

House passes huge social security rescue plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that would affect virtually every American, the House has passed a $165.3 billion plan to rescue Social Security by imposing higher payroll taxes, curbing benefits and raising the retirement age from 65.

By a 282-148 vote Wednesday night, the House sent the measure to the Senate, where the finance committee was expected to wrap up work on its version of the package today. The full Senate is expected to vote next week.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., expressed confidence today that the Senate would quickly pass legislation similar to that adopted by the House.

He was asked if the measure would be identical to the House bill and he replied, "I wouldn't say that." House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., predicted Congress will have the legislation on President Reagan's desk by the end of the month.

The House bill follows the bipartisan recommendations of the National Commission on Social Security Reform, calling for affluent retirees to pay income tax on half their benefits; a six-month delay in this July's cost-of-living increase; accelerated payroll tax increases; a boost in the levy on the self-employed, and mandatory Social Security coverage for new federal workers. Those measures are supposed to keep Social Security solvent through the rest of the decade and solve two-thirds of the system's long-term, $1.9 trillion deficit.

During House consideration, legislators voted 228-202 to accept an amendment by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, to eliminate the remaining third of the long-term deficit by gradually increasing the retirement age from 65 to 67 in the next century.

The Senate package is expected to parallel the House measure. "It has taken this House two years to make the journey from crisis to compromise," said House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

DWI legislation breezes through senate committee

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislation to deal harshly with drunken drivers has been unanimously approved by the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The legislation, approved Wednesday for full Senate action, would up fines and jail time and do away with "deferred adjudication" that lets some offenders wipe their records clean.

Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, who sponsored the legislation, opposed "deferred adjudication" because he said it sometimes allows repeat offenders to get first-offender treatment since their previous convictions are not available to authorities.

He said the bill would protect offenders by keeping DWI offenses from being reported to universities or other agencies that might seek background information on an individual.

EPA director Burford resigns; investigation will continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anne McGill Burford is gone, but congressional investigators vowed no letup in their scrutiny of the Environmental Protection Agency, which she left crippled by controversy over allegations of mismanagement and conflict of interest.

"The investigation will continue. The saga is just going to begin," Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., said Wednesday after President Reagan accepted "with great regret" Mrs. Burford's resignation as EPA administrator for the past 22 months.

Mrs. Burford said the furor over the EPA and her direction of it had disabled the agency and distracted Reagan from pursuing his domestic and international goals.

Reagan called her departure "an occasion of sorrow for us all." EPA Deputy Administrator John Hernandez will serve as acting administrator until a successor to Mrs. Burford is found.

White says new taxes may be needed to balance state budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Smokers, drinkers and arcade game players might have to foot the bill for a balanced state budget, said Gov. Mark White as he presented a $32.9 billion, two-year fiscal plan to Texas legislators.

White, who previously had predicted no tax hikes, delivered the budget to a joint session of the Legislature on Wednesday, one day after state Comptroller Bob Bullock again reduced his estimate of how much money legislators can spend in 1984-1985.

Bullock said dropping oil prices mean $867.1 million less in state revenues. The White budget comes up $1.4 billion short of revenue — a difference he said could be made up by adopting two of three "alternatives" — increasing "luxury taxes," selling bonds to finance highway construction or live with reduced programs.

Although he avoided a flat recommendation to increase taxes, White said the "luxury tax" increase could raise $800 million. The highway bond proposal would save up to $700 million.

"We will continue this investigation until every rock is overturned and every fact uncovered," said Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Science and Technology subcommittee on the environment.

Mrs. Burford, who planned to discuss her resignation at a news conference today, said she could no longer take the pressure of the investigations and media attention. "Shoot, I can't even work anymore," she said in an interview with The Denver Post on Wednesday.

"That's not right. That's not good government," she said. "It's killing me." She said Reagan accepted the resignation after she told him she believed she had done a good job and he "observed that it didn't seem to be getting out in the news media."

For troubled El Salvador

Reagan wants $110 million aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today asked Congress for $110 million in increased military and training aid for the troubled government of El Salvador, saying the military situation there "is not good" and that U.S. security is at stake.

Reagan said El Salvador "is under strong pressure from armed guerrillas controlled by extremists with Cuban-Soviet support."

Reagan said that throughout Central America, "an aggressive minority has thrown in its lot with the communists, looking to the Soviets and their Cuban henchmen to help them pursue political change through violence."

"Nicaragua has become their base," he added. "These extremists make no secret of their goal. They preach the doctrine of a

LONDON (AP) — OPEC ministers determined to avert an international oil price war say they have reached a "general understanding" on a price cut and could wrap up an agreement today.

Legislator calls for 'Contact Visits'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas inmates could have "contact visits" under a bill introduced by a legislator who said he got the idea after watching a prisoner hug his 4-year-old son for the first time.

The proposal by Rep. Ed Emmett, R-Kingwood, would allow "limited physical contact, including handshaking, kissing and embracing" between inmates and visitors. It would not allow conjugal visits.

Texas Department of Corrections Director W.J. Estelle said Wednesday he is against the legislation because it would increase contraband and threaten the prison's "domestic tranquility."

But Emmett said, "If two hours, once a month they were allowed to mingle with their family in a living room setting, I think that would be very helpful."

Emmett said he became interested in allowing contact visits after he spoke at a prison school graduation last summer.

The inmates "were allowed to mingle after the ceremony with their families," he said. "I went up to this one family, and this man was holding his 4-year-old and it turns out this was the first time he had ever touched his 4-year-old son."

