HOW DOW YOU think Deaf Smith County voters will pick the Presidential candidates in the May 1 primary? Since it's the first preference voting for Texas, we thought it might be interesting to take a "sampling" of some voters here.

We launched a quick "straw vote" survey this week, going to civic clubs in order to get a larger number of votes. We'll have the results of our straw vote in Sunday's paper.

ECONOMIST ARNOLD Paulson says we are living in the dark ages as far as economic knowledge is concerned. One reason, he claims, is that there is no book available on the Private Enterprise system to explain how it works and how it must operate to be successful.

"I have searched libraries the country over trying to find one single book or publication that deals with the honest success of Private Enterprise. There are no books available on the subject. Some partly cover the story, but not one has been written that explains the how and why of Private Enterprise," states Paulson.

Getting Checked Over

Amarillo pediatrician Dr. Maurice Dyer examines a young patient during last year's Oasis Shrine Club children's clinic. Dr. Dyer will join numerous other physicians from throughout the state Saturday as they gather in Hereford to participate in this year's clinic. A large number of youngsters are expected to be on hand for the day-long project, which will be held at the Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

Doctors To Converge For Annual Clinic

Medical doctors from across the state will be in Hereford Saturday for the 20th annual Hereford Oasis Shrine Club Children's Clinic, which will be held at the Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

DR. A.T. MIMS of the Hereford clinic is directing the day-long project, which is held each year to determine any medical deficiencies in children who might not ordinarily be able to pay for complete examinations.

Activities will get underway Saturday at 6:30 a.m. as Shrine Nobles and their wives register at the Civic Club Center.

Children will begin registering at 8 a.m. at the Southwestern Public Service Co. building at 4th and Lee.

All children are required to pre-register with their own doctors, prior to registering for Saturday's clinic. Forms required for pre-registration are available from private physicians, from Dr. Mims, or from any Shriner.

AT NOON, CLINIC participants will move to the Hereford High School cafeteria for a meal, which will be catered by the Hereford Noon Lions Club.

After lunch, clinic activities will be resumed, and following the close of the clinic, doctors and Shrine Nobles will meet at the Hereford Country Club where they will receive reports on the children examined.

Another large turnout is expected at this year's clinic. Last year, a total of 106 children registered and 103 were examined.

Physicians who will be in Hereford to participate in the clinic include: Dr. James E. Loveless of Lubbock and Dr. William McKay of Amarillo, orthopedics; Dr. Don Ryan, Denton, speech and hearing; Dr. Jerry Miller, Dallas, radiology; Dr. Robert Leachman, Houston, cardiology; Dr. Maurice Dyer, Amarillo, pediatrics; Dr. J. Franklin Howell, Amarillo, aphthamology; Dr. Willard Sellman, Dallas, plastic surgery; Dr. Norman Wright, Amarillo, otolaryngology; Dr. Jerold Gromley, Amarillo, oral surgery; and Dr. Louis A. Finney, Amarillo, neurology.

Shriners, doctors, clinic personnel and their spouses will conclude the day with dinner and dancing at the Country Club following the report session.

Hospital Board Reviews Finances, Elects Officers

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

The same set of officers were re-elected for the coming year, a six-months financial report was discussed at length and efforts to obtain a new doctor for Hereford were considered by the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board of directors during a monthly meeting Tuesday morning at the hospital.

On a motion by board member Tommy Carnahan, L.J. Straffuss retained his position as hospital district president and other officers were voted in for another term. They include Hap Cavness as secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Wanda Hoover as vice president. The vote was unanimous.

ORIGINALLY, CARNAHAN had nominated Mrs. Hoover as president, but restated his motion to accept the president slate of officers by acclamation after discussion arose concerning the favorable leadership of Straffuss, Cavness and Mrs. Hoover.

Ron Welty, hospital administrator, told the board members that total expenses of the hospital ran $25,297 above original forecasts for the last six months due primarily to supplies and operation of plant facilities. With surplus revenues taken into account, the net operating margin for finances ran $21,719 less than anticipated.

He explained that the forecast was only an estimate of revenues and expenses and not as critical as it might appear.

The condensed operating statement for the six months period (Oct. 1, 1975-March 31, 1976) showed that net patient revenues amounted to $755,388 and other revenues totaled $255,102. The expenses for the period were $815,909 or $27,871 more than expected.

The majority of expense increases consisted of supply purchases and plant operations. Welty said that prices of supplies were climbing daily due to inflation and the budget hadn't accounted for the total inflation rise.

Cavness pointed out that utilities were a factor attributing to much of the increased expenses. Welty said electrical bills had increased about 36 per cent and that gas bills were rising about as much.

"We are looking into in each department to see where we can cut costs equal to the amount of increased expenses," Welty said. "We're trying to find out which supplies might be decreased. I will have some good ideas to present to the finance committee at their next meeting."

CONCERNING MARCH operations, the administrator said net revenues amounted to $154,070 and net expenses were $126,249. The net operating margin was $18,627.

He noted that revenues from both patients and taxes were running more than forecasts due to seasonal conditions such as payments of taxes being due.

Rash Of Break-Ins Occur Over Weekend

Thieves made the rounds at local businesses over the weekend, but apparently contented themselves with ransacking desks as only a few dollars in change was taken in the break-ins.

AN ATTEMPTED BURGLARY was reported at Mr. Burger West on West Park Ave. Monday. Thieves apparently tried to pry the back door of the firm open with a piece of iron, but failed in their efforts.

Six sacks of seed were split open at WAC Seed Inc. Monday night. Access to the firm was gained by prying open a door.

Burglars struck at Continental Grain Co. Sunday, breaking out the glass in an office door to gain entry. Some change was taken in that incident.

A number of pennies were taken from a desk in a break-in at Borton Inc. Sunday, and thieves also broke into the offices of Hereford Grain Corp., but apparently took nothing.

ALL THE DESKS at the offices of Pitman Industries were gone through by thieves who also broke into that firm Sunday, but again, apparently nothing was taken.

Officers are currently investigating the theft of $600 in cash which was taken from the Elaine Northcutt residence at No. 72, Bluewater Gardens. The theft occurred last Thursday.

Harry Richard McCauley, 70, of 307 East 5th was charged in the incident.

ACCORDING TO POLICE REPORTS OFFICER Roger Scott attempted to stop a vehicle after he observed it run a red light. He followed the vehicle to a driveway at 307 East 5th and attempted to serve a traffic citation, prior to being struck with his own clipboard.

Jeanette Rogers and Ramona Boldon, both employees at Brown, Graham & Co. reported the theft of their purses from the firm's office at 211 Park Ave. last Thursday.

Thieves dealt a blow to Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. late last week when they broke into the concession stand at the ballpark located at 15th and Ave. H. A number of baseballs and bats were stolen in the incident.

Mrs. Vernon Lewis of Hereford also reported damage to the windshield of her car late last week. Vandals shot holes in the windshield of the vehicle with a BB gun while the car was parked at the Southwestern Public Service Co. office.

City Commission Passes Gas Resolution

City Secretary Appointed; Bids Accepted For Truck, Water Well

The Hereford City Commission accepted a bid on a water well and a truck appointed a new city secretary, elected a mayor pro-tem, and passed two resolutions concerning rising gas prices and the city tax rolls during a regular meeting Monday night at City Hall.

FRANK BARRETT, who was re-elected to another term in office this month, was unanimously elected as the mayor pro-tem. He had been serving in that capacity already and the commissioners felt there was no need in a change.

Also, the city governmental body appointed Bonna H. Drake as the new city secretary succeeding Mary Watts, who had served in the job for about 20 years. She announced her resignation effective June 1, when the new city secretary will take over.

The City Commission decided to award the bid for a street department truck to Cowboy Chevrolet for the price of $8,585.24. It was the lowest amount submitted on bids.

Other bidders included John Orsborn Buick-Pontiac, which bid $8,695.54 and Orval Watson Ford, which turned in a bid of $8,961.61. The reason stated for the higher Ford bid was an increase in Ford's wholesale prices which went into effect last week. Price hikes are expected on certain vehicles of other major manufacturers in the near future.

The bid for a water well to be built for the Mormon Street water tower went to B&R Welding of Hereford for the price of $35,793. It was the lower of the two bids submitted. Wall and Sons Drilling of Hereford turned in the other bid.

CITY ATTORNEY EARNEST Langley explained that even though the bids did not allow for alternate figures for a submersible pump, law provides for further negotiations if a pump is deemed necessary in the future.

A resolution presented by Langley urges the Texas legislature to meet in special session at the request of Governor Dolph Briscoe to pass a law to halt spiraling gas prices. It was drawn up by attorney John Aiken, who was able to get the Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court to pass a similar resolution this month.

The commissioners felt that while they didn't think any action would result from a special session, it was in the city's interest to pass the resolution since the city is located in a rural area.

The second resolution dealt with the city's tax roll. It will correct any duplications from double assessments. This is routinely passed each year since the taxing procedures don't always indicate whether pieces of property such as cars are counted twice.

FOLLOWING REGULAR BUSINESS, the commissioners convened in executive session (closed) to discuss the legal suit filed by Amarillo electrician Ray Richie against nine city officials for not issuing him a master electrician's license. He refused to take a test to renew the license. It had expired four years previously due to nonpayment of fees.

Richie's attorney, Robin Green, appeared with tape recorder in hand to witness any proceedings for his client, but he made no comments before the commissioners.

Dudley Bayne, city manager, said no action resulted from the closed session which is allowed by law for any discussions with an attorney on pending litigation. The city had 20 days from the time the suit was filed last week to file an answer with the district court in Amarillo.

The suit asks for $25,000 in damages and issuance of a license to Richie.

Romaldo Garcia of the newly reorganized American GI Forum in Hereford appeared to explain the function of the group. It is for veterans to promote information concerning veterans' benefits and to conduct discussions on current government issues and politics.

Joe Leal is president of the organization.

The City Commission is composed of Mayor Jim Sears, Barrett, Paul Abalos, Stan Fry, and Emory Brownlow.

Hereford 3rd baseman Mike Dudding takes a throw from catcher Mike Artho and tags out a Lubbock Westerner baserunner in the opener of Tuesday afternoon's twinbill at Whiteface Field. The Herd put up a good fight but lost both games to Lubbock High, 4-0 and 7-2. The doubleheader ended first half play in District 4-4A with Hereford finishing 3rd with a 3-5 mark and Lubbock coming out on top with an 8-0 record. The Whitefaces will travel to Plainview Saturday to open the 2nd half against the Bulldogs.

Bentsen Delegates Here

Visiting in Hereford Wednesday were the three area candidates as delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The three are listed as delegates for U.S. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen on the May 1 Demo primary ballot. Left to right are James Lovell of Dumas, Jeanelle Spears of Levelland, and State Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo. Each candidate lives in a different section of the 31st Senatorial District. The Presidential preference primary will also have three delegates each for Jimmy Carter and George Wallace.

Called County Meeting To Discuss Investigator Request Cancelled

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court was scheduled to convene in a called meeting Wednesday afternoon to consider establishing an investigator's position in the Criminal District Attorney's office.

Also, the commissioners were to decide on rules for users of the Heritage Room in the county library.

The called meeting was cancelled late Wednesday due to scheduling conflicts of several of the person who were supposed to be present. The matters that were to be acted upon will be considered at the next regular county commissioners' court meeting set for 10 a.m. Monday at the courthouse.

Andy Shual, criminal district attorney, had already discussed with the court the possibility of adding a person to his staff to conduct case investigations and coordinate court case preparations.

He explained in written memorandum that the new staff member would be valuable in saving law enforcement officers' time in testifying, provide the legwork for the district attorney in investigating cases and help victims of crimes and witnesses who are required to make court appearances.

The commissioners had reviewed Shual's budget, which would have to be amended to add the new position. At the last regular meeting of the court, no decisions were made concerning the matter.

