'Conflict of interest' in Criminal DA's office

Judge Gulley dismisses case here

BY O.G. NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher
In an unusual action here Monday, District Judge Wesley Gulley ordered the dismissal of an involuntary manslaughter case, ruling there was a conflict of interest and prosecutorial misconduct on the part of the Criminal District Attorney's office.

The ruling came in the case of Abelardo Tijerina, 17, who was indicted by a grand jury in September, 1982, for recklessly driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and thereby causing the death of Refugio Enriquez Jr., a pedestrian.
Judge Gulley ruled in favor of the defendant's motion to dismiss the indictment and to suppress the grand jury testimony in the case.

However, the judge also ordered a special prosecutor to investigate and determine whether or not there is sufficient evidence to present the case to another grand jury. He appointed Barry Blackwell, DA for the 69th Judicial District, as the special prosecutor and further ordered that Tim Bell, a DA's investigator for the 69th district, be appointed as special investigator to assist Blackwell.

The indictment stemmed from an accident on Sept. 26, 1982, in which four pedestrians were struck by a car while walking in the 100 block of Ave. G. Enriquez, 11, died the next day in an Amarillo hospital. Three others were injured.

In the order of dismissal, the court found that "the prosecution of the defendant in this cause by the Criminal District Attorney's office and the representation by Jerry Smith, former first assistant DA, of a prospective civil litigant in a prospective civil damage suit against the same defendant, both arising out of the same alleged occurrence, constitute a conflict of interest and prosecutorial misconduct on the part of Roland Saul and Jerry Smith."

The court also concluded that the Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney's office, "including but not limited to Roland Saul, and Jerry Smith should be removed from prosecuting the defendant in this cause and in any subsequent cause involving the same alleged subject matter; that the grand jury indictment returned in this case is tainted; that any and all testimony elicited from the defendant, Abelardo Tijerina, by the grand jury which returned the indictment should be suppressed.

Spring, She Is A Comin'

Despite a sudden return to colder temperatures late Tuesday, area garden plots and trees are quickly becoming in bloom as the first day of spring rapidly approaches. The new season arrives Monday, but a late-winter blast has brought area citizens back to earth as cloudy conditions were forecast to bring light snow and occasional light rain to the area today. A slight warming trend is expected Thursday, probably aiding the emergence of more appealing blossoms such as these captured by Brand photographer Jeri Curtis.

Sales tax rebates 'running behind'

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday returned $34.9 million in local sales tax payments to 974 cities who levy the one-percent city sales tax.
"Statewide, these payments are running 4.5 percent behind last year," Bullock said. "This decline in both local and state receipts from the sales tax was part of the reason I have lowered my estimate of available state revenues."
Despite a lower payment this period of some $10,000 over the same period a year ago, the city of Hereford's 1983 total to date is still 1.8 percent over that of 1982.

Houston received the largest check — $7 million, but receipts from the local sales tax were down 31.5 percent from the $10.3 million check Houston received last March. Dallas got the next biggest check — $4.2 million, down 19 percent from March 1982.

Hereford received a check for $22,606.40 for this period, far below the $32,470.45 for the same period a year ago. The city's 1983 total is $129,470.45 as compared to the 1982 total of $126,909.86.
Other area cities and their rebates for this period include Dimmitt, $6,085.77; Hart, $1,296.51; Nazareth, $818.09; Friona, $1,759.68; Farwell, 545.48; and Bovina, $978.72.

San Antonio received $2.1 million, down 12.4 percent from last March. Fort Worth's check was for $1.4 million, down 14.46 percent from last March.

Vega, which received $2,108.11 for the same period a year ago, did not get a rebate check this period, but still remains above the 1982 total of $6,359.45 with $6,533.11

El Paso's $746,000 check was down 43.7 percent from March 1982.
Bullock also sent March rebates to the state's two Metropolitan Transit Authorities. The Houston MTA received $7.9 million, compared with $10.8 million last March. The San Antonio MTA got $1.1 million, compared with nearly $1.2 million last March.

The City and MTA sales taxes are collected along with the state sales tax by merchants and rebated monthly to the cities in which they are collected by the Comptroller.
The March checks were for taxes collected on sales made in January and reported to the Comptroller by the end of February.

School board amends policy to give YMCA free use of gymnasiums

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer
Hereford School District trustees mulled over an hour Tuesday night before voting unanimously to allow the YMCA, and other youth groups sponsored by non-profit organizations, to use the school district's gymnasiums free.

Superintendent Harrell Holder said the utility expense was not a great loss, since the heat would be left on anyway.
Board member Paul Ramirez made a motion to allow the YMCA to use the gyms at no charge. R.C. Hoelscher seconded the motion for discussion.
Tom Simons said he had no objection to giving the YMCA a break, but added that it would mean working with two sets of rules and causing the board to have to decide who got the breaks and who had to pay.
James Gentry, board president, suggested a cut rate for a second or third gym use during a week and Bill Townsend proposed that extra practice time be limited to fifth and sixth graders. Neither suggestions were moved upon.

Members re-hashed the problems of utility costs, distribution of keys and imposition of personnel before deciding to change the district policy on gym use in order to allow the Y to use gyms free.
Paragraph 7 of the policy showed a fee of $5 an hour for elementary gyms and $7 an hour for Stanton Junior High gym. The board, on a motion by Simons, voted to delete that paragraph in regard to youth groups sponsored by non-profit community organizations.
The board's second longest haggle was over approval of the 1983-84 school calendar. "It surely does look like a lot of holidays to me," said Sallie Strain.

The calendar allows eight in-service days for teachers in which school is out for students. The days are Aug. 19, 22, 23, before school starts on Aug. 24; Oct. 10, Nov. 28, Jan. 2, Feb. 27, and June 1.
Holidays included are Sept. 4, Labor Day; Nov. 4, state teachers' convention; Nov. 24-25, Thanksgiving; Dec. 19-30, Christmas break; March 12-16, spring break; April 20, Good Friday; April 23-24, Easter holiday, two days to be used for snow days if needed; and May 28, Memorial Day.
Mrs. Strain said several teachers have told her individually that they have to teach all of second semester's lessons before spring break because the students don't learn anything after the break.

prove the district as a "group" for cancer and intensive care insurance plans. The board approved that motion and appointed the insurance committee to study the policy which does not allow agents to solicit on campuses.
The board accepted resignations from teachers, Linda Cumpton, Lester Kirkland, Mike Purcell, Angela Ricigliano and Paul Abalos. Recommended and approved for employment were Stacy Lea, Gary Wilhelm, Ed Richardson, Ken Fowler, Mary Robinson and Staci Payne. Current teachers had contracts renewed also.
The textbook committee's books were approved by the board. Not all books will be purchased this year. Some (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

White Cane Day slated Saturday

This week is Eye Bank Week across the United States, and local Lions and other volunteers will be capping the week with the annual White Cane Day on Saturday.
According to High Plains Eye Bank director Dyal Garner of the Lions Club, donations will be collected at three locations Saturday.
Booths or tables will be set up at the post office, TG&Y, and Sugarland Mall Garner said.

Blast kills two, three others presumed dead

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Investigators found two bodies today and were looking for those of three other people presumed killed when a natural gas pipeline ruptured and ignited into a tower of flame, officials said.
An explosion, triggered when a drill pierced the pipeline, destroyed two trailer homes Tuesday and sent flames roaring 600 feet into the night sky 10 miles west of this West Texas city.

At least two bodies were found after the blaze was quelled about 7 a.m., said Assistant Fire Marshal James Sims.

Ector County Sheriff's Capt. David Saunders said four members of a family of five were in one of the trailer homes when the pipeline was punctured at 7:30 p.m. They, along with one man on the drilling crew, are presumed dead, he said.
A nearby resident said the flames "cremated" the family's trailer. Officials said four of the injured lived in the other trailer. Two were critically burned.
"If there was anybody in that trailer, I know for sure there's no way they made it," said Rusty Glover, a witness. Glover said he saw one man who was burned "from the waist up."

Marylin Leasure, math teacher and activities director at Hereford High, said students and teachers seem to like the break because it gives them a "downhill side" to the semester.
Townsend joined Strain in voting against the calendar, which was approved by Gentry, Ramirez, Hoelscher and Simons.
James Self approached the board for permission to ap-

Marines wounded in grenade attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Five Marines suffered superficial shrapnel wounds today in the first grenade attack on the American contingent of Lebanon's multinational peacekeeping force, Marine commander Col. James M. Mead said.
Mead, of Boston, told reporters a grenade was lobbed at a Marine patrol from a second-floor window at the end of a street connecting Beirut international airport and the coastal road at the southern outskirts of the Lebanese capital.
Four of the injured leathernecks were evacuated by helicopter to U.S. Navy ships anchored off Beirut and one was treated at the Marine base in the airport, Mead said.

He said the Lebanese army arrested one suspect only 13 minutes after the 8:55 a.m. (1:55 a.m. EST) grenade attack on the 12-man foot patrol.
But Lebanon's state and privately owned radio stations said 30 more people were arrested by 10 armored Lebanese patrols dispatched to the Khalde and Ouzai seaside neighborhoods near the airport.
The two low-income neighborhoods have a predominantly Shiite Moslem population, including supporters of Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Beef cattle meeting topic has change

At the request of local producers, the topic of Thursday night's beef cattle meeting has been changed to deal with grazing and managing PIK program with livestock.
The meeting is at 7 p.m. Thursday in the east banquet room of the Community Center.
Dr. John McNeill, Extension beef cattle specialist, will be presenting a program on management of PIK program of wheat acreage, whether to graze, hay or silage; maximizing beef production on a grazing program; and whether to buy cattle or lease out pasture.

Statistics: 100 DWI accidents a day in 1981; 1,082 people killed; 27,751 injured; and damages totaling $3.5 billion.
Stories: A 16-year-old boy who was DWI had a wreck that killed his best friend — "something you have to live with the rest of your life," said Sarpalius. Another 16-year-old DWI victim was paralyzed from the waist down, a 19-year-old in a coma for the rest of her life, a 21-year-old who had to learn to walk and speak after an accident.
"Keep your minds on the cries of your constituents who have been abused by drunken drivers," said Sarpalius, D-Hereford.
Sarpalius' bill, the product of a two-year effort to get tough on drunken drivers, was sent to the House on voice vote Tuesday, with Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, voting "no."
Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, offered an amendment that he said "in essence

Senate passes DWI measure

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Bill Sarpalius had the statistics and the stories to persuade his colleagues to approve a bill that would increase penalties for drunken drivers.
Santiesteban said the major difference in his proposal was that it retained "deferred adjudication," which gives those convicted of DWI a chance to erase the conviction from their record.
He said Sarpalius' bill would only crack down on the poor and minorities, because "rich people who can afford it" will hire a lawyer and get off. "This is not a proper bill for all Texans," he said.

