House kills $511 million reform plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - House members' rejection of a school finance reform bill will make it "very difficult" for the Legislature to resolve the issue before the special session ends, Speaker Gib Lewis said.

The House late Thursday voted 45-101 against a bill by Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, that would have pumped $511 million more into public schools in 1990-91.

The vote ended nine hours of debate in which more than 50 amendments were offered and the bill's cost was raised $61 million.

"Maybe I was the only one that was optimistic enough in the very beginning to think we could do it in 30 days," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who stopped short of declaring the issue dead for the session.

Thirty days is the maximum a special session can last, and Gov. Bill Clements can call an unlimited number of consecutive special sessions.

Lewis said he planned to meet with Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House leaders before the House met again at 10 a.m. Friday. Clements has vowed to veto any education bill that spends more than about $300 million next school year, the amount he said could be spent without raising state taxes.

Republicans and conservative Democrats, who wanted a lower price tag, led the charge against the bill. Some members of the House Mexican American Legislative Caucus also opposed it, saying more funding is needed in 1990-91.

Those differences demonstrate the complexity of trying to address the Texas Supreme Court ruling that the current school finance system is unconstitutional, Lewis said.

The court, which last year found glaring disparities between property-rich and poor school districts, gave lawmakers until May 1 to change the $13.5 billion-a-year system, which relies on a combination of local property taxes, state aid and some federal funds.

"You have one group that was opposed to the bill because it did not spend enough money. You have one group that was opposed to the bill because, just the opposite, it spent too much. Then you have one group opposed to the bill because of mandates to the districts that were unfunded," Lewis said.

Some supporters acknowledged the bill was imperfect, but urged its passage so that the legislation could go to a conference committee to work out differences with a $1.2 billion measure approved Monday by the Texas Senate.

"I think we're on a collision course with the Supreme Court. I don't feel like playing a game of chicken with them, because I think they're going to win," said Rep. Libby Linebarger, D-Manchaca.

But Rep. Eddie Cavazos, chairman of the House Mexican American Legislative Caucus, said, "We're not going to go up in smoke because the session ends next week."

"We cannot afford not to put more money into education," said Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi.

On the other side, Reps. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield; Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont; and Kent Grusendorf, R-Arlington, said the cost of the bill in future years was not entirely known, but could be too high.

"We don't need to fall prey to a billion-dollar tax bill," Stiles said.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has said he will withhold state monies to schools without a finance plan that meets the court's order, an action that could force the closing of Texas schools.

"I don't think people are going to build monuments to a Legislature and a governor that are so irresponsible that they'll allow our schools to shut down," Ms. Glossbrenner said.

C'mon, let's go!

A small boy is being coaxed and cajoled to go down a slide this week in Dameron Park in Hereford. Youngsters took advantage of good weather and spring break to enjoy the park through Thursday. Foul weather returned a little early, but school will be back in session on Monday.

Williams courts White backers for November

HOUSTON (AP) - Republican gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams, trying to win the endorsement of defeated Democratic gubernatorial candidate Mark White, already is tapping White's financial backers for help in his own campaign.

"I'm hoping to raise $200,000 to $300,000 this afternoon," Williams said Thursday after speaking to the Southwest Chemical Association, a petrochemical trade group.

His money pitch to White supporters, made in afternoon telephone calls, came a day after he courted White's support.

"I was interested in his thoughts and judgments," Williams said. "It was interesting to me his frustrations with the bureaucracy over the years."

He would not identify the White supporters donating cash to him. "If they want to talk about it, they can," he said.

He also warned that if Treasurer Ann Richards won the April 10 Democratic gubernatorial runoff against Attorney General Jim Mattox and launched a negative ad campaign against him, he would not take the attacks sitting down.

"I will say this, if Ann Richards comes at me like she came at Mark White with those very untrue ads, I will defend myself," Williams said. "The ads that were accusing him of unethical conduct in office were clearly false."

"I conducted a very above board and very positive campaign as all people know. But if she attacked me in the format she attacked Mark White, I will defend myself."

White spokesman Mark Miller on Wednesday said White would have an announcement eight to 10 days before the April 10 runoff.

Asked if he thought White was bitter over the primary defeat, Williams replied, "I think you'd have to ask him, but I don't feel he's very happy with those commercials. He was maligned. He was falsely accused of being unethical."

Williams said he hoped to take a break from the campaign this weekend to do some annual spring calf roundup chores at his ranch in Alpine. He also has invited reporters to attend the affair.

"We're going to be herding calves and herding reporters," he said. "It's where you take the calves born in January and February and separate them from their mothers and put on your brands. You castrate the males you don't think are good and you vaccinate them against disease. Then you put them back together and make sure the momma and the baby calf get back together. It's kind of a husbandry experience."

Asked if he also would castrate and brand reporters, he laughed:

"That's a good thought. I got a couple who might be welcome."

New Demo head calls for unity in party

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

Often-fractious Democrats were playing down their differences as two major party groups met in separate cities to plot strategy for their next attempt to recapture the White House.