Some negative aspects have been raised concerning the request for an investigator. One of these is the added cost to county taxpayers as a new position would necessitate a salary and associated expenses.

The 69th Judicial District Judge Mike Metcalf was to speak with the court about appointing an investigator. He is in favor of it.

Realtors Sponsor Uncle Sam Essay Contest for Bicentennial

One of the interesting bits of history uncovered during our nation's Bicentennial celebration is the fact that Uncle Sam—symbol for the United States—really lived.

Because so few Americans knew Uncle Sam was a real man, REALTORS across the nation decided to focus attention on this nearly-lost story from American history for their Bicentennial project.

Part of this attention has been on the part of the Hereford Board of Realtors, which is presently distributing a film called, "Uncle Sam—The Man and the Legend," to area organizations and schools. It depicts the life of the real man behind the nation's symbol.

Also, the board is conducting a contest to promote patriotism in conjunction with the film. It is for junior and senior high school students who are asked to write an essay on "What Uncle Sam Means to Me."

Application forms may be picked up at any office of a member of the Board, of Realtors. They must be turned back in by June 24. Awards will be presented to winners.

Samuel Wilson was a meatpacker and provisioner to the U.S. Army during the War of 1812. Although he eventually became the internationally known symbol of the United States, Sam Wilson was an average American from humble beginnings who loved his homeland. He was not a brilliant politician or statesman, nor was he a heroic figure.

He was born in Menotomy (now Arlington), Mass., and was nearly nine years old when Paul Revere rode out from Boston, and past the Wilson property toward Lexington, warning of the British march to Concord. It must have been a deep impression on young Samuel to have been present at the birth of American liberty.

When Sam was a young man, he and his brother moved to Troy, N.Y., where they started a brickmaking business. Later, they entered the meat-packing business, and it was in this connection that Sam unwittingly won enduring fame.

Known affectionately as

Uncle Sam by his many nieces and nephews and by friends and neighbors in Troy, the barrels of beef he and his brother supplied to the U.S. Army were stamped by the government purchasing agents with the letters "U.S." It was this abbreviation that was the foundation for the name "Uncle Sam" becoming synonymous with "United States."

The physical characteristics of the Uncle Sam by modern-day cartoonists are based on those of the man, Sam Wilson.

In Uncle Sam: The Man and the Legend—a book written in the late 1950s by Alton Ketchum and reprinted by the National Association of REALTORS as part of the Bicentennial program—one of Wilson's great-nephews is quoted in this description of Sam Wilson: "In form and carriage he greatly resembled Abraham Lincoln. He was tall, well preserved and the type of the well-to-do old gentleman of his day. Had high cheek bones...and wore his grey hair rather long."

The official U.S. State

Department portrait of Uncle Sam fits the same description. This painting, done by the late Herbert R. Noxon more than 25 years ago, was discovered by REALTORS in researching their Bicentennial program. The painting was purchased and presented in February, 1976, to President Ford. It now hangs in the Great Hall of the Commerce Department Building in Washington, and later will be moved to the Smithsonian Institution.

In addition to publication of the book and presentation of the portrait to President Ford, REALTORS have produced a 23-minute color film, also entitled "Uncle Sam: The Man and the Legend."

The book—in hardcover or paperback—and film are being made available to schools, churches, libraries, civic, social and fraternal organizations through the REALTORS' nationwide network of state and local boards.

SS Reserves Amount To About $3.5 Million

How healthy is the Social Security trust fund, on which many Deaf Smith County residents depend for current or future retirement benefits?

By virtue of their contributions to Social Security over the years, via payroll taxes, how large is their interest in the fund?

They have been worried lately over reports emanating from Washington that the fund is in trouble. In testimony before Congress recently, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Mathews warned that the outgo from the pension fund is exceeding its income by some 10 per cent at the present time.

The reserves are now down to approximately $44 billion, which is enough to carry only for about six years, several years less than usual. It will be exhausted at that time unless something is done to boost revenues. Plans to do so are now before Congress.

According to calculations, based on the latest annual report of the Social Security Administration, Texas State residents have an estimated interest of $2,260,000,000 in the $44 billion in reserves currently on hand.

The stake of the Deaf Smith County population amounts to approximately $3,590,000.

That is more than in many communities of its size. Bigger earnings locally have meant bigger contributions to the fund.

The situation has led President Ford to propose an increase in payroll taxes, effective next year. Congress opposes such a solution.

It feels that raising taxes at a time when millions of people are out of work and the nation is just emerging from a deep recession is not advisable.

Its attitude is that the loss of assets from the fund will be reversed in the near future as the economy improves and more people return to work and resume their payments.

Other ways of handling the situation, rather than raising taxes, will be considered if necessary. One of them would be to use general tax revenues as a partial source of financing.

For retired people and those contemplating retirement at some future time, assurance is given that they need have no fear that their interest in Social Security will be jeopardized.

Hospital

The occupancy rate of the hospital has run about 50 per cent this year as compared with 52.6 per cent last year at this time. Whether determined in admissions or patients days, the revenues fluctuate significantly according to these figures.

Dr. A.T. Mims, chief of the medical staff, said the staff met with a representative of the American College of Surgeons and reviewed the cancer patient care here. The information is considered by the nationwide organization and Deaf Smith General Hospital is compared with other hospitals in relation to the cancer therapy care given.

Also, he said extensive efforts are still underway to find additional doctors for Hereford. "We have interviewed several prospects, but no one has accepted as yet," Dr. Mims noted. "We have two more doctors to see this weekend."

Mrs. Hoover was concerned about what could be done to promote another medical professional for Hereford. The answer was essentially that all that can be done is being done.

HE SAID THAT PROSPECTS come for just one day. They are shown around the town, given a tour of the hospital and other medical facilities, and told all the economic, professional and cultural attributes of Hereford. In the past, special activities for the visiting doctors were planned, but Dr. Mims said this didn't seem to make any difference.

When asked why they don't come here, he explained it was primarily due to the

Rural Accidents Reported In County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated nine accidents on rural highways in Deaf Smith County during the month of March, 1976, according to Sergeant W.E. Wells, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and five persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first three months of 1976 shows a total of 21 accidents resulting in no persons killed and nine persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for March, 1976, shows a total of 448 accidents resulting in 15 persons killed and 261 persons injured, as compared to March, 1975, with 446 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 217 persons injured. This was two more accidents, two less killed, and 44 more injured in 1976 at the same period of time.

The 15 traffic deaths for the month of March, 1976, occurred in the following counties: Two each in Childress and Parmer; and one each in Baylor, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Wise, Hansford, Hardeman, Hutchinson, Potter, Swisher, Wilbarger.

Work, Not Idleness Provides Happiness

Employment is the support of satisfactory, happy living. Idleness is the dissipation of all that is essential to the best of living. Therefore, we must be employed; and the more constructive the employment, the greater the personal well-being. It is helpful and encouraging to know that the people who wish to be busy with something worthwhile can always find employment.

We must reject idleness, because there is nothing about it that is desirable. In fact, everything connected with idleness is undesirable, and worse, it can be and usually is degrading. There is no happiness or satisfaction in it. Mischievous or Melancholy? Idleness is the bane of body and mind, the nurse of naughtiness, the chief author of all mischief, one of the seven deadly sins, the cushion upon which melancholy reposes, and a great cause not only of melancholy, but of many diseases; for the mind is naturally active; and if it be not occupied about some honest business, it rushes into mischief or sinks into melancholy."

It is by employment that we open the doors to the richness and fullness of living, the monetary rewards for employment are only one of the benefits and, although such rewards are often necessary, they are not nearly the only benefits. In fact, there are many rewards.

There is employment that has nothing to do with money; employment which has a very useful and helpful place in each life pattern. If this employment is rejected, we have rejected the source of some of the greatest available blessings.

Much of the Misery of our time is the natural result of refusing to be employed. There seems to be a rather widespread view that the less we do, the better living will be. Many people deliberately choose unemployment because of the extremely faulty notion that this idleness is actually the most desirable life style. Then, they wonder why they are so miserable.

"Occupation is one source of enjoyment. No man properly occupied was ever miserable."

Loafing has nothing to recommend it; however, it seems to be very popular. It is one form of idleness that will literally destroy all the essential life elements. "The first external revelations of the dry-rot in men is a tendency to lurk and lounge." --Dickens. People who loaf are eventually burdens to themselves and others. They are parasites, and often worse.

We must overcome laziness, because laziness makes us more and more inclined to turn from employment with its rich blessings; to idleness, with its inevitable despair.

There is always something worthwhile to do, and if we sincerely wish to be employed; we will be employed, and life will be better.

The Thunderstorm

The thunderstorm season is approaching. Statistics show these storms contain highly destructive winds which usually do not touch the ground plus the heavy electrical charges which do strike the ground and which claim many lives each year.

Summer weather is generally thought to be non-dangerous and many assume thunderstorms are mostly noise and fury and without danger. However, lightning from thunderstorms in late spring and early summer kill more people than does lightning at all other times of the year combined.

There are certain rules one should follow if caught in a thunderstorm, according to the Weather Bureau. If indoors, one should stay indoors and avoid electrical equipment, the telephone and plumbing fixtures. If outdoors, one should stop work on metal fences, leave tractors, especially those pulling metal implements, stay away from the tallest trees, poles and solitary fixtures and seek shelter in low areas away from water or in buildings.

There is a last, grim word of advice. Sometimes one can actually feel the first electrical charge of approaching lightning, we are told. The hair stands on end or the skin tingles. If you feel one of these danger signs, the Weather Bureau says, "drop to the ground immediately. If you don't you may drop a few seconds later in more serious condition, for this is an omen of a nearby, massive electrical charge."

Ribbons Awarded In 4-H Public Speaking Contest

Approximately 40 members of Deaf Smith County 4-H clubs received red, white and blue ribbons for winning presentations given in 4-H Roundup public speaking competition held Tuesday night at the First Christian Church of Hereford.

The participants, ranging in age from nine-years-old to 17-years-old, were given specific topics which had to be presented to two judges. The competition was held in separate rooms with a total of seven judges volunteering their services.

Awards were presented by Assistant County Extension Agents Sherrie Harder and Garland Stewart. They directed the different subject presentations and tabulated the award points.

Awards were decided according to a score set by the judges based on a 100-point maximum scale. Blue ribbons were given to those qualifying with scores between 90 and 100 red ribbons were presented for scores from 80-89, and those scoring below 80 were given white ribbons.

The ribbon winners will now be eligible for competition in the District 1 4-H Elimination Contests to be held in Canyon Saturday.

Receiving blue ribbons according to their subjects presented were: Glenna West and Becky Hughes, cooperative and community improvement; Gary Jones, natural resources; Kellie Scoggins and Phylecia Rowland, natural resources; Karen Jones and Debbie McCarley, safety; Annette Dawson and Cynthia Streun, poultry; Lisa Phillips and Joycelyn Aven, horses; Dawna Inman and Tonya

Savage, landscape horticulture; Trinetta Bowling and Genell Hartman, dairy; Ben and Judy Flores and Brenda Strafuss, share the fun; Missy Merritt and Kristy Simona, family life; and Wendy Reid and Tori and Jenness Self, foods and nutrition.

Red ribbons were presented to the following: Karen Cople and Leslie Brush, cooperative and community improvement; Michelle Hughes and Crystal Finley, companion animals; Terry Barrier and Kevin Douglas, natural resources; Will Fellers, farm and ranch management; Robin Coleman and Regina Bryan, horticulture preparation and use; Shavon Sisson and Monica George, horticulture production and marketing; and LeAnne Hughes and Christy Beene, family life.

White ribbons went to the following: Teresa and Mark Brown, swine, sheep and goats; and Sheri Edwards, safety.

