Weed district vote still set . . for now

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Despite legal action initiated by J.W. McMorries Jr. yesterday, officials are continuing with the administration of a noxious weed district election slated for this Saturday.

numerous telephone calls in support of his action. "I'm not saying I'm for or against a weed district," McMorries said.

way farms near Dawn. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, pigweed alone costs the nation $801 million each year in agricultural losses.

During an attempt to begin legal action in federal court Wednesday, McMorries learned that the case would need to be filed with the 222nd District Court at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse in Hereford.

State law provides for an assessment of a maximum of six cents per acre on land within a weed district for the administration of that district.

For example, weed district taxes are levied on a per acre basis. City property is not measured by the acre.

Captors extend deadline for American hostage

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The kidnapers of Joseph James Cicippio today extended a deadline to kill him by four hours after the American hostage appealed for the immediate release of a Shiite Moslem cleric held in Israel.

The deadline extension came amid a flurry of diplomatic activity aimed at canceling the death threat.

heading for the Mediterranean, and Sheik Abbas Mousawi, a senior leader of the Iran-supported group Hezbollah, suggested today that his group would launch a new wave of terrorism if an attack takes place.

Cicippio's appeal was made in a videotape released by the Revolutionary Justice Organization along with a statement that said the deadline had been postponed until 10 p.m. (3 p.m. EDT).

Hezbollah is Iran's main ally in Lebanon and is believed to be the umbrella organization for Shiite Moslem factions holding foreign hostages.

U.S. warships were reported

As the deadline approached today, a top U.S. envoy met with Israeli officials in Jerusalem, and a U.N. envoy was in Lebanon to investigate Monday's reported slaying of U.S. Marine Lt. Col. William Higgins.

supplies drinking water to 430,000 West Texans.

Bentsen said the project would cost about $6.4 million but the federal portion would only be about $2 million.

Drought cycles have produced chloride levels as high as 400 milligrams per liter, while health and environmental agencies generally recommend maximum chloride levels of 250 milligrams per liter for drinking water, Bentsen said.

They slashed the Star Wars request by $1.8 billion and deleted $502 million intended to help make the MX a mobile missile.

As the Senate completed work on the bill, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., decried the ever-mounting spending for the military.

Economic indicators dip again

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government said today that its chief economic forecasting gauge fell in June for the fourth time in five months, providing fresh evidence that the U.S. economy is entering a period of sluggish growth.

Traditionally, the signal for an economic downturn has been three consecutive monthly declines in the leading index.

Some forecasters, however, now believe the economy is on the verge of a recession, even if the index has not yet dropped for three consecutive months.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, August 3, the 215th day of 1989. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On August 3, 1492, Christopher Columbus set sail from Palos, Spain, with three ships - the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria - on a voyage that would take him to the New World.

On this date:

In 1914, Germany declared war on France at the outset of World War I.

In 1921, baseball commissioner Kenesaw Landis refused to reinstate the former Chicago White Sox players implicated in the Black Sox scandal, despite their acquittals in a jury trial.

In 1923, Calvin Coolidge was sworn in as the 30th President of the United States, following the death of Warren G. Harding.

In 1936, the U.S. State Department urged Americans in Spain to leave because of that country's civil war.

In 1943, during World War II, Gen. George S. Patton slapped a GI at an army hospital in Sicily, accusing him of cowardice.

In 1948, Whittaker Chambers, a former Communist, publicly accused former State Department official Alger Hiss of having been part of a Communist underground, a charge Hiss has always denied.

In 1949, the National Basketball Association was formed by a merger of the Basketball Association of America and the National Basketball League.

In 1958, the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus became the first vessel to cross the North Pole under water.

In 1977, death claimed Archbishop Makarios, president of the island nation of Cyprus since its beginning in 1960, at age 63, and Broadway star Alfred Lunt at age 84.

In 1981, U.S. air traffic controllers went on strike, defying a warning from President Reagan that they would be fired if they did not return to work.

In 1987, the congressional Iran-Contra hearings ended, with none of the 29 witnesses tying President Reagan directly to the use of arms-sales profits for the rebels fighting in Nicaragua.

