Nominations needed for top citizen

The annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet has been scheduled for Feb. 9, and one of the highlights of the event is the recognition of the "Citizen of the Year."

Citizens are invited to submit nominations for persons to be considered for the honor, which has been presented annually since 1946 by the Hereford Lions Club.

Nominations can be left at the chamber office or mailed to the chamber, Box 192, Hereford. Last year's recipient was Bill Devers. Other honorees over the years include:

Gene Brock, George Warner, Bobby Owen, Bud Eades, Rocky Lee, Lynton Allred, Doug Manning, Jim Conkwright, Helen Rose, Dr. A.T. Mims;

Carl McCaslin, Jimmie Allred, Raymond White, A.J. Schroeter, Jewel Smith, Rev. Russell Wingert, Hugh Clearman, Earnest Langley, Ray Cowser;

John D. Pitman, Ed Skypala, Rev. Don Davidson, Clint Formby, Mrs. Earl Springer, Dr. Lena Edwards, Jimmie Witherspoon, Faye Plank, Wayne Lawrence;

Woman reports assault

A Hereford woman reported she was sexually assaulted at her home Nov. 22 in the late evening hours by a man who was visiting her at the time, police investigator David Wagner reported today.

Wagner said the police do have a suspect for the crime, but have made no arrest pending further investigation.

The woman said she reported the sexual assault to the Domestic Violence/Rape Crisis Center in Hereford, and a caseworker then reported it to the police.

The woman said that the suspect did not use a weapon.

School funding goes to high court

AUSTIN (AP)—The legal battle over public school funding will now go to the Texas Supreme Court, attorneys for both sides said after a lower court refused a second hearing of the case.

On Wednesday, the 3rd Court of Appeals, which earlier upheld the state's school financing system, denied a request for a rehearing.

Poor school districts that filed the lawsuit against the state financing system sought the rehearing last month after the Austin-based 3rd Court issued a 2-1 ruling in favor of the state.

That Dec. 14 ruling overturned a 1987 ruling by State District Judge Harley Clark, who had declared the system unconstitutional, saying it denied equal access to state funds by all districts.

The lawsuit was filed in 1984 by school districts with low property values. Public schools are funded largely through a combination of local property taxes and state assistance.

Wednesday's rejection clears the way for a legal challenge before the state Supreme Court.

The 3rd Court's denial of a rehearing was almost routine, according to lawyers for the state and poor school districts.

"I really didn't expect them to change their minds. I would have been happy if they had," said Al Kauffman, a staff attorney for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, which sued on behalf of the Edgewood school

EDC hires consultant-director

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford's Economic Development Commission decided Wednesday to offer its executive director job to an Edmond, Okla., man who has already developed a nine-month budget plan for the EDC.

The EDC also developed a nine-month work plan to be accomplished between now and Sept. 30.

Orlie Boehler (pronounced BEE-ler) met with the EDC in December. He was one of 144 applicants for the job. Boehler will be offered a role as director-consultant of the EDC for nine months through September 30.

"He said he would work with us within this ($80,000) budget," said EDC chairman John Perrin. "He's not shooting us a budget he wouldn't touch."

Boehler won't be here full-time, "but he will have our full-time attention," Perrin said. "He will be here as much as he is needed, and since he would be on the road quite a bit if he were here permanently, he'll be here about as much as he would be full-time."

"Plus, we can look at him and he can look at us. If we look at him and know we want him here full-time, then we can do that in October or whenever."

In a Dec. 12 letter to Perrin, Boehler said "several things must occur quickly" for the EDC.

Those "things" include identifying projects and developing completion strategies; seeking grant funds for EDC funding; continuing community development; looking for existing businesses that want to expand; and starting a marketing program.

"The program may not be everything the Council hoped for but considering the situation Hereford can still have a permanent program by late 1989 or early 1990," Boehler said in the letter. "I am interested in assisting you (as a consultant) and am ready to ... see what can be worked out."

Perrin said it was "essential for the good of the community that we get started."

"We have a capable professional person available and the community is ready and willing to get started," Perrin said. "We need to either kill or cure."

"We would miss a golden opportunity not to take advantage of his expertise," said Don Graham, an EDC board member and president of First National Bank. "He could help everyone involved with the effort. If we are going to do it we need to get started."

Another ED professional said the EDC needs to get rolling.

"You have the commitment, the organization, the potential flow of deals, some available resources and a trained staff person available to you to do deals," said Sally Loveland of the National Development Council, in a Dec. 22 letter to Perrin.

"The key is getting started. Even if you have to go with a part-time person ... it will not be money wasted if that person has the skills, a set of goals and organizational support, focuses on finding projects and knows economic development financing."

The EDC approved a work plan and performance goals for 1989, including:

- Identifying three "doable" projects in the next six months;
- Having funding for 1990 in place by Oct. 31, including alternative funding from grants and from private sources;
- Increasing community involvement, including civic club programs, a newsletter, a public "graphic display" and a marketing interest group;
- Identifying businesses wanting to expand;

Discussing EDC work plan

- Beginning a marketing program;
 - Developing an economic development financing system.
- "If we were to just package one deal we would be breaking new ground," Perrin said. "We need to get going and get solid, concrete things to point to."
- The EDC will also go back to the Hereford city council and the Deaf Smith County commissioners' court with a new contract proposal to finish out the first contract year.

The original contract called for funding from the city, the county and the Hereford Independent School District, but the school district has had to stop further funding because of legal questions.

"We will add this new work plan to the contract," Perrin said. "These are to be the services rendered by the EDC this year. This will give all of the participating entities something to look at."

"When we go back for later funding, they'll be able to look at the work plan we submitted and see what we were able to accomplish."

Shultz on chemical weapon mission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State George P. Shultz was embarking today on a mission to persuade more than 100 nations to impose sanctions on countries that use poison gas.

He also planned to urge foreign ministers and ambassadors assembling for a five-day conference in Paris to strengthen the hand of U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar in investigating allegations of chemical warfare.

The skirmish Wednesday over the Mediterranean in which U.S. navy jet fighters shot down two Libyan MiG-23 planes acted as a backdrop for the conference, which opens Saturday.

William Burns, director of the U.S. arms control agency, acknowledged that decisions at the meeting will be by consensus. This means any nation, including Libya, can block proposals.

"I don't know how successful we will be, and I don't know how much of a resonant chord this will strike in the hearts of other participants," Burns told reporters Wednesday at the State Department.

Still, Burns said, Shultz will push for sanctions under the United Nations charter and for additional powers for the U.N. Secretary-General.

The Paris Conference was proposed by President Reagan in September to draw international attention to the spreading use of chemical weapons. The focus then was on Iraq, which was accused of, and denied, devastating Iranian troops and civilians with poison gas.

For the last two months, however, the United States has put special stress on Libya and a plant at Rabta, south of Tripoli, the State Department claims has recently begun limited production of chemical weapons.

Even before U.S. jets shot down the Libyan fighter planes near Crete on Wednesday, the Reagan administration had served not-so-subtle notice to the world that it considers Moammar Gadhafi's drive to produce poison gas, an allegation the Libyan leader has consistently denied, a serious threat to world stability.

