WASHINGTON (AP) President Reagan is conferring on his Middle East peace plan with Philip C. Habib, who received the Medal of Freedom for his negotiations in a region where he says the situation remains "extremely tenuous."

The president presented Habib the nation's highest civilian award Tuesday, within an hour of returning to the White House after a 17-day California vacation.

Before a scheduled meeting with the ambassador later today, Reagan planned to host a luncheon in honor of Icelandic President Vigdis Finnbogadottir, who is taking part in a Washington celebration of Scandinavia.

Although Habib and the president saw each other briefly at the White House Tuesday afternoon, the meeting today provided their first opportunity to confer in person after the envoy's recent three-month negotiating trip to the Middle East. During that time, Habib negotiated a cease-fire in Lebanon and the departure of Palestinian guerrillas from west Beirut.

A dozen Hereford "beauties" will be vying for the coveted title of "Miss Steak" when supporters of State Sen. Bill Sarpalius hold a re-election party for the senator at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the HHS cafeteria.

Bob Davis and Dean Kelley of Amarillo will act as Masters of Ceremonies for the event, which is open to the public at a cost of $5 per person. A meal of beans, cornbread, and cobbler will be served.

Door prizes will also be given away during the evening, and barbership quartet music will help fill in the gaps during the party.

Contestants in the pageant include "Inez" Graves, "Lilly" Laing, "Tessie" Abney, "Henrietta" Black, "Julie" Bodner, "Betty Ruth" Bostic "Dolly" Garner, "Billie Sue" Lyles, "Sophie" Nieman, "Bobbie Jo" Nigh, "Gertrude" Waddell, and "Roxie" Lee.

Sarpalius, of Hereford, is running for re-election to the District 31 Senate seat in the November election.

Hope mounts for bloodless end to Polish embassy crisis

BERN, Switzerland (AP) - Hope for a bloodless end to the Polish Embassy hostage crisis mounted today after the terrorists released more hostages and extended to Friday their deadline to blow up the building and all inside.

Five captives, including three women, were allowed to leave the captured building around midnight Tuesday. They were whisked away by authorities.

That brought to eight the number of hostages freed by the members of the so-called Polish "Revolutionary Home Army" who seized the embassy Monday, threatening to kill their captives and themselves unless the Warsaw government rescinded all martial law measures within 48 hours.

Government spokesman Achille Casanova said there were five hostages left in the building, all members of the diplomatic staff. He told The Associated Press that Swiss authorities hoped for "more results" from the negotiations and were increasingly confident of "an end without bloodshed."

Among the five remaining hostages was the embassy's military attache, Zygmunt Dobruszewski, who hid in a separate section of the embassy on the first day of the occupation. He was discovered by the terrorists Tuesday afternoon, according to a Swiss government statement, along with "important papers and documents." Casanova said members of the special Swiss crisis team were in constant telephone contact with the terrorists and that Justice Minister Kurt Furgler was personally involved in what he called "intensive negotiations."

The first face-to-face negotiations with the terrorists occurred Tuesday. A Polish-born priest and theologian, the Rev. Joseph M. Bochenski, visited the embassy and talked to the gunmen for about an hour.

Swiss officials have said from the start that their efforts are concentrated on a non-violent solution but made it plain that they will not exclude storming the mission.

They will have to decide on a formal Polish request for allowing a "special group" apparently an anti-terrorist commando unit - to fly to Switzerland to help the Swiss "in efforts to release" the remaining hostages.

Casanova confirmed receipt of the message from the Polish Foreign Ministry suggesting that the "special group" be "dispatched forthwith" and asking for Swiss

MATAGORDA ISLAND, Texas (AP) - Failure of a battery and of a space guidance instrument has forced the launch of the first privately financed U.S. space rocket to be postponed until Thursday, officials say. Space Services Inc. of America announced the postponement Tuesday night, just 12 hours before the planned 10 a.m. CDT launch of the Conestoga I rocket.

Mission director Donald K. Slayton, a former astronaut, said the launch team first found a failed battery and then discovered a faulty gyroscope - a guidance instrument - aboard the 37-foot-tall rocket Tuesday.

He said the battery was replaced and that the gyroscope could also be replaced by working through the night. But Slayton decided instead on the postponement to give his 31-man launch team time to rest.

"The same guys that do the checking also do the repairs and they are getting run down," said Slayton. "We decided to fall back and regroup so they could recharge their batteries." The Conestoga I rocket is built around the second stage of a Minuteman missle. It is designed to make a 101/2-minute suborbital flight to an altitude of 192 miles, then splash into the Gulf of Mexico 321 miles from its island launch pad.

Space Services founder and board chairman David Hannah said launch of the Conestoga is "pivotal" to success of the company. The Houston real estate investor said the launch must be successful for Space Services to go on with plans to assemble a launch system capable of putting satellites into orbit.

Space Services purchased the Minuteman stage in the Conestoga for $365,000 and the entire launch operation is costing about $2.5 million. It is being financed by 57 investors. The Conestoga I is to carry a dummy payload to a high point above the Earth where it will separate from the rocket engine, go into a rapid spin and dump 400 pounds of water. The water will fall as a cloud of ice crystals, Slayton said.

The maneuvers are to demonstrate the company's ability to assemble and launch a spacecraft, Slayton said. Such maneuvers must also be performed during the launch of an orbital satellite, he said.

Hannah, during an earlier news conference, said Space Services "was on trial" in the Conestoga project because of the failure last year of

Holiday traffic deaths surpass prediction

The Texas Department of Public Safety says 50 people died in traffic accidents on state roads during the Labor Day weekend, surpassing the agency's prediction of 47 deaths.

Fifty people also died during last year's holiday weekend, but eight people died later of injuries suffered during the extended weekend, the DPS said.

The counting period for the death toll ran from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

One dead, one wounded in shootout

ROBERT LEE, Texas (AP) - A woman was dead and a game warden was wounded in a shooting at a home in this Southwest Texas town, police said.

Victoria de la Cruz Ortiz, 37, was shot to death Tuesday evening, according to Coke County Sheriff Marshall Sparks Burdett, a game warden, was in the intensive care unit of a San Angelo hospital early today, authorities said. Officials declined to release information concerning his condition.

Authorities refused to give details of the shooting, saying only that it occurred at a home in Robert Lee.

Millican said a suspect was in custody following the Tuesday night incident, but no charges had been filed. He declined to release any information about the person in custody.

Burdett, a former San Angelo police officer and son of San Angelo police Sgt. Albert Burdett, was taken to Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital at San Angelo about an hour after the shooting, officers said.

The shooting was under investigation early today by Milican and Texas Ranger George Frasier.

Crews work to eliminate city's water contamination

ALICE, Texas (AP) - Health of ficials today were analyzing an oily black substance found in this city's drinking supply to determine if it posed a hazard to residents, who were advised not to drink their water.

About 30,000 people here and in the neighboring community of Rancho

Allegra may be able to resume use of the water supplies later today or Thursday if city workers are able to flush out the lines, said assistant utilities director Richard Garza.

"The water system has been shut down for drinking purposes," he said Tuesday night. "We are still delivering water. People can go ahead and water their lawns."

Potable water was being delivered throughout Alice and Rancho Allegra by a dozen tank trucks, Garza said.

At least one illness was reported after residents began noticing a strong odor emanating from the water. One person was treated for diarrhea that was attributed to the water contamination, said a spokesman at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital.

Assistant city director Bill Mc-Cumber said the problem may have been caused by an illegal crossconnection between a water main and a storage tank owned by an oil-related industry. The pollutant appeared to be oil well drilling mud, officials said.

An oily black liquid flowed from fire hydrants Tuesday when workers tried to flush out water pipes.

Garza said residents were informed of the problem after the water treatment plant one mile north of the city received complaints about an odor in the drinking supply.

