Hereford Men Die in Double Stabbing

BY PAUL SIMS Managing Editor

Hereford police today are investigating the murder of two 41-year-old brothers-in-law, who were stabbed to death in front of 107 Ave. J around 9:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Police would not say if Mario Salazar Coronado.902 E. 16th, and Jose Inez Gutierrez, 107 Ave. J. killed each other or if a third party, who may have used a baseball bat to attack Gutierrez, would be

"It's under investigation. It's possible that the two men stabbed each other to death, but we're going to have to get additional statements from witnesses and lab results back before we can make an accurate determination," Detective Roger Scott said.

"All we've got right now is two dead bodies and some witnesses who are all upset over the death.'

According to police and sheriff's office personnel who assisted in the murder investigation, the emotional families of the two men gathered at Deaf Smith General Hospital following the fight and had to be controlled by law enforcement Officers received a call from Deaf Smith General, which learned of the stabbings from Coronado's son, Mario Coronado Jr. The hospital is located across Park Ave. from the scene of the Coronado was found lying in a pool of blood in the street at 107 Ave. J. and Gutierrez was on the sidewalk when officers arrived.

According to persons investigating the murders, a butcher knife and folding hunting knife, along with a baseball bat, were used in the fight.

Coronado had been severely cut in the throat, back of the neck, left hand and above the right eye, while Gutierrez sustained a cut in his chest and a blow to the left side of the head, according to Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal. An Amarillo pathologist was to perform autopsies on the bodies this morning. "Hopefully, the autopsy will show us whether Mr. Gutierrez died from the stab wound to his chest or the baseball bat," Neal said. "Really, all we know right is it was a double homicide."

The two men were listed as dead on arrival at the Hereford hospital.

The fight apparently started as a domestic quarrel, Scott said. Investigating police officers included Scott, Detective Vernon Hope, Dale

Hurricane Spawns Tornadoes Along Eastern United States

By CHARLOTTE PORTER Associated Press Writer

Tropical Storm David spewed tornadoes from Virginia to New Jersey and caused flooding that forced hundreds to flee their homes today as it moved into the crowded Northeast still packing a destructive wallop.

Three more deaths were attributed to the storm, bringing the number of U.S. casualties to 13. David has caused more than 900 deaths since it was spawned in the Caribbean last week.

Some 800 to 1,000 people were evacuated from their homes in Maryland early today, most of them in Baltimore, where police were rescuing persons stranded in their cars or trapped in their homes as floodwaters rose. On one city street, floodwaters caused by 3 inches to 7 inches of rain piled cars on top of each

One man was killed when a tornado hit his trailer home in suburban Philadelphia, police said.

The tropical storm lost its hurricane force over land Wednesday as it passed. through the southern Atlantic Coast states, leaving behind a trail of downed trees and eroded beaches. Officials said they were relieved the damage wasn't worse.

"If you're going to have a hurricane, you couldn't have a nicer one," Jim Zumwalt, supervisor of South Carolina's Beaufort County, declared as Gov. Dick

At 3 a.m. EDT, the center of the storm was near latitude 39.5 north and longitude 77.5 west over north-central Maryland. It was moving north-northeast at 20 mph with winds of about 45 mph.

Gale warnings were posted from Savannah, Ga., to the Merrimac River of Massachusetts and were to be extended to Maine. The National Weather Service said there was a threat of tornadoes in Delaware, eastern Maryland, eastern Pennsylvania and southeastern New York and a threat of serious flooding from Maryland into New England.

David has caused damage estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars in its rampage through the Caribbean and the Southeast. The storm was blamed for $60 million in damage and six deaths in Florida where it first struck the U.S. mainland with hurricane winds earlier this week.

Two people were killed Wednesday in Virginia, where Gov. John Dalton declared a state of emergency after 10 tornadoes caused heavy damage. Officials said one person died in a traffic accident caused by rain-slick roads near Wytheville, Va., while another was killed when a tornado hit a house in Fairfax County. Fourteen people were injured and at least 350 evacuated as floodwaters rose and tornadoes formed over the northern part of the state.

Newport News officials said tornadoes caused an estimated $2 million in damage to that city.

High water and winds caused a temporary halt in some rail and air service in the Washington, D.C., area,

Gold Soars, Buck Falls In Heavy Arab Buying

LONDON (AP) - Gold soared more than $11 to a record $341.50 an ounce in Zurich today amid signs of heavy Arab buying. The dollar dropped, depressed by gold's burgeoning value.

The massive overnight leap was one of the biggest single jumps in gold's yearold climb. The closing figure in Zurich Wednesday was $329.875 an ounce - the previous high.

In London, gold opened at $337.625, up $9.75 from Wednesday's close. The British pound strengthened and was pegged in morning trading at $2.2490. It cost $2.2429 to buy a pound Wednesday.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 220.715 yen, down from 221.725 Wednesday. Dollar quotes elsewhere, compared to the company would be in financial danger if the Texas Public Utility Commission denies Bell's $145.2 million rate increase request.

Arab oil producers hold vast amounts of dollars, the currency used in oil deals. The Arabs' gold fever is helping weaken the dollar further.

R. McRae Geschwind of St. Louis, Mo., testified Wednesday before commission examiner Phil Ricketts. The commission expects to make a decision in early November.

Most of Bell's request - $105 million - consists of increases in monthly base rates of $1.55 for households and $4.65 for businesses.

PUC staffers have recommended rate increases totaling $136.4 million a year, with smaller hikes in business and residential monthly bills than Bell seeks. Geschwind was cross-examined at length by Ray Besing, attorney for Microwave Communications, Inc., which competes with Bell for long distance business and also buys local service from Microwave opposes any increase for Bell. "I don't think they are entitled to a goddamned dime." Besing said in a short attractiveness to investors.

"You may disappoint an awful lot of little old ladies with that answer." Besing rejoined.

Geschwind said the return to AT&T investors from Bell's Texas operations has been 9.97 percent, compared with the 12.35 percent allowed by the commission.

He said Southwestern Bell had not reached the allowed rate of return because its revenues were not enough to offset rising expenses and interest rates on borrowed money.

"Do you say Southwestern Bell is in jeopardy here today, sir?" Besing asked.

"Yes. Our earnings condition is severe enough that I am concerned about the future if we are not able to generate sufficient revenue to offset the increased cost of capital and increased operating expenses. ... If all the companies in the Bell system were earning as poorly as Southwestern Bell. AT&T would be in ieopardy." Geschwind said.

