In Six Statewide Races

Runoff Scramble Begins

By KEN HERMAN

Associated Press Writer Democratic candidates in six statewide races today began scavenging through the remains of former opponents' campaigns in an effort to collect support for June 5 runoffs that will advance the winners into the November general election. In the gubernatorial race,

Israeli Dealer Robbed Of $75,000 In Gems

DALLAS (AP) - An Israeli diamond dealer was robbed of about $750,000 in loose diamonds and $31,000 in cash as he left his motel room Monday, police said.

A gunman confronted 62-year-old Zvi Nevo as he left the motel about 7 a.m. for a meeting with a client, officers said. The gunman demanded that Nevo return to his room, handcuffed his right arm to the bedpost and left with a briefcase containing the money and jewels.

"I definitely say it was a professional job and well planned," said investigator W.E. Orzechowski. "He (Nevo) alleges there was no one in town who knew where he was staying, yet this guy knew his name, where he was staying and knew what property he had without looking in the briefcase."

Nevo, a partner in Vanzo Diamonds of Tel Aviv, told police he had checked into the hotel Thursday and met with two clients Friday. He stored the diamonds in a hotel safe over the weekend, he said.

Herman Washom, a maintenance man at the motel, said the manager called him shortly before the robbery and asked him to check out a man wearing sunglasses and a brown suit who had been seen walking around the Washom said the man he was told to watch matched the description Nevo gave of the robber.

Two Men Convicted Of Capital Murder In Death Of Child

CONROE, Texas (AP) - Jurors planned to begin hearing testimony today in the punishment phase of the capital murder trial of two men convicted of killing an 8-year-old girl.

Jurors deliberated three hours before returning the verdict Monday

Carter and Hernandez also are charged with killing Karen Weicht's father, Craig Weicht, and wounding her mother, Carolyn Christine Mrs. Weicht, 30, survived and identified Carter and Hernandez as the men who forced their way into the Weicht home, forced Mrs. Weicht to call her husband and then waited for him to arrive.

She said they took her and Karen into the girl's bedroom, where they both later heard a shot fired. The men returned and shot Mrs. Weicht three times, she said.

The housewife said that as she lay on the floor, listening to air escaping from her collapsed lung, she heard the two shots that killed her daughter. After the men left, she said, she crawled to a telephone and called police.

Karen Weicht was found in her bed. Said a deputy sheriff who investigated the killings: "The little girl did like any kid. She was covering up, trying to hide on the bed."

Ann Landers

Keep In Touch With Mom

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle an argument. Our brother, age 21, has been arrested and charged with criminal sexual assault in the first degree. He is accused of raping a 14-year-old girl. The crime was committed one week after he was paroled form prison for a pleabargained lesser offense. That one was rape, also.

My brother, sister and I have washed our hands of him. He has been in trouble ever since he was a child. When we tried to help him, we ended up getting involved in a mess because he couldn't even be honest with us.

Every contact with our mother is the same: "Please write to him. I don't believe he did it. If you don't forgive your own brother, I can't love you with a full heart."

Should we continue to go see Mom, knowing she will pressure us? It's very depressing and we are sick of comment, but instead of

Continue to see her. When she asks that you forgive your brother and write to him, don't argue with her, just listen-then do as you please.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night my 15-year-old daughter and I were coming home on the bus from a movie. A teenage couple sat in front of us. They were wrapped around one another--French-kissing like you wouldn't believe. Their hands were everywhere. They were totally oblivious to anyone around them. It was just plain disgusting.

I was stunned when my daughter sighed, "It must be wonderful to be in love like that." I was amazed at her

If you're searching for someone who just ripped off a supermarket, you're looking for someone wearing new hose, lipstick, underwear and gloves, who smells nice, coughs a lot and has a steak, ham, pork roast or lamb chop tucked in their

According to a recent survey in Security World magazine, these are the top ten items being lifted these days from supermarkets and convenience stores. Hose is No. 1.

As a woman who has been known to kill off an entire afternoon in front of a pantyhose rack figuring out if I'm an A, B, C, D, XX, or Wide Load, I say these sleazy, swifty shoppers get what they deserve.

Everyone knows shopping for hose is an art form. It was elevated to that position 20 years ago when pantyhose were born. You cannot hurry the buying process. No egg will hatch before its time.

If you buy them for your height, the waistband will bind your knees together. If you buy them for the right weight, the waistband will make you flat-chested.