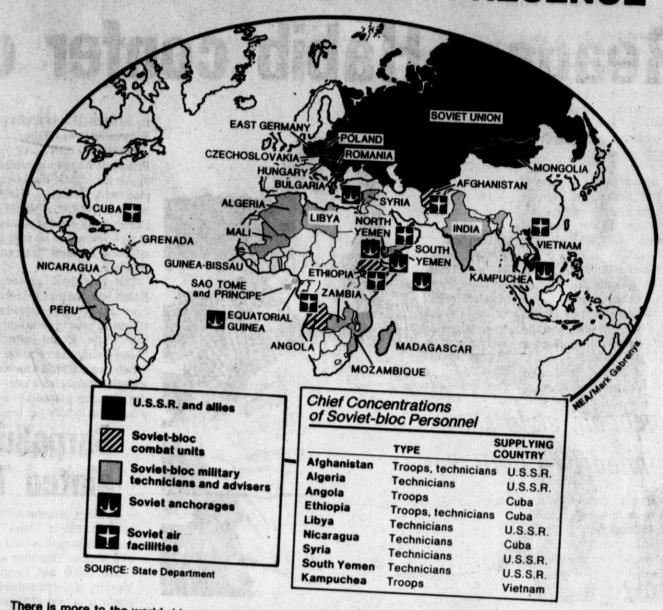

He said water samples were sent to Corpus Christi for analysis, and more samples would be sent today to state health officials in Austin.

Garza said chlorine levels in the water were increased at health officials' suggestion.

CHICAGO (AP) - Twelve members of a World War II German submarine crew and some of the American sailors who captured them are being reunited in a meeting organizers think will "help toward peace."

It begins Thursday when the Germans are scheduled to arrive at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport from Frankfurt and head to a German restaurant for dinner with up to 65 Navy veterans.

Jim Sanders, who was a flight deck officer aboard the USS Guadalcanal at the time of the capture 38 years ago, said the Germans later will be able to tour the U-505 sub on which they once served. The craft w is on display at the Museum of Science and Industry here.

"Former enemies are about to become friends." Sanders, 63, said Tuesday.

The sub with 59 men aboard was captured June 4, 1944, off the African Coast. It was the first Navy capture of an enemy vessel during wartime since 1815.

For most of the Germans, it will be their first opportunity to "fraternize" with the American sailors who watched as they fled their crippled vessel, Sanders said.

The Americans weren't permitted to talk to the captured Germans, but often listened to them sing in the evenings and "would send in requests," Sanders said.

"They were pretty darned handy at singing as a group. Hitler taught them to sing in the Hitler Youth, you know."

Several of the Germans speak English and at least two of the Americans have offered to serve as interpreters for the reunion.

Among the German officers and family members attending will be Karla Lange, widow of the submarine's captain, Cmdr. Harald Lange.

Sanders said he doesn't expect it to be an awkward occasion.

"I never saw any malice (between captives and captors) then, and I think that's a good sign. I want this reunion to help toward peace," he "We want these Germans to feel at home. This is not national policy, of course, but it's very important they feel comfortable. I am an optimist. I think we can avoid war again."

Sanders, now an attorney in Paterson, N.J., said ed. American planes opened fire on the sub after it was spotted on sonar by his aircraft carrier's destroyer escort.

Stricken by depth charges, the sub surfaced with a jammed rudder, Sanders said. "The Germans did the smartest thing they could do - they got off the sub and into the water as fast as they could. It saved their lives. As soon as we could see no one was manning the deck gun, the shooting stopped."

Years later, Sanders said, Hans Gobeler, a mate in the sub's "commanding room," wrote to him. "He said they were lucky to be alive. By 1944, the U-boats were getting picked off - and every time they came into port, they saw the attrition.

"I saw them coming aboard. Their general air was one of relief, and some of them were smiling. They were loyal to their ship - but they saw the handwriting on the wall, too," Sanders recall-

The art deco neon sign, mounted next to a "10-2-4" Dr Pepper rooftop clock tower, dates from the days when the company urged Texans to "drink a bite to eat."

The sign, next to the 126-foot-3-inch clock tower, was erected in November 1947 and first turned on in the spring of 1948.

Assistant City Manager Victor Suhm has joined in the request by Dr Pepper, which also seeks to protect the com-''time temperature" ground sign. It is larger and closer to an intersection than the law

"The signs help identify the national headquarters of the Dr Pepper Co.," Suhm said. 'Dr Pepper is known internationally, and its identification with Dallas is an amenity to

The clock bore the company's trademark of the numerals 10, 2 and 4 on its face. The "10-2-4" clock had been part of the selling of Dr Pepper since the late 1920s, when a sharp Dallas advertising man, Earle Racy, suggested the company use a Columbia University professor's research to attract customers, company spokesman Jim Ball said.

"Drink a bite to eat at 10 (a.m.), 2 and 4 (p.m.)," Dr Pepper urged, playing off the book, "The Liquid Bite" by Dr. Walter Eddy, who claimed blood sugar usually was lowest at those times. Dr Pepper was founded in

Ann Landers

A matter of saving lives

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have allowed telephone operators, nurses, teachers (even wives of the Fortune 500) to use your column as a sounding board. May I have my turn?

I am a blood donor recruiter for the American Red Cross. I spend six hours a day on the telephone calling people to ask if they will come in and give blood. You would not believe the rudeness I have encountered. Every third person says, "Is there an emergency" When I reply, "No,' they say, "Well, call me when there is one." Or, they will say, "Sorry, I don't feel like it."

Don't these people realize that the need for blood is constant? At times I feel like shouting, "I hope if YOU ever need blood, someone feels like donating it for you."

Please remind your readers that the blood they give may save a life. There are shortages all over, and the supply in some areas is dangerously low. Thank you for printing this letter. It will do more good than 100 fullpage ads. -Flint, Mich.

DEAR FLINT: OK, you folks out there, anyone in good health, between 17 and 65, please get on the phone and call your local chapter of the American Red Cross. The number is in the phone book. Make an appointment NOW. I just made mine.

This splendid organization is the only one I know that is on the scene whenever disaster strikes. They go

DEAR SEEN IT: Jules Firth, my funeral maven in Chicago, tells me you are absolutely correct. Mr. Furth, a fifth-generation funeral director, sent on the following information:

The "law of cadavers" states that an individual does not have control over his or her body after death. It is the direct legal reponsibility of the surviving spouse to decide the method of disposal. ## Trinity bible studies set at First Christian

A program of disciplined Bible study for laymen, emphasizing "knowing what the Bible says as a basis for what it means," begins at 7 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church. The course will run for approximately ten weeks and is open to any interested

The first five books of the Bible will be covered in depth, according to the Rev. Mack McCarter, pastor of First Christian.

Cited as a systematic and thorough Bible study offering a wide-ranged perspective on the whole Bible, the Trinity Bible Studies course plan looks toward the semesters, each ten weeks in length, according to Dr. Frank Warden, author of the new program.

These studies are not intended as "mere devotional or occasional material," but call for a disciplined commitment, notes Warden. The student is expected to attend weekly classes, complete daily assignments and prepare for examinations. However, the approach is neither heavy nor scholastic.

Unique visual learning aids, cartoons, and memory techniques present abstract Biblical concepts in memorable form. "The Hebrews knew how to use visual aids -- they are scattered throughout the Bible, " says Warden.