Merchants, Taxpayers Discuss Spill Woes

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, TEXAS (AP) - The shops' and businesses in this tourist-dependent town used to consider Mexico a friendly neighbor whose, wealthier citizens helped support the local economy.

That was until a runaway Mexican oil well dumped messy brown crude on South Texas beaches and chased away perhaps millions of dollars in summer revenues.

About 250 frustrated merchants and taxpayers turned out Wednesday to discuss how to recover those losses. Some leaned toward suing the Mexican national oil monopoly, Pemex, which operated the faulty well. Others proposed special travel packages with the airlines to attract business during the usually lean period until Christmas.

"We're giving aid to Mexico, aren't we?" Asked one voice in the crowd. "Why don't we just subtract that from the losses here? That would be one way to get it back."

Texas Attorney General Mark White sent a representative who could give few definite answers on if the state will sue Mexico or Pemex as a last resort. Even if the state files for damages, private businesses might not be covered under a future court award, said Assistant Attorney General Jim Marston.

It would be dificult to force Mexico to pay damages from a U.S. court judgment, conceded Marston.

The town residents shared more problems than solutions at the public hearing of the South Padre Island board of aldermen.

Walkout Spreads To 16 States

By The Associated Press

School officials struggled to hold classes today and some strikers faced judges' return-to-work orders as walkouts by more than 32,000 teachers spread to 16 states, including Alaska.

More than 700,000 pupils nationwide enjoyed an extended vacation or showed up for classes taught by administrators. non-strikers or substitutes, some paid as much as $100 a day.

One school in Daly City. Calif., a suburb of San Francisco, closed after only nine minutes Wednesday when more than 350 teachers struck the 6.600-pupil Jefferson Union High School District.

"It looks like we have a very effective strike," said Tom Fitzpatrick of the American Federation of Teachers Local Pickets went up around the 52 public schools in the Anchorage. Alaska, area Wednesday after rejection of an offer that would bring the average salary for the 1.900 teachers to $26,979 this year. The teachers wanted a boost to $27,944.

No further negotiations are planned and classes for the district's 38,000 pupils were conducted by substitutes and volunteer teacher.

Thatcher, Irish Head Hold Meeting

LONDON (AP) - Increased British-Irish exchanges of information on IRA activity are predicted as a result of a meeting between Prime Ministers Margaret Thatcher of Britain and Jack Lynch of Ireland following the funeral of Earl Mountbatten.

Mrs. Thatcher and Lynch announced after a five-hour meeting Wednesday they had "agreed on their determination to stamp out terrorism' .that "recent events require that the present extensive cooperation between the authorities of the two countries must now be substantially improved."

They declined to say how this would be accomplished, but informed sources said there probably would be greater exchange of intelligence between security forces on guerrilla activities of the Irish Republican Army, which blew up Mountbatten's fishing boat in Donegal Bay Aug. 27, killing him and three other persons, and later the same day killed 18. British soldiers in a double bombing in Northern Ireland.

Lynch said "a number of suggestions" were made that will be "actively followed up" in the next three weeks. But he added that "the best way to get results is to keep these matters confidential," and said he didn't think there would be any "dramatic announcements."

Egyptian Head Returns After Summit

HAIFA. Israel (AP) - President Anwar Sadat returns to Egypt today after a brief summit meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin that maintained the momentum of the peace process and produced agreement on three issues.

However, no progress was reported on the key problem of autonomy for the Palestinians living under Israeli occupation, and Sadat and Begin also were still split in the emotional issue of Jerusalem's future.

The summit, scheduled for only 49 hours and including only about three hours of face-to-face talks between the two leaders, was filled with warmth and expressions of optimism but short on major results.

Agreement was reached "in principle" on the questions of Israel's buying Sinai oil from Egypt, early return of Biblical Mount Sinai to Egypt and a temporary Israeli-Egyptian force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula. Sadat told a joint news conferenceonly brief discussion was needed to reach agreement on the three

Begin and Sadat also agreed to meet again in Egypt at a date to be set later.

Lynch said "a number of suggestions" were made that will be "actively followed up" in the next three weeks. But he added that "the best way to get results is to keep these matters confidential," and he said he didn't think there would be any "dramatic announcements."

The Irish government chief, wary of a backlash in the voting booths at home, already had turned down British demands for the right of "hot pursuit" of guerrillas who flee from Northern Ireland into the republic and for the extradition of IRA men wanted in Northern Ireland. "There's no way on earth that Lynch can be seen to hand over what some people see as Irish patrimts, the so-called successors of men who fought for Irish independence, to the former colonial power," an Irish source said.

Lynch had hoped to get Mrs. Thatcher to launch a new political initiative in Northern Ireland to get the Protestant majority to share power with the Catholic minority in a coalition government. Their joint statement said she agreed political moves would be "made at the appropriate time." Mountbatten was buried Wednesday afternoon at Romsey Abbey, near his country estate 80 miles southwest of London, after Britain's most impressive funeral since Sir Winston Churghill's in Thousands watched the two-mile funeral procession to Westminster Abbey of troops and veterans from the forces of Britain, the United States, Canada, India and France paying homage to the 79year-old World War II hero and last viceroy of India.

Headed by Queen Elizabeth II, Mountbatten's cousin, and her family, the 1.400 invited mourners in the abbey included three reigning monarchs and four deposed kings, the largest gathering of European royalty since the death of the queen's father, King George VI, in 1952.

Vance, speaking at a State Department news conference before going to Capitol Hill, said the administration "will not be satisfied with maintenance of the status quo" in Cuba. He did not rule out the possibility that the arms treaty would be hostage unless the combat capability of the Soviet troops were eliminated.

The secretary said he will begin discussing the issue with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin when the Russian diplomat returns to the United States Friday. "I do not want to go into what our approach will be," Vance said.

Baker, a treaty opponent, urged that the SALT hearings and debate not be halted by the controversy. "Maybe we ought to do that later if the Russians don't remove these troops," he added.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., a treaty supporter, said the troops issue "obviously complicates the (SALT) debate, at a a minimum."

He said the United States should not make any ultimatums to the Soviet Union at this point. "I don't think we should be closing off all doors of diplomatic retreat by the Russians," he said.

Biden suggested the issue might be resolved if the Soviets "disband the combat nature" of the troops, but stop short of sending them home.

Fireman's Helmet Symbolic Dream

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) - What American boy, in his secret heart, has not longed to have his very own fireman's helmet?

Not some plastic toy, but the real thing: black lacquered rockhard leather, brim curved up in front, down in back, big shield with a proud number - the hat of the hero in the third-grade reader climbing down the ladder with the frightened child.

