Iraqis set blazes in Kuwait

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Several Kuwaiti oil facilities burned today, set afire by the forces of Saddam Hussein, U.S. military and oil executives said. The million-dollar U.S. Patriot missile, meanwhile, flashed into action, blasting two Iraqi Scuds out of Saudi skies.

U.S. warplanes roared off runways again this morning at a foggy air base in eastern Saudi Arabia.

Iraq claimed today that residential areas in Baghdad and other cities had been hit by more than 20 allied air raids overnight. The claim was made in a military communique carried by Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency.

The U.S. military said today Iraqi forces are damaging or destroying oil wells and storage tanks in Kuwait, the oil-rich emirate Iraq seized nearly six months ago. It was an ominous move; in September, the Baghdad government threatened to turn the region's oil fields into an inferno if it was challenged.

Air Force 1st Lt. Casey Mahon, a spokesman for the U.S. military command in the Saudi capital of Riyadh, said: "We do have evidence that Iraq is damaging or destroying some of these facilities."

He said aerial photography showed the Iraqis had blown up oil wells and storage tanks at the al-Wafra facility in southern Kuwait, just across the Saudi border.

Oil industry executives in touch with their Kuwaiti counterparts said storage tanks were ablaze today at Shuaiba and Mina Abdullah, next to each other about 60 miles north of the border.

The official Iranian news agency, meanwhile, reported today that allied warplanes staged heavy air attacks Monday night and early today on the strategic Iraqi city of Basra, site of Iraq's military headquarters governing operations in occupied Kuwait.

The Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, said the fierce bombing shook buildings in the Iranian port city of Khorramshahr, 25 miles away.

The withering allied air strikes against Iraq - 8,100 combat and support sorties so far - are only the first stage of a battle that could later lead to a bloody ground war. Iraq has the fourth-largest army in the world, with 545,000 troops entrenched across southern Iraq and Kuwait.

U.S. officials have warned that Iraq's military machine is far from broken despite the pounding by allied bombers. Saddam and the military command are "still in control of military activity in the country," Navy Rear Adm. John McConnell said Monday.

It was not known whether bad weather kept any U.S. planes from dropping their bombs today. A low-hanging cloud cover over Iraq has hampered the allied air attacks, and the Pentagon also says Iraq has been using wooden decoys to foil attacks on modified Scud missile launchers, a prime target.

Italy, one of the partners in the allied coalition, said its warplanes flew sorties at dawn today. It said their mission was a success but did not specify what they hit.

In the air campaign so far, 16 allied warplanes have been lost, including nine U.S. aircraft. Twenty-two allied fliers are missing in action, including 13 Americans, the Pentagon says.

President Bush responded with cold fury to Iraq's announcement Monday that it would scatter captured allied pilots at potential target sites in a bid to stem the allied air assault. "This is not going to make a difference in the prosecution of the war" against Saddam, he said.

The military said a total of six Iraqi missiles were fired and two were shot down, one landed in the Persian Gulf, two fell harmlessly in unpopulated desert. Information on the other Iraqi missile was not available, said Lt. Col. Greg Pepin.

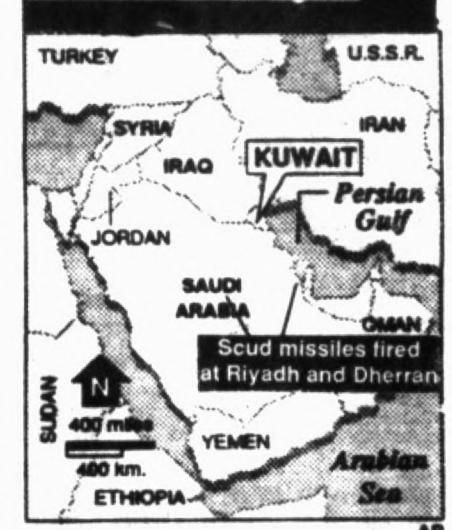

The barrage was the latest in a series of Iraqi missile attacks. It fired missiles into Saudi Arabia late Sunday and early Monday, and launched rockets at Israel Friday and Saturday.

In addition to knocking out missile launchers, a chief aim of the allied air attacks is to inflict damage on Iraq's dug-in ground forces. Refugees crossing into Jordan from Iraq said Monday they saw heavy bombing of the elite Republican Guards in Basra over the weekend.

Iraqi forces positioned across the Kuwait frontier are apparently reinforcing their positions in anticipation of the coming battle. Col. Ron Richard of the Marine 2nd Division intelligence said U.S. forces have detected "increased movement back and forth from the border," in southern Kuwait.

Some limited engagements have been occurring on the ground. On Monday, Iraqis once again fired mobile missiles at the Marines. U.S. forces responded with fighter-bomber raids, striking at Iraqi positions with bombs and rockets. The Marines and Iraqis have been trading harassing fire nearly every day since the war began.

Missiles strike again

City to examine retirement

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Hereford City Commissioners voted Monday to revise the volunteer fire department's retirement plan for the 1991-92 budget period.

Paul Hamilton, a volunteer fireman, presented the commissioners with a proposal to increase the city's funding of the retirement plan from $12 a month to $24 per month.

"This is a small amount," said Hamilton, since firemen do not receive a salary. "Outside of the retirement plan, all we get for compensation is our water bill paid."

The higher rate is an incentive to get better volunteers, Hamilton said.

Volunteer firemen get full retirement after 15 years of service and when he reaches 55-years-old.

"I think the firemen are the hardest working city employees that we have," Commissioner Emory Brownlow said. "I recommend it be put into the budget and done."

City commissioners also discussed the city employees' retirement system.

Hereford administration requested authorization for the city to commit to funding an actuarial evaluation regarding the city entering into the state retirement system.

In 1973, Hereford went into a privately funded retirement system instead of going into the state system.

"Presently our system allows no latitude," City Manager Darwin McGill said. "Someone who has retirement in the state system loses it if he chooses to move to Hereford."

This could present a problem for the city when trying to attract a new city manager or other staff positions.

The evaluation would cost the city a maximum of $5,500.

Under the present system, an employee can draw full retirement only after age 65 with a minimum of 24 years of service. Every year under age 65, the retiree takes a 5 percent penalty. The state system would allow the employee retire at an earlier age without as stiff a penalty.

Commissioners voted unanimously, but some voted with a degree of hesitance. "I agree reluctantly," Commissioner Wayne Winget said. "We are being forced to spend $5,500 to correct a boo boo made in the past."

"I think we're saying a person can retire at 60 instead of 65," said Brownlow.

Commissioners discussed the prioritizing of some items for the 1991-92 budget. The main items of discussion were the landfill and golf course. All commissioners were concerned with the landfill situation.

"We don't know how long we are going to be in the landfill business,"

Walden named 1990 Ag Man

Walden named 1990 Ag Man of the year

Bill Walden, left, one of the leading pork producers in the Southwestern United States, was named the 1990 Man of the Year in Agriculture at Saturday's Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet at the Bull Barn in Hereford. Presenting the award was Speedy Nieman, right, publisher of the Hereford Brand. The newspaper presents the award each year. The recipient is selected by a committee including past award winners.

