Industry starts, breakfast discussed

Deaf Smith County
Chamber of Commerce directors discussed the crank-up of two new industries and made plans for a November Fun Breakfast and the annual Pheasant Hunt project during a regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon.

In other business, directors heard reports from the transportation committee and Women's Division, approved an increase in dues to be effective Jan. 1, approved the election of four directors for next year, and reviewed and approved the financial report.

Bill Johnson, president, announced that the fifth annual "Eat Your Heart Out, Neiman-Marcus" Fun Breakfast has been scheduled for Nov. 23. Merchants will have booths and display Christmas-gift ideas at this bi-monthly chamber meeting.

Mike Carr, executive vice president, reported plans were proceeding according to schedule on the annual Pheasant Hunt, and the chamber office received 89 applications from hunters last week. "We are limited only by the amount of land that can be signed up for the project," Carr said.

Carr also reported that Swift Independent Packing Co. has started hiring hourly workers for the plant here. Interviews are continuing from almost 2,000 applications, and the company will employ more than 200 workers for its first shift.

The company has set an opening date of Nov. 29, and plans to add a second shift of workers in January, said Carr.

The C of C manager also reported that Trans-Western Pipeline Co., located near Dawn, is now employing some 75 people. Carr said the company had used some local firms in its construction work at the plant, which is part of a network that manages a gas line from Liberal, Kan., to the West Coast.

"The company is a 'sleeper,' in the industrial community," said Carr, "in that they are out of sight but will be a great asset to our county."

Gary Phipps, transportation committee chairman, reported that he and O.E. Durham attended a meeting of the Texas Highway Commission in Austin recently. He said a number of Panhandle communities had representatives at the meeting to ask for the upgrading of highways in this area.

"We got the feeling that some of them thought we still used horse and buggies in the Panhandle," said Phipps, "so I think our meeting was beneficial." He said that State Sen. Bill Sarpalius of Hereford addressed the commission and "we thought he did a great job."

The group was asking the commission to consider adding one cent to the gasoline tax and use it to upgrade highways. "They tabled the proposal but promised to study the matter," said Phipps.

Carolyn Canon, Women's Division president, reported her group was working on two projects - the arrival of Santa Claus to turn on the Christmas lights, and the annual Christmas Lighting Contest. She said the quarterly meeting this month drew about 90 women.

The board had appointed a committee, headed by Don Tardy, to study the dues structure of the chamber. The group recommended that dues be increased Jan. 1, changing the business memberships to $120 a year, individuals to $60 and Women's Division to $20. The (See CHAMBER, Page 2)

Absentee voting light

Absentee voting for the Nov. 2 General Election ends today at 5 p.m.

The Deaf Smith County Clerk's office had recorded 287 absentee votes at 8:30 this morning. Unless the final day draws a large number of voters, County Clerk B.F. Cain feels the total would indicate a small turnout on election day.

Cain had previously said he anticipated some 400 absentee ballots. Although the absentee total is no sure signal, past history has shown some relation of the absentee vote to the election-day turnout.

The Brand will publish a sample ballot in Sunday's edition, sponsored by local firms as a public service.

City, county get rebates

AUSTIN, Tex. - State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week said collection of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax during the third quarter of 1982 was up nine percent over the same period last year.

Bullock said the state received $34.6 million in taxes on the sale of mixed drinks during the third three months of this year.

He said his office is sending checks totaling $10 million to 217 counties and 408 cities as their share of the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the third quarter.

The state's general revenue fund will receive the balance, $24.6 million, of the tax money collected.

Texas cities and counties each receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state.

The total county tax revenue for Deaf Smith County during the third quarter was $13,622.05, all of which was collected in Hereford. The county and city each received a remittance of $2,043.31 for the period.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller's office.

Bullock said the mixed drink tax has brought in $105.1 million dollars during the first, second and third quarters of 1982.

County survey starts today

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, not satisfied with provisions of an architectural contract on the proposed Special Events Center, have decided to seek voter input on whether the county should pursue the issue.

The "opinion poll" form begins in today's issue of The Brand. It will be published for two weeks and, at the end of that time, commissioners will study the results of the survey.

Ken Rogers, a former C of C president and member of the SEC ad hoc committee, said he felt the survey "is a duplication of work that has already been done." Rogers said the project is being pursued "because several community surveys in the past have shown a desire for such facilities."

Rogers said he talked with SEC committee chairman Jim Conkwright and presumed that "the committee will wait and see what the county does, then meet again and discuss our course of action."

my heart that we will get 52 percent of the vote."

Strake said recent results of contacts by campaign volunteers, both walking door-to-door and on the telephone, give him 55 percent of the Houston vote.

There were 2,652 contacts in the informal poll.

"In the early weeks of September," said Strake, a Texas Secretary of State for nearly three years, "campaign volunteers walked Houston precincts to find out how many people were going to vote. At that time, 46.5 percent of all those contacted said they would vote for me. That was before my TV and radio advertising started."

"In the last week of September, my advertising did start. After it was on for awhile, my volunteers both walked precincts and telephoned around the city, again asking how people would vote. This time 55 percent said they are for me."

He pointed to a rising crime rate, a deteriorating state highway system, a decline in the school system, and the lack of a water plan as reasons to get Hobby out of office.

"He's another guy who's become a professional politi-

Reagan counters attack

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - President Reagan, trying to counter a Democratic attack that he says represents "sheer demagoguery," is ending the midterm congressional campaign back on the volatile Social Security issue that dogged him throughout the 1980 presidential race.

The president was trying to protect Republicans from the potential political damage of a GOP fund-raising letter that mentioned the possibility of a voluntary Social Security system.

Campaigning for Republican Senate candidates on a Western swing Thursday, the president jumped into the politically sensitive Social Security fray twice.

He is winding up his campaign tour today, with appearances in Salt Lake City for Sen. Orrin Hatch, and in Roswell, N.M., for Sen. Harrison Schmitt. Both Republicans are in close contests for second terms.

In remarks prepared for a Utah Republican rally, Reagan returned to his focus on the economy and said, "We're not out of the wood yet, but I think we can see daylight beyond the trees. We've got to find jobs for our people, balance the budget, protect the tax cut and whit-

Campaign Swing

Peggy Brandon, right, Republican candidate for Dist. 86 State Representative, made a campaign swing into Hereford Thursday night at a reception for her in the Community Center. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wagner were two of the voters who dropped in to hear the candidate's comments.

Mrs. Brandon said she was "cautiously optimistic" about the last week of her grass roots campaigning. She is seeking to unseat Democrat incumbent Bob Simpson for the Randall and Deaf Smith county constituency. (Brand Photo)

Clayton's absence felt in election

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Democratic Speaker Bill Clayton is the obvious missing player in his party's show of unity for next Tuesday's gubernatorial election.

Big-name Democrats - even those who don't like each other - are hustling votes for Democratic nominee Mark White, but Clayton has been quietly jabbing at White and praising Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

No one in current Texas politics ignites more rumors than Clayton.

The speaker's non-stance in the governor's race may be due to the fact that he can't vote for the man he'd really like to see in the governor's mansion.

"Billy Clayton thinks he is more qualified to be governor than Bill Clements or Mark White. He thinks he is the most qualified in the state to be governor," said Bob Slagle, Texas Democratic Party chairman.

The speaker is not running for anything this year. Rumors early in the year had him running for any of several positions, as a Democrat or a Republican. Over the years, Clayton has been the subject of party-jumping rumors.

Clayton, some polls show, now suffers from "high negatives" as a result of his Briab troubles, even though he was cleared of bribery charges.

FBI joins hunt for two gunmen

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - The FBI has joined the hunt for two gunmen who strapped a fake bomb to a bank president after abducting him and tying up his family in a $50,000 extortion attempt, police said.

The banker escaped after the gunmen botched the kidnapping attempt Thursday, police said. The bomb turned out to be a back vibrator, wrapped with duct tape so that it appeared to be an explosive.

Police have few leads on the stocking-masked gunmen, who forced their way into Lamar State Bank President Lonnie Weir's home in an affluent westside neighborhood about 7:45 a.m., Police Lt. Bruce Thomason said.

One of the men was waiting beside the door when Weir's 13-year-old daughter Margaret opened it to leave for school. He stepped inside and was joined by the other man, both armed with pistols, Thomason said.

"They were very polite at all times, but they told Weir they would kill his wife and daughter if he didn't cooperate," Thomason said. The men buckled the battery-operated vibrator around Weir - telling him the device would explode if he tried to remove it - after binding him, his wife, Vita, and the family's maid, who was not identified.