Minors would not be subjected to jail time but would have to pay fines, and the provisions for suspending a driver's license would be more severe for them. For (See DWI, Page 2)

Rabies outbreaks reported

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Three separate "major outbreaks" of rabies in this country constitute "the greatest rabies threat in the last 20 years," a federal health official says.
Wild animals have spread the viral disease everywhere from Texas to Florida to Montana, said Dr. William G. Winkler of the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control.
Winkler addressed the problem of rabies at a Tuesday breakfast session of the American Animal Hospital Association's 50th annual meeting here.

Rabies, an infectious virus, can be transmitted to humans through the bite of rabid animals, and attacks the central nervous system. It can be fatal.
A "huge" outbreak of rabies in skunks has swiftly spread through Texas and Oklahoma, on up to the Dakotas and west to Montana, Winkler said.
The second rash of rabies has been transmitted by raccoons and spread through several Southeastern states, including Florida and Georgia, he said.
A similar rabies outbreak, also distributed by raccoons, has quickly moved through Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and to the fringes of the Washington D.C. area, he said.

"It's affecting large metropolitan areas," Winkler said. "Raccoons are the most urban rabies problem we have today."
"People don't realize how much they (raccoons) populate some sections of urban areas," he said. "I saw one in downtown Atlanta the (See RABIES, Page 2)

Scientists hunting steamship

KARNACK, Texas (AP) — Researchers from Texas A&M University hope the weather won't interfere today with their efforts to excavate what they believe is the wreck of a steamship that sank 114 years ago in Caddo Lake.

Sixty-two of the 104 passengers died when the Mittie Stephens sank after a fire on board. The accident remains the worst waterway disaster in Texas history.

Dr. Ervan Garrison said scientists won't know for sure if they have found the 312-ton sidewheeler until enough of the hull is excavated to compare with documents on the steamship's design.

The wreckage wasn't located until last year, when a magnetometer survey conducted by the Texas Antiquities Commission located a hull.

But scientists say the hull could be one of three ships known to have sunk in the lake that straddles the Texas-Louisiana border.

The excavation is sponsored by the Mittie Stephens Foundation of nearby Jefferson, which once thrived on the Texas steamboat routes when boats were able to navigate shallow waters were important transportation vehicles.

The foundation said it could cost $250,000 to complete the project and prepare the Mittie Stephens to become a museum centerpiece.

Search for man continues in N.M.

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES, N.M. (AP) — Divers were to resume their search today for an El Paso, Texas, policeman presumed drowned in Elephant Butte Lake.

State police Sgt. Jim Coslin said seven divers explored the murky waters most of the day Tuesday, but could not find the body of Lorenzo Estrada, 35, a forgery detective with the El Paso Police Department.

A bloodhound and Rottweiler also were used to help search for Estrada. Estrada apparently drowned Sunday when he fell out of a boat while trying to unsnarl a fishing line from the boat's outboard motor. Police said Estrada, who reportedly could not swim, surfaced once and then disappeared into the muddy water.

A friend who was in the boat with Estrada dived in to help him, but couldn't find him, authorities said.

Divers have been hampered by murky, 48-degree water, underwater trees and wind, said Richard Potter, who heads the Elephant Butte rescue team.

"If you extend your arm out in front of you, that's about how far you can see, so he could be (about two feet) away and we'd go right past," he said.

Estrada's drowning was the first in more than a year in the lake, Potter said.

Tornado demolishes four homes

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — A tornado that struck a ranch near Harlingen Tuesday evening destroyed $50,000 worth of farm equipment, two mobile homes and two frame homes, the National Weather Service reported.

A 42-year-old woman was hospitalized while two others were treated for their injuries and released from a hospital here, officials said.

Alice Peters, 42, was in stable condition at Valley Baptist Hospital with lacerations, bruises and a fracture, said a spokeswoman. Celia Salazar, 14, and Cecelia Salazar, 15, were treated for lacerations and released, the spokeswoman said.

The tornado touched down about 5:30 p.m. 2½ miles south of Harlingen on the W.D. Peters ranch.

Laurie Peters, 21, had left her trailer home with her 8-month-old daughter, Amanda, just moments before the twister demolished the trailer.

School wins $8.1 million grant

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The Department of Energy has awarded Texas A&M University an $8.1 million contract — the largest in the school's history — to continue the university's study of salt deposits in the Gulf of Mexico.

The project has been studying the government's program to remove salt from underground caverns and discharge it into the Gulf of Mexico. The salt is being removed from caverns off the Texas and Louisiana coasts to store 750 million barrels of oil.

A&M has been studying the government's creation of a Strategic Petroleum Reserve for six years, said Dr. Roy Hahn, head of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station's environmental engineering division.

"We have been involved in the largest environmental monitoring program in the Gulf of Mexico in history," said Hahn. "More than 100 people from graduate students to full professors throughout the Texas A&M system have worked on the project."

The grant will fund 2½ years of research, Hahn said.

Like 2-cents off beans, low interest helps housing

By JOHN CUNIFF AP
Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When you consider that two cents off on a can of beans can bring some shoppers into the marketplace it isn't surprising that sales of existing single-family homes have soared from their recession lows.

If you include lower interest charges since early last summer on a $60,000 mortgage, the savings amount to at least $2,200 a year or more than $55,000 over a typical 25-year amortization period.

That, as anyone will agree, is not just a hill of beans, though it is based on a decline from only 17 percent rather than 19 percent, a rate which prevailed for a while in some areas.

At that latter rate the annual cost of a $60,000, 25-year mortgage comes to about $959 a month or $11,500 a year, compared with a 13 percent rate of about $677 a month or $8,125 a year.

These declines, combined with rising family incomes, has raised the housing affordability index, a new technique for determining how close the median income has come to the median home price.

The index of the National Association of Home Builders, a quarterly figure limited to new homes only, rose to 78.7 in the fourth quarter of 1982 from a low of 70.4 percent during the fourth quarter of 1981.

The National Association of Realtors index, a monthly figure measuring incomes in relation to existing home prices, rose to 78.9 in January, its eighth consecutive month of improvement from a 64.2 reading last May.

According to the Realtors, the annual income needed to qualify for a $68,300, median-priced home in January was $30,330, versus a median family income of $23,917. The Realtors assume that the loan will be based on 25 percent of total income being allotted to the loan and interest.

Realtor economists say the figure of 25 percent was purposely kept low because it doesn't include insurance, taxes, heat or utility costs. When these are added in, lenders generally allow at least 30 percent of income to be allotted to housing.

While the index is rising it is still far less than satisfactory, said Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the Realtors.

"Based on the experience of the past 30 years, mortgage interest rates should be 8.5 percent," he said. "And if that were the case, the housing affordability index right now would be 118.6."

That the index is far short of the 118.6 figure — which would mean that those earning the median income would more than qualify for the median-price home — is the fault of the federal deficit crisis, Carlson contends.

He claims that as long as the threat of heavy government borrowing hangs over private capital markets, "interest rates will be prevented from falling to the historic 3.5 percentage points above the inflation rate."

Mulligan Stew

On Mulligan

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Some demiwit on a TV talk show blathered a few nights ago that an Irish version of "Roses" was under preparation and it would be called "Tubers."

Well, bad cess to him this St. Patrick's Day for making fun of the noble potato which sustained that nation of saints, scholars and a few itinerant tinkers until successive failures of the crop in the late 1840s resulted in the tragic great famine.

I have been looking into my own roots lately, holing up in a grand mansion on Fifth Avenue where the American Irish Historical Society has its library, and am proud to report that the Mulligans were prominent in the Big Apple long before the prairie pox flooded these shores with Irish immigrants.

A Hugh Mulligan was a mole for George Washington and the Continental Army when the British occupied New York in the Revolutionary War. He and his brothers Hercules and Dominick had a tailor shop below Wall Street and supplied Washington with information on British troop strength and movements by studying the insignia and fabric of uniforms ordered by His Majesty's officers.

A sudden influx of brigadiers and colonels into the shop meant King George III was beeping up his ground forces in the area, while a spurt of newly promoted admirals and commodores calling to have their epaulets upgraded indicated a growth in sea strength. Heavy orders for lightweight twill uniforms or fur collared, ankle-length overcoats told them of major troop movements south or north. Tailor shops, like barber shops, were great places for idle boasting in those days, especially as there was a grog shop right next door. The brothers Mulligan kept their ears open for British bragging.

In time, the Mulligans became household words in America or at least got themselves into the dictionary on several counts.

First off, there was the stew, from which this column takes its name. Webster defines it as "a thick soupy concoction made of any available meat or vegetables, often used facetiously about any stew-like food, however excellent." Author Jack London is cited as a literary reference. In "The Road," he writes of "hundreds of hoboes with whom I cooked Mulligans."

The stew inspired a number of linguistic spinoffs, including:

"Mulligan" (golf) in informal games, a courtesy shot given when the last shot was poorly executed."

Lexicographers do not indicate whether this courtesy is extended out of reverence to the name or out of pity for the poorly executed shot.

Certainly the name is as ancient and honorable as the grand game that honors it.

Texas Agriculture Week proclaimed

AUSTIN — Zeroing in on the economic difficulties of Texas family farmers and ranchers, Governor Mark White and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower issued a joint proclamation declaring March 18-24 "Texas Agriculture Week."

The observance will coincide with National Agriculture Week and with National Agriculture Day,

March 21. Hightower said the Agriculture Department will be sponsoring a series of activities during the week. Plans include agricultural exhibits in the State Capitol rotunda, a March 19 Agriculture Fair in conjunction with the Austin-Travis County Livestock Show and Rodeo, a House-Senate-cow-milking contest and a major farm policy statement by White and Hightower. "This is not a celebration," White cautioned. "You don't celebrate when people are in trouble, and our farmers and ranchers are in serious trouble. This observance is to call to the public's attention the plight of our family farmers and ranchers and, hopefully, to rally public support for steps we can take to turn things around for them, whether it's here or in Washington."

"This observance is not just for rural folks," Hightower explained. "It's for all of us. The food and fiber industry accounts for one out of every... It's for all of us. The food and fiber industry accounts for one out of every five jobs in Texas, in both urban and rural areas, and our farmers and ranchers are the biggest consumers in the state. When the farm economy is depressed — and it's certainly depressed now — it directly affects the economy of the entire state."

Blast

tinued after the gas supply in the eight-inch pipeline was shut off.

Glover, who lives about one mile from the trailers, said the explosion lit up his front yard and sounded like "lightning and thunder."