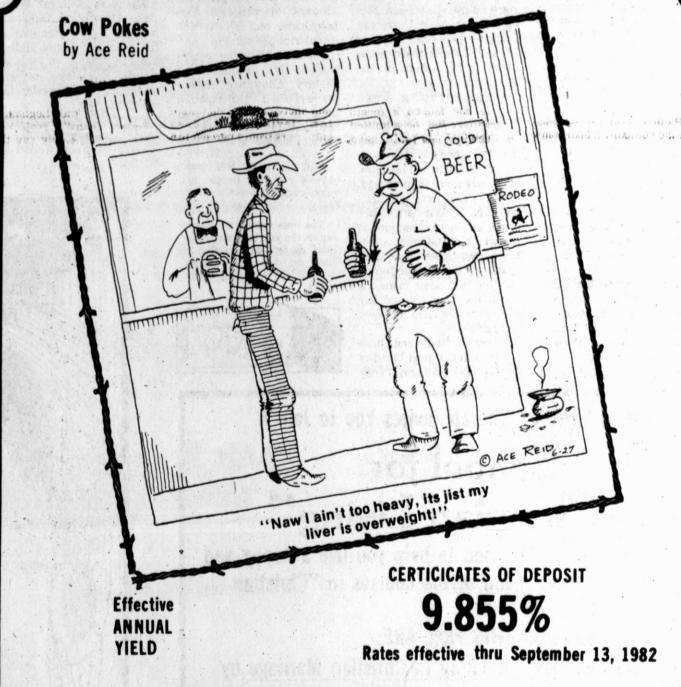

"We believe these are in good taste, and they will fix the important personalities and events in the mind"

A course registration fee of $10 may be brought to the first meeting Sunday evening. For more information, contact McCarter at First Christian Church.

A small amount of planning can add up to big savings in both time and money at the grocery store.

Before writing a shopping list, think about the store layout," says Dr. Dymple C. Cooksey, food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Texas A&M University System. "Make up a shopping list in the same order as the items are located in the store."

Avoid shopping when you're tired or hungry, Cooksey says. A tired shopper may get confused and hungry shopper will be tempted to buy more than needed.

Most stores have unit pricing which lists price per ounce or pound. Compare to see which container is a better value. Other foods may spark considerable interest, but you will save money if you follow your list and buy only what you need, Cooksey emphasizes.

"Generic foods and store brands offer a good blend of quality and economy. They are usually equal nutritionally to name brand products, but they may lack their flavor and appearance," Cooksey

On Tuesday, the first day of the session, the Senate quickly approved a proposal that would allow schools to borrow money before their property tax rolls are certified and the tax rate is set.

Superintendent Billy Reagan of the Houston Independent School District said the inability to borrow money until tax revenue comes in - much of it in late January, five months after school opens - had emerged "as a major crisis in the state of Texas."

"This could be a catastrophic situation." warned executive director Charles Matthews of the Texas Association of School Administrators prior to the Senate vote.

To borrow money for maintenance expenses primarily teachers' salaries a school district would have to first adopt a budget. The district could borrow only up to 75 percent of the previous year's income.

The proposal by Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson, D-Midland, was sent to the House on a 28-0 vote.

Although the education bill was the first measure put to a vote, Gov. Bill Clements actually called the Legislature into special session for another purpose, and that was to keep in the Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund from going broke. Reagan noted, however, in testimony before the Senate Education Committee, "We are particularly grateful this session came along."

On Tuesday, the House Committee on Employment Practices approved Speaker Bill Clayton's bill to replenish the fund set up 44 years ago to pay benefits to jobless workers. The fund recently has been drained by widespread layoffs and would run out of money before Thanksgiving at the current rate of withdrawal.

Clayton's bill would increase the fund ceiling from $325 million to $500 million and increase the maximum tax levied on Texas employers from 4 percent to 6 percent of the first $7,000 an employee makes. In addition to increasing the present minimum rate from 0.1 percent to 0.4 percent, there would be a special tax of 0.3 percent for the last quarter of 1982 and another 0.1 percent tax for the first quarter of CONCORD, Mass. (AP) - leaving them. A man dying of bone cancer . "Why would they want to has found peace at last since six children from his first marriage located him after a search that lasted nearly 25 years, his wife says.

George West "needed to free himself to find inner peace," said his wife, Emma. "If he goes tomorrow, he can go in peace."

Two children from West's first marriage, Arthur West, 36, and his sister, Helen, 38, were at his bedside Monday in Middlesex County Hospital as he celebrated his 65th birthday. Also on hand were the four children from his second marriage to Emma.

The rediscovered family has been a tonic to West, unable to lift himself from the bed he has occupied since April, his wife said.

"He's been all excited," she said. "We kept hoping some kind of miracle would get him out of the hospital. He can't walk or sit up. But his mind is fine, better than most of us."

The children lost track of their father after he separated from his first wife, Gertrude, 32 years ago in Mississippi. The couple was eventually divorced, and all but one of their children now live in Milwaukee, near their mother.

One of his sons, George "Willy" West, began searching for his father as a teenager in 1958. He spent nearly a quarter-century running classified ads and following up leads. He finally located West through a Baldwin, Mich., woman who was Emma's aunt.

George, 40, from East Moline, Ill., and another brother, James, 34, saw their father three weeks ago.

steady lady. Love won't bloom immediately Sept. 28, when the ABC hit begins its 10th season. "She'll turn off to him at first," says casting director Bobby Hoffman.

What happens is that Fonzie (Henry Winkler) is smitten by a divorced mother and follows her home. "Mom, there's a hood out here to meet you," is the way the daughter puts it.

Mom is Linda Purl, who made an impression in ABC's forgettable "Manions of America" miniseries last season. Daughter is Heather O'Rourke, the little girl in "Poltergeist."

Miss Purl, who was on the stage in Ibsen's "Doll House" recently, won the coveted role over some 400 actresses.

"We also strongly considered Mary Crosby (the woman who shot J.R.)," says Hoffman. "But she was tied

Miss Purl will definitely not play a greaser. Hoffman says oil and oil didn't mix in 1976, when Pinky Tuscadoro (Roz Kelly), the sexy motorcycle queen, didn't offer enough contrast to Fonzie. "They were competing with each other. The chemistry didn't work," he says.

For the daughter's role, Hoffman considered another Steven Spielberg sensation, Drew Barrymore, the spunky sister in "E.T." "Her agent said Miss Barrymore doesn't do episodic television," says Hoffman.

There are those in Hollywood who are surprised that the respected Miss Purl chose to get involved with weekly situation comedy. But peer recognition isn't everything. It's not easy to pass up national popularity, and "Happy Days" is one of the best stardom vehicles around.

Winkler himself was a tapped-out actor from the Yale School of Drama when he got the Fonzie role, a supporting part that he turned into cult hero with solid acting, comic timing and some classic idiosyncracies.

Buff boss didn't lie

SPORTS EDITOR

West Texas State head coach Don Davis didn't lie! Before his Buffs ever took the field this season he said his club would come out throwing the football.

"We'll throw 30 to 40 times a game," Davis said last spr-

Last Saturday night, the Buffs put the ball up 41 times against Abilene Christian University. The Wildcats weren't about to be outdone. They put the ball up over 50 times in a contest that lasted nearly 31/2 hours.

In the end it was the WT's defense which did it in as ACU came from three touchdowns back to register a 33-29 vic-

The Buffs, with Vic McGee throwing for just over 400 yards, and three TDs, rolled up a 26-7 lead in the second

ACU took advantage of some Buff mistakes, and a weakness in the defensive secondary (which was figured to be a WT soft spot prior to the start of the regular season) to pull out the win.

Just over 10,000 fans showed up at Kimbrough Stadium. Buff backers and promoters had been hoping for upwards of 15,000, but 10,000 plus wasn't bad for starters.

The two clubs put on a good show, and the fans certainly got their money's worth. If McGee can continue at the pace he set last week, he'll easily rank among the nation's total offense leaders this The Buffs hit the road this weekend, traveling to Louisiana Tech (located at Ruston, LA.). They'll stay on the road the following week, going to Lafayette, La. to meet Southwestern Louisiana. Next home game will be Sept. 25 against McNeese State.

Texas Tech, coming off its worst season (1-9-1) in 19 years, opens the 1982 campaign Saturday night in Albuquerque against the University of New Mexico.

As things turned out a year ago, Tech's 28-21 win over the Lobos was its only triumph of the season. The kanned return 39 lettermen.

