Two persons have filed for the Justice of the Peace since the filing period opened Saturday, one for County Judge and several incumbents are seeking their posts again.

Candidates file in the county clerk's office and have until February to file with party chairmen for the primary in May.

Dempsey Alexander, who announced his intentions to run earlier, has formally filed for the County Judge post.

Turrentine has served as temporary JP for five years intermittently since 1971.

She was one of the founders of Deaf Smith County Museum in 1966 and served as board president for eight years. She is a member of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society and the County Historical Commission.

Hanoi has 50 more MIA reports

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — The government announced today it had collected about 50 new reports on U.S. servicemen killed in the Indochina war, and told visiting U.S. officials that it hoped to resolve the issue of about 1,800 American MIAs before the end of 1987.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of Defense Richard Armitage said after two days of talks with Vietnamese officials that the new reports would be turned over to the United States in late February at a future meeting of U.S. and Vietnamese officials.

The two sides also discussed future excavations of air crash sites in Vietnam and agreed that at present there was no need to set up a U.S. MIA liaison office in Hanoi, Armitage said.

Last month, U.S. and Vietnamese teams for the first time excavated a crash site together. They found wreckage of a U.S. B-52 bomber and found some pieces of human bone.

"With the cooperation of the United States, the issue can be resolved in two years and maybe earlier than two years," said Vietnam's deputy foreign minister, Hoang Bich Son.

Son said the 50 reports were "very new" and needed verification, and did not specify how many of those might be among the 2,400 people that Washington officially lists as missing in Indochina — 1,797 in Vietnam and the rest in Laos and Cambodia.

The American delegation, headed by Armitage and including U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Paul Wolfowitz, arrived in Hanoi on Monday and spent 4 1/2 hours in closed-door discussions with the Vietnamese, including a 50-minute session today with Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

Monday, arrests were made on two individuals for driving while intoxicated and one person was charged with being drunk while in control of a motor vehicle.

Saturday, police heard reports of trespassing, domestic disturbance and assault. Also on Saturday police responded to a report of the theft of a watch and a theft of a man's coat from a vehicle. Three license plates were also reported stolen.

Sunday, police responded to reports of domestic disturbance.

Deaf Smith County can no longer afford to send juveniles to the detention facility in Amarillo.

That is what Coleen Duffy, Deaf Smith County Juvenile Probation Officer, told the Hereford City Commission Monday night in the Hereford City Hall.

According to Duffy, a facility is needed in Hereford to detain juveniles before a hearing can be arranged. Due to recently implemented regulations, juveniles cannot be detained in the same facility as adults for more than six hours.

"Peace officers are getting frustrated," Duffy told the commission. "We can either take them to Amarillo or turn them loose."

Duffy and Deaf Smith County Commissioner James Voyles asked the commission if it would be feasible to renovate the Fullwood Building (Lee and Third) so it could be used as a juvenile detention center.

Duffy added that the renovation of the building would be funded by the county and additional funds could be provided by a state agency.

"We are looking at your building as an alternative to Amarillo," Duffy stated. "The Potter County juvenile probation officer is looking down at us bringing our juveniles to Amarillo, they do not want anything short of a felon."

In 1985, 49 juveniles were detained by Deaf Smith County for various reasons. Of those 49, only six stayed in the county as they were being detained. Eleven were detained in the Oldham County jail, mostly runaways found on Interstate 40, and 32 were detained in the Potter County facility. The cost to keep a juvenile in the Potter County detention center is $75 per day. The county put out $2,400 in fees to Potter County, not including the manpower and transportation expenses.

"We need a facility here in the city so we can work with the juveniles in our own back yard," Duffy said, "And we would appreciate the city allowing us to use the Fullwood Building."

Hereford hosting annual beet grower convention

Hereford again will host the annual membership business meeting and banquet of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association this year with Holly Sugar Corporation president John Bushnell and Congressmen Larry Combest and Beau Boulter scheduled to appear.

The association's business meeting will be in the Hereford Community Center at 10 a.m. Friday, Jan. 17. Bushnell will speak at the meeting with the two congressmen.

Also, an election will be held for the expiring directors' terms of Bill Cleavinger, Troy Christian and Dave Thompson. A nominating committee has prepared a ballot to be joined City commissioners stated that they saw no problem in allowing the County the use of the Fullwood Building. The county juvenile detention board will study the renovations needed and report back to the city commission during another meeting for a final approval.

