

Still 'Somewhat Uncomfortable'

President Out Of Intensive Care

By MAUREN SANTINI
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-spirited, ambulatory President Reagan is out of the intensive care unit and recuperating in a suite at the George Washington University Hospital, his personal physician said today.

Dr. Daniel Ruge, in a report issued through the White House press office, said the president stayed up Tuesday night until 11 p.m. EST to watch the first hour of the televised Academy Awards presentation.

"Although he is somewhat uncomfortable, the president slept quite well," said Ruge. "He has been out of bed and walked." He said Reagan's vital signs remained normal.

The move to the suite was made Tuesday night.

The physician said there were no changes overnight in the conditions of White House press secretary James S.

Brady and Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy, also wounded by an assailant who struck at Reagan Monday afternoon and both hospitalized at George Washington.

Even before he was moved from intensive care, Reagan had turned his room into a temporary Oval Office.

He was described Tuesday as ready to take charge in any emergency while he recovers from the assassination attempt that sources said may have been planned to gain the attention of a young actress.

Various sources said John

W. Hinckley Jr., 25, the man accused of shooting the president, described his plans in an unmailed letter to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster and said, "I'm going to do it for you." Miss Foster starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, and congressional and Justice Department sources said the letter indicated Hinckley was "infatuated" with her.

Reagan, meanwhile, was reported recovering "extremely well" from the gunshot wound to his chest, and White House counselor Edwin Meese III said the president would begin receiving his daily national security briefing today at George Washington University Hospital. He met with his top aides Tuesday.

At the White House, it was business as usual.

"The government did not skip a beat," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Tuesday.

"It's just as if the president were here in the Oval Office the way the White House is running," added Michael K. Deaver, the White House deputy chief of staff.

Vice President George Bush was pinch-hitting on the ceremonial duties of the presidency following Monday's assassination attempt, but the White House made it clear that Reagan is still in charge. Bush said, "It's business as usual to the best we can do it."

"He is the president of the United States and actually signed a bill this morning," Bush said.

Meese, interviewed on the Public Broadcasting System, stressed that Reagan "had his full faculties" when he signed the legislation, which repealed increases in dairy price supports, and that he was ready to take charge in any emergency.

Reagan continues to make all policy decisions and Bush may give orders to help implement them, Meese said.

Just Another Pretty Face

Wow! Talk about waking up on the wrong side of the mirror! Beauty is only skin deep, but it's doubtful that even a six-months course in makeup could hide those features. If this is how you looked when you faced yourself in the mirror this morning take consolation in the fact that it's April Fool's Day. Brand photographer Mauri Montgomery captured this contrast between "Beauty and the Beast," somehow convincing former staffer Cheri Ward to participate in the frivolity. Practical jokes were on the menu today as citizens tried to put the tragedy of recent days in the background and look forward to spring and summer days ahead.

Coal Miners Reject Contract Proposal

By GENE GRABOWSKI
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The specter of a protracted strike looms over the nation's soft-coal industry after miners scamped a proposed contract that would have paid them up to $111 a day and ended one of their shortest walkouts in years.

Union officials, who had supported the agreement with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said rank-and-file members voted against the offer Tuesday by a 2-to-1 margin. Three-fourths of the ballots were counted.

Eldon Callen, the UMW's chief spokesman, said that with about 102,600 votes tallied from almost 160,000 miners, there were 68,937 votes against the settlement and 32,299 in favor of it. Callen said no more figures would be released until late votes were reported from Western and Midwestern districts.

UMW President Sam Church reportedly was unwilling to concede defeat. But Church, having just returned from the coalfields, was unavailable for comment.

But Callen said of the contract: "It doesn't look like it will pass."

Church, who avoided reporters after vote totals were reported, had warned that rejection of the contract will assure a long strike. While Callen tried to underplay the likelihood of a lengthy walkout, union officials in the coal fields agreed with Church's prognosis.

"It certainly is going to mean a fairly long strike to say the least," said Cecil Roberts, vice president of UMW District 17, one of the union's largest.

"It would probably take at least another month or so to get another agreement put together," Roberts said.

In a last-ditch campaign swing across the country to endorse the contract, Church

Brady's Doctors Show Optimism

By WARREN LEARY
 and KEVIN MCKEAN
 AP Science Writers
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The severe brain injury suffered by White House press secretary James S. Brady could leave him with some paralysis and speech problems, but "mental capacity will be there," doctors say.

Brady, critically wounded in an assassination attempt on President Reagan, was reported to be making "extraordinary" progress Tuesday.

Although prospects for his recovery still are uncertain, doctors said they were encouraged that Brady had regained consciousness a day after he was shot and underwent five hours of surgery.

Dr. Dennis O'Leary, spokesman for George Washington University Hospital, said Brady's eyes were open and reacting to light. And he responded to commands to move his right absentee balloting for the general election Saturday April 4 ended Tuesday afternoon with city, school, and hospital authorities reporting an "average year."

School Tax-Assessor-Collector Fred Fox reported that 106 votes were cast absentee for the upcoming school board election, where eight candidates are seeking three seats. Turnouts were much lighter in the city and hospital district elections with 15 absentee votes cast at city hall and only eight at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Fox indicated that the 106 absentee votes in the school board race was "about normal where an election doesn't fall during the Easter holiday."

Eight persons, including Tom Simons, James Self, Anne Ivey, Jerry Walls, Bill Townsend, Johnny Gamez, R.C. Hoelscher, and Don T. Martin are running for three at-large places available on the school board.

Fox reported only 83 absentee ballots in last year's school board election, when three candidates vied for two board seats. The 106 absentee votes this year is short of the 149 cast in 1979 during a record-setting election.

Both the city and hospital absentee ballots were up somewhat this year. Only one absentee vote was cast for the hospital board race last year, while five absentee ballots were cast for the city election. Three hospital board seats and two city commissioner places were open in that election.

The city election has but one contested race where incumbent Place 2 City Commissioner is being challenged for his seat by Rinaldo Garcia. In addition, Mayor Bartley Dowell and Place 1 Commissioner Wes Fisher are on the ballot unopposed.

In the hospital district three incumbent board members are running unopposed for re-election. Those are Dr. Gerald Payne, Ed Reinauer, Jr., and Warner Lawson.

Balloting in all three elections will be held from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 4 in the Hereford Community Center.

Oscar Spreads Favor

By PETER J. BOYER
 Associated Press Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar, a bit subdued this year, packed few surprises and spread his favor around a bit. The biggest winner — "Ordinary People," which was named best picture — took just four of Hollywood's Academy Awards.

Robert De Niro and Sissy Spacek were named best actor and actress, for their performances in "Raging Bull" and "Coal Miner's Daughter."

Major awards also went to two novices in "Ordinary People": director Robert Redford, a film star himself, and supporting actor Timothy Hutton.

"I will never act again," Redford joked backstage.

Hutton, who strongly resembles his father, the late actor Jim Hutton, said of his dad, "I wish he was here."

The movie's fourth award went to Alvin Sargent for screenplay adaptation.

Only one other movie, "Tess," took more than two awards. It won in three of the lesser-known craft categories: cinematography, art direction and costumes.

In years past, some films have gained a fistful of awards. "Ben Hur" took 11 Oscars in 1951.

The 53rd Academy Awards presentation was not as electric as some past shows, probably due to the attack on President Reagan. The show was postponed from Monday after the assassination attempt, and it opened with a straight-faced Johnny Carson introducing a 2-week-old videotaped message from the president.

The Reagan assassination attempt came up again after the ceremony. De Niro, who won the best actor award for his portrayal of boxer Jake LaMotta, walked out of the interview room after repeatedly being asked about the possibility that a movie he starred in, "Taxi Driver," prompted the attempt on Reagan's life.

'In Control'

Haig's Words Unfortunate

By WALTER R. MEARS
 AP Special Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like a scene from a political thriller: a fallen president, the vice president absent, the strong-willed leader of the Cabinet assuming control at the White House.

But this was not fiction. At 4:15 on the afternoon of a rainy Washington Monday, as President Reagan was taken to surgery, a bullet in his lung, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. declared: "As of now, I am in control here in the White House."

It was an unfortunate choice of words.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III said he and Haig agreed — at Haig's suggestion — that the secretary should be the "chief contact" at the White House.

Reagan aides said there was no quarrel with Haig's role, and they praised the teamwork of the administration high command in a troubled hour.

Haig took command of the situation room as the ranking member of the Cabinet. As he reported on the situation after a gunman wounded the president, his voice shook with emotion. His message clearly was intended to be one of reassurance and continuity.

Haig said he was in close touch with the airborne Vice President George Bush, that key members of the Cabinet were at the White House, that U.S. allies had been told of the assassination attempt and the stable condition of the wounded president, that there was no military alert and no need for one.

"We wanted to let the world know that a government was in place and functioning," Haig's spokesman, William Dyess, said afterward.

Bush couldn't do it. He was flying from Austin, Texas, to Washington.

So Haig, the take-charge general, took charge.

"Who is making the decisions for the government right now?" he was asked.

"Constitutionally, gentlemen, you have the president, the vice president and the secretary of state in that order, and should the president decide he wants to transfer the helm to the vice president, he will do so," Haig said. "He has not done that."

Actually, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and

Bob Sparks says some men play a fair game of golf... that is, if you watch them closely.

