

Clements Challenges Stump State

The Associated Press
 The three men who want to challenge Republican Gov. Bill Clements in November will spend today trying to sew up support and change undecided minds as they tour the state's largest cities on the eve of Saturday's primary.

The top three contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination — Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, Attorney General Mark White and Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple — planned multi-city tours despite predictions of low voter turnout at the polls.

Secretary of State David Dean predicted an "unusually low" turnout of 28 percent of the state's 6.6 million registered voters will go to the polls, where they will face a long ballot.

In addition to picking nominees for the state's top executive offices and appeals courts, Texans will decide on candidates for all 181 seats in the Texas Legislature, 27 seats in Congress, and one U.S. Senate seat.

Armstrong's Friday stops included Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Sherman-Denison, Dallas and Austin. White was headed to Houston, San Antonio, Tyler, and Texarkana, and Temple was concentrating his 11th-hour push in Houston.

In addition to the personal appeals by the candidates, the closing days of the campaign have been filled with back-to-back television political ads, some showing signs of nastiness.

Temple and White have largely ignored Armstrong and concentrated their attacks on each other.

Armstrong, is hoping to take advantage of the bickering between White and Temple, and gain a June 5 runoff with either man.

Republican Gov. Bill

Clements has spent over $3 million in his re-election bid, although his only Saturday opponent is Lowell "Duke" Embs, a former San Antonio insurance man who has spent part of the campaign in jail and surely is not a $3 million threat to Clements.

A June 5 runoff also looks like a sure bet in the Democratic attorney general's race. U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox of Dallas, state Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston, former state Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo and former U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler each have offered polls showing their own effort doing well.

The winner faces

Republican Bill Meier in November. Meier, a state senator from Euless, is unopposed on the GOP side.

A runoff also is expected in the land commissioner's race on the Democratic side where state Sen. Pete Snellson of Midland, state Rep. Dan

Hopefuls Play Waiting Game

It's down to the waiting game now for political hopefuls across the state with the polls slated to open in less than 24 hours, and four local men are among those who are anxiously awaiting the outcomes.

Challengers Jerry John Reyna and David Ruland must now sit back and hope their qualifications are enough for county voters to place them into office over incumbents. Reyna is seeking to unseat Pct. 2 County Commissioner Austin Rose, while Ruland wants the position currently held by County Clerk B.F. Cain.

In other local races eight incumbents are on the ballot unopposed. They include County Judge Glen Nelson, County Surveyor Kenny Hagar, County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley, District Clerk Lola Faye Veazey, Pct. 4, County Commissioner James Voyles, 22nd District Judge Wes Gulley, Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal, and District Attorney Roland Saul.

All of those candidates are listed on the Democratic Party Primary ballot. Local Republicans are deciding only on state and federal offices as well as five referendums.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. - 7 p.m. tomorrow. Due to recent redistricting some county residents will be voting in a different location than in the past. Voters should check the back of their registration card to see which voting precinct they are in.

Sample ballots of both party primaries are included in today's issue of The Brand.

May 1-8 has been designated as the annual "Beautification Week" in Hereford, under the sponsorship of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

All city residents are being urged to use this time to clean up, fix up, and paint up in order to help make our community more attractive. A special section inside today's Brand is published to spotlight the project.

Hereford attorney Wayne Thomas sustained what he termed "only a minor injury to the nose" when he was involved in a traffic accident Wednesday. The collision occurred between Canyon and Hereford, and Thomas said the driver of the other vehicle was not hurt.

Thomas may think the "accident jinx" has hit him this year. Several months ago while jogging, he lost an encounter with dogs, fell and injured a wrist.

Your vote is as individual as your fingerprint. Only YOU can cast your vote Saturday, so study the candidates and go to the polls!

The secretary of state, studying the absentee vote count, predicts that only 28 percent of the qualified voters will go the polls Saturday. Even though there is only one countywide contested race in Deaf Smith County, the absentee vote indicates a "fair" turnout may be recorded here.

County Clerk incumbent B.F. Cain is facing the challenge of David Ruland in the only countywide contested race. Voters in County Commission Precinct 2 will be choosing between incumbent Austin Rose and challenger Jerry John Reyna.

Drawing the most interest, perhaps, on the statewide level are the races for governor, attorney general, and U.S. Senator.

The Brand has given editorial endorsement to Max Sherman in the attorney general's race and to Pete Snellson in the land commissioner's race.

Many voters usually know little about the candidates for state supreme court justices and the court of criminal appeals. After studying information received in our office, The Brand recommends the election of Carl Dally for Place 1 on the Court of Criminal Appeals and Andy Shuval, former Hereford attorney, for Place 2.

In Supreme Court races, we recommend the election of James G. Denton for Place 2, and Charles W. Barrow for Place 3.

Auto Makers' Losses Drop; Further Reduction Likely

DETROIT (AP) — The tide of red ink engulfing the nation's auto industry ebbed dramatically in the first quarter of the year, and auto analysts say it's likely to keep receding.

U.S. carmakers lost $600 million in the first quarter of 1981, but only $128.2 million in the first three months of this year, according to figures released this week.

"Things will be a lot better than the last two years, but they still will be nothing to cheer about," said Harvey Heinbach, analyst Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. in New York.

Arvid Jouppi, an analyst at Colvin Hochstin Co. in Detroit, said improvements will be due mostly to cost-cutting, and if there is any upturn in sales it won't come until the third or fourth quarters.

The analysts made their comments Thursday after Chrysler Corp. reported it made a $149.9 million profit in the first quarter of this year, chiefly because the sale of its defense subsidiary helped offset operating losses of $89.1 million.

The profit by the No. 3 U.S. carmaker, which was bailed out of near-bankruptcy by federal loan guarantees and worker concessions, was the highest in the quarter among the four major U.S. automakers.

Earlier this week, General Motors Corp., the biggest, reported a profit of $128.3 million, while Ford Motor Co. said it lost $355.4 million and American Motors Corp. reported a $51 million loss.

The automakers lost $1.3 billion in 1981 and $4.2 billion in 1980.

Heinbach and Arthur Davis, analyst at Prescott, Ball & Turben in Cleveland, predicted GM would continue to show quarterly profits through this year. That would be a better showing than in 1980 and 1981, when the automaker lost money in the third quarters.

David Healy, analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert

Inc. in New York, said GM could post a $1.5 billion profit this year.

Ford should see a profit in the second and fourth quarters, and possibly the third, because of rising production, the analysts said.

Ford lost $1.06 billion last year.

Chrysler likely will be in the red for this year, Heinbach said. Healy said Chrysler could not show much more than $200 million profit for the year.

Chrysler's first quarter 1982 profit, of $1.95 per share, compared with a first quarter loss of $289.3 million, or $4.43

U.S. Sides With British

Blockade of Falklands Begun

The Associated Press
 Britain's total air and sea blockade of the Falkland Islands went into effect today, and the United States abandoned its peace efforts because of what it called Argentine intransigence and sided with Britain in the conflict.

There were no immediate reports of clashes in the 200-mile war zone around the Falklands, but Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said in Washington that the "South Atlantic was about to enter a new and dangerous phase in which large-scale military action is likely."

He said in light of Argentina's "failure to accept compromise," its "use of unlawful force to resolve disputes" and its unyielding demand for sovereignty over the Falklands, the United States was abandoning its peace efforts and siding with Britain.

He said the U.S. government was suspending military exports to Argentina, Export-Import Bank credits, and Commodity Credit Corporation guarantees and giving material support to British forces in the dispute. However, he said there would be no U.S. military involvement in the crisis.

The London Daily Mail said President Reagan had already ordered U.S. tankers to be ready to steam to the South Atlantic to back up the British fleet. Defense Department officials in Washington said U.S. Navy ships were staying away from the scene of a possible outbreak of war.