Judges for the events included Mack and Ruth Aippersack, Bobby and Lois Templeton, Inez Albright, Richard Robinson, and Lon Conner.

Jitterbug Fun

Ben and Judy Flores, Deaf Smith County 4-H Club members, provided a bit of nostalgia at the 4-H contests Tuesday with his rendition of the Jitterbug, a dance from an earlier era. They received a blue ribbon for their efforts before a standing room only audience. They competed in the Share the Fun category.

Tax Rebates Mailed By Comptroller

Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed checks totaling $11.9 million to 516 cities and towns Thursday, April 15 as payment for their April city sales tax rebates.

Hereford's city sales tax rebate from the Comptroller was $12,224.24.

Bullock said he has remitted $87.4 million to the 845 municipalities collecting the one-cent sales tax so far this year, compared to $80.4 million remitted during the same period last year.

"Both city and state sales tax collections are growing far faster than inflation alone," the Comptroller said.

He noted that 1975 city sales tax collections totaled $263.9 million, nearly 10 percent more than the $240.8 million collected in 1974, and state sales tax collections in 1975 totaled $1.266 billion, 12.5 percent more than the $1.126 billion collected in 1974.

Natural Gas Rates Unfair To Texans

It's time for East coast non-producing states to pay more taxes on Texas natural gas, Texas Railroad Commission candidate Terence O'Rourke said today.

"Natural gas customers in Deaf Smith County must pay for Texas production taxes at rates up to four times as high as tax rates that apply to out-of-state customers of gas produced in Texas," O'Rourke stated.

O'Rourke, a Houston attorney and former Texas assistant attorney general, noted that natural gas production in the Deaf Smith County area last year reached 803,047,466 thousand cubic feet (McF).

"Natural gas produced in this area helps heat the homes and factories of the East coast states, but because of the 'Yankee tax loophole' in Texas law, customers in these East coast non-producing states pay less taxes on this gas than we in Texas do," O'Rourke said.

"Because of federal price controls, natural gas going out of state costs 52 cents per thousand cubic feet (McF) and the tax for out-of-state customers is based on that amount; but in Texas we pay up to $2.00 per McF and our tax is figured on $2.00 rather than 52 cents.

"It is time for people in these East coast states--states which would rather deplete our resources than develop their own--to pay as much tax as we do and it is time for the legislature to close this loophole in our state law," he added.

O'Rourke commented that in fiscal 1975, $194,057,458 in taxes was paid on gas in Texas, while out-of-state customers paid only $65,309,263.

"I ask that the legislature change the law and tax out-of-state gas customers on the same basis as gas consumed in Texas," O'Rourke said.

"If this were done, the state production tax paid for by Texas customers could be reduced without losing a cent of tax revenue and no additional tax burden would be placed on the Texas oil and gas industry, royalty owners or interstate pipeline companies," he added.

Teachers Schedule Convention

The memoirs of the men and women who taught three generations of America's youth will be presented by retired teachers from throughout the nation at the 1976 Biennial Convention of the 500,000-member National Retired Teachers Association, May 10-13, at Houston's Hyatt Regency Hotel.

As the culmination of NRTA's Bicentennial "Pride in America" project, books of recollections from teachers in every state will be presented to NRTA President Mary Mullen at a convention session Wednesday, May 12. U.S. astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly will be the featured speaker at the session.

NRTA--the nation's oldest organization of retirees--undertook the "Pride in America" project in 1975 in an attempt to help trace the history of the nation through the experiences of American educators during the past 75 years. "The experiences of teachers now retired span a special era characterized by unparalleled change in all aspects of life in the United States," according to Miss Mullen.

Other highlights of the five-day convention will include the Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus Memorial Dinner, in honor of the founder of NRTA, Wednesday May 12; and the installation of Dr. J. Cloyd Miller of Albuquerque, N.M., as the new president of NRTA at the convention's concluding luncheon, Thursday May 13.

Registration for NRTA members and guests attending the convention will begin Monday, May 10 at 9 a.m. A reception for delegates and guests, featuring a Bicentennial musical program by Texas A&M's "Singing Cadets," will be held Monday evening.

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

Nearly every weekend, in all types of weather, a new breed of bass fisherman can be found participating in a bass tournament but, an updated Texas Parks and Wildlife Department study has indicated the amount of bass harvested is not large enough to harm the bass population.

This relatively new sport, known as competitive bass fishing, has been growing throughout Texas over the last few years.

Non-tournament fishermen have complained that large-mouth bass are being overharvested from public waters during club tournaments.

In order to evaluate these fishing organizations and their effects on bass populations, the P&WD conducted a study to determine the number of bass clubs in Texas, their memberships, objectives, tournament regulations and an estimate of the annual harvest of bass during their tournaments.

This study, conducted in 1973, revealed a total of 206 bass clubs with a membership of over 16,000 fishermen. Texas now has over 300 clubs with a larger membership but they comprise less than two per cent of the fishermen.

Texas bass clubs are very conservation-minded and club objectives include the abatement of pollution and littering, promotion of fellowship among sportsmen, enjoyment of fishing and the outdoors, promotion of water safety and observance of state game and fish laws.

Some clubs impose a minimum length and number of bass which is considerably less than either the lake or state regulation requirements.

Kids Inc. Mothers Will Meet

Kids Inc. Team Mothers will have a meeting on Thursday, April 22 at 7 p.m. at the Reddy Room of the Southwestern Public Service Building.

The candy sale and the concession stand schedule for the coming boys baseball and girls softball seasons will be discussed.

All interested persons are urged to attend. Anyone with questions should contact Sandra Combs.

Lubbock High follows with 1691. Hereford holds down the next spot with 1704 while Plainview and Coronado bring up the rear with 1740 and 1742 respectively.

James Lyles and Tony Albracht playing as individuals for the Herd carded 87 and 97 respectively.

The district finale will take place here in Hereford next Friday, April 23.

Boosters Honor Track, Golf Boys

Approximately 75 people attended the Monday night meeting of the Whiteface Booster Club at the high school cafeteria.

Athletic Director Fred Ushaw introduced the coaches of the golf and boys track squads, Terry Russell and Robert Priest who in turn introduced the members of their squads.

Both teams are nearing the end of their season as the golf squad will be playing the final district round this Friday here and the Track boys will be competing in the District 4-4A meet in Lubbock this Saturday.

Booster Club President Mack Tubb also reminded those present that the All-Sports Banquet will be coming up on April 27 at the Bull Barn. Tickets for the event are on sale at the Hereford State Bank and will be $4 for adults and $3 for children.

Hereford Boys In Boxing Tourney

Garry Peebles

After the Easter layoff, Spring athletes at Hereford High are headed (or will have headed) for one last, final busy week possibly highlighted by the baseball squad's double-header with Lubbock High on Tuesday. The Westerners swept Coronado Saturday to clinch a tie for the first half 4-4A title.

On Friday, the Herd nine travels to Plainview to begin the second half of district play.

The Bulldogs are still looking for their first win since the loop chase began but they did manage to take Monterey to the wire in their opener last Saturday. The Plainsman had to come up with two runs in the bottom of the 7th to pull that one out.

Leaving baseball, the regional qualifiers from the girls track squad will be in Lubbock this weekend, perhaps with a little bit of luck some of them can prolong the season a little longer and earn a trip to Austin.

The boys tracksters will also be in the Hub city on Saturday competing in the District 4-4A Meet.

The Herd golfers wind up district play this week with matches on Monday at Plainview and Friday here.

Finally, Speedy has just informed me that there will be (or will have been) a District 3A track meet at Whiteface Field Tuesday.

The baseball season has just barely opened but some amazing things have already happened (one of which was that the season did open). Saturday's game between Cincinnati and San Francisco at Riverfront was delayed for the better part of an hour because of bees and the same day the Phillies eased by the Cubs at Chicago by the astounding score of 18-16. There was something like 43 hits in that game including 9 home runs and 13 pitchers paused briefly at the mound before heading for the shower.

This is kind of far removed but the Boston Marathon was run this week. In case you've never heard of it, it's a distance race ran in Boston (naturally) every April 18, the distance is 26 miles 385 yds. This year some 2200 people entered (including about 80 or 90 women). I don't know how many finished but the race was ran in about 90 degree temperatures so I'm sure there were at least 2 or 3 who dropped out somewhere along the way.

I've always wondered what would make someone enter a race like that. First of all I think a person would have to be a little bit nutty but I guess the logical reason is because the 26 miles are there.

However there is a tribe of Indians in Mexico who could make these Boston Marathon runners look silly. As it happens, these people run every where they go and they don't run on level ground, they run up and down mountains eight or nine thousand feet high.

One of the ways in which they hunt deer is by chasing the animal until it finally falls from exhaustion (yeah I know this is hard to believe). Their favorite sport is a kickball game in which they chase a wooden ball around the countryside, up and down, for anywhere from 24 to 48 hours. I guess it's a good thing I wasn't born in that part of the world, because I couldn't make it.

I see where this summer's olympics are going to cost the city of Montreal something like 1.3 billion dollars. I'm afraid I have a little bit of trouble comprehending a figure of that size and apparently that Canadian city is having some trouble comprehending it too. They plan to still be paying off that debt when several other olympics have come and gone. If there are any more olympics, they seem to be getting too expensive for anybody to handle.

This may sound like heresy but I've wondered if it wouldn't be best to forget them. The idea of the games themselves is fine but the idea of amateurs from this country having to compete against government financed athletes from the Communist countries always gripes me, especially when they win.

Finally, my apologies to Coach Shipp and his wife, who knows where I came up with the name "Henry."

Hereford Ski Club

Pictured above are the members of the Hereford Ski Club which was formed here in February. They have already made one trip to Colorado and others are planned next fall. Their next meeting will be in May. They are as follows, front row, left

Hereford Now Has Ski Club

Snow skiing is growing in popularity every year and if there is anyone in Hereford who has considered taking up the sport but hasn't for one reason or another, they now have the opportunity of a lifetime.

A number of people here have taken it upon themselves to organize a ski club the main purpose of which is to promote the sport with regard to safety and to teach the novice the proper techniques and proper methods from the very beginning.

The idea according to sponsor Roger Owen is that skiing is a lot more fun if you're with a lot of what you're doing and if your group and if you have some idea using the proper equipment.

The group was organized in February and at present there are about 10 members. They have already taken one trip to Crested Butte, Colorado and others are planned for this fall. They hope to take 4 or 5 trips a year.

There are no dues required for membership and anyone who will be at least in the 9th grade this fall including adults are invited to join.

Roger Owen is club sponsor and may be reached at 364-6931. Pam Vinson is president of the group.

Shrinking, Swelling Soil Costs Millions

Some of Texas' largest cities are built on soils that shrink when dry and swell when wet. Such soils cost property owners and taxpayers millions of dollars each year in damages to buildings, roads and airport runways.

Texas has about 10 million acres of clay soils which are noted for these swelling, shrinking properties. The cities of Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco and Austin are located on a strip of these black, deep, uniform clay soils.

On another less continuous strip are the cities of Beaumont, Houston and Victoria. All these cities were originally market cities for the agricultural products grown in their black soils.

One advantage of shrinking, swelling black-clay soils is the ability they have to store water. They often have enough stored water to get a crop through an extended dry period, whereas soils with less clay do not.

Another characteristic can be either an advantage or a disadvantage: when these soils are worked while wet, they become nearly impermeable. In an ordinary field this is a disadvantage, but for rice production, where continuous flooding during the growing season is desirable, it makes an ideal soil.

"Shrinking, swelling soils are among the worst soils on which to build houses, roads, runways and pipelines," says Dr. Kirk Brown, soil physicist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

"These soils may rise and fall as much as 4 inches from wet to dry," according to Brown.

"Cracks may open to a width of 2 inches and may be 6 feet deep.

"Such volume changes cause roads to break down, pipelines to rupture, and houses and foundations to crack and break apart.