Ten years ago: Chrysler Corporation, plagued by record losses, asked the United Auto Workers union for an unprecedented two-year freeze on wages and benefits, a proposal immediately rejected by UAW president Douglas Fraser.

Five years ago: At the Los Angeles Summer Olympics, Mary Lou Retton won the gold medal in the individual all-around event in women's gymnastics by nailing a perfect 10 on the vault in her final routine.

One year ago: The Soviet Union released Mathias Rust, the young West German pilot who had landed a light plane in Moscow's Red Square in May 1987. Striking screenwriters reached a tentative agreement with motion picture and television producers, effectively ending a 150-day walkout.

Today's Birthdays: Former Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., is 88. Author Leon Uris is 65. Singer Tony Bennett is 63. Actor Martin Sheen is 49. Movie director John Landis is 39.

Vacationers Evacuate Caribbean

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - Islanders from Puerto Rico to the eastern Caribbean boarded up windows and stocked up on emergency supplies today in preparation for the onslaught of Hurricane Dean and its 85 mph winds.

Dozens of vacationers at a resort in the British Virgin Islands were among those evacuated, and the National Guard in Puerto Rico prepared to evacuate nearly 2,000 others living along flood-prone areas in the east part of the island.

Dean, the second hurricane of the Atlantic season, strengthened overnight as it moved irregularly in a west-northwest course through the Leeward Island chain, avoiding striking the nearest island, Barbuda.

By late Wednesday it began veering northwest, giving many residents and vacationers hope the hurricane would harmlessly go out to sea. But just as quickly, the hurricane darted back west and toward land.

"This is dangerous storm and should not be taken lightly even though it is a minimal hurricane," said an advisory from the National Weather Service in San Juan.

Police were on alert and at least 60 American and Canadian vacationers were evacuated late Wednesday to hotels from a marina resort on the east coast of Tortola in the British Virgin Islands.

The National Hurricane Center near Miami posted hurricane warnings for the Leeward Islands from Antigua to the U.S. Virgin Islands, Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico.

At 6 a.m., forecasters reported the center of the storm was at latitude 19.3 north and longitude 62.5 west. Its latest position was 235 miles east-northeast of Puerto Rico.

The hurricane was moving west-northwest over warm tropical waters at 12 mph, down from the 20 mph it had sustained much of Wednesday. Forecasters said further strengthening was possible today.

In some parts of Russia people used to roll around in the fields in the hope that this would encourage the crops to grow.

Traders charged

CHICAGO (AP) - Indictments of 46 commodities traders represent only the opening salvo in the government's crackdown on corruption at the world's two largest futures exchanges, according to the prosecutor.

"This is an ongoing investigation," U.S. Attorney Anton Valukas told reporters Wednesday.

"This is the first step in what we will be doing," he said, adding the investigation "will continue as long as there are viable allegations of misconduct."

After a 2½-year undercover FBI investigation, 46 traders at the Chicago Board of Trade and Chicago Mercantile Exchange were accused of systematically conspiring to skim profits from customer accounts and attempting to hide earnings from the Internal Revenue Service.

"This probe is part of an expanding Department of Justice crackdown on white-collar crime in all its various guises, from Wall Street to (Chicago's) LaSalle Street to Main Street with all stops in between," said U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, who came to Chicago to announce the indictments.

"The activities uncovered at these exchanges, the largest of their type in the world, cannot be tolerated."

The four separate indictments, covering 1,275 pages and 608 counts, allege that brokers trading for their own accounts as well as customers' accounts systematically and illegally cheated customers with the cooperation of "locals" - traders trading only for their own accounts.

Sixteen of the defendants were charged with violating the federal Racketeer Influenced, Corrupt Organizations Act, which carries the stiffest penalties, up to 20 years in prison. These charges also empower the government to freeze defendants' assets before trial for seizure upon conviction.

Most of those indicted are charged with multiple counts such as pre-arranged trading, racketeering conspiracy and income tax fraud in schemes that allegedly bilked hundreds of customers out of profits in thousands of trades, said Valukas.

He wouldn't say how much money customers may have lost to the alleged fraud but called the amount "significant."

Fourteen of those charged have agreed to plead guilty and cooperate with investigators, according to government sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Some futures traders and defense lawyers characterized most of those indicted as small-time players and guessed that the government was using them to net bigger prey.