After the clash, Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci and other senior U.S. officials sought to separate the incident from the drumbeat of alarm the Reagan administration has sounded over the suspected chemical weapons facility.

The Libyan plant controversy is bound to have an impact on the conference. And yet, Burns said "it is not aimed at bashing a particular country."

Referring to the air clash, Burns added: "I don't see it as really germane to the conference. I think that other nations will not see it as germane as well."

Carlucci, at a news conference at the Pentagon, said the Libyan jets had approached the U.S. F-14 Tomcats at high speed and in "a hostile manner" in international airspace.

He said the Navy planes acted solely in self-defense. Based on preliminary reports, the MiGs activated their radar before the Tomcats opened fire with air-to-air missiles, Carlucci said.

Congressional leaders said the United States had acted appropriately, but expressed concern that the incident might portend further hostilities with Libya.

House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said "Congress should be informed...if the United States is engaged in a piecemeal escalation of our conflict with Libya beyond these legitimate acts of self-defense."

Libya, meanwhile, condemned the U.S. firing as a premeditated attack, and Gadhafi, the Libyan leader, declared his North African nation would "meet challenge with challenge."

"If America has prevailed because it is a superpower in the air and the sea, it will inevitably be defeated in Libya," Gadhafi said.

"We, as well as the fish, are awaiting them."

European officials reacted cautiously to the incident, while Israel applauded the U.S. action and Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and the Arab world sharply criticized the United States.

Feds not paying to teach immigrants

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Education officials say they're frustrated by a rule that drastically limits the amount of federal aid school districts receive for enrolling young recipients of immigration amnesty.

Under the rule, the federal government is supposed to reimburse school districts for the extra money it takes to educate foreign-born students who received amnesty from deportation under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. The districts incurred unbudgeted administrative costs and had to hire bilingual teachers.

But the federal government effectively has wriggled out of its responsibility to absorb those extra costs by supplementing only three years of each amnesty recipient's education, Paul Mettke of the Texas Education Agency said Wednesday.

Three years isn't long enough, said Ramon Magallanes, director of bilingual education for Fort Worth Independent School District. He said students need five to seven years to assimilate.

"The three-year rule appears to be a carryover from the old Bennett posture — that any student can learn a language in three years," he said, referring to former U.S. Education Secretary William Bennett.

To be eligible for amnesty, immigrants — no matter what age — had to have been living illegally in the United States since before Jan. 1, 1982.

Mettke gave a hypothetical example of a child born the last day of 1981. By now, the child already would have gone through kindergarten and first grade and would be midway through second grade — almost three years of schooling. And the federal government would not have started reimbursing the school district until this year.

Not surprisingly, most school-age children receiving amnesty are older and already have been in public schools more than three years, meaning the entire financial burden of educating them falls to local, and not federal, funds.

Magallanes said 1,200 of the Fort Worth district's 68,000 students are amnesty recipients who don't know much English. Of those 1,200 students, 69 meet the government's three-year rule, he said.

Of about 1,200 youthful amnesty recipients in the Rio Grande Independent School District west of Harlingen, 41 are eligible under the three-year rule, superintendent Tony Garcia said.

Mettke said he would like to see the federal rule changed.

"If they've been established residency, they should be entitled to (federal aid) throughout," he said.

Representatives from about 15 school districts were present at Wednesday's meeting of local school authorities and TEA and Immigration and Naturalization Service officials.

They also discussed the federal government's delays in reimbursing school districts offering English and civics classes for adult amnesty recipients. Adults under age 65 have to take the classes or pass a test to obtain permanent U.S. residency.

Texas school districts have had to pay out of pocket for the first four months of the classes. Federal officials promised they would reimburse the districts by the end of this month, and then reimburse them monthly afterward.

In many school districts, the classes began in September, but the federal government has yet to pay because reimbursement guidelines still were being formulated. That put the squeeze on schools like El Paso's Ysleta Independent School District.

The Ysleta district has been paying for amnesty classes out of its $145,000 adult-education budget, adult-education supervisor Tito Martinez said.

Martinez said the federal reimbursement at the end of this month will come as a relief because most of the $145,000 is gone.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services will reimburse Texas school districts about $3 million for classes offered last year.

Lawyer: Southwestern Bell earning millions more than should AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which has proposed a plan it says would spur the state's economic development, denied a charge that it appears to be earning $90 million more a year than it should.

An inquiry into Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s rates and services was called for Wednesday by the general counsel of the Public Utility Commission. The general counsel said in a petition to the PUC that a preliminary analysis showed Southwestern Bell is earning a "significantly higher" rate of return than authorized by the commission.

At a news conference to announce an economic development proposal called "Texas First," Bill Free, vice president of revenues and public affairs for the company's Texas division, said Southwestern Bell is not overearning.

The economic development proposal "goes way beyond any kind of a rate case," Free said.

The preliminary analysis of Southwestern Bell — including such factors as the federal income tax reduction under 1986 reforms — indicated the minimum being overearned by Southwestern Bell is $90 million a year, said Carole J. Vogel, deputy general counsel at the PUC.

"General counsel submits that regardless of the causes of the overrecovery, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is experiencing a revenue surplus to the detriment of its ratepayers," said the petition to the commission.

Southwestern Bell has annual revenues of $3.3 billion in Texas.

"The commission receives financial data from us that indicates we're not overearning, and in fact, since this commission was first established ... we have never overearned," Free said.

Southwestern Bell's last basic local rate increase in Texas was in 1984, he said, and the state's basic rates are among the lowest in the nation, with an average monthly one-party residential rate of $9.71 a month compared to the national average of $12.16.

The Texas First package includes a freeze on local rates during the five years that would be needed to implement it. It would cost the company $327 million in investment and $320 million in foregone revenues, Free said.

Southwestern Bell hopes to file the proposal with the PUC within two months, he said.

The package would upgrade the state network "to make that network more attractive to businesses who are seeking to locate in the state of Texas or businesses that are already here and need a state-of-the-art network," Free said.

It also would phase out four-party service, in which four customers share a line, replacing it with the option of two-party service at the same rate or single-line service.

The plan also would lower charges to long-distance companies for use of the local network, allowing them to cut long-distance rates. It would expand optional calling areas around Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio, allowing bedroom communities around each of those cities to pay a higher monthly charge in exchange for toll-free calling to the nearby city.

Under the package, the company would ask for PUC authorization of a range of return on investment from 11 percent to 13 percent. Southwestern Bell said it currently is limited to earnings of approximately 12 percent on investment.

Free called the package a "win-win" proposal that would "propel the state of Texas to the forefront of economic development."

"If the economy in this state gets better, and we think this program will help do it, we end up with more customers, more revenues. We're better off," he said.

"Once we upgrade that network out there, we will have the ability to provide new and different and more innovative services, and that means a benefit to Southwestern Bell as well as those customers out there who will have increased service options," he said.

Cash for execution just game

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A death row inmate who offered to stop his appeals in exchange for $10,000 for his family said he was playing games with the legal system and state officials.

"I can play the game as well as they can," inmate Noble Mays said of state officials. "That's what I did before, but the system started the game. That's what they do with a lot of us here — play games with people's lives."