A Defense Ministry spokesman in London said "there is no sign of the Argentine fleet moving into our operational area." He refused to disclose the whereabouts of the British armada, but when asked if British warships were ready to block any attempts by Argentina to penetrate the "war zone," he replied: "I won't disagree with that."

There was speculation in London of an attack later today by British carrier planes on the airfield at Stanley, the Falklands capital and the bridgehead for Argentina's airlift to the estimated 9,000 troops occupying the British island colony.

With Argentina's ruling military junta refusing to pull back from the islands its forces seized April 2, Britain set the countdown clock running Wednesday with the announcement that it was expanding its 200-mile maritime blockade around the Falklands to the skies

CF Bike-A-Thon Set Saturday

Each year more people are finding they can bike their way to a healthier life.

Here in Hereford bikers also can bike their way to help support a healthier life for the 30,000 Americans who suffer from cystic fibrosis (CF), the number one genetic killer of young people in the United States.

Cystic fibrosis is an incurable lung-damaging and digestive disease, according to the Hereford Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, sponsor of the CF Bike-A-Thon Saturday.

Riders for the Bike-A-Thon will convene at 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Veteran's Park to register for the ride, which will begin at 9 a.m. The Bike-A-Thon is sponsored by District Attorney Roland Saul's office.

In the event of rain, the Bike-A-Thon will be rescheduled for a week from Saturday on May 8.

In addition to the Bike-A-Thon there will also be bike races staged at Veteran's Park Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 p.m. Entry fee for the races, which will include all ages, is $1.

"Geneticists estimate that one in every 20 Americans is an unknowing and symptomless carrier of the gene which can cause CF in a child," says Saul, President of the Hereford CF Chapter. "If a child receives a CF gene from each of two unsuspecting gene carriers, the child has a 25 percent chance of being born with cystic fibrosis."

"Because carriers don't show any signs of CF, and because a reliable carrier test is not yet available, a

Drink Tax Rebates Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week said collection of the state's 10 percent mixed drunk tax during the first quarter of 1982 was up 21 percent over the same period last year.

Bullock said the state received $34.5 million in taxes on the sale of mixed drinks during the first three months of this year.

He said his office is sending checks totaling $10 million to 216 counties and 404 cities as their share of the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the first quarter.

The state's general revenue fund will receive the balance, $24.5 million, of the tax money collected.

Texas cities and counties each receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state.

The city of Hereford and Deaf Smith County each received a check of $2,030.13 as their share of the $13,534.19 in tax revenue for the quarter.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller's office.

Bullock said first quarter tax collections represent the sale of more than $345 million worth of mixed drinks.

Appeals Court Hopeful Visits

Dallas Criminal Court Judge Chuck Miller visited Hereford briefly Thursday as part of a campaign-concluding swing through the Panhandle. Miller, 37, is running against four other hopefuls for Place 2 on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which is being vacated by the retiring Judge Truman Roberts.

Miller, who classifies himself as "moderate as far as the court of criminal appeals is concerned," said he has "tried to visit the entire state" while campaigning, and termed the Panhandle "an area that shouldn't be overlooked."

"That's exactly the problem," he said when questioned about the lack of recognition most state-wide judicial candidates have at election time. "Most candidates are virtually unknown, but I think the press this year has gone a good job in getting out information about the candidates, and have published some endorsements," he added.

Miller himself is a State Bar of Texas Poll Winner, and received endorsements from the Texas AFL-CIO and the Texas Mexican-American Democrats along with opponent Andy Shuval, formerly of Hereford.

"The main thing that separates me from the other candidates is that I'm the only legal scholar in the race," Miller said, pointing out he is one of only 13 judges statewide to have been board certified as a specialist in criminal law.

Miller, a 1972 graduate of SMU has experience in over 800 criminal trials since he became County Criminal Judge in Dallas in 1978. He also was formerly a felony trial lawyer.

4-H Clothing Club Members Finish Class

The last meeting on embroidery was held by members of the Deaf Smith County 4-H Clothing Club Thursday afternoon at the Community Center.

The girls, who have met once or twice a month since January, have learned such stitches as cross-stitch, satin stitch, chain stitch, outline stitch, back stitch and french knots.

The girls finished their gingham pin cushions in which they embroidered original designs. The cushions will be used in their clothing project this summer. Those participating in this project were Kari Smith, Monica and Donna Grotegut, Robin Conkright, Jennifer Hicks, Leslie Conkright, Vivian Coody.

Also, Cindy Miewes, Kristi Powell, Heather Gee, Trisha Teel and Rebecca Solomon. Leaders that assisted were Susan Hicks, Gertrude Grotegut, Pat Miewes and county extension agent, Penny Reinart.

Members Tour Cowgirl Hall Of Fame

Veleda Study Club members met recently at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and were given a tour of the facilities by Jackie Hammett. Ms. Hammett discussed the recent dedication ceremonies and explained the anticipated use of the various rooms on site.

A short business meeting was conducted, during which members decided to present a donation to the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

The following officers were elected for the 1982-83 year: Donna Lindeman, president; Jean Rutherford, vice-president; Billie Birdwell, recording secretary; Arvella Lauderback, corresponding secretary; Marcella Bradley, treasurer; and Marjorie Lasiter, historian.

Hostesses, Ms. Brady and Carolyn Waters, continued the cowgirl motif by serving refreshments in brown bags from tables covered with bandana print tablecloths.

Other members attending were Ms. Birdwell, Margaret Zinser, Janice Brownlow, Ms. Rutherford, Frances Crume, Teddy Poindexter, Betty Olson, Betty Gilbert, Marcella McLain, Ms. Lasiter, and Norma Martin.

The last meeting of the 1981-82 year will be held at the home of Ms. Lindeman on Monday, May 10. Each member is to bring a salad.

Jackie Crabtree Honored At Shower

Miss Jackie Crabtree, bride-elect of Charles Fangman, was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Wilbur Gibson Saturday afternoon.

Miss Crabtree and Fangman plan to be married May 15 in the First Baptist Church.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Jack E. Crabtree; the groom-to-be's mother, Helen Fangman; and the hostess, Mrs. Gibson.

Trenea Reid and Donna

Kendall secured the signatures of guests in the bride's book.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of blue silk flowers featuring a pair of white lovebirds. It rested on a brass compote and was surrounded by brass candlesticks holding blue votives.

Crystal appointments were used to serve punch, finger-sandwiches and cookies. Alternating at the serving table were Kathy Jackson, Dona Henrickson, Joann Childers of Midland and Claudette Mitchell of Follett.

Vicki Wine of Bedford, the honoree's cousin, registered gifts while Sue Sims of Pampa and Wanda Payne, the honoree's cousin, served as photographers.

Other out of town relatives and friends included Charlene Huggins, Canyon; Carol Maxwell, Jan Melton, Frances Kennard, Jennifer Kennard, Amarillo; DeAnne and Debbie Crabtree, Mrs. Elsie Fangman, Vega;

Brown Re-Elected To Squad

PLAINVIEW - Hereford native Norman Brown, son of Mrs. Alice Brown, 612 Irving, has been reelected to the varsity cheerleader squad at Wayland Baptist University for the 1982-83 year.

Brown, who was a member of the varsity squad this year as a freshman, was again named to the six-member group last week, according to Joe Provence, director of student services.

Candidates for the positions were screened by a selection committee, with the top point-getters then presented to the Wayland student body for final approval. Four of the six members of the group are holdovers from this year's squad.

A physical education mayor, Brown is a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School. At Wayland he is also a member of the Pioneer track and field team, which finished seventh in the nation at the NAIA Indoor National Championships earlier this year.