"The more I started looking into it the more I realized that if we're truly going to do something about the recidivism rate, we have got to make those prisoners understand there is still a world out there they need to be wanting to go back to," said Emmett.

But Estelle disagreed. "I'm in the business of trying to reduce crime. When someone presents empirical evidence that it reduces crime, we'll have a lot of it," he said. "We have enough trouble with contraband now."

Emmett suggested strip searching prisoners on the way back from visits to eliminate that problem, but Estelle said such a policy would result in complaints about civil rights violations.

The bill does not include conjugal visits, because that would turn into "a har-har kind of bill," said Emmett.

"We're just saying that for prisoners with families, it's important those prisoners realize there's someone on the outside who cares," he said.

Defense rests in murder trial

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — Testimony has ended in the trial of a Mexican charged with killing an illegal alien to avenge the death of a member of a smuggling ring.

Lawyers for Juan Ramon Ortiz, 26, of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, called only two witnesses before resting their case Wednesday.

Closing arguments were scheduled today before the final jury charge by State District Judge Reagan Clark.

Ortiz is accused of killing Roman Turcios, one of four people from El Salvador who were found dead in July on the banks of the Brazos River in Fort Bend County. They had been bound and shot in the head.

Prosecutors have argued the slayings were an act of revenge in retaliation for the death of a smuggling ring member who had demanded more money from a relative of two of the illegal aliens.

The state accuses Ortiz of belonging to the smuggling gang, which prosecutors say tortured the illegal aliens before shooting them. The smuggling ring, called Los Tejas, transported up to 400 aliens a month from Nuevo Laredo to the Houston area, the state contends.

After the state rested Wednesday, the defense called to the stand R.L. Gaston, chief of detectives for the Fort Bend County Sheriff's Department, and Irene Vleychek, a district court clerk.

Gaston said 10 of the 13 people named in sealed indictments in the case were able to escape because their identities were made public in news accounts about the indictments. Prosecutors have said those 10 are believed hiding in Mexico.

Ortiz was one of the 13 indicted, Ms. Vleychek testified.

The youth was arrested Wednesday afternoon in Fort Worth, according to Graham police investigator Jim Nance.

William Hill, 52, and his daughter, Brenda, were poisoned Friday when they took prescription antibiotic capsules laced with cyanide, authorities said. Both were hospitalized in good condition today.

Fear not glad tidings

Allow for inflation and the Dow is nowhere near record high; it would have to penetrate 3,067 to be "record high" — and it's barely one-third of the way up there.

We of the media don't help the situation when we persist in headlining unemployment statistics, virtually ignoring the employment statistics; a near record 99.1 million American workers working.

In my home-base city of Chicago there is a great public tolerance for weather extremes. We will lean into a blizzard grim but grinning.

Without flinching, they faced and overcame frontier hardship.

The steepest of the uphill is behind us; we need only to shift willing. The good seed sown by a dozen generations is bursting into bloom. Let's enjoy the harvest!

On that recent day when we learned wholesale prices had declined a full percentage point, when we should have celebrated this significant sign of returning strength for our dollar — one network telecaster saw it differently.

"That," he said solemnly, "shows you how deep the recession is."

You know people like that: unable to accept glad tidings without anxiety. Such people hedge against disappointment, rather than enjoy hope-in-hand.

It's akin to acrophobia, the unreasonable fear of high places.

There is some of this tendency in all of us. Only the extremes of this cynicism are treated by psychiatrists.

When Wall Street saw the Dow penetrate a thousand, the market's nervous Nellies immediately began warning us that penetration of "a historic high" would surely trigger a precipitous correction.

When they should have been enjoying at least a rational degree of euphoria over this indicator of improving economic health, they were anxious instead; fearful.

They were looking down when they should have been looking up.

Deaf Smith REC meeting held

A large crowd of approximately 1,200, attended the 45th Annual Meeting of Deaf Smith REC Saturday at the Bull Barn in Hereford. Capital Credit refunds of $200,000 were returned to members who purchased electricity during 1970. This refund should turnover and have more than a million dollars effect on buying power in the area economy.

Bill Marquis, attorney for the cooperative, directed the business meeting and reports were given by James Hull, manager, A.W. Anthony, Jr., president, and Jerry Roberts, secretary. An election of two directors was held.

Jerry Roberts, a farmer in the Simms Community and director for six years was reelected from Deaf Smith County for a three-year term. A.W. Anthony, Jr., president of the Board of Directors was reelected to represent Parmer County for another three-year term.

There were drawings for door prizes throughout the meeting which started at 5:00 p.m. with a free fish and chicken dinner, served by Fins and Hens of Lubbock. The Hereford Campfire Lodge provided ten girls to serve as beverage hostesses before the business meeting.

Entertainment was provided by the Tri-State Bluegrass Express, a group from Amarillo that has played together for 10 years and appeared on TV and radio.

The TMA applauds the efforts of other organizations, private persons, the media, and public officials who are attempting to remove the intoxicated driver from our roads.

DWI is everyone's problem. It will take the continued efforts of a variety of persons and groups to get those driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs off the roads of Texas.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor: As we all know from recent attention given to the driving while intoxicated issue — irresponsible consumption of alcohol is a serious public health problem. Its effects also create an enormous expense to the public.

Statistically drinking and driving don't mix. Of all the traffic deaths in Texas each year, more than half are related to alcohol and five percent are associated with other drug use. As physicians we see the aftermath of these tragic "accidents." We see victims of the drunk driver in the emergency room and in our offices for treatment or rehabilitation. All too often we see them fighting for their lives in the operating room — and sometimes they don't make it.

