Hereford firemen and police officers had some difficulty restraining a man and his daughter during an otherwise routing fire call Monday morning. Sargeant Detective Sammy Sanchez was first hit by Manuel Medeles and then attacked by Lisa Lopez while trying to get the man to cooperate with city fire ordinances

Fire call starts melee

A routine fire call erupted in violence yesterday morning and ended with the felonious arrest of two individuals for aggravated assault on a police officer.

A fire of undetermined source was reported at 8:52 am with firemen promptly responding to the call on Fuller street. Upon arrival firemen discovered Manuel Medeles burning trash, in violation of city ordinance.

The firemen explained to the 77 year-old man that the fire was unlawful and requested he extinguish the blaze, according to Fire Marshall Jay Spain. The man refused to cooperate and unsure that he understood the request or the consequences of not complying the firemen awaited the arrival of an interpreter.

Sargeant Detective Sammy Sanchez of the Hereford Police Department responded to the call and on arrival explained the situation in Spanish. Sanchez stated in an interview this morning, "I explained in Spanish that he needed to put the fire out, he refused and accused me of being prejudiced."

Sanchez remembers that while Medeles was hurling accusations of prejudice at him he turned and began to explain the situation to family members standing nearby. "I asked them to influence him to put out the fire and encourage him to cooperate so he wouldn't be arrested," says Sanchez.

It was at this time that eyewitnesses saw Medeles deliver a blow to Sanchez in the right side of the abdomen. Sanchez states, "After he hit me I turned and tried to restrain him then his daughter came at me from behind."

Eyewitnesses say that amid hurling obscenities from Medeles and his daughter, Lisa Lopez, the firemen and Sanchez struggled to restrain the irate pair and to protect themselves from swinging arms and kicks.

The pair were arrested and charges have been filed. In Municipal Court the pair pled guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and in the case of Medeles a charge of violation of city ordinance by burning trash. Medeles was fined $180 and 19 year-old Lopez was fined $100 and extinguish a blaze in a trash can. In a matter of moments Sanchez and Fire Marshall Jay Spain assisted by volunteer firemen subdued the pair who claimed prejudice was been enacted in requiring they adhere to a city ordinance which bans the burning of trash in city limits. Congress going public with probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of private interrogations and secret negotiations, Congress is going public with its investigation of the Iran-Contra affair, which has damaged President Reagan's political standing.

"A lot of testimony will be familiar to ... the American public" when the hearings begin a summer-long run today in the Senate Caucus Room, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., told reporters as the House committee investigating the Iran-Contra matter held a final advance meeting Monday.

"And a lot of the testimony will be new," he added.

Not since the Watergate hearings of 14 years ago that eventually brought down the presidency of Richard M. Nixon has a congressional investigation aroused such anticipation.

The ABC, NBC and CBS television networks pledged to broadcast the opening of the hearings by the House and Senate select committees into the secret sale of U.S. weapons to Iran and the diversion of payments to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Cable News Network said it would offer a live broadcast of all the sessions, which are being held in the same location as the Watergate hearings and are expected to run four days a week until late July.

For their leadoff witness, the committees turned to retired Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord, a man said to be deeply involved in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Secord refused to appear before earlier investigative groups, citing his constitutional right to avoid self-incrimination. But unlike other key witnesses, he will answer Congress' questions without limited immunity from prosecution.

Committee leaders have said they expect to use the hearings to lay out in great detail the secret supply network that former National Security Counsel aide Oliver L. North helped set up for the Contras.

They also expect to reveal the deepening sense of frustration that led the Reagan administration to sell arms to Iran in exchange for American hostages being held in Lebanon.

Thus far, investigators say they have no evidence Reagan knew of the diversion of arms sale moneys to the Contras fighting the leftist Sandinista government in Managua.

Nor have they uncovered evidence the president knew his aides were raising funds to arm the Contras at a time when government military assistance to the rebels was banned.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater denied anew on Monday that the president knew of "any illegal fund raising."

The president has said he knew funds were being raised to assist the Contras, and has acknowledged meeting in the White House with donors whom he said had supported television commercials to help the rebel cause.

Reagan is not expected to testify at the hearing, although Hamilton seemed to not rule out that possibility Monday.

"We haven't made any judgment on that," he said.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, on Monday repeated his view that Reagan knew funds were being raised privately

Domestic violence—second of series

Many spouse abuse cases unreported due to fear

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

It is estimated that 80 percent of Texas spouse abuse cases go unreported because of fear of reprisal.

Sue Lynn Whitfill is a registered nurse and is the emergency room supervisor at Deaf Smith General Hospital. She works the night shift which coincides with the time of day most domestic violence assaults occur.

"On a recent weekend we treated a young lady whose husband had hit her with a bar," Whitfill recalls, "She had numerous scars from previous incidences of violence. When her family brought her in she had gashes on her face, her clothes were bloody and she had a cut by her eye and bruised cheeks."

While treating the woman for the various injuries Whitfill noted she was concerned that her husband not find out that she had sought medical attention.

Whitfill comments, "She said he would kill her if he found out and I thought she was probably right."

Repeated beatings such as this woman endured are the norm for battered wives. Whitfill notes that the women are afraid of being killed or of having no means of providing for their family. "They feel like they have no other options," she comments.

On the same weekend Whitfill noted another case of domestic violence in Hereford. "One lady came in because her husband hit her on the head with a bottle," she says. The bloody injury required x-rays and stitches and throughout the process the husband, who injured his wife and then brought her in, appeared unrepentant according to Whitfill.