Ronald H. Brown, the party's national chairman, was quick to praise a statement of principles issued Thursday by the Democratic Leadership Council, a group of elected officials that was close to unanimous in opposing Brown when he ran for the chairmanship last year.

Brown said the statement on a wide range of issues "demonstrates just how united this party is."

The Democratic National Committee, the party's governing body, was meeting in Indianapolis today and was expected to endorse Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan's call for a cut in the Social Security payroll tax.

Brown has been one of the most aggressive Democrats in attacking President Bush, despite the Republican president's high ratings in opinion polls.

Bush's 80 percent approval marks are often cited as the reason few Democrats are making any moves toward challenging him in 1992. Democrats have lost five of the last six presidential elections.

The DLC was meeting at the same time in New Orleans with an agenda that included speeches by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, the party's 1988 vice presidential nominee; Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia; Gov. L. Douglas Wilder of Virginia and Brown.

In his speech to the leadership council, Brown called Moynihan's proposal a political "stroke of genius. Substantively it's a blow for fairness, a triumph for honesty."

Moynihan, D-N.Y., called for a cut in the payroll tax because the huge surplus that has been stockpiled in the retirement fund is being used to mask the true size of the federal deficit.

"It just makes sense for us Democrats to be on the side of cutting payroll taxes for working people," said Brown, calling the Social Security tax "one of the most regressive we have."

Brown also said his party shouldn't be intimidated by Bush's high standing in the polls.

"It's time for us to point out that the Bush administration has been getting a free ride - that we hear a lot of sweet jargon but we don't see any action," he said.

Brown has expressed annoyance in the past with attacks the DLC's more conservative members have made on the national party.

The DLC was formed in 1985 with the avowed purpose of stopping what many of its founders considered the party's leftward drift.

As its members prepared to fly to New Orleans, the council issued a long statement outlining positions on a range of issues, including the payroll tax.

Saturday hamburger cookout is cancelled

The free hamburger cookout scheduled at Hereford State Bank Saturday has been cancelled due to the wet weather, HSB president Craig Smith announced this morning.

The event had been scheduled for farmers and ranchers in observance of National Agriculture Week, with local new car and implement dealers helping co-sponsor cookout.

"We're disappointed to call off the luncheon, but we appreciate the moisture," said Smith.

Hazelwood seeks return to tankers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) - Flushed with a feeling of victory after three acquittals and a conviction on a minor misdemeanor, Exxon Valdez skipper Joseph Hazelwood says he longs to return to the sea as a ship captain.

His lawyer, Michael Chalos, said he will start negotiating with Exxon to regain the skipper's job with the shipping company that hired him out of college and fired him after his tanker grounded a year ago, causing the nation's worst oil spill.

"I'd like to go back to the sea. That's what I do," Hazelwood said Thursday after jurors absolved him of accusations he was reckless and drunk during the disaster that blackened the rocky shoreline of Prince William Sound.

The misdemeanor charge of negligent discharge of oil on which Hazelwood was convicted carries a maximum sentence of 90 days in jail and a $1,000 fine, far less than the 7 years and $61,000 fine he could have faced if found guilty on all four charges.

Superior Court Judge Karl Johnstone set sentencing for today.

A grand jury indicted him last year on a felony, criminal mischief, and two other misdemeanors, recklessness and endangering and operating a vessel while intoxicated. Jurors took only 10 hours in deliberations to reject those counts.

"The state just didn't have the evidence," said juror Terrill Smith, a hardware store manager.

Alaska Gov. Steve Cowper told a news conference that Hazelwood's acquittal on the most serious charges shows that someone other than the veteran mariner was responsible for the grounding.

"The result bears out the fact that there are other people responsible for this, other than Capt. Hazelwood," said Cowper, who learned of the verdict Thursday while touring Prince William Sound by helicopter.

Alaska Attorney General Douglas Baily disputed suggestions that the state had tried to make Hazelwood a scapegoat.

"It was always my view that the captain of that vessel is ultimately responsible," he said.

The normally taciturn Hazelwood smiled broadly for the first time in the two-month trial when the verdicts were announced two days short of the oil spill's first anniversary.

"I'm not used to being in the limelight," Hazelwood told reporters. "I was a pretty anonymous character until a year ago."

The skipper's future also is clouded by more than 100 civil lawsuits filed by assorted victims of the nation's worst environmental disaster.

In calls to several news organizations Thursday, Mattox again raised the drug use question that Ms. Richards refused to answer in the weeks before the March 13 primary.

"I do not believe that a person who takes the Fifth Amendment can then go on and lead a war on drugs," Mattox said.

The Richards campaign responded by producing the results of a blood test Ms. Richards took last weekend in Austin. The results were negative.

Ms. Richards gathered the most votes in the primary, but did not get a majority. She will face Mattox in a runoff April 10.

Before the primary, Ms. Richards said she has not taken mood-altering substances since her release from a Minnesota alcohol dependency program in 1980. She has said that to comment further would discourage people who have recovered from drug and alcohol problems from seeking office.

Asked if he also would castrate and brand reporters, he laughed:

"That's a good thought. I got a couple who might be welcome."

