Local Roundup

Emergency workers kept busy

Members of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department were kept busy on Wednesday as they responded to one fire and three accidents. Fire officials reported that damage was minor in a fire on top of a feed mill at Barrett and Crofoot East. Firemen responded to the call at 6:51 Wednesday evening. Emergency personnel were called to Gearn Industries late Wednesday morning after a young man fell from a ladder. The man's injuries proved to be minor, and he is expected to return to work by Monday morning. City firemen also responded to two major traffic accidents on Wednesday. Details of those accidents are included in a separate article in today's Brand.

Incidents investigated by the Hereford Police Department were: A request for a civil standby in the 800 block of Blevins; theft of a purse in the 800 block of Brevard; a report of a runaway juvenile in the 800 block of Knight; harassing phone calls in the 200 block of Star; a lost or stolen dog in the 300 block of S. 25 Mile Ave.; trespassing in the 200 block of Ave. F; and a report of the theft of money in the 400 block of Ranger.

City police issued five citations and investigated two traffic accidents, one major and one minor.

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office investigated one report of a juvenile problem east of town off U.S. Highway 60, and a report of livestock being killed by dogs off North Progressive Road.

Seven persons arrested

Six arrests were made by city officers on Wednesday. They were: A man, 23, for public affray; a woman, 72, for shoplifting; a man, 31, for assault; a woman, 21, for public affray; a man, 20, for disorderly conduct; and a man, 37, for no liability insurance (second offense) and driving while license suspended.

One woman, 52, was arrested by county officials. She was charged with public intoxication.

Shirley open house tonight

Shirley Intermediate School will host an open house at 6:30 p.m. today at the school.

Times have been set aside for parents to visit with teachers and to learn more about the Shirley parent-teacher organization. All parents are urged to attend.

Taco supper Friday

The junior class at Hereford High School will host a soft taco supper from 5-7 p.m. at the HHS cafeteria.

Soft tacos and trimmings will be served for $3.50 per plate. All proceeds will benefit junior class activities.

Fair, warm forecast

Tonight will be fair with a low near 50. South winds will be 5-15 mph.

Friday will be sunny and very warm with a high of 88. Southwest winds will be 10-20 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 46 after a high Wednesday of 89.

Commodity distribution delayed

Panhandle Community Services has announced that commodities will not be distributed in October or November in Hereford.

The next planned commodity distribution will be Dec. 14 at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 12, the 285th day of 1989. There are 80 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 12, 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered the New World as his ships arrived in the present-day Bahamas.

On this date:

In 1861, the Confederate ironclad Manassas attacked the northern ship Richmond on the Mississippi River.

In 1870, Gen. Robert E. Lee, the Confederate military commander, died in Lexington, Virginia, at age 63.

In 1915, English nurse Edith Cavell was executed by the Germans in occupied Belgium during World War I.

In 1933, bank robber John Dillinger escaped from a jail in Allen County, Ohio, with the help of his gang, who killed the sheriff.

In 1942, during World War II, American naval forces defeated the Japanese in the Battle of Cape Esperance.

In 1960, Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev disrupted a U.N. General Assembly session by pounding his desk with his shoe during a dispute.

In 1964, the Soviet Union launched a "Voskhod" space capsule with a three-man crew in the first manned mission involving more than one crew member.

In 1973, President Nixon nominated House minority leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

In 1976, it was announced in China that Hua Guo-feng had been named to succeed the late Mao Tse-tung as chairman of the Communist Party.

In 1977, the U.S. Supreme Court heard arguments in the "reverse discrimination" case of Allan P. Bakke, a white student denied admission to the University of California Medical School at Davis.

In 1985, a Lebanese newspaper published a photograph of what was purported to be the lifeless body of American hostage William Buckley, said to have been executed by Islamic Jihad.

all the trimmings will be served for $3.50 per plate. Proceeds will benefit activities planned by the junior class, and tickets will be available at the door.

Candidates taking sides on lottery

AUSTIN (AP) - Two declared Democratic gubernatorial candidates say they favor a state lottery, while Republican hopefuls aren't so sure.

Launching his campaign this week, Democrat Jim Mattox called for development of a lottery game to raise money for education and a war on drugs. His most immediate opponent - Democratic primary rival Ann Richards - said she favors a lottery, too.

"I don't know anybody running for state office on the Democratic ticket who doesn't support a state lottery. That's a given. But the lottery is not a substitute for economic growth and diversification" that are keys to needed improvements, Ms. Richards said Wednesday.

Among three of the GOP contenders, however, the lottery's number wasn't coming up quite as strongly.

Clayton Williams said he would leave it up to voters.

"I'm not really a gambler. I got all the gambling out of my blood because I'm a wildcatter," the Midland oilman said. "Whatever the people vote on would suit me. If the people want it, that's OK with me."

Former secretary of state Jack Rains personally opposes a lottery game but sees it as a better way to raise money than more taxes.

"If all existing revenue sources were exhausted, before additional taxes were levied, Jack would support allowing the people of Texas to vote on a state lottery," said his press secretary, Phyllis Spittler.

Kent Hance said he personally opposes a lottery and would "vote against it" should the proposal make the ballot. But press secretary Mark Sanders said Hance "respects the voters' right to decide this issue" and wouldn't seek to keep the question off the ballot.

