Storm dumps five inches of snow

From staff and wire reports

It rained. It sleeted. It snowed. It thundered. There was lightning.

All, it seemed, at the same time. A smorgasbord of weather conditions rolled across Texas today, bringing heavy snow, flash flooding and heavy fog to portions of the state.

Strong thunderstorms exploded across West and North Texas early today, caused by an upper level disturbance combined with a frontal boundary. The front stretched from northeast Texas north of Longview to north of Waco to the Big Bend. A strong flow of moisture from the Gulf fueled the thunderstorms.

A strong winter storm dumped as much as nine inches of snow across northern portions of the Texas Panhandle, creating blizzard-like conditions and forcing officials to close two major highways.

Snow drifts of three to four feet were common across northern portions of the Panhandle.

A heavy snow warning was in effect for the Panhandle today and a winter weather advisory was in effect for the South Plains today.

Hereford officially received five inches of snow as of 7 a.m. today, and could receive three inches more before the storm moves out.

No highways in the Hereford area were closed, but crews from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation began working Thursday morning at 8 a.m. to keep roads as clear as possible.

Seven trucks and two motor graders spent most of their time on U.S. highways 60 and 385, trying to keep them as clear as possible. They also worked on the farm-to-market roads close to Hereford, but had not been able to get to some of the secondary roads in the far west and northwest parts of the county.

"We hope we get everything cleared enough so everybody can get out and around today," a highways department employee said this morning.

Highway department employees said the worst spot on major roads in the area was Interstate 40 from Vega going west to the state line. I-40 was closed Thursday from Tucumcari, N.M., westward through New Mexico.

Hereford first received snow Thursday morning, then was pelted by sleet around midday. Precipitation fell off-and-on through the afternoon.

About 7 p.m. Thursday, lightning knifed through the already bright sky.

At about 7:40 p.m., a tremendous lightning stroke and thunderclap rattled the city and the surrounding countryside. Lightning and intermittent thunder, though not quite so spectacular, continued into the night.

In addition to snow, sleet was reported scattered across the South Plains and freezing rain was reported in some portions of the Panhandle.

Snowfall amounts across the Panhandle ranged from six to nine inches by dawn today and additional amounts of three to five inches were expected before the storm system moves eastward.

Officials said the mixture of rain, freezing rain, sleet and snow across the South Plains was expected to cause hazardous driving conditions.

The Texas Highway Department reported early today that U.S. 287 was closed north of Dumas and U.S. 87 was closed northwest of Dalhart.

All highway travel in the Panhandle was strongly discouraged, highway department officials said.

Earlier in the morning, U.S. 287 southbound lanes were closed at Stratford after the highway became blocked by several jackknifed trucks.

The strong upper level storm system that triggered the winter storm is expected to move out of the southern Rockies later today and will move east northeastward into the Central Plains tonight and Saturday.

A clearing trend was expected over West Texas starting early Saturday.

Snow adds to scenery

Snow frames the wood and stone entrance marker to Veterans Memorial Park in Hereford. The city officially received five inches of snow as of 7 a.m. today, and up to three more inches was predicted before the storm pulls away late today and Saturday.

DC Mayor Barry nabbed for drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mayor Marion Barry, embattled by repeated accusations of drug use, faces federal narcotics charges today after a sting operation that law enforcement sources say caught him on videotape smoking crack cocaine.

Barry was released on his own recognizance by a federal magistrate and returned to his home to await arraignment at midday. City and personal lawyers went to the home to consult with him overnight.

Barry, who planned to announce his candidacy for a fourth term on Sunday, was arrested Thursday night at a downtown hotel. FBI agents and local police videotaped him smoking cocaine after a friend sold it to him, according to a law enforcement source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Authorities had not determined whether Barry would face a misdemeanor or felony charge, sources said. The charges would depend on the amount of cocaine or cocaine-base seized when Barry was arrested at the Vista International Hotel, six blocks from the White House, sources said.

"It's a misdemeanor kind of thing," said Barry's attorney, R. Kenneth Mundy. Asked what amount of drug might be involved, he pinched his forefinger and thumb closely together and grinned.

"We aren't going to have anything to say yet," Mundy said after visiting the mayor.

Barry's arrest resulted from a joint undercover "public corruption probe" by the FBI and the internal affairs division of the Washington Metropolitan Police Department, U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens said in a statement.

The mayor has been plagued in recent years by accusations of drug use as well as the corruption convictions of several top city officials. He has repeatedly denied ever using or buying drugs.

TSBGA banquet Saturday

The Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet is set for 7 p.m. Saturday in the Bull Barn with Keith Barrett, nationally-known humorist, as guest speaker. Tickets are $7.50 each and can be purchased at the door.

New and past directors and officers will be recognized, as well as others who have been instrumental in the success of the beet industry in the Panhandle area. This year marks Holly Sugar's 25th anniversary in the community. The annual Ag Man of the Year award will also be presented by The Hereford Brand.

Barrett, guest banquet speaker, has been entertaining audiences across the nation for more than 30 years. He believes "laughter is the shortest distance between people," and more than a half-million people will attest that laughing with Keith is great therapy.

The TSBGA's annual business meeting was held today at Hereford

Community Center. Bill Cleavinger, president of both the Texas and national beet growers' associations, headed the list of speakers for the session.

Congressional debates on the 1990 Farm Bill and the controversial General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations were among the topics for the session. Dennis Printz, Holly's ag manager in Hereford, was to recognize top beet growers and present awards.

- Here are the past winners of the Ag Man of the Year Award, presented by the Hereford Brand:

Sales tax rebate higher

Hereford's city sales tax rebate check for January totalled $46,113.80, an increase of 19.3 percent over the $38,626 collected a year ago. The rebate reflects taxes collected on November sales.

Deaf Smith County's half-cent sales and use tax returned $23,307.64 in January. This was a 21.6 percent increase over the amount received last year at this time.

Statewide, the January payments to cities amounted to $70 million, almost 10 percent more than last year's checks, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock. Payments to counties totaled $7.2 million in January checks, an increase of 18 percent over last year.

Merchants collect the state, city and county sales taxes and send them to the Comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its 6 percent share and each month sends cities and counties their portion of the sales tax.

