Clinton wanting new Somali government

By TERENCE HUNT AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton is backing diplomatic moves to restore a government in Somalia while resisting calls for a withdrawal of U.S. troops from the beleaguered African nation.

The United States must maintain a military presence to keep Somalia from reverting to a state of anarchy and mass starvation, Clinton said Friday.

"We certainly can't afford to do anything that would permit the country, after all the efforts the United Nations has made, to deteriorate to its former condition where hundreds of thousands of people are killed or starved at random," Clinton said.

The Pentagon announced Friday that 40 Army combat engineers would be sent to Somalia to help the 4,800 U.S. troops there detect and clear mines. In addition, a 25,000-strong peacekeeping force from 28 nations is supervised by the United Nations.

Sentiment is growing in Congress that American forces should be withdrawn. Last week, the Senate passed a resolution urging Clinton to seek congressional authority for continued U.S. involvement. The House may consider a similar nub of the controversy."

favors a political initiative to restore of major nations that would be asked a government that could help stem the increasing violence in the Somali capital of Mogadishu.

U.N. peacekeepers are entangled there in near daily clashes with the followers of fugitive warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid.

Any political initiative must enable Somalis "to take control of their own affairs in peace, in dignity and without starvation and murder," Clinton said.

Casting doubt on any accommodation with Aidid, Clinton said, "We don't want to do something that rewards the very conduct we went to Somalia to put an end to.'

Clinton discussed Somalia in an Oval Office meeting with Italian Prime Minister Carlo Ciampi. The two leaders later spoke at a news conference in the East Roomof the White House.

On other foreign-policy issues, Clinton:

-Expressed cautious optimism about a surprise peace agreement between Bosnian Serbs and Muslims. "We are hopeful about this, but also properly wary. ... There's been no territorial agreement and that is the

-Said he was exploring the Clinton said the United States possibility of a "donors conference" to contribute billions of dollars needed for establishing a Palestinian government in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza.

-Urged China to "step away" from reported plans to resume nuclear-weapons testing, saying China has nothing to fear from any of the world's other nuclear powers.

On Somalia, the Italians feel the United Nations is moving too aggressively against Aidid's forces and that the focus should be more on humanitarian relief instead of confrontation.

Acknowledging lingering differences with Italy, Clinton said, "Both of us believe that some renewed political initiative in Somalia is important, because in the end there has to be a political settlement that leaves the Somalis in control of their own destiny."

"The trick is how to do it without in any way rewarding the kind of behavior that we have seen that could spread among all the other warlords who have been essentially playing by the rules and trying to work out a peaceful life for the people whom they represented when everybody was fighting over there," Clinton said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton on Saturday previewed the health-care plan he'll present to the nation on Wednesday and offered assurances that it would result in better benefits for older Americans already covered by Medicare.

Clinton unveils his health-care plan in a nationally televised speech to a joint session of Congress on Wednesday night. Although the president is putting finishing touches on the plan, many details already are known.

Under his proposal, Medicare would operate separately, with new drug and improved long-term care benefits for the aged and disabled. States could eventually fold

Medicare into regional health-purchasing alliances where other individuals and businesses buy their coverage, but they would have to guarantee seniors benefits as good or better than standard Medicare.

ments accounted for 987 jobs in Deaf Smith County in 1990, according to figures compiled by the U.S. Census Bureau

Perhaps the surprising statistic, however, is that the total was 1,097 in 1980--a decrease of about 10 percent over the last decade. But the kicker comes with a closer study of the breakdown of those government jobs in Deaf Smith County. All of the decrease was made possible by local governments, as both federal and state employment increased.

Local governments had 882 employees in 1980, and the figures reflect a total of 579 at the close of 1990--a 34.4 percent decrease.

Meanwhile, state government jobs in the county show a 126 percent growth in that period, from 127 in 1980 to 288 in 1990. The total number of federal employees in the county in 1990 was 120, up 36 percent from 1980.

Nationally, federal, state and local governments accounted for 17.5

Voter registration deadline Oct. 1 for Nov. 6 election

New residents of Deaf Smith County as well as residents who have changed their addresses since the last election have until Oct. 1, to complete requirements to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 2 state constitutional amendment election.

David Ruland, county clerk and voter registrar, reminded that a change of address must be filed if the voter has moved since the current registration card was issued.

New residents of the county are required to file an application for a voter card.

The change of address or voter application may be filed in person through Oct. 1. If the documents are mailed to Ruland's office, they must be postmarked no later than Oct. 4.

Texas voters will go to the polls on Nov. 2 to determine the fate of 15 amendments to the state's constitution, as proposed by the Legislature during its last session.

Among the amendments to be considered by voters is one that calls for a statewide vote before an income tax may be imposed on citizens of Texas.

Another amendment would allow the state to issue general obligation bonds up to $1 billion for projects related to corrections and mental health and mental retardation institution.

Ruland reported that the number of voters registered in Deaf Smith County currently is 8,548, a figure slightly below registration last year. Information about registering or filing change of address may be obtained by calling the county clerk's office.

The current proposal by the Clinton Administration to reduce federal payrolls by 252,000 employees, or by an estimated 12 percent, had received considerable media attention.

With only 88 federal employees in the county, such a cutback might be less pronounced here than in some counties, but this cannot be determined from the available specifics of the proposal. The departments expected to be most immediately affected are the Departments of Agriculture and Housing and Urban Development. The administration has immediately proposed a reduction in both departments' field offices and staff.

Russians move out of Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - The last Russian troops stationed in Poland boarded a train for home Saturday, 55 years and one day after the Red Army entered.

The 17 soldiers and seven officers left Warsaw before dawn after being seen off by a Defense Ministry official and dozens of journalists. They were expected to reach the border within a couple of hours.

On Friday, Russian Ambassador Yuri Kashlev and Polish President Lech Walesa gave sharply contrasting statements at a farwell ceremony on how the Russians have affected the country. The Red Army invaded on Sept. 17, 1939, just over two weeks after the Germans invaded from the west.

"Our soldiers are leaving with a clear conscience," Kashlev said. "Their fathers came here fighting against our common enemy.

Walesa retorted: "The day of Sept. 17 has been a painful and tragic date, opening the way that led Poles to prisons and labor camps ... through martyrdom, enslavement and humiliation.

But while he recalled the bad feelings associated with the anniversary, he said Poles now can use it to look to the future.

City posts agenda

A budget for operating the city during the year beginning Oct. 1, will be the subject of a public hearing of the Hereford City Commission Monday evening. After adoption of the budget, the commission will take up several items of business, including details for implementing a water development program and consideration of installing a canine unit in the police department.

School board to meet

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees will meet in special session on Tuesday to officially adopt a tax rate for the 1993-94 school year. The board has held a public hearing on the $1.239 per $100 valuation rate and will give final approval to the rate at this meeting. It will be held at noon in the board room.

Hospital board meets Tuesday

Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors will meet in regular session Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the hospital board room. Trustees will consider authorizing a rural health clinic here, appointing a director and a RHC committee, leasing of space, and funding of organizational costs. Other items on the agenda include first review of the 1993-94 budget, changing the name of the hospital to Hereford Regional Medical Center, physician credentialing, and the usual medical staff, operations and financial reports.

Community call to prayer issued

Hereford and area residents are invited to "Pray for our Nation" on Saturday. The call to prayer is jointly sponsored by the Hereford Ministerial Alliance, the Spanish Ministerial Alliance, Church Women United, Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship, Flame Fellowship and Youth Ministerial Alliance. Prayer will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 25, in the Community Center. Music will be furnished by Debbie Scroggins and Susie Merrick.

Immunization schedule noted

The Texas Department of Health has announced its September immunization clinic schedule for Hereford. Vaccines against polio, diphtheria, lockjaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella, mumps and HIB (hemophilus influenzae type B) will be offered. The usual charge for these services has been suspended until further notice. Regular clinics will be held from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursdays. Regular clinics will be held Sept. 23 and 30. The clinics are held in the Health Department offices, 205 W. Fourth St., Suite B.

Retiring lawman recalls living out 'One man, one riot' Ranger legend

By CHRIS BIRD San Antonio Express-News SAN ANTONIO (AP) - One riot,

one ranger. That's the Texas Ranger legend, but it's also in real life how Ranger Jack Dean came to the attention of his bosses in Austin.

Dean, 56, credits his handling of a riot in the Rio Grande Valley town of Pharr in February 1971 and its aftermath for putting him on the fast track to sergeant and eventually captain.

The 32-year veteran lawman will retire Sept. 30 after nearly 15 years as captain of Company D, Texas Rangers, which covers San Antonio and South Texas.

Dean has been nominated to fill the post of U.S. marshal for the Western District of Texas, headquartered in San Antonio.

According to Dean, the one-riot, one-ranger legend is told about Bill McDonald, a colorful Ranger captain around the turn of the century.

Man cleared of death in recent mock trial

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - Tom Horn, hanged 90 years ago for killing a sheep farmer's son, was acquitted after a mock retrial. But even his new attorney doesn't think that will necessarily clear the gunslinger's name.

Horn, a range detective hired by cattlemen to stop rustling, was hanged in Cheyenne on the morning of Nov. 20, 1903, for the murder o 14-year-old Willie Nickell.

Horn's defenders maintain the boy was actually shot by a neighbor, the victim of a longstanding feud.

Willie was killed by rifle shots July 18, 1901, as he rode to open a gate about a mile from his family's

The mayor of an East Texas town wired the governor to send the Rangers because a group was trying to take over the town. The mayor met the train and was surprised to see only one ranger.

"What, just one Ranger?" queried the mayor.

"You only got one riot, don't. ya?" was the famous reply.

Jack Dean didn't step off the train, but he was the only Ranger in Pharr on Feb. 6, 1971, when Hispanic residents led by Efrain Fernandez held a demonstration to protest what they said was brutality by members of the Pharr Police Department.

