SINGERS PLAN FOR THOUSANDS AT DEAF SMITH COUNTY MEET

CONTEST TO CLEAN TOWN GETS START

Committees Named To Put Over Beautification Campaign In Hereford-Canyon Rivalry.

With the slogan "Thou Away Your Hammer and Get a Horn," public spirited citizens of Hereford have entered with a will into the city beautiful contest now under way between this city and Canyon, which lasts all summer. Committee members, under direction of Mrs. J. P. Slaton, have completed outlining a program which, it is believed, will permit Hereford to keep undisputed her title "Most Beautiful City on the Plains."

First, to set an example worthy of the town, public buildings and properties will be cleaned up and beautified. Trees, flowers and shrubs will be planted on the lawns of many of the community centers and downtown premises will be renovated wherever possible.

Merchants Co-Operate. Merchants of the city have entered the movement and are doing their bit toward helping keep this town clean. As urged by those in charge, most of this work "begins at home." By cleaning out alleys and fronts this early, it will be easy to keep them clean with only a little work for the unexpected visit of the contest judge this fall.

Water Rates Low. Care and appearance of lawns will be one of the primary points judged. Attention to this phase of the clean-up work should be given at once. To those who complain that watering the lawn is expensive, Mrs. Slaton and her committee have pointed out that this is in reality the easiest complied with of all the clean-up requirements. Hereford's water rate, they say, is the lowest of any city in this section of the Panhandle. The rate here is nearly four times lower than that at Canyon and other cities near here.

Interest in this friendly rivalry between the neighboring cities is wide-spread. Comment in the news columns has editorially been frequent in the Amarillo press. Rising in reply to a spirited editorial in the Amarillo News, the city of Roswell, New Mexico, has issued a defy to cities in this entire part of the Southwest to compare their own in a similar contest.

"Individual effort," declare those in charge, "is what counts. There is beauty to be found in every foot of lawn and every shrub and tree in the city. It is up to us individually to bring out this beauty to the fullest extent and win for this city the judge's decision."

Observance of Music Week Attracts Many to Churches To Hear Special Program

With large attendance at vesper services held each night at the different Hereford churches, one of the most successful celebrations of National Music Week in this city draws to a close tomorrow night.

The final vesper service will be held tonight, Thursday, at the Presbyterian church. Beginning promptly at 7:15, the programs last until only 8:00 o'clock each evening.

Friday night has been designated as Home Music Night and will be observed by special musical programs in many homes here. According to Rev. J. T. Ross, chairman of the organization in charge of Music Week, the event this year was intended as an intensive rather than extensive observance of the occasion.

Republicans Believe They Have Age Record

From the point of age, at least, Deaf Smith county Republicans believe that they have stolen a march at last on their Democratic brethren. As a result of a canvass made at the Republican county convention held Tuesday afternoon in the court house, it was learned that the combined ages of the three oldest people present was 248 years.

Two of them have been voting for some time, and all three of them expect to cast many another vote in the future. Proud of their distinction as "oldest Republicans" are A. W. Gregg, 83; Emi Bowsher, 85, and Mrs. Bowsher, 80.

Vega Outlaws Beat Hereford In Good Game

Partly because of lack of practice, mainly because of superior playing of their opponents, Hereford's town baseball team met defeat Sunday in the first game of the season, played at Vega. Vega players made nine runs to Hereford's six.

Outstanding player for Hereford was McLight, new addition to the team this year. Besides making four innings of what is known to the trade as "air-tight" ball, Mac played a brilliant game in the outfield and helped his team mates scoring with a home run in the seventh.

Hereford players were Smith, Carroll, Murphy, Young, Bray, Glennen, Webber, Royal and McRight.

Vega plays Hereford a return engagement Sunday, May 13, at Hereford. With much practice this week, players here expect to win the game with a good margin Sunday. Farwell and other teams are negotiating matches.

TWO HURT IN WRECK

Hereford Women Injured As Car Leaves Road Five Miles East of City. Both In County Hospital Recovering Rapidly.

Mrs. L. P. Landrum and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lester Landrum, are in the Deaf Smith county hospital recovering from severe injuries sustained when the car in which they were riding left the road about five miles east of here late Sunday night. Defective lights are believed to have been the cause of the accident.

According to report, Mrs. Lester Landrum was driving the car home from Amarillo when the lights on the machine went out. In order to avoid a collision with two cars coming from opposite directions, she swerved into the ditch at the roadside. The car was badly damaged.

The ladies were brought to the hospital here by a party of Hereford people returning from Amarillo.

Highest Grades of School Here to Win Honor

WAXAHACHIE.—Hereford high school's senior boy and senior girl who attain the highest scholastic standing in the graduating class of 1928 will be granted an affiliated scholarship at Trinity University. It was announced today by Dr. John H. Burma, president of the institution, and H. L. Williamson, registrar and business manager.

Trinity recently celebrated her fifty-ninth birthday as the institution was founded April 26, 1829, at Tehuacana, Texas. It was moved to Waxahachie in 1902 and has grown consistently and steadily for the last 25 years.