"He didn't act like he was sorry and she didn't act like it was

Australian 'sister city' to get Hereford gift

Approximately 2138 residents of Bordertown, Australia will receive a gift from Hereford this week. The present is a bronze statue commemorating the sesquicentennial celebrations shared by the sister cities last year.

Concept for the design is attributed to Mike Carr, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, and Garth Thomas who served on the chamber's sesquicentennial executive committee.

Bearing the equation, "Bordertown plus Hereford equal Friendship," the bronze depicts a cowboy and an Australian sheep rancher shaking hands and is inscribed, "From the people of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas," on one side and on the other, "Sesquicentennial

Twin City Celebration."

Bob Hunicutt of Channing, Texas crafted the statue and included regional symbols of a bronc rider and horse, a kangaroo and a longhorn.

In 1986, Hereford received four visitors from the Australian town, which unlike the name suggests is not on the border.

The bronze was paid for with proceeds from sales during the year long celebration and from a chili supper held in March of last year.

6 dead in crash

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Federal officials today began investigating the wreckage of a Trailways bus and tractor-trailer rig that collided on a rain-slicked East Texas interstate highway, leaving six people dead and 19 injured.

The bus had just left the downtown Beaumont station early Monday afternoon in a rainstorm and was heading for Houston, about 85 miles west along Interstate 10.

A moving van veered across the grass median and collided with it.

"I remember just seeing all the chairs go to the front and I climbed over and started helping everybody ... telling them to calm down and trying to pull people out," said Trancee Chardon, 22, of Houston, a passenger seated in the middle of the bus.

The impact tore off the front half of the bus and split the right side, leaving a trail of debris and mangled bodies along the highway.

Six bodies — three men and three women — were taken to a National Guard armory that served as a temporary morgue.

Symbol of Friendship

A bronze statue depicting friendship will be sent to Hereford's sister city, Bordertown, Australia this week. Mike Carr, left, and Garth Thomas, right, conceived the idea for the bronze which Mayor Wes Fisher and committee member Argen Draper are admiring.

Adult rally set Wednesday

Drug Awareness Week continues with a parent and adult rally at La Plata Gym Wednesday night at 7:30 featuring Fr. Dan Egan and Mrs. Louise Bias.

Known as the "Junkie Priest" because of his efforts to rehabilitate drug users and prevent further addiction, Fr. Egan arrived in Hereford last week to visit his brother, Fr. Joe Egan of St. Anthony's Catholic Church in addition to his speaking engagements.

Mrs. Bias, mother of the late University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias, is scheduled to arrive in Hereford Wednesday. She has been traveling as a lecturer throughout the U.S. since her son's highly-publicized lethal cocaine overdose and encourages America's youth to wage war on drugs.

A prayer service held Sunday afternoon in First Christian Church began the weeklong drug awareness program. Activities will continue Thursday as Bias and Egan visit with local students during school hours.

Cancer walk rescheduled

The American Cancer Crusade Residential Walk, which was planned for Sunday, has been re-scheduled for this week. Volunteers will be walking each evening, according to Norma Coffey, treasurer with the Deaf Smith County Unit of ACS.

This year's local goal is to raise $5,000. The money will be used to support programs in this county for prevention, early detection and treatments of cancer and to provide assistance to cancer patients.

Bodies found near Olton

OLTON, Texas (AP) — The bodies of two men who apparently had been shot were unearthed from a sandy grave south of here Monday by Lamb County sheriff's deputies after a search-party horse stopped at the spot and refused to budge, authorities said.

The dead were identified as Robert Almanza Jr., 29, and Jaime Arredondo, 22, both of Olton, according to Lamb County Sheriff E.D. McNeese. Autopsies were ordered by Justice of the Peace James H. Cox of Littlefield.

Charged with capital murder in the deaths are Robert Leon Blunk, 23, and Kevin Wade Hudson, 21, both of Muskogee, Okla., said McNeese. They were arraigned before Cox and held in Lamb County Jail late Monday in lieu of $150,000 bond each.

No motive has been given for the slayings. Olton is about 50 miles northwest of Lubbock.

According to McNeese and Lamb County District Attorney Curtis Wilkinson, authorities had been searching for the victims since Sunday afternoon, after a Crime Line informant reported that two Hispanic men had been killed.

A sheriff's deputy on horseback discovered the grave Monday afternoon in a sandy, isolated area about seven miles south of Olton when his horse, oddly, stopped at the site and refused to move, said Wilkinson.

"Really, the horse discovered the grave," he said.

INS eyes amnesty influx

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Today is the day millions of illegal aliens were waiting for as legalization centers across the country begin taking their applications for permanent residence.

And despite criticism from elected officials and groups working with aliens, the Immigration and Naturalization Service said it was ready. "The finishing touches were put on the legalization centers over the weekend," said Mario Ortiz, INS spokesman in Dallas.

"The biggest decision we had to make last week was what color of ribbon we were going to use for the ribbon-cutting ceremonies," he said.

The INS estimates that more than 3 million illegal aliens will apply for legalization in more than 107 special centers across the country.

Aliens living in the United States before Jan. 1, 1982, will be eligible to apply for residency and will have a year to apply for legal status. Aliens will pay the INS $185 each for processing and a total of $420 per family.

Other organizations, mostly church relief groups, have been designated to help prepare documents and provide other services for about $100. Those agencies, called Qualified Designated Entities, have charged that neither they nor the INS are prepared.

Ortiz said between 750,000 and 1 million aliens are expected to apply for legalization in Texas.

Group backs prison tax plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers pushing for a new tax dedicated to building more prisons say a petition drive that gathered over 77,000 signatures demonstrates how widespread public support is for the plan.