Armour dropped another bombshell in the community Tuesday with the announced closing of the Hereford plant. The same situation occurred a year ago, but an agreement was reached that kept the plant in operation.

We have no idea whether it is possible, this time, to keep Armour as a member of our business community. The announced problem lies in the company's contract with the labor union. That makes it difficult for community leaders to do anything about the situation.

Armour officials will not comment on the possible sale of the plant to another company, so we are left under a cloud of uncertainty. It organizes a negative attitude in the business community.

The only organization that represents all businesses is the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. That board has a great challenge in helping the community overcome the situation and providing positive action in getting hustlin' Hereford on the move again!

The assassination attempt against our President Monday was almost unbelievable. It's one of those things that almost all Americans had hoped would not happen again in our society.

Violence and hatred have no place in the land of the free, but it will always be so. Even as most Americans expressed shock over the event and prayed for those who were wounded, there were scattered reports of those who actually applauded the assassination attempt because President Reagan threatens to deprive them of a free government handout.

Our society has made great strides in advancing civil rights, and rightly so. Sometimes, however, we open the door to kooks for all kinds of actions against society, all in the name of protecting their civil rights.

Is that the penalty we must pay because of past discriminations?

Former President Will Visit LBJ Ranch

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter headed for the historic LBJ Ranch today where he planned to spend the night before a Thursday tour of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library at the University of Texas.

Carter planned to fly directly to the ranch in Stonewall, 65 miles west of here. The sprawling ranch's landing strip was extended to accommodate jet aircraft while Johnson was president so he could fly directly to his home.

Lady Bird Johnson still maintains her home at the ranch, but also has an Austin apartment where she spends much of her time. The ranch features tours conducted by the National Park Service.

On Thursday, Carter and wife Rosalynn will meet with officials at the Johnson Library. Library Director Harry Middleton said the former president is looking for ideas for a library that would house papers from the Carter Administration.

Jurors Will Decide Punishment in Murders

HOUSTON (AP) — A state jury began today deciding whether a 25-year-old man convicted of killing three men at a Houston bowling alley should be sentenced to life in prison or death by injection.

Max Alexander Soffar was found guilty Tuesday on capital murder charges in the July 13 murders of two teen-agers and an assistant manager who had volunteered to guard the bowling alley against burglars.

Attorneys predicted the punishment phase would take several days.

The mother of one victim, Arden Alane Felsler, 17, said she is "praying for this boy's (Soffar's) soul and for his mother also."

Soffar's mother testified at the trial that she did not believe her son was out the night Arden Alane Felsler, 17; Tommy Temple, 17; and assistant manager Stephen Sims, 25, were killed.

However, she said, her son had a history of psychiatric problems and drug abuse, threatened her and her husband and had been known to beat animals.

Gregory Garner, who was injured but survived the attack, sat through closing arguments but could not testify during the proceeding because he had lost part of his memory.

Afterwards, Garner said, he was pleased with the verdict and hoped Soffar would give a life sentence.

"I think it's worse (than the death penalty). You just have to sit there," he said.

Oral Confessions Bill Approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill that would allow oral confessions to be used in Texas courts, if recorded or videotaped with the defendant's knowledge, was approved Tuesday by a Senate committee.

The bill, by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, was cleared for Senate debate by a 5-3 vote of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

A similar bill by Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, was left pending in the committee.

Mauzy's bill would require that a defendant be advised before a recording or videotape is made and that a copy of the statement be kept until a final conviction is obtained in the case.

"I believe you are about to pass a fair criminal oral confessions statute," said Austin attorney Roy Minton, representing the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association.

"If you record anyone without advising him, that is surreptitious... It makes no sense for a person not to know (when advised beforehand) that he will be talking to a judge and jury," he said.

Minton said Mauzy's bill was preferred by law enforcement officers over the bill by Glasgow because Glasgow's bill did not require that tapes and recordings be retained by a district court.

There was no discussion on the bill when the time came for a vote.

Judge Pleads Guilty To Mail Fraud

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Joe Coe, a former Jackson County judge, has become the 15th former or current Arkansas county judge to be sentenced in an on-going public servant bribery investigation.

Coe, 55, of Newport pleaded guilty Tuesday in federal court to one count of mail fraud. U.S. District Judge G. Thomas Eisele sentenced Coe to one year and a day in prison and a $1,000 fine.

He was ordered to begin serving the sentence May 11 and will be eligible for parole in four months.

A federal grand jury handed down the indictment against Coe in October, but it was not made public until last week. Assistant U.S. Attorney Kenneth F. Stoll said Tuesday that his office agreed to charge Coe with only one count of mail fraud if he pleaded guilty.

Coe has agreed to testify for the government in its future investigations.

The indictment said Coe had accepted kickbacks from Louis R. "Joe" Spilka of Germantown, Tenn., Irvin R. Pratt of Irving, Texas, J.S. Rose of South Fulton, Tenn., and Ralph Burk Shaddock of Jonesboro.

Spilka and Rose have pleaded guilty to bribing several county judges, including Coe. Shaddock has been indicted on similar charges and is to be tried later this month. Pratt has been given immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony.

The indictment said Coe approved invoices mailed to him from Spilka and Shaddock and mailed warrants to pay for the invoices. The indictment did not list specific transactions with Rose or Pratt.

Eighteen county judges have been charged, but indictments against two were dismissed. Former Conway County Judge Tom Scott is to be tried in May on the other indictment.

Mexican Drilling Firm Will Face Sanctions

HOUSTON (AP) — The Mexican drilling contractor on the Ixtoc 1 oil well that blew out in June 1979 "showed less than good faith" by withholding evidence from a federal judge and faces court-ordered sanctions in future proceedings.

U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor ruled Tuesday that the contractor, Permargo, disguised its true intent by failing to produce documents that would help determine whether U.S. courts have jurisdiction over the Mexican company.

Permargo cannot use as evidence material denied to its adversaries and must pay all legal costs incurred in the dispute centering around the June 3, 1979, blow out that dumped millions of barrels of crude into the Gulf of Mexico and onto Texas beaches, the judge ruled.

Lawsuits totalling more than $400 million are pending in O'Connor's court. Also involved in the litigation are Sedco, the Dallas-based owner of the offshore rig that was drilling the well; Pemex, the Mexican national oil company; state, federal and local government agencies in South Texas as well as commercial interests.

Witnesses for Permargo testified the company wanted to comply with O'Connor's order to produce business records. However, they argued, a Mexican legal proceeding last year forbade release of the documents.

To disobey the ruling and disclose the records would have been a violation of Mexican law, witnesses said. O'Connor scoffed at the argument, saying the claim was not supported by the Mexican constitution but was based on demands of a "comisario," who was nothing more than an outside auditor.

Permargo's board chairman, who with his brother controls 62 percent of company's stock, put the comisario up to opposing disclosing the documents, the judge said.

Brady's ability to speak cannot be tested until a breathing tube going through his mouth is removed.

Dr. Desmond O'Doherty, chairman of neurology at Georgetown University Medical School, said Brady's reported reactions are "very good signs for recovery" barring further problems.

"There can still be many complications, but the fact that he is moving and responding is encouraging," said O'Doherty, who is not involved in the case.

"The big questions are, first, will he survive? And second, what will the residuates be? There probably would be some weakness if not a degree of paralysis," O'Doherty said in an interview.

Haig

Sen. Strom Thurmond, president pro tem of the Senate, are ahead of the secretary of state in the line of succession.

"As of now, I am in control here in the White House, pending the return of the vice president, and in close touch with him," Haig said. "If something came up, I would check with him, of course."

That hardly could be considered a message of reassurance, of a government functioning as usual. When it is functioning that way, the secretary of state runs foreign policy, not the White House.

When he got back, Bush said he had been in full and complete communication with Washington throughout the day. "I can reassure this nation and a watching world that the American government is functioning fully and effectively," he said.

Then he set about his job, in effect, running the administration for the hospitalized president. But he claimed no powers and did no advertising.

He signed the dairy-subsidy legislation on his breakfast tray, ordered Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. to go ahead with a trip to the Middle East on Friday and gave permission for the Academy Awards to use a video-taped speech he had made several weeks ago.

Meese said he did not know yet whether Reagan would be moved to another hospital or remain at George Washington until he's ready to return to the White House.

Meese said doctors were "astounded" at Reagan's progress. Dr. Dennis O'Leary, dean for clinical affairs at George Washington University Hospital, said the president could be walking in the next couple days, out of the hospital in a week or two, and on a horse — his favorite pastime — in a couple months.

Reagan learned for the first time Tuesday that his press secretary, James S. Brady, had been shot in the head, and that two law officers also had been injured.

strike miners have been on strike since Friday, when the old contract with the BCOA expired.

The proposed 36 percent across-the-board increase in wages and benefits over three years represented a compromise between the union's final demand of 46 percent and the industry's final offer of 20 percent.

If ratified, the pact would have boosted daily pay for a top scale miner to $111, or $29,000 a year.

It was obvious from the outset of ballot returns that the offer fell far short of what 'most miners wanted.

Hinckley Tells Plans in Letter

WASHINGTON (AP) — An infatuated John W. Hinckley Jr., accused of shooting Ronald Reagan, described his desperate plans and said "I'm going to do it for you" in a letter to a teen-age actress who starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, sources say.