Totals and percent change for other area cities: Canyon $30,554 (up 9.3%); Plainview $144,785 (up 11.5%); Pampa $101,895 (up 10.5%); Borger $93,281 (up 20.4%); Amarillo $962,598 (up 10.6%); Lubbock $1,090,539 (up 7.3%); Dumas $49,044 (up 4.2%); Littlefield $15,402 (up 3.2%); Dimmitt $7,603 (down 5.4%); Friona $7,214 (up 0.87%)

New chamber officers installed

Doug Josserrand was formally installed as Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's 1990 president during a retreat and workshop Wednesday at Hereford County Club.

Other new officers are Pat Robbins, vice president, and Scott Keeling, treasurer. New directors installed were Charles Greenawald, Diane Hoelscher, Ken McLain, James McDowell and Marilyn Culpepper. McDowell was appointed to fill the one-year unexpired term of the late Berta Ottesen, while Culpepper is president of the Women's Division.

New officers and directors will be recognized at the annual C of C Banquet, tentatively scheduled for March 8 at the Bull Barn. Details will be released on confirmation of the guest speaker.

The board discussed the program of work for the year, and also passed a resolution supporting the proposed merger between West Texas State University and Texas A&M University. Various aspects of the merger were discussed before the board unanimously approved the resolution "to extend, full support and encouragement of the adoption of the WTSU/Texas A&M merger."

Josserrand said the board felt that "the overwhelming response by area residents in favor of this action, and the positive benefits to be derived by such a merger, make this adoption very important to the region."

Mike Carr, executive vice president, reminded local residents that the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce is chartering a commercial flight to Austin Jan. 25 to attend the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board meeting. Anyone interested in making the one-day trip at a cost of $200 a person can contact the local chamber for more details.

WT merger study 'premature'

AMARILLO (AP) - Backers of a West Texas State University merger into the Texas A&M system say a report opposing the move won't stand in the way of its approval.

The state Higher Education Coordinating Board staff has issued a report urging the full board not to consolidate West Texas State with the Texas A&M system.

But state Rep. John Smithee, R-Amarillo, said he thinks approval of the merger is likely. "I believe we've got the votes" on the coordinating board, he said Thursday.

Smithee and other proponents of the merger said they plan to attend the coordinating board meeting next Thursday and Friday in Austin to show their support. They say West Texas State would gain prestige and more research dollars as part of the A&M system.

A committee studying the merger proposal will make its recommendations Thursday, and the coordinating board is scheduled to vote on the matter Friday.

Last Tuesday, the coordinating board's staff submitted a report, written by Texas Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth, that said a merger should not be approved because it would result in program duplications with Texas Tech.

The report concluded that West Texas State should consider aligning with Texas Tech, a 23,000-student university based in Lubbock, 100 miles south. West Texas State, with 6,000 students, is in Canyon, just south of Amarillo.

Members of the Texas Panhandle legislative delegation, who had won the support of the Legislature and the regents of West Texas State and the

A&M system, expressed dismay over the staff report.

"They went way beyond their duties," said state Rep. Dick Waterfield, R-Canadian. "They weren't supposed to make recommendations."

Waterfield said he believes Texas Tech might have influenced the staff report. Smithee agreed.

"I think Texas Tech began to see this as somewhat of a threat," said Smithee, a graduate of Texas Tech's law school. "This is not designed to be a threat to Texas Tech."

Ashworth said he was not pressured or influenced by Texas Tech, which has not expressed interest in linking with West Texas State. Some Texas Tech officials have expressed unease at the merger idea.

"If you took only the advantages to West Texas State University into account, you'd probably recommend approval" of the merger, Ashworth said.

But he added that he and the coordinating board staff concluded that a consolidation would harm the state's educational system, so they condemned the idea.

T. Boone Pickens, chairman of the West Texas State board of regents and a leading backer of the merger proposal, released a statement pointing out that the staff report "is simply a recommendation by his staff to the coordinating board members."

Smithee said the staff report is a setback, "but I don't think it's a fatal blow. I'm confident that when the board meets next week, they'll consider the facts of the situation and approve the merger."

Authorities arrest two

A man, 27, was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia on Wednesday by sheriff's deputies. Police arrested a male, 24, for theft from a convenience store on Thursday.

Reports included forgery and passing in the 500 block of 25 Mile Ave., $500; burglary of a residence in the 400 block of Ave. E, $460; burglary of a motor vehicle in the 200 block of Ave. F, $165; burglary of a motor vehicle on 15th Street; criminal mischief and trespassing in the 700 block of Ave. G, $50; criminal mischief to a flag pole in the 300 block of Austin Road; and reckless driving at Stadium Drive.

A wreck at Caviness Packing caused damage to vehicles but no major injuries on Thursday.

Police issued 11 citations and responded to 3 accidents on Thursday.

More snow tonight

Tonight will be colder with a 30 percent chance of snow. Another inch accumulation is expected, with a low of 15. Northwest winds will be 5-15 mph.

Saturday will see decreasing cloudiness and colder temperatures with a high of 35. Northwest winds will be 10-15 mph.

The extended forecast is calling for mostly cloudy skies Monday and Tuesday with a chance of showers. Highs will range from 42 on Sunday to 52 on Tuesday, with lows ranging from 18 on Sunday morning to 30 by Tuesday morning.

This morning's low at KPAN was 24 after a high Thursday of 34. KPAN recorded five inches of snow as of 7 a.m. today.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Jan. 26, the 26th day of 1990. There are 339 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 26, 1788, the first European settlers in Australia, led by Capt. Arthur Phillip, landed in present-day Sydney. (The party included 700 convicts from England.)

On this date:

In 1784, in a letter to his daughter, Benjamin Franklin expressed unhappiness over the choice of the eagle as the symbol of America, and expressed his own preference: the turkey.

In 1802, Congress passed an act calling for a library to be established within the U.S. Capitol.

In 1837, Michigan became the 26th state with the signing of a statehood bill by President Andrew Jackson.

In 1861, Louisiana seceded from the Union.

In 1870, Virginia rejoined the Union.

Five years ago: Pope John Paul II arrived in Caracas, Venezuela, to begin a tour of South America.

One year ago: L. Douglas Wilder, the lieutenant governor of Virginia, launched his successful campaign to become the first elected black governor.

Today's Birthdays: Former secretary of commerce C. William Verity is 73. Actor Paul Newman is 65. Singer Eartha Kitt is 62. Movie director Roger Vadim is 62. Cartoonist Jules Feiffer is 61. Sportscaster-actor Bob Uecker is 55. Activist Angela Davis is 46. Movie critic Gene Siskel is 44. Singer-musician Eddie Van Halen is 33. Hockey star Wayne Gretzky is 29. Musician Andrew Ridgeley is 27.