Clinton Jackson, longtime Deaf Smith County resident and retired insurance executive and farmer, was recently invited to attend a dependents cruise aboard the U.S.S. Wabash with his grandson, GMGSN Donald E. Jackson.

The cruise departed Alameda, Calif. and lasted the entire day with demonstrations of helicopter supply removal, Navy cour-sairs, practice bombing and straffing missions, and simulation of carrier deck landing.

After the air show, the ship was put through several maneuvers and then the crew and guests enjoyed a barbecue on the landing deck, normally used by the two large transport helicopters which assist the Wabash in resupplying the ships in the Pacific fleet.

Gunner's Mate Jackson is soon to finish the last year of his three year enlistment in the San Francisco area. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Jackson of Amarillo, President and Chief Executive Officer of Assurance Systems Corporation. Don and his wife, Jeanne, graduated from Hereford High School in 1959, and also have a daughter, Donna Jeanne.

Wm. E. Clinton and Jerry Jackson reside at 108 Centre St., Hereford.

'Minority Pioneers' Excited About Space Flights

By PAUL RECER AP
Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronauts Sally K. Ride and Guion S. Bluford say they are more excited about flying into space than about becoming minority pioneers.

"I not as hyped up on being the first black in space as I am just looking forward to flying in space," said Bluford, 39, an Air Force lieutenant colonel. "I thought it would be more fun to be the second or third. There's more tension when you are first than for those who come behind."

Miss Ride, 31, said she thought the press was making too much of her role as the first American woman in space, but she expected it. "We knew it was going to be an event," said Miss Ride. "But I'm so eager to go up in the shuttle that I'm willing to put up with just about anything."

Bluford, one of three black men in the astronaut corps, will be a mission specialist on the eighth flight of the space shuttle, a three-day mission now set for July of 1983. Miss Ride will be mission specialist on shuttle flight number seven, set for launch in April of next year. Both astronauts said they stepped into the flight crews "without a ripple."

smooth transition," said Bluford. "It has really worked out extremely well." Miss Ride said she should have no problem finding privacy aboard the roomy space shuttle, which is much larger than the Apollo spacecraft of an earlier era. Restroom facilities on the shuttle, she said, "are just like a lavatory on earth."

"My father was a mechanical engineer and he faced a lot of problems in his field. I haven't faced any of those problems at all," said Bluford.

Miss Ride said she was a member of the National Organization of Women at Stanford University in California, but actually found no barriers because of her sex.

"I've been fortunate to come along when I did," she said. "There had been women before me who broke the way and I could just follow along." NASA, she added, "did an excellent job of preparing everybody for our arrival."

Both Bluford and Miss Ride were selected as astronauts in 1978. Flying with Miss Ride on the seventh shuttle mission will be Robert L. Crippen, commander, Fred H. Hauck, pilot, and John M. Bian, mission specialist.

With Bluford will be Richard H. Truly, commander, Daniel C. Brandenstein, pilot, and Dale A. Gardner, mission specialist.

Except during the Civil War, passports were not needed to enter or leave the United States until 1918.

Alabama Entertainers of Year; Mandrell, Haggard Top Vocalists

BÜENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — The rocking country band called Alabama was the big winner at the 17th annual Academy of Country Music awards, taking two honors in addition to being named entertainers of the year.

Barbara Mandrell was named top female vocalist Thursday. Merle Haggard won top male vocalist, and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West won top vocal duo and song of the year, for "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma," in the ceremony at Knott's Berry Farm.

Alabama, which less than two years ago was playing a bar in Myrtle Beach, S.C., claimed "Hat" trophies for top vocal group and album of the year for their "Feels So Right." A year ago the band won the top vocal group award.

"I think the academy just kind of leads the way," said lead singer Randy Owen. "It's a great honor. Last year we did 300 days (on the road) and we're glad all the people listened."

Frizzell and Miss West had something more to celebrate than their awards — Miss West gave birth Tuesday to her first child.

Miss West is the daughter of Dottie West, who was co-emcee of the NBC telecast, and her husband, Alan Frizzell, is her singing partner's brother.

"All this in one week — it's been an amazing week," David Frizzell said backstage.

Dottie West got her first glimpse of her new granddaughter, Tess Marie Frizzell, during the program as co-hosts Mickey Gilley and Conway Twitty introduced a videotape of the baby and her parents.

Miss Mandrell's top female vocalist award marked her fourth honor from the Los Angeles-based academy. "You've been very, very good to me for a very long time," the blond singer told the audience of 2,000 at the amusement park.

Haggard was not on hand to claim his best male vocalist trophy — his 14th Hat trophy and his sixth for male vocalist.

Juice Newton was another absentee winner in the best new female vocalist category. But Ricky Skaggs said, "Thank you, Lord" as he collected his award for best new male vocalist.

However, in accepting the best single award, Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall said without referring to the lawsuit that the band had first heard "Elvira" sung by a group in Texas a few years ago.

"If we knew the name of that little group in Texas we'd buy them a Cadillac," Bonsall said.

The Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can" became the first winner of the newly-created Tex Ritter award for country motion picture of the year. That award was presented by Ritter's sons, "Three's Company" star John Ritter and his brother Tom.

Home Builders, Sellers Wanting Federal Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home builders and sellers, mired in deep recession, say they need more federal help than President Reagan's Housing Commission is willing to recommend.

The commission, which made its final report Thursday, proposed substantial changes for the future of housing finance.

But for now, it said, the best hope for the housing industry is to rely on the administration's economic plans to ignite overall economic recovery and bring down interest rates.

As if to underscore the industry's problems, the government reported Thursday that sales of new single-family houses fell in March to the lowest annual rate of officials have recorded in the two decades they've been keeping track.

New construction and sales of existing houses also are way down, although they've risen a bit recently.

The figures prompted a spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders to raise the possibility that as many as half the nation's home builders could be out of business by mid-year if things don't improve.

The administration's housing commission, however, said very little about short-term aid to the industry.

"Dependency on emergency government programs will not yield prosperity for the economy as a whole or any significant sector of it," the report said.

The report, which has only the force of recommendations, has gone to Reagan and to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Officials of trade groups representing builders and sellers praised proposals to cut government housing regulations and to provide tax incentives for investment in home loans — and possibly for first-time home buyers.

But the National Association of Realtors worried that the availability of home loans would be stifled by the recommendation that savings and loan associations be given greater leeway to invest their money in areas other than mortgages.

"Literally translated, the commission's recommendations would allow for the total abandonment of housing by the savings and loan industry," said Julio Laguarda, president of the realtors group.

Builders said they feared commission recommendations of less government involvement in subsidizing, insuring and otherwise supporting new housing will make it tougher for their industry to recover.

Thursday's new sales figures from the Commerce Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development were one more indication of how bad the times have gotten.

With home loan rates rising again, new houses were sold at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 334,000, in March, down 9.5 percent from February and slightly under last September's previous record low of 335,000.

Actual sales in March totaled about 31,000, up from the 28,000 of February.

Irish Hotel Charms Writer

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

CAHIR, Ireland (AP) — I was still unloading the bags from the car, when Willie Buckley, just turned 5 years old, showed me his bankbook.

It listed assets of one pound, the gift, he let me know, of a previous guest.

That's the first great advantage of staying in an Irish bed and breakfast house. You certainly get to know the people. His mother was mortified by his conspicuous display of wealth, but Willie stole my heart. He sat on my lap every morning at breakfast, telling me stories of the ghost that lived in Cahir castle, while I put away the most delicious rashers — bacon on this side of the pond — I have ever tasted and farm-fresh eggs from chickens that walked about outside the dining room window.

Whenever I look back on this past lovely summer in Ireland, I always think of wee Willie, with his beguiling smile, and his older brothers, James and Gerard, who also knew a lot about ghosts, and Mary Kate Buckley's homemade black currant jam and rhubarb tarts.