The letter, written to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster but never mailed, was quite specific about Hinckley's plans and reflected an "I-don't-care-what-happens-to-me" frame of mind, the sources said.

The letter was described by four congressional and Justice Department sources, who refused to be identified.

Congressional leaders were briefed Tuesday about facts in the case by Attorney General William French Smith.

Miss Foster played a pre-teen prostitute in "Taxi Driver," a film about a New York cab driver who is fascinated by guns, revolted by rampant pornography in the city and plans to assassinate a Senate candidate.

Two sources said authorities were aware of a second Hinckley letter, and one source said that letter had been mailed but declined to say to whom.

NBC News, however, quoted federal agents in Connecticut as saying that Miss Foster told them she had received several love letters from Hinckley in recent months. The network also said pictures of the actress were found in Hinckley's wallet. Federal authorities in Connecticut and Washington declined to comment on the report.

The sources said Tuesday that investigators had found the letter Monday in Hinckley's quarters, apparently at the downtown Park Central Hotel where he stayed the night before Monday's attempted assassination.

They said Hinckley, a 25-year-old drifter, obviously was "infatuated" with Miss Foster and wanted to get her attention. One source described the unmailed letter as expressing his desire to "go out and do something to get himself killed."

Miss Foster is now a freshman at Yale University, and Hinckley, in an employment application filed with the Rocky Mountain News last October, said he was a student at the Ivy League school from September 1980 to October 1980.

Yale officials said they had no records of Hinckley ever having been enrolled there.

At Yale, Miss Foster said in a brief statement: "I have never met, spoken to, or associated with him (Hinckley)." She said the FBI and the U.S. attorney's office had asked her to say nothing about him.

Criminal mischief and thefts continued Tuesday, and Hereford police officers are investigating one case of theft of service.

Hereford Cablevision reported that some people living on Ave. B tied into a cablevision line to receive free service and supposedly stole a Home Box Office box.

Harlin Taylor, 248 Northwest Drive, reported two cases of criminal mischief to officers.

Taylor told officers someone placed a piece of meat with either rat poison or weed killer on it in the back yard where his dog is kept. Taylor took the dog to the veterinarian for treatment.

In addition, Taylor reported that someone shot at him as he drove in the driveway at home Monday at 7:30 p.m. Taylor said the shot came from a .22 caliber rifle or pistol and caused a dent in the rear of his van.

Officers issued eight traffic citations Tuesday.

AF Publishes Rules

For MX Hearings

PRPC — The Air Force has published rules for the MX missile hearings, scheduled next month in Amarillo and Dalhart.

The purpose of the hearings is to give local citizens and government representatives a chance to ask questions about the environmental impact statement (EIS) and to talk about the effect of the missile system on the Panhandle from their point of view.

During the two meetings, the Air Force team will briefly explain the process involved in compiling the 1902-page EIS then open the floor to questions about material covered in the document. That segment of the meeting will last about ninety minutes.

Next the elected officials and general public will get their turn. Each who wishes to speak will be asked to register in advance at the hearing site. The speaker's name will be put on a card and drawn at random during the two hours of the open forum.

Official representatives of the federal, state and local governments will be first in line, to be followed by representatives of other groups. Those groups' spokespeople will be given five minutes to state their case, then private individuals will be heard for three minutes each. Air Force representatives say the time limits will be strictly adhered to. None of the hearing officers will respond to any of the statements made during the open forum segment.

The same routine will be followed in both sessions of the Amarillo and the Dalhart meetings. Each afternoon session is slated to start at 1:00 p.m. and go until 5:00 p.m., then resume at 7:00 p.m. and run until at least 10:30. The Amarillo meeting on April 20 will be in the Civic Center Exhibit Hall. The next day's session will be in the Dalhart High School Auditorium.

Local elected officials are being asked to contact the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission in advance if they wish to speak at the meetings. Both meetings being held are open to the general public.

AUSTIN -- Once again, a certain group of people is in Austin beating the same old dead horse. That horse, appropriately enough, is parimutuel betting.

We have received many letters opposing legalizing betting on horse races, but very few from our district in favor of it. This is not surprising, though, because people in our district have a lot of common sense and know that the lure of gambling is not worth the trouble it would bring.

We also have received letters from other parts of the state in favor of parimutuel betting, but our job is to listen to you, not people in Dallas and Houston.

This issue is a perennial-it blooms every session. The betting public gets a little more creative with their arguments each time, but there are some things they just can't talk their way out of.

One of them is the waste of resources that gambling generates. Money lost at the track is not used for more productive activity-like family expenses, education, or farm or ranch expenses.

Another is time lost from more productive pursuits-time lost from the job, from the churches, from the schools and from the fields.

But by far the biggest problem about gambling, at least from the point of view of a Legislator, is the kind of people that gambling attracts. Just compare the crime statistics, the number of people in financial dis-truss, and the general atmosphere of a city like Amarillo with a place like Las Vegas or New York City.

We live in a very special place and most of us want to keep it that way. We have a strong community spirit and a low rate of crime. Most of our streets are clean, and most people don't fear walking them.

The element that goes hand-in-hand with gambling could change all this. We don't think that is an acceptable risk.

Those who disagree point out that the state could make a lot of money from legalizing betting on horses. This argument is true on its face, but does not stand up to a close examination.

The money the state would make on betting only considers the money taken in at the track. It does not consider the increased cost of policing our streets, of picking up the litter, of paying court costs for bankruptcies, or the cost of time lost at work. Someone who is at the track is not working. Neither is the unhappy gambler who is forced to sell his car to pay gambling debts and has no way to get to work.

The few letters we have received supporting gambling mostly have been from other districts. But we still want to know what you think about this issue. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Census to be Shown At Canyon Workshop

PRPC - Panhandle area elected officials and social service workers will get an opportunity to see the 1980 U.S. census for the first time during a workshop scheduled for later this month in Canyon.

The workshop is sponsored by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and West Texas State University. It will be held in the Classroom Center South, beginning at 8:30 a.m., Friday, April 10th.

During the workshop, the participants will get a first-hand look at not only the raw data included in the initial census report, but will also become acquainted with how the report is organized and how it can be used.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, which is responsible for conducting the census will be making a number of services connected with the enumeration available to potential users. Printed reports, microforms, computer tapes, maps and other software included in the package will be explained during the workshop.

The participants will also hear about other census information such as the current population survey, the annual housing survey, and population estimates based on the census. They will also be acquainted with the various resources available through the Commerce Department. The preliminary census of the Panhandle population will be handed out during the meeting. It includes breakdowns by county and major subdivisions within each county.

Drought Could Mean Few Tornadoes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A group of weather forecasters flying into this beef capital in late March to bone up for the start of the tornado season noted the dwindling ponds and parched farmlands and speculated that could mean fewer twisters this year in the Plains.

Last year's drought and heat wave resulted in fewer twisters than usual in the tornado-prone states of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

But a total of 886 tornadoes hit around the United States in 1980, far above the annual average of 673. A total of 28 people were killed, including five in the seven maelstroms that hit Grand Island, Neb., on June 3, causing property damage estimated at $300 million.

Fred Ostby, the federal government's top tornado-watcher, says, "My feeling is that if we continue in a drought situation, we would again have a below-normal number of tornadoes."

The reason is, there must be condensation of water for severe storms to develop. Thus, no water, no tornado. But Ostby, director of the National Severe Storms

Forecast Center in Kansas City, puts little stock in long-range predictions about how much it might rain. His main concern is saving lives, giving people a few minutes notice that they are in the path of a funnel cloud that may be churning winds up to 300 mph.

Tornadoes, the most violent of atmospheric phenomena, occur more often in the United States than anywhere in the world. The tornado season usually begins in late winter in the central Gulf states and moves northward during March and April. By May, the peak month, the Southern Plains states are the most susceptible.

It was on April 10, two years ago, that one of the most deadly twisters of recent years hit Wichita Falls, Texas, which lies in the "Tornado Alley" region of Texas and Oklahoma. It killed 47 people and left property damage estimated by the Red Cross at $500 million in Wichita Falls and surrounding communities.

Over the past five years, Texas has been hit by more twisters than any other state, a total of 747. Florida is next with 342, but nine out of 10 of the storms in that state were classified as "weak." Nebraska had 194, Iowa and Oklahoma 179 each, North Dakota, 171, Arkansas, 157 and Colorado, 154.

But Mississippi heads the list of states with the highest percentage of tornadoes classed as "strong to violent," 72 out of 113, or 64 percent over the past five years. Alabama is next with 51 out of 123 or 42 percent and Oklahoma with 74 of 179, or 41 percent.

While the 28 people killed by tornadoes last year was more than the record low of 72 set in 1972, the average is 112 a year.

Dr. Alexander MacDonald, a weather service advanced projects specialist from Boulder, Colo., foresees the day when a computer will ring the telephone of everyone in the path of a tornado.

For now, the tornado watchers have to work with what they've got, tornado drills, the installation of warning systems and volunteer spotters working with Civil Defense.

Even with all the advances in technology, Ostby says, "The human eye is still the best detector for spotting tornadoes."

The capacity of a 10-gallon hat is about 3/4 gallon.

