Commission puts ED tax to May vote

By CINDY POTTORFF
Staff Writer
On May 5, Hereford voters will decide whether or not to approve a half-cent sales tax for economic development. City commissioners approved a resolution placing the proposed sales tax on the ballot at their Monday night meeting.
Commissioners also approved a resolution setting elections for Places two and four, as well as seats at large five and six, on May 5, to be held at the Community Center. The seats held by Bud Eades, Irene Cantu, Paul Hamilton and Terry Langenhennig are up for election this year.
A public forum was held on the proposed 1990 city budget. The largest increase in the budget is expected to be the water and sewer fund, up about $250,000. The city needs a new water well and is trying to get a $200,000 grant for the new water well. Other areas of increased funding includes raising city workers' salaries four percent and replacing the street sweeper.

Residential garbage rates will be raised from $4.50 to $5.50 in order to help support the Texas Department of Health's new regulations. The fee is not a new tax. Presently, Hereford has lower residential sanitation fees than Dumas, Pampa, Borger, Plainview, Amarillo, and Canyon.
City manager Darwin McGill suggested that the city adopt the proposed budget at the next city commission meeting. According to the city's charter, the proposed budget must be presented in a public forum open to discussion 60 days prior to adoption.
The commission also agreed to accept bids for the purchase of a one-ton used dump truck, to be used mainly by the water and sewer department.

DSGH has cash-poor January

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor
Deaf Smith General Hospital experienced a cash-poor month in January, but the 1989-90 fiscal year is still ahead of the previous year, board members learned Monday night.
After allowances for losses, DSGH netted $467,297, down from $533,073 in January 1989, DSGH Administrator Gary Moore told the board. For the first four months of the year, however, DSGH's revenues are up about $500,000.
Moore said wages, supplies and other costs were up significantly. DSGH also paid $22,870 in physician guarantees in January 1990. There were no guarantees paid in January 1989.

DSGH also incurred many one-time charges, like dues and fees to professional organizations and other once-a-year items. The costs also included payment to Peat Marwick Main for the 1988-89 audit, and four months of legal fees to the Amarillo law firm that represents the hospital.
DSGH's cash flow, actual revenues for the month compared to actual expenses, was in the red $126,035. Moore said about $70,000 of the loss was because of no Medicare payment. DSGH did not receive a Medicare payment because of previous overpayments based on estimated costs. Moore said the hospital should begin receiving Medicare payments again later in February.

Moore told the board that a New York City urologist will probably be moving to Hereford in the next few months. If the doctor relocates here, that would end a year-long effort to find a replacement for Dr. David Baddour, who moved from here to Georgia.
The search for a new urologist included months of recruiting by a firm and a mailout, at a cost of 60 cents per letter, to every urologist in the country to entice them to move to Hereford.

Breakfast is Thursday

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will host its first fun breakfast of the 1990s at 6:30 a.m. Thursday at the Hereford Community Center.
Dr. David Purdy's family dentistry practice will co-sponsor the breakfast, which will feature a variety of fun and games with co-celebs John Stagner and Charlie Bell.
The breakfast will include various announcements about community activities, and the first Bull Chip of the '90's will be awarded at the breakfast.
Persons wishing to attend the breakfast should call the chamber at 364-3333 by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Tickets are $4.50 per person.

Who will be Hereford's "Citizen of the Year" for 1989? Nominations are now being accepted for the award, which will be presented by Hereford Lions Club at the annual C of C Banquet March 8.
While no specific guidelines are listed, the recognition is usually accorded to one who is involved in civic and community service, shows concern for fellowman and is outstanding in character and dependability.
Deadline for nominations is Friday. Nominations can be taken to the chamber office, 701 N. Main, or to Lion President Mark Andrews, 804 S. 25 Mile Ave.

Brown wants less judicial legislating

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor
Texas GOP attorney general candidate Buster Brown said Monday he would push for less legislating by federal judges if he were elected the state's top attorney.
Brown, speaking to West Texas newspaper editors during a conference call from Amarillo, also touched on prison overcrowding, child support, drug abuse and solid waste management.
Brown is a state senator from Lake Jackson who represents Harris, Brazoria and Fort Bend counties. He said several polls have shown him to be the front-runner "and we would win without a runoff if the primary were on the date the polls were taken."
Brown said his chief criticism of current Attorney General Jim Mattox, who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor, was that Mattox "has allowed his political ambitions to interfere with his duty as the lawyer for the state of Texas."
Brown criticized federal judges William Wayne Justice and Lucius Bunton for their legislation from the bench. Justice made the well-known decision that Texas must reduce overcrowding in state prisons, forcing early release of most prisoners and leading to a massive construction program.
Bunton recently ruled the way district judges were elected in most metropolitan areas was unconstitutional.
"In general terms, I would do my dead-level best to get the politics out of it...I would represent the state in all legal matters regardless of the political consequences," Brown said. "I am a student of government, and I taught in high school and college. There are three branches of government: the legislature makes policy, the executive branch carries it out, and the judiciary is supposed to interpret what the legislature does. When federal judges start dictating policy, a lawyer representing his client needs to fight for that client all the way through the court system."
Brown said he would support tougher measures for persons possessing or selling drugs, and pointed out he has carried a bill in the state senate calling for the death sentence in certain cases for drug pushers.
"We want to be a tough as we can," Brown said. "We want to be able to confiscate property or anything else we can, be quick and swift, and confine these people for a serious period."
He said all government agencies at the local, state and federal level should work together to fight drug abuse and to crack down on pushers.

Storm threat continues

From staff and wire reports
As much as 6-12 inches of snow may fall across the Texas Panhandle as a winter storm moves through the area, the National Weather Service says.
A winter storm warning was issued for the Panhandle through tonight and a snow advisory was issued for the South Plains, where forecasters say as much as 3-5 inches of snow may fall.
Rain, ice pellets and sleet fell in the Panhandle early today as the storm approached. It was expected to turn to snow later in the day as the storm moves in West Texas from New Mexico.
In Hereford, we received .75 inch of rain from showers that moved through the county during the night. Unofficial reports of over an inch of rain were received in western parts of the county.
There was no snow in Hereford as of 11 a.m., but it snowed hard just east of the city early today. There was a narrow band of snow stretching from Dawn to east of Umbarger that slowed traffic on U.S. Highway 60 to about 20 mph.
Snow fell in the northwestern part of the Panhandle through the night. The Texline and Dalhart areas had closed to a foot of snow by mid-morning.