Mays, 35, who faces death by injection Jan. 31 for the 1979 fatal stabbing of the manager of a dining facility at Sheppard Air Force Base near Wichita Falls, said he was working on another plan to encourage officials to try to execute him.

Last month, Mays mailed a letter to state District Judge Temple Driver in Wichita County saying he would stop his legal appeals and allow the state to execute him if the state sent the $10,000 to his former wife and stepdaughter.

"I used that to just try to put something out," Mays said Wednesday in an interview from death row. "At the time, it was sincere. But I'm just waiting to see about something else."

He would not identify the "something else," saying that it was personal but that he would reach a decision shortly.

"I may give another offer after I get a stay," he said. "The next one they may take up even though it will be more."

Mays said he was "guaranteed" he would get a stay of the Jan. 31 execution date.

"Attorneys don't have to tell me," he said. "I know I will. I don't need attorneys to handle my case. I know the law."

"But there's no telling what's going to happen after that. I don't want to say something I might regret."

Driver, who last month refused to postpone Mays' execution, would not comment on the $10,000 offer. The subject never was brought up at a hearing before the judge.

"The district attorney and the judge said for sure they were going to get me," Mays said. "I wanted to show them they can't. They can get me only when I want them to get me."

Mays, who grew up in the Dallas suburb of Mesquite, says he worked as a furniture salesman, oil field hand and welder. He's had four trials — the last one moved from Wichita Falls to Vernon because of publicity — and at least 14 attorneys, he said.

He insists he is innocent and was forced by police to sign a statement confessing to the robbery-slaying of Jerry Lamb.

Mays is one of eight Texas death row inmates with execution dates so far this year, including two others this month. None of the executions now on the calendar, however, are expected to be carried out.

Ron, Nancy breaking in new $2.5 million Bel Air home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Aides say President and Nancy Reagan have been unpacking boxes, hanging pictures and drinking juice squeezed from oranges from their own trees on their first stay in a $2.5 million home.

The president and first lady were flying back to Washington today, ending a two-week California vacation during which they slept nine nights in the house they will call home after Reagan's second term ends Jan. 20. Despite the seven-figure price, it is modest by standards in the posh Bel Air neighborhood.

The ranch-style flagstone house stands behind a wall and security fence on a hillside dotted with orange, palm and other trees. It was purchased by a group of 20 friends of the Reagans from whom they will lease it for a reported $15,000 a month, with an option to buy.

There is also a small black mailbox in front, with the address, which is 668 St. Cloud Drive. It was changed at the Reagans' request from 666, which many consider a biblical symbol for the devil.

The Reagan residence is "the low-man-on-the-totem-pole house" in a neighborhood where the neighbors include Elizabeth Taylor and Zsa Zsa Gabor, a local real estate agent said.

"The house to the west sold for $13.5 million and the house to the east sold for $14.5 million," said Jeffrey Hyland, who lives in the neighborhood and is president of the real estate firm Alvarez, Hyland & Young.

"He is following out the real estate rule that you always want to buy into a neighborhood on the bottom end," said Hyland. "You want to be the cheapest man on the block so every other house pulls you up."

Hyland also said he believed the buyers got a bargain. He estimated the land alone was worth $3 million when they bought it and the property is probably worth $5 million now with the improvements that have been made.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. What can I do so that my muffins bake high and fluffy like bakery muffins? Mrs. A.M., Bayport, NY.

A. First, grease only bottom of muffin cup to give batter a surface to cling to during rising. Second, fill muffin cups 3/4 full for muffins that rise out of cups with gently rounded top.

Q. I've enjoyed eating "country gravy" when I travel in southern states. What gives the gravy its distinct flavor? W.L., Pembroke, NH

A. Meat drippings from chicken, beef or sausage are mixed with fat, flour and liquid which may be pan juice, stock, water, milk, tomato juice, bouillon or consomme.

DEAR READERS: A while back, one of my favorite commentators, David Brinkley, signed off his Sunday program on ABC with a real gem. If it weren't so outrageous it would be downright funny. Here it is:

Mr. Brinkley: Finally, a brief look at how Congress really works.

The House of Representatives voted $750,000 for something called the Taft Institute, which sponsors seminars on the American two-party system. This is a real waste of money to begin with.

From the House the bill went to the Senate where, in an election year, it was quickly seen as a Christmas tree and they proceeded to hang on it every bad idea that the Senate had been waiting to slip through when nobody was watching.

Before anyone noticed, the $750,000 escalated to $66 million—an increase of 8,700 percent.

When they sent this mess back to the House to accept the changes, one member said, "If this were not so pitiful, it would be a joke. Guess they just can't keep their fingers off the taxpayers' money." The bill was so bad the House killed it.

So, here's a suggestion to the

New officers inducted into Rebekah Lodge Tuesday

District Deputy President Wilma Wise and her team installed the following new officers in the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 Tuesday evening.

Officers installed included Marie Harris, Noble Grand; Stella Hershey, Vice-grand; Susie Curtsinger, recording secretary; Erna Loving, financial secretary; Ursalee Jacobsen, treasurer; and Dorothy Lundry, Jr. P.N.G.

Supportive officers are Faye Brownlow, chaplain; Shirley Brown, conductor; Eunice Boyer, musician; Merle Boozer, color bearer; Sadie Shaw, banner bearer; Jo Irlbeck and Anna Conklin, right and left supporters of Vice-grand; Ada Hollabaugh, R.S.P.N.G. and Verna Sowell, L.S. to chaplain.

Harris and Hershey served refreshments. Others present were Irene Merritt, Bea Conklin, Anthony Irlbeck, and visitors Charlie Wise, Jewel Wells, Jewel Claborn, Geneva Williams, Juanita Reed, Laurretta Brookfield, and Lillie Taylor, all of Friona.

local women's shelter (or the UWCA). You can also be there for her to talk to. She need to discuss her problems with someone who is non-judgmental, someone she can trust.

I know all about this sort of thing because I have—Been There (North Bay, Calif.)

DEAR NORTH BAY: You are right when you say a woman who tolerates beatings is not a normal person. These pathetic victims have such a low level of self-esteem that they must be considered dysfunctional.

Many were beaten by their fathers and saw their mothers get knocked around as well. They grew up in violent homes and accepted brutality as a way of life.

The only way to break this cycle of violence is for all concerned to get professional help. Wife-beaters were almost always beaten by their parents. These men need counseling more than they need punishment if they are to learn how to handle anger and live in peace.

THE NFL FINAL FOUR

San Francisco 49ers at Chicago Bears

Buffalo Bills at Cincinnati Bengals

Bears worry about QBs

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — They're talking about voodoo, hypnosis, character building, acupuncture and psychiatry.

Is this the playoff practice site of an NFL football team or the headquarters of an odd-ball California cult?

They're also discussing Rocky films and Abbott and Costello movies.

Did sports writers suddenly stumble onto the set of a Siskel and Ebert's TV show by mistake?

No, it was just the Chicago Bears getting philosophic on Tuesday as they began preparations for their NFC title game with the San Francisco 49ers on Sunday.

Quarterback Mike Tomczak said he probably won't be "pain free" for the game "unless they can get a voodoo doctor or somebody from Japan to come over and give me some acupuncture."