Evenings around the turf fire, the television set would be turned off, at the request of the kids, who called on their father, Pearse, to get out his guitar and start the sing-along.

"Daddy, sing the one about the frog on the log," Willie called the tune for his favorite and even knew most of the words. Among many Irish songs, new, old, rebellious, romantic, anti-British, there was an intriguing ballad called "Do You Want Your Old Lobby Washed Down?" I was told this translates from the vernacular to: how'd you like to have you teeth knocked out.

The second evening we were there, one of the other guests went out to his car and returned with a five-string banjo. The session that night lasted into the wee hours, which was no problem since in an Irish B & B (bed and breakfast) house, early breakfast can come as late as 10 a.m.

For all of this, including the marvelous breakfast, I paid about $8.80, not including Willie's shakedown.

In the course of several decades of puttering about the globe with portable typewriter and well-battered two-sunder, I have stayed in a number of deluxe hotels — the Ritz in Lisbon, the Savoy in London, the George V in Paris, the Oriental in Bangkok — but never have I slept as well nor woke as ravenously to the scream of rooks in the meadow and the aroma of freshly baked brown bread as when I traveled the B&B trail in Ireland.

Grandparents Fight To See Children

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)

— Donna Sullivan says her 8-year-old granddaughter's question, "Ma-Ma, why can't you come see me anymore?" is tearing her up inside.

Mrs. Sullivan says neither she nor her husband, Jerrel, can give a good answer to young Stacey. The southeastern Illinois couple has been denied permission to see their two grandchildren since their son died and their daughter-in-law remarried.

The Sullivans went before the state legislature for help in their two-year battle to win the right to visit Stacey and 5-year-old Shawn.

Her voice breaking at times, Mrs. Sullivan testified Wednesday before the state House Judiciary Committee in favor of a bill expanding grandparents' visitation rights.

The bill would guarantee grandparents the right to visit grandchildren when one parent dies. State law now guarantees such visits only if both parents are dead.

The Sullivans once lived with their 24-year-old son, Rick, his wife and the two children, Mrs. Sullivan told the panel. But Rick was killed two years ago in a car crash, and his wife remarried and moved four counties away.

The new husband has refused to let the Sullivans visit the children, she said.

The Sullivans have seen the children three times in two years, she said, but only briefly and without parental approval.

The most recent visit was the week before Christmas. The Sullivans saw a newspaper story about a school pageant in which their grandchildren were to appear, she said. They had taken out a subscription to the children's hometown paper hoping for such news.

They drove two hours for a glimpse of Stacey and Shawn, and spoke briefly with them after the play. It was then that Stacey asked why she could not see her grandparents anymore, Mrs. Sullivan said.

"It's pretty hard not to cry. But we try not to around them (the children)," Mrs. Sullivan, 43, said after testifying.

After hearing the testimony, the panel endorsed the bill 9-3, sending it to the full House.

A similar measure was approved last year by the General Assembly and signed by Gov. James R. Thompson. It allows grandparents visitation rights when the parents are divorced, Mrs. Sullivan said, and it has been interpreted to give grandparents visitation rights when both parents are dead.

She testified last year for that bill, hoping it would solve the problem.

Hooten Tosses One-Hitter; Angels Blank Yanks

Home Runs Power Pirates Past Astros

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Around the Los Angeles Dodger clubhouse, they call Burt Hooten "Happy" — a tongue-in-cheek nickname for his unsmiling demeanor.

Thursday night, he really had something to be happy about.

"I'm just happy I got a good, solid game under my belt," said Hooten after pitching a one-hitter to lead the Dodgers to 4-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. "I felt like I had things in control all the way. I felt like I was throwing consistently well all game."

Hooten retired the first 10 Phillies he faced before Ivan DeJesus lined a 1-2 pitch to center for a clean single in the fourth inning. Pete Rose then drew the only walk the Phillies got, but Hooten was able to pitch out of trouble.

DeJesus's hit came on a mistake, Hooten said.

"It wasn't a pitch that I wanted to throw, I wanted to bounce it, but I didn't," he said of the knuckle-curve. "I guess you'd call low and inside a good pitch to a lot of hitters, but he chokes up a lot and can handle that pitch."

Hooten, 1-1, hadn't had much success in his four previous starts.

"I have been a notoriously slow starter," he said. "I've had games like this early in the season, but I haven't usually put them back-to-back until the second half of the year."

"I haven't really been confident all year. When you aren't as confident as you should be, it throws your control off. I was sharp, but I've been sharper."

Hooten, recording his first complete game of the season in his fifth start, walked one and struck out two. He brought a 4.43 earned run average into the game.

The Dodgers got their first run in the first inning off loser Dick Ruthven, 0-3, on Steve Garvey's sacrifice fly. They made it 2-0 in the third on a sacrifice fly by Dusty Baker and wrapped up their scoring with two more in the fifth as Hooten triggered the uprising with a double.

In other National League action, it was San Francisco 7, Montreal 3; Atlanta 3, Chicago 0; Pittsburgh 9, Houston 6 and San Diego 6, New York 0.

Giants 7, Expos 3
Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer, climaxing a five-run, first-inning rally that propelled San Francisco over Montreal.

Montreal starter Ray Burris, 0-4, went into the game with a sparkling 1.17 earned run average, best in the National League. But it climbed to 3.12 after three innings of work in which he gave up all seven San Francisco runs.

Rookie Alan Fowlkes, 3-1, was the winning pitcher, allowing 12 hits and striking out seven in his first complete game.

Braves 3, Cubs 0

Dale Murphy and Bob Horner hit consecutive home runs in the eighth inning to lead Atlanta over Chicago.

After Chicago veteran Ferguson Jenkins and Atlanta rookie Joe Cowley had battled for seven scoreless innings, Claudell Washington singled off Jenkins, 2-2, with one out in the Braves' eighth.

Washington stole second and took third on Chicago catcher Keith Moreland's throwing error before Murphy hit a two-run homer for the game's first runs. Murphy's homer, his sixth, increased his league-leading RBI total to 22.

Horner added an insurance run with his sixth homer.

Gene Garber, 2-1, who relieved Cowley after seven innings, got the victory.

Pirates 9, Astros 6

Tony Pena hit a three-run homer and Dave Parker added a solo shot to power Pittsburgh over Houston. Pena put the Pirates ahead 4-1 in the first inning with his homer off Houston starter Bob Knepper. Bill Madlock had singled in the first Pirate run.

The Pirates extended their lead to 6-2 with a pair of fourth-inning runs, one on a wild pitch by Knepper and the other on Dale Berra's sacrifice fly.

Houston chased Pirate starter Don Robinson during a four-run fifth inning that tied the game at 6-6, but the Pirates moved back ahead with a run in the fifth off loser Mike LaCoss, 1-1, on Madlock's RBI single. Parker blasted his home run in the seventh off Randy Moffitt.

Padres 6, Mets 0

Tim Lollar limited New York to five hits in hurling his first major league shutout and belted his second home run of the season as San Diego beat the Mets.

The Mets, who ended the Padres' 11-game winning streak with a 15-inning 5-4 victory Wednesday night, managed just four singles off Lollar, 2-0, who walked two and struck out five.

Lollar, batting .556 at the start of the game, drove in a pair of runs. His homer, the third of his major league career, was a solo shot off Mets starter Charlie Puleo, 2-2.

Sitma Says Sonics Must Win on Road

By The Associated Press

Jack Sikma is thinking ahead — three games ahead.

The SuperSonics' center doesn't want to return to Seattle next Wednesday down three games to one against the Spurs, which means he's banking on winning one of the next two games in San Antonio.