Forecasters were maintaining the winter storm warning for the entire Panhandle area because of the threat of very heavy snows today and tonight.

Williams resumes race

MIDLAND (AP) - Clayton Williams, the front-running Republican gubernatorial hopeful, says he'll be "back in the saddle" today, resuming his campaign after a six-stay leave following the deaths of five business associates in a plane crash.
"I'm going to keep it going," Williams told The Associated Press on Monday after attending the fifth funeral.
The small airplane, owned by one of Williams' companies, crashed Feb. 14 near the central Texas community of Putnam, near Abilene. There were no survivors.
Williams, the front-runner in recent polls, suspended his campaign and withdrew TV advertising.
But today, Williams will make campaign appearances in Dallas while visiting his newly born grandson and later at his newly with Texas A&M University students at College Station, he said.
"I realize there may be some rough roads ahead, but I'm sure that - God willing - this campaign and I will gain the necessary strength to plow ahead," Williams said in a statement read by his campaign manager Buddy Barfield in Austin.
"The Clayton Williams campaign will be back in the saddle," he said.
Barfield said the Midland businessman considered dropping out of the race but decided to continue.

Hereford's HEROES

By LINDA OROZCO
When I think of the word hero one person comes to mind: my sister, Irene Gamez.
When my father died, she (at the age of 16) quit school to support my mom who was eight months pregnant, my three younger brothers and me.
My sister worked from 5 a.m. to five p.m. to feed and clothe us. At times she'd put in a 24-hour shift just to make sure that I or one of my brothers had those extra books or that extra spending money for that one class or a school trip.
She'd come home tired and yet she made time to help us with homework or just listen to our problems. She wasn't the type to give out advice but she was always a good listener, which was good enough.
When things got better she returned to school. Somehow she managed to finish school, keep her job and help out around the house. She was there when we needed a kind word or discipline. She's been a big influence in my life and in my brothers' lives.
Truly, Irene is a blessing to us all.
(Do you have a hero? A parent, teacher, spouse, a neighbor--anyone can be a hero. Let us all know about your hero! Your submission should be from 200 to 600 words. Please include your name, address and phone number. Bring it by the Brand, 313 N. Lee, or mail it to PO Box 675 in Hereford.)

$20 million spent in governor's race

AUSTIN (AP) - The job pays $93,432 a year, but seven candidates for governor already have spent more than $20 million trying to land it, and analysts say the final tab could hit $50 million.

The bulk of the money is going for production and broadcast of television commercials, exposure that's mandatory for reaching the state's 17 million residents.

Texas is so large that to blanket it, a candidate must purchase air time on more than 70 stations in 21 TV markets, including outlets in Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

"Campaign costs are going up because of television and postage. The television advertising is so expensive and the markets are so numerous, it costs a ton to run for office," said George Christian, political consultant and former press secretary to President Lyndon Johnson.

"It's unfortunate," he said. "But it's a fact of life in Texas."

Four Republicans and three Democrats are vying for nominations in the March 13 primaries to succeed retiring Gov. Bill Clements, the state's only Republican governor in 100 years.

Top spender is the man who according to polls is the leader in the Republican primary field: millionaire oilman Clayton Williams. He has spent $6.4 million - more than $4 million of it from his personal bank account - and first aired television commercials in August.

State Treasurer Ann Richards, who leaped to national attention by keynoting the 1988 Democratic convention, leads in Democratic race polls but lags in fund-raising at $2.1 million.

The Democratic financial lead goes to Attorney General Jim Mattox, who raised more than $4 million and spent $3.7 million, including almost $2 million on television ads in the past month alone.

Former Gov. Mark White raised $3 million since joining the Democratic race in November.

According to campaign finance reports filed by all candidates, spending on the race totaled $20.1 million by Feb. 12. And that was with a month left until the primary and two months until the expected runoff elections.

Analysts in both parties have said that by November, the race will easily eclipse the state record $33.5 million spent in 1986, when Clements ousted White.

Williams defends his spending as proof of his independence from special interests.

"Clayton is not beholden to anybody. Some people consider that an asset, to be able to contribute to your own campaign," said Williams aide Scott Bohnenkamp.

Williams' GOP opponents accuse him of trying to buy the Republican nomination.

Referring to Williams' cowboy image and two admitted fist fights since he turned 50, a spokeswoman for GOP hopeful Tom Luce retorted, "I don't know how tough Clayton is, but he has a black belt in spending."

Asked about soaring campaign costs, Mark Sanders, press secretary to Republican candidate Kent Hance, said, "Television advertising. It's just that simple." Hance, a former "Boll Weevil" Democratic congressman who changed parties in 1985, has raised $2.2 million. Recent polls put him second in the GOP race.

Candidates say collecting money takes more work than it used to since the state's oil and real estate busts.

"I don't believe they're stealing any, but they do have to beg and borrow," Christian said.

"It's really hurtful to campaigns because it means they have to be devoted primarily to raising money to get their message out on TV. It's not just the candidate. Everybody is hustling for money and, they're hustling against great competition right now - there are legislative races, local races," he said.

Mattox was criticized for raising money from law firms while serving as attorney general. But his strategy of banking money early has let him outpace the other Democrats as election day nears.

"There's a time to reap and a time to sow," said Mattox spokesman Kelly Fero. "We reaped early and now we're sowing. We still have more to spend, and the bulk of it is, of course, on TV."

Ms. Richards, who raised funds with the help of celebrities such as Lily Tomlin and Marlo Thomas, has front-runner status to help offset her smaller bank account, Christian said.

"Because she's ahead and seems to have a fairly strong base (of support) ... they didn't have to spend as much money early," he said. "They have squirreled their money away for the end and will hit the television with a pretty heavy buy. When you're ahead, you can do that."

Glenn Smith, Ms. Richards' campaign manager, said that while her $2.1 million is less than Mattox's war chest or White's, the bulk of it came from small contributors, not regular political backers.

History of library given at club meeting

Rebecca Walls presented a program on the Deaf Smith County Library and how it began when members of the Hereford Study Club met recently at the Caison's Restaurant.

Walls is the Deaf Smith County's head librarian and has worked in this field for 10 years. She noted that the library was started by the "Monday Study Club" with its home in the back room of a downtown business.

As it grew, the ladies prevailed upon the commissioner's to find a new place for the library. This led to a move to Deaf Smith County Courthouse basement. When growth led to a fulltime librarian, she received $1.25 per month salary. From that inception it grew to the fine facility it is today.

The local library is a member of the Harrison Library Consortium. As a member, any book may be accessed from a state, national or even an international library. This makes available over 200,000 books.