The commissioners then addressed a request by Herb Vogel that the city re-evaluate the ordinance pertaining to keeping animals inside the city limits. The current ordinance states that keeping livestock in the city limits is prohibited except in recently annexed zones and horses can be kept on nothing less than an acre. Residents must also have a permit to keep horses.

Commissioner Bud Eades stated that the city needs an ordinance to allow animals in the city limits under certain standards as long as they were strictly regulated to keep up with health standards.

Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher said that he agreed with Commissioner Eades that the city needs to change its ordinance and added that this would benefit the entire city.

The city decided to come up with a sample ordinance to discuss during their next meeting.

In other business the commission heard from Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Mike Carr about a drive to get the city better equipped for industrial development.

Commissioner Eades recently attended a program sponsored by the Texas Economic Development Commission called TEXCEL (Texas Cities for Economic Leadership).

TEXCEL will be assisting communities across the state to develop basic skills to capitalize on, and create, economic development opportunities.

TEXCEL will be certifying 25 cities which have met all the standards of the readiness program. If an industrial prospect was to contact the TEDC, the TEDC would then recommend cities that have been certified as possible locations.

Carr will be completing a 14-page application to be sent to TEDC and (See CITY, Page 2)

Hightower tells farmers to fight FmHA

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, criticizing the Farmers Home Administration and the Reagan administration, says there's just one thing that will change current federal farm policy.

"The only thing that's going to make a difference in Washington is if there is a prairie fire built out here in the countryside that fights against the isolated bureaucratic decisions that are being made up there," he said.

Hightower on Monday blasted FmHA lending policy, contending the agency threatens to drive thousands of Texas farmers off the land this year.

"The Farmers Home Administration has declared war on its own borrowers, coldly attempting to rush thousands of good agricultural producers out of business in the next few weeks. What FmHA is doing, Jesse James got shot for," Hightower said.

"This is a fight we're committed to until we prevail. It's a life-and-death struggle for thousands of farm families and hundreds of rural communities which need our assistance."

But FmHA state director J. Lynn Futch said the agency is doing all it can to help farmers.

"Despite what other people are saying, we haven't suddenly turned into the bad guys," Futch said in a phone interview FmHA headquarters at Temple.

"Our mission has been to help farmers to own land, to help them operate, and our mission has been all the time to make loans to farmers who couldn't get credit elsewhere. We're still trying to keep as many of those people in business as we can," he added.

Hightower said the Texas Department of Agriculture will contact some 7,000 delinquent FmHA borrowers in Texas and offer advice on preventing foreclosure.

"We will be explaining their legal rights and options, and we will help them find assistance to fight the foreclosure attempts and to deal with other problems that this economic assault causes," he said.

One weapon is a new Farm Crisis Hotline funded in part by a $25,000 grant from country singer Willie Nelson's Farm Aid project.

The toll-free telephone service will help Texas farmers and ranchers obtain legal and financial advice, mental health assistance and other information to cope with the farm crisis, Hightower said.

But he used a news conference announcing that program to blast the (See HIGHTOWER, Page 2)

Libyans in U.S. being watched

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Many Libyans involved in terrorist plots have been apprehended in the United States and most other Libyans in the country are under constant watch, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee says.

"We've had most Libyans in this country under surveillance," Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., told a Monday luncheon meeting of the World Affairs Council at a San Antonio hotel.

Lugar made the comments only a day after Libyan strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy threatened to bring terrorism to American streets.

"We've averted tens of incidents by breaking them up in advance," Lugar said. He did not elaborate on the circumstances surrounding the thwarted attacks or the surveillance activities.

In a telephone interview with the San Antonio Light, Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesman Duke Austin said about 3,200 Libyans are currently in the United States with temporary visas — about 1,200 of whom are students.

Politicians to be held responsible

AUSTIN (AP) — The president of the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals says the state's top political leaders have failed to respond to recommendations by the education profession for improving reform legislation known as House Bill 72.

Fred Richardson Jr., Houston, said top elected officials, and all future candidates for office, would be held accountable for making appropriate changes in reforms enacted in 1984.

The association, with more than 3,500 members, includes principals and assistant principals of middle schools and high schools.

Richardson said in a letter released Monday that the association had voted Dec. 9 to establish its first political action committee as a result of sentiment that "we are at the bottom of a darkened barrel, with politicians throwing stones and taking pot shots at us."