"This year we were not even close to them in games there," Sikma said of the Sonics' performances (one victory in five games) in San Antonio, where their National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal resume tonight. "But the playoffs are different.

"We've got to get one of those (two games) down there. You don't want to come back home down 1-3," Sikma said. "I'd like to grab the game Friday, that would put the monkey on San Antonio's back."

San Antonio, winner of the Midwest Division, put the monkey on the Sonics' back with a 95-93 victory in Seattle in the opener of the best-of-seven series. Seattle, which finished second to Los Angeles in the Pacific Division during the regular season, won the second game 114-99.

The Lakers head into Phoenix tonight with a 2-0 lead in their series. Los Angeles twice beat the Suns with ease, 115-96 and then 117-98.

In the Eastern Conference playoffs, action resumes Saturday in Washington and Milwaukee. The Bullets and Boston are tied 1-1 with Washington having won its second game 103-102 on the Celtics' court. The Bucks come home down 2-0 to Philadelphia, the 76ers having won the second game of that series 120-108.

Freddie Brown said the Spurs' dominance of Seattle on their home court is meaningless now that the regular season is over. "I don't think of it in those terms," he said. "You can't look at it like that. You have to look at it as one game at a time."

The Lakers won all three games in Phoenix this season, prompting Suns guard Dennis Johnson to observe: "This is not a time to panic, but it is a time to worry."

Phoenix Coach John McLeod may be on the verge of panic, though, considering the way the Suns played in Los Angeles. "We're not going to beat anybody the way we're playing now," he said. "We haven't given a good effort yet and we haven't been competitive."

Bill Fitch, the Boston coach, said the Celtics weren't ready to handle Washington's ball-control attack in the second game, won by the Bullets when rookie Frank Johnson hit a three-point basket with three seconds remaining. And he cautioned that Boston could get burned again.

"The win," Washington Coach Gene Shue said, "will give us confidence. We're not going to be passive."

Where Buck Martinez and Paul Splittorff are concerned, familiarity breeds...well...how about a home run?

For five years, Splittorff, a left-handed pitcher, and Martinez, a catcher, played together with the Kansas City Royals, batterymates and close friends.

But when they take the field these days, they are temporary enemies in different uniforms. Martinez hammered a three-run homer and an RBI single to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-0 victory over the Royals and Splittorff Thursday night behind Dave Stieb's five-hit pitching.

In other American League games, the Chicago White Sox edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2, the California Angels blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, the Oakland A's downed the Baltimore Orioles 9-6 and the Cleveland Indians defeated the Seattle Mariners 5-1.

Martinez, who was the Royals' catcher from 1973-77, hammered a 2-2 pitch from Splittorff over the left field fence in the fourth inning with two runners on base, the 28th home run of his career, giving Toronto a 4-0 lead.

In the sixth, Barry Bonnell singled and scored on Jesse Barfield's double. Barfield took third on the throw home and Martinez knocked Splittorff out with a single.

White Sox 3, Tigers 2
Ron LeFlore collected three hits, including a towering two-run homer, while winner Dennis Lamp and Salome Barojas combined on a three-hitter. Lamp held the Tigers hitless through four innings and gave way to Barojas with one runner on base and one out in the seventh after yielding two hits. Barojas finished to increase his league-leading total to six saves.

The White Sox scored their first run in the second inning on Carlton Fisk's single, a passed ball, an infield out and Bill Almon's single. Chicago increased it to 3-0 in the fifth when Almon led off with a single and LeFlore ripped the first pitch from Larry Pashnick into dead center field for his second home run of the season.

Angels 2, Yankees 0
Geoff Zahn pitched a seventh-hitter for his second shutout of the season and Bob Boone lined a tie-breaking single in the ninth inning. New York's Dave Righetti pitched into the eighth but reliever Shane Rawley hit Reggie Jackson with a pitch to start the ninth. Fred Lynn sacrificed pinch runner Jose Moreno to second and Rawley walked Tim Foli intentionally. Boone had a 3-2 count when he lined a pitch up the middle with the runners moving, scoring Moreno and sending Foli to third. Brian Downing followed with a sacrifice fly.

A's 9, Orioles 6
A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Dwayne Murphy drove in the first of three Oakland runs in the ninth inning after the A's had blown the last of a 6-1 lead when the Orioles scored three times in the bottom of the eighth. Oakland loaded the bases in the ninth on a single by Mike Heath and walks to Fred Stanley and Rickey Henderson. After Murphy's sacrifice fly broke the tie, the A's added two more runs on a wild pitch and Tony Armas's single.

Dan Meyer drove in four runs with a grounder and a three-run double to help the A's build their 6-1 lead. Davey Lopes homered for Oakland, while John Lowenstein connected for Baltimore. Ken Singleton had a game-tying two-run single for the Orioles in the eighth.

The Orioles outhit Oakland 14-9, but the A's drew seven walks and stole four bases. Five of the seven batters who walked came around to score, prompting Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles to call a 45-minute closed-door meeting with his entire staff after the game.

Weaver declined to discuss what transpired, but Ross Grimsley said the pitchers were told to "throw the ball over the plate."

Indians 5, Mariners 1
Toby Harrah hit his sixth home run and Andre Thornton rapped a two-run single to support Larry Sorensen's five-hit pitching. Sorensen, who picked up his first victory in four appearances since the Indians acquired him from St. Louis in an off-season trade, walked one and struck out four.

Thornton delivered his two-run single off Gene Nelson with the bases loaded in the first inning. Harrah homered leading off the third and the Indians added another run on a walk to Thornton, a double by Von Hayes and Ron Hassey's grounder. Hayes doubled again in the seventh to score Mike Hargrove, who singled.

ELECT ANDY SHUVAL

To The Court of Criminal Appeals Place 2

ANDREW JACKSON SHUVAL

There is no telling how much it is costing the taxpayers of Potter County to try a man for murder who has been convicted once.

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned the verdict on a technicality. Andrew Jackson Shuval says he will do everything he can to keep these things from happening.

El Baba Favored in Derby Field of 20

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cupecoy's Joy, a fast-working New York-bred filly, Saturday will test 18 colts — including a one-eyed runner — and a gelding, survivors from a Kentucky Derby field that has been stripped by illness and injury.

In 107 previous Derbies at Churchill Downs, only two fillies have won — Genuine Risk in 1980 and Regret in 1915.

Cupecoy's Joy, who ranked sixth on the money earning list which determined the field at a maximum 20 3-year-olds, also had been entered in today's Kentucky Oaks for 3-year-olds.

However, after Cupecoy's Joy drew the richest No.1 position for the richest Derby ever with a gross purse of $527,600, owner Roberto Perez said, "We're in for the big one. If we had drawn on the outside, we would have scratched immediately and run in the Oaks."

Bettors, perhaps remembering that Genuine Risk paid $28.20 for a $2 win ticket here, don't figure to get that high a payoff on Cupecoy's Joy since she will be part of the parimutuel field with seven others because there can be only 12 betting interests.

The parimutuel field was listed at 8-1 in the early line, which favored El Baba, winner of eight of 10 starts, at 5-2, followed by unbeaten Air Forbes Won, the Wood Memorial winner, 7-2, and Muttering, the Santa Anita Derby winner at 4-1.

Cupecoy's Joy, to be ridden by Angel Santiago, has four victories — all against New York-bred competition — five seconds and four thirds in 14 starts, earning $213,420. Royal Roberto, a 20-1 outsider, is the other New York-bred in the field for the 1 1/4-mile first leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

No New York-bred has ever won the Derby which has been dominated by Kentucky-breds who have won 81 times.

The bay daughter of Northerly-Lady Alba made her last start in the Spiral Stakes at Latonia March 27 where she finished third. She has been impressive during her workouts here this week.