She told of the many projects, particularly pointing to the Adult Literacy Lauban program which started in 1985.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just returned from a viewing at a funeral home. It was for a high school teenager whose death was not due to natural causes. This kind of death is tragic for the family.

When I arrived, there were at least 200 students from this child's school. It is not possible to have 200 close friends in school, which means most of those present had to be curiosity seekers who showed up just to see what was going on.

There were groups of teens crying and sobbing, with their arms wrapped around one another, blocking the way to the casket. Some were singing sad songs. Others just looked spaced-out. I did not see even one teen-ager go over to the family and offer a word of comfort.

Dozens of teens jammed the entranceway to the mortuary with their cars. Many more were in the parking lot taking up places that should have been available for family and friends.

I'll bet most of these young people had never been to a funeral home before and didn't know the first thing about how to conduct themselves. Please address this in your column, Ann. -- Family Friend in Washington

DEAR FAMILY FRIEND: The death of a teen-ager is always traumatic to schoolmates, because they do not expect one of their own to die. I don't believe that a person needs to be a relative or a close friend of the deceased in order to attend visitation.

It is never in good taste to hang out at a mortuary and visit with pals. Good manners dictate that visitors pay respects to family members, offer condolences, say a silent farewell at the casket and then leave.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem may sound trivial, but it is wreaking havoc in our household. Our dog snores. We thought it was cute when the pooch was small, but now she sounds like she's going to rattle the walls apart. Last night, the snoring was so loud I seriously considered checking into a motel.

Ann, we love this dog too much to get rid of her, but we can't go on losing sleep. Please check with an authority, and tell us what to do. -- Red Eyes in North Bay Shore, N.Y.

DEAR RED: According to Dr. David Epstein of North View Animal Hospital in Glenview, Ill., snoring in animals as well as humans is caused by the vibration of the soft palate. This is more common in short-nosed animals, such as bulldogs. Surgery might solve the problem.

Now call your own vet and get a good night's sleep, for heaven's sake.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you printed a letter about people who nibble and "taste" while going through the grocery store. It reminded me of something that happened more than 60 years ago.

I was five-years-old when Mother took me with her to the fruit market. The Concord grapes looked very inviting, so I plucked three and ate them when I thought nobody was looking. My mother saw me and insisted that I give the grocer three pennies, which was a large part of my allowance. I was so ashamed, I cried.

Then Mother said, "Remember, God sees everything even though nobody else does."

Her words have stayed with me all these years and kept me completely honest. I'm sure most people would consider this nonsense, but it worked for me. --Virginia Fan

DEAR VA.: Nonsense? Not at all. I wish all mothers could convey that message so effectively. She sounds like a fine role model.

Herd baseball faces rebuilding

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface baseball team faces a major rebuilding job in 1990 in going for a third consecutive District 1-4A title.

Coach T.R. Sartor said the task will be the biggest he's had in five years at the helm.

Sartor began practice two weeks ago, but picks up five potential starters with the end of basketball season. The newcomers were almost forced to hit the ground running as a scrimmage had been scheduled at Plainview for this afternoon, but weather conditions have forced a postponement.

The Herd returns only one starter, shortstop Russell Backus, from last year's 25-3-1 squad that came within a game of the state tournament, and he is expected to see more time on the mound than in the field.

Backus posted a .452 batting average with one home run and 25 RBI in 'playing all 29 games. But his pitching line, which represents the Herd's total varsity experience, is five innings pitched in three games with two earned runs on one hit and five walks with five strikeouts and a 2.80 ERA. Backus picked up a win in his only decision and also earned a save.

"Usually we've had three or four starters back and a couple of more kids who got considerable playing time," Sartor said. "We don't have that this year."

"We're basically inexperienced," he added. "We've got one returning starter. We have a lot of people that have to grow up real quick for us to have a good season."

That basic inexperience runs deep with outfielder Jim Andrews being the only senior other than Backus who saw any considerable action last year.

Andrews hit .286 with one home run and seven RBI in 19 games before a hand injury sidelined him for the rest of the season.

Andrews has had further problems with getting hurt, suffering torn knee ligaments in August that required surgery.

After that comes a group off last year's JV squad that have combined for 19 at bats at the varsity level. Catcher George Jowell leads the bunch with .429 average (three for seven) while Brett Confer hit .250 in four at bats.

Sartor said the lack of varsity playing time has left most of the field positions wide open during the first two weeks of workouts.

"We're set at a couple of positions," he said, "but we're still waiting for people to come through and take charge at most of them."

Sartor added that the personnel could dictate some changes in the team's style.

"We'll play basically the same style," he said. "We won't have the home run power we had last year nor will we have quite the speed we had last year."

"By necessity we may have to try and do some things like hit-and-run and bunt and sacrifice to move the runners around. We'll probably have to score one or two runs at a time instead of scoring bunches like we have the last couple of years."

The Herd will have almost two weeks to get ready for the start of the season and another two before opening district play.

A second scrimmage with Plainview is set for 10 a.m. Saturday at Whiteface Field before opening the season March 1 at the Abilene Tournament.

Shooting Knights

Hurst shot putter sets new national prep indoor record

FORT WORTH (AP) - Stevanic Wadsworth hurled her shot farther than any other woman shot putter at the Fort Worth Coaches Association-Southwest Conference Indoor Track & Field Championships - and she is still in high school.

Wadsworth, who is a senior at Bell High School in the Fort Worth suburb of Hurst, put her third attempt 49 feet, 10 inches Friday night to claim first place and break the national high school girls' indoor record of 49 feet, 7 inches at the meet Friday night.

"My main goal is the Olympics," Wadsworth said Monday night. "If everything goes accordingly, I don't see why I can't compete in Barcelona (the site of the summer Olympics) in 1992."

Her effort would have won the Southwest Conference portion of the meet by 26 inches. High school contestants use the same 8-pound, 13-ounce shot that women collegians use.

Atlanta-Gilmer III actually has crowd

LONGVIEW (AP) - Any fan can tell you there wasn't any fights this time. They saw it with their own eyes.

Fans and players alike apparently left their tempers at the door as the Gilmer and Atlanta high school basketball teams met for a third time. Atlanta won 86-73.

The first time the teams met, in Longview, the basketball game ended in a stands-clearing brawl. School officials ordered the stands stay empty for the second game, in Atlanta, and only players and coaches were allowed to attend. It was immediately dubbed by the local newspaper "the best game nobody saw."

