New promotion offered on new classified ads

The Hereford Brand is offering a new discout plan for classified advertising customers.

The plan is simple. Customers may place an ad up to three lines long for three issues for $3.

There are minor restrictions on the promotion:

•The ads must be placed in person at the Brand office, 313 N. Lee, before 3 p.m. the day before the ads begin. No phone or mail orders will be accepted.

·Ads must be paid in cash in advance. No ads will be billed at the special rate.

·A price must be mentioned in the ad.

"That means if you have something you want to get rid of, just put a price on it," said Managing Editor John Brooks, who came up with the idea.

The 3 lines-3 days-$3 plan will only be available for a short time.

lifesaver for many local residents. Family Services Center is tucked away at 207 S. 25 Mile Ave. There are no big billboards, just a small sign on the door letting you know where

For many persons, that door is the way to a more normal life.

Sandy Skelton, executive director of the Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority, told the Hereford Lions Club on Wednesday the local center is one of the busiest of the seven in the region.

The area centers provide costaffordable mental health services in 21 area counties. Skelton said there are 3,100 identified chronically mentally ill persons in the Panhandle served by one of the centers.

"Most folks hesitate or are reluctant to come in because of the stigma we still attach to mental illness," said Skelton. Because of funding and staff restrictions, the centers serve only those who are diagnosed as chronically mentally ill. Persons suffering from major are referred to other doctors or agencies in many cases.

Skelton said everyone who goes

For someone needing immediate attention, the area authority has a 24bed crisis stabilization unit at the former Kilgore Children's Hospital in Amarillo. Some patients are referred to The Pavilion, an Amarillo hospital that treats mental dysfunc-

"We have developed many programs to keep as many persons as we can at home," said Skelton. The programs include intense case management work and a psychosocial program where patients are seen up to four hours a day, five days

All of the programs are on a sliding fee scale based on the patient's income.

Skelton said the regional authority is beginning a new program to reach emotionally disturbed children. By September, two persons will be depression, anxiety or other problems placed in Hereford to work in public schools and the juvenile probation department.

"They need to be where the kids the Family Services Center is are." Skelton said. The program is screened and evaluated. "We visit being funded by a $1 million grant.

Unchallenged Bivins offers partial refunds

State Sen. Teel Bivins is making an offer many of his supporters probably won't refuse: a refund of their campaign contributions.

Bivins (R-Amarillo) is unopposed in the general election, and didn't have a primary opponent. In a letter to supporters, he is offering to return part of the contributions.

A letter to supporters says: "If you would like the contribution you made to my campaign between July 1, 1991, and March 1, 1992, returned to you, please write me before April 1, 1992." Bivins explains the campaign did incur some expenses, so refunds may be reduced if the demand exceeds the net amount Bivins also said in the letter he would like to maintain some campaign funds because he does not know if he will run again in 1994 or 1996, and because the courts could order a new redistricting plan.

Bivins lived the dream of every incumbent, with no opponent filing against him. "I believe the principal reason this came to pass is the terrific support I have had in the 31st District," Bivins said.

It is that tax increase that has prompted Bush's promise to veto the Democratic bill. He is taking considerable heat from conservatives in his re-election campaign because he agreed to a big tax increase in Democrats want to raise taxes on the wealthiest 800,000 couples and individuals: single people making more than about $180,000 and couples above $210,000. They would raise the current 31 percent top income tax rate to 36 percent and impose a new surtax of up to 10 percent on taxable incomes above $1 million.

The money would finance a permanent tax credit of up to $300 a year per child under the age of 16 in families with incomes under $50,000.

The Democratic bill contains a version of the short-range plan that Bush said will stimulate the economy, although the major provisions including the capital-gains cut and the credit for some home buyers - were watered down considerably from

DSGH has high score on Mednet attendance

For the second month in a row, Deaf Smith General Hospital had the greatest attendance of the MedNet programs of any hospital on the 42member satellite system.

Med-Net is a communication satellite link that connects DSGH with the Texas Tech Medical Center in Lubbeck. Many of the hospitals on the service or larger than DSGH. "but no staff is more committed to learning and experiencing the educational benefits of MedNet," said Ron Rives, DSGH administrator.