Chimpanzee's Birth Makes History

By PAUL McCLUNG
Lawton Constitution Writer
 A 9-year-old chimpanzee named Tanya made history at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 10, in Conroe, Texas. She is the first chimpanzee to have a baby after living with a human family and being isolated from other chimps from birth until she met her mate. The little one, Uriah, is a healthy, 3-pound male, and doing nicely, thank you. Tanya and Uriah are part of the unique experimental research of the University of Oklahoma primate institute. Did you know a chimp is five times stronger than a human and can live into his 50s? And that young chimps removed from their human surrogate mothers have become dejected and died? Dr. William Lemmon, director of the institute, and Dr. Mel Allen, research director, witnessed the delivery of Uriah and filmed the maternal behavior of Tanya. At 1 p.m. Wednesday, a little less than 24 hours after the birth, they decided that Tanya should relinquish her maternal duties to June Cook, the surrogate human mother who also raised her.

"Tanya started out by doing all the right mothering things, but not for long enough," said Pat Crown, Allen's administrative assistant. "Her mothering instincts were not well enough formed to be continuous." Mrs. Cook, of Conroe, has raised Tanya as though the chimp were a human child. Tanya, born 9½ years ago at the OU institute, is toilet trained, uses silverware to eat her food, and sleeps in a bed. —She had not seen another chimp until Mishac, also from the OU institute, was brought into the Cook home

1½ years ago. It apparently was love at first sight. "They hit it off right away," Pat Crown said. Mothering may be a combination of learned and inbred characteristics, she said. "What is really unique about Tanya is that after being in species isolation for so long she was able to get pregnant and deliver a baby. If she has another child, she may be able to improve her mothering skills. There is a theory that with increased number of births, the maternal behavior improves."

About 35 chimps are living at the OU institute at Norman, and data collected on the mothers and babies there will be compared with data collected on the mother, father and child at Conroe. Mrs. Cook, the surrogate mother at Conroe, has seven children and 18 grandchildren. Only one child, about 20, lives at home. Tanya and Mishac are being kept in a cage together. Allen says there is no mourning from the chimp mother when the baby is taken away. But the OU research has shown that the chimp babies mourn and go into deep depression when their human mothers are taken away. The young female chimpanzees have gone into deep depression and died, she said. The males go into deep depression, too, but finally come out of it. Tanya is one of two chimps born at the primate institute that still is being raised in a human home. She and Abigail, a 6½-year-old female that lives in Wichita Falls, Texas, are the last of a research project started 10 years ago in which both male and female chimps are placed in homes to be raised as close to human as possible.

Most were returned to the institute by the families. A chimp reaches sexual maturity at about 7 or 8 and can produce a baby at 9. At sexual maturity, they become very aggressive. — They are also very strong, five times stronger than a human, Allen says. Their muscle cells are much more dense; this explains why they can't swim. They sink like lead. Their long arms also add to their great strength, and they have no cortical inhibition. That means they don't know their own limits. A human weight lifter will tend to hold himself back, to keep from getting hurt, Allen says. But not a chimp. He will go all out everytime. The institute has a chimp nursery. Pat Crown who has children of her own, is raising a baby chimp, Ishmael, now four months old. "He is very much like a human at this stage," she says. "He wears disposable diapers; He's cuddly; he hugs; he gives a kiss, and he laughs when he's tickled." Chimps are smaller at birth than humans, but mature much faster.

Local Women Attend State DAR Convention in Dallas

Seven members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, DAR, attended the 82nd Annual Texas State Conference of Texas Society, National Society, Daughters of American Revolution, held at North Park Inn in Dallas March 23-26. Over 610 delegates represented 122 chapters. Hereford members attending were Mrs. L.W. Norvell, state chairman of lineage research; Mrs. Jess L. Robinson, chapter regent; Mrs. T.J. Carter, vice-regent; and Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Sr. Other chapter members attending were Mrs. Ernest S. Brainard of Amarillo, state regent; Sydney Brainard of Dallas, state chairman of pages and Marsha Burchinal, page for state conference.

The late Evelyn McLane Dawson of the Los Ciboleros Chapter was honored during the memorial services, led by state chaplain Mrs. Jon E. Tucker, Jr.

At the American Heritage Luncheon, Mrs. James A.

Williams, national recording secretary general, presented the program, Sound of American Music, through narrative and song. She sang the songs "Green Sleeves," "Dixology," "We Gather Together" of 1600 Pilgrim Era, through American Revolution Era, the Civil War Era, and ended with songs in "Sound of Music." Presentation of American Heritage Awards were made following the musical program.

Mrs. Ernest Brainard, state regent, expressed appreciation to members that sufficient funds had been received to complete her State Regent's Project, the purchase of video equipment for the Center for Education and Research in Free Enterprise, Texas A&M University.

Additional funds to the State Regent's Project would be given to the renovation of the Texas State Room, located in DAR Memorial Continental Hall in Washington, D.C., to appear as an authentic early Texas cottage, with wall stenciling, construction and wall and ceiling paintings.

Reports were received from national and state officers and chairmen. Twelve state resolutions were approved. Chapter pledges to national and state DAR projects were made. Los Ciboleros Chapter pledges for chapter and personal pledges totaled $459.50.

Los Ciboleros Chapter was listed among 57 chapters out of 162 to receive the Gold Honor Roll rating. It also received awards for Appreciation Award to Chapter Regent, DAR Service for Veteran-patients, DAR Magazine Advertising, Public Relations, Observance of Constitution Week and Genealogical Records.

The chapter's next meeting will be April 16 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Garth B. Thomas. Mrs. Norvell will present a program on "Lineage Research."

FBI Figures Show '80 Crime Up 13%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary FBI figures show that violent crime soared by 13 percent during 1980, the biggest jump in a dozen years.

The overall crime index, combining violent crimes with the more-frequent property crimes, rose by 10 percent in 1980 compared with 1979, according to the preliminary 1980 FBI Uniform Crime Index released today.

"The reported increase underscores the need for intensified efforts at combating crime, especially violent crime which surged 13 percent last year," said Attorney General William French Smith.

"Not since 1975 has the crime index shown such a significant increase, a continuing cause for concern by law enforcement and the American people," said FBI Director William H. Webster.

In 1975, the overall index rose 9.8 percent. The 1980 increase is actually the largest overall rise since the 17.6 percent jump in 1974.

Among violent crimes, robbery was up 20 percent, forcible rape rose 9 percent, aggravated assault increased 8 percent and murder jumped 7 percent.

Violent crime has increased in 11 of the last 12 years, with the largest previous jump being the 19.1 percent recorded in 1968. Violent crime declined 4 percent in 1976.

Overall, property crime rose 9 percent during 1980, equaling the 1979 increase. Burglary was up 14 percent, larceny-theft increased 8 percent, and motor vehicle theft was up 2 percent.

The index records only crimes reported to law enforcement agencies, which voluntarily submit their data to the FBI. The figures come from more than 12,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide.

In the past, Justice Department surveys of victims, from both crimes reported and not reported to the police, have shown smaller increases in crime than the FBI index. Smith has said the two sources of data are not necessarily inconsistent and that by either measure violent crime is at intolerable levels.

The new attorney general has made increased federal leadership against violent crime his top priority in the department and has named an eight-member task force to see what more the federal government can do.

Cities of all sizes, as well as suburban and rural areas, reported overall crime increases during 1980. The greatest increase was in cities with more than 1 million in population, where the overall crime count jumped 14 percent. Rural areas reported a 12 percent upturn, and suburban areas registered an overall rise of 9 percent.

Choir Receives Rating

Stanton Junior High's mixed choir received a superior rating in concert singing and an excellent rating in sightreading recently in Amarillo at the Civic Center. Judges were Carroll Barnes of Garland High School, James Sheppard of San Antonio, and Wayne Anderson of Clovis High School. The choir is directed by Doug Morris and was accompanied by Mrs. Ken Walser. Above Stanton freshmen students Carole Maloney and Alan Morris participated in the event.

Insurance Rates Increase $1,790 Every Second

On the average, American motorists slam into each other once every 1.2 seconds, according to the Insurance Information Institute. Somebody gets injured every 5.6 seconds and a death occurs every 10 minutes. Losses — resulting from property damages, legal expenses, medical costs, lost wages, funeral bills and administrative costs of insurance — mount at the rate of $1,790 every second.

"Some people are lucky and never become part of those statistics," Jack Berry, director of personal insurance claim administration at Aetna Life & Casualty, commented. "But most of us will have at least a minor auto accident, maybe more than one, during our driving career."

During the winter driving season, storms and icy roads make all drivers vulnerable to traffic accidents. Even a minor fender bender leaves the victims confused and upset, so Berry suggested that drivers should become completely familiar with the basic procedures for protecting life and assisting in reporting or investigative activities following an accident.

He recommends that drivers consider carrying a copy of this list of actions in their wallets — just in case:

- Stop, identify yourself and summon aid for an injured parties.
- Write down the other driver's name, address, telephone number, license and registration numbers, and insurance information.
- The basic facts to the investigating police officer. It is better to avoid admitting fault or trying to decide who was to blame at this time. Get the officer's name, badge number and jurisdiction.
- Check to see if there were any witnesses. If so, write down their names and phone numbers immediately.

- Take notes on the facts surrounding the accident, including the time, place, weather and road conditions, evidence of law violations, approximate speed of both cars, and other relevant details. If possible, make a sketch diagram of the accident scene, including the placement of the cars and people in relation to the road and fixed structures.