A new gymnasium has just been completed at Trinity and will be dedicated during commencement June 3 to 5. The building, which will be used as a social center and auditorium as well as for a physical education plant, is one of the most complete and modern in the Southwest.

Cloyd Stages Revival Soon At Own Church

Another series of revival meetings for Hereford will be that to be held this month by the Rev. V. M. Cloyd at the First Baptist church here. Meetings will begin with the evening services Sunday, May 20, and will continue for two or three weeks.

Rev. Cloyd has just returned from Amarillo where he conducted a successful revival at the Second Baptist church. He expects to make the Hereford services even more of a success, he says.

The pastor will be assisted by J. L. Trussell of Brownwood, who will have charge of the singing and musical program. Mr. Trussell has had much revival experience. It is understood. Services will be held twice a day during the revival. Mr. Cloyd announced.

LITTLE MOISTURE FALLS DURING PAST FEW DAYS

Only a little rain has fallen here within the past week or two. Good showers fell in this neighborhood last Friday night and Wednesday night, May 9, some precipitation was reported in nearby communities to the south and east. Very little rain fell in Hereford.

DELEGATES CHOSEN

Political Parties Choose Representatives to State Convention at Meetings Here Tuesday. Dry Candidate Preferred by Dems.

G. A. F. Parker was elected Democratic delegate to the state convention to be held in Beaumont May 22, at the Deaf Smith county convention held here Tuesday afternoon. He will go unopposed to vote for a "dry" candidate.

Deaf Smith county Republicans chose Judge F. T. Roloson as their delegate to the state convention at Dallas. He will go unopposed. His alternate is Hugh Exum of Amarillo.

Both conventions were held at the county court house Tuesday afternoon.

Chautauqua to Appear in City, Committee Says

Definite announcement that Hereford will have Chautauqua as usual this year was made this week by the committee in charge of financing the project. The first program of the course will be given here Tuesday afternoon, July 3.

Advance information indicates that the 1928 Chautauqua series will be one of the best staged here in many years. Sub-committees already have been appointed who will begin soon to canvass the town for the sale of tickets and the necessary guarantee.

Federal Road Marker Installation Here Talked

Possibilities of Federal road markers along this section of U. S. Highway 366 have been taken up with highway authorities at Austin. It was announced this morning by L. Baskin, highway commissioner of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Baskin's committee has been working on the project for some time.

A letter from E. W. Jones, chief of the division of design of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, suggested that this matter be taken up with the Texas highway commissioners, at Austin.

Many Tickets Indicate Large Banquet Crowd

Although tickets for the Hereford high school alumni banquet to be held Monday night, May 14, were put on sale only this week, the number already sold indicates that the largest crowd ever to attend the yearly function will be present. It was said this morning by Miss Dyaltha Stovall, chairman of the invitation committee and head of the ticket sales.

Several novel program features have been arranged for this banquet, Miss Stovall said, and an effort will be made to give a royal send-off to the Senior class of 1928, in whose honor the dinner is given each year.

Besides Miss Stovall, others from whom tickets may be bought include Mrs. A. O. Thompson, Miss Lucille Megert and Miss Floyd Wilson.

BIG CROWD EXPECTS TO GO TO FORD

Community Near Here Scene of First Semi-Annual Convention of County's Singers.

Musical history in Deaf Smith county will be written Sunday, May 13, when a crowd of between two and three thousand is expected to gather at the Ford community, twenty miles north of here, in the semi-annual Deaf Smith county convention of the Plateau singers. Arrangements have been made, for the largest and best meeting in the history of this county.

People of Hereford and the entire county as well as those from surrounding counties, are planning to attend the meet Sunday. Daily radio announcements and publicity in newspapers throughout the region assure an exceptionally large crowd.

Tabernacle Built. Men are at work on an improvised tabernacle in which to conduct the all-day service of song. Lumber for the mammoth structure, which will establish a precedent here, has been furnished by the Panhandle Lumber Company of Hereford.

Women of the county have already begun preparations for the greatest basket picnic dinner to be served to the crowd at noon. Each family will carry its own dinner to the meeting where all will be put together into one big "family style" meal. Lumber has been furnished for a giant table more than 400 feet long.

Noted Singers Here.

Besides singing by the crowd, a galaxy of musical stars has been secured for the meeting which will outshine those of many a year. Quartets, duets and special solo numbers are on the program of what the committee styles "the musical feast of the year."

Sunday's convention at the Ford community is the first of two annual meetings of this kind in each county which is a member of the Plateau Singing Convention. The second convention will be held in September or October.

Field Man for State Discussed at Meeting

To discuss the advisability of securing the services of a field man whose activities will be confined to the State of Texas, also, members of the Hereford Breeders Association here met Saturday night in the "Cow Pen" at the rear of the First State Bank. At present the American Breeders Association is considering the appointment of one man to serve several Southern cattle-raising states.

Discussion Saturday night indicated that breeders here believe that there is enough field inspection work in Texas alone to engage the time of one man. As a result of the meeting a telegram was sent to the headquarters of the association asking that this proposition be taken under advisement.