SPACE CENTER, Houston - The commander of the upcoming Discovery shuttle mission says the Hubble Space Telescope his crew will put into orbit should help scientists unlock mysteries about the heavens.

The powerful $1.5 billion astronomical observatory, the most expensive unmanned spacecraft ever built, will be put in orbit 370 miles above the Earth where it can provide scientists a clearer view of space because it will be unobstructed by atmospheric distortion.

If all goes according to plan, Hubble will be deployed a day after Discovery and its five crew members blast into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Liftoff is scheduled for April 12.

Astronauts to launch Hubble Space Telescope

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The commander of the upcoming Discovery shuttle mission says the Hubble Space Telescope his crew will put into orbit should help scientists unlock mysteries about the heavens.

The powerful $1.5 billion astronomical observatory, the most expensive unmanned spacecraft ever built, will be put in orbit 370 miles above the Earth where it can provide scientists a clearer view of space because it will be unobstructed by atmospheric distortion.

If all goes according to plan, Hubble will be deployed a day after Discovery and its five crew members blast into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Liftoff is scheduled for April 12.

"We're getting very excited," Discovery commander Loren J. Shriver said Thursday at the crew's final news conference and individual interviews held before the mission. "We've been training for a long time. This is a major milestone ... We're glad to be finally this close to launch."

The 25,000-pound, 43-foot-long telescope originally was scheduled for launch in late 1983 but technical problems postponed liftoff until 1986.

The Challenger accident on Jan. 28, 1986, delayed the mission until 1989, and concern over the shuttle's solid rocket boosters pushed it back yet again.

It has been a long wait for the scientists waiting to use the telescope.

"They're beaming with pride at the prospect of finally getting the space telescope that they've worked with for so long ... to finally see it getting so close and producing results in the near future," said Shriver, an Air Force colonel commanding his first shuttle flight.

Hubble will allow astronomers to study stars and galaxies so distant that their light has been traveling toward Earth for 14 billion years - meaning that scientists will see what the objects looked like near the creation of the universe, an estimated 15 billion years ago.

The telescope's location above Earth's atmosphere will enable it to detect light of all wavelengths, including ultraviolet, before it is absorbed or distorted by the atmosphere.

It will look seven times more deeply into space and detect objects 50 times fainter and with 10 times greater clarity than the best ground-based observatory. Its eight-foot primary optical mirror is the most precise ever made.

Such a view into space could explain how the universe was created.

"I think they're going to make some discoveries and answer some questions we've got now and probably raise a lot more than we know about right now," Shriver said.

Using the shuttle's 50-foot robot arm, mission specialist Steven A. Hawley will maneuver the telescope out of the shuttle's cargo bay and hoist it away from the shuttle before letting go of it. Shriver and the pilot, Marjorie Col. Charles F. Bolden Jr., will then steer the shuttle away from Hubble.

Mission specialists Kathryn D. Sullivan and Bruce McCandless, a Navy captain, will be prepared to perform spacewalks should a problem occur during the deployment.

The all-veteran crew also has trained to return Discovery to the telescope almost anytime during the mission should ground controllers have trouble making Hubble operational.

"I think we'll all feel perhaps a little disbelief that we're finally getting to do this," said Hawley, who has a Ph.D. in astronomy and astrophysics.

"I think we'll all feel a very special pride at being able to participate."

Connally: LBJ book is unfair

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Texas Gov. John Connally said author Robert Caro's portrayal of former President Lyndon Johnson focuses only on his dark side.

"Most of the things that Bob Caro says in his book you can't refute specifically because Johnson had some undesirable traits and mannerisms and behaviors," Connally, who was one of Johnson's closest friends, said Thursday.

"But he also had some good ones. Up until now, Caro has not given him credit for any of the good ones," he said.

Caro's second volume on Johnson, "Means of Ascent," portrays the 36th president as a man who consistently lied in his ruthless pursuit of political power.

Much of the book focuses on the 1948 Senate election between Johnson and former Gov. Coke Stevenson, an election that Caro says Johnson stole with bogus votes in South Texas.

Caro, who has researched Johnson for 15 years, has said his next volume will concentrate on Johnson's ability to muscle through Congress progressive social justice programs.

from the president of the United States, standing halfway around the world, speculating on something that he doesn't want to see happen," Bush said Thursday.

He spoke as Soviet armored personnel carriers moved through the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius in a show of force Thursday and leaders of the rebellious Baltic republic appealed for world support.

The president, at a news conference, urged the Soviets to refrain from using force to put down Lithuania's independence move.

He said he was pleased Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze had said Moscow would not use force.

"Please continue to exercise that kind of restraint. And remember, no use of force," Bush said.

He called on the Kremlin and Lithuanians to negotiate their differences.

"They should talk about that," Bush said when asked about Gorbachev's demand that the republic's citizens surrender their personal firearms. "My appeal would again be peaceful resolution through discussion of this difficult question."

Bush said it would be "presumptuous and arrogant" for him to get more detailed and say which side should initiate talks.

The State Department was more critical of the Soviet moves.

"We're concerned by the order to internal security and secret police troops seize private sporting guns unless they are surrendered," department spokesman Richard Boucher said.

