House Okays Clayton's Water Plan

By LEE JONES Associated Press Writer AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The House gave Speaker Bill Clayton what he wanted Wednesday and approved his proposal to dedicate half of future state treasury surpluses to water projects. Representatives voted 113-19 to send the measure to the Senate. where Clayton predicts Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby "will lend his support" despite Hobby's lack of enthusiasm.

"I think the lieutenant governor is for the concept but is just not keen on dedicated funds," Clayton told reporters.

In an afternoon marked by the absence of debate, the House also sent the Senate, 129-5, a constitutional amendment repealing the virtually non-existent state property tax.

Representatives passed to the Senate, 112-19, Clayton's bill nailing down details of how the water fund would operate.

The constitutional amendments setting up the water fund and repealing the 10 cents per $100 state property tax would take effect only if approved by the voters this November. Senators might attempt to change the water fund election to November 1982.

Clayton, who became rich farming irrigated land northwest of Lubbock, assured the House the intent of his proposal was not to finance pipelines and canals to export East Texas water to water, the Clayton proposal also would:

- Authorize the state to guarantee up to $500 million in water bonds issued by water districts, river authorities, cities and other political subdivisions.

- Raise from 6 percent to 12 percent the interest the state may pay on bonds, thus creating a market for $118 million in state water development bonds that have been authorized by the Legislature but never issued.

The implementing bill creates five funds to be administered by the Texas Water Development Board to help local governments build water projects, finance research and planning and buy storage space in reservoirs to assure they are built to the ideal size.

Contingent on passage of the constitutional amendment, the bill appropriates $40 million to get the water development assistance fund started.

The property tax repeal amendment is designed to head off the possible result of a suit filed by Midwestern University regents.

In 1979, the Legislature effectively repealed the tax by assessing it against 0.0001 percent of property values. But the Midwestern suit alleges that since the tax is imposed by the Texas Constitution, legislators had no right to cancel it without a Deaf Smith County Sheriff's officers were called in to assist in the capture of three persons involved in an alleged robbery and kidnap attempt Tuesday night that began in Groom. Deaf Smith reserve officer Roddy Allred assisted in the arrest of Audie and Tammy Kay Willis, of Oklahoma, and Jerry Huggins, of Arkansas. The three are being held on charges of aggravated kidnapping.

The trio's three-county trip began at the Golden Spread Motel in Groom at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, where they allegedly robbed the cash register and stole a pick-up truck belonging to the motel. The group took motel operator Claude Tankersley with them and headed for Conway, and then Amarillo. where they considered another robbery attempt at a 7-11 on Amarillo Boulevard. They decided against the robbery because there were too many people around. A third robbery attempt at a Vega gas station was halted when a police car drove up.

The group, with Tankersley still with them, then headed north on FM 2381.

After ramming the pick-up through a fence near Bushland, the trio, it is believed officers, threatened to kill Tankersley in a field when a local farmer drove up and scared them Tankersley was spotted by police walking down the road in his bathrobe. The Willises were captured at 2:40 a.m. yesterday in a field about four miles west of Vega. Huggins was found in a farm house about one mile west of where the Willises were located and about 20 minutes later. Huggins was taken to the Amarillo Emergency Room for treatment of a head wound possibly received in the truck accident.

Bond of $100,000 has been set for each of the alleged kidnappers. The Willis couple spent the night in Carson County Jail and Huggins was transferred to the Potter County Jail.

A key vote to kill the Wilson plan failed 14-17. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, the titular head of the Texas Democrat Party, voted with all eight Republican senators in approving the Wilson plan. Democrats claim the boundary lines drawn by Wilson would make it extremely difficult for U.S. Reps. Martin Frost and Jim Mattox, Dallas Democrats, to be re-elected.

However, Hobby said he voted with the Republicans because the Wilson plan "is the more able to withstand legal attack." Several senators have said a court battle is inevitable, no matter what plan is finally approved. The Wilson plan faces a possible conference committee fight unless the House approves it. Sen. Jack Ogg. D-Houston, predicted the House would not approve Wilson's proposal. Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port

Arthur, tried to fend off the Wilson proposal. "You're giving Republicans another box they don't deserve," Parker said. One theory is that by packing minorities in a single district Republicans would elections in three other districts.

"You're taking away an extra voice, an extra vote," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas. "You're giving away two votes (of congressmen) who are sensitive to the citizens of Dallas County, Texas, and getting one ... that's not good arithmetic."

Wilson said his decision to support a minority district for Dallas was caused by the effectiveness of two black legislators - including Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, who opposes the Wilson proposal. "I wondered if the blacks in Houston would trade eight years of Craig Washington for two moderate-liberals who might vote with them, and I said, 'No," Wilson stated.