- Carry the telephone number of your auto insurer's claim office with you at all times, as well as your independent agent's number and an after-hours number for your insurance company. Call one of them immediately if you are in an accident, so a claim representative can offer advice and expert assistance, can collect necessary information, and can examine the damage. That way, repair work can get started as soon as possible.

"If there's an accident, you should remember that your insurance company is ready to help," Berry commented. "After all, that's what policyholders pay for. But insurance personnel can only do their work properly if they know right away that there's been an accident. If you reach them, they can advise you on the other necessary steps."

'80 Census Shows Deaf Smith Population Up

The Panhandle region gained population, but some of the less populous counties lost in the head count. That is the surface impression of the preliminary 1980 census figures just released by the U.S. Department of Commerce. The statistics are now being reviewed by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission's Panhandle Health Systems Agency.

Overall, there was a gain of 38,937 for a final count of 369,253 for the 25 county area. The 1970 count showed a population of 333,016. The new figures add up to an 11.8 percent increase in population for the region.

According to the PRPC's statistics Deaf Smith County showed a population of 21,146, an increase of 2,147 over the final 1970 Census, or a gain of 11.3 percent.

To the South, Castro County showed an increase of 168 persons in the 10-year span. That county had a population of 10,562 in last year's Census, compared to 10,394 in 1970.

Statewide, Texas was shown to have 14,228,383 people last year as compared to 11,196,730 in 1970. That represents an increase of 3,031,653, or 27.1 percent.

The major growth in the Panhandle was in Randall County. They went from just under 54,000 in 1970 to almost 75,000 in 1980 — an increase of almost 40 percent. On the other end of the scale, Sherman County lost over 13 percent of its 1970 population. They were down 220 in the head count from 3,657 in 1970. Other counties showing a loss included Briscoe, Collingsworth, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Ochiltree, Parmer, and Wheeler. Of that group, Parmer County experienced the slightest drop. Census information indicates a loss of one over the decade.

As in 1970, Potter and Randall Counties accounted for the majority of the area's enumeration. They represent home country for 173,550 Panhandle inhabitants — just over half the total count.

This is not the final word in population figures from the census department. Still to come are the county subdivision breakdowns and further statistics concerning sex, ethnicity, family sizes, occupations and several dozen other categories. Some of that information will be available later in the summer. Not until 1983 will all the census data come off the presses. The commerce department says that some of the already published figures could be subject to revision.

Padres Swap Outfielder

Mumphrey to Yankees; Astros Blank Braves

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The San Diego Padres shipped Jerry Mumphrey off Tuesday to become the New York Yankees' new center fielder...and their pitching staff may have unintentionally made Joe Morgan the San Francisco Giants' new second baseman.

In a late night trade with the Yankees, the Padres acquired outfielders Ruppert Jones and Joe Lefebvre and young left-handed pitcher Tim Lollar and Chris Welsh in exchange for Mumphrey and right-handed pitcher John Pacella.

Meanwhile, the 37-year-old Morgan drove in three runs with a pair of homers as the Giants defeated the Padres 5-1.

Asked if he had decided between Morgan and Rennie Stennett as his second baseman, Manager Frank Robinson replied, "Yes." He would not say which one, adding, "I'll take the better defensive player first."

Morgan was hitting .152 and Stennett .375 before Tuesday's game but Robinson said he had his own interpretation of Morgan's statistics.

The word "salary" derives from the Latin salarium, originally "money given to Roman soldiers to buy salt."

Elsewhere, Cesar Cedeno's two-run homer and eight-hit pitching by Joe Niekro, Frank LaCorte and Dave Smith enabled the Houston Astros to blank the Atlanta Braves 4-0.

Roy Howell and Cecil Cooper homered but rookie Marshall Edwards' eighth-inning single drove in the run that gave the Milwaukee Brewers an 11-10 triumph over Oakland despite four home runs by the A's.

Bert Blyleven hurled seven innings of two-hit ball, fanning seven and walking two, as the Cleveland Indians whipped the California Angels 8-1 and Rusty Torres' sacrifice fly gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit's Mark Fidrych was shelled again, giving up three runs on four hits and two walks in one inning as his earned run average soared to 11.40.

Newly acquired Ken Landreaux singled home a run in a four-run eighth-inning rally that lifted the Los Angeles Dodgers over the Cincinnati Reds 6-5 and Steve Rogers, Ray Burris and Elias Sosa blanked Baltimore on eight hits as the Montreal Expos nipped the Orioles 1-0.

Dan Norman's 10th-inning homer gave the New York Mets a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mike Torrez and Mark Clear combined on a five-hitter as the Boston Red Sox downed the Minnesota Twins 3-1.

Lamar Johnson and Harold

Baines had two-run singles in a five-run seventh inning that carried the Chicago White Sox past the Kansas City Royals 6-2.

Lloyd Moseby's home run capped an eight-run eighth inning that powered the Toronto Blue Jays over Philadelphia 11-7 despite a grand slam by the Phillies' Mike Schmidt.

Bruce Bochte's two-run homer helped the Seattle Mariners defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

In another deal, the Padres sent relief pitcher Bob Lacey, obtained only last week from Oakland, to Cleveland for second baseman Juan Bonilla.

Collier Pitches Herd by Levelland

Matt Collier pitched a two-hitter and his teammates backed him up with a 12-hit attack as the Hereford Whitefaces recorded an easy 11-1 victory over the Lobos at Levelland Tuesday afternoon.

The Whitefaces open District 4-5A action here next Tuesday against the Plainview Bulldogs. The game is set for 2:30 p.m.

Collier had the Lobo batters hitting the ball into the ground Tuesday, with only two balls going to the outfield. One was a base hit, and the Lobos had one infield hit.

Don Delozier socked a two-run homer and single to spark the bat attack. Mike Hill had a double and single, and Brad Garnett chipped in two singles.

Levelland's lone run was unearned. The Lobos used two Hereford errors to plate the run in the second inning. Hereford tallied twice in the third and put it away with six big runs in the fifth game.

NRA Continues to Fight Gun Control Legislation

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Rifle Association, for years a powerful legislative lobby of Americans who believe they have a right to buy, sell and bear firearms, is training its sights on the nation's courts.

NRA officials say the shooting of President Reagan and renewed demands for gun control will not affect efforts by its new Firearms Civil Rights Legal Defense Fund to fight laws the NRA failed to shoot down in Congress or state legislatures.

But gun control advocates, who have fought a mostly losing battle against NRA lobbyists, say the gun organization is actually defending wrong-doers who would sell guns to the likes of Mexican bandits and New York street gangs.

Caught in the crossfire is the U.S. Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms: the NRA says the agency is too zealous in enforcing federal firearms laws; anti-gun forces say it's not doing enough.

Richard Gardiner, an NRA staff attorney, said the defense fund, recently granted tax-exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service, is a direct response to BATF's enforcement efforts.

"We only take the cases of people who have been entrapped or enticed or set up," Gardiner said. "They are stupid cases brought against people with no prior offenses. We have not taken the case of anyone we didn't think was innocent, although they may technically have violated the law."

Gardiner said the new fund will finance defense efforts in about two dozen cases in which the association is already involved, as well as some new ones.

"The laws we're talking about don't prohibit misuse of a firearm. They're all illegal transfer or possession cases," many prosecuted under the Gun Control Act of 1968, he said.

The BATF has made needless arrests and prosecutions, Gardiner said, arguing that was because "they've got to do something. They can't expect Congress to give their bureau more money to do less. Moonshining isn't the problem it used to be."

Beneficiaries of NRA legal support include an elderly Gary, Ind., woman who was denied a gun permit after

Umpires Group Sets Classes in Hereford

The Hereford Umpires Association has scheduled two sessions of classes for prospective umpires who want to work games in the Hereford area this summer. The classes will be held April 6-7 and April 13-14 with examinations following each class on April 9 and 16 respectively.

According to spokesman L.J. Clark the classes will start at 7 p.m. on the respective nights, and will be conducted at Troy's Sweet Shop, located at 1003 E. Park Avenue.

"We urge all prospective umpires to come to these classes," Clark said. "And, we need to remind those who were in the association last year that they must take the exam again this year."

Clark said some 20-25 umpires will be needed this year to handle the various softball and baseball leagues in town. That includes the Kids, Inc. program this year as well.

Persons wishing additional information may contact Clark at 364-3176 or Bill Townsend at 364-4250.

Bulls, 76ers Get First Blood in NBA Playoffs

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The streaking Chicago Bulls and the rebounding Philadelphia 76ers have drawn first blood in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bulls, who won their final eight games of the regular season, racked up victory No. 9 Tuesday night by beating the New York Knicks 90-80 as Ricky Sobers scored 18 points and Artis Gilmore grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked seven shots.

The 76ers, shaking off the disappointment of their season-ending loss at Boston which cost them the division title, overpowered the Indiana Pacers 124-108 behind 32 points by Julius Erving and 10 points apiece by Darryl Dawkins and Bobby Jones.

Today the playoff focus shifts West as the other two best-of-three mini-series get under way with Houston at Los Angeles and Kansas City at Portland.

The Bulls fell behind 24-12 after a dreadful first quarter but recovered and shut down the Knicks' running game as Gilmore anchored a staunch defensive effort. The 12 points were the fewest scored by the Knicks all season.

