You Are the Wind Beneath My Wings

Clarissa Zepeda, 6, breaks into tears as she sings "Wind Beneath My Wings" to her father, Sgt. Feris Zepeda, at Saturday's welcome home ceremony at Sugarland Mall. At right is Clarissa's mother, Mary Alice Zepeda, while Sgt. Zepeda holds his daughter, Krystle, 1.

Soldiers honored at event

Six-year-old Clarissa Zepeda summed up the feelings of most of a crowd of over 200 persons attending a special "welcome home" ceremony for seven soldiers at Sugarland Mall in Hereford on Saturday.

Clarissa, the daughter of Sgt. Feris and Mary Alice Zepeda, sang "Wind Beneath My Wings" to her father, just home from Saudi Arabia.

Clarissa, singing along with a tape, made it through the first verse just fine.

Then came the chorus. And the tears.

"Did you ever know you are my hero?"

With those words, Clarissa, crying, went to her father and hugged him tightly. They shared the hug for a minute, then she began singing again, in tears throughout the poignant song.

Six other soldiers Hereford soldiers, including Jimmy Curtis, Armando Tijerina, Raul Dominguez, Abel Rodriguez, Walter Joslin and Alfredo Arras, were also honored at the ceremony at the Mall, the fourth welcoming soldiers back home from their tour in the Middle East. Henry Reid, mall manager, said similar ceremonies will be held until all of the county's soldiers are home.

Tijerina, a Marine Corps gunnery sergeant, thanked God for seeing him safely through, and thanked his family and the people of Deaf Smith County for the letters and support.

"I want to thank you kind people of Hereford for receiving us like this," Sgt. Tijerina said. "It is hard to explain how overwhelming it was when we got letters expressing your support. Our country is what it is today because of people like you. I serve my country proudly, I serve my uniform proudly, and I serve the people of Hereford with pride."

The program included a prayer by the Rev. Joe Bixenman of San Jose Catholic Church, songs by Mary Varner and Vanessa Gonzalez.

Excel will expand plant

Excel Corporation has announced an $11 million expansion of its beef slaughter and boxed beef processing facility in Friona that will double the carcass chill-cooler capacity of the plant.

"The expansion and remodeling project will enable us to improve the overall quality of beef products we offer to our customers while enhancing employee safety and ergonomic design of the carcass cooling area," said Terry Wilkerson, general manager for Friona operations at Excel. "We'll be able to chill 48 hours worth of slaughter capacity, or about 8,000 head of cattle when the project is completed in 1992."

Wilkerson said construction is expected to begin in the next two months. He said no change is expected in overall employment at the facility as a result of the expansion. The Friona plant employs more than 1,600 plant production employees. Wilkerson said the plant has an annual payroll of more than $25 million and buys about 1 million head of cattle, worth about $800 million, each year.

Excel also operates a plant in Plainview, with more than 1,600 employees, and facilities in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, California, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. The Friona and Plainview plants employ many Hereford residents.

DSGH board meets with local doctors

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Seeking the input of local physicians on several topics, Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors held a unique meeting Monday night, at which all eight local physicians were present to participate in the discussions.

Raymond Schroeder, board president, said directors asked the physicians to attend the session to discuss physician recruitment, the contract for physician coverage in the emergency room, and whether or not doctors thought it was important for the hospital to retain the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Gary Moore, hospital administrator, said the board "felt that it was a very positive meeting" and that directors may ask the doctors to meet with the board, or executive committee, on a quarterly or six-month basis. If not a "first," it marked the first time in many years that all local doctors met with the board in open session for general discussions on the goals of the hospital.

Present at the meeting were doctors Robert Clark, Nadir Khuri, Randal Vinther, Howard Johnson, Jesse Perales, D.E. (Duffy) McBrayer, Gerald Payne and Robert Bidwell. Dr. Sax Cox, contract radiologist from Amarillo, was also present.

As a result of the discussions with the doctors, it was a consensus of the board to continue the accreditation process and retain the contract for emergency room physician coverage at night and on weekends. No formal action was necessary.

The only other item on the agenda was a discussion of the revised budget for the five-month period ending in September. The revision projects a $260,000 loss at the end of the fiscal year, rather than a budgeted gain of $592,000.

Moore told the board and doctors that the hospital needed three more patients a day, or 90 patient days a month, to operate in the black. "Three or four patients a day makes a big difference," said Moore, who added that the other alternative was a tax increase.

Without changes, Moore projected the hospital would lose about $100,000 a month. To offset that in taxes, alone, would require the tax rate to be doubled. Last week, Moore announced the hospital was moving to develop a plan to ensure the continuation of quality health care here. The plan called for consolidating some areas of the hospital and trimming staff requirements.

On the topic of hospital accreditation, Moore said the hospital has just been accredited for three more years--subject to follow-up focus surveys in certain areas. He said accreditation was costly and time-consuming. If the hospital did not participate in the JCAH program, the state would do the inspection and certify the hospital.

Several of the physicians said they felt the accreditation reflected higher quality and could be beneficial in physician recruitment. Dr. Khuri said the hospital should publicize its accreditation status and educate the public as to the benefits. Dr. Vinther remarked that the hospital should not "settle for second best," and Dr. Bidwell said it could be viewed as "a step backwards" to drop the accreditation process.

On the physician recruitment issue, most of the doctors agree that there is no "magic solution" to attracting new doctors to the community. Dr. McBrayer said he and Dr. Payne had tried contacting residency programs, search firms and mailing lists. "If there is a better way, we'd like to know what it is."

Dr. Johnson said the hospital "will be recruiting from now on," and that doctors who have been here for a number of years "realize that that times have changed and the hospital needs to offer guarantees to attract doctors." He said the most urgent need is for a primary care physician.

Several of the doctors commented that better public relations and public education was needed to help make the community more supportive of the hospital. A board member pointed out that a marketing committee is now actively pursuing that goal.

Board member Dr. A.T. Mims pointed out that the hospital was first accredited in 1957 and was the second small hospital in the Panhandle to get JCAH accreditation. Schroeder pointed out that the board only wanted to make sure that physicians wanted the JCAH stamp of approval--"it's not a thing we considered dropping as a matter of saving money."

The doctors generally agreed that the emergency room coverage by contract physicians was a benefit in recruitment of doctors and a benefit in keeping local doctors. The hospital contracts with a company to provide ER physician coverage from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. during the week, and full 48-hour coverage on weekends.