Bill Walden was named the 1990 Man of the Year in Agriculture at the annual Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet Saturday at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

A crowd of 650 persons packed the Bull Barn to hear Denny Kempner, chairman of Imperial Holly Corporation, and humorous speaker Bob Gadberry.

Walden received the award from Hereford Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman. The Brand has presented the award each year since 1975.

Walden, in the cattle-feeding capital of the world, is one of the nation's top pork producers, finishing out about 2 million pounds of pork a year.

Walden began his pork farm in 1970, opening his first farrowing barn with 54 sows. At the time there were many others in Deaf Smith County and the surrounding area in the pork business. Walden is practically alone.

One reason for the demise of others, and a cause for problems for Walden, was a high mortality rate for weaner pigs. In 1989, researchers discovered a grain toxin, and Walden helped lead the research that helped turn the pork business around.

Besides the productive pork business, Walden and his son, Cory, farm 1,300 acres of irrigated cropland in a diversified program of wheat, corn, milo and sugar beets.

Walden is also active in many agriculture-related organizations, and is vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association. He is chairman of the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District, having served on the board since 1976; chairman of the Deaf Smith County Extension Program Council and a member of the County Extension Livestock Committee; chairman of the Texas Farm Bureau Swine Advisory Committee; has served on the county Farm Bureau board for 22 years; has been chairman of the policy development committee and the labor relations and safety committee of the Deaf Smith-Oldham Farm Bureau; and has served as a state delegate to the national Farm Bureau convention.

Walden has also worked with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and other community activities.

Denny Kempner, chairman of Imperial, also spoke to the throng about the impacts of the 1990 farm bill, recent General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations, and Imperial Holly's growing relationship with Hereford.

Kempner praised the efforts of TSBGA President Bill Cleavinger on helping forge a coalition of beet and cane sugar growers and refiners and the corn sweetener industry.

The groups reached an unprecedented consensus that was presented to the U.S. House of Representatives to be incorporated into the 1990 farm bill's sugar provisions. Despite attempts of wholesale changes, the coalition's plans emerged basically intact in the final version of the farm bill.

"We got 99.9 percent of what we wanted in the farm bill, and a lot of that is thanks to Bill Cleavinger," said Kempner as he related how Cleavinger personally lobbied many legislators and worked to keep the sweetener coalition intact.

Kempner also praised Cleavinger for his attempts to keep the United (See HOLLY, Page 10)

HYF stock show begins Wednesday

Over 350 animals will be paraded through the show ring this week at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn during the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show.

Exhibitors from Deaf Smith, Oldham, Randall, Parmer and Castro counties are expected to exhibit 35 steers, 128 sheep and 208 barrows in the show, one of the biggest in the region.

Gerald Marnell, Charlie Stengel, Tom Schlabs and Jeff Mercer are the general superintendents of the show, which will climax with the sale at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

The events began today with steer weigh-in at the Bull Barn. The first show begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday with the steer show. Twenty-seven of the 35 steers are being shown by Deaf Smith County exhibitors.

Steers will be divided into small, medium and large frame divisions, with steer divided into classes according to height.

M.D. Franks is the steer division superintendent for the HYF. Helping him are Chris Urbanczyk, Ray Schlabs and Gerald Jesko. The steer judge is Joel Cowley, an associate professor at Texas A&M University who is also the coach of the A&M livestock judging team.

Thursday, 208 hogs will be driven by the exhibitors beginning at 4 p.m., about 175 of the hogs will be shown by county exhibitors. The barrow judge is Coy Farmer, a swine breeder from Prague, Okla.

Hogs will be classified as Berkshires, Chester Whites, Durocs, Hampshires, Poland Chinas and Spots, Yorkshires, and crosses. Hogs will be divided into classes according to weight in each of the divisions.

Chairman of the barrow division is Kevin Urbanczyk. Assisting him will be Kenneth Schlabs, Wade Boren, Brent Self, Chris Carter, Chad Strafuss, Brian Urbanczyk and Raymond Martinez.

On Friday, 128 lambs, including about 100 from Deaf Smith County, will be shown beginning at 4:30 p.m. at the Bull Barn. The sheep judge will be Dr. Ken Cook, district Extension Service coordinator at San Angelo.

The lambs will be divided into finewool, finewool cross, hampshires, suffolk and southdown. Lambs will be divided into classes according to weight in each of the divisions.

Mark Urbanczyk is the lamb division chairman. Assisting him will be Nicky Morgan, Chris Meives, Dennis Schilling, Donny Meives, Mike Meives, Arnie Artho and Bill Caraway.

In each class and division the top animal in five counties will be named. If that animal's exhibitor is not from Deaf Smith County, a county champion and reserve champion will be named.

For the first time in three years, exhibitors from outside Deaf Smith County may participate in the sale. For the past two years, only Deaf Smith County youngsters have participated in the premium auction. Floor prices, the minimum exhibitors will be paid, will be set before the sale. The youngsters will then be vying for premiums from the auction.

The sale will still include mostly local exhibitors, said HYF officials. Special "booster clubs" to help buy animals have been established, and contributions to the clubs may be made at the show and sale this week.

Throughout the show, a complete concession stand will be operated by the Deaf Smith County 4-H.

Agriculture stresses education

AUSTIN (AP) - State agriculture officials say many reports on the dangers of pesticides and hormones in food production are exaggerated or false.

On Monday, members of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service announced a drive to educate the public that the nation's food production system is safe.

"What we want to try to do is speak to these issues individually with the basic foundation of the science involved in order to remove as much emotionalism as we possibly can," said James Denton, an extension service spokesman.

The Agriculture Extension Service, which is part of Texas A&M University, will host a conference on food safety today at the University of Texas campus.

Denton and other agriculture officials said consumers are often alarmed by unscientific and politically-motivated reports on chemical use in food production.

"The Alar fiasco was probably one of the things that really set it off and got people panicked to the point that it was almost irrational in many cases," said Al Wagner Jr., a food technologist for the extension service.

In 1989, an environmental group said eating apples containing Alar increased the cancer risk in children. The apple industry claims the report was unscientific and the resulting scare cost more than $100 million in sales.

Alar, the marketing name for the chemical daminozide, was voluntarily removed from the market by the Uniroyal Chemical Co. last October. The EPA last May banned it from all food uses.

Abortion activists activated

WASHINGTON (AP) - Abortion rights supporters and opponents alike lined up activities in the nation's capital today to mark the 18th anniversary of the Supreme Court's Roe vs. Wade decision.

The March for Life rally, which has become an annual ritual since the landmark 1973 decision that legalized abortion, was to begin at noon on the Mall in Washington, where this year's theme is a call to politicians for a firm anti-abortion stand.

"The theme is no waffling on the life principles," march leader Nellie Gray said. "We saw candidates in the last couple of years who had been pro-life and they waffled and tried to take a moderate stand, and then no one trusted them. They lost their elections."

Abortion rights advocates organized by the National Organization for Women planned to hold their own demonstration nearby.