Thought for Today: "As long as men are free to ask what they must, free to say what they think, free to think what they will, freedom can never be lost, and science can never regress." - J. Robert Oppenheimer, American physicist (1904-1967).

Columbia landing delayed day by fog

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Fog blocked Columbia's return to Earth until Saturday, making it the longest space shuttle mission yet.

The shuttle had planned a pre-dawn landing today at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., but Mission Control decided to keep Columbia in orbit for one more day because of the fog bank.

The new landing time of 12:01 a.m. PST extends the flight to nearly 11 days, surpassing by 11 hours, 38 minutes the old record, also set by Columbia in 1983.

Capsule communicator Mike Baker early today initially directed the five astronauts to lengthen the flight by one orbit, or 95 minutes, in case the fog lifted.

When it didn't, he said, "We've decided not to come home today. The weather looks a lot better Saturday."

"OK. Sounds like the best plan," Columbia commander Dan Brandenstein responded. Earlier he said, "This is not a good vehicle to fly into fog."

The initial directive to hold off was relayed to the astronauts just three hours before they were to have fired their re-entry engines to start an hourlong plunge through the atmosphere following a flight that deployed one satellite and rescued another.

Except for the fog, which would prevent the astronauts from seeing the lighted runway, weather conditions at Edwards were good. Flight rules dictate visibility of seven miles for landing.

The second and last landing opportunity Friday was 4:30 a.m. PST. The shuttle will have four chances Saturday to land at the Mojave Desert base.

Columbia carries enough fuel and other supplies to stay in orbit until at least Monday, officials said.

Other U.S. landing sites at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and at White Sands Missile Base, N.M., also had unacceptable weather conditions today.

The space travelers planned a day of exercising, photography and other light activity.

Their day began at 9:35 p.m. EST Thursday with Mission Control blaring the Steppenwolf song, "Born to Be Wild" as the wakeup music.

"Good morning Columbia, I hope you're ready to rock and roll," said the control center.

"We're ready to rock and roll," replied shuttle pilot Jim Wetherbee.

The 11-ton scientific satellite stowed in the spaceship's cargo bay had been in orbit for nearly six years before being snared by the astronauts a week ago.

The satellite, called the Long

Duration Exposure Facility, was deployed by a shuttle crew in April 1984 and was supposed to remain in orbit for less than a year, but its retrieval was delayed because of scheduling changes and the 1986 Challenger accident.

Scientists want to know how the various experimental materials stored in 57 trays outside the LDEF withstood being pounded by micrometeoroids, blasted by cosmic rays and corroded by highly reactive atomic oxygen.

"We believe LDEF is a real treasure that's going to help very much in designing future space satellites, shuttles and space stations," Brandenstein said Thursday as the crew spoke by radio-telephone with President Bush at the White House.

Bush called the rescue "a very exciting grab."

If the astronauts had failed to catch it, the satellite was expected to be destroyed in March in a fiery dive through Earth's atmosphere.

Brandenstein, Wetherbee and mission specialists Bonnie Dunbar, David Low and Marsha Ivins devoted most of the time in space to medical and science experiments and Earth photography.

The mission is the 33rd shuttle flight and is a steppingstone toward months-long trips aboard the space station starting in the mid-1990s.

Hance: 'two-person race'

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican candidate Kent Hance claims the GOP primary now is basically a "two-person race" between himself and Clayton Williams.

Hance, citing recent opinion polls, Thursday said he and Williams are pulling away from the other two major Republican hopefuls, Dallas lawyer Tom Luce and former secretary of state Jack Rains of Houston.

"We'd been reading ... that Clayton Williams' campaign chairman said it looked like they had a chance of wrapping it up and winning without a runoff," Hance said, adding that he thinks the gap between the two is a narrow one.

"We've virtually made it a two-person race ... We think the trend is in our favor," Hance said.

However, Hance said he's not discounting Luce or Rains as the March 13 primary approaches.

"I don't think you can write off Luce, and I don't think you can write off Rains, or anyone at this point in time because it's early ... But I think it is narrowing down," Hance said.

Williams, meanwhile, proposed two years' free tuition at state colleges for some 20,000 Texas students a year.

Williams proposed free tuition for high school students whose families make less than $30,000 annually, who are graduated with a B average or better and who submit to random drug testing to prove themselves drug-free.

"I want to offer more, much more than a free tuition. I want to offer hope," the Midland rancher-oilman said.

"They must submit to random drug tests because I want them to be drug-free and I want to encourage them to just say no," he said. "I want to give an incentive to do more than just say no - if you don't get on drugs somebody's going to help me go to college. That's got to be good."

He said a one-year free tuition voucher would be given to qualifying students for any state-funded university, college, community college or other institution of higher education.

If they maintain passing grades, a second year's free tuition would be granted. After that, he said, determined students will find a way to complete their education.

Williams said the program would serve an estimated 10 percent of the state's 200,000 annual high school graduates.

To pay the $32.5 million cost, he proposed limiting legal staffs of state government agencies, cutting regional offices maintained by state agencies and ending Railroad Commission regulation of the trucking industry.

In other political developments:

- Rains scheduled a news conference in Houston, where campaign officials said he was being endorsed by Harris County Judge Jon Lindsay and some other local Republicans.

"It's basically a show of support that Jack has locked up Houston," said Jim Warren, Rains' deputy campaign manager. Harris County, the state's largest, traditionally accounts for some 25 percent of Republican primary voters. Rains, a Houston lawyer and former secretary of state, is the only major GOP candidate from the city.

- Attorney General Jim Mattox said the first television commercials in his Democratic gubernatorial campaign would begin running Friday. He said the ads will run in all the major markets but refused to say for how long or how much they cost.

Clements says no payments to counties

HOUSTON (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements asked county governments who are paying to house state prison inmates in their jails to have patience and forget about being reimbursed by the state.

Officials in Harris County and other Texas counties routinely have been billing the state for millions of dollars in costs for holding in their county jails thousands of convicted criminals who have nowhere to go because state prisons are full.

"They're going to just have to bear with us and shortly we will have the situation in balance and the problem will be solved," Clements said Thursday while addressing the Rotary Club of Houston.

"In the meantime, they're inconvenienced. It is costing some money but we also have those same problems at the state level. It's a common problem that we're going to have to put up with here for a short time," he said.

The governor said he was "absolutely opposed" to any sort of reimbursement to county governments.