He landed on his left shoulder when hit in the third quarter of the Bears' foggy 20-12 playoff victory over the Philadelphia Eagles last Saturday. It was the same non-throwing shoulder that was separated in a game about five weeks ago.

Coach Mike Ditka said Tuesday he still hasn't decided whether to start Tomczak or Jim McMahon — who did undergo acupuncture during the 1985 season. But Ditka favors Tomczak if he is healthy.

Earlier, Tomczak told reporters, "This isn't going to turn into a quarterback controversy. If I'm not healthy enough to play, I'll tell coach Ditka, 'Start Jim McMahon.'"

Whoever does the throwing for Chicago won't have Emery Moorehead or Cap Boso to catch the ball. Ditka said that both tight ends would sit out the game because of leg injuries.

Despite the switch in their roles on the team, Tomczak said he and McMahon remain good friends. He said they spent New Year's Eve together at McMahon's house.

McMahon, who played the remainder of the game Saturday after Tomczak was hurt, told Chicago's WLS-TV on Sunday night that he had decided not to speak to reporters because he thought they only wanted to stir up trouble for him.

Tomczak said he went to a psychiatrist this year to "better myself as an individual" and deal with frequent criticism from Ditka.

He also uses self-hypnosis 30 minutes each day, admitting, "It might sound weird or hokey pokey, but it works."

Defensive tackle Dan Hampton said he hasn't had time to get to a psychiatrist himself, but he apparently has been able to rent a few old movies.

He said the injury-riddle Bears face a plot "like 'Abbott and Costello Meets the Godfather' every week."

Or is it more like a Sylvester Stallone epic? "It's sort of like one of the Rocky movies — his eyes are bleeding shut, but he keeps getting up staggering; closer and closer, and finally he knocks the guy out," Hampton said.

Bills' Hull keeps fighting center odds

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Beating the odds almost every step of the way, Buffalo Bills center Kent Hull has fashioned a football career capped by his selection last month to play in the Pro Bowl.

As a high school quarterback, he was too slow. As a lineman in college, he was too light. As a first-year pro with the USFL's New Jersey Generals, he was woefully deficient as a pass-blocker.

"I've felt my whole career I've had to prove something to somebody," Hull said as the Bills prepared for Sunday's AFC title game at Cincinnati.

"That's how I motivate myself. I've always tried to prove people wrong," Hull said. "I've always been too tall, too weak, too light, too slow. Always something."

The only time Hull quit rather than fight was after his sophomore year in high school. His coach at Greenwood High School in Mississippi told Hull he would no longer be the team's quarterback. "My feet got big," Hull said. "I slowed down a great deal."

Faced with the prospect of sitting on the bench, Hull quit the team, deciding he'd concentrate on his first sporting love, basketball. He was an all-state forward.

"If I wasn't going to play, it was going to be boring to me," he said. "I just didn't want to fool with it."

But between spring practice, when he told the coach he was quitting, and the beginning of the football season in the fall, Hull had a change of heart — and a new position. His coach offered to move him to tight end.

"He came up to me and told me I was a good enough athlete to play," Hull said. "He told me that it took 11 starters at one time for football and five for basketball. He told me my chances were a lot better getting a scholarship in football. So I hung around for awhile."

The switch to tight end was followed by a switch to center for his senior year, and Hull's played there since.

He played well enough to get a scholarship to Mississippi State, where his father had been a basketball star.

When he got to Mississippi State, Hull found two other freshmen centers, both high school All-Americans, competing for the starter's job. But one tore up a knee and the other quit after starting one game.

Hull "ended up starting the whole year as a freshman at 200 pounds, playing against (nose tackles) like Jim Burt" who later went on to star for the New York Giants.

How did a 200-pound center survive in the rugged Southeastern Conference?

"By staying real low and probably just flustering people more than blocking them," he said. "I was all over their ankles and their knees."

Realizing he'd need more bulk, Hull added 30 pounds between his freshman and sophomore years and left college at 250 pounds. He now carries 275 pounds on a 6-foot-4 frame.

Even though he played in the Blue-Gray game after his senior year, Hull didn't attract much attention from pro scouts.

"We ran a wishbone offense and somebody of my caliber that was not very strong and weighed 250 pounds, my chances of going to the pros were very slim," he said.

When the Generals made him a seventh-round selection in the USFL draft, Hull jumped at the chance to give the pros a try.

Once in camp, he discovered the Generals had signed "about nine other centers." Through perseverance and injuries to his competitors, he became the starter and played every offensive snap for three seasons with New Jersey.

Hull said he owes "my whole career to the USFL" because it was during those years that he learned pass-blocking techniques.

Blakely gets ace

R.L. Blakely of Hereford recorded a hole-in-one on Jan. 1 at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course in Hereford.

Blakely used a 4-iron to ace the par-3, 155-yd. No. 6.

NBA: Knicks knock off Nets by 9

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Rick Pitino might be an NBA coach, but it was baseball he talked about.

"We had to pitch a shutout in the fourth and we did it," the New York Knicks' coach said after his team staged its second straight comeback-behind victory in as many nights.

With a little more than nine minutes left in the fourth quarter, the Knicks were 17 points behind the New Jersey Nets, riding a five-game road losing streak and playing in a building in which they had lost eight straight games, dating back to 1986.

"The press gave us a big lift. We made up a lot of points in a short period of time," Pitino said. "I had my doubts last night, but I thought we could come back and do it tonight.

Every time we needed a play in that run, we made it."

Trent Tucker's 3-point shot capped a 20-0 fourth-quarter spurt that boosted the Knicks past the Nets 105-96 Wednesday night as New York held its cross-river rival scoreless for a stretch of 7:04.

"We knew they were going to make a run and we needed to accept the challenge," New Jersey's Roy Hinson said. "They started to press and we didn't handle it."

"The bottom line was stopping them when we had to," Knicks guard Mark Jackson said. "The offense kind of took care of itself. I wasn't really aware of a streak. I just knew we were stopping them."

Elsewhere, it was Phoenix 106, Boston 104; Washington 109, Charlotte 86; Indiana 116, Atlanta 113; Milwaukee 110, the Los Angeles

Clippers 102; the Los Angeles Lakers 133, Portland 120, and Golden State 109, Miami 100.

The Nets, who had led since the end of the first quarter, scored the first seven points of the final period, taking an 87-70 lead on a three-point play by Dennis Hopson with 9:27 to go.

Then came the Knicks, who just the night before had rallied from a 15-point deficit to defeat Boston.

Patrick Ewing led New York with 30 points, while Jackson had 21, including eight in the final quarter in which the Knicks outscored the Nets 35-16.

Hinson topped New Jersey with 18 points. Suns 106, Celtics 104

Led by Tom Chambers, Phoenix outscored Boston 10-3 in the last 2½ minutes as the Suns snapped a nine-season Boston Garden losing streak against the Celtics. The Suns have won seven of their last eight games, while Boston has lost five of its last six.

Chambers scored 33 points, while the Celtics were led by Kevin McHale with 27.

Terry Catledge scored 21 points to lead Washington over cold-shooting Charlotte. The Hornets missed their first six field goal attempts, shot 33 percent in the first quarter and made just five of 19 attempts in the second period to trail 59-30 at the half.