Do you want fanny control? Tummy control? Entire body control? Industrial strength for those special occasions when breathing is secondary? Or a spot tourniquet for your

What do you want to do in them? Cough? Massage your legs? Jump higher? Or make America beautiful by concealing them under your slacks so it looks like you're wearing

The options go on. Do you want a new shade like Sins of the Flesh Beige or Scraped Knee Chestnut? Or do you want the basic Don't Tell Your Mother Black or Varicose Plum?

Frankly, all these dishonest people who pilfer hose off the shelves without paying really tick me off. They not only take the human race down a notch, they give pantyhose shoppers everywhere a bad name.

Just in case you're curious as to what they steal the least of, it's peanuts and batteries. Neither of them gets runs.

Square Dance To Highlight Pioneer Round-Up In Plainview

Complete plans for the 54th Pioneer Round-Up are taking shape, according to Georgette Masso, president of the sponsoring organization, the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club. The Round-Up will be held, Saturday, May 15, in Plainview. The traditional square dance will conclude the acivities and the guest caller will be Roy Johnson of Amarillo. Helen Pemberton is dance chairman.

Johnson is a veteran square dancer and he and his wife, Barbara, began dancing in 1962. They have held many club offices and are past presidents of the Panhandle Association, the Amarillo Square and Round Dance Council and the Panhandle Square Dance Association.

He has been calling for 18 vears and has called in six states, primarily in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico. He has been one of the callers at Red River Memorial Day and Aspencade Weekends for seven years. He serves as caller for four clubs: Pairs 'N' Squares, Whirleybirds and Workshoppers, all of Amarillo and Calico Capers of Pampa.

He is a graduate of Texas Tech University and is a registered professional engineer employed by the Callers and Teachers State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Mrs. Pemberton and

Johnson invites all square dancers to attend the Pioneer Round-Up and participate in the square dance which will begin at approximately 9 p.m. May 15 at the Hale County Agriculture Center. Everyone is also invited to enjoy the waltz, polka, "Put Your Little Floot" and other couple dances.

Miss Masso states the price of tickets is $3.75 (tax included). This covers all activities beginning with the supper at 6 p.m., the program at 8 p.m., and the square dance which follows. Tickets may be secured from any member of the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club. Also everyone is invited to shop that day for baked products at the Kuntry Kitchen beginning at 10 a.m. at the Agriculture Center.

"Americans are buying less meat, less tuna, less everything," said Manuel Neves, fleet coordinator for the American Tunaboat Association. "Every year it's been a rule that fish production goes up 7 percent, but last year consumption went up only 1 percent."

At the same time, imports from a growing number of tuna-fishing nations have snarled negotiations between the canneries and the American Tuna Sales Association, representing U.S. fishermen.

Seiner owners are being asked by processers to cut their price for yellowfin, the bigger,, white-meat tuna American fishermen try to catch, by as much as 40 percent to compete with prices for smaller tuna such as yellowtail and skipjack caught by Japanese, Indonesian and other foreign fishermen.

industry Fishing spokesmen say any setback, even a brief cannery shutdown, can turn a profitable year into losses. "The younger men are angry about all this," said Neves. "Many of them will make very little money. They face dangers at work and uncertainty at home."

Gil Rodriguez, who has sold provisions to U.S. seiners for 10 years, said this week he is quitting the business.

But now the plaza is an old maid and the cheers of the crowd rarely disturb her.

The bullring was opened nearly 25 years ago with a fanfare that has yet to be equaled in Mexican bullfighting. From the opening in September 1957 until October 1959, the plaza held a record 123 bullfights.

During most of the bullring's lifetime, crowds packed in every summer Sunday to watch slender matadors in gilded costumes duel with raging, snorting bulls. But in the middle 1970s, the crowds began to dwindle and the operator of the ring was forced to reduce the number of corridas.

This year, there will be only five bullfights, all on American holiday weekends in hope of drawing tourists from the North.

"The bullfights are still here, it's the world that is different," said Major Jose Salvador Lopez Hurtado; owner of the plaza. "The world is the thing that changes, not the bulls.'

changes cause the slow decline of bullfighting along the border.

The most drastic changes have been economic devaluations of the peso, a recession north of the border, higher taxes and higher costs to stage each corrida.