Dean had been made a Ranger just six months before and was posted to McAllen, a city just north of Pharr. "I was told, 'Go down there and get along; make a point to establish liaison with everybody in the Valley." Dean recalled.

David Hall, executive director of Texas Rural Legal Aid, was a lawyer for the United Farmworkers organizing committee at the time.

"He was a refreshing change from what we had been dealing with, as far as Texas Rangers were concerned," Hall said.

Hall said the demonstration outside the Pharr police station was peaceful until the police chief brought in two fire trucks and Anglo firefighters started hosing down the mainly Hispanic protesters.

"That made everybody go berserk," Hall said. "After the water started, it was a full-fledged riot."

According to newspaper clippings, the mob of 200 to 400 strong surrounded the police station throwing bottles and rocks. Police Chief Alfredo Ramirez called for help from surrounding police agencies and the Department of Public Safety, of which the Rangers are a part.

When Dean got there, police officers from neighboring towns, sheriff's deputies and DPS troopers were arriving.

"The (Pharr) police were locked up in their police station and people crowds were milling and hollering," he said. "When I got out of the car, there were a few bottles breaking and rocks bouncing off the building, the odd shot."

According to Hall, Dean took

Dean said he was lucky the deputy owned up, as it would have been difficult to match the bullet to a particular gun.

"We never would have found out (who fired the fatal round). There was too many people firing shots and the bullet was all busted up," he said.

Despite death threats against Dean and other law enforcement officials, a march of about 2,000 people a month later remained peaceful.

"That was the real beginning of my career. It worked good for me, Dean said.

Dean was born in Denton in 1937. but grew up in Fort Worth, where he graduated from high school, then spent semester at Texas Christian University.

He joined DPS as a highway patrolman when he was 23 and after training was posted to Pecos and later Tyler.

"I don't know what led me into law enforcement, I just ended up there somehow. And it clicked, you know, it worked. I enjoyed it," he said

On one occasion, he quit DPS to work for Montgomery Ward as a security specialist, and hated it. Another time he quit to work as a stockbroker, and hated it. Each time he went back to the DPS.

"I figured I'd better stay where I'm t," Dean said.

He remained in McAllen after the Pharr riot until he was promoted to sergeant in 1974 and moved to Waco. He was made captain in November 1978 and put in command of Company D, headquartered at San Antonio.

Dean, at 6-foot-1 with white hair, weathered features, and horizonscanning eyes acquired more on his hunting trips than at work, looks like the image of a Ranger captain.

His office in DPS headquarters in San Antonio is littered with the memorabilia of a career in law enforcement and a lifetime as an avid hunter.

The heads of a Corsican ram and two bucks adorned the wall behind his desk, while to one side a teddy bear in a Texas Ranger cap sits astride a walnut-brown western saddle.

The saddle and the bear are evidence of two qualities that have served the Ranger captain well a sense of history and a sense of humor. Dean has a keen interest in the homestead some 40 miles northwest of Cheyenne.

The evidence pointed to Horn because a flat rock had been placed under Willie's head. Horn reputedly used such a symbol to identify his victims so his employers would pay him for ridding the area of another rustler.

Rustlers were only one group that plagued cattlemen in those days. Sheep ranchers were considered as bad as rustlers because their livestock heavily grazed pastures used by cattle.

The Nickells were sheep farmers and had brought 3,000 sheep into the area just two months before Willie Nickell was killed, infuriating their neighbors, the cattle-farming Millers.

At the original trial, Glendolene Kimmell, a schoolteacher who boarded with the Millers, testified that they were not involved in the boy's death.

But after Horn's conviction, she said she had lied. In fact, she said, she overheard Victor Miller tell his father, Jim, that he had killed Willie.

Victor told his dad that he had accidentally run into Willie and that they had resumed an old feud that they had had and once they got into it Vic shot Willie," testified Becky Essart, wearing period clothing to portray Kimmell. "Victor and Jim had admitted to me later on of Victor's killing Willie Nickell."

"If one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, he will meet with success." Henry D. Thoreau

Teams are scheduling conferences with parents and reports from these conferences indicate that they are favorable. Parents have the opportunity to meet with their child's teachers from four to six areas in one visit, thus saving time for all concerned. The privacy of the team conference room provides a comfortable atmosphere for these meetings.

Response from progress reports has been favorable; however, some of you failed to ask your son or daughter about these reports and they have been too busy to show them to you! You might want to check on this!

Can you believe that within a few days that one-sixth of this school will be behind us? We're seeing improvement in most students' attitudes and study habits; therefore, we expect better grades as the year progresses.

Not being able to read well is one of the greatest detriments to a child's future. A recent report on reading included these two facts: good readers spend less than three hours per night watching TV and have at least one parent or guardian who is truly interested in his or her education. Of course, other factors are important in this area, but these two are worthy of your attention.

American history classes are beginning the study of early Indian cultures in the Americas. Texas history students are completing their unit on geography and will very soon be starting a unit on Indian cultures of Texas.

We are surely glad that all those insects entering the seventh grade science rooms are dead! If not, we'd be calling the exterminator! Actually, science students have been collecting insects for grade credit.

It would be helpful if parents and students would review the student handbook from time to time. We continue to have some incidences of students wearing unsuitable shirts and/or blouses and, yes, some of the shorts are too short! Overall, though, we have a "pretty neat crowd." And, yes, we do talk of dreams and plans for the future. By encouraging students to believe in themselves, we believe that they will have begun their journey to success!

"We don't get many of those," said Sgt. Doug Mitchell of the Austin Police Department's juvenile investigation unit.

Arrest warrants were issued charging Ronald Steward, 36, and Rhonda Walker, 31, with sale of a child. The charge is a third-degree felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) - Life imitated art for actor Adrian Paul of television's "Highlander."

In a scene that could have come out of the syndicated series taped in Vancouver, Paul fought off the forces of evil Thursday by tackling a theft suspect and holding him until police arrived.

Paul, who plays a 400-year-old sword-wielding immortal who protects the helpless, had just left his trailer to shoot a scene in the downtown Gastown district when a man came running toward him.

"Some guy was running down the alley and I heard someone screaming to stop him," Paul said between takes of the show which makes its second-season debut this month.

Paul tackled the man, and set worker Robert Crippen helped hold him until police arrived.

"We took a screwdriver out of his pocket and then just waited for the police to arrive," Paul said. "When the police officer arrived, he asked: 'Where's your sword?""

Paul didn't think the man was armed and played down the risk.

UNDERSTANDING THE BUYERS PERSPECTIVE

Buyers who make low offers on property can have a number of reasons. Perhaps the property in question requires a substantial investment to make needed repairs. The low offer would permit the buye to make the repairs from retained funds. Or, the low offer is all the buyer can afford. It is not unusual for people to fall in love with a property out of their price range. When the real estate market is slow, the buyer may be testing sellers to who are willing to accept a lower price. If the property has been for sale for a long time, the buyer may feel the property is overpriced compared with the selling price of similar homes in the area. Buyers making low offers should understand the seller may be insulted and further negotiations on the property may be turned down even if the counter offer is more in line with the asking price. "A man may be a fool and not know it, but not if he is married."--H.L. Mencken

The United Way campaign had a great kickoff here Thursday morning, using the Fun Breakfast as the stage for opening the curtains on this year's drive for funding 12 worthwhile community agencies. We tip our hat to Wes Klett, campaign chairman, and the UW board members for their efforts in planning and getting the drive off to a great start. Klett's pledge to take a "care walk," is more than just a token action when it involves walking all the way to Amarillo.

Introducing some new ideas into the annual campaign should be well received by local residents. And, to us, it indicates that the United Way, as well as other organizations, can use some "new blood" to pump enthusiasm into community projects.

More power to 'em!

as well tell you about getting locked in the restroom.

The door knob on the men's restroom door had been giving us trouble for several weeks. If I was any good at repairing those types of things, the problem might never have occurred. I might have fixed it ... or I might have been able to get out without everyone in the building learning of my situation.

Anyway, I found myself in the restroom, turning the door knob and nothing happening. I finally gave up, banged on the door and yelled for help. After convincing several staff members that I was really locked in, they called Mauri Montgomery, who is more the handyman type. Mauri reported that it was no problem -- he'd have me out in a jiffy. After all, manufacturers put a little hole in the outside door knob for just such occasions. You simple trip the lever through that small opening.

Fifteen minutes later, Mauri slid fingernail file under the door and suggested that I try to force the lock open. The file was too flexible.

Along came Trini Perez. "Stand back, Speedy! I've got some plastic explosives. I'm going to blow the door!"

Just what I needed, a bunch of comedians on my staff!

Ten minutes later, he came up with the idea that I could take the hinges off the door, if he could pass me a hammer and screwdriver through the ceiling--lifting the acoustical tile on each side of the door for access. He had a ladder. I climbed up on the sink top and managed to reach the tools.

Ten minutes later, I discovered I couldn't get the bolts loose. I needed something smaller than the screwdriver in order to get the bolts moving. Besides the third hinge on the bottom was too close to the floor, and I couldn't get enough force to budge it.

About that time, Jap Dickerson, former longtime engineer at the hospital, came by and his wife, Dorris, explained the situation. Jap knew what he was doing. He had me out in a few minutes.

zeal of a convert leading the choir, former Presidents Bush, Carter and President Clinton made the free trade agreement with Mexico his cause. To win it, he'll have to persuade balky and other administration officials House Democrats to do likewise - on a signal vote that will carry campaign risks in 1994.

With Democrats divided, organized labor vehemently against it, and public opinion polls reflecting more opposition than support for the North American Free Trade Agreement, Clinton acknowledges it will be a difficult campaign.

would accrue slowly, while any loss of U.S. jobs to lower-paid Mexican workers would show up as soon as it happened, perhaps before the 1994 congressional elections. It won't take many lost jobs to become an issue.

