Germans visit local DOE dump project

By DEBE GRAVES Staff Writer

The eyes of Texas are on Hereford, as are the eyes of the world, according to Robert Wunderlich, deputy manager of the Salt Repository Project Office, a delegation of representatives of the Federal Republic of Germany visited Hereford last week about the potential site for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository.

In his weekly briefing this morning, Wunderlich informed local citizens and dignitaries of the Friday visit from Dr. Helmut Roethemeyer and colleagues who are associated to tour the area and gain information with a similar project being conducted in West Germany.

"They were very interested in the project and we exchanged ideas with them," Wunderlich said,"They were especially impressed with Hereford and the people of the area."

While in town the group were briefed on the status of the U.S. Department of Energy project and provided an overview of their project, which is initialed PTB. The groups also discussed cooperative activities between the two projects.

During the early morning meeting today, Wunderlich also reported on the status of various aspects of the project and provided staffing information. According to his figures there are now 87 project personnel on board with Battelle continuing to lead the staffing numbers.

Fifty of the personnel are transfers, 35 are local hires and two are non-local hires. Hereford houses 29 percent of the staff with nine transfers and 16 local hires.

Thirty-five additional staff members are expected this month and 30 are expected in July. DOE expects to hire 12 people to fill vacant slots, but Battelle is expected to continue to be the largest employer of the contractors located in Hereford.

Project dollars spent in Hereford last week totaled $152,000 with the purchase of two Xerox copiers from First Printing. Total dollars committed to Hereford businesses are now $483,000, 35 percent. Amarillo has garnered $719,000 or 58 percent of dollars committed.

An additional $65,000 will be spent next week on the purchase of a third copier from First Printing and bidders for permanent Battelle office space will be notified of their status this week.

"Evaluations are underway and there is a good possibility that leases will be signed by the end of this month," Wunderlich stated.

Wunderlich briefly touched on last week's announcement that advanced payment equal to taxes (PETT) is considered to be out of bounds for the department. He said, "Our legal and financial advisors say there is no legal basis on which to advance PET

In response to recent newspaper reports concerning the state of budget requests by DOE, Wunderlich said. "My expectation is we will go up to or past October before the budget issue is resolved but we have $10 million for land acquisition in this

Concerning land acquisition, Wunderlich reported that efforts are continuing to produce readable maps for landowners. The maps will be designed to identify specific characterization activities so the landowners can easily spot which activities will occur on their land. He estimates that the maps will be ready in 10 days.

Wunderlich also mentioned the open house planned for Saturday, June 20, from 9 a.m. until noon. The offices of DOE, Parsons-Redpath, and Battelle will be open for public tours during that time. "We have requested our staff members be on hand to explain their specific job functions and we want the public to come in and see what the Department is actually doing in your neighborhood," he said.

Hospital directors nod 'concept' of leasing land for office building

By DEBE GRAVES Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors voted Tuesday to approve "in concept" arrangements to lease a portion of hospital land for the construction of physician's offices. The area under consideration for the building project is on the west end of the block the hospital occupies. The vote was 4-1 with board president Margie Ford casting the dissenting ballot.

A public hearing on the matter has been tentatively scheduled for Monday evening in the Hereford Community Center. According to Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, details of the meeting will be

WDIC to hold regular meeting

The Deaf Smith County Waste Deposit Impact Committee(WDIC) will hold a regular monthly meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with the following items on the agenda: Appointment of four residents to the Site Characterization Issues Council; consider approval for WDIC to join an "association of situs governments"; and consider a proposal to ask that DOE moderate plans for transferring contractor personnel to Hereford until improved impact assessments can be completed.

Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, WDIC's executive director, is expected to recommend that WDIC join with the Mid-Columbia Consortium of Governments in Washington, Nye County in Nevada, and Roane County in Tennessee to establish the Association Governments(ASG).

Stated purpose of the ASG would be to (1) keep the membership informed concerning all administrative and legislative actions being considered that would directly affect situes governments and the communities they represent; (2) establish the ability to coordinate actions and positions with the other situs governments for greater effectiveness in accomplishing mutual objectives: (3) convey situs governments policies and facts to federal decision-makers; and (4) disseminate educational and scientific information to its members and the public served by them.

Niedzielski-Eichner is also expected to recommend the WDIC call for the Salt Repository Program Office moderate its schedule for moving the remainder of its project personnel to the area. Among the reasons given by the WDIC director are: the socioeconomic assessment programs need to become firmly established: DOE needs to complete its assessment of impacts based on the workforce size as revised from the original Environmental Assessment; policy positions established by the WDIC on land acquisition need to be given legislative consideration, and funds need to be appropriated by Congress for mitigation of documented impacts.

confirmed later today and announced this week.

Board members also voted to replace unusable and obsolete kitchen equipment. Total expenditures for the replacements will be $5,435. A convection oven, four-burner range with oven and griddle and a deep-fat fryer will be purchased. Board member John Gililland researched the problems and made the recommendations. He said the dietary staff is to be applauded for working under difficult conditions and stated that the kitchen area of the hospital is long past-due for some attention.

Steve Nieman and B.J. Gililland were guests at the meeting. Nieman presented a cafeteria plan proposal to the board as a means to provide savings in Social Security tax employers and employees pay. Nieman recommended that savings could be invested in a Tax Sheltered Annuity program which provides elective deferral of a proportion of income. No action was taken on the presentation.

Operating report figures for the month of May show deposits totaling $413,243.62 and expenditures of $398,639. The census averaged

In other business, Bullard was authorized to continue as adapproved for an upcoming Medicare survey; and Dr. Howard Johnson reported that a Teleradiograph unit has been installed to transmit x-ray images to Amarillo for diagnosis when Hereford radiologists are unavailable.