"These appear to be small fish who extended the rules and regulations at times that Big Brother was watching," said one trader who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

Attorney Thomas Royce, representing indicted Japanese yen futures trader Gary Wright, said he expects the investigation to widen.

"The government doesn't spend millions - as they did here - and bring in the attorney general and the FBI director if they're only seeking 46 guys," he said.

Thornburgh, FBI Director William Sessions and Wendy Gramm, chairman of the federal Commodity Futures Trading Commission, flew into Chicago for the news conference.

Ms. Gramm called the indictments the "first results of the most extensive and aggressive law enforcement effort in the financial area, ever."

Four undercover FBI agents secretly tape-recorded, observed and even participated on exchange floors in the illegal transactions, the indictments say.

Futures are contracts to buy or sell by a future date at a specified price commodities and financial instruments such as soybeans, pork bellies, Treasury bonds and baskets of stocks.

The charges involve trading in the Swiss franc and Japanese yen currency futures pits at the Chicago Merc and in the U.S. Treasury bond and soybean futures pits at the Board of Trade.

Rohrer's recovery impresses coaches

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - About this time last year Jeff Rohrer was in a hospital bed being told he would never play again in the NFL.

The Dallas Cowboys' linebacker apparently wasn't paying close attention to his doctors' predictions.

Here he is in training camp delivering body-jarring tackles without a disc in his back.

"It (the disc) had deteriorated and slipped so bad that they just took hole thing out," Rohrer said. "It had been hurting for three years. I was ready for it to go."

Rohrer has impressed the new Cowboys' coaching staff with his quick recovery.

"Physically he is at 100 per cent," coach Jimmy Johnson said of the 6-2, 222-pound six year veteran from Yale. "In fact, he ran a 4.8 in the 40 which is pretty good for a linebacker.

"Now, it's must a matter of Jeff adjusting to our system. Jeff is in a battle to make this team because he didn't play a year ago. We also have a lot of linebackers."

Rohrer would like to make the team because he likes the aggressive style of defense the Cowboys will play under the new regime.

"It will be fun to line up and go after everybody," he said. "I love this type of football. The change couldn't be better for me. It's my kind of football."

Rohrer said he resisted any temptation to take it easy while he tests his back.

"I'm not messin' around," he said. "I'm not out here to play patty cake. I want my job back from Ron Burton."

Rohrer recalls the final hours before he operation as shot full of apprehension.

"My left leg was numb and my right leg wasn't working," Rohrer said. "Now, I've got all my feeling back. Still, at the time the doctors told me I'd be better off chasing women the rest of my life than running backs."

Rohrer is considered one of the more cerebral Cowboys' and quickly picked up the complicated flex defense of former coach Tom

"The flex was like being in a fist fight and doing Algebra at the same time," Rohrer said. "Sometimes we would switch defenses five times before the ball was snapped. In this defense we won't audible as much."

Now, Rohrer has to convince Johnson that he doesn't have a damaged linebacker on his hands.

"If they give me a strong chance I'll show 'em," he said.

St. Jude goes off on new TPC layout

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Defending champion Jodie Mudd leads a charge into the unknown as the PGA Tour tackles the new Tournament Players' Course at Southwind in the opening round of the $1 million Federal Express St. Jude Classic.

Mudd went into the record book last year as the last winner of the tournament at Memphis' Colonial Country Club.

Now the Kentuckian attempts to become the first to win over the 7,006-yard, par-71 TPC layout.

But no one was more apprehensive going into today's first round of the 72-hole tournament than Ron Prichard, who designed the course with assistance from PGA Tour pros Fuzzy Zoeller and Hubert Green.

"I feel there's a distinct personality to every hole ... right turns, left turns, ups and downs," Prichard said. "I think that what we really achieved was a golf course that will test every type of shot."

Prichard is hoping for a positive reaction from touring pros who have in the past said they don't like the PGA Tour's "stadium golf" concept.

"If you were an artist and had a one-man show of your work, you're always a little bit nervous as to what the viewer will think," Prichard said. "The course maintenance staff has done a great job getting the course ready. They've established a lot of the beauty I had seen in my mind's eye."