Although lawmakers so far have defeated lottery proposals, the game may find more support due to the Texas Supreme Court's unanimous ruling that demands an overhaul of the public school finance system. Some legislators have said the answer may be a lottery or state income tax.

Gov. Bill Clements, who's not seeking re-election, said he would should blame two Democrats - Mattox and former Gov. Mark White - for county jail crowding.

"Mattox and White ... knuckled under to federal Judge William Wayne Justice on the Ruiz (prison reform) case and, as a result, gave up control in setting policy for the state prisons," he said, adding that the state is "derelict in its duties" for not paying counties that hold state inmates.

- U.S. Rep. John Bryant, Democratic candidate for attorney general, pledged to back a tax increase or budget cuts to provide more law Council.

Bullock's primary election opponent, Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, announced hiring of a new campaign manager - Bob Munson, previously an adviser to Louisiana Gov. Buddy Roemer.

Hints from Heloise

Mrs. Johnny Trotter served as hostess when members of Hereford Music Study Club met in her home Monday afternoon.

Mary Thomas, program leader, gave a brief discussion on W.S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan.

Singing selections from the operetta "HMS Pinafore" were a vocal ensemble of Leslie Woodard, Pat Fisher, Ann Meyer, Violet Reinauer and Susan Shaw who performed "We Sail the Ocean Blue." They were accompanied by Barbara Manning on the piano. Reinauer also performed "I'm Called Little Buttercup" and Woodard sang "I'm the Captain of the Pinafore."

From the operetta "Mikado", the vocal trio of Meyer, Shaw and Fisher, sang "Three Little Maids From School" and Meyer vocalized "The Flowers That Bloom in Spring."

Piano selections from Sullivan, played by Marcella Bradley, included "The Lost Chord" and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

STORING YOUR BARBECUE GRILL

Dear Heloise: Before storing your barbecue grill away for the winter months, be sure and wash the grate well. An unwashed grate sitting all winter can build up bacteria that will cause food poisoning.

This happened to my family this past summer. The barbecue grate was not cleaned well before storing, and when we brought it out for the first summer barbecue, my husband did not wash the grate nor did we use aluminum foil over it. Needless to say, we both ended up with food poisoning.

Even though we now wash the grate after each use, a good rule of thumb is to also wash it before using, especially after storage. — Evelyn Bowser, Canfield, Ohio

Herd seeks redemption from Lobos

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces will be looking to redeem themselves Friday for last year's 19-6 loss to the Lovelland Lobos, according to Coach Don Cumpton.

"The Lovelland fans managed to rub a little salt into the wound after the game, which eventually decided the District 1-4A championship, as Hereford partisans were instructed to 'Take your cow and go home!'"

"This is a big game for us," Cumpton said of the 7:30 p.m. contest at Whiteface Stadium. "They beat us last year over there, and just to be real honest, kind of embarrassed us. We certainly hope to redeem ourselves come Friday night."

Cumpton said the Lobos (3-2 on the year, 1-2 in district) will offer the Herd (2-2, 1-1) stiff competition despite losing two in a row.

"Of course they're the defending district champions," he said, "and that makes them tough. Right now, they're the No. 1 defensive 4A team listed in the Lubbock paper in the South Plains area. They've got the leading passer (quarterback Jimmy Payton) in the South Plains area in 4A. They're a good solid club."

Lovelland lost to Estacado, 19-13, at home last week in a game Cumpton described as "very similar to our game with Estacado. There were just a couple of things that could have turned it around."

Cumpton said the herd must overcome that area-best defense in order to win.

"The strength of their team is their defense without a question," he said. "They play good defense. They show you a lot of different looks and try to create some confusion in your blocking schemes. You have to be really mentally sharp when you play them or you'll turn somebody loose every time."

"That'll be our critical thing for us; to pick up when they're doing what. They do a lot of stunting. They try to create bad plays and our goal in the game, offensively, is not to have a bad play. We don't want to get into a long-yardage situation."

Lovelland coach Buster Leaf, who is in his second year at the Lobo helm, said his defensive scheme is designed to take advantage of the Lobos' abilities.

"We're not just real big up front," Leaf said, "so we go with a lot of different sets to utilize our quickness."

We're more of an attack defense than a reading defense and our quickness is well suited to that."

On offense, the Lobos have been throwing more than they would like, Leaf said.

"We're primarily an option team," he said. "Everything we do is based on the option. But we've had to go more with the pass because people have been able to shut us down running."

"Our quarterback and our wide receivers, Olando Coursey and Anthony Dawn, have enabled us to do that and it's kept us in our games."

Cumpton said the Herd will have to do more than concentrate on just one or two aspects of the Lobo attack, though.

"They're pretty multiple (offensively)," he said. "They do a lot of different things. I think their basic set's an I formation, but they run a lot of option, power, sweeps, and then they can throw the ball. We'll have to be ready for all of it."

Cumpton said the Herd will be coming off what may have been its best game of the year against Pampa.

"First of all, I thought the second half of the Pampa game was the best we've played all year on defense," he said. "We need to take that performance and build on it and continue to play that way."