In the live stock judging contest the Dublin team won first place in all classes; in plant production the Cisco team won first place in all events, and in poultry production the John Tarleton Agricultural College team held first place. The pictures of the winning teams as they appeared in the papers showed no ill effects from the uncomfortable sleeping quarters.

Del Rio Theatre.

Del Rio is a strategic point for getting the best theatrical and other entertainment companies en route between San Antonio and El Paso, and has a large territory from which to draw crowds. It has not had a suitable theatre for the players and the crowds but work is soon to start on a $150,000 theatre building that will have 1500 seating capacity and will be modern in every respect. Progress like this counts for much in city building.

Laredo District Onions.

Laredo will it is estimated ship about 1200 cars of onions this season which is only a part of the splendid crop handled between San Antonio and Laredo by the South Texas Onion Growers Association. Prices at shipping points range from $1.25 to $1.40 a crate for yellows and $1.50 to $1.55 for crystal wax. Systematic and co-operative marketing have done a great deal to make onion growing a profitable industry in Texas.

Better Homes Campaigns.

The large cities need have no monopolies on better homes contests, if only the woman's clubs become interested. At Paducah the Federated Clubs secured a modern house on moderate costs which will be furnished by local dealers under the direction of the women and the citizens will be invited to visit and study it. The ideas exchanged on home building and furnishing will be helpful to the whole town.

Texas Song Festivals.

When a commendable movement is started every one wonders why it was not thought of before. Weatherford Junior College, John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville and North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington, through their Choral Clubs, have organized a permanent state-wide choral association as a junior college activity, following a successful song festival at the Arlington school in which the three junior colleges participated. All junior colleges in Texas will be invited to join the movement.

While choral, glee clubs, quartet and solo singing of all kinds will be encouraged, it is expected that special emphasis will be placed on Texas songs, as the natural sequence of Texas collegiate participation. It is also easy to see that such a movement will give encouragement to and result in the greater production of topical Texas music, as well as the preservation of the old Texas songs.

At the Arlington song festival several Texas songs were included in the program such as "Roll Along, Cowboy," and "Texas, Our Texas."

The prediction was freely made that in a short time such song events as that at Arlington will take their place along with athletics in interest and enthusiasm as school activities.

Texas Gas Development.

According to a survey by the Texas Public Service Information Bureau, there are now well over 3,000 miles of gas pipe mains connecting the cities and towns of the state and the mileage is being extended daily. Since January, 1927, more than 150 cities, towns and communities have been linked with these mains and several thousand gas consumers have been added. In fact, this has been the most outstanding public utility development of the past few years and the gas supply of Texas as yet hardly touched. Lines now extend from the Amarillo field to Kansas City and Denver, each now having numerous laterals under construction. A glance at the gas main map made by the bureau shows that despite the great mileage not more than half the state has yet been covered, though most of the cities are now supplied with natural gas, El Paso being the largest city yet using artificial gas. The pipe lines are gradually extending in that direction and in a short while El Paso and intermediate points will be supplied.

Factory Investments.

Although the state makes reasonable efforts to protect the public against fraudulent and irresponsible industrial promotions it is well for every place, and especially the small towns to be on guard against scheming get-rich-quick promoters who are flocking to Texas as a profitable field in which to find suckers. By no means every factory movement should be encouraged, even though it may appear to be a good investment. The personal integrity and good faith of organizers is always an important thing to be considered and the demand for proposed industries in a locality should be closely studied.

Valley Cotton Crop.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley cotton crop is estimated at 200,000 acres and is in fair condition, although late, the stalks now being about a foot high. With ideal weather conditions the valley production may reach 100,000 bales which is about 30 per cent more than the yield last year. Farmers have planted cotton on ground from which the early vegetables were taken.

As nearly as can be estimated the Texas cotton crop is about 30 days late. About 30 per cent of the crop had to be replanted because of the unusual and extremely late cold weather.

Large Cattle Shipment.

Cattle shipments representing a valuation of a million dollars or more were recently made from Brady in one week. There was one consignment of 12,000 steers to Oklahoma and Kansas points, more than 450 cars being required to handle the weeks shipments out of the county. Cattle form only a small part of the resources that are adding to the wealth of McCulloch county.

Vocational Agriculture.

Sleeping in the horse barn at A. & M. College on mattresses laid on the floor has not terrors for the 800 vocational agriculture boys who entered the recent Smith-Hughes vocational contest at the college. They were glad to be there and to get the mattresses.

Urges Farm Day.

WASHINGTON.—Farm interests have asked Congress to designate a national "Agricultural Day" to encourage consideration of the basic relationship of farming and agriculture to the well-being of the Nation. It is sought to establish "Agricultural Day" as a legal holiday and the Senate has already passed a resolution requesting the President to designate the first Thursday in October of each year.

Children Grow Slowly.

KANSAS CITY, Charles comparing the growth of children with that of farmyard animals have been worked out by Dr. Samuel Brody of the Missouri Agricultural Experimental Station.