Tech will open its home slate Sept. 18 when it meets the Air Force at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

Things went pretty much as expected last weekend in Disrict 3-5A circles.

Hereford, Plainview, Monterey and Tascosa posted impressive victories, while Caprock escaped with a narrow one-point verdict (7-6) against Dumas when the Demons missed a pair of short-range field goals.

Amarillo High was edged by Odessa (8-6), and Palo Duro lost a tough one at Clovis (7-0), despite holding the Wildcats to less than 100 yards total offense.

If there was a surprise last weekend, it probably was Tascosa. Not so much in the fact the Rebels beat Canyon, but by the convincing margin they did it - 17-0. The game figured to be a virtual tossup.

Another surprise of sorts came from Lubbock where the Westerners (figured to have one of their better teams in recent years) were blanked by Dunbar, 20-0.

District play begins this week with AHS traveling to Monterey and Plainview visiting Tascosa Thursday. Friday, Caprock and Palo tangle in Amarillo, while Cornondo meets Lubbock High in the Hub City. Hereford, the only team in the district with 10 scheduled games this season, is at Canyon for a non-district affair.

Hereford's first district game will be Sept. 17 when it hosts Lubbock High.

Early guesses for this week's games go to Monterey, Plainview, Palo Duro, Coronado and Hereford.

This season's darkhorse might be Tascosa.

"They really looked good against Canyon last week," Herd boss Don Cumpton noted.

"I'll tell you one thing, if Tascosa can upset Plainview this week, it's going to give them a lot of confidence, and they could be tough the rest of the way."

HOUSTON (AP) - The National Football League Players Association won't get much sympathy from University of Houston football coach Bill Yeoman, who partially blames the pros for making his job of motivating players

"If a kid can go out and sign a contract for $200,000 or more now, it's hard for me to tell him if he doesn't study hard, eat his Wheaties and get a degree, he won't amount to anything," Yeoman said.

"I'm not opposed to them making $1 million, but they should also be getting themselves in a position to put something back into society and not just making public appearances. They should be getting ready to work for the rest of their lives."

Yeoman said the get-richquick attitude of many pro athletes causes problems with motivating high school and college athletes to study and get their degrees. It sets a bad example for future generations, he said.

"We're getting to the point where people want to work six or eight years and then not hit a lick for the rest of their lives," Yeoman said. "That's just about as bad as you can get, talk about a welfare state, now that's a: welfare state. Is that what a 15-year-old is supposed to

But no wage scale based on gross revenues

Pro football owners prepared to raise ante for players

WASHINGTON (AP) -National Football League owners are prepared to raise the ante one more time in an effort to have the players' union drop its demand for a wage scale based on a fixed percentage of gross revenues and avert a strike.

Schoolboy honor roll among state's leaders ********

> By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

Port Arthur Jefferson Coach Mike Owens was admittedly nervous as he strode to the sidelines for his first game as a head coach.

But he was quickly tranquilized by pass-happy quarterback Craig Stump and catch-happy receiver Paddy Doyle. "As soon as the game started, I forgot all about my jitters," said Owens, who watched the pair lead the Jackets to a 33-21 victory over La Porte. Stump completed 21 of 35 passes for 326 yards, a school record, and had touchdown passes of 6 and 8 yards. Doyle snagged five passes for 110 yards and caught Stump's 8-yard TD pass.

For their season-opening effort, Stump and Doyle earned mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

"He had a few passes dropped or he would have completed over 400 yards in passing," Owens said of Stump. 'He is so relaxed in the pocket and picks up his secondary receivers so well. It's a trademark of a high school quarterback to look at the receiver he's going to throw to. Craig doesn't do that."

Stump is inevitably compared to former Jefferson quarterback Todd Dodge, who passed for a school record 3,135 yards in 1980.

"I think Craig is better than Dodge because he is very intelligent and he throws to more receivers," Owens said. "Todd had one favorite receiver and he threw to him all Flanker Mitch Gaspard also caught five passes for 58 yards against La Porte.

Doyle, a senior, averaged 25 yards per catch last season and he's near his average so far this season. Owens said. "He's got outstanding speed," the coach said. "We're real pleased with his performance."

While Stump and Doyle were working their magic against LaPorte, Nederland quarterback Troy Strange was engineering a 32-2 upset of Lufkin by contributing to 20 of his team's points.

Strange ran for one touchdown, passed for another, kicked three extra points, passed for a two-point conversion and kicked a 30-yard field goal. He also punted for a 38-yard average.

In other outstanding performances:

-Odessa Permian's Mike Troglin rushed 180 yards on 16 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 41-7 romp over El Paso Coronado.

-Odessa High's Howard Harris rushed 107 yards on 16 carries and scored his team's only touchdown in an 8-6 victory over Amarillo.

-Ricky Boysaw rushed 193 yards on 29 carries for Monahans in a 34-27 loss to El Paso Eastwood.

-Burton's Frank Taplin rushed 167 yards on 18 carries and scored one touchdown in a 34-6 victory over Bishop

-Johnathon Wallace led Hearne to a 29-15 upset of Navasota by rushing 87 yards on 13 carries and catching five passes for 82 yards. He scored one touchdown.

-Plainview's Randy Wiliams scored both of his team's touchdowns on a 95-yard punt return and a 57-yard run in a 14-0 victory over Lubbock Estacado.

-McAllen quarterback Chance "Bear" Crouch ran for one touchdown and kicked the winning 24-yard field goal with 19 seconds left in the game as the Bulldogs edged

-Eddie Quintana of Corpus Christi Ray rushed 141 yards on 10 carries and scored on runs of 10 and 75 yards in a 40-8 victory over Laredo Nixon.

Baker sparks Dodgers past Reds, Braves drop back with loss to Giants

Sports Writer

As Dusty Baker goes, so go the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Baker drilled a two-run homer and two-run double Tuesday night as the Dodgers downed the Cincinnati Reds 8-4 and reclaimed first place in the National League West.

The Los Angeles victory, coupled with Atlanta's 3-2 loss to the San Francisco Giants, put the Dodgers onehalf game ahead of the Braves.

"When I hit, it makes things easier," Baker said. "We hadn't scored many runs in the last 15 games, but things work right when I hit. I'm not solely responsible, but I am for a big part of it."

Baker's double keyed a five-run third inning as the Dodgers erased a 3-0 Cincinnati lead. A short time later, Baker and his Los Angeles teammates saw the Atlanta loss posted on the scoreboard.

"I glance up at the scoreboard once in awhile," Baker said. "Tonight, I was rooting for San Francisco."

7-4; Philadelphia beat Chicago, 7-5; Pittsburgh defeat New York 9-5; and San Diego edge Houston 4-3.

Tonight, all eyes will be on the scoreboard in Atlanta, where the Braves play host to Los Angeles in the opener of a crucial two-game series.

"They call the game hardball in Atlanta, and that's what we will be playing," Baker said.

The Dodgers, who beat Atlanta nine times in a row this season, plan to throw Bob Welch and Fernando Valenzuela against the Braves, who will go with veteran Phil Niekro tonight .-Giants 3, Braves 2

San Francisco won its fifth in a row and pulled within 51/2 games of the NL West lead as Chili Davis opened the game with a homer and Reggie Smith added a two-run blast in the fourth.

It was the Giants' seventh straight victory over Atlanta in little over a month. Jim Barr, 4-3, got eighth-inning help from Greg Minton, who recorded his 26th save.

Sports Writer

As the Baltimore Orioles charge towards the top of the American League East, they may find an unexpected obstacle in their way: Don Sutton.

Sutton, who won 254 games in the National League during 15 years with the Dodgers and just less than two with Houston, joined the Milwaukee Brewers last week. The trade began to pay dividends for the East leaders Tuesday night as Sutton threw a seven-hitter and struck out nine in shutting out Detroit 4-0.

