Comp vote may come on weekend

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislative leaders said the House and Senate will vote Saturday or Sunday on a workers' compensation bill and send it to Gov. Bill Clements.

"I hate to mess up anyone's weekend," said House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth. But he told House members Thursday a lost weekend was worth the price if legislators could finish workers' comp.

Lawmakers have been battling over the method of compensating workers injured in on-the-job accidents since January and currently are in special session after failing to reach an agreement during the 140-day regular session.

But Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said an agreement has been reached, and legislators were waiting on the approximately 300-page bill to be finalized to reflect that compromise.

"We're going to get a workers' comp bill out. The big differences in the House and Senate versions - we have been able to reach a compromise on those issues," Lewis said.

The major obstacles between the House and Senate were over how to resolve disputed workers' comp claims, how to calculate benefits and whether to require employers to purchase workers' comp insurance.

The House, backed by business, supported reducing litigation of comp claims and computing injury awards based on a specific benefits schedule. It had rejected proposals to mandate comp insurance coverage.

The Senate, supported by labor and trial lawyers, favored retaining the right to a jury trial, basing comp awards on lost wages, and requiring employers buy comp insurance.

Under the proposed agreement, disputed comp claims could be appealed to state district court, but out-of-court settlements would have to be approved by the administrative workers' compensation commission.

In addition, a joint House-Senate panel would oversee the formation of a benefits schedule, and employers would not be required to purchase comp insurance.

Under the agreement, the maximum weekly benefit check for an injured worker would increase from $238 to $416.

Making market plans

Market in Jubilee plan

One of the new events at this year's Town and Country Jubilee will be a farmer's market, featuring fruits, vegetables and other goods grown by local gardeners, on August 12.

The farmer's market will be located at the corner of Main and Sixth Streets, at the southwest corner of Dameron Park where the Jubilee will be centered.

Persons wishing to participate in the market should submit a $10 entry fee and register at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, at Seventh and Main, by August 9.

Vehicles, trucks or trailers must be in place by 9:30 a.m. on the 12th

(before the parade begins), and participants are urged to make a sign advertising their wares and incorporating this year's theme, "The Best of the High Country."

The farmer's market committee includes Argen Draper, Art Stoy, Clovis Seago, Louise Witkowski, Bertram Jack, Lewis Block, Pat Robbins and Garth Thomas.

Leaders mix partying, politicking in France

PARIS (AP) - Mixing politics with partying, leaders of the world's seven richest nations open their annual summit with talks on the economic struggles of Eastern Europe and the rigid repression of human rights in China.

Today's first session comes at the peak of three days of celebrations for the 200th birthday of the French Revolution. Before turning to more weighty matters, the leaders are to be VIP guests at a Bastille Day parade down the Champs Elysees, the most famous thoroughfare in Paris, and at a garden party and lunch at the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The 15th economic summit marks President Bush's debut at the annual gathering of the leaders of the United States, Japan, Britain, France, West Germany, Canada and Italy.

Bush hoped the meeting would let him assume the mantle of leadership on economic and environmental issues, much as he did on military matters in May with a troop reduction proposal at the NATO summit in Brussels.

Following his stops this week in Poland and Hungary, Bush planned to press for a coordinated economic aid program to reward the two Communist bloc nations for democratic reforms. Among other steps, Bush was expected to express support for new loans and debt rescheduling to ease the two countries' financial woes.

The suppression in China following the bloody crackdown in Tiananmen Square also was on the agenda, with the possibility that the summit might produce a strong condemnation of abuses of human rights.

The talk will turn to economics and other subjects on Saturday and Sunday. Bush was seeking an international agreement for tackling the problems of global pollution.

Other leaders had their own agendas.

Attempting to overcome a sex scandal which has shaken his government, Japanese Prime Minister Sosouke Uno came armed with nearly $40 billion in aid to improve the global environment and provide financial support to lessen the staggering $1.2 trillion debt burden carried by developing countries.

French President Francois Mitterrand has his own rival plan for Third World debt. So does Bush.

Nicholas Brady, Bush's treasury secretary, unveiled a new strategy March 10 to encourage commercial banks to voluntarily forgive a portion of developing nations' bad debt.

Bush planned to discuss the plan with Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari in a private meeting, and the United States hoped to win endorsement of the Brady formula when the summit concludes Sunday with a final communique.

Francois Mitterrand
French president

Salinas joined Thursday with leaders of some of the world's other most indebted nations to ask Mitterrand to arrange a summit of rich and poor nations to discuss international economic and environmental problems.

Security problems of protecting the "Big Seven" summit leaders were vastly compounded by the fact that more than 30 presidents and prime ministers were guests of Mitterrand for the bicentennial festivities.

Fanning out over an 80-mile circle around Paris, 30,000 security forces erected a protective cocoon around the leaders. While an observation blimp hovered over the crowds, sharpshooters kept watch from rooftops and troops armed with ground-to-air missiles kept an eye on the skies.

Even before the seven summit leaders assembled, there were cries of protest in the French press about the exclusion from tonight's black-tie dinner of chiefs of state from less economically powerful countries who were here for the bicentennial.

Mitterrand was serving as host for dinner for his summit partners at the Navy Ministry. In a different room in the same building, Mitterrand's wife, Danielle, and Premier Michel Rocard were giving a dinner for the less powerful leaders.