Dr. Brody shows that a child between four and fourteen years grows at the rate of only 10 per cent a year, whereas young farm animals grow at the rate of 1,000 per cent in a year. This means that in less than four days the young animal gains as much as the child gains in a year.

Making Buttonholes.

A good way to make buttonholes straight and neat is to sew the stitches all around first, then slit the hole with a razor blade. This makes the buttonhole look trim and tailored.

Nothing in it, replied the reporter. He discovered it wasn't a hallstone, after all. The iceman left it there.

Revising Dead Ferns.

Sometimes ferns that look dead can be revived by placing the pots in hot water and letting them stand until the water cools.

PUTTING IT OFF.

"Some day I'll have my life insured."

The cheerful husband said: "When I have got the bacon cured And built a barn and shed, You do not need to worry, Jane, For worry makes you gray— You have insurance on the brain— I'll tend to it some day— Just now I'm needing every cent That I can rustle up: Some tenant lots I want to rent, I want to buy a pup; I'd like to buy a billygoat— I know of one for sale— I need a new clawhammer coat, And that will take some kale, I cannot buy insurance now, I need each playmate, But I'll attend to it, my frau, Some sunny afternoon." Death seems to lie in wait, For people of this stripe; He follows them with eager gait, And picks them ere they're ripe. The story of the Dolly Flute Brings teardrops to our lids; He left his family destitute— A wife and several kids.

Protect Your Investment in Your Model T Ford

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

More than eight million Model T Fords are still in active service, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer.

So that you may get the greatest use over the longest period of time at the lowest cost, we suggest that you take your Model T Ford to the nearest Ford dealer and have him give you an estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure may enable you to maintain or increase the value of the car and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

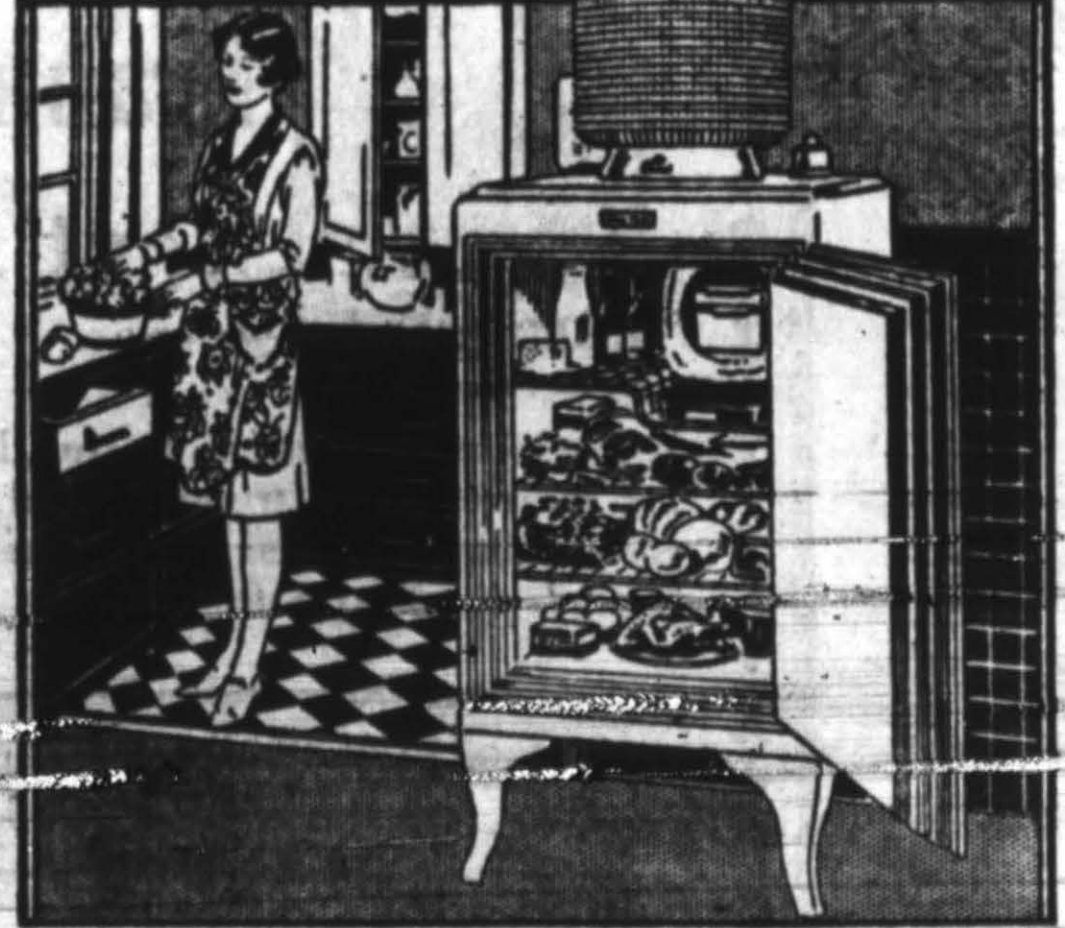

No matter where you live you can get these Ford parts at the same low prices as formerly and know they are made in the same way and of the same materials as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Labor cost is reasonable and a standard rate is charged for each operation so that you may know in advance exactly how much the complete job will cost.