Lewis says 3 weeks enough for budget job

AUSTIN (AP) - Although the Legislature failed to enact a budget in its 140-day regular session, House Speaker Gib Lewis says it may take only three weeks in a special session to get the job done.

"I will be optimistic and predict three weeks," Lewis told reporters as the House Appropriations Committee returned to work Tuesday on the 1988-89 budget.

Gov. Bill Clements has said he will call a special session beginning Monday to enact a budget needed before the state's fiscal year ends Aug. 31.

While Comptroller Bob Bullock has estimated that lawmakers face a $6.5 billion deficit, Lewis said he expects the problems to be quickly remedied on this try.

Higher taxes are inevitable, he

"We're going to have to have a tax bill. Let's go ahead and be realistic about it. We're going to have one," Lewis said.

The exact amount hasn't yet been determined, but Lewis said it would take a tax hike of $5 billion to $6 billion to fund the spending plans being discussed. He also predicted that Clements would be more flexible on tax questions than he was during the deadlocked regular session. "Really, I think he's going to show more flexibility...He's indicated to me that he's flexible," Lewis said. Clements' vow to veto any tax increase greater than $2.9 billion helped stall budget action during the session that ended June 1.

Asked if he still would veto a larger tax increase, Clements snapped: "We're not going to be getting into talking about vetoes or anything like that right now. It's premature."

The House speaker said he hoped the appropriations committee would have a budget bill ready within the first few days of the special session. He said he expects a tax bill "to go right along with it, sometime."

Lewis said he expects lawmakers to again consider creating a state lottery, which if approved by votes would raise an extra $624 million in 1988-89. A lottery bill was defeated

However, he said he doubts that lawmakers would offer voters the chance to decide a proposal for a %-cent sales tax increase dedicated

Reagan says no proof he knew of fund diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan says there "ain't no smoking gun" to implicate him in the diversion of Iranian arms-sale profits to Nicaraguan rebels, and he says the American people are losing interest in the Iran-Contra hearings.

He also argues that much of the witnesses' testimony to the congressional committees investigating the Iran-Contra affair "wouldn't be permitted in a courtroom."

While Reagan said Tuesday that "an awful lot of people" have tuned out the Iran-Contra story, a Justice Department official suggested the inendent counsel investigation of the affair has gotten out of hand.

On Capitol Hill, depositions showed that two aides to retired Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord, who was deeply involved in the arms sales, told investigators they shredded nts last December, but differences arose about when this hap-

Republicans. Asked about it again as he left the Capitol, Reagan said, "I have said repeatedly that I never saw any such memorandum."

In other developments: Bolton criticized Lawrence E. Walsh, the independent counsel in the Iran-Contra scandal, and independent counsels in other cases, saying the Justice Department would recommend that Reagan veto legislation to keep intact the law under which they are appointed.

These special prosecutors appointed under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act, Bolton said, "are utterly without review, utterly without supervision; nothing is too trivial for these people to investigate."

Watergate anniversary

Third-rate burglary' 15 years ago

years ago today, police officers were summoned by a guard to the modernistic Watergate Office Building next to the Potomac River. They arrested five men in business suits who were wearing surgical gloves as they rifled the files in a sixth floor office.

The story was mildly interesting to newspapers because the arrests were made in the offices of the Democratic National Committee and because the men were carrying walkie-talkies and had bugging equipment.

Richard Nixon, then running for a second term as president, was spending that day in Grand Cay, a Bahamian island owned by his friend Bob Abplanalp. He recalled in his memoirs that he returned the following day to his house in Key Biscayne and saw a small story on the front page of the Miami Herald under the headline: "Miamians Held in D.C. Try to Bug Demo Headquarters."

On Monday, Nixon's press secretary, Ron Ziegler, gave the adnistration's reaction. He called the break-in "a third-rate burglary." With that small start began the American history.

In the ensuing years, its fallout would cause the first resignation of a president, the coincidental first resignation of a vice president, and the trials and jailing of many of the top administration officials, including the attorney general, the White House chief of staff, the head of the president's domestic counsel and his White House lawyer.

The Watergate scandal went far beyond that burglary.

The White House tried to hide its role in the affair and payoffs were made to the burglars to buy their silence. The coverup efforts, it was learned late in the game, were sanctioned by Nixon himself.

Eventually 25 men were convicted. As a result of Watergate, the nation learned about a White House-led burglary of a psychiatrist's office in Beverly Hills, Calif. The reason: it might yield secrets about Daniel Ellsberg who had embarrassed the administration by leaking a secret study of the Vietnam War - the socalled Pentagon Papers.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fifteen biggest political scandal in burglars to buy their silence, the existence of enemies lists in the White House, a campaign of dirty tricks against Nixon's opponent, George McGovern; a White House taping system that recorded all presidential conversations. Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell had a phrase for these and other transgressions: He called them "the White House horrors."

John Dean, the White House counsel who was involved in the planning of a political espionage effort, tried to tell Nixon how deeply mired the White House had become, referring to "the cancer on the presidency." When it became apparent prosecutors were closing in, Dean told the story to them.

Prosecutors wanted Nixon's papers. The president fought in the courts and finally lost in the Supreme Court. A special Senate Watergate committee learned about the taping system and that set off another court battle, which Nixon lost.

A Watergate grand jury named Nixon a criminal co-conspirator but did not indict him.