The men told Weir that would hold his family hostage when he went to the bank and picked up $50,000 in ransom money.

Weir grabbed $169,500 in cash from the bank and left to find a ransom note the gunmen said they had placed at a nearby intersection.

"That's how much he grabbed in the bank," Thomason said of the cash. "He just grabbed wads of money until he was sure he had enough. He grabbed handfuls of bills, and he only missed his calculations by about $119,000."

Ruling expected today on stay

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court is expected to decide today whether Ronald Clark O'Bryan, dubbed the "Candy Man," can be executed as scheduled on Halloween for the poisoning of his son with cyanide-laced candy in Texas.

Justices will consider in conference a request by state officials that they overturn an order by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals staying O'Bryan's execution, officials said.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Leslie A. Benitez asked Justice Byron R. White on Thursday to lift the stay and permit the execution to proceed, but White referred the case to the full Supreme Court. The court had refused to review O'Bryan's conviction in 1980.

"Nobody likes to see an execution occur," Texas Attorney General Mark White said earlier. "Our job is to see that the law is upheld, and that's what we're doing."

A three-judge panel in New Orleans on Wednesday had blocked the execution to give O'Bryan time to pursue further appeals.

'Saggy-Aggie' Sabers poke fun

DALLAS (AP) - Roger Siverson is convinced Aggies won't take offense at a paper and styrofoam toy sword poking fun at a Texas A&M student's tete-a-tete with some opposing cheerleaders last year.

Siverson, a spring graduate of the Southern Methodist University graduate business school, developed the "Saggy Aggie Sabers" to hawk to SMU students before Saturday's game with the Aggies.

The $3 saggy sabers is a recreation of the sword a Texas A&M Corps member brandished at SMU cheerleaders who dared step on the A&M football field during the two schools' game a year ago.

"I have a lot of Aggie friends who think this is extremely funny," Siverson told the Dallas Morning News.

"And most of them are proud of that cadet for defending an Aggie tradition. They just think that the way he went about it was bad," Siverson said.

He and the sword's co-creator, law student Mike Tomlin, hope to sell 3,000 of the hand-assembled, 20-inch saggy sabers by Saturday.

Siverson, Tomlin and SMU English professor Bonnie Wheeler came up with the idea for the toy swords over dinner after last year's Aggie game.

Siverson hopes he isn't left in the red with the entrepreneurial scheme, because officials at Texas Stadium where the game will be played are refusing to let him sell the swords there.

Even so, Siverson thinks he might make enough money to finance his job-hunting, he told The Dallas Morning News.

"I'm just doing what I learned in business school, taking an idea and putting it on the market," he said. "These sabers are perfectly safe, unless you try to eat one."

Predicting Victory

GOP Lt. Governor candidate George Strake is predicting victory in his challenge of incumbent Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby in next Tuesday's election. Lt. Governor hopeful George Strake told local supporters this morning that he will win his battle against incumbent Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, and pointed to informal polling done in Houston and other areas to support his claim.

Strake, former Secretary of State, met with about 25 supporters at the Hereford State Bank as part of a massive 11th-hour campaign swing across the state.

The candidate is visiting 102 cities and towns across the state during an eight-day blitz. Since he announced for Lt. Governor, Strake has traveled over 75,000 miles, aggressively seeking the rural and small town vote he feels he will need to have to win in next Tuesday's election.

DST concludes Saturday night

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most Americans set their clocks an hour back this weekend, marking the end of another year's daylight-saving time.

Daylight-saving time, which began last March, formally ends at 2 a.m. local time Sunday when clocks are set back one hour. Many Americans will already have done so before going to bed Saturday night.

Remember the adage: "Spring forward, fall back." The exceptions are people in Arizona, Hawaii and the eastern time zones of Indiana, who have lived under standard time all along. Those states and counties have elected to keep standard time year around, an option allowed under federal law.

Congress for years has been toying with the idea of extending the daylight-saving season. But so far the proposed changes have not garnered enough support in both the House and Senate at the same time.

One bill passed by the House, but killed in the Senate, called for daylight time to begin two months earlier - in the first week of March instead of the last week of April.

An aide to one congressman who supports extension said an effort to revive the issue will be made early in 1983, but with a new Congress in session the campaign will have to start from the beginning.

Jury decides state can seize items

DALLAS (AP) — District Attorney Henry Wade hails a ruling allowing police to confiscate items from a "head shop" as the beginning of the end for drug paraphernalia dealers.

A state district court jury ruled Thursday that 18 categories of merchandise taken during four police raids on the Gas Pipe Inc., a store in the Oak Lawn section of Dallas, fell under the state's new anti-paraphernalia law.

The items included water and glass pipes, roach clips, scales, sifters, spoons and grooved mirrors.

The verdict came after a week-long trial on a lawsuit filed by Wade earlier this year.

Wade said the verdict marked the first time that a jury in Texas had determined what types of merchandise are considered contraband under the law, passed by the 1981 Legislature.

"This verdict will have the effect of closing all your head shops in Dallas County and really the whole state in the long run," Wade said.

Irvin Swank, an official with the Texans' War on Drugs Committee, said the verdict will make it easier for authorities to round up drug paraphernalia.

"Now that the state has received a guilty verdict, I believe law enforcement across the state will move to close head shops," Swank said.

Seven indicted in $300 million cocaine bust

ATLANTA (AP) — Seven men arrested when authorities seized a plane-load of cocaine worth about $300 million in LaFayette have been indicted by a federal grand jury.

The panel Thursday charged the men, who were arrested Monday at the LaFayette airport, with four counts each of violating federal narcotics laws. Federal and state agents seized 647 pounds of cocaine after staking out the northwest Georgia airstrip.

Trial for the seven is scheduled Dec. 6 in U.S. District Court in Rome.

The seven were identified as Charles Donald Boldin, 43, of Clarkston, Mich.; G.C. Easterling, 50, of Cayce, S.C.; Johnny Ray Moore, 50, of Houston; William Page Vicary, 48, of St. Clair Shores, Mich.; Larry Ralph Pace, 24, of Forsyth, Ga.; Lewis Franklin Crump, 44, of Alpharetta, Ga., and John Oscar Luck, 53, of Lilburn, Ga.

Boldin, Easterling, Moore, Vicary and Pace remained in custody under $5 million bond each. No bond was granted for Crump and Luck.

Armored car guard killed in robbery

CARROLLTON, Texas (AP) — An armored car security guard whose partner was killed in a holdup attempt last Christmas Eve was gunned down by robbers who took a bag of money he was carrying from a suburban Dallas supermarket.

Purolator Armored Car Co. guard Billy Perkins had stopped at the north-side Skaggs Alpha Beta store Thursday morning when the gunmen attacked him and escaped with the undisclosed amount of cash, police investigator Donnie Watts said.

"The men were waiting for him in the entryway, playing video games," Watts said.

"As he started walking toward the exit, they started shooting. They didn't give him any warning, or ask for the money, they just saw him and — bang-bang-bang."

Perkins drew his gun as he approached the men, but did not shoot, said a Purolator spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous.

"He must have had some indication something was going down," the spokesman said.

The men grabbed the money bag as the guard staggered back into the store while horrified witnesses stood by. Perkins died at a hospital an hour later. The gunmen fled in a truck parked behind the store, police said.

Actress hospitalized for undisclosed ailment

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Katharine Hepburn has been hospitalized for an undisclosed ailment at Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital here, a spokeswoman says.

The New York Post reported Thursday that Miss Hepburn's ailment was poor circulation in her arms and that she "has been hospitalized before with the same problem."

Mulligan Stew

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Why won't this gaggle of geese be gone? What holds these honkers here? Can there be some sort of a slow down among air controllers for Canada geese?

Autumn brings the geese

Every autumn brings the same old questions around here. Our little lake, a bare 50 acres, is loaded with squadrons of America's largest, most air-worthy waterfowl. At evening they go honking overhead in impressive flight formations of perfect V's, but never seem to get very far.

Others of their species winter in Florida or Mexico and, come spring, hang their chevrons high in the sky for the honeymoon season flights to Hudson's Bay and the Alaska tundra. Not our local birds of the same feather.

These seem to migrate no farther than the town golf course, where recently one got it in the neck from a scorching line drive off a two iron. The silly goose had stuck its neck out on Ladies' Day, when even the kids on the leaf-blowing machines wear construction helmets.