Fifteen years of development —but an overnight popularity

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

Wherever you go you hear people praising the General Electric Refrigerator. Almost overnight it has taken a prominent place in the thoughts of homemakers.

One hears of its remarkable simplicity. That it hasn't a single belt, fan or drain-pipe. That it hasn't a bit of machinery under the cabinet—or in the basement. That it never needs oiling. There are many, many comments on the quietness with which it operates. There is much enthusiasm for the extreme roominess and the splendid strength of its gleaming, up-on-legs cabinet.

Overnight, it seems . . . but for more than fifteen years the vast laboratories of General Electric have been busy with the development of this truly revolutionary refrigerator. Will you not come in and see the various models? Time payments can be arranged, if you prefer.

Premier Band Concert Scheduled Friday Night

First municipal free band concert of the year will be held at 8:00 o'clock, Friday evening. It was announced this morning by Ralph Smith, director. The concert will be given on the north-west corner of the court house lawn.

Personnel of the band will include many high school players and some members of the old town band. Bandmaster Smith said, Prospects for a good town band are excellent this year and bandmen promise a series of good concerts this summer.

Brownwood—The Heart of Texas Commercial Executives Association will send delegates to the WATCC annual convention in a body.

Military Camp Quota Unfilled In This County

Deaf Smith county's quota of two young men to attend the Citizen's Military Training Camp in 1928, has not yet been filled. It was announced this week by Chas. B. Black, Infantry Chief of Staff, in charge of enrollment. Camps open for this year at Fort Sam Houston, June 14 to July 23; Fort Bliss, August 2 to August 31; Fort Sill, July 6 to August 4.

Because of the length of time required to complete vaccination for smallpox and inoculation for typhoid fever, it is necessary to have all applications in not later than May 15. Those who intend to attend one of the camps are urged to report at once.

Each county in Texas is given a quota which should be filled. Any number over this quota will be accepted, but enrollment officers try to secure at least the quota number.

Your Flower Garden By Romaine B. Ware

Plan Now for Winter Bouquets.

Now is the time to plan for the winter bouquets of Straw Flowers. They are easy to grow and you will enjoy them all winter in the house. They may be planted simply by sowing the seed right where you want them to bloom and in a few weeks you will not only have a good display of color in the garden but you will be picking the blooms and putting it away for the winter. There are several varieties of Straw Flowers, probably the best known is Helichrysum. There are several others listed in some of the English catalogues. In cutting blooms for winter cut in the morning while they are still covered with dew, and hang them heads down in a cool, shady, airy place till thoroughly dry.

Also to be grown for winter decorations are the ornamental grasses. They are also very decorative in the garden. These, like the straw flowers, should be cut in the early morning while still wet with the dew, but they should not be hung head down, but supported in their natural positions. Then when they are dried they will make up into bouquets and look natural.

The perennial Gypsophila is good when dried, as is also Statice latifolia (Lavender). These two plants are slow in establishing themselves, but are very permanent.

There is a large market for these winter bouquets, as many people do not go to the trouble of growing them, and they will be glad to purchase if they had the opportunity. I know of many that have built up a nice little side line with them. Flowers as a means of making money have made a very prominent place for themselves as there is not only money in them, but health as well. Many folk who cannot do work inside can putter around a garden and turn their time into cash. The roadside flower stands have made a real place for themselves in the country. Thousands of dollars worth of flowers are sold by them every week-end and the business is growing.

Work Continues On Banquet Of Commerce Club

That plans for the annual banquet of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce have not been abandoned was announced Monday by A. O. Thompson, chairman of the committee on arrangements, at the regular luncheon of the organization held at the Stockman's Cafe.

One of the best banquets in the history of the Chamber of Commerce is the aim of the committee, Mr. Thompson stated. Detailed announcement will probably be made at an early date, he intimated.

Other matters discussed at the luncheon Monday included Music Week, the city beautiful contest between Hereford and Canyon, and a celebration at Bellview, New Mexico, to which people of this region are invited.

Next luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce will be served by the ladies of the Christian church in the basement of the church, Monday noon, May 14. President T. E. Seigler asks a full attendance in order to discuss a number of important matters which will be brought up.

Better than Beet-pulp

Beet pulp is good. Purina Bulky-Las is better. Here's why:

Bulky-Las can be soaked in water and fed the same as beet pulp, and has the same succulent taste. Bulky-Las, however, contains molasses which makes it more palatable than beet pulp. Again, it is much higher in available lime content, lack of which causes abortion and short lactation periods.

Feed Bulky-Las with Purina Cow Chow and get more milk at less cost per gallon.

Social and Society

Seniors Enjoy Novel Parties Monday Night

Most enjoyable of social functions honoring the Seniors of the class of 1928 was the progressive dinner party given members of the class by their parents Monday evening. Four separate entertainments comprised the series, each of which was enjoyed to the limit by the forty-two Seniors.