"It is quite a symbol of adventure," Chris Coombs said," and it hasn't really changed in 143 years. The hat we make today looks pretty much like the first one made. I will show you."

He took from a cabinet a worn and weathered leather hat with the numeral "1" on the shield. Above the "1" was the name of the wearer's volunteer fire company, "Columbia;" below, the name of the wearer, "Gratacap." The first fire hat.
"Well," Coombs said, "I can't swear it is the first fire hat, but Henry T. Gratacap was the man who made the first fire hat and that was his hat. So at least it is one of the first ones made."

Chris Coombs represents the fifth generation of the only firm in America still making leather fire hats - two others sprung up briefly, and vanished, since Gratacap's day - and he regards his heritage less as a business than a sacred trust.

"As long as there are firemen who prefer leather helmets," he said, "Cairns & Brother will make them. It's our legacy."

Cairns & Brother were Jasper and Henry Cairns (or Henry and Jasper) who bought out Gratacap in 1850 and neatly avoided any top billing in their

Woman's Birthday List Grows

SMETHPORT, Pa. (AP) -As sure as birthdays bring cake, candles and gooey icing, they also guarantee a personal greeting for more than 3,500 people whom Shirley Keller calls her friends.

For the past 33 years, Mrs. Keller has been collecting birthdates, addresses and telephone numbers from people she meets. The list in her wellthumbed birthday book has grown steadily to 3,541.

"They look forward to it," she said. "Especially the people who don't have anyone and live by themselves. They really love it."

Most of the recipients of Mrs. Keller's birthday cheer live in and around this McKean County community, but some greetings make their way across the continent and even overseas. Most of the local celebrants are contacted by telephone.

Those who are out-of-town are mailed greetings.

For instance, exchange students from Germany, Japan and the Netherlands who have attended Smethport High School have made the pages of Mrs. Keller's birthday book.

Mrs. Keller, a night custodian at the county courthouse, says she can recall most of the names and dates with little trouble. Of course, she has missed a birthday or two, and she hears about it.

Mrs. Keller's standard operating procedure is to telephone the celebrant of the day and start right in with the song, "Happy Birthday." "Most know immediately who it is and reply, 'Hello, Shirley,

I've been waiting to hear from you," " she said. Many of Mrs. Keller's contacts remember her in turn. On her last birthday March 12, she received 136 telephone calls and 148 cards from people she had wished luck and happiness to many times before.

Jurors Watch Meeting

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Jurors have viewed the two components that make up the most damaging piece of physical evidence in the state's murder conspiracy case against Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Jurors first heard an audio tape then watched a silent videotape of a crucial Aug. 20, 1978, meeting between Davis Davis. and key prosecution witness David McCrory.

Prosecutors said they planned today to show the synchronized audio and videotape of Davis and McCrory discussing the "murder" of Judge Joe Eidson.

"I got Judge Eidson dead for you," McCrory said on tape. "Good," Davis replied.

"I'll get the rest of them dead for you. You want a bunch of people dead, right?" McCrory to get the gun.

"All right," Davis said.

McCrory's testimony and the tapes form the crux of the state's case against Davis, accused of soliciting the murder of

At that time, the 61-year-old jurist was presiding over Davis' turbulent divorce from Priscilla

The 45-year-old defendant maintains he was framed in a plot put together by Priscilla, McCrory and former Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson.

The videotape, made by FBI agents hidden in a nearby surveillance van, shows McCrory and Davis looking at a .22-caliber pistol and silencer in the trunk of Davis' Cadillac. Mc-Crory has testified that Davis asked him in an earlier meeting McCrory also said Davis gave him $25,000 at the Aug. 20 meeting to pay off the "hit man" who "killed" Eidson.

The judge was not harmed and was hidden in a Fort Worth motel at the time of the meeting. He had, however, posed as dead in a photograph that McCrory told jurors was his proof of the "murder."

Davis claims he never saw the photograph.

Prosecutors also played for jurors the tape of a 3 a.m. phone call McCrory made to set up the Aug. 20 meeting with Davis. Prosecutor Jack Strickland asked McCrory why he seemed so vague in the phone call.

"If I'd come out and said 'Cullen, the man has killed the judge and he wants his money' the phone would have gone 'click' and that would have been the end of it," McCrory said. 'Cullen, for God's sake, don't leave me hung out on this," McCrory pleaded just before the 3 a.m. phone call

"Why did you say that?" Strickland asked.

"If he (Davis) didn't follow through, the hit man was going to turn to me for the money and I didn't have any money to pay him," McCrory said.

"I had to make it look real and to make it sound real."

McCrory said FBI agents reassured him they could "see my eyes blink" during the meeting that led to Davis' arrest. "Were you nervous?" Strickland asked.

"Yes sir. Very nervous." McCrory replied.

Alamo Called Symbolic

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The Alamo, sacred to Texans, is a reminder to Mexico of territory "plundered by overbearing gringo neighbors" and symbolizes all that's wrong between Mexico and the United States, says Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt.

In an appearance Wednesday in the Alamo City, Babbitt also repeated earlier criticisms of Texas Gov. Bill Clements for Clements' "imperialistic" attitude in recent discussions with the governors of Mexican border states.

The criticism began last June after Babbitt, a Democrat, and Clements, a Republican, took part in a conference of Mexican and American border gover-

"We must forge a new relationship based on recognition of Mexico as an equal," Babbitt told a luncheon staged in his honor by two Mexican-American groups.

"But the Alamo is a symbol of the problem in our relationship with Mexico, a sacred symbol to Texans and an extension of the American ideal. But to Mexico, it's a symbol of territory lost, a nation plundered by overbearing gringo neighbors," he

Babbitt said both sides should readjust their view of such

The Arizona governor was in San Antonio, site of the famous 1836 Battle of the Alamo in the Texas Revolution, to study the city's downtown tourist development along the San Antonio River for a similar project in Phoenix. Almost half of San Antonio's estimated 800,000 residents have Spanish sur-met with several Mexican-American leaders.

In a verbal jab at Clements, Babbitt said, "We must cease gy in imperialistic terms. Instead of telling Mexico how to use American know-how in de-petroleum monopoly) to set up gas stations throughout the southwestern United States?

"The joint approach, where we tell Mexico how to develop its oil, went out in the 1930s,' added Babbitt. While saying Clements' approach was "imperialistic." Babbitt later before reporters Before the luncheon, Babbitt refused to be too critical of Clements' recent tour of Mexican border states.