Wilson also said he was influenced by the effectiveness of former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, who also served in the Texas Senate.

Wilson replied, "If they (minorities) want to choose two Clay Smothers (a black conservative), that's fine. If they want to Craig Washingtons, that's fine. If they want to choose two white moderate-liberals. that's fine, but they ought to have a a choice."

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Central Intelligence Agency bungled its security check of Max Hugel, the administration's nominee for chief of clandestine operations, Sen. Lloyd of charges he engaged in improper stock market activity seven years ago.

"It's obvious they made a very hurried security check. I understand they did it in approximately seven days, and that was too hasty for an agency that has a record for being very thorough," Bentsen told Texas reporters Wednesday afternoon.

"They obviously did a very poor job, and it obviously was a very serious mistake," the Texas Democrat said during his monthly press conference.

Helicopters Could Endanger Lives

HOUSTON (AP) - A plan to use helicopters to rescue victims of floods, refinery explosions and high-rise fires encourages people could "endanger rather than save lives," a Houston

Fire Department official says.

A committee of officials trying to coordinate emergency use of the choppers made the proposal Tuesday, but Deputy Fire Chief David Fuller criticized the release of the rescue plan before his department had tested annd approved it.

"Unnecessary evacuation by helicopter could endanger rather than save lives," he said.

But Coast Guard Cmdr. Jay Crouthers said the idea should not be hept from the public. "I'm sure Nero was doing something important while Rome was burning, too," he said. Crouthers said department representives failed to attend the Aircraft Assistance in Disaster

Woman's Place In The Home

BRYAN, Texas (AP) - Sandra Day O'Connor's place is in the home rather than on the U.S. Supreme Court because "a woman in a position of authority is not compatible with the scriptures in the Bible," says a Brazos County official.

District Attorney Travis Bryan III says he's "certainly not prejudiced" but believes women should stay at home and raise children.

They should not be judges, law enforcement or military officers or even district attorneys, the 34-yearold fundamentalist Baptist said Tuesday. "The world is a better place because of women. But there are too many women competing with men for jobs," he said.

Gierek Expelled From Party

WARSAW, Poland (AP) -The special Communist Party congress called to find solutions to Poland's social and economic problems has fixed blame for those woes by expelling former party chief Edward Gierek and six leaders of his administration.

The purges came in a closed session of the congress Wednesday, the official PAP news agency reported today. The nearly 2,000 delegates return to the congress hall today for meetings on party economic activity in "political, and social problems of the country." PAP said the delegates will discuss international problems, party rules, economic policy, the mass media and party unity.

Evangelist To Speak About Life In Heaven

The Hereford Texas Chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship invites the public to attend a special meeting this Saturday to hear Gary Wood, evangelist, speak of his death and 20 minutes in Heaven.

The Saturday meeting will be preceded by a buffet supper at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Cost of the buffet is $3.65. The meeting will begin at 7:45.

Wood was outstanding as a soloist for three years in a row in New Mexico and was preparing himself to preach and sing the gospel by attending Wayland Baptist College when he was critically injured in an automobile accident and died.

Wood spent 20 minutes in heaven and was commissioned by Jesus to make Him real to people wherever he went. His vocal chords were severed in the crash and doctors said he would never speak or sing again. His little sister was in the car with him and as she prayed and used the name of Jesus, the Lord brought him back to his body. According to Wood, God miraculously healed him and promised him that wherever he told his story people would be healed. Wood made medical history and sings and speaks for the glory of God

Wood pastored one of the fastest growing churches in Houston, prior to being called into full time evangelism. The church grew under his leadership from 30 to over 400 in two years. Wood had a daily radio program that ministered to thousands and has appeared on the PTL Club. He teaches and ministers regularly at the City of Light with Charles and Frances Hunter.

Wood received the Baptism in the Holy Ghost after attending the 1979 Southern Baptist Charismatic Conference where Dr. Howard Conaster had him give his testimony. Wood has written four books and made one record entitled "He Touched Me."

According to Wood, while pastoring and traveling he has seen God heal Lukemia, cancer, blindness, arthritis and deafness and all manner of sickness and disease.

President of the Full Gospel Business Men's chapter is Jonny Cloud.

An unlikely coalition

Should black state legislators — most of them Democrats — cooperate with Republicans in drawing new congressional-district lines? Why not?

The objections come from the white Democrats who are bound to suffer in any joint venture of their party's most faithful constituents and the members of the party of Ronald

At issue are the 17 congressional seats currently occupied by blacks.