"It's an investment any time you put on a bullfight, Lopez Hurtado said through an interpreter. "At this point, I'm not even trying to make money. I'm just trying to break even."

Jim Kerby, a bullfight aficionado who lives across the Rio Grande in El Paso, Texas, recalled that the decline began when the gasoline crunch in the mid-1970s slowed the tourist trade.

"It started out with that economic crisis on the U.S. side of the border," he said. "Then the Mexican government doubled the taxes and wouldn't let you deduct for advertising costs. It made it impossible to continue the tradition of bullfights every Sunday. (Lopez Hurtado) began cutting back on advertising and increased the prices." Lopez Hurtado said ticket prices had to rise - the worst seats now cost $6 each because his costs were increasing rapidly.

burses fines and penalties, but not lost fishing time and confiscated cargo. Also, modern equipment and fishing methods have contributed to what distributors describe as overfishing, The U.S. fleet, which traditionally has provided 40 percent to 45 percent of American tuna needs, can handle 135,000 tons of tuna at a time, and most boats make at least two trips annually. The result is that while the prices of comparable foodstuffs have risen in the supermarket, tuna prices haven't, with a six-ounce can of tuna selling for around $1 and dipping to 79 cents in some weekend specials.

William J. Horner, president of Marine Service Enterprise Inc., believes the problems will end when Americans start buying tuna again. "It's a very fastmoving industry," in no danger of dying, he said.

Still, shockwaves hit San Diego when Castle & Cook of Honolulu announced plans to close Bumble Bee indefinite-

A woman, in a letter in the local newspaper this week, suggested that if half of San Diego's people bought a single can of tuna in the next two weeks "it might mean saving 900 jobs." San Diego has about 900,000 residents.

Among the 900 workers who expect to lose their jobs is Jaime Rocha, 20, with a wife, three children and a baby due in June. Rocha has cleaned up fish carcasses and kept empty tin cans moving on conveyor belts.

"I don't know what other work I can do," he says. "I do not understand why this is happening."

Ramsey Instilled Into Basketball Hall Of Fame

By TRUDY TYNAN Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - Frank Ramsey, the "Sixth Man" of the Boston Celtics, was still shaking his head in disbelief as he lined up with the likes of Willis Reed, Hal Greer and Slater Martin to be installed in the Basketball Hall of Fame.

"I've got to be the only sub in the Hall of Fame," said Ramsey, who totaled 8,738 points coming off the bench during a nine-year pro career during which the Celtics won seven National Basketball Association championships.

Also inducted Monday were Winston-Salem State Coach Clarence "Big House" Gaines, the winningest active coach in basketball with a 683-299 record; Alva Duer, executive secretary of the NAIA from 1949 until his retirement in 1971 and the late Everett Case, former coach at North Carolina

Danny Biasone, who as owner of the old Syracuse Nationals, revolutionized the pro game in 1954 by persuading the other owners to institute the 24-second clock, received a specal award as an outstanding contributor to the game.

"I couldn't believe it when I opened my mailbox. I thought I got the wrong mailgram," recalled Ramsey, 52, who returned to his hometown of Madisonville, Ky., after his playing days to become a banker and farmer.

"We never played for stats, we played to win. "Heck, I would have sat on the bench all year to get those seven

For Reed, the big, quiet center who came out of tiny Grambling College to lead the New York Knicks to the NBA championships in 1970 and 1973, the words "team play" were the key.

"The people I played with, my teammates, put me here," he said. "You don't make halls of fame in a team sport by youself and I played with some of the best from the time my high school won the state championship."

Reed is now coaching at Creighton University.

Standing a foot shorter than Reed, Martin, at 5-10 one of the smallest players ever to make the Hall of Fame, agreed.

"I still amazes me," he said. "I knew my teammates would get here, they were all shooters, but you don't expect it when you are under six feet and play defense."

An All-American at Texas, Martin, 56, played-on four NBA championship teams with Minneapolis Lakers one with the St. Louis in the 1950s. He scored 7,337 points and 3,160 assists in an eleven-year pro career.

For Greer, the NBA's eighth-leading scorer, the honor was a long time coming, but he was all smiles

"I thought it should have come earlier, but I'm not .mad anymore," said Greer, an All-American at Marshall University in 1959. His deadly accurate jumpers from the foul line were a trademark of a 15-year pro career with Syracuse and Philadelphia that included 10 All-Star games. "It's been quite a few years, but sometimes it's better when you have to wait for it," said Greer, who first became eligible five years after his retirement in 1973.