Comptroller Phillis Morrison presented a brief report on ER costs and revenues. The report, for a two-month period covering last November and December, showed total charges of $152,143 and collections of $87,700--or a 58 percent collection rate. The report also showed that ER visits also affect other revenues, such as lab and radiology.

The board held a brief executive session after the public meeting was adjourned. Schroeder announced it was to discuss litigation and asked the doctors to meet with the board in the closed-door session. Moore said the board updated the doctors on litigation pending with a former staff physician.

Farmers break conservation laws

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is doing little to find or punish farmers who fail to comply with federal land conservation programs, according to a private study. Farmers aren't preventing their land from eroding and they continue to plow up wetlands deliberately or out of ignorance that it is illegal, according to the report by the Soil and Water Conservation Society, an Ankeny, Iowa-based scientific and educational group.

In a sampling of seven counties, one of every two farmers did not comply with erosion control plans they are supposed to follow if they want government crop subsidies. "There probably are more farmers who have been convicted of mass murder than conservation compliance violations," Ken Cook, vice president of the Center for Resource Economics, said Monday. "Taxpayers aren't getting the conservation they bargained for."

Cook was a member of the report's steering committee, which also included representatives of farmers, conservation districts and the Agriculture Department.

The representative of the conservation districts - local soil and water management agencies - disavowed the report. Ernest Shea charged in a letter to the society that the report "presented an extremely biased and unbalanced view."

Mack Gray, associate chief of USDA's Soil Conservation Service, said the study's sample was too small to be representative of the country and that it was too early to tell how well farmers were following the conservation plans.

The report is one of the first studies to evaluate compliance with conservation measures that Congress enacted in the 1985 farm bill.

The law marked a major shift in U.S. farm policy in that conservation practices no longer were voluntary for farmers who wanted receive federal subsidies.

Farmers were required to follow conservation plans that could include contour plowing and crop rotation, and they were barred from expanding their operations by plowing up virgin land or draining marshes.

Many farmers have made "significant commitments" to conservation because of the law, and it has contributed to a "greatly improved awareness" of the need to control soil erosion and protect wetlands, the report said.

However, only 54 percent of the farms that were checked in the seven counties were in compliance with their conservation plans, even allowing for a degree of leniency, the report said. In some cases, it said the plans were vague or impossible to follow.

"Many farmers are attempting to implement their conservation compliance plans on schedule; many others are not, perhaps because they are finding their plans too difficult to implement or perhaps because they do not believe USDA is serious about enforcing the policy," the report said.

The report said the department had done "little monitoring and enforcement."

The Soil Conservation Service plans to begin spot-checking one of every 20 farmers each year to see whether they are following their conservation plans, the agency's Gray said.

"We know that developing almost 1.4 million conservation plans in about 3 1/2 years was a tremendous job, and no doubt there are some out there that aren't of the quality that we would like to see them," he said.

Violators risk losing up to $5,000 of their federal benefits on a first offense, and all of their crop payments if they are caught twice.

The seven counties studied were Washington, Colo.; Latah, Idaho; Shelby, Iowa; Sherman, Kan.; Harrison, Mo.; Harper, Okla.; and Lafayette, Wis.

Toxins may become bitter

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill to make toxic household products too bitter to swallow was tentatively approved by the Senate, which had the safety of children in mind.

Sen. John Whitmire said Monday his measure, which was patterned after a 1990 California law, is designed "to send out a message - don't mess with the children of Texas."

The bill would require certain products to be packaged with child-resistant safety tops and other products to contain a "biting agent" that would taste so bad that a child accidentally swallowing the product would spit it out, reducing the chance for serious or fatal illness.

Civil penalties of up to $5,000 a day would be provided for companies that violated the requirements.

Sen. Cyndi Krier, R-San Antonio, said, "If you're concerned about the children of Texas, I agree with you. If you're concerned about providing protective devices on this type of product, I agree with you. If you're concerned about putting a bittering agent into these products, I agree with you, and I support it."

But Ms. Krier said Whitmire's bill would create a "totally different standard of civil law ... by allowing punitive damages with no showing of actual damages."

In other words, she said, a plaintiff would not have to show a child was hurt to receive damages.

The vote to suspend rules for final passage was 22-6, one short of the four-fifths required. Whitmire, D-Houston, will need approval in another vote to send the bill to the House.

The Senate also approved and sent to the House a bill that would authorize the Texas Water Commission to prohibit the burning of hazardous materials in industrial furnaces within the Edwards Aquifer recharge zone.

The aquifer provides water for San Antonio, San Marcos and New Braunfels, as well as Medina and Uvalde counties.

In other action Monday, the Senate approved and sent to the House proposals that would:

- Exempt from seizure certain life, health and accident insurance benefits.

- Authorize a court to order a bond or security deposit for child support at any time. The bond or deposit would be equal to at least the child support obligation for two months.

- Set service and rate guidelines for rural telephone companies.

- Exempt from taxation property owned by a non-profit water supply corporation.

"I would like to thank my two grandmothers for helping me win, Tara said. I think I got my crazy story telling talent from Mema Ida and my grandma Ormalene told me the story that helped me win."

As a winner, Tara Beth, Wildorado school, and her teacher, Libby Peabody, will all receive an IBM personal system/2 model 25 computer and an IBM printer II printer.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You printed a letter from a woman who loathed her husband and made it a point to tell her children every rotten thing he did. You advised her to get counseling and dissipate her rage before she did irreparable harm.

Please don't quit saying it, Ann. I'm at an age (40) when many of my friends are either recovering from a divorce or are in the middle of one. The way they talk to their children about their spouses is appalling.

My parents divorced when I was 6, and I've never stopped thanking my mom for the classy way she handled it. My dad was a terrible husband and a lousy father, but I came to those conclusions on my own. Mom never uttered a word against him. Not once did she say, "We can't afford that because your father hasn't been sending the support checks." I knew without being told that he dressed like a prince and had plenty of money to spend on partying and trips for himself.

If a father is abusive, irresponsible and never around when he is needed, the children know it. No child needs to have these things spelled out. When marriages fall apart the children invariably get hit by some flying debris. How much better for everyone if there is no placing of blame. -- Vancouver

DEAR VAN: Children always see and understand more than we think. Thanks for saying it so well.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column on zippers made me laugh. It also reminded me of my favorite story. Perhaps you'd like to share it with your readers.

Last year we had a banquet to install the new officers in our organization. Everyone was in formal attire. There were 200 people in attendance.