Of all but gun charge

Goetz acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) - Bernhard Goetz, who sought justice down the

Goetz was acquitted of all attempted murder and assault charges Tuesday in the shooting of four young men he said tried to rob him on a subway train on Dec. 22, 1984. The jury convicted him only of a single felony count of illegally possessing the .38-caliber gun he used to shoot the

"I'm glad it's over," Goetz, who could avoid imprisonment or be jailed up to seven years, told the limousine driver who sped him from the courthouse. "The last two years have been hell."

The shooting attracted worldwide attention and sparked national debate on self-defense, crime, vigilantism and the right to carry guns. Some people saw Goetz as a near mythical thug-buster fighting back against urban crime and others as a menace for firing five rounds in a crowded train.

The case also had racial overtones, because Goetz is white and his victims - Barry Allen, Darrell Cabey, Troy Canty and James Ramseur are black.

"We didn't feel it was racial," juror Michael Axelrod said on ABC's "Nightline." "We didn't lower ourselves to that. ... To say that this is a racism thing or this is a vigilante thing is a bunch of garbage, because it just wasn't there. This was another attempted murder case."

Goetz, a 39-year-old electronics specialist, had been charged with four counts each of attempted murder, assault and illegal possession of weapons; and one count of had to release was a conversation on reckless endangerment.

The prosecution portrayed him as to the burglary. That was "the smok- an enraged man who shot with vicious intent; the defense painted a picture of a reasonable man perfectly justified in pulling the trigger under the circumstances.

> Goetz did not testify, but the jury saw his videotaped confession.

When he decided he was going to be robbed, Goetz said on the tape, "My intention was to do anything I could do to hurt them. My intention - you know, I know this sounds horrible - but my intention was to murder them, to hurt them, to make them suffer as much as possible."

He said his only problem was that he ran out of bullets.

In an impassioned argument to the jury, prosecutor Gregory Waples fired in "a blind, self-righteous, volcanic fury."

But defense lawyer Barry Slotnick said Goetz had read a potential assault and robbery situation correctly and did what he had to do.

Waples stressed that a witness had testified, and the defendant himself had admitted, that Goetz shot Cabey barrel of a pistol, has found vindica-tion in a New York City courtroom. while the young man was seated. In addition, Goetz told police that after he shot Cabey, he walked over and said to him, "You look all right; here's another."

The shooting left Cabey paralyzed from the waist down and brain damaged.

But the jury discounted Goetz's confession, said juror James Mosely. "Really, what it comes down to is that rapid succession of fire that so many people heard," Mosely said. "So many of the witnesses did not hear that fifth shot. They did not hear a shot separated from the other shots." Axelrod said Goetz was a victim of circumstance, not a cold-blooded

"He didn't get on the train looking to murder people, he didn't get on the train hunting people, he didn't approach these people in any way," Axelrod said. "They approached him and he was just sitting on that train."

Acting Justice Stephen Crane set sentencing for Sept. 4 and allowed Goetz to remain free on $50,000 bail.

After the verdict, Slotnick said his client was relieved. "He felt as if a great burden was lifted off his shoulders," the lawyer said. "All he wants to do is fade into the woodwork. This has been a terrible chapter in his life."

Waples refused to comment. His boss, District Attorney Robert Morgenthau, said it was a fair trial and declined to speculate about jurors' reasoning.

Goetz's saga began a few days before Christmas 1984 when he decided to have a drink with friends.

After he got on the No. 2 IRT downtown express at 14th Street and Seventh Avenue, one of the four 19-year-olds approached him and asked for $5.

Canty testified that Goetz replied. "I've got five for each of you." Goetz, however, said on the videotape that he responded, "You can all have it," and pulled his revolver from its quick-draw holster and fired five times.

"All hell broke loose as soon as the gun came out," Goetz said. "I hardly heard the gun firing."

Canty testified that he had merely been trying to panhandle money to play video games that they intended to pry open and rob.00 niting 1

After checking on two women he feared he had shot, Goetz, the victim called Goetz a "dark spirit" who of previous muggings, mumbled "they tried to rob me" to the train conductor and fled by jumping onto the tracks and disappearing into the dark tunnel.

Nine days later, he surrendered to police in Concord, N.H.

A rarer cause of thirst is diabetes insipidus, an abnormality of anti-diuretic hormone, or ADH, a substance that causes us to retain fluid. If the ADH system is malfunctioning, a patient may experience uncontrollable thirst, even though he is not excreting excess salt or sugar. In my experience, the most common cause of extra fluid intake is psychogenic polydipsia, an emotional addiction or habit of drinking inappropriate quantities of fluid. This has no physical cause.

People who seem to have an inordinate thirst need a complete medical examination, blood analysis and urine testing to see if they have a physical cause — such as diabetes mellitus or diabetes insipidus — for the condition. If so, appropriate treatment is in order. If not, counseling may be necessary to help patients with water-habituation to alter their practice of drinking too much fluid.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Whenever I touch metal or a light switch, I get an electric shock. Why is this?

DEAR READER - The tiny shock or spark that we all may experience when touching metal is due to static electricity. Small electrical charges build up in our bodies as we move about a room, especially one with car-peting. When we touch a grounded obect, we may experience a shock. This condition is normal; it is not harmful. It is more noticeable on cold days, when the humidity is low, because static charge tends to build up more rapidly in dry air. This is the same harmless electrical principle that al-lows children to rub balloons on a carpeted floor and then make them stick on ceilings or walls; the balloons pick up static charges that will bind them to non-metallic surfaces. If you constantly receive a shock from a particular wall plate or lighting fixture, you should have the object checked by an electrician to make sure it is properly grounded. However, plain static electricity is a common component of our environment.