The Canada geese population on the city golf course in nearby Danbury, Conn., has become so prolific and seemingly permanent that sizable segments of the flock were hijacked in the dead of night by conservationist goose grabbers and relocated in northern Maine, where I suppose it was hoped they would take the opportunity to duck back into their native Canada. My guess is that they will all be back here by Halloween, begging trick or treat from the local urchins, who shamelessly spoil them with year-round handouts. By Thanksgiving most of them are too fat to keep their feet from freezing to the lake surface and barely have enough agility to avoid a flying hockey puck.

This aristocrat of waterfowl, weighing in at as much as 18 pounds, can do 60 miles an hour and has the range of an executive jet.

In other respects, Branta Canadensis Canadensis — to give its formal name — is a most respectable fowl. Even the whispering swan on our lake can find nothing to whisper about its lifestyle. The geese are models of domestic fidelity, who mate for life and never look at other birds as long as their partner survives. The gander is fierce in defense of motherhood during the 28-day nesting season and is quite capable of hobbling a deer or breaking a large dog's neck with those formidable flapping wings.

How come those flapping around here and missing up the second green never got the travel brochures?

Socialists celebrate victory

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Chanting "Viva Espana!" tens of thousands of joyous Socialists celebrated a momentous election victory that returned their party to power for the first time since fascist dictator Francisco Franco drove them into the political wilderness 43 years ago.

The shouts of "Long Live Spain" rang out across Madrid's 17th century Plaza Mayor Thursday night to mark the Socialists' capture of majority control in Parliament, which put the premiership in the hands of their 40-year-old champion, Felipe Gonzalez.

"Democracy and the Spanish people were the winners," Gonzalez, a Seville-born labor lawyer, told cheering supporters at a rally at the Plaza Hotel across town.

Extending an olive branch to his political foes and a military still wary of democracy, Gonzalez said no Spaniard should feel "left out of the beautiful task of modernizing Spain."

In announcing the final result, election officials said 79.5 percent of 26.6 million registered voters went to the polls Thursday. That total eclipsed the exuberant 68 percent turnout in the 1977 elections, Spain's first democratic balloting after the death of Franco.

Campaigning on a moderate platform that turned away from Marxism and shunned industrial or commercial nationalization, Gonzalez' Socialist Workers Party won 46 percent of the vote, earning 198 of the 350 seats in the lower house of the Cortes.

The party's nearest rival was the right-wing Popular Alliance, led by Manuel Fraga, 59, a hardline Cabinet minister in the Franco government. The rightists took 104 seats and 25 percent of the vote, underscoring a left-right polarization.

Popular Alliance, part of a tiny bloc that held nine seats in the last Cortes, emerged as the principal opposition party. Fraga vowed it would provide a "loyal but effective" counterfoil to the Socialists.

The results were disastrous for centrist parties.

The ruling Union of the Democratic Center led by outgoing Prime Minister Leopoldo Calvo Sotelo — who called the elections five months early as his coalition began to fracture — gained only 7.2 percent of the vote, according to the official tally.

Calvo Sotelo was swept away in the Socialist tide and the centrist union was reduced to 13 seats from 168 in the 1979 election, the second post-Franco ballot.

The other main centrist faction, the Democratic and Social Center, led by Spain's first popularly elected premier, Adolfo Suarez, won only two seats.

Election results also were a sharp disappointment to the Communists, whose share of the vote fell from 1979's 10.8 percent and 23 seats to 3.8 percent and five seats.

An assortment of regional parties divided the remaining 28 seats.

Thursday's vote followed a tense, three-week campaign which began inauspiciously with the government's announcement that a group of right-wing army men had been caught plotting to seize power on election eve.

A series of explosions in the independence-minded Basque country added to campaign tensions. Two more blasts on election day injured two policemen.

Police checking house

Hereford police said no value of damage has been set on a home at 520 Avenue K which was ransacked while the resident was in the process of moving and had left the house unattended. The report filed said furniture and china were broken and items strewn around the house.

Stevens Chevrolet reported some steel mirrors valued at $155 were stolen from cars in the lot.

Hereford firemen reported to a truck tire fire near U.S. 60 and Ross at 3:55 a.m. today.

breakdown, currently, is $96, $48 and $10.

The committee pointed out that rising costs had made it very difficult for the chamber to operate in the black, and that expenses had been pared to the minimum. The last dues increase was seven years ago. The board approved the recommendation that letters of explanation will be sent to all members, outlining the necessity of raising dues.

The board formally approved the election of four new directors by the membership. They are Charlie Bell, Steve Nieman, Gary Phipps and Rosie Griffin. Directors will elect new officers at the November meeting, said Johnson.

Attending the meeting were Johnson, Bob Sims, Irene McKinster, Buddy Peeler, John Stagner, Tom Burdett, Danny Boyer, Don Tardy and Carolyn Canon. Directors absent were Bobby Owen, Cal Jones, Bob Gentry and Bill Reinauer. Also attending were Carr, Phipps and O.G. Nieman.

The distribution of the Republican letter and the Democrats' readiness to focus on it led the president on Thursday to deviate from the economic theme that he has trumpeted at campaign appearances in 13 states since Labor Day.

"I can predict that our opponents are going to broadcast widely one of the most dishonest canards that has ever been fostered in a political campaign," the president said at a rally in a high school gymnasium in Great Falls, Mont., before flying Las Vegas for the final stop of a 12-hour day.

"They're going to tell you that we, and I really include myself because I am kind of a target of that, that, in some way, we're on our way to changing or reducing or doing away with Social Security," Reagan said.

"Now, that is sheer demagoguery and it is an outright falsehood." He said the fiscal problems of the Social Security system must and will be solved, but "not at the expense of taking anything away from the people who are presently dependent on Social Security."

White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III said it was decided to tackle the subject because, "You can't just let it sit there in the last four days" of the campaign.

Ever since suggesting nearly 20 years ago that Social Security be voluntary, Reagan has had political problems with the issue. It came up repeatedly when he sought the Republican nomination in 1976, and then when he ran for the presidency in 1980.

He nearly abandoned all talk about the subject more than a year ago when an outcry greeted administration talk of cutbacks. Dropping out of the debate, he named a bipartisan commission to study Social Security and to report shortly after next Tuesday's election.

Aware that the issue was bubbling again, Reagan inserted fresh comments on Social Security into a five-minute television speech that was taped Tuesday for broadcast this weekend as part of a $500,000 GOP advertising blitz, White House aides said.

News stories about the fund-raising letter, signed by Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, brought the issue to the fore on Thursday. The letter, in addition to mentioning a voluntary program, noted two other options for dealing with the system's cash shortage: raising the retirement age, or cutting the annual cost-of-living raise.

The Democrats were quick to jump.

Party Chairman Charles Manatt, in a speech prepared for delivery before an Albuquerque, N.M., audience today while Reagan was visiting Roswell, N.M., said that "for the White House now to champion Ronald Reagan as a protector of Social Security is dead wrong, and just not true."

In Washington, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said in a written statement that Reagan "needs to assure America's senior citizens that the administration is not even thinking about making Social Security voluntary. He needs to make it crystal clear that the presidential commission intends to protect Social Security — not destroy."

Rudy Zepeda's curiosity over some oranges in the Union and U.S. 385 intersection led to a snarl in traffic and minor injuries to him when his vehicle hit another southbound car Thursday afternoon. According to police, Zepeda, 922 S. Main, was looking at some spilled oranges, then turned around to check on a truck behind him when he hit Frank Prowell's (336 Douglas) vehicle. Zepeda was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for injuries he received from impact on his steering wheel. (Brand Photo)

Ann Landers Present system a disgrace

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter concerns the Memorial Day torture slaying of Christopher Peterman at the Ada County jail in Boise. Your discretion in focusing less on the sensational aspects of this crime and more on the circumstances that allowed it to happen deserves high praise. Here are some recent developments. Although all five of Peterman's teenage cellmates were charged with beating him to death, murder charges have been dismissed against two of them. Testimony from one of the teenage cellmates revealed that a guard and trustees noticed Peterman's badly injured eye (from an earlier beating that morning) only hours before Peterman was found unconscious and dying in his cell. No help or medical attention was offered. Nor was any attempt made to place Peterman in another cell, away from his attackers. Another disturbing aspect of the case: Only a week before, another (Rick Yellen) had been beaten so severely in that same cell that he required hospital attention. That juvenile said three of the same suspects charged with Peterman's death were responsible for beating him unconscious also. Our defendant, when asked why they had continued to beat Peterman, replied, "I guess the reason is we hurt Yellen pretty bad, and nothing happened. We figured nothin' would happen over this either." Perhaps the Peterman case will put more pressure on law enforcement officers and judges to upgrade jail standards and use better judgment in placing youths behind bars. The other point which your column alluded to: that jail is no place for parents or judges to teach kids a lesson. — Concerned In Boise

DEAR BOISE: I hope young Peterman's death will alert officials all over the country to the need for a better method of dealing with young offenders. The present one isn't working. In fact, it's a disgrace. Here's another letter on the same subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've heard some poor excuses in my time, but the one in the Spokane newspaper when five teenage prisoners tortured another youth to death was the flakiest. Four guards to 160 inmates is no excuse. Even 1-to-160 would not justify the failure to see, report and insist on help for the youth. A casual stroll past the cell would have revealed the smell of burning flesh. Who were the guards guarding? Each other?