"We have here a group of citizens from East Texas ... who are saying to you that we're willing to pay a dedicated tax for prison construction, operation and maintenance," said Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline.

Hollowell, sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment to create the tax, commented after the petitions were presented by We the People, a Hawkins-based anti-crime group. The group was organized last year, following the slayings of three teen-agers who had been picnicking near Lake Hawkins.

"We were made to see that something was dreadfully wrong with the criminal justice system in the state of Texas," said Janie Wilson, adding that We the People had been working since the killings for tougher laws.

She said she is convinced that Texans would gladly pay the ¼-cent tax increase if they were guaranteed the money would go to prisons.

"All across Texas ... people have said to us — common men and women, working people, people with families, widows, widowers — they have said to us, 'We are willing to pay a tax but we want it dedicated,'" Ms. Wilson said. "We are willing to pay to be safe in our own homes."

Hollowell agreed that public support is strong.

If approved by the House and Senate, the proposed constitutional amendment would be placed on the ballot Aug. 1. If voters approved, the higher tax could begin Oct. 1.

Hollowell said the tax would raise an estimated $1.25 billion during the 1988-89 fiscal years.

Non-certified teacher notice?

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill that would require school districts to tell parents when their children are being taught by teachers not certified in the subject.

"I'll bet you not 10 percent of the parents realize that their child is being taught math by a health teacher or something equally as ridiculous," said Sen. Carl Parker.

His measure was sent to the House on voice vote Monday after an earlier vote reflected the opposition of five senators.

The Senate on Monday also approved and sent to the governor a bill that would require the Board of Pardons and Paroles to notify the sheriff, prosecutor and judge in the county in which a person was convicted of a crime that the person is being released from prison.

Current law only requires notification in the county where the crime was committed.

Senators approved, and sent to the House on voice vote, a bill that would for the first time allow state employees to take unpaid leave at the birth, adoption, or catastrophic illness of a child.

25-cent stamp considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service is poised to start the long process of raising stamp prices, possibly to 25 cents for a first-class mailing.

After backing away from initiating a price hike a month ago, higher rates were back on the agenda at today's meeting of the postal Board of Governors.

Even if the board votes to raise prices, however, Americans won't feel the bite for a year or more, due to the complex procedures required to change the cost of a postage stamp.

When the new rates do take effect, probably sometime next year, the cost of a first-class stamp could jump to as high as a quarter. The charge for mailing a letter has been 22 cents since Feb. 17, 1985.

Although the Postal Service finished last year $394 million in the black, it faces some $2 billion in added costs over the next two years because of a change in the federal retirement system, Deputy Postmaster General Michael S. Coughlin has reported.

In order to increase postage prices, the Postal Service must propose the new rates to the independent Postal Rate Commission, which then holds hearings and either approves or denies the new charges.

While the price of a first-class stamp is the most common reference for the public, postal rates are actually lengthy and complex, covering various charges for newspapers and magazines, advertising bulk mail, parcels and books.

anything new," she notes.

Local people involved in the care, treatment and prosecution of domestic violence cases agree with County Health Officer Dr. Tim Revell, "It cuts across all racial and economic barriers."

Hereford Police Department officers and the District Attorney's office have correlated figures which show the rapidly increasing incidence of domestic violence in the city and agree that the problem is as likely to appear in the more affluent parts of town as it is in the economically inferior neighborhoods.

Whitfills experience concurs adding, "The more socially prominent people make a better effort to disguise the source of injuries. They claim to have fallen or in some other way injured themselves."

Years of experience treating different types of injuries make medical professionals adept at discerning the source of certain traumas. However Whitfills says they have no real alternative but to accept the excuses given and continue with treatment of the injuries.

In the mid to lower economic group the victims are often more open about admitting the source of injury. Though medical professionals are required to report any assault cases it is up to the victim to press charges. In severe cases the State has the option of pressing charges but this option is rarely exercised without the cooperation of the victim according to Criminal Investigator Vernon Hope of the District Attorney's office.

The frustration of treating women for repeated abuse, physical and emotional, weighs heavily on the medical staff. Whitfills admits, "We feel so helpless but often we are the only ones the person can confide in and we respect, above all else, their confidentiality."

Dr. Gary Beach with South Plains Health Providers notes another quandry the problem places before physicians, regarding the care of children who live in a home where violence is a common occurrence.

Beach relates a case history of a patient of his whom he repeatedly treated for injuries inflicted by her husband. "I felt 'sorry' for the mother," he says, "but I had some conflicting loyalties regarding allowing the situation to continue because it was adversely affecting the children, they were my patients too."

JoAn Swyer, executive director of the Rape Crisis-Domestic Violence

Center in Amarillo, notes, "Sixty percent of the children in these homes are also battered and the number is increasing."

Though Bennie Barrick of the HPD says the local police receive very few reports of child abuse, Whitfills says the hospital treats many cases where abuse is suspected.

"We see a lot of definite and a lot of suspected cases of child abuse and neglect. It is these cases the medical staff find so frustrating due to the lack of legal means to remove the child from the situation," she says.

Citing injuries to children ranging from unaccounted for bruises in various stages of healing and unusual places to cigarette burns to sexual assaults Whitfills, Beach and Revell agree that children are also victims of domestic violence.

Termed the unreported epidemic, common links to this devastating disease which know no racial, economic or regional barriers will be explored in the Wednesday edition of the Hereford Brand.