Last year's anti-abortion marchers here numbered 75,000, according to the U.S. Park Police. Gray declined to project the size of this year's event, although she said "there have been some cancellations because of the war situation" in the Persian Gulf.

March coordinators invited

President Bush to address the crowd, as he has by telephone hook-up in each of the two previous years of his presidency. The White House press office could not say late Monday whether Bush would address them this year.

Activists on both sides of the issue have been holding events across the country for the past several days leading up to today's anniversary.

CITY

said Mayor Wes Fisher.

To continue operating the landfill the city would have to spend $700,000 for equipment next year. It would cost approximately $500,000 to switch to the transporting system, which may be mandatory after state regulations come out.

"I think we need to stay in the landfill business as long as we possibly can," Brownlow said.

McGill stated there was a possibility that the city could sign a lease-purchase agreement for the equipment. If the city were not allowed, due to state regulations, to continue operation of the landfill, then they could get some of the money back on the equipment through the lease-purchase agreement.

"I want to know before we spend $700,000 on equipment that we will be assured on getting most of it back," Commissioner Terry Langehenning said.

A sprinkler system for the front nine at the golf course was considered by the commissioners. A new sprinkler system would cost approximately $125,000, said McGill.

Letters to Editor

Dear editor,

Against war? Against the killing? Against the dreadful waste?

I'm deeply saddened and angered by these lives lost to fear and hate, ignorance and selfishness.

Every day since the Persian Gulf War began, over 2,000 unborn American men have lost their lives as POW's (Prisoners of Wombs) at the hands of executing abortionists. Babies have also been tortured and brutalized until death.

Do they get CNN 24-hour coverage or any attention at all?

There are currently two wars being waged. Why do people keep choosing to ignore the one that is right in their own neighborhoods, taking members of their own families Eighteen years (exactly today) and over 26 million casualties later, we act as though we're innocent of the blood shed by the most innocent, young victims in our land: babies.

Wake up America! The unborn have no defense except you and me.

Janie Banner

The commissioners agreed that a raise in greens fees would cover the cost of the system and the taxpayers should not bear the burden of the golf course.

The idea of building a jogging path at one of the local parks and improving playground equipment was discussed, but not much commission reaction was noted.

In other business, the commissioners voted to purchase two pick-ups for the city from John Chandler Ford in Amarillo.

John Chandler Ford was awarded the bid of $10,969 for a two wheel drive vehicle and $12,474 for a four wheel drive vehicle.

McGill said the difference in the John Chandler bid and the Whiteface Ford of Hereford bid was the add-ons needed to meet specifications.

For the two wheel drive, Whiteface bid $11,161; Stevens Chevrolet, $12,637.21; Stagner-Orsborn, $12,325.45 and Plains Chevrolet, $12,587.95.

The four wheel drive bids are as follows: Stevens Chevrolet, $14,220.89; Whiteface Ford, $12,981; Stagner-Orsborn, $14,099.95 and Plains Chevrolet $14,185.41.

Hereford High School Drum Majors Audy Sciumbato and Terri DeBord presented a portrait to Gov. Ann Richards at the inaugural parade last week in Austin. The painting was done by former Hereford resident Janet McCathern Barrera.

Tucson residents killed

Two Tucson, Ariz., residents were killed and another was injured in a two-vehicle accident near Black early Saturday.

The 1988 Lincoln Town Car in which they were traveling crossed the center line of U.S. Highway 60 and struck a truck driven by Gregorio Salazar Martinez of Hereford. Martinez was not injured.

Richard George Randle, 49, and Pamela Jean George, 41, both of Tucson, died in the accident. A passenger in the car, Esther Randle, 69, was taken to Parmer County Community Hospital in Frona where she was treated for injuries received in the accident.

The section of the highway is under construction. The highway is being widened, and will eventually be four lanes to the New Mexico state line.

Youth place in futurity

Several Hereford youth recently participated in the Bob Skaggs Memorial Futurity in Pampa.

Hereford took four out of five exotic calf classes. Brady Wilson placed first in the light class, Shelia Teel placed first in the light-medium class, Jeremy Blair placed first in the medium class, Jim Bret Campbell placed first in the heavy-medium class and Trisha Teel placed fourth in a powerful heavy class.

The Grand Champion of the show came out of the heavy class, followed by Blair with the Reserve Champion steer.

Blair and Campbell also participated in a tough showmanship competition, both making placing in the final five.

Know your beauty style

Considering the beauty technique of these winners of the 10th annual "Ten Best Dressed Faces of the Year" for 1990 could be helpful in setting your own beauty style.

Each woman works with her own distinct features to develop a personal style, and each is proof that exceptional beauty defies traditional categories. Two key factors for personal beauty are externally, contemporary hair and makeup styles and, internally a healthy dose of self respect. Learn to appreciate your own personal beauty and believe in yourself and someday you may be on the list that this year includes:

Candice Bergen: An updated version of "all-American" blonde good looks, with understated but contemporary makeup and intelligent, warm aura that makes everyone want to take a second look.

Songia Braga: Passionate and sultry, with a look that is at once untamed and in control. The eyes, the lips, the hair! You know she looks exactly as she wants to, and plays by her own rules.

Peggy Fleming: She has made the transition beautifully from perky Olympic medalist to polished, pretty woman, playing up her beautiful eyes against dark hair and fair skin.

Audrey Hepburn: The epitome of self-assured elegance, whose Holly Golightly look is once again the height of fashion. Accent is on her sparkling eyes, long neck and slim figure, which provide her perennially youthful beauty.

Lauren Hutton: The perfection of imperfections—her offbeat looks make her a standout model on her own terms, willing to take risks and emphasize her unusual eyes and now-famous gap-toothed smile. Still taking chances, her recent change to a short haircut frames her distinctive face and spotlights her unusual features even more.

Rita Moreno: Exotic smoldering eyes and a full, beautiful mouth give play to the passion and energy of her personality, highly spirited and always with a dancer's dramatic flair for brilliant makeup color and technique.

Jackie Onassis: Understated, conservative makeup and a classic hairstyle work with her natural, refined elegance to create beauty out of unusual features. Her wide set eyes and full eyebrows become beautiful attributes under her careful hand, aided by a glowing, well-maintained complexion.

Leontyne Price: Operatic drama is the theme of her black beauty on and off the stage, with an electrifying personality that easily carries vibrant makeup tones, such as black eyeliner and red lipstick, to spotlight her theatrical nature.

Bonnie Raitt: Like the music she sings, she proves that good things just keep getting better. Her trademark luxurious red hair is kept long but always up-to-date, framing her beautifully made-up flirty eyes and ever-smiling mouth.

Carly Simon: A self-defined classic who knows how to highlight her signature full mouth and thick hair to create her own true, uncompromising beauty, using minimal makeup while always staying contemporary in her appearance as much as in her music.

These women work with their features, not against them, and use makeup to help turn their most distinctive qualities into beauty assets.

Tour of museum taken by Wyche Extension members

Deaf Smith County Historical Museum Director Donna Brockman conducted a tour of the museum recently for members of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club.