"The rise and fall alone is bad enough, but to make bad matters worse, it often isn't uniform.

"The soils below the center of the house remain wet while those around the edge dry out from evaporation and from absorption of water by the roots of grass, shrubbery or trees.

"The result is that the edges of the slab drop while the center does not. This often causes cracks to open at the top of a masonry wall and eventually down through the foundation.

"What can be done about it? Well, properly reinforcing foundations during construction helps, as does stabilization of the subsoil by the incorporation of lime, and irrigation around the base of the foundation.

"As a matter of fact, the last two actions can be of some help even after construction. A heavy application of lime or gypsum into the soil around the foundation may also help by allowing better water penetration.

"Thereafter, during dry periods, the soil will accept generous watering and won't settle as much as it would otherwise.

AC Sponsors Rape Awareness Workshop

It is estimated that every person will be touched by the crime of rape at some time in their life, either as a victim or family or friend of a victim.

A rape awareness workshop hosted by the Amarillo College Women's Programs, will be conducted from 7 to 9:30 p.m. April 26-28.

The workshop, sponsored by the Amarillo Rape Crises Service and Texas Panhandle

Criminal Justice Administration, will be held in the Oak Room on the second floor of the College Union Building on the Washington Street campus. Cost is $1.

Moderator for the night of April 26 will be Claudia Stravato, cod stravato at 7:30 p.m. followed with Dr. Mary Sheldon, go-director of the Rape Crises Service who will present a lecture on social attitudes.

Following the lecture will be a 15-minute film "The Reality of Rape." Beginning at 8 p.m., Susan Harris of the High Plains Women's Political Caucus will present a lecture on rape trauma syndrome. A question and answer period will follow.

On April 27, Charlotte McClure of the Department of Welfare will moderate the program. Officer Tony Guess of the Texas Department of Public Safety, will present a lecture on self defense at 7 p.m. At 7:30 p.m., Dick Dambold, assistant district attorney of Potter County, will present a lecture on the rape victim and due process of law.

A lecture about the rights of the rape victim will be given by Elise Silverman, attorney, beginning at 8:15 p.m. Derrell Garner, detective for the Amarillo Police Department, will explain law enforcement and the rape victim at 8:40 p.m. A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

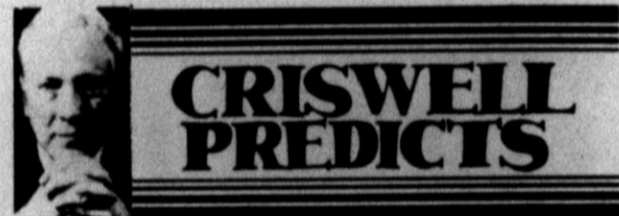

A 20-minute film on preventive inquiry of rape will begin the meeting on April 28, moderated by Judy Schoen.

coordinator of Rape Crises Service.

A wrap-up session will conclude the three-day workshop at 9 p.m. This will include the procedures of the Rape Crises Service and volunteer information.

UNCENSORED: I PREDICT that the low ratings on television and the dwindling audiences will be restored with women in sports -- football, basketball, baseball, hockey and wrestling -- all in the nude! These professional teams are presented to after-hours television! . . . I PREDICT that one of our top cowboy stars of movies and TV will have the sex change in Mexico! This new clinic in Tijuana charges only $100 for the operation plus one week of recuperation extra. Many from England, Europe and the Middle East will take advantage of this offer. A huge exploitation campaign will take place out of Hollywood . . . I PREDICT that many African nations will not tolerate breaking the law in any way, with theft punished by chopping off the hand, and lying by slicing off the tongue. As in the old days of the Old West, the portable gallows were always handy and used readily. Even the luxury of anarchy cannot be tolerated in Africa.

THE BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE: I PREDICT that the new MAE WEST novel in paperback, "The Drag," will outsell her present best-seller, "Pleasure Man." Both were plays in 1928 and by popular demand, Mae West rewrote them into novel form. Both were closed by police . . . I PREDICT that JOHN WAYNE will play himself in "Hollywood Boulevard" with 10 other famous stars yet to be cast . . . I PREDICT that DINAH SHORE will make the surprise marriage of the year . . . that LILY TOMLIN will add a woman Senator to her list of comic characters. This Senator wears big hats and is big in the protest marches . . . that ANN-MARGRET will next conquer the role of Sadie Thompson in "Rain." . . . that JOAN RIVERS will place her humor in a coming book called "Rivers To The Sea" where her new talent will be acclaimed . . . that FANNE FOXE who became known for her antics in Washington will next try an afternoon talk show for women only.

HUSH HUSH EVENTS: I PREDICT that no one over five feet eleven will be permitted to play professional basketball -- and no one weighing over 200 pounds will be permitted to play football. This will be decided by the courts on the basis of discrimination.

Voice of Business

WASHINGTON -- Is big business running America? Some people say so. A lot more probably think so.

Well, ask yourself this: If you were running America, would you...

--Allow consumerists to call you nasty names?

--Allow environmentalists to hold up your construction projects?

--Allow politicians to run for office against you?

--Submit meekly to endless investigations by the FTC, the SEC, the IRS, etc?

--Put up with educators actively hostile to capitalism?

--Allow wild charges against you to be spread across front pages and TV screens?

--Capitulate time after time to the demands of labor unions?

Just doesn't make much sense, does it? And yet I am constantly amazed at the number of self-appointed social critics who repeatedly berate "big business" for its allegedly threatening power without anyone pointing out that their very freedom to set up the straw man contradicts their major premise.

COMPARE, for example, what happens to the critics of business in our country with what happens to the critics of the establishment in a totalitarian state: Our critics create organizations, appear on interview shows, and grow wealthy from the royalties on their books. The critics of a totalitarian regime tend to disappear.

I don't want to carry the point too far. American business does have power, and it is entirely legitimate for society to inquire whether it is being used wisely. But the power that businesses have is of a very specialized and restricted kind. A business can influence the use of resources within its own sphere of operation. Outside that sphere, it is relatively powerless. No matter how powerful a bulldozer is as an earthmover, that power won't help it to fly.

The problem -- for business and for all of us -- is that we don't have a very coherent concept of what we want from business as a social institution. Besides high quality products, high wages, and low prices, of course. So we make contradictory demands.

Consider the plight of the multinational corporations (multinational is just a fancy term for a big company that operates in more than one country).

--If a U. S. multinational builds a factory overseas and provides jobs for the people in the host country, that's good. But when it does so, it is accused of "exporting" jobs from the U. S., and that's bad. (It's also untrue. Overseas operations tend to expand employment here, too.)

--If a multinational pays workers in the host country the prevailing local wage (low), it is accused of "exploiting" for foreign workers. But if it pays the foreign workers more than prevailing local wages, it is accused of competing unfairly with the other local employers.

--If a multinational obeys local laws and customs when operating in a foreign country, it may engage in some practices there that are not permitted in the U. S. On the other hand, if it tries to impose U. S. values on the host country, it is accused of arrogance and "cultural imperialism."

I could go on, but I think you get the idea. Business, like everything else, benefits from constructive, informed criticism. But it does not benefit from the kind of criticism that is rooted in ignorance; ignorance of operating conditions and of the nature of the problems.

Try a little test: Next time you hear someone say big business is running America, ask him to be specific. Which big business is running America? And how did it get all the other big businesses to sit still for that?

I'll bet you get some pretty weak answers.

AUSTIN—Comptroller Bob Bullock now figures the 1977 legislature will inherit a $737 million cash surplus when it convenes next January.

Legislators, according to Bullock's latest projection, will have $2.6 billion more to spend during the next biennium than the $8.4 billion available for 1976-77. That is a jump of 31 per cent.

Bullock credited increased consumer spending that boomed sales and motor vehicle taxes, improved tax enforcement and continued increases in oil and gas prices.

The comptroller advised setting some of the surplus aside for a rainy day, tight budgets and careful planning to avoid new taxes for years to come.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe promptly recommended that $1 billion should be set aside in a rainy day fund or capital reserve account.

Briscoe said the reserve fund would "insure a fiscally sound state government for the foreseeable future within the existing tax structure."

House Speaker Bill Clayton went the governor one better, and suggested the second $1 billion be related to Texas taxpayers through tax reductions. Clayton said $600 million added revenue would take care of necessary inflationary increases.

Wiretaps Urged
Gov. Briscoe will ask legislators to authorize court-ordered and supervised wiretapping to help police organized crime.

Briscoe said the war on crime will be the No. 1 priority item in his legislative program in 1977.

The governor said there is no room for argument as to whether organized crime has penetrated into Texas. The question, he said, centers on the extent of the invasion and how it can be controlled and repelled.

His legislative proposals will include bills to make organized criminal activities a felony, allow electronic surveillance in investigations of organized crime and to permit a defendant to be tried for all organized criminal activities in a single trial.

Shots Available

Older citizens in nursing homes can get flu shots starting about July 1.

The vaccine will be for swine influenza, together with the A-Victorian strain.

Regular swine influenza vaccine will be available about September 1.

Two million Texans are expected to get the shots this summer, according to Dr. Fratis Duff, director of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Another eight million will be immunized in the fall.

Rates Set

A slight increase in property, fire and homeowners insurance rates for the coming year has approval of the State Insurance Board.

The increases on a statewide average amounts to about four per cent, according to board calculations. The adjustment was less than industry recommendations and less than those presented by the board staff at a February 18 public hearing.

The industry sought a 5.1 per cent increase and the staff 5.4 per cent.

Board Chairman Joe Christie said rates on a $35,000 brick veneer home would increase about $18 in Galveston, $16 in Houston, $12 in Austin and $21 in Lubbock.

Meanwhile, the board set July 15 at 9 a.m. as the tentative date for its public hearing on automobile insurance rates.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court has turned down a suit for $1.8 million against a Houston physician who allegedly did not disclose that the husband of a Mexico City woman was dying of cancer and encouraged the couple to have children.

The high court agreed to review May 12 a district court injunction against the State Board of Pharmacy's enforcing limits on prescription drug advertising.

Another May 12 review was set in a former Texas Tech football player's suit against the school following a knee injury.

A three-judge federal court upheld a state requirement that voters must sign ballot stubs and deposit them in a box at paper ballot elections.

In other rulings the Supreme Court voided a Beaumont ordinance requiring liquor stores to close at 8 p.m. and overturned insurance companies' $100,000 award to the guardian of a Liberty County woman who shot her husband.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill, Attorney General

AUSTIN—Our Consumer Protection Division has had numerous complaints recently about misrepresentations by home improvement contractors.

There are a number of ways an unscrupulous home repair or improvement contractor can take unfair advantage of consumers and also of other legitimate businessmen.

A reputable contractor won't make promises he can't keep, or give unbelievably low estimates for an expensive job. He won't tell you the job will be completed in two days when realistically it cannot be finished in two weeks, and he certainly won't agree to follow your specifications for materials and construction, then substitute cheaper products and cost-cutting assembly methods. He also won't give you a long-term guarantee if he plans to leave town the next day or so.

But the unscrupulous contractor may promise all these things and more to get the job and your money. The catch is that he not only takes business away from the established reputable contractor but then fails to deliver what you have paid for. So both you and the legitimate contractor lose when you select a fraudulent home repair contractor. The catch is—how do you avoid falling for a deceptive sales pitch?

Our Consumer Protection attorneys suggest the following ways to avoid getting gyped in a home repair or improvement deal.

—Try to avoid dealing with a contractor who solicits business door-to-door unless you determine that he has an established place of business. If you deal with an itinerant, he may skip town as soon as he gets your money, leaving you with just a hole in the yard where your swimming pool was supposed to go.

—Instead of hiring a person who appears at your door, ask three reputable local businessmen to come by to check what you want to have done, then submit written estimates according to your specifications.