City okays water district

Mayor Wes Fisher was the only dissenting vote in approval of seating the High Plains Underground Water District with voting membership on the Waste Deposit Impact Committee. The Mayor stated he was not opposed to the water district having a seat on the board but cited the potential creation of future deadlock voting as his opposition in giving the district a vote on the board whose purpose is to oversee the site characterization impacts of a nuclear waste repository in the county.

Golf pro Mike Horton informed the commission he has purchased 40 new golf carts for the city course and requested a rental rate increase of $13.50 for two riders for 18 holes. The request was approved.

In other business commissioners: -Approved a zoning change of 201 West Park Avenue from two-family district to restricted commercial district.

-Accepted the gift of a lot located on Cherokee from John Pitman. Plans for use of the vacant lot will be made at a later date.

-Re-appointed Dr. Howard Johnson as City Health Officer. Johnson will receive $10 a month for his service.

-Awarded Stevens Chevrolet a $16,816.11 contract as the low bidder on replacing a suburban used by the Fire Department.

-Awarded Southwest Aerial Services of Plainview the bid for aerial spraying for mosquitos. City budget will allow for up to three sessions of spraying.

-Approved a request by Whiteface Booster Club to install and maintain a sign on airport property.

-Authorized City Manager Darwin McGill to advertise for a small maintainer to be used in city parks and alleyways.

according to Judge JoEd Cupell. Neither fine has been paid.

Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turentine reports the pair were arraigned on charges of aggravated assault on a police officer, a felony, and resisting arrest. Bond was set at $500 each and has not been met. The pair are being held in Deaf Smith County Jail pending bail.

Clements may change tax tune

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Gib Lewis, who voted with the House in tentatively approving a 1988-89 spending plan that requires a $6 billion tax increase, says Gov. Bill Clements might change his anti-tax tune.

"I have never known Gov. Clements to be one that would turn his back on the future of this state and, hopefully, he (will) not do it here at this particular time," Lewis said Monday.

"I genuinely think he might turn around," the speaker said after the House voted 87-62 preliminary approval for a proposed $39.4 billion appropriations bill.

That vote apparently puts the Democratic-controlled Legislature on a collision course with the Republican governor, who has vowed to veto the tax bill if it would take to balance either the House- or Senate-approved budgets.

If no budget accord is reached, Clements has indicated he would call a July special session. The regular session ends June 1. The state fiscal year ends Aug. 31.

Senators have approved a $40 billion proposed budget.

We'd like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped make our first annual Bluebonnet Spring Carnival a great success.

First let us say "Thank you" to the Bluebonnet staff, for spending so much time and effort preparing the rooms and activities. Everything was so nice.

Parents, we could not have made it without your donations of time to bake cookies, cakes, and brownies, make crafts, bring crackers and cokes, and most of all, helping the teachers on carnival night. We appreciate having parents who will help.

To those who helped us through giving special prices and donating things, we say, "Bless you!" Because of businesses, like: Frostie's, Mr. Burger, Save & Gain, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Accents Unlimited, we will be able to put more money towards books for the library.

We also appreciate The Hereford Brand, KPAN, Cablevision and the many shops and stores, who let us put posters up to advertise. There are so many people to thank. The committee workers, the children who made things and worked with the teachers on the activities, and of course the many, many people who came to the carnival and made the project, and all of the work, worth it.

Sincerely appreciative,

Ann Landers Geography lesson needed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading in your column about the ignorance among U.S. citizens concerning Canada, and before that the number of people who don't know that New Mexico is part of the United States, I decided it was time to speak my piece on behalf of West Virginia.

I am constantly meeting people who do not know that West Virginia is a state all by itself and not part of Virginia. Many supposedly intelligent people who know that West Virginia is a state are terribly surprised to learn it is not a Southern state. They are astonished when I tell them that West Virginia fought with the North in the Civil War.

Wait, there's more. When a friend from New Jersey learned I was from West Virginia, she said, "Oh yes—I have family in Richmond and Roanoke." Couldn't you just die?

We need fewer frill courses in school and more plain, ordinary, old-fashioned geography. Tell 'em, Annie, I'm tired.—M.D.S. from Huntington, W.Va.

DEAR M.D.S.: You told 'em—and good. Thanks for the short course. Read on. The next letter put me away.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Talk about ignorance, how do you like this? In my travels recently when I told a woman in California that I was from Delaware she asked, "Isn't that in Maryland?"

I wonder how many people know that Delaware was the first state to ratify the Constitution?—J.M.B. of Wilmington

DEAR J: I didn't. Thanks for teaching me something today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Five months ago my loving husband died in a car accident. It was nobody's fault. Both drivers were cold sober. The roads were icy and the drivers lost control.

My husband was my lover and my best friend. Life without him was unbearable so I started to drink. I stayed drunk for three solid months. God somehow got through to me and made me see how selfish and self-destructive I was.

A friend persuaded me to go with her to a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. At first I felt uncomfortable when I saw shabbily dressed working-class people there. I thought, "I have absolutely nothing in common with these folks." After the third meeting I began to see our similarities instead of our differences. I felt ashamed of my superior attitude and the way I looked down at people who weren't well-dressed and articulate.

My friends in AA have helped me view life from a totally different perspective. I used to be a blamer, looking for reasons to justify my drinking. Now I know that each of us is responsible for ourselves and the enemy is ME.

I know, too, that I am a worthwhile woman. God doesn't make garbage.

It's going to take work, but I am determined to be the dependable, honorable person I once was. Too bad I had to hit bottom before I got the message. I'm 28 years old and nothing can stop me from reaching my goal.—One Day At a Time in Columbus, Ohio

DEAR COLUMBUS: Thank you for sharing your story. For 25 years I have been telling my readers that AA often succeeds when psychiatry, religion, hypnosis, etc., fail. I recommend it as the most effective way to beat the problem.