Watergate anniversary

Third-rate burglary' 15 years ago

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fifteen years ago today, police officers were summoned by a guard to the modernistic Watergate Office Building next to the Potomac River. They arrested five men in business suits who were wearing surgical gloves as they rifled the files in a sixth floor office.

The story was mildly interesting to newspapers because the arrests were made in the offices of the Democratic National Committee and because the men were carrying walkie-talkies and had bugging equipment.

Richard Nixon, then running for a second term as president, was spending that day in Grand Cay, a Bahamian island owned by his friend Bob Abplanalp. He recalled in his memoirs that he returned the following day to his house in Key Biscayne and saw a small story on the front page of the Miami Herald under the headline: "Miamians Held in D.C. Try to Bug Demo Headquarters."

On Monday, Nixon's press secretary, Ron Ziegler, gave the administration's reaction. He called the break-in "a third-rate burglary." With that small start began the American history.

In the ensuing years, its fallout would cause the first resignation of a president, the coincidental first resignation of a vice president, and the trials and jailing of many of the top administration officials, including the attorney general, the White House chief of staff, the head of the president's domestic counsel and his White House lawyer.

The Watergate scandal went far beyond that burglary.

The White House tried to hide its role in the affair and payoffs were made to the burglars to buy their silence. The coverup efforts, it was learned late in the game, were sanctioned by Nixon himself.

Eventually 25 men were convicted. As a result of Watergate, the nation learned about a White House-led burglary of a psychiatrist's office in Beverly Hills, Calif. The reason: it might yield secrets about Daniel Ellsberg who had embarrassed the administration by leaking a secret study of the Vietnam War - the socalled Pentagon Papers.

Revealed were bribes paid to the biggest political scandal in burglars to buy their silence, the existence of enemies lists in the White House, a campaign of dirty tricks against Nixon's opponent, George McGovern; a White House taping system that recorded all presidential conversations.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell had a phrase for these and other transgressions: He called them "the White House horrors."

John Dean, the White House counsel who was involved in the planning of a political espionage effort, tried to tell Nixon how deeply mired the White House had become, referring to "the cancer on the presidency." When it became apparent prosecutors were closing in, Dean told the story to them.

Prosecutors wanted Nixon's papers. The president fought in the courts and finally lost in the Supreme Court. A special Senate Watergate committee learned about the taping system and that set off another court battle, which Nixon lost.

A Watergate grand jury named Nixon a criminal co-conspirator but did not indict him.

The House Judiciary Committee

held hearings to decide whether to recommend that Nixon be impeached, and voted yes on three of five charges. Then came the final blow: among the tape recordings Nixon had to release was a conversation on June 23, 1972, when he approved a plan to block an FBI investigation into the burglary. That was "the smoking gun" prosecutors had looked for Finally, Nixon told the nation he had lost his political base. He resigned as of noon on Aug. 9, 1974.

Citing unidentified sources, the Post said Mrs. North also refused to cooperate with the Iran-Contra congressional committees. Mrs. North's name surfaced in the hearings when Albert Hakim, who was involved in the Iranian arms deals, testified that he had investigated ways to set aside money for the North family.

-The depositions released by congressional investigators showed that one of Secord's assistants later changed her testimony, telling the panels in a sworn affidavit that the shredding more likely took place in November.

The two employees' original testimony, given under oath in private on April 10, appeared to conflict with the testimony given in public last month by Secord, chief operator of Iranian arms shipments and the private Contra resupply ef-

Hamilton said that if Reagan had received the North memo, "That would be the smoking gun ... and I think it would be a very serious matter for Congress."

On Tuesday, Reagan told the outof-town reporters, "I think that spotlight (on the hearings) has been growing so dim in recent days that when you get a mile and a half away from the Potomac River there are an awful lot of people that have gone back to their favorite television shows. And I don't blame them."

Of all but gun charge

Goetz acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) - Bernhard Goetz, who sought justice down the barrel of a pistol, has found vindication in a New York City courtroom.

Goetz was acquitted of all attempted murder and assault charges Tuesday in the shooting of four young men he said tried to rob him on a subway train on Dec. 22, 1984. The jury convicted him only of a single felony count of illegally possessing the .38-caliber gun he used to shoot the

The shooting attracted worldwide attention and sparked national debate on self-defense, crime, vigilantism and the right to carry guns. Some people saw Goetz as a near mythical thug-buster fighting back against urban crime and others as a menace for firing five rounds in a crowded train.

The case also had racial overtones. because Goetz is white and his victims - Barry Allen, Darrell Cabey, Troy Canty and James Ramseur are black.

"We didn't feel it was racial," juror Michael Axelrod said on ABC's "Nightline." "We didn't lower ourselves to that. ... To say that this is a racism thing or this is a vigilante thing is a bunch of garbage, because it just wasn't there. This was another attempted murder case."

Goetz, a 39-year-old electronics specialist, had been charged with four counts each of attempted murder, assault and illegal possession of weapons; and one count of reckless endangerment.

The prosecution portrayed him as an enraged man who shot with vicious intent; the defense painted a picture of a reasonable man perfectly justified in pulling the trigger under the circumstances.

Goetz did not testify, but the jury saw his videotaped confession.

When he decided he was going to be robbed, Goetz said on the tape, 'My intention was to do anything I could do to hurt them. My intention - you know, I know this sounds horrible - but my intention was to murder them, to hurt them, to make them suffer as much as possible."

He said his only problem was that he ran out of bullets.

In an impassioned argument to the jury, prosecutor Gregory Waples called Goetz a "dark spirit" who fired in "a blind, self-righteous, volcanic fury."