Bush reiterated that the United States has never recognized the Soviet Union's forced annexation of Lithuania in 1940. "However, there are certain realities in life - the Lithuanians are well aware of them - and they should talk, as they are, with the Soviet officials about these differences," he said.

The president took questions from reporters on the White House lawn following a tree-planting ceremony to highlight his budget proposal for a $175 million forestation program.

On other topics, Bush said:

"He sees no need for Soviet troops in Eastern Europe, including Poland where some officials have said a continued Soviet presence is needed for stability. 'The sooner they get out of there the better,' he said.

"He has a 'nuance of difference' with Polish Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki on whether a treaty is needed to guarantee current borders between Poland and Germany when East and West Germany unite. The Poles insist that a written guarantee is needed. Bush does not go that far, although he says current borders should remain.

"A comment he made about opposing Jewish settlements in East Jerusalem did not contribute to the fall of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's government or disrupt the Middle East peace process, although many analysts contend the opposite.

"He is 'dying to go' to Australia by the end of the year, and plans to visit Nicaragua, although not for the April 25 presidential inauguration of Violeta Chamorro. He declined to say whether he would include New Zealand in an Australia trip, noting that nation's ban on U.S. ships carrying nuclear weapons in its waters.

"He has been told Congress may buck at approving his $800 aid package for Nicaragua and Panama, with money to come in cuts from the defense budget. He urged swift approval of the aid.

IRS hotline should help taxpayers-if they can get through

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service blames a budget squeeze for its inability to answer two of every three taxpayer telephone calls for help.

But if you can get through to the agency, you have a better chance than last year of getting the correct answer to a tax question. The General Accounting Office says IRS employees give the right answer 78 percent of the time, up from 66 percent last year.

The bad news is that only 34 percent of callers are getting through to the IRS, down sharply from 61 percent in 1989. Jennie S. Stathis of the congressional investigative agency told the House Ways and Means oversight subcommittee Thursday.

"It bothers the hell out of me that taxpayer service has declined that way," IRS Commissioner Fred T. Goldberg testified. He said the inability to take phone calls resulted from a decision by the agency to cut its service - rather than the quality - because of a shortfall in its 1990 budget.

He said the IRS is also getting calls from 7 percent more taxpayers than had been expected.

Goldberg said the IRS budget that President Bush proposed for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 is reasonable. He cautioned that any reductions would harm efforts to collect $80 billion of delinquent accounts, force more cuts in taxpayer services and lead to further deterioration of a computer system that already has outlived its usefulness.

"The only hope we have of meeting legitimate taxpayer expectations in dealing with their government is to modernize our systems," Goldberg said.

The administration has proposed a $6.1 billion budget for the IRS, up 12 percent from the 1990 fiscal year.

But Goldberg said the agency is still suffering from previous tight budgets. "I am afraid that the tax system will continue to pay the price of the 1989-1990 hiring freeze and failure to provide adequate training and support for our employees for years to come," he said.

Ms. Stathis gave this rundown on how the IRS is doing this filing season:

-The GAO telephoned 20 tax questions to 29 IRS offices and scored 1,261 responses; 78 percent were correct.

-Through March 17, taxpayers had called the IRS 31.5 million times and the IRS had picked up the phone 10.7 million times. During a similar period last year, there were far fewer calls - 19.3 million - but 11.8 million of them were answered.

-Processing of returns is 12.5 percent ahead of last year's pace; refunds received are up 3.5 percent; the number of refunds is up 16.7 percent.

-The percentage of returns with taxpayer errors or IRS processing mistakes is dropping, from 16 percent last year to 14 percent this year.

-Ordering forms and publications by phone can be as troublesome as calling with a tax question. But once a caller connects, the IRS is prompt in mailing requested items within the promised 14 days. The agency is not as reliable for items ordered by letter.

Panhandle students involved in Y.E.S.

On Saturday, March 10, Robert Marbut, a representative of the White House Office of National Service, administered the oath of office of Y.E.S., to five Panhandle students. Among those five students was Jeri Ann Parker, vice-president of Hereford High School student council.

Held at the WTSU Board of Regents Board Room, Marbut stressed the President's Mandate to Y.E.S., Youth Engaged in Service, to the organization which reflects one of his "Thousand Points of Light": (1) take the problem upon yourself; (2) replicate, incorporate, duplicate existing programs; (3) develop leadership ability by focusing talent on issues.

Oath of office was administered to Rashell Ruttman, secretary; Stephani Sternenberg, parliamentarian; Brian Brannigan, membership director; David Thomason, corporate liaison; and Jeri Ann Parker, publicity director.

Marbut said that people could work in their own neighborhoods, cities and classrooms to solve domestic problems such as alcoholism, teenage pregnancy, and drug abuse. He represented the President as feeling that youth incorporate such a large portion of untapped service, that they are already organized through student organizations, they can effectively work with specific social problems at home. Mrs. Ann Scamahorn, Globe News sponsor-director of Y.E.S., indicated that the newspaper's involvement came as a result of their sponsorship of the Citizen's Bee. Corey Weiss, then President of Randall Student Council and Citizen Bee winner, attended the Washington contest where he had an audience with the President. Weiss returned to the Panhandle excited about the potential of Y.E.S., especially as it could be integrated with student councils. Along with the students named, Weiss and Scamahorn, set up the Panhandle Chapter, the first such chapter in the nation.