"I've never had but one job and that's just been a game," said Gaines, 58, who has coached Winston-Salem since 1947. His teams, which have included such future pro stars as Earl Monroe, have had only two losing seasons.

Case, who died in 1966, amassed an 87-percent winning percentage in 47 years of

Gervin Confident But Not Cocky

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

George Gervin still regrets what happened to the San Antonio Spurs in the National Basketball Association playoffs in 1979.

He doesn't want the same thing to happen this year.

"There can be no coasting," Gervin says as the Spurs, holding a 3-1 edge in their seven-game, quarterfinal series with Seattle, prepare for Wednesday night's game with the Super-Sonics.

"I'm confident but not being cocky in this league. need one more victory to That will eat you up."

Which is what might have happened to the Spurs in 1979 when they led the Philadelphia 76ers 3-1 and just narrowly won the series in seven games, then lost to the Washington Bullets in seven after holding a 3-1 advantage.

The San Antonio-Seattle game is one of three quarterfinal contests scheduled for Wednesday night. In the others, Boston will play Washington and Philadelphia

"We've got to come ready Gilder Sets Record 14-Under Par 266

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer DALLAS (AP) - Bob Gilder said goodbye to Preston Trail Golf Club in a par-wrecking finale that forever will leave his name listed in the Byron Nelson Classic record book.

Gilder cruised home with no fives on his card and a 3-under par 67 Sunday to establish a tournament record 14-under par 266.

The tournament leaves Preston Trail after 15 years in 1983 and will be played at a new course, Cottonwood Valley, in nearby Irving, Texas.

"I'm sad to see it go," said Gilder, who earned a $63,000 check and his first victory since the Canadian Open in

The 31-year-old Gilder's score, fashioned with four rounds in the 60s, was three strokes lower than the old record held by Buddy Allin and Tom Watson.

Gilder won by five shots over Curtis Strange, who cashed $37,800 with a final round 1-under 69 and a 271 total.

"Bob played just perfect ... He was just too tough to catch," said Strange.

Gilder's total, which was compiled on four relatively windless days, was 15 shots better than the winning four rounds posted by Bruce Lietzke last year. Gilder also set records at the 36 and 54 hole marks.

The determined Gilder, boosted by an overnight redeye-flight from Portland, Ore., made by his wife Peggy, wasn't about to collapse like he did in 1980 at the Memorial Tournament.

Leading going into the final round, he stumbled to an 82 and finished 41st.

"I knew my wife was going to come so I had better win. said Gilder. "I didn't want to blow it like I did at Muirfield. I was nervous at first but the putts didn't drop for Curtis and that made it easier."

Gilder made birdie putts of 2, 15, and 16 feet and saved par on two holes coming out of bunkers in his relentless round.

victory. He also won the 1976

Phoenix Open. Gilder said he knew he had the victory after he birdied the 15th and 16th holes.

Playing partner David Graham, who finished in a three-way tie for third, sidled over to him and quipped: "Do you think you can get in now?"

Graham was in Gilder's group at the Muirfield disaster.

Tennis Opens With Mixed Doubles Draw Even

The Hereford Country Club opened its tennis tournament season last weekend with a Mixed Doubles Draw even. Karl Mannschreck-Cindy Baker won the "A" Division title, while Raymond White-Kathy Paetzold took the "B" trophy, and A.T. Griffin-Beverly Bryant won the "C" Division.

Runners-up included Cal Mitts-Cathy Allison in the "A" Division, John Stagner-Claudia McBrayer in the "B" Division, and Jim Marsh-Francyne Bromlow in the "C" Division.

Respective consolation trophy winners were Frank Bezner-Amy Ross, Ron Osborn-Poppy Head, and Mike Bowles-Trinetta Bowling.

tm play and keep our killer instinct," said Gervin, who scored 19 in Sunday's victory. "I remember a few years ago. I realize it isn't impossible for a team to come back from that far down. That means we have to play harder Wednesday." The Spurs, meanwhile, don't figure to be an easy touch in Seattle. They certainly weren't in San Antonio.

"We had San Antonio beaten three times and let them off the hook," said Seattle's James Donaldson. "We are confident we can come back and win."