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) has been actively involved in the effort to stiffen penalties for intoxicated drivers. The 21,500-member organization has made several recommendations to the legislature. They include making prior DWI convictions legally suit in a comparable setting, the district "would be totally exonerated," the motion filed before U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth read.

The brief also said the costs of continued busing in El Paso, a mostly blue-collar community that relies on the garment industry and military for the majority of its employment, outweighed any benefits to forced busing.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The El Paso school system's board of trustees has filed a federal court motion to end a 1976 desegregation plan that forced the daily busing of nearly 1,000 students.

The school board's trustees ordered their attorneys to try to end a federal discrimination suit that is forcing 15 El Paso schools to swap Hispanic students for non-Hispanic students to even out racial imbalances in this West Texas city of 450,000.

Attorneys Sam Sparks and Anthony Safi said Wednesday that the district already has complied with 11 court orders outlined by U.S. District Judge William Sessions as a result of a 1970 lawsuit filed by 14 parents against the city school district.

David Alvarado and 13 other parents charged more than 12 years ago that independent schools within El Paso city limits, which now is 62 percent Hispanic, established and continued discriminatory practices toward Mexican-American students and their educators.

"I don't have any hard feelings against those proposals," said Lewis. "Those are the things that will probably be more palatable than some of the other things he's talking about."

White argued, "If taxes are the only alternative, they should be placed on luxuries which people choose to consume and not on necessities which people need to survive." Lawmakers applauded.

Another funding alternative offered by the governor would allow the state to issue bonds to pay for highway and other construction. He said $700 million that would be needed for highways could be spent elsewhere if three-fourths of a cent of the gasoline tax is used to pay off the bonds.

Girl killed in bus wreck refused offer for ride

HOUSTON (AP) — A fifth-grader who was killed when her bus collided with an 18-wheel truck declined her mother's offer of a ride to school because she wanted to show friends her contest poster, her sister says. Chellys Moore, 12, had worked on the poster for a week, hoping to win a gift certificate for some books, ac-ording to her sister, Ursula. The girl was one of 10 gifted students riding the bus Wednesday morning to T.H. Rogers School when the accident occurred. Chellys was killed and four other students were injured.

"They said she didn't feel any pain," said Ursula, 16. "Our grandmother heard about the accident on a scanner and called, and we just knew it was her bus."

The truck swerved from its southbound lane of the wet road to avoid hitting a stopped car and instead smashed into an oncoming car and the 35-seat bus, police said. The driver of the car was not injured, officers said.

"It (the truck) sheared off the right passenger side of the bus from the front to about six seats back," Officer Joe Reynolds said. "There were children sitting in the seats. Fortunately they weren't thrown out, but were thrown out of the seats."

"There were kids screaming and kids bleeding," said Kathy Peters, 24, who witnessed the accident. "One was screaming for his

Auxiliary buys four new lounge chairs

Members of the Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary met Monday in the hospital boardroom with Theda Seiver, vice-president, presiding.

During the business meeting, Lupe Cerda, treasurer, advised members that four additional lounge chairs have been purchased for patients' rooms.

Also it was announced that the auxiliary's gift shop will have a sale on many of the articles in order to allow room for new stock.

Before the close of the session, Mrs. Seiver reminded the group that the Better Breath-Better Living Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. March 24 in the Heritage Room of

Koenig to attend George C. Marshall Conference

Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Matthew Koenig, a senior member of the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Texas Tech University, has been chosen to attend the sixth annual George C. Marshall Awards Conference at Lexington, Va., April 12-15.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the U.S. Army and the George C. Marshall Foundation. It brings together the future leaders of the Army and top Army officers of the present and past.

Cadet Koenig will be one of 300 representatives of colleges and universities from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Guam.

Each cadet will receive a certificate commemorating his or her award along with a copy of the official biography of the late soldier-statesman, General of the Army George C. Marshall.

Tentatively scheduled to speak are Secretary of the Army John O. Marsh, Jr.;

General Edward C. Meyer, Chief of Staff, U.S. Army; General Donn A. Starry, Commander, Readiness Command; Lieutenant General William R. Richardson, Commander designate, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command; Brigadier General (P) John P. Prillaman, DCSROTC, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command; and Major General Richard D. Lawrence, Commandant, The Army War College.

Julius D. Battle, chairman of the John Hopkins Foreign Policy Institute and former Ambassador, will moderate a panel discussion on "The Military and the Media-National Will and Public Support."

Cadet Koenig has been active in the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the Texas Tech Counterguerrilla Unit, ROTC Association and Scabbard and Blade. His hometown is Hereford, and as Cadet Battalion Commander, he is carrying on a family tradition. Two of his brothers before him have held that position.

Floyd hopes to atone for collapse last week

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd has some long road to make up.

"It was a very humbling experience. It was deeply frustrating, even embarrassing. It was not a lot of fun," Floyd said of last week's Honda-Inverrary Classic, where he tied for sixth and won $12,950.

Floyd knows full well he should have won it. "I let one get away, just gave it away," he said before teeing off today in the first round of the $350,000 Bay Hill Classic.

From a 3-shot lead after 36 holes last week, Floyd thrashed his way to a fat 78, one of his worst rounds in three seasons. He rebounded in the final round, but it was too late.

"I hit a lot of bad shots. I didn't make the putts. I lost my confidence. I lost my composure," he said.

"I don't show a lot of emotion on the golf course. Some people think I don't have emotions. But I do. I'm human. I have emotions. And that hurt. You just have to be man enough to put it behind you and go on to the next one."