Mitterrand's aides argued it was unfair to portray him as the patron of the rich. They said he has consistently pressed for Third World debt relief at the "Big Seven" summits.

Former HUD aide seeking immunity

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional investigators eager to determine former Housing Secretary Samuel Pierce's role in abuses at his agency are mulling an offer by a former Pierce aide who reportedly would implicate him in the scandal.

Sources who spoke Thursday on the condition of anonymity said Deborah Gore Dean, who for three years was Pierce's top aide, has told a House panel that if granted immunity she could testify that Pierce personally approved funding for several projects in a program under scrutiny.

Meanwhile, two former HUD officials were to testify today before the panel about a North Carolina housing project that is the subject of questions about Pierce's involvement. Scheduled to testify were Shirley McVay Wiseman and Janet Hale.

A congressional source said the chairman of the House subcommittee on employment and housing, Rep. Thomas Lantos, D-Calif., has "an open mind" about making a deal with Ms. Dean but has made no decision.

Ms. Dean last month refused to answer questions from the subcommittee, invoking her Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. One of the sources said that if granted immunity Ms. Pierce was prepared to testify that Pierce ordered funding for numerous projects under the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation program.

The program was suspended briefly earlier this year and its selection guidelines rewritten after Department of Housing and Urban Development auditors criticized project selections. Auditors said influential Republicans had successfully lobbied HUD officials in favor of projects involving their clients.

Pierce told the subcommittee last month he had no direct role in HUD funding decisions. Since then, however, there have been reports that Pierce intervened on behalf of associates, including a former law partner who was seeking HUD financing for the North Carolina project.

Ms. Wiseman has said she quit her job as HUD's assistant secretary for housing because Pierce ordered her to fund the North Carolina project over the objections of other agency officials.

Pierce replaced Ms. Wiseman with Ms. Hale, now a specialist in the Office of Management and Budget, who in 1985 approved funding for the project.

Pierce has been recalled by the panel but a date for his appearance has not been set.

New HUD Secretary Jack Kemp said earlier this week that abuses at the agency during the Reagan administration - the period of Pierce's tenure - cost HUD in the "ballpark" of $2 billion.

A Kemp aide said Thursday that more than half of that amount, $1.1 billion, was believed to have been lost by just one program, a co-insurance venture administered by HUD's Federal Housing Administration.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post reported today that HUD hired attorney Peter E. Novick to head a program that had losses three years earlier estimated at $240,000. The paper said the losses occurred because Novick made false statements working as a settlement attorney in real estate transactions from 1982 to 1984.

Novick, 47, pleaded guilty May 25 in U.S. District Court to one count of making a false statement and has been ordered to report in mid-August to a halfway house to serve a one-year sentence, the paper said.

Novick had worked for HUD as an attorney before going into private practice. He was rehired by HUD in February 1987 after talking with Thomas Demery, then assistant secretary for housing.

FSLIC sells all, including 2 sinks

HOUSTON (AP) - Everything from hand-carved ivory elephant tusks to office furniture and even the kitchen sink heads for the auction block this weekend as federal regulators liquidate some 20,000 items seized from failed savings and loan associations.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. is hoping the four-day auction, which begins Saturday, will raise some $500,000. Proceeds will go back to the FSLIC in hopes of putting a dent in the government's cost of bailing out defunct savings and loan associations, a cost estimated last year alone at $40 billion.

"What you see are the signs of success that turned out to be the products of failure," auctioneer Mark Thomas, of Texarkana, Texas, said Thursday. "It's continuously surprising."

The auction is the first of four the agency is planning. Another is scheduled for next month in Dallas and the third will be in September again in Houston. The fourth one is not yet scheduled.

Among the 20,000 items are four large wooden elephants - two about 5 feet tall and two others slightly smaller - that at one time were kept in an Austin savings association office.

Bargain hunters this weekend will get to pick from the carcasses of 34 S&Ls - 32 from Texas and two from Oklahoma - that were placed in receivership last year, casualties of the energy and real estate collapse earlier in the decade.

Bids will be taken on everything from 30 cars and trucks, including a 1957 Bentley, to bank safes, desks and chairs, countless calculators and typewriters, computer terminals, paintings, sculptures, Japanese vases, a Persian rug and the three hand-carved ivory elephant tusks.

The Bentley doesn't run. Of the two kitchen sinks in the inventory, one likely will work. It's still in its original box. "This is a sign of the old times and once the cleanup is complete, hopefully we won't see this again," John Pace, manager of receivership activity for the FSLIC, said while surveying the Houston warehouse crammed with the items up for bid.

On Wednesday, the FSLIC said it had received $1.5 billion from asset sales last year, about $925 million from sales of non-real estate assets. Through May, the agency, which insures thrift deposits of up to $100,000, had liquidated another $309 million in assets and hopes to receive $5.9 billion in income over the next five years.

Officials expect several thousand people to participate in the bidding. In the first couple of hours Thursday that the warehouse was open for public inspection, at least 300 people had signed up.

"We're trying to outfit an office," Brian Steege, who works for a Houston oil and gas company, said as he inspected an executive desk set. "We're hurting. So we're looking for a bargain."