—Don't always select the lowest bid, automatically. There may be other factors you should consider, such as experience, type of guarantee offered, quality of materials, etc.

—Never decide immediately on an improvement or repair contractor. Instead, think over various offers for several days. And also call or contact several customers of each bidder to determine if the work was satisfactory.

—When you have selected the right contractor for your needs, be sure to get in writing the starting and completion dates for your project, along with the total cost, description of what is to be done, types of materials to be used, any guarantee, and how the bill is to be paid.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--We in the Legislature knew at the end of the 1975 session that school finance would again be one of the major issues with which we would have to deal in 1977.

As we draw closer to convening the 65th Legislature in January, we have been attempting to identify the school finance issues of most concern to the House members.

I asked the House membership itself to rank priority areas as they perceived the problems of school finance. The idea was to find the relative importance members placed on the various issues.

By knowing what most concerns the lawmakers who will be trying to hammer out an equitable solution to this massive problem, our educational staffs will be better prepared to establish priorities for their research.

In their responses, the members made it abundantly clear that the revenue sources used for public education would receive their absolute attention. Equalization of educational opportunities and equalization of state aid rank right behind examining revenue sources.

Briefly, some of the other highest priority issues appear to be vocational education; cost sharing between local, state and federal revenue sources and teacher salaries.

There is considerable interest in the matters of special education, accountability to ensure effective use of funds and the affect of the current system on districts' maintenance tax and debt service. The broad impact of the present school finance bill on the districts and transportation needs and expenditures will also be addressed.

Legislative scrutiny will not be limited to these previously mentioned areas. Concern has been expressed for staffing problems, sparsity allotment eligibility, compensatory education, bilingual education, migrant education, responsiveness of the Texas Education Agency and the role of regional educational service centers.

The data necessary to answer these questions our legislators are going to be asking is being collected by a variety of governmental groups, including our Special House Committee on Alternatives to Public School Financing, the Texas Education Agency, the Governor's Offices of Education Resources and Education Research and others.

School finance has proven difficult to put in one neatly wrapped package because the situation is ever changing and because the State is so diverse. Recession and inflation are always changing the picture. It is likewise difficult to say, for example, that what is good for Houston ISD is equally good for rural Henrietta ISD.

These and other factors lead me to believe that we won't have any better information ten years from now than we will this January. The school decisions that are finally made will be end products of some long and probably difficult sessions. But, because a good many of the questions House members have said they believe are pertinent will have been fully researched, adequate information should be available to make the rational decisions we must have in bringing forth a lasting plan.

Registration For AC Continues

Advance registration for the first summer term at Amarillo College will continue through April 23.

Currently enrolled students wishing to advance register for the summer may report to their academic advisers for advising and scheduling of classes.

This advance registration is open to all students, including new students who wish to avoid the problems of regular registration for the first summer term, which begins June 2.

Tuition and fees may be paid by advanced registered students until May 27 in the business office. If payment has not been made by that time, students will have to report to regular registration, said J. Fred Balderston, registrar.

Students unable to take advantage of advance registration will be able to enroll June 1 during regular registration.

During regular registration, students will report to the registration station on the second floor of the College Union Building on the Washington Street campus according to the following schedule.

Surnames beginning with I through N will register from 9 to 9:30 a.m., O through S from 9:30 to 10 a.m., T through Z from 10 to 10:30 a.m., A through D from 10:30 to 11

Water Quality Board May Sue U.S. Department Of Justice

A lawsuit against the U. S. Department of Justice by the Texas Water Quality Board may be brewing, based on the department's ruling that areas newly annexed by the City of San Antonio abridge voting rights of ethnic minorities in the city.

Asst. U. S. Attorney General J. Stanley Pottinger has been quoted as saying that 13 of the 23 areas annexed reduce Mexican-American population strength from 54 percent to 51 percent, though the Mexican-American population remains a majority in the city.

"Legal and environmental questions continue to arise at the Texas Water Quality Board regarding this ruling," said Hugh C. Yantis Jr., TWQB executive director. "It is particularly disturbing since denial of voting rights on municipal matters could occur in almost every city in Texas at one time or another," he added.

He also said that inquiries are being prepared for Russell Train, director of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, and for John Hill, Texas Attorney General, concerning environmental and individual rights. The first concerns citizens within an area which has been incorporated, but who are not allowed to vote because the Justice Department thinks their voting is not in harmony with the city's racial balance.

Yantis wants to know if the city is still eligible to apply for and receive federal grants for sewage treatment plants or other improvements which affect that particular area, even though the people within the area are forbidden the right to vote in municipal elections and bond issue elections which may be part of the process. The second question concerns unincorporated areas which have no form of government able to provide sewage service. If these people are denied the privilege of being incorporated into a city because of the Voting Rights Act, will they still be able to apply for and receive grants, or will they be denied environmental rights and federal assistance to build treatment facilities on the grounds that they are not in an incorporated area?

The third question involves an unincorporated area outside of a city, with population consisting of people who have moved from the nearby incorporated city. Can they be denied incorporation solely on the basis, under the Voting Rights Act, that they are a racial majority from the incorporated city, and thereby be denied environmental rights?

Since the Texas attorney general must pass on the legality of all municipal bond issues, General Hill will be asked whether bonds will be impaired where some citizens are not permitted to vote on issues due to being disenfranchised by the Justice Department.

Another question for the Attorney General will concern presently unincorporated areas. Under Texas law, they cannot incorporate, or form a water district without approval of the city near them, and if they are to be forbidden annexation because of the Voting Rights Act, will they then be free to form a water district, or incorporate as a separate city regardless of whether the nearby city agrees?

"I think these are matters which must be resolved on an entirely rational basis for the protection of the basic rights of Texas citizens," Yantis said. "The matter as it now stands regarding the City of San Antonio could have far reaching effects over a period of time."

Week of the Young Child Events Planned By AC

The Week of the Young Child, April 23 through May 1, will honor the younger citizens of the community, said Melonye Curtis, instructor in the Amarillo College child care assistant program.

"This week focuses attention on all that is being done nationwide to promote a better, richer, environment for young children," said Mrs. Curtis.

Kicking off the week will be a workshop for parents and teachers on creative art for the pre-school child. This will be held in the Oak Room of the Amarillo College Union Building from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. April 24.

This workshop is presented by the AC child care department, Joni Yoakam, chairman; Mrs. Curtis and Priscilla Kleinpeter, instructors.

"On Sunday, April 25, area churches will be honoring children with different activities," Mrs. Curtis said.

T.O.T. (Time Out Together) is the theme of the May 1 festivities in Elwood Park.

"We are urging parents to bring their children out for a picnic and see the learning centers that will be set up in the park," the instructor said. "These centers will be activities that both parents and children can do together."

TOWER TALKS

by U.S. Senator for Texas
JOHN TOWER

WASHINGTON—Over the years, people have believed some frightfully silly things about economics.

In the Middle Ages, people called alchemists thought they could change base metals into gold.

They were wrong. In more recent times, people called "Keynesians" thought governments could spend more money than they take in in taxes without doing anyone any harm.

They were wrong, too. Keynesians are the disciples of the famous British economist, John Maynard Keynes (1883-1946). He was the high priest of deficit spending.

In his General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money, published in 1936, Keynes said there was no harm in deficit spending because people "owed the money to themselves." Not only was deficit spending harmless, he said, but it was a positive boon to mankind. Deficit spending could serve as "pump-priming" to get a sluggish economy moving again during times of recession. It would even out the peaks and valleys of the business cycle, and provide for the steady growth of the economy.

Keynes' theory exploded like a bombshell in the economic and political world of his day. At that time, for an economist to say what he'd said was like a preacher telling his congregation it was all right to sin.

Politicians were especially delighted with Keynes' theory. He'd told them they could have their cake and eat it, too. They could vote for the spending programs their constituents wanted without having to vote the taxes to pay for them. And everything would be just fine.

Well, not quite everything. The politicians ignored an important warning that Keynes had issued. He said that deficit spending was a good thing during times of recession, to get the economy moving again. But Keynes added that in times of prosperity, governments should run budget surpluses, to make up for the previous deficits.

But spending programs are popular and taxes are unpopular in good times as well as bad. And politicians run for re-election in good times as well as bad. So budget deficits have been growing ever larger, without regard to economic conditions.

Texas Visitor Business Climbs Above All Records

Austin -- Statewide participants in the Texas visitor industry are whistling a happy tune these days. It's entitled "1975 Was a Very Good Year!" By all previous standards, last year's sun, fun and vacation business went through the ceiling, shattering all previous records for total visitors, length of stay and, most important, expenditures by travelers from out of state. The cheerful details are contained in the state's annual Texas Visitor Industry Report released today by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Their tallies, which they've been conducting since 1947, show an all-time high of 21,819,000 out-of-state visitors in 1975 who spent $3.5 billion in Texas.

The Department points out that the number of such visitors is actually some 80 percent, greater than the number of Texas residents and represents the largest numerical increase in visitors in a single year since they started counting out-of-state license plates almost 30 years ago.

Rebounding from uncertainties of the oil embargo that cast a pall of gloom over the tourist industry, highway travelers surged back into Texas in unprecedented numbers, topping their previous year's volume by 14.2 percent.

Driving station wagons, pickup campers and herds of recreational vehicles, over 18 million visitors, two million more than in 1974, fanned out over the Lone Star State. The average auto traveler drove 1,213 miles while in Texas, somewhat more than during the previous year but still fewer miles than the free-wheeling pre-embargo travelers of 1973.

About 20 per cent, exercising their freedom of mobility prerogative, cite no single destination for 1975 vacations. Rather, they rambled on flexible schedules sampling lakes, beaches, historic sites, scenic drives and hosts of campgrounds.

Among Texas cities, Dallas was 1975's most popular destination, followed closely by Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Brownsville, Austin and Fort Worth.

Reflecting cost-consciousness (most tourists to Texas are family travelers, not the jet set), daily spending per person among auto visitors was $18.78, a thrifty $1.22 less than in 1974. However, those visitors stayed longer, 7.6 days compared to slightly less than 7 days in 1974. The net result was more out-of-state dollars left in Texas when they returned home.

Perhaps substantiating the airlines' much publicized woes during 1975, common carrier traffic to Texas registered a modest decline of 2.4 per cent. Airline, bus and train passengers were all below 1974 levels, but still brought 3,722,000 out-of-state to Texas.

Mexican visitors surged to all-time record highs, and new data about their rate of spending classify them as the state's most valuable individual tourists. Whereas the average U. S. tourist spent $143 in Texas on his trip, the average Mexican visitor left a generous $453.

Is it true that a new hormone has been discovered which may be useful in the treatment of diabetes? -- T.S. Yes. The new hormone is called somatostatin. It can lower the blood sugar levels of baboons. Scientists have long believed some diabetics carry an excessive amount of another hormone in their blood called glucagon. Glucagon is responsible for maintaining high blood sugar levels in diabetics, even when they are taking insulin. Somatostatin corrects this by inhibiting the release of glucagon.

I have emphysema and I wish to take a trip in an airplane. Am I allowed to carry oxygen with me on the plane? -- B.L.

You are not allowed to carry personal oxygen on an airplane. That's the bad news. The good news is that the Federal Aviation Agency says that "passengers with signed statements from licensed physicians can be provided with oxygen for their personal use aboard aircraft during flight." The physician's statement should include a brief description of the patient's condition, an indication of the maximum quantity of oxygen needed, and flow rate per hour. The airline, upon proper advance notice will provide the oxygen supply and equipment.