"Offensively, I was very happy with the balance as far as running and throwing. And we made some big plays in that game. That's something we haven't done a whole lot of and those kinds of things make you a better ball club."

One of the biggest plays was a 73-yard touchdown pass from Jason Walterscheid to Russell Backus that negated a 99-yard fumble return by the Harvesters.

"I think that really showed a lot of courage in our team to handle that kind of adversity," Cumpton said of the turnaround, "going from a two-touchdown lead to being two points behind just like that."

"I certainly thought the team showed a lot of courage, plus I think they were pretty determined not to let that one particular thing ruin our performance. I was proud of them for that, I was impressed. I thought they showed a lot of class."

Cumpton said the Herd must continue to improve, and the Lovelland defense will be a major test.

"The defensive part of it where they try to do so many things just forces you to be alert," he said. "You must be alert. And we would also like to eliminate some of our little old penalties we've been getting."

One feature of the Lobos both coaches said may have an effect on the game is Lovelland's use of two-way players.

"We'll have six or eight guys going both ways," Leaf said. "It's not something you like to do, especially in a 4A league, but we felt we had to have our best players on the field as much as possible."

"We've been very fortunate that we haven't had any injuries to any of these players and we substitute a lot to try to keep them fresh."

"I think that depends on the weather and the heat, Cumpton said of the situation. "And it depends on certain individual kids. Some kids can do that and some can't."

"Last year we played three or four kids both ways. You don't like to do that, but sometimes you have to. They may feel they were in a position where they need to do that."

While the Lobos have been able to avoid serious injury, Hereford has lost another front line player in running back Chris Steward.

"Chris sprained his ankle in practice Monday," Cumpton said. "We'll probably hold him out. He's going to be questionable."

Among the old injuries for the Herd, Cumpton said linebacker Jason Lueb also remains questionable.

"Jason has worked out some this week for the first time in two weeks, but he's still questionable."

"We do have (defensive back) Chris Tardy (thigh bruise) back this week and (tight end) Aaron Burns, who has been out for a couple of weeks with a broken thumb. So, we've lost a couple, but we gained a couple."

Cumpton said the Herd's depth at most positions has been a plus in the wake of the injuries to starters.

"I was happy with the kids who replaced them," he said. "Mike Daniel went in for Steve Tucker (at defensive end) and played a great game at Pampa. Cody Page played for Jason Lueb and did well."

"That's the neat thing when somebody gets hurt or banged up a little, is to watch somebody else step in there and do the job. And that's what you have to do to win."

"We have a lot of kids out (for the team) who want to play, and up until this point, when we've called on them they've responded. I don't think that will change."

Cowboys deal Walker to Minnesota

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) - Dallas running back Herschel Walker has been traded to the Minnesota Vikings and moved his belongings out of the Cowboys suburban headquarters today.

"I'm outta here but I've got a lot of good memories," Walker told Cowboys assistant equipment manager Jerry Fowler as he cleaned out his locker at Valley Ranch before dawn.

Walker then boarded a plane for Minnesota with his agent.

"He's accepted the deal to play for Minnesota," said Lee Martin, producer of Walker's Dallas TV show. "From what Herschel told me, it's not so much that he wants to go to Minnesota, he just feels that he wasn't wanted here."

Vikings general manager Mike Lynn visited Walker's home Wednesday to try to convince him to join Minnesota. The Vikings and the Cowboys had agreed to a package this week for Walker, who had spent several days trying to make up his mind on the matter.

In Minneapolis, Lynn would not confirm the trade.

When told he has a running back in Walker, Lynn said, "We do? Can you wait a second. You're speculating. You're speculating. The deal is not done until we announce it. I've got no comment. If the Cowboys have made an announcement, that's one thing. Before you run off on a limb, get your facts straight."

Cowboys owner Jerry Jones and coach Jimmy Johnson, who took over the team in February and have struggled to an 0-5 start, had no immediate comment.

But Fowler said Walker told him, "I'll never forget my years in Dallas. I loved Dallas and I intend to keep my home here, but it's time to move on."

Walker told Fowler that he will play against the Green Bay Packers, the Vikings' opponent, on Sunday. Ironically, Walker just played against the Packers for the Cowboys last Sunday.

Martin wasn't as sure.

"I haven't talked to him about that, but based on everything else they wouldn't put him in there Sunday because he isn't familiar with the blocking schemes and the system," Martin said.

Walker's equipment is being shipped to the Vikings by overnight express, Fowler said.

For Walker, the Cowboys will receive a combination of veteran players and draft picks, reports say. However, which Vikings players are headed south was not immediately clear. Broadcast reports in Dallas and Minneapolis mentioned running back Darrin Nelson, linebackers Jesse Solomon and David Howard, defensive back Issiac Holt and Pro Bowl cornerback Carl Lee.

The producer said Walker would be available for comment later today.

On Wednesday night, Lynn predicted any deal would not be concluded soon.

"We're a lot closer today than, say, we were yesterday, and certainly a heck of a lot closer than we were on June first, when all this really started," Lynn told a Minnesota television station.

Lynn said Walker and his wife were not extremely knowledgeable about life in Minnesota.

"They really didn't know anything about this state and like most Americans, think this is Siberia," Lynn said.