"I've bought office equipment at auctions before and come out good and bad," added Ed Gorman, a wholesale insurance broker. "When you buy it at 5 cents to the dollar, you can afford to come out bad once in a while. We've finished our whole office this way."

But Sharon Jones, who works for a Houston estate management company, was less than impressed. "Ninety percent of this is junk," she said. "Obsolete is a kind word." Pace kindly labeled the polished wood elephants "more or less an oddity."

He would not speculate on whether they would command a good price.

"We've had some people from the Republican Party call and hopefully they'll be interested," he said.

The writer says the beginnings of the Hall of Fame go back to 1975 "when the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors decided that Hereford, their county seat, needed an inspirational activity to foster civic pride. Hobby blasts SBOE, voc-ed AUSTIN (AP) - Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he is concerned about the fate of the sweeping 1984 education reforms in the hands of the elected State Board of Education.

"When the voters turned down the continuation of the appointed board, that was a step backward," he said after a Thursday meeting of the Legislative Education Board, which oversees the Board of Education.

"What this board has done has been to attempt with some degree of success to turn the clock back on progress toward quality in education in Texas," Hobby said.

Although he said there are "some very responsible" board members, Hobby strongly disagreed with the support given vocational education by Chairman Monte Hasie of Lubbock.

The board that was appointed to implement the 1984 reforms has given way to the elected board headed by Hasie.

Hobby said members of the board who "are against quality education" should resign, and he included Hasie in that group.

"I don't think he's done a good job, and as I indicated, I don't think he's complying with his oath of office," Hobby said.

Hasie said he has no plans to resign.

"To say that I'm against quality education - I'm real sorry he said that," Hasie said.

During the meeting, Hobby challenged Hasie concerning the board's vote to reinstate vocational education funding in the 7th and 8th grades through the Coordinated Vocational Academic Education program.

Legislative board members said opposition has been demonstrated through such actions as a letter from legislative leaders to the board and the defeat of a bill on the subject during the regular session.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, chairman of the legislative board, and others expressed concern that the program had been used as a "dumping ground" for students who are not strong academically.

Lewis recommended to Hasie that the Board of Education reconsider its vote to institute the program this school year. The Texas Education Agency staff had recommended stringent rules for CVAE be developed over the next year.

"You are under legislative oversight," Lewis said. He said he supports vocational education, but studies have indicated the CVAE program has not been successful.

The appointed board generally struck vocational education funding for junior high school programs, except in special education, said Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby.

Schools can use other state money and local funding to offer programs similar to CVAE, if they are meant as alternatives to social promotion. The program was meant to relate academic subjects to vocational training; for example, by demonstrating the use of mathematics in mechanical repair.

Hasie said he expects the item to be put on the board agenda at its September meeting.

"I think the CVAE program definitely has value. I feel like what their concern is that they be quality programs, and I agree with that," Hasie said.

"I'm hopeful that we can have a program at the junior high level that will be for kids that are in danger of dropping out, because of the fact that we have 87,000 kids dropping out, and over half of them are at the junior high level," he said.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 14, the 195th day of 1989. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Two hundred years ago, on July 14, 1789, citizens of Paris stormed the Bastille prison and released the seven prisoners inside, in the symbolic climax of the French revolution.

On this date:

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act, making it a federal crime to publish false, scandalous or malicious writing about the United States government.

In 1853, Commodore Matthew Perry relayed to Japanese officials a letter from former President Millard Fillmore, requesting trade relations.

In 1881, outlaw William H. Bonney Jr., alias "Billy the Kid," was shot and killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett in Fort Sumner, N.M.

In 1921, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were convicted in Dedham, Mass., in the killing of a shoe company paymaster and his guard. (Sacco and Vanzetti were executed six years later.)

In 1958, the army of Iraq overthrew the monarchy. In 1966, eight student nurses were murdered by Richard Speck in a Chicago dormitory.

In 1976, Jimmy Carter won the Democratic presidential nomination by an overwhelming margin at the party's convention in New York.

In 1978, Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky was convicted of treasonous espionage and anti-Soviet agitation, and sentenced to 13 years at hard labor. (Shcharansky was released in 1986.)

In 1982, the National League scored a 4-1 victory over the American League in Montreal for its 11th straight All-Star triumph, and 19th in 20 years.

In 1983, two members of Congress, Illinois Republican Daniel Crane and Massachusetts Democrat Gerry Studds, admitted having sexual relations with Congressional pages, and were later censured by the full House.

In 1986, a federal judge in Los Angeles sentenced Richard W. Miller - the only FBI agent ever convicted of espionage - to two life terms plus 50 years in prison for spying for the Soviet Union.

In 1987, the National League took 13 innings to defeat the American League, 2-0, in the 58th All-Star Game in Oakland, Calif.

Ten years ago: President Jimmy Carter ended his 10-day domestic summit at Camp David, Md., and returned to the White House to prepare a speech for the next evening.

Five years ago: New Zealand's Labor Party, led by David Lange, won a landslide election victory, ending conservative Prime Minister Robert Muldoon's nine-year tenure.

One year ago: Speaking before the U.N. Security Council, Iranian Foreign Minister Ali-Akbar Velayati denounced the U.S. downing of an Iranian jetliner over the Persian Gulf on July 3 as "a barbaric massacre." Vice President Bush replied that the USS Vincennes had fired in self-defense.