When the chairperson raised her baton to quiet the crowd and open the meeting, the zipper on her gown broke. That zipper went from the back of her neck down to her hem. She gracefully finished her speech and walked over to where the other officers were seated. They all removed their name badges and pinned her gown closed. She then proceeded to chair the meeting without missing a beat.

My husband, who is usually very reserved, said in a loud voice, "Now THAT'S what I call a classy lady!" - I.K., Seattle

DEAR SEATTLE: The lady is not only classy, but cool-headed in the face of disaster. She gets my vote for Woman of the Year.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A close friend asked me to be a bridesmaid in her wedding. I was delighted and accepted without hesitation.

Out of the blue her mother announced to the wedding attendants that she was giving a bridal shower at a restaurant and inviting 100 guests. She then told us that we would need to contribute $150 each toward the luncheon.

Ann, I have been an attendant in a number of weddings, but never have I been expected to contribute toward a bridal shower. The showers I have participated in have been intimate gatherings of 20 to 40 close friends and relatives.

I can't afford this added expense in addition to buying a gown, shoes and headpiece. Since the wedding is almost a year away and the dresses have not yet been ordered, I could still bow out, but I'm afraid it will damage my friendship with the bride. Advise, please. -- Bewildered Bridesmaid

DEAR BEWILDERED: That woman has no business giving a shower for her daughter. Tell her you can't afford to participate. Period. If this means you are out of the wedding, so be it. —

Sweatshirt painting discussed

Maudette Smith presented a program on painting sweatshirts to the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club when the women met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center for a luncheon and meeting.

She showed types of brushes and books for patterns to members. She told of the different types of paints and where they could be purchased.

Jewell Hargrave, president, called the meeting to order with Marie Thames voicing the opening prayer. Naomi Hare led the pledges to the United States and Texas flags.

Nell Pope gave the opening exercise "Let them blow," by Lillian L. Finch. Roll call, "My favorite craft," was answered by 13 members and two guests.

Edna Marnell read the minutes of the last meeting and reported on communication. Byrdie Fellers gave the finance report and Jewell Hargrave gave the council report. Perry Keyes reported on the district meeting.

A report was given on the birthday party for the clubs adopted sister. Six cards were sent to nursing homes and a report was given on the April 19 birthday party at Golden Plains Care Center.

Virginia Sumner reported that the program for the last meeting will be "My plans for the summer," scheduled for May 10. Members are to bring old pictures of themselves for the meeting.

Others attending were Vernis Parsons, Winnie Wiseman, Carrie Mac Doak, S.T. Walton, Jannie Townsend, Irene Baird, and Amanda Fellers.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports

AUSTIN - Billie Glenn came to the Senate 27 years ago for a part-time job. Billie found a job and has spent her entire professional career in the Senate having worked for Senators Martin Dies, Jack Hightower, Ray Farabee, Kent Hance, Grant Jones, and now, Teel Bivins. Billie, who will retire after this session, was one of the most surprised ladies in Austin last week when she was honored by my staff and me at a retirement party.

There is no question that without capable staff, members of the Senate find themselves behind the curve most of the time. I have been blessed to have Billie's help and experience as a guide during my first two sessions in the Legislature. I wish Billie and her husband, Don, all the best as they begin to enjoy their retirement years.

One of the strange things that seems to happen in politics is that things sometimes happen even when it appears they have no support. This enigma seems to be taking place in the arena of congressional redistricting. Over two weeks ago, I was approached about a plan which would have split Amarillo between the 13th and 19th congressional districts. This was not a surprise because I had heard this plan was being discussed. However, it was a surprise when I heard that all of the congressional members had signed off on this plan.

Before the "New Texas" it was said that redistricting was the most political activity in Austin. Due to this fact, often times cities and counties are split up to assure safety to an incumbent of one party or another. It would appear that this is the logic behind splitting Amarillo into two congressional districts. However, I have seen in the newspaper that both Larry Combest, a Republican who represents District 19 and Bill Sarpalius, a Democrat who represents District 13, are opposed to Amarillo being split. Due to this opposition, I must admit I am stumped as to why this plan continues to surface.

Another thing that often happens in Austin is that individuals come forward to oppose a plan or proposal, but are not willing to come forward with an alternative proposal. With this in mind, I set out to draw a redistricting plan that would not split Amarillo, but would accommodate the reality of the demographic changes that have occurred in our part of the state.

The plan that I spoke of earlier that was presented to me divided the entire state into congressional districts. As I worked on my plan, I attempted to do as little damage to that plan as possible. The plan I have finally settled on affects only congressional districts 13 and 19, with only minor changes to congressional district 17, represented by Charles Stenholm. I have presented my plan to Senator Johnson who is heading up the Congressional Redistricting Committee.

My plan may not be the final plan. However, I think it clearly shows that Potter and Randall counties can remain united and still produce a district that will preserve the political balance which is currently in place. I am presently working very hard to get support for my plan, or any plan that would not divide Amarillo. As I stated earlier, I have yet to hear anyone who supports a plan that would split Amarillo, but I think everyone should work to make the Legislature aware that this option is not in the best interest of the Crown of Texas.

It can be argued that splitting Amarillo allows for the possibility of two representatives rather than one. I discussed this argument recently with representatives of the Garland Chamber of Commerce, which is divided between two congressional districts. Garland confirmed my belief that neither representative feels obligated to work with the city because Garland does not represent a bulk of votes for either member. Amarillo has always been the focal point of a congressional district. I am very concerned that to divide Potter and Randall counties would diminish Amarillo's ability to act as that hub.

The United States Supreme Court, in leading redistricting lawsuits, has placed great importance on preserving "communities of interest." Amarillo is the center of a vast community of interest in literally every aspect of life in our region-social, medical, cultural, media, economic and political. Splitting Amarillo into two congressional districts would do irreparable harm to this important community of interest.

WTSU sets four-day work week

West Texas State University will implement a four-day work week, Monday through Thursday, for employees and students of the University. The new schedule becomes effective the week of May 20 and will continue through Aug. 22.

Office hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. with a 30 minute lunch period. Summer session classes will also follow the four-day week with classes scheduled for Monday through Thursday beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Two summer sessions are scheduled at WTSU. The first session begins June 3 and continues through July 11 with the second session beginning July 15 and continuing through Aug. 20. The 1991 fall semester is scheduled to begin Sept. 3.

The four-day work week was requested by the Texas A&M University System (TAMUS) as a means to reduce utility expenses of System institutions. The new schedule was approved at the March TAMUS Board of Regents meeting and will be implemented by six TAMUS universities.