"We made an extra-special effort to stop them on defense," said Gilmore. "At first our guys were tight but then we relaxed, executed on offense and played good defense."

Chicago closed to within 40-35 at halftime, then Gilmore and David Greenwood teamed to lead a 17-5 spurt starting the third quarter that put the Bulls ahead to stay. Greenwood, who had just two points in the first half, scored 11 points in that surge and Gilmore blocked three shots.

"Coach told me I was not taking my jumpers," said Greenwood. "He told me to go out and assert myself and I did."

That spurt put Chicago in front 52-45. The Bulls led by 10 early in the fourth quarter, saw the Knicks draw within three at 72-69 with 4:30 to go but put New York away with six straight points by Dwight Jones.

Greenwood finished with 17 points, Jones 16 and Gilmore 13. Ray Williams led New York with 19 points and Russell scored 17.

Philadelphia outscored Indiana 16-6 in the final 3:13 of the first quarter to lead 38-33, then broke the game wide open with a 16-4 spurt to start the second period for a 54-37 advantage.

Indiana, making its first playoff appearance in five NBA seasons, pulled within 10 points three times in the second half but could come no closer.

"The defense was the big difference tonight," said Bobby Jones. "We played smart basketball, helping each other out and double-teaming. Indiana has a lot of shooters and can get hot quickly."

Pacers forward Mike Bantom says his club was outmanned.

"Philadelphia has tremendous depth," he said. "They have four forwards and they get the ball inside."

Billy Knight led the Pacers with 25 points and Bantom had 19.

Chicago will have the home-court advantage when it tries to wrap up its first-round series against the Knicks Friday night, while Philadelphia will try for a sweep at Indiana Thursday night.

Los Angeles begins its quest to become the first team to successfully defend an NBA championship since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics against Houston, which comes into the mini-series loose and free-wheeling.

"If the Lakers lose to us, they would catch a lot of criticism," observed Rockets guard Mike Dunleavy. "That's the meaning of pressure. We're in a position where we can just go in and take our best shot."

Although the Lakers compiled a 54-28 record, Los Angeles' season was disrupted by the injury to guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who missed 45 games because of torn knee cartilage.

"We're certainly entering the playoffs from a different vantage point," said Lakers Coach Paul Westhead. "Last year we were divisional champions and were perfectly programmed. Our team was more settled and our starting unit was intact."

"We haven't had that advantage this season." The series features a matchup of premier centers — six-time Most Valuable Player award winner Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers and rebounding champion Moses Malone of the Rockets.

Injuries could play a factor in the Portland-Houston series.

Guard Jim Paxson, Portland's leading scorer at 17 points per game, reinjured a foot while walking across the practice floor Monday. Trainer Ron Culp said Paxson suffered a pinched nerve surrounding the joint behind his big toe.

Ray Floyd Confident In Golf Tournament

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Although his winning string was broken last weekend, Ray Floyd remained confident and enthusiastic going into the $300,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

"I feel like I'm still playing very, very well," Floyd said before a practice round on the 6,984-yard, par 72 Forest Oaks Country Club course, site of the 72-hole event that begins Thursday.

Although he has played without a break for more than a month, Floyd, a former champion here, said he had never considered skipping this tournament, which often is by-passed by golf's big names in order to prepare for next week's Masters.

"The way I'm playing now, you couldn't get me off the tour with a D-8 Caterpillar," said Floyd, who had a two-tournament winning streak broken Sunday in the Heritage Classic.

He played well, however.

won $6,900 and boosted his leading money-winning total to $173,812.

"In my mind, the streak wasn't just the two wins," Floyd said. "With one exception, I've played well all year. That continued last week. And I'm looking forward to this week."

And he can look for some of the strongest opposition this event has been able to muster in many years.

Chief among Floyd's opposition in the chase for a $54,000 first prize are Lee Trevino, defending champion Craig Stadler and Bill Rogers, the winner last Sunday in the Heritage.

And there's Tom Weiskopf, the 1975 Greensboro champion whose only chance to qualify for a 14th consecutive Masters is to win this title.

Fed Index of Commodity Prices Declines Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of commodity prices at the farm declined for the third straight month in March, with lower prices reported for hogs, cattle, soybeans, wheat, cotton and corn, the Agriculture Department says.

Prices that farmers get for raw products were 1.9 percent lower in March than in February but still averaged 10 percent higher than a year ago, according to preliminary figures issued Tuesday.

Higher prices for oranges, onions, potatoes, tomatoes, lettuce and snap beans helped offset the decline for the other commodities, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

Meanwhile, the prices that farmers pay to meet expenses rose 0.7 percent from February and averaged 9.4 percent above a year ago. Higher prices for family living items, fuels, fertilizers, farm chemicals and farm equipment were mainly to blame, the report said.

According to the preliminary March figures — which are based mostly on mid-month averages — prices of meat animals as a group dropped 3.2 percent from February. The index was 6.5 percent below a year earlier.

The March price index for oil-bearing crops — which include soybeans and cottonseed — declined 4.4 percent from February but still was 28 percent above a year ago.

Fruit prices, overall, jumped 12 percent from February, with oranges, strawberries, pears and grapefruit accounting for most of the increase.

Department economists continue to predict retail food prices will go up an average of 10 to 15 percent this year, compared to an 8.6 percent increase in 1980, which was the smallest one-year gain since 1977.

Farm prices in March averaged 258 percent of a 1967 base price average used for comparison, according to the preliminary figures. The index for February was 263 percent.

The March parity ratio was 63 percent, down from 65 in February. A year ago, the ratio was 62 percent.

At 100 percent, the indicator would mean, theoretically, that farmers have the same buying power they had in 1910-14.

For example, the average price of wheat in March, ac-ording to the preliminary figures, was $3.93 a bushel. That was 56 percent of the March parity price for wheat of $7.02 a bushel.

The report also said:

—Cattle averaged $57.40 per 100 pounds of live weight nationally, compared to $58.70 in February and $64.30 in March 1980. Those are averages for all types of cattle sold as beef.

—Hogs averaged $38.10 per 100 pounds, compared to $41.30 in February and $33.40 a year ago.

—Corn, at $3.16 a bushel, compared to $3.22 in February and $2.40 a year ago.

—Wheat prices at the farm, according to the preliminary figures, averaged $3.93 a bushel, compared to $4.17 in February and $3.64 a year ago.

—Rice averaged $13.20 per 100 pounds, compared to $13 in February and $11.70 in March 1980.

—Soybeans were $7.10 a bushel against $7.50 in February and $5.94 a year ago.

—Upland cotton was 67.4 cents a pound on a national average, compared to 71.4 in February and 64.8 a year ago.

Agriculture Research Forum Scheduled for Monday, April 6

COLLEGE STATION — Texas residents who use agricultural research and extension programs are invited to express their views on priorities for these programs during a public forum here Monday, April 6.

The forum is from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Rudder Center,

Texas A&M University. It will be conducted by the National Agricultural Research and Extension Users Advisory Board as part of its three-day meeting here, April 6-8.

If you wish to speak at the forum, send your name, address, telephone number, organization represented (if any) and a brief description of the issues you plan to address to: David Dyer, public participation officer, Science and Education Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250; or call (202) 447-5211.

Statements should be kept to no more than five minutes so that as many people as possible can participate. Speakers also should submit written copies of their comments to the Board.

Whether you attend the meeting or not, the Board would like to have your written comments to consider as it prepares its annual report to Congress on agricultural research and education needs.

The board was established by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 to assess food and agricultural research and extension programs, plans, policies and priorities of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, other federal and state departments, colleges and universities and the private sector.

It is made up of 21 citizens representing food and agricultural views and interests ranging from producers to consumers. One Texan, Stoney M. Stubbs of Roanoke, serves on the board. He is the single member of the board's committee on transportation of food and agricultural products.

Block Announces Loan Rates, Target Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal price support loan rates and target prices for major crops grown in 1981 were announced today by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

As in the case of last year's major crops, none of the 1981 commodity programs will require farmers to set aside part of their acreage from production in order to qualify for price supports and other benefits.

The package announced by Block is only for crops grown in 1981 and does not involve new farm legislation that the Reagan administration and Congress are currently working on to replace the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977, which expires this year.

Loan rates are the amounts farmers can borrow by using crops as collateral. Farmers can get the loans regardless of what the market prices may be.

The common practice, however, is for the producer to repay the loans when the market prices are significantly above the loan rates. If he doesn't, the commodity is forfeited to the government in lieu of repayment.

Target prices are book-keeping figures used to compute cash subsidies to farmers. When market prices are above the target levels, no payments are due. But if those fall below the target, payments are made to bridge the difference between the market price or the loan rate, whichever is larger.

The target price concept applies to wheat, corn, sorghum, barley, rice and upland cotton. It does not apply to oats, soybeans and tobacco.

Also, loan rates are higher for the major grain crops if those are put into a reserve program.

Retailers Urged To Advertise Beef

FORT WORTH — The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association this week urged food retailers in New York City and in Texas' metropolitan areas to increase their beef advertising and merchandising programs in order to help move the nation's ample and favorably priced supply of beef. TSCRA is a non-profit livestock organization representing 14,000 livestock producers in Texas, Oklahoma and surrounding states.