So the safest vote for a House Democrat is a no. The party leadership is divided on NAFTA. Speaker Thomas S. Foley favors it, overhauls it is seeking. but said he couldn't claim that a majority of House Democrats agree, so he isn't trying to make it a party

That precludes the kind of pressures and tradeoffs that won approval of the Clinton budget with no votes to spare. A House majority for NAFTA would have to be gained with more Republican than Democratic votes. But GOP leaders want to be sure Clinton gets out front on the issue and stays there.

He says he will. "It will be a hard fight and I expect to be there with you every step of the way," he told NAFTA supporters at the White House. "We will make our case as hard and as well as we can."

Clinton said he expects to win, despite a late start, a fast, if factually loose campaign by Ross Perot to block the agreement, and earlier misgivings among supporters about his own commitment on the issue.

There was talk that while he'd endorsed the agreement, Clinton wouldn't go all out to get it approved. at the facts.

Clinton said he would, and launched his campaign at a White House WASHINGTON (AP) - With the extravaganza on Tuesday, with Ford at his side. He went to New Orleans to push for it the next day, fanned out to argue the NAFTA case elsewhere.

The NAFTA campaign could be plus for Clinton even if it fails to gain congressional approval for the agreement. He has been criticized for backing away, compromising or conceding points on other measures. That image would be countered by an all-out drive on the trade agreement. What's more, NAFTA benefits It's yes or no, up or down, with no room for bargaining.

The trade agreement also could be a way station between the party line vote that was barely enough when Republicans unanimously opposed the tax increasing budget and the GOP support the administration will have to gain in Congress to enact health care and the government

NAFTA was George Bush's issue in the 1992 campaign, not Clinton's. By standing up for it now, the Democratic president can make it an emblem of the bipartisanship that will be vital on other issues.

Clinton said NAFTA would create jobs, 200,000 in two years, "by fostering an export boom to Mexico." He acknowledged some jobs will be lost to Mexico, said many more will be created.

Opponents argue the opposite, saying NAFTA will cost U.S. jobs, millions of then, according to Perot. With each side citing numbers to fit its argument, there's a confusion of statistics as well as alliances. "You've had a vacuum here where you've had lots of misstatement and mis-facts put out," said William Daley, the Chicago lawyer marshaling the NAFTA campaign for the White House. Clinton said success W will hinge on getting people to look

Add to the mix a small strip shopping center on North Lee and there are cars coming from nine different directions into and out of that general area.

Of course, this general muddle of steel, glass, gasoline and gears can -and does -- meet in the middle.

It is just plain amazing that nobody has been killed there recently, especially with the large cattle and other types of trucks whizzing through the intersection at all times of the day and night.

Okay, you say, there is a problem that needs to be addressed.

But what can be done? After all, the city needs all those streets and it wouldn't be fair to order businesses to close their driveways.

As I see it, the solution is fairly simple, although it would inconvenience some people, especially as they got used to changes.

The State Department of Transportation, which is responsible for maintenance of U.S. 385, should go through and erect a concrete median along the highway stretching south from Park Avenue to a point south of the intersection with Lee Street.

This would do several things.

1. Traffic would not longer be able to turn left onto U.S. 385 out of the Pak-A-Sak or Little Caesar's parking lots. People would have to exit onto you give!!) Park, then turn the desired direction from there.

2. Motorists heading toward been wondering why I haven't had downtown on Lee would have to much to say about the Presidents bypass Lee, drive to Ninth Street, Clinton of late. then turn right onto Lee.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram on school violence:

If area school districts really want to adopt a suggested "get tough" zero-tolerance policy toward classroom troublemakers, here's the first thing to do:

Hire two or three more lawyers.

As startling at that advice might sound in our already overly litigious society, it makes sense for a couple of reasons. - If a district plans to remove troublemaking students to what's described as an "alternative setting," it can expect plenty of legal resistance from parents who aren't prepared to believe Junior is all that much of a problem. It'll need the lawyers.

- The schools should direct the lawyers to take the offensive. The argument is that children, as minors, are essentially the parents' legal obligation. Parents are responsible for children's behavior. If the child is misbehaving to the extent that education is disrupted, the schools, teachers, other parents and other students are being deprived of valuable entitlement - a reasonably good education in a reasonably nonhostile environment.

If parents can't produce the good - nonviolent, behaving children do what everybody else does. Sue them. That'll get their attention. No one in any other sort of work environment would accept such threatening

Historical Society board of directors

I mean, who could argue against Dear Editor:

I recently received a flyer from Panhandle Planned Parenthood(PP-PA) heralding its 25th anniversary. Page one describes how a group of Amarillo area community leaders formed PPPA to "take a stand against ignorance and the dismal state of maternal and child health care in the region.'

Page two listed names of the board of directors, advisory board and friends of PPPA--all volunteers. I recognized some of the names--wellknown, dedicated people trying to help build a better world.

My heart breaks for these good people; I can't believe volunteers who have given so much time and treasure to PPPA realize what Planned Parenthood is doing on the world level. Surely they don't have access to founder Margaret Sanger's publications, such as "The Woman Rebel," which denounces marriage as a degenerate institution and asserts the right of women to become unmarried mothers.

"Birth control," Sanger wrote, "appeals to the advanced radical because it is calculated to undermine the authority of the Christian churches. I look forward to seeing humanity free someday of the tyranny of Christianity ... '

Neither do I believe the PPPA volunteers have studied the PP Sex Education programs...which openly approve fornication, homosexuality, incest and bestiality. The truth about Planned Parenthood involves power, politics and money, money, money.

The best book I've seen on the subject, and the research source of this letter, is George Grant's "Grand Illusions--The Legacy of Planned Parenthood." The book is well Shirley Anderson

Dear Editor:

Why is HISD still looking at buying the Smith building? Keep in mind our children will not attend class there and most teachers will see no benefit.

Is it to save on support staff? How long will it take to pay back nearly $1 million we will spend on the building, and remodeling it and two other buildings? Based on the possibility of saving two lower-level salaries, it will take a long, long time. The truth is probably that no one will be cut and they know it. At best, they may simply shuffle people around.

How about the most widely circulated reason for buying: "Look how great a deal it is!" If this idea has merit then let us make a list of all the houses, offices, businesses and farms in this area which are also available cheap, and buy them, too. It makes as much sense.

If the school district must absolutely find a way to get rid of the $4 million surplus it currently has, then how about a tax refund? After all, our school tax rate has gone up 33 percent in the last two years. We could use some relief.

... Now it is time to tell you biggest item the administration does not want you to know. State Sen. Teel Bivins expressed his support here recently for a school voucher system, and said he felt an experimental voucher system would pass in the next session of the legislature. Supt. Charles Greenawalt is opposed to a voucher system, by the way.

What will become of all these big. lovely buildings when parents can choose the teaching of fundamentals over smoke-and-mirrors and acronyms which no one understands?

Maybe parents and taxpayers can have their own acronym. We could call it CURE, which would stand for Citizens United for Responsible Most importantly, Education. however, we should all show up at the next school board meeting and let the school district know we don't want to buy a country club for the administration.

Two more districts vote on tax options

By The Associated Press

West Texans in two property-rich school districts voted Saturday on methods to share their tax dollars across the state.

The elections in Welch and McCamey are part of the Legislature's mandate that school districts reduce their per-student property wealth below $280,000.

Dawson Independent School District - based in Welch, about 60 miles southwest of Lubbock - stands to lose $1.65 million, Superintendent Jimmy Airhart said.

Dawson ISD ballots propose Option 3, which would send money to the state, and Option 4, which would benefit the Lamesa school district. Airhart's district of 175 students counts its property wealth at $750,000 per student, he said.

People in Welch are frustrated because the district "has no fat to trim," he said.

"It's obvious any time we have any kind of get-together, if you go to the cafe or anywhere you go, they are very dissatisfied with the system," Airhart said. "Anybody can figure that out."

In McCamey, about 50 miles south of Odessa, oil values thrust the property wealth to $388,000 per student. Superintendent Joe Neill counts 750 students.

Neill said the McCamey trustees have asked voters to approve Option 3 and send about $1.2 million to Austin.

"First of all, it's a forced election," he complained. "Second of all, it's almost forcing us to vote for the option that's there. We think that's the kind of thing that occurs only in the Kremlin."

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - There's Ray Prewett, executive vice president a new class of contraband in the Rio Grande Valley, authorities say.

Over the past two years, at least $500,000 worth of insecticides, herbicides and fungicides have been stolen in the area.

The chemicals, one of which is so concentrated that a gallon is enough to treat 80 acres of citrus groves, are hard to trace, easy to conceal and potentially deadly in the wrong hands, agriculture experts told the San Antonio Express-News.

"This stuff is very concentrated. Used in the wrong way it can cause a lot of problems," said Joe Matthews, who heads a regional task force against chemical theft in Cameron, Willacy, Hidalgo and Starr counties.

State and federal pesticide regulations make it illegal to sell or buy restricted-use chemicals without the proper license.

Officials said 70 to 80 break-ins have been reported at farms, distribution warehouses and aerial applicators. However, law enforcement authorities haven't been able to determine where the chemicals are going.

Some of the thefts have involved such large quantities that "people have questioned whether it can all be used in the Rio Grande Valley," said

Hooks dumps top-ranked Omaha Paul Pewitt

By JAIME ARON Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Omaha Paul Pewitt had one game left to get the kinks out of its system before district play. The top-ranked team in Class 2A should feel thoroughly cleansed.