Kurt Rambis led the Hornets with 16 points.

Pacers 116, Hawks 113
Wayman Tisdale scored 24 points, including eight in a fourth-period run that gave Indiana the lead for good, as the Pacers snapped a nine-game losing streak by defeating Atlanta.

Dominique Wilkins had 29 points and had 10 rebounds for Atlanta. Bucks 110, Clippers 102

Terry Cummings scored 27 points and Milwaukee fought off a fourth-quarter rally to defeat the Clippers. The Bucks led 87-68 after three quarters before Los Angeles put together a 14-4 spurt and cut the deficit to 91-82. Quintin Dailey and Tom Garrick, who had 10 points each in the final quarter, reduced the Bucks' lead to 97-90 before Milwaukee rebuilt it to 122 points.

Ken Norman led the Clippers with 24 points.

Lakers 133, Trail Blazers 120
Mychal Thompson scored 27 points and James Worthy had 25 as the

Tom: Wait and see on Aikman

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys won't play their Troy Aikman cards until February.

Dallas coach Tom Landry said on Wednesday that the Cowboys won't decide until February whether they will make UCLA's Aikman the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft.

Aikman quarterbacked the Bruins to a 17-3 victory over Arkansas Monday in the Cotton Bowl and was named the most valuable offensive player of the game.

Landry watched on television while celebrating the New Year's holiday with his family.

"I thought Troy did a good job of taking what Arkansas gave him," Landry said. "They took away the deep pass so he threw the short passes well. He did a good job of directing the team. UCLA had a good running game and that helped."

Landry visited Aikman during UCLA's workouts at Texas Stadium. But the Dallas coach wouldn't say Aikman was a Cowboy, yet.

"People say it would be a mistake to take him now without exploring all the possibilities of having a first choice," Landry said. "Troy is a definite prospect but we ought to look overall into what is best for the team."

Landry said, "We've got plenty of time to make the pick. We have to finish off some things from last season this month. Then we have the (workout) combines in February."

"I'd say we should be ready to make a decision around then. Once we do make our choice and if it is Troy then we'd like to sign him as soon as we could to get him into quarterback school."

Public Notice

On December 30, 1988, Southwestern Bell Telephone filed tariff revisions with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to institute the last scheduled increase in the FCC-approved customer line charge. This monthly charge appears on the Detail of Charges page of your Southwestern Bell Telephone bill.

If approved, the charge will increase on April 1, 1989.

Residence and single-line business customers will incur a 30-cent increase, bringing their monthly FCC-approved customer line charge to $3.50.

Business customers who have Centrex service will realize a 50-cent increase on each line installed or ordered before July 28, 1983. This will bring their monthly FCC-approved customer line charge to $5.50 per line.

Other multi-line business customers will incur a 10-cent increase. This will bring their monthly FCC-approved customer line charge to $5.50 per line as well.

This charge is part of a nationwide plan originated by the FCC so local telephone customers would more directly contribute toward the costs of providing the local portion of their long distance telephone service.

Specifically, revenues from the FCC-approved customer line charge reduce the costs long distance companies pay Southwestern Bell Telephone to provide interstate long distance services to our customers. Historically, these cost savings have been passed on to our customers in the form of decreased interstate long distance charges.

If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact your business office at the number listed in the front of your White Pages directory.

UT beats Bears before big Drum crowd

By The Associated Press

Texas coach Tom Penders praised the play of Travis Mays as the Longhorns opened Southwest Conference basketball competition with a blowout victory over the Baylor Bears.

Mays scored 27 points to lead the high-scoring Longhorns to a 105-85 victory over Baylor Wednesday night.

In other conference openers, Houston whipped Rice, 90-75, Arkansas defeated Texas Tech, 69-62 and Texas Christian beat Texas A&M, 58-51. In the only non-conference game, Southern Methodist defeated North Texas, 81-71.

"I thought Travis played a great 40 minutes tonight," Penders said. "He played with great intensity on both ends and it just carried over tonight."

The game was played in front of 10,284 fans and is the only the second time in three years they have drawn over 10,000. The Longhorns averaged just under 4,000 fans a game last season under fired coach Bob Weltlich.

Texas, 6-0 at home, is averaging 7,633 so far this season.

In addition to the 27 points by Mays, Alvin Heggs added 24 points for Texas.

It was the sixth time this year that the Longhorns have broken the 100-point barrier and the first time in SWC play since 1962.

Mays, a junior, became the eighth Longhorn in history to go over 1,000 points in a career. He takes over the conference scoring lead from teammate Lance Blanks who hit for his average of 20 points.

Donnell Hayden led the Bears with 21 points.

Craig Upchurch scored a career-high 30 points to lead the Houston Cougars to a 90-75 victory over Rice.

Houston, 8-4 this season, has a 35-2 series record against Rice, which fell to 5-6.

Rice made 12 three-point shots, tying a conference record set originally by Houston. Dana Hardy had five three-pointers and Dave Mlachnik three while scoring 18 and 11 points respectively.

Upchurch, who hit 12 of 14 shots, said he felt he wouldn't have trouble scoring against Rice as long as he hustled.

Freshman Todd Day hit four straight free throws in the final 1:04 and classmate Oliver Miller scored 14 second-half points as Arkansas beat Texas Tech 69-62.

Texas Tech, 4-7, pulled to within a point on a Todd Duncan 3-point field goal with 6:56 left in the game. Arkansas, 7-2, then ran off 5 unanswered points and put on an 11-3 scoring run to pull away for good at 63-54.

Texas Tech turned the ball over 22 times, while Arkansas turned it over only five times.

Tech's backcourt of Sean Gay and Jerry Mason combined for 33 points. Tech connected on eight of 14

3-pointers, including four of four by Mason.

"I was really pleased with Oliver Miller," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said. "He not only scored 18 points, but found other people open."

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said Miller was the difference in the game.

"We just couldn't handle him," Myers said. "He just kind of took over the scoring for them in the second half and we didn't have anyone to control him."

Craig Sibley scored 23 points, pulled down six rebounds and blocked five shots to lead Texas Christian past Texas A&M 58-51.

John Lewis added 14 and Rich Antee 7 for the Horned Frogs, who broke a three-game losing streak and improved to 8-5. Texas A&M, suffering its fourth straight loss, fell to 7-6.

The Aggies were led by Donald Thompson's 20 points and Lynn Suber, who came off the bench to score 19. The tight defensive play of the two teams resulted in 28 turnovers, 15 by Texas Christian.

"Defensively, other than on their inside people, I thought we did a good job," Texas A&M coach Shelby Metcalf said.

TCU coach Moe Iba complimented his team's defense during the final minutes.

"I don't know what this does for our confidence, but it sure makes me feel good," Iba said.

Senior Glenn Puddy scored a career-high 25 points to carry Southern Methodist to an 81-71 victory over the University of North Texas.

The Mustangs of the Southwest Conference evened their season record at 4-4 while North Texas of the Southland Conference dropped to 3-8.

Eric Longino finished with 20 points and Kato Armstrong added 17. The Eagles were led by Ricky Roberson and Wendell Williams who had 12 points each.