He said some members of the association's board of directors felt "it is time to come out fighting in a deliberate and resourceful manner."

"I personally share these sentiments," he said.

Rape charges against Estes dismissed

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes said now that rape charges against him have been dismissed he'll go back to "just taking it one day at a time."

"This seems like a bad dream. It was such a ridiculous charge, but I had to make myself take it seriously," Estes said Monday after State District Judge Don Lane dismissed the charges at the request of District Attorney Jorge Solis.

Estes, 60, was charged with raping a 38-year-old Mexican woman last July after she came from Mexico to Abilene to be his housekeeper. But the charges were dropped after a recent medical examination upheld Estes' claim that he obtained a vasectomy more than 30 years ago.

Part of the prosecution's evidence was spermatozoa that a doctor found in the woman the day after the woman alleged to have been raped by Estes.

"Somebody definitely had sex with this woman, but it definitely wasn't Billie Sol Estes," defense attorney Bob Lindsey said.

IRS promises better service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, so plagued with problems last year that an estimated 100 million telephone calls went unanswered, is promising improvement this year: more lines, more workers and less crankiness.

By mid-March, the IRS will be able to tell you by phone whether your return has been received. If you call with a question about a deduction, the agency promises a better effort to give you the right answer. And while there are no guarantees, IRS officials are predicting no repeat of last year's massive backlog in processing returns.

"I think 1986 will be a substantially different processing year — substantially better, much more like a normal processing year," Fred Perdue, director of returns processing, told reporters Monday.

He said the IRS has expanded computer capacity and stepped up worker training in the 10 regional service centers, where an estimated 103.8 million individual returns are expected to be processed this year. It was a new computer system in those centers that created most of the processing backlog last year and delayed refunds for millions of taxpayers.

As always, the IRS advice to taxpayers is: File early and use the pre-addressed label that accompanied your tax forms because it has your name and correct Social Security number. If you are expecting a refund, you could get it in as little as four weeks if you file in January or February. After that, processing can take up to 10 weeks — and much longer if your Social Security number is wrong.

Hundreds turn out for protest

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico (AP) — Hundreds of people turned out in this north central city Monday to protest alleged fraud by Mexico's dominant party to take back control of city hall.

Authorities had beefed up security in anticipation of the protest, planned also to include a march by as many as 30,000 people later in the day.

Opposition political parties, which called the demonstration, also urged businesses to shut down for three hours at mid-day.

The national news service of the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior reported that many businesses and offices near Founders Plaza where the march was scheduled to start did close, but it said many merchants were as concerned about security as they were about showing political support for the protest.

Excelsior said about 5,000 people had gathered in the plaza by 12 p.m. EST, getting ready for the afternoon march to start. There were no reports of violence.

Peso makes strong rebound

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's peso currency has regained about 15 percent of its strength against the dollar since early November when worried investors and speculators drove it to record lows.

At midday Monday, private exchange houses were offering 423 pesos for a dollar on the free market and demanding 438 pesos for each one.

In early November, those same currency firms were giving more than 500 pesos for a dollar, as the currency skidded for the first time to the 500 mark in Mexico City.

The free market rate for the peso is used in tourism and for most border and private transactions.

A government-regulated rate, used for 80 percent of commercial transactions, stood at about 375 on Monday.

FmHA, a federal agency with loans to some 16,000 Texas farmers and ranchers.

The FmHA is sending delinquent borrowers a form entitled "Notice of Intent to Take Adverse Action," giving recipients 30 days to acknowledge and select one of several options for resolving their problem.

Hightower charged that most options would cost recipients their farms. He said the TDA will advise farmers to request every possible FmHA action — rescheduling, consolidation, reamortization, deferral and more — to service their loan.

The FmHA action "is the greatest bureaucratic heist in American farming history ... This attempt to shuck 7,000 producers off their land is just the opening shot off the war which Texas farmers and ranchers are going to have fight in 1986," Hightower said.

Responding, the FmHA's Futch said the delinquency notices don't mean all recipients are facing foreclosure. Under a court order from a North Dakota case, the FmHA was required to notify all delinquent borrowers — regardless of whether they owe "only $100 or $50,000."

ANN LANDERS

Say it again

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A 60-year-old woman wrote and asked why kids today never stand up and offer a seat to an older person on the bus. You said it was general insensitivity to the needs of others and unfortunately, "all-pervasive."