For Mudd, who will be defending a PGA title for the first time, winner would be cashing another

"It's going to be a whole new experience," said Mudd, one of the Tour's longest hitters despite his 5-foot-11, 150-pound frame.

Regarded as a loner during his formative years on the tour, Mudd, 29, admits he has some troubles adapting to the life of a professional golfer.

"I'm just an ol' public links player," Mudd said. "If you look at most players on the Tour, they're from a country club atmosphere. I was really uncomfortable with that for a couple of years. It took me a while to feel comfortable going into the locker room, having my shoes cleaned and stuff like that."

Mudd is one of 12 players in the St. Jude field who have won a tournament this season. Another is Leonard Thompson, who broke a 12-year winless streak last Sunday by capturing the Buick Open.

Six other former St. Jude champions - Larry Mize, Hal Sutton, Jerry Pate, Gibby Gilbert, Bob Eastwood and Mike Hulbert - also are among this year's field.

Info on Rose's betting nothing new

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - A lawyer for Pete Rose says baseball had a chance to act against the Cincinnati Reds manager over his admitted gambling on football games and failed to do so.

Roger Makley, one of the lawyers representing Rose in his battle with baseball Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti, said a story in Sunday's Washington Post in which Rose admitted betting on football games contained "no new information."

"That information was volunteered by Pete Rose to John Dowd (baseball's special counsel) in his deposition," Makley told the Dayton Daily News in a story published today.

"In my opinion, it's a non-issue. They had the opportunity to take action against Rose on that grounds before and chose not to do so," he said.

Rose also said in the Post interview: "If I'm not mistaken, there's a lot of money bet through bookmaking. So I'm not the only one who's doing something wrong."

When asked if betting with an illegal bookie was then wrong, Rose said, "Well, I guess I'd have to say it is if it's illegal. You're not supposed to do it."

Rich Levin, a spokesman for the commissioner's office, acknowledged that Rose's admission of betting on football through a bookmaker was contained in his deposition to Dowd.

"But this was in a public forum," Levin said. "The fact that he tells, in the newspaper, he admits that he uses bookmakers, that's certainly a different forum than talking about things in a deposition."

Makley disagreed. "They've released the John Dowd report with all of its supporting exhibits, making it a matter of public record," he said. "How is that different from someone being quoted in a newspaper article? To me, it's a distinction without a difference."

Under baseball's rules, if Rose is found to have bet on baseball, he can be suspended for a year. If he is found to have bet on his own team, he can be banned from baseball for life.

Since March, Giamatti's office has been investigating allegations that Rose bet on baseball games, including games played by the Reds. Rose's lawyers obtained a temporary restraining order June 25 preventing Giamatti from holding a hearing on the allegations until a hearing is held on Rose's lawsuit charging Giamatti with bias.

On Monday, Giamatti won a ruling in U.S. District Court in Columbus that keeps Rose's suit in federal court, instead of moving it back to Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in Rose's hometown of Cincinnati.

Baltimore rally halts slide

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Finally, the Orioles are headed in the right direction. Back to Baltimore with a one-game winning streak.

The Orioles put a perfect ending to a pathetic road swing, rallying to beat the Boston Red Sox 9-8 Wednesday night and stay in first place in the American League East.

Trailing 6-0 and held to four hits through five innings, the Orioles erupted for a season-high 17 hits. Baltimore stopped its five-game losing skid and ended Boston's five-game winning streak.

"Mentally, this was probably the biggest win we've had all year. We really needed this as a ball team," Manager Frank Robinson said.

In other games, Cleveland edged Milwaukee 1-0, Toronto trounced Kansas City 8-0, Oakland beat Chicago 2-0, California downed Seattle 7-0, Detroit defeated Texas 6-4 and New York split a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning the opener 7-6 and then losing 4-3 in 10 innings. Mickey Tettleton's 22nd homer started Baltimore's three-run sixth. Randy Milligan's three-run homer made it 6-all in the seventh and Cal Ripken's RBI double keyed a three-run eighth.

Nick Esasky, who had already tripled and doubled, hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth against Mark Williamson, 8-3. But Mark Thurmond relieved for the final out and his third save.