Syracuse latest Big East victim

By The Associated Press

When the week started, there were eight undefeated Division I college basketball teams. Half came from the Big East. Now, half of that group is no longer undefeated.

Fifth-ranked Georgetown lost to undefeated and 10th-ranked Seton Hall on Tuesday night, and on Wednesday night, Pittsburgh beat No. 2 Syracuse 81-76 to knock the Orangemen from the ranks of the unbeaten.

The Big East, which still has Providence on the list of unbeaten, is living up to its reputation as one of the toughest conferences in the country.

"It was a big game for us. I don't know how many people believed in us," said Pitt sophomore guard Sean Miller, who led the Panthers with a career-high 22 points. "The season was on the brink. This shows that we can beat anybody on a given night, but we can also lose to anyone."

Pitt had showed it could lose to anyone early in the season as the Panthers entered the Syracuse game with a 6-4 record that included losses to Duquesne and Siena.

Pitt coach Paul Evans credited Miller with giving his team the chance to hand Syracuse its first loss in 14 games.

"Sean controlled the tempo offensively. When we had the break he went with it. When we didn't, he pulled it back out and still got us the good shot," Evans said.

"I think Miller hurt us more than I would have liked," Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim said. "He's a good shooter and runs the ballclub well."

Pitt had managed a 40-28 halftime lead and Syracuse started the second half with a 16-5 burst. But Miller made one of his four 3-pointers on the night and the Panthers started an 8-0 run and were never headed.

"We came out and controlled the tempo," Miller said. "We had a lot of opportunities on offense. That's what we had to do, especially when the rallies came in the second half."

Sophomores Jason Matthews and Bobby Martin added 18 and 13 points, respectively, for Pittsburgh, while Syracuse was led by Derrick Coleman's 19 points. The Orangemen were held to their lowest scoring first half of the season. They made just 15 of 35 free throws and shot a season-low 42 percent from the field.

The victory extended Evans' Carrier Dome winning streak over Syracuse to four games. Evans' Navy team defeated Syracuse in 1996 — in the second round of the NCAA tournament — and Pittsburgh has beaten Syracuse in its last three meetings at the Dome.

Bradshaw among HOF finalists

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Terry Bradshaw, who quarterbacked the Pittsburgh Steelers to four Super Bowl victories, heads a list of 15 finalists for induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

YMCA Briefs

Registration for winter basketball leagues at the Hereford YMCA will be open through Friday.

YMCA officials said the holiday rush had prevented some people from registering for the leagues.

The leagues are open to all children in grades 1-6. Participants must be members of the YMCA, and membership entitles children to the use of all YMCA facilities.

HIS LUCKY NUMBER

DALLAS (AP) — Somewhere along the line, Mike Saxon, the punter for the Dallas Cowboys, must have dabbled in numerology.

After four weeks of the 1988 season, Saxon said he was sure he would have a big year. "I wear uniform No. 4," Mike said. "This is my fourth year in the league. I had my best college season at San Diego State in my fourth season. And I chew four different types of gum, one for each quarter."

Bradshaw, twice named as the most valuable player in the Super Bowl, was joined on the list by Mel Blount, a cornerback for the Steelers from 1970 through 1983, and wide receiver Lynn Swann, one of Bradshaw's favorite targets for nine seasons.

A BROKEN WINDOW

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Baseball stars have been discovered in many different ways but none possibly as unusual as Ted Williams.

The future Hall of Fame slugger was only 17 and playing high school ball for San Diego's Hoover High. He hit a home run that broke a window in a house almost 500 feet from home plate.

That night two scouts descended on the Williams home. His mother rejected an offer from the Yankees, saying it was too small. She accepted the bid of the San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League and three years later Ted was sold to the Boston Red Sox.

NFL GOLD MEDALS

NEW YORK (AP) — A wide receiver with the Detroit Lions in 1960 and 1961, Glenn Davis has the honor of being the National Football League player, past or present, with the most Olympic gold medals.

Bradshaw, MVP of the 1979 and 1980 Super Bowls, holds Super Bowl records with 932 yards passing and nine touchdown passes. He also played in six AFC championship games and two Pro Bowls.

Blount missed only one game in 14 seasons, led the NFL in interceptions in 1975 with 11 and finished his career with 57, seventh all-time. He recovered 13 fumbles, returning two for touchdowns. He played in six conference title games, five Pro Bowls and the four Steelers' victories in the Super Bowl.

Swann caught 336 passes for 5,462 yards and 51 touchdowns, and was MVP of the 1976 Super Bowl with four receptions for 161 yards, including a 64-yard catch for the game-winning touchdown. He holds Super Bowl records with 16 catches for 364 yards. He also played in four Pro Bowls.

Fourteen of the finalists were picked by a vote of the selection committee from a preliminary list of 61 modern-era candidates. Jordan was recommended by the old-timers committee.

The names of the seven remaining candidates will be announced Jan. 21 by the selection committee after a pre-Super Bowl meeting. The 1989 class will be announced Jan. 24, with enshrinement Aug. 5.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A libel case brought by Tom Selleck's father will go to trial against a supermarket tabloid, which claimed Robert Selleck gave his son's "love secrets" to the publication, the state Supreme Court ruled.

The court on Wednesday unanimously upheld a lower-court ruling reinstating Robert Selleck's libel lawsuit against Globe International and upholding his status as a private figure, which makes it easier to win a libel case.

The lawsuit stems from a December 1982 issue of the Globe that carried the front-page headline, "Tom Selleck's Love Secrets — By His Father."

The story, on an inside page, was headlined, "Why Tom Selleck Can Never Be a Happy Lover."

It said Robert Selleck had described his son as shy and ill at ease with women, and quoted the elder Selleck as saying, "Tom's relationships with women in his life are always disappointing because he's just not the person they think he should be. He's shy and sensitive, not rough and rugged."

In his lawsuit, Robert Selleck said he had a brief, innocuous conversation with the writer of the article, but denied saying anything about his son's relationships with women.

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Former baseball star Steve Garvey says he's signing on as a member of a new team, and he's not talking about wearing a cap and glove again.

Sometime this spring or summer Garvey plans to marry Rebecka Mendenhall, 33, who works in the political unit of Cable News Network in Atlanta, the former All-Star first baseman said Wednesday.

"Essentially we met at CNN in Atlanta when I was doing an interview there. That was a couple of years ago," said Garvey, whose first marriage ended in divorce.

"I gave her the ring just before Christmas so it wouldn't spoil the other presents," he said.

Garvey, 40, played in Los Angeles for 12 years before spending his final five seasons in San Diego. He retired before the 1987 season because of a shoulder injury.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Barbara Stanwyck spent three nights in a hospital for treatment of a leg injury suffered on New Year's Eve.

Army Archerd, a Hollywood columnist for Daily Variety, reported Wednesday that the 81-year-old Miss Stanwyck was accidentally kicked in the leg by a friend's daughter who was wearing sharp-pointed boots.

Larry Keno, a spokesman for the actress, was out of the office and unavailable for comment Wednesday, and a call to Miss Stanwyck's home rang unanswered.

Miss Stanwyck was released from St. John's Hospital and Health Center on Tuesday, said hospital spokeswoman Paulette Weir, who declined further comment.