Actually, 4-to-160 is 1-to-40 — not bad odds, considering the 40 are locked up and the one outside is armed. Most schoolteachers should have it so good. Those 17-year-olds will be released in one day and may end up in a classroom somewhere. It would then be the responsibility of some unarmed teacher to protect herself. The guards obviously regarded them as a bunch of punks who deserved the same kind of cruelty they inflicted on each other. How nice for society when the survivors of such inhumane imprisonment are turned loose, as they inevitably will be. No name, Just a — Disgusted Teacher In Poughkeepsie

DEAR TEACHER: Your letter expresses well what so many of us feel. Thanks for a first-rate presentation.

Tips for sewing leather

COLLEGE STATION — Leather and leather-like fabrics are very much in fashion this fall and several things should be considered before sewing garments from these materials, says Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Many leather or leather-like fabrics currently available have different weight and color than those used previously, making them easier to sew and care for," she explains. Choose a vest or tunic pattern that is simple to sew when making a leather garment the first time, Saunders suggests, and select fabric accordingly.

Some leather-like fabrics can be cut with double thickness to save time. A test seam should always be constructed when making the garment to see if tension and pressure may need adjusting, she says. "Avoid back stitching at the end of the seam when using real leather, because it weakens the garment," Saunders suggests. "Knot thread instead, and remember to stitch slowly for maximum evenness." Caring for the finished product is also important, she says. Use the right temperature and recommended brand name detergent when machine washing. If dry cleaned, as suggested for real leather, make sure leather techniques are used. If the leather garment becomes wet, Saunders says to stuff it with paper or let it air dry at room temperature, since heat may cause shrinking. The garment should be kept on a padded or shaped hanger in a cool, dry place, and plastic should never be used. Sunlight may also cause fading. "Pressing will vary according to the fabric content and weight," Saunders says. "True leather garments use a low setting and for best results require heavy brown paper between the fabric and iron." Always test for the right heat and pressure before ironing so no visible marks will be left on the fabric, she concludes.

Managing arthritis

COLLEGE STATION — Managing arthritis requires a team approach and depends as much on the arthritis sufferer as the doctor. By practicing "self-management," arthritis sufferers can do much to help themselves live a normal life. "With your doctor's help, decide on a self-management program that best suits your needs," Shirer suggests. "The newest trend in suede and leather looks or actual skins is they are also lightweight and soft," she adds. Skins are sold by the square foot, and an average size full skin is about six square feet. For one yard of fabric, approximately nine square feet makes a fabric 36 inches wide, 11 square feet equals a fabric 45 inches wide, 13 square feet equals 45 inches in width and 15 square feet equals 60 inches in width. "Add approximately 10 to 15 percent to the square footage needed to allow for any irregular shapes of a real skin," Saunders suggests. Skins should be matched according to color and weight and sewn with a minimum seam of one-fourth inch. Leather doesn't have a true grain line but stretches the way it grows, and stretch should go around the body. All pattern pieces should be laid out in the same direction and skins should not be folded when cutting out a true leather garment, she advises.

Bufs-Drake; Grid trivia

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

When West Texas State University hosts Drake Saturday at 1:30 p.m., it'll be a classic battle of a well-balanced club (Drake) against a one-dimensional one (the Bufs).

While the two teams rank second and third in the Missouri Valley Conference in total offense, they get there in a much different manner.

Drake can run or pass, while WT has been able to do only one well thus far — throw the ball.

Basically, the game should boil down to whether Drake can contain WT's passing attack. The Buff defense, which has given 457 yards a game, plus 33 points an outing, may not be able to slow the Bulldogs down.

How does WT rank against NCAA Division I-A teams this season? The Bufs, if you remember, were dropped to Division I-AA after last season.

After seven games the Bufs are averaging 405.9 yards a game offensively. That figure leaves them well below Nebraska, which averages 538.3 yards per game, yet still ahead of teams such as LSU, Penn State, Boston College, Stanford, SMU and Michigan.

With Vic McGee at the throttle, WT has averaged 334.4 yards a game passing. Division I-A leader Long Beach State is averaging 333 yards a game through the air.

McGee, who could break the remaining school passing records this weekend, has thrown for 2,196 yards this season. While that's the most of any QB in the MVC, McGee ranks second with a rating of 121.4. Wichita State's Prince McJunkins has a rating of 150.7.

Nationally, UCLA's Tom Rasey has a rating of 167.5 to lead Division I-A quarterbacks. Florida's Wayne Peace is second with a rating of 154.0.

Only one Division I-A quarterback has thrown for more yards than McGee — Illinois' Tony Eason, who has 2,484 yards.

McGee has more passing yards than the likes of Ramsey, Peace, Stanford's John Elway, BYU's Steve Young and Penn State's Todd Blackledge.

McGee's 157 completions in 293 attempts have been surpassed only by Eason, who has completed 203 of 330 attempts, and Elway, who has 166 completions.

McGee has averaged 317.6 yards total offense. Only BYU's Young, with an average of 337.4 per game, has exceeded the WT signal caller.

While McGee will break all of WT's all-time passing statistics, he's far off the NCAA records.

The most passing attempts for one season was 509 by Tulsa's Bill Anderson in 1965. Anderson also holds the record for most completions (296, also in 1965).

For one game, the most passes attempted was 69 — and two players share that mark — Illinois' Dave Wilson in 1980 and SMU's Chuck Hixson in 1968.

Jim McMahon's 44 completions for BYU, in a game against Colorado State last year, ranks as the all-time mark in that department.

Most yards gained passing in one game was 621 by Wilson. For a season, the record is 4,571 by McMahon in 1980.

In looking through the 1982 NCAA Football Guide, I came across some interesting bits of trivia.

For instance, did you know the all-time record for most points by an individual in a game was 43 by Jim Brown of Syracuse in a game against Colgate in 1956. The former Cleveland Brown great scored six TDs and 7 PATs in that particular contest.

The record for most points, by an individual in a season was 174 by Penn State's Lydell Mitchell in 1971 (he scored 29 touchdowns).

How about this for a record.

The most punts in one game was 24, and three players did it — Chuck Ortmann of Michigan in 1950; Winston Williams of Lafayette in 1949 and Charles Robinson of Cornell in 1942.

Most trivia buffs know that Oklahoma's 47-game win streak, from 1953-57, and Northwestern's 33-game losing streak (snapped earlier this year) were the longest in NCAA history.

But, how many know that Tennessee once shut out 17 straight opponents (from Nov. 5, 1938 through Oct. 12, 1940).

Most people know that Tony Dorsett holds the NCAA record for yards rushing (6,082).

But, how many know which back has the all-time best average per game?

How about Ed Marinaro of Cornell. In 27 games, from 1969-71, he averaged 174.6 yards a game.

Dorsett, by the way, ranks third in average yards per game 141.4.

O.J. Simpson is second with 164.4.

Reese draws jail sentence

MIAMI (AP) — A Dade circuit judge ordered former pro football player Don Reese to prison for at least six months, saying the ex-Miami Dolphins' defensive lineman had to be held accountable for violating his drug probation by using cocaine.

Judge Ellen Morphonios Gable gave Reese, who revealed his drug habit in a cover story in Sports Illustrated magazine last June, an indeterminate sentence of six months to five years. Under the rarely used law, the state Department of Corrections will determine how much time Reese serves.

Attorneys replace players

NFL season remains in jeopardy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League players' strike has moved into its 39th day with attorneys replacing players as the key figures in the dispute that has left the 1982 season in jeopardy.

Jack Donlan, the club owners' chief negotiator, met with National Labor Relations Board General Counsel William A. Lubbers for nearly five hours Thursday to explain the owners' refusal to negotiate on the union's demand for a wage scale.

Donlan was accompanied by Sargent-Karch, chief counsel for the NFL Management Council, the league's bargaining agent, and Betty Southard Murphy, an NLRB chairman during the administration of President Gerald Ford, is considered an expert on how the Board operates.

On Oct. 21, Lubbers said he would seek an injunction to force the management council to bargain on the union's demand for a wage scale. Lubbers said the league's insistence that the union drop its demand for a wage scale as an alternative to individual bargaining was a violation of labor laws.