Angels 7, Mariners 0
Bert Blyleven pitched his 58th career shutout, tied for ninth place on the all-time list, and won his seventh consecutive decision.

Blyleven, 11-2, has not lost in 13 starts since May 20.

Tony Armas hit a home run and two doubles for the Angels. Bill Schroeder and Jack Howell also homered. Jerry Reed, 3-6, took the loss.

Athletics 2, White Sox 0
Storm Davis and two relievers stretched Oakland's scoreless streak to 21 innings.

Davis, 10-5, gave up five hits in five innings to join Dave Stewart, Mike Moore and Bob Welch on the only staff with four 10-game winners.

Gene Nelson pitched 2 2-3 innings and Rick Honeycutt got four outs for his 12th save.

Jose Canseco hit an RBI single in the first inning off Melido Perez, 7-12.

Indians 1, Brewers 0
In Milwaukee, Tom Candiotti outdueled Chris Bosio and Jerry Browne homered in the third inning.

Candiotti, 10-6, gave up six hits in eight innings and Jesse Orosco finished for his second save.

Bosio, 12-7, allowed six hits and struck out nine in his sixth complete game.

Blue Jays 8, Royals 0
John Cerutti pitched a two-hitter and recent New York Mets Lee Mazzilli and Mookie Wilson sparked the Blue Jays before 48,765 fans, the largest crowd ever in Toronto.

Cerutti, 8-5, did not allow a hit until George Brett doubled with one out in the seventh.

Mark Gubicza fell to 9-9. Mazzilli went 3-for-3 with a home run and two walks. He drove in two runs and scored twice. Wilson was 2-for-5 with a double. Fred McGriff hit his league-leading 28th home run.

Yankees 7, Twins 6
Twins 4, Yankees 3

Kirby Puckett went 5-for-10 in the doubleheader and doubled home the go-ahead run in the 10th inning of the second game that gave Minnesota a split.

In the opener, rookie Bob Geren's homer keyed a five-run rally in the seventh inning that gave New York the lead.

The Yankees scored three times in the eighth inning to tie the score in the second game and then loaded the bases with none out in the ninth. But David West, making his first appearance for the Twins since the trade that sent Frank Viola to the New York Mets, retired Hal Morris and Don Mattingly. Jeff Reardon, 4-2, then got Steve Balboni on a grounder.

Lance McCullers, 4-3, won the first game and Dave Righetti got his 17th save. Gary Wayne, 3-3, was the loser.

Tigers 6, Rangers 4

Rookie Kevin Ritz became the first Detroit pitcher in seven weeks to win consecutive starts.

Ritz, 2-1, gave up seven hits and struck out nine in his first major-league complete game.

Gary Ward hit a three-run homer in the first inning against Mike Jeffcoat, 5-4. Mike Heath added a two-run homer for the Tigers.

Viola gets win in Mets debut

By The Associated Press

The new uniform was a perfect fit for Frank Viola, and so was the ending of his first game with the New York Mets.

Viola won his debut with New York on Wednesday night when the Mets rallied for three runs in the ninth inning off relief ace Todd Worrell to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 at Busch Stadium.

"I felt very comfortable," Viola said. "When I put that uniform on, it felt part of me. I grew up a Met fan so the adjustment wasn't tough."

Until a trade Monday night, Viola had spent his entire career with the Minnesota Twins. He helped them win the World Series in 1987 and last season won the American League Cy Young Award with a 24-7 record.

Against St. Louis, Viola allowed four hits and two runs in eight innings. He struck out two and walked five.

One of his teammates on the 1987 Twins, outfielder Tom Brunansky, is now a member of the Cardinals.

"Frankie doesn't throw as hard as he did when we first came up, but he doesn't have to throw that hard when he puts the ball where he wants to," Brunansky said.

Elsewhere in the NL it was Montreal 3, Pittsburgh 1; Philadelphia 6, Chicago 0; Cincinnati 5, Houston 2; San Diego 9, Atlanta 7, and Los Angeles 7, San Francisco 4.

With two outs in the ninth and the Cardinals leading 2-1, Keith Hernandez delivered a pinch double off Worrell that was misplayed by left fielder Vince Coleman.