Today's Birthdays: Author Isaac Bashevis Singer is 85. Actor Terry Thomas is 78. Former President Gerald R. Ford is 66. Former CBS newscaster Douglas Edwards is 72.

Thought for Today: "Revolution is not a dinner party, nor an essay, nor a painting, nor a piece of embroidery; it cannot be advanced softly, gradually, carefully, considerately, respectfully, politely, plainly and modestly." - Mao Tse-tung (1891-1976).

Legislator: clean up acts

AUSTIN (AP) - If state legislators hope to win a pay raise from voters, they should stop accepting large gifts from lobbyists, a veteran House member suggests as a new report showed lobbyists spending $12,800 a day on lawmakers during the 1989 Legislature.

"The Legislature will never get a raise until we clean up our own house. These trips are absolutely ridiculous," said Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth.

"It's going to take action by the speaker, governor and lieutenant governor. If they don't clean it up one of these days, the voters are going to clean it up," Willis added.

His comments came as the Austin American-Statesman, in a copyright report Thursday, said lobbyists spent more than $1.8 million on entertainment and gifts for members of the Legislature during the 140-day regular session that ended May 29.

A public watchdog group said the time for reform may be near, noting that lawmakers this November will ask voters to triple their salaries.

"Members are extremely concerned about re-election, and they're willing to make strong commitments at this time because they see scandal brewing," said Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen.

Taking gifts from lobbyists - even trips to Europe, as some lawmakers have done - is legal under Texas law.

The law only requires lobbyists to report how much they spend. But they aren't required to detail who got the money, what it bought, or which of their clients ultimately may have footed the bills.

Willis, who says he routinely turns down lobbyists' perks, said many lawmakers who do take them are following a system where lobby largess is a tradition of sort.

Astros come back to split with Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - This hasn't exactly been a season to remember for Mark Davidson.

That was until Thursday night. Davidson hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning, triggering the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was only his third big-league homer.

The win came in the second game of a two-night doubleheader in which the Phillies won Game 1, 11-3, with the help of rookie Charlie Hayes' three-run double in a six-run third inning.

Davidson this season hit .177 for Portland in the Triple A Pacific Coast League.

Things started to get better for him after the Astros acquired him from the Minnesota Twins the first week in June and sent him to Tucson. There, he had a .357 hitting stretch in 21 games with six doubles, one triple and three homers.

The Astros liked what they saw and brought him up July 8.

He had three at-bats going into Thursday's second game against the Phillies. He popped up the first time.

But in his second appearance he sent a 1-1 pitch from Dennis Cook over the left-center field wall to give the Astros a 2-0 lead.

Davidson remembered Cook from Triple-A ball.

"He always gave me trouble," said Davidson after ripping Cook for his first NL hit and the Astros' first hit of the game.

Ken Caminiti started the Houston fifth with a walk, and after one out, Davidson hit his home run.

Alex Trevino then tripled and scored on pitcher Bob Forsch's infield out to make it 3-0.

"That first hit should help me relax," said Davidson, 28.

"I've been trying to be aggressive at bat," he added.

Davidson said he wasn't sure what the switch from the Minnesota system to Houston would mean to him.

"I don't know if it's a better chance, but it's a new look, a change of scenery."

Davidson said he had nobody to blame for his lack of success at Minnesota.

"You have to create your own breaks. I had not played well. Last year I had a late-season slump. I guess they just gave up on me."

Forsch, 39, evened his record at 2-2, going 6 1-3 innings, allowing four hits and no runs, striking out three and walking two. It was his 25th victory in his 15-year career over the Phillies, the most by any pitcher.

Reliever Danny Darwin took over with one out and runners at first and second, struck out Charlie Hayes and got Steve Jeltz on a pop to third.

Dave Smith pitched a scoreless ninth, but was breathing heavily at the end.

The Phillies loaded the bases with two out in the ninth on a pair of singles and an error by the usually sure-handed Bill Doran at second base.

Smith got pinch-hitter Ricky Jordan to pop out to Doran for the final out and Smith's 19th save in 20 attempts.

Cook, 3-3, took the loss for the Phillies, pitching 5 1-3 innings, giving up four hits and three runs, all in the fifth. He walked four.

Phillies manager Nick Leyva said Cook pitched well except for the one inning.

"I think he lost his concentration," Leyva said. "That's something I haven't seen him do. We have to make sure he doesn't do it again."

In the first game, Bruce Ruffin, 3-3, took another step in his comeback since being recalled from the minors as the lefthander won a third straight decision for the first time since July 1987.

Ruffin, who was optioned to the minors April 15, and returned June 2, allowed six hits, struck out three and walked four in six innings. He has been struggling with control problems for a season and a half.

Ruffin said he never got his rhythm.

"The game was dragging and every inning I went out there got harder. I've got to cut down on the walks. Four in 6 1-3 innings is too much. It's a lack of concentration."

Bob Knepper, 3-10, worked 4 1-3 innings in Game 1, giving up 11 hits and five walks for 10 earned runs, the most given up by the pitcher in his 12-year major-league career.

The Phillies sent 11 batters to the plate in the third inning for six hits and six runs, overcoming a 1-0 Houston lead on Glenn Davis' 17th home run of the season in the top of the inning.