The puncture in the line, which carried 1,160 pounds of pressure, was 20 miles from the pump station, "and all that gas has to escape somewhere," Glover said.

The fire broke out after a crew drilling fence post holes began working in the area, he said.

Laverne Mann, nursing supervisor at Odessa Medical Center Hospital, said two people, including one member of the two-man drilling crew, were transferred to the burn unit at Lubbock General Hospital in critical condition.

They were Gloria Pena, 39, with second- and third-degree burns, and a 42-year-old man, who has not been identified, with second- and third-degree burns over 90 percent of his body.

Mrs. Pena's husband, 44-year-old Alvarado, and his son, 10-year-old George, were admitted to the Odessa hospital in stable condition with second-degree burns. Ms. Mann said. A second son, Alvarado Jr., 13, was treated for burns and released.

Odessa is located in the heart of the oil-rich Permian Basin.

Rabies

other day."

Rabies outbreaks, with raccoons as the carrier, have hit Eastern metropolitan areas such as Baltimore, Philadelphia and Trenton, N.J., he said.

CDC figures show 816 reported confirmed cases of rabies nationwide through March 6, compared to 754 in the similar period last year.

Maryland had 147 confirmed cases, Virginia 121, Texas 98, Montana 33, Georgia 27, Oklahoma 18, North Dakota 11 and South Dakota 8, Pennsylvania and Florida both had five.

A CDC spokesman said figures were not available for a state-by-state comparison with last year's statistics.

Texas has the dubious distinction of leading the nation in the total number of reported confirmed rabies cases, which includes all cases, not just this year's.

DWI

example, a minor convicted a second time of DWI could lose his license until he reached the legal drinking age, which is 19.

DWI suspects who refused to take breath tests could have their licenses suspended, whether or not they were ever prosecuted for DWI.

The bill also would authorize insurance companies to impose a three-year surcharge on policies of those convicted of DWI.

Sarpalius won an 18-11 vote on his amendment to require counties with a population of 25,000 or more to buy video cameras to tape a defendant's appearance "within a reasonable time after the arrest."

Sen. Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, suggested that all counties should be required to have such cameras, but Sarpalius said, "We need to start at the heart of the problem. Most DWIs are where the bulk of the people are."

Sen. Hugh Farmer, D-Fort Worth, offered an amendment that would require all first-time DWI offenders to serve 24 hours in jail or do 24 hours of "public service work," but it was rejected 22-7.

"The problem is not the first offender," said Sarpalius, "it's the repeat offender."

The state's Rabies Control Act of 1981 makes it mandatory for dogs and cats to be vaccinated against rabies by four months of age, and at regular specified intervals later.

Many states have similar laws. "It's still hard to combat this thing," said Charlie H. Huff, past executive director of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association.

"We had 600 cases here (Texas) last year and we already have 100 or so this year and the season has not even come," he said.

Pitman-Moore Inc. used Tuesday's session to introduce to the United States an inactivated rabies vaccine called Imrab, developed by Institut Merieux in Lyon, France.

Imrab is the only inactivated vaccine in this country licensed and available for use in cattle and sheep. It also can be used for dogs and cats. Inactivated means it cannot produce disease.

Institut Merieux earlier developed a rabies vaccine for humans that reduces the number of required painful rabies shots from 21 to a series of five intramuscular shots.

Canadian baby bonuses sacrosanct

AP News Special
By CHARLES CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

TORONTO (AP) — Once a month, every Canadian mother finds a government check in the mail, a token of the country's appreciation for her efforts in bringing up the next generation.

When the first family allowance checks were sent out in 1945, the government said they would boost the economy, help the poor and recognize the role families play in Canadian society.

Opponents said the real idea was to keep the Liberal government in power. If so, it worked.

But whatever the reason for its birth, the "baby bonus" has grown up to be so popular it is unlikely any political party would even think out loud about tampering with the program.

"Family allowances became in time, if you'll forgive the pun, a motherhood issue," says Ken Battle, director of the National Council of Welfare, a panel of citizens set up to advise the welfare ministry.

In early March, the council recommended an overhaul of Canada's general approach to benefits for children under 18, but urged the government to keep its hands off the baby bonus.

"A government which tampered with the principle of universal payment would risk alienating a large segment of the electorate, and an opposition party which advocated repeal of universal family allowances might lose more votes than it would gain," the council warned.

The report proposed scrapping the existing income tax exemption for parents, which it said "makes no sense as a social program" because it gives higher benefits to those who have higher taxable incomes.

With the $900 million from the tax exemption, the council proposed increasing the existing child tax credit, which favors the poor.

Under the current scheme, even Canadians who pay no taxes receive the maximum credit of $279 as a refund. For those who earn more than about $23,000 the size of the credit diminishes and eventually disappears.

By getting rid of the exemption, Canada could nearly double the tax credit while keeping the baby bonuses intact.

Family allowances are paid each month to 3.6 million parents on behalf of nearly 6.7 million children under the age of 18.

In eight of the 10 provinces, parents receive $23 per child each month.

The average payment is the same in the other two provinces, Alberta and Quebec, but they prefer to make payments for older children slightly larger, while those for younger children are smaller.

Quebec parents also get higher payments as more children are born, encouraging larger families.

The baby bonus checks are sent out in the name of the mothers — except of course in households headed by single fathers — making the family allowance program especially popular among women.

Joan Eddis-Topolski, a spokeswoman in the Health and Welfare Ministry, says homemakers — even those whose husbands make good wages — appreciate having a source of money they didn't have to ask for.

For some mothers, Ms. Eddis-Topolski said, the baby bonus check "is the only recognition she has."

Poison Prevention Week proclaimed March 20-26

Accidental poisoning happens most often to children under the age of 5. That's because the youngsters are naturally curious and haven't fully learned to recognize danger.

Each year the third week in March is designated as Poison Prevention Week in an effort to make people more aware of accidental poisonings. This year President Reagan proclaimed March 20 - 26 as Poison Prevention Week.

For people with young children in their home or who have youngsters as visitors, it's a good idea to take some steps to protect the young ones. The Food and Drug Administration, which tracks all accidental poisoning cases through its clearinghouse, offers these ideas for guarding against the wrong stuff getting inside the wrong person: Always use child-resistant or safety caps on prescription and non-prescription medicines.

Keep dangerous products either locked up or out of the reach of children.

Don't tell children that medicines or vitamins are candy or taste like candy. This may be a good way to get them to take it when you want them to, but it may also lead to their trying to get at and take excess amounts of someone else's "candy." (Yes, children - and adults - can overdose on vitamins.)

When using a dangerous product near a small child, don't let the product get out of your sight.

Remember that many items kept around the house are poisonous, especially when consumed by small children. The list of dangerous items includes detergents and other household cleaners, perfumes, even some plants.

Keep syrup of ipecac handy to induce vomiting, which can help get rid of poisons. However, ask a doctor or poison center before giving the syrup because in some cases vomiting is not desired. (Paint remover, turpentine, oven or drain cleaner may burn the throat when they are thrown up.)

Have the number of your physician, the poison control center or the local emergency number near the telephone to call for directions when poisonous products are taken. In fact, it's a good idea to have all three numbers available.

For more information about accidental poisonings or for a copy of a Poison Safety Game, contact your nearest FDA consumer affairs officer at 1200 Main Tower, Room 1545, Dallas, Texas 75202.

The first peer group was probably made up of a gaggle of peeping-Toms.

Chairman is appointed by Lone Star Chapter

The Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation announces the appointment of The office of the District Attorney as chairman of its 1983 campaign in Hereford.

The campaign will be held to provide the community with information about cystic fibrosis, and to raise funds to support research, education, and care programs.

The number one genetic killer of children, CF is difficult to diagnose and impossible to cure. Each day five babies are born with the tragic disease that will clog and choke their lungs and inhibit their digestive processes and their growth, the disease that will eventually take their lives as it takes the lives of three people each and every day.

For information about cystic fibrosis and how you can help in the fight to find a cure, please contact one of the office staff in the Criminal District Attorney's Office.

Texas' only unbeaten team

Dimmitt caps perfect season

AUSTIN (AP) — The only unbeaten team — and perhaps the best — in Texas high school basketball plays its home games in a junior high gym and is led by a skinny, gum-chewing guard who wears contacts.

Opponents of all-state guard Kevin Cleveland call him "Squirrel." Dimmitt Coach Kenneth Cleveland calls him "Son," and says he couldn't be prouder.

Cleveland, a 5-foot-10 senior, is a whirlwind of energy on the court and runs the fast break about as well as any high school player in the state.

He and his father hugged as subs ran out the clock in Dimmitt's 81-54 victory over Van Vleck in an emotional family farewell to a perfect basketball season.

In winning its second consecutive Class 3A championship, the Castro County team finished 38-0, and had only one close game, a 67-66 midseason tournament victory over 5A Lubbock.

Over two seasons, Dimmitt has won 44, consecutive games since losing a practice game to 4A Borger.

"I had a lot of sleepless nights the past few days," Coach Cleveland said after the Saturday championship. "When you're undefeated, you think every time, 'Could this be the one?'"

Kevin, who averages nearly 23 points a game and zips left- and right-handed passes while leaping in the air or on the run, had tears in his eyes as he came out with 40 seconds left in the game.

"I shook his hand and said, 'We did it, Dad,'" Kevin recounted.

"I'm very proud of you and everybody," Coach Cleveland responded.

The championship was significant to others, too, including the Robert Smith family. The father played on the 1952 Dimmitt team that was undefeated and beat Plano 62-40 for the Class A title. His son, John, gave up his favorite 4-H activities to concentrate on basketball, and Coach Cleveland said he was greatly improved over last year.

Smith scored 23 points and grabbed 17 rebounds in the semifinal and final victories, and was whistled for only three fouls.

Dimmitt's team had the sort of balance coaches dream about as four of the five starters scored in double figures both games, and the fifth — defensive ace Fermin Gonzales — shut off the opposition break and chipped in with 10 points.

All but Gonzales made the 3A all-tournament team.

Dimmitt, a town of 5,000 population with a large farming industry, had won only one title and had lost in the 1960 and 1961 finals when Cleveland left Sonora to coach the Bobcats. "Dimmitt was a good basketball town long before I got there, and I've been saying my blessings ever since," he said.

The elder Cleveland had been a three-sport star at Coleman, where he used to sneak through a window to play basketball in the gym after hours, and was captain of the 1958 Texas Longhorn basketball team.

After he had been at Dimmitt a few years, he was made athletic director, an indication, perhaps, of how seriously Dimmitt takes basketball. Both of his daughters, Vicki and Beth, were all-state in girls' basketball.