The local hospital's utilization of the program is even more significant, since the hospital has only been on the network for two months. "Our hospital is dedicated to providing the community with the finest health care service possible, and this demonstrates our effort to maximize the use of available resources," added Rives. MedNet provides advanced medical training for the nurses, doctors and allied health professionals in the community. The system was donated to Hereford as part of Deaf Smith General's management agreement with the Lubbock

Methodist Hospital system. "Nurses must continually update their knowledge and skills because technology changes so quickly," said Peggy Oakes, RN, who serves as the MedNet coordinator. "With MedNet, our nurses can get continuing education units to maintain their licenses and to stay current with the latest advances."

All types of programming are available through the interactive video telecommunications network. The programs are about 45 minutes long, followed by live questions from the remote satellite locations. These questions are transmitted to the center by telephone lines, and participants in each remote location can hear the questions and the answers.

DSGH's health care professionals have been devoting their lunch hours to upgrading their professional skills through the MedNet system. The programs are broadcast Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between 12:30 and 1:30.

Rives is pleased with the benefits MedNet is providing to the local community. "With this system, our physicians, nurses and allied health professionals have the opportunity to hear medical experts discuss subjects in their particular field of expertise," he said.

"Accessing this kind of knowledge for large numbers of our staff would be impossible without this program. MedNet gives us the chance to stay on the cutting edge of changes in medicine, and enables us to improve our service to the community."

Agency seeks advise on improving day care units

Parents, day-care providers and other Texans interested in participating in improving requirements of child-care services are urged to attend the Texas Department of Human Services (TDHS) town meeting on Monday, March 23, from 7 - 9:30 p.m. at the Texas Tech Health Science Center located at 1400 Wallace Boulevard, Amarillo.

The department is working with various groups in revising the minimum standards for all licensed day-care programs. The outcome of this discussion will be an identification of participants' concerns and ideas for improving the minimum

The purpose of the town meeting is to discuss with parents, providers and others the following issues: number of children cared for by one adult; number of children in a group; training and qualifications for directors and staff; and prohibition of corporal punishment in chid-care. The TDHS Licensing program is required by state law to develop regulations for day-care facilities, in order to protect the health, safety, and well being of children in out-of-home care. At the end of the 1991 fiscal year, TDHS has licensed 7,513 daycare facilities in Texas. These facilities have the capacity to serve 539,165 children.

For more information on the town meeting, call the Child-Care Licensing hot line at 1-800-862-5252 or the TDHS Regional Office in Amarillo at 806/356-3123.

- Julio Franco cheerleads, catfishes, and reads the Bible to pass the time.

He exchanges adoring glances with his new wife, Rosie, spends a lot of time in the training room, and lectures his fellow Latin players about getting plenty of rest.

What the 30-year-old American League batting champion doesn't do is swing a bat, field grounders, and run the bases.

It's starting to grind on him as the Texas Rangers begin a spring training

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) that has the hopes of a possible division title soaring higher than ever before in the club's 20-year history.

"I worry that I don't get the work that I need with our new shortstop (Dickie Thon)," Franco said. "I have worked with five different shortstops in my career with the Rangers. I need to work with Dickie."

Franco can't because of bursitis in his right knee, which hurts when he runs or swings a bat.

Starting Friday, Hereford students get Spring Break--a whole week away from the grind of classes, books and homework. For Hereford sports fans, though, the action won't stop.

Spring Break will be the busiest week of the spring for sports in Hereford. Every varsity team will host a tournament, except for the baseball team, which will merely host three games next week.

The fun starts Friday with the Hereford Tennis Tournament. The Herd tennis team, winners already of two tournaments, will host Borger, Perryton, Spearman, Clovis and Amarillo High.

Borger will bring Hereford's top competition in District 1-4A. Pampa won't be coming because of a mix-up there, Herd coach Natalie Sims said, and that means that all the district's top players won't be there.

Borger is stronger than Pampa, Sims said. "At least they're coming. We can practice against them again.'

Amarillo High offers stiff competition--the Sandies beat Hereford in a dual match Saturday-and although Clovis is an unknown, Sims has heard a little about Spearman and Perryton from other coaches.

"Spearman will have some pretty good girls, and Perryton has some good boys, so maybe it'll even out," she said.

Play will start at 8:30 a.m. Friday. Boys' singles matches will be played at Hereford Country Club and all other matches will be at Whiteface Courts. Play will start Saturday at 9 a.m., and the finals will be in the afternoon.

Herd fans have one alternative for Friday: the junior varsity baseball team will play Plainview at 4 p.m. at Whiteface Field.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Relays--for boys and girls--will be Saturday at Whiteface Field. Usually when a track meet is called "relays," it includes relays and individual events, but not these relays." All of the events on Saturday will be relays, even the throwing events.