Black legislators typically respresent the inner-city districts that have suffered major population losses since the 1970 census. Some of those districts have shrunk so much that they could be eliminated — that is, merged into neighboring districts — by the upcoming reapportionment. This could force black incumbents to face each other at the polls in 1982

Republicans are not usually in the business of helping blacks — especially black Democrats — get elected to office. But facilitating the election of black Democrats currently seems to make some sense to GOP strategists.

The more black voters who are squeezed into predominantly black districts, the fewer black voters will be left to tip an adjoining, predominantly white district toward the Democratic candidate.

The Republicans would then be in a position to tell black voters that they had helped to elect a black to Congress and to tell increasingly conservative white voters that they had helped to defeat one of those awful free-spending Democrats of the white liberal variety.

If everything goes as the Republicans hope, they will pick up enough Democratic seats in 1982 to gain control of the But the 17-member Congressional Black Caucus won't be reduced in size. It may even grow if Texas Republicans have their way.

That state's Republican governor, William Clements, has threatened to veto any reapportionment plan that does not give Dallas a black congressional district.

That the Dallas representative would be a Democrat does not upset the Republicans, who know that the black district would be carved out of surrounding districts that are currently represented by white Democrats.

In Michigan, the leaders of both parties have agreed to save Detroit's two black congressional seats even at the cost of another incumbent legislator, probably a Democrat.

The Michigan Democrats are willing to sacrifice one of their own to keep the state's blacks happy and Democratic. The Republicans, of course, see a chance to eliminate black votes in neighboring districts and to provide for the election of one of their own.

By DEBE GRAVES Staff Writer

It is my anniversary this week and since I didn't get the gold medal I asked for I am treating myself to writing an article in the first person and passing along some of the advice I have received and gained on my own over the period of my marriage.

With this being such a popular wedding season maybe some of this advice gleaned from years of experience, mine and other women's, won't go amiss.

No. 1. Don't ever go to bed mad at each other. Though my counselor, Ann Landers, and my grocer all take creditfor this one I think it is in the Bible somewhere, isn't it?

No. 2. Don't expect from anyone else what you are not willing to give yourself. This one is mine and probably a hundred other people's.

No. 3. Marriage is not a 50-50 proposition. This is a universal truth often overlooked when he leaves the cap off of the toothpaste tube you just bought.

No. 4. Marriage is WORK, and Work, and work...need we add more?

No. 5. Marriage is FUN, and Fun, and fun...if you are with the right person. And by the way you must also BE the right person. This contribution from my mother who also advised me not to fake any headaches.

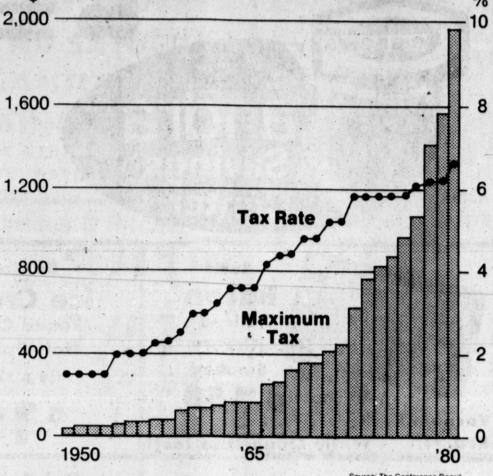

No. 6. Maintain a sense of humor. I think this means holding onto your sanity when both hot water heaters blow in the same week. Though probably you shouldn't laugh at your ausband's sinus remedy as he stands over a boiling pan of water complete with toweldraped head and a clothespin clipped to the bridge of his nose. As a petite woman, Princess Sumair is familiar with the design needs of small women. She does a petites collection called Princess Sumi for Don Sophisticates. Prices here are about $100

Princess Sumair uses ethnic prints but avoids most of the folkloric influences that are prevalent this fall. She can't see what petite women are going to do with all the long, super-full silhouettes and oversize layering.

Around the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Pat (Denise) Brinkman were keep busy this past week due to family visiting from Amherstburg, Canada. Arriving in Hereford a week-ago from Canada were Bill and Shirley Laing, Mrs. Brinkman's parents; Pat and Karen Coyle Mrs. Brinkman's sister and brother-in-law; and Jeanine and Heather Cole, Mrs. Brinkman's nieces.