The actress has starred in such films as "Double Indemnity," "Sorry, Wrong Number" and "Ball of Fire."

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Director Oliver Stone, who filmed his Academy Award winning movie "Platoon" in the Philippines, has returned here to complete "Born on the Fourth of July" starring Tom Cruise.

Stone told reporters Wednesday he will finish the picture, which is about a young soldier crippled in the Vietnam War, in the northern Philippine city of Laoag.

Although the scenes will supposedly take place in Mexico, Stone said he chose the Philippines because shooting here is cheaper and "Mexico does not have all the military equipment we need."

The production crew will use helicopters rented from the Philippine air force, he said.

Stone filmed "Platoon," a story of American infantrymen in Vietnam, in the Philippines in 1985.

Hot cocoa takes the chill off during winter months

Hot cocoa: The very mention of it evokes feelings of warmth, comfort, good company and relaxation. Yet this seemingly innocuous and gentle drink has a history of ancient lore and tales surrounding its mysterious origins.

According to Aztec folklore, chocolate originated in the heavens and was brought to earth by the loving and Quetzalcoatl. Apparently the god journeyed to earth bearing a cocoa tree borrowed, or stolen, from paradise.

He taught the Aztec Indians of Mexico how to use the "cacao" bean (named for the cocoa tree from which the beans are grown) to make the beverage we now call cocoa.

Even today a homemade cup of hot cocoa still can delight and relax us. And with crisper weather and outdoor activities, fall is the perfect hot cocoa season.

Soothing hot chocolate is a delicious way to warm up while watching a football game or taking a long walk to admire the changing leaves.

Try a variation of the classic cocoa drink by adding cinnamon and nutmeg for a "Spiced Cocoa," orange extract or orange liqueur for "Citrus Cocoa," white creme de menthe or mint extract for "Mint Cocoa," a powdered instant coffee for "Swiss Mocha."

After school, youngsters will love "Cocoa au Lait," which includes soft vanilla ice cream atop the cocoa for a rich, creamy treat.

"Slim-trim Cocoa" tastes as sinfully luscious as the other varieties, yet contains skim milk and a sugar substitute to create a guilt-free indulgence.

"Hot Cocoa for a Crowd" is a great crowd-pleaser when friends gather for a football tailgate party or even a rainy day inside.

Timeless and versatile, classic hot cocoa goes everywhere and fits in with every fall activity. Rediscover the simple pleasure of a good, reliable and perpetually fun chocolate drink.

Hot Cocoa For A Crowd

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 1 1/4 cups Hershey's Cocoa
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 3/4 cup hot water
 - 4 quarts (1 gallon) milk
 - 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- In six-quart saucepan, combine sugar, cocoa and salt; gradually add hot water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil and stir two minutes. Add milk; heat to serving temperature, stirring occasionally. Do Not Boil.

Remove from heat; add vanilla. Serve hot.

About 22 six-ounce servings.

Hot Cocoa

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup Hershey's Cocoa
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup hot water
- 4 cups (1 quart) milk
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Sweetened whipped cream (optional)

In medium saucepan, combine sugar, cocoa and salt; blend in water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil and stir two minutes. Add milk; stir and heat to serving temperature. Do not boil.

Remove from heat; add vanilla. Beat with rotary beater or wire whisk until foamy. Serve topped with dollop of whipped cream, if desired.

Five 8-ounce servings.

Variations

Add one of the following with vanilla:

-Spiced Cocoa: 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon and 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg.

-Citrus Cocoa: 1/2 teaspoon orange extract or two to three tablespoons orange liqueur.

-Swiss Mocha: Two to 2 1/2 teaspoons powdered instant coffee;

-Mint Cocoa: 1/2 teaspoon mint extract or three tablespoons crushed hard peppermint candy or two to three tablespoons white creme de menthe.

-Cocoa au Lait: Omit whipped cream. Spoon two tablespoons softened vanilla ice cream on top of each cup of cocoa at serving time.

-Slim-Trim Cocoa: Omit sugar. Combine cocoa, salt and water; substitute skim milk. Proceed as above. With vanilla, stir in sugar substitute with sweetening equivalent of 1/2 cup sugar.

Hot cocoa variation

Stir up feelings of warmth and comfort with a traditional cup of hot cocoa. Pictured is the Spiced Mocha Mix variation of the warm and chocolaty Hot Cocoa recipe for chilly winter months.

Use cocoa instead of chocolate

Cocoa is so healthy and convenient to use that many cooks use it as a substitute for chocolate in their favorite recipes. All-natural, low-fat and low-calorie, cocoa is the only chocolate baking ingredient approved by the American Heart Association. Here's an easy conversion formula:

For unsweetened baking chocolate: Three level tablespoons cocoa plus one tablespoon shortening (liquid or solid) equals one block (one ounce).

For pre-melted unsweetened chocolate: Three tablespoons cocoa plus one tablespoon oil or melted shortening equals one envelope (one ounce).

For semi-sweet chocolate: Six tablespoons sugar plus 1/4 cup shortening equals one six-ounce package (one cup) semi-sweet chocolate chips or six blocks (one ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate.

For sweet baking chocolate: Three tablespoons cocoa plus 4 1/2 tablespoons sugar plus two tablespoons sugar plus two tablespoons and two teaspoons shortening equals one bar (four ounces).

Americans spend more than $10 billion a year on medical problems caused by outdoor pollutants, according to National Geographic.

The world's largest lake is the Caspian Sea.

Abundant Life

USE IT OR LOSE IT

By Bob Wear

We have great and noble ideals and principles which have been passed along to us as elements of our heritage. They have been tested time and time again, and have passed each testing with good grades. There is no reason for doubting their worth; however, they must be continually examined and evaluated, part of their strength and worth are in the fact that they are constantly exposed to questioning and testing. These ideals and principles should be honored and appreciated for their intrinsic value, but we also find much aesthetic pleasure in them, and are thrilled by the eloquent recounting of them by dedicated people. There is, however, evidence which, if it is being correctly evaluated, indicates a wide disparity between the theory of our basic principles and their practical application. Historically, the problem of implementation seems to have been a stubborn one in all civilizations.

No civilization has fallen because of lack of worthy principles. There is, for example, the Greco-Roman social order. It did not crumble because of unworthiness or generally false principles of human thought and conduct. Their failure was in their inability or unwillingness to implement these principles so that they became elements in their personal and national life.

We must remember that each triumph and worthwhile accomplishment in the human experience is the triumph and accomplishment of principles. We make these principles useful, and vital and living to the extent we are willing to embody them in wise and energetic action.

All of us know that a noble concept is of value to us to the extent we are willing to establish it in our lives as a working standard of behavior. Of course, we will be able to talk a better game than we play; however, we must continue our best and our honest efforts to live by well-established standards and ideals. We must use these, or, in time, we will lose them.

Hints from Heloise

TIES

Dear Heloise: As a young lawyer just starting out, I have had a hard time getting used to wearing ties and keeping them clean.