Mrs. Joe W. Brown's El Baba won the Louisiana Derby and ran second to Hostage, who fractured a sesamoid earlier this week, in the Arkansas Derby. The son of Raja Baba-Hail to El, tops the money winners among the Derby field with earnings of $384,863.

El Baba, who won twice here as a 2-year-old, will leave from the No.4 post position with Don Brumfield aboard.

"Good," said trainer Dewey Smith when he heard his colt's post position. "That's just good, couldn't be better. I'm very happy."

Edward Anchel's Air Forbes Won will go from post No.7 under Angel Cordero Jr., who rode the colt's sire, Bold Forbes, to victory in the 1976 Derby. "Sitting on him is like sitting on his daddy," said Cordero after a workout earlier this week.

Air Forbes Won didn't go to the races until March 4 this year and has won all four starts. The last horse to win the Derby that didn't race as a 2-year-old was Apollo in 1882. He also was bred in Ohio which has produced only one Derby winner, Wintergreen in 1909.

Muttering, owned by the Tartan Stable, heads a contingent of five who prepared for the Kentucky Derby on the West Coast. He has raced only twice this year but has earned $317,299 off a career record of four wins and two seconds in nine starts.

Laffit Pincay Jr. will ride Muttering from the No.11 post position for trainer Wayne Lukas.

There is plenty of curiosity here over 20-20 Stable's Cassalera, who lost his left eye in a stall mishap shortly after his birth. Because he is claustrophobic, according to his trainer, Ron McAnally, he has been stabled here in a special outdoor pen.

Cassalera and Water Bank, who will run as a McAnally-trained entry, were listed at 20-1. Cassalera has earned $355,670, second highest in the Derby field, with three victories, two seconds and six thirds in 12 career starts.

Because of his handicap he has been involved in several brushing or bumping incidents. He finished third in his last start, the California Derby, as Water Bank ran second to Rockwall, also in the Derby field.

Cassalera drew the No.18 post position, which pleased McAnally who said his late-charging colt runs better on the outside.

Bill Shoemaker, who has won three Derbies, will be riding in his record 22nd Derby aboard Star Gallant, the undersized colt who finished second in the Derby Trial last Saturday and ran second in the Florida Derby to Timely Writer, the early Derby favorite who was withdrawn last week after intestinal problems and surgery.

Star Gallant, who had won his first four starts before his two seconds was listed at 8-1.

Sent off at 1-5 odds in the Derby Trial, he lost to Listcapade, a non-Derby nominee.

Some of those late-comers, mostly with unimpressive records, were joined in the mutuel field with Cupecoy's Joy. They were New Discovery, Rock Steady, Wolfie's Rascal, Majesty's Prince, Music Leader, Reinvested and Real Dare, the gelding.

Gato Del Sol, second in the Blue Grass, was listed at 10-1. Bold Style, third in the Arkansas Derby, and Wavering Monarch, third in the Blue Grass, were rated at 15-1.

Other outsiders were Royal Roberto, third in the Derby Trial, 20-1; Laser Light, third in the Wood, and Rockwall, 30-1 each.

All will carry 126 pounds, except for Cupecoy's Joy, who gets a five-pound sex allowance. If all go, the winner's purse will be a record $422,600. The runnerup earns $60,000, with third place finisher getting $30,000 and fourth place $15,000.

Archer, Strange Lead Nelson

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — There was no wind and the normally fast greens were soft. It was strictly target golf in the opening round of the Byron Nelson Classic with George Archer and Curtis Strange stealing the par-breaking show.

Archer, who still holds the PGA record for fewest putts in a 72-hole tournament, used a new blade to one-putt 10 times Thursday for a 5-under par 65.

Strange matched Archer's heroics over the tame Preston Trail Golf Club with another 65, including six one-putt greens.

"I've played here many, many years and I've never seen the course play any easier," said Archer. "You could just fire it at the pins."

For an example of how simple the course played, defending champion Bruce Lietzke was 1-over par 281 in winning the tournament last year.

Lietzke shot 1-under 69 Thursday and trailed 14 other players.

Bruce Fleisher, Vance Heafner and Eric Batten cruised home in 4-under 66. Three were at 67 and six, including U.S. Open champion David Graham, were at 68.

"We got a break in the weather," admitted Strange. "The wind didn't blow and the temperature (mid-70s) was perfect. The overnight rains softened the greens."

Strange added "par is never a bad score here over 72 holes. The course always catches up to the players. Watch what happens if we get a little wind."

Archer, who used only a record 94 putts when he won the 1980 Sea Pines Heritage Classic, tried a Bulls-eye putter and the change worked magic.

"It's the kind of putter I used when I was a kid," the 41-year-old Archer said. "I'm not as good a putter as I once was...I can't concentrate like I used to. But I only had 26 putts...that's pretty good."

The 27-year-old Strange, one of the bright, young stars on the PGA tour, didn't use a new putter just good "mechanics" on his round.

"I've been working hard on it," he said. "Ninety-nine per cent of putting is between the ears."

Archer and Strange played in the afternoon after early morning winds had died down.

Heafner, who played in the morning, had nine one-putts, saying "the rain made the course play easy. The greens were slow for this course."

Never in Nelson history has as many pleyers broken par — 30 were under par and 17 equaled it.

Protect Trees and Shrubbery With 'Preventive Medicine'

As conservationists are fond of saying, trees and shrubbery are an investment in the future. It's true. If properly cared for they can last for generations, providing beauty and value to your property.

Just as you would protect other investments, you should protect your trees and shrubbery. And don't wait until you have a problem, such as leafworms or top-heavy trees that can't support themselves.

A regular routine of "preventive medicine" will make your trees and shrubs thrive. Pruning trees and shrubs and regular spraying for insects protect your investment.

Pruning does three important things for trees: It directs growth, improves health, and increases production.

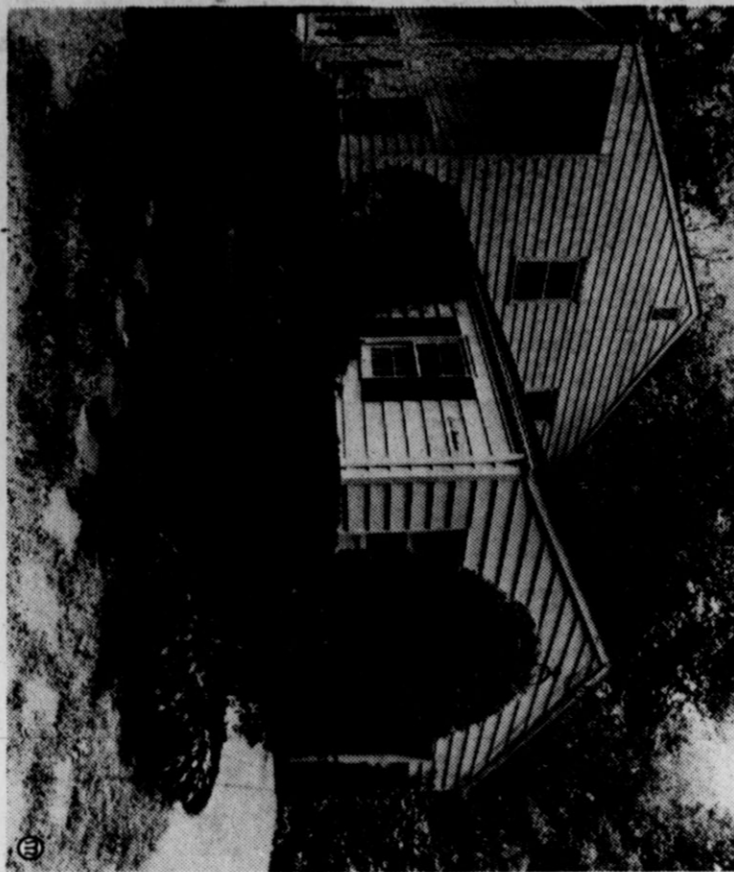

There are several principles to pruning that should be kept in mind. Primary, of course, is the question of when to prune.