But fans packed into Longview High School's Lobo Coliseum for Monday night's game. Longview is about 185 miles east of Dallas.

"It made a big difference (having our fans there)," said Atlanta coach Eddie Johnson after his team's first victory in three attempts against Gilmer.

"We responded well to the crowd. I told the kids after the emotional overtime loss in the lock-out game that something good is going to come out of this," he said.

All outsiders were banned from the Feb. 6 game in Atlanta, won by Gilmer 98-89 in overtime, because a brawl had erupted during the first meeting Jan. 19.

Monday night, Atlanta was led by James Oliver's 31 points and his brother Lamont's 16 points to advance to the state playoffs as the champion of District 15-3A. Gilmer will enter the playoffs as the second-place team from the district.

Fans from each school were assigned seats on opposite sides of the court to avoid confrontation.

"Their fans didn't affect us," said Gilmer coach Ralph Mason. "We just didn't get the job done. The biggest factor goes back to beating someone three times in one year. They were quicker and getting position quicker and beating us to the boards."

Atlanta fans were led in cheering by a "sixth man section" dressed in matching T-shirts that read: "We Will Rock You" and "Atlanta's Sixth Man."

"We won. That says it all," said Atlanta sixth man member Matt Burnett. "All the players said they were down when the fans weren't there last time. Our sixth man made a big difference."

Mizzou retakes No. 1 ranking Baseball talks stalled

By The Associated Press

Missouri and Kansas continue to swap the No. 1 ranking in the nation and the No. 1 position in the Big Eight standings.

The Tigers returned to the top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll on Monday following a week in which they again beat the Jayhawks and knocked them out of the No. 1 ranking.

Missouri, 24-2 overall and 10-1 in the Big Eight, was second in the nation last week. Then the Tigers beat Kansas and Oklahoma and garnered 61 (first-place votes and 1,596 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

The Jayhawks, with both losses this season coming against Missouri, ended their second two-week run as No. 1 with one-half vote for first place and 1,510 points.

Missouri and Kansas both have games at Oklahoma this week. The Sooners, ranked 10th this week, have a 43-game homecourt winning streak.

Duke (22-4) beat Stetson, East Carolina and Wake Forest last week and moved from sixth to third with 1,384 points, one more than UNLV (22-4), which also jumped three spots. The Runnin' Rebels beat two ranked teams in their three victories last week - New Mexico State and Arizona.

Georgetown (20-3) received one first-place and fell two places to fifth after a loss to Providence. La Salle (22-1) received the other first-place vote and was 14th.

Connecticut (22-4) followed the Hoyas in sixth with 1,127 points and Michigan (19-5) was seventh with 1,088 points.

Georgia Tech (19-4) was eighth with 1,042 points, 19 more than Purdue (18-4) and 44 more than Oklahoma (19-4), which rounded out the Top Ten.

The Top Ten teams are drawn from just five conferences. The Big Eight has the top two teams and Oklahoma, the Atlantic Coast Conference offers Duke and Georgia Tech, the Big East has Georgetown and Connecticut and the Big Ten has Michigan and Purdue. UNLV plays in the Big West.

Syracuse, fourth last week, tumbled to 11th after losses to Villanova and Notre Dame. The Orangemen were followed by Louisiana State, Arkansas, La Salle, Michigan State, Louisville, Oregon State, Minnesota, and Illinois and Xavier, Ohio, which tied for 19th.

Arizona was 21st, followed by Loyola Marymount, Clemson, New Mexico State and Indiana.

Clemson (20-5) makes its first appearance in the rankings since the final poll of the 1986-87 season. The Tigers increased their winning streak to five last week with victories over North Carolina State and Furman.

Indiana (16-6) returned to the rankings after a one-week absence with a 118-71 rout of Iowa.

NEW YORK (AP) - Once again, baseball's labor impasse hinges on the issue of salary arbitration, specifically who is eligible.

That became even clearer on Monday when, after months of debate about revenue sharing and pay-for-performance formulas, owners dropped their last proposal - a 75 percent cap on salary increases won in arbitration.

So today, with the spring-training lockout in its sixth day, the sides will confront the same issue that prompted players to call a two-day strike in 1985.

"We're back to what we knew was a contentious area. We weren't able to finesse it, to skirt it another way," Chuck O'Connor, management's chief negotiator, said after a two-hour meeting.

Currently, players need three years in the major leagues to be eligible for arbitration. The union wants to make the system available after two years, as was the case before the agreement that ended the 1985 strike.

According to union figures, players with between two and three seasons of service earned $309,604 in 1986, the last year they could go to arbitration. Last season, the same group of players averaged $219,114.

"I don't see how we could accept it the way it is now," Donald Fehr, the union head, said.

The owners, Fehr said, "are real strong" on holding the line. Many clubs view arbitration as their biggest threat and, as they were five years ago, are determined not to give back what they gained.

"We made a concession in 1985 based on (owners') revenue projections. They said they had economic problems," said American League player representative Paul Molitor, who attended the session. "Now that that's no longer true, we asked that we get back the year we gave them. Two years is the right way to go."

"It was a bargain fairly made," O'Connor said of the previous agreement.

Earlier in the day, Molitor and the Milwaukee Brewers avoided their own salary arbitration hearing by agreeing on a three-year contract worth $9.1 million. Molitor, 33, is a career .300 hitter in 12 seasons, all with the Brewers.

Molitor's salary rose 72 percent in average contract value this year after he filed for arbitration. Owners had wanted to limit such increases to 75 percent, but O'Connor said that issue "is more off than on" the table.

"We have not talked about salary caps for awhile," he said, "but they're still out there."

Commissioner Fay Vincent, now a permanent fixture in the negotiating sessions, sees the problem still ahead.

"I believe there is a very strong ownership resistance to giving that second-to-third year eligibility for arbitration," Vincent said. "The ownership position is that a number of things have been given over the years for whatever reason and historically it's been difficult to get them back."

Neither side anticipates a speedy settlement.

"At the moment, we don't see any quick way out of it," Fehr said. "If we are not at the point where we are implicating the first regularly scheduled spring training games, we are very close to that. Those clearly are in jeopardy."

The exhibition season is scheduled to start March 1. The regular season is supposed to begin April 2.

"We're trying to find a middle ground where there may not be one," O'Connor said. "It's a toughie."

McMichael asks for trade

CHICAGO (AP) - Bears defensive tackle Steve McMichael, miffed that the team won't renegotiate his contract, has asked to be traded to the Dallas Cowboys.