There are AA chapters all over the world. (Look in the phone book.) And the meetings are free. If you see yourself in my column today, for the sake of those who love you, go to AA—it can turn your life around.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Recently the members of the Sweet and Fancy Cake Decorating Club met at the Community Center for their April meeting.

President Karen Martin reminded members that the annual Mother's Day Bake Sale would be held at the Sugarland Mall on May 9th beginning at 9:30 a.m. Members need to bring at least two decorated cakes or baked items to the mall at 9:00.

Elizabeth Flores and Rosa Rodriguez will be responsible for the King's Manor Cakes for the month of May.

The next meeting will be a catered brunch in the home of Mary Herring on May 14th. Members need to call Beckie Fry before May 13th to reserve a place at the brunch. All members will meet at the Community Center at 9:30 a.m. sharp and then proceed to the Herring home.

The meeting was adjourned and then members made dolls to be Easter centerpieces for the resident's dinner tables at King's Manor.

Members present included Elida Balderaz, Margaret Gamez, Betty Henson, Carol Kelley, Alice Koenig, Martin, Mary McCutchen, Teresa Paetzold, Melody Willis, Flores, Rodriguez, and Marrie Leverett.

Commandments give for high blood pressure patients

An estimated 54 million American adults have high blood pressure, according to the American Heart Association. The association estimates almost half of these people don't know about their life-threatening condition.

Blood pressure is the push of blood against the walls of the arteries. High blood pressure indicates the heart is straining to pump blood through the arteries. High blood pressure is unhealthy because it can result in an enlarged heart (congestive heart failure), kidney failure, and increased hardening of the arteries and kidney disease.

"These ailments can lead to a stroke or a heart attack, perhaps causing disability or death to the sufferer," indicates Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the Texas Affiliate of the American Heart Association.

The American Heart Association urges high blood pressure patients to control their condition and offers ten commandments to help:

1. Know your blood pressure. Have it checked regularly.
2. Know what your weight should be. Keep it at that level.
3. Don't use excessive salt in cooking or during meals; avoid salty foods.

4. Eat a low fat, low cholesterol diet according to American Heart Association recommendations.

5. Don't smoke cigarettes; smoking can increase your chances of having a stroke or a heart attack.

6. Restrict your drinking of alcoholic beverages.

7. Take your medicine exactly as prescribed; don't run out of pills even for a single day.

8. Keep your appointments with the doctor.

9. Follow your doctor's advice about exercise and live a normal life in every other way.

10. Make certain your parents, brothers, sisters and children have their pressure checked regularly. High blood pressure tends to run in families.

"You can also help your doctor control your blood pressure by being honest and specific with him or her regularly about your treatment plan," advises Taylor. "The more your doctor knows about your concerns and problems, the better he or she can adjust the plan to your needs."

With 4-3 victory over Pampa

Whitefaces claim District 1-4A title

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface baseball team has had many players come through in crucial situations this season to help the team win close games, such as Saturday's game in Hereford.

Saturday's clutch players were Keith Anderson and Kyle Streun, who came through with big hits in the bottom of the seventh inning to boost Hereford to a 4-3 victory over Pampa and an undisputed District 1-4A championship.

With the score tied 3-3 with two outs in the bottom of the seventh, Anderson hit a triple deep into centerfield. That brought Streun up to bat, with Glenn Parker entering the game as a courtesy runner for Anderson at third base.

Streun lined a pitch toward third base. The Pampa third baseman was unable to get his glove over fast enough to catch the ball, with the ball tipping off his glove and going into left field.

Parker easily scored from third base for the game-winning run in the 4-3 victory.

Anderson, who pitched a complete game for the Herd, had 12 strikeouts in the game — including three in each of the last three innings. Anderson did not walk any batters and allowed two hits in raising his season record to 9-1.

Pampa gained a 1-0 lead in the second inning with a home run over the right centerfield fence by John Roe. Hereford tied up the game at 1-1 in the fourth inning when Streun hit a home run over the right field fence.

Back in the second inning, Hereford's Michael Phibbs tripled deep into centerfield but was left stranded on the basepaths.

Pampa had a runner at second base in the top of the fourth inning on a two-base error. Whiteface catcher Todd Shire threw out that runner who attempted to steal third; that was the third out of the inning.

Pampa scored two unearned runs on an error in the top of the sixth inning to gain a 3-1 lead. The error was committed on a ball hit by Pampa's home run hitter, Roe. Before that error, there was an error, a single, and a passed ball.

Bobby Medina hit a leadoff single for Hereford in the bottom of the sixth inning. Pampa's second baseman committed an error on a ball hit by Anderson, giving Hereford runners at first and second.

That Pampa infielder was unable to gain control of the ball close to second base, and in turn was unable to either get an out at second base or a double play.

Streun hit a single into centerfield, with the ball dropping just in front of the fielder. That loaded the bases for the Herd.

Phibbs then hit a sacrifice fly to drive in Medina. Courtesy runner Parker went to third base when an error was committed on the throw to the infield.

Keith Brown, who was brought in to run for Streun, stole second base. Parker scored the tying run on an error by the Harvester shortstop, who bobbed a ground ball hit by James Hernandez.

Robby Collier walked to load the bases, but Hereford was unable to break the tie in that inning.

After Anderson struck out all three batters he faced in the top of the seventh inning, the stage was set for Anderson's and Streun's big hits in the bottom of the seventh.

Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said, "It was a heck of a pitcher's duel. It was a well played ball game by both sides. Anderson and Streun came through in the clutch."