Cleveland's first championship team in 1975, which also defeated Van Vleck in the finals, was 35-3.

"The people support everything," Coach Cleveland said in a telephone interview. "So many people have told me the highlight of the year was watching us play basketball. But the same people who support basketball yell their lungs out at the football games."

The basketball squad will be honored Saturday at a reception, and Coach Cleveland said, "The whole town's been invited."

His one regret is that when money got tight in building the high school, plans for a new gym were scrapped and a much smaller "practice" facility was built, so Dimmitt plays at the junior high, which seats 1,200.

"Most people will agree that was the biggest mistake ever made in Dimmitt," Coach Cleveland said. "I've told people around here that I'll coach until I'm 99 if it takes that to get a new gym. Hopefully, some day ..."

Tisdale, Sampson head AP's All-American team

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayman Tisdale, Oklahoma's record-breaking 18-year-old, has done something even Virginia's Ralph Sampson never accomplished by becoming the first freshman ever named to the first team of The Associated Press' All-American basketball squad.

The 6-foot-9, 240-pound Tisdale joined seniors Sampson and Dale Ellis of Tennessee and sophomores Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Michael Jordan of North Carolina on the first team, which was announced Tuesday.

It marked the third straight year that Sampson was named to the first team. He was an honorable mention choice as a freshman.

"Wow, I can't hardly believe that," Tisdale said after being informed of his selection. He averaged 25.1 points and 10.6 rebounds in leading Oklahoma to a 23-8 record and a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

The Tulsa, Okla., native led the Big Eight Conference in scoring and rebounding and was named the league's Player of the Year. He broke every freshman scoring record and eclipsed the Sooners' single-season scoring record with 779 points while hitting 58.2 percent from the field.

He also blocked 76 shots. Sampson, 7-4, averaged 19.1 points and 11.7 rebounds and blocked 91 shots in leading the Cavaliers to a 27-4 record and a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference's regular-season title with North Carolina. He made 59.3 percent of his field goal attempts.

In his career, Sampson has scored 2,171 points, the third-highest in Virginia history, and grabbed 1,477 rebounds and blocked 249 shots — both Virginia records. Virginia, also headed to NCAA playoffs, has won 110 and lost 22 during the Sampson era.

Sampson, the ACC's Player of the Year, is the only repeater from last year's first team. He was the AP's Player of the Year the past two seasons.

"The year will be complete with the national championship," said Sampson, who spurned pro opportunities after his first three college seasons. Despite his effort, the Cavaliers have failed to win the NCAA crown during his reign.

Ellis, a 6-7 second-team choice last season, plays the low post in the Tennessee offense and averaged 23.0 points this season on 60.2 shooting from the field and 6.7 rebounds. He was the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Year, is the 10th highest scorer in SEC history and the third-highest in Tennessee's history with 2,032 points and a 59.1 shooting percentage.

Ewing, a 7-footer who was the leader of the young Georgetown team, averaged 17.4 points with a 56.8 field goal percentage and 10.2 rebounds. He also had 104 blocked shots.

His intimidating style earned him the Big East Conference's Defensive Player of the Year honor.

Jordan, a 6-5 swingman who averaged 20.1 points on 54.1 percent field goal shooting and made 77 steals, specializes in late-game heroics. Coach Dean Smith calls him "Old Reliable." His goal gave the Tar Heels last year's NCAA title over Georgetown and he came through in the clutch to pull out the second game with Virginia this season.

Underclassmen also dominated the second and third teams.

The second team included sophomore Keith Lee of Memphis State, a second-team choice last season, and juniors Clyde Drexler of Houston and Derek Harper of Illinois. Seniors Steve Stipanovich of Missouri and Darrell Walker of Arkansas complete the second team.

Juniors Sam Perkins of North Carolina and Kenny Fields of UCLA and sophomore Ennis Whitley of Alabama are members of the third team, along with seniors John Pinone of Villanova and Wichita State's Antoine Carr.

The teams were selected by a panel AP sports writers. The AP Player of the Year will be announced April 1.

Clock, ball highlight play

TCU, Tulsa ready for first-round NIT meeting

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas Christian and Tulsa will see something a little different when they meet in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament tonight — a 30-second clock and a basketball with a mesmerizing effect.

Tulsa Coach Nolan Richardson said he does not believe the NIT's shot clock or the use of a red, white and blue basketball will impede the Hurricane.

"We're kind of an up-tempo team as it is," he said. "We're hoping it will work more to our advantage. We hope to do some pressing."

He said TCU might be more affected by the clock than Tulsa. He said the Frogs are "not that patient, but more patient than the teams in the Missouri Valley."

The Valley has no shot clock, but does have a three-point field goal that proved to be a minor weapon in Tulsa's arsenal.

During the Southwest Conference season, Texas Christian coped with a 45-second shot clock that was turned off in the last five minutes of each half.

As for the tri-colored ball, Richardson said it can be distracting to "see something red, white and blue coming at you when you're used to seeing something brown coming at you."

Richardson said he played with the multi-colored ball during a stint in the American Basketball Association and the more visible rotation "affected me the first couple of weeks."

Richardson says he expects to meet a "fired-up" Texas Christian team in the 7:30 p.m. (CST) contest at Oral Roberts University's Mabee Center.

"They've got it going in the end of the season. I think they're coming in being fired up," Richardson said, noting the Horned Frogs' stellar performance in the conference post-season tourney.

Texas Christian upended Arkansas in overtime and kept up with No. 1 Houston in a 62-59 loss in the tournament championship on Saturday. Coach Jim Killingsworth's veteran 21-10 team reportedly just missed a bid to the NCAA tournament. "I'm pleased we are in the NIT. It's just a little bit of a letdown to be playing on the road," Killingsworth said.

Meanwhile, Tulsa lost to Illinois State, 84-64, in the championship of the Missouri Valley Conference and returns to the NIT with a 19-11 record. The Hurricane won the NIT in 1981.

But the five starters who carried Tulsa to the tournament title in 1981 and to the NCAA tournament last season are gone. It is a different Tulsa team than the one that defeated TCU 72-62 last season in the Oil Capital Classic.

TCU is led by 6-foot-9 senior forward Doug Arnold, averaging 15 points, and senior guard Darrell Browder, averaging 16.6.

Tulsa's leaders are junior swingman Ricky Ross, averaging 18.7, and sophomore guard Steve Harris, averaging 18.5 points a game.

Richardson calls his young squad, with a single senior starter, a miracle-working team because of its success in adversity.

Tulsa started with a 5-1 record, including victories over North Carolina and Oklahoma, before injuries sidelined two starters. A series of eight out of nine games on the road dropped the Hurricane to 6-7. Since then, Tulsa has won 12 of 15 games.

"We're proud of the fact that we're in the NIT," Richardson said. "I think it's going to be awfully tough. The teams that get the home court are the teams that are likely to go to the final four. We're starting right off the bat against a very strong team," Richardson said. "The only good part is at least we're home."

Tulsa is 9-2 at Mabee Center under Richardson, including three victories in the 1981 NIT and a 78-74 loss to Houston in the NCAA last year.

If Tulsa can fill the 10,500-seat arena and pull out a win against TCU, Richardson said he hopes the Hurricane can be home again in the second round of the 32-team NIT March 20 or 21.

Pennsylvania town objects

Son wants Thorpe's body returned

JIM THORPE, Pa. (AP) — The youngest son of the late Olympian Jim Thorpe wants his father's body returned to Oklahoma, but the town that buried him and bears his name wants just as badly to keep him.

"He's going to stay here, regardless of what they say," said Mayor Michael Hichok, who greeted Jack Thorpe, chief of the Sac and Fox Indians, at a graveside service Tuesday. "There's no way they can take him back."

Thorpe, 46, made his first visit to the 20-ton, brown granite mausoleum that has been his father's tomb for the past 29 years. He laid a wreath and spread herbs at the site while saying a silent prayer, then told a crowd of 100 townspeople why his father's body should be returned to the tribal grounds where he was born.

"As a son, as the chief of an Indian tribe, I'd like to see my father laid to rest where he wanted to be," said Thorpe, chief of the 2,208-member tribe based near Shawnee, Okla.

"Until he is put away properly in the Indian manner, we believe his spirit will roam. We'd like to release his spirit and let him be at rest," he added, his voice shaking with emotion and his hands trembling.

"I appreciate all you have done. I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings," said Thorpe. "It's a great honor to have a town named after you. But Dad wanted to be buried in Oklahoma, and I just want to respect his wishes."

Jim Thorpe, a double gold medal winner in the 1912 Olympics, never set foot in this Carbon County town and his only connection to Pennsylvania was his college career at the Carlisle, Pa., Indian school.

He died March 28, 1953, ravaged by alcohol and dependent on charity to pay his medical bills. The governor of Oklahoma vetoed a $25,000 appropriation to have him buried in his native state.

But the communities of Mauch Chunk and East Mauch Chunk put up $10,000 for his tomb and agreed to unite under the name Jim Thorpe through a contract signed by his third wife, Patricia.

The town twice rejected attempts to change its name back.

"It's an emotional subject," said the young Thorpe, one of seven surviving children. "But it's not the bones or the body of a man that make a town. It's the people that make a town."

At the gravesite, Thorpe was given a T-shirt that said: "Where in the hell is Mauch Chunk? Jim Thorpe, Pa."

In a later appearance at Jim Thorpe Senior High School, Thorpe was given a cap, mug and a handbook. Students had voted 205-18 in favor of keeping his father's body, while only three said they had no opinion.

The medals Jim Thorpe had in 1912 were stripped when officials learned he had been paid $2 a game to play baseball while he was still in college. But the International Olympic Committee reversed the decision last October and Thorpe's name was cleared.

After his Olympic achievements, Thorpe played professional football, baseball and hockey and was a sparring partner for heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey. He was voted the greatest athlete of the first half of the 20th century in a 1950 Associated Press sports editors' poll.

San Antonio gets pro football

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio failed to win NFL or USFL franchises, despite years of trying, but will settle for a team with the proposed International Football League, a promoter says.

Roger Gill says he has been trying to bring a professional football team to San Antonio since 1967.

Now, Gill said Tuesday, a wealthy Texan has put up $2 million earnest money for a team in the fledgling IFL, which plans to begin play next spring.

Gill is commissioner of the minor-league American Football Association and president of one of the AFA's teams, the San Antonio Bulls.

South Texas rancher-oilman Clinton Manges — who owns the Bulls — traveled with Gill to Palm Springs, Calif., last weekend where Manges put up the money for the IFL franchise, Gill said.

The IFL supposedly will be an off-season major football league — scheduling its games between March and July — and will start the season either two weeks before or two weeks after the United States Football League.