The Celtics-Bullets game will be played in Boston Garden, a tough place for visiting teams. The Bullets did manage to win Game Two of the series at the Garden, on a three-point basket by Frank Johnson with three seconds remaining. But the Celtics had a 35-6 record there during the regular season. In addition, the Bullets have beaten the Celtics only once in the last 13 meetings. "I don't feel confident yet," said Celtic Coach Bill Fitch, whose team is the defending NBA champion. "Ask me the same question when it's over and I might say 'maybe.""

The Bucks, playing without injured guards Quinn Buckner and Junior Bridgeman, both out for the season, had five men average 42 minutes each on Saturday and seemed to be worn out after Sunday's 100-93 loss to the 76ers.

"It seemed like Milwaukee burned out a little," said Julius Erving. "There was a lot more holding and grabbing. We got some breakaway situations that we wouldn't have had if they had rested

Phillies Defeat Giants, 5-3

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

A little knowledge can be a dangerous thing, and Philadelphia rookie Bob Dernier is getting smarter with every game.

Dernier stole his sixth and seventh bases of the season in the first inning, then doubled home the go-ahead run in the fourth as the Phillies defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-3 Monday night.

The victory Philadelphia's second straight, representing the first time the Phillies had won games consecutively this season. Dernier's second stolen base came on the front end of a double steal with Pete Rose, and he and Rose scored the first two runs of the game on Gary Matthews' single.

"He can run, and he likes to run," Rose said of Dernier. "When he learns more about the pitchers, he'll be stealing a lot more bases."

The Phillies scored a third run in the first inning on George Vuckovich's single. but San Francisco tied it with two runs in the second — one on Darrell Evans' homer and another run in the third on Jack Clark's RBI single.

Dernier broke the tie, however, when he doubled in the fourth inning off Dan Schatzeder, 0-4, scoring Ivan DeJesus, who had walked and was sacrificed to second. The Phillies added their insurance run in the eighth on Dick Davis' sacrifice fly.

The winner was Sid Monge, who worked five innings, giving up three hits in relief of Dick Ruthven. Ed Farmer preserved Monge's first National League victory.

In the rest of the National League, the New York Mets got by Los Angeles 6-3 in 12 innings, Montreal beat San Diego 8-2, Atlanta downed Pittsburgh 10-4 and St. Louis defeated Chicago 9-4. Mets 6, Dodgers 3

Hubie Brooks drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the 12th inning as New York ended a six-game losing streak at Dodger Stadium. Brooks' line single scored George Foster and Joel Youngblood to snap a 3-3 tie. Another run scored on Ron Gardenhire's fielder's choice.

Foster started the threerun inning with a single off Terry Forster, 1-3. Dave Kingman sacrificed Foster to second, and Foster went to third on Youngblood's single. After Forster hit John Stearns with a pitch to load the bases, Steve Howe came on for Los Angeles and yielded the two-run single to Brooks.

Ed Lynch, 1-1, the fifth Mets pitcher, picked up the win with two scoreless innings of relief.

Gary Carter and Chris Speier eached homered, and Bill Gullickson hurled his first complete game of the season for Montreal. Gullickson struck out 10 and scattered seven hits, waiting out a rare 22-minute rain delay at San Diego in the top of the seventh.

Speier's third-inning homer, his second this season, snapped a 1-1 tie, and Carter had a two-run shot in the eighth inning. Al Oliver also drove in a pair of runs with two singles.

The loss represented the first time this season that the Padres have dropped consecutive games. John Montefusco got the loss, despite allowing only four hits in seven innings.

Darrell Porter's two-run homer, his first since April 7, sparked a five-run rally in the St. Louis seventh inning. Keith Hernandez and Dane Iorg had RBI singles in the inning, and another run scored on Cubs catcher Jody Davis' throwing error. The victory was the third in nine games for St. Louis.

Leon Durham's two-run homer in the Chicago fifth had tied the score 4-4.

Baseball's nickname game

What has happened to those colorful nicknames of the past that caught the eye and ear of the fans and helped make the baseball player a household name?

To be sure, there are still some colorful names today, such as "Charlie Hustle" for Pete Rose, "Mr. October" for Reggie Jackson, "The Mad Hungarian" for Al Hra-bosky and "El Toro" for Fernando Valenzuela.