The Brahmas dominated 3A Hooks statistically, but self-destructed Friday night with eight turnovers in a 16-0 loss. Three first-half miscues came inside Hooks' 40-yard line and the second quarter ended with Paul Pewitt stranded at the Hornets' 5. The loss likely will cost them the top spot in The Associated Press high whacked 34-6 by Mathis. All ranked school football poll, and mean a promotion for either Boyd or Honey Grove. Both are 3-0 and each won 41-6 on Friday night.

The Brahmas (2-1) were one of only four ranked teams to lose Friday. Two others tied and the top two 5A teams - Dallas Carter and Odessa Permian - were off until Saturday.

Two of the ranked losers came in 3A, where No. 5 Commerce was topped 35-18 by Crandall and 28-16. In 1A, No. 8 Runge was Rock.

District play begins next weekend for most teams across the state.

The biggest news of this weekend, though, was the return of Converse Judson's Jerod Douglas.

The all-state running back picked up where he left off his record-setting 1992 season by rushing for 246 yards and three touchdowns in the No. 3 Caldwell knocked off No. 7 Bellville Rockets' 34-6 victory over Round games of the year with a bruised buttocks suffered on his first carry of the preseason, and a bruised back made him questionable for the Round Rock game.

But with the defending Class 5A Division I champs coming off a tie and having Temple next on the schedule, Judson coach D.W. Rutledge likely wanted Douglas to get some rust off.

Ryan's effort not enough for Rangers

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

Nolan Ryan kept the Texas Rangers and the California crowd in the game for seven innings. Too bad for his team that he couldn't pitch the eighth.

Ryan, making his farewell appearance at the ballpark where he had his greatest years, once again was sharp at Anaheim Stadium. But Craig Lefferts allowed the run that gave the Joe Grahe pitched the ninth for his Angels a 2-1 victory Friday night, dropping Texas 4 1/2 games behind AL West-leading Chicago.

"Tonight was a tough loss for us with the White Sox winning in Oakland," Ryan said. "We're running against the clock."

Ryan gave up one run - it was unearned - on four hits. He struck out five, walked one and left after the seventh with the score tied.

Pinch-hitter Stan Javier tripled off right fielder Donald Harris' glove in the eighth, driving in the go-ahead run against Lefferts (3-9).

Chicago beat Oakland 8-0 to increase its lead. Toronto, leading the AL East, won its sixth in a row, beating Minnesota 4-2 and maintaining its three-game edge over New York.

The magic number for both the White Sox and Blue Jays is 12.

The Southern California crowd, which usually shows up late, turned out early to see Ryan. The 60,326 fans gave him a standing ovation when he took the mound in the first inning.

Ryan pitched for the Angels from 1972-79.

Chuck Finley (15-12) pitched eight innings, giving up one run on six hits. He struck out seven and walked none. eighth save.

White Sox 8, Athletics 0

Wilson Alvarez pitched eight strong innings and Chicago won at the Oakland Coliseum.

Alvarez (13-8) allowed three hits, struck out six and walked three.

Ozzie Guillen drove in three runs, two on a single in the fourth that made it 2-0. George Bell's 12th homer started a five-run eighth that finished Bob Welch (9-10).

Blue Jays 4, Twins 2

Pat Hentgen gave up just two hits in eight innings, and Toronto won at Minnesota.

Hentgen (18-8) is second in the league in victories to Jack McDowell's 21. He gave up one run, struck out five and walked three.

Duane Ward worked the ninth for has started five games in which the his 41st save despite giving up Kent Hrbek's 21st home run. Kevin Tapani (9-15) lost to Toronto for the third

Lee Smith became the first pitcher to reach 400 saves, and New York beat Boston at Yankee Stadium.

Wade Boggs drove in the go-ahead run by beating out a double-play relay in the eighth inning. Boggs had another RBI grounder earlier in the game.

Paul Gibson (2-0) pitched two scoreless innings. John Dopson (7-11) lost his sixth straight decision.

Brewers 2, Orioles 0

Cal Eldred beat Ben McDonald in a duel of three-hitters at Milwaukee, and the Brewers blanked Baltimore.

Eldred (16-14) walked two and struck out five in his second major league shutout. McDonald (12-12) struck out seven and walked four. He Orioles have been shut out.

Royals 6, Mariners 3

George Brett drove in three runs and moved into 25th place on the career RBI list, leading Kansas City at the Kingdome. Tom Gordon (11-6) won his third straight decision and Jeff Montgomery got his league-leading 43rd save.

Jason Grimsley won for the first time as a starter since April 28, 1991, Grimsley (2-4) gave up one run on five hits in 52-3 innings. He lowered his ERA from 8.10 to 6.75.

David Wells (10-9) is winless in five starts. He started the season with 9-1 record. Candy Maldonado homered for Cleveland.

Douglas missed the first two only 11 times in the first half. The senior's exceptional talent allowed him to turn that into 202 yards, including touchdowns on his first two carries.

The Rockets (2-0-1) had 517 yards of offense, racking up 486 of them on the ground.

Another impressive performance was put on by defending Class 4A champ Waxahachie, which tightened its grip on No. 1 by stuffing Corsicana 23-0.

The Tigers offense would've been better off playing hooky because they ended up with negative-13 yards. Good thing they passed for 21 yards because they lost 34 rushing.

Waxahachie, meanwhile, had no problem running.

Lejon Jefferson rushed for 183 yards and two touchdowns on 16 carries, Darryl Dollar ran for 88 yards and quarterback Coreyu Pointer bolted for 66 yards.

The Southlake Carroll winning machine seems tuned up and running fine, blowing away Azle 52-6 to extend the Dragons' regular-season winning streak to 64 straight.

Dane Johnson starred for Carroll, scoring on runs of 50 and 40 yards, returning an interception 35 yards for another TD and even throwing a 63-yard TD pass to Jarrod Pipher.

Junior quarterback Kris Brown threw a 26-yard TD pass, ran in from 22 yards and kicked a 34-yard field goal.

Just as Carroll's victory was expected, so was yet another loss by Houston Davis. The Panthers extended their national-record losing streak to 76 straight by stumbling 45-0 to Coldspring, ranked eighth in 3A.

One of the most exciting games of the night was in Huntsville, where No. 8 A&M Consolidated needed an interception by Pat Mies with five seconds left at the five-yard line to preserve a 20-19 victory.

The 5A Hornets were trying to pin the Tigers with their second-straight loss, but Jeff Watson wouldn't allow

The junior quarterback threw for 200 yards and two touchdowns, the final one being a 7-yarder to Jason Segner with 1:28 left that put A&M ahead.

Huntsville quarterback Eric Harrelson passed for 244 yards and two Hornet TDs. Shawn Rogers caught six passes for 207 yards and touchdowns of 73 and 20 yards.

Carter was to play Fort Worth Dunbar on Saturday and Permian traveled to Amarillo to try to avenge last year's loss to the Sandies that knocked the Panthers out of the playoffs.

Montreal stayed alive in the NL East race with its hard-fought victory over Philadelphia after the Phillies scored seven runs in the sixth inning to take a 7-3 lead.

In the 12th, Marquis Grissom, who drove in the tying run in the seventh, doubled off Mitch Williams (3-5) and stole third before Delino DeShields hit a sacrifice fly. Tim Scott (6-2) worked one inning for the victory. Montreal is 21-3 since trailing

The win was Atlanta's fourth in a Montreal and San Francisco row, ninth in 10 games and 30th in 36, a blistering .833 percentage.

Gant's game-winning hit took one bounce and hit off the center-field fence, scoring Otis Nixon, who led off the inning with a walk. Jeff Blauser sacrificed Nixon to second before Gant's long drive off Mike pitched a hitless 10th for the victory. San Francisco had 17 hits,

If you are living in an apartment or duplex, this may be the first opportunity you've had to experience the terrific benefits of having natural gas in your home. You will find that for for hot water, or for cooking, nothing beats natural gas for convenience, economy, and efficiency.

With cooler temperatures just around the corner, here are a few reminders from your friends at Energas Company on the safe and responsible use of natural gas where you live.

Your furnace needs an annual check-up.

Your natural gas furnace has been sitting quietly all summer, waiting for the time it's really needed. And like anything that's been idle a while, your furnace needs a checkup before it starts back to work. You may want to check with your landlord or apartment manager about arranging for an annual inspection by a qualified professional heating contractor. Once it's been inspected, your furnace should require very little attention the rest of the winter.

A closet isn't always a closet.

Your water heater or furnace is probably in a closet all by itself. And that's the way it should stay. As tempting as it may be, don't use the space around a water heater or furnace for storage. Even if these major appliances sit in the open, the space around them should be kept clear to insure adequate air circulation.

If you smell gas.

We hope that you will never have to deal with a gas leak. If you do smell gas, day or night, exit the building then call your local Energas office immediately. Do not flip light switches or use any other electrical equipment. Do not light a match or a candle. Do not try to find the leak yourself.

For more information.

Get a free folder from your landlord or apartment manager. Or call your local Energas office.

Natural gas is the best energy you can have in West Texas for any home heating job. Just set your thermostat, and have a great winter!

Cowboys hope for 1st win

By MEL REISNER AP Sports Writer

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - A Dallas Cowboys visit is usually the game of the year in Tempe. This year, it's unusually important to Dallas as well. ' The Cowboys aren't worried by an 0-2 start. But they are anxious to see if they can jump-start Emmitt Smith and regain the momentum of last season.

"We're looking forward to getting back on track," said Michael Irvin, who had a career-high 210 yards on eight catches last year when the Cowboys beat Phoenix 31-20 in Texas.

Irvin has 15 catches this year, and the Cowboys' average of 369 yards per game is higher than last season despite the holdout of Smith, who came to terms Thursday. Smith rushed for 1,713 yards in 1992, and many fans were convinced the Cowboys couldn't win without him.

·Coach Jimmy Johnson acknowledged that rookie Derrick Lassic wasn't the inside threat to keep opponents from concentrating on Troy Aikman.