Hereford had seven hits in the game, and the Herd defense committed six errors.

Hereford, now 12-0 in District 1-4A games and 19-3 overall, plays its final district games this week before moving on to the bi-district playoffs. The Whitefaces play at home today at 5:30 p.m. against Lubbock Estacado, and then play at Dumas on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Congratulating The Home Run Hitter

Kyle Streun (17) receives some "low fives" as he rounds third base after hitting a home run over the right field fence in the fourth inning of Saturday's game against Pampa. Later, in the bottom of the seventh inning, Streun hit a game-winning RBI single to drive home Glenn Parker to give Hereford a 4-3 victory over Pampa. Parker was a courtesy runner for pitcher Keith Anderson, who had tripled with two outs in the inning. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Against Houston Rockets

Seattle's Ellis has challenge

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Seattle's Dale Ellis had a challenge to spur his performance in a first-round NBA playoff series against Dallas, and now he's got an extra charge of adrenaline for the Houston Rockets.

Ellis and teammate Kevin Williams were arrested early Sunday morning following an incident at a Houston night club.

Williams was charged with resisting arrest and Ellis was with interfering with an arrest.

Ellis said he expects added attention from Rockets fans when the best-of-seven game Western Conference semifinal series resumes in The Summit tonight.

"I do anticipate that, but I can't let it bother me," Ellis said. "If anything at all it's going to inspire me to play harder."

Ellis, voted the comeback player of the year in the NBA, already has been too hard to handle for Dallas and Houston in the playoffs.

Ellis scored 34 points against the Rockets Saturday in leading the Sonics to a 111-106 overtime victory and a 1-0 lead in the series.

Ellis also was a Sonics force in a first-round victory over Dallas, whose coach Dick Motta, had kept Ellis on the bench for three seasons before trading him to Seattle after last season.

The Rockets committed 24 turnovers against the Sonics.

"The reason we lost was ourselves and not them," Houston guard Allen Leavell said. "If we just go play our game, I think it will be enough. I think they are playing close to their potential, but I don't know if they've reached it."

While Sonics players were told not to discuss the Ellis-Williams incident, Rockets players talked freely.

"The guy still has his jumper," said Robert Reid, whose job it is to guard Ellis. "He'll block it from his mind. You have to separate what happens on the court and off the court."

Houston Coach Bill Fitch saw some benefit to the off-court incident.

"If they kept him locked up, that might be the only way to defend him," Fitch said. "That may be the only way to stop him."

Bickerstaff remains low-key about the Sonics chances against the favored Rockets.

"We recognize they are a better team, but we've been able to maintain the intensity level from the Dallas series," Bickerstaff said. "Our confidence level is up from two weeks ago."

The Sonics was 29-43 in the regular season and the No. 7 seeded team in the Western Conference. Dallas ridiculed the Sonics 181-129 in the series opener, igniting a turnaround.

"We were so embarrassed by that game that it pulled us together," forward Tom Chambers said. "But we know the Rockets can play better than they have. We know we're not in the driver's seat."

The arrests of Ellis and Williams was the second incident in less than a year of visiting professional athletes being arrested while in the city.

New York Mets players, pitchers Ron Darling, Bob Ojeda and Rick Aguilera and second baseman Tim Teufel, were arrested last July 20 a similar altercation at another Houston nightclub.

Darling and Teufel later pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor and were fined; charges were dropped against Ojeda and Aguilera.

After Tuesday's game, the series shifts to Seattle for games Thursday and Saturday.

HHS girls place third, fourth in track regionals

Hereford High School's qualifiers in the regional girls' track meet in Brownwood had third and fourth place finishes.

Nancy Garza and Alina Benitez, HHS distance runners, competed in the meet last Friday and Saturday.

Garza achieved her personal bests in both the 1,600-meter run and the 3,200-meter run. She placed third in the 3,200-meter run with a time of 12:47.19 and was fourth in the 1,600-meter run with a time of 5:50.76.

Benitez placed third in the 1,600-meter run with her best time ever in the event — 5:47.32.

"Nancy competed as well as I have ever seen her compete," Hereford Coach Martha Emerson said.

"Tacy Stoddard of Pampa challenged her for third for the final 60 to 70 yards and Nancy didn't give. She wanted that third place medal even though she couldn't quite get that first or second and the trip to Austin."

"Both of these young ladies did an outstanding job representing Hereford at the regional meet and throughout the season," Coach Emerson adds.

Without Haray Caray on WGN

Celebrities are hits

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Holy cow! The Cubbies are a television hit even with Harry Caray on the sidelines.

"It is a classic case of making a plus out of a minus," said Jack Rosenberg, sports editor of WGN-TV and coordinator of the unique concept that has filled the considerable void created by Caray's absence.

With Caray punctuating big plays with his trademark "Holy cow!" and leading the singing of "Take Me Out To The Ball Game," Chicago Cubs baseball has become an afternoon mainstay for millions of cable viewers around the country. So when the 70-year-old Caray suffered what was termed "a mild stroke" in February, WGN was faced with the prospect of replacing not just an announcer, but a 40-year institution — and on short notice.

Jim Dowdle, president of Tribune Broadcasting Co., had a brainstorm — replace the Cubs' resident celebrity with guest celebrities. Each would work a game alongside Steve Stone, the color man for Caray's broadcasts. Stone would take over play-by-play duties.

WGN, unsure whether the idea would succeed, put out feelers — and unleashed an avalanche. Celebrities clamored for a seat in the booth, and viewers loved it.