"We just thought we'd do something different," boy's coach Ron Young said. "(Girls' coach Martha) Emerson and I thought it'd be fun."

Some schools apparently are not interested in fun. Young said when invitations first went out, there were ten boys teams interested in coming. When they found out about the allrelay format, some pulled out. Now, only Plainview, Amarillo High and Tascosa will bring boys teams. Those schools plus Estacado and Randall will bring girls teams.

There are those who don't want to do it because it's not the way the UIL says to do it," Emerson said. You wouldn't want to do it one or two weeks before district, but early in the season I don't think it'll hurt anything."

teams in the boys' meet won't cause any particular problems, and the three that are coming are all good teams.

"The competition's going to be good," he said. "It's the best two schools from Amarillo, and Plainview.

The girls' field is a good one, too. "It's tough competition," Emerson said. "Anytime you run with Amarillo High and Tascosa, it's tough. Plainview's got the sprinters; Randall will have the distance runners."

To fill out the afternoon some unusual relays will be run. In addition to the traditional 4x100 and 4x400, there will be 4x200, 4x800 and 4x1,600. There will be medley relays, including one that has two 800-meter legs, one 1,600-meter leg and one 3,200-meter leg.

There'll be something for everyone, including a hurdle relay (hurdlers shuttle back and forth, like in some swimming relays) and a weight relay--a 4x 100 for throwers. "Everybody's doing something.

Everybody's in the meet," Young The field events start at 9 a.m. Running events start at 10.

Foster had so much talent, in fact, he had to juggle playing time to keep everyone happy.

Foster has enough talent on his bench to substitute an entire team. thus, the Gauchos came into being.

Their name emerged from the fact that three member, Roger Fernandes, Rafael Carrasco and David Diaz, all came from gaucho country in South America. They got much coveted playing time that eased the trauma of being on the bench.

"The players have had to deal with that and it's been tough on some of them," Foster said. "Last year we didn't have that problem. We didn't have enough players."

Mack has made the most on his one-year's eligibility with the Cougars. He leads the team with a 17.0 scoring average, ranks No. 4 in the SWC with a 78.8 free throw percentage and he leads the SWC with 3.1 blocked shots per game, Outlaw leads the SWC with a 68.1 percent field goal accuracy and he's sixth among the conference rebounders. Despite missing last season, Upchurch has 1,813 career points and 772 rebounds.

He's one of only three Cougars to scored over 1,800 points and get more than 750 rebounds. Elvin Hayes and Michael Young are the others. Daniels has started 120 consecutive games for the Cougars and is among the SWC assist leaders.

Some of the Gauchos will be starters next season with Daniels, Upchurch and Mack departing. Foster wonders how much better his current group could have been with another year of playing together.

"If you had another year together then they'd increase their efficiency another 10-15 percent," he said. "But we don't have that."

Consumers can avoid most spoilage problems

fresh seafood occasionally draw national attention, but wise consumers can avoid most of them by taking simple but effective precautions.

"The more people understand about how to purchase and prepare fresh seafood, the more likely they will be able to avoid foodborne illnesses," said Annette Reddell Hegen of Port Aransas, Agricultural Extension Service.

An article in the February issue of Consumer Reports surveyed fresh fish markets in Chicago and New York and pointed out food handling and sanitation problems.

The magazine found a high bacteria count in 40 percent of 113 samples of fish, and said that nearly a third of the fish contaminated with disease-causing fecal coliform bacteria, labeling fully 15 percent a potential health hazard.

"Although the study wasn't national in scope, focusing on markets in only a few cities, the magazine's investigation reminds us

Food safety problems associated with to be more conscientious shoppers when selecting seafood," Hegen said. "Certainly, there is room for improvement in the overall marketing

> She noted, however, that a recent 10-year study by the Centers for Disease Control found that seafood accounted for less than 5 percent of foodborne illnesses reported. And most of those cases resulted from eating raw or under cooked seafood.

"We don't' have major seafood spoilage problems in Texas in part because the volume of products handled is much smaller than in many other parts of the country," Hegen said. "The seafood industry also is relatively new in this state, so perhaps it has not become as complacent as the markets surveyed in New York and Chicago."

To ensure safety and quality, many, Texas distributors participate in the voluntary seafood inspection program provided by the U.S. Department of Commerce, contract with independent labs for precut analysis and conduct their own quality control and sanitation programs, Hegen said. The industry also supports the call for an improved inspection system for seafood products.