'We went up against a double zone, in essence doubling your wide receivers, on Sunday against Buffalo, and yet we still threw 45 passes, so it does force you to change your offense some not having Emmitt," Johnson said.

On the Phoenix sideline, hopes

4-12 seasons and a franchise history of bad luck, bad moves and a bad image, everyone from management down is reading a brighter future after last week's 17-10 victory over Washington.

"I think this team is ready to explode," said linebacker Garth Jax. who arrived from Dallas via free agency in 1989. "We can't worry about who comes into our backyard. The bottom line is we've got to win in front of our fans.'

Jax said the Cardinals would be prepared for Smith, who gained 112 yards his first game last year against Phoenix and 84 the next.

"Is he prepared to play 30 or 40 snaps in Sun Devil Stadium in 100-degree temperatures? It's one thing to come in here in shape and have to play in our place, but for them to throw him in there and expect him to compete at his highest level - I don't think he can do that." Jax said.

Three of the four Sun Devil Stadium sellouts since the Cardinals arrived in 1988 have been for the Cowboys. Last year's throng of 72,439 set a stadium record, and the predominant color was silver and blue. The Cardinals are desperate to win over fans, most of whom began life in another part of the country. It won't be easy. And neither will the game. "They really worked hard in the will be high regardless of Smith's promise to suit up.

Beyond the misery of consecutive 4-12 seasons and a franchise history offseason to dispel that Super Bowl jinx theory," said Steve Beuerlein, who left Dallas last spring to get out of Aikman's shadow. "They did everything they could to prevent that from happening, and now people say it's happening. I don't believe that for a second.

"They've just had a little bit of bad luck, they're still a great football team, and they're going to come in here ready to set the record straight."

Johnson said he wasn't concerned about lost ground after a 35-16 defeat at Washington and a 13-10 defeat to Buffalo.

He said the players are regaining their focus, Aikman is in midseason form, and the squad has put in the work despite grousing about Smith's absence.

"I don't know that we had the focus and the concentration and the hungry feeling that we had a year ago. I think our guys are starting to get that hungry feeling back, because we've had a couple of meals taken away," Johnson said.

But Johnson also buys into the idea that the Cardinals, who lost their opener 23-17 at Philadelphia, have turned the corner. He said the Cardinals first win in RFK Stadium since 1978 was no fluke, because Phoenix followed the same trail of free-agent signings and good draft choices as Dallas.

"I think that what's happened is that a team that was very well-coached picked up some players that have been with winning teams before and have talent, and I think it's turned into a much better football team," he said.

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer DALLAS (AP) - Just call it the Mobil Rotten Bowl. Based on the first two weeks of the college football season, the Southwest Conference can forget national rankings. There won't be a national championship game in Dallas on Jan.

But it had to be alarming to A&M fans to see his three-interception performance against the Sooners. A&M still can't pass and until it does the Aggies will have problems against teams with talent.

Texas is a year away from being a national threat although the Longhorns do possess some explosive offensive talent. Again, the 'Horns go as their quarterback goes. In this case, Shea Morenz is a sophomore and prone to struggle like he did in a four-interception game at Colorado.

Baylor and Texas Tech don't have the defense to make national waves and Houston, Rice, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist don't have the team to do it.

This is the kind of year for the Cotton Bowl where Jim (Hoss) Brock Teams in the coalition can turn down a bowl invite. And let's face it, Dallas is very, very cold in January. Most players would rather play in one of the many bowls near the sandy beaches of Florida or in the Fiesta Bowl in sunny Arizona for that matter.

Also, most teams want to play the highest ranking team they can find.

Texas A&M, the league's top hope ranking team in the SWC this year. In fact, it will be a minor miracle if one of the teams can make it into the Top 10.

> The smartest thing the Cotton Bowl could do is forget that it has made Brock a leper (his contract runs out after this season and he's been told to do nothing or say nothing about the Cotton Bowl without prior approval) and get him out there right now slapping backs and shaking hands.

> It doesn't take a telescope to see in September that the Cotton Bowl is going to be a snoozer this year.

TRY CONTACTS AGAIN

Many years ago, when the only contact lenses available where big and hard, some people who tried to wear them never quite got the hang of it, and went back to wearing eyeglasses.

If you're one of those people -- and you still don't like to wear glasses all the time -- you owe it to yourself to try the new generation of contact lenses. Soft lenses are comfortable for most people and able to correct most visual conditions.

Soft lenses fit property over the comea. They absorb the natural tear fluid, bending to fit the natural curve of the eye. Your optometrist has the expertise to choose the just-right shape for your eyes.

Today's lenses offer many more options than the old ones. Discuss with your eye professional whether extended-wear or disposable lenses are right to you. You can even change the color of your eyes, if you want to, by using tinted contacts.

DON'T KILL YOURSELF: THERE'S A WAY OUT!

Trembling with fear, the jailer called for lights and ran to the dungeon and fell down before Paul and Silas. He brought them out and begged them, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

They replied, "Believe on the Lord Jesus and you will be saved, and your entire household." Then they told him and all his household the Good News from the Lord.

That same hour he washed their stripes and he and all his family were baptized. Then be brought them up into his house and set a meal before them. He and his household rejoiced because all were now believers!

The next morning the judges sent police officers over to tell the jailer, "Let those men go!" So the jailer told Paul they were free to leave.

But Paul replied, "Oh no they don't! They have publicly beaten us without trial and jailed us -- and we are Roman citizens! So now they want us to leave secretly? Never! Let them come themselves and release us!"

The police officers reported to the judges, who feared for their lives when they heard Paul and Silas were Roman citizens. So they came to the jail and begged them to go, and brought them out and pled with them to leave the city. Paul and Silas then returned to the home of Lydia where they met with the believers and preached to them once more before leaving town.

It will be available through the group in early October for $40, he said. "It's our purpose to make information about schools widely accessible," Stevens said. "It's a very powerful tool."

The program includes, for example, three years of data from the state academic skills test; dropout, graduation and attendance rates; and college entrance examinations.

For much of the information, performance is reported for the whole year-old murder/rape scene campus as well as breakdowns for male and female students, different ethnic groups and economically disadvantaged students.

Users can compare their school's performance to those around the state serving similar student populations, and to nearby schools. The program also shows how schools measure up to the state average and state standards.

The program was developed by David Stamman, who until Friday was a programs director at the Texas Education Agency, on his own time. He said the agency didn't have the resources to develop it, and "I did it sort of on a lark the first time" after repeated calls for specific informa-

LEAGUE CITY, Texas (AP) -Authorities dug through a city park Friday searching for the bodies of two young girls who a woman says were raped and murdered there more than 30-years ago.

League City police began digging up a 12-by-12-foot area in Walter Hall Park, following the instructions of a woman known as "Ruth" who says she now recalls the killings following her own psychotherapy.

"We're going over it very meticulously," Sgt. Pat Bittner said. "We don't want to miss anything."

But after about six hours of digging turned up nothing along a 21-by-13 foot area, six feet deep, the the investigation was halted, said League City Detective Marty Grant. "This is it. We've done everything we can. ... There's nothing more to do. We don't have the bodies. We don't have the evidence," Grant said.

"Ruth," an alias police have given the woman, says she was about 7 years old when the killings occurred outdoors in 1958 or 1959 in what is now League City, a suburban town between Houston and Galveston.

On Friday, police used heavy excavation equipment to dig near an

Tara finds new home at quiet East Texas ranch

By RICHARD STEWART Houston Chronicle

MURCHISON, Texas (AP) - Can a middle-aged, slightly neurotic elephant from a small, defunct Rhode Island zoo find happiness in the peace and quiet of an East Texas ranch?

Elephants can't talk about such things, of course. But Tara, for 35 years the biggest attraction of the tiny Pawtucket, R.I., zoo, shows all the signs of loving her new East Texas home.

"She's still not used to this heat," said Chris Byrne, English-born manager of the Black Beauty Ranch and Tara's main handler. After a morning of roaming around an acre of yard she shares with Conga, a 20-year-old elephant rescued from a roadside zoo in Florida, Tara retreats to the cool of her shady barn to escape the afternoon sun.

Her surroundings are much more spacious than the 40-by-30 house and 60-by-24 yard she occupied in Pawtucket's Slater Park. "Some people from Pawtucket worried that she'd miss the crowds of people out here in Texas," Byrne said. "We've had groups of schoolchildren come around here and she doesn't pay any attention to them at all."

Tara - then known as Fanny - was the star of Pawtucket's zoo ever since she arrived there in 1958. She had been captured in the wild - Byrne thinks it was in Sri Lanka - and came to the United States to be part of a circus.

She's now about 41, he said.

"She is still a star in Pawtucket," said Aaron Wishnevsky, a longtime fan of Fanny who lives near the park. "I would walk over to see her every day. My wife and I took our five daughters to see her and then we took our grandchildren to see her. She's a very sweet elephant.'

Although many of the 72,000 residents of the Rhode Island mill town were fond of Fanny, it became clear that she was not being kept in the best of circumstances.

Byrne said he can't prove that the elephant was abused - except perhaps by ignorance. He has noticed that she'll often cringe when somebody comes near her with a stick. "She looks just like a child who's been beaten whenever somebody raises their fist. She just shrinks back," he said.

Unsupervised for much of every day, she also was fed all kinds of things by zoo patrons. "They were and a pile of manure."

The driver went straight through, threading through New York City in the wee hours of the morning and reaching the hills of Virginia by daybreak. The trip took 39 hours.

Byrne renamed the elephant Tara so she wouldn't connect her name with any bad memories from Pawtucket. The new name is that of a Hindu star goddess and is in keeping with her Asian birth. "It's got more dignity," calls her Fanny.

her new home, Byrne said. At first she was kept separated from Conga. When Tara came out into her spacious yard, however, she would cower in one place, close to the barn. "You could see that in her mind's eye she still saw that little place that she was used to," Byrne said.