Tom Herr singled home two runs, and Hayes hit his three-run double. Dickie Thon singled home Hayes to make it 6-1.

With runners at first and third and two out in the fourth, the Astros scored on a double steal. Craig Biggio racing home as Billy Hatcher took second.

The Phillies boosted it to 7-2 in the fourth on Jordan's RBI double, and made it 10-2 in the fifth on a bunt single by Thon, Steve Lake's triple, a triple by Len Dykstra and Bob Dernier's sacrifice fly.

Billy Hatcher singled home, an Astros' run in the sixth to make it 10-3, but Jordan's single and two errors by third baseman Caminiti in the sixth gave the Phillies their 11th run.

Rangers down Tribe, 9-3, in eleven

CLEVELAND (AP) - Julio Franco insists there are no hard feelings, no extra incentives, when he steps to the plate against his former Cleveland teammates.

His numbers seem to indicate otherwise.

Franco singled home the tiebreaking run during a six-run 11th inning Thursday night as the Texas Rangers beat the Indians 9-3. Franco went 2-for-five in the game and is hitting .406 against Cleveland.

"I put those things behind me," said Franco, who had a reputation as an unsettling influence during his six years as an Indian. "What they did, they thought was best for the organization. I'm glad they traded me, because Texas wanted me."

The Indians traded Franco to the Rangers for Pete O'Brien, Jerry Browne and Oddibe McDowell. O'Brien and Browne have played well, but McDowell started slowly and has since been traded away.

"I still talk with them (Cleveland's players)," Franco said. "It's fun being with them. But I love being in Texas."

He's hitting .334 with 64 RBIs for the Rangers, who have won four of their last five games. The Indians have lost three straight.

Cleveland scored single runs in the first and third innings on a pair of O'Brien RBI singles. The second one was his 1,000th career hit.

The Indians added a run in the fourth on Felix Fermin's RBI forceout.

They didn't have a runner in scoring position over the next seven innings against four Texas pitchers. Jeff Russell, 5-2, got the win by striking out the only batter he faced in the 10th.

Texas scored once in the second on Franco's double and twice in the fifth on consecutive RBI singles by Jim Sundberg and Cecil Espy. Espy had a career-high five hits.

"Our pitchers held them for 10 innings," Cleveland manager Doc Edwards said. "They made it sudden death for us in the ninth and the 10th, and we couldn't come through. We had from the fifth inning on to score one run, and we didn't."

The Indians are last in the league in scoring.

Cleveland starter Bud Black and Texas starter Bobby Witt both pitched well, Black giving up three runs on seven hits in seven innings and Witt going 8 2-3 innings, yielding three runs on six hits.

Rod Nichols, Cleveland's fourth pitcher, came on in the 11th and gave up a leadoff single to Espy. Two outs later, Espy stole second and continued to third as Andy Allanson's throw skipped into center field.

Ruben Sierra walked, and Franco then fought off an inside pitch and hit a grounder up the middle that made it 4-3. Franco stole second and scored on Pete Incaviglia's two-run single.

An error by Fermin at short on Steve Buechele's grounder extended the inning, and Jeff Kunkel singled to make it 7-3, finishing Nichols.

Espy, hitting for the second time in the inning, singled in the final two runs off Keith Atherton.

Nichols, 0-1, was making his first appearance of the year since being called up July 2.

"I thought I made a couple of good pitches when I had to," he said, noting that he broke Franco's bat on the game-winning hit.

"I shattered it," Nichols said. "To me, pitching's like one big video game. Each hitter's a new game, and I'm having fun. Sure, you're frustrated after that, but then it's a clean slate and a new hitter."

NFLPA pushes own plan

ATLANTA (AP) - The NFL Players Association wants a laboratory of its own choosing to test for drug use among players this year, but the league has declined to conduct simultaneous split-sample testing of players' urine.

Joe Browne, a spokesman for the NFL, said the league couldn't go along with the simultaneous gathering of urine samples because of "logistics and numerous steps involved in the chain of custody procedures."

"They can do their own drug testing but it would have to be at a time different than ours," Browne said of the NFLPA proposal unveiled by the union's executive director, Gene Upshaw, during a news conference on Thursday.

Upshaw said Commissioner Pete Rozelle told him the league couldn't go along with the plan when it was explained to him earlier.

"The only request we had then was to tell us the date the tests will be conducted," Upshaw said. "They said no." The league usually takes urine samples during pre-season training.

The union has been adamantly opposed to Rozelle's call for random drug testing. It also opposed his original drug proposal and the current plan, which allows suspension for four weeks after a second offense and indefinitely after a third. That plan is the result of arbitration between the sides.

"Players have no confidence in this program and the way the league administers it," Upshaw said of the league's testing procedure. He said players are concerned that the NFL plan is geared toward penalties and punishment, not rehabilitation.

The union wants its own samples to be tested and stored by the Center for Human Toxicology at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. Smith-Kline laboratories in Pennsylvania conducts the league's tests.

"Over the years, the NFL has used this program to undermine the integrity, the trust and the confidentiality the players have put in the chemical dependency program," Upshaw said.

Upshaw said Rozelle told him the players could go to the league's testing agency in Philadelphia and watch Smith-Kline do the testing and analysis on the urine.