"If I'm not appreciated, I don't want to play for the McCaskeys anymore," the two-time Pro Bowler said Monday in reference to the family that owns the team. "Am I going down a one-way street here?"

McMichael, who said he preferred to go to Dallas, earns less money than seven of his teammates on defense.

But McMichael's agent, Larry Bales, said the defensive tackle was the Bears' best defensive player according to the coaches' grading system.

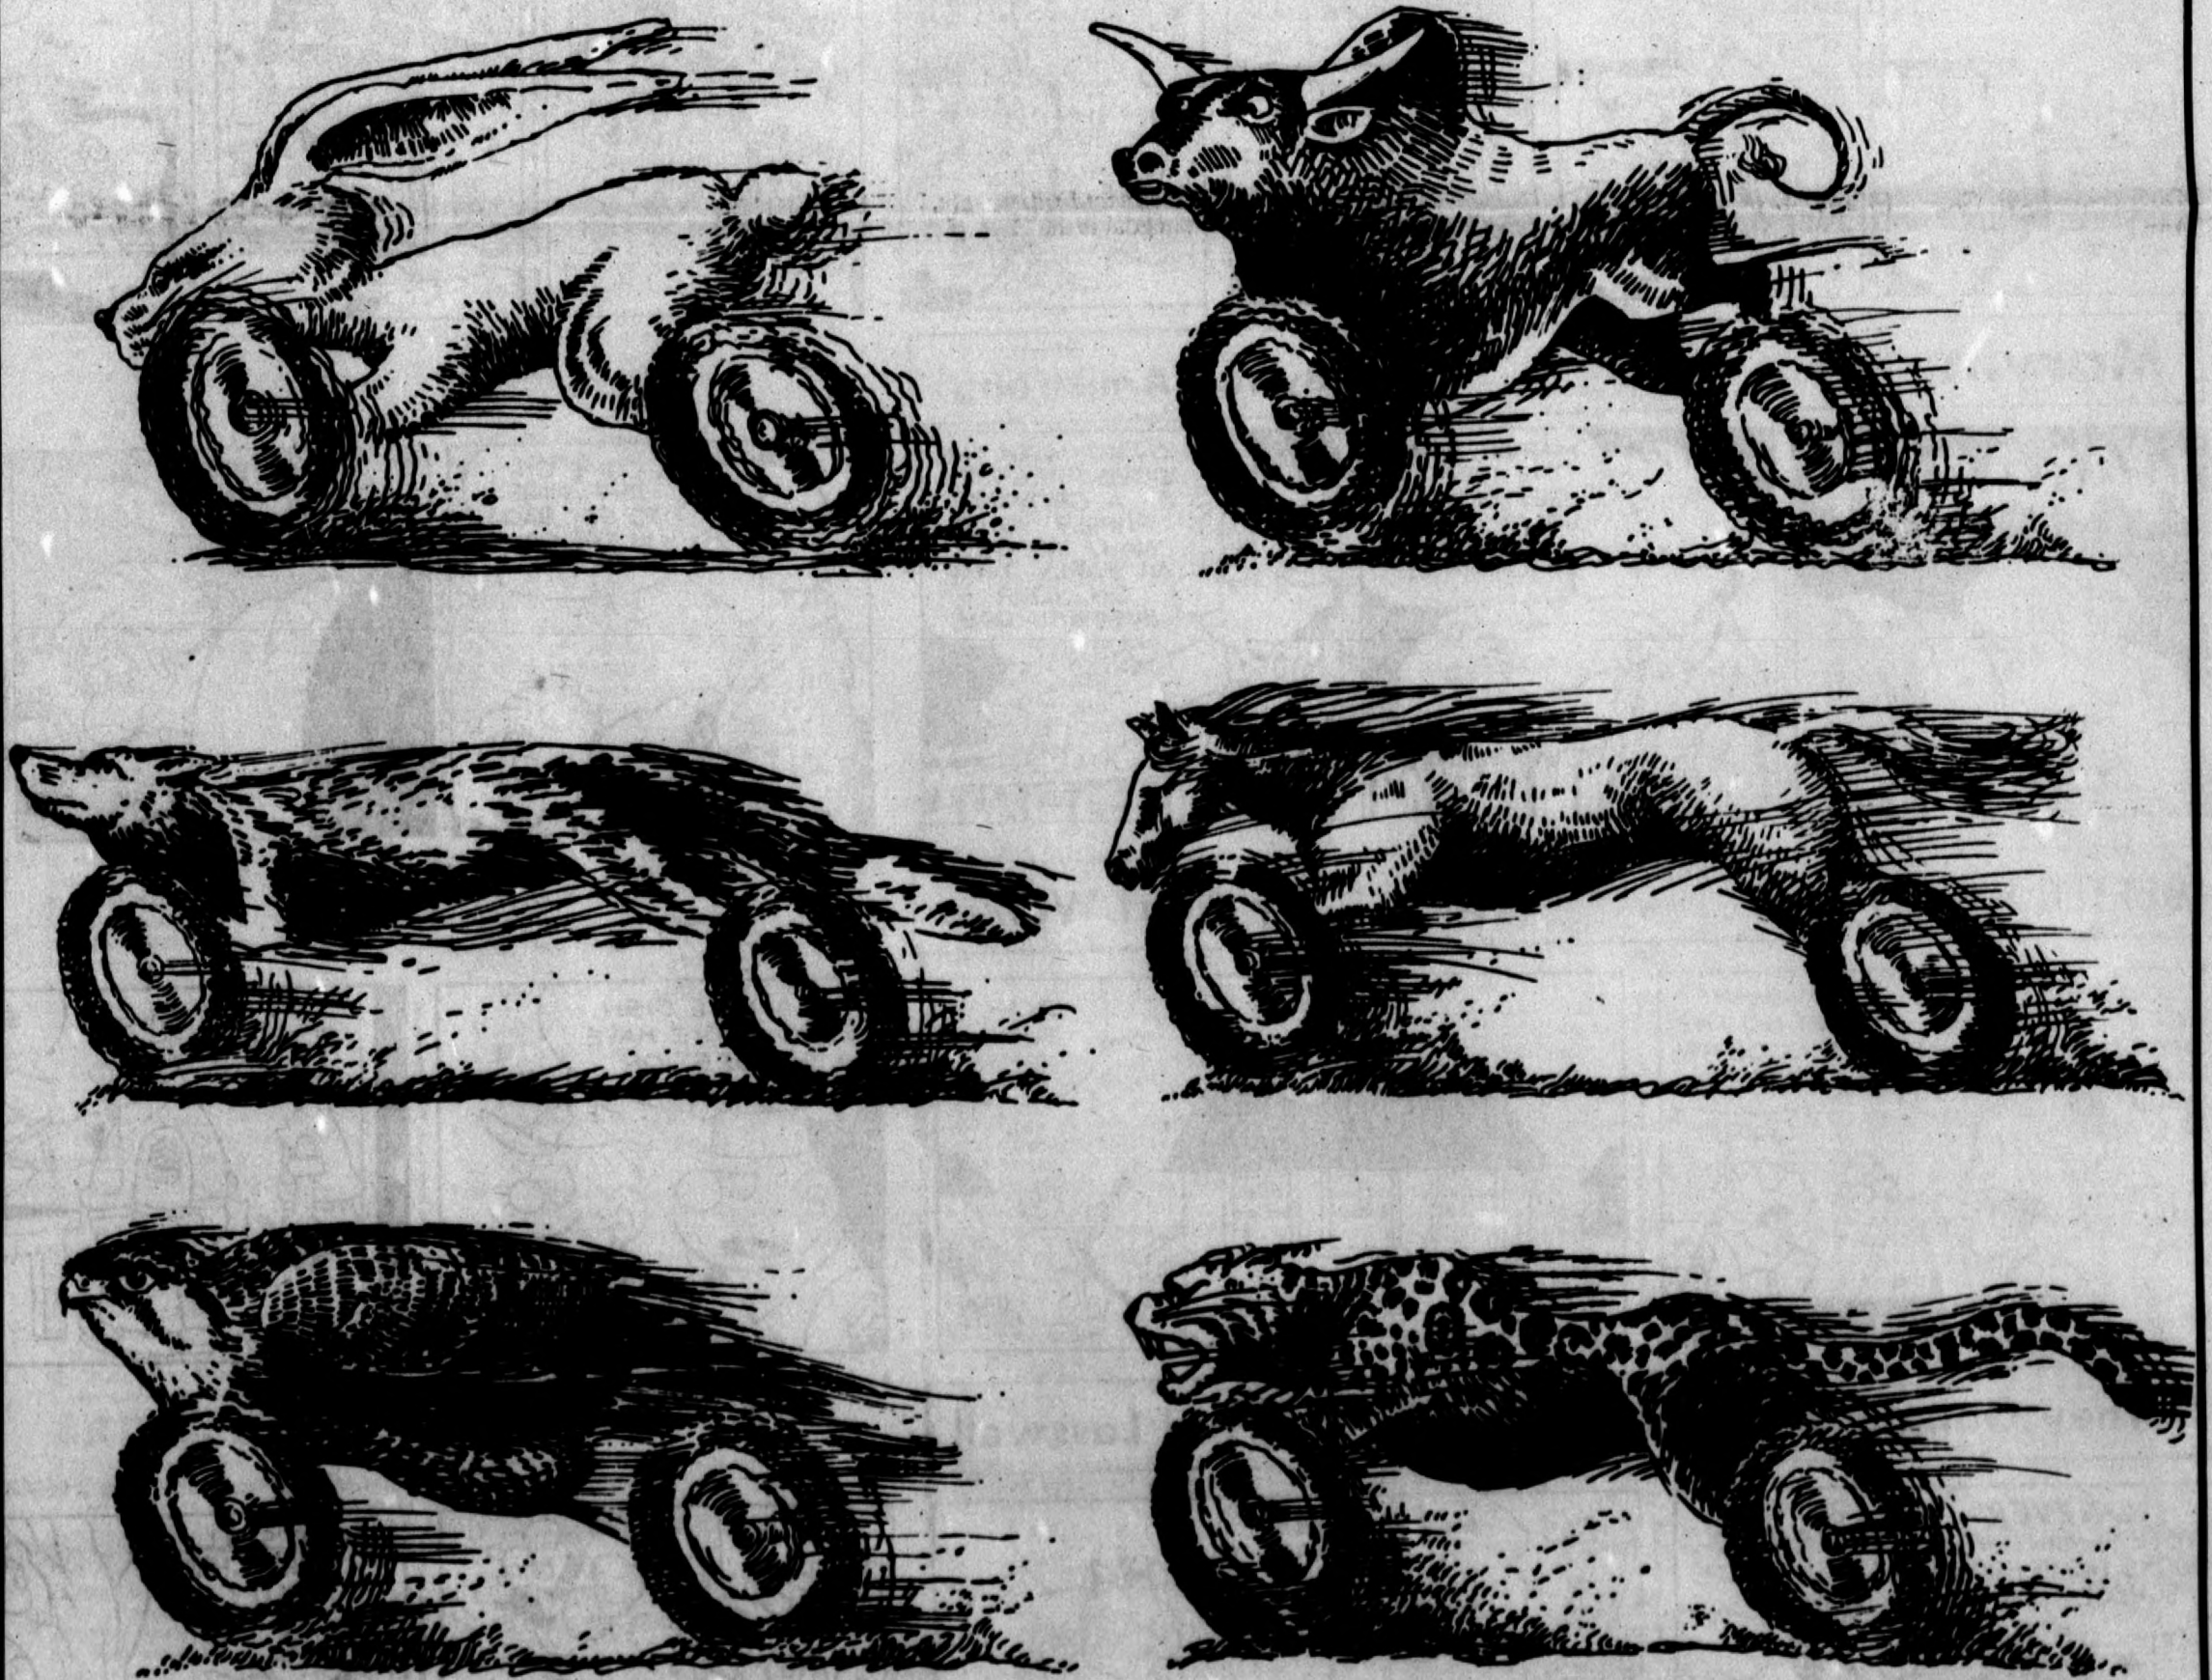

Originally, Bales asked the Bears to leave McMichael unprotected in the Plan B pool, but the Bears refused.

Philadelphia gets 'Teed' off at Utah

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Philadelphia 76ers' killer road trip is taking a turn for the worse.

The 76ers, playing Portland, Utah, Golden State, the Los Angeles Lakers and Phoenix in a span of seven days, committed eight technical fouls Monday en route to a 115-102 loss to the Jazz.

"We were struggling a bit offensively, and when you add on the technicals, that was enough," said Charles Barkley, who had 28 points and 10 rebounds for the 76ers.

"This is a tough road trip against the best teams in the West," said Coach Jim Lynam, who was ejected after being whistled for his second technical late in the game.

Philadelphia is 1-1 on the road trip, after beating Portland 110-109 on Sunday.