Byrne said. But even he still sometimes at the same time, the younger elephant playfully ambled over to meet her new It took a while to get Tara used to friend. Tara, not used to pachyderm companionship, shied away. Conga kept pursuing her as if it were a giant game of tag.

"We could see that we weren't getting anywhere," Byrne said. Then one day Tara ended up in a corner and Conga was led over to her. Tara seemed a little frightened until Conga put her When Conga was put in the yard trunk on Tara's back. "All it took was that first contact," Byrne said. The elephants have gotten along ever since. Conga also is more playful. She Now they sometimes intertwine their trunks.

Tara is an Asian elephant: Conga an African. "It's like the difference between a thoroughbred and a draft horse," Byrne said. Conga is taller, with longer legs and bigger ears. African elephants are used to traveling great distances across open country. Asian elephants are more Conga also is more playful. She likes to play ring toss using big tractor tires and a tree trunk and often balances tires, tree trunks and barrels on the steel pipe fence that surrounds her enclosure. Tara spends most of her time eating and in covering her tough but sensitive skin with dust.

The endless grooming, he said, is an example of her neurotic behavior.

feeding her doughnuts and stale bread," Byrne said. That, plus inactivity, made her overweight. Before she left Rhode Island a state trooper used truck scales to weigh her. She weighed 9,700 pounds -1,700 pounds more than she should have.

Fanny's plight became a political cause when animal activists started complaining about her living conditions. Eclipse Neilson, a free-lance writer from Providence who calls herself an urban shaman, started the Free Fanny Committee two years ago. "This elephant's story is not unique," Neilson said. "This elephant became a symbol of all elephants in captivity."

Pawtucket's city administration floated several different plans to upgrade Fanny's situation, including a $2.2 million project to convert the zoo into a farm and buy a companion for Fanny.

The issue became a political football and in March the city council voted to close down the zoo and find new homes for the animals.

Peter Kerwin, spokesman for the city administration, said Fanny had never been abused, but it became clear that she wasn't being kept in conditions considered ideal for an elephant.

Wishnevsky headed a committee to find a new home for Fanny. He and his wife, Patricia, visited a wild animal park in California before they visited the Black Beauty Ranch. "We knew right away that the Black Beauty Ranch was the perfect place for Fanny," Wishnevsky said. "What they're doing out there is just great."

The 615-acre ranch west of Tyler is owned and operated by the Fund For Animals, headed by New York writer and critic Cleveland Amory. Amory bought the ranch in 1979 to hold wild burros rescued from the Grand Canyon.

It is now home to more than 400 animals, including a bobcat, buffaloes, burros, chimpanzees, cows, coyotes, goats, horses and pigs. The political turmoil over Fanny was still going on when Byrne arrived to get her in June. A trucker who specializes in moving elephants arrived with a reinforced trailer, and Byrne and zoo workers lured Fanny aboard with food ord spacesuring words stop for the Rev. Riley Fugitt was to three years. have been the morgue.

His crushed, blood-drenched body lay on the floor of a primitive Caribbean hospital. A tag tied to his big toe indicated he'd been killed in a plane crash.

But God wasn't through with him yet.

In one of a series of what he calls miracles, a friend summoned to identify Fugitt's body noticed his chest move slightly.

"This man's not dead! He's breathing!" Murlene Porter screamed.

Only then did hospital attendants "start trying to do something for him," said Fugitt's wife, Vonceil, who was also critically injured in the same crash

By the grace of God, the Clyde couple says, their lives were spared so that they could ultimately return to the Caribbean mission field. That's where they were heading at the time of the 1979 crash which killed five of their fellow missionaries from Clyde's First Baptist Church.

Now 75, Fugitt retired last month after 47 years as a full-time pastor. It's his third time to retire, but he added, "I think it's gonna' stick this time.

"Somebody said I just like those retirement parties," Fugitt said with a laugh. His final pastorate was at Eula's First Baptist Church, where he served for 6-1/2 years.

Fugitt plans to continue preaching as needed, perhaps even doing a few revivals if they can be scheduled around trips to Denton and Moody to see the couple's two children and eight grandchildren.

More than half of Fugitt's pastoral career was spent in the Callahan Baptist Association. He pastored five churches for a total of 26 years and was also the Abilene-Callahan Baptist CLYDE, Texas (AP) - The next Association missions director for

> A 1950 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, Fugitt also pastored area churches at Denton Valley, Trent, Baird, and Rule. He also pastored at Chillicothe, Spur and El Paso.

> Although his pastoral career contains so many highlights he can't recall them all, a conversation with the Rev. Riley Fugitt invariably turns to the low point - the crash.

He has an enlarged color photograph of the mangled plane on the wall of his study as a reminder of how he was spared.

It was July 24, 1979 - the 38th birthday of the Fugitts' daughter, Sherry Taylor of Denton.

The Rev. and Mrs. Fugitt were leading a 12-member group from Clyde's First Baptist Church to the island of St. Kitts in the British West Indies, where Fugitt had helped establish a Bible school.

They were on the final leg of the flight when their four-engine Prinair aircraft crashed soon after take-off from St. Croix Island in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Eight of the 21 people aboard were killed - five of them members of the Clyde group.

The National Transportation Safety Board eventually ruled that the plane was grossly overloaded and that the weight was not distributed correctly.

The plane had reached an altitude. of only about 300 feet when it stalled. It crashed almost nose first into a plowed field. Enter the first miracle.

Although the plane was fully loaded with fuel and a small fire broke out, there was no explosion and members of a construction crew working only a few yards away quickly extinguished the flames. The foreman of the crew had been a at God." California highway patrolman for 10 years; his quick direction of the rescue and expert first aid were credited with saving many lives.

Fortunately, Fugitt has no memory of being given up for dead. He believes Mrs. Porter's detection of his shallow breathing "was a miracle of God, and definitely saved my life."

Members of the Clyde group killed in the crash were Jack Rosinbaum, 49; Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Connel Jr.; Stephen Sapaugh, 15, and Sharon Ann Geve. 32. Injured, in addition to the Fugitts, were their son, the Rev. Mickey Fugitt, now pastor of First Baptist Church of Moody; Murlene Porter and Lisa Melton of Abilene, and Caleb Watson and Pam Patton, both of Clyde.

Fugitt's right side was crushed from foot to shoulder. One of 13 broken ribs pierced a lung. After Porter discovered him breathing, he was airlifted by Coast Guard helicopter to a U.S. Naval hospital in Puerto Rico.

Doctors there kept him heavily sedated for 17 days, fearing he would go into shock. The bad news was eventually broken to him by son Mickey, who'd suffered back injuries and a broken thumb. Then the pastor was given more morphine.

He doesn't even remember being flown to Abilene, where he spent another 43 days in traction in Hendrick Medical Center.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Fugitt was hospitalized five days at St. Croix and another 33 at Hendrick. She had two broken collar bones, a broken pelvis and right arm and compressed vertebrae.

Neither has any crash-related problems now, for which they are thankful.

"It was another miracle to me that I didn't have any withdrawal pains after all that morphine," Fugitt said.

The first week or so after he woke up, Riley Fugitt confessed, "I was mad

"Over and over again I would say, 'God, why? Why did you take those people?' Then one morning about 2 God spoke to me just as plain as we're talking now. He said, 'You're fooling with my business. Those people that I have taken home are in whole lot better shape than you are. But you are going to get out of here and you are going back to St. Kitts. You're going to start that school that you always wanted to start.'

"I told the Lord, 'There's no way. My wife will never fly again. She didn't like to fly in the first place, and I wouldn't go without her," he said. "But he assured me it would work out.

"At 10 that morning," he continued, "she rolled into my room morning at 2 we're to go back to St. Kitts and start that school.""

With God's help, Mrs. Fugitt said, she conquered her fear of flying, and after he retired "the first time" (in 1981), the couple did return to St. Kitts. They operated their dream Bible school for nearly three years, graduating 18 native teachers who are still at work there.

Fugitt said he eventually overcame the guilt of "causing" the five deaths after family members lovingly assured him, "You didn't make them go. They went because they loved the Lord.'

"I never did get up another trip. just couldn't do it," he said. Instead, he and his wife went several more times themselves and poured said, 'Honey, God revealed to me this more than $100,000 of their $750,000 insurance settlement into the Bible school.

> They also tithed their income at Clyde and bought the church a 15-passenger van.

> While we were still in the hospital we prayed that if getting a settlement out of that would change us in any way 'then we won't get a penny'," Fugitt said. "I think we're still the same people."

When doctors released him to return to church for the first time - on a walker - a capacity crowd welcomed with a 10-minute standing ovation.

The church, which he pastored 12 years, later named him pastor emeritus.

illiams: sing for the Lord'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - She has influenced singing greats Aretha Franklin, Ruth Brown and Little Richard, and has shared the stage with Duke Ellington and Dizzy Gillespie.

But Marion Williams never had any intention of crossing into the realm of commercial blues and jazz. Gospel music is her calling.

'I don't have nothing against other people and what they do, but I don't want no part of singing secular music," she said quietly as she sat in a small Pentecostal church in North Philadelphia, a place she considers her second home.

"I was offered $100,000 to make one blues record, and I turned it down," said Williams, a short, heavyset woman with glowing ebony skin and large eyes as soulful as her voice. "I sing for the Lord, and that's enough for me."

Rolling Stone has called Williams, 65, not only the greatest gospel singer but "possibly the best singer ever."

She recently won a $374,000 MacArthur Foundation Fellowship the first singer to win the so-called "genius" award.

The woman who spoke to me said I was a genius," said Williams. "I told her I don't know nothing about being no genius, but she said, 'You're a genius in your field.' After that I couldn't do nothing but just CTY.