While in Hereford the family stayed busy with site seeing and visiting. Activities shared by the family included shopping, riding horses and looking at cattle on the Rafter S Ranch, swimming at Hereford Country Club, and touring Friona Feed Lot, E.C. Reinauer's Potato Shed and Armour. They were also given the opportunity to enjoy an early morning plane ride given by Joe Reinauer

A visit to the Santa Fe Depot was enjoyed by the Canadians who also had the chance to see "Texas" at Palo Duro Canyon.

The out-of-towners were honored with a barbecue in the backayard of Pat Brinkman's home before their departure at which time a birthday party was thrown for Mrs. Brinkman's sister. Mrs. Coyle was celebrating her 30th birthday.

The family truely received a warm Hereford welcome from all, and we hope to see them return in the near Dinner was served and activities took place in the Community Room of Hereford State Bank with visiting and recalling events of past years following. Dominoe games saw the down fall of champion players of the family.

Those attending were James and Sophia Gilliam of Bovina; from Amarillo were Mildred Jasper, Buddy Jasper, Danny and Alice Proctor and children Danny, Jr., and Chris Proctor and Karen and Tammy and Russel Latham.

Bettie Stockett and children Jeff, Wes, Lee and Susan from Claude also attended.

Attending from Hereford were Buddy and Susie Curtsinger, Dub and Wilma Curtsinger, Charlie and June Callway, Clarence Strange, Joe, Leta, Virginia and Jim Curtsinger, B. Lee Cocanougher, Elsie Russel, Guy and Marie Comelius, and Lon and Lorcise Morton.

Syndrome Won't Work;

Hocus-Pocus Suggested

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The man who changed the face of NBC Sports says the quick-fix syndrome that doomed Fred Silverman at NBC won't work for Grant Tinker either. He recommends a little hocus-pocus - at least at the beginning.

Don Ohlmeyer, the dynamic executive producer of NBC Sports, doesn't mean the kind of programming spell that Silverman said he would cast over NBC, instantaneously turning a frog into a prince.

He means the great art of illusion, giving the viewer less than meets the eye but making him think it's more.

"The first thing Grant has to do is change the public's perception of NBC," said Ohlmeyer, who defected from ABC in 1977.

Ohlmeyer resorted to fancy footwork in NBC Sports until he could improve the product. Now Tinker, NBC's new chairman, faces a similar task: raising the image and ratings of the last-place network.

"I knew right away that I couldn't change NBC Sports overnight," Ohlmeyer said. "What I could do immediately was change the form of our programming.

Later we could change the content. The cosmetic changes are the easiest, and they're often perceived as what we're all about."

Ohlmeyer said the first patch-up job involved the programs' openings and promotionals. Like an inknown restaurant, a spiffy outside can sometimes lure

It might have been charade, but it worked. NBC's Sports has reached parity with its rivals in style and substance and has made some small inroads into ABC's large ratings lead on the weekends. New RCA Chairman Thornton Bradshaw praised NBC Sports as one of the bright spots of the Silverman era.

Ohlmeyer is a disciple of ABC News and Sports President Roone Arledge, who has built ABC from a journalistic also-ran into a razor-sharp news department. It took time before ABC's news content was strengthened, but Arledge immediately put it in a prettier package.

ABC's news quality now can sell itself. In the fierce battle for network news supremacy at night, ABC is now closer to No.1-rated CBS than it is to No.3 NBC. The Nielsen figures from last week give CBS a 10.6 rating and a 25 share, followed by ABC's 10.1 rating and 23 share and NBC's 9 9.1 rating and 21

NBC's problems in daytime and prime time are more difficult. All the networks report the same news. It's the entertainment programming that varies so greatly in quality and public acceptance. And already the industry's forecasters are predicting another thirdplace finish for NBC in 1981-

The House and Senate versions, however, do not require the defense secretary to make military personnel available. Defense officials have consistently opposed involving the military in civilian police functions. A 103-year-old law now bans such activities.

Later, the House capped nearly three hours of debate by defeating, 283-133, an attempt by the Government Operations Committee to limit the Defense Department's ability to commit itself to multi-year contracts for major weapons purchases.

In writing the authorization bill, the Armed Services Committee gave the Pentagon a a freer hand on such contracts. The rejected language would have restricted it to a handful of contracts approved in advance by Congress.

Because of a jurisdictional question, the House agreed to delete from the bill a provision to permit the Internal Revenue Service to provide home addresses to the Selective Service System for use in the draft registration program.

Failing 371-38 was an effort by Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Ky., to prohibit the Pentagon from buying foreign-made light trucks, vans and other administrative vehicles during fiscal 1981.

Hopkins and his supporters cited the ailing U.S. auto industry but were met with arguments that the ban would cause problems within the NATO alliance and violate trade a agreements.