WTSU expects to save $52,000 for the three-month time period, according to Tom Kale, vice president for fiscal affairs. Exceptions to the work schedule include Cornette Library and computer labs which will remain open for use Friday through Sunday.

Achieving that perfect pout

NEW YORK (AP) - The key to the perfect pouty mouth fashionable women want today is how the lipstick is applied.

Bobbi Brown, makeup artist for some real beauties as well as ordinary folk, uses a pointed lip brush to apply lipstick evenly and to the full extent of the lips. Then, she outlines lips - top and bottom - with a lip pencil in the same color as the lipstick.

She says lining the bottom lip really makes the lips look pouty.

Brown, who gives makeup lessons at Bergdorf Goodman on Fifth Avenue on Saturdays, says to be sure to use the lip liner after the lipstick to get a clean finish and correct the shape if you have to.

To line, start in the corner and do the top lip, then the bottom lip. Open mouth wide to get into the corners. For a flawless finish, blot lipstick on tissue to absorb excess moisture.

For full, luscious lips, choose a lighter rather than darker lipstick. Dark colors naturally recede, Brown says, making lips look smaller. Light colors emphasize the lips.

To get longer-lasting color, she says add a second coat and then blot with loose powder.

For the new "stain" look, apply lipstick with your fingers instead of a brush. This, Brown says, is a very natural way to wear lipstick and works especially well with deep colors.

Brown, the woman, says brown, the color, should be the basis for all lip colors. Indeed, she has developed a line of 10 colors which she claims are complimentary to most complexions.

Browns, she says, can be used alone or mixed. They can also correct the sins of the useless colors most women have collected. For example, if the color is too fuschia, tone it down by putting a light beige on top.

Do you ever feel faint?

Everyone knows what it's like to feel faint, your vision blurs, you get dizzy, your knees get weak. Sometimes these symptoms can become overwhelming, causing a person to lose consciousness for a brief moment.

The medical term for such fainting spells is syncope. The condition is brought on by a lack of oxygen reaching the brain. Extreme pain, stress, and fright can all interfere with normal breathing or blood circulation needed to keep a sufficient flow of oxygen to the brain. Standing still for a long period or rapidly rising after sitting or lying down can also cause fainting.

Fainting episodes are occasionally the cause of some underlying medical condition. Heart problems, brain circulatory disorders, and, in rare cases, seizures may trigger a fainting spell. Some prescription drugs, such as those used to treat high blood pressure, can make a person faint if they cause the blood pressure to fall too low. During pregnancy, many women feel faint or feel faint due to changes in circulation brought on by the uterus pressing on the blood vessels in the pelvis.

When a person faints, he or she usually becomes pale and begins to sweat profusely. Pulse rate and blood pressure both drop and the person loses consciousness and falls.

Fainting is usually not a cause for concern if consciousness is regained quickly. To ensure that another attack does not occur, the person should remain lying down for several minutes after awakening.

If you feel faint, sit with your head between your knees or lie down with your legs elevated above chest level. These positions will help restore normal blood flow to the brain and help prevent a blackout. If you frequently feel lightheaded, try to always rise slowly from the sitting or reclining position.

Repeated fainting spells should be discussed with your doctor. He or she may want to examine you and perform certain tests to make sure that nothing serious is wrong. Your doctor can also provide advice on how to prevent a fainting spell when you feel the symptoms coming on.

Wisembaker leads in scholarship program

The Presidential Honors Scholarship Endowment Program, established by the West Texas State University Foundation President's Circle, is off and running thanks to a $25,000 contribution from Royce E. Wisembaker of Tyler.

Wisembaker, who was appointed in January by Gov. Ann Richards to his third six-year term on the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents, was also the initial contributor to the President's Honors Scholarship program at Texas A&M. That program has since grown to 600 endowed scholarships.

Although the program at West Texas State University is still in its infancy, WTSU President Barry B. Thompson has high hopes.

"Our goal is 30 endowed scholarships by the end of 1992. That gives us what I think is an attainable starting point, but you can rest assured that we'll be working long and hard to exceed that goal," Thompson said.

According to Thompson, the scholarships will be awarded on a competitive basis to attract and retain high-quality students.

"Studies show that where a student chooses to attend college is likely to be the area where he or she chooses to live after college. That can have a very real impact of the future of a region," Thompson said. "We can't allow exceptional students from the top 26 counties to be financially lured to other university campuses without a fight. Wisembaker, bless him, has struck the first blow, and I hope other will follow his lead."

The 73-year-old Wisembaker, who holds two degrees from Texas A&M, completed his baccalaureate studies in agricultural engineering in 1939 and received a master's degree in sanitary engineering in 1940. He entered the U.S. Army in 1942 and served five years of active duty before transferring to the Army Reserves. He retired as a full colonel in 1969.

In 1947, upon completion of his active service, Wisembaker and Robert E. Fix formed an engineering partnership that prospered for nearly four decades. During that time, the partnership designed and supervised construction of more than $2 billion worth of waterworks and sewerage projects, street, airports, industrial waste facilities, water reservoirs and transmission lines and municipal planning.

Since leaving his engineering practice, Wisembaker has devoted fulltime to the oil and gas business under the name of Wisembaker Production Company, the water business under the name of Southern Utilities Company, the water business under the name of Southern Utilities Company, and various other land development and farming operations in Smith, Tarrant and Dallas counties.

One of the Texas A&M's most generous donors, Wisembaker's gifts to his alma mater include a $1 million endowed chair in the School of Engineering for Innovative Research. His gifts, however, are not limited to financial resources. The three-term regent has donated his time and talents on countless occasions and is the only Aggie who has served as president of both the Association of Former Students and the 12th Man Foundation. In recognition of his support, the TAMUS Board of Regents named a building on the College Station campus, in action taken in January of 1987, the "Royce E. Wisembaker Engineering Research Center."

The President's Circle at WTSU was established by the Foundation shortly after Thompson's January arrival on the WTSU campus. Since then, the membership has climbed to 56.

For more information about the President's Circle or the Presidential Honors Scholarship program, call 806-656-2121.

BOSTON (AP) - A group of Boston researchers found that women with larger buttocks are less likely to suffer a hip fracture than women who are more slender, reports a publication of the Arthritis Foundation.

According to Arthritis Today, the researchers evaluated a group of older women to determine why some experience more hip fractures than others.

All the women had previously suffered falls and all had a similar degree of osteoporosis, yet just over two-thirds had actually fractured a hip because of their falls.