But defense lawyer Barry Slotnick said Goetz had read a potential assault and robbery situation correctly and did what he had to do.

Waples stressed that a witness had testified, and the defendant himself had admitted, that Goetz shot Cabey while the young man was seated. In addition, Goetz told police that after he shot Cabey, he walked over and said to him, "You look all right; here's another."

The shooting left Cabey paralyzed from the waist down and brain damaged.

But the jury discounted Goetz's confession, said juror James Mosely. "Really, what it comes down to is that rapid succession of fire that so many people heard," Mosely said. "So many of the witnesses did not hear that fifth shot. They did not hear a shot separated from the other shots.

Axelrod said Goetz was a victim of circumstance, not a cold-blooded

"He didn't get on the train looking to murder people, he didn't get on the train hunting people, he didn't approach these people in any way," Axelrod said. "They approached him and he was just sitting on that train."

Acting Justice Stephen Crane set sentencing for Sept. 4 and allowed Goetz to remain free on $50,000 bail.

After the verdict, Slotnick said his client was relieved. "He felt as if a great burden was lifted off his shoulders," the lawyer said. "All he wants to do is fade into the woodwork. This has been a terrible chapter in his life."

Waples refused to comment. His boss, District Attorney Robert Morgenthau, said it was a fair trial and declined to speculate about jurors' reasoning.

Goetz's saga began a few days before Christmas 1984 when he decided to have a drink with friends.

After he got on the No. 2 IRT downtown express at 14th Street and Seventh Avenue, one of the four 19-year-olds approached him and asked for $5.

Canty testified that Goetz replied, "I've got five for each of you." Goetz, however, said on the videotape that he responded, "You can all have it," and pulled his revolver from its quick-draw holster and fired five times.

"All hell broke loose as soon as the gun came out," Goetz said. "I hardly heard the gun firing."

Canty testified that he had merely been trying to panhandle money to play video games that they intended to pry open and rob. of niting 1

After checking on two women he feared he had shot, Goetz, the victim of previous muggings, mumbled 'they tried to rob me" to the train conductor and fled by jumping onto the tracks and disappearing into the dark tunnel:

Nine days later, he surrendered to police in Concord, N.H.

Perryton officials celebrate rise in crude oil prices

officials poured the drinks in a celebration of crude oil prices edging past $20 a barrel, and although the beverage ran dry, this town is hoping the party lasts a long time.

Members of the Perryton-Ochiltree Chamber of Commerce broke out seven cases of nonalcoholic champagne that had been on ice since February and hit the streets spreading the revelry to businesses and the streets.

"We all know the price of oil has been down, and the price of oil is very important to our economy. Oil is down, we've been down," said Bruce Jones, chamber president. "Now oil is back, our community is back and Texas is back." The celebration began Tuesday afternoon with a party in the chamber building. Afterwards local officials donned ceremonial red jackets and stopped motorists on U.S. 83, the main thoroughfare. Officials filled paper cups until the drinks ran out at about 4 p.m.

"It was really funny," said Becky Cunningham, "We stopped some people from Arkansas. I can just see them talking about how crazy we Texans are."

"Our main objectives were to make people aware that the price of oil was on the rise and to lift their spirits," said Nick Long, chairman of the Perryton Pardners civic group. "Money is tight and people are depressed. Believe me, things have been tough here."

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I drink about two gallons of liquid a day and take three quarts of liquid to bed, which I have to drink before I can get to sleep.

Why am I so thirsty? DEAR READER thirst center is controlled, in part, by the concentration of water in body fluids. For example, people with excessive salt or sugar in their bodies will excrete these substances into the urine. Because salt and sugar draw water from the system, some dehydration will result and the person will feel thirsty, in order to replace the water that is used to excrete the salt or sugar. This is why diabetics are often thirsty until the disease can be brought under control.

Is "Dad" concerned about his dietary cholesterol intake? The cholesterol content in the 3-ounce cooked serving is only 76 milligrams, which equals about 25 percent of the daily amount allowed by the American Heart Association-the same amount that is in a lean, broiled 3-ounce piece of chicken. Ounce for ounce, beef and chicken have the same amount of cholesterol as documented in USDA's Food Composition Handbooks.

Many consumers believe that beef's fat is all saturated. If your "Dad" is concerned about his fat intake, share with him that less than half of the fat in beef is saturatedand that the fat in a 3-ounce serving of lean, trimmed beef is 8.7 grams. How much is 8.7 grams? Each gram of fat is equal to 9 calories which means that the serving of beef provides only 13 percent of the amount allowed by the American Heart Association.

Farm values apparently bottoming out

WASHINGTON (AP) - After five years of brutal decline, the nation's farmland values apparently are bottoming out, the Agriculture Department says.

But officials are cautious about making predictions, indicating that no boom is in sight and that what happens through 1988 also depends of a host of economic factors including commodity prices and federal pro-

"A May 1 survey of rural appraisers and several surveys by Federal Reserve banks in April noted a leveling in values in areas where values were still falling late last year," the department's Economic Research Service said in a report Tuesday.

Bill Heneberry, the principal author, said the number of farmland transfers also has started to rise for the first time since the early 1980s. Although voluntary sales and estate sales account for most of the transfers, foreclosures made up an estimated 26 percent of the total, up, interview that two months ago that from 22 percent last year, he said. "We think that 26 percent is a conservative figure, that it probably does not include some farms where it was a voluntary (sale) to avoid foreclosure," Heneberry said. Other farmers continue to make up the largest category of farmland buyers, he said, accounting for 56 percent of the purchases so far this year, compared with 57 percent in 1986 and 63 percent in 1985.