Names on Hand as Oilers Open Camp

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP)

— A pair of "name" athletes will be among 51 rookies and free agents trying to break into the Houston Oiler organization beginning today when the Oilers open the team's training site at Angelo State University. Lawrence McCutcheon, a five-time Pro Bowl performer for the Los Angeles Rams and Mack Mitchell, a former starting defensive end for the Cleveland Browns, were expected to be among the early arrivals.

New Oiler head coach Ed Biles and a revamped coaching staff will hold the team's first workout Friday to begin gearing up for the first exhibition game Aug. 6 in the Astrodome against Super Bowl finalist Philadelphia.

Oiler veterans won't report until July 22 and begin workouts the following day. The Oilers finished with an

Agriculture Department Scientists Take Trip To China

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -Biological control of crops pests may be a step nearer because of a recent bug safari to China by Agriculture Department

The team returned with an assortment of insects which now will undergo laboratory tests to see if any can be used to combat pests that attack U.S. crops.

One purpose of the project is to see if an effective natural enemy of gypsy moths can be found. The moths defoliate millions of trees and shrubs annually, mainly in the Northeast, where the pest is concentrated.

The team of entomologists sought natural enemies of some of the aphids and mites that attack cotton, tobacco, vegetables, citrus and other crops and trees in the United

Specimens collected by the scientists, who work for the department's Agricultural Research Service, include green lacewings, predatory mites and parasitic wasps.

Mrs. Wallace said China and the United States "are exploring the possibility of collecting other natural enemies of insect pest" and are arranging cooperative research programs to improve the use of biological controls over destructive insects, weeds and plant

Because many of the insect pests which affect U.S. agriculture are not native to the United States, research seek to find natural enemies of destructive pests in their natural habitat, she said.

Further, the two countries are exploring ways for cooperative identification of insects "because exact identification of insects is critical in determining which are beneficial or harmful," Mrs. Wallace said.

The team carried to China species of U.S. wasps which are parasitic foes of aphids and caterpillars. Those were to be used for research and potential use in China's own integrated pest management program.

Officials said the research on the Chinese insects will include:

-Cornell University. Ithaca, N.Y., experiments with lacewings to help control pests that mostly attack cotton and tobacco.

-University of California, Riverdale, work involving predatory mites to determine their effectiveness in attacking other mites that affect vegetables, citrus and other crops.

Rioting Continues In Britain's Angry Streets

IONDON (AP) — Hundreds of youths hurling gasoline bombs and bricks stormed the south London suburb of Brixton, torching buildings and injuring 10 policemen in noting that ended two nights of relative calm in Britain's angry streets, Scotland Yard reported.

Two buildings and a number of cars were set afire during the Wednesday night rampage in the predominantly West Indian immigrant neighborhood, scene of some of the worst rioting during the past two weeks of inner city violence across Britain.

The latest flareup in Brixton followed a pre-dawn police raid there Wednesday in which more than 100 Scotland Yard officers searched 11 houses for gasoline bombs.

Several arrests were made and a small amount of inflammable liquid was confiscated, police said. Scotland Yard said it was acting on a tip that gasoline bomb factories were operating in the tough district, but none were uncovered.

Angry residents accused force, complaining to reporters that doors were smashed and furniture destroyed. Police said they would pay for any damage.

Scotland Yard said the Brixton trouble ignited at about 11:30 p.m. — 6:30 p.m. EDT — when a gang of youths attacked officers escorting a fire engine responding to one of the car

The crowd quickly swelled and about 300 youths were involved at the height of the disturbance, authorities said. Police equipped with riot shields brought the area under control within an hour, a Scotland Yard spokesman said. There were six arrests.

The spokesman said seven of the injured policemen were taken to the hospital, where one officer was reported in serious condition with head and chest injuries. Police did not use any of the new government-approved riot gear. Home Secretary William Whitelaw had told lawmakers earlier in the day that plastic bullets, tear gas, water cannons and armored vehicles would be available as a "last resort" for con-

Lord Scarman, a British judge who is leading an independent inquiry into Brixton's bloody race riots in April, visited the scene after Wednesday's early-morning raid and ussed residents not to seek revenge.

Meanwhile, a poll of more than 1,000 British citizens showed a almost one-third blaming high unemployment for the current rioting. Police methods and hostility between blacks and whites were reasons listed almost at the bottom of the poll conducted by Independent Television.

Fruit Flies Still A Problem

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Fruit flies spreading out of control threaten California's $14 billion farming industry with virtual shutdown and the federal government should take emergency steps to help fight them, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says.

