God's will that I be executed, then I will not." Brooks said Wednesday.

Brooks was convicted of capital murder for the killing of used-car lot mechanic David Gregory.

Gregory was shot in the head at a motel after riding with Brooks as he test-drove a car from the lot. Brooks said Gregory's hands and feet were bound when he was killed.

Burns said the appeal contends five potential jurors were improperly excluded from the trial because they expressed reservations about the death penalty.

The appeal also contends there was insufficient evidence to prove Brooks guilty of capital murder and that Brooks' trial lawyers failed to show mitigating evidence during the punishment phase of the trial, Burns said.

Brooks says he is innocent of capital murder because that charge requires that a person "knowingly or intentionally" cause someone's death. But he adds that he has had "to carry this fact that this man no longer lives because of my involvement."

Orphans on Soap to urge adoption

NEW YORK (AP) - A 15-year-old orphan making a guest appearance on "Search for Tomorrow" hopes the show can give his own life a soap-opera twist - by finding him a family.

Allen Johnson was joined on the set of the NBC-TV program Thursday by seven other adoptable children who appeared as extras in a scene from an episode to be broadcast Christmas Eve.

"It feels really great," said Johnson. "Such excitement ... not knowing what's going to happen next and whatnot."

After the show is broadcast, an advertisement will urge viewers in the New York area to adopt one of the eight children or others in the care of Little Flower Children's Services. Viewers elsewhere will be exhorted to adopt children in their areas.

Officials at Little Flower admit some people might be offended by the use of television to facilitate adoptions. But they say new tactics are needed to attract prospective parents for children who seem too old, the wrong color or somehow defective.

Even before "Search for Tomorrow," the adoption agency, with headquarters in Wading River on Long Island, had attracted $17,000 in grants to film ads about its children and to buy television time.

"It's called marketing and perhaps that sounds a little hard. But marketing is what we do today," said Adrienne Carr, director of development for Little Flower, which takes in 1,600 abused and abandoned children each year.

Three of eight children already shown in Little Flower commercials are in the process of being adopted, she said.

"It's the power of the medium that's making it happen. Perhaps some people think it's in bad taste, but I have to think beyond that ... if one child's life is saved, it's worth it," she says.

Anita Delaney, who works for the city department of special services for children, said, "I think many years ago, we would have had qualms about doing something like this. But now, we feel that we have to use means that are available to us."

Robert Getz, producer of "Search for Tomorrow," said his staff had suggested using adoptable children as extras in a Christmas party scene. In addition to possibly finding homes, each child will receive $87.75 for less than two hours of work, he said.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Newspaper mulch

DEAR POLLY - I'm sure that using newspapers for garden mulch has appeared in your column, but couldn't the ink be harmful to the soil? - PAULA

DEAR PAULA - Quite the contrary. According to the National Association for Gardening, news ink is made from carbon black and mineral oil and is quite harmless. In fact, shredded newspapers can be used in compost. Now would be a good time to mix a quantity of shredded newspapers into your own compost pile. At winter's end, you'll have a good supply of rich compost ready to enrich your garden plot. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I wet my coffee filters before putting them in the filter basket. This prevents them from collapsing over the ground coffee as the water runs through. I couldn't get a sufficiently large piece of wrapping paper for a wedding gift, so I put the gift in a plastic garbage bag. It turned out to be very useful to the bride before the evening was over. - LUCILLE

DEAR POLLY - To remove garlic or onion odor from your hands, rub them with baking soda, then rinse with water. - ETHEL

DEAR POLLY - The empty jar that had held my favorite face cream was so lovely that I wanted to save it. To remove the printing on the jar, I gently rubbed over it with a steel wool soap pad. - J.E.K.

DEAR POLLY - You can clean and refresh suede with a piece of coarse sand paper. Use empty liquid soap pump bottles for catsup, mustard, or mayonnaise. Use a different colored bottle for each product or mark them with finger nail polish. Use leftover pieces of toilet soap as markers on fabric when marking darts, seam lines, etc. It washes out more easily than other markers. - MARGARET during the long and busy holiday season, crammed with the hustle and bustle of shopping, wrapping, writing cards, decorating, etc., all this feverish activity should add up to a time of spiritual as well as material happiness. However, we sometimes find the dark shadow of an unpleasant incident cast upon an otherwise bright scene. Is there a friend or relative with whom you have quarreled over some trivial matter? Have you hurt someone's feelings with an unkind remark or a slight? There is no better time to heal these wounds and show your spirit of love than during this season in honor of the One who devoted His life to teaching us to love one another. Take the time to learn this at the Church of your choice on Sunday.

"Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another."
— 1 John 4:11

Forget, forgive, for who may say that Christmas day may ever come to host or guest again.
— William Henry Harrison Murray