Brockman pointed out various museum pieces as well as taking members to see the outside attractions including the R.R. Caboose and the Lomas-Hacker building.

Following the tour, members adjourned to the home of Dorothy Lundry for a business meeting and refreshments.

"Just for Today" was the poem read by Lundry as the opening exercise. Cards of thanks were read from Ethel Logan, Maudette Smith and Pet Ott.

Carol Odom was selected to be the nominee for delegate to the district convention to be held in April in Perryton. Also, Coreen Odom, Marcie Ginn and Jo Lee were appointed to a committee to update the by-laws and club policies.

It was announced that Marcie Ginn was chosen to be the club's nominee for the Extension Homemaker Club Woman of the Year.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Pet Ott Feb. 7. The program will include a tape of the 1900s made by Ira Ott.

Given special recognition were new member, Jo Lee, and a visitor, Dorma Kirby, mother of Marcie Ginn.

Those present included Clara Trowbridge, Coreen Odom, Shirley Brown, Louise Axe, Camillia Jones, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Louise Packard, Brenda and Audrey Rusher, Lundry, Ott and Carol Odom.

Medicare insurance helps paycost of mammograms

As of Jan. 1, 1991, a change in the law allows Medicare medical insurance to pay up to $55 of the cost of mammograms for early detection of breast cancer, Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, said recently. According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is the most common form of cancer to strike women, and mammograms are the best way to detect it at its earliest, most curable stage.

Women 65 or older covered by medical insurance are eligible for mammogram screening once every two years. Medicare beneficiaries who are at high risk or who are disabled beneficiaries under 65 may be eligible for more frequent screenings.

People who have questions about this valuable new coverage should contact their Medicare carrier for more information. Carriers are listed in the Medicare Handbook.

Making ends meet is getting harder, it seems. That's why so many families depend on income from a second or even a third job.

Taking another job to make ends meet is a realistic solution for many people. But it is also important to recognize that every job has a "cost of earning" factor—what it actually costs the worker to earn a living. A close look at employment-related income and expenses can give a realistic view of what to expect.

On the income side, consider how many hours and days a week you will work and what your total income will be. Compare your present expenses for fringe benefits such as insurance and pension plans and how much is being contributed toward Social Security. What will be the costs and advantage of these benefits with the new job? Some people, particularly those who have not had any health insurance coverage, find a second job that offers insurance benefits worthwhile even if the wages are relatively low. That's because the cost of health care would be even greater.

Work-related expenses to consider include special work clothes or uniforms that must be purchased; dues, fees and licenses; job-related publications; business meetings and conferences; and tools, equipment and supplies.

If an additional vehicle must be purchased to get to work, figure in the extra costs of transportation (work-related share of vehicle purchase cost, car loan, licenses, taxes, fees, insurance, gas, oil, maintenance, parking and tolls). If other forms of transportation are required, calculate those costs.

If a family member who has stayed at home returns to the job environment, there may be extra family expenses that are incurred that will reduce the amount of total family income available. Child care, hired household help, additional laundry/dry cleaning, more family meals out, changes in home food preparation, and household repair/maintenance needs may all contribute to increased family expenses.

Child care is a major expense for families needing such care. The average weekly child care cost for families paying for such services was $49 in 1987 (latest data). When total income is less than $1,250 per month, families spend almost 21 percent on child care services.

The worker may also encounter added expenses for personal care, clothing, and work place related situations such as coffee breaks, gifts and parties.

Another cost of employment relates to the tax angle. Additional earnings can raise the tax bill because more income may push the earners into a different tax bracket. Some work-related expenses may be deductible as itemized expenses, but with a larger adjusted gross income, they may not qualify for deduction within those limits.

Clearly, having a job may have more than just economic meaning for the worker and for the family. New jobs always hold special personal meaning. Several non-economic issues should also be discussed with other household members, such as sharing of the household workload, child care responsibilities, sharing of farm production activities for farm families, seasonal variation in workloads, and time commitments for a volunteer, religion-related, school activities, and/or social organizations.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has a computer software program available, "Does a Second Job Pay Off?" that computes the costs and benefits of earning a second income.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Herd wins overtime thriller, 82-79

Lady Whitefaces lose, 58-43

The Hereford Whitefaces picked up their first win in District 1-4A Saturday, holding off Canyon Randall for an 82-79 victory in overtime at Whiteface Gymnasium.

The game was the second straight overtime contest for the Herd, following Thursday's 74-73 loss to Amarillo Caprock.

In other games Saturday, the Lady Whitefaces closed the first half of district play by losing their fourth in a row 58-43 to the Lady Raiders, ranked fifth in the state in the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches poll. The Herd JV scored a 72-52 win over the Raiders and the Lady Whiteface JV lost 33-27.

In Monday's junior high games, Hereford girls suffered losses in all five contests in their final appearance at home for the season. The HJH boys took four wins in six games at Borger.

Herd 82, Randall 79 OT

Ben Weatherly converted a three-point play with 1:51 remaining in the overtime and Chris Steward sealed the win with a pair of free throws with 10 seconds left as the Herd outscored Randall 5-2 in the extra period.

Hereford (6-15, 1-2) had dominated the game early, building a 10-point lead with two minutes to go in the first quarter. Leo Brown sparked a 10-4 run with six points to put the Herd ahead 19-9, but Randall (7-16, 0-3) outscored the Herd 5-1 in the last minute of the period to close the gap to 20-14.

The Raiders continued to chip away at the lead through the second quarter, tying the score twice in the final 1:37 of the half, but were never able to move in front. Brown assured the Herd of the halftime lead with a three-point play at the :57 mark for a 38-35 edge. Roger Mauney, the lone senior in a Raider lineup that included two freshman starters and four sophomores, cut the margin to a single point with a one-and-one with six seconds left.

The Herd got into foul trouble early in the third quarter and Randall took advantage of the situation to take the lead for the first time since 2-0. Sophomore guard Robert Beene cut loose for 14 of his 21 points in the period, scoring the first two baskets of the half to put Randall ahead 41-38.

With Herd starters Brown, Richard Sanderson and Derek Mason all collecting their fourth foul in the quarter, the Raiders were able to push the lead to eight points at 51-43 and led 59-53 entering the fourth quarter.

Hereford opened the fourth with nine straight points to take a 62-59 advantage with five minutes to go, but Randall answered with a 14-5 run over the next two minutes to hold a six-point edge and control of the game.

With the Raiders ahead 73-67, Weatherly made the front end of a one-and-one and Brown tipped in the rebound on the second shot to close the gap to three. Sanderson then nailed a three-pointer from the right wing to tie the game with 2:02 left in regulation and Steward converted a bonus opportunity for a 75-73 lead at 1:07.

Beene tied the score for the ninth time with 32 seconds to go and Randall took a 77-75 lead when Chris Trevino made both ends of a one-and-one with 20 seconds on the clock despite Hereford calling two timeouts.

Sanderson forced the overtime with a jumper with nine seconds left and gave Hereford a chance for the win with a steal. Andrew Tijerina grabbed the loose ball under the basket, but could not gain control and was called for traveling.