Only recently, the big leagues were populated by such as Jim "Catfish" Hunter, John "Blue Moon" Odom, Paul "Motormouth" Blair, "Sudden Sam" McDowell, Willie "Stretch" McCovey, "Downtown" Ollie Brown, Jimmy "The Toy Cannon" Wynn. And, of course, "Sey Hey" Willie Mays.

But when you're looking for real honest-to-goodness colorful nicknames, you must go back to the so-called "good old days" when it was almost a sacrilege to be known around the clubhouse by your true Christian name. If you didn't bring a nickname with you, you got

Tall lanky players became "Slim," short play-ers became "Peewee," talkative players became "Gabby" and quiet players became "Silent." All Rhoades became "Dusty" and all Cains became Sugar." You were "Happy Jack" or "Sad Sam, depending on your disposi-

If you were a pitcher, you were "Bullet Joe," "Smokey Joe," "Jughandle Johnny," "Easy Ed" or "Slow Joe," nding on your delivery. Hitters were known as "Home Run" as in "Home Run" Baker, "Socks" as in "Socks" Siebold, "Ping" as in "Ping" Bodie and "Swish" "Swish" Nicholson. baserunners were "Deerfoot" (Clyde and "Mercury" (George Myatt); slow ones were nicknamed "Truck" (Jim Hannah).

Some of the most unflattering nicknames belonged to John Kirby, Hugh Mulcahy, Walter Beck and Dick Stuart.

Kirby, who pitched for the St. Louis club in the National League before the turn of "Chicken-Hearted" Kirby because of his inability to go nine innings.

Mulcahy was known as "Losing Pitcher" Mulcahy; his 45-89 record with the Philadelphia Phillies is sufficient evidence. (It is not surprising that Mulcahy became the first majorleaguer to exchange his baseball uniform for a khaki suit in World War II.)

Beck, who pitched for Brooklyn and Philadelphia in the 1930s, was known as "Boom Boom." His nick-name stemmed from the sound of the line drives off nemy bats.

Dick Stuart's bat brought fear into the hearts of enemy pitchers, but it's a toss-up whether he drove in more runs than he gave back with his errant glove. The nick-name "Dr. Strangelove" eemed a perfect fit.

Russ Meyer was called
'The Mad Monk'' because of his temper, Johnny Evers was known as "The Crab" because of his disposition, Arlie Latham was called "The Clown" because of his antics, and Frank Isbell was "The Bald Eagler" for obvious reasons.

Some mean-sounding nicknames were actually terms of respect, such as "The Beast," given to Jimmy Foxx because of his destructive bat; and "The Monster," applied to Dick Radatz because of his fearsome fast ball. Colorful nicknames? Try

these for size: Charlie

"Piano Legs" Hickman... Pearce "What's the Use" Chiles... Elton "Icebox" Chamberlain... Bill "Little Chamberlain... Bill "Little Eva" Lange... George "White Wings" Tebeau... Fred "Dandelion" Dunlap... Walter "No-Neck" Williams... Dan "Ding-aling" Clay... Luke "Old Aches and Pains" Appling... Cliff "Mountain Music" Melton... Charlie "Sea Lion" Melton... Charlie "Sea Lion' Hall... Luke "Hot Potato" Hamlin... Ed "Kickapoo" Summers... Erv "Four-Sack" Susak... and Mordecai

"Three-Fingered" Brown.
Then, of course, there were: "The Gray Eagle," Tris Speaker; "The Silver
Fox," Clark Griffith; "The Georgia Peach," Ty Cobb; "The Old Roman," Charles Comiskey; "The Little Napoleon," John McGraw; 'The Flying Dutchman, Honus Wagner; "The Big Train," Walter Johnson; Peerless

And don't forget perhaps eatest name of them all. George Herman "Babe" Ruth.

"In those games, I felt so strong that I tried to overthrow. Tonight, I felt smooth. It was just a matter of slowing myself down."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Minnesota Twins 6-2, the California Angels nipped the Cleveland Indians 5-4, the Oakland A's. downed the New York Yankees 5-4 and the Kansas City Royals edged the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2.

Rich Dauer and Gary Roenicke backed Flanagan's pitching with home runs. Dauer hit a two-run homer off rookie Mike Moore in the first inning and singled a run across in the fifth, while Roenicke connected for a three-run homer off Larry Andersen in the eighth.