Clements noted that the state has more than 25,000 prison beds under construction, a program he said was unprecedented in the nation.

"That program will take care of our prison requirements and will give the relief to our county prisons that is required," he said. "I know that you're badly overcrowded here in Houston as they are in Dallas and Fort Worth and several other metropolitan areas."

"I know it's working a hardship on these metropolitan counties. But I would hope also that you would have a little patience and let us get these prisons built. In the meantime, be patient, be calm, take it easy."

Clements bristled at the suggestion that it was unfair to counties that they had to pick up the tab for state prisoners.

"The county, in case you all have forgotten, is a piece of state government - formally, factually and otherwise," he said. "County government is the lowest denominator in the structure of state government. When you talk about the counties you're talking about the state."

On other matters, Clements said he doubted whether lawmakers would be able to resolve education finance and judicial election matters in a single special legislative session he's called for next month.

"I'm not the least optimistic we're going to solve this in one legislative session," he said.

Clements refused to say what kind of education package he would favor as long as a task force he appointed was still trying to come up with recommendations. Whatever he favored, however, would not result in higher taxes, he said.

"I would pray and hope that all of the media would quit talking about increased taxes because we're not going to have any increased taxes," Clements said.

In his speech, Clements said throwing more money at education would be foolhardy, and said he favored greater efficiency in school systems.

"For starters, it's time we got government off the backs of Texas teachers," he said. "Let's relieve our independent school districts of the ball and chain imposed on them by a centralized bureaucracy in Austin. Texas should deregulate its public education system so teachers don't have to spend their days filling out reams of government forms."

Prefreshman engineering classes offered to students

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors who like science and math can get a sneak preview of what working scientists and engineers do as well as hone their problem solving skills in math, physics, computer science, and engineering at an eight week Texas Prefreshman Engineering Program at Amarillo College this summer.

Directed by Therese Jones, chairman of the Division of Science and Engineering at Amarillo College, Texprep will include field trips, speakers, and lectures to familiarize students with professional opportunities in science and engineering.

Funded by the federal Title II grant, TexPrep targets but is not limited to ethnic minority and women students. There are no fees or tuition for TexPrep.

Fifty 9th, 10th, and 11th graders with academic average of B or better will be selected to attend AC from June 11 to August 3.

Information concerning TexPrep will be sent to Region XVI math and science department heads in January.

Low income students may be able to qualify for job training funds through the Summer Youth Program of the Job Training Partnership Act to attend TexPrep.

Questions about TexPrep, housing, or financial assistance through JTPA should be addressed to Therese Jones, Division of Science and Engineering, Amarillo College, at 371-5091.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an adult survivor of physical abuse. Because of my traumatic childhood, I don't like to be touched, or hugged, especially by a woman. (It was my mother who beat me most often.) I realize this sounds strange, but please hear me out.

I recently joined a church study group. The people there are friendly and I feel comfortable with them, until it is time to leave. Then there is a lot of hugging, kissing, touching and patting. When this occurs, I get upset and want to run out of the place. Later I become depressed, then angry with my mother for having done this to me.

I try to prevent people from hugging me by sending nonverbal messages such as extending my hand for a handshake, but one particular woman insists on coming up from behind and hugging. This is extremely upsetting.

In the past, I have yelled at people and on one occasion I struck the offender. I apologized and ran out of the place in tears.

I am seeing a therapist who has advised me to tell these people that I am an adult survivor of abuse and don't want to be touched. Although I have confidence in her judgement, I cannot bring myself to reveal my vulnerability.

I can't be the only person in the world who suffers with this problem, so will you please print this letter and help us all? -- "Oddball" in the Midwest

DEAR MIDWEST: Most folks, if they have ordinary common sense, don't hug and pat people they don't know very well. It seems to me that the members of your study group should have gotten the message by this time. Since they haven't, inform them that you aren't the touchy-feely type and to please respect that. I see no point, however, in telling casual acquaintances about your history of abuse. You do not owe them that much of yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are fire department volunteers in a small town in Maine. Last weekend was the second time this year that we were called to the scene of a serious car accident.

Both accidents were caused by the ignition being turned off while the car was in motion. The steering column locked and the car could not be controlled.

In the first accident, Mom, Dad and Junior were riding in an open roadster when Mom complained that her feet were getting too hot from the engine heat. Dad turned off the ignition to shut her up, figuring he'd let the car roll downhill a bit. The steering column locked and they plowed into a flatbed truck. Junior was thrown out of the car. Mom and Dad were pinned in. They all survived but suffered serious injuries. The car was totaled.

In the second accident, a teenage couple were having an argument. The girl turned off the ignition in an attempt to stop the car. The steering locked, the car went in a ravine and rolled over. They, too survived, but both were seriously injured.

Ann, please warn your readers never to turn off the ignition when they are driving. If they need to make an emergency stop, they should use the brakes, or downshift, or coast in neutral, but never turn the key until the car is stopped. -- Emergency Worker in Portland, Maine.

DEAR E.W.: Thank you for an excellent letter, supported by superb documentation. A letter such as yours is extremely valuable. I'm sure it will save some lives.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one you can talk to? Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teenager" is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teen, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0552. Banquet scheduled Saturday

The public is invited to attend the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 20, at the Hereford Community Center.

Guest speaker will be Joe Ochoa of Abilene. Cost of the meal, catered by the Caison House Restaurant, is $4.50 per person.

Proper tree care tips suggested

Maria Escamilla gave the conservation topic of proper tree care when the Bud to Blossom Garden Club met recently.

"Trees and Shrubs of Texas" and the history of Arbor Day was the program given by Jo Ann Blackwell.

Roll call was "My favorite tree". Refreshments were served by Blackwell to Patricia Robinson, Phyllis Brown, Naomi Hare, Escamilla, Winnie Wiseman, Mildred Fuhrmann, and Ursalce Jacobsen.

The next meeting will be Feb. 8 at 219 Norton with John Gilmore presenting a program on birds and wildlife of Buffalo Lake.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Dixie Carter of CBS-TV's "Designing Women" says working on a prime-time series is a "piece of cake" compared to the years she spent on the popular daytime soap "Edge of Night."

Beville honored

Bob Beville was named Honorary Cowbelle for 1989 when members of Hereford CattleWomen met Tuesday, Jan. 16, for lunch at the Hereford Country Club. The presentation was made by the organization's President Lori Hall. Each year the local CattleWomen honor a man in the community for his outstanding contribution in the beef industry. Beville owns Beville Livestock Nutrition Counseling.