"That's what I have to do here — put it behind me. It's over. Now I have to try to play well in this one. There's no reason I shouldn't. I've played well for three years now," added Floyd, who has won three tournaments in each of the last two seasons and is the current PGA titleholder.

"I'm still playing well. I'm playing well enough to win. It's just a matter of getting it done," Floyd said. Despite his one-round lapse last week, he has finished seventh or better in four of his last five starts, a record of consistency that made him one of the prime candidates for the $63,000 first prize here.

Other major standouts testing the 7,089-yard, par-71 Bay Hill Club course, in addition to host Arnold Palmer, are Jack Nicklaus, a second-place finisher last week, U.S. and British Open champion

Tom Watson, Masters titleholder Craig Stadler and Tom Kite.

Kite, the defending champion here, won the Crosby earlier this season and is on one of the consistent streaks that has marked his play over the past couple of seasons. In his last four starts he hasn't finished lower than sixth and has collected $117,000.

Other major players include 1983 tournament winners Isao Aoki, Gil Morgan, Gary Hallberg, Bob Gilder, Keith Fergus and Gary Koch, and Australian Greg Norman, the 1982 leader of the British Order of Merit and winner of the Australian Masters and Hong Kong Open in his last two starts.

New TV baseball contract could alter viewing habits

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

The new contract between NBC and major league baseball, effective next season, could change America's sports viewing habits. Which is to say a lot fewer people may spend Saturday afternoons watching baseball on television.

The reason is that word "exclusivity" in the new contract. It prohibits any other major league baseball games to be telecast while NBC's Game of the Week is in progress. Starting in 1984, fans who have always been able to watch their home team on a local station will have to take what they're given by NBC — or spend the day playing tennis, fishing, golfing, whatever.

Given no alternative but, say Seattle and Texas, they may choose whatever. "I would say that people here are Red Sox fans first and baseball fans second," says Doug Wheeler, production sports director of WSBK-TV in Boston, which will televise 98 Red Sox games this season, 24 on Saturday afternoons. "The real die-hard baseball nuts will probably watch the game of the week, but I don't think the run-of-the-mill Red Sox fan will."

What Wheeler is saying is that baseball, playing 162 games a season, is a sport of intense local interest in which fans consider out-of-town games meaningless for most of the year unless there's a record on the line or a Fernando Valenzuela on the screen. Not until September, the denouement of the pennant races, into the playoffs and World Series, do they widen their perspective.

NBC wanted the exclusivity, which ABC has for Monday night games, because the Game of the Week was losing the ratings to local teams in major markets with heavy local television. This year, the Red Sox will have those 24 Saturday afternoon telecasts, the Chicago Cubs will have 20, Detroit 15; Atlanta will carry 10, the New York Mets 9. The local outlets for the Braves, Cubs and Mets send their games nationwide via cable.

The new rules leave teams with two options — more Saturday night games or Saturday cable, excluded from the ban. But the NBC contract includes the option to do Saturday nights also, along with some prime time. And although they don't specify how, NBC sources say they will be guaranteed the right to get the games they want, presumably by switching games from night to day.

The reason baseball acceded to exclusivity is obvious — money, $500 million over five years, $6 million per season per team. Moreover, NBC made it sweeter by excluding cable from the ban, providing the owners with another source of income. "We're saying to them, 'You can make up for what you lose from local TV by selling your games to cable,' says an NBC executive.

Richard surgery set

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J. R. Richard, battling to overcome medical problems and return to the major leagues, faced surgery today for the removal and replacement of a clogged artificial artery in his left leg.

A team spokesman said surgery was scheduled to take place at Hermann Hospital here.

Moreover, the regular-season contract is only an hors d'oeuvre for the network. The entree — the real reason NBC bid preemptively for the whole package — is the World Series, providing guaranteed ratings and a great lead-in to entertainment programming in prime time.

Seeking 3rd win in row

Herd meets Bulldogs

Hereford will try to make it three in a row today when it meets winless Berger at 4 p.m. in an opening round of the game of the Deaf Smith County Baseball Tournament.

The three-day, eight-team tourney got underway earlier today. Pampa played Plainview at 9 a.m.; Caprock and pre-tourney favorite Canyon met at 11:15 and Dumas took on Levelland at 1:30 p.m.

Canyon, with seven returning starters off last year's team, which lost in the finals to Hereford, ran off four wins in a row, coming into the tournament.

Hereford, in fact, lost its season opener to the Eagles (10-1), before sweeping a doubleheader Saturday at Levelland.

The winners of the Plainview-Pampa and Caprock-Canyon games will meet in a semifinals battle tomorrow at 11:15 a.m. The other semifinal game, pitting the winners of the Dumas-Levelland and Hereford-Berger games, will begin at 4 p.m.

First round losers will play at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Four games are on tap Saturday. The 7th place game is set to begin at 9 a.m. That will be followed by the consolation title game at 11:15 a.m. The third place contest is set to get underway at 1:30 p.m., and will be followed by the championship clash at 4 p.m.

Hereford track meet

Coronado is favored

Based on its strong showing last weekend in the Lubbock Invitational, Coronado is a solid favorite to grab top honors in the varsity division of the 1983 Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Boys' Track Meet, which will get underway tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

Teams entered in this year's meet include Coronado, Hereford, Tascosa, Dunbar, Pampa, Dumas and Clovis.

The junior varsity division is comprised of Hereford, Tascosa, Stanton, Coronado, Pampa, Dumas, Clovis, LaPlata and Dunbar.

Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the stadium, while finals will begin at 5:30. In each running event, the JV will precede the varsity. The best seven times will advance to the finals.