The researchers concluded that the women who didn't break their hips had more fat - more "soft-tissue energy absorption capacity," as they called it - on their buttocks than those who suffered fractures.

Allow me to introduce myself and my family!

Dear Friends:

In order for you to become better acquainted with your candidate for Mayor, I would like to introduce you to my family. In so doing, hopefully it will become clear as to my interest in continuing to help create a favorable future for Hereford an all of its citizenry.

My wife, Carol Sue, and I have been married for 25 years; we are the proud parents of two daughters. Carol Sue has served on the Chamber board for three years, serves on the Cowgirl Hall of Fame board, and is a member of the Hereford Hustlers. She currently is president of the Hereford Board of Realtors and is active in the First United Methodist Church.

Tiffany Confer, is our 21-year-old daughter who is currently a senior at Texas Tech University. Tiffany is married to Blake Confer, also a senior at Tech. Blake and Tiffany are the parents of the "pride and joy" of both the LeGate and Confer families. Jordan Brooke Confer turned one year old on April 20.

Jennifer, our 17-year-old, will be a senior in Hereford High School. Like her sister, she was born and raised in Hereford. Her interests have included band and drill team and she participates on the HHS varsity tennis team. Jennifer also plans to attend Texas Tech University upon her graduation from high school.

My family would like for me to be mayor. I would like to be your mayor. However, I know that being mayor is not a one-man show. It will take each citizen's support and effort to make our city the place we want it to be or become.

Sincerely,

Castillo only Whiteface to advance

After winning the 3,200-meter run Friday at the Region 1-4A track meet in San Angelo, Teresa Castillo finished second in the 1,600 run Saturday.

She ran the 1,600 in 5:20.45, behind only Melony Patterson of Crowley, who ran it in 5:16.10.

Castillo became the only Whiteface to advance to the state track meet May 10 and 11 in Austin.

From the boys' team, only Leo Brown competed Saturday. He came in ninth in the triple jump even though his best try of 42-2 broke his own Hereford High School record. Kevin Dumas of San Angelo Lakeview won with a leap of 45-3 1/4.

Besides Castillo, the girls' team had two entries in the finals. Jayme

Moore finished fifth in the 300-meter hurdles. She set a new school record at 47.4, but would have needed 43.84 to match Fort Worth Hirschi's Angela Reed for first. Wendy Watson of Fort Worth Boswell was second at 44.32.

The previous school record in the two-year-old event was 51.2 by Libby Kosub in 1990.

Also in the finals was the 1,600 relay team of Castillo, Moore, Minerva Salazar and Jeannie Barrientez. They finished third in 4:03.2—nine tenths of a second behind second-place Pampa.

"Teresa had too much ground to make up," Coach Martha Emerson said. "The finish line came up too fast. At the end, she was coming on and the other girl was fading."

"These four young ladies ran their hearts out in hopes of a trip to the state meet. It was a bitter disappointment for them but they can also be proud of their effort and their accomplishment. This is the fastest 1,600 relay we have had in nearly 10 years."

Wichita Falls Hirschi won the 1,600 relay with a time of 3:54.2.

Boys' coach Ron Young said his athletes gave a good effort.

"They all competed well," Young said, "the competition was just so steep."

Brown's knee, which was reinjured April 20, was not a problem, Young said, other than not allowing Brown to practice the triple jump at all during the week leading up to the regional meet.

Brown, a junior, does have next year. "He's going to get a lot better," Young said.

Although Mark Daniel finished fourth in Friday's discus throw, he showed one sign of improvement, throwing assistant Stan Carter said.

Daniel was second at the district meet to Randall's Chris Cook, but Daniel beat Cook both at the April 20 regional qualifiers' meet and in San Angelo Friday.

Teams losing home advantage

By The Associated Press

Homecourt advantage. NBA teams spend 82 games trying to earn it in the regular season, and once they do, they find out they can lose it with one poorly played playoff game.

Of the eight teams that took a homecourt advantage in the first round of the NBA playoffs, only the Portland Trail Blazers, Chicago Bulls and Los Angeles Lakers protected it with consecutive victories in front of the home crowd.

The Boston Celtics, San Antonio Spurs, Phoenix Suns and Detroit Pistons lost their homecourt advantages with two-game splits at home, while the Milwaukee Bucks lost two games at Bradley Center to the Philadelphia 76ers. No team has ever lost the first two games of a best-of-5 series at home and come back to win.

"We're in the worst position possible," Bucks forward Frank Brickowski said. "We know that it's not over. We have to go to Philly and think we're going to win three in a row."

"You got to get three to get out of the first round," 76ers coach Jim Lynam said. "Just as I said after the first game, we're not sitting on our laurels."

No NBA playoff games were scheduled Monday night. Postseason play resumes tonight with six games - Los Angeles at Houston, Detroit at Atlanta, Chicago at New York, Milwaukee at Philadelphia, Portland at Seattle and Phoenix at Utah.

On Wednesday night, Boston is at Indiana and San Antonio at Golden State.

Utah won 129-90 at Phoenix on Thursday to take the homecourt advantage away from the Suns, who came back to win 102-92 on Saturday. But Jazz coach Jerry Sloan scoffs at the notion that having two of the remaining three games at the Salt Palace will be crucial to his team's chances.

"There is no homecourt advantage in a playoff series like this," he warned Monday. "A look at last year is a good indication of how little the 'home court' means."

Sloan referred to Utah's 104-102 loss to the Suns in the fifth and deciding game of last year's first round. The thunderous Salt Palace crowd could not stop Kevin Johnson's winning shot.

"You've just got to play with the same intensity, wherever the game is played," Sloan said.

The Suns and Jazz are now 3-3 for the season, with both teams winning twice on the road following a season-opening 1-1 split in Tokyo.

"We're equal teams," Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said.

Atlanta's 103-98 victory over Detroit in Game 1 at the Palace of Auburn Hills jeopardized the Pistons' chances of continuing their run of consecutive NBA championships. Detroit came back to win 101-88 on Sunday night, tying the series.

"We accomplished what we came for," Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins said of the first two games. "We got the split and the pressure is on them to win at our place."

"I feel good leaving here," Atlanta's Glenn Rivers said after Sunday night's loss. "I guess it would be better if we had flipped it around and lost the first game and won the second. We would have left here feeling better. But I still feel good."

But if there's one team for which the homecourt advantage is meaningless, it's Detroit. The Pistons split at home against the Trail Blazers in last year's NBA Finals, then swept three games at Portland to win their second straight title.