Jones said the Vikings were the only team the Cowboys were talking trade with.

Walker's agents were reported to be asking a renegotiated contract if he leaves the Cowboys. Walker is making $1 million a season and his contract expires in 1990.

In pass-oriented offense of new coach Johnson, Walker has carried only 69 times for 202 yards this year, a 2.9 average. He has scored only touchdowns and his longest run has been just 20 yards.

Walker complained that he wasn't getting the ball enough as the Cowboys skidded to the winless start, worst for the club since 1960.

Last year, Walker rushed for 1,514 yards on 361 carries and caught 53 passes for 505 yards. Walker also became only the 10th player in NFL history to gain more than 2,000 yards from scrimmage in a season.

Johnson has denied Walker doesn't fit into his system.

"Yes, he fits into our system and I'd like to have a back who can block like Herschel Walker, run the football like Herschel Walker and catch the football like Herschel Walker," Johnson said.

Walker, 28, came to the Cowboys in 1986 after the United States Football League folded, Dallas spent a fifth-round draft pick to get the rights to sign him.

Walker won the Heisman Trophy in 1982, his junior season at the University of Georgia.

Eastern bloc meets NBA

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

Sarunas, Drazen, Vlade, Zarko and Alexander are joining Magic, Larry, Michael and Karl in the NBA this season, and they have the cars and the shopping bags to prove it.

Alexander Volkov and Sarunas Marchulionis of the Soviet Union and Vlade Divac, Drazen Petrovic and Zarko Paspalj of Yugoslavia are becoming capitalist basketball players.

Paspalj is probably the least known of the five Eastern Europeans, but already has gained a measure of fame with the San Antonio Spurs.

San Antonio radio stations are playing "The Mark of Zarko," which is sung to the tune of "The Mark of Zorro."

Paspalj is wide-eyed over American grocery and department stores.

"In Yugoslavia, you have to go to one store for this, another for that," he said. "Here you can go to one store for almost everything."

But Paspalj is finding the Spurs' training camp a struggle.

"In the NBA, I have big problems," he said after a three-hour workout. Paspalj is getting lessons from All-Star forward Terry Cummings, who at 6-foot-9 is about the same size as Paspalj.

"He is strong, and maybe a little quicker than me," Paspalj said in broken English. "It is not possible to just stop him. In Europe, maybe only two guys as strong as him, but nobody as good. Not everybody in the NBA can be as good as he is."

Marchulionis, playing for the Golden State Warriors, appears at home in his new environment. He lives in a suburb of Oakland, drives a Mercedes and has joined a health club.

Recently, he was spotted wearing a Los Angeles Clippers T-shirt.

"Worst team, but they have the best T-shirts," Marchulionis said.

A Lithuanian, Marchulionis is reminded frequently of what was left behind. He recalled watching a recent TV special on the Soviet Union and sitting enthralled as familiar scenes passed on the screen.

"It seemed so far away," he said. "We call our parents and we tell them about this house, the car, the store. They listen, and they say 'Yes,' but they don't understand this life."

Petrovic recently had a cyst removed from his lower back, so hasn't participated in drills with his team, the Portland Trail Blazers. He has been able only to practice shooting.

"I'm anxious to play," he said. "I know I can help this team."

Petrovic is perhaps the most flamboyant of the East Europeans, with a shooting and passing style similar to the late Pete Maravich. Although he has been the star wherever he's played, Petrovic said he is willing to accept a backup guard role behind Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter.

"He'll be one of the more charismatic players in the league, I think," said Bucky Buckwalter, the Blazers' vice president of player personnel.

Divac, probably the least skilled in English of the new arrivals, is spending his first week with the Los Angeles Lakers at training camp in Honolulu under the tutelage of the retired Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Once when Divac had the ball, instead of moving toward the basket, he took a fadeaway jump shot. The ball went through the basket and the Yugoslav looked satisfied, but Abdul-Jabbar shook his head.

"That's not what we want," Abdul-Jabbar said, then waited for his words to be translated. "You want to go strong to the basket."

They tried again. The next time, Divac dipped a shoulder, muscled in and missed a left-handed hook.

"That's what we want," Abdul-Jabbar said.

The Atlanta Hawks have been impressed with Volkov, considered a good all-around shooter, passer and rebounder.

But the Hawks - with Dominique Wilkins, Kevin Willis, Antoine Carr and Cliff Levingston - are top-heavy at forward, Volkov's position. So Volkov's role is still to be determined.

Harris rates Hereford 12 points over Lobos

The Hereford Whitefaces have been made a 12-point favorite for their Friday game with the Levelland Lobos, according to the Harris Rating System.

The Herd comes into the game with a 2-2 season record and is 1-1 in the District 1-4A standings. Hereford evened both marks with a 29-19 win at Pampa last week. The win boosted the Whitefaces five spots in the Harris Class 4A rankings to No. 41 and raised their power rating one point to 173.

Levelland (3-2 overall, 1-2 in district) suffered its second straight loss in 1-4A play, 19-13 to Estacado, after opening the season with three wins. The Lobos played the Matadors a close game and held steady at No. 101 while adding two rating points to 161 as a result.