The victory kept the Brewers three games in front of streaking Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles won their 10th straight game and 17th in 18 with a 7-2 decision over the New York Yankees.

Wallace forced into runoff, pledges to serve both races

Associated Press Writer

Alabama Democrats forced former Gov. George C. Wallace into a runoff with the lieutenant governor in his bid for a record fourth term, but the one-time segregationist said he was ready for a tough fight and pledged to serve "the average citizen of both races."

In other primary elections Florida Tuesday, Republicans picked five-term congressman L.A. "Skip" Bafalis, who drew campaign support from Vice President George Bush, to face Democratic Gov. Bob Graham in November.

In the Republican contest to oppose Florida's Democratic Sen. Lawton Chiles - targeted as vulnerable by the Republican National Committee — state Sen. Van Poole was forced into an Oct. 5 runoff against Palm Beach County Prosecutor David Bludworth.

Arizona Republicans nominated state Rep. Pete Dunn to oppose Democratic Sen. Dennis DeConcini, and state Senate President Leo Corbet to take on Gov. Bruce Babbitt. DeConcini had token opposition, and Babbitt's only rival was a dead man whose name stayed on the ballot and who still managed to poll 14 percent of the vote.

Connecticut's statewide primary was an unprecedented Democratic battle for the secretary of state nomination. Patricia Hendel, who claimed she was denied party backing because she is Jewish, lost to Julie Tashjian.

In Alabama, with 74 percent of 4,114 precincts Democratic primary. Wih 96 counted, Wallace had 316,138 votes or 41.2 percent; Lt. Gov. George McMillan had 232,716 votes or 30.3 percent; House Speaker Joe McCorquodale had 197,299 votes or 25.7 percent, and former Gov. James E. jority that would have avoided a runoff, he drew surprising support among blacks, who make up 25 percent of Alabama's population. Wallace led McMillan, a 38-year-old moderate who had key black endorsements, in Macon and Lowndes counties, both of which have predominantly black popula-

"I've never won an easy campaign in my life ... because I have stood against special moneyed interests of this state," Wallace told 300 cheering campaign workers as he and his wife, Lisa, made a midnight appearance at a Montgomery motel.

Wallace, first elected in 1962 as a violent foe of integration, told his supporters that "When I was governor, I was governor of the average citizen of both races," and said he would play the same role again.

"We're going to have to fight to win the runoff and we're going to have to fight to win in November," said Wallace, who is paralyzed below the waist from a 1972 assassination attempt and who has seemed to most observers to lack the fire he brought to previous campaigns.

The winner of the runoff will compete in November against Montgomery Mayor only Emory Folmar, a hard-line conservative who seeks to be Alabama's first Republican governor this century. The incumbent governor, Democrat Fob James, did not run for a second term.

In Florida, Graham easily overcame two rivals in the percent of the vote in, the incumbent had 765,681 votes or 84 percent; Fred Kuhn, a Homestead businessman, had 86,626 votes or 10 percent; and Bob Kunst, selfstyled spokesman for Florida homosexuals, had 57,138

Tours of turfgrass research plots will be conducted from 10:15 a.m. to 1 p.m. beginning at the Turfgrass Field Research Laboratory, said Dr. James Beard, Texas A&M professor of turfgrass science and researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Registration will begin at 9:45 a.m. The lab is located on Agronomy Road north of University Drive at the northwest corner of the A&M campus.

The tours will feature discussions on a host of topics, including growth regulators and antitranspirants to conserve water, new approaches to brown patch disease control, the southern mole cricket as a potential pest, winter injury prevention, growth regulators for chemical trimming, slow release nitrogen fertilizers and water use of different warm-season

Numerous discussions also will deal with new turfgrass varieties, including new types of buffalograss, bahiagrass, zoysiagrass, St. Augustinegrass, bermudagrass, and tall fescue.

A question-and-answer session and problem diagnosis clinic will begin at 3 p.m., Beard. Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service staff will be on hand to answer questions and to identify specific grass, weed, disease and insect problems.

Girl to head

COLLEGE STATION --Cynthia Orms, 17-year-old daughter of Eddie and Lorraine Orms of Marshall, will head the Texas 4-H Council during the coming year.

She is the first female chairman of the council in its 30-year history.

Other officers of the council are Lonnie Howard of Abernathy and Cleet Griffin of Lamesa, vice chairmen; Beverly Duebel of Spring Branch, secretary; and Trey Powell of Rankin, public relations officer.

Gausman's research will be in defining measuring and manipulating cellular structure and biochemical processes that influence plants' tolerance to various stress, particularly drought and temperature. Using light reflective measurements, he will also study the effect of stress on grains. "Each scientist contributes expertise on a different stage of plant stress," Burke said. "We will attack problems as a unit, not individually." Burke will study the biochemical system plants use to protect themselves from stress and look for ways to improve those systems for healthier growth. McMichael will examine relationships between plant root systems and stress. Using photography and other methods, McMichael will explore irrigated and nonirrigated root systems under field situations to evaluate stress response and investigate tolerance mechanisms.

All three scientists will work in graduate student advisory capacities within the university's Department of Plant and Soil Science.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock and Texas Tech scientists are cooperating in the USDA research.

Insurance deadline Sept. 15

September 15 is the last date on which applications will be accepted for All-Risk insurance policies on 1983 crop wheat. All-Risk Crop Insurance Field Operations Director F.W. "Ted" Crouch, Jr. says that a list of local agents who offer the insurance can be obtained by contacting the county ASCS

Crouch says that the number of applications received to date and the interest expressed by wheat growers suggests that the amount of insurance in force will be a record high.

"One major reason," Crouch notes, "is the continuing increase in crop production costs. Many wheat growers simply do not have Friona Industries gives

'Quick-fix' plan in special session?

By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - The special session called to patch up the Texas unemployment tax fund problem will most likely settle for a "quick fix" now and leave the mess for the regular session in Jan-

Meanwhile, a report from the Farmers Home Administration states almost half of their Texas farmer loan accounts are delinquent, a rate higher than FmHA officials can remember and the fourth highest in the

The report is chock full of facts indicating the state's agriculture economy is in severe financial condition.

Going Insolvent

This week's special session, meeting to keep the unemployment fund solvent, was preceded by more deceptive publicity than usual on the part of the leaders involved, perhaps because Gov. Bill Clements felt compelled to recall the Legislature at a time when political campaigns are in high

The "quick fix" solution, as House Speaker Bill Clayton dubbed the Clements plan, calls in part for Texas to borrow federal dollars to keep the fund solvent (and the employer tax rate down) until January, when the regular session meets and will have to increase the tax. Clayton was originally opposed to borrowing from the

The deception could be found in the reluctance of Clayton, Clements and others to call the fed money "a loan" in front of the press. Yet a loan it is, and the Legislature was considering where to come up with the money to pay the interest on the so-called non-loan. It would be repaid with a delayed tax hike.

Also, Texas Employment Commission officials reasserted their claim that they had warned Clements a year ago of the impending unemployment crisis. Clements denied getting a warning and asked them "to produce the letter." They then produced a letter which backed up their claims, but Clements said he found no such letter in his files. Someone is fibbing, but who?

Caught Borrowing

No public official wants to be caught borrowing money two months before Election Day to quick fix an economy which is supposed to be among the strongest in the nation.

Clements, in fact, did not want to call a special session now, but wanted to wait after the election, if even then. At first he discredited the issue as a scare tactic dreamed up by his political foes, but soon with surprising haste announced he was summoning the Legislature back to Austin. Clements and other public officials running for re-

White, Temple, Armstrong

The Democrats, meanwhile, were displaying an unusual capacity for unity for once as they seek to elevate Atty. Gen. Mark White to the Governor's Mansion.

White was accompanied by his primary foes Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple on a campaign jaunt across East Texas and the Rio Grande Valley last week. The trio flew together to demonstrate party-cohesiveness, an element they claim was missing when Clements won four years ago.