John S. Cargile, TSCRA president from San Angelo, and Sam Washburn, National Cattlemen's Association president-elect, were in New York City this week to spearhead a new dialogue between food retailers and cattlemen. They were to meet with the top executives in the major food chains to discuss the abundance of beef available to consumers, beef featuring, the cattlemen's financial plight and what could be done to help everyone along the "beef pipeline."

Across the nation, other leaders in the livestock industry were visiting with food executives in their states to achieve the same goal: Let's move beef. In Texas, TSCRA and other livestock groups appointed representatives in the metropolitan areas to carry the message to retailers.

In New York at mid-week, Cargile, who is a rancher, auction owner and cattle feeder, said the retailers he had spoken with were "interested, concerned and understanding."

Meat supplies in general have been greater than expected and beef supplies, in particular, have been greater than previously thought. There has been some backlog in the feedyards of overfed cattle and this has put more pressure on financially-strapped feeders to move beef. One step down, the cow-calf producers who usually sell their calves to feeders are feeling the pressure and have been in a loss or near break-even position for more than one year.

Consumer demand for beef, changing tastes and what cattlemen will do in the years to come will share the attention of more than 2,500 cattlemen attending the 104th annual convention, trade show and Heritage Sale of the TSCRA in Fort Worth Sunday, March 29 through Wednesday, April 1. U.S. Vice President George Bush will headline a long list of government and industry leaders scheduled to speak to the livestock group.

I like PAG SX333 because it withstood the hot dry summer better than some competitive varieties. Good ear retention and very little lodging, high yields and good threshability. I plan to plant some SX333 next year.

Skaters Raise $3,000 For Retarded Citizens

Attend District Meeting

Matson Addresses Aggie Moms; Says A&M Future Looks Good

Randy Matson, executive director of the Former Students Association of Texas A&M University, said "the university is on its way to better times."

Matson spoke to about 35 people Saturday at the Hereford Country Club at the annual Aggie Mothers District 10 meeting. Members from Lubbock, Amarillo and Hereford and special guests met to hear Matson tell about the growth and progress at TAM.

Matson told the group that 33,000 students now attend Texas A&M University, with the projection for next fall set at 35,000. Basically drawing its past population from rural areas, the school is now gaining much of its increase from the metropolitan areas such as Dallas. At present, TAM is the fastest growing university in the nation. Matson feels that "troubled times seem to be past and we are on our way to better times."

Texas A&M University, along with Texas University, is quite concerned with the outcome of the Senate's action on the Permanent University Fund. Matson urged calls and letters in support of the bill adopted by the Boards of Regents of TAM and TU.

Matson went on to tell that the Former Students Association is growing also with 35-40 percent of the former students contributing to TAM. Funds are used for administration, scholarships, loan funds, indowments, trust funds, publications, Rugby team, soccer team, student clubs, organizations and recruiting work.

Joining the Aggie Mothers of District 10 as guests were Mrs. Tom Pfeiffer, Lockhart, president of the Federation of Texas A&M Mothers Clubs; Mrs. Harold Spann, Round Rock, treasurer; and Mrs. Ralph Gonzales, San Antonio, 2nd vice president. Mrs. Hollis Klett of Hereford serves as recording secretary. Mrs. Pfeiffer, in her message to the group, reported that there are 70 Aggie Mothers Clubs with 4200 members.

Following the coffee-registration and business meeting, other guests joining at lunch time were Matson's sister, Mrs. Bud Patterson of Hereford and several local members' husbands.

Amarillo Aggie Mothers Club presented an invitation to the group for the next District 10 meeting.

Kimberly Vaughn and Donna McKay took first and second place in selling the most pledges for 100 miles of skating during the Super Skate which raised money for the Texas and Deaf Smith Association for Retarded Citizens. Super Skate was March 16 at Playhouse Skating Rink.

Sandy Stockstill, president of the Deaf Smith Association for Retarded Citizens, said $3,200 of $6,000 in pledges has been turned in so far. Thirty percent of the proceeds will be used locally for the mentally retarded, she reported. The remainder is sent to the Texas association to cover costs of the prizes and its work.

Kimberly, 10, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Vaughn, Rt. 1. She had pledges amounting to $556. Her first place prize was an AM-FM stereo with turn table and cassette player. She also won a pair of skates, headphone radio, skate t-shirt and a trophy.

Donna, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McKay, 534 Willow Lane. Her pledges amounted to $435. She was presented a black and white portable television as second place prize. She was also awarded a pair of skates, headphone radio, skate t-shirt and a trophy.

Mrs. Stockstill reported that 53 skaters participated in the Super Skate. Thirty seven of the skaters completed the 12 hours skate-a-thon for a total of 100 miles each. Those collecting $40.00 or more in pledges won individual prizes.

McDonald's furnished hamburgers, french fries and drinks for all the participants and volunteers for lunch. Coca Cola Co. in Hereford donated six cases of drinks for the skaters and Paul Abalos treated them with hot links and buns for the evening meal.

Mrs. Stockstill expressed appreciation to Gary Shaw, manager, and Carolyn Vick, hostess of McDonald's; Jacky Smith with the Coca Cola Co. and Paul Abalos for their donations and interest in the skate-a-thon.

Winners Receive Prizes

The two big winners of prizes in the recent Super Skate which raised money for the Texas and Deaf Smith Association for Retarded Citizens are pictured above. In the center is Donna McKay who won a television set as second place and Kimberly Vaughn who turned in the most pledges to win an AM-FM stereo. The prizes were presented by Sandy Stockstill, president of the local association.

New Officers Named For TOPS No. 576

Loyce Driver is the new leader for TOPS No. 576 and will serve with a new slate of officers.

The group met Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center for the installation of officers.

Other officers include Shirley Brown, co-leader; Winnie Anderson, treasurer; Veta Sturges, secretary; and Joe Hill, reporter.

Margaret Diaz was named Best Loser for the month of March with Susanna Gonzales as runner-up. Jo Hill was voted "Miss Inspiration" by club members.

Following the installation of officers a covered dish luncheon was served.

Anyone interested in joining TOPS should contact Mrs. Driver at 364-6566.

Family Stories Needed For History Project

The Project County History Committee and area representatives met at the E.B. Black House recently to hear reports on the progress of work being done on the history now being compiled about Deaf Smith County.

It was reported that 690 family stories have been submitted for the book. While this is good, the committee agreed that in a county the size and population of Deaf Smith, there should be more stories submitted.

There have been 303 books ordered so far. They will not be for sale after publication and must be ordered in advance of publication.

There is a representative in the lobby of the First National Bank this week during the morning hours to answer any questions regarding the book. There will be copies of books from other counties, as well as brochures and other information about the book.

A representative of Craftsman Printers of Lubbock will be in town today for a meeting with the committee being formed to call on the businesses in the county for their histories.

Attending the recent committee meeting were Troyce Hanna, Marguerite Newell, Billie Johnson, Flora Homfeld, Lucile Hughes, Juanita Hershey, Alberta Higgins, Mildred Hicks, Pet Ott, Kathryn Ruga, Aileen Montgomery, Sue Coleman, Juanita Perrin, Lois Gilliland, Leta Kaul and Marge Mehlberg.

Officers Installed

New officers for TOPS No. 576 take the pledge of responsibility as they are installed during formal ceremonies at the Hereford Community Center. Officers include, from left, Winnie Anderson, treasurer, Janelle Davidson, weight recorder; Novella Hewitt, assistant weight recorder; Loyce Driver, leader; Veta Sturges, secretary, Shirley Brown, co-leader; and Alice Koenig, installing officer.

Discipline Workshop Set for Thursday

"Assertive Discipline" - a dramatic new approach to classroom and school management that leading educators throughout the nation are utilizing and endorsing will be presented Thursday night by Robert Stewart, assistant principal at Bluebonnet Elementary School. Gary Billingsley, principal, is working with Stewart in sharing the new concept.

A three hour workshop from 7-10 p.m. will be held at Bluebonnet Elementary School. Twenty-two staff members at Bluebonnet and several guests have registered for the meeting. They will be presented with written material along with Stewart's presentation.

"My hand goes out to the Bluebonnet teacher," said Stewart. "They are receiving no in-service credit or extra money for the effort to attend the workshop." "In essence they are taking their own time to grow professionally as an educator."

Stewart said assertive discipline is a competency-based approach to discipline developed by Lee Carter. It advocates that educators must utilize a systematic approach to discipline which enables them to set firm, consistent limits for the students, at the same time remaining aware of the reality of each student's need for warmth and positive support.

"It is reported that the new approach reduces behavior problems by 80 percent," Stewart said. He has talked to school personnel who have tried it and "they said it does work."

He said a workshop similar to the one conducted Thursday night may be included next year for in-service throughout the school system.

Good Example

Youngsters will be more likely to smoke cigarettes if their parents and teachers do, according to the American Cancer Society.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a terrific man. George wants to marry me, but one thing is holding me back. He is a very heavy smoker.

There is a history of cancer on both sides of my family, and I am scared to death of it. George pooh-poohs the notion that his smoking could be harmful to my health. I have handed him several of your columns. He says, "Don't show me any more garbage by Ann Landers. She is a nut on the subject."