Coronado, a strong bet to take top honors in this year's District 3-5A meet, easily won last weekend's Lubbock Invitational, scoring 151 points, to 110 for runner-up Monterey.

Tascosa, which features an outstanding performer in 400 meter runner John Patterson, placed third in Lubbock, while Hereford was fourth.

Hereford's top individuals include Armando Rodriguez (who set a meet record in the 1,600 meters), Alfred Ball and Ronnie Terry (1-2 in the 300 Intermediate Hurdles) and Erasmo Gonzales (winner of the discus with a toss of 144-10).

Herd coach Danny Haney also looks to get points from Glen Phibbs (sprints), Fernando Carrasco (the 1,600) and Craig Jones (pole vault).

"I don't think there is any doubt Coronado will be the team to beat. They have a lot of depth, and could easily win our district meet.

"But, it should be a good meet, nevertheless, with some good individual performances. I think our kids will do well."

Here are the times for Friday's events.

RUNNING PRELIMS
100 Hurdles (2:30 p.m.); 100 dash (2:30); 400 dash (3:05); 300 Intermediate Hurdles (3:20); 200 dash (3:30 p.m.); 3,200 run (3:50)

RUNNING FINALS
400 Relay (5:30); 800 dash (5:45); 100 hurdles (6 p.m.); 100 dash (6:15); 400 dash (6:30); 300 Intermediate Hurdles (6:45); 200 dash (7 p.m.); 1,600 run (7:15); 1,600 Relay (7:30).

FIELD EVENTS
2:30 - JV shot, followed immediately by Varsity shot; 2:30 - Varsity discus, followed by JV; 2:30 - Varsity pole vault, followed by JV; 2:30 - JV long jump, followed by varsity; 2:30 - Varsity high jump, followed by JV.

SWC tournament

Raiders eye Ponies

DALLAS (AP) — Without a 45-second clock, some coaches may be tempted to slow down the action in the eighth annual Southwest Conference Post-Season Basketball Classic which features quarterfinal confrontations tonight between Texas Christian and Texas A&M and Southern Methodist and Texas Tech.

However, Tech Coach Gerald Myers doesn't believe a coach will do something drastic like a stall. "You won't see any teams holding the ball but the shot selection sure might be better," said Myers.

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton agreed, saying "in the back of your mind that clock is always there. When the clock starts to tick down to the 15 second mark you feel you have to shoot the ball."

"It's just the psychology of the clocking being there. Maybe teams will set up and get better shots." Texas A&M, a regular season third-place finisher and owning a 17-13 overall record, meets TCU in the opening game at Reunion Arena at 7 p.m. The Horned Frogs are 19-9 and finished in a fourth-place tie with SMU.

The two teams split their regular season meetings with the Aggies winning two weeks ago on a 30-foot shot at the buzzer in overtime by freshman Kenny Brown.

The winner plays No. 6 ranked Arkansas Friday night in the semifinals in the second game. At about 9:30 p.m. or 30 minutes after the A&M-Tech contest, Southern Methodist and Texas Tech will tangle. SMU (18-10) and Tech (11-19) split during the regular SWC campaign.

The winner takes on No. 1 rated Houston at 6 p.m. Friday in the other semifinal matchup.

The Classic championship game is set for noon Saturday with NBC to televise the game to most of the nation.

Tickets still remained for each session. Arkansas and Houston enter the tournament with 25-2 records. Arkansas' only two losses were to the Cougars during the SWC regular season.

"We're happy to be No. 1 but all six teams are starting even," said Houston Coach Guy V. Lewis. "Right now we're all 0-0."

Lewis was serious enough to close Cougar practices to the media.

Three shortstops candidates for baseball's hall of fame

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Three of baseball's most respected shortstops of the past — Phil Rizzuto, Marty Marion and Glenn Wright — top a list of candidates for consideration today by the Hall of Fame's Veterans Committee.

The 18-member committee also will take a long look at the careers of Walt Alston, Babe Herman, Charlie Grimm, the late Walter O'Malley and umpires Beans Reardon and Tom Gorman. The committee may pick two new members from three categories — players retired at least 25 years who received 100 votes at least once in a regular baseball writers election; executives, managers and umpires, retired five years, or players from baseball's old Negro leagues.

Last year, former Commissioner Happy Chandler and shortstop Travis Jackson were inducted by the Veterans Committee. This year's regular inductees, voted upon by the Baseball Writers Association of America, are former San Francisco Giants pitcher Juan Marichal and Baltimore Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson. They will be inducted, along with the oldtimers, on July 31 at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Continuing its recent trend toward recognizing some of the great shortstops of the past, Rizzuto, Marion and Wright were prime candidates for special induction.

Rizzuto, a sterling defensive performer, batted .273 in 13 seasons with the New York Yankees and played in nine World Series. Marion was a brilliant defensive shortstop for 13 seasons, 11 of them with the St. Louis Cardinals, batting .263. Wright ended his career in 1935 with the Chicago White Sox but played primarily with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, batting .294 during his career and driving in 126 runs in 1930 with the Dodgers.

Alston, who never had more than a one-year contract, managed the O'Malley-owned Dodgers for 23 seasons, beginning in Brooklyn in 1954 and finishing in Los Angeles in 1976. His teams won seven National League pennants and four World Series.

Herman played 13 seasons in the major leagues, the first six at first base and in the outfield for the Dodgers during 1926-31.

Mays 2nd in Italian track meet

Former Hereford High and Texas Tech standout James Mays placed second in the 800-meter run Wednesday as an International Indoor Track and Field Meet in Milan, Italy. Mays registered a time of 1:49.39 in the race, won by teammate Scott Rider, who ran a 1:49.8. The U.S., in fact, took the top four places in the event.