Karl Malone scored 34 points and John Stockton had 21 points and 14 assists for the Jazz, who won their 16th consecutive home game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Dallas 96, Cleveland 87; Chicago 107, Houston 102; Sacramento 99, Los Angeles Clippers 97; Detroit 94, Miami 85 and Denver 114, Golden State 109.

With Utah leading 76-72 going into the fourth quarter, Darrell Griffith hit a 3-pointer to start a 13-2 run that gave the Jazz an 89-74 advantage. The 76ers got no closer than 10 points after that.

Reserve center Eric Leckner had six points during the decisive run, and Thurl Bailey scored four on the way to a 21-point night.

The 76ers led 60-58 with 7:51 left in the third quarter. But Utah outscored the 76ers 18-12 to finish the period leading by four, and didn't trail in the fourth quarter.

Derek Smith, Barkley and Bob Thornton, as did Utah coach Jerry Sloan and Blue Edwards of the Jazz. The 76ers had two illegal defense technicals and Utah one.

Pistons 94, Heat 85

Detroit won its 12th consecutive game, matching Philadelphia for the longest winning streak in the NBA this season, after holding Miami to 12 points in the second quarter.

Joe Dumars scored 20 points and Mark Aguirre had seven during a 13-2 second-quarter run that gave the Pistons a 36-24 lead that the Heat couldn't overcome.

The Heat, led by Sherman Douglas with 16 points, lost its seventh straight game.

Dennis Rodman had 18 points and 11 rebounds for the Pistons.

Bulls 107, Rockets 102

Michael Jordan scored 30 points and Chicago survived a 27-4 Houston spurt in the second half.

The Rockets had a chance to tie the score with a 3-point field goal with 14 seconds left, but Buck Johnson's shot went off the rim. Scottie Pippen then was fouled with eight seconds left and hit two free throws, ensuring the Bulls' third consecutive victory.

Akeem Oluajuwon had 32 points for the Rockets.

Nuggets 114, Warriors 109

Denver beat Golden State for the 14th consecutive time at McNichols Arena as 6-foot-3 guard Fat Lever had season highs of 29 points and 20 rebounds and Alex English scored 28 points.

The Warriors trailed 108-107 with 49 seconds to play after a three-point play by Mitch Richmond, who led Golden State with 24 points.

The Nuggets made it 110-107 on a corner jumper by Todd Lichti with 27 seconds left and Lever made two free throws nine seconds later.

Mavericks 96, Cavaliers 87

Dallas won its fifth straight game, holding Cleveland's Mark Price without a 3-pointer for the first time in his last 35 games.

Sam Perkins matched his season high with 24 points for the Mavericks.

The Cavaliers led 76-74 when Larry Nance, who scored 20 points, made a 15-footer to start the fourth quarter. In the next eight minutes, however, the Mavericks went on a 16-4 run.

Kings 99, Clippers 97

Sacramento won for only the third time in 24 road games as Danny Ainge had 29 points and 13 assists.

Antoine Carr hit a go-ahead layup before blocking a potential game-tying shot by Charles Smith as time ran out, preserving the win for the Kings.

Smith scored 18 of his 31 points in the third quarter for the Clippers, but he was held scoreless in the fourth period. Wayman Tisdale had 20 points for Sacramento.

Purdue defense boils Hoosiers, 72-49

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - Bob Knight is the kind of coach who appreciates good defense, even if it wrecks his team.

Knight's Indiana Hoosiers, toting a No. 25 national ranking and hopes of climbing back into the Big Ten title chase, faced 40 minutes of textbook defense Monday night, courtesy of No. 9 Purdue.

The Boilermakers won the game 72-49 to remain one game ahead of Michigan State in the Big Ten. Purdue is 19-4 and 11-2, Indiana 16-7 and 6-7.

"They played extremely well," Knight said. "Their defense dominated our offense the vast majority of the time."

Indiana was limited to 39 percent shooting in losing both ends of the series with Purdue for the first time in five seasons. It was Indiana's largest margin of defeat in the series since 1969.

In the other game Monday night involving a ranked team, No. 6 Connecticut needed an overtime to subdue Providence 75-72.

Purdue's Stephen Scheffler, who leads the nation with a 73 percent field-goal percentage, hit six of seven shots in scoring 18 points and also had eight rebounds and four assists, all in just 28 minutes.

"Scheffler is the most valuable player in the Big Ten," Knight said. "He moves, sets screens and takes good shots. It's hard to be excited about a guy who's beating your brains out, but he's really, really good."

Chuckie White scored all 12 of his points in the first half as the Boilermakers took a 38-24 lead. Scheffler scored Purdue's first seven points after intermission to end any Indiana comeback hopes.

Scheffler, capitalizing on his experience to get Indiana's Chris

Lawson in foul trouble, sparked an 11-4 streak in the opening eight minutes of the second half when Indiana went scoreless for more than six minutes.

Scheffler then had three more and Tony Jones four in a 13-2 streak that gave the Boilermakers a 62-32 bulge with 7:47 to play.

Purdue, which never trailed, led 9-1 as the Hoosiers missed their first five shots.

Scheffler topped Purdue and Calbert Chaney was high for the Hoosiers with 12.

No. 6 Connecticut 75, Providence 72

At Storrs, Conn., Nadav Henefeld, a former Israeli soldier, hit a 3-pointer with two seconds left in overtime to keep the Huskies at the top of the Big East standings.

Henefeld, a 6-foot-7, 21-year-old freshman, made up for a bad shooting night by contributing four steals and a team-leading nine rebounds. He scored but 10 points, hitting only one of five 3-pointers before the game winner, and missing two free throws late in regulation.

Eric Murdock, who forced the overtime with a jumper that tied it 63-63 with four seconds left, scored all nine of Providence's overtime points, including a 3-pointer with 50 seconds left to tie it 72-72.

With two seconds left on the 45-second clock, Tate George found Henefeld at the top of the key for an open jump shot that bounced off the rim, touched the backboard and dropped through.

Chris Smith led the Huskies with 17 points.

Murdock came off the bench to lead Providence with 21 points.

Abundant Life

 Better Than You Think

Most of us are doing better than we think we are. Of course, we will continue our reasonable self-improvement efforts. There seems to be a general inclination to magnify our weakness and failures and mistakes, and minimize our strengths, our successes, and capabilities. This is unfair.

We must not think more highly of ourselves than we ought to think, but we must not think less highly of ourselves than we ought to think. Everything is going to be "better" for us, when we fully realize and accept the fact that "we are doing better than we think we are."