The Democrats are proud of this beginning, but Republicans dismiss it as a campaign gimmick and expect Armstrong and Temple to lose interest sometime before November.

Farm Loans

The delinquency rate on farm rates is alarming because it indicates the poor state of the agricultural economy, not faulty farmers. In fact, it should probably be said many a good farmer has already been forced out of his profession in the last few years, and the few farmers remaining are of high quality. But it's a cruel farming economy which may bust many a more family farmer before it's through.

As of June, 48 percent or 12,000 Texas farmers were delinquent on their loans. Texas has almost twice the national delinquency rate of 28 percent. The FmHA doesn't like to foreclose, but in 1975 it acquired property from farmers to pay off 118 loans. This year, by June, already 822 borrowers had either voluntarily or involuntarily surrendered property to pay off FmHA debts.

The FmHA loans are given to farmers who cannot get financial backing elsewhere. Once snubbed in times of prosperity, these loans became more popular with the t ght credit crunch.

In 1943, a bushel of wheat sold for $3.50. In August, 1982, that same bushel sold for $3.35.

Abuse of Office

Senator Mike Richards, R-Sugarland, is being aided in his effort to unseat longtime Democrat incumbent Comptroller Bob Bullock by a group of former Bullock employees who want to expose alleged abuses of that Bullock dismissed them as "Mickey Mouse and the Sewer Rats", and said they were a bunch of malcontents and rejects who couldn't make the grade in his office.

Richards said the group was not recruited to attack Bullock, but that they volunteered

Texas Oil Hurting

For years the Legislature has debated whether to increase the severance tax on oil and gas, supposedly forcing out-of-state consumers to pay the tax, and both pro and con forces have argued that Texas oil won't always be rosy.

No one will be able to oppose that point in next spring's Legislature.

Last week a Houston oil drilling firm, Hughes Tool Co., gave lay-off notices to 540 hourly employees, bringing that company's layoffs to 1,540 in the past three months.

Company officials blamed the lay-off on the oil drilling decline which has troubled the industry state-wide.

AFFORDABLE CROP INSURANCE

Recent AUSTIN disasters in farming in our district point out the need for crop insurance. Farmers are unable to control the weather, which is the major factor in determining yield, so they need to make provisions for what will happen when nature ruins their crops.

Unfortunately, insurance premiums are expensive. No producer needs to be reminded that the price of production is high, and no producer needs an added expense.

We know that since 1980 Congress has allowed the federal government to pay 30 percent of the cost of premiums for crop insurance. Now there is a new development. States also can contribute to premium payments.

We believe Texas should be the first state to start this program. We intend to draft a bill to authorize state payments for crop insurance. Under the bill we will introduce, the state will match the federal contribution for these premiums.

For example, the federal program can pay up to thirty percent of the premium cost, for coverage up to 65 percent of yield level. If Uncle Sam pays 30 percent, the state also will pay 30 percent. This means the producer only will have to pay 40 percent of his premium. We hope this will mean more farmers will buy crop insurance.

This idea has the support of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It fits in well with the new thinking in Washington these days, that states should contribute more to their own wellbeing, rather than depend on the federal government. Of course, the idea of selfsufficiency is not new to Texas.

Under the present program, the insurance will be marketed through insurance firms. We hope to keep the state and federal governments' involvement in this program to a minimum so we hope the federal government could simply bill Texas for our costs in the program. There is no use in duplicating the federal government's record keeping.

We need not tell any of you the benefits of having crop insurance. The benefit not only extends to the farmer, but also to every member of the agricultural community bankers to farmworkers.

Once again, we would like to know what you think about our plan to have the state pay for part of crop insurance premiums. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068,

Three men arrested in connection of brutal murder

NEW YORK (AP) - Police arrested three men Tuesday in connection with the slaying of a Florida nutrition professor whose body was found near the remains of a ritual meal, and Florida authorities said the considered the case "solved."

A man identified as Gary McNichol, 21, was captured after an early morning car chase through Manhattan that hit speeds up to 100 mph, police said. They said he had the car and credit cards of Howard Appledorf, who was murdered during the weekend in his condominium near the University of Florida campus Gainesville.

McNichol was charged with first-degree murder in a Florida warrant that was unsealed here Tuesday evening. The warrant said he also used the names Gary Owstroski and Mark Hamlin.

Two other suspects were arrested separately late Tuesday on Florida warrants issued in connection with the murder investigation.

Police Officer John Clifford said they were Paul Everson, 19, of Roslindale, Mass., who used the alias Paul Lutz, and a juvenile whose name was not released.

Clifford said Everson was seized at 11 p.m. at 54th Street and Third Avenue in Manhattan and that the juvenile was arrested one block south.

Police were able to arrest them with the aid of descriptions of the suspects, Clifford Authorities said they believed it was Everson and the juvenile who had left an

East Side bar after McNichol jumped in the car and led police on the early morning chase.

Gainesville, Fla., police Capt. Richard B. Ward said the three men sought in connection with the murder were involved in an attempt two weeks ago to cash a $900 check belonging to Appledorf.

Gainesville police said after the first arrest in New York that they considered the murder solved.

"I can tell you the case is solved. We know who committed the homicide act," said Ward.

Ward said he knew of no other motive for the slaying besides burglary and vengeance in the check case. Investigation showed the suspects were "passing through town" and not residents or students, he said.

The FBI's latest crime survey shows a change from the steadily rising figures of previous years. The national crime rate actually dropped slightly in 1981 along with most categories of violent and property crimes. Increases were registered in only two major categories — robberies and larceny thefts. The number of crimes - 13.3 million - was virtually unchanged from the previous year. But since the population increased during the period, the effective crime rate per population unit declined. The FBI report is compiled from reports of more than 15,000 local law

Usual tranquil summer shattered by Violent racial incidents for Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Burning crosses, firebombs and other antiimmigrant activity have shattered Sweden's usual summer tranquility, jolting a nation that prides itself on good relations between natives and immigrants.

Worried authorities have ordered special police patrols onto streets in downtown Stockholm and have set up special programs to educate Swedes and non-Swedes about immigration.

Incidents that began in late July have carried the mark of the Ku Klux Klan and the Skinheads, groups of headshaven young toughs who participated in race riots in Great Britain during the summer of 1981.

-In Segeltorp, a Stockholm suburb, a Chilean family who fled their country after the 1973 military takeover found a burning cross, symbol of the white supremacist Klan, on their front yard.

Since that incident, three more Klan-inspired crosses have been discovered in or near residential areas where many immigrants live.

While authorities say there is a KKK presence in Sweden, there is no evidence that it is linked with any U.S. Klan group. Its membership is believed to be tiny.

-In early August in Trollbecken, a group of men yelling racial slurs attacked a kiosk owned by Turkish immigrants, who hid inside as the youths smashed windows and doors with steel bars.

"We were terrified. We feared for our lives," owner Ozcan Sen told reporters.

-Later in the month in Kumla, 100 miles west of Stockholm, an immigrant fired a gun after repeated harassment, seriously wounding a 14-year-old boy.

-Other attacks have included stabbings, property damage and firebombs thrown into bars frequented by young immigrants. Police say many of the assaults were carried out by Swedish Skinheads, youngsters who shave their heads, wear heavy boots and say they "simply don't like immigrants."

Immigrants and their children, many of them Swedish citizens, make up about 1.1 million of Sweden's 8.3 million inhabitants. Most come from Finland, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, but a large number of Latin Americans arrived in the 1970s.

In a newspaper article, former Immigration Board Director Kjell Oberg accused the authorities of not taking seriously immigrant complaints of harassment.