Fly So Free one possibility

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - This is the wrong time to fall off the Fly So Free bandwagon, trainer Scotty Schulhofer says.

"It's like the old saying: Whenever they get away from Fly So Free, they all look good," he said.

Fly So Free, the 2-year-old champion, has beaten six of the colts expected to be entered for the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, and he finished ahead of another one in his only loss this year.

"In my opinion, he's always been the favorite. Just because he got beat didn't change my opinion of the horse," Schulhofer said.

Fly So Free is considered among the top four contenders in a prospective field of 14 or 15 that will be entered on Thursday. Also in the fray will be Strike the Gold, Best Pal and Hansel, who fill out the quartet from which bettors will choose the favorite.

Fly So Free lost to Strike the Gold by three lengths in his last race, the Blue Grass on April 13 at Keeneland, breaking a five-race winning streak. Fly So Free, however, was 10) lengths better than Wilder than Ever, another Derby prospect, at Keeneland.

And, in the Florida Derby on March 16, Fly So Free beat Strike the Gold by a length. Hansel was third in that race before winning the Jim Beam and Lexington in his last two starts.

Subordinated Debt, another Derby hopeful, was a Fly So Free victim in the Fountain of Youth, and Fly So Free beat Subordinated Debt and Happy Jazz Band in the Champagne. Best Pal and Lost Mountain, also expected to start on Saturday, lost to Fly So Free in the Breeders' Cup Juvenile last November.

"Everytime one of them flies somewhere and Fly So Free isn't there, they improve," Schulhofer said.

Schulhofer says he is most concerned about Strike the Gold, trained by Nick Zito, and Best Pal, who finished a strong second to Dinar in the Santa Anita Derby. Dinar, who probably would have been the Derby favorite, was taken out of contention by a pulled tendon.

"I guess they're the two I'm most worried - or concerned - about," Schulhofer said.

Schulhofer took much of the blame for Fly So Free's loss in the Blue Grass. Instead of letting his colt run, he instructed jockey Jose Santos to hold him back and wait for Strike the Gold to make a run. When Strike the Gold did, Fly So Free couldn't stop him.

EMS tourney successful

The Emergency Medical Services Golf Tournament played Saturday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course was a success, L.V. Watts said, as the Hereford EMS cleared about $850.

That is enough, Watts said, to buy several items to go on the ambulance.

"They're some things which will make the paramedics' jobs a whole lot easier, and will provide better customer care," he said.

Fourteen teams entered, and most got some kind of prize, Watts said.

The team of Lionel Schroeder, Raymond Schroeder, R. Schroeder and Ken Cole shot a 61 to win the tournament.

Herd sweeps twin bill

Matt Bromlow, Amado Lopez, Max Mungia and Tab Hathaway each had two RBI to lead Hereford's varsity baseball team past the Caprock Longhorns 9-2 Saturday at Whiteface Field, and the Maroon junior varsity followed with a 9-4 win to sweep the double-header.

The win moved Hereford, now 3-6, past Caprock (2-7) in the District 1-4A standings, with Caprock taking over last place.

In the varsity game, the Herd started off the scoring with two in the first. Bromlow led off and reached on an error by Caprock shortstop Jason Ornelas. He stole second, went to third when the catcher's throw went into center field and scored on George Jowell's single. Richard Sanderson courtesy-ran for Jowell and was running with the pitch when Lopez hit a grounder up the middle. Even though Ornelas got the tip of his glove on it, it bounced far enough away that Sanderson was able to score.

Caprock made it 2-1 in the top of the second when Ornelas came home on Dustin Warren's single.

In the bottom of the third, the Herd broke through for six runs, with Bromlow and Hathaway providing the big blows. Jowell started the inning with a single, and Sanderson ran for him again. Sanderson stole second base and scored on Lopez' single.

After two outs, Lopez had moved to third, and Rene Cano walked and stole second. Hathaway's single brought them both home. Next, Louis Mungia doubled and Bromlow's single plated Hathaway and Sanderson, who pinch-ran for Mungia.

That gave the Herd a 7-1 lead—one starting pitcher Sammy Casarez kept. He allowed six hits over the complete game and fanned eight Longhorns. He gave up only two runs—one unearned. In the top of the fifth, Longhorns singled and walked before one scored on shortstop Cano's fielding error.

The Herd scored two more in the sixth. Louis Mungia singled, but when Bromlow grounded to third, Mungia was forced out at second. Bromlow stole second, and when George Jowell walked, Chad Brummett was used as a courtesy runner. Both scored when Max Mungia doubled into the left field corner.

For the game, four Whitefaces had two hits each: Jowell, Lopez, Hathaway and Louis Mungia. Roy Cantu might have joined this list if not for good defensive plays by Ornelas and Mann, the pitcher. Sanderson scored three runs, all as a courtesy or pinch runner.

In other varsity action Saturday, Pampa gained the upper hand in the district by thrashing Randall 9-0, while Borger lost 8-6 to Dumas. Pampa's record is now 7-2, and the Harvesters can clinch the top spot in the playoffs with a win over the 6-3 Bulldogs today in Borger. Dumas stays in the running at 5-4, while Randall (4-5), Hereford and Caprock will play their last games today. Dumas is to be at Caprock, and the Herd is scheduled to wrap up 1991 at Randall.

In Saturday's second game, the Maroon team had what Coach Bill Bridge said would probably be a record for a JV game: four double plays. The Herd completed four twin killings all in the first five innings and none of them were of the typical second base-to-first base variety.

The first came in the first inning, when a Caprock runner broke from second after the shortstop released a throw to first. First baseman Jerry Rincon threw to third baseman Ralph Holguin, beating the runner easily.

The second DP came in the second inning, when a runner wandered off second on a pop fly even though the infield-fly rule had been called. Holguin caught the ball and threw to second.

The third came in the third, when a runner tried to score from second on a single to left field. Chris Brummett threw to Holguin, the cut-off man, who threw home to catcher Michael Campos for the easy tag.

The fourth was in the fifth inning. With a Caprock runner on second, a ball was hit well and appeared headed for the gap when Sanderson made a spectacular diving catch. He got up and threw to second the complete the play.

Two pitchers benefited from all this. John Nava started, and Holguin relieved and finished it.

The Herd also scored a few runs, especially in the third inning, when they plated six on only one hit. The Caprock pitcher walked six Whitefaces and hit one, and three of the runs walked in. The Whitefaces also scored once in the fourth and twice in the sixth. Jason Tateravich and David Ramirez had the only RBI.