Ziegler gets hole-in-one

Pius H. Ziegler of Collyer, Kan. made his visit to Hereford a memorable one Tuesday by realizing most golfers' lifetime ambition — knocking in a hole-in-one.

Ziegler used a five-iron to ace No. 6, a 175-yard par three at the John Pitman Course. The hole-in-one was witnessed by Greg Robinson.

Gill said he approached both the National Football League and the USFL about bringing a team to San Antonio, but that they weren't interested.

"If we didn't act now, we would probably not get professional football in this decade," Gill said. "The AFA is not taking us where we want to be."

He said San Antonio would need a stadium seating at least 55,000 people before any NFL or USFL officials would be interested in moving here.

New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Seattle and Charlotte, N.C., also have been awarded IFL franchises, and six more sites will be chosen later.

Gill said the league probably would not back up the word "international" in its title until it got on its feet, but that teams eventually would be placed in Tokyo and other foreign cities.

Football still top attraction

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent
If Mr. Average America, had his "druthers," he'd "druther" grow up to be Pete Rose than Robert Redford — or President Reagan. But, in the reality of the family den, he's going to flick the TV dial for a look at Herschel Walker instead of Rose, Steve Garvey, Reggie Jackson or any of the other baseball heroes.

Football remains America's No. 1 spectator sport, according to an exhaustive study of "American Attitudes on Sports" made by Research and Forecasts, Inc., and formally released here Tuesday.

The 218-page report, aimed at learning what makes Johnny run and why sister Gladys isn't always afforded the same opportunity, was underwritten by Miller Brewing Co., at a cost of around $250,000.

The survey covers a broad spectrum of American life and comes up with some interesting conclusions, the least unexpected of which is that football has a stronger hold on the public than baseball or any other bigtime spectator sport.

This is a finding that is to be thoroughly tested in the next four months when the well-financed U. S. Football League goes head-to-head against big league baseball and other warm weather sports for the spectator dollar and, more importantly from the commercial standpoint, the spectators' eyes.

The first two weeks of the maverick league's play has strengthened the point although major league baseball is still involved in meaningless spring exhibitions. But last Sunday, a rather bland USFL production easily won the TV network ratings war over one of the best NCAA college basketball games of the season (Virginia vs. North Carolina State) and a golf windup that went into overtime.

Asked to name its favorite sport, a cross-section of the fan sample in the attitude research survey responded convincingly. "Football."

Football received 28 per cent of the vote, followed by baseball, 18, with other sports dropping off dramatically: basketball, 8, gymnastics 5, wrestling beating out boxing, 5 to 4. Tennis, auto racing and skating were in the lower drawer with boxing. Golf wasn't mentioned.

When those surveyed were presented with a list of sports events and asked which they would most like to attend, football's Super Bowl edged baseball's World Series 18 to 17 per cent, with the Olympics following with 16 per cent and the Kentucky Derby and Indianapolis 500 dropping off sharply with 7 and 6 per cent, respectively.

The survey delved deeply into many other facets of American sports — growing commercialism, drugs, violence, betting, discrimination because of race or sex.

To the question, "Which of these would you rather be?" the sports hero played second fiddle to an international scientist (22 against 36 per cent) but ahead of any statesman (of which the president is one) and a movie star.

Brewers get good news, good pitching

By The Associated Press
The Milwaukee Brewers, who are holding their breath fearing the worst concerning 1982 Cy Young Award winner Pete Vuckovich, got some good news — and some good pitching — from Jim Slaton.

While Vuckovich's shoulder problem was diagnosed as a torn rotator cuff — he will be re-examined next week to determine whether surgery is necessary — Slaton, normally a long reliever, held San Diego to one hit in five innings Tuesday to lead the Brewers to a 5-1 exhibition victory over the Padres.

Alan Wiggins singled for the Padres to open the game, after which Slaton had no difficulty. The Brewers are 7-1 this spring.

On Tuesday, Rick Manning doubled twice and Neal Heaton pitched four scoreless innings of one-hit ball as the Indians defeated the Oakland A's 6-2. Heaton struck out two and faced the minimum 12 batters. Mitchell Page, who led off the game with a single, was erased on a double play. The Indians scored five first-inning runs, four of them unearned, off John D'Acquisto.

Chili Davis, who went into the game with a 0-for-15 spring batting record, hit a 450-foot home run, two doubles and a single, leading the San Francisco Giants to a 7-2 victory over the Seattle Mariners. Davis, who was 4-for-5, drove in three runs. His second double in the fifth inning broke a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere, Doyle Alexander, trying to rebound from last year's disastrous 1-7 injury-marred season, allowed one run and four hits in six innings and Dave Winfield hit his first spring home run as the New York Yankees defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 6-1. Bobby Murcer rapped out three singles, including a pair of RBI hits, and has seven hits in as many at-bats this spring.

Mike Marshall and Dusty Baker hit two-run homers and Burt Hooton hurled six innings of one-hit ball as the Los Angeles Dodgers flattened the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2. The Pirates, who were not the previous night by the Yankees' Ron Guidry and Dale Murray, managed only one single off Hooton and Dave Stewart through eight innings.

11th straight win

Nuggets roll past Warriors

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Now that the Denver Nuggets are playing a little defense while maintaining their offensive firepower, they are bad news to the rest of the National Basketball Association.

The Nuggets, in a late-season playoff rush, raced to their 11th straight victory Tuesday night, whipping Golden State 139-115. Kiki Vandeweghe scored 32 points and NBA scoring leader Alex English added 28. But perhaps the most telling statistics were Warriors center Joe Barry Carroll's 5-of-21 field goal shooting and 13 points, 11 below his average.

"Carroll had a pretty tough time," Nuggets Coach Doug Moe said. "We were really active defensively, and that made it tough for him."

"We were double-teaming Joe Barry underneath, and he wasn't looking to pass," said Vandeweghe, who sat out much of the second half after scoring 30 points by halftime. "So we just sagged in on him, and his shots weren't dropping."

Elsewhere, New York bombed Atlanta 119-97, New Jersey clubbed Detroit 109-90, Philadelphia edged Indiana 132-128, Washington tripped Cleveland 95-92 in overtime, San Antonio outscored San Diego 130-109, Dallas beat Houston 123-110, Phoenix defeated Chicago 116-108 and Portland ripped Kansas City 115-98.

"I can see why they've won 11 in a row," Golden State Coach Al Attles said of the Nuggets. "Denver seems to be clicking on all cylinders right now. They shot very well in the first half and did everything they usually do. They also played very good defense against us."

Denver opened a 24-6 lead in the first 6½ minutes and maintained a 74-56 halftime lead as Vandeweghe went wild. The all-star forward was able to relax in the second half as Denver substitutes got some playing time.

"I enjoyed the game from the bench in the second half. It's great to sit back and watch the other guys who don't get a chance to play too often," Vandeweghe said. "We got out and ran on them right from the start. They were a little lachardaisical and we were ready."

Lewis Lloyd scored 30 points to lead Golden State, which lost for the eighth time in 11 games.

76ers 132, Pacers 128
Andrew Toney and Moses Malone made up for the absence of Julius Erving and Maurice Cheeks as Philadelphia outlasted Indiana.

Erving has a sprained wrist and Cheeks had the flu, but Toney scored 42 points and Malone added 35 points and 22 rebounds as the 76ers, 54-9, rallied from an 11-point deficit in the third quarter to beat the 17-48 Pacers.

A dunk by Malone put Philadelphia ahead to stay, 126-125, with 1:26 left in the game, and Toney, who was 15 of 22 from the field and 12 of 12 from the free throw line, followed with a pair of layups to make it 130-125.

Billy Knight scored 40 points for Indiana, his second straight game with 40 or more.

Spurs 130, Clippers 109
George Gervin led seven teammates in double figures as San Antonio set a franchise record by hitting 65 percent of its shots against San Diego.

Artis Gilmore had all 19 of his points in the first half as the Spurs took a 70-48 lead at intermission. Mike Mitchell added 16 of his total of 18 in the third quarter as San Antonio increased its lead to 97-74.

Terry Cummings led all scorers with 31 points for the Clippers.

Knicks 119, Hawks 97
Bernard King scored 23 points as New York beat Atlanta for its sixth straight triumph, all of them against winning teams.

The Knicks never trailed after taking a 12-11 lead on two free throws by King, who had 10 points in the first 10 minutes of the game while New York took a 32-19 lead.

Suns 116, Bulls 108

Phoenix beat Chicago for the 10th straight time as Walter Davis scored 28 points.

The Suns trailed by seven at halftime, but scored 10 of the first 12 points of the third period to go ahead 64-63. The Bulls responded with six points in a row to regain the lead, but Phoenix came back with 13 straight for a 77-69 bulge and Chicago never got closer than six the rest of the way.

Nets 109, Pistons 90
Darryl Dawkins hit 10 of 11 field goal attempts and finished with 22 points as New Jersey manhandled Detroit.

The Nets held the opposition under 100 points for the third straight game and improved their record to 23-1 when their opponent was under the century mark. Isaiah Thomas led all scorers with 33 points for the Pistons. Blazers 115, Kings 98

Jim Paxson scored 32 points and Mychal Thompson 26 as Portland defeated Kansas City.

The Trail Blazers held the Kings to 16 points in the first quarter and led 61-35 at halftime, but Mike Woodson scored 17 of his 26 points in the third period to help Kansas City cut a 31-point deficit to 13.

Bullets 95, Cavaliers 92
Jeff Ruland scored 26 points and Washington limited Cleveland to one basket in overtime after blowing a six-point lead in the final minute of regulation.

The Bullets led 88-82 with 59 seconds left, but Geoff Huston hit a three-point goal, a layup and a free throw to send the game into overtime. He missed another free throw that could have won the game for the Cavaliers, who got 35 points from World Free.

Mavericks 123, Rockets 110
Mark Aguirre scored 29 points and Jay Vincent 22 as Dallas handed Houston its eighth straight loss and 54th in 65 games.

The Rockets, after being down by 23 points in the first half, battled back to cut the deficit to 112-105.

March concert series scheduled in Lubbock

The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra will present its March concert at 8:15 p.m. March 28-29 in the Lubbock Civic Center Theatre. William A. Harrod is the founding conductor of the orchestra. These concerts will feature flutist, Brad Garner, and organist, Carlo Curley. Garner has been described as one of this country's outstanding flutists and has won numerous awards during his career. He will be performing "Poem" by Charles Griffes and "Carmen Fantasy" by Bizet-Borne.