"It's certainly within his rights as a citizen. The U.S. speaking to Mexico about ener- Constitution specifies that a governor has no authority to formulate foreign policy," he said. "But all citizens have the veloping their oil, why not urge right to share ideas with foreign PEMEX (Mexico's national nationals, even governors."

> Agreement was reached "in principle" on the questions of Israel's buying Sinai oil from Egypt, early return of Biblical Mount Sinai to Egypt and a temporary Israeli-Egyptian force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula. Sadat told a joint news conference only brief discussion was needed to reach zagreement on the three issues.

Begin and Sadat also agreed to meet again in Egypt at a date to be set later.

Sadat, apparently buoyed by Moroccan request for Egyptian military aid that seemed to crack the Arab front arrayed against his peace initiative, spoke optimistically at a joint news conference about the chances of Jordan and other Arab states joining the peace

He said he expected them to join "by the end of this year, Inshallah (God willing)."

He also expressed optimism that the autonomy talks would achieve r results despite the current slow pace and the lack of agreement on the future of Jerusalem.

"We need more time, more careful study for the whole thing." Sadat said of the Jerusalem problem.

Egypt contends Jerusalem's 100,000 Arabs should be part of the autonomous Palestinian area, with voting rights to elect a self-governing council. Israel, which annexed predominantly-Arab East Jerusalem after capturing it in the 1967 war, says

But Begin told the news conference: "Jerusalem is the capital of Israel. It is indivisible."

Although the two leaders discussed autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, Sadat said: "We don't work on details. Our ministers are working on the details of elections and so on, but we discussed principles rather than

What is a budget loan?

If you select a budget loan as the means to purchasing a home, your monthly payments cover the principal and interest installments on the mortgage indebtedness as well as one-twelfth of other expenses, such as taxes, insurance, assessments and other charges against the property. The lending firm keeps these payments in a reserve account and pays the charges as they become due. By meeting the regular installments of a budget loan, you acquire thrift and savings habits and the assurance that monies for taxes and insurance will be available when necessary. By establishing a good record in the payment of a budget loan, you build your equity in the property being purchased and establish a credit standing in the community. As you regularly reduce the mortgage, you become known as a property whose credit rating may be counted as a financial asset.

Dallas Look Changes

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Strange strategic things are happening on the field with the Dallas Cowboys this year.

Like the three-man front Coach Tom Landry threw against the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday in an effort to shut down quarterback Jim Hart's bombs to wide receiver Mel Gray.

And the play calling of Landry, who ordered quarterback Roger Staubach to pass nine times on a first down.

Not even as astute an observor as Cowboy President and General Manager Tex Schramm noticed the subtle change from Landry's flex to the three-man front which yields rushing vardage but enables the secondary to double cover the wide receivers. "I sat right there the whole game and looked at it but I didn't realize it was a three-man front until I read it in the paper the next day," said a dumbfounded Schramm. Landry said "Oh, we've done it a few times in the past. It keeps 'em off balance. We feel like it worked effectively against the Cardinals." Dallas' usual alignment is four down linemen and three linebackers. The Cowboys normally use a three-man front only on obvious passing downs. Ermal Allen, special assistant to Landry, said the Cowboys passed 40 per cent of the time on first down against the Cardinals in the 22-21 victory. Normally Landry calls pass only about 28 per cent of the time.

'We wanted to keep their defense off balance," said Allen.

Landry said Tuesday that third-year veteran running back Tony Dorsett will start against San Francisco Sunday.

Dorsett suffered a cracked toe when he dropped a mirror on it in late July and played in only one quarter during the National Football League preseason.

Rookie Ron Springs subbed for Dorsett at halfback last Sunday and threw a touchdown

"Tony has been running very well but the toe is still sore when you touch it," said Landry. "It may take him two or three games to get right. I think he will play well.'

Landry said the grass field in San Francisco will aid Dorsett.

"The shoes you wear for grass are more supportive than the ones for artificial turf." said Landry.

Springs of Ohio State, one of seven rookies to stick with the Cowboys this year, may be moved to fullback for the 49er game because of injuries to Robert Newhouse, Scott Laidlaw and Larry Brinson.

Newhouse has a sore ankle. Laidlaw is bothered with a hamstring pull, and Brinson has a shoulder injury that will keep him out at least a week.

"There is a chance we will move Springs to fullback and we might possibly put Preston Pearson there depending on how things go in practice this week," said Landry.

Punter and backup quarterback Danny White took the cast off his broken thumb this week. He will still have to use a metal splint on the digit but can punt.

"I don't think he will be able to throw for several weeks because he still has a little metal splint on his thumb," said Lanin quest of the tennis Grand Slam, digging deep, deeper into his impressive arsenal. At the end, when Borg's backhand service return was wide, the fifth-seeded Tanner clenched his fists skyward. Hurricane Roscoe had struck Flushing Meadow.

Tanner, who lost a thrilling five-set final to Borg at Wimbledon, won perhaps the biggest match of his career Wednesday in the U.S. Open. His 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 quarterfinal victory was accomplished with the aid of 11 aces, 17 service winners and Tanner's unfaltering confidence.

'I found out right away what I did could work," said Tanner, who until Wimbledon had never reached the final in a major tournament. "It gave me con-

"I served well when I was in trouble and that's what it came down to. That and being lucky." Tanner appeared anything but lucky when, serving at 5-3 in the fourth set and after slamming his 11th ace of the match to save a break point, one of his serves hit the net and the net collapsed. A seven-minute delay followed while a new net was put in place.

"That gives you too much time to sit and think," Tanner said. "All I thought was, 'two more aces.'

Before play resumed, Borg and Tanner were allowed a short warmup. They exchanged friendly pit-pats to loosen up, then went back to war.

Tanner immediately hit a service winner for his first match point. After a long rally, Borg hit a short lob and Tanner extended heavenward for the overhead smash that would win the match.

'When I saw it, I felt very lucky," he admitted. "After I hit it, I felt very unlucky.

"I mistimed it and overhit it," he added of the overhead, which soared into the first row

Tanner got another match point when Borg hit a backhand out but he hit a forehand into the net for deuce and Borg passed him twice to draw to 4-5. Borg then held serve, his seventh ace securing the 5-5 tie. "You can't think you've blown the match or else you probably have blown it," Tanner noted, "I was thinking, 'Let's get back the concentra-

Both held serve again to head into the tiebreaker. Borg made four clear errors in the tiebreaker, which Tanner won 7-2.