I say it's two things. One: Most parents who own a car never ride the bus with their children and they don't know what goes on. Two: Kids learn manners after consistent repetition of instructions and observing good examples set by adults.

Pop and I took the bus together often. One day he decided he had reminded me enough already and said, "STAND UP FOR THAT LADY NOW, OR YOU WON'T BE ABLE TO SIT DOWN WHEN YOU GET HOME." That was the last time I ever hesitated about giving up my seat.

How I wish today's parents would take the time to teach their children manners. Manners are nothing more than basic, ordinary consideration for others. The rewards are enormous and they last a lifetime.—ALSO TIRED

DEAR ALSO: You can say that again—again and again.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please keep telling your readers who choose to stay with an alcoholic to contact Al-Anon. Thirty-two years ago I married a man with a drinking problem. I thought he would quit for me (sound familiar?), but of course I was wrong.

I raised four sons by myself. My husband was busy doing his own thing. I didn't leave him, though God knows I wanted to hundreds of times. I had no money, no place to go and I believed a drunken father was better than no father. (Wrong).

Alcohol is a liquid drug. I have spent many hours reading up on the subject. Almost every alcoholic compares his drinking to someone else's (always a heavier drinker) and denies that he has a problem. I can tell them all, there are only three roads out: Alcoholics Anonymous, the psycho ward, or the morgue.

Kids and teenagers are drinking at a younger age and more heavily than ever before, and it's getting worse. For every alcoholic there are at least five people who are affected by his drinking. In Al-Anon I found the peace of mind that saved my sanity.

Please, Ann, send those nervous, confused and empty souls to us. There is a better way to live and Al-Anon will show it to them.—READER IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

DEAR B.C.: Thanks for a chance to say it again.

Alcoholics Anonymous is an international fellowship for both men and women. It has absolutely the best success rate for rehabilitating problem drinkers. A.A. has proven much more effective than psychiatry, counseling or religion. And it's free. A.A. welcomes anyone who shows up. No questions asked.

Al-Anon is an organization for people who decide to stay with an alcoholic. It teaches them that they need not and should not take responsibility for the alcoholic's drinking. If he vomits let him clean it up or sleep in it. Nor should they lie for him (or her) or try to cover his tracks.

Both organizations are in the phone book. They perform a marvelous service and have changed (and saved) thousands of lives.

DEAR READERS: I am so pleased that the author of that heart-warming poem, "A Birthday," has made herself known. She is Sue Westrum of Glenville, Minn. The poem first appeared in a book called, "Perspectives on a Grafted Tree," in 1983.

A horse project can be showing of the animals at County, District, and State 4-H Horse shows where you perform riding procedures and timed events or may show the animal in direct halter competition. You may wish to keep a 4-H Record book for a horse project where several different pamphlets outline for you what to do with this project, select readings, pictures, and all sorts of questions and answers can make this project fun for anyone.

The Deaf Smith County Horse Club offers many horse activities and projects. They include such things as roping, this is to increase your skills as a cowboy or girl, Drill Team activities, a branch of the Horse club called the Sparklin' Spurs. This activities is designed to teach team work, sportsmanship and leadership. With these three essential elements a young person can become a real horseman in every aspect. The 4-H horse judging team begins every year in the mid winter months through spring working on proper judging procedures for youth. This program will increase a horseman overall wisdom of the horse industry.

Whiteface girls face 'must win' 3-5A games

Hereford High School's girls' basketball teams struggled in their shooting from the field on Saturday night, losing a pair of games at Lubbock Monterey High School.

Final scores for the games were 77-53 in the varsity contest and 44-29 in the junior varsity game.

The HHS varsity girls drop to 4-3 in District 3-5A and 4-6 for the season. The junior varsity team has a 2-8 record.

Hereford varsity Coach Larry Sowers said, "We're in a must win situation this week. We just cannot lose to any of the top teams in the district either."

"We play Monterey, Amarillo and Plainview at home the second half of the district season. We can't afford a loss this week to have any chance to make the playoffs."

The Whiteface varsity girls play at home Tuesday against Palo Duro. Game time is 6 p.m. at the Hereford High School gym. On Friday, Hereford plays at Tascosa High School at 6 p.m.

The junior varsity games will be at 7:45 p.m. each night, with the home game Tuesday to be played at the Stanton Junior High School gym.