Since its inception last fall, Y.E.S. has written its constitution and has received its Texas State Charter. It has conducted a voter registration drive among high schools and junior colleges in the four-state region, sponsored a leadership training seminar at Amarillo College, begun a membership drive and has represented the Panhandle at a State leadership training seminar in Austin.

Recently Jeri Ann presented the Y.E.S. mandate to the Hereford High School Student Council, and the council voted unanimously to affiliate with Y.E.S. becoming the second high school in the nation to join behind Randall High School.

Margaret Formby speaks at meeting

La Plata Study Club met recently at the Deaf Smith County Library with Margaret Formby as guest speaker.

Formby attended the Associated Press Convention in Tokyo, Japan with the delegation traveling on to China visiting a number of cities including Beijing, Hohhot, Hangzhou, Shanghai and Hongkong.

Some of the outstanding places they saw were the Great Hall of the People, Tiananmen Square, and the Great Wall of China.

They had an audience with the crown prince and his wife and attended a banquet and reception with the United States ambassador and the governor.

Formby told of the country's living conditions as very poor and quite antiquated by U.S. standards. Often three generations live in a single household. They use one room for many things. They eat with chopsticks around the table then later bring in rolled up mats which are spread out to sleep on.

Formby commented on the abundance of food. There were beautiful produce in the stores and also on the huge number of small wagons and carts in the streets. Their meals are banquets with many courses served. The food consisted of rice and many vegetables along with several kinds of meat dishes and fruits. An orange drink, lemonade and tea seemed to be the most popular drinks. Chinese beer was available.

Among the souvenirs that Formby displayed were a pair of small vases that came in silk covered boxes, porcelain plates, a silk pillow top, pictures painted on silk, books pertaining to the country and a miniature musical instrument replica made of jade.

Formby noted that the most outstanding memory of China was the overwhelming number of people. China has approximately two billion people. This means that one in every four people on earth lives in China.

Golfers open 1-4A play

The Hereford Whiteface golf teams will swing into District 1-4A competition Saturday with the first district round at Elm Grove Country Club in Lubbock.

Coach Stacy Bixler said the Elm Grove layout should be a good one to get league play started on.

"It's a fairly short, open course without a lot of hills or trees," he said. "It's a pretty basic West Texas golf course. Several of our guys went down there this week and played it, so we'll be pretty familiar with it."

"Of course, the weather will have an effect on things Saturday," he added. "If the wind's blowing or if it's raining, that will change how we have to play."

Bixler said the first round should give an indication of what to expect in the team and medalist races in the district.

"Pampa and Borger are going to be up there and Levelland and Randall did real good at our tournament," he said. The Lobos finished third in the team standings of the Deaf Smith County, Chamber of Commerce Invitational played at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, with all four scoring individuals placing in the top 10 in the medalist race, while the Raiders were third with three among the top 10 individuals. Hereford's A team finished fourth in the tourney and the B team sixth.

"(Defending district medalist) Ryan Teague is back for Pampa," Bixler added. "Randall has Chris Ray (second at DSCCCI) and Matt Irwin (fourth at DSCCCI), who have been playing real well, and Levelland's guys are also playing good, so it ought to be pretty competitive out there."

In the girls' field, Lady Whiteface coach Donnie O'Rand said Hereford should be able to challenge for one of the district's regional berths.

"Our victory over Borger here really gave us a lot of confidence," O'Rand said, "but not playing last week may have put us back a little."

"But I think the girls proved to themselves that they can play with anyone in the district by finishing second (behind Pampa and ahead of Borger) at our tournament. If they can build on that, we have a chance for the championship instead of just playing for second place."

District bound

O'Rand added that improved play throughout the Lady Whitefaces' top five has eased the need for one outstanding player.

"Paula Britten and Krystal Sims have really come on here in the last couple of weeks, and that takes a lot of pressure off Naomi Grijalva," she said. "Our two, three and four players shoot in the low 90s -- which they ought to do on this course -- then Naomi won't feel like she has to shoot in the 70s to pick up the slack."

In the medalist competition, O'Rand said Grijalva would be her own worst enemy in shooting for the championship.

"Naomi puts a lot of pressure on herself to do well," O'Rand said. "If she were to have a bad round Saturday, she'd try to make it all up in the second round, and that could be even worse."

"But if she'll just go out there and play her game for all four rounds, I don't think there's anybody that can touch her."

O'Rand added that having the final round of district play at Pitman will be an extra advantage for her team.

"Last year we had the last round at Pampa, and they made up a lot of ground to win on their own course," she said. "This year we'll be in that position and it will only help us."

Players getting into swing of shortened spring training

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball players will have to use the abbreviated spring training schedule to get ready for a full season.

Following the end of the 32-day lockout, and word the season will be delayed a week, it was feared part of the 162-game schedule would be lost because of a conflict with CBS.