March 31 set for Amarillo National History Day contest

The National History Day Contest regional judging at Region XVI Education Service Center in Amarillo has been changed from April 21 to March 31.

Dr. David DeBoc, Director of the Texas State Historical Association which sponsors the contest, will be at the Region XVI Education Service Center on Feb. 1 at 3 p.m. in Conference J to meet with teachers interested in involving students in National History Day.

The theme this year is "Science and Technology in History," and is for students grades 6-12.

Students may enter singly or in a group of two to five members. Entries may include historical papers, projects, performances, or media presentations.

Awards will include certificates, metals, trophies, and monetary awards.

Entries will be judged in two categories, middle school grades 6-8, and high school grades 9-12.

Two winners from the regional level will advance to the state level. State winners will advance to a national competition at the University of Maryland in June.

For more information, contact Rosalyn Wolfe or Mary Jane Reeves at the Region XVI ESC in Amarillo at 376-5521.

The Berlin Blockade began in 1948 as Soviet forces halted all land traffic between the city and West Germany.

Beville named as Honorary Cowbelle

Hereford CattleWomen President Lori Hall presented Bob Beville a cowbell when he was announced as the organization's Honorary Cowbelle for 1989. The presentation was made during the CattleWomen's business luncheon held Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club.

Beville was selected by the women for his contribution to the beef industry. During 1989, Beville assisted the CattleWomen in numerous projects. On Father's Day when the organization promoted beef, Beville was featured in a story in The Hereford Brand where his culinary skills using beef were cited. Samples of his beef recipes were distributed last year at Jack 'n' Jill where the organization manned a tasting booth.

Beville was also a contestant in the CattleWomen's Fajita Cookoff held last August.

Beville's hobbies include playing golf, hunting, coaching for the YMCA, family activities and outdoor cooking with family and friends.

The honoree was born in Petersburg, Va. and has resided in Texas for 23 years. He graduated from Decatur High School in 1973 and attended Tarleton State University in Stephenville where he received an animal science degree.

Following his marriage, Beville and his wife, Camille, moved to Lubbock where he received his masters degree in ruminant nutrition from Texas Tech University. They then moved to Friona with their daughter where Bob was employed for Hi Pro Feeds as a nutritionist. While in Friona, the couple had two more children.

In 1986, Bob was offered a position as a nutritional consultant with Dr. Dale Furr in Hereford. The Bevilles have resided here for four years. In 1989, Bob went into business for himself. He owns and operates Beville Livestock Nutrition Counseling.

Guided tour given by Dr. Birdsong

The Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently at the office of Dr. Mary Birdsong.

Members were given a guided tour and a brief history of the doctor's practice here in Hereford. Members asked health related questions and had an informal visit with Dr. Birdsong.

Thirteen members repeated the opening ritual. Carla Calaway was welcomed as a guest and Patty Frerich read notes of appreciation from Jaime Bromman for the surprise pounding party. Ruby Lee reminded everyone to bring things for Operation Good Shepherd at the next meeting.

Members present were Janice Betzen, Glenna Calaway, Wanda Huseman, Noel Hutson, Lee, Marrie Leverett, Gay Maclasky, Dee Ann Matthews, Mary Beth Messer, Bromman, Jane Meiwes, Frerich, and Donna Weaver.

Scott to receive PHSOF honor in Sunday ceremony

Former Hereford Whiteface pitcher Jason Scott will be honored as the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame Baseball Player of the Year on Sunday.

The ceremony, which will include presentation of the top coaches and players of 1989 in seven sports as well as induction of three new members of the PHSOF, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Ordway Auditorium on the campus of Amarillo College.

Scott was tabbed for the honor on the strength of his 14-1 pitching record during his senior season. The right-hander racked up 146 strikeouts over 103 innings pitched as the Herd claimed the District 1-4A championship and reached the Region 1-4A finals.

Scott finished his prep career with a 27-3 record in two varsity seasons before accepting a scholarship to pitch for Frank Phillips College in Borger.

St. Anthony's boys, girls teams sweep Wildorado tourney

The boys and girls basketball teams of St. Anthony's School both claimed first place at the Wildorado Tournament played Friday.

The St. Anthony's girls topped Wildorado, 29-7, in the first round before downing Wildorado, 24-11, for the championship.

In the first game, St. Anthony's held Wildorado scoreless through the first half, building a 16-point lead at the intermission.

Monica Donjuan, Deanna McCracken, Melissa Carrizales and Katerina Malouf all scored six points for St. Anthony's while Aimee Alley added five.

Against Wildorado, St. Anthony's jumped out to a 6-1 first quarter lead and increased the margin to 18-5 by halftime.

Donjuan led all scorers with 10 points while McCracken had six. Cady Auckerman, Paige Robbins, Melissa Davis and Alley added two points apiece.

The boys team crushed Wildcott, 57-10, in the opening game and took the title with a 35-34 over Wildorado.

St. Anthony's scored at least 10 points in each quarter while holding Wildcott scoreless for two periods in the opening round.

Nicholas Tarr led the scoring with 14 points with Joshua Urbanczyk getting eight. Ronald Torres, Wade McPherson and Stephen Wright scored six points each and Joshua Bullard and David Farr added four apiece. Tom Munoz and Todd Radford scored two each and Brent Marnell had one point.

In the championship game, St. Anthony's overcame a 12-6 deficit after the first quarter to post a 23-16 lead at the half. After adding two more points to the lead in the third period, St. Anthony's withstood a 10-2 advantage by Wildorado in the fourth for the win.

Torres led St. Anthony's with 12 points while McPherson and Tarr added eight each. Bullard popped for five points and Nathan Diller scored two for the winners.

Cy-Fair to forfeit wins

CYPRESS, Texas (AP) - The unbeaten Cy-Fair High School basketball team will have to forfeit their five district wins after the District 16-5A Executive Committee ruled that a player had transferred to the high school last month for athletic purposes.

The executive committee ruled Thursday that reserve postman James Blaine had transferred to the Houston-area school for athletic purposes.

The forfeitures are the minimum penalty for using a player that transfers for athletic purposes. Blaine will be ineligible for the rest of the year.

Cy-Fair can appeal the ruling to the University Interscholastic League, the state's governing body for all extracurricular school activities.

Principal Jody Smith told the Houston Chronicle that she would meet with Cy-Fair superintendent Don Thornton today to decide if the school will appeal.