Some folk who think of themselves as failures are not failures. Their accomplishments may not measure up to some of the artificial material standards, but this is not failure. All of us may have some failure in some things, and we may have some shortcomings, but these must never dominate in our personal evaluation.

How do you measure success? What really constitutes successful living? It may be, and sometimes it seems to be, that each person has a very personal and private way of deciding. Of course, there is nothing wrong with this. Be this as it may, we must always explore the possibility that we may be doing better than we think we are.

If you think that you are successful in the living experience, and you probably are reasonably successful, it doesn't matter what others think, or what they are doing or not doing. These other people are not the standard success, and you must never try to measure yourself by them. Just be sure that you are honestly doing your best, and that you are happy with this.

The next time you are feeling a little down, take another look. It may be that you are doing better than you think you are.

Diabetes health tips given

By the year 2000, the number of Hispanics in Texas with type II diabetes mellitus could reach epidemic levels, says the Texas Medical Association.

"Because Latins are the fastest growing minority in America and because of the high incidence of diabetes in this population, we have a significant public health problem,"

Members meet in Odom home

Members of the Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met recently in the country home of Coreen Odom with Beverly Harder, extension agent, presenting the program.

Pet Ott introduced Harder who spoke on "Who's Minding Your World". She gave information on lifestyles of youths and family, adding that two out of three children are living with both parents; three out of five live in poverty; and five out of seven are illiterate.

A recent pole was taken asking, "do you cheat?" Fifty-five percent admitted to cheating and 47 percent feel no guilt. Parents do not teach the children that there is a good way to live in a family environment. Harder recommends more home activities, good food, less junk food, and more love to the community and its people.

Jennifer Hicks will be guest speaker on March 1. Topic for the program will be "My Trip to 4th Congress in Chicago". The meeting will be in the home of Brenda Rusher.

Those present were Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Marcie Ginn, Camelia Jones, Carol Odom, Ott, Audrey Rusher, Brenda Rusher, Clara Trowbridge, Lavern Worley and Odom.

LUNAR LUMBER

ATLANTA (AP) - U.S. manufacturers produced 49.5 billion board feet of lumber in 1988.

This, says Georgia-Pacific Corp., was enough to cover the distance between the earth and the moon nearly 40 times.

The building products firm says the lumber was used to meet various domestic and foreign wood needs, including construction, repairs and remodeling in residential and non-residential markets, and furniture production.

said TMA member Jaime Davidson, MD, president of the Texas Affiliate of the American Diabetes Association.

Type II, or non-insulin-dependent diabetes, usually develops in people who are older than 40 and overweight. By contrast, type I usually develops in childhood and requires insulin. Both are characterized by high blood sugar.

A Hispanic is three times more likely to develop diabetes than a non-Hispanic person, Dr. Davidson said. Many factors contribute to this higher susceptibility.

Genetics may play a role. However, the most important factor—and the one that can be controlled—is obesity caused by a diet of inexpensive foods high in fat and carbohydrates and a lack of exercise.

An underlying factor may be low income. For instance, Hispanic families often buy inexpensive staples like rice and tortillas because they can purchase more of them for the same price as a dozen apples. Moreover, few Hispanic families can afford to pay physicians for preventive health exams.

Language also may be a barrier. An estimated 25 percent of Hispanics in the United States cannot understand enough English to talk with medical professionals about meal plans and prescriptions, said Dr. Davidson.

Diabetes can lead to four major complications among older adults: blindness; hypertension, with increased risks for kidney disease, stroke, and cardiovascular disease; amputations of the feet and legs because of poor circulation and increased risk of infection; and endstage kidney disease, requiring dialysis.

Early diagnosis and treatment are essential to preventing serious complications.

Dr. Davidson encourages Hispanics to have regular medical checkups, particularly tests of blood sugar. Ask for these tests if not recommended by your physician, he added.

"Our main effort should be education about proper nutrition and exercise, beginning in the preschool and school years," said Dr. Davidson, so that long-term eating habits will change.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 117 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents more than 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of its members.

Club welcomes Harder

The Draper Extension Homemakers Club welcomed Beverly Harder, county extension agent, when she spoke on "Who's Minding Your World".

President Carmen Rickman presided over the meeting and Joanne Blackwell was hostess. Roll call was answered with "What positive character trait would you like to see youth regain?" The T.E.H.A. prayer was led by Johnnie Messer and the council delegate report. All recommendations were approved by members.

Adding sugar to corn may prove surprisingly tasteful

If you love sweet corn, you have plenty of company. Here are some surprising facts about sweet corn, a favorite food that now can be enjoyed year-round.

Until about 1900, corn grown in the United States was not much different from some of the corn grown by the Indians. Farmers, however, worked hard to improve the quality of their corn. The development of hybrids and improved farming practices resulted in new types of corn and more of it.

Now, a number of new corn types have been developed to satisfy a corn lover's sweet tooth, according to plant breeders. Recent improvements in plant breeding and genetics have resulted in new generations of sweet corns—collectively called elevated-sugar corns—with two to three times the sugar of traditional sweet corns.

The new corns fall into two genetic types: Shrunken-2s, commonly called "supersweets" but marketed under a variety of trade names, and sugary enhancer type, generally called "se."

The availability of standard, shrunken 2 and se corns offers consumers a choice of flavors and other benefits, including the ability to store fresh sweet corn for several days.

Not only do these "supersweets" contain two to three times as much sugar as traditional corn, the sugar converts to starch as a much lower rate.

There used to be a saying that farmers had to pick sweet corn early in the morning before the sun came up, then run from the field to put it in boiling water before the sugar turned to starch. While sugar in traditional corn begins to turn starchy immediately after harvest, shrunken-2s will remain sweet up to ten days after harvest if kept under refrigeration.

These corns can be grown in the Northeast, Southeast and Midwest for the traditional summer and fall harvest, and Florida, Mexico and California during winter months. When sweet corn lovers find these corns in the store now, they'll consider it a very sweet surprise.

MOVING AROUND
NEW YORK (AP) - Forty-two percent of office workers relocated to new work areas within their companies in 1988, according to a national study.

The 1988 Office Environment Index suggested that the movement of employees within a single building poses a constant challenge to facility managers or professionals who manage corporate offices.

The study was sponsored by Louis Harris and Associates and Steelcase Inc.

The International Facility Management Association describes this type of movement as "churn rate" and says those most likely to "churn" are under age 30 (50 percent) and work at a computer terminal five or more hours a day (48 percent).