"The feedback has been phenomenal," Rosenberg said. "The people await each personality to compare their styles, voices and looks. It gets to be a game to see who does what."

The leadoff man was CBS broadcaster Brent Musburger, whose career began in Chicago. Others from the broadcasting profession included NBC's Bob Costas, Pat Summerall and Gary Bender of CBS, Detroit Tigers announcer Ernie Harwell and Jack Buck, voice of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Print journalism was represented by columnist Mike Royko of Chicago and George Will of Washington, the latter a Cubs fan since his youth in Illinois.

Comedian Bill Murray and actor Tom Bosley — Mr. Cunningham on TV's "Happy Days" — also worked games. Still to come are such names as Dick Enberg of NBC, entertainers Tom Dreesen and Jim Belushi, former Cubs great Ernie Banks and ex-Braves Manager Joe Torre.

"They're not doing it for money," Rosenberg said. "We give everyone the AFTRA scale, which is $420. We give them tapes and video tapes and each one gets a Cub jacket. And they all have a ball."

Murray, a former "Saturday Night Live" star whose movie credits include "Ghostbusters," "Cadddshack," and "Stripes," is a diehard Cubs fan. He named his son Homer Banks Murray in honor of the Cubs' Hall of Fame shortstop.

"I've never had so much fun in my life," Murray said. "It was like a boyhood dream coming true."

Murray's broadcast was a nine-inning comedy routine, during which he openly rooted for the Cubs and called on the Montreal Expos to misplay every batted ball.

Caray, recuperating at his Palm Springs, Calif., home, hasn't missed a single installment.

By the way, Harry is due back May 19, when the Cubs host the Cincinnati Reds. He'll be the 32nd celebrity this season.

In NBA playoffs

Warriors to battle Lakers

By The Associated Press

The Golden State Warriors hadn't been in an NBA playoff series in a decade. When they got into one, they turned a trick no team had done in more than 30 years.

Tonight, the Warriors take on another big challenge — the Los Angeles Lakers.

Golden State rallied from a 2-0 deficit to beat the Utah Jazz in their five-game Western Conference matchup. The last team to do that was the 1956 Fort Wayne Pistons.

The Lakers, however, are not the Jazz. Not even close. Los Angeles had the NBA's best record this season, 65-17, 21 more victories than Utah and 23 more than the Warriors.

Are the Golden State players shuddering about that?

"We're going to be ready," forward Purvis Short said. "We've played the Lakers tough all year and we really feel confident going in. I think the layoff has to hurt them. They can't think that they'll come in against us and it'll be a cakewalk. "It won't be that easy."

Lakers Coach Pat Riley agrees. Los Angeles swept Denver in the first round and hasn't played since last Wednesday.

Bucks-Celtics
Boston lost only two games at home all season, but could be without All-Star forward Kevin McHale, who has an foot injury. Like the Lakers, the Celtics swept the first round — they've been off a week.

If the 6-foot-10 McHale is sidelined and Milwaukee uses centers Jack Sikma and Randy Breuer at the same time, Boston could have starting center Robert Parish and backup Bill Walton in the lineup together. Walton has played in all three Boston playoff games after appearing in just 10 regular-season contests.

"When everybody was talking about how Boston was more vulnerable this year, there was a big redhead (Walton) on the bench who wasn't playing. I would consider him a starter on many teams," Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said. "Put Walton back in and McHale healthy and they're probably as good as they ever were. But the injury factor is there."

As it is for Milwaukee. Star guard Sidney Moncrief was plagued by a knee injury this season, but he averaged 17.4 points and 31.2 minutes a game in the five-game playoff victory over Philadelphia.

"The key to the whole thing is how well Moncrief plays," Nelson said.

Pistons-Hawks

Detroit's star, guard Isiah Thomas, outplayed Atlanta's top player, forward Dominique Wilkins, in the series opener, a 112-111 Pistons victory. Thomas had 30 points and ran the Detroit offense, while Wilkins scored an unspectacular 21 and missed a shot to win the game in the final seconds. Wilkins had only two baskets in the second half.

"He's got the ball 90 percent of the time," Atlanta guard Randy Wittman said of Thomas. "We've got to do a better job on him."

TEAMWORK

TEAMWORK noun a joint action by a group of people in which each person subordinates his individual interests and opinions for the unity of the group.

When the word "teamwork" is mentioned, the most obvious thought is that of football or another sport. While it is true that a football team must have unity, teamwork also applies to business.

Genetic abnormalities in unborn may be discovered

Researchers at Baylor College of Medicine are studying a new and possibly safer way of performing a test called chorionic villus sampling to determine genetic abnormalities in unborn children.

Chorionic villus sampling (CVS) can diagnose chromosome defects such as Down's Syndrome, a form of mental retardation, and inherited diseases such as sickle cell anemia, a blood disorder, and cystic fibrosis, a disease of the respiratory system.

The CVS method is being proposed as an alternative to the conventional prenatal test called amniocentesis, which analyzes fluid from the sac surrounding the fetus and is performed between the 16th and 18th week of pregnancy. CVS is the collection of tissue from the placenta, which is the organ that nourishes the fetus, and is performed in the 9th to 11th week of pregnancy.

Until recently, CVS involved inserting a catheter through the cervix, the opening leading to the uterus, and obtaining chorionic villi, which are microscopic coral-like structures in the placenta. Ultrasound is used to help guide the catheter into place.

However, because the abdomen can be better sterilized against possible infection, a new CVS method that involves placing a needle through the abdomen was developed.