No new dollar figures were available, but Heneberry noted in an the agency published national and state figures showing the average value of U.S. farmland and buildings on Feb. 1 was at a 19-year low of $548 per acre, down from $595 a year earlier.

Farmland prices rose to a peak of $823 per acre in 1982 before starting their five-year slide.

"Optimism about the land market stems from expectations of another year of high net cash income and low interest rates," the report said. "Net cash income (the difference between cash receipts and expenses) is expected to rise mainly because of reduced expenditures and higher government payments, which will offset lower commodity receipts."

The report added: "Higher net cash income and reduced interest rates on farm mortgages will enable more farmers to finance land purchases. Also, high rent-to-value ratios may attract non-farm investors into the farm real estate market."

But the agency cautioned that a large supply of farmland on the market could put downward pressure on values. Although prices were maintained on property taken over by the Farm Credit System earlier this year when borrowers couldn't repay loans, millions of acres remain in lenders' inventories and more is being added, the report

"In addition, downward pressure on values could intensify if price supports or other government programs are cut back, because much of the

Price protection, market helping cotton industry move into good year

CONROE, Texas (AP) -Domestic price protection, as well as more competitive prices for U.S. products overseas, is helping the domestic cotton industry move toward its second-best year in the last two decades, according to a top industry official.

"The intrinsic good qualities of cotton are still unmatched in spite of the billions of dollars spent on research by man-made fibers," said Earl W. Sears, executive vice president of the National Cotton Council.

Domestic mill consumption during the first was up 39 percent from a year ago, while cotton's share of the fiber market has risen three percentage points in the last two years, he

"Cotton is on the offense as never before. I am so excited," he told the annual National Cotton Outlook Conference on Tuesday.

The U.S. cotton industry also has done well overseas as prices have become competitive in world markets.

"Foreign cotton acreage and production have declined for the second consecutive year," Sears said. "At the same time, world cotton consumption today is growing at an accelerated rate of more than 2 million bales a year. This combination of events has made our exports skyrocket."

Sears credited some of the cotton resurgence to the 1985 Farm Act that guaranteed price protection for cotton growers. "I can't say enough about how well the cotton program has worked for our commodity," he said. "What's more, if this five-year program is left intact, some economists project that cotton production over this period will increse by a total of 26 million bales.'

The future also is promising, he said, with commitments for exports already strong for next year.

Sears said an advertising campaign, "Grown and Made in the USA,"is contributing to the industry

"The campaign was initiated to right the wrongs caused to our industry and its suppliers by the flood of foreign cotton pouring into this country in the form of cotton textiles and apparel," he said.

At the same, the industry has signed advertising agreements in Japan and Korea and similar pacts with Italy, France and the United Kingdom are nearly complete. Sears cautioned, however, that the industry must continue to strive for efficiency, since government subsidies are threatened by moves to reduce the national budget deficit.

"Although we are already greatly reducing our dependence on government, that help is still substantial," he said, although warning that cotton growers can expect some federal money cuts.

the political menu to deal with it is sliced thin," he said.

L. Sykes Martin, president of The Cotton Foundation, a research and education foundation for the cotton industry, said research must continue if cotton growers are to withstand competition from foreign producers and synthetic fiber manufac-

"The U.S. cotton industry still feels and will continue to feel the strong challenge of foreign and man-made fibers," he said. "We're well aware the well of technology must be fed constantly.'

New permit "There is only so much money and system completed WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has adopted final rules for a permit system covering importation, interstate shipment and release of genetically engineered organisms that could be harmful to plants.

The rules, which went into effect Tuesday, allow the issuance of a single, limited permit, valid for one year, to an individual moving one or more regulated articles between facilities designed to contain the organisms and prevent their release.

With five-hitter versus Reds

DeShaies leads Astros to win

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Astros pitching staff is making a strong pitch to become the best pitching staff in the National League.

Jim Deshaies pitched a five-hitter Tuesday night as the the Astros defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1. It was their second straight victory over the National League West Leaders and their seventh win in the last eight games.

Deshaies' performance followed Monday night's shutout of the Reds by Mike Scott. Danny Darwin two-hit the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday.

"Any time you limit a team like the Reds to one run in two games you've got some outstanding pitching," said Astros manager Hal Lanier.

The only Reds run came in the first inning when leadoff hitter Kal Daniels doubled and later scored when Deshaies, 6-2, sandwiched a balk between strikeouts of Dave Parker and Buddy Bell.

The Astros countered in the bottom of the first, loading the bases on

"We had him (Deshaies) on the ropes in the first," said Reds manager Pete Rose. "But we let him off the hook. Give him credit though, he pitched a great game."

Houston got the only other run they needed in the third on Glenn Davis' 11th homer of the year, a powerful line drive deep in the left field seats. "I don't know if you can hit the ball any farther," Lanier said. Davis singled in a run in the fifth and the Astros added one insurance run in the sixth.

In the last eight games, the Houston staff has recorded three shutouts and four one-run games. Add to that reliever Dave Smith, who recorded his 13th save in as many attempts while extending his seasonlong scoreless inning streak to 26 2-3.

"Dave has been perfect all year. He's sure one of the best relievers in the game," said Lanier.

In the last three games, the staff has recorded 33 strikeouts and leads the majors on the year with 504 strikeouts in 561.2 innings. "I don't think anybody scores a lot of runs against them," said Rose. "Part of it is the ballpark and the rest their pitching."

Losing pitcher Ted Power, 5-3, has an idea what makes the Astros pitching staff so tough at home.

"The lighting makes it hard for hitters and they do have great pitching," Power said.