Red Sox 6, Twins 2 Two-run homers by Dave Stapleton and Rick Miller powered red-hot Boston to its fourth consecutive triumph and 12th in the last 13 games, while Chuck Rainey and Bob Stanley combined on a fivehitter. Stapleton's inside-thepark homer capped a fourrun first inning after Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double erased a 2-0 Minnesota lead. Miller's homer followed Rich Gedman's double in the fifth. Stapleton's homer came when his high fly down the right field line fell just out of reach and skipped away from a diving Mickey Hatcher.

HEALTH Troubled by sleep apnea

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column about stopping breathing during sleep. My wife has had three different episodes in the last year-and-a-half when she completely quit breathing and her heart also stopped. She had open heart surgery 12 years ago. Being aware of her condition I sleep lightly and can recognize her symp-toms. Each time I have had to revive her with mouth-tomouth respiration and pumping her breastbone to get her heart going, then call paramedics and the hospital.

I am worried. My business calls for me to be out of town considerably — now I am afraid to leave home. Is there any medical group or clinic that specializes in this? What can I do? How about a respirator aid that could be applied easily by our housekeeper?
DEAR READER — I see that you are from a large city. You should have your wife evaluated by a physician or group that specializes in lung (pulmonary) diseases and pulmonary function. There is a group at your medical university there.

She may need a tracheostomy that can be left open at night when she sleeps. That usually works in real sleep

And that group may be able to suggest something for your wife. One thought would be to have her stay overnight in a local nursing home or similar facility when you are gone, but a measure such as a tracheostomy would be a safer route. For those who may not know, a tracheostomy is an opening in the throat direct-enables air passage when the throat area is closed. Your prompt action is an example of the value of knowing how to save a life

DEAR DR. LAMB -

Your column is very helpful to me but so often you refer to keeping in touch with "your family doctor." I am approaching my 80th birth-day and have outlived three "family doctors" and various specialists. Three times in the last 10 years I have attempted to establish myself with new doctors for checkups only to be told "Dr. So and So is not taking any new patients."

A nurse told me they do not want the challenge of old people because of liability and the girls don't want Medicare paper work.
Please realize "family doctors" wear out. So give some timely advice.

DEAR READER — It can be a problem, particularly in areas where doctors are scarce. My timely advice is that you still need a family doctor. Someone needs to be in charge of your total care. When confronted with the problem you describe the best approach is to check your telephone book and call-the county medical society. The society will usually tell you who in your community will take new patients.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN - Texas lawmakers definitely will be returning to Austin this summer for the purpose of abolishing the state property tax, and Gov. Bill Clements says sion for May 24. Clements is asking the Legislature to approve a constitutional amendment doing away with the taxwhich hasn't been collected since 1978—because of a lawsuit scheduled to go to he will call the special ses-trial in June. That suit, brought by Midwestern University, is seeking to restore the tax, which was used to finance construction at 17 public senior colleges and universities before the Legislature reduced the assessment rate to 0.0001

Clements says nearly $1 billion in past and current taxes would be due if Midwestern wins the suit.

Clements had hardly announced his plans for the session before several groups began calling for the governor to open it to several other issues. Some of those issues include appropriating millions of dollars to offset major increases in state employees' monthly health insurance payments, to offset federal cuts in the Work Incentive Program and to help fight the imported fire ant.

The governor, however, has said he will not allow lawmakers to consider anything but the property tax issue, and has indicated he hopes the matter can be handled in as little as two

GOP Offers 800

A total of 800 candidates for public office appeared on the 1982 Republican primary ballot last Saturday, according to State GOP Chairman Chester R. Upham, Jr. This is the largest number ever to compete as Republican candidates in

"We are really pleased with the large number of excellent candidates who sought election this year as Republicans. The interest in our Party has also resulted in a record number of Republican primary contests," Upham said. "In addition to the statewide contests and the five important referenda questions, Republican primary voters had a choice of two or more candidates in 11 congressional races, seven State Senate districts and 24 House districts.'

The increase in the Republican primary can also be seen in the number of counties which conducted elections. In the last non-presidential year, 186 of the state's 254 counties held a Republican primary. This year, there were 225 counties covering over 98 percent of the state's population.

Voters in all counties choose among candidates for the United States Senate. #### Mayors Panel

The Mayors Advisory Committee to the Governor has identified water as the major issue of concern to their cities, and the group has decided to study several other issues they believe the Legislature should address during the 1983 legislative session

The panel, chaired by Temple Mayor John Sammons, has agreed that water-whether the lack of it or too much of it-is the number one priority to be dealt with next year.