The beautiful H. G. Hastings home on Fourth Street was the scene of the first part of the evening's round of pleasure. Here, at 6:45 p. m. the class gathered and was served punch and wafers. The house was artistically decorated in class colors.

From the Hastings home the Seniors went to the Star Theatre where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pickett at the premier showing of the photoplay, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

Next came the salad course, appetizing, delicious, served at the G. W. Brunley home. Here the group were given humorous gifts and favors, in the class colors, which they enjoyed very much.

Grand climax of the evening was the lawn fete at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Conkright. On the spacious lawn, lighted with a galaxy of Japanese lanterns, the class enjoyed a dessert course of coffee, ice cream and cake, the latter in appropriate colors. Music was furnished by the five-piece Hereford orchestra.

Everyone of the forty-two Seniors entered into the spirit of wholesome fun and revelry which abounded. Game after game, amusement after amusement, all were participated in with the zest of those who believe, as one of them effectively put it, that they were "children for the last time tonight."

At a late hour the party adjourned, voted thanks to charming hosts and hostesses of the evening, and gratitude unlimited to parents whose generosity had made possible the occasion. Chaperones of the affair were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dillway, Mrs. F. J. Eberle and Miss Lucille Glibbreath.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kester motored to Canyon Sunday afternoon.

Young Matrons Society Meets With Mrs. Sutton

"The engine has stopped—you have stolen the car!" she cried in sudden enlightenment. A deep scorn rose to the surface of her eyes. "And now you were going to tie him. You're afraid of what he might do!"

On the passing of the danger of hysterics, Grimstead became himself again. "This was too big a matter to permit of sentiment," he spoke brusquely.

"This is not woman's business," Burton, he continued, "and you must not interfere. No harm is intended to your young man. Indeed I am saving him from himself, and in the future he will thank me for making him a rich man instead of permitting him to ruin himself by foolishness."

"He will never thank you; and I will never forgive you!" she cried passionately.

He shrugged his shoulders. Women always got over these things. Still a slight change in minor tactics seemed desirable. It would no longer be possible or desirable to restrain the young man by force.

"I leave him to you," he told Burton. "Try to get some common sense into him—if it's possible. But be sure to tell him one thing: That his interests are going to be scrupulously protected. He'll get every cent that is coming to him."

He disappeared down the meadow. Burton looked after him, his bosom heaving with a too deep sleep for reply. Then in a passion of mingled loyalty and anger she felt on her knees again beside the unconscious young man.

CHAPTER XXIII. Gone!

Nothing further happened now until shortly after sunrise the next morning.

Then Burton, who had fallen into an uneasy slumber after some hours of futile watching to see that dear Larry did not die of an overdose without her knowing it, awoke and aroused him.

"What is it, dear?" he cried.

"What are you doing here?"

Her story did not take long in the telling.

The narrative finished, he arose to his feet, fumbled in his pack, drew forth a revolver and holster, which he strapped to his belt.

"What are you going to do?" she asked anxiously.

"I'm going to follow the car."

"You can't hope to catch it afoot."

"The chance is very slim," he acknowledged, "but it's the only chance, and it should be taken. Luck might play with us. The car might get stalled. Who knows? And in any case I've got to get on the wires to the lawyers' right away."

He was methodically bestowing small necessities in a rucksack.

"Please have Simmins take care of my other things," he requested.

"Goodbye, dear."

He opened his arms and she crept into them. They clung together for a moment.

"Be careful," she begged. "You must come back to me. Don't—"

don't be rash, will you?"

He laughed.

"You mean the gun? No; I'm not going forth to slay. That's just in the remote case I need a convincing argument. This is a lawyer game now and a game of wits, not a game of force."

He kissed her again and strode away.

"Come back to me soon!" she called after him. "The sooner ever!" he cried back.

After his departure Burton, whose education had been coming on, made herself some coffee. About two hours later Simmins appeared, very apologetic over his tardiness.

The absence of the little car Burton had expected; but she was at first puzzled to hear that the extra cooking utensils had disappeared; as also a small quantity of provisions.

Then she realized that her father was hiding out, and Burton had a shrewd suspicion that he would continue hiding out. Even a pirate chief, if not tender feelings, at least love of mental ease, and Burton realized that even this stern parent might be just as well satisfied if he did not have to face his child while things were too fresh in her mind.

Simmins report that Grimstead's fishing tackle had been taken confirmed her suspicion.

"You and I will probably have to wait here some days," she said, and told him what had occurred. Shortly after noon there were astonished to see Davenport returning. Burton ran to meet him with a cry of mingled gladness and curiosity.

He replied curtly. His eye was savage, his lips compressed. She looked at him, then fell silent. As they entered camp she made an imperative gesture to Simmins of warning that he should not speak.

Larry strode to the fireside and threw down the rucksack with a slam, then turned to Burton.

"I followed the car for six or eight miles to the place the road crossed the Deep Barranca on a trestle. Part of the trestle had been carried out by the flood. Gardiner had driven the car off into the abyss."

"Killed?" cried Burton horrified.