In the varsity team's 77-53 loss to Monterey, the HHS girls trailed Monterey at halftime 31-25, and then were behind 58-35 after three quarters of play. Monterey's Laura Supak poured in 40 points, 20 in each half, and 16 points in the third quarter.

Hereford was led by Emma Gonzales with 12 points and Sarah Fish with 10 points. Other scorers included Natalie Sims with nine points, Shelly Edwards with eight points, and Susie Kalka with six points.

The Whitefaces hit 21 of 56 shots from the field for 36 percent. Edwards grabbed 11 rebounds and Sims had eight rebounds. Other rebound totals included six by Kalka and five each by Fish and Terry Valdez.

In the junior varsity game, Monterey held just a three-point lead at halftime, 20-17. But in the third quarter, Hereford could get only two points through the hoop and fell behind 34-19 in the 44-29 loss.

Bears to work on kickoff coverage this week

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The Chicago Bears will work on covering kickoffs this week to avoid being devastated by the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday in the National Conference football championship, the last leg leading to a berth in the Super Bowl.

"Our kickoff coverage is poor," Chicago Coach Mike Ditka said. "We don't cover kickoffs well and that could be devastating."

The reason for his concern is Ron Brown of the Rams, who led the league in kickoff returns — including three for touchdowns.

Ditka did see one consolation on the matter of kickoffs. "It's nice to be kicking off instead of receiving."

Aside from kickoff coverage, Ditka doesn't give the Rams that much of an edge in the play of the special teams, an area where the Bears seem to be the weakest.

"We were second in the league in kickoff returns, our punt returns are not that bad, we had the leading kicker in field goals and our punting is good," said Ditka, who lauded his Bears and the Rams as "the best two teams in the National Conference."

Both teams come to the title game off shutout victories. The Rams advanced with a 20-0 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys Saturday and the Bears eliminated the New York Giants 21-0 Sunday.

The two teams will meet Sunday in Soldier Field and the winner will advance to the Super Bowl against the winner of the New England-Miami American Conference championship game, also on Sunday.

The Bears will have the advantage of the home field but Ditka, who all season long said he wanted the home field advantage because of January weather conditions in Chicago, isn't so sure now.

"Their quarterback (Dieter Brock) has played in Canada, so he knows what adverse weather conditions are and I'm sure a lot of the Rams players are out of the Midwest and they know what it's all about," said Ditka.

HHS JV boys win Bovina tournament

Hereford High School's junior varsity boys' basketball team, with two players named to the all-tournament team, won the Bovina Tournament Saturday by defeating the Grady, N.M., varsity 57-51 in the tournament championship game.

On Friday, Hereford scored an 81-57 win over the Farwell varsity team. Earlier in the tournament, Hereford defeated the Texico varsity 63-44 in a first-round contest Thursday.

David Manchee and Todd Weaver were the Hereford selections for the all-tournament team.

Basketball game is delayed by rain

By The Associated Press

The visiting team built a big lead, sweated out a long rain delay and then coasted to victory after the water was cleared off the playing surface.

No, baseball fans, it's still three months until April. This is the National Basketball Association.

The Phoenix Suns led Seattle 35-24 early in the second quarter Sunday night when referee Mike Mathis halted the game because rain was leaking into Seattle Coliseum from the roof. After NBA Commissioner David Stern ruled Monday that the game must be resumed at the point of interruption instead of replayed from the start, the Suns went on to defeat the SuperSonics 114-97.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia defeated San Antonio 108-102 and Sacramento stopped Washington 106-87.

The Suns reacted differently when asked how it felt to play in the first NBA game ever suspended after it started.

"I don't want to have to do another game like that," said Phoenix forward Larry Nance, who was 12-for-15 from the field and scored 27 points in the two-day game. "Anytime you're on a roll like we were, you hate to have the game stop."

"It was difficult to get our heads in the game in the second quarter," added Suns guard Jay Humphries, who added 23 points and 12 assists. "But I liked the long break. It really helped us."

Seattle outscored 25-14 after the game resumed to tie the game at 49, but the Suns, who snapped a three-game losing streak, rebuilt the margin to 55-50 at halftime.

James Edwards scored 17 of his 25 points in the second half and Nance added 13 after halftime as the Suns pulled away in the final two periods. The SuperSonics trailed 84-70 after three quarters and could get no closer than 10 points in the final 12 minutes.