Blaine, a 6-4 junior, was a returning starter for Jersey Village and played most of the non-district schedule with the Falcons. However, he started attending Cy-Fair High School on Dec. 12. Blaine sat out 15 days, the required time by the UIL when a student transfers from one school to another within the same school district.

Cy-Fair and Jersey Village are part of the Cypress Independent School District along with Langham Creek and Cypress Creek. Had Blaine moved outside the school district, the waiting period would have been 30 days.

Blaine started playing for the Bobcats when they opened district play Jan. 2 against Klein Forest.

The protest was filed by district school Bryan Tuesday afternoon only hours before Bryan battled Cy-Fair for the district lead and lost 89-73.

Bryan school representatives questioned Blaine's eligibility on two counts, that some of the 15-day waiting period took place over the Christmas holidays when school was out, and that the move was strictly for athletic purposes.

A majority of the committee agreed with the Bryan allegations.

John Blaine, father of the basketball player, testified that the move was not for athletic purposes but for domestic and academic purposes. The son decided to go with the father while Blaine's twin sister stayed with the mother and is playing at Jersey Village.

The committee concluded that Blaine did sit out the necessary 15 days and that all transfer paper work - by both schools - was perfect.

But the committee discovered that John Blaine had a long-running dispute with Jersey Village basketball coach Harold Wilder and had discussed the dispute with other people.

The committee questioned the timing of the move, reasoning that if the move was strictly for domestic and academic reasons, Blaine could have transferred at the start of the semester in January instead of Dec. 12.

Bryan Athletic Director Merrill Green said Bryan wanted to question Blaine's eligibility and filed the complaint before the two teams played so in case Bryan lost, it wouldn't look like sour grapes.

House eyes state mark

INGRAM (AP) - When Troy House takes to the court tonight for his shot at breaking the state schoolboy scoring record, it won't be in a gym full of strangers.

The senior at Ingram Tom Moore High School will get his chance in a game at Blanco High School, where he played his freshman year.

"I kind of like the idea of being in a place where I started," House said. "I think it's kind of neat that it's going to happen like that."

House, who is averaging 36.4 points, needs 14 points to break the record.

He has 3,537 career points, behind only Chuck Hall of Krum, who set the record of 3,550 in 1979. House also stands to move into the top 10 career scorers nationally.

Despite all the media attention bombarding House and his school, principal Buddy Collins said the big game is coming at a time not conducive to pep rallies or special plans.

There are no large banners decorating the campus in the quiet Texas Hill Country. Instead, there are exams and teacher meetings.

House himself has been thinking more about chemistry and Spanish than the prospect of becoming the best scorer in state schoolboy history.

After playing at Blanco, House spent his sophomore and junior years at Leakey High School playing basketball where his father Richard coached. He began attending Ingraft this year after his mother was hired as a teacher. An A and B student, House says the larger selection of courses attracted him to the 283-student Class 2A school.

His father inspired his interest in basketball. He hit his first field goal in the first grade and began playing organized ball in the fifth grade.

"Basketball is my number one thing," House, 18, said.

Usually one to drive to the basket, the 6-1 point guard says he has started relying more heavily on 3-point shots.

Ingram coach Jim Reid estimates more than 200 of House's high school career points will have come from 3-pointers.

What shot would House like to break the record?

"Just a good one, I guess."

School officials and House's family had expected him to break the record earlier this season, but he missed eight games after breaking his nose during practice in November and spraining an ankle in December.

He played basketball with a mask to protect his nose, and friends told him he looked like Jason, the hockey masked slasher in the "Friday the 13th" movies.

House says he hasn't given much thought to what college he'll attend but says "it would be nice to stay in Texas."

Because Ingram is a small school, Reid said he suspects bigger colleges are taking a wait-and-see approach to recruiting House.

The Warriors have been playing to packed houses, in large part because of House's scoring, and Reid keeps his star player on the floor even when the Warriors are way ahead.

"You don't want to put him on the bench, you want to see him out there playing," Reid said. "I don't like to rein him in and say, 'Son, you're too good.'"

Evansville aces Musketeers, 59-51

By The Associated Press

Three Aces were too much for the Musketeers.

Missing two starters because of foot injuries, the Evansville Aces got all but seven of their 59 points from Chris Mack, Brian Hill and Larry Brand and used an 11-2 run down the stretch to beat No. 20 Xavier of Ohio 59-51 Thursday night.

"We're not going to lower our standards just because we have injuries," Coach Jim Crews said. "Not many good things have happened to us this season, but the good things that have happened are because our kids believe in the program."

Evansville, 10-7 overall and 3-0 in the Midwest Collegiate Conference, scored nine of its last 11 points on free throws, missing only one in the final 4:58. The Aces had a 15-4 advantage in free throws over Xavier (12-2, 2-1).

Another Top 25 team went down when Stanford defeated No. 16 UCLA 87-79.

Elsewhere, it was No. 1 Kansas 132, Elizabeth City State 65; No. 6 Michigan 90, Ohio State 88; No. 7 Illinois 73, Michigan State 64; No. 9 UNLV 103, UC-Irvine 67; No. 10 Louisville 109, Tulane 96; No. 14 Indiana 83, Iowa 79; No. 18 Oregon State 79, Washington State 64; No. 19 North Carolina State 61, Wake Forest 57 and No. 22 Minnesota 97, Northwestern 75.

Mack scored 20 points, Hill 17 and Brand 15 for Evansville. Tyrone Hill, who led Xavier with 21 points, hit a jumper to give the Musketeers their last lead, 49-48 with seven minutes remaining.

No. 1 Kansas 132, Elizabeth City St. 65
Eight Jayhawks scored in double figures, led by Tony Brown's 19 points. Kansas burst to an 18-0 lead, tacked on runs of 17-2, 13-0 and 18-0 and scored the second-most points in its history. It also was the second-biggest winning margin in school history. Elizabeth City is 1-12.

No. 6 Michigan 90, Ohio St. 88
Reserve Demetrius Calip scored 12 of his 19 points in the second half as Michigan won its third game in six days. Ohio State was led by Perry Carter with 29 points.

A basket by Calip tied it 68-68 with 9:47 left and a 3-pointer by Sean Higgins completed a 7-0 run and put the Wolverines ahead 71-68. Michigan led the rest of the way.

No. 7 Illinois 73, Michigan State 64
Marcus Liberty scored 26 points, including two free throws that started a rally-killing 14-2 second-half run for Illinois.