Brown asked President Reagan on Wednesday to declare three San Francisco Bay counties a federal disaster area after fruit flies were discovered 10 miles outside a region designated for aerial spraying with the pesticide malathion.

Officials made arrangements to widen the spraying area, and two helicopters sprayed fine droplets of sticky pesticide-laced bait over a populated area north and west of San Jose early today to kill flies and Jose early today to kill flies area to being prepared for trips today, the third day of aerial and spraying.

"The increased magnitude of the infestation constitutes a disaster which is now beyond the control of the services, personnel, saying equipment and facilities" of the state and the three counties, Brown said in a counties of the counties of not received a copy of the land letter, and Brown said he had share no indication that help would be forthcoming.

Officials confirmed on Wednesday that maggots of the fast-breeding pest had been found 10 miles north of the infestation area in San Mateo and to the east in Milpitas, as well.

In the first two days of predawn spraying of the pesticide malathion, only 7½ 2 300 square miles were covered in the the heavily populated infestation area of more than 129 square miles. The first night, a pump on the lone helicopter broke down. The second night, one of two helicopters used for the spraying malfunctioned.

Officials had hoped to spray 3000

45 square miles in two days and the full area in a week.

The entire zone is targeted for at least six sprayings of malathion, a common garden pesticide which many experts have said is safe.

The spraying, which began early Tuesday, aroused fierce opposition among local governments in Alameda, Santa Clara and San Mateo counties. They went to court to stop the spraying, but were rebuffed.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

- Basement storage

DEAR POLLY — I need to store papers and books in cardboard boxes and hard cardboard barrels for several years in a basement. I want to make sure the papers don't gct damp or mildewed. I'd also like to make sure they're protected from silverfish. To my knowledge, the basement has never had water problems. I also plan to put these boxes and barrels on wood pallets so there will be an air space under the boxes. Can you help with any suggestions? — MRS.

DEAR MRS. R.V. - It certainly sounds like you're taking some excellent precautions. You might want to put some small bags of a moisture-absorbing material inside each box. I'd recommend silica gel, which you can probably get through your druggist or hardware store. Another thing I'd suggest is to wrap each carton and barrel tightly in plastic to foil silverfish and other bugs. Hope this keeps those papers dry and in good condition! — POLLY

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Wants to prolong fertility

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am single and plan to marry at the age of 48. Could it be possible for me to still give birth? I am 46 now, and have a very regular menstrual cycle. But I am afraid in two years I might not be able to have a baby. How about prescribing some medicine that can prolong my fertility to satisfy my spouse-to-be. He is longing to have a baby. DEAR READER — Well, if you are planning on hav-ing a baby, time is wasting. There are women who have babies late in life, in fact I am told of one birth to a woman of 57. Your fertility is determined in part by a biological clock in your brain. When it is time for your ovaries to stop producing mature ova capable of being fortilized your ferof being fertilized, your fer-tility will stop. Most women enter the menopause between 45 and 50. There is an increased risk of birth defects in children born to a we reproductive life. However, there are many healthy and even gifted children born to older women, so I do not consider age a barrier in that regard. Besides, if there were any reason to be concerned tests can be made to see how healthy the expected baby might be in advance of delivery.

There really isn't any pill we can give to prolong the normal fertile period for a woman. We do not know how to control the biological clock. If your ovaries are still functioning it might be possible to use a fertility pill to induce ovulation, if that is needed, but I would not count on this. Rather I would give nature its best shot and try to get pregnant as soon

DEAR DR. LAMB - A year ago I started having seizures. At the onset my legs and arms were tingling and I was breathing very fast. I would get dizzy and pass out. I went to the doctor and he had a brain wave test done and couldn't find anything. He said I hyper-ventilate. I'm not sure what that means. Can you please tell me what makes this happen? I'm 17 years old and very worried.

DEAR READER Relax! Your doctor means that you don't have any serious medical problem. You may have anxiety and worrying about your condi-tion will make matters worse.

Hyperventilation simply means that 'you are breath-ing too hard and fast, overventilating your lungs. When this happens a person blows off too much carbon dioxide and upsets his body chemis-try. The chemical change even affects the calcium in your circulation. That can cause the tingling that you describe. The fainting is a result of overventilation,

I don't know why you are anxious but if you have another attack, remember it is not serious and try to breathe very slowly and take shallow breaths. That will help prevent the blowmay control your symptoms. DEAR DR. LAMB - For several years I have had stomach problems and I have had lots of X-rays. No have an ulcer, yet I have a tremendous problem with digestive acids. There are times when it is so strong that acid seems to be in my doctor has yet told me that I

I have tried most of the antacids. Brobanthine, Librax and other medications, yet I am never free of this acid. One day I read an article about Tagamet and I have been taking it for two-and-ahalf years. During this time I've felt fine and have no side effects. Then I read an article that stated that cimetidine is one of the drugs the FDA plans to have leaflets for. As a layman I cannot understand why. Is there a danger of side effects with prolonged use?