"We felt this does not address the concerns of our program," Upshaw said. "That is totally unacceptable."

Upshaw said the NFLPA tests would be voluntary, unlike the NFL tests, which are mandatory.

The Utah facility is certified by the National Institute on Drug Abuse and currently conducts all post-accident testing for the Federal Railroad Administration and the National Transportation and Safety Board.

Upshaw said collection of samples will be handled by EMSI, a nationwide collection agency.

Upshaw and Mike Kenn of the Atlanta Falcons, president of the NFLPA, said the players want to assure confidentiality of positive tests and stress rehabilitation of players over punishment.

Kenn appointed a committee chaired by Falcons teammate Bill Fralic to devise a survey that will be taken of players during training camp. Kenn said it would deal with rehabilitation and also with punishment for repeat offenders.

"This is something the players have been concerned about a long time," Kenn said. "We actually are moving things along as quickly as we can."

"We would like to get to a point where an independent body would handle it," Fralic said. "We feel there should be little opposition to it."

Canseco returns, leads A's by Jays

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It didn't take Jose Canseco long to get back into the swing of things in the American League.

After missing 86 games with an injured wrist, the slugging Oakland outfielder came back with a bang Thursday night to lead the Athletics to an 11-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I'm a bit surprised, the way I hit in the minors, but I convinced myself before the game that I would do well," Canseco said after hitting a home run and driving in three runs.

Canseco, last year's American League MVP with a league-leading 42 homers, had a sacrifice fly and an RBI single in his 1989 major-league debut. He also managed to steal a base, even though he was admittedly not quite himself.

"I'm only about 80 percent right now, but my attitude is to go up there and see the ball well," said Canseco, who had spent the last couple of weeks with the Athletics' Southern League affiliate at Huntsville, Ala.

In other AL action, it was New York 6, Kansas City 0; Boston 3, Minnesota 1; Texas 9, Cleveland 3 in 11 innings; California 13, Baltimore 5; Seattle 5, Detroit 4 in 12 innings, and Chicago 5, Milwaukee 4.

While Canseco stole the spotlight, a couple of other big hitters contributed to Oakland's winning effort.

Mark McGwire and Dave Parker both hit three-run homers.

Meanwhile, reliever Dennis Eckersley made his first appearance since May 27 for Oakland, retiring the side in order in the ninth.

Yankees 6, Royals 0

Andy Hawkins retired the first 20 batters he faced and finished with a three-hitter.

He struck out a season-high eight and walked one.

Don Mattingly capped a four-run Yankee fifth with his 12th homer of the season after Roberto Kelly doubled in a run and Luis Polonia drove in another with a sacrifice fly off Kansas City starter Mark Gubicza, 8-7.

Red Sox 3, Twins 1

Roger Clemens pitched a two-hitter over eight innings to outduel Frank Viola.

Clemens, 10-6, gave up only two singles, struck out five and walked four before getting relief help from Lee Smith.

Smith pitched the ninth for his 13th save, his eighth in a row since June 13.

Boston scored twice in the eighth to snap a 1-1 tie against Viola, 7-10, who allowed only three hits in eight innings.

Angels 13, Orioles 5

Lance Parrish hit a tie-breaking solo homer in the sixth inning as California overcame an early four-run deficit.

Bert Blyleven, 9-2, won his fifth straight decision, allowing five runs and nine hits in six innings.

Mariners 5, Tigers 4

Edgar Martinez's two-out single off Mike Schwabe in the 12th led Seattle over Detroit.

Harold Reynolds singled with two outs, Greg Briley followed with a single and Martinez knocked in Reynolds from second on a 3-2 pitch.

Bill Swift, 6-2, pitched the last two innings for the victory, while Schwabe, 2-4, pitched the final inning for the Tigers.

White Sox 5, Brewers 4

Dan Plesac issued a bases-loaded walk to Ivan Calderon with one out in the ninth inning, boosting Chicago over Milwaukee.

Ozzie Guillen reached first leading off the ninth against Tony Fossas, 1-1, when shortstop Gary Sheffield threw wildly to first for the Brewers' league-leading 92nd error.

Guillen was sacrificed to second by Dave Gallagher and Fred Manrique, pinch-hitting for Steve Lyons, was intentionally walked. Fossas then walked Harold Baines to load the bases and set the stage for Plesac, who walked Calderon on a 3-1 pitch.

Bobby Thigpen, 1-3, won his first game since a July 1, 1988 decision against the New York Yankees.

Martinez wins again for Montreal

By The Associated Press

Dennis Martinez didn't make the All-Star team, but he's making the Montreal Expos into the team to beat in the National League East.

Martinez won his ninth straight decision Thursday night as the Expos beat the Cincinnati Reds at Riverfront Stadium 6-3.

The Expos are averaging 4.5 runs per game when Martinez starts.

"That's the way it's been my last three or four games. Everything's been going our way, especially my way," Martinez said.

Martinez, 10-1, allowed six hits in six innings and singled home a run as he set a club record for consecutive winning decisions. Charlie Lea won eight consecutive decisions in 1983.

Martinez's nine victories have come in a span of 13 starts.

At 50-38, the Expos are 12 games over .500 for the first time this season.

The victory kept the Expos 1 1/2 games ahead of Chicago and 2 1/2 in front of the New York Mets.