Andy Kaufmann added a basket and free throw to pace the spurt that put the Illini on top 71-56.

No. 9 UNLV 103, UC-Irvine 67
Larry Johnson scored 20 points and David Butler 17 for UNLV, which made 14 3-point goals to spark an 18-2 run in the first half and a 20-4 streak in the second half.

No. 10 Louisville 109, Tulane 96
LaBradford Smith scored seven points in just under three minutes, leading an early 9-2 surge that gave Louisville a lead it never relinquished. Smith had 18 points.

Anthony Reed scored 29 points for Tulane.

No. 14 Indiana 83, Iowa 79
Eric Anderson scored 18 points, including two free throws that put Indiana ahead to stay, and Pat Graham hit a critical 3-pointer in the final minute. Indiana came back from a 41-36 halftime deficit.

Stanford 87, No. 16 UCLA 79
Adam Keefe scored 23 points and Stanford benefitted from a key six-point sequence late in the game. With Stanford leading 71-70, UCLA's Trevor Wilson fouled John Patrick and drew a technical when he protested the call.

Patrick made both ends of the 1-and-1 and Kenny Ammann hit both technicals. Stanford retained possession and Patrick's short jump shot made it 77-70.

Wilson and Don MacLean scored 31 and 21 points, respectively, for UCLA.

No. 18 Oregon St. 79, Washington St. 64
Gary Payton scored 24 points as Oregon State rolled to its eighth straight victory.

Washington State was led by Juan Thomas with 14 points.
No. 19 N. Carolina St. 61, Wake Forest 57

Rodney Monroe scored 23 points for North Carolina State. The Wolfpack, which relied heavily on 3-pointers to take a 33-29 halftime lead, went mostly inside to outscore the Demon Deacons 9-1 to open the second half.

No. 22 Minnesota 97, Northwestern 75
Willie Burton scored 19 points to lead six Minnesota players in double figures. The Gophers never trailed.

Others

A 15-minute brawl between players and spectators sent at least seven people to the hospital with mostly minor injuries and forced the suspension of the North Carolina Central-North Carolina A&T game at Greensboro, N.C.

The melee began when two players started shoving. At the height of the fracas, approximately 300 people were on the court. Fights broke out throughout the gymnasium, and including the throwing of chairs.

The game was halted with 8:04 left and A&T leading the defending NCAA Division II national champions 39-38.

Jones opposes juniors

DALLAS (AP) - The owner of the Dallas Cowboys said he hopes professional football will continue to reject college underclassmen, although he conceded it might speed up his team's rebuilding process if a flood of juniors went directly to the NFL.

"The more we can condense that rebuilding, the sooner we have accessibility to good players, the quicker our rebuilding job will be," Jones told the Dallas Times Herald.

The Cowboys had the NFL's worst record for the second straight year last season. They followed a 3-13 season with a 1-15 mark.

Alabama junior linebacker Keith McCant said Tuesday he plans to forsake his senior year with the Crimson Tide and be a part of the NFL's college draft this year. He is expected to be the No. 1 pick if he does.

Atlanta has the No. 1 pick, which the Cowboys would have had by virtue of their worst record. But Dallas forfeited its first round pick by taking quarterback Steve Walsh in the supplemental phase last summer.

Scouts, agents and NFL analysts estimate 10 to 30 underclassmen will follow McCant's lead.

Although McCants is not eligible for the April 22-23 draft under NFL guidelines, the league is not expected to challenge him for fear of losing a court battle. Last year, Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State left school after his junior year and was placed in the draft.

Commissioner Paul Tagliabue and NCAA Executive Director Richard Schultz set up a meeting this week to discuss the issue. Tagliabue this week called the league's draft rules "vague and uncertain."

Tagliabue is preparing a policy revision to accommodate more underclassmen. That report should be ready when the owners meet in March.

"The only thing I heard is him saying we need to come up with a posture rather than be in no-man's land," Jones said.

Juniors will not be scouted by the Cowboys until they declare for the draft, said Dick Mansperger, the team's college scouting director. And Mansperger said the number of juniors who will declare for the draft might have been overestimated.

"Sometimes you can create something that doesn't exist and make it snowball," he said. "I think when it comes right down to it, the numbers (will be lower). Let's hope so."

The fact that Sanders, who led the NFC in rushing this season, received a big salary along with the owners' proposal for an entry-level wage-and-bonus scale beginning in 1991, are reasons given for the increased interest.

Sore ribs no problem to Humphrey

DENVER (AP) - The ribs may be weak but the spirit is willing. Bobby Humphrey may be only a rookie, but he knows the Super Bowl is a game you miss only if confined to a wheelchair or a rocker.

As the Denver Broncos resumed practice on Thursday in preparation for a Super Bowl matchup with the San Francisco 49ers in New Orleans on Jan. 28, Humphrey was on the sidelines, resting two ribs cracked in the Broncos' 37-21 victory over Cleveland in the AFC Championship game last Sunday.

"It's feeling better and better," he said. "I'm doing a lot of work with (trainer) Steve (Antonopoulos)."

Asked whether he expected to be able to play, he said, "I hope so. Right now, I plan to be ready. I'm a competitor. I want to go out there and try it. I'll be wearing some extra padding."

The Broncos' top running back has been ordered to sit out drills this week. He expects to rejoin workouts next Wednesday in New Orleans, at which time he'll see how far his recuperation has progressed.

"I'll have to test it out," he said. "There's still some soreness. I know I'm going to need to take some shots on it in practice."

"I'm willing and wanting to play. The only thing that will stop me is if it really hurts and it prevents me from performing the way I want."

The injury was ill-timed for a Denver team that believes it now has the defense and the running game to compete with anybody. Humphrey, ascending to the starting job in the fifth game of the season, rushed for 1,151 yards this season - the first Broncos rookie to top 1,000 yards.

Humphrey's 294 carries were only two shy of the team record, and he had five 100-yard games. Before this season, only five Denver backs had carried 31 or more times in a game, but Humphrey did it twice, with 31 carries against the Washington

Super Bowl XXIV San Francisco vs. Denver

Redskins and Los Angeles Raiders.

So impressive was Humphrey - a first-round choice in the supplemental draft - that the Broncos pulled in the reins on their offense, taking a more run-oriented, conservative approach to showcase his talents and effectively showing John Elway into the background.

Now, the Broncos don't know if they'll have Humphrey, who figured to be a key ingredient in their effort to knock off the heavily favored 49ers.