But Commissioner Fay Vincent announced Thursday a compromise with the television network that extends the season and pushes back the start of the playoffs and World Series. Details of the full schedule will be released in the next few days.

At the time the settlement was announced early Monday morning, baseball said all teams were set to play 158 games, and that efforts would be made to restore the missing games.

Late Thursday afternoon, the efforts were completed.

CBS holds the rights to televise the playoffs and World Series, and had to give its permission for the postseason schedule to be changed.

"One of the major objectives was to preserve the full 162-game schedule, and I am pleased that we have accomplished that," Vincent said. "I thank CBS and the Players Association for their cooperation in making this schedule adjustment possible."

The National League playoffs will begin Oct. 4, instead of Oct. 2. The American League playoffs were switched from Oct. 3 to Oct. 6. The World Series will begin Oct. 16 instead of Oct. 13.

If the World Series goes to seven games, it would end Oct. 24. Last year, after an 11-day delay because of the Bay area earthquake, Oakland completed its four-game Series sweep of San Francisco on Oct. 28.

Baseball said one of the two series missed because of the delayed start will be made up during the regular season. The other series will be played from Oct. 1 to Oct. 3.

Bryan Burns, baseball's senior vice president for television, said there were provisions to deal with rainouts at the end of the regular season, but he did not detail them.

Herd visits Dunbar, JV doubles in Pampa

The Hereford Whiteface baseball teams have a busy weekend planned with four games planned over the next two days.

The Herd varsity (1-7 overall, 0-1 in District 1-4A) travel to Lubbock today for a 4 p.m. district game against Dunbar. The Herd JV (2-5) was scheduled to make up a rained-out double header at Pampa at 10 a.m. Coaches said the junior varsity will play either two five inning games or one 10- or 12-inning game.

Or Saturday, the varsity is slated to host Levelland in a 2 p.m. district contest at Whiteface Field. Herd coach T.R. Sartor said if conditions are unplayable Saturday, the game could be moved to Levelland with the April 28 contest being played in Hereford.

"If we postpone it, we have to make it up the first available date," Sartor said. "That would be Monday, Wednesday or Thursday and give us four district games in one week. So I'd probably try to get it in down there if we could."

Umps displeased with new schedule

NEW YORK (AP) - Just when baseball seemed to put its troubles aside, another problem popped up.

Major league umpires, upset with the revised regular-season schedule, are considering a boycott of spring training games, The Associated Press learned Thursday night.

A source familiar with the dispute said umpires may protest by not working this spring. The umpires are not threatening the regular season, the source indicated.

Richie Phillips, head of the umpires' union, said from his home that there would be some sort of announcement. He did not elaborate.

Exhibition games are to start Monday and opening day is April 9. The owners' 32-day lockout delayed the beginning of spring training for a month and pushed back openers by a week.

Hogs, Horns, Huskies win Rockets snap Pistons' streak

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

Texas and Arkansas will play for the third time this season, while Duke and Connecticut will meet for the third time ever in Saturday's NCAA regional finals.

After Arkansas routed North Carolina 96-73 on Thursday night, Texas rallied from a 16-point deficit to beat Xavier 102-89 and set up an all-Southwest Conference battle for the Midwest Regional championship at Dallas.

Although Arkansas beat Texas twice this season, Longhorns coach Tom Penders is happy to play the Razorbacks again.

"It will be a great matchup," he said. "It's good for the conference."

In the East final at East Rutherford, N.J., Duke and Connecticut will renew an interconference rivalry that produced a 4-4 split during the season-opening ACC-Big East Challenge.

UConn edged Clemson 71-70 on Tote George's jumper at the buzzer, and Duke beat UCLA 90-81 to reach the regional final for the fourth time in five years.

In tonight's regional semifinals, it will be Michigan State vs. Georgia Tech and Syracuse vs. Minnesota in the Southeast at New Orleans. UNLV plays Ball State and Loyola Marymount meets Alabama in the West at Oakland, Calif.

East
No. 3 Connecticut 71,
No. 17 Clemson 70

George ruined another colossal Clemson comeback and put Connecticut into the final eight for the first time in 26 years.

After missing a jumper with three seconds left, George got another chance to win the game when Clemson's Sean Tyson missed a free throw with 1.6 seconds remaining and the Huskies got the rebound.

Following a UConn timeout, the senior guard took a length-of-the-court pass and hit a 12-foot jumper at the buzzer.

NCAA TOURNAMENT

"When I missed that first shot, I was coming to the realization that my career might be over," George said. "But they said in the huddle, 'It's not over, it's not over.'"

George got a perfect pass from Scott Burrell, a major-league pitching prospect. George caught the ball on the right side of the basket, turned around and swished the winning shot over Tyson as the buzzer sounded.

"The game isn't 39 minutes and 59 seconds," Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun said. "We had just enough time to win it."

Chris Smith led UConn with 23 points. Elden Campbell and Dale Davis, Clemson's 6-foot-11 "Duo of Doom," each scored 15.

No. 15 Duke 90, UCLA 81

Phil Henderson scored 28 points, including six 3-pointers, and sparked a decisive second-half run as Duke continued its mastery at the Meadowlands.