Asked what was different about this match and the Wimledon final, Tanner cracked "The ending. "Wimbledon has been a factor in my play overall everywhere," added Tanner, who next meets the winner of tonight's Vitas Gerulaitis-Johan Kriek quarterfinal. "You realize you can play in that category with the champions."

Borg, who has never won the U.S. Open, credited Tanner with "always putting the pressure on my serve and getting his first serve in on all the important points." The Swede didn't seem too disturbed at the end of his Grand Slam quest he won the French as well as Wimbledon this year and had the Australian left had he won

"I wasn't thinking about the Grand Slam, I was thinking about the U.S. Open," he said. Jimmy Connors still is thinking about defending his title here after an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 victory over a tired Pat DuPre. DuPre, who felt he had been done an injustice by having to play again Wednesday after suffering severe leg cramps following a five-set victory over Harold Solomon Tuesday, clearly was fatigued. He held service just three times in 11 games.

"Maybe he was tired but if you're in shape, it shouldn't matter," said Connors, the No. 2 seed. "You have to be prepared to play the next day."

Connors' semifinal opponent will be the winner of today's John McEnroe-Eddie Dibbs

UCLA Mentor 'Learned Lesson'

AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) Throughout the 1978 football season, UCLA Coach Terry Donahue tried to keep a positive attitude about the Bruins' passing offense, a facet of the game he now admits was inefficient.

Just about every week, a reporter would ask the coach how many times his team would pass in the upcoming game. Donahue would respond with a predicted number of attempts that was seldom reached.

"I learned a painful lesson last year," Donahue told members of the media Tuesday when asked how many time the Bruins would pass in their season opener against Houston Saturday night. "I'm not going to say. I don't know. All I can say is we're going to try to have a good offense.

"Last year, we averaged 12 passes a game. I thought we would pass more than that."

Obviously, when a team's passing game is unsuccessful, the quarterback is a logical target for criticism. But Donahue, while not praising the performance of Rick Bashore, said there was a combination of reasons for problems in the Bruins' aerial game last fall.

"Our offensive line was very inconsistent," said Donahue. "Our wide receivers were partly responsible and it was partly my fault. I think it was several things that made it a tough sea-

"Rick has worked harder this summer then ever before to try to come back and have a good season," added Donahue. "If he goes into the Houston game and plays the way he did last year I'll be very disappointed. I don't think he will. I think he's fresher and more intent this year."

Bashore, a senior and the UCLA regular the past two seasons, made his first start against Houston two years ago at the Astrodome. The Bruins lost 17-13 but their quarterback had a good day, completing 16 of 27 passes for a career-high 245 yards and one touchdown. That was the beginning of a fine sophomore season for Bashore, but he completed just 62 of 129 passes for 811 yards as a junior. He was intercepted nine times and threw only two touchdown passes.

Despite their weak passing game, UCLA was 8-3-1 including a 10-10 tie with Arkansas in the Fiesta Bowl and the Bruins finished second to powerful Southern California in the Pacific-10 Conference race.

The loss by graduation of such offensive stars as James Owens and Theotis Brown and defensive standouts like Jerry Robinson a and Manu Tuiasosopo prompted media members on the recent Pac-10 Skywriters tour to pick the Bruins to finish sixth in the conference this fall.

"The low selection is a challenge, I'm excited about the season," said Donahue. "We have a young team, they're enthused and that makes me en-

"I don't think sixth is unrealistic," added the coach. "But I think in my heart that if we stay healthy we're a little bit better than that. How much better? I don't know.

"Injuries are going to play a very important role. That's the key for us, to stay healthy. I would feel a great deal more confident if I knew we could stay

Donahue said he'll know more about his team after Saturday night. Houston, ranked 16th nationally, is the defending Southwest Conference champion. The Cougars were 9-3 in 1978 including a last-minute 35-34 loss to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

starter Tommy John, 18-7, in the second inning for two runs on five hits, including Hobson's RBI triple. The Boston third baseman later hit a two-run homer in the eighth.

Tigers 9, Indians 3 Ron LeFlore's ninth-inning triple broke a 3-3 tie and ignited a six-run rally that carried Detroit over Cleveland.

Loser Victor Cruz, 3-9, walked Alan Trammell leading off the ninth. LeFlore followed with a line drive that bounced past charging Bobby Bonds in right for a three-base hit. Pinchhitter Al Greene walked and Steve Kemp followed with an RBI-single.

Aurelio Lopez, 8-4, got the victory with three innings of shutout relief.

Dressler Beats Texas Behind Horton Single

Seattle pitcher Rob Dressler was improving his control, Fergie Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was losing his.

The result in Wednesday night's American League pitching duel was a 1-0 victory for Seattle as Willie Horton singled home Julio Cruz, who had walked and stolen second, with two out in the first inning.

Dressler, 1-2, and Jenkins, 13-12, each gave up only three hits, but Dressler gave up only two walks before departing in the eighth inning while Jenkins issued nine walks to tie a club record.

"That's the neatest nine walks I've ever seen. He never threw a ball above the batter's waist." Dressler said.

"I've really cut down on my walks," the Seattle right-hander said. "The times I got behind on the hitters, I came

Pirates Retain Lead By Edging Cardinals

AP Sports Writer

When Darold Knowles fired a baseball wildly, St. Louis lost another ball game. But when San Francisco lost another ball game, it fired Joe Altobelli. Knowles, who had come on in the 11th inning with the bases loaded to face John Milner, tried instead to pick Bill Robinson off first base. He hit him instead, the ball bounded away and two runners bounded across home plate, giving the Pirates a 7-5 victory over St. Louis that kept them two games ahead of Montreal in the National League

San Francisco, which was supposed to be in the thick of things in the West, lost its seventh in a row, 6-5 to Cincinnati, and Bob Lurie, owner of the Giants, decided enough was enough, firing Altobelli and giving Dave Bristol his fourth shot at major league managing.

In the rest of the NL, Montreal beat Chicago 4-3, Houston shaded San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings and Los Angeles beat Atlanta 5-3, also in 10. The New York Mets' game at Philadelphia was rained out.

But Memphis State is still on the Cougars' minds.

"The kids are ready to play, they'd better be, but I don't feel we've jelled yet," Yeoman said. "We don't want to go through anything like Memphis State again this year.

"I hope we'll be able to look on the backside of two or three games and say we're a pretty good football team."

Yeoman keeps reminding the Cougars that "99 per cent of the game is played in the head," but it may not be necessary.

You don't have to remind me," said offensive guard Dennis Greenawalt. "I still have nightmares about that team."