First determine when your plant flowers and on which kind of growth it flowers—season, wood from the previous year, or wood two or more years old.

You should prune plants that bloom on new shoots before the plant blooms. Plants should be pruned after flowering. With plants blooming on wood two or more years old, you need not be as selective. Just cut to shorten and thus strengthen the branches.

Other pruning guidelines to keep in mind are that pruning can either dwarf a plant or make it grow taller. Reducing a plant's height makes it denser and sturdier, thinning it produces a taller, more open plant.

Strong light produces a thick growth of leaves and limbs. Two branches growing

The lovely trees and shrubs that adorn your yard represent a valuable investment in time and beauty. Like any investment, they need care.

Cut Them To Enjoy Indoors

Bulb flowers, so beautiful in the garden and so part of landscaping, can be as captivating inside the home as cut flower bouquets and house plants.

Cutting flowers from outdoor plants will not harm the plants, according to "All About Bulbs," a new book from Ortho. Cutting may even strengthen the plants the following year because they won't have to exert the same energy in the maturing and seed production stages of flowering.

Gardeners concerned about distributing the look of their landscape often plant a special cutting garden in an unobtrusive back yard area.

In selecting flowers to cut, choose blooms that are just beginning to open, along with a few buds that will open in a day or two.

as much foliage on the plant as possible to restore nutrients to the bulb.

Carry a bucket of water to the garden and immediately plunge the flower stems into it after cutting.

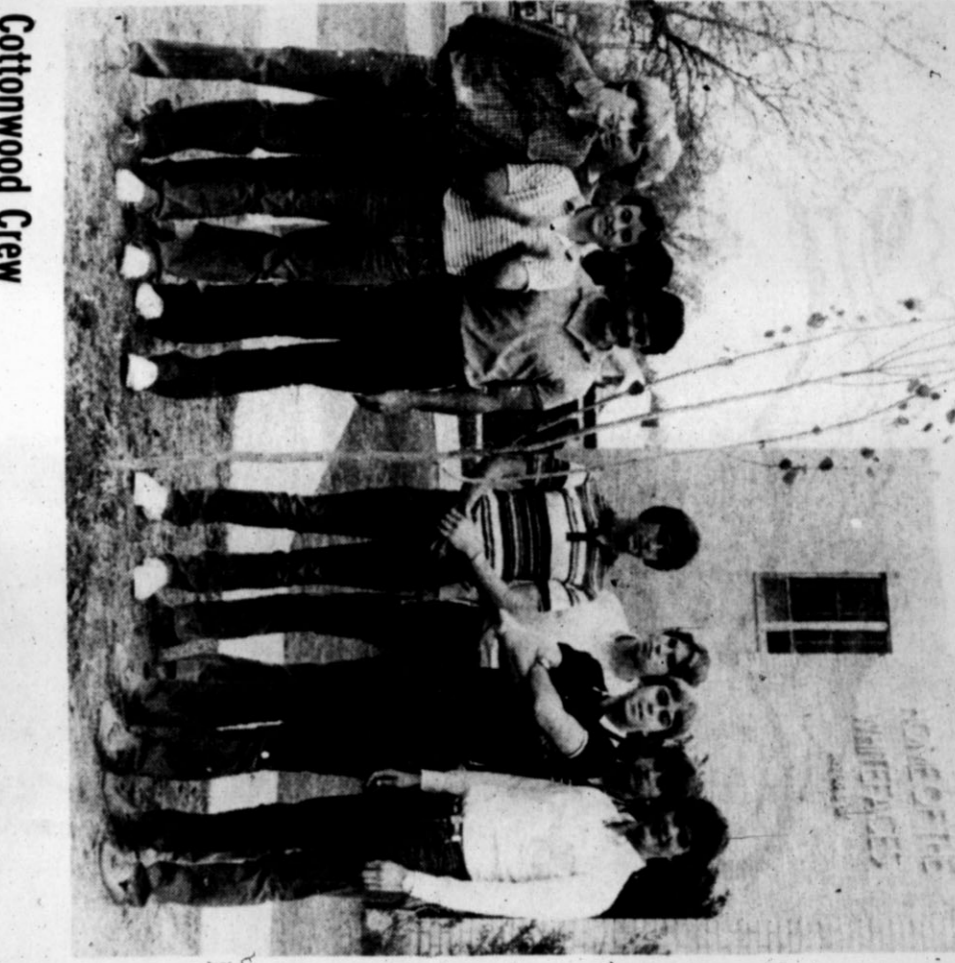

But don't combine tulips and daffodils in the same water; daffodils sap injures tulips.

Daffodils and tulips can be combined in cut flower arrangements after each has set for a few hours in its own container of water.

Keeping the stems of all bulbs, such as tulips, straight after cutting can be a problem. Some florists accomplish this by laying a dozen or so flowers on several thicknesses of newspaper which they then wrap up securely and tie. The bundle is stood upright in deep water for a few hours or overnight.

Use solitary cutflowers

For best results, the stems of cut bulb flowers should be re-cut daily with a sharp knife.

Winning Perennial Planting Based on Careful Planning

Every successful perennial garden is based on a careful plan that gives a sense of order. Gardeners should never skimp on the planning stage or they will end up with a messy jumble of flowers growing randomly.

When designing a plan, consider such factors as the size and shape of the lawn, paths and walkways, shrub borders, hedges, trees, statues, and background fences and walls. According to Ortho's book "All About Perennials," there are five basic factors to consider when designing a perennial garden:

- Decide which area of the garden will be viewed most often.
- Consider the shape and topography of your yard and what plants or trees you want to keep.
- Determine whether you

Perennials are very effective when planted in groups. Preparing a rough sketch of your garden will be helpful so you can indicate exactly where each group will be planted.

want a formal or informal design.

- Decide if you want beds or borders.
- Select your plants.

The first step is to consider the shape and topography of your yard. This will help you decide if you want to have a formal or informal garden. If your yard is irregular with slopes and hills or you would like to keep existing plants and trees, your best bet is an informal design. If your yard is flat and has little vegetation, you can go either way.

An informal garden tends to have more curved lines, such as lawn areas, patios, and walkways. Formal gardens are symmetrical. A formal garden is usually rectangular and is often designed around a focal point, such as a geometrically shaped pool or fountain.

Once you have decided on the location of the garden and whether you want an informal or formal design, you must decide if you want to plant beds or borders or both. A bed is a cultivated area usually surrounded by grass lawn, while a border bounds a specific area.

The advantages of having beds: They are accessible from all sides and therefore are easy to maintain; they get more sunlight and air circulation and can be viewed from all sides.

The great advantage of borders, however, is that they allow more space for your yard. Borders are also ideal for softening edges of buildings.

fences, walkways, and lawns. If you decide on a perennial border, you may want to consider two other aspects of design—background and edging. Backgrounds should be stone or brick walls or natural wood fences. Shrubs also make attractive backgrounds.

For edging, try a row of bricks or fieldstones.

Once you've gone through the previous steps in designing your garden, it's time for the fun—choosing your perennials. In choosing your plants, ask yourself what kind of color scheme you want. Do you want an assortment of plants and flower forms or flowers that are similar in appearance?

In designing your garden, there are several specific characteristics of perennials that you need to know in order to make the best choices.

Get Weeds Out Of Driveway

Scrappy weeds poking out of the gravel on your driveway can take away from the appearance of your house, yard and landscaping.