The Reds have lost six of their last eight games and must face Nolan Ryan and the Astros tonight.

Sampson said to have offer better than Olajuwon

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson wants free agent Ralph Sampson in a Rockets uniform next season and thinks he's already offered the 7-foot-4 forward a contract that exceeds the one signed by teammate Akeem Olajuwon.

"The difference in the contracts is the difference in the way you treat money - annuities, up front interest on money loaned."

Patterson said Tuesday. "The difference is in the interpretation of the contract. I'd say his (Sampson) contract exceeds Akeem's in the way we interpreted

"But that's about as specific as I want to get because we're still negotiating in good faith and I want to keep it that way."

After struggling through an injuryplagued season, Sampson announced last week he had reached an impasse in contract negotiations and would seek his value on the free agent

Sampson said the Rockets had failed in a pledge to match Olajuwon's contract.

Patterson, breaking a week-long silence on the subject of Sampson's contract, said Sampson had been judged too harshly by others for his 1987-88 performance.

Sampson played in 43 games last season, averaging 15.6 points and 8.6 rebounds per game. He returned after knee surgery to help the Rockets advance to the second round of the NBA playoffs.

Patterson said his evaluation of Sampson had not changed because of the past season.

'One year ago, everyone was for Ralph," Patterson said. "This year throughout the country, because of things beyond his control, a lot of people would make an immediate short term evaluation," Patterson

"But from our standpoint, we're very interested in Ralph and want him with us next year. I'd be just as guilty as I'm accusing someone else of being if I tried to evaluate him on this year.

"I evaluate him as a player that is continuing to grow and mature."

Sampson is one of four Rockets players who are free agents and still unsigned. Robert Reid, Rodney Mc-Cray and Allen Leavell also must be

Guzman hurls 71/3 hitless innings

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Jose Guzman pitched so well, it made him sick. Literally.

Guzman pitched 7 1-3 hitless innings in the Texas Rangers' 5-4 victory over the California Angels Tuesday night, and kept getting ill in the dugout runway between innings.

"I think it was something he ate," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, but Guzman himself hinted the nausea may have also been prompted by nerves.

"I thought about the no-hitter since the third inning," said Guzman, who eventually lost his bid on Doug DeCinces' sharp opposite-field double. "I had real good stuff, and kept throwing pitches on the outside corner. I had a real good curve.

"After the hit, I was fine. I just wanted the team to win. I would have loved to finish the game and get a nohitter, but the team winning was the most important thing."

Guzman, 5-5, was unable to get another out after the double by DeCinces, who scored on Jack Howell's single before another single by Dick Schofield brought on lefthander Mitch Williams.

Williams ended the eighth with strikeouts of pinch-hitter George Hendrick and Gary Pettis, then gave way to Dale Mohorcic after walking both Mark McLemore and Devon White to start the ninth.

Mohorcic earned his eighth save, but not before one run scored as Brian Downing bounced into a force and two more on DeCinces' eighth "That was a very exciting finish. I was sweating it out," said Guzman. "I wanted to at least win this game."

"There was a lot of excitement throughout the game," said Valentine. "That's the way we play them. People get their money's worth when they come watch the Rangers."

Guzman's performance boosted the Rangers into fifth place in the American League West, percentage points ahead of the defending champion Angels.

"In this division, whoever's pitching staff picks up will have a great advantage," said Pete O'Brien, who keyed both of the Rangers' scoring rallies against left-hander John Candelaria, 5-3.

Pete Incaviglia and O'Brien singled in the second and advanced a base on Mike Stanley's fly to deep right before scoring when Steve Buechele's grounder to third went by DeCinces for an error.

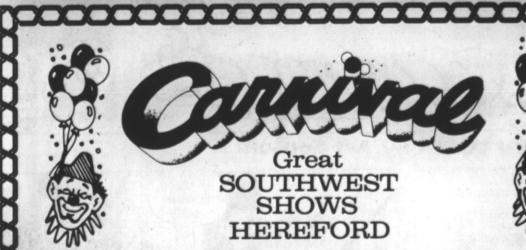

Singles by O'Brien and Stanley and a walk to Oddibe McDowell loaded the bases in the sixth, setting up Buechele's sacrifice fly and Jerry Browne's two-run triple.

Hopefuls wait on sidelines

NEW YORK (AP) - Rebecca Arthur plays Mary Anne, the wideeyed, ditzy blond who trades goo-goo eyes with Balki Bartokomos on "Perfect Strangers." She gave up a budding career as a private investigator to become an actress.

Scott Valentine plays Nick, Mallory's monosyllabic boyfriend on "Family Ties." He was hit by a truck in New York City six years ago and has an artificial hip that leaves him with a slight limp. He's already shot a pilot for a possible spinoff from "Family Ties."

Arthur and Valentine are among those taken-for-granted players who populate the background on popular network shows. Both are hoping to parlay their small but choice roles into bigger and better things.

NBC has been talking spinoff with Valentine since last year, after he completed his first season on "Family Ties" in the recurring role of Nick, a Rambo-esque conceptual artist whose potential for joining the family as a son-in-law is a recurring nightmare for the Keaton family.

A pilot, "All the Way Home," was completed, but Herschel Bernardi, who was to have played Nick's grandfather, died.

Valentine, visiting here recently, was hoping to try again with a new premise in which Nick moves back to New York and goes to work in an East Village bookstore run by a wealthy, intellectual older woman.

"Nick moves back to New York to further his art career," Valentine said. "Which I always thought was interesting, a guy with aspirations in art going to Columbus, Ohio (where the fictional Keatons live). That was a little obscure to me.'