Curley is as famous for his irrepresible personality as for his musical talents. He began playing church organ at the age of five and has studied since that time. He has ten records to his credit, including "The Incredible Carolo Curley" which rose to the top-ten classical best seller status in England. He will be performing "Third Symphony" by Saint-Saens, Opus 78 and "Concerto for Organ" in G minor by Francis Poulenc. Tickets are $7.50 and $8.50 and may be obtained by going by the Lubbock Symphony office located at 1721 Broadway or by calling the office at (806) 762-4707.

Simple service marks Frank Ferree funeral

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Frank Ferree lived in simple poverty as he helped to feed and house thousands of the poor along the Texas-Mexico border, and the legacy he left in death was just as ironic. The man known as the "Border Angel" was honored at his funeral Tuesday by President Reagan and Texas Gov. Mark White as well as the impoverished residents for whom he cared. About 400 people gathered in Casa de Amistad, a simple public building of painted brick and sheet metal, to pay their last respects to Ferree, who died Thursday at the age of 88 after serving the poor of this border area for 41 years. Reagan said in a telegram read during the services that Ferree's life "was an inspirational message of selfless giving and generosity. 'Indeed, he taught us a lesson in sharing our blessings with our fellow man,'" Reagan said. Ferree, nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize, was to be one of 20 recipients throughout the United States of the national volunteer award, the highest such honor for volunteer contributions, at a White House luncheon with Reagan on April 13. He was buried as he had requested, in front of his home on Harlingen's north side. Gov. Mark White called Ferree a "beloved man" and a "great human being." "His outstanding services rendered on behalf of his fellow man will always serve as a memorial to him," White said in a telegram. Another tribute to the "Border Angel" came from U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, who said, "Only a few in a century ever attain the level of achievement reached by Frank Ferree. His heart beat only for the less fortunate." Ferree's long-time friend and helper, lay minister C.L. "Smokey" Boyle, also sent his condolences, calling him "a great man" with "a big heart full of love." "Ask the five United States presidents who honored him and every president of Mexico for the last 30 years who honored him ... ask the mother who came for medicine, food and clothing for her children," Boyle said. "But most of all, ask the ones who he loved the most and helped the most, the little folks whom no one else seemed to notice, the ones who gave him the name 'El Angel,' the 'Border Angel,'" Boyle said. "They will tell you what I tell you today, Frank Ferree was the greatest human being I have ever known."

Who is watching overnight news?

NEW YORK (AP) — Reuven Frank has some unscientific evidence on who's watching overnight news. "We get a fair number of letters at that hour from nursing mothers," says the president of NBC News. And at least one regular viewer of CBS' "Nightwatch" (2-6 a.m. EDT) manages to watch between servings of ham and eggs. "You keep me awake because (it) is slow this time in the diner," writes a pen pal from the Triangle Diner in Wingdale, N.Y. "I tried to call many times. Please call me." One can assume that babies, their bleary eyed parents, griddle jockeys and other overnight workers are viewers (well, at least the set is on) of the relatively new news programs in late-night: "Nightwatch," "NBC News Overnight" and ABC's "The Last Word."

But accurately tracking the late-night audience is difficult. The A.C. Nielsen Co., which offers reliable ratings the rest of the day, is less confident of its overnight measurements. Although the meters tick in Nielsen's 1,250 sampling homes throughout the night, the ratings service isn't sure whether the television set is being used as a night light or whether people have nodded off in front of it. And Nielsen can't double-check by phoning viewers at 3 in the morning. So, besides conventional techniques, letters and viewer phone-ins from the late-night audience help establish who the viewers are.

Unlikely Braniff will ever fly again

DALLAS (AP) — Barring a "miracle," Braniff International is dead as an air carrier and will attempt to reorganize as a ground operations company providing services to other airlines, the chairman of the grounded airline says. Braniff's hopes to reorganize with flight operations collapsed Tuesday when Pacific Southwest Airlines announced that it was scuttling a final attempt to fly a venture with Braniff, Braniff Chairman Howard Putnam said. PSA hoped to form a Texas division based at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport with the remnants of Braniff, which was grounded 10 months ago under a $1 billion debt. "We've run out of any other ideas to put Braniff back in the air," Putnam told The Dallas Morning News. "We tried, we tried, we tried and everything else has failed." Putnam also told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, "It would be a miracle if Braniff flies again." But Putnam denied that Braniff, once the nation's eighth largest airline, would be forced into a total liquidation under Chapter VII of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. Putnam said Braniff will file a new reorganization plan in federal bankruptcy court in Fort Worth before an April 4 deadline. The plan will be limited to a ground operation that will provide aircraft maintenance and other services to airlines, Putnam said. It is an idea Braniff has been touting for several months as a way to at least partially repay its creditors. Braniff's assets — which include more than 60 Boeing 727 aircraft — would yield only an average of nine cents on the dollar if liquidated, according to documents filed in bankruptcy court. Since Braniff shut down, Putnam said he contacted about a dozen airlines in an effort to find one willing to expand operations with Braniff.

Robbery detective adopted victim

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Old Man of South Laredo Street died quietly in his sleep, ending a two-year relationship with the police detective who "adopted him." Anthony Lopez was alone and frail when robbery detective Ray Hildebrand became like a son to him. Their chosen kinship began two years ago in August. Young thugs entered the abandoned house where Lopez lived on South Laredo Street. They beat him and took $1 from his pockets. Lopez, 78 at the time, fell to the floor and pretended to be unconscious. The attackers set fire to the old, frame house and left Lopez to die in the blaze. Bleeding and still shaken, he climbed out a window and escaped. Robbery Lt. Javier Moreno sent Hildebrand to investigate the robbery. Lopez could provide Hildebrand with only a vague description of three young men. They never were caught. Hildebrand, a police veteran, had seen it all on his years on the force, but he could not bear to see the fragile, old man left alone. With help from a city councilwoman, Hildebrand got Lopez an apartment. The policeman and his wife, Suzanne Hildebrand, became his companions. On weekends, they took their 9-year-old son, Ashley, to visit Lopez, and they became a family. Hildebrand taught the old man how to operate the elevators in his apartment building and Mrs. Hildebrand took him on his first shopping trip. Ashley taught the old man how to write his name. "He taught us too," Mrs. Hildebrand reflected. "His logic was simple and almost childlike. He used to say that if you wanted something, you must work for it. You must never take anything that is not yours." "He did not understand racism. He said that Jesus knew only one race." Lopez had been used to roaming the street before the robbery and fire. He was slow to adjust to apartment living, but adapted after a few months. Then, about a month ago, he fell ill. More than anything, Mrs. Hildebrand said, he was just old and tired. She persuaded him to enter the hospital, but once there he refused to take off his clothes. He even slept in his shoes. When the Hildebrands did not bring their son with them on visits, Lopez demanded an explanation. On March 7, a county court-at-law judge made Hildebrand the legal guardian for Lopez. It was early Saturday morning when the phone rang at the Hildebrand home. The doctor called to say Lopez had died. Mrs. Hildebrand told her husband. The policeman sat on the edge of the bed and smoked a cigarette, and then he cried softly. Anthony Lopez was buried Monday.

24-hour library with no card needed

BLUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) — Frances O'Brien's library is probably the only one in the country that is open any time, day or night. There is no lock on the door and no need for a library card. At 4 a.m., visitors can borrow a copy of Audubon magazine and read until the birds of the lush McKenzie River Valley awaken. "People are shocked when I tell them I don't lock it," said the 81-year-old, white-haired library proprietor. "Maybe ours is a very trusting community." The library is the offspring of Mrs. O'Brien's longtime love affair with books and learning. It began in the living room of her home more than half a century ago and now consists of nearly 21,000 donated books in a small building constructed in 1975 behind her house. It is not tax-supported or publicly administered and relies solely on donated books and on money Mrs. O'Brien earns as a tax consultant. Books have floated in from all parts of the country, and offers of collections have come from as far away as Japan. Last year, some residents of Ohio read about the library and made up their minds their next vacation would be in Oregon. "They arrived with three people in the car and two large boxes of books," Mrs. O'Brien recalled in a recent interview.

Gathering For Luncheon Tuesday

Approximately 100 women from 58 area clubs were in attendance at the District 1 Spring Garden Club Convention held Monday and Tuesday at the Community Center. The event was hosted by the Hereford Garden Club and Bud to Blossom Garden Club. During the Western theme luncheon held Tuesday, incoming district officers and zone chairmen were honored.

CowBelles plan Ag Week events

Dr. Chet Fields, private consulting nutritionist for Farr Better Feeds, was guest speaker during the Hereford CowBelles luncheon held Tuesday at Hereford Country Club.

Dr. Fields narrated slides and gave an informative talk on nutritional deficiency problems in feed lot cattle. He has recently returned from Australia where he found a serious lack of zinc and vitamin A in a large operation there.

During the business meeting, Agriculture Week, scheduled March 21-26, was discussed. Glenda Hansen, chairperson for the event, announced that several activities have been planned.

The local group will observe "Lunchless Wednesday" March 23. Instead of lunch, each CowBelle will contribute $3 to be given through the National CowBelle organization in the form of Beef Certificates to the National Salvation Army.

Mrs. Hansen said, "This is a way of depriving ourselves and giving to those less fortunate."

The group voted to be represented 100 per cent in this project. For anyone interested in participating in this event money may be given at anytime this month.

It was announced that Hereford State Banks' marquee will advertise Ag Week. Place mats and napkins advertising beef will be used in all local restaurants. Also, the parents of the first baby born on Monday will be given a beef certificate redeemable in local stores in recognition of Ag Week.

There will be a Beef Casserole sale March 26 in Sugarland Mall. A recipe will be included with each dish purchased and the Texas CowBelle cookbooks will be on sale.

Before the conclusion of the business meeting, it was announced that Charmayne Klett, Peaches Reinauer and Betty Rudder will represent the local group at the Spring Convention and Region IV Workshop to be held Sunday and Monday in Austin.

The next meeting is scheduled April 19 at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

drinking on South Padre Island has risen sharply since the spring break phenomenon began. But 1983 college students have come to the island prepared.

Those interviewed said they'll spend from $200 to $350 for about six days on the island.

"Most of the merchants look forward to spring break," Ms. Carnevale said. "They hang on through the winter to get to spring break. They look forward to the students coming as much as the students enjoy being here."

Law enforcement agencies are working to ensure the huge crowd doesn't get out of hand, according to Department of Public Safety trooper Roland Castaneda.

Castaneda said officers have encountered few problems with this year's batch of students.

Ms. Carnevale says law enforcement agencies and merchants have shifted into the spring break mood to make the week enjoyable.

"They're controlling their tempers," she said. The college students, it seems, have done the same.