Her genius has been recognized by others for years.

"Marion has a vocal strength that grabs you immediately and shocks you but smooths you at the same time," said the Rev. Clarence Blair, a longtime fan and operations manager for WDAS-AM, a 24-hour gospel station in Philadelphia.

Williams is a melismatic singer, said Blair, meaning she can take a one-syllable word and stretch it to make it sound as if it were six or seven syllables long.

Williams was born Aug. 29, 1927, in Miami, the youngest of 11 children - only three of whom survived past the first year of life.

She was 3 years old when she started singing "the Lord's music," joining her mother, who was a soloist in the church choir.

"My mother had a voice on her," Williams said. "Her number was 'Oh, Jesus Let Me Ride,' and she used to sing it at church every Sunday. People, white people and black people, used to come from all around Miami Beach to hear my mama sing."

When she was 17, Williams visited an older sister in Philadelphia and was persuaded to sing in a local church. She received a standing ovation and an invitation that changed her life.

It was from the Ward Singers, the premier gospel group of the time and the first to reach out to audiences outside of the church.

Meza case highlights need for justice overhaul

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - If Texans needed another reminder of the problems in the state criminal justice system, they got one in child-killer Raul Meza. Starting at the age of 13, Meza was in trouble in his hometown of Austin for arson and burglary. At age 15, he shot a convenience store clerk in the back with a high-powered rifle during a robbery. Sentenced to 20 years in prison, Meza was out on parole after only four years.

Less than a year later, in 1982, he killed 8-year-old Kendra Page.

Through a plea bargain agreement that still baffles police, he was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

Now he's out again, after serving less than 12 years in prison, even though he was caught with a weapon while behind bars.

But Meza's future has been clouded.

He was arrested last month for disorderly conduct at his grandparents' home outside Uvalde, where he moved after being driven from other cities by public protests and threats. His 80-year-old grandfather says he fears for his life with Meza around.

A hearings officer says Meza should not go back to prison because of the incident. That recommendation will go to a parole board panel, which is expected to rule within 30 days.

Meza, 32, has publicly apologized for his past, says he is a born-again Christian and that he has paid his debt to society.

He has blamed state officials for not preparing for his release. "They've panicked people (to) where they've created a monster. It's been a circus," he said.

"I still wish he could have gone to trial. I would like to have known what happened. Now there's a void, and I may never know what went on out there to my little girl." - Kendra's father Don Page, after Meza was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

On Jan. 3, 1982, Kendra's body was found near her Austin elementary school. She had been sexually molested and strangled.

Hours after the murder, Meza's mother, Elvia Castro called then-Travis County Commissioner Richard Moya.

Moya, now a top aide to Gov. Ann from supporters of his release, including Moya and then-state Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos of Austin, now a state senator. Both said they wrote at the request of Meza's mother.

Eleven months after being released, Meza was arrested for Kendra's killing.

"The state is the one that made the deal. I served the time," - Meza on whether his sentence for Kendra's murder was appropriate. During his latest stay in prison, Meza

They also received a stack of letters received no sex offender counseling. in good time, and 2 years, 11 months He was denied parole seven times, beginning in 1985.

But he said that in 1986, he became a born-again Christian. A self-confessed drug user since the age of 8, Meza said he attended prison Alcoholics Anonymous meetings.

In September 1989, four years were added to his sentence after he pleaded guilty to having a 9-1/2-inch long homemade knife.

But by this June, after 11-1/2 years. he had finished his time.

Meza had earned 19 years, 8 months for participating in vocational programs, such as barbering and auto mechanics.

He was released on mandatory supervision, which meant he had to abide by certain conditions, as if he were on parole. But society wasn't ready to let Meza back in. In town after town - El Paso, San Antonio, Mineral Wells, Wichita Falls, Sweetwater, Uvalde - his arrival was met with protests and angry officials who did not want him.

Meza argues it is not his fault he is out.

He says he eventually wants to move back to Austin, settle down and some day get married.

"In my heart, I know that I will not willfully bring harm to anyone," he said.

Dan Guerra, a spokesman for Pardons and Parole Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, said Meza has become the focus of "media hype."

"There are a lot of other Raul Mezas out there that people haven't picked up on," he said. "A lot of them are doing well."

Richards, said Ms. Castro sought advice because her son was in trouble. Moya, who described Ms. Castro as a family friend, said she did not tell him what Meza had done.

Moya recommended a prominent local law firm that represents him in legal matters.

Two days later, a defense lawyer accompanied Meza as he turned himself in to police and was charged with murder.

After seven weeks, a Travis County grand jury indicted him. Just moments later, he was taken before a judge, confessed and was given a 30-year sentence recommended by the Travis County district attorney's office.

His attorney, Rip Collins, told the Austin American-Statesman that the evidence against his client was getting stronger. If he had not taken the deal, he said, Meza probably would have been indicted on capital murder.

Bruce Mills, who was the police investigator in the case, recently said the plea agreement was premature.

I was frustrated. ... It takes a fairly extensive length of time to uncover every rock. We were just finding the rocks and all of the sudden we're told a plea agreement was reached," Mills said.

But prosecutors said the only evidence they had was Meza's fingerprint on Kendra's bicycle.

Assistant District Attorney Phil Nelson, who was in charge of the case, said there was nothing unusual about the deal. Beliefs that the case could have gotten stronger are "a whole lot of hindsight and a whole lot of wishful thinking," he said.

"He was then and still is the most dangerous individual I ever prosecut-ed." - Lynn Ellison, now a South Texas district attorney, who prosecuted Meza for the convenience store holdup.

On Dec. 31, 1975, a 15-year-old Meza and five others walked into an Austin convenience store and cleaned out the cash register.

Meza, wearing fatigues and brandishing a high-powered rifle, then forced the store clerk to kneel in a freezer and shot him in the back.

"He never displayed emotion during the trial. He had a block of ice for his soul," said Ellison, who was then a Travis County assistant district attorney. Meza started his 20-year sentence in 1977. Four years later, he was paroled.

But parole board members later said they weren't familiar with details of the convenience store heist, nor Meza's juvenile record, which included robbery and arson.

Residents' daughter weds in Richardson

Duncan Zandi, both of Dallas, were united in marriage late Saturday afternoon in Ellis Castle in Richardson. The ceremony was officiated by Jim Antwine of Lawton, Okla.

The bride is the daughter of Reece and Sarah Lawson of Route 4, Hereford, and the bridegroom is the son of Gail Miller of Henderson and Bahman Zandi of Tehran, Iran.

Serving as maid of honor was Dana Kay Barber and best man was Russell Allen.

Bridesmaids included Diana Watts, Jo Ann Cox and Connie Bartholomew. Groomsmen were Kent Parish, Donny McGill and Garrett Conner.

Jeanye Mercer sang "Thy Word" and Donny McGill sang "True Companion." Accompaniment was provided by Randy Hoskins.

The bride was attired in an elegant white formal-length bridal gown of satin with accents of beads and miniature pearls. The modified Bishop sleeves were created with lace appliques and beadwork and the fitted bodice which featured a V-shape neckline was also accented with beads and pearls. The full skirt, which was gathered at a basque waistline, was enhanced with lace insets and beaded areas and was edged in scalloped lace. It swept into Willa Bess Lawson and Jeffery a chapel-length train. The back of the gown was marked by a designer bow.

The waist-length bridal illusion veil formed a pouf at the back of a princess crown of white flowers and beads.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of almost-all white flowers including roses accented with begonia vines

Bridal attendants wore tea-length floral skirts with waist-length jackets in fabric which featured rose and burgundy rose designs on dark green backgrounds. They carried small cascading bouquets of roses and ivy. The reception was held in Ellis Castle.

Following a wedding trip to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., the couple will make their home in Dallas.

The four-tiered white wedding cake with white icing was accented with burgundy and white lilies and cascading ivy streamers.

The bride received a BBA degree in computer information systems from West Texas A&M University. She is currently employed by Maxus Energy in Dallas.

The bridegroom received a BS degree in computer science from the University of Texas at Tyler. He is employed by Zale Corporation.

States" when members of the Los Ciboleros Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, met Sept. 9 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Thomas began by complimenting the members for being part of a patriotic organization whose objectives are "To foster and perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence; to promote an enlightened public opinion; and to foster true patriotism and love of country.

The speaker choose Article II of the Constitution, especially the parts having to do with the presidency, to discuss. He said that the orginial intent was for the president to administer the laws passed by the Congress and to be the commanderin-chief of the military forces.

Thomas believes that Article II needs to be modernized. He suggested that as in a big corporation where the chief executive officer has many vice presidents, that the president, as CEO of the nation, needs many vice presidents in charge of and experienced in their functional areas. Areas suggested were national defense, law enforcement and food distribution. The president is needed to establish national objectives, long term, medium term and short term objectives.

Food additives are those substances or mixture of substances, other than the basic foodstuff, which is present in a food as a result of any aspect of production, processing, storage or packaging. Food additives perform one or more important functions and are added to foods to achieve specific effects during production, processing and distribution.

Food additives can be grouped by functions as follows:

-Preservatives help assure safety and maintain freshness by preventing food spoilage from bacteria, mold, fungi, yeast or chemical agents.

-Nutrients such as vitamins, minerals or protein serve to maintain or improve the nutritional quality of stabilizing, thickening, retaining moisture, emulsifying and preventing lumping.

-Flavors such as spices, flavor enhancers, natural or synthetic flavors and sweeteners compliment the taste and aroma of food.

-Colors contribute to a food's desired or characteristic color. Of nearly ?,000 direct food additives used in this country today, sugar, salt, corn syrup, citric acid, baking soda, vegetable colors, mustard and pepper make up 98 percent by weight of all additives used. The food industry and government regulatory agencies make every effort to minimize the risks associated with the consumption of food. Food additives have a key role in assuring the availability of an abundant and wholesome food supply by making our coast-to-coast food distribution system possible.