"Gone, swept away, disappeared completely. The stream is wide and swift and fast. I climbed down, of course, but no trace whatever remained except one seat cushion that had been thrown clear. I followed down the stream on the chance that the car might have stranded but in that force of water it probably broke to pieces almost at once. It was of very light construction."

"What a tragedy!" cried Burton.

"Poor Ross Gardiner!"

Davenport shut his lips grimly and let this pass. After a decent moment or so Burton ventured a comment.

"But there is this to say: The present problem is solved. The agreement is gone, the whole scheme is headed off. You can build another battery."

"That's just it!" cried Davenport. "I'm not sure I can do any—" thing of the sort. All my notebooks of formulae were in that car, every scrap of paper I had in the world that had anything to do with this."

"You can copy your other battery," she pointed out.

"Oh! the first was crude. It was dismantled long ago."

"You will work it out again," she comforted. "It may be a slow task, but you'll get it."

He looked at her with something like fright in his eyes.

"I do not know!" he almost whispered. "I thought that at first, and I did not really care very much. But then all at once when I sat down to think about it, I discovered that I had not one shred of memory of how to make a start at it. It's gone!"

"Why, Larry!" she cried, "I hardly know you. It isn't like you to be discouraged. What does it matter if it does take time? You'll get it."

He shook his head.

"No, I'm not a quitter," he disclaimed. "I know it sounds like it. But this has become a certainty to me. It has come to me in the same way that all these other things have come to me. Perhaps it is the last of these beautiful certainties from the current of Wisdom. It was given to me, and now I feel that it has been taken away. I never was more sure of anything in my life."

She stared at him, aghast.

"Such things cannot happen!" she cried, all aflame.

He shook his head. In his uplifted face was no discouragement, only the sorrow of regret.

Things You Should Know About Your HEALTH

Jao. Jos. Gaines, M. D.

PROTEIDS.

Proteids are non-crystallizable elements of animal and vegetable tissue and are absolutely essential to human life; death follows the deprivation of this food element. It abounds in animal and vegetable substances. The "protein balance" in the human system is one of the finest points we have in our maintenance of healthy diet. It seems to me, a good understanding of the uses of proteids would do away with much of the nebulous chatter about hormones and vitamins.

Of course some protein is lower in building power than others. Gelatin is a protein, but enough of it could not be eaten to sustain the body by itself. Meats are especially rich in protein. If more meats are eaten than needed the nitrogen is "spilt off" and rapidly excreted—if the kidneys are equal to the task; if they are not, this element is retained and sends the blood pressure aloft, sometimes to very dangerous limits. High blood pressure demands kidney examination at once—and, certainly limitation of meat diet. Beans are of high protein content, cooked as they are in many forms with meat seasoning.

Men at hard manual labor can dispose of more heavy proteins than indoor workers; hence the predominance of kidney disease in the latter class.

When we boil meat in water we remove much of its flavor and other ingredients in the "extractive" or soup. Soups yield very little if any energy. They arouse appetite, however, and as they allay muscular fatigue they are mild stimulants.

We partake of the carbo-hydrate to modify and assist the proteids. Carbo-hydrates (starches) are stored in liver and muscles, if taken to excess, producing added weight or "fat." Excess starch is very hard on the liver and produces sugar in the urine often. Both fat and starch protect the protein and are necessary to food-balance.

Scramble 11,000 Eggs.

BERLIN.—A big poultry farm at Karlshorst, near Berlin, was broken into by burglars, who, disappointed in not making a big haul, took revenge by smashing up 11,000 valuable brood eggs. When the police came to the scene of the burglary they had to wade through the mass of scrambled eggs.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Subject: Jesus Enters Jerusalem.
Lesson Text: Mark 11:1-10, 15-18.

Golden Text: "Behold, thy king cometh unto thee; he is just, and having salvation."—Zachariah 9:9. Scripture Sidelight: John 2:13-22, Revelation 21:1-8; Zachariah 9:9-17, I Corinthians 3:16-23, Psalm 24.

The time had arrived for the proclamation of the messiahship of Jesus. That idea had been suppressed throughout the previous ministry of our Lord. The utmost thought of the major part of Jesus' ministry had been the kingdom. Parable and precept had entered into the definition of the kingdom. The king of that kingdom had carefully concealed his identity from the public.

When at Caesarea-Philippi the disciples through Peter had confessed his messiahship, he had strictly charged them that they should tell no man that he was the Christ. Another moment and occasion awaited the publication of that fact. Under the circumstances in which the messiahship was proclaimed, its real meaning could be made more apparent.

The reader will remember that immediately upon Peter's confession at Caesarea-Philippi, Jesus had connected the forecast of his sufferings with the fact of his messiahship. That connection was to be preserved in the circumstance under which the proclamation was to take place.

Thus it was that just a few days before his crucifixion, Jesus entered Jerusalem in kingly procession. The circumstances of that entrance are beautifully and simply told in our lesson. A colt never before used of man, never desecrated by any secular use, was chosen for the use of the Messiah. The simple explanation that it was for Jesus' use removed all protest against his use.