Yeoman expects Bruin quarterback Rick Bashore to test Houston's defensive secondary early in the game. The Cougar secondary was burned often last season, finishing last in the SWC in pass defense.

"I'm sure we're going to have to stop the pass before we stop the run," Yeoman said. "Rightly or wrongly, we feel we may be able to do well against the run. We've shored up in the secondary too and I think we'll do a better job of pass defen-

ABC, ESPN Plan To Broadcast Games

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer OK, students. Time for our weekly television quiz: Who will be doing college football this year? (a) ABC, (b) ESPN, (c) Chris Schenkel, (d) Woody Hayes. If you answered the first two, you deserve a varsity letter.

ABC, the network with the roving eye for top-rated cheerleaders, will be doing the NCAA's glamour games for the 14th straight season. ABC gets first crack at the major college games and will be doing 13 national broadcasts and 45 regional telecasts live on Saturday.

ESPN (the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network) has a hand in the college game for the first time. ESPN will get. ABC's leftovers and will be doing those games at odd hours throughout the rest of the weekend. ESPN, a distributor of sports events for cable TV, plans to have 24 hours of sports potential audience of five million homes. This weekend, for example, ESPN plans taped broadcasts of four college games, including Chuck Fairbanks and Colorado against Oregon at 1:30 a.m. EDT and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Schenkel, a fixture on ABC's college football telecasts since 1966, has been dropped from the squad. He will be sharing the College Football Scoreboard assignment with Dave Diles, and he's not at all happy about the demotion. But the move was inevitable.

Schenkel is from the "geewhiz" school of journalism, and the broadcasting game seemed to have passed him by. While today's best announcers can honestly critique a bad performance. Schenkel was much more at home calling every player a credit to his school, family and country and commenting on the caliber of ABC's coach at Ohio State, won't be on the college scene either. The irascible Hayes was fired last Dec. 29 for punching Clemson player Charlie Bauman, who had had the audacity to intercept an Ohio State pass late in the Gator Bowl game. That infamous interception and punch in Jacksonville, Fla., caused numerous problems for ABC's main play-by-play announcer, Keith Jackson. He was bombarded with charges of covering up the incident because he never mentioned it on the air.

Jackson, who says he never did get along with Hayes, explained that the crowd of players, coaches and hangers-on cluttering the Ohio State sideline obscured his view of the punch. He never saw it on the field and couldn't see it on replay on his monitor, either.

Frank Isbell of the Chicago White Sox made four doubles in a World Series game in 1906.

IN WASHINGTON

Richard E. Cohen

WASHINGTON (NEA) - When senators return to work following the August recess, many will find to their regret that the nation's energy problems have not disappeared. Nor have President Carter's plans to remedy our excessive dependence on oil imports.

The Senate plans to begin work by mid-September on Carter's energy package. While the debate may not be as long or bitter as the filibuster that marked the Senate's handling of the olds are that the Senate will or bitter as the filibuster that marked the Senate's handling of Carter's 1977 energy plan, the odds are that the Senate will cut back substantially on his recommendations.

The centerpiece of Carter's televised energy speech in July was his call for an Energy Security Corporation, which would assist businesses developing new energy production techniques, especially the use of synthetic fuels derived from coal, natural gas, oil shale and other products.

For a projected cost of $88 billion, Carter said this program could produce by 1990 the equivalent of 2.5 million barriels of could projected cost of $66 billion, Carter said this program could produce by 1990 the equivalent of 2.5 million barrels of oil per day, currently the nation imports daily roughly 8 million barrels of the black gold.

But recent testimony by the head of the Office of Technology Assessment, a little known congressional office that analyses the long term implications of countific changes said.

lyzes the long-term implications of scientific changes, said Carter's plan is wrongheaded. "It is unrealistic to expect that synthetic fuel plants can supply more than a token amount of energy to this nation before the end of the 1980s," said John H. Gibbons.

He cited a litany of problems that will impede development of synfuels and increase their costs, including a lack of experience in building and operating the huge plants that would be required, severe environmental and safety costs and the desirability of experimenting with other new forms of energy.

Instead, Gibbons called for a stronger national commitment to conservation with sovernment beloing citizens to under to conservation with government helping citizens to under-stand the major savings from relatively inexpensive invest-ments. For example, he said the use of solar heat, such as windows facing south, is a cheap use of the sun's heat and the last inexpensive "source" of energy available to the nation.

Energy consumption also can be saved by converting homes and industrial plants to reduce their use of heat and hot water.

"A skillful program for retooling our industries and refurbishing buildings to reduce energy consumption can create and ensure employment in critical buildings and manufacturing industries in existing cities," said Gibbons. "The amount of energy which we can save in the next decade will almost energy which we can save in the next decade will almost certainly dwarf the amount we can produce from new sources during the same period."

Studies by the General Accounting Office concluded that it would cost the Treasury roughly one-tenth the money to save a barrel of oil by providing tax incentives to consumers compared to perchasing the equivalent amount by building a synpared to purchasing the equivalent amount by building a synthetic fuel plant.

Gibbons unveiled an alternative approach to Carter's plan for reducing energy imports. By allowing a 3 percent rise in energyo consumption during the next decade — compared to Carter's projected 20 percent increase — the nation would not have to launch a "crash" synfuels program with all its risks and financial burdens.

Of course, the only way to limit consumption without causing national economic problems is to encourage conservation.

Too many Americans regard saving energy as an admission of national failure and a sign that we can no longer have whatever we want.

In fact, national leaders should emphasize that steps suchs improving home insulation and storm windows, driving more efficient automobiles and using more modern industrial power processes is simply good sense.

At the very least, it should make more sense to the Senate than spending tens of billions of dollars in a few years for complex new plants with uncertain production capacity and potentially severe social costs.

COMMENTARY Donald F. Graff

The anatomy of terrorism

Terrorism is a weapon of weakness. Those who resort to it are in effect acknowledging that they are in a position of inferiority to their opposition, and that they do not have confidence in their ability to improve it by It also reeks of cowardice in that it is customarily employed against the weak, or the unsuspecting and undefended

Those who do resort to it usually believe they have good reasons and much to gain in doing so. They may be employing it as political blackmail, to extort funds and, above all, for publicity, to impress the public and weaken opposition.

The assassination of Earl Mountbatten is an appalling demonstration of the latter. His murderers could not have made a more devastating impression on the British public short of striking at the queen herself. And having come this close to the throne, there is no reason to doubt that they are capable of

The long-term effectiveness of terrorism is something else again. It rarely if ever gains or even significantly advances the ends that motivate the terrorists.