Elsewhere in the NL it was Chicago 7, San Diego 3; New York 5, Atlanta 1; Los Angeles 3, St. Louis 2; San Francisco 3, Pittsburgh 2 in 13 innings, and Houston and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, with the Phillies winning the opener 11-4 and the Astros the nightcap 3-0.

The Reds have lost four straight and 20 of their last 29. They got some more bad news on Thursday when All-Star shortstop Barry Larkin was placed on the 15-day disabled list with stretched fibers in an elbow ligament.

"It's kind of a tough road to go when you don't have an extra infielder or an extra catcher," Manager Pete Rose said. "I had 21 or 22 (healthy) players and a banded-up bullpen. It can only get better."

Spike Owen's two-out single in the seventh completed the Expos' comeback from a 3-0 deficit. Tim Wallach added a two-run homer in the ninth for the Expos.

Giants 3, Pirates 2

Will Clark lined a single to left field to score Brett Butler with none out in the 13th inning.

Butler led off the 13th with a line drive single off third baseman Bobby Bonilla's glove. Miguel Garcia, 0-2, then allowed a bunt single to Robby Thompson and Clark lined a 2-2 pitch into left to score Butler.

Jeff Brantley, 5-0, pitched the final four innings for the victory.

Dodgers 3, Cardinals 2

Orel Hershiser allowed two runs in 8 1/3 innings and Eddie Murray drove in two runs.

Hershiser, 10-7, allowed six hits before Jay Howell got the last two outs for his 16th save.

Rookie right-hander Ken Hill fell to 5-5.

Jose Oquendo extended his hitting streak to 11 games for St. Louis with two hits and an RBI.

Mets 5, Braves 1

Darryl Strawberry and Gregg Jefferies each hit home runs.

Both homers came off Pete Smith,

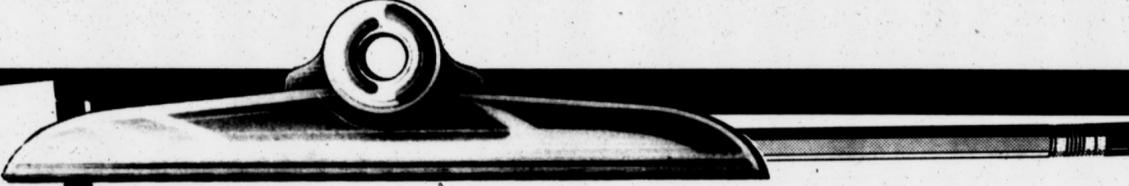

2-11, with Strawberry hitting his 18th in the fifth inning and Jefferies his second in the second.

Ron Darling, 7-6, pitched a five-hitter. He had a shutout bid stopped in the eighth when Jeff Blauser led off with his fifth home run.

Cubs 7, Padres 3

Jerome Walton went 4-for-4 and Greg Maddux continued his mastery of San Diego.

Maddux, 9-7, allowed five hits in 6 1/3 innings to improve his lifetime record to 5-0 against the Padres. Les Lancaster pitched 2 1/3 for his first save.

Melodrama opens today

Belle Wallaby, Smelter Joe, and Tessie (Kim Emerick, Butch Davis, and Wendy Emerick, from left) discuss civic affairs of Bisbee, Ariz. during the melodrama, "Belle of Bisbee". Held in a dinner theatre format, the humorous play will begin at 8:30 p.m. following dinner at 7:30 p.m. today and Saturday. The event is being staged outside St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 601 West Park, and will benefit the church and community. Tickets, available at the door, cost $10 for singles, $25 for families.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please help me. I, along with many other grandmothers, am very concerned about the lack of milk in our grandchildren's diets. My 3-year-old grandchild drinks nothing except soft drinks — mostly colas — and no milk. How will this affect his bones?

Grandmothers are really concerned, Dr. Lamb. Our own children were not allowed to drink colas and we gave them milk. Is not giving children milk a new health trend that we are overreacting to? It keeps us awake at night worrying.

DEAR READER: It may be a fact of life in the fast lane, but I wouldn't call it a health trend — unless you mean bad health. Milk is the best source of calcium. There is a real need to meet the calcium requirements during the growing years when the skeleton is developing. It is also one of the best food sources for complete protein that provides all the essential amino acids the body cannot manufacture from other foods. The protein is essential for normal growth. It is little wonder then that milk and the dairy foods are one of the four basic food groups essential for a balanced diet.

The carbonated soft drinks may in fact detract from good calcium deposits in bone development. Mothers who are concerned about the fat in milk can use skim milk with non-fat milk solids added. If the child wants something he or she considers tastier than plain milk, other items can be added, such as malt or chocolate powders. Some would object to this, but I would rather have a child do that and drink milk than to not get any milk at all.

Grandmothers should get the parents of their grandchildren to read and learn more about what a balanced diet really is, and why it is needed. I'm sending you Special Report 90, Balance Your Diet for Health, which provides this information. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/90, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Incidentally, the skeleton does not stop growing until a person — male or female — is between 30 and 35 years of age. Your bones may not get longer, but they get thicker and stronger until then if you follow proper nutrition. That helps prevent dissolving bones later in life. So it is not just young children who need milk, but teen-agers, young adults and — to maintain their bones — people of all ages.