The former HHS star set a Tech record in the 800 in March of 1979 with a time of 1:49.6. He improved that timing to 1:47.33 as a Tech graduate in 1981 during the Texas Tech Invitational.

Manning is NFL's highest-paid player

DALLAS (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Archie Manning received the highest base salary — $600,000 — of any player in the National Football League last season, according to a published report.

The next two top base salaries were paid to Cleveland Browns' linebacker Tom Cousineau, who received $500,000 and New Orleans Saints' quarterback Ken Stabler, who earned $450,000 in base salary. The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story today.

The figures, which were compiled by the NFL Players Association, do not include signing bonuses or performance bonuses and were not adjusted for the fact that the players were paid only for a nine-game season because of the strike last fall, according to the newspaper.

The players receiving the lowest base salaries were Atlanta Falcons' defensive back Mike Perko and Cincinnati Bengals' linebacker Jeff Roberts, who were both paid the league minimum of $22,000. The News reported.

Following the Broncos were the Los Angeles Rams, with an average base salary of $110,470; the Dallas Cowboys with an average of $107,990; the Los Angeles Raiders at $104,470; and the Buffalo Bills with $103,440, according to the News.

The Baltimore Colts, which had the worst record in the league last year at 0-8-1, ranked last with an average of $69,465, according to the report.

The figures showed quarterbacks had the highest average base salary at $161,380. The News reported.

The other average base salaries by position were: running backs, $95,633; defensive linemen, $89,716; offensive linemen, $89,704; receivers, $88,868; tight ends, $85,595; linebackers, $84,362; defensive backs, $78,552; kickers, $70,667, and punters, $65,376, according to the newspaper.

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — There's no place like home, the Lamar University basketball team probably would agree.

The Cardinals have won 66 straight games in Beaumont over the past five years for the nation's longest major college home winning streak, and they'll try to extend it in the Southland Conference post-season tournament that begins tonight.

Everyone likes a pat on the back now and then and when one works hard for their community, recognition is very much appreciated.

Anna Conklin of 335 Ave. K will receive the Degree of Chivary during the Grand Lodge and Rebekah Assembly to be held March 20 in Abilene.

This honor, the highest award a Rebekah member can obtain, is bestowed on a member who has worked diligently for both her community and her lodge.

As many as 20 Texas members have received the coveted award at a given time but only one name from Hereford is selected for the honor.

Mrs. Conklin explains the procedure followed when a Rebekah is awarded the Degree of Chivary. "The local lodge has to have 'X' amount of letters sent from friends suggesting award recipients. These are then sent to the Cantons, a military branch of the Odd Fellows. The next step is for the state officers of Canton to vote on all the names that have been submitted."

"After the ballots have been cast, the local lodge is contacted as to whom the award will be given to and the date is set to receive it."

Mrs. Conklin first became a Rebekah member in 1945 but was inactive for approximately 10 years when her time was spent caring for her parents.

Although her lodge activities fill a great deal of her time, the homemaker has many other hobbies. She crochets, does ceramic work and collects salt 'n' pepper shakers.

Mrs. Conklin began making ceramic articles strictly as a hobby several years ago. "I have a workshop in the back yard and a kiln. My husband, Ben, and I work out in the shop every Saturday and Sunday. He pours and cleans the molds and I fire and paint the ceramic pieces," Mrs. Conklin states.

"I give ceramic pieces as gifts to family members and friends," she adds. "You appreciate something so much more if it is handmade and it also helps to save money."

Mrs. Conklin also has approximately 125 pairs of salt 'n' pepper shakers that she has acquired over the last 30 years.

"This hobby began when my oldest son was eight years old," she explains. "He gave me salt 'n' pepper shakers shaped as little brown beer bottles. Most of the ones I have obtained were given to me as gifts."

"My granddaughter sent me handcarved salt 'n' pepper shakers designed like whales from Hawaii for Christmas."

Although Mr. and Mrs. Conklin enjoy several hobbies together, Mr. Conklin, employed as a carpenter for George Warner Seed Co., also likes woodworking.

He has made a solid wood cabinet for their microwave oven and several uniquely carved shelves for their home.

The couple has five children, 17 grandchildren, seven step-grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

"Because I had five children, I cooked and baked a lot," recalls Mrs. Conklin. "I still cook a great deal, I just haven't gotten used to cooking for only two people."

Recipes submitted by Mrs. Conklin include carrot cake, frito pie, chicken casserole and meat balls and sauerkraut.

CARROT CAKE

2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. cinnamon
4 eggs

1 cup cooking oil
4 cups grated raw carrots
1/2 cup pecans

Sift flour, sugar, soda, salt and cinnamon. In mixing bowl, beat eggs until frothy and slowly beat in oil.

Gradually add flour, beat until smooth then mix in carrots and nuts. Pour into three greased and floured 8 inch cake pans. Bake 25 or 30 minutes in 350 degree oven.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING:

In small mixing bowl, blend four tablespoons of soft butter, and two 3 oz. packages of cream cheese.

Gradually add 4 one-third cups sifted powdered sugar. Beat until smooth and creamy. Stir in 1 tsp. vanilla.