In other District 1-4A games, all on Friday night, Estacado and Dunbar meet in Lubbock while Frenship visits Borger and Randall travels to Dumas with Pampa taking the week off.

Estacado (4-1, 3-0) vs. Dunbar (0-5, 0-3) -- This game pits the first against the worst as Estacado remains undefeated in district play while Dunbar is still trying to find somebody to beat.

The Matadors survived against Levelland to keep the district lead, but close score cost them seven places in the state standings to No. 27 and knocked two points off their rating to 176.

The Panthers play their first Friday night game of the year in Lubbock after dropping a 14-8 decision to Dumas on Saturday. Fumbles were what did Dunbar in against the Demons. Two turnovers inside their own 20-yard line set up Demon touchdowns while three more deep in Dumas territory ended possible scoring drives. The loss dropped the Panthers 21 places to No. 132 and carved nine points off their rating to 148.

Harris rates Estacado a 28-point favorite for the game.

Frenship (2-2, 1-1) at Borger (3-2, 2-1) -- Borger busted Randall's bubble in a big way last week, handing the Raiders their first loss of the year with a 42-0 rout. The win lifted the Bulldogs 23 places to No. 50 and added four points to their rating to 171.

The Tigers actually moved up two spots after an open date to No. 90 while maintaining a rating of 163.

Borger gets the Harris pick by eight points.

Randall (3-1, 1-1) at Dumas (2-2-1, 2-1) -- The Demons will be looking to extend their winning streak to three games and avenge last year's loss, the only win Randall had in '88.

The Raiders will try to prove the disaster with Borger was a fluke, not the first three games of the season.

Dumas finally earned a little respect with its second straight win, jumping 19 places to No. 115 and boosting its rating eight points to 154.

Randall dropped 17 places to No. 93 and saw its rating drop four points to 162.

The Raiders go into the game as eight-point favorites.

Pampa (2-3, 1-2) open date -- The Harvesters get a week off to recover from two straight losses to Estacado and Hereford. Last week's defeat dropped Pampa seven places to No. 66 and shaved one point of its rating to 168. The Harvesters return to action next week at Levelland.

Fearless Forecasters

Temple really did make his own picks last week, and his record reflects that. The picks we made for him went 11-14.

Craig doesn't accuse Eckersley yet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - When Dennis Eckersley strides in to make his first World Series appearance against the San Francisco Giants, Roger Craig is sure to be watching closely.

But the Giants manager will only hint playfully at whether he plans to raise the "foreign substance" issue that nearly created an international incident in the American League playoffs between Toronto and Oakland.

Athletics manager Tony La Russa said this week that a man of Craig's baseball stature "wouldn't pull something" like Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston did when he asked the umpires to search Eckersley during Game 5 of the playoffs last Sunday.

It's not that Craig can't take a compliment; he's just not sure La Russa's right.

"He don't know me that well," Craig said, his eyes twinkling, as the Giants held their first World Series workout at Candlestick Park. "If I think someone's cheating, whether it's a spring training game or whatever, I'm going to try to stop him."

Craig, after all, has been trying without success for years to stop Houston's Mike Scott, whom he accuses of scuffling balls.

After enjoying a day off after Monday's clinching of the National League pennant, the Giants focused seriously for the first time on the team located 10 miles across San Francisco Bay. Craig named Don Robinson as his Game 3 starter, following Scott Garrelts and Rick Reuschel, and said Mike LaCoss, Kelly Downs and Garrelts are being considered for Game 4. He said Ernest Riles will be his designated hitter for games played at Oakland.

But that news was overshadowed, even for the players, by the conspicuous absence of Kevin Mitchell.

Mitchell, who's expected to be at practice this afternoon, incurred the wrath of Craig and his teammates over what the club described as a misunderstanding about the day of the first mandatory workout. The slugging outfielder had flown home to San Diego and was unable to make it back on time even though he apparently found out about the Wednesday practice from hitting coach Dusty Baker Tuesday night.

Craig said Mitchell faces a substantial fine.

"I feel bad about it," Craig said. "I feel bad for the ballclub. Some of the players were a little upset. I think they all expected me to do something, and I am going to do something."

Mitchell, who led the major leagues with 47 home runs, was the only no-show. One player who disapproved was Clark, who at first refused to comment on the matter, then said later, "Everybody keeps saying Clark and Mitchell, Clark and Mitchell, Clark and Mitchell."

But it's a 24-man team. ... Everybody has to police himself."

Baker suggested that perhaps Mitchell couldn't catch a plane north Wednesday morning.

"I'm sure Kevin's working someplace," he said. "I know Kevin. I'd want to bet you anything on earth he's somewhere hitting right now."

Canseco ready for Series

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Jose Canseco used his time on the disabled list this season to learn about life in the big leagues.

Right now, nobody can hit a baseball as high or as far as Canseco. He hits big home runs, which bring big expectations.

Last season, Canseco became the first major leaguer ever to hit 40 homers and steal 40 bases in one season in leading the Oakland Athletics to the American League pennant.

In Game 1 of the World Series against Los Angeles last season, Canseco hit a grand slam in the second inning. He went 0-for-19 the rest of the Series and the Dodgers won in five games.

"Anybody who says I lost that World Series doesn't know what they're talking about," Canseco said.