The Mountbatten murder recalls in some respects that of Count Folke Bernadotte 30 years ago as the Arab-Jewish war in Palestine was at its bloody and inconclusive climax. A member of the Swedish royal family heading the United Nations effort to effect a compromise settlement, Bernadotte was murdered by an extremist Jewish faction opposed to an approaching truce.

The event shocked the world, but it was a life taken to no on the course of events in the Mideast. The political and social forces then and now at work transcend the significance of any one individual.

Mountbatten's death is also the work of a faction — a faction, in fact, of a faction of the Irish Republican Army. It, too, shocks the word. But the likelihood that it will have an effect beyond that, encouraging British withdrawal from Northern Ireland, is slight, if the initial reaction of British press and officialdom is any indication.

And it is to be hoped that it does not instigate the opposite, a campaign of repression. For it is over-retaliation that the real dangers of terrorism often lie for its victims. They may be provoked into betraying the very values it has been their purpose to defend and that terrorism could not destroy directly.

Despite the havor they are capable of wreaking and the headlines they reap, true terrorists are few in number. And for all that they usually claim to be striking for a popular cause, their methods may represent little more than the acting out of their own black hatreds.

For all that their actions may be rooted in history, such as Ireland's tortured own, they are not revolutionaries motivated by a broad view of what is past and what should come but introverted fanatics. Theirs are warped, overly personalized psyches isolated from the spirit of the larger society.

This may be their weakness, but it also their weapon in a no-holds-barred assault upon that society. Being few they are difficult to identify. Being fanatic they are not open to reason and the recognition of the rights and interests of others that could lead to compromise. And being many, the individuals within a society are difficult to protect.

In the end, their outrages may have no real effect upon the march of history. They are no match for society's momentum. But so long as the terrorist is prepared to sacrifice everything and everyone to his warped purposes, every individual who does not share his fanaticism is a potential victim.

The sewing machine foot follows the edge of the metal plate but the needle does not touch it. # He Flies by Seat of Pants

(NEA) - In 1932, Clarence Stone took off with a nearblind stunt pilot on a fouryear adventure in the clouds

"Those were the good old days of flying," recalls ex-barnstormer Stone, now 72 and a member of the local airport authority. "You could make them (the planes) do whatever you wanted them to. I guess that's why I don't like flying like I once did. The new ones are faster, but they don't

Out of a job at the depth of the Depression, Stone accepted an invitation to go barnstorming from an Indiana stunt pilot named Earl Sark. (Sark now lives in retirement in Macon, Ga.)

"I needed the money and he needed somebody to go along with him," says Stone. But first he had to learn to

The early biplanes, their wings and fuselages covered with stretched fabric, had few instruments. Explains Stone, "You just flew by the seat of your pants."

Stone says that Sark, his teacher and partner, was an excellent pilot despite being "almost blind without his

"He could make those old planes do everything they Stone continues. "He took some of the damndest chances there ever was." He remembers Sark once flying low over a cornfield, lopping off the tops of corn stalks to stay below the electric wires.

The two set off on a 150mile barnstorming circuit. Stone went ahead on a motorcycle to put up posters announcing their show. Sark followed by plane.

The pair had a unique gimmick for drawing a

Many early aviators tossed hens from their planes at low altitudes, giving free rides to the people who caught them. Instead, Sark and Stone used a canine skydiver outfitted in a tailor-made parachute.

"It just came natural to him after a while," says Stone. "It got to where he'd walk out on the wing by himself and jump off."

· That part of their act ended in tragedy. "That lit-tle devil just walked right off the wing without his parachute," says Stone.

Each weekend, the two gave $1 plane rides to eager crowds, sometimes making as much as $100 a day.

"You'd get 'em off the ground and then bring 'em back. They didn't expect much of a ride for a dollar," says Stone.

Barnstorming was successful because airplanes were still a novelty.

"We'd hardly ever see another one," Stone says. 'You might run into one or two a year.

The pair had their share of crashes. Stone tells of the time Sark crashed their Woco-10 in a haystack after

"It gave me cold chills just to watch it happen," he continues. An upright metal pipe hidden in the hay "went up right behind Sark's back and tore the seat right out from under him.' The boys were uninjured and a doctor "patched Sark up" with more than 100 stitches. But the plane was totalled. So, they raised funds for a new one at county fairs with a "driverless Ford" rigged so it could be controlled from a secret compartment in the rear of

"Most old pilots didn't die in crashes," says Stone. He believes the planes' rela-tively low altitude and speed prevented many serious injuries from crashes.

"There was one old boy, though, who came through here a lot to see me and Sark," he remembers. "He kept a big, heavy horseshoe on his dashboard for good luck. One day it fell off the dashboard and locked up his instruments and he crashed." The man died from the injuries.

Stone himself nearly crashed on a trip back from barnstorming in northern Alabama. The night before, the pair had removed the plane's wooden control stick. The stick swelled so much in the morning dew that they had trouble getting it back into place for takeoff.

"Sark told me to just put it back in place without the pin and hold onto it real tight and it'd be all right," says

Aloft with Sark asleep in the rear cockpit, Stone leaned over the side to get a good view. When he straightened up, the stick came free in his hand.

"There I was with Sark asleep in the back and me up front with no controls," he says. "You've never seen anybody fighting like I did to get that stick back in place." Finally, with the plane losing altitude, the stick slipped into position and the journey was safely completed.

The pair continued barnstorming until 1939, when the government began clos-ing down airfields with the approach of World War II. Sark went on to teach flying at a military aviation school while Stone opened the appliance store that he operated until his recent retire-

Stone "just lost interest in flying" after the war and did not start again until 1960. But, he concludes, "it's just not the same anymore.

"I think we can restore the confidence of the deaf community in this commission and continue to increase the quality of services to the deaf people,' said Ralph White of Austin.

White, a programs specialist for the Texas Rehabilitation Commission here, Tuesday was elected chairman at the new commission's first meeting. The nine-member panel replaces a six-member commission that was abolished by the last session of the legislature.

The previous commission had drawn the ire of some deaf Texans who claimed it was insensitive to their needs. Only one member of the six-member

While White predicted the commissioners will be able to avoid some of the problems their predecessors faced, he said there is one problem that has not been solved-money.

"It is very negligible to say the most," White, himself deaf, said. "We'll have to spend very carefully."

The chairman agreed with other commissioners who complained that the legislature's $216,000 appropriation for hearing impaired Texans is inadequate.