FRITO PIE

1 medium size package of fritos
1 large can chili
2 large onions
1/2 lbs. cheddar cheese

Spread fritos over bottom of 10x13 inch pan. Chop onions fine and sprinkle over fritos. Grate cheese and sprinkle on top. Heat chili and pour over all ingredients. Heat in hot oven for 15 minutes.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 (5 lb.) chicken
4 tsp. flour
1 tsp. salt
2 cups chicken broth
1 (no. 2) can peas
1 small can mushroom soup
1/2 lb. shelled macaroni, cooked
4 tsp. melted butter
1 small can pimentos
1 lb. grated cheese

Stew chicken: remove bones, cut meat into small pieces. Melt butter, stir in flour and broth. Cook until thick. Combine all ingredients except cheese. Place in a buttered three quart size casserole dish.

Sprinkle cheese over top and bake one hour in 350 degree oven.

MEAT BALLS AND SAUERKRAUT

2 lbs. hamburger meat
2 eggs
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
pinch of salt

Make into small balls. Brown in large dutch oven. Add 1 pkg. mushroom gravy mix and one pkg. onion mix. Mix as directed on package. Put one lb. can sauerkraut over meat balls. Pour mushroom and onion gravy over sauerkraut and simmer until meat is done.

Women discuss things to see, do in the Panhandle

Members of Pioneer Study Club met at the Thompson House Tuesday for lunch, with Mmes. Jim Clark and E.E. Bishop as hostesses.

The program, "People, Places and Things to see in the Texas Panhandle," was given by Mrs. Delmar Sigle; and in the Hereford vicinity by Mrs. Paul Rudd.

Mrs. Sigle spoke on the people of the Panhandle, from pre-history to present day times. She discussed places and things to see including ranch land with cattle and wildlife, farmers' fields, the Canadian River with its breaks, autumn foliage, Lake Meredith, the Aleabates Flint Quarry.

Also, Boys Ranch; Amarillo with its parks, dinner theatres, the Civic Center, Tri-State Fair, livestock shows, and rodeos; the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon; and Palo Duro Canyon with its color, beauty, secrets of nature and history, where the musical drama, "Texas" is presented.

Mrs. Rudd reported on the city of Hereford and the surrounding area. Points of interest included the county courthouse, museum, Cowgirl Hall of Fame, homes with well-kept lawns, feedyards, Indian ruins in the west part of the county, and the "Town Without a Toothache" marker.

Mrs. Clark conducted the business session in the absence of Mrs. A. Petersen.

Barnett hosts class meeting

Mrs. Buck Barnett was hostess to members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class from Avenue Baptist Church recently in the Reddy Room.

Mrs. Ray Bain opened the meeting with prayer and the devotional, "Why Pray" taken from Neh. 1:4-11, was

The club voted to sell Holland bulbs again this year. Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill Sr. made an announcement concerning the Top of Texas District Convention to be held in Dalhart March 25-26.

Plans were made for the April 12 meeting with Mrs. G.W. Duncan.

Others attending were Mmes. Don Houle and Benny Manley.

Ann Landers

View from the bridge

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you lived in San Francisco you wouldn't be so broad-minded about gays. (The ratio out here is about one queen to six straights). I am referring to the man who said he would deck a gay if he made a pass at him. Your reply made it sound like any dud who would flatten a gay was unsure of his own masculinity or some dumb thing.

You should have told Mr. Straight to stay away from gay neighborhoods and gay bars. It would also help if he didn't have a short haircut and wear the clone outfit that homosexuals parade around in as an identifying label to other gays. It's the plaid shirt, tight jeans, army boots and a leather bomber jacket. I am not gay, but my best friend is. He is a male, I'm a female. I enjoy walking into a gay bar with this attractive kid because he is the one who gets the big play. Nobody looks at me. It's plenty weird. If you think I'm putting you on, Ann, check this out in Chicago and you'll find that I am - Right On In Homo Heaven

The very existence of this column depends on your subscribers' confidence that their privacy will not be invaded and their letters to me will be forwarded, unopened. The manner in which you handled the letter opened by mistake was most gratifying. - Ann Landers

DEAR H.H.: I checked with someone who knows that scene well. The word I get is that you are correct. Thanks for the view from the bridge. - Golden Gate, of course

DEAR READERS: This is an open letter to the executive editor of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

DEAR ROBERT E. RHODES: I want to thank you for the respect shown to the subscriber who sent her letter to your newspaper to be forwarded to me in Chicago.

The following message was typed on the envelope: "Dear Ann Landers: This envelope was opened by mistake. It was addressed to 'Ann'. We have several here by that name (Ann Adams for patterns, etc.) Please be assured this letter was kept confidential and put back into the envelope immediately." It is heartening to know, sir, that you respect the writer's need for confidence.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I small-minded to feel insulted when my college-educated nieces write to me on torn-out loose-leaf notebook paper or anything else that seems to be handy? Please don't suggest that I buy them nice stationery. I have done so, but they revert to their old habits as soon as the good stuff runs out. - Peeved in Florida

DEAR I'EVEED: Yes, I do think you are being small minded. How nice that your nieces write at all. Some children don't, even write to their mothers.

I receive letters scribbled on brown bags, backs of commercial envelopes, toilet paper, hand towels, wallpaper samples - just name it and I get it. But so long as I'm writing is legible, I don't mind ... and neither should you. It's the message that counts.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I've never had anything lifted, tucked, snipped, stapled, or melted down in my life, but a year ago I succumbed to vanity. I had the gaping space between my two front teeth filled in.

It wasn't like I was impatient. I gave it 50 years to fill in by itself and when it didn't, I figured it was time to take things into my own hands.

Face it. This is a capped-teeth world we live in. Maybe there is some place on this earth where a cavern in your mouth is considered an honor or a symbol of royal blood, but not in this country. Here, a smile that looks like a row of piano keys is what gets put in the first row of the class picture and dates during the week.