Canseco was the AL's most valuable player in a unanimous selection, but the postseason failure followed him all winter.

On March 7 in spring training, he broke a bone in his left hand and reinjured the hand on March 22.

Canseco missed 88 games, but that wasn't his biggest problem.

There were brushes with the law over speeding, improper vehicle papers and gun possession.

"People would stop me and ask what happened in the World Series," Canseco said. "What could I say?"

"This year could have broke me, but it taught me a lot. Everything in my life has happened for a reason."

Canseco came back on July 13 and ended up with 17 homers and 57 RBIs.

In Game 4 of the playoffs at Toronto, he hit a 480-foot home run into the third deck of the SkyDome.

Canseco wants to have fun on and off the baseball field.

"I don't pay attention to what people say anymore," Canseco said. "That's one thing I have learned."

"Baseball is nothing," he added. "What's baseball when compared to death? What's baseball when compared to starvation? It's a game. I could go 20-for-20 or 0-for-100."

Canseco is heading for the $4 million season category soon.

He has the ability to turn a crowd on and turn the opposition off with one swing of the bat.

The focus in the World Series against the San Francisco Giants will be the matchup of Canseco and Mark McGwire against Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell.

"He's hot," Canseco said of Clark. "Everything he hits is falling in. If we stop Clark and Mitchell, we have a pretty good chance."

If not, Jose Canseco will just drive away - very fast.

Heisman hopefuls meet

By RICK WARNER
AP Football Writer

Expect a lot of Heisman hype during Saturday's Notre Dame-Air Force telecast on ESPN.

Quarterbacks Tony Rice of Notre Dame and Dee Dowis of Air Force are two of the leading contenders for college football's top award, and their head-to-head duel on national television could have a major impact on the voting.

Notre Dame has produced a record seven Heisman winners, so Rice has tradition on his side. But ESPN analyst Beano Cook says Dowis also has some built-in support.

"He's a military man, and we love to vote for people in uniform," he says.

While Major Harris' Heisman stock went down after a poor showing in West Virginia's loss to Virginia Tech, Andre Ware's continued to soar after a record-breaking performance against Baylor. The Houston quarterback completed 33 of 53 passes for 514 yards and six touchdowns against the nation's top pass defense.

"The question is, will writers vote for a player whose school is on probation?" Cook said. "I think they will. If Ware keeps this up, he can definitely win the Heisman."

As for Notre Dame-Air Force,

Cook thinks the top-ranked Fighting Irish will overpower the No. 17 Falcons.

"Dowis has a better supporting cast for war, but Rice has a better one for football," he says.

Book review given on First Ladies

Argen Draper reviewed the book "Presidential Wives" by Paul F. Boller, Jr. for the members of Valeda Study Club when they met in the home of Ruth Fish Monday evening.

Boller is a history professor at the Texas Christian University. His collection of little known facts about the nation's First Ladies make it a fascinating view of history.

Argen's favorite quotation from the book was made by Carolyn Harrison. "We have within ourselves the elements of destruction, our foes are from within; not without. Our hope is unity and self-sacrifice."

The author recognized all of these wives, nieces or sisters of presidents as pace-setters. All were devoted to their families and to their president. Most handled the stress of their duties very well. A common thread among the ladies was their vein of iron. This helped them cope with their grief as they buried husbands and many of their children. Many of their wives died in poverty.

Argen listed an interesting happening or a remembered accomplishment of each First Lady. Martha Washington never lived in the White House. Hannah VanBuren was the first to be a United States citizen. Abigail Fillmore is remembered for starting the first library in the White House. The most abused by the press and most hated by the people was Mary Lincoln. Emily Harrison's most outstanding contribution was refurbishing the 100 year-old home, cleaning out closets, repainting the furniture and raising flowers for decorating. She also created a museum for the china of the White House.

Argen urged all the members and guests present to read "President Wives".

President Norma Walden led the group in the reading of the club collect and the members voted to give $50 to the Hereford Senior Citizens building fund.

A letter was read from Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence asking for volunteer workers.

Guests for the meeting were Juanita Coker, Helen Finley, Draper, and Maxine Hutson.

Members present were Marcella Bradley, Juanita Brown, Francis Crume, Betty Dickson, Fish, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutchins, Joyce Ritter, Walden and Margaret Zinser.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Is it possible to have swelling of the abdomen from retention of fluid? I am on Lanoxin for congestive heart failure. This is the only part of my anatomy in which there is any swelling. I do not drink alcohol, nor much of any liquid. My abdomen has been swollen for the past 10 years. I was told not to exercise. Thank you in advance for any information you can send on congestive heart failure.

DEAR READER: Yes, you can accumulate fluid in the abdomen from congestive heart failure if the right side of the heart has failed. That is when a patient develops swelling of the feet and ankles and even fluid in the abdomen. The liver may also become engorged with fluid. That can lead to one of the several different types of cirrhosis of the liver. And cirrhosis of the liver may also cause accumulation of fluid in the abdomen.

You should not assume that the swelling of your abdomen is fluid. Your doctor could tell you whether it is or not from his physical examination. You could have an enlarged abdomen for the reasons other people develop one — gas, an enlarged organ such as the liver, abdominal fat or factors related to muscle tone and posture.