Seafood is highly perishable, Hegen said. The industry also supports the call for an improved inspection system for seafood products. Seafood is highly perishable, Hegen said, and it is true that by the time most seafood reaches retail, it's near the end of its brief shelf life. She offered these guidelines of seafood shoppers:

* Know your seafood retailer. Buy Dr. Paul Matney, chairman of the all seafood from licensed stores and > * Observe the retail area for cleanliness and sanitary food handling practices of the employees. * Look for wee-iced products.

> * Avoid products piled high in the display case and placed under bright lights, situations that increase chances of spoilage.

Select cut fish that has a sheen Hereford High School students or boom to the flesh, a translucent look an da mild fresh clan odor.

* Make sure that raw products are not touching cooked ones. *Choose fresh shrimp that's firm , unbroken and free of discoloration on the flesh. The odor should be clean and mild or on-existent

* Make sure oysters are in marked containers nestled down in ice. The container should have a certification number. Look for plump oysters in clean, thin liquid. An ammonia-like odor indicates spoilage.

* Select fresh-picked crab meat that has a sweet odor and is in a container displayed in ice. Purchase within five days of the date marked

If you're not going not freeze your seafood once you get home, use it within tow days of purchase, Hegen said. Keep it in the coldest part of the "Learning to be Time Smart: The Art refrigerator -- the meat drawer or on of Personai Time Management." The the bottom shelf in the back -- and six-hour program will deal with time never thaw it at room temperature, management and how it can improve but rather in the refrigerator, a sink

Child abuse on rise

Child abuse and neglect cases overflow our hospitals, foster care homes, social worker case loads and court dockets.

The problem has reached alarming proportions. Since 1980, report of child abuse and neglect have quadrupled. An estimated 2.4 million cases of suspected child abuse, child sexual abuse and child neglect are reported to child protective agencies

April is Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Month and Dr. Louis W. Sullivan, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, challenges all Americans to take personal responsibility to prevent child abuse and neglect. "It's not enough to treat the results of child abuse and neglect," Sullivan says, "instead we need to attack the causes of the problem.

This year, the Department's National Center for Child Abuse and Neglect alone will spend more than $68 million on grants for research, treatment and prevention programs on child abuse and neglect. Secretary Sullivan has launched an effort called "Show Your Care" to involve local communities, businesses, schools, parents and children in the battle against child maltreatment.

Abuse and neglect of ten have negative short- and long-term effects on children's mental heath and development. For example, abused and neglected children frequently suffer drops in IQ and an increase in learning disabilities, depression and drug use.

Recent research has shown the link between parents who abuse alcohol and other drugs and child abuse. Parental abuse of alcohol and other drugs has been identified as a major factor contribution to child maltreatment and death. An estimated 10 million children live in families with substance-abusing parents.

For more information about child abuse and neglect, call the National Clearinghouse on Child Abuse and Neglect at the toll free number 1-800-FYI-3366 (1-800-394-3366).

more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information.

Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to.

Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your

East Texas German joint is warm and snuggly

By MIKE COCHRAN Associated Press Writer LUFKIN, Texas (AP) -

Gemuetlichkeit! No, no, not gesundheit, the German wish for good health.

"Gemuetlichkeit," which according to local legend is what you find at the Wurst Haus, "the only authentic German Restaurant and Bier Garten in East Texas."

So says founder Felton Lemke. That's right. A real German joint in the land of Bubba, barbecue and catfish. And it's got a real beer garden and a homemade gazebo.

In a "dry" town, no less. And gemuetlichkeit, says Lemke, means "casual cheerfulness, joy in living, a sharing of happiness with others, a certain warm, tidy, snug, comfortable and friendly feeling.'

That's close. The dictionary spells it gemutlich and says it's an adjective that suggests a feeling of warmth or congeniality. Whatever, Lemke's unique kraut house and suds emporium, just outside Lufkin, is an East Texas aberration with genuine German food, a world-class beer bar and occasional oompah music.

And if you don't want to eat, drink or dance you can browse through Lemke's collection of old beer cans or just sit and chat with Lemke himself.

"I had people tell me you can't put a German restaurant out here and sell beer," recalls Lemke with a laugh. "I said, 'Don't tell me can't. That's a four-letter word.

'So I did it.

"Of course, it was pretty tough going at first. I wondered what the Maria, were also Germans who "put hell I'd done ... Even into the second year, I was still sweating blood."