DEAR READER - No medicine is absolutely safe. When Tagamet (cimetidine) was first approved by the FDA it was for short-term use only. There have been a number of side effects reported. These include mental confusion, particu-larly in the elderly, decrease of white blood cells that defend the body from infections, tumors of the Leydic cells of rat testicles, enlarged breasts in men, mild and transient diarrhea muscular pain, dizziness and rash. All of these are listed in the Physician's Desk Reference describing the actions and adverse effects of the drug.

This does not detract from its proper use in selected cases but it is my opinion that the drug is overused in cases where it is not indicated It is not a medicine to be used for undiagnosed and illdefined digestive complaints.

Texas Firm Decides Against Hazardous Waste Dump

By MARTIN J. WATERS ated Press Writer HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Officials of Browning-Ferris Industries-Connecticut Inc. were somber. Michael Scalzo was smiling.

"I wasn't prepared for this," he said. "It was totally shocking ... People can make a difference in a situation like

Texas-based Browning-Ferris had just announced it was dropping plans to open a hezardous waste disposal site on 200 acres in Enfield, where Scalzo lives. Scalzo had thought the corporation was going to announce it was formally applying to the state for permission to use the site.

When Browning-Ferris proposed the state's first authorized hazardous waste dump last November, Scalzo helped organize the Citizens Alliance for a Safe Endronment and went to work to stop the project.

Today Scalzo is looking ahead to a new battle, saying his organization will keep up its attempt to prevent Browning-Ferris from opening a dump site anywhere in Connecticut.

At its Hartford news conference Wednesday. Browning-Ferris said it was beginning a search for another site in Connecticut, where industries produce an estimated 100 million gallons of hazardous waste annually.

Browning-Ferris said its decision to keep looking was based on research concluding that the geological makeup of the Enfield land makes part of it unsuitable for hazardous waste disposal. It denied that vociferous and wellorganized opposition from residents and government officials in the north-central Connecticut town played a role in the decision.

It released a 16-page report on the geological findings that concluded that rock formations and groundwater flows make prevention of hazardous waste leakage from the dump uncertain. The corporation said use of only part of the 200 acres would make the waste disposal operation un-profitable.

Browning-Ferris said it was undaunted by the campaign against it by Enfield residents and en-vironmentalists, which was led by Salzo and CASE.

"We hope the next place we go that it won't begin as an adversary relationship, but we know that under the present political climate we will have the same opposition wherever we go," said Betty Gallo, a spokeswoman for Browning-Ferris' Connecticut operation, a subsidiary of Browning-Ferris Industries Inc., of Houston,

But Salzo said his group's efforts "certainly had something to do with" the decision.

"We're going to do a lot of lobbying next year at the legislature for better regulations. We're going to be involved no matter where in Connecticut or in New England that these proposals are made," he said.

Scalzo's group, which claims about 15,000 members in Connecticut, argues that Browning-Ferris should not be allowed to operate in Connecticut because of its record in other states.

Panhandling and Preying On Each Other

NEW YORK (AP) — A boulevard for busted hopes and burned-out minds, a last stop for losers, the Bowery has been an alcoholic skid row for years, but it shelters a new breed these days younger, more mobile, more prone to violence. Many who sit today on the littered sidewalks or lie in the gutter have histories of mental problems and drug use as well as alcoholism, according to Calvin Reid, director of the city's only men's shelter.

They panhandle passing motorists. They prey upon each other. Often, their object is nothing more valuable than a bottle of cheap wine.

But three weeks ago, someone began slashing throats. Two vagrants died. A 31-year-old former mental patient named Charles Sears was arrested last week carrying a bloodied straight razor. The resident of a Bowery flophouse was charged with one murder. one attempted murder and two attempted assaults.

The Bowery runs from the edge of Chinatown up to Cooper Square, near Fourth Street. Sprawling up the street are restaurant supply houses, flophouses, lighting fixture stores, Chinese restaurants and an Off-Track Betting office.

Some residents say you can see a revival if you look hard nough. But the "good blocks" are outnumbered. In a city where parking is at a premium, it's easy to find empty spaces on the Bowery.

The city and state spend about $11.3 million a year on shelters for the estimated 36,000 homeless people scattered around New York City. More than half the money goes to the city's 34-year-old Shelter Care Center for Men.