Stan Neely of Dallas, the only carryover member from the previous commission, said increased appropriations are needed to serve the state's 860,000 citizens with hearing problems - including 120,000 who are legally deaf.

makers" who complained about the old commission, said it is unfair that the commission gets only $216,000 while the Texas Commission for the Blind works under a $14 million annual budget.

"There are three times more hearing impaired than blind in Texas. It would make sense that you would triple what the blind commission gets," Mrs. Lindsey said after Tuesday's

She also said the blind commission benefits from some $10 million in federal funds. The state allocation for the hearing impaired is too low to draw similar federal funds for the Texas Commission for the Deaf,

"The problem is all the other handicaps are visible to people. Deafness is not. The general public does not realize it is the most devastating handicap of all," Mrs. Lindsey said. "Most people think if you hang a hearing aid on a deaf person he walks out and can hear and talk. That's just not so."

Several commission members said the budget will restrict the availability of sign language interpreters. Recently enacted state law requires such interpreters for deaf persons involved in court cases or government hearings.

The commission Tuesday also chose Dr. Michael Moore as executive director. Moore served in that capacity under the previous commission.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I know you always stress exercise as part of weight loss. I'm 68 years old and 70 pounds overweight. I have high blood pressure that is under control. My doctor is after me all the time to lose weight As far as walking is concerned, I can only walk about an eighth of a mile and then the pain in the back of my leg, knees and ankles is so excruciating that I have to sit down or fall

Can you recommend some kind of exercise and diet I can follow? I know I don't move around very much.

DEAR READER eighth of a mile isn't very far. I think it's important that you discuss this problem with your doctor.

In view of the rest of your medical history, you may have some problems in circulation to your legs. If not, you may have another disorder that contributes to your developing pain with walking.

I know a lot of people past 80 who walk more than a mile at a time without any difficulty. Of course, most of them have built up to this level and have remained fairly active. They may not be as overweight as you are.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, that you can use as a guide. It will pro-vide you with about a 1300calorie balanced diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. The diet that I am sending you is only part of the picture.

As that issue of The Health Letter explains, exercise is important. If you can't walk, you're seriously limited in what kind of exercise you might do. If possible, you might try to exercise in a swimming pool. Even if you're not a swimmer, you might be able to do exercises in the water and that way gradually build up your exercise tolerance. Of course, if your doctor is able to determine why you have trouble walking very far and can do something about it, he could help solve that problem for you as well.

If it's just that you haven't done any exercise for so long that even walking an eighth of a mile is too much for you. you'll just have to start at a very low level and walk as far as you can without having pain. Rest and walk again Multiple short walks do about as much good as one long walk. But I do think you need to resolve the problem of why you have leg pain with walk-ing such short distances.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 13 years old and I have a big problem. My right breast is noticeably bigger than my left. Is this normal?

DEAR READER - Probably. I don't know how big the difference is, but it's certainly true that almost all women have one breast that's slightly different in size from the

You might be surprised to realize how asymmetrical the human body really is. Almost everyone has one leg that's just a fraction shorter than the other. Even the sides of the two halves of the face may look a little different. Unless the difference in your breasts is quite marked, I think you shouldn't worry about it.

Alaska May Drop Social Security

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) -Alaska's state employees -who have grumbled for years about Social Security's bite vs. its benefits in this high-cost state - will find out next week if they are getting out of the federal program.

If they do, they will be the first state-employed workers in the 50 states to do so, although state and local governments have through the years threatened to withdraw - and more and more local governments appear to be doing so. State workers had until last Tuesday to return mailed ballots on the issue. The ballots will be counted next Monday, and if a majority of those who returned them voted to opt out, the entire force of 14,451 state employees will be out of the program on Jan. 1. This year, 98 government bodies of various types have told the federal government they intend to withdraw from the Social Security program, Social Security Administration officials say.

That means 43,400 government workers in 16 states will drop from the program unless they change their minds by Dec.

At least 147 governmental bodies around the country employing 63,035 workers have given notice they will withdraw in 1981. Since only 20,000 workers were removed from coverage in 1978, there seems to be a trend toward withdrawal, at least by small government employers.

In Alaska, the 20 city workers in Haines withdrew from the system in March. Under notice that they will withdraw unless they change their minds are 17,036 workers in eight Alaskan communities - including the workers of North Pole - Social Security officials say.

The Alaska Legislature earlier this year approved a measure calling the state employees' election. A state-run program would replace Social Security if the vote is to drop the federal program.

The election comes at a time when Congress is considering mandatory coverage for all public employees, including federal workers who rebelled against the proposal in 1977. It also coincides with a Congressional Budget Office warning that inflation and recession could seriously affect the nanced by contributions by employers and workers. Alice M. Rivlin, director of the budget office, has suggested that part of Medicare, financed by Social Security, could be financed out of general tax revenues. And, Social Security Commissioner Stanford G. Ross has said 'painful adjustments' are needed in how Social Security is supported and what it pays if it is to remain solvent.

without Social Security coverage for state workers. State workers had been precluded from coverage from 1939, when the program went into effect, until 1954, when voluntary coverage was extended to public workers. The number of public employees choosing to get into the federal program grew rapidly; today about 70 percent of the country's 12 million state and local employees now are covered by Social Security, according to the Assembly of Governmental Employees.

The decision facing Alaska's workers is irreversible - once a government withdraws from Social Security coverage of its workers, it cannot rejoin. So the decision by the state employees who vote will bind their nonvoting colleagues and future state employees. On the other hand, if a study due to be completed soon recommends mandatory, universal coverage of public employees, and Congress acts on it, employees could find themselves forced back into the system that now pays monthly benefits to 35 million Americans. Alaska workers have complained for years about Social Security benefits and the higher cost of living here. The U.S. government recognizes the higher prices in its 25 percent cost of living differential to workers transfered to the state. Alaska pays its state workers more than other states, which means higher payroll deductions to support Social Security, workers say.

"You get 5 percent less and pay 25 percent more is what it amounts to," says Pat Murphy, executive director of the Alaska Public Employees Association.

The workers' decision is not an easy one. Their union leadership has decided against making a recommendation, though it pushed for three years for the opt-out vote. And the state is being careful to remain neutral.

Also, while the state has outlined in concept a proposed program to replace some Social Security benefits, officials have said that "no specific terms and benefits can prudently be promised."

Paul Arnoldt, director of the State Division of Retirements and Benefits who would oversee the state program, has described it as a "cafeteria-style" plan allowing workers to choose from a five-course "menu" based on an individual's circumstances.