Spring break underway at South Padre Island

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — This peaceful island paradise has been taken over by an invasion of skimpily clad college students, all with fun and sun on their minds and money in their pockets.

It's spring break and an estimated 40,000 students, the vast majority from Texas schools, have landed on the island, to the delight of local merchants and hotel owners.

The crowd of vacationing students shook their bodies Tuesday as former Beach Boy Mike Love and Dean Torrence, half of the Jan and Dean duo, performed a string of 1960s hits that included "Surfer Girl."

"School is really hard," said University of Texas sophomore Tricial Roessler, 20. "I just wanted to blow it out."

Ted Mishtal, a second year law student at the University of Houston, says he came for "a tan, good times and, oh, maybe some girls."

"I'm going to have one last fling before I get out into the real world," said Mishtal.

"I'm looking for a good time," said Kyle Slith, 19, a University of Houston pharmacy major. "But if I meet a young looking lady who I'm compatible with, I wouldn't hold back."

"But I didn't come down here looking for a mate," he said.

The spring break pilgrimage to the nation's southern beaches has become an annual affair of American college students.

Shelly Romsos, 21, of Colorado State University acknowledges she and three other friends made the 22-hour trip from Fort Collins, Colo., to check out Texas' male students.

Have they lived up to her expectations?

"Well," says Miss Romsos, "their accents are kind of annoying, but they're definitely friendly."

Miss Roessler says she came in a caravan with other coeds from Austin and is sharing a condominium to cut expenses.

"We're in a condo they think only four girls are staying in," she said. "There are 10 of us and if we get caught it's a $100 fine."

Like everything else, the cost of living, eating and

Fashion column debuts Sunday

"Off the Runway," a weekly fashion and apparel column by syndicated writer Anne Winston, debuts in The Hereford Brand Sunday when the newspaper presents a Spring Fashion Preview section.

The new column will provide timely information about trends in the apparel marketplace and how they affect the clothing readers buy.

"There's more to fashion than style shows and models," Ms. Winston says. "I'll be taking readers off the fashion runways and into designers' studios."

The weekly column and feature articles will contain advice on when to make the best fashion buys, how to plan evolving wardrobe or what styles to expect on store racks this season, among other subjects.

The special Fashion Preview section Sunday will contain photos and artwork of spring fashions, as well as informative articles about women's fashions.

Ms. Winston has more than 25 years experience in the apparel industry. She is currently a featured writer for "Fashion Showcase Retailer," a fashion trade publication based at the Dallas Apparel Mart.

"I'm not over-awed by high fashion," she says. "Most of us are more interested in what's on the rack at our local department store or ladies' dress shop than in the latest original design by Halston."

As a result, future columns and articles by Ms. Winston will cover such subjects as how a garment travels from designer's sketchpad to retailer's rack, new trends in fashion for the office, or how an overweight woman can shop for flattering swimwear.

Most columns and articles will be accompanied by sketches and renderings of the fashion she writes about. This art is produced by some of the industry's most talented fashion artists.

With the addition of the fashion feature, The Brand will drop the Erma Bombeck column, it was announced by Linda Caudle, family section editor.

"We believe this feature will provide another broad area of interest to readers," said Miss Caudle.

Seminar discussed by Genealogical Society

The regular meeting of the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society was held in the Heritage Room of the county library on Thursday, with Jeanette Ramey, vice-president, presiding.

A seminar was discussed and Edwina Thomas was requested to get information regarding a seminar held several years ago. Everyone had enjoyed it so much that the society is thinking of repeating it. It is entitled "Genealogy Can Be Fun", distributed by the University of Georgia. If possible, the society would like to have it in April.

Each month the society receives a great deal of correspondence from other genealogical societies, genealogy book companies and companies offering family research services. That mail was circulated and discussed.

Wilma Clark reported that she has received 16 orders for Olympic gifts

As late as 1912, at Stockholm, victors of the modern Olympic Games were crowned with wreaths fashioned from leaves in addition to receiving trophies and medallions. Olympic champions in Berlin in 1936 were awarded oak-leaf saplings, suitably potted for replanting in the victor's homelands.

the to-be-published Book of Marriages for Deaf Smith County. Orders are still being accepted until the end of March.

The meeting closed with the closing of the library at 9 p.m. Ten members were in attendance.

Ann Landers

Waiting is advised

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15 and my boyfriend is 16. We have been going together for six months and 10 days. I believe I love him and he says he loves me. We are very close. I think about him constantly. No matter what I am doing, he is in the back of my mind.

Is it possible for people our age to be in love? We get along great and have never had an honest-to-goodness fight. What I need to know is how far should I let him go? I am still a virgin and don't want to make a mistake. I am crazy about this guy but I keep thinking that maybe after we go all the way our relationship will change. He says he would not lose his respect for me, but how can I be sure?

Things are awfully good now, but maybe they could be better if I gave myself completely. What do you say? — Unsteady In Long Island.

DEAR L.I.: Teenagers CAN be in love. You sound as if you have a wonderful relationship. I hope it stays that way.

You say things are "awfully good now but maybe they could be better." Please be aware that they could also be worse — and probably would be if you gave yourself completely.

High school sex can be hazardous to your health, both emotionally and physically. I know it's difficult to hold off, but my advice is wait. You'll be glad you did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is a joke compared with most others, but it weighs on my mind and makes me ashamed that I can't face it. It's my closet. I've been wanting to clean it for five years, but I can't make myself do it.

Dresses, suits, and coats are jammed in like crazy. Everything has to be pressed before I wear it because it's wrinkled from being mashed. Can you give me a clue as how to get going? — Pack Rat In Niagara Falls

DEAR PACK: This might sound nutty, but you must be in good spirits, a positive frame of mind and full of energy to successfully attack a job as demanding and disagreeable as this one.

Resolve to make a decision on every garment you put your hands on, then start at the beginning of the rack. If you haven't worn it (coat, dress, blouse, whatever) in the past 12 months, yank it out and put it on a chair. When you've gone through the entire rack, try on the garments you think may be worth keeping. You will probably eliminate at least 75 percent because (1) they don't fit properly or (2) they look worn, outmoded or just blah.

Put the remaining 25 percent back in the closet and call Goodwill, the Salvation Army or your church or hospital charity. They will be happy to send someone to pick up the discarded. You will feel elated for having triumphed over your procrastination.

CONFIDENTIAL To Why Did I Do It In Pasadena?: Aristotle said all human behavior is motivated by one or more of these seven elements: chance, nature, compulsion, habit, passion and desire. Check the list and figure it out.

Church to host Youth-A-Rama this week

The local Church of the Nazarene will host Youth-A-Rama, the West Texas District teen talent program, Thursday through Saturday, at the church and at the La Plata Junior High School gymnasium.

Approximately 400 youth, including 21 athletic teams and 100 talent area entries, are expected from all over

West Texas. Both junior high and high school students will be participating, including about 15 from Hereford.

Events begin at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the church and will conclude at noon Saturday. Basketball, volleyball, tennis, vocal solos and ensembles, instrumental solos and ensembles, origina and interpretive speeches, art, and Bible quizzing will be included.

A Nazarene Youth International banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Friday at the Community Center. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Gene Fuller, district superintendent.

Thursday night, Jerome Hancock from Lubbock will be speaking; Virgil Slentz will speak Friday morning; and the Rev. Dale Taylor from Fort Worth will be the guest speaker Saturday morning.

Ted Taylor youth minister at the Church of the Nazarene, is the district teen talent coordinator, Pastor of the local church is the Rev. Bob Huffaker.

Cystic Fibrosis

Bike-A-Thon slated

Each year more people are finding they can bike their way to a healthier life.

Here in Hereford bikers also can bike their way to help support a healthier life for the 30,000 Americans who suffer from cystic fibrosis (CF), the number one genetic killed of young people in the United States.

Cystic fibrosis is an incurable lung-damaging and digestive disease, according to the Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, sponsor of the CF Bike-A-Thon on April 30, at Veteran's Park.

"Geneticists estimate that one in every 20 Americans is an unknowing and symptomless carrier of the gene which can cause CF in a child," says Roland Saul, president of the Hereford CF Chapter. "If a child receives a CF gene from each of two unsuspecting gene carriers, the child has a 25 percent chance of being born with cystic fibrosis," says Saul.

"Because carriers don't show any signs of CF, and because a reliable carrier test is not yet available, a person's carrier status isn't recognized until he or she becomes the parent of a child with CF," according to Saul. "The Foundation is funding research to find an effective carrier test and to find a cure for cystic fibrosis," he explains.

Accurate early diagnosis is sometimes difficult, according to Saul. "CF symptoms mimic other lung and digestive disorders such as chronic bronchitis, allergy and asthma," he said. Because of this, the Foundation estimates that only one of every two to three individuals with CF is accurately diagnosed in any given year.

The signs of CF include a salty taste of the skin, recurrent wheezing, persistent coughing with excessive mucus, pneumonia more than once, excessive appetite with poor weight gain, and enlargement of the fingertips. Additional signs include persistent, bulky diarrhea and nasal polyps.

For more information about cystic fibrosis or the bike-a-thon, write the Hereford Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at 4th Floor Deaf Smith County Courthouse, Hereford, Tx. 79045, or call 364-3700.

Stained glass program given at club meeting

Members of La Madre Mia Study Club met in the home of Georgia Sparks recently and viewed a program on making stained glass presented by Bub Sparks.

Jeri Bezner served as co-hostess for the meeting. Jessie Ann Davis was welcomed as a guest.

Members in attendance were Joyce Allred, Carolyn Baxter, Ms. Bezner, Beverly Bryant, Janice Faulkner, Sarah Hazelrigg, Betty Lady, Sandra Martin, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen.

Also, Jenna Simons, Tricia Sims, Ms. Sparks, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Mary Beth White, Judy Williams, and Pat Walsh.

Missouri has endeared itself to generations of Americans with its river lore, folk tales, and especially the writings of Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens). Statues of two of his creations, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, stand in Hannibal, his boyhood home. His birthplace near Florida, Mo., has been enshrined in Mark Twain State Park.

The Newspaper BIBLE

DON'T WORRY ABOUT IT!

The crowds grew until thousands were milling about and crushing each other. Jesus turned now to His disciples and warned them, "More than anything else, beware of these Pharisees and the way they pretend to be good when they aren't. But such hypocrisy cannot be hidden forever. It will become as evident as yeast dough."

"Whatever they have said in the dark shall be heard in the light, and what you have whispered in the inner rooms shall be broadcast from the housetops for all to hear:

"Dear friends, don't be afraid of those who want to murder you. They can only kill the body; they have no power over your souls. But I'll tell you whom to fear—fear God who has the power to kill and then cast into hell.