Mark Carreon pinch-ran for Hernandez and Juan Samuel doubled in the tying run.

The Cardinals walked Howard Johnson and Darryl Strawberry intentionally to load the bases and Kevin McReynolds, who hit for the cycle on Tuesday, broke the tie with a two-run single.

Dodgers 7, Giants 4

First-place San Francisco lost two starting pitchers and fell to Los Angeles in Tommy Lasorda's 2,000th game as manager of the Dodgers. With the victory, Lasorda improved his lifetime record to 1,070-930.

Earlier in the day, the Giants placed 13-game winner Rick Reuschel on the 15-day disabled list with a strained right groin and starter Altee Hammaker left the game against the Dodgers with a sprained left knee joint in the top of the third inning. Afterwards, the Giants placed Hammaker on the 21-day DL.

Eddie Murray drove in three runs with a two-run single and a bases-loaded walk in support of rookie Ramon Martinez, 3-0.

Expos 3, Pirates 1
Pascual Perez allowed one run in eight innings and Spike Owen hit a two-run homer.

Tim Burke pitched a perfect ninth for his 23rd save.

Rick Reed, 0-2, allowed seven hits in seven innings.

Phillies 6, Cubs 0
Ken Howell pitched a three-hitter for his first major-league complete game and Dickie Thon hit two homers and drove in three runs.

Howell, a reliever with Los Angeles for parts of four seasons before coming to the Phillies this year, struck out nine and walked one.

Scott Sanderson, 9-7, lasted 2 1-3 innings for Chicago, allowing four hits and five runs.

Reds 5, Astros 2
Ron Robinson, who spent more than a year on the disabled list, won for the first time this season and rookie Joe Oliver had a two-run single.

Robinson, 1-1, was making only his fifth appearance since returning from elbow surgery. The injury kept him out from June 28 of last year until July 7. He pitched 5 2-3 innings and allowed John Franco got his 25th save.

The Reds snapped a scoreless tie in the fourth with three runs off left-hander Jim Deshaies, 10-5.

Padres 9, Braves 7

Jack Clark, who has struggled most of the season, had his first four-hit game of the year, drove in four runs and capped a five-run seventh inning with a three-run homer.

The victory went to Bruce Hurst, 10-8, who gave up four hits in six innings. Mark Davis pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his 27th save in 30 opportunities.

Mark Eichhorn, 3-3, gave up the five runs in the seventh.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For years I've watched your column serve as an escape valve, a place to unburden oneself without fear of embarrassment or recrimination. And now it's my turn.

I have been overendowed in the chest area since my early teens. For the life of me I can't understand what makes people think they have the right to make personal comments about another person's body. I would never dare say to a co-worker or acquaintance, "You certainly do have a large nose," or "I've never seen such huge ears." Yet several people I work with, as well as casual acquaintances, seem to think it's all right to make comments about the size of my chest. (Recently, while waiting to be helped in the lingerie section of a department store, a total stranger standing next to me said, "Life is so unfair. I could sure use a little of what you have too much of.")

To the young woman who was trying on dresses in the next fitting room, I would like to say, "No, I am not lucky. I have a devil of a time getting bras that fit. I must special order them and wait for months, and even then they aren't right. And you should see my shoulders at the end of the day. The ridges are half an inch deep where the straps have cut me."

To those oafs who have asked, "Are they real?" I would like to say once and for all, "Of course they are. You don't think I would choose this size, do you?"

Thanks for letting me spout off, Ann. I feel better already.--No Name, City or State

DEAR NO NAME, CITY OR STATE: I hope you feel better now that you've unloaded. That's what I'm here for. Have you considered breast reduction surgery? If not, I recommend it. Ask your family doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon who specializes in this field. You will feel truly liberated.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Carmelita and I were married in December of 1988. At the wedding party were Carmelita's brother Juan and his best friend, Carlos. I had never met Carlos before but Carmelita asked me, as a favor to her brother, if Carlos could be invited because he was eager to come to the United States. I said OK. (He lives in San Juan.)

During the reception and dinner I noticed that Carlos kept pestering the photographer to take pictures of him with Carmelita's beautiful younger sister, Maria. When the photos came back there were at least two dozen pictures of the lovely Maria and this guy.