Brown led all scorers with 24 points despite fouling out. The Herd had three other players reach double figures with Sanderson scoring 19, Tijerina 16 and Steward 13. Weatherly finished with six points and Mason with four.

The Lady Raiders (21-4, 5-0) went on to post a 21-6 lead at the end of the quarter, and the 15-point spread proved to be the winning margin.

The teams traded baskets through the second quarter until Randall put together a 7-0 run for a 34-15 lead. The 19-point spread was the largest of the game.

Hereford (12-14, 1-4) cut the lead back to 16 points on Jennifer Bullard's second three-pointer of the period and ended the half trailing 40-25.

The Lady Whitefaces closed the gap a little more late in the third period, using a 6-2 run in the quarter's last two minutes to pull within 12 at 50-38. But Randall pushed the lead back to 16 points early in the fourth quarter and held the Herd scoreless from the floor the entire period.

Brek Binder led the Herd with 13 points while Donna Grotegut added eight and Bullard six. Kyanne Lindley scored five points with Stephanie Wilcox and Lori Sanders getting four each and Reinauer three.

Tech leader out for season

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas Tech forward Will Flemons is expected to miss the remainder of the season after suffering another stress fracture of his left foot, coach Gerald Myers said.

"He broke it again, so he's out for the year," Myers said.

Flemons, who missed the first six games of the season after suffering a similar injury Oct. 24, reinjured the foot Saturday during a 73-70 loss to Houston in Hofheinz Pavilion.

Flemons was fouled while attempting a reverse layup with 8:33 to play in the game. He came up limping and sat out the remainder of the game with an ice pack on his foot.

The sophomore was examined after the team returned to Lubbock late Saturday and his foot was placed in a cast.

"I've always wanted what's best for the team, and I feel like I'm letting my teammates down by not being out there," Flemons said. "But I guess it couldn't be helped. I'm already looking forward to next year, and I'll be on the bench the rest of this year with all the support I can give."

Myers said Flemons cannot be granted a medical redshirt for this season because he has played in more than 20 percent of Tech's games.

Super Bowl to have blue hue

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - The Super Bowl will have a decidedly blue hue, thanks to the Buffalo Bills and New York Giants. That doesn't seem to be giving many people the blues.

Certainly in Los Angeles and San Francisco, fans of the vanquished Raiders and 49ers aren't happy. But there is a general feeling that the best representatives of each conference have gotten to the title game.

That's difficult to argue with since the Bills blew away the Raiders in a record-setting 51-3 victory for the AFC championship, while the Giants outplayed the 49ers, even though they needed a last-second field goal by Matt Bahr to win 15-13.

"Any team that can win a championship game here deserves a lot of credit," Giants defensive back Everson Walls said.

Both teams have gotten plenty of credit this season. The Bills have been particularly praised for their work in the playoffs, scoring 95 points in two wins. They were 10-0 at home and, yes, they won at the Meadowlands in Week 14, beating the Giants 17-13.

The Giants were lauded for their fast start, sweeping 10 games. They struggled to finish 13-3, then turned up the juice defensively in the playoffs.

Perhaps most intriguing is the classic aspects of the matchup: the Bills scored the most points in the league, 428, and the Giants yielded the fewest, 211.

"We've come a long way," said Bruce Smith, the Defensive Player of the Year who has been the leader of a big-play defense that completely shut down Los Angeles on Sunday.

"We had 2-14 seasons and we've come from there to the Super Bowl. I think we have the players right now to win it."

Giants coach Bill Parcells obviously thinks he has the players, too. But they needed reinforcement this season.

"I think the thing that did the most for us psychologically was winning at Washington and winning at the Rams," he said. "Those were two big things ... but I knew we were going to go through a rough time. The thing is surviving, being able to stand at the end."

The reasons the Bills are in their first Super Bowl are as numerous as the weapons they brought to Tampa. They have had the talent since 1988, when they lost to Cincinnati in the AFC title game. They've added maturity, togetherness and a unity of purpose.

The seeds of discontent were purged in the offseason, particularly with Joe Devlin's retirement and the loss of Ronnie Harmon through Plan B free agency. They were considered the leaders of divisive factions on the team.

The Bills haven't just grown up and grown closer. They've grown in capability. Their offense, run almost exclusively from the no-huddle, has been devastating.

If any team can stop it, the Giants would be the candidate. New York is here for several reasons, too - superb coaching, veteran leadership, depth. But the main factor is, simply, a defense that has handled all kinds of attacks.

No-pass, no-play reform studied

AUSTIN (AP) - The state may want to consider reducing the penalty for not passing a course from six to three weeks' enforced absence from taking part in extracurricular activities, the Texas Education Agency staff said.

In a preliminary report to the State Board of Education, the staff said students and faculty in a study supported the reduced penalty.

Under the no pass, no play rule, students must pass every course during a six-week grading period to participate in extracurricular activities, such as sports or drama, in the following six weeks.

The rule is one of several reforms studied by TEA staff to determine the impact on students considered at risk of dropping out. The staff is halfway through a four-year study, said agency spokeswoman Jorjanna Price.

The study includes about 1,800 ninth and tenth grade "at-risk" students, a look at eight high schools and a statewide survey of principals.

More than 80,000 students in grades 7-12 were reported to have dropped out of school in Texas during the 1988-89 school year.

Students in the study expressed a positive attitude toward the no pass, no play rule.

The rule has resulted in coaches being more involved in athletes' academic work, better coordination between teachers and coaches and more remedial efforts to ensure students pass, the study said.

But 45 percent of the 1,800 students said they were denied the opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities during 1989-90. Being unable to participate was viewed by faculty and school district staff as a factor contributing to dropping out.

The consensus among students, faculty and staff was that the penalty period should be reduced to three weeks, according to the preliminary report.

Among other preliminary recommendations and policy issues were that officials may want to:

- Link sports and team budgets to student educational performance.

- Make coaches more accountable for student-athletes' educational performance.

- Consider offering students incentives for high attendance.

- Study the illegal use of vehicles resulting from a law requiring anyone under 18 to have a high school diploma or its equivalent, be enrolled in a high school equivalency program, or be a student to get a driver's license.

Runnin' Rebs stay atop college poll

By The Associated Press

No one can beat UNLV, the court or in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

Hours after the Runnin' Rebels were a unanimous No. 1 choice for the third straight week, they remained unbeaten by beating UC Santa Barbara 88-71.

The Gauchos, the last team to beat UNLV, 78-70 last season, became the 14th straight victim of the defending NCAA champions, who received all 64 first-place votes and 1,600 points in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The top four teams remained unchanged from last week, with Arkansas (17-1) No. 2, followed by Indiana (16-1) and Ohio State (15-0). Arkansas downed Florida State in Tallahassee, but Ohio State knocked off Indiana at Bloomington 93-85.

Arkansas received 1,518 points, Indiana 1,448 and Ohio State 1,434.