UCLA, which trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half, rallied to lead 66-65 on a 3-pointer by Tracy Murray with 7:53 left. With Duke trailing 68-67, Henderson hit his final 3-pointer to start a 15-5 run that put the Blue Devils ahead to stay.

Henderson said the game changed when Duke's big men, Christian Laettner and Alaa Abdelnaby, each went to the bench with four fouls in the second half.

Laettner had 24 points and 14 rebounds and Abdelnaby had 14 points.

Don MacLean led UCLA with 21 points.

Texas 102, No. 25 Xavier, Ohio 89

Lance Blanks fired blanks in the first half, then found the mark in helping Texas shoot down Xavier.

Blanks, who missed his first eight shots, scored 26 of his 28 points in the second half.

The Longhorns are going to the final eight because their "BMW" guard trio - Blanks, Travis Mays and Joey Wright - operated on all cylinders. Mays scored 32 points and Wright 26.

Led by their 6-foot-10 duo of Derek Strong and Tyrone Hill, the Musketeers increased a 53-41 halftime lead to 16 points by scoring the first two baskets of the second half. Texas rallied and went ahead 75-74 on Blanks' steal and dunk with 9:10 remaining. Blanks then led Texas on a 15-2 run that broke the game open. Strong scored 27 points and Hill had 22.

No. 7 Arkansas 96,
North Carolina 73

Lee Mayberry's 3-point shooting and the inside play of Oliver Miller helped Arkansas pull away from North Carolina.

The Tar Heels outscored the Razorbacks 11-1 early in the second half to take a 45-42 lead. A Mayberry 3-pointer broke a 54-all tie and gave Arkansas the lead for good.

After a free throw by North Carolina's George Lynch, Arkansas got two more 3-pointers from Mayberry and one from Todd Day in just over a minute for a 66-55 lead with 8:17 left.

Lenzie Howell led Arkansas with 25 points. Miller, who scored 13 points in the final 6 1/2 minutes, finished with 19.

Scott Williams led North Carolina with 20 points.

NWIT opens in Amarillo

AMARILLO (AP) - Elaine Harlow scored 27 points for the University of Miami and North Carolina-Charlotte got some deadly accurate free throw shooting to highlight first round action in the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

Harlow's 27-point performance allowed Miami to edge Illinois State, 85-83, Thursday night. North Carolina-Charlotte defeated Fresno State, 70-67.

In other games, Toledo defeated Wyoming, 76-58, and Kentucky beat Maine, 76-66.

In the winner's bracket, Miami faces Kentucky and North Carolina-Charlotte meets Toledo tonight.

Fourth-seeded Miami, 25-4, led by as much as 14 points on two occasions in the second half, including 65-52.

Pam Gorham scored 17 points and North Carolina-Charlotte was 20-23 from the free throw line in a 70-67 defeat of Fresno State.

North Carolina-Charlotte's Teresa

Bowling broke a 49-49 tie, hitting four free throws when Spencer was called for two technicals with 8:44 to play.

Fresno State rallied back to lead 67-66 with 1:33 left on a basket by Yannick Souvere, who scored 15 points.

But North Carolina-Charlotte's Sandra Williams made a turnaround for a 68-67 lead with 1:08 left, and Micah Bingeman added two free throws with four seconds to play.

Simone Stribeck led Fresno State with 29 points.

Toledo's Kelly Savage scored 18 points and had nine assists to lead the Rockets to a 76-58 victory over Wyoming.

Savage scored all of her points on six three-pointers. The Rockets, 24-6, rolled to 43-25 halftime lead.

In addition to Savage, Kim Sekulski and Kris Finefrock scored in double figures with 16 points apiece.

Finefrock also pulled down 13 rebounds.

Wyoming, 24-6, was led by Kim Buston's 14 points. Yvette Plumlee had 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Kristi Cushingberry and Tracey Davis each scored 18 points to lead top-seeded Kentucky past Maine 76-66.

The Lady Kats led by as much as 25 points in the second half before Maine, which was plagued by foul trouble throughout the game, rallied to close the gap to 10 points in the game's final minute.

Rachel Bouchard led Maine with 23 points and 10 rebounds before fouling out with 6:05 left, and Kentucky leading 68-47.

Winfield reaches settlement in common law divorce case

HOUSTON (AP) - New York Yankees outfielder Dave Winfield will pay $1.6 million, plus $3,500 a month in child support, to divorce his common-law wife, Sandra Renfro, a Houston judge has ruled.

The award, which includes a posh Houston condominium and a car for Ms. Renfro, comes after Winfield has spent at least $500,000 in attorneys fees over the past five years to fight the case.

Winfield's attorney Tom Alexander said the ballplayer will appeal the case, contending he and Ms. Renfro never had a marriage.

"It's a terrible thing for a man to spend only 30 days or so of his whole life in Texas - and even then, when he was playing ball - and have a ruling like this based upon a filing he had with a Houston woman," said Winfield's attorney Tom Alexander.

State District Judge Allen J. Daggett said Thursday the former flight attendant was entitled to the award as her share of community property and to support the couple's 7-year-old daughter, Lauren Shanell.