Several months later we learned that Carlos showed those pictures to everyone he knew and said Maria was his "secret bride."

We are all furious about this, especially so because Maria wants to take a year of college in the city where Carlos lives, but she doesn't know how things will be for her socially because of the lies that Carlos has told.

Please tell me what we can do to get things straight. Would it be possible for us to get her photo in the paper and identify her as a single woman? This would surely make a liar out of Carlos. Will you help us with your newspaper connections?--R and C in Brooklyn

DEAR R AND C: No newspaper would print the picture and I wouldn't ask.

Meanwhile, why waste your time trying to make a liar out of Carlos when he has already done such a good job of making a liar out of himself?

Maria should not concern herself with such nonsense. It is not her problem. It's Carlos'.

HAVE FUN at the Movies

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

Rob Reiner (Director) makes a successful imitation Woody Allen film; Billy Crystal turns in a wonderful comedic performance, and critics go wild. But guess what? The critics, mostly male, miss the real fun...

"WHEN HARRY MET SALLY": Starring Billy Crystal is a runaway smash hit, stolen (with all the bases loaded) by Meg Ryan. Thanks, in no small part, to the razor-sharp, insightful dialogue by scriptwriter Nora Ephron. In short, When Harry Met Sally, is really a movie about women, for women - with all of its subtle nuances best understood by women. Men will like it; there are a lot of good laughs in it for them. But they will not completely understand what Ms. Ephron is really saying. Her script is the most open, candid, uproarious observation by women, of men attempting to relate to them, since her semi-autobiographical film, Heartburn.

The only weak part of this otherwise explosive comedy is the constant reminder by its director of "how sensitive men (i.e. Rob Reiner) truly are." It just doesn't work. And while Billy Crystal's performance is being hyped, he is actually left way behind by Meg Ryan as she turns in one of the finest comedy (and dramatic) performances put down on film since Katharine Hepburn wowed audiences in Bringing Up

Baby. (Step down Miss Hepburn, your throne is safely in the hands of a super talent and you will be proud to pass the mantle). Meg Ryan gives an Academy Award performance (if that's any measure of talent) that will delight you. You will laugh, cry and shake your head in appreciation as she dances rings around Billy Crystal, and everyone else including the director, with her warmth; her sparkling charm, incredible timing, excellent phrase turning and compassionate perfection. This is a film that you will see over and over and as you do, Billy Crystal will fade away as Meg Ryan takes over your heart. The film covers a twelve-year span in the lives of Harry and Sally as their animosity towards each other turns to love.

When Harry Met Sally is an undisguised Woody Allen Annie Hall duplication with New York City made to look its romantic best, and an Annie Hall musical score. Even the Woody Allen documentary technique of actors talking to the audience is woven into the story - with the same great results.

One last Meg Ryan rave: she is absolute perfection in an indescribably hysterical scene that will leave you howling. This bit of comedy brilliance should go into the "Comedy Scenes Hall of Fame". Don't miss the fun...see this film. Women will laugh on a whole different level from the men, but both sexes will roar with enjoyment. Rated R...a deserved R and not for family viewing. Four Boxes.

"UHF": Rated PG-13. Upside-down Box

"SHAG": Rated PG. Upside-down Box. Two very bad, boring and dull movies.

RENTAL MOVIES

You've seen the imitation...now see the original...

"ANNIE HALL": (1977) Starring Woody Allen and Diane Keaton. Woody Allen's exquisite romantic comedy won the 1977 Academy Awards for Best Picture, Actress (Diane Keaton), Director (Allen), and Screenplay (Marshall Brickman and Allen). And every Oscar was well-deserved.

Annie Hall is delightful romp that features Woody Allen as Aluy Singer, a more assured version of Alan Felix from Play It Again, Sam, who falls in love with Diane Keaton (in the title role). It's a semi-autobiographical love story and one of Allen's best with incisive Allenisms on romance, relationships, fame, and New York City.

Diane Keaton gives the performance of her career - not equaled until her role in Crimes Of The Heart. (Unfortunately, she is often more remembered from this film for the Annie Hall "look" she started, rather than the character she created.)