Negotiations for a new bargaining agreement are scheduled to resume Saturday in New York, ending a seven-day recess.

"We gave Lubbers an update on the talks," Donlan said. "The meeting was to give us an opportunity to give our side of the story concerning the complaint."

If Lubbers proceeds with his plans to seek an injunction in federal court and it is granted, management presumably would be bound to bargain with the union on the wage scale. In arguing against the injunction, Donlan has said the proposed wage scale would end a team's right to enter into individual negotiations with its players.

Last week, Karch said the council was prepared to battle Lubbers, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

The injunction, if sought, would have no effect on a hearing before an NLRB administrative law judge on Nov. 15.

The hearing's purpose is to determine if the management council's failure to negotiate in good faith with the union, as the NLRB has charged, has caused the strike to be prolonged, as the NLRB has further charged.

If an administrative law judge agrees with NLRB regional director Daniel Silverman, who filed the complaint, the league would be barred from hiring permanent replacements for the striking players.

The players have been on strike since Sept. 21.

League officials have said that two of the six weeks affected by the strike could be rescheduled by canceling the first round of wildcard playoff games and by rescheduling conference playoffs into the open week just prior to the Super Bowl.

Union officials have contended the season can still be played in its entirety by moving the Super Bowl, now slated for Jan. 30, back into February or March.

Season starts tonight

NBA wheels & deals

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Lionel Hollins will be playing for the San Diego Clippers this season. Kevin Porter and Reggie Carter, meanwhile, might not be playing at all.

They were involved in last-minute transactions Thursday as National Basketball Association teams got down to the 12-player limit for the opening of the season tonight.

The Philadelphia 76ers reached the limit by grudgingly shipping Hollins to the Clippers for two draft choices.

"It was a tough decision," said 76ers General Manager Pat Williams. "But to go with five veteran guards was an impossible situation from a playing standpoint. The four guards we have left are good enough. So, after long debate, we went ahead and traded Hollins."

The 76ers open their season against the New York Knicks in New York with guards Andrew Toney, Maurice Cheeks, Clint Richardson and Franklin Edwards.

The 30-year-old Hollins, in his seventh season, played on Portland's NBA champions in 1977 and is recognized as one of the league's better defensive guards. In return for Hollins, the 76ers will get San Diego's fourth-round pick next year and second-round selection in 1984.

The Clippers were busy Thursday. They further bolstered their backcourt by signing free agent Randy Smith, a two-time selection to the NBA All-Star Game. The 33-year-old Smith, who entered last season with a career scoring average of 18.2 points a game, averaged 10.0 for the Knicks last season.

Meanwhile, Porter was waived by the Washington Bullets along with swingmen Carlos Terry and Garry Witts.

The fuel cost adjustment pass-through is fair to our customers. Costs of coal, natural gas, and fuel oil Southwestern Public Service buys to generate electricity change frequently. Sometimes fuel costs go up, and — we're glad to report — sometimes they go down. As set forth by regulatory authorities, the fuel cost adjustment pass-through requires SPS to reflect those changing costs in each customer's monthly bill. The fuel cost adjustment is designed so that each customer is charged only for the fuel that was required to generate the amount of electricity he actually used. There is no profit for SPS figured in the fuel cost adjustment. The customer pays only the current price for that fuel.

Doyle Moore, Amarillo District Manager.

SPS works hard to keep down the cost of fuel. Some people say that because fuel costs are charged directly to the customer, SPS has no incentive to keep fuel costs down. That's just not true. We have a commitment to keep electric bills as low as we can. Our customers are our partners, and we want to help them save money. Too, we always remember that electricity competes with other energy forms for the customer's dollar. So it's simply good business to keep the total cost of electric service as low as possible.

Maurice Johnson, Senior Engineer, System Planning, Amarillo.

Coal-fired generating plants help you and SPS hold down fuel costs. SPS now has two coal-fired generating plants. The newest, Tolk Station near Muleshoe, Texas, has just come on line. Fuel costs at coal-fired plants are significantly lower than fuel costs at the older, natural gas-fired plants. On the average, in fiscal 1982, the fuel cost of a kilowatt-hour generated by natural gas was 3.178 cents. The fuel cost of a kilowatt-hour generated by coal was 1.803 cents. So maximizing use of Tolk and our other coal-fired plant, Harrington Station near Amarillo, will help us, as your partners, hold down fuel costs.

Kurt Shaughnessy, System Accounting Coordinator, Amarillo.

LaPlata wins two

Sophs blank Monterey

Herford's sophomores registered their second straight shutout, the JV lost a close encounter and LaPlata came up a double winner to highlight football action Thursday afternoon.

The Herd sophs blanked Monterey, 18-0; Coronado outlasted the junior varsity, 22-19. LaPlata's 9th grade subbed Clovis Yucca, 14-0, while the 8th grade tripped Yucca, 18-12.

Stanton's 8th grade dropped a 8-6 decision to Amarillo Christian, while the 9th grade was idle.

Herford's sophomores got on the scoreboard in the opening period, following a fumble recovery, when Jesse Andre scooted 7 yards.

They made it, 12-0, in the second period on a 55-run by Quinton Artho, and completed the scoring in the final stanza on Jaview Mendiola's 2-yard run.

"Monterey never seriously threatened to score," coach Don Long said. "I think they had only two first downs in the game. Our defense played very well."

Quarterback Glenn Backus suffered a broken shoulder blade in the game, and will be lost for the remainder of the season, Long said.

Thursdays' victory left the sophomores with a 5-3 record. They will conclude their season next Thursday at home against Amarillo High at 2 p.m.

The JV, now 4-5 this season, led 12-7 at the half on a TD pass from Sammy Suarez to Chet Bunch and a QB sneak by Suarez.

However, on their initial possession of the second half the JV fumbled at their 25, and Coronado drove for the tying TD.

Coronado added another touchdown later when it took over at Herford's 7 following a bad snap from center on a punting situation.

C.C. Caruthers ran for Herford's final TD in the fourth period to complete the scoring.

"Even though we gave up 22 points, it was probably our best game defensively this season," Coach David Ashby said.

"The 22 points we gave up weren't indicative of the way we played. We gave them at least three touchdowns because of our mistakes on offense."

"They actually drove for only one score. The others came following our turnovers deep in our end of the field."

"I thought our front seven on defense (ends Brian Lady and Augustine Castillo, tackles Curtis Hoelscher and Dennis Chandler and linebackers Robert Gamboa, Juan Gamez and Albert Tijerina) did an excellent job."

In LaPlata's 18-12 8th grade win over Yucca, Mark Artho returned a kickoff 75 yards for one touchdown, Chris Urbanczyk ran 12 yards for another and Todd Shire threw 25 yards to Bobby Baker for the final one.

Yucca scored on its first possession, but Artho ran back the ten ensuing kickoff to tie the score. Urbanczyk's TD run capped a 65-yard drive following a punt, while Shire's TD flip completed a 70-yard march.

The win gave the 8th grade a 5-2-1 record.

"We played everyone who sued up for the game," said coach Kelly Adams. "And, for the first time this season, we started 22 different players. We two-platooned for the first time."

"Defensively, end Randy Berryman and linebackers Scott Ankeney, Arthur Valdez and Lawrence Kelly played very well for us."

Quarterback David Ankeney scored both TDs for the LaPlata 9th graders in their 14-0 win. He capped a 55-yard drive with a 5-yard run in the opening period, then race 5 yards for the other score in the third stanza, completing a 50-yard march.

The victory left them with a 3-2-1 record. It was their fourth win in a row.

Next week, LaPlata and Stanton meet in a 7th grade game at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The 8th grade game between those two will follow the 7th grade game, and the 9th grade clash will be at the stadium, Thursday beginning at 2 p.m.

Clemson still under NCAA investigation

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson officials were to meet again with the NCAA's Infractions Committee at a suburban Chicago resort, according to a published report.

In a copyright story in today's editions, the Anderson Independent-Mail quoted unnamed sources at the scene as saying Clemson and National Collegiate Athletic Association officials held a marathon 12-hour session at Indian Lakes Resort at Bloomingdale, Ill., Thursday.

The substance of Thursday's meeting was not revealed, said the newspaper.

Clemson has been under investigation for the last 19 months for alleged football recruiting violations.

The newspaper quoted an unidentified source as saying a session was scheduled today, and that the Clemson party included President Bill Atchley, Coach Danny Ford and Athletic Director Bill McLellan.

The source said 10 to 12 people were in the Clemson party. However, the newspaper said it was not known whether all were officially representing the university.