You certainly should not exercise without your doctor's approval. However, one of the most effective exercises to improve strength of the abdominal muscles does not require a lot of work. You simply pull your stomach muscles in and hold them in the contracted state while you are sitting, lying down or standing up. Then relax your muscles and repeat. Don't do this without consulting your physician and if he says OK, then don't do too many at a time. This will not help if the abdomen is enlarged because of fluid, fat accumulation, gaseous distention, enlarged organs or a tumor, nor will any other exercise under these conditions.

There is a difference between right and left heart failure which I have explained in Special Report 64, Congestive Heart Failure, which I am sending you at your request. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/64, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I had Bell's palsy two years ago. I have no use of the muscles on the right side of my mouth and my right eye doesn't shut completely. The doctor said I had a dry eye. A doctor told me it has gone on too long to be Bell's palsy. I would appreciate anything you can tell me.

DEAR READER: Bell's palsy is an inflammation of the nerve that supplies the face causing paralysis of facial muscles with distortion of the mouth, particularly when smiling, and may make it impossible to close the eye on the affected side.

About 85 percent of the cases have a spontaneous recovery, with or without any treatment. Many physicians advocate early prednisone treatment because of its effective anti-inflammatory action.

But 15 to 20 percent of patients do not have a complete recovery. In some cases there is complete and permanent loss of function of the facial nerve. The fact that you have persistent changes does not mean you didn't have Bell's palsy. In severe cases with a permanent loss of function, surgery to connect another cranial nerve (hypoglossal-facial nerve anastomosis) can restore function of the facial muscles.

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.00
2 days per word	24	4.00
3 days per word	34	6.00
4 days per word	44	8.00

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Delilah Wallenda says she's proud to carry on the family circus tradition performing on the high wire, but she isn't sure her children ought to follow in her ever-so-careful footsteps.
"I'm torn," the sixth-generation high-wire artist said Tuesday between performances at the Tennessee State Fair. "I would like for them to carry on the tradition, but there is a lot of heartache in the circus. The circus is not doing well. There's too much other entertainment available."
Ms. Wallenda and her husband and high-wire partner, Terry Truffer, have a daughter, Lijana, 12, and son, Nikolas, 10.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
A friend and I are in disagreement over storage of an opened bottle of ketchup.
I say that after opening the bottle, it should be stored in the refrigerator. My friend says that there are no printed directions anywhere on the bottle instructing refrigeration after opening so he stores his opened bottle in a kitchen cabinet.
I always thought it was common knowledge to store an opened ketchup bottle in the refrigerator. Does it hurt if it's not refrigerated? Which way is correct? — Mary Linkous, Elizabethtown, Ky.

The proper way to store a bottle of ketchup after opening it is solely up to the user unless your particular brand states that it should be refrigerated after opening (most do not). The vinegar content in ketchup acts as a preservative, which enables most brands to be stored on the pantry shelf after opening.
If you do not use ketchup often, you might want to store an opened bottle in the refrigerator to help it retain longer-lasting flavor, since storing an opened bottle at room temperature on a pantry shelf will reduce its shelf life.

to keep it free-flowing, but I just upend a small clear jelly glass over the shaker. This keeps the salt dry as a bone and always ready for a quick shake. — R. Johnson, Gonzales, Texas
MICROWAVING HINT
Dear Heloise: I heat a lot of vegetables and soups in small bowls in my microwave. I used to use waxed paper or plastic wrap to cover the dishes until recently when I discovered a better way.
I realized my coffee filters were shaped almost perfectly to fit the tops of the small bowls. Now I use a coffee filter and the best part is that it can be used a couple of times if it doesn't become soiled. It also does not shrivel up from the heat like the wrap does. — Verda Belser, Bradford, Pa.

The decision mainly involves the label directions, usage and your personal preference. — Heloise

CUTTING-BOARD HELPER
Dear Heloise: After unsuccessfully searching through several stores that specialize in kitchen products, I hit upon a wonderful idea for a way to transfer those chopped vegetables from my cutting board to my wok.

BOTTLE OPENER
Dear Heloise: For anyone who has arthritis or rheumatism, here's a very helpful way to get tops off of bottles. Use your hand-held nutcracker. It opens wide so you don't have to close your hand tight, and the grooves on it make it grip the bottle top so the top comes off easily without a lot of effort on your part. — Marjorie Dart, Bradford, Pa.

I purchased a brightly colored plastic dustpan. After chopping all my vegetables, I load them all on the dustpan and add them to the wok all at once, instead of handfuls at a time.
My "vegetable dustpan" has proven to be very helpful in my kitchen and I have instructed my family that it does not go on the floor for collecting dirt!
— Carroll Peery, Houston, Texas

MARK SHEETS
Dear Heloise: We have a king-size waterbed and it's sometimes hard to get the sheets lined up even with the headboard. I hit on the idea of marking the top and bottom of the sheets. I just make a few quick stitches at the center of the top and the bottom of the sheets with bright-colored thread. It's easy to match the thread to the center of the headboard and the footboard. — Ilene Kearns, Federal Way, Wash.