Don't believe those reports that MICHAEL DOUGLAS, son of KIRK DOUGLAS and former star of "The Streets Of San Francisco," left the streets to become a full-time producer. No way. He quit the show for love. Michael told me: "I gave up the role because the work kept BRENDA (VACCARRO, his lady-love for the past several years) and me apart too much. But I couldn't have timed worse. Within days of my quitting as KARL MALDEN's sidekick, Brenda landed her own TV series called "Sarah," so it's going to be just as difficult for us to see each other. Money and a lavish life-style are not important to TELLY SAVALAS' kid brother, GEORGE. "In my life I live for two things: God and my family," he said.

TV TICKET--Linda Blair famed for "The Exorcist," is 16, and MARTIN SHEEN, who recently made a Movie-of-the-Week with her, is 35. He brushed off romance rumors with the remark, "Sure I love her, like I love all children."

Miss Gentry Named As Honor Recipient

23 million get help paying dental bills

The day you stay home nursing that toothache, you may not be the only one with a pain. An estimated 100 million man hours have been lost every year to employers due to dental problems, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

One increasingly popular answer to the problem of absenteeism is group dental health insurance—a benefit to the employee as well as the employer, reports the Health Insurance Institute.

For the employee and his family, a dental health policy in his company health insurance program not only helps pay the costs of treatment and repair of teeth but also promotes preventive care by paying all or most of the costs of periodic examinations. Such preventive dentistry can forestall or minimize most dental problems, as well as lost man hours to employers, the Institute points out.

Dental insurance has grown rapidly in recent years. At the last count, 23 million people had coverage. The number of persons with protection by insurance companies has multiplied more than three-fold in five years.

By JANE FORREST

Q: I hate to throw away the beautiful Christmas cards I receive, but I don't know what else to do with them. I don't see any sense in saving them indefinitely. Do you have any suggestions?

A: There is a residence school for retarded persons not far from where I live, and they welcome these cards. Before you throw the cards away why don't you call your local YWCA, the children's ward of your local hospital, and the juvenile detention facility nearest you.

A reader has sent me the following address for those of you who're interested in investing the time to wrap the cards and the money to pay the required foreign postage to mail the cards. Write "Printed Matter," or "Used Christmas Cards" on the package and send to: The Rev. Eugene Petrin, St. Paul's Mission, P.O. Binnaguri, Dist. Jalpaiguri, West Bengal, India 735202.

Q: Some time ago you wrote a column advising men to teach their wives about their family finances. I had just been widowed at that time, and I was very ignorant about "our" finances, so I read the article ruefully. Now I am running into problems getting credit as a single person. Where can I go for advice?

A: The First National City Bank of New York has an ongoing information program for offering free booklets on financial subjects. Their pamphlet, "Borrowing Basics For Women," may be just what you need.

It gives guidelines on establishing credit and contains information on recent laws which give women new and expanded borrowing rights. The booklet is available free from: Public Affairs Dept.

Realtors Required To Meet Higher Education Levels

Local men and women registering for the 1976 Realtors Institutes are increasing in numbers because of the challenges developing in the Texas housing industry, as well as the need to meet higher standards required in the new Real Estate License Act.

The San Antonio Institute, usually one of the largest of the year, will have such distinguished lecturers as Charles Babb, Austin corporate lawyer and TAR legal counsel and Don Wiedmann from La Jolla, Calif. Wiedmann is a leader in the Realtors National Marketing Institute and in the San Diego, Calif. board.

Fees for the Institutes are

Those who complete the 90 hour class sessions through examinations at the end of the weeklong classes are given the coveted designation, GRI (Graduate, Realtors Institute). Graduate level seminars in specialized fields are also offered by TAR.

"Let's Talk About Money" is here . . . and it's free

If you're one of those people who think of a personal money management plan as budgeting—cutting out all the things you enjoy—don't, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

The Institute has prepared a new 24-page booklet which illustrates how a personal money management plan can help you stretch your dollars, accomplish your goals and help prevent many a financial problem without unnecessary self-denial.

The title of the booklet is "Let's Talk About Money" and it is intended for the use of men and women of all ages.

Written in an informal style, the booklet explains the why's and how-to's of savings, insurance, investing and credit, as well as the principles of setting goals and managing money.

Included are worksheets which will help the reader plan his or her finances for the present and the future.

The first step in developing a personal money management plan is to establish your financial goals. Once this is done, with the help of attached worksheets, the next move is to find out just where you stand now.

The booklet says: "Start by taking a good look at your assets. Be sure to include everything; you may be surprised to find you have more than you think."

Put down your checking and savings accounts, government bonds and the current value of any investments. If you own a car or a home, write down their present market value. And don't forget to add other personal property—anything with a potential resale value. On the asset side, list the present cash value of your life insurance.

After adding up your assets, again with the help of worksheets, you can figure out what you owe, listing the amounts of your outstanding loans, mortgages, charge accounts and any other debts. By subtracting your liabilities from the total assets, you get a picture of your net worth.

The booklet also contains a personal financial information sheet on which the reader can list important data such as location of wills, important records and documents and insurance policies.

A copy of "Let's Talk About Money" is available free by writing to Department FN, Consumer and Community Services Institute of Life Insurance, 277 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

Parental Motives May Prove Selfish

All the long months of waiting have passed and finally the great event occurs—a new baby in the family. But parents may suddenly find themselves wondering “why did we have this baby in the first place.” Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, says this feeling isn't unusual. There are many motives for pregnancy and parenthood which may be rooted in desires not directly related to the baby itself. Some may even be selfish and immature, she added.

“But is a couple learns to view their child as an independent being, rather than an extension of their own egos, and can feel a loving concern for the child, the baby's birth can be a joyous event after all,” she said.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She pointed out that some women may want a baby to fill an emptiness in their lives or to make them feel more feminine. For other women, pregnancy provides an opportunity for others to take care of them and provide the extra attention they seek.

“Young couples may be pressured into parenthood to fulfill the expectations of the community or to provide grandchildren for their parents. Families and friends assume the couple wants children so it is not long after the wedding before they hear, ‘When do you plan to start your family?’”

The specialist also noted that there may be a certain degree of prestige with parenthood. The baby helps the parents to justify their own lives and prove their virility. Also the family name continues.

“For other couples, the baby may fill an empty marriage or provide a playmate for an only child—or themselves.

“All these immature, selfish reasons for having a baby may result in frustration and dissatisfaction when the couple realizes they alone are responsible for the baby—who is totally dependent on them,” she said. Pregnancy and parenthood are times of crisis—times when old patterns of coping with stress and change are no longer sufficient. Pregnancy and parenthood necessitate role changes as the couple assume new responsibilities for the emotional and physical well-being of their child, the specialist said.

Travel Costs On Way Up

More than the usual number of Deaf Smith County families will be taking vacation trips by car this summer, visiting sections of the country where Bicentennial events will be the attraction.

Expectations at these historic areas are for a huge influx of people from all over the country. Elaborate plans are being made to receive them.

Carry a pastel cardigan in polyester when traveling in hot weather. It's perfect for cool nights.

Be sure to date this year's packages for the freezer and use all left over food first.

Grandparents, keep all insecticides and cleaning chemicals out of the reach of your visiting grandchildren.

Save labels from new clothes and write the name of the garment on each label to assure correct laundering or cleaning.

To keep nylon rope or cord from unraveling, heat the cut ends with a match until the plastic starts to melt.

One thing local travelers will discover this year, according to preliminary surveys, is that they will need fatter pocketbooks than before.

Based on reports from the American Automobile Association, a Deaf Smith County couple, traveling modestly, will be spending approximately $69 a day, or about $12 more than was required two years ago.

That amount will take care of their necessities but not such extras as amusements, souvenirs and other purchases.

Thus, a two-week trip will cost a local couple a minimum of $966. It assumes that they will get 13 miles to the gallon and will cover an average of 300 miles a day.

The $69 daily budget includes $25 for lodgings, $24 for meals, $15 for gas and oil and $5 for miscellaneous needs.

In connection with its report on vacation costs, the AAA has also issued new figures on the annual expenses involved in owning and operating a car, which often takes more out of a family budget than anything except housing and food.

Its findings are that the average owner, with a medium-price, standard-size car has an annual bill of $1,831, or 18.3 cents a mile when driven 10,000 miles. That is an increase of about 3 cents a mile since 1973.

This takes into account the fixed costs—depreciation, insurance, license fees and such—of $1,186. The largest single item is depreciation, listed at $773.

The running costs, covering gas, oil, tires and maintenance, come to $645 for 10,000 mile operation, or 6.45 cents a mile.

On this average basis, it is estimated, Deaf Smith County residents are spending some $16,113,000 a year to own and operate the 8,800 cars in use locally.

TREES FOR INDOORS

Tall-growing plants, many of which are literally trees, add height and drama to rooms and they actually require less care than most of the smaller houseplants you might have. Here are five good ones for indoor gardeners who've never tried a tree before.

* Norfolk Island Pine, or Araucaria heterophylla, gives one the feeling of a pine forest right in the living room. It grows natively in islands where soil may be fairly dry but humidity is high. Duplicate these conditions and place your Norfolk in a sunny spot and it will do beautifully.

* The species of bamboo, bambusa multiplex, is actually a variety of grass and not a tree, but it can grow indoors from four to five feet.

Members of Four W's Assemble For Meeting

Members of the Association of the four W's, Hereford Chapter, met recently in Deaf Smith County Library.

Mrs. Leon Vogler presided over the business meeting at which time material was distributed and discussed on "How to Write Effective Letters to Your Legislators."

Some of the points presented included on colored stationary from handwritten letters, keep letters brief, emphasize only one main point and never use threats.

During the program a tape by Lottie Beth Hobbs, president of the Association of W's, vice president of Eagle Forum and editor of the newsletter of the W's, was heard.

Mrs. Hobbs said, "God created man and woman to be different. Neither is inferior nor superior to the other. But he did designate the different roles to be performed. Why? Because that is necessary for harmony and unity."

She continued by saying, "Do not minimize the role of the family, the role of motherhood and the role of the wife. The Godly woman has always been a liberated woman."

Mrs. Hobbs suggested reading chapter 31 of Proverbs which describes the Godly woman.

She went on to say, "The humanists, behavioral psychologists, the feminists, the leaders of the feminist movement are some of the people seeking to destroy the values of the Christian, the family and the church as we have always known it."

"One of the ways they seek to accomplish this is through the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. I believe that the ratification of ERA will harm the Christian structure and the Christian values that are so necessary not only for Christians as individuals, for the church as a whole, but for the good and stability of our nation."

Before the close of the meeting, it was announced that members will meet at 7:30 p.m.

May 11 at Community Center. The public is invited.

"It's not the work I enjoy," said the cabdriver. "It's the people I run into."

Man's struggle is to keep his earning capacity up to his wife's yearning capacity.

There's no such thing as the large economy-size package for government spending.

Beef Offers Top Values

Beef supplies are increasing and offering "excellent values" at Texas grocery stores. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reports of current buying trends.

"Most of this increase is from grain-fed cattle—and 'specials' include rib roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, steaks for broiling, ground beef and liver," she added.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas

A&M University System. Other economy-meat choices are fryer chickens and turkeys, she said.

At dairy counters, "milk and milk products offer true nutritional value for the money—with cheese an 'all-time winner' that can serve as the protein food for some meals."

Vegetable counters offer attractive prices on broccoli, cabbage and carrots—along with spinach, mustard, collard greens, turnip and greens.

"Potatoes are one of the best choices, price-wise, with prices lower than they have been for some time, and there are more potatoes-by-the-bag features, too," Mrs. Clyatt noted.

"Asparagus prices, although never low, are starting down as supplies increase. Also, strawberries are more plentiful, but the supply depends on weather conditions, as cold or rain retards harvesting."

Breast with ribs attached account for slightly less than 30 per cent.

State Volunteer 4-H Leaders Group Is Formed

Texas 4-H leaders have pledged themselves to a more active role in promoting 4-H and in improving the quality of volunteer leadership by forming a state volunteer leaders association.