McLellan, when contacted at his Indian Lakes room by the Independent-Mail, said, "I have no comment."

NCAA officials could not be reached for comment either in Chicago or Shawnee Mission, Kan., Thursday.

Meanwhile, Clemson quarterback Homer Jordan's attorney, John Hagins, was scheduled to fly to Chicago this morning, a secretary in Hagins' law office told the newspaper. He was not expected to return to the office until Monday.

The NCAA has been investigating the financing of Jordan's purchase of a late-model car. Jordan, a senior, led the Clemson Tigers to an Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska and the national championship last season.

SWC thumbnails

DALLAS (AP) — After impressive road victories last weekend, Southwest Conference football leaders SMU and Arkansas are at home this weekend trying to forget what happened to another pair of contenders who were at home last Saturday.

And that won't be too easy to do, since SMU and Arkansas were the teams that did in those contenders. This week SMU risks its 4-0 SWC record, No. 4 national ranking and longest winning streak in the nation against Texas A&M, while Arkansas (3-0 in SWC play and 6-0 to the season) hosts Rice. Last Saturday the two gained some ground when SMU handed Texas its first conference defeat, 30-17, and Arkansas dealt Houston its second SWC loss, 38-3.

SMU will be on regional television for the second straight week, the Mustangs and Aggies going before the CBS-TV cameras in an 11:35 a.m. kickoff.

Other conference action sends Texas to Lubbock to face Texas Tech and TCU to Houston. Baylor is at Tulane in the final non-conference game of the season for the SWC.

Saturday's schedule in order of CDT starting times, with full-season and SWC won-lost-tied records in parentheses:

TEXAS A&M (4-3, 2-2 in SWC) at SMU (7-0, 4-0 in SWC), 11:35 a.m. (CBS-TV) — Upbeat time for both teams as Mustangs, off to best start since 1947, are ranked fourth in the AP poll and have longest winning streak in nation (11 games), while Aggies have won two straight for second time this season to go over 500 for first time...Long-time series has Aggies ahead by 32-26-4 and by 15-14-2 in Dallas with SMU winning last two meetings. Game matches only two first-year coaches in SWC, A&M's Jackie Sherrill and SMU's Bobby Collins...contrasting styles with SMU leading SWC in rushing at 287.9 yards per game and last in passing at 99 yards, A&M leading in passing at 226.4 and eighth in rushing at 157.1 SMU defense has strong edge, allowing ten TDs and 279 yards per game to 21 TDs and 488.3 yards per game by Aggies.

RICE (0-7, 0-4 in SWC) at ARKANSAS (6-0, 3-0 in SWC), 2 p.m. CDT — Razorbacks moved up to fifth in the AP poll while getting off to second 6-0 start in last four seasons. Lou Holtz's record at Arkansas now 51-14-1 for 78.8 winning percentage, best in SWC history among coaches active five or more years. Razorback defense headed by all-anything candidate Billy Ray Smith leads SWC at 249 yards per game and yield of 80.3 rushing yards per game among nation's best. Rice rushing game ninth in SWC at 136 yards per game as Owls rank second in SWC passing with 177 gained per start. Razorback defense has allowed only three TDs, none to three SWC foes, and one of two field Goals yielded in conference play came after Texas Tech returned kickoff to Arkansas 13. Owls won in Little Rock two years ago, but haven't won at Fayetteville since 1958. Rice's '80 victory put Owls into tie for fourth in final SWC standings and knocked Arkansas down to tie for sixth, lowest finish in Holtz's tenure.

TEXAS (3-2, 1-1 in SWC) at TEXAS TECH (3-4, 2-2 in SWC), 2 p.m. CDT — Red Raiders qualifying as most surprising team in SWC, and solidified comeback reputation last week with 3-0 lead over No. 1 Washington in fourth period before falling, 10-3. Texas also played strongly into fourth quarter against ranked team, pulling from 10-0 deficit to 10-10 tie with No. 4 SMU before losing on three late TD passes, 30-17. Both have specialized in close games, Texas' two losses coming in fourth quarter and five of Tech's games decided by a total of 19 points. Texas' impressive showing against Mustangs included Longhorns outstrung one of nation's top running teams, 206 yards to 183. Texas ranks third in SWC total offense with 385 yards a game, third in defense with yield of 307.

TCU (3-4, 2-2 in SWC) at HOUSTON (2-4-1, 1-2-1 in SWC), 7 p.m. CDT — Cougars welcome a team that's never beaten them in or out of the Astrodome as Frogs look to start reverse of 6-0 Houston series slant. Cougars have had a breeze vs. TCU in Houston, winning by 27, 57 and 32 in only three Dome meetings, but TCU is enjoying its best start since going 3-4 in 1973: a 4-4 start would be the best since going 5-3 in '72. Road trips have been tough on Frogs—last away win was at Tulsa in 1979, but they've won three straight at home. Cougars suffered worst home SWC defeat ever last week after fifth-ranked Arkansas overcame an early 3-point Cougar lead with 38 points. TCU rolled up 473 total yards against Baylor in 38-14 win, the most points scored by Frogs in a home conference game since they had 47 vs. Bears in 1968. Freshman Kenneth Davis rushed for 130 yards and senior Marcus Gilbert added 106, with QB Rueben Jones throwing for 164 and scoring two TDs. Houston fourth in SWC rushing (212.7) but eighth against the rush (199.3). Cougars lead SWC pass defense (125.0 yards per game), yielding only 5.7 yards per completion. Frogs are averaging 7.5 yards per completion and are throwing every 3.3 plays as are the Cougars, but Houston has suffered 12 interceptions.

BAYLOR (2-4-1) at TULANE (2-5), 7:30 p.m. CDT — Bears travel out of conference but Green Wave is pretty close kin to SWC as this will be 30th time Tulane has lined up against an SWC foe, fourth time against Baylor as series stands 2-2. Teams haven't met since 1951 Baylor victory. Wave is 1-1 vs. SWC this year after 51-7 spanking from SMU and 38-4 win over Rice at Superdome...All the wheels fell off" was the way Grant Treadwell summed up loss to TCU Saturday. Still, Alfred Anderson retained third on SWC rushing list (84.5 yards per game) and Gerald McNeil stayed near the top of receiving list (third with 3.9 catches per game). Baylor QB Mike Brannan scheduled for first start in three weeks after injury vs. Houston sidelined him until coming off bench last week. Loss to TCU was first by more than even points the year. Bears third in SWC pass defense (154.7). Tulane QB Mike McKay missed a game with injury, came off bench Saturday to direct two scoring drives and 17-10 victory over winless Memphis State. McKay hitting 58 percent of passes (94 of 163) for 1,151 yards but he's been thrown for 95 yards in losses and intercepted nine times.

GOLF

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Spain's Severiano Ballesteros shot a five-under-par 67 for a two-stroke lead after the first round of the Johnnie Walker golf tournament at the Prat de Llobregat course.

In Disney Classic

Peete in the hunt

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Calvin Peete, noted by his peers as golf's most accurate player, holed out a 148-yard 6-iron shot — the ball hit the cup on the fly — for an eagle 2 that helped him into a share of the first round lead in the season-ending, $400,000 Walt Disney World Classic.

"Playing good like this for the last few weeks, I'm fired up. I'm pumped up as much as I can be. My confidence is way up. I feel good about my game, about the way I'm playing," Peete said after his 6-under-par 66 at the Palm course, one of three resort layouts, being used for the first three rounds of this event.

"I just hope I can continue to play well," said Peete, who scored his fourth victory of the season — no one has won more — last week in Pensacola.

But he isn't concerned with the possibility of another victory.

"I don't have a plan to win. I'm not thinking about that," he said. "I just have a plan to keep on playing well. And if, on Sunday afternoon, I'm at the top again, well, so much the better."

Peete shared the top spot with Jay Haas, who has won two of his last three starts, and Terry Diehl.

Haas hit 17 greens, all the fairways and didn't make a bogey in his near-errorless effort at the 7,150-yard Magnolia course, the longest and toughest of the three tournament courses. Diehl also played without a bogey at the 6,655-yard Lake Buena Vista course. The format calls for the 132 pros to lay one round, each day with a three-man amateur team, on each of the courses before the field is cut for the pros-only finish at Magnolia on Sunday.

One shot off the lead at 67 were J.C. Sneed, Bob Murphy, Howard Twitty, Barry Jaeckel and Steve Hart. Sneed and Twitty played the Palm course, with Jaeckel, Hart and Murphy at Lake Buena Vista.