"The transabdominal method of CVS resembles amniocentesis in that, under local anesthetic, ultrasound is used to position a needle that is inserted through the abdomen," said Karen Copeland, clinical coordinator of the study and genetic counselor in Baylor's Institute for Molecular Genetics. "However, in CVS, this first needle serves only as a guide for a smaller, inner needle that actually collects the tissue."

Besides less potential for infection, the transabdominal method of CVS is easier to perform, said Dr. Robert Carpenter, an investigator in the CVS study and associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Baylor.

Physicians at Baylor began using the transabdominal method in October 1986, as an alternative for women in whom the vaginal CVS procedure was considered unsafe. "About 15 percent of the women coming to us for CVS testing were ineligible for the transcervical method because of the shape of their uterus or unusual position of their placenta," Copeland said. "At that time, their only alternative was to wait two months for an amniocentesis."

Baylor's testing of the two CVS methods is an expansion of a National Institutes of Health study that began in 1984. Baylor is one of seven centers in the United States comparing the safety and accuracy of CVS and amniocentesis.

More than 400 CVS procedures have been performed at Baylor. At least 15 percent of those have been with the transabdominal method.

Television ministries have inherent problems

Those people who are wringing their hands in glee about the demise of TV ministries are very premature, said Texas Christian University religion professor Dr. Ron Flowers.

Although some individuals involved may suffer, Flowers does not believe the damage will be fatal to the ministries as a whole.

Many criticisms the TV ministries have faced are partially a result of the medium itself, said Flowers. "The need to raise money in order to keep broadcasting has shaped the TV ministries because more and more time, energy, effort and inventiveness have gone to the fund-raising side of it," explained Flowers.

The need to keep the message simple is another restraint of the broadcast medium.

"One of the reasons the people who are most prominent on TV are fundamentalists is because they have tended to take a simplistic approach to religion," said Flowers. "I don't mean that in a critical way but simply in a descriptive way and that's why fundamentalism lends itself to the TV format."

GRANTS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Archives of American Art says it has received grants from the J. Paul Getty Trust and the Andrew Mellon Foundation.

It says each contributed half of a total of $200,000 to support a project to make the organization's collections more accessible. The grants will support staff and related requirements for a three-year project.

Archives Director Richard Murray says, "The result will be a far more inclusive data base of basic descriptions of all the collections and more detailed descriptions of selected major holdings."

76-year-old woman places second in race

CANADIAN, Texas (AP) — Dora Waldrop had asked friends to wish that she could win the barrel race at the Living Legends Rodeo in this Texas Panhandle town on her birthday.

Not an unusual request from a rodeo performer unless the birthday happens to be her 76th.

Mrs. Waldrop, who lives in Palisades, south of Amarillo, placed second in the barrel race Saturday, on her 76th birthday.

Mrs. Waldrop, who lives in Palisades, south of Amarillo, turned 76 on Saturday.

On the same day, she and her trusted quarter horse, Rowdy Charge, placed second in the barrel race at the Living Legends Rodeo.

"I had a 17 second, 97 hundredth time," Mrs. Waldrop said Sunday. "My horse just worked so hard; I'm so proud of him."

Before the race began other barrel riders lined the arena and sang "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Waldrop.

She says she's not about to say "whoa" to her busy schedule of rodeo performances. April has been a busy month for her.

On Friday night, Mrs. Waldrop and Rowdy Charge looped the barrels before a crowd at the Living Legend Rodeo in Woodward, Okla.

Ten days ago, she packed up her Dodge motor home, complete with a portable pen for Rowdy, hooked on Rowdy's horse trailer and drove to Pueblo, Colo., to go barreling through the National Old-Timers Rodeo there. Earlier in the month, she competed in Amarillo and Dumas rodeos.

"It's the exhilaration of riding a good horse that will ride the patterns well," said Mrs. Waldrop.

She plans "to keep running Rowdy till he gets too old to run and we'll wear out together."

Rowdy is 8 years old. Mrs. Waldrop raced one of his equestrian predecessors, named Pecos, for 14 years.

Pecos was a legend in his own time, she said.

"He never turned over a barrel," said Mrs. Waldrop. When racing the cloverleaf around the barrels "he put his nose on the rim of the barrel and threw his body out," she said.

Pecos came on the scene in 1960, but Mrs. Waldrop started entering horse shows in the early 1940s.

With the formation of Professional Girls Rodeo Association "around 1947" and the growing popularity of barrel racing in the early 1950s, women began to be accepted as part of the old western tradition, and soon Mrs. Waldrop rode into the rodeo spotlight.

These days, she enters both horse shows and rodeos.

Rowdy is a registered quarter horse, and even though the weather was icy in March, Mrs. Waldrop entered him the Panhandle Quarter-Horse Show and Panhandle Quarter-Horse Classic in Amarillo.

At Old-Timers and Living Legend rodeos, where contestants are over 40 or 50 years old respectfully, Mrs. Waldrop races Rowdy in the barrel and pole bending events. She captured honors for pole bending in 1986 and won an award for barrels in 1985.

In May, after rodeoing in Sterling, Okla., Mrs. Waldrop is taking time out to make an ocean cruise with her brother to Alaska. But she'll hit the bucking chute trail every weekend in June and as the rest of the summer rolls on.

When she's home, she handles the chores.

Getting up in the morning and taking care of her three horses, three dogs and her 100-acre ranch south of Amarillo in Palisades is "good medicine, it's the fresh air," she said.

For the granddaughter of a Confederate soldier from Mississippi who settled in Texas and the daughter of an Oklahoma Panhandle pioneer, the traditions of the West have made for a rich life.

And placing second the barrel race Saturday made for a great 76th birthday present.