Like a scrappy haircut, spring growth poking out of driveway gravel can make your whole house look shabby.

Similarly, persistent plant growth between bricks on walkways, patios, parking lots, and even tennis courts can be a problem.

Weeding by hand is a grueling chore and, after hours on your hands and knees, you've probably wished for a simple solution. Believe it or not, there is one. A solution of water and Ortho's Trax Vegetator Killer kills weeds and prevents plant growth for up to one year.

For best results, apply Trax to barren ground or when growth is just starting in the spring. If weeds are 4 to 6 inches high, they should be cut down and removed before application. A large sprayer can is the easiest applicator to use.

Two or three days after you apply the weed killer, you should water the area. This will aid in killing weeds through root absorption. Be sure that no roots of desirable plants come in contact with Trax.

Answering Questions On Watering Lawn

How often should a lawn be watered? How much water does a lawn need? What time of day should the lawn be watered? What's the best type of sprinkler for watering the lawn?

There are probably more questions about watering than any other aspect of lawn care, according to "All About Lawns," an Ortho book, and none harder to answer.

The problem is that lawn watering needs depend on many variables—the type of soil, the climate, wind velocity, humidity, and the frequency of rain, among other things.

However, there are some guidelines for those who take lawn-watering seriously and don't just assign it as a chore to a reluctant offspring.

How often to water

A lawn has to be watered when the soil begins to dry out, before the grass actually wilts. One sign is that areas of the lawn will begin to change color, picking up a blue-green or sandy tinge.

Another is a loss of resilience. If footsteps make a lasting imprint in the lawn instead of bouncing back, it's time to water.

Soil conditions affect how often you need to water. A foot of loam soil will hold about an inch and a half of water. Sandy soil will hold about half that amount, and a clay soil twice as much.

Different types of grasses also have different water requirements.

How much to water

The weather is important. More frequent watering is required when it's hot and windy. However, where there is ample summer rain, only supplementary watering may be needed.

Ideally, the roots of grass should grow deep, so the soil should be moistened six to eight inches deep. This should take between one and two inches of water over the lawn surface. The average lawn will use up this amount of water in about a week.

One way to check if the water has gone down six to eight inches is to wait 12 hours and then simply poke a screwdriver into the ground. If it penetrates that distance without much resistance, the lawn probably is wet enough.

Water should be applied as uniformly as possible, and no faster than the soil can absorb it. Dividing watering into timed intervals may be helpful.

Sprinkle until the soil can't take any more water and then stop and give the lawn about 30 minutes to absorb the water. Then resume the watering until the desired amount has been applied.

When to water

Early morning is an ideal time to water. There are several drawbacks to afternoon watering. For one thing, evaporation caused by wind and sun are at a maximum in the afternoon.

Hand watering

In addition, local water consumption usually is highest in the afternoon, causing low water pressure and interfering with sprinkling patterns.

Certain areas of the lawn may not be watered better than others, such as an area on a slope facing south with maximum sun. Hand-watering isolated dry areas can sometimes extend waterings for a few days.

Two problems that result in poor water penetration are thatch and compacted soil, which actually can repel water and cause wasteful runoff.

Regular dethatching and aeration should be practiced to increase water penetration, provide air to roots, and aid in nutrient uptake.

Mowing lawns at recommended heights, which are higher in hot weather, also will help conserve water.

Efficient watering also depends on proper fertilization. Poor fertilization encourages weeds, which compete with the grass for water.

Too much fertilizer can make the lawn hungry for water and, in turn, cause thatch to develop.

Using sprinklers

Most types of sprinklers have some drawbacks but can be used effectively, provided the waterer knows how they perform and moves them around accordingly.

The sprinkler's pattern and rate of distribution should be tested. One way is to place evenly spaced containers on the lawn. Then turn on the sprinkler at the pressure you would normally operate it. After a set time, turn off and measure and compare the amount of water in each container.

Lower Lawn Care Demands Without Lower Standards

COLLEGE STATION—Energy-conscious homeowners can take steps to reduce the energy demands of lawn care without lowering lawn standards.

"While lawns offer many aesthetic and recreational benefits, these may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care," says Dr. Richard Doble, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Mowing, watering, fertilizing, controlling pests and disposing of leaf clippings are all energy-consuming requirements of lawn care. During spring and summer months, watering the lawn and collecting and disposing of grass clippings place a heavy burden on cities for these services. Grass clippings account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in some cities during spring and early summer," notes Doble.

He offers several lawn maintenance practices to help homeowners reduce these energy demands.

Reducing fertilizer applications to maintenance levels—2 to 3 pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year—will go a long way toward reducing energy demands. (That's 20 pounds of a fertilizer containing 10 percent nitrogen.) Applying only maintenance levels of nitrogen to lawns can reduce mowing requirements, water use, insect and disease problems, and grass clippings.

"Excessive fertilization is the single most important factor contributing to high energy demands for lawn care," contends Doble.

Another lawn care practice to reduce energy demands is returning or composting grass clippings. Using a mulching mower can be beneficial if grass clippings are not composted, says the specialist.

Also, adopting proper watering practices to reduce water use can save energy.

Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice.

Doble advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted, low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands. Centipede grass is ideally suited to East Texas while buffalograss is adapted to much of West and North Texas. Both of these grasses have low maintenance requirements, yet provides a satisfactory turf cover for lawns.

In some situations ground covers such as Asiatic jasmine, English ivy or Liriope can reduce maintenance requirements effectively without sacrificing the benefits of a plant cover. In heavily shaded areas and on steep slopes, use these ground covers in place of grasses, suggests the specialist.

"It is possible to enjoy the luxury of an attractive lawn and landscape," contends Doble, "without excessive energy requirements. In fact, the net energy balance for a lawn can be in favor of energy conservation."

Don't Allow Crab Grass to Move Onto Your Lawn

According to one frustrated home gardener, only three things are certain in life—death, taxes, and crabgrass! Although it's a common weeds, crabgrass is really no worse than any other lawn weed. A weed, in fact, is just a plant that's growing in the wrong place.

To combat crabgrass, apply a post-emergent weed killer in the early summer or as soon as the weed becomes evident.

Crabgrass is actually a variety of grass. It's a narrow-leafed plant with a hollow stem and long narrow leaves with parallel veins. Much better known by name than by sight, crabgrass is very often combined with other weeds such as tall fescue, timothy, and bluegrass.

According to the Ohio book "All About Lawns," crabgrass is a summer weed, thriving where summers are quite hot and where the weather is very humid. It is an annual, meaning the life cycle in one season and starts anew the next year.

In your climate, crabgrass plants begin growth in the early spring and grow rapidly until they form in the late summer and early fall.

If your lawn was bothered by crabgrass last summer, seeds left over from last year will begin to sprout as soon as temperatures reach 65°F to 75°F for four to five consecutive days.

You can prevent these seeds from coming up by applying a pre-emergent weed killer—one that establishes a short-lived chemical barrier on the soil and kills the crabgrass seeds just as they are beginning to grow.

Timing is particularly important. If you plan to do any spring seeding, look for a product containing Turpin (induron) such as Ortho Spring Seeding Crab Grass Control plus Lawn Food, which will not harm germinating grass seeds. If you don't plan to reseed, a product containing Dacthal such as Ortho Crab Grass Preventer plus Lawn Food, is recommended.

If you don't treat your lawn with a pre-emergent weed killer in the early spring, any crabgrass on the lawn should make itself evident by the beginning of summer. Various sprays are available for the selective control of this weed as it is rooted.

A herbicide applied after the weed breaks through the soil is called post-emergent, and such products designed to combat crabgrass will contain DSMA, MSMA, or MAMA (chemicals available in many combinations under several trade names).