The Maroon team finished their season with a record of 12-6-2.

Two more runs

Seniors Chad Brummett (8) and Matt Bromlow meet at the plate after both scored on a double by Max Mungia, another senior. The Whitefaces won 9-2 in the seniors' last game at Whiteface Field.

White JV finishes with romp

Hereford's White junior varsity baseball team used a barrage of extra base hits to bury Randall's JV 18-8 Monday at Whiteface.

It was the final game for the White, giving the team an 11-9 record.

The Herd led 10-3 after four innings—scoring once in the first, twice in the second, six times in the third and once more in the fourth.

The Longhorns came back to make it a game with three in the fifth and two in the sixth. That made the score 10-8 going into the bottom of the sixth.

The Herd answered the challenge with eight runs in the inning, and the 10-run rule was enforced when Andrew Tijerina's single drove in Justin Wright with two outs.

For the game, Whitefaces had six extra base hits. Ralph Holguin had two triples, one of which came with the bases loaded. Chris Brummett also hit a triple which drove in a run. Michael Melendrez hit a double for two of his three RBI, and Vince Castillo added a run-scoring double.

Wright went three-for-three with two doubles and three runs scored, despite the fact he didn't enter the game until the fourth inning.

Wright, Fonzie Enriquez, Michael Campos, Joey Ballejo, Jason Paetzold also had one RBI each.

The team is coached by Henry Perez.

Tax cut to help horse racing

AUSTIN (AP) - Horse racing supporters say a tax cut given tentative approval by the Texas House is needed to get big-time racing off and running in the state.

Without it, they say, no one will be able to build a Kentucky Derby-style track in Texas.

"To start a track of that quality and that size, you're going to have to have some type of stimulation to get there," said Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Monday's 103-35 House vote came over objections of opponents who argued that it was a "bait-and-switch" maneuver pulled after voters in 1987 legalized racing on the promise of a 5 percent tax on wagers.

"The present 5 percent that we have is the same 5 percent that was promoted by the pari-mutuel supporters and even proposed by them," said Rep. Sue Schechter, D-Houston.

"I knew what I was buying (in 1987) and these folks knew what they were selling... Either the pari-mutuel supporters were the biggest fools on earth or they lied to us," she said.

The bill would reduce the current 5 percent tax on each dollar wagered to a sliding scale of 1 percent to 5 percent, based on how many bets a track handles.

The tax rate would be 1 percent for the first $100 million wagered annually, rising to the top rate after $400 million or more was bet.

The measure also would permit "simulcasting" - allowing bettors to go to a track and place wagers there on televised races being run at other locations.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said today's 5 percent tax was simply too high to make racing profitable at the major, Class 1 tracks envisioned for Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

Horsemen contend that no investors are interested in building the Class 1 tracks because of the tax rate. At 5 percent of each dollar wagered, they say, the tax makes it impossible to show a profit. Cost estimates for building the big tracks range from $60 million to more than $100 million.

Four smaller horse tracks have opened, and one failed. The Racing Commission, designed to pay its own way through tax revenues, announced earlier this month that it finally had begun showing a profit for the state.

A's Henderson aims to break record

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Rickey Henderson has a gift he'd like to give the New York Yankees - the distinction of being involved in a memorable moment in baseball history.

The California Angels got to feel what that's like when Henderson tied Lou Brock's all-time record for career stolen bases Sunday. After being foiled four times in four games, Henderson stole second in the sixth inning for the 938th of his career.

"It was nice to see," California's Dave Parker said. "I can say I was in a game that was a part of history, but the wrong team won (The A's won 7-3)."

Not every Angel was pleased with Henderson's record-tying theft, however.

"Nobody wants to be in the highlights all night long," Angels pitcher Jim Abbott said. "I'm glad it wasn't me, but he's stolen some on me before so I guess I'm part of the record, too."

And there's all that trivia stuff. On the record-tying steal, Jeff Robinson was the pitcher and Lance Parrish was the catcher. It came on a 1-2 pitch, a forkball. Henderson will give the base to Walter Haas, the owner of the A's.

Dave Winfield thinks he may qualify, too.

"I might be a piece of trivia," said

Angels outfielder Dave Winfield. "I was there when he broke the single-season record. We came here to win, but now I'm a part of history again."

Henderson was thrilled that his first chance to claim Brock's record as his own comes tonight against the Yankees, the only team besides the A's he has played for in 13 major league seasons. If he doesn't do it Tuesday night, there's a Wednesday afternoon game, too.

Who will be the catcher? The Yankees have already used three this season - Matt Nokes, Bob Geren and Matt Leyritz.

The pitcher? Right-hander Dave Eiland, who has won four major league games, starts for the Yankees tonight. Henderson likes stealing against righties better than lefties.

The record-setting base? Well, Henderson is keeping that for himself.

"I'm going to put it on my wall," Henderson said. "I'll look at it every day. Maybe I'll kiss it before I come to the ballpark."

When the record finally falls, Henderson will be looking forward to things getting back to normal. He thinks the pressure of getting the record has been hard on him.

"You put a lot of pressure on yourself when you're close to a record or about to break a record," Henderson said.

Henderson opened the season needing three bases to set the record. He stole one on Opening Day, but then was caught stealing three times and picked off once. Mixed in was a trip to the disabled list that forced him to miss 14 games.

Cardinals come from behind

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Their come-from-behind victory even surprised the St. Louis Cardinals.

"If it was a game when you kept threatening, you could understand coming back," Cardinals manager Joe Torre said after Ozzie Smith forced extra innings and then got the game-winner on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 11th in a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Monday night. "But this was a game where we weren't doing anything."

"Nothing was happening. You couldn't have it any better than this."

The Braves were rolling along before the seventh. John Smoltz was pitching a three-hitter and leading 3-0. It wasn't enough as the Cardinals won for the fourth time in their final at-bat. Six of their 12 victories have been come-from-behind efforts, once from five runs down, once from three and another from a two-run deficit in the ninth.

"These are the Cardinals I remember from my days in Chicago, pesky guys who can foul off eight to 10 pitches, guys I hate to see," said reliever Lee Smith (2-0), who retired all six batters he faced.

In Monday's only other National League game, Philadelphia defeated San Diego 7-2.

Todd Zeile drove in the Cardinals' first run with a single in the seventh, and the combination of Ozzie Smith's hitting and the alert base-running of rookie pinch-runner Geronimo Pena tied it.

With two outs and the bases loaded, Smith hit a grounder between first and second that first baseman Sid Bream was able to knock down. Reliever Mike Stanton was late covering the bag, though, and Smith beat the throw in a close play.