76ers 108, Spurs 102

Philadelphia won for the ninth time in 10 games as Maurice Cheeks had 23 points and 13 assists and Moses Malone 20 points and 13 rebounds against San Antonio.

The 76ers led 55-42 at halftime and still had an 11-point advantage before an 8-0 streak by the Spurs cut the deficit to 101-98 with 2:15 left. But seven free throws kept the 76ers in front down the stretch.

Mike Mitchell led San Antonio with 27 points, while Alvin Robertson added 22.

Kings 106, Bullets 87

Sacramento won its third game in a row for the first time this season and posted its biggest victory margin as Mike Woodson scored 21 points and Eddie Johnson 20 against Washington.

Reggie Theus added 17 points and 16 assists for the Kings, who played before their 17th straight home sellout this season.

"BOLTENDING"

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — There is a new cry being heard in the Capital Center, home of the Washington Bullets of the NBA.

The cry is "Boltending." You will hear it when Manute Bol stretches his arms to their ultimate height trying to block a shot. The 204-pound center is 7-6 and when he thrusts his arms as high as they will go, his height is 10 feet, four inches.

Syracuse whips up on Villanova, 80-57

By The Associated Press

The Orangemen of Syracuse weren't green with envy when they went to the sidelines last season to watch three of their Big East brethren battle it out for the NCAA basketball championship.

What they were was a year away from making a serious bid of their own for a berth in the Final Four. At least that's the impression one gets from listening to Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino, whose Wildcats wound up as national champions.

"When we went after them, their experience showed," Massimino said Monday night after unbeaten and fourth-ranked Syracuse whipped Villanova 80-57 for its 11th straight victory.

A year ago, experienced-if-not-spectacular Villanova beat Big East rival Georgetown for the crown. The Hoyas, the 1984 NCAA champions, had eliminated St. John's. This season, they're all looking up at Syracuse, which finally took its show on the road after 10 straight home games.

In other games involving ranked teams, it was No. 6 Memphis State 89, South Carolina 81; ninth-ranked Kansas 60, Detroit 51; Auburn 60, No. 11 Kentucky 56; 14th-ranked Alabama-Birmingham 57, South Florida 48, and No. 17 Louisville 86, Eastern Kentucky 55.

Massimino was impressed with the play of Syracuse center Rony Seikaly, one of four returning starters for the Orangemen.

"Rony Seikaly is 'certainly a dominating type of player,'" Massimino said after watching the 6-foot-10 sophomore score 20 points and pull down 14 rebounds. "He got the ball inside a lot more than we anticipated."

Senior forward Rafael Addison scored 25 points for Syracuse.

Top 10

Those who visit Memphis for the purpose of playing basketball must learn to live with defeat. The Tigers are so tough, particularly against Metro Conference opponents, that to stay in a game at the Mid-South Coliseum — where Memphis State has won 29 straight games — is to some a moral victory.

"We proved ourselves, that we can play people on the road," South Carolina Coach Bill Foster said. "That's a big step for us."

Vincent Askew scored a career-high 23 points and William Bedford added 19 to pace undefeated Memphis State, 13-0. South Carolina, 8-5, got 21 points from Linwood Moya, 18 from Keith James and 17 from Michael Foster.

When a ranked 13-2 team struggles with a 6-8 opponent, the favorite isn't always playing poorly.

"Detroit was the factor in the way we played," Kansas Coach Larry Brown said. "They had a great game plan. They spread us out and used the 45-second clock well."

Second 10

Unranked Auburn — which upset the field in the Southeastern Conference tournament last season — may be overlooked by some, but not by Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton.

"Auburn played more tonight like they were playing at the end of the season last year," Sutton said. "I don't think they would have lost five games (this year) if they had played like they did tonight."

Chuck Person scored 24 points and Gerald White hit four free throws in the final minute for the host Tigers, 7-5.

Kenny Walker, last year's SEC Player of the Year, led Kentucky, 10-2, with 22 points.

Billy Thompson scored 19 points and Milt Wagner 17, including 10 in the second half as 17th-ranked Louisville upped its record to 8-3. Lewis Spence tossed in a game-high 21 points for 3-7 Eastern Kentucky. Antonio Parris, averaging 20.9 points, scored only eight, all in the first half.

Archie Johnson scored 13 points, Steve Mitchell 12 and Jerome Mincy 11 for No. 14 Alabama-Birmingham, 14-2. South Florida, 7-5, shot just 27 percent from the floor.