The script is full of comic salvos with one-liners and sight gags paying off brilliantly. Annie Hall is a joy from start to finish; a witty and intelligent comedy. Look sharp and you'll spot a young Sigourney Weaver as Woody's date near the end of the picture. Rated PG. Four Boxes.

Since we are on the Woody Allen trail, also rent...

"PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM": (1972) Directed by Herbert Ross; starring Woody Allen and Diane Keaton. This delightful adaptation of Woody Allen's own play has Allen playing a movie columnist and feature writer who lives his life watching Humphrey Bogart movies. Humphrey Bogart is his idol. The film commences with the final scenes from Casablanca, as Allen's wife leaves him for a life of adventure. The story revolves around the unsuccessful attempts by his friends (Diane Keaton and Tony Roberts) to set him up with a girl. Allen, in fumbling attempts at courtship, is coached by the ghost of Bogart. What evolves is a procession of pointed, sometimes ironic, and generally humorous stabs at stereotypes and "manufactured" images. In a time when humor on film made you smile at best, this film was an oasis of sidesplitting humor - and still plays well. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

Now You're Cooking

By GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

"What we as 4-Hers learn, we give back to the community" is the philosophy of the Deaf Smith County 4-H chapter, and it is exemplified by such members as Jill Dutton and Jennifer Hicks.

The two senior 4-H members were among 2,840 top district competitors who met at the state level food show in College Station in early June. Dutton returned home with a fourth place award for her Scomboli recipe while Hicks earned fifth place with her entry of Wild Rice Chicken in Tomato Tulips.

The two Deaf Smith 4-Hers had competed at the county and district levels before advancing to state. They competed at state out of a field of 48 with 14 in each category of main dish, fruit and vegetable, breads and cereals, and snacks and desserts. Dutton's entry fell into the snacks and desserts category while Hicks' recipe was a main dish.

Dutton, 15-year-old daughter of Bill and Teresa Dutton, will be a sophomore in Hereford High School and is beginning her seventh year in 4-H.

"4-H has helped me meet new people who have similar interests and I can now get up in front of an audience without being scared," said the Hereford native. "4-H has also taught me to enjoy cooking while understanding the nutritional aspects of each recipe."

Indeed, 4-H strives to teach its members the interrelation of science, nutrition, and food preparation and the connection between good health and eating foods needed by different age groups. The youth should develop desirable eating habits and skills in buying foods by studying food costs while developing management skills in planning, preparing, and serving nutritious meals. 4-H urges youngsters to understand the social and cultural roles of food in daily living while developing leadership talents.

Dutton and Hicks were questioned by judges at the state food show about their recipe choice, its preparation, and nutritional analysis.

"I selected the Scomboli recipe because I've raised pigs and wanted to promote the pork industry," she said. "I once showed sheep but now I show pigs, and Scomboli made use of the pork."

The judges asked Dutton how to adjust this dish for special diets. "You can substitute low fat ham or turkey, skim mozzarella cheese, and can reduce the amount of oil used."

Hicks chose her chicken dish based on health reasons and economy. "My dad is on a hypoglycemic diet, so this recipe handles that requirement and has only 232 calories per serving," she said. "Also, it's easy to prepare and costs $1.16 per serving."

Turkey or pheasant can be substituted for the chicken in Hicks' recipe, and jicama or water chestnuts may be substituted for the celery to reduce the sodium content.

Hicks is the 15-year-old daughter of Mark and Susan Hicks. Now beginning her seventh year in 4-H, she will be a sophomore at Hereford High School.

A Hereford native, Hicks notes that 4-H has made her "more responsible and able to make my own decisions."

Dutton and Hicks have been among 91,000 youth who participated 4-H foods projects in the State of Texas in the past year spanning September to September, noted Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County extension agent for home economics.

The local 4-H chapter performs many activities and community services, said Harder. "We have a food processor II class featuring computer analysis, work with the Day Care nutrition program and conduct workshops for younger 4-Hers."

"We host a kids' cooking school each summer in conjunction with Southwestern Public Service Company and help with the KPAN cooking school. We've made aprons for the kitchen staff at King's Manor, serve refreshments for various activities, and serve at banquets."