OVEN CLEANING
Dear Heloise: I found the easiest way to get up the goop in the oven when cleaning it.
I use a short-handled window squeegee to scrape all the goop into the center of the oven, then onto a piece of paper and into the garbage. I wipe down the inside of the oven with a wet rag and it's finished. — J. Johnson, Stayton, Ore.

FRESH AIR
Dear Heloise: To add a nice fragrance to your home, just pick up a handful of spiced tea with your vacuum. The next time you use it, the scent will freshen up your house as you clean. — Carmen Doti, Anaheim, Calif.

SALT
Dear Heloise: Here's a hint to keep salt shaker from the salt shaker even during the most humid months. I have heard about putting crushed crackers or rice inside the salt shaker

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, TX 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Decorating classes set

Cake decorating classes were discussed when President Margaret Gamez presided over the Sweet 'n' Fancy Cake Decorating Club meeting held Monday at 7 p.m. at the Community Center.

The public is invited to attend the cake decorating classes that will start on Oct. 23 at the Community Center at 7 p.m. with continuing classes on Oct. 30, Nov. 6 and Nov. 13. Cost of the classes will be $20 for all four nights. For more information call Betty Henson after 5 p.m. at 364-1295 or Marrie Leverett at 364-6017.

The club will be decorating birthday cakes for the King's Manor Methodist Home.

During the meeting, members showed how to decorate candy and cakes for Halloween. Members present were Cecilia Hernandez, Isabel Cervantez, Nora Perez, Elizabeth Flores, Gamez, Carol Kelly, Hope Torres, Betty Henson and Elida Balderaz.

married and doesn't want to be. She has had several miserable relationships and despises men, but she wants a family. I think she has lost her marbles.

Lisa has a good job, lives at home and pays room and board. When Dad asked if she knew who the father was, she said, "Of course. I picked him out. It was no love affair. He thought I was on the pill."

My younger brother will be going to college soon. The expenses will strap the folks. With Lisa's baby on the way there will be more bills. I think it was rotten and selfish of her to do this. All Mom does is cry. Dad doesn't say anything, but he is awfully disappointed.

Should we try to find out who the father is and let him know? Doesn't he have that right? And what about his parents? Shouldn't they be told? Set me straight, Ann. Maybe I'm going overboard because I am so upset with Lisa for messing up our happy family. -- Sam (San Jose)

DEAR SAM: It was, indeed, selfish of your sister to do this, but don't make a bad situation worse by interfering.

Lisa should get some advice from someone whose head is on straighter than hers. I hope she will talk to her doctor, a clergyman, a social worker or a counselor. She needs to know that the baby's father is legally responsible for child support, even though she deceived him and doesn't want his financial help.

Show her this column and good luck to all of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the lieutenant colonel who felt as though he was the only American left who cares enough to pick up merchandise left on the floor.

Sir, I salute you. I appreciate your efforts. I pick up litter and return the grocery cart to the store. I do not park in spaces for handicapped. I pull over for police, fire trucks and ambulances. I use my turn signal before I turn or change lanes. I don't swear. I say "please", "thank you" and "excuse me."

No, it's not always easy, and, yes, it takes some effort. But when I choose not to yell at a rude sales clerk or cut off a discourteous driver, I like who I am. When I act like a jerk, I feel bad. So I try to be my best self.

I do not believe that the world will be a better place because I lived in it, but by God's grace, I don't want to make it any worse either. -- Nobody Special, Just Nan in Dayton

DEAR NAN: What a breath of fresh air! You sound special to me. I loved your letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago, my mother had an affair with a prominent businessman. Everybody in town talked about it. Dad forgave her and they had many good years after that.

Dad passed away last year. The wife of the man Mom had the affair with died two years ago. Mom had dinner with him twice last week. We are upset about this. It is sure to remind people of the old scandal. Any advice? -- Palm Beach

Flank steak with fiery spices takes cook-off prize

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - A spicy dish called Mexican flank steak with mock tamales won top honors and a $15,000 prize in the 16th Annual National Beef Cook-Off, billed as the nation's largest annual cooking contest.

Linda Wright of Medford Lakes, N.J., won the outdoor barbecue category with her flank steak flavored Mexican-style with cilantro, jalapeno peppers and tomatillos. For the mock tamales, Wright put Cheddar cheese and green onions on flour tortillas and rolled them up, said cook-off spokeswoman Elizabeth Weinmann.

Shirley DeSantis of East Windsor, N.J., took the microwave category and $5,000 with her steak 'n' peppers recipe, featuring tenderloin steaks covered with peppercorn and red, green and yellow peppers.

"This was probably one of the most beautiful things to come out of the kitchen," said Weinmann.

Winning $1,000 in the most convenient dish category was Aline Ballentine of Ellenville, N.Y. Her recipe was Chiang Mai steak, flavored with coconut milk, curry powder, kiwi and peanut butter.

Lloyd Rocznik of Rochester, Minn., won the category of best dish under 300 calories with his red-hot beef kabobs with yogurt sauce.

The $5,000 indoor stove category was won by Mary Lou Newhouse of South Burlington, Vt., who prepared a harvest thyme beef sandwich with apples, carrots, turnips, red leaf lettuce and green onion.

There were 64 contestants in the contest sponsored by the Beef Industry Council and the American National CattleWomen.