My spouse had a great idea that has saved a lot of dry cleaning and new tie bills. Whenever I buy a new tie, I immediately spray it with a fabric stain repellent. Any would-be stains can be wiped away quickly. I don't even have to keep an extra tie at the office anymore. — A Portland, Maine, lawyer

All of our frequent flyers think this is one super hint! I do too! — Heloise

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been diagnosed recently as having esophageal reflux. I am 56 years of age. Do the two hormones I use, Premarin and Provera, make this condition worse? Does this condition happen because of six pregnancies? Do any sort of sit-up exercises make it worse and aggravate it?

Bending over aggravates esophageal reflux.

There is much more to what you can do to prevent heartburn from esophageal reflux. I am sending you my new Special Report 93, Heartburn, Esophageal Spasm, Hiatal Hernia, for more details. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/93, P.O. Box 19622.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a real problem staying awake. I fall asleep while playing cards. When I'm playing a game, in less than five minutes I'm nodding off and ready for bed. I can't read three pages while lying down without falling asleep. My doctor says he has never heard of this sleeping condition. He says that when I'm driving, I should do things to stimulate myself such as opening a window, turning on the radio or taking some scenic routes. I have done all of these things and nothing helps. Any information would be appreciated.

DEAR READER: Stop driving. You are a danger to yourself and other people. You may have narcolepsy or a related condition. In such cases, it is difficult for a person to avoid falling asleep. Sleep attacks tend to occur during periods when you are not at full attention, as when driving a car, but you need to do more than open the window and listen to the radio. Your doctor can refer you to a neurologist for studies and recommendations for your treatment. You may need to take nervous system stimulants such as amphetamines or "uppers" to avoid falling asleep at the wrong time.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Are there any warning signs of cancer? Can you get lung cancer without even getting emphysema? You see, I am a heavy smoker and I've smoked for many years now. I would like to know the signs, if any, before it is too late.

DEAR READER: You can have cancer without any signs you can detect before it is too late. That is why various tests are done to screen for early cancer, such as mammograms for breast cancer and Pap tests for cervical cancer. And yes, you can develop lung cancer without having emphysema. The first sign may be a spot on the lung detected by an X-ray.

The seven classic warning signs of cancers are:

1. Change in bowel habit. Either loose stools or constipation.
2. A sore that does not heal.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge (as from the uterus, bladder, bowels or with coughing).
4. Thickening or a lump in the breast or elsewhere (let your doctor decide what the lump means).
5. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Obvious change in a wart or mole.
7. Nagging cough or hoarseness.

To these you should add:

8. Unexplained weight loss and
9. Weakness or fatigue — may be caused by an anemia resulting from cancer.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

A delightful surprise enhances birthdays

Here's a "trivia" question you can kick around at your next get-together.

How many birthdays are celebrated each day of the year? Answer: An average of 663,000 birthdays are celebrated daily, accounting for 242,000,000 birthdays, this year alone.

Early celebrations date back to the days when people believed that good and evil spirits appeared at the time of a child's birth and influenced his or her decisions all through life.

In order to prevent evil spirits from working their harmful black magic at birthday time, people tried to think of ways to protect the birthday person. Finally, it was decided that, if the guest of honor were surrounded by family and good friends, the evil spirits could not get close enough to do any harm. And, so, the custom of giving a birthday party began.

If well-wishers also presented a gift of flowers, precious metals or a unique one-of-a-kind trinket, good things were guaranteed to happen. Gifts and greetings given in the early morning assured protection from the evil ones and brought good fortune and long life to the person celebrating.

Today, when giving a birthday party or presenting a gift to a family member or friend, each of us wants our contribution to be a reflection of our personal thoughts and tastes.

For example, if you are a "social butterfly," you might enjoy inviting a large group of friends over for a surprise birthday dinner. On the other hand, maybe you lean toward an intimate gathering. By the same token, gifts you select, and how they are presented, should signal your special gifting "signature."

If you're looking to start a new gift or party tradition, or need a few ideas on finding a "personal signature" trademark, here are a couple of suggestions that may be right up your alley.

Try trimming your presents with one to half a dozen red roses attached to the bow. No cards will be needed when your family and friends begin to recognize this added touch, a fresh and creative "personal signature."

When preparing for your next surprise party, welcome your guests with a red rose tucked into the napkin at each place setting. To keep the roses fresh, insert the stems into a water-filled tube available from your florist. What a nice take-home flavor!

Did you know that the tradition of baking a cake for a birthday celebration has been an important tradition for over 100 years? Decorating birthday cakes with lighted candles and floral decorations was a custom initiated by the Germans.

According to stories passed down through the ages, the lit tapers or candles had magic qualities. The intricate floral decorations signified the sensitive side of the birthday individual and sent a message of best wishes for the future.

Although we continue the tradition of baking a birthday cake, why not add an '80s twist when decorating your next cake for a family member, friend or office co-worker!

At least one person you know who has a birthday this year will be squeamish about publicly declaring his or her age. Why not decorate the cake with fresh roses! Roses will not give away a person's age and, with the large variety of rose colors available on the market today, your local florist can help you choose just the right color and size.

Having a "personal signature" also allows you the option of being really unique in your gift selections. Even though most Americans cannot be outdone for creativity, turning 21 or "coming of age" in Britain is one birthday to which everyone looks forward.

Relatives and friends shower the 21-year-old with lavish gifts of flowers and cards. But, the most awaited and treasured gifts the 21-year-old receives is a personal key to the home. Made of a big piece of silver cardboard, the key then is wrapped and tied with flowers.

This custom officially symbolizes that an individual has reached the time of life when he/she is old enough to have a key to the family home. You have to agree...this gift exchange really is unique.

If you think about it, there must be a soon-to-be 21-year-old you know who would love receiving a new set of car keys wrapped and given in this manner. Start a new trend, and wrap the unwrappable gift with roses. Place the keys in an oversized gift box and tie it with roses.

Or, how about two vacation tickets? Place the tickets in a tie box and intertwine the bow with a single red rose that says, "I love you." Another presentation idea would be to add the keys, tickets or other special gift to an arrangement of roses.

Certainly, roses given at the office party shows others you remembered and wish them well for many more healthy and happy birthdays to come.

You also can send birthday roses to your out-of-town relatives. They will think of you as the blooms open.

Coplen presents musical program to sorority chapter

The home of Archie and Pene Coplen was the site of Tuesday night's meeting of Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Co-hostess for the occasion was Holly Bixler. Archie Coplen presented the program on "Music throughout the Ages." He explained different periods of music and sang various types of selections. He was accompanied by Susan Shaw on the piano.

Shaw presided over a brief business meeting in the absence of President Peggy Hyer. Secret Sisters were thanked for Christmas gifts and Linda Arellano expressed thanks for a New Year's card and planner.

Committee reports were given and plans were made for the Jan. 17 meeting which will serve as a rush party. The meeting will be held at

The FBI disclosed in 1942 the capture of eight Nazi saboteurs who had been put ashore from a submarine on New York's Long Island.

The first Polish astronaut was launched into orbit in 1978 along with the Russian commander of a new Soviet space craft.

Pizza Hut beginning at 7 p.m. and Connie Mathews will be in charge of the program.

Attending the meeting were Coplen, Bodner, Shaw, Bixler, Carol Kelley, Arellano, Gaye Reily, Mathews and Melinda Whitfill.