No. 24 New Orleans (15-2) and No. 22 Michigan State (12-4) were the two newcomers to the poll. The last time New Orleans appeared in the poll was the final week of the 1986-87 season, at 16th. Michigan State was ranked as high as No. 4 in preseason but fell out of the poll three weeks ago.

New Orleans beat Texas-Pan American 72-54 on Saturday. Michigan State beat Minnesota and Illinois in its recent outings.

Iowa, which had been 24th, and Seton Hall, 25th, fell out of the poll. Iowa lost 99-79 to Indiana and Seton Hall was beaten 78-64 by Syracuse.

Pistons pound Celtics again

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Celtics have won in Gardens, Arenas, Stadiums and Forums, but they still don't know how to play The Palace.

With Vinnie Johnson and Joe Dumars picking up the slack for injured Isiah Thomas, the Pistons kept the Celtics winless in seven trips to The Palace by beating Boston 101-90 Monday night.

It was a battle between two

Lori Micelli, field representative for the Women's International Bowling Congress, will be the guests speaker at the Hereford Women's Bowling Association's meeting at 5 p.m. Jan. 23 at K-Bob's Restaurant.

Questions dealing with league procedures and policies will be answered during the meeting. The agenda will also include discussion of the WBC Championship Tournament, senior programs, Young American Bowling Alliance and WBC projects.

The meeting is open to all members of the HWBA.

battered teams. Boston was without Larry Bird for the seventh straight game and also played without center Robert Parish. Detroit was without Thomas; Dumars had 26 points despite playing with a badly sprained big toe, and Dennis Rodman, Mark Aguirre and Johnson were aching after the first of a home-and-home series with Boston.

"Sometimes when things happen, you have to play harder," said Johnson, who had 18 points. "That's what we did tonight. Isiah's our captain. It's an adjustment to play without him. He brings the ball up the court for us. They knew that. That's why they were trying to trap us out there."

In other NBA action, it was the Los Angeles Lakers 110, Indiana 104; Chicago 117, Miami 106; Sacramento 95, Houston 91; New York 117, Philadelphia 116 in overtime; Washington 121, Orlando 119; and Denver 115, Minnesota 110.

As usual, the Pistons did it with defense. They allow a league-low 95.8 points per game and are 24-3 when holding opponents to less than 100 points.

Kevin McHale led the Celtics with 24 points, but had just six in the second half. Brian Shaw and Joe Kleine, Parish's replacement, each had 18 for Boston.

Lakers 120, Pacers 114

The Lakers made it seven straight wins as Magic Johnson led the way with 27 points and 15 assists.

Rik Smits gave Indiana a 74-63 lead in the opening seconds of the third period. But Johnson, who had 13 points in the third quarter, led a 20-6 run for an 83-80 Lakers lead with 6:55 left in the period.

Bulls 117, Heat 106

Michael Jordan scored 37 points, including 13 in the third period.

Chicago led 69-66 when Jordan hit a free throw to open an 11-3 run that made it 80-69 with 4:14 left in the third quarter. Miami got back to 80-73 with 3:11 left in the period, but Jordan had four baskets and Craig Hodges two, including a 3-pointer, as Chicago built a 93-79 lead heading into the final period.

Kings 97, Rockets 94

Antoine Carr scored six of his 19 points in the final three minutes.

Johnson's two free throws with 2:45 left tied it at 87. Carr made two free throws 14 seconds later to put the Kings on top for good. Travis Mays, who had 23 points, hit a jumper and Lionel Simmons added two 10-foot jumpers, giving the Kings a 95-91 lead with 42 seconds remaining.

Knicks 117, 76ers 116 OT

New York took advantage of six technical fouls against Philadelphia and Patrick Ewing had 37 points, 16 rebounds and six blocked shots.

Ewing scored six points in overtime. He tied the score at 111-111 with 2:56 left in the extra period, then gave the Knicks the lead for good with a basket 33 seconds later.

Bullets 121, Magic 119

Washington handed Orlando its fourth consecutive loss when Darrell Walker hit a jumper from the corner with 1.4 seconds remaining.

Walker's game-winning shot completed his third triple-double of the season.

Walker had 10 points, 15 rebounds and 13 assists.

Nuggets 115, Timberwolves 110

Denver snapped Minnesota's three-game road winning streak and defeated the Timberwolves for the seventh consecutive time behind Michael Adams' 24 points, including six free throws in the final 19 seconds.

There were 12 ties in the second half before Walter Davis' layup gave Denver the lead for good, 109-107, with 44 seconds remaining.

WTSU to offer course in sign language

The office of continuing education at West Texas State University will offer a beginning course in American Sign Language Jan. 24 through May 9. Classes will meet each Thursday from 7-9:50 p.m. in Room 203 of Old Main.

Instructor of the beginning sign language course will be Jeanne Harms, a special education teacher in the Canyon Independent School District, with nine years fluency in ASL. Harms has previously instructed a similar course for WTSU.

According to Dr. Henry Moreland, director of continuing education, the course focuses on developing skills in the area of facial and body gesturing, spatial and visual awareness, finger dexterity and appropriate hand positioning. Special emphasis will be on the development of expressive abilities and interpretive skills. A historical development of sign language and discussion of deaf cultures will also be included as a part of the curriculum.

The course will be offered for either three semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit, as well as non-credit. Tuition for graduate (EDX 5496) or undergraduate (EDX 496) credit is $95. Students who register for non-credit (Sign Language I) will pay $70. Both credit and non-credit instruction will consist of 45 classroom hours.

Enrollment is limited and registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Interested persons may register in the office of continuing education (Old Main Room 222) between the hours of 8 a.m. until noon or 1-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or by mail to WT Box 495, Canyon, Texas 79106.

For additional information on this and other courses offered by the office of continuing education at WTSU, call 806-656-2037.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Donald Trump's father apparently bailed him out of a financial problem last month.

Fred Trump, 85, had an attorney buy more than $3 million in chips from the Trump Castle casino on Dec. 17, The Wall Street Journal said Monday.

The money was enough for the younger Trump to make an $18.4 million payment due bondholders in the casino, surprising analysts who had said it appeared he lacked enough money to make the payment, officials said.

The transaction raises questions about whether the casino might have skirted state reporting requirements, according to a source who spoke to the newspaper on condition of anonymity.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Barry J. Baker, whose wife, Anjelica, is the daughter of Jose and Guadalupe Valdez of 914 Union, was recently commended while serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Texas, homeported in Alameda, Calif.

A 1987 graduate of Lincoln County High School in Stanford, Ky., he joined the Navy in December 1987.

According to a survey by the American Association of Blood Banks, about 1 in 5 Americans still has a fear of contracting AIDS by donating blood.

The association notes, however, that it is not possible to get aids by donating blood since in America only new and sterile needles are used in blood donation.

National Poison Prevention Week in March

"Children Act Fast...And So Do Poisons." That's the message of National Poison Prevention Week, which this year falls on March 17-23.