Sen, the Turkish kiosk owner, complained that it took police two hours to arrive, but police denied it. They said two officers were dispatched to the scene within 30 minutes

"Obviously, racist violence Szarnecki said he has seen no is overshadowed in the elecevidence of increasing antition campaign by other immigrant sentiment in issues," said Immigration Sweden. Ministry spokesman Tommy

Social workers have blamed the problems on lack of jobs for large numbers of youth and few leisure activities during the summer.

But Lajos Szecsi, aHungarian and director of the Immigrants' Culture Center, argued neither unemployment nor boredom is a new phenomenon.

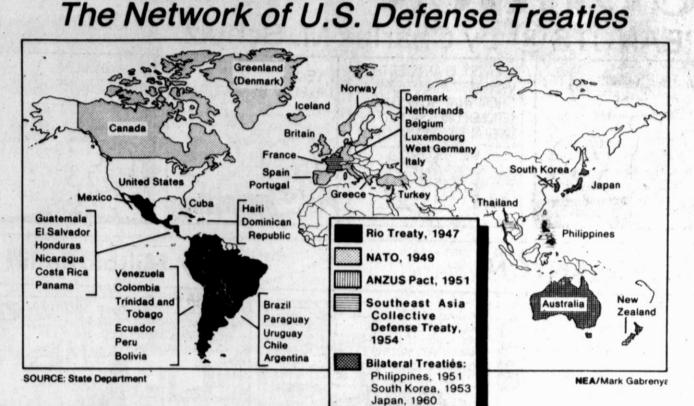

"Actually, subtle racist tendencies exist among large segments of the population, but they very seldom lead to violence," he said.

Szecsi said extensive media coverage of the attacks may have given some teen-agers ideas.

"You read about police reinforcements to curb violence, ministerial crisis meetings and so on, and that can give inspiration to some guys," Szecsi argued.

"Still, I do not think this is by any means a mass psychosis. Sweden is after all a tranquil country, and this probably will be over in a couple of weeks."

COLLECTIVE SECURITY

The United States is the focus of a worldwide collective security system embodied in four multilateral and three bilateral treaties committing the signatories to help one another resist armed aggression. Individual treaties are geographically limited - NATO to Europe, the Rio Treaty to the Western Hemisphere and ANZUS and the bilateral treaties to the Pacific. Membership in some cases overlaps. France is a member of both NATO and the Southeast Asia treaty. Australia and New Zealand are signatories of both the Southeast Asia treaty and ANZUS.

HOUSTON (AP) - A genealogist has filed a $16 million lawsuit against a California attorney who accused him of "unlawful and criminal conduct" in the investigation of Howard Hughes' estate.

William A. Jones said in his suit that statements by Los Angeles attorney Paul Freese were "false, slanderous, scandalous" and damaged his personal and professional reputation.

Freese, contacted at his office Tuesday, said he was not surprised because he had "invited" Jones to sue him.

Hughes died in April 1976 aboard an emergency medical flight from Mexico to Texas. He left no will designating the heirs to his vast fortune, worth as much as $2 billion.

Jones, who said he is a professional heirship investigator and genealogist, was hired six years ago by a group of 300 distant cousins trying to disprove the claims of three first cousins represented by Freese.

In September 1981, a jury ruled the three cousins were entitled to share the late tycoon's estate with 18 other relatives.

During that proceeding, Jones said, Freese accused him a "confidence man" and accused him of taking advantage of people who were unable to understand court proceedings.

The statement, made during a hearing in the chambers of Harris County Probate Judge Pat Gregory, was intended solely to injure Jones' personal and professional reputation, the suit said.

president Alan Henry last week recommended that Governor Clements' Water Task Force adopt a 6-point action program to solve the state's water resource problems.

IN WASHINGTON

Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite the best efforts of most politicians to ignore the issue, the Social Security system is in serious trouble that can only be resolved through two approaches, neither of which is especially popular.

Within the next year, President Reagan and members of Congress must decide between scaling back benefits to cut social Security costs or increasing taxes to produce needed

Congress must decide between scaling back benefits to cut Social Security costs or increasing taxes to produce needed revenues. There are no other viable long-term solutions.

A substantial number of politicians who are terrified of dealing forthrightly with the issue (a category that includes an inordinate number of Democrats) suggest that a general improvement in the nation's economy will automatically resolve the problems so that they can be remedied through painless tinkering. That wishful thinking, however, does not comport with the reality of the situation.

There are actually three separate Social Security trust funds, which collectively are expected to pay $156 billion to more than 36 million people (approximately one out of every seven citizens) this year.

seven citizens) this year.

The Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, the cornerstone of the Social Security system, is being so rapidly depleted by a shortfall in revenues that it may be unable to pay retirement benefits after the middle of next year.

The Hospital Insurance Trust Fund, which provides Medicare benefits, and the Disability Insurance Trust Fund are likely to become insolvent in the mid- or late 1980s. The former fund is especially endangered by the escalating cost of hospital care and associated medical services. In addition to those short-term difficulties, all three funds face a long-term crisis of major proportions beginning in 2010, when the first members of the post-World War II "baby boom" generation reach retirement age.

Fifty years ago, only 4 percent of the nation's population was 65 years of age or older. Today, that figure stands at 11 percent — and 50 years from now it is expected to surge to 20 percent. Even without that huge influx of beneficiaries, the Social

The Social Security crisis

Security system is under pressure today because advances in geriatric medicine have dramatically increased life expect-

In 1940, for example, people turning 65 lived for an average of about 13 additional years. Today, that figure has age of about 13 additional years. Today, that figure has increased to about 17 years.

In 1950, the Social Security system was financially sound because there were 16.5 workers putting money in for every beneficiary drawing funds out. But by 1980, that ratio had dropped to 3.3 employees per retiree and by 2030 it could be as low as 1.5 workers per beneficiary.

Many politicians terrified by the prospect of dealing with the required substantive structural changes in the system advocate palliative measures such as "interfund borrowing" advocate palliative measures such as "interfund borrowing" (transfers among the three funds) or financing some Social Security benefits from general revenues.

Those approaches probably are doomed to failure, however, because they rely upon robbing-Peter-to-pay-Paul schemes that circumvent the long-term fundamental reforms necessary if the Social Security system is to remain solvent.

Maintaining the current level of benefits while increasing payroll deductions to pay the escalating costs is equally unacceptable because the tax rates would rapidly become confiscatory.

The maximum Social Security tax paid by individuals has reached $2,170 this year (up from $1,975 in 1981) and is scheduled to grow throughout the current decade. If benefits are not modified, those working in 2015 might be required to pay Social Security taxes at a rate of 20 percent to 30 percent of their annual income.

Under those circumstances, it's not surprising that a nationwide survey conducted earlier this year by the Gallup Organization found that more than 63 percent of all workers questioned feared that they would receive no Social Security benefits whatever when they reached retirement age.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is there a relationship between high blood pressure, premature birth and anxiety attacks? My 27-year-old son has had elevated blood pressure for several years. He is taking medicine for it. He also has spells of anxiety in which he feels as if his chest is in a vise, and he has pain and hyperventilates.

He was two months premature and was fed with an eye dropper. As a result he missed the closeness of his mother cuddling and nursing him. He was in an oxygen incubator for three months. Otherwise today he is a healthy, well-developed male of 5 feet 10 who weighs 155 pounds. I think his anxiety is some form of stress conflict and would appreciate your comment.

DEAR READER — It will take professional counseling to determine what really is causing his anxiety. Meanwhile I wouldn't make any hasty assumptions that premature is the Your letter tells me being cause. that he has a thoughtful, sensitive mother, which should have given him more than many receive.

Anxiety is fear and it has many causes. High blood pressure has many causes, too, but an attack of anxiety can cause an elevation of blood pressure just as it can cause a pounding heart, headaches, upset stomach and hyperventilation (overbreathing). Your son's high blood pressure may be independent of his anxiety. But the presence of a health problem can cause anxiety. That is why many people who are ill also have anxie-

Everyone has anxiety to some degree, sometimes enough to be incapacitating. Read The Health Letter 19-8, That Anxious Feeling, which I am sending you. DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to know the real difference between natural and synthetic vitamins. What is in natural pills that is not in the synthetic kind? I'm sure the people who sell the natural kind advocate them because there is more profit in them. Aren't minerals in the natural ones exactly the same as in the synthetic ones? Are there benefits in the natural ones that cannot be found in the other kind?