Called the Volunteer 4-H Leaders Association of Texas, the organization was formed April 9 during a state 4-H Leader Forum at the new Texas 4-H Center near Brownwood.

Heading the new association is Jack Fambro of Breckenridge.

Other members of the executive committee are Mrs. Barbara Sandlin of Springtown, first vice president; Mrs. Joan Adams of Odem, second vice president; Mrs. Ruth Stanford of Woodville, secretary; and Kenneth Brose of Lockney, treasurer.

Three special committees were also appointed to deal with the key areas of leadership development, resources and public relations. Chairing these committees are Mrs. Mary Howard of Devine, leadership development; Montie Cameron of Kirkland, resources; and Mrs. Teddie Belin of Conroe, public relations.

The board of directors of the state association is made up of two volunteer leaders from each of the 14 districts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the parent organization of the 4-H program. The executive committee comes from within this board.

All of the state's volunteer leaders which total 14,533 will be members of the Volunteer 4-H Leaders Association of Texas, noted Dr. Warren Mauk, 4-H and youth specialist for the Extension Service.

"Purpose of the association is to promote the development of voluntary leadership in 4-H," he emphasized. "4-H is extremely dependent on the number and quality of volunteer leaders, and this newly formed organization is dedicated to this purpose."

Mauk pointed out that the formation of a state 4-H volunteer leaders organization had been under consideration for several years by both volunteer leaders and the professional staff of the Extension Service.

"Formation of the state association is a historic event culminating several years of thinking and evaluating," said the 4-H and youth specialist. "The leaders enthusiastically accepted the idea of a state organization and felt that a milestone had been reached in its formation. They are dedicated to promote 4-H and develop volunteer leadership."

Mauk noted that leader education and development programs will receive major emphasis by the new association. He also pointed out that the association will enable volunteer leaders to promote 4-H on a parallel with the Texas 4-H Council and the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation. Organization of 4-H volunteer leader groups has been active across the nation in recent years. Texas is the 21st state to form a state volunteer leaders association.

Just a little over 100 years ago, it was believed by the American people that taking a bath too often was uncalled for and even dangerous to one's health. In Pennsylvania, there was even an attempt to make it illegal to bathe from November to March.

When the bathtub "hit it big" in England, the American public denounced it as an "epicurean innovation from England designed to corrupt the simplicity of the Republic."

One can imagine the public furor that arose in 1851 when it was announced that a bathroom was to be installed in the White House, says Mrs. Janice Carberry, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

FRIENDSHIP THROUGH FAITH SPANS INTERNATIONAL BORDERS

With the celebration of Canada-United States Goodwill Week, designed to promote better understanding between two countries, we are reminded that there is no finer example in all the world of international trust, respect and harmony than our three thousand miles of unguarded boundary line. No matter which side of the border you live on, you have the heart-warming assurance that your neighbors across the way are friends who wish you well and would help you in any way they could. This is the spirit of peace and brotherhood that is taught by every faith and recurs in many forms throughout the Bible. Learning to love your neighbor is the first lesson you receive when you attend the Church of your choice on the Sabbath.

Three thousand miles of border line—nor fort nor armed host
On all this frontier neighbor-ground, from east to western coast...
God speed that surely dawning day—
that coming hour divine—
When all the nations of the earth shall boast such border line.

—Guy Willis Bilsland

41 States Now Ban Use Of Bald Tires

Minnesota has become the 41st state to ban use of bald tires on passenger cars, according to the Tire Industry Safety Council.

The Minnesota law, effective August 1, 1976, prohibits use of tires with tread worn below 1/16 inch. Unsafe tires with exposed ply or cords, visible bulges, cracks or cuts are also banned. Violations may result in fines up to $100.

"Minnesota's action is a big step forward in highway safety, because bald or underinflated tires are the ones which get into accidents," said Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

Minnesota's new law applies to automobiles with a capacity for up to nine passengers and other highway use motor vehicles using passenger automobile type tires. Motorcycles and motor scooters are excluded. It was signed by Gov.

Wendell R. Anderson on March 5, 1976.

Enforcement by the Minnesota Highway Patrol may be a visual inspection or physical measurement with a standard gauge.

Forty other states and the District of Columbia now require a minimum tread depth of 1/16th inch, by law or regulation. California requires a 1/32 inch minimum.

A landmark in-depth study of 1,305 accidents by highway safety researchers at Indiana University for the U.S. Department of Transportation found only bald or underinflated tires involved in mishaps resulting from "vehicular factors." No properly maintained tires were involved in any of the accidents.

Vehicular factors of all types caused only 4.2 per cent of the accidents. Human factors, mainly driver error, caused 83.2 per cent. Environmental factors caused 16.4 per cent.

More Protection To Be Afforded Credit Buyers

May 14 will be a turning point in credit policy history, Lynn Bourland, a family resource management specialist, says.

"The holder-in-due-course doctrine will no longer automatically require credit users to continue payments when they were defrauded by the seller," she explained.

Miss Bourland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Leaning toward helping the consumers, this new Federal Trade Commission ruling keeps lenders and finance companies holding a contract from repossessing merchandise or demanding payments when the consumer cannot get the seller to stand behind his product," she explained.

Under certain conditions consumers can stop payments and get back money already paid on installment contracts when their complaint is stalled by the seller, the specialist continued.

To be protected by the new ruling:

-Your claim must be valid, and you must document with evidence that you have been defrauded or deceived.

-Your credit contract must have been arranged or recommended by the seller involved, or he may have sold it to another creditor. If you finance the purchase on your own, you may not be protected.

"Credit card purchases are not covered by this rule. But similar protection is provided under the Fair Credit Billing Act.

"Traditionally, legal acts governing credit contracts have been strongly oriented toward protecting the creditor to promote free enterprise. This new ruling indicates increased awareness of the role of the consumer in the free enterprise system," she said.

Some children suffer from "poverty of the trapped."

Through generations of poor education, discrimination and malnutrition, they no longer have the will or stamina to get themselves out, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, notes.

The new season's shoes will offer something for everyone. They range from dressy pumps to sporty boots. Heel heights also will vary from high and slender to low and chunky. Margaret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reports.

Program Praised

"The Hereford Day Care Center is great," stated Mrs. Dale Scott who brings her five-year-old son Jason to the center. "They provide excellent supervision for the children as well as having great teaching facilities. They also employ a very good cook." A building expansion program is being conducted to provide space for 20 more children. The project, which will cost approximately $18,000, will also provide more services for pre-school children. Donations are being sought and gifts to the Center are tax-deductible as charitable contributions, according to Robert Mayfield, chairman of the board of directors at the center.

Author Reveals Suspence, Drama

"The Singing Swans" by Alexandra Manners and "Thurber" by Burton Bernstein are the two books being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

"Thurber" is a biography which presents an insightful and entertaining view of the complete man, his erratic life and hectic times.

Girls State Delegates Chosen

Delegates to American Legion Girls State have been selected at Hereford and Adrian High Schools.

Melinda Gonzales, a junior at Hereford High School, has been selected as the Hereford delegate. Miss Gonzales is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isabel Gonzales of 414 Long.

Dee Ann Caison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.D. Caison of 147 Liveoak was selected as the HHS alternate.

At Adrian, Sherry Blankenship, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Blankenship was selected as the Girls State delegate.

Selected as alternate was Nancy Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Scott of Adrian.

Girls State will be held at Seguin June 8-18. Hereford's American Legion Auxiliary sponsors the attendance of local delegates at the function.

"The Singing Swans" is set against a background of ancient myth and present danger. The main character in the book discovers the terrible secrets of the three deaths while love and evil in an adopted land.

open free to the public from 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. other weekdays and until noon Saturday.

THURBER
By Burton Bernstein

"Thurber" is not just the name of one of the world's greatest humorists and artists. The word "Thurber" has become a part of our vernacular—the "Thurber woman," the "Thurber dog," the "Thurber man," are all instantly and vividly recognizable. No other description is really needed.

What sort of person created those creatures who bear his name? In this authorized, yet frank and uncensored, biography of James Thurber, the complex, fascinating, contradictory man himself is revealed for the first time.

The forces that shaped him from a handicapped, naive Ohio boy into a brilliant, original international literary figure are sensitively detailed by Burton Bernstein, a New Yorker writer, who has based his definitive portrait on private papers, letters, and exhaustive interviews with those who were closest to Thurber.

THE SINGING SWANS
By Alexandra Manners

Meraud Pomeroy spent her first ten years with Louise, her beautiful but heartless mother, in nineteenth-century Paris. When her mother is brutally murdered, Meraud is whisked from the familiar environs of France to the cold and hauntingly beautiful Isle of Skye in Scotland.

There Meraud lives with the man she believes to be her natural father, Monsieur London MacDonald. Brooding and taciturn, his face fearfully scarred, he has three times been the first to find the corpses of people close to him—his own mother, a local girl whom he loved and, most recently Meraud's mother.

His housekeeper, Meg, is a dour old maid who, the gossipy townspeople say, is a witch with secret powers. Together, they inhabit a dank, joyless monster of a house, a dark stone building as forbidding as its inhabitants to the young Meraud.

Surrounding the promontory on which the house stands is Swan's Bay, named for the swans that sing when death is in the air. Those swans signify to Meraud her doubts and fears—that Monsieur was involved in the three mysterious deaths—and her hopes and expectations—that she may one day cease to be an ugly duckling.

Meraud's lone flicker of comfort comes from Madame Rohaise. Strikingly attractive and just widowed, she is hired as Meraud's governess, helping her adapt to her new home and yet offering a link with her French upbringing. And there's Nicol, a handsome and charming youth who diverts, and sometimes scares, Meraud with his tales of the local superstitions.

WHO WAS THAT LADY?

Though not from a wealthy family, she managed to graduate from Greensboro Female College in North Carolina in the early 1800s, when only affluent women had higher education. Later, she persuaded her husband to invest in a college for women without rich parents. Boarding them in her house, she taught them in the seminary she had constructed next door. Who was this pioneer? Marinda Branson Moore, later known as Grandma Moore.

Sauce Uses Leftover Easter Eggs

Leftover colored Easter eggs won't present any problem to an imaginative cook, Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist says.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"To spark the homemaker's creativity, the following quick egg sauce adds variety and nutrition to cooked vegetables."

"Add chopped ham or poultry to the sauce, pour over toast, poorboy rolls or biscuits for a quick, easy and inexpensive evening meal," the specialist said.

QUICK EGG SAUCE

- 1 10 1/2-ounce can cream of celery soup, undiluted.
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons green pepper, finely chopped
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

Combine all ingredients. Heat to simmering. The recipe yields two cups sauce for about six servings at about 70 calories per serving.

Cotton Is Tops For Summertime

Cotton is The Fabric for summer-woven, knitted, in solids and prints, it's popular for sports, casuals and dress up clothes, Marlene Odle, clothing specialist, reports.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Brights, whites and stripes head the scene for cool comfortable looks in gauze. And cotton knit T-shirts will be worn with skirts and shorts made of poplin broadcloth with napped, lustered and brushed surfaces," she said.

The homespun-peasant cloth, wrinkled cottons, linen looks and burlap-like wovens will be used for dresses and skirt suits, she continued.

New textures of seersucker and blister fabrics are seen in caftans and jumpsuits.

"The colorful prints-Persian and batiks, florals and borders-are found in blouses and dresses."

GSPA Seeking Legislation To Allow Joint Crop Marketing

Members of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association have adopted a resolution seeking legislation which would allow producers to join together to market their own crops.

The move came after the Federal Trade Commission rejected an orderly marketing plan devised by the GSPA.

The plan had been presented to and endorsed by several commodity organizations, banking and elevator representatives. It was designed to provide a systematic flow of grain into the market while assuring parity prices for farmers.

After presenting the proposal to the FTC, GSPA executive director Elbert Harp was told the proposal "would not be tolerated in any form," and was warned that legal action would follow if the plan were pursued.