Experts at Henley Chemicals, a non-toxic bittering agent that is increasingly being added to household chemicals to make them too bitter to drink, report that if a child is accidentally poisoned or eats or drinks a substance which might be poison, there are over 100 Poison Control Centers in the United States that you can call to find out the necessary treatment to give the patient until you see a doctor. When you call a Poison Control Center, be prepared to give these facts over the phone:

- The victim's age.
- The victim's weight.
- The poison involved: was it swallowed, inhaled, absorbed through skin contact or splashed into the eyes?
- Any first aid which may have been given.
- If the person vomited.
- Your location, and how long it will take you to get to the hospital.
- Have the label ready when you call the Poison Control Center. The label provides information concerning the product's contents and advice on what immediate first aid to perform.
- If medicine has been swallowed, do not give anything by mouth until

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a successful businesswoman who suffers from panic attacks. Out of the blue, almost always when I'm in a public place, I begin to feel faint, my heart pounds and I think I'm going to die. My first panic attack occurred four years ago and they are getting more frequent and more intense. These attacks are ruining my life.

I have spent years trying to avoid situations where I might panic. My world is becoming smaller every day. I recently married the best man in the world. He knows nothing about my problem, and I'm ashamed to tell him because it is so embarrassing. He loves to travel and it's agony for me to go with him, but I've been forcing myself. I'm a white-knuckle flyer and almost faint on take-offs and landings.

I realize that this illness is now coming out of the closet. I know that research is being done to help the millions of people who are paralyzed by this crippling condition. It is impossible to describe how difficult it is to live with an illness that can come on without warning and knock you flat.

I've read that research indicates panic attacks have nothing to do with mental illness but are brought on by a chemical imbalance. I want to live a normal life again. Please help all of us by telling us where to go for help. — Chicago Closet Case.

DEAR CHICAGO: A great deal of progress has been made in this area and thousands of panic attack sufferers are finding relief thanks to some highly effective drugs and new psychotherapy approaches.

I have made it a practice not to identify specific drugs in this column for obvious reasons, but I hope those who need help will contact their physician. Meanwhile, anyone who wants information can write to the Anxiety Disorders Association of America, P.O. Box 42514, Washington, D.C., 20015-0514.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print my letter and I'll forward it to the person who needs to see it. If it fits other people's situation (and I'll bet it does), they're welcome to use it.

Dear "Friend": I welcomed you into my life and my home. You helped yourself to my friendship, my hospitality and my trust. Then you helped yourself to my husband.

I don't blame you for thinking he was wonderful. I thought so, too, when we first met. You saw a hard-working, successful man who was charming and good-looking. But he is no longer any of the above. He trashed his business because he spent too much time away from the office. Money is very tight now, and if I didn't have a good job we'd be up against it. You must be paying for everything because he doesn't have a spare dollar. He's put on weight and lost most of his hair. If you had met him today you wouldn't give him a second look.

You sacrificed your self-respect and lost my friendship for a man who now is broke and afraid to be seen with you. He's still living at home because he can't afford to move out. I'd kick him out if it weren't for the kids. You've got a real gem there, honey. Aren't you proud of yourself? — His Wife, Anywhere, USA

DEAR USA: The old adage seems strangely appropriate here: "Be careful what you pray for, you might get it." Thanks for writing.

NEW YORK (AP) - Singer Sting says the emotional impact of his parents' deaths within six months of each other in 1987 left him with a writer's block that lasted three years. "I was punished, in a way, because I didn't actually go through the mourning process," he told Rolling Stone magazine in its February issue.

But Sting, whose solo album, "The Soul Cages," was just released, said that when he acknowledged his grief and began thinking about his own mortality the block went away.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - Calling Sophia Loren "one of the genuine treasures of world cinema," the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has given her an honorary Oscar.

Miss Loren, 56, won a best actress Oscar in 1961 for the Italian production "Two Women," the first and only performer to gain an Oscar for work in a foreign language film. She finished a remake of the film in 1988.

She will receive her honorary Oscar during the Academy Awards ceremony March 25.

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) - Tennis great Billie Jean King has bought a fitness center for children, saying, "I wanted to invest my money in something I believed in."

"I used to tell the kids in my gym class when I was in school that it was great to work up a sweat," King said Monday at the opening of the Discovery Zone, one of eight she and two partners have opened across the country after buying the franchise for $400,000.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - Television and film star Tom Selleck has made a large donation to complete the Center for Motion Picture Study, a film library and archives.

Actor Karl Malden, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, declined Monday to say how much money Selleck gave, saying the star of the former CBS series "Magnum P.I.," wanted the amount to remain private.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports

AUSTIN - Thousands of people were in the streets, sabers were drawn, cannon fire boomed and countless helicopters lurked overhead. The government was being overthrown. But it wasn't a banana republic revolution. It was the inauguration of Governor Ann Richards. The sabers were drawn and held overhead by the Ross Volunteers of the Aggie Corp of Cadets. Ann Richards passed underneath them as she walked from the front door of the Capitol to the podium for the inauguration ceremony. The cannon fire was a nineteen gun salute performed by four 75-millimeter howitzers. Only presidents and other heads of state get 21. The overthrow of the government was, of course, the peaceful transition of power from Governor Clements' administration to Governor Richards' administration.

It was my first inauguration. The rain that had kept things gloomy for the preceding days had moved out and was replaced by a gusty West Texas wind—probably appropriate for a day of great speechmaking.

In a fine speech, Ann Richards declared that it was the first day of the "New Texas." She made a number of promises about education, budgets and ethics. Only time will tell if she will be able to keep those promises. In her speech, she referred more than once to the fact that "the people were reclaiming the Capitol." As I sat with Nancy, I found myself wondering who or what had occupied the Capitol until that point. Maybe Bill Clements is an alien. Ann Richards has the potential to be a great Governor. As a Democrat with a Democrat majority in the Senate and the House, she certainly should be able to win most of her legislative battles. More importantly, Ann Richards has a sense of humor. She genuinely likes people and is very adept at dealing with them. Her leadership skills are considerable. While I may not like all the directions in which she plans to lead us, she has the potential to be a real leader.

The executive branch of the Texas government is essentially run by boards and commissions appointed by the Governor. Ann Richards faces a great challenge in this area. If she can appoint to the boards and commissions not only Democrats, but conservative Democrats and, yes, even Republicans, without losing the support of the left wing of her party, she could forge a governorship with power and respect beyond that vested in the office by the State Constitution. If on the other hand, the liberal wing of her party prevents her from making appointments that truly reflect all of those who elected her, I believe that her ability to govern will be severely hampered.

As I sat listening to the many speeches dealing with weighty issues, I was put in mind of a poem written by Carlos Ashley that probably puts the day in its clearest perspective:

*Oh, the glamour and the clamor
That attend affairs of state
Seem to fascinate the rabble
And impress some folks as "great."*

*But the truth about the matter
In the scale of loss and gain—
Not one inauguration's worth
A good slow two-inch rain.*

Pentagon seeks 'accurate picture' of success

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon conceded today that it doesn't have "a fully accurate picture" of the success of U.S. and allied air strikes against Iraq, and the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee said that was "causing heartburn" on Capitol Hill.

But Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said he is still optimistic about the progress of Operation Desert Storm. "The evidence is, it's going extremely well," he said.

He cautioned, however, that the successes of the opening days of the war were creating "such high expectations of what the rest of the war is likely to be, that we can't match them."

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said today that there is not a huge gap between what the military is saying and what it knows about the damage.

"We don't have a fully accurate picture" about damage, Williams said in an interview on the NBC "Today" show.

Aspin, appearing on the same show, said, "We haven't got the specifics and that's causing heartburn in Congress, as well as it has in the press corps."

He said "the losses have been so low they may have set an unachievable standard for the rest of the war." He said it would have been realistic to expect loss of "somewhere in the range of 80-90 planes" at this point. "We've lost less than 20, not just the United States, but the whole allied coalition."

The Pentagon reported Monday that the aerial bombardment of Iraq and occupied Kuwait has been hampered by bad weather and that Iraq was using decoys to foil efforts to wipe out the mobile launchers that have fired Scud missiles at Israel and Saudi Arabia.

President Bush was furious at the Iraqi broadcast of interviews with captured pilots. He vowed: "This is not going to make a difference in the prosecution of the war against Saddam."

After briefings Monday, Rep.

Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., said, "My sense is there's no hurry to start the ground war."

Other lawmakers cautioned that the allied forces are in for a fight. "You can't plan for an easy war," said Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, a former Marine fighter pilot. "Who could take all this (bombing) and still sit there? That's a resilience I don't know we quite expected."

After days of marveling at the success of America's high-tech weaponry, the nation and the world got a harrowing glimpse of the harsh realities of conflict as Iraq displayed videotapes of seven captured pilots, battered and delivering halting statements against the war.

Bush, who was shot down as a naval aviator in World War II, called "the brutal parading of these allied pilots" a violation of the Geneva conventions regarding the treatment of POWs.

"America is angry about this," the president said. "If he (Saddam) thought this brutal treatment of pilots is a way to muster world support, he is dead wrong."

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney called the treatment of the captured pilots "a war crime." Their statements "clearly were coerced," he said.

The United States demanded that the International Red Cross be allowed to see the prisoners.

Khalid J. Shewayish, the Iraqi charge d'affaires, denied any mistreatment. He accused the United States and its allies of inflicting a "brutal and savage bombardment" on Iraqi civilians, including children and elderly people.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the United States was aiming at military targets, but added, "I'm sure there has been collateral damage" to civilian areas.

The Pentagon said the U.S. forces in Operation Desert Storm now number 472,000, with allies swelling the total to more than 600,000. Saddam has deployed a half-million-man army in and around Kuwait.

American pilot rescued in hair-raising mission

EDITOR'S NOTE - This story was taken from a pool report from Cox Newspapers and The Washington Post. It was reviewed by the military.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Two U.S. A-10 jets spent eight hours in the air - refueling four times - and rattled an Iraqi truck with machine-gun fire before rescuing a Navy pilot downed behind enemy lines, military officials say.

The A-10 pilots said they strayed from the truck - which was headed straight toward the downed A-6 "Intruder" flyer - to allow a search-and-rescue helicopter to swoop in to pluck the pilot from the desert floor.

"We could not allow him (the truck) to be there," said Capt. Randy Goff, one of the A-10 "Warhog" pilots. "We couldn't take the risk."

Military officials did not release the identity of the rescued flyer, nor was word immediately available on the fate of the second crew member of the two-seat, carrier-based bomber.

They said the pilot ejected into the featureless expanse of the desert after being hit by ground fire while taking part in the bombing of Iraq.

Goff, 26, from Jackson, Ohio, and Capt. Paul Johnson, 32, of Dresden, Tenn., members of the 354th Tactical Fighter Wing from Myrtle Beach, S.C., spent more than eight hours in the air, refueling four times as they located the Navy pilot around midday and talked to him over the radio.

A plan was devised to bring in the rescue helicopter.

"It is really exciting - the fact that you think the guy is going to get rescued," Goff said. "My mind was just rushing."

As the rescue helicopter neared the pre-arranged pickup spot, a large Iraqi truck drove into the area, apparently headed straight for the rescue site.

"Unfortunately, the truck was in the wrong place at the wrong time," Goff said.

The two A-10s raked the vehicle with 30mm machine guns. The truck was left smoking and in flames as the helicopter arrived. The downed pilot broke from cover and ran to safety.

It was the first time the two A-10 flyers saw him.

"The adrenalin was pumping for two hours after the pickup," Johnson said. "It's still pumping now."

When he returned to base there was a telephone message from the Navy pilot, Johnson said. "It's pretty much unprintable, but yes, he's real pleased," he said.

Further details on the mission - such as how long the pilot was on the ground, the amount of time the rescuers spent in enemy territory, and the location of the rescue - were not immediately available.

Growers recognized by Holly Sugar

A group of 68 growers was recognized at Saturday's Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet for being in the elite 10,000-pound Club. The growers averaged 10,000 or more pounds of sugar beets per acre on their plots in 1990. Each producer received a plaque from Holly Sugar for their accomplishment. Most years, very few producers reach the 10,000-pound range. Because of the unprecedented production, the 1990 campaign is still going on, the longest in the 26-year history of the plant in Hereford.

HOLLY

States sugar industry from being sacrificed during GATT negotiations. Although the negotiations recently fell apart, Kempner warned against complacency.

Kempner also reviewed the impact of the 1988 merger of Holly and Imperial. It has been a fruitful marriage for both companies and for beet and cane growers.

Kempner said Imperial Holly's net income has risen 24 percent, dividends are up 26 percent, and cash flow has also increased significantly. Based on 1990 sales, Imperial Holly is No. 434 on the Fortune 500 list, and is 64th among the Top 100 U.S. food processing companies.

Since the merger, the company has made great strides in developing a new research and development program for the beet sugar side and has made sizable investments in plants, including the largest, a $13.4 million ion exclusion plant in Hereford that will boost the company's sugar output here.

Last year, Holly paid over $250,000 in property taxes in Hereford and had a payroll of over $5 million in Hereford. The company is also granting a four-year scholarship to a Hereford student each year.

"I hope it is very easy to see how pleased I am with the new company," Kempner said. "We have a very bright future with a great group of growers."

Also at the banquet, 68 growers were presented plaques for being 10,000-pound growers. Dennis Printz, agricultural manager for Holly in Hereford, said most years would see "three or four growers" in the elite group.

FOOD AWARENESS

Superbowl-Super Snacks

The big climax for the football season is on January 27th this year. I love to watch football, but I'm glad to see the end of the season also.

This is a time to have friends in to watch the game and of course, you must have all sorts of snack food and beverages available.

Some easy to prepare, tasty snacks are popcorn and or flavored popcorn, trail mix, pretzels and chips. I would also like to suggest a tray of bite size fruits. Grapes are the perfect selection and they come in many different colors and sizes. Add some fresh, sliced apples or sliced pears dipped in orange juice to keep form discoloring.

A tray of fresh vegetables with a couple dips is a refreshing, healthy snack.