The big rousp at 68 included Steve Melnyk, Danny Edwards, Dan Pohl, Keith Fergus, Roger Maltbie, Charles Krenkel, Tom Jones, Larry Mize and Larry Rinker.

Peete, one of the few blacks on the Tour, didn't touch a golf club until he was 23, and didn't join the Tour until the relatively advanced age of 33.

He's averaged more than $100,000 in winnings for the last three seasons and last year led the Tour in two important statistical categories, greens-hit-in-regulation and driving accuracy. He leads in both categories again this season.

And this season, he has come into his own at age 39. Only Tom Watson and Craig Stadler have won as many tournaments this season. And, since 1975, only Watson and Nicklaus have won more in a single season.

Peete had single bogey, a 3-putt, in his opening round, birdied all four of the par-5 holes, spiced the effort with the dramatic eagle that sent him leaping in jubilation, and then closed it out with a 3-wood second shot to the 18th green that set up the 6-foot birdie putt that provided him with a share of the lead.

Navratilova wins

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Martina Navratilova and Barbara Potter advanced into the quarter-finals of the $136,000 Daihatsu Challenge tournament.

In other matches, Tracy Austin, the No. 3 seed, scored a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Katerina Skronska of Czechoslovakia; JoAnne Russell defeated Czechoslovakia's Iva Budarova 7-6, 4-6, 6-2; and Candy Reynolds lost the first set 6-1 to Virginia Ruzici of Romania, then retired with flu.

Conigliaro progress is slow

BOSTON (AP) — Ten months ago, Tony Conigliaro had no detectable pulse or blood pressure. Three months ago, he was making progress in his speech and mobility.

But now, his cardiologist says, respiratory problems have brought his improvement to a "standstill" and put his rehabilitation therapy on "a low burner."

Dr. Max Kaulbach said Thursday a tube inserted in Conigliaro's throat shortly after he suffered a heart attack Jan. 9 that plunged him into a coma has caused scarring and narrowing of his windpipe.

As a result, the former

Boston Red Sox slugger became more susceptible to infection. On Tuesday, he began his second stay in the past two months in Salem Hospital for treatment of pneumonia.

"Up until August we were very cautiously optimistic that he might continue his gradual, steady, but slow improvement," Kaulbach said.

Economics spooky for Halloween

NEW YORK (AP) — The economic news is appropriately spooky for Halloween this year.

Recession, unemployment, financial distress in countries ranging from Argentina to Poland — those are apparitions enough to frighten anyone.

Even the brave bulls in the stock market suddenly turned tail early this week, producing the second-biggest loss in history for the Dow Jones industrial average.

Many observers of the market sought to dismiss the 36.33-point drop as only temporary. If there was fear among stock traders, they said, it was just a passing case of acrophobia — the dizzy, disoriented feeling that often comes with looking down from an unaccustomed height.

Still, even some of the most optimistic analysts conceded it had been a bit scary. "No one likes to be in a free-fall," said Julius Westheimer at Baltimore-based Baker, Watts & Co. "You don't know when your parachute is going to open, or if it's going to open at all."

On a solitary walk home in the late-October evening darkness, it could bring on an eerie feeling to recall that it was at precisely this time of year, in 1929, that the Great Crash began.

But if many economic forecasters are troubled by such ghosts of the past and present, they are clinging to the hope that conditions will gradually grow less frightening in the months ahead.

S. Jay Levy and David Levy, a father-son team of private economists based in Chappaqua, N.Y., describe the outlook as "better, but still bleak."

Production in the nation's factories, they say, will soon edge upward, stimulated in part by lower interest rates. "Retail sales, which began to respond to the recent tax cut in September, will make further, sluggish headway. The trend of corporate profits will market the economy's grudging recovery," they add.

One of the primary sources of hope is the stock market's 30 percent rise from mid-August through mid-October. To a lot of people, the market's behavior never makes much sense. But some of its followers argue that just because it can be wild and unpredictable doesn't mean the stock market is necessarily irrational.

Stock traders have billions of dollars of their own money or, in the case of professionals managing other people's funds, their jobs on the line. No single one of them may have a perfect vision of the future, the argument goes, but as a diverse, amorphous group they have a pretty good record of anticipating economic events to come.

POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEES

Business and Labor Spending, 1981-82

SOURCE: Federal Election Commission

NEA/Mark Gabrenya

In the world of high political finance, union-affiliated political action committees are the heaviest spenders on candidates and causes but business-based groups — four times as numerous — have a significant edge over labor in total expenditures. Federal Election Commission figures cover the 15-month period from Jan. 1, 1981, through March of 1982. They show both business and labor PACs giving more lavishly to incumbent candidates than challengers. Republicans enjoy a slight edge over Democrats in business contributions, but union spending favors Democrats 10 to one.

Man questioned in slaying

WACO, Texas (AP) — A man accused in the slaying of a 17-year-old girl faced more questioning from police today following his claim that he slashed and stabbed three teen-agers to death at a lakeside park, authorities said.

Jimmy Dean Roe, 23, was charged with murder Thursday in the August shooting death of Beth Bramlett of Axtell, authorities said.

Another man, Carlos Castro, 20, of Bellmead, also was charged with murder in Miss Bramlett's death, Johnson said.

Castro also was being held in the McLennan County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond, according to Johnson.

Waco police said they were "still talking" to Roe, who is held in the McLennan County Jail, but they did not believe he killed Kenneth Franks, 18, of Waco and Jill Montgomery and Raylene Rice, both 17, both of Waxahachie.

"He might be a crackpot, for all I know," said Waco Police Sgt. Dennis Kidwell.

The bodies of Franks, Miss Montgomery and Miss Rice, were found in Speegleville Park July 14, slashed and stabbed to death, their throats cut. The bodies of the Waxahachie women were nude, bound and gagged.

Waco police earlier arrested a local grocery store owner in the case, but later released him because of lack of evidence.

Roe had confessed to McLennan County sheriff's officers that he killed Beth Bramlett of Axtell, Sheriff Jack Harwell said.

The girl was shot three times on a lonely country road outside of the small town due east of Waco, Harwell said. Her partially decomposed body was found near railroad tracks Aug. 10.

Roe turned himself in to Kerrville police Wednesday night. He told officers there that he killed five people in and around Waco.

"He said he had gone and talked to the Lord, and the Lord had told him to confess to these murders," said a Kerrville investigator who refused to be identified. "He said he killed these three kids (in the park), but Waco said he didn't know enough about it to have done it. He had about five murders he wanted to confess to."

Family relives Halloween tragedy

PITTSFIELD, Maine (AP) — Christopher King did not measure his life in seconds or his safety in inches.

He approached Halloween 1981 with all the enthusiasm of a 7-year-old. He would be Dracula, with a flowing cape and ghoulish mask.

Across town, Karen Huff, newly married and 23, spent the afternoon of Oct. 31, 1981, at a party, then returned home to change clothes before driving to a friend's house.

Children were already out trick or treating in the gathering dusk as she drove south on Hartland Avenue. So she was being careful, switching on her headlights and driving well below the 40-mph speed limit.

Rudy and Bonny King felt the gentle nudge of anxiety parents sense on this holiday. They worried about too much candy. They knew about trick or treating after dark. They had heard warnings about traffic and unsafe costumes.

Christopher scrambled in and out of the car, increasing his cache of candy. By the time the family reached Hartland Avenue, he had ripped and eventually discarded his costume.

It was just after 6 p.m. and the sun, below the horizon, cast a deep yellow reflection across the western sky. Street lights were on, but Police Chief Spencer Havey said later there were too few to illuminate the roadway.

Mrs. King, holding her 3-month-old son, Ryan, admonished Christopher to watch for traffic. Her husband also cautioned his son, but decided not to walk him across the street. Neither parent gave a second thought to his blue jacket and dark pants.

"Maybe I was tired or just lazy, I've played it back a million times," King recalls. "He is a little boy, but he was starting to grow up. He didn't want to have Mom and Dad lead him to the door."

Christopher walked behind the car, his Dracula mask perched atop his red hair. He waited for a car to pass and started across the road.

Midway, Christopher pulled down the mask. That eliminated his peripheral vision.

King could see a small Datsun coming, headlights on, traveling at what appeared to be a prudent speed. Christopher would safely reach the sidewalk.

No one is certain what happened next. There were no screeching tires or shattering glass, only a soft thump and the wave of panic that gripped Karen Huff as she realized she had hit something.

"I never saw him. I never touched the brakes."

The impact lifted Christopher onto the car's hood, driving his head into the windshield wipers and carrying him 30 yards down the street.