DEAR READER - I think you have discovered the main difference by observing the difference in price. The world is made up of 105 chemical elements. When a combination of these is put together in nature to form a compound it is NO different from the same combination of elements put together in the laboratory or synthesized. A rose is a rose is a rose.

There will be no difference in the actions of two identical substances in the body just because one is found in nature and the other manufactured.

In many instances being able to synthesize things produces a purer product, which can be helpful. A case in point is Interferon: The purer products produced by genetic engineering in the laboratory are far superior to Interferon extracted from

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - My friends and I have discovered some blouses and shirts that have spots that look like grease on them. They are silky looking 100-percent polyester. We've tried all-fabric bleach, chlorine bleach and spray-on prewash products, but the spots just seem to move from one spot to another. — DENISE DEAR DENISE - This sounds very much like another problem that came up recently in this column. Fabric softener sheets used in the dryer can leave greaselike spots on clothing - and silky polyester fabrics seem to be the prime targets for these spots, according to the readers of this column. Thus, even when you successfully remove a spot like this, you may well get another one the next time you put the blouse in the dryer with a softener sheet. If you use these softeners, try leaving them out next time you wash and dry these blouses. By the way, rubbing the spots with a mild soap or detergent will usually remove them. - POLLY

Procter & Gamble sold at Fred's

CINCINNATI (AP) - It sits in the shadow of the Procter & Gamble building, a tiny, downtown grocery store that stocks every new product made by the giant manufacturing company that was built on a bar of soap.

Fred's Place is where consumers and P&G competitors alike go to sample the unfamiliar products that P&G hopes will take their place beside Ivory, Jif, Pampers and Charmin on the shelves of the nation's supermarkets.

The proprietor of the 20- by 60-foot store is Fred Cianciolo, who began selling fruit and vegetables at a sidewalk produce stand when he was 6 years old.

"When I first moved over here 14 years ago, they (P&G) approached me and wanted to know if I would handle their new items," said Cianciolo, 52, who followed his father and grandfather into the produce business.

"The same week I was moving into this bigger store, another one was going out of business. They were the originators, but they would only handle the (P&G) food items; I'll take anything that comes out - drugs, medicine ... soaps, shampoo."

A half dozen stores in the Cincinnati area test-market some P&G products, "primarily as a means for our employees to try them," said spokeswoman Kathy Gilbert. "He (Cianciolo) is not at all a test market. There just wouldn't be enough sales, market or people for a test market," she said. "It's so our employees can try our new products. Our people don't get any free samples; with 40,000 (employees) in the U.S., our shareholders would go crazy."

Cincinnati is a Procter & Gamble town, where almost 13,000 people work for the $12 billion-a-year packager of a wide range of food, soap, soft drinks and personal care products.

"Every once in a while, I accidentally find out about something I'm really not supposed to know," says Cianciolo.

"I know the next thing they're going to come out with is toothpaste in a dispenser, which sounds like a pretty neat idea," he says, showing off some of the products. "This stuff (Rejoice, a hand lotion), this is going out in about 10 months because it's not making enough money for them. "But this one here is going to be a good one - butter (flavored) Crisco."

Cianciolo began working with his grandfather when he was 6, and ran a fruit stand by himself when he was 9. His father, who is 80, still has a produce stand in Cincinnati's historic Findlay Market, and a cousin runs a wholesale produce business.

Fred's Place does about one-third of its business around noon at its delicatessen counter, and Cianciolo says many customers are attracted to his store because it is a P&G outlet. Two current big sellers - not yet generally available in other parts of the country are a bathroom tissue called Certain, and Brigade, a toilet bowl cleanser that Cianciolo predicts "is going to be a tremendous item."

"I try most of the products myself." he said. "But there are very few free samples."

After P&G decides to mass market an item, Cianciolo has to buy it like anyone else - at a supermarket.

"I usually do all right until it goes on the open market," he said. "Then it changes; they (supermarkets) sell the stuff cheaper than I can buy it, because they buy truckloads." One of the newest products at Fred's is Ariel, a laundry detergent. Another is a cake mix designed to be cooked in a microwave oven. It can produce a cake in 10 minutes, start to finish.

"I put in everything they (P&G) have got," said Cianciolo. "I usually can get all I want. The only thing they rationed me on was Pringle's," a reconstituted potato chip which sold well at Fred's Place but has not been successful nationally.

"I guess you could say that Pringle's was the baby that really started this thing. Everybody came over to get Pringle's, and then they stocked all these other items

Cianciolo recalls only one P&G bomb, a dessert -'Cold Snap, I think; that was the dog of dogs.

"It took so long to make it, something like over three hours; people were buying boxes just for souvenirs. But I wound up getting rid of all of Cianciolo doesn't have any pretentions about his role in the success or failure of P&G products he previews. Company executives sometimes ask him how things are going, but his opinion won't kill or save a product.

"I doubt it; I'm just a little, small plug in their operation," Cianciolo said. "But on Cold Snap...I might have been a little more important on that one; I never did reorder it. That one just didn't sell."

Students overcrowded

(AP) - Dear Mr. and Mrs. Streeter of Paoli, Penn., and Mr. and Mrs. Burns of Glen Ellyn, Ill.: Your sons have found a place to stay at Texas Christian University.

You can reach them at the Tuckers' house. That's TCU Chancellor William E. Tucker and his wife, Jean.

Tim Streeter, a sophomore, had been been sleeping where he could - and that included one night in his bedroll on the artificial turf of the football stadium.

Tom Burns, a senior, was ready to call it quits by last Friday - the final day to get a total tuition refund.

Neither could find a place to stay.

TCU, affiliated with the Christian Church, The Disciples of Christ, has a fall enrollment of 6,881, a 4.9 percent increase over last year and the highest in 16 years. Dormitories usually have a waiting list the first four weeks or so until school settles down and students drop out or move to apartments. But the waiting lists are longer this year.

Both young men needed some place cheap and close to campus since neither has a

Streeter, 19, had been mak-

FORT WORTH, Texas ing daily visits to the dean of students' office to see if it could help.

The Tuckers, meanwhile, had discussed the possibility of housing two students during the crunch because their own children are away at college.

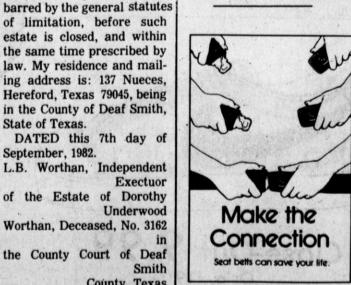

"Bill came home after talking with a vice chancellor," Mrs. Tucker said. "Housing was almost at the desperate point. Realizing our children were away, we asked ourselves, 'why don't we see if our bedrooms are needed until the dormitory situation is settled?""

A secretary in the dean of students' office, remembering that Streeter had been on the doorstep every day looking for a place to stay, tracked him down on campus to offer him the room.

"You've got to be kidding," was his incredulous reply. "I just couldn't believe it at first," Streeter said.

The fine arts pre-major said he is trying now to get a bicycle since the Tuckers live about a mile from campus.

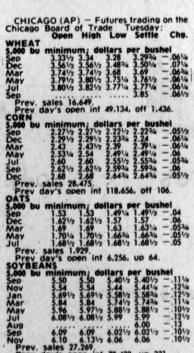

Burns, a senior marketing major, is still hopeful of finding an apartment soon. He had resigned himself to returning home, but about 8 a.m. Friday, he got the word. After a few second thoughts, he took the offer.