"What is the price of five sparrows? A couple of pennies? Not much more than that. Yet God does not forget a single one of them. And He knows the number of hairs on your head! Never fear, you are far more valuable to Him than a whole flock of sparrows.

"And I assure you of this: I, the Man from Heaven, will publicly honor you in the presence of God's angels if you publicly acknowledge Me here on earth as your Friend. But I will deny before the angels those who deny Me here among men. (Yet those who speak against Me may be forgiven—while those who speak against the Holy Spirit shall never be forgiven.)

"And when you are brought to trial before these Jewish rulers and authorities in the synagogues, don't be concerned about what to say in your defense, for the Holy Spirit will give you the right words even as you are standing there."

Luke 12:1-12

Lawmakers hear bills to limit insanity defense

AUSTIN (AP) — The case of a woman who was acquitted after admitting she cut out her child's heart prompted one legislator to ask his colleagues to restrict use of the insanity defense in criminal cases.

Both the Texas Senate and House Jurisprudence Committees heard proposals Tuesday that would limit defendants to only one line of defense and make them prove they suffered from "severe" mental illness when they committed the crime. Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said he began researching the subject after a jury in 1981 acquitted Patricia Ann Frazier, who testified she cut out her baby girl's heart because she believed the child was possessed by evil spirits.

Farabee told senators his bill covers only crimes involving "serious bodily injury" and says defendants must show they did not know that what they did was illegal because they suffered from serious mental illness.

Under current law, defendants can try to prove either that they did not know the was against the law or that they were incapable of controlling their behavior to the law because of mental illness — not necessarily "severe." Farabee said he wanted the law to apply to "the psychopathic as opposed to the sociopathic."

He said, however, current Texas law is better than the federal law under which attempted presidential assassin John Hinckley was acquitted. Under federal law, the prosecution must prove the defendant was sane.

Under Texas law, said Farabee, "the burden has always been on the defendant both to set up the (insanity) defense and then prove it."

The bill would require a court hearing before an institution could release someone who had been acquitted by reason of insanity. A judge could then require "out-patient" care as a requirement of probation.

Defense lawyer Clifford Brown of Lubbock testified against portions of Farabee's bill and cautioned legislators not to act hastily in the wake of "post-Hinckley" sentiment against the insanity defense.

Brown said the Hinckley jurors acted "with much fortitude" in acquitting him and that their action "speaks strongly for our system of justice.

"Compassion for our fellow human being dictates that we give these few the benefit of the doubt," said Brown.

He also faulted Farabee's requirement that a defendant be found to have been "severely" mentally ill.

"It may be a distinction without a difference," said Brown. He compared the fact of mental illness to the fact of pregnancy — "Are they a little bit pregnant or severely pregnant?"

Farabee told reporters later he thought the distinction was important.

"Used to be either you were the village idiot or you were okay," Farabee said. "Now there is a range of mental illness."

Harris County Assistant District Attorney Rusty Hardin testified in favor of the bill, but suggested adding a provision that would allow a jury to find that the defendant did commit the crime, yet still rule that the defendant was insane. The House Jurisprudence Committee also heard testimony on a companion measure sponsored by Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman.

Farabee's bill was referred to a subcommittee and scheduled to return to the full committee next week when it could be cleared for the Senate floor.

Human fly rides high on attention of admirers

HOUSTON (AP) — A self-styled "urban mountaineer" continued to fly high a day after scaling the tallest building in Houston, reveling in the attention of women drawn by his easy manner and good looks to a party in his honor.

"I've fallen in love with Houston and I certainly intend to come back — not to climb buildings, just to visit," said Ron Broyles, spotless in a new white tuxedo Tuesday night as he dined at a downtown restaurant which threw the feast.

The suit was a copy of the tuxedo he wore during his climb. Broyles, a 29-year-old Los Angeles stunt man, attracted the attention of thousands and won the hearts of many Monday by using specially designed wedges to inch his way up the window washer track of the Texas Commerce Tower, a 75-story structure downtown.

Many of the 60 people who attended the party were women office workers who had held up signs bearing their phone numbers and invitations for dates as Broyles passed their windows on his ascent.

"This is exciting for us," said Brenda Evans, 29, during the climb. "It breaks the monotony."

Broyles was arrested by police officers waiting for him at the conclusion of his 18-hour, 993-foot journey. He was charged with trespassing, a misdemeanor, and freed on $800 bond. An arraignment was set for March 22.

Officials of Harry's Kenya restaurant declined to let a reporter enter the room where a smaller dinner party was under way after the initial after-work blowout. Both were designed as publicity for the restaurant, an official said.

Broyles said he was flattered by the flood of affection which came his way.

"I'm doing all right," he said, asked how many dates he had lined up. "I've got until Friday" to keep them, he said.

"I feel like what I've done was appreciated by them at a certain level," he said. "I reached out and touched them at a certain point."

Judy Nichols-Cates, a public relations agent for the restaurant who arranged the party, said she feared when she began inviting office workers from the building that "I was going to have multitudes there."

But she said that of all the women eager to show their phone numbers and scream out the windows, "not too many were actually willing to show up."

Hundreds of spectators cheered and honked horns when Broyles ended his trek by swinging himself onto the roof. He began his climb at 4:30 a.m. and finished at 10:44 p.m. Officials said he was not noticed until he was at the eighth floor, beyond the reach of fire department ladders.

Jim Martin, a member of Broyles' ground crew, said the climber has scaled three other buildings, including the 732-foot Peachtree Plaza Hotel in Atlanta. He failed in an attempt to climb the Transamerica Tower in San Francisco, Martin said.

George Willig scaled the 110-story south tower of the World Trade Center in New York May 27, 1977. Daniel Goodwin of Kennebunkport, Maine, climbed the 110-story Sears Tower in Chicago May 26, 1981.

Don't cook on copper

DEAR POLLY — The inside lining of my copper pans is wearing out. Where can this lining be replaced? Is it dangerous to cook directly on the copper? — MRS. A.P.L.
DEAR MRS. A.P.L. — You definitely should not use copper pans that are unlined or on which the lining is wearing thin. I assume the lining of your pans is tin, since it is the most common lining and the one that is most likely to wear down. While I can't give you the name of a copper repair shop in your area, I can suggest that you check with a local cookware dealer or the manager of the cookware department in your favorite department store for a recommendation. Most large cities do have some shop that will repair and retin copper cooking pots. You can also look in the Yellow Pages under "Copper Products." — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Some time ago, I married a wonderful man with two children, aged 12 and 9. At first, we had a major problem getting the kids to eat the food we prepared for dinner. After many disturbing mealtimes, we decided to buy a children's cookbook and have everyone take turns cooking dinner for the family one night a week. The kids often produce more nutritious meals than the adults. It also lessens the load on working parents. And because the kids are more likely to eat the food they prepare themselves, we are more likely to have positive, pleasant mealtime discussions.

An important part of the agreement is that each person must be responsible for wasting food by not following directions closely. If a meal is ruined, the cook has to pay for the food and start over, making another meal. In our family, we decided to take this idea a step further. Each member makes a shopping list once a month, buying groceries for one week at a time. By doing this, the kids are learning to make decisions and compare prices. By the way, they're also learning to love to cook. — JUDY B.

DEAR JUDY B. — Your Pointer solves so many problems and provides such a rich learning experience for not only your kids, but their parents as well, that I can't fail to name it the Pointer of the Week. Perhaps you, your husband, and your two children will all enjoy your autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer.

Child walking to gain strength for operation

HOUSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old candidate for a heart transplant abandons her wheelchair for part of each day and walks in an effort to gain strength for an operation which could save her life, her father says.

Sharon Stohler, of Anderson, Ind., began the mild exercise last week at the advice of doctors at Texas Children's Hospital, David Stohler said Tuesday. It was the first time she had moved without the chair since her release from an Indiana hospital Dec. 9, he said.

A team of doctors is conducting tests to see if Sharon is a likely candidate for a heart transplant. Stohler said results of a heart biopsy, which will search for inflammations and tell doctors the organ's tissue type, are expected Wednesday.

"There are two sides to the problem — it's risky for her to walk, but at the same time, she's losing muscle tone, including the heart muscle," Stohler said. He said doctors in Indiana felt walking would place an unnecessary strain on Sharon's heart.

"She walks in her room or to the nurse's station and back. I'm really not sure how far that is — not very far," Stohler said.

Testing began after the child and her parents arrived from Indiana March 9.

"As far as we know, everything is going well," he said. Stohler said tests were originally scheduled for completion Wednesday, but added that they appeared to be behind schedule.

Sharon entered an Indiana hospital Nov. 23 suffering from what proved to be a degenerative heart disease. Her parents said doctors have told them she could die in eight months without a transplant.

Sharon showed no signs of disease before the November illness, said her mother, Barbara.

Doctors at Stanford University Medical Center said in late February they felt Sharon was too small to receive a transplanted heart. The team here is willing to operate in spite of her size if other signs are optimistic, he said.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Treating low potassium

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like some information about low potassium. What are the symptoms, causes and results if left untreated? My doctor put me in the hospital and found my potassium was extremely low. He got it built up, then released me and did not put me on potassium.

I feel as if it is low again. Is it safe to take potassium tablets that can be purchased at a health food store? Can you take too much potassium? Is there something else I can do to build up my potassium?

DEAR READER — If your potassium was low enough to cause you to be in the hospital it would be important to know why. The most usual cause of a low potassium level is from some of the diuretics used to eliminate excess sodium and water retention or to control elevated blood pressure.

Diarrhea, poor absorption from the digestive tract and excess use of some laxatives may be a cause. When the cause can be determined, as from diuretics, eliminating the cause, such as stopping the medicine, may be all that is necessary. In that case the doctor would not ask you to continue taking potassium.

Low potassium levels may lead to muscular weakness, dilated intestines (ileus) and heart irregularities. Potassium is essential to normal cellular function.

Yes, if a person has a low potassium level or low intake, a salt substitute that contains potassium can be beneficial. Fruits and fruit juices are nature's best source of potassium. Three 8-ounce glasses of orange juice a day provide as much potassium as is commonly prescribed in various potassium supplement medicines. Bananas are also a good source.

It is considered to be an autoimmune disease, meaning a type of an allergic response to your own body. It may also have an inherited aspect and may or may not be associated with arthritis and some other diseases that may also be autoimmune diseases. Your diet has nothing to do with it. But you probably have some problems swallowing dry foods if you have a lot of dry mouth problems. The treatment at this point is usually limited to trying to combat the dryness. Artificial tears are used for dry eyes. During sleep, some use diving goggles or plastic wrap to try to prevent evaporation of moisture. Steroid hormones and even immunosuppressive agents have been used in severe cases.