Mourners hear Rick Nelson eulogized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Rick Nelson's children urged mourners not to weep for the actor who grew up on "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," and a family minister assured them he was safe with God and his late father.

"I'd like to think God wanted to enliven the halls of heaven," the Rev. Frank Parrish told 1,000 relatives, friends and fans at a memorial service Monday for Nelson at the Church of the Hills at Forest Lawn Hollywood Hills.

"I'd like to think Ozzie was there waiting for him," said Parrish, who then referred to one of the entertainer's hit songs. "I'd like to see him as a travelin' man walking through the corridors of heaven."

Nelson, 45, died in a fiery New Year's Eve plane crash in Texas.

The singer's daughter, sons and brother recalled cherished moments with him, and President Reagan sent a telegram of condolence.

"Nancy and I are deeply saddened by Rick's tragic death," Reagan said in a message to Harriet Nelson, 71. She entered the 275-seat chapel through a rear door and didn't speak during the 45-minute service.

"Rick would have liked this telegram," David Nelson, 49, said in a quavering voice before reading it to the mourners. Reminiscing about childhood days, he recalled the two playing hide-and-seek with their late father.

"At the end of the day, Dad would kneel between us and put one hand on Ricky's chest and the other on mine and we'd sing the Lord's Prayer," he said.

Approximately 700 fans and friends heard the service over loudspeakers outside the church on the grounds at Forest Lawn Hollywood Hills, where Ozzie Nelson was interred a decade ago.

"Dad wouldn't want anybody to be sad, so stop crying over there," said Nelson's teen-age son, Matthew, before he and his twin brother, Gunnar, sang "Easy to be Free," one of Nelson's favorite tunes.

"Pop wouldn't want you to be sad," said daughter Tracy Nelson, 22, who said her father had grace, gentleness and sincerity. Nelson's fourth child, Sam, 11, read an American Indian poem.

Mourners included Angie Dickinson, Connie Stevens, Melissa Gilbert and actor Don DeFore, who played the Nelsons' neighbor Thorny on the television show that ran from 1952 to 1966.

"It was the great way Ozzie and Harriet raised him that made him such an outstanding young man," DeFore said.

"He was a wonderful person," said fan Vickie Russell, who stood outside the chapel and wept throughout the service. "I'm 53 years old and followed him through his entire life. I'll miss him."

"This was a very large turnout, like the funerals for Jeannette MacDonald, Clark Gable and, most recently, Marvin Gaye," said Robert Wheeler, vice president of communications at Forest Lawn, in estimating attendance at 1,000 people.

Nelson, his fiancée, four members of his band and a sound man were killed when their DC-3 crashed Dec. 31 en route to a Dallas concert from Alabama.

Born Eric Hilliard Nelson in Teaneck, N.J., on May 8, 1940, he grew up on the 14-year television series, which featured his parents and brother David.

The show launched Nelson's musical career, which included such early rock 'n' roll hits as "Travelin' Man," "Teen-ager's Romance" and "I'm Walkin'."

CREATIVE NIGHTMARES
MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Researchers at Tufts University say studies indicate that people who suffer from chronic nightmares are prone to mental illness and also tend to be artistic and creative.

The tendency toward mental illness is often what leads nightmare sufferers to the creative arts, where they can utilize their sensitivity.

Decision due in aquifer case

By GARTH JONES, Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — A high pressure oil pipeline across the Edwards Aquifer between Austin and San Antonio could threaten scenic area with oil spills, opponents have testified in state district court. District Judge Joe Dibrell was expected to say today whether the pipeline proposed by All American Pipeline Co. must be delayed until the Texas Railroad Commission writes strict standards for it. Arguments on Dibrell's authority in the controversy were heard Monday.

"Build it south of the Alamo or north of the Capitol, but not across the Edwards Aquifer," testified K.W. Shepperd, a pipeline expert from Manor, near Austin. "A pipeline across the aquifer would cause irreparable damage," said Travis County Judge Mike Renfro. Attorneys for All American Pipeline Co. argued the 30-inch line would be beneficial to the nation and state by bringing Alaskan oil from California to economically needy portions of Texas near Houston.