Please tell me if the dangers of second-hand smoke are anti-tobacco industry propaganda, as George says, or is there something to it?—Mary In Winston-Salem

DEAR MARY: Tell George that "The Nut" read an interesting editorial in the New York Times recently and she'd like to share it with him. Here is an excerpt:

"A major study in Japan has found that non-smoking wives of heavy smokers developed lung cancer at a surprising rate. They had become 'passive smokers' who regularly breathed smoke in the air. The study, spanning 14 years and 285,000 people, found that non-smoking women married to heavy smokers were twice as likely to die from lung cancer as women married to non-smokers. In farm areas, where there were few other pollutants, the risk more than quadrupled."

So much for the notion that second-hand smoke is merely a nuisance. The Japanese study, published in the authoritative British Medical Journal, adds to the growing evidence that second-hand smoke kills.

Say hello to George for me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding your column on wife-beaters: I was surprised and offended by the last sentence in your answer. You said: "It's interesting how these kooks seem to find each other." (You meant men who beat their wives and women who stay with them.)

We are trying to start a program for battered spouses on San Juan Island. One reason a wife (or battered husband, as the case may be) doesn't "do anything" is because of the shame in going public. Also, the people she turns to for help somehow make her feel it is her fault and she deserved it. In addition to these fundamental problems, some law enforcement groups won't do anything to assist the woman who calls for help or protection. (Our law enforcement agency is not one of those. Here in San Juan the police have been very supportive.)

Labeling battered women as kooks doesn't help encourage the victims to get help. Your understanding could go a long way to improve the situation. We feel you let us down.—Concerned In Friday Harbor

DEAR CONCERNED: You are right. My response was neither sympathetic nor helpful. I don't know where my head was that day. The best letter of rebuke came from the staff of ALIVE in Washington state. Pamela Greenway is the director.

I called Aurie Pennick, Executive Director of the Chicago Abused Women's Coalition, for guidance. She said, "The best information available is in the Ann Landers Encyclopedia." So, I checked—and indeed it was.

Crisis hot lines can be a great help. The Salvation Army or local YWCA may be able to put the victim up on an emergency basis. Miss Pennick also said anyone needing assistance can write to: National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, 1728 North Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Losses May Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The property-casualty insurance industry suffered an underwriting loss of at least $3 billion last year, and investment analysts say the losses may continue for years.

"In fact," says Allen Nadler, who studies the industry for Goldman Sachs, the big securities investment firm, "it is entirely possible that underwriting may never again be profitable."

Big awards by sympathetic juries, increases in the cost of car repairs, rising medical bills and inflation are among factors spreading red ink across the industry's books.

And yet, some analysts say shares of property-casualty insurers are worthwhile investments. Nadler himself says some "appear to provide good value," especially for periods beyond 18 months.

Despite underwriting losses, says the Insurance Information Institute, the property-casualty industry last year earned $7.51 billion, up from $6.92 billion in 1979, a gain of $590 million.

The gain, you might have surmised, came in part from the same source of the underwriting loss — inflation and other economic factors that drove up the return on money invested.

Last year property-casualty showed a net investment gain of $11.32 billion before taxes, mostly from dividends on stocks and interest on bonds, as well as capital gains.

Insurance companies have lots of money to invest, and as long as they don't get caught by turns in the market and manage to ride with the investment tide, they tend to make money.

An item called policyholders' surplus — holdings after liabilities have been deducted from assets — gives an idea of the amounts. Last year it reached $57.4 billion, up $10.5 billion for the year.

After viewing these results, you might correctly conclude that the business of insuring was poor, but the business of investing returned rich rewards. Nadler expects the pattern will continue.

The industry is a good investment, he says, because it is "absolutely necessary for the world's economy," and it can be expected to continue dividend increases, underwriting losses or not.

There are deeper reasons too, connected, for example, with the underwriting cycle, inflation, and what are considered by some analysts to be relatively low price-earnings ratios.

And there are several lessons to be learned and a question to be asked as well, at least by the ordinary person.

It would appear that numbers aren't always what they seem, not only in insurance but in many industries. Insurers don't hide their numbers, but if you're not careful you might get the wrong ones.

There is the obvious lesson that business conditions today are trickier than they might appear, especially with extremes of inflation and interest rates. And there is the question: How long can it all continue?

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Needs help with diet

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 37 and would like to weigh 107 but even with exercise and nibbling, my weight is hard to control. Is it possible that I'm not eating right? I eat one fruit a day, no bread or milk, some protein like an egg or a small steak, a few vegetables, some lettuce, carrots, tomatoes. In the evening I have a big bowl of ice milk, usually just before retiring. I walk about four miles a day.

Do you need bread? Do you need to eat every day? Do you need a certain amount of protein every day?

DEAR READER - You certainly do need some help. First, are you sure you should only weigh 107? Being too lean is not healthy, particularly for young women. A normal amount of body fat tissue is important in forming an adequate amount of female hormones and, apparently, in maintaining the important balance between the hypothalamic hormones and the pituitary hormones. That is one reason why women who are too thin develop menstrual problems.

Second, your diet is horrible. Yes, you need protein every day to help prevent loss of muscle mass when you are on a calorie-deficient diet. And you need milk for an adequate intake of calcium or you must take calcium supplements. Bread isn't essential if you get bran and vitamins from other sources. That big bowl of ice milk may contain a lot of calories because it is sweet.

Incidentally, I don't approve of fasting. The washing out of body water with that technique is unhealthy and is not loss of body fat.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have low blood pressure and a good portion of the time I feel dizzy and weak. Are there some foods I could eat and some form of exercise that would help? I am so tired of feeling depressed because of this condition.

DEAR READER - Better check with your doctor. If you have chronic fatigue it may not be from low blood pressure. Many people with low blood pressure feel just fine and full of pep. They tend to live longer than people with so-called normal pressure levels.

If you do indeed just have low blood pressure and it causes you to feel dizzy on standing, you might try some pressure stockings, which could help by preventing blood from pooling in your legs when you stand. Being physically fit from walking or jogging can help, too.

Finally, if you tend to have unusually low blood pressure, carry identification with you that lists your usual blood pressure. If you happen to be unconscious from an accident, those taking care of you will be able to do a better job if they know that is normal for you. I'm afraid diet won't help much, but do avoid being thin.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 15 years old and have a problem that is becoming very embarrassing. I have an erection whenever I am exposed to anything to do with sex or nudity. Sometimes I have one for no reason at all. Will this stop eventually or what?

DEAR READER - You may not understand this now, but believe me, when it stops men tend to get rather upset.

The years of sexual maturation are often disturbing to young people, particularly if they do not fully understand what is happening. There is nothing wrong with you.

Your brain is programmed, probably from birth or even sooner, as to when you are going to mature sexually. That includes when your body is going to start producing a lot of male hormones. When that stage arrives, you will have reactions and there is nothing much you can do about it.

You may be surprised to learn that all mature normal males have erections every night during their sleep, usually three or four times at a minimum. It occurs from brain activity and has been correlated with one phase of the sleep cycle called the REM phase (rapid eye movement phase). Erections even occur in the male fetus in the uterus before birth.

Although getting an erection is quite normal, the trick is learning not to let it happen in such a way that it is obvious in a socially unacceptable situation.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 68 years old and the discomfort and numbness in my feet and legs has been diagnosed as "tarsal tunnel syndrome." Will you please tell me something about its cause and outlook?

DEAR READER - The tarsal bones are to the foot and ankle what the carpal bones are associated with a carpal tunnel syndrome, are to the wrist and hand.

These ankle bones form part of a tunnel that is bounded on the other side with tendons or ligaments. The tendons to your toes, along with nerves and blood vessels to your foot, must pass through this tunnel. Whenever there is swelling in the area or the tunnel is too small for any reason, it may cause pressure on nerves and vessels in the tunnel and cause numbness and discomfort. If it is from inflammation it may subside in time. In other instances it may be necessary to release the pressure on the entrapped nerves by surgery.

DEAR POLLY - What is a good cleaner for Fiberglas bathtubs? I know harsh cleaners should not be used, but I find mine very hard to clean. - SUSAN

DEAR SUSAN - Use an ordinary household detergent for a day-to-day cleaning. Never use harsh abrasives or steel wool, but a nylon scrubber is recommended when needed. For minor stains, household ammonia or bleach can be used, but only occasionally. Dishwasher detergent (wear rubber gloves) will remove soap or mineral deposits. Automotive polish will add luster and preserve the finish, but do not use to the point where it would be too slippery. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - When an old trunk or other item smells of moth balls I put some incense sticks in and leave for several months. I find they work great. - MABEL

DEAR POLLY - In the winter we have a bird feeder on our lawn, but the squirrels used to climb up the small metal pole to the feeder and eat all the seeds. My husband bought a piece of five-inch round, rain downspout eaves troughing and fastened it over the small pipe on to the bottom of the feeder. The squirrels still climb the small pipe, but are unable to get any further up than to the bottom of the large pipe, as it is too large and slippery for them to climb. Now the squirrels have to be content with feeding on the seeds that the birds scatter out of the feeder. - EVA

DEAR POLLY - I am a former school teacher and my pupils used to use large pine cones for feeding birds. We melted suet in a skillet and dipped the pine cones in the suet and when they were cold, we fastened colored yarn on them and tied them to the bushes for the birds to feed on. - HELEN

DEAR POLLY - My niece who has a lemon tree gives me lemons. I squeeze and freeze the juice in ice cube trays. When frozen, the "lemon cubes" are removed and stored in zip-up plastic bags that are put in the freezer, so I have fresh lemon juice when needed. - DOLLY