With some sadness, I said goodbye to a fraternity of individuals who have managed to survive in a straight-teeth world. Goodbye, Pete Rose. So long, Lauren Hutton, Ciao, David Letterman; I was determined to become a member of the orthodontic majority.

You may be wondering just how bad a space between your front teeth can be. I'll tell you how bad. I could eat five rows of corn through a picket fence without opening the gate.

I could spit over two sedans and a station wagon through my front teeth and never dribble. I could put a candle in my mouth and rent myself out for Halloween. Why, I was the only person in North America who could floss with a garden hose.

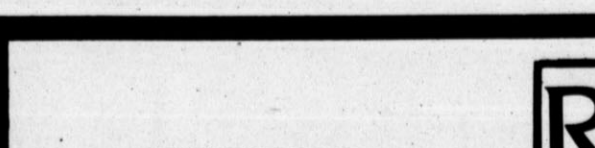

There was no doubt in my mind that with straight teeth, a new me would emerge.

I have been waiting for an entire year to have someone notice my teeth. My husband said, "If that's what you wanted, it looks fine." My kids said, "I can't remember what they were before." Some friends who have known me for years have said, "Did you lose weight?" "You changed your hair; didn't you?" "Did you change make-up?"

There are three morals to this story. The first is that we are harder on ourselves than anyone in the world. We dissect our flaws both physically and emotionally, put them under a microscope and never take our eyes off them. We would never dream of judging others with the severity and cruelty with which we judge ourselves.

The second moral is that our friends will live with our imperfections and indeed become blind to them, looking only for the part of us that enriches their lives in some way.

The third moral. A smile doesn't have to be an unbroken line to be ... a smile.

Camels were used as pack animals in Nevada and Arizona as late as 1870.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, March 10, the 69th day of 1983. There are 296 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On March 10, 1785, Thomas Jefferson was named U.S. minister to France, succeeding Benjamin Franklin.

On this date: In 1848, the U.S. Senate ratified a treaty ending the Mexican War.

In 1864, Ulysses Grant was named commander-in-chief of the Union forces during the Civil War.

In 1876, the first clear telephone call was made when Alexander Graham Bell summoned his assistant from another room in Bell's Boston house.

And, in 1945, an American B-29 bomber became the first firebomb raid on Japan during World War II.

Ten years ago: Tornadoes and heavy rain tore through Texas, killing five people and destroying 100 or damaging hundreds of homes in eight cities.

Five years ago: Unemployment dropped to 6.1 percent, the lowest figure since October 1974.

One year ago: The Reagan Administration imposed an embargo on imported oil from Libya.

Today's birthday: Britain's Prince Edward is 19.

Thought for Today: "Revenge is always the weak pleasure of a little and narrow mind." - Juvenal, Roman lawyer-satirist (c. 60-140 A.D.)

Ticket
Discouraged because fewer than half of parking offenders bothered to pay their tickets, Japanese police began to use a ticket on a metal loop that locks on car doors or side mirrors. Since the system was instituted in Japan's six largest cities, most motorists tagged have come to police stations to pay their fines and have the tickets removed.

Dawn Music Club welcomes member

Mrs. Orval Galley was welcomed as a new member of Dawn Music Club when the group met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Carl Wimberly.

Mrs. Wimberly advised the April 5 meeting will be a dinner party at the Community Center to honor members' husbands and the May 3 meeting will be held at K-Bob's Steak House.

A spring recital is scheduled at 3 p.m. March 20 at Dawn Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend.

Robert Richardson conducted the drawing for the music club quilt held recently at the Community Center. Ted Wimberly of Houston was the winner.

Club members expressed appreciation for all the donations which will be used to benefit the Dawn Community Association.

The quilt was embroidered by Mrs. O. Wertenberger and was quilted by women at Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Alfred Smith gave a report on the noted Texas artist, D. Drow of Canyon. She is well known for her paintings of the Texas bluebonnets.

John Lomax and children, Alan, Bess, John Jr. and Shirley were given credit for preservation of the "poor peoples' music" in an article by Charlotte Moser, Smithsonian News Service, as reported by Mrs. H.V. McCabe.

Before his death in 1947, Lomax had recorded some 10,000 folk songs from remote corners of America. He started a family profession which for three generations, has helped enlighten the folk traditions of this country. The songs they found are now musical legends.

Lomax became honorary curator of the Archives of American Folk Songs at the Library of Congress.

Mrs. R.E. Curtsinger presented a piano solo, "Listen to the Mockingbird," by Hawthorne.

In honor of Texas month, Mrs. H.H. Miller read several selections of poets, laureate Grace Nall Crowell (1936-39); Lexie Dean Robertson (1939-41) and Jenny Lind Porter (1964-65).

Refreshments of chocolate cake and lime sherbert were served to six members present by Mrs. Wimberly and Mrs. Curtsinger.

The Messiah is just one of George Frederick Handel's 18 English oratorios, the rest of which are seldom performed.

Committee meets in boardroom

Members of the membership drive committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division met Tuesday at noon at the C of C boardroom.

Plans were discussed for the membership drive scheduled March 20-25. The committee set a goal to obtain 50 new members.

During the drive contest there will be a first prize of $75, second prize, $50, and third prize, $25. A total of 15 memberships must be sold before prizes will be awarded.

During the drive week there will be a booth set up at Sugarland Mall March 25-26 for any interested persons to join.

Committee members include Judy Williams, chairman, Ruth Newsom, Billie Hopson, Irene McKinster, Helen Higgings, Nancy Russel, Donna West, Jan Weishaar, Jenna Simons and Kathryn Musser.