The disciples placed their garments upon the colt and placed Jesus on it. A procession, formed of the villagers and the pilgrims of the Passover season, went before Him spreading their garments in the road and strewing palm branches along the way. With one mighty acclaim they shout: "Hosanna; Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Blessed be the kingdom of our father David, that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest."

It was the highest exultation of patriotism. All those yearnings for the restored kingdom, now about to be resurrected from the grave in which it had reposed through centuries, welled up and broke forth from the mouths of the devout. Jesus came to the temple, looked about on the building, then returned to Bethany.

On the next day he came again to the temple. There he found it desecrated by money changers and sellers of doves and oxen. If he had seemed to acquiesce in the usurpation of power on the preceding day, it was plain that he asserted his authority on this day when he drove the exploiters of the people out from the sacred precincts of the temple.

Whatever disappointment may have followed upon his peaceful departure on the preceding day, changed on this day to astonishment on the part of the people. As for the priests, their anger kindled upon Jesus. Perhaps this cleansing of the temple invaded both their prestige and purses. The mercenaries who were carrying on the traffic in the temple must have had the consent of mercenary powers. The day would have been there.

But even so it is with the Messiah and his kingdom. Wherever they enter, they must displace the exploitations of the life and sacred interests of humanity. The authority of the kingdom, its heavenly triumph, forevermore forbid the reign of human selfishness in human life. What a blessed boon it would be for our day if the

HINTS FOR THE HOME.

BY NANCY HART.
To ring the doorbell, to open the door, to enter the house— isn't that always an adventure when you call at another's home.

The personality of the house is first felt in the hall, which should extend a cherry welcome to the family returning from the outside, and offer to strangers as a cordial hospitality.

This may be expressed by an arrangement of bright pictures, hung at either side of a central mirror or by a large picture, with a mirror on the opposite wall. Another plan is to hang the mirror between two lamp brackets over the hall table, with a group of color prints on another wall. Or a colorful wall hanging may be used above the table to provide a background for candle sticks and a pottery bowl vase.

So much depends on first impressions—and in the hall good ones can be achieved so easily.

A Nutritious Dish.

Simmer together 1 cup of boiled rice, 1 cup of tomatoes. While cooking mix together 1 pound of chopped round steak and 2 or 3 onions. Add 1 tablespoon chili powder and heat thoroughly in a skillet containing a large lump of butter or margarine. Add to the 10 or 15 minutes, stirring constant ly.

Did You Know—

That a survey of public schools proved the physical development and grades of children who used stimulating drinks at meal time were far below those of children who did not?

We should remember that weak cocoa, a cereal beverage or a fruit drink takes but an instant to prepare. Each is safe and wholesome for little folks, and, in justice to them, should take the place of other beverages that retard mental activity and growth.

Packing Picnic Salad.

Next time you plan a long drive, with a picnic basket tucked away in the car—remember that salad can be kept fresh and cool if you put in an enameled wire bucket with a small bottle filled with cracked ice in the center.

Fry Cakes the Smokeless Way. Make a little salt bag and rub the gridiron with it instead of grease, then cakes won't stick and there will be no smoke odor.

Removes Paint Spots.

No matter how hard paint splatterings have dried on windows, they can be removed by rubbing the glass with boiled vinegar.

Keeping Butter Without Ice.

Butter may be kept hard without ice by setting the dish in which it is contained in cold salt water. Do not allow the water to come over the top of the dish.

To Prevent Curdling.

Vinegar often curdles when mixed with salad dressing. A generous pinch of salt added to the dressing will smooth it out at once.

Makes Brighter Lights.

Lamp wicks soaked in vinegar and thoroughly dried will give much brighter light and eliminate smoke.

Saving Steps.

If a holder is fastened to a tape pinned to your apron you will always have a hot dish holder handy when cooking.

Dies As Land Yields Oil.

MUSKEGON, Mich.—Struggling hard to make a living Ludwig Hinz farmed in Muskegon township for thirty-five years. He is dead just as a newly drilled oil well on his farm promises untold wealth. The farmer's life ebbed away within the hour that oil was struck.

Village Barbers 200 Years.

BLACKHEATH, Eng.—Job Taylor, barber, died here. He ended a sequence of eight men in a single family who have trimmed the whiskers of Blackheath during the reigns of eight British sovereigns. Taylor's great grandfather was the village barber in the reign of George I, 200 years ago, and since then his descendants have continued in the business.

Half Are Farmers In Ireland.

DUBLIN.—Fifty-three per cent of the population of the Irish Free State is engaged in agricultural pursuits. However, less than 13 per cent of the land is cultivated and the industry is mainly pastoral. The average annual import of wheat and flour is 522,783 tons. The country itself produces only 30,000 tons of wheat on an average in a year.

Extends Credit to Farmers.

DUBLIN.—A public company has been formed in the Irish Free State under act of Parliament and with the support of the state to extend long credits to farmers. The capital is $2,500,000 and the various Irish banks have subscribed two-fifths. The company has authority to borrow up to $37,000,000, the money to be advanced to farmers for permanent improvements in buildings, stock and machinery.