Although born in Yorktown, Texas, Lemke, 64, is a full-blooded German who plays the part, down to his feathered Bavarian hat, suspenders. European accent and handlebar moustache.

He came to Lufkin in 1960 and started his own carpet business. It took a while, but he eventually concluded that beer and bratwurst would be more fun and maybe even more profitable.

The garage in the floor-covering venture would become the main dining room of the Wurst Haus, which opened in 1980. It now has four dining rooms and the 300-seat bier garten.

We built it piece by piece," Lemke said. "I just couldn't sit still, so we kept expanding.'

Friends helped him build the gazebo, focal point of the bier garten, and it bears a plaque which says, "Built by friends for friends." The pavilion overlooks a playground for youngsters.

People feel a part of this place, keep it off and we've always tried to make them feel at home," Lemke said. "Of all the different things I've done in my life, I guess this has been the best of

"I'm a people person." Everyone needs a gimmick, he said smiling, and, besides the food, his was beer. "Once we had more than 200 different beers from 33 countries. We had 15 different kinds on tap, including five imported German brews. It just blew everyone's mind."

His first two cooks, Anna Lisa and the finishing touches" on his authentic German dishes.

For a decade, life was just a bowl of cherry strudel. Then came a couple of heart attacks, and, Lemke much of the original flavor. concluded reluctantly, it was time to slow down a bit.

"After the second heart attack, I was fortunate to find some young cans of beer at least," Searls says. fellows who were interested in the place," he said.

He said his job now is "handling PR and BS.

Lemke leased the Wurst Haus last year to David Searls and two friends, who he described as "young, hard working guys" who have maintained

Even down to the empty beer can

'It's like a game. Customers try to find one we don't have."

For those more interested in drinking than collecting, permanent or temporary club memberships are available. That's how Texans in dry counties can, legally, buy alcoholic beverages.

The drink menu includes brews from 30 countries, including such German delights as Hofbrau Oktoberfest, Wurzburger dark, Bitburger, St. Pauli Girl and Julius Echter Hefe-Weiss.

Although not always available, there is Elephant Malt Liquor from Denmark, Mamba from Africa, Fosters Lager from Australia, Chimay Grand Reserve from Belgium, Labatts Pilsner from Canada, Golden Dragon from China, Old Peculiar from England, Kronenbourg from France, Aegean from Greece, Port Royal Export from Honduras, Kingfisher from India and Harp from Ireland.

How about a Tiger, Singapore; Glamer, Switzerland, Krakus, Poland; Dragon Stout, Jamaica; Steinlager, New Zealand; Sapporo, Japan; or a Peroni, Italy?

A dozen or so beers are available on tap. There's nothing like a frosty mug of Spaten or Bass to wash down such delicacies as sauerbraten, kassier rippchen or rouladen.

Respectively, that's beef, pork loin and rolled beef prepared with the Germanic touch.

And then there's the ever-popular Wurst Nite of the Week," a $6.95 special. Every Monday, the Wurst Haus features bottomless plates of homemade sausage, German potato salad, red cabbage and sauerkraut.

Imagine sharing a platter of sausages, a pitcher of Spaten dark, a roaring fire and a little oompah music with a convivial group.

It's called gemuetlichkeit.

Lose it,

If you're on a diet-and have aspirations to quickly shed excess pounds-how can you avoid regaining the weight? Losing weight and keeping it off requires a life-long commitment, says Steve Silva, national director of fitness for Health Management resources (HMR), a national healthcare company comprised of physicians, dietitians and behavioral health educators with more than 500 affiliated fitness programs across the U.S.

An estimated 23 million American adults are 20 percent or more over ideal body weight, putting the medically at risk for diabetes, stroke, heat disease and high blood pressure. Most who attempt a weight-loss program are repeatedly unsuccessful at losing weight ad keeping it off.

"To lose wight gradually and safely requires making lifestyle changes necessary to manage weight over the course of a lifetime. In a nutshell, combing physical activity with a low-fat diet is the way to achieve true weight loss and should become a wa of life," says Silva, an avid stairclimber, who has lost over 200 pounds and successfully kept it off for 13 years.

Helping many people find time to exercise is a company called Carolina itness Equipment, the nation's largest retailer of home and commercial fitness equipment. With 24 retail outlets throughout the U.S. and annual sales approaching $20 million, the company emphasizes a lifestyle approach to fitness. Its retail store managers are former exercise physiologist, trainers or athletes who provide personal consultation to customers to meet individual exercise needs.