Sammy Winder filled in admirably for Humphrey in the AFC title game, running nine yards for a touchdown and catching a 39-yard pass from Elway for another score. But Winder, 30, is an eight-year veteran who had planned to retire after this season, although he now says he'll stick around one more year.

Despite more than 5,000 yards in his career, the decidedly non-flashy Winder has never struck fear into the hearts of opponents. His longest run from scrimmage this season was 16 yards.

On the positive side, Humphrey has youth on his side, which should speed the healing process, and the injury is high in his rib cage - a naturally protected area.

Antonopoulos said it is not uncommon for players to play with cracked ribs, noting that Elway did so this season.

Asked to rate Humphrey's chances of playing, Antonopoulos said, "It depends on the player."

49ers glad Holt didn't stay on farm

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - All 280-pound Pierce Holt ever wanted to do was raise livestock. Instead, he's the prime beef in the San Francisco 49ers' underrated defensive line.

At age 28, Holt is going to his second Super Bowl in two years in the league. It's a Texas-sized dream come true for the farmer's son, who had four other challenging jobs before he added "professional tackle" to his resume.

"If you'd told me five years ago I was going to be doing this, I'd have said you were crazy," Holt said Thursday as the 49ers returned to the practice field after a two-day break.

Holt, who shared the team lead with 10 sacks this season, figures the 49ers' line will have to do more than put pressure on Denver's John Elway if San Francisco is to become the NFL's first repeat champion in a decade. The linemen, Holt said, will have to play smart, too.

"He seems to get out of your grasp just as you've got him," Holt said. "With him at quarterback, I think overall they're probably the best team we've faced all year."

"Not only do they have an outstanding quarterback and good receivers, they've established a strong running game with both (Bobby) Humphrey and (Sammy) Winder, and they've got a big offensive line up front."

The 49ers' heftiest defender now that Michael Carter's foot injury has reduced him to a reserve role, Holt draws the biggest Bronco as his assignment on Jan. 28: 290-pound tackle Ken Lanier. A nine-year veteran, Lanier, 30, is one of the Broncos' oldest players but is just two years older than Holt.

Based on his improvement this season, the 49ers figure Holt is just starting to come into his prime.

"I don't know about stardom, but he's had an excellent year," John Marshall, San Francisco's defensive line coach, said.

"He's improved his run defense, and his pass rush has gotten better. He's a better player than he was last year, and will continue to improve."

Last year's oldest rookie in the league, now the oldest second-year player, finds it easier to handle the rigors of pro football after working on his father's farm for three years.

"I think the farming prepared me for the NFL in so many ways," he said. "You've got to deal with so many problems - the weather, high interest rates. It's hard physical work, too. You have to roll with the punches."

Holt played one season of football in high school before attending junior college, then dropped out to get married and work at a variety of jobs. He helped grow grain and soybeans on the farm, sold trucks at his father-in-law's dealership, worked on a construction crew and was an inspector for a mortgage company.

Holt and his wife, Deana, decided to give up their jobs and pursue college degrees. He enrolled in night classes at the University of Houston and, interested in playing football again, found out he had four years of eligibility left if he attended a NCAA Division II school.

He wangled a scholarship to Angelo State at age 22, and spent four years focusing on history and physical education in the classroom and quarterback sacks on the field. In his senior year, he had 106 tackles and 11 sacks and was named defensive player of the year in Division II.

Charlotte gains first win on road

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

The Charlotte Hornets knew they wouldn't lose every road game. Eventually, somebody would take them lightly.

Enter the Denver Nuggets, who became that somebody.

"A loss like this was bound to happen ... when you take a team for granted," Denver coach Doug Moe said after Charlotte hung on in the final minute for a 110-108 victory Thursday night. It snapped the Hornets' winless streak on the road this season at 16 games.

"We played well and perhaps they looked past us," Charlotte coach Dick Harter agreed.

"We have been playing too well lately not to get a victory soon," said Kelly Tripucka, who led the Hornets with 28 points, including four in the final minute. "The guys just believed in each other and we knew we would win eventually."

The road losing streak was 17, including the final game of last season, Charlotte's first in the NBA. Still, it was far short of Baltimore's mark of 32 straight over two seasons (1953-54).

"We got the big lead in the fourth quarter, but when you are on a losing streak you get scared you're going to lose," Tripucka said.

Elsewhere, it was Chicago 132, Golden State 107; Phoenix 113, Minnesota 96; the Los Angeles Clippers 105, Seattle 95 and Milwaukee 115, Washington 112.

The Hornets also ended their six-game losing streak.

Denver rallied from a seven-point deficit in the last 2:05 to tie the game. A 3-pointer by Fat Lever, a drive by Michael Adams and two free throws by Todd Lichti made it 104-104 with 57 seconds remaining.

Bulls 132, Warriors 107
Michael Jordan scored 44 points as Chicago put on its best offensive show of the season to win its 14th straight home game. The loss, which denied Coach Don Nelson his 600th career victory for the third straight game, dropped Golden State's road record to 2-15.

Jordan, who didn't play in the fourth quarter, made seven 3-pointers. The Bulls hit a club-record 11 3-pointers, two more than its output last March against Indiana.

Horace Grant had 19 points for the Bulls. Sarunas Marciulionis led the Warriors with 27.

Suns 113, Timberwolves 96
Tom Chambers scored 27 points as Phoenix won its sixth straight game, but lost forward Eddie Johnson with a dislocated shoulder.

Johnson, the NBA's Sixth Man Award winner last season and No. 2 free-throw shooter this year at 92.7 percent, was injured as he jostled for position with Timberwolves rookie forward Sam Mitchell in the first half.

The expansion Timberwolves lost despite 22 points by Mitchell. Clippers 105, SuperSonics 95

Ken Norman, replacing the injured Ron Harper, scored a season-high 35 points.

Charles Smith added 21 points and point guard Gary Grant tied a Clippers record with 21 assists. Seattle got 30 points from Xavier McDaniel.

The Sonics never led. Bucks 115, Bullets 112
Jack Sikma scored 19 points and made two key free throws.

Sikma's free throws with 2.7 seconds remaining sent the Bullets to their fourth straight loss. The Bucks saw a 14-point halftime lead cut to one twice in the final 63 seconds. But they made five of six free throws down the stretch.

Ledell Eackles had a career-high 37 points for the Bullets.

Ricky Pierce scored 11 of his 25 points in the opening quarter, during a 15-4 spurt that gave the Bucks a 30-20 lead.