One such resident, who would identify himself only as Pete, begs passersby for money and uses spit and a hankle to clean windows on cars stopped at the traffic lights. He showed a reporter where he sleeps on a bed of cardboard. Pete says he is a hippie from the 1960s, uses cocaine and heroin and claims that former patients from state mental hospitals are "messing up the street." His arms are full of needle marks. His clothes have a powerful stench.

Twenty years ago, typical shelter users were about 55-60 years old, with about 60 percent white and almost all alcoholic, Reid says. Statistics o on today's users indicate 47 percent are black, 33 percent white and 17 percent Hispanic, with 54 percent under 40 and 80 percent younger than 50.

Pete, 34, his goatee and long mop of hair prematurely gray, claims he rarely eats and admits to a serious drinking problem. "I wake up shaking. This is drug addiction," he said, drinking from a second bottle of wine. His first, still half-full, was stolen by another man who threatened to knife him for talking to a reporter instead of sharing his wine.

Any type of liquor will do, Pete said, his belly bare to the breeze inside his open shirt. "Whatever it takes to stop the shakes."

On a typical day, about 1,600 men use sleeping quarters provided by the city through the shelter. Inside the shelter itself is a 16-bed dormitory used by those with ambulatory or senility problems. At night, recreation and sitting rooms are cleared to set up beds for an additional 73 men.

They are given two sheets, a pillow, clean underwear and socks. Admission is on a first-come, first-served basis. Once the beds are filled, homeless men are sent to nearby single-occupany lodging houses. It was at one of those facilities, the $3.51a-night Delevan House, where Sears lived.

The Delevan lobby is up a long, dark stairway and around to the right. Clerk Donald Pope stands in a cage with heavy wire grating and metal bars. A 1979 calendar advertising the Belleville, N.J., Brake and Clutch Exchange hangs behind the

There are four floors of rooms, which Pope describes as "cubbyholes. They're big enough to move around in. That's it." The posted rent is $3.25 per night, payable in advance, plus 26 cents tax.

Pope says the lobby can be used only by "paying guests, not the overflow from the shelters." He says the men the city sends are "troublemakers." Some regulars have been staying at the Delevan for 5-10 years, he s said.

Second Federal Court Rules Against Casey

WASHINGTON (AP) -Another federal court ruling critical of CIA Director William J. Casey's financial dealings says he and other directors drove a nowdefunct farming corporation "deep and deeper into debt" by managing in a "pattern of self-interest."

President Reagan, Vice President George Bush and White House counselor Edwin Meese III had barely finished on Wednesday affirming their support for Casey and discounting a federal court ruling against him in New York May 19, when a year-old federal appellate court ruling in New Orleans surfaced. Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes acknowledged that Reagan had first learned of the New York ruling by reading press reports Tuesday. It was unclear whether top administration officials were aware of the New Orleans decision when they took the line that Casey's business dealings did not affect his CIA job.

Reagan had told reporters: "There is no controversy (over Casey). I have complete trust in him." Bush, asked if Casey should resign, replied, "Oh, no!" and Casey's attorney said the CIA chief "denies any misconduct." Both rulings involved Casey's role in Multiponics Inc., a failed New Orleans farming venture.

In the New York case, a judge r ruled that Casey and other directors had knowingly misled potential investors in Multiponics in

In the New Orleans case. Casey and the other directors lost a bid to claim part of the failed f firm's assets. That ruling was sought by a courtappointed lawyer for the firm's trustee as a penalty for the directors and was upheld July 16, 1980, by a unanimous three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. As a result, Multiponics' remaining $10 million in assets were divided two weeks ago among the firm's creditors, leaving no money to repay the directors for personal loans made to the firm, according to the trustee's lawyer, Peter J. Butler of New Orleans.

Casey's attorney in New York, Milton Gold, said the CIA director, a self-made millionaire, lost $150,000 in the venture. And Gold noted that damage claims against Casey and other directors had been dismissed in the New Orleans case.

Casey's legal troubles over Multiponics surfaced after his protege Max Hugel, a millionaire businessman brought by Casey to the CIA from the Reagan presidential campaign, resigned abruptly Tuesday morning as head of the agency's clandestine Hugel's resignation came hours after The Washington Post printed allegations by two New York stockbrokers that they had participated in 1974 with Hugel in prohibited manuevers to boost t the stock of a firm Hugel once owned. Hugel denied any wrongdoing.

In a telephone call to the Post Wednesday, Casey said he had known Hugel "for only 17 months, not 20 years," as Hugel had claimed.