Lawyers for All American, which did not present witnesses Monday, argued that Dibrell could not enact a temporary injunction that would keep the commission from giving All American an operating permit, because the commission had not completed hearings on the permit. The Railroad Commission and the state attorney general joined with All American in Monday's arguments. Travis County and the Edwards Underground Water District joined with Concerned Citizens to Protect the Edwards Aquifer. Concern Citizens originally brought the suit seeking to keep the commission from giving All American an operating permit until the commission writes strict new regulations to protect surface and underground water supplies from pipeline spills, as directed by the 1985 Legislature. The commission held a preliminary hearing on the permit Dec. 10 and set another hearing for Jan. 14. "We believe this court has no jurisdiction to issue an order because the hearing is still in progress before the commission," said Jim Meyers, commission attorney. Roy Rutland, attorney for Concerned Citizens, said "the commission has no authority to go forward on this permit until they make the rules the Legislature told them to make."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

AUSTIN—Texas government rebounded from the holiday lull and hit the ground running last week, energized by the arrival of the Sesquicentennial Celebration and—on the political front—the opening filing day for political offices.

Incumbents and challengers for state and county offices have until Feb. 3 to file for positions on party primary ballots. From the looks of things, the toughest job awaiting the next Legislature is balancing the 1988-89 state budget, despite the '84 special session which passed the largest tax bill in history.

The impending drop in crude oil prices and loss of unknown amounts of federal funds will surely send legislators scratching again to cut more services or raise taxes again, or both. State Treasurer Ann Richards warned that state spending in 1985 exceeded state income by about $907 million. Recently, the state shifted some $1 billion in interagency lending, at a cost of $36 million in lost revenues.

Gramm-Rudman Cuts
The Gramm-Rudman bill which Congress passed last month to reduce the federal deficit is sure to impact Texas by cutting federal dollars to the state budget, but no one can accurately pin down the amount. The bill's sponsor, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, disputed some predictions the bill would cost Texas almost $305 million. He says his home state will come out a big winner in the free market. But of importance to state budgets, one Washington report foresees Texas facing a 6.3 percent cut, or $43.6 million in federal funds in fiscal year '86, in the areas of highways, education, energy, urban development and revenue sharing.

Hightower: 'Trash'
Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower doesn't like another recent piece of federal legislation: he called the new farm bill "a piece of trash" that will further depress crop prices.

In predicting increased farm bankruptcies, Hightower said the bill will do more harm than all the "combined tornadoes, freezes, hurricanes and other weather disasters of the last 50 years."

Hightower never has liked President Reagan, who signed it, and even though Texas Congressman Kika de la Garza wrote much of the bill, Hightower abhors the section which lowers federal price supports for major commodities to make them competitive on the world market.

The feisty commissioner's combative style caused him to catch a little political flak last week after he sent out a fundraising invitation containing a profane word. His Republican opponent, Bill Powers, said Hightower should wash his mouth out with soap and apologize to all of Texas for using the phrase "Kick Ass Populism."

Land Commissioner
Texas Land Commissioner Gary Mauro sent two of his staff to San Francisco on New Year's Eve so they could close a $50 million bond sale before midnight 1985 (California time) and after midnight (Texas time).

The maneuver allowed Mauro to continue the state's veterans' land and housing programs by avoiding political challenges to the bond sale. Mauro also announced his office has agreed to lease 3.6 acres of state land to the Hilton Hotels in Houston for a minimum of $300,000 a year in new income to the Permanent School Fund.

Dark of Night Ride
Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said last week he won't sue some Baptist child-care homes near Corpus Christi because the home officials moved the kids to Missouri.

In the latest twist in the decades-old feud between the state and the homes founded by the late Lester Roloff, the ministers preferred to close and relocate the unlicensed homes rather than submit to state regulation.

They loaded some 150 boys and girls on seven buses after Sunday evening services and drove all night to a state with no licensing law. In a parting shot flung over their shoulders, they vowed to return after defeating Mattox and his predecessor, Gov. Mark White, both Baptists. The church has lost appeals all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Short Taxes
State Rep. Smith Gilley, D-Greenville, will not seek reelection after serving six terms. However, he expects to be back in politics after a few years.

Keith Oakley, D-Terrell, is the newest member of the House, Oakley, 28, will serve out the unexpired term of Gordon (Doc) Arnold, who became legislative aide to Speaker Gib Lewis.

The Texas High School Coaches Association voted to form a political action committee. President Greg Sherwood, Plainview, says there won't be any gubernatorial endorsement until after regional meetings are completed Feb. 1.