Valentine said he was headed back to Los Angeles to say yea or nay on the casting of the pilot, a decision that could make or break some struggling colleague's career.

"I'm glad I'm on this side of the table now instead of that side of the table," said Valentine, married and the father of a 1-year-old son.

A New York native, Valentine worked on stage before moving to Los Angeles two years ago. He said he was amazed at the effect "Family Ties" has had on his career.

NBA games most watched ever

NEW YORK (AP) - The Lakers and the Celtics elbowed their way into the top 10 in the Nielsen rankings, but NBC extended its winning streak to a record 20 weeks on the strength of reruns of situation comedies.

CBS broadcast games four and five of the six-game NBA championship series in prime time on Tuesday and Thursday last week. The games' identical rating of 18.9 gave them their own title, as most-watched pro basketball games ever.

The seventh game of the 1984 series between the Los Angeles Lakers and the Boston Celtics got a rating of 19.3, but a 1987 rating point represents more viewers.

Hallway seats bring protests

AUSTIN (AP) - The latest controversy in the Travis County seat involves the county's seats. Some people say they are too high, and one of the judges who approved them now wishes he had taken a test sit first.

It seems that jurors, witnesses and other people in the hallway outside the district courtrooms on the third floor of the Travis County Courthouse Annex didn't have any place

The problem was compounded by narrow hallways.

Benches would have taken up too much space and could have constituted a fire hazard, officials said.

So Travis County paid about $3,500 to install rows of narrow, flip-down seats that stand close to the wall.

John Sutton, director of the county's general services department, said the new seats "seem to be the state of the art" in hallway furnishings. They're narrow and durable, he says.

The problem is that the seats are

TEST MAY SAVE LIVES

NEW YORK (AP) — A new ultrasound test that detects prostate cancer in its early stages could save many of the 25,000 men who die from the cancer yearly, says Dr. Fred Lee, a radiologist at St. Joseph Mercey Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich.

AIMplus magazine reports the test can detect tumors when they are relatively small and still curable as compared to the current tests of detecting the tumors through rectal examination when they tend to be large and often incurable.

Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of death for men over 55 (lung cancer is first). Almost 30 percent of men over 50 and 50 percent of men over 70 develop the illness.

too high for people with short legs.

"I'm one of the unfortunate group of people who is not blessed with long legs," said State District Judge Jon Wisser.

"My toes don't touch the ground. Fortunately, my seat behind the bench in the courtroom is a little closer to the ground," Wisser said. Sutton said the benches were ordered only after the judges said they would do. Judge Bob Perkins, one of those who gave approval to the purchase, says he wishes he had given the new seats a "test sit" before giving his are similar to seats in front of the counter in the Travis County Tax Assessor-Collector's office.

Cecelia Burke, tax assessorcollector, said she thinks of them more as "perches" than chairs. She said she has received several thankyou notes from people who have used them while standing in line to do business in her office. Sutton said chairs of that type are used around the world.

The judges say the real test is whether anyone will use the ones outside their courtrooms.

"I've seen people attempt to sit on one of these things and fool with them for a while and then finally give up," Wisser said. "They don't do much good if nobody wants to sit in

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the letter signed, "Lucille from St. Louis." She wrote about sibling rivalry.

I am a 20-year-old woman with an older brother. We have quarreled since I was 12. Dad sent me a copy of that column and wrote across the top, "Please read this and think about it." I did, and it made me yearn for the days when my brother and I had such good times together. I felt ashamed that I hadn't done anything over the years to make things better.

One week later I received a letter from my brother saying that he, too, had received the same column from Dad. He said he was willing to put forth the effort to rebuild that great relationship and he hoped I would meet him halfway

I never dreamed that a letter in Ann Landers' column could make us realize how stubborn and foolish we had been. My brother's letter arrived on my birthday and it was the best birthday present I have ever received. I want to say, "Thank you, Lucille in St. Louis. Thank you, Dad. And thank you, Ann Landers."-Wendy in Baton Rouge

DEAR WENDY: And I want to say, thank you for letting me know. I hope all brothers and sisters out there who have been holding grudges will mail this column to his or her sibling and write across the top, "How about it?"

I'd love some feedback on the reunions. There are bound to be dozensand that would make me very happy. Read on:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you wrote about a woman who became upset because her husband refused to bless her when she sneezed. She said it was a custom in her family and they all believe it protected them from evil.

I read somewhere that in the Middle Ages people believed that when a person sneezed his soul flew out of his nose and the devil would grab it unless someone said "God bless you" immediately.

If you print this, please don't use my name. My family already thinks I'm plenty weird.-No Name in Rochester, N.Y.

DEAR ROCH: Weird? Not really.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My grandmother taught us kids to always say "God bless you" when someone sneezes. She said that at that very second the person's heart stops beating and he is actually close to death. If no one blesses him he is without protection and may die.

Although my good sense tells me this is not true, I am compelled to say "God bless you" to everyone who sneezes, whether I know them or not. I even bless dogs when they sneeze. Would you say I am a little cuckoo?-T in the Big D

DEAR BIG D: Cuckoo, no. Obviously your grandmother's admonition had a powerful influence on you and you've become compulsive about it. I think it's rather sweet. Not

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I returned from a visit to France and Germany recently and was struck by the large numbers of dogs and cats I saw there. Has anyone ever done a census on the number of pets in the United States?-J.V. Anchorage

DEAR ANC: An actual census? I don't know, but according to Time magazine (March 30) 52 million dogs reside in U.S. homes. Also 56 million cats, 45 million birds, 250 million fish and 125 million other assorted creatures.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, downers, speed? Send for Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