DEAR DR. LAMB: "Minor renal insufficiency" were the words I discovered on my doctor's receipt. Is there anything I can do about this condition — like exercise or diet? I am 85 years old and take Vasotec and hydrochlorothiazide. My blood pressure is 164/88. My doctor tells me he does not want to lower it because it might give me kidney problems.

DEAR READER: Your kidneys are a filter for your blood — among other functions. The term minor renal insufficiency means they are not 100 percent effective, but they are quite adequate. I wouldn't be alarmed about it.

It is not uncommon to see some changes in kidney function in people who have high blood pressure. In some cases the kidney disorder may cause the high blood pressure, but in most cases, as high blood pressure progresses, it can cause kidney damage.

Controlling your blood pressure is one of the best things you could do for your kidneys. And it is true in older people that lowering the blood pressure too much is not always desirable. Your present pressure readings are fine for your age group.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Nearly six percent of the world's population is over 65.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sending this with no comment. I'd like to see it in print. Please sign me--A Burlington, Vt., Grandma
THE GRANDPARENT TRAP
I'm caught in the grandparent trap.

I'm the grandchildren's cook. If I don't do it, they would be eating junk.

I'm the laundress. If I don't want their clothes, they'd be filthy.

I'm the barber. If I don't do it, they'd look like ragamuffins.

I'm the cleaning lady. If I didn't do it, their home would look like a tornado hit it.

I'm the sewing lady. My daughters are too lazy. If I don't make the children's clothes, they would be wearing rags.

I'm the religion teacher. If I didn't do it, my grandchildren would be atheists.

I'm my grandchildren's ear. Their parents are too busy to listen.

I'm the one who reminds them of their appointments. They have the habit of forgetting everything.

I teach the grandchildren manners. If I didn't, they would act like barbarians.

I'm the referee. There is always someone fighting. Their parents never hear a thing.

I'm the social worker. They all go for counseling, but they only get pampered. I'm the one who lays it on the line.

I am old, sickly and not well-educated. My children, on the other hand, are young, healthy and well-educated. How come I have all this common sense and they don't have any?

DEAR BURL: Perhaps you took your parental responsibilities more seriously than your children take theirs.

I sense a tone of resentment in your letter. Too bad. Instead of feeling burdened you should be happy that you are able to contribute in such a significant way to the lives of your grandchildren.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The late Bill Veeck, beloved leader of the Chicago White Sox, was a devout believer in hypnosis and persuaded outfielder Bobby Molinaro to give hypnosis a try after a left-hander pitcher hit Bobby in the head. (Bobby became terrified of left-handers and froze like a statue whenever he faced one.)

After a few sessions with a hypnotist, Molinaro was no longer afraid of southpaws. In fact, he looked forward to the challenge and did very well.

Since hypnosis worked so well for some of those guys, why don't more ballplayers use it? Can't hurt. Might help. How about it, Ann? -- Still a Sox Fan

DEAR SOX FAN: Bill Veeck began to see a hypnotist in an effort to ease the pain after his leg was amputated. He learned self-hypnosis from his therapist and it served him well as a "narcotic."

Veeck became firmly convinced that once a person has been subjected to intense pain, the fear of that pain becomes more of a crippling force than the pain itself. He said that once he was able to conquer the fear of the pain, he was a free man.

This is how hypnosis worked for Veeck and he persuaded some of his players to use it for the same reason. He never believed that hypnosis would help an athlete play a better game. Although he knew that a positive attitude can be a compelling factor, he also knew that there is no substitute for talent.

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

TURN AROUND SPECIALISTS

NEW YORK (AP) — A number of firms faced with financial problems are calling upon turn around specialists to solve their problems.

They do so by tightening budgets, eliminating non-profitable products or divisions and closing obsolete factories, says John A. Thompson, president of Interim Management Corp., which supplies temporary executives to solve their problems.

Thompson says troubled firms are using the executives because "the need for experienced hands-on managers who can move quickly, take charge, enhance cash flow and help keep the operation under control is critical."

The ancient Greeks believed that drinking from certain springs or wells would give them prophetic powers.

Consumer Groups Storm Local Grocery Stores!

Stores point finger at newspaper

Today saw one of the largest consumer responses of the week to offers made by local grocery stores for discounted prices. Across the city, shoppers were redeeming coupons cut from the local paper in record numbers.

"We know any offer we make will be highlighted most by the newspaper," commented a grocery store spokesman. "Our goal is simply to inform the consumers that these discounts are available. We are confident they will respond if they see it in the paper." His statement was backed by recent Consumer Data Service reports that indicated grocery store ads triple volume on discounted items and double volume on regularly priced items. It also revealed grocery ads are read by well over 70% of newspaper readers.

Grocery store representatives unanimously agreed that newspaper advertising was the only way to get immediate consumer response. One grocer remarked, "Most people read the paper, and a bunch of those readers clip our coupons. It's that simple." His comments reflect the well-known Manufacturer's Coupon Center report which stated that over 80% of all families use coupons.

"When consumers want more for their money, they always go to the newspaper," a grocery official said. When pressed by reporters for the best offer he could make to the consumers he replied, "Look in the paper, it's all right there. Green leaf lettuce, two heads for 79¢... with a coupon of course."