The mayors believe development of a state water plan should no longer be looked at as a West Texas issue and should be given statewide, non-partisan sup-

The panel also identified crime, utility rates, financing for needed capital improvements, fire ants, housing and streets and roads as other major problems that need to be addressed soon by the Legislature.

The panel will present its recommendations on those matters to lawmakers and

Harding Woes

As if State Treasurer Warren G. Harding didn't have enough trouble with his two indictments for official misconduct, Harding now is being accused of sexually harrassing female employees in his office. Harding, who has been indicted for allegedly using state employees to perform campaign work for him on state time, has been accused of the sexual harassment by John Cutright, one Democrat who opposed Harding in the hotly contested treasurer's race.

Cutright says that a Dallas newspaper has complete documentation on the matter, and officials of the Travis County District Attorney's Office have confirmed that the harassment allegations are part of their investigation into the treasurer's of-

Columnist Says She Will Stop Recycling Old Letters

CHICAGO (AP) - Ann Landers says she has recycled 15-year-old letters in her advice column over the past 18 months, but will stop because the practice was questioned and "my credibility is all I have."

Miss Landers had said publicly in the past that the letters in her column were authentic. In print, she often chided Yale University students for trying to sneak phony letters past her.

A joint investigation by The Associated Press and the Pontiac (Ill.) Daily Leader found that from April 1981 to April 1982 there were 33 clearly identifiable examples of items that had appeared in Miss Landers' daily column in late 1966 and early 1967.

After Seven Years, The Tears Still Flow Woburn. Things 'like that.

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Special Correspondent George Esper covered the war in Vietnam and remained there after the American evacuation to report on the earliest days of the communist victory.

GEORGE ESPER AP Special Correspondent

WOBURN, Mass. (AP) -Charles McMahon got up from the sofa in his living room and walked into the kitchen to hide his tears. Vietnam made them flow again.

Seven years ago today, McMahon's son, Charlie, was one of the last Americans killed in Vietnam. He was struck down at random in a war and a country where no one wanted to be the last to die. It was, his father said, just bad luck, a "bummer" riding on the imprecision of a North Vietnamese rocket that could have landed anywhere.

"It could have been the boy next door, the boy down the street, it could have been any of them," says his mother, Edna McMahon.

"It just happened that our boy was there, that's all,' says McMahon.

At noon the next day, April 30, 1975, the guns fell silent across Vietnam. The American evacuation had ended. Saigon had fallen to the North Vietnamese. It marked the end of 30 years of American involvement at a cost of 57,661 dead, more than 300,000 wounded and $150 billion.

Today, McMahon is 51 years old. His wife is 52. He still works at a gelatin processing plant, the same job he has held for more than 30 years. Mrs. McMahon has been driving a school bus for 19 years.

Their son was 21 when he was killed along with another Marine, Darwin Judge, 19, of Marshalltown, Iowa, in a rocket bombardment of Tan Son Nhut airport during the evacuation Americans.

McMahon and Judge were embassy guards who had only recently arrived in Vietnam and were assigned to the U.S. defense attache's compound at Tan Son Nhut. They were believed to be the last two Americans killed on Vietnamese soil. Two other Marines were killed the following day when their helicopter plunged into the South China Sea during the evacuation. Neither the McMahons nor Judge's parents, Henry and Ida Judge, are bitter, even though they suffered the agony of having to wait nearly a year before the bodies of their sons were returned home for burial. They say their sons wanted to be Marines and enlisted.

"Maybe it would have been different if he had been drafted and sent over there without really wanting to go," says Mrs. McMahon.

'What makes you feel bitter," says McMahon, "is the ones who went to Canada."

The McMahon family endured triple tragedy. Three months after Charlie's death, their youngest son, Scott, also a Marine, was in an auto accident in California that left him a paraplegic. In October of that year, Mrs. McMahon's father died, shielded because of his illness from the news that Charlie had been killed.

Scott, now 25, lives in California and has been in and out of the hospital. Another son, Michael, 26, and a married daughter, Susan, 31, live in Woburn.

"Sometimes you wonder," says McMahon. "You could project what they would be, but you'll never know, if you know what I mean."

"I just wonder," says Mrs. McMahon, "what he'd be doing now, if he'd be married and have any children, and if he would still be living in