Pena, whom Torre said is perhaps his fastest player, scored from second with a throw.

"Mike said he froze on the mound," Braves manager Bobby Cox said. "It cost us two runs and the ballgame. It's as simple as that."

In the 11th, Pena drew a one-out walk off Doug Sisk (2-1) and stole second. He was on third with one out when Smith lined a high fastball into center field, and again he scored easily as Ron Gant's throw was off-line and weak.

"I just wanted to get something up in the strike zone," Smith said. "He threw the first one high and I was able to get the good part of the bat on it - we win."

Of course, that has happened every time Lee Smith has pitched this season. He has seven saves and a 2-0 record in nine appearances and has not blown a save opportunity since Aug. 18, 1990, a stretch of 14 opportunities.

A nonchalant fielding play by rookie left fielder Bernard Gilkey helped the Braves break up a scoreless game with three runs off Bob Tewksbury in the fifth.

Gilkey drifted to his right for a ball hit by Bream to open the inning and it ended up dropping in for a double. The Braves capitalized as Rafael Belliard hit a run-scoring single and Jeff Treadway drove in two more with a bases-loaded single.

Smoltz remained at 0-4 despite a 3.64 ERA, giving up six hits and three runs in 6 1-3 innings. Tewksbury worked six innings and allowed three runs on seven hits.

Phillies 7, Padres 2

Dale Murphy drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly in the first and a two-run, tie-breaking homer in the seventh.

Terry Mulholland (2-2) allowed six hits in eight innings, struck out three and walked one as the Phillies won their third straight. Mitch Williams pitched a perfect ninth.

Ed Whitson (1-3) lost his third consecutive start, allowing 11 hits and five runs in six innings for the visiting Padres.

Mariners batter Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Seattle Mariners couldn't have asked for a better place to try to end their most recent losing streak.

Memorial Stadium has been better than a home away from home for the Mariners. It's been more like a palace. More than anyone, they'll be sorry when the Orioles leave after this year for their new home.

Streaky Seattle had 15 hits Monday night - at least one from every starter - in beating the Orioles 10-1 and ending a five-game losing streak. It was the Mariners' seventh victory in eight games at Memorial Stadium and 19th in 27 since Sept. 1, 1987.

"I'll tell you, people on this ballclub love to come here," said Pete O'Brien, who had two hits and scored twice.

In Monday night's only other American League game, Detroit beat Kansas City 3-1.

The Mariners opened the season with a six-game losing streak, then won eight in a row before losing five straight.

"It's a funny thing. Lose six, win eight, lose five," Seattle manager Jim Lefebvre said. "Obviously, we're hoping this doesn't happen too often. We'd like to be a little more consistent."

So would the Orioles, who followed up an inspirational comeback victory over Milwaukee on Sunday with a miserable effort against Seattle.

"The most disturbing thing is how inconsistent we've been," manager Frank Robinson said. "We probably played with less intensity and enthusiasm tonight than any game this year. You would think that after the game we played (Sunday) we would have been more fired up tonight."

Rich DeLucia (2-2) allowed seven hits in 7 2-3 innings, struck out three and walked three. Seattle made four double plays, three behind DeLucia.

"When people got on, he somehow got the double play," Lefebvre said. "That was the key."

Sam Horn hit his third homer for the Orioles, who have lost 8 of 11.

GAO raps Pantex safety record

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pantex nuclear weapons plant workers were exposed to depleted uranium dust for years without being aware of its radioactive hazard, says a congressional study that found persistent health and safety problems at the Amarillo facility.

In a critical study of the nation's only final assembly plant for nuclear bombs and missile warheads, the General Accounting Office cited Pantex for being unprepared to handle emergencies involving radioactive releases. The report also rapped Pantex for failing to inform workers about the hazards of working with depleted uranium and tritium.

"The situation at Pantex indicates that the message of improved safety that DOE Secretary (James) Watkins has been trying to communicate to the nuclear weapons complex has not spread to Pantex," said Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., who requested the GAO investigation.

The report said Pantex has one of the worst occupational safety records in the Energy Department's weapons complex. And two accidents resulting in workers being exposed to tritium and depleted uranium raise questions about the adequacy of Pantex's attention to safety and health, GAO said.

DOE spokesman Harry Phillips said he could not comment on the report because he had not seen it. Synar, chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee on environment, energy and natural resources, released the study late Monday.

GAO, the congressional watchdog agency, said the Energy Department cannot be sure the plant is operating safely because it has completed fewer than half of its safety analysis reports. Those reports, GAO said, should have been completed years ago.

The "persistent safety and health problems" at Pantex clearly support the need for external oversight of the plant's safety, GAO said, and the decision to exclude Pantex from the independent Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board may warrant a renewed examination of the issue.

Congressional staff told GAO that Pantex was excluded from the board's oversight when it was established in 1988 because Pantex was considered a relatively safe operation. There was also concern that allowing outside review of a plant that assembled nuclear weapons would result in security risks.

"However, these circumstances have changed since 1988 because safety and health problems have surfaced at Pantex and outside agencies ... have conducted inspections at Pantex," the report said.

Rep. Bill Sarpalius, D-Amarillo, said he would support having Pantex subject to the board's oversight.

"DOE officials and the management of DOE's contractor at Pantex (Mason and Hanger-Silas Mason Co.) should endorse this recommendation," Sarpalius said. "Failure to do so could hurt our chances of expansion at the facility."

Pantex is being considered as a possible recipient of operations currently conducted at the DOE's Rocky Flats plant outside Denver. A Pantex expansion could mean between $500 million and $2.2 billion worth of construction at the Panhandle facility and between 2,000 and 10,000 new jobs for the Amarillo area, Sarpalius' office said.

"It now appears that some problems have developed during the last few years and the situation has to be dealt with now, before it becomes uncontrollable," Sarpalius said. "There is no shame in being overseen by the board; all the other facilities competing for a share of Rocky Flats' operations are under the board's oversight."

GAO said two accidents involving radioactive releases, in 1989 and 1990, illustrate inadequacies in the plant's ability to handle such emergencies. DOE said levels of exposure were below DOE's allowable limit.

In a 1989 case, after a radiation specialist came in contact with black dust that consisted of depleted uranium, DOE discovered that although workers had occasionally observed the black dust since 1984, nothing had been done about it.

"Consequently, workers were exposed to the black dust for years without being aware of its radioactive hazard," GAO said.