A jury in June found that Winfield's relationship with Ms. Renfro from 1982 to 1985 constituted a common-law marriage.

Winfield did not attend Thursday's ruling because he is attending spring training camp in Florida.

"I and Sandra are elated," said Earle Lilly, Ms. Renfro's attorney. "We think it's an incredibly just result. I just hope that it's over now."

But Alexander promised an appeal.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Abuse has become all too commonplace. Every day, we read and hear hair-raising stories describing man's inhumanity to man -- and women.

Recently a newsletter put out by a group that takes care of battered women published some excellent information. I would like to share it with you.

Helping Someone Who Is Abused

If you think you know someone who is being abused, the first step is to contact your local battered women's program for information on how to help her. When you have a good understanding of the problem, use the following guidelines.

LONDON (AP) - Singer Mick Jagger said there's nothing wrong with the Rolling Stones taking commercial sponsorship for their first European tour in eight years because, "We are all in a business in one way or another."

Jagger spoke at a news conference Thursday announcing the 12-country tour.

Asked why the tour needed the sponsorship of a U.S. beer company, Jagger told reporters: "We are all in a business in one way or another. We've got sponsorship and you have got advertising. I don't even remember a time when it was amateur."

Allow her to tell her story. Listen carefully without being judgmental. Let her know that you believe her and that you want to help.

Be sensitive to her feelings. Fear, ambivalence, anger, denial and helplessness are all normal reactions to battering.

Inform her that there are laws to protect her and shelters for women who have her problem.

Allow her to make her own decisions. Help her prepare for an emergency. Suggest that she contact a battered women's hotline to develop a safety plan.

Be patient. Don't convey disappointment if she decides to return to the violent relationship. Let her know that you still care about her and that she can always come to you if there is a problem.

How do I Know If Someone Is Being Abused?

Unless you witness physical abuse, it is sometimes difficult to know when a friend or relative is being abused. Abuse is any behavior that is used to intimidate or control another person. Here are some guidelines.

Does her husband or boyfriend:

- throw objects at her or destroy her property?
- threaten to hurt her or the children?
- restrain her?
- consistently ridicule or insult her?
- express extreme jealousy?
- undermine her sense of power or confidence?

- make her account for every moment she is away from him?
- manipulate her with lies or promises?
- force her to have sex with him?
- accuse her of having an affair with another man?

- abuse the pet to punish or frighten her?

How does this abuse behavior affect her?

- Does she feel she doesn't have the right to say "no"?

- Is she afraid to disagree with him?

- Has she stopped seeing her family and friends?

- Does she feel responsible for the abuse?

- Is she unable to go out, get a job or go to school without his permission?

If you know someone who is being abused, suggest that she call the Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-333-SAFE.

Gem of the Day: Even when opportunity knocks, a person has to get off his rear end and answer the door.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $5.05.)

Pioneer Round-Up May 19

The Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has announced Saturday, May 19 as the date for the 1990 Pioneer Round-Up. This will be the 62nd year the Club has sponsored this annual event, according to Nelda Barbian, president, of the sponsoring club.

The Pioneer Round-Up was started as a method of honoring pioneers of this area. This continues to be one of the purposes of the event, but in addition, it has become an entertainment feature for people of all ages in Plainview, Hale County and surrounding areas.

Mrs. Barbian has appointed committees for the Round-Up and chairman of each committee is as follows: program, Alice Doyle; dance, Helen Burleson; reception, Doris Henderson; tickets, Celia Drager; food/serving/door, Leota Bolding; concessions, Nancy Fowler; registration, Betty Jolley; parade, Laurinda Keeling; kountry kitchen, Sheryl Jones; float, Nancy Cox; housing, Nelda Barbian and publicity, Jo Ann Clements.

Activities will be held in the Ollie Liner Center on the south edge of Plainview. The reception will be held in the meeting room at the Center which begins at 10 a.m. on Saturday. The traditional Pioneer Round-Up parade will roll at 2:30 p.m.

The Saturday program will begin at 6 p.m. when the chuck wagon supper will be served until 8 p.m. in the large assembly room at the Ollie Liner Center with the program to follow.

A square dance will conclude the day's activities.

All local and area people are invited to this Pioneer Round-Up for a day of entertainment and to honor those pioneers who came to this country many years ago. The fifth annual Pioneer Balloon Festival has been scheduled to coincide with the Round-Up making even more activities available to people of this area.

The Renaissance painter Raphael painted more than 300 pictures of the Madonna.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: With Mother's Day ahead, I would like to pass along this hint that has become my trademark, especially with my family.

I am the family photographer and have many pictures of family members and events, so I filled a large collage frame with those I thought would bring back lots of memories for my mother. I included as many of children, grandchildren and family events as I could possibly fit into the frame.

When mother opened the gift she was so touched. She spent the rest of the day looking at those pictures and recalling old times or the occasions when they were taken.

This year my mother has let me know that she expects an updated frame for Mother's Day. — Donna Crocker, Gautier, Miss.

A gift that truly keeps on giving. This is ideal for that hard-to-buy-for parent or grandparent. — Heloise