Members of the GSPA indicated that they will continue to work toward implementation of some type of marketing plan by initiating legislative action which would give the farmer the legal right to market his own grain without intervention by the government.

At their annual membership meeting, GSPA members adopted a resolution supporting legislation which would adequately fund a federal regulatory agency fully staffed to the extent of supervising grain inspections and enforcing stiff penalties for all violations.

Speaking on grain grading, Harp commented, "We do not feel that federalizing the grain inspection would be any assurance that bribes and other mishandling of grain grading and handling would not exist. It is our view that we need a program of checks and balances which would be so rigid and with hard enough penalties to the violators that it would end any misconduct."

Taking up the matter of energy programs during their meeting, GSPA members resolved to continue working with state and federal agencies and private industry for adequate supplies of energy at justifiable prices in order to produce necessary food and fiber for domestic and export purposes and to encourage continued and expanded research in development of new energy sources.

On the subject of government intervention into free markets, GSPA members adopted a resolution supporting legislation which would require the President to establish a government loan of 100 per cent of parity on any commodity placed under export restrictions.

"Unless we have a program encouraging full production, the administration should not be allowed to restrict our overseas sales at times it seems politically advantageous to do so," Harp said. "There are bills in congress which are designed to help protect the farmers in case of an embargo or sales restrictions."

Members resolved to keep working for passage of legislation which would establish the commodity loan program at levels equal to the national cost of production and target prices at a minimum of 90 per cent of parity.

"The GSPA's policy has been to work for a government farm program which would keep the production of commodities balancing the supply and demand to assure prices at levels of parity, and to support a government loan program at levels that would assist farmers to use them in a program of orderly marketing," Harp explained. "The loan and target prices are unrealistic as now set," he added.

Peanut Growers Protest 'Vicious Lobby' Label

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Peanut Growers are not a 'vicious little lobby' as Secretary Butz has been referring to us—we are honest farmers producing a wholesome product and we are here to protest his efforts to wreck a farm program which has served both farmers and consumers well over nearly 40 years," a group of peanut producers told a House Agriculture Subcommittee here.

"We reject H.R. 12808. It is not a producer bill and it is not supported by the rank and file of producers. It is a Ford-Butz plan and it would be a wrongful, unwarranted and backward step," said the producer spokesmen appearing before the Oilseeds and Rice Subcommittee.

"It is not the nature of the peanut support program itself which has resulted in the advance in costs from $3 million in 1972 to $150 million 1974," Reuben L. Johnson, director of legislative services for National Farmers Union, told the subcommittee. "It is the way in which the program has been administered in the past two years in order to inflate its costs and force its termination."

"If the supply management provisions of the program had been used effectively, the cost of the peanut program could have continued to be very nominal."

But Johnson warned that an open-ended planting program could be even more costly to the federal government than the existing program, citing the reality that the fiscal 1977 federal budget for USDA will have to be enlarged by $128 million because of the adoption of an open-ended planting program on rice for 1976.

The NFU spokesman said that the consideration of a new peanut stabilization program should be left to 1977 as part of a comprehensive new farm and food policy.

"It does not make sense to adopt as a stopgap this year, an open-ended program which could not be part of a viable long-term stabilization program for peanuts," he said.

Appearing with Johnson at the Committee hearing was A. Jack Hall, of Windsor, Virginia, speaking for the Virginia peanut producing area. He said that if H.R. 12808 is approved, the peanut program is at an end. A double-price standard, coupled with open-ended production will bring boom-and-bust prices which will disrupt the normal stable market situation which has prevailed under the traditional program. Congress should also consider the sources of opposition to the present program before it takes action, Hall said.

Texas Farmers Union members participating in the hearing were Eldon Brauchle and Clyde Finch, both of Charlotte. The Farmers Union testimony also placed in the hearing record a statement opposing H.R. 12808 adopted at a meeting of peanut producers from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico held in Sherman, Texas in February.

ALDICARB PESTICIDE

Start with more control of nematodes, aphids, leafhoppers & leafminers. Finish with more sugar beets.

Just one application of granular TEMIK (R) aldicarb pesticide at planting gives outstanding control of cyst and root-knot nematodes. And there is no required waiting period between application and planting. Plant earlier and get maximum growing time.

Only TEMIK provides dual action control of nematodes plus insects. Applied into moist soil, the active TEMIK aldicarb is released into the soil. It is then readily absorbed by the roots of the seedling and moves rapidly to all parts of the growing plant. You get both contact and systemic control of nematodes, plus insects.

Strategies Mapped For Rural Growth

Several rural development strategies aimed at balancing rural-urban income by 1990 are analyzed in a U.S. Department of Agriculture brochure released recently.

The Economic Research Service (ERS) bulletin notes that "rural development requires a multifaceted approach which relies heavily on creating jobs in rural areas as well as on expanding the labor force to fill these jobs."

Seven separate rural growth strategies are evaluated: stop migration from rural areas, reduce population growth, expand the labor force, create jobs, increase resource productivity, expand capital stock, and expand markets.

Each of these strategies, if carried out alone by separate entities, is likely to fail, says ERS, because of unwanted side effects even though specific goals are met. "Instead, improved economic prospects for rural areas depend on a balanced mix of development strategies."

Commodity Topics

By E. Robert Florez
Registered Commodity Representative

Of all the livestock traded in Chicago, the live hog futures seem to be the most popular. Actually there are three separate commodity futures contracts for various parts of the hog and they are all traded at the same exchange, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. These three futures contracts are the live hog contract which refers to trading the entire hog on a live basis, the pork belly contract which deals only with meat and fat from the underside of the hog (uncured bacon) and the ham contract which comes from the rear of the hog. The most active of these three are the Live Hog futures and of course the notorious pork belly futures contracts. The ham futures market is seldom traded.

The live hog futures contract is one of the newest contracts for livestock. It began trading on February 28, 1966 and has grown in popularity and activity ever since. The contract calls for the delivery of 30,000 pounds of live hogs or about 130 to 150 hogs between the market weights of 200 to 230 pounds during the months of February, April, June, July, August, October and December. These delivery months were selected to aid the hedger or the professional producer, processor and merchandiser of live hogs and pork products.

The futures speculator however, is little concerned about the delivery specifications or procedures. All that really matters to live hog futures trader is that each 1 cent increase or decrease in the price per contract is equal to $300 in cash and that he can control the 30,000 pound contract for about $900 or about 6 percent of the contract's total value. If the contract is trading at 50 cents per pound then the real value of one contract is $15,000 (50 cents x 30,000 = $15,000). So, if a hog futures trader wants to buy let's say June live hogs at 50 cents a pound and the price increases to 51 cents, he has made $300 on his $900 investment. This is what is known as good "leverage." He also could have realized this return in one day, as the price for hog futures can move 1 1/2 cent per pound either higher or lower than the previous day's settlement price.

The hogs now look "bullish." That is hog prices are expected to appreciate in value from current levels into the late summer months and early fall. The reason for this expectation are many, but perhaps the best explanation lies in the recent demand spurge for red meat products and the accompanying increased slaughter of hogs to accommodate this demand.

The official slaughter figures released daily by the USDA are important to the hog trader. If slaughter is down or declining in number relative to previous year's, this is usually a "bearish" fact, indicating that demand is poor and supplies of pork are adequate and that a build-up of additional pork inventories are not required.

Hog slaughter in January, February and March was greater than expected. Also the average weight of the hogs during this period declined sharply. This means that even though the number of hogs slaughtered was increasing daily to meet the increased demand for pork, the average weights of the hogs were decreasing. This is a very bullish situation and has contributed in no small part to the phenomenal price increase of live hog futures from a low point of 41 cents in early December to the high point reached last week in the June live hog contract of 52.80 cents per pound. In real dollar values this is an increase of more than $3,600 per contract, a good return for only a $900 investment made only four months ago!

Traditionally, the price for livestock has been determined more by demand fundamentals than by supply. That is, if demand for pork is strong then prices could go very high before demand is curtailed. This year, given an improving economy, less unemployment, and more disposable income per family demand for meat and in particular pork products, could become very strong indeed, especially during the late spring, summer and early fall. Also remember that last year, a year of relatively poor demand fundamentals, prices for hogs at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange peaked at over 65 cents per pound because of a low hog supply on farms. Since there are only about a 1 percent greater supply of hogs this year than last (according to the latest USDA Pig Crop Report) and a sharp increase in disposable income (potential demand), it seems reasonable to assume that live hog prices this summer will approach or exceed those of last year.

PRICES HOLDING

Consumer food prices on the average held steady during the first three months of this year, the first quarterly leveling off in more than four years, the Agriculture Department said.

Newly elected at this meeting were John Anderson, Hale County State Bank, Plainview; Duncan Ellison, Water Inc., Lubbock; Tommy Farris, farm-

Rice Picture Bleak For U.S.

It looks like rice producers in the United States are faced with a "feast to famine" situation.

After several years of record setting rice prices, producers are now planting their 1976 crop confronted with an uncertain market due to record domestic and world rice production last year.

That assessment of the rice producers plight comes from Dr. Randall Stelly, marketing economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"The thing that is really casting a dark cloud over the rice market this year is the possibility that U.S. rice stocks on August 1 could be five times the level of last summer—34 to 35 million hundredweights compared to only 7 million hundredweights," points out Stelly. "The main reason for this drastic increase is a 14 per cent increase in production from 1974 to 1975 coupled with almost a 16 per cent decrease in exports due to strong foreign competition."

As far as the current crop year is concerned, rice production both in the U.S. and the world is expected to be high again, bringing further pressure on the already glutted market.

"A startling fact is that about 45 per cent of last year's U.S. rice crop has still not moved into market channels," emphasizes Stelly. "And in three months the new rice crop will start coming in. Unless some rice currently in storage is moved, a real bottleneck will exist—to say the least. Marketing activity is almost nonexistent at this time; even exports under Public Law 480 (food aid) are moving slowly."

Current rough rice prices are about a third less than they were a year ago, according to the er, Floydada; Gary Fletcher, First National Bank, Plainview; Mack Hunter, City National Bank, Plainview; Gary Ivey, farmer, Ralls; Carl King, farmer, Dimmitt; La Marr Ramsey, farmer, Plainview; and Bill Walden, farmer, Hereford. Also given an Honorary Trustee for Life membership was Mr. E. J. (Joe) Foster, Lockney.

Officers of the Foundation, now co-operating with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, along with an Executive Committee, are elected annually. These include J.B. Wheeler, Chairman; Ray Joe Riley, Vice-Chairman; Don Marble, President; J.D. Smith, Vice-President; Sam Thomas, Secretary-Treasurer; Jack Cloude, Executive Director; Don Anderson, Elbert Harp, Carl King, La Marr Ramsey, Pat Shepard, Graddy Tunnell, C.I. Wall, and Leo Witkowski.

Members of the various agricultural commodity organizations expressed optimism about the research program and the scientific staff, especially since the Research Foundation has joined hands with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Jarvis Miller, Director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, expressed his appreciation for the inputs from area agricultural leaders and businessmen from the West Texas area, and complimented the co-operative attitude of the Board of Trustees of the High Plains Research Foundation.

Dr. Bill Ott, Resident Director of Research, Lubbock-Halfway, reviewed the research program and stressed the fact that an expanded program was being conducted in corn and small grains, even though there were limited funds for this type of research. Dr. Ott introduced the research staff and explained each of their specialized fields of research. Dr. Bill Lyle, Water Engineer at the Experiment Station west of Plainview described plans for a detailed program on total water-use efficiency. Dr. Lyle also explained the design of a new irrigation well to be drilled at Halfway, in an effort to produce, as nearly as possible, a sandfree well, with maximum efficiency for energy savings. More information will be provided about this concept in the near future.