Havey said his investigation showed that if Mrs. Huff's Datsun had been traveling faster than 25 mph, or hit him a second sooner, Christopher would have died.

As it was, his neck was broken and only the feverish work of emergency medical technicians saved him. "They lost his pulse twice on road," Havey said. "I thought the boy would die. Maybe he should have."

Christopher's will to live helped him through the night and a nine-day coma. His parents borrowed a camper and lived in the hospital parking lot.

"I guess it was one of those things you do when you love your son," Mrs. King says.

A year after the accident, Christopher remains paralyzed from the neck down. Doctors at Yale-New Haven Medical Center in Connecticut have implanted a device like a heart pacemaker to help him breathe more normally. If it works, Christopher may undergo physical therapy in Boston at year's end.

"We don't talk about the paralysis. Chris has accepted how he is; he does the best he can do with it," Mrs. King says.

"He handles it a lot better than most adults would," says his father.

Christopher studies with a tutor for a few hours a day. He is learning Spanish from other patients and teaches new words to his parents on weekends.

Visits to New Haven are made easier by Rudy King's transfer to Fort Devens, Mass., where he is a National Guard officer. Military insurance helped pay for Christopher's treatment.

As autumn deepens, the Kings find themselves reliving Halloween.

"We won't ever let the kids go trick or treating again. It's just too painful," Mrs. King says. But Christopher intends to celebrate by being a Smurf at a small party in the hospital.

Karen Huff, meanwhile, was so shaken by the tragedy that she could not even get out of her car. She took a leave of absence from work and didn't leave her home for nearly a month.

Police tests showed the car did not fail mechanically, and that drugs and alcohol were not factors.

"If it hadn't been for my husband and cousin (a Pittsfield police officer) I never would have made it through this. I'm just getting to the point now where I don't blame myself," Mrs. Huff says.

The Kings do not blame Mrs. Huff, although they have not spoken to her since the accident.

HALLOWEEN SHOWS US

SOME MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT FAITH

Everyone knows Halloween as an occasion of fun and mysterious excitement for children, as well as costume parties for all ages. However, few of us are aware of the true religious origin of this October event, and there some confusion reigns because of the similarity of this ancient Druid festival in name and date to the All Hallows' Eve of the Christian tradition. This is but one minor example of the many misconceptions about religion, as well as the commercialism of all our holidays. You and your family should learn the truth about your own faith, including the origin of its customs and proper observance of its holidays; and the best place to separate fact from fantasy is at the Church of your choice, at any time.

Status appeal, in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — The fashions came in stripes, checks, solid colors and prints bearing little hearts. The models came in giggles and blushes.

It was Jockey International's spring fashion show, and the parade of shapely men modeling low-rise undies in ginger, cream, gem green and raspberry made it clear: Fashion underwear for even he-man types is becoming big business.

Even famous designers have got into the act. Yves Saint Laurent has a line. Calvin Klein launched his line last August.

And although the fashion show was held to introduce a new line "Jockey for Her," buyers were quick to note the better part of the display was blushing male.

The emcee Tuesday was Jim Palmer, the poster-boy pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles who's been modeling Jockey briefs for two years.

"I think it's great," said Nan Puryear, the men's underwear buyer for Bloomingdale's, the trendy department store. "They should do it more often."

Jockey's first underwear show, in 1938, featured a couple dressed in evening clothes — half made of cellophane, providing a clear view of the underwear.

But it wasn't until the past two decades that "fashion underwear" for men grew, with big volume and high prices. In 1964, sales of underwear in colors and such prints as leopard or zebra accounted for 3 percent of Jockey's sales. By 1980, the figure had grown to 50 percent.

Who buys the fancy pants? Women, mostly. Salespeople say 60 percent of the customers for fashion underwear are women buying for their boyfriends or husbands.

"Men over 35 just buy what they've always bought," noted Roy Springfield, a salesman at Bloomingdale's. "Young men involved in the singles scene are more inclined to buy designer underwear."

Calvin Klein underwear costs $14.50 for a package of three. Jockey's fashion line sells for $11 for three.

Neither is likely to undercut the other competition. The nation's largest men's underwear maker, Union Underwear, suggests retail prices of $5.49 for a package of three Fruit of the Looms, $8 for BVDs. Fruit of the Loom gets 30 percent of the entire men's market.

The secret of Klein's success, Ms. Puryear said, is its colors — butter, jade, teal, lapis, orchid and the bestsellers, royal blue and smoke gray.

The only hint on the briefs that they're designer wear is the name Calvin Klein stitched on the waistband in a discreet gray. On the bikinis, the only marking is a label inside.

"We did over $100,000 in retail sales in the seven weeks from Aug. 8, when we first got it (Klein's line)," said Ms. Puryear. "For an introduction of a new line it's the most popular thing that's hit the men's market in years."

"It's not status appeal," said Dean Anderson, 22, who was browsing through the Calvin shelf at Bloomingdale's. "I just like the way some of them look."

THE OIL OUTLOOK 1982-83 Use, Imports and Costs

SOURCE: Department of Energy NEA/Mottitt Cecil

When all the figures on oil for 1982 are in and analyzed, U.S. daily usage is expected to be 15.5 million barrels, registering a decline for the fourth consecutive year. Net imports are forecast to drop to 4.6 million barrels daily, the lowest level since 1972. But the news may not be so good next year, when upturns in both the dependence upon imported oil and the bill to be paid for it are forecast.

Tenants say

Form still has problems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If you want to rent an apartment in Texas, you probably will have no choice but to sign a widely used lease form which gives more rights than it should to your landlord, complain representatives of tenants' groups.

At a Thursday news conference, University of Texas Students' Attorney Stephen Gardner said a revised lease adopted Aug. 18 by the Texas Apartment Association is an improvement, but still does not comply with the law.

"Because of the tight rental housing market in Texas, tenants still have no choice but to sign this unfair lease or to do without housing," said Arlington City Councilman Ken Groves.

Gardner said the TAA form is signed by "at least half" of all Texas renters, since TAA members as well as other landlords use it.

The revised lease does not change a provision that allows landlords to charge a tenant all the rents due under the lease if the tenant moves out before the lease is up, complained Groves.

"This is not legal and certainly not right," he said, "since apartments are rented and apartment owners do not suffer that kind of loss."

Gardner said the landlord's lien provision of the new lease form still does not comply with the law because it says a landlord can sell a defaulting tenant's property through private sale. Under the law, Gardner said, a landlord actually has to seek a judicial foreclosure and give the tenant a chance to present his side of the case.

The "cost of reletting" fee, still included in the new lease, is not accorded by law and is "nothing more than a hidden profit," Gardner said. Some apartment owners charge a month's rent as the "costs of reletting," said Tom Weathered of Texas Legal Aid.

Weathered said the Texas Tenants' Council might take TAA to court, charging the group with deceptive trade practices for misrepresenting landlords' rights in the lease form.

The new lease does correct previous lease provisions that suggested a landlord could evict a tenant immediately, Weathered said. Under Texas law, he said, the fastest someone can be forcibly removed from their home is six days, and "ordinarily it's 12-15 days after suit is filed."

Weathered said the new lease corrects provisions covering move-out notice, tenants' rights when the apartment is not ready for move-in, smoke detector laws, and the landlord's right to report a tenant's default to a credit bureau.

Tea stains removed

DEAR POLLY — Will you or some of your readers please tell me how to remove tea stains? I was told that pouring boiling hot water through the stain immediately when the tea is spilled will remove the stain, but that is not always feasible. Please help. Thank you. — MRS. L.W.B.

DEAR MRS. L.W.B. — Of course, it is true that a stain is always easier to remove the minute it happens. It's also true that we can't always deal with such crises at the time they occur. The boiling water method for tea stains, however, is frequently very effective even if the stain has dried. If not, try soaking the fabric in water overnight, then massaging a little liquid detergent into the stain. Launder as usual. If a stain still remains, use chlorine bleach if the fabric is bleachable, or an all-fabric bleach if chlorine bleach is recommended against the permanent care label in the garment. If the stained fabric is white, sponging the stain with lemon juice and bleaching it in the sun will often remove the last vestiges of a stain. Good luck! — POLLY

HE VOTED FOR RETIREMENT PAY FOR STATE LEGISLATORS BASED ON A STATE JUDGE'S SALARY WHICH WAS FIVE TIMES THEIR OWN (NOW SEVEN TIMES). RETIREMENT PAY FOR STATE LEGISLATORS WILL CONTINUE TO GO UP EACH TIME THEY RAISE STATE JUDGES SALARIES, AND THEY DO IT THAT WAY IN ORDER TO DECEIVE THE PEOPLE.