Set a round white paper plate on the turntable of a child's record player. Poke the spindle through the center of the plate to hold it firmly in place. Turn the record player on LOW speed. Press a colored felt marking pen on the plate. As the plate goes around, hold the pen steady as it creates a circular design. Slightly move the pen and see what happens. Then, try to move the pen toward the edge of the plate to create an interesting and intricate design. Use several pens in different colors, too. When finished, turn off the turntable and remove the plate.

For a variation, use puffy paints in squeeze bottles. Gently release the paint out of a bottle over the plate as it goes around. Once you get used to the technique, move the paint bottle back and forth to create a ring design on the plate. Turn off the turntable and carefully remove the plate. Set

What do Monticello, Arkansas, DeMoss, Iowa, and Chicago, Illinois have in common? Someone in each of those cities has read a book from Deaf Smith County Library! Now that may seem like no big deal, but it points up the fact that interlibrary loan is used all over the country. We have sent and received books from libraries coast to coast. Sometimes we can't obtain a book, but the far greater percentage of the time we can, so if your looking for a book, but can't find it locally, try interlibrary loan. The only cost to you is the price of postage one way, which usually runs within 25 cents either side of a dollar.

Johnny Appleseed arrives at the public schools next week, telling the kids how he planted apple trees and good will on the early American frontier. I've discovered some interesting facts in researching this American legend. His real name was John Chapman and besides apples he also spread herbs, some not as beneficial as were once believed. (PR is a great thing. Would we have ever heard of "Johnny Pennyroyal" or "Dog fennel Johnny"?) I had pictured Johnny as always on the move, never owning anything but his bag of appleseeds and the pot on his head. As a matter of fact, he was a property owner. He used it for starting trees and nursing them to saplings, which he would then trade or sell to others (although he frequently "forgot" to collect). He was known as a herb or "yarb" doctor, and his talents were appreciated by red and white man alike.

Chapman adhered to the teachings of Emanuel Swedenborg, who preached "Four Rules": read the Bible often, obey God, be honest and have a clear conscience, and live a life of useful service. Expanding on these, Johnny never carried a gun, treating all creatures as brothers. (Legend has it that he had a pet wolf he had rescued from a trap.) Although some of his beliefs and practices seem unorthodox, John was a man who saw what needed to be done and did something regardless of what others thought. He didn't organize, or form a committee, or fret about needing help -- he just did what he could. That's a lesson we all could stand to learn, and I'm looking forward to portraying him in the schools.

OKAY..OKAY..ENOUGH ALREADY! YES, we have the sequel to Lonesome Dove, Larry McMurtry's Streets of Laredo. There is already a sizable waiting list. We tried to order two copies, but were sent only one--we'll get another as soon as we can. This copy, by the way, is a memorial to R.C. Ware. Other fiction going out this week includes Victoria Holt's Black Opal and an 87th precinct mystery by Ed McBain entitled Mischief.

Non-fiction books include a large volume of Advertising in America and More Podium Humor, a collection of anecdotes for speakers. Non-fiction also includes an intriguing work called The Cowgirl Companion. You might expect this to be some western-romance, but it's the ultimate guide for anyone who wants to be, or understand, a cowgirl. Virginia Artho of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame tells me that author Gail Gilchriest did some of her research here (by phone, believe), and that the book is available for purchase at the CHOF.

The Friends of the Library Book Sale will be held next month, but there is a special feature that you may want to take advantage of early. For a 50 cent donation to the Friends, you will receive a chance to win a really nice book such as Norman Rockwell's America, Christmas in America, or All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten. The drawing will be held the Monday after the sale. The books can be seen and tickets may be obtained at the library. Remember that members of the Friends get first choice on the sale books, so you'll want to be sure your membership is paid up. Renewals or new memberships may be paid at the library during regular hours, or the night of the sale.

Pardon our dust! If you've wondered about the noise downstairs, it's due to the remodeling, preparing for the computer lab and GED classroom. Hopefully all the work will be finished before too long.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I dread every holiday. Why? Because my husband's boss and his wife always go away and ask my husband and me to take care of their house, garden, dogs and plants.

"Jim" has to drive to their home every morning (at least a 20-minute trip) to pick up their newspaper and make sure the dogs have plenty of water. When he comes home from work, we both go to his boss' house, feed the dogs, take in the mail and water the plants and garden. By the time we eat dinner, it's 8 p.m.

For the last 10 years, we've had to interrupt every holiday to take care of the boss' house. This past week, I called the boss' wife and hinted that when Jim and I go away, we put our cats in a kennel because we consider it too much of an imposition to ask anyone to take care of our pets. I told her we have our next-door neighbors take in our mail and newspaper. A few days later, the boss told Jim he was going away for a week and gave him his house keys.

In three minutes, he had me tied up, taped up, gagged and scared to death.

Did he just take the money and run? No. He collected a bunch of soiled leotards and left. I writhed around on the floor for two hours until my boyfriend showed up.

Ann, I'm not complaining, being bound and gagged isn't the worst thing that can happen to a woman, and I probably lost a couple of pounds trying to wriggle free. But just out of curiosity--what in the heck is wrong with a man who would do such a thing?--Fit To Be Tied in Pennsylvania

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter, my first ever to a columnist, was sparked by your column about the engineer's wife who asked, "Are engineers really different?" The answer "ABSOLUTELY!"

My father was an engineer. My three brothers and four uncles are engineers. Engineers ARE a different breed. They are precise, logical and great at problem solving, but they know very little about human interaction. My engineer husband makes a fine living, but when it comes to expressing emotions, on a scale of 10, he's about a 4 .-- A Wife in Houston

DEAR HOUSTON: I've been swamped with letters from wives, daughters, husbands, mothers and sisters of engineers. They've given me a real education. Read on:

From Tucson, Ariz.: Engineers ARE different. My engineer husband (graduate of MIT) tells me when my skirt is 1/8 inch shorter in the back. If the tile floor in the bathroom looks uneven, he gets out a tape measure for "proof." A crooked window shade must be adjusted at once. If, however, a killer migraine, he doesn't notice. Santa Barbara: My husband, the engineer, has no tolerance for the gray areas of life. He sees everything in absolutes. It's black and white, right or wrong, yes or no. Never a maybe. He feels no joy, bu the is never depressed either. Everything must be in perfect order, or there is hell to pay.

It is not easy to live with such a man. Chicago: My wife is an engineer. She is precise, analytical and definite in her views, and she always things before she speaks. She's as cold as ice and so sure of herself she makes me sick. My next wife will probably be an empty headed, bubbly moron, and it will be a relief. Carbondale, Ill.: You're darned right engineers are different. I am still happily married to mine after 35 years. They tend to look before they leap and

DURHAM, N.C.: My husband is an optician and hates waiting on engineers. They tell him how many alf millimeters their lenses are off just by looking at them and then demand a remake.

St. Paul: I'm an interior designer by profession. Engineers ARE different. When I get a client who takes two months to buy a piece of carpet because he has to research how it was made and figure out how long it will last, I know he's an engineer. The world needs perfectionists, but engineers are murder to work with.

Indianapolis: My engineer husband doesn't send me flowers. In fact, some days, we don't even have a decent conversation, but I'll take this nerdylooking guy with his assortment of pens and eyeglass cases in his shirt pocket, his dull tie and wrinkled trousers, over any of the men I've ever known.

WHEN YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL, NEWSPAPER SELLS IT BEST.

No matter what it is you're selling, newspaper can sell it best. You can show it. Describe it. Explain it. Compare it. Offer a coupon for it. And cover your entire marketplace with it. All in one day. And for a lot less than radio and TV.

And the unique thing about , newspaper is that it adds credibility to your message.

People believe it when they read it in the paper.

Maybe that's why retailers use newspaper more than any other medium?

Newspaper. It delivers.

Youth win awards in TCFA contest

Deaf Smith County youth turned in winning performances at the third annual Junior Fed Beef Challenge, sponsored by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association and held recently in Amarillo.

The competition is designed to provide practical experience for FFA and 4-H youth in the commercial cattle feeding industry by feeding a pen of three steers.

Youth competed for more than $17,000 in scholarships, cash prizes and premiums.

Overall champion and winner of the top scholarship of $2,000 was Alicia Miller of Stratford.

Scores in four areas -- written exam, oral interview, record book and carcass performance of steers -- are combined to determine overall winners. A $500 cash award is given to the first place winner in each area.

Hereford participants in the competition were Moriah Olson, Sy Olson, Wade Johnson and Caleb Brumley.

Johnson, Brumley and a Dalhart youth, Luke Unruh, shared the top award for best record book. Johnson also was third in the written exam category.

Moriah Olson was the top winner in the oral interview contest. She claimed a runnerup spot in the live evaluation contest.

Producers may receive assistance on crop loss

WASHINGTON (AP) - Producers whose 1993 crops sustained losses due to weather-related disasters may apply for assistance through March 4, 1994, Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy announced.

Payments of 100 percent of each eligible claim were authorized by emergency disaster legislation signed recently by President Clinton. The 1993 crop-loss benefits will be paid to eligible producers no later than June 1994, Espy said in his announcement this week. Farmers who produce commercially grown program and non-program crops are eligible.

Producers whose 1993 crops are insured by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. will be eligible for payments for losses exceeding 35 percent. Producers without such insurance will be eligible for payments for losses greater than 40 percent.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS Don Taylor

FOUR BUSINESS MYTHS The great enemy of the truth is very often not the lie - deliberate, contrived and dishonest - but the myth - persistent, persuasive and unrealistic. - John F. Kennedy myth, according to the dictionary, is a belief or story that is A imaginary or fictitious. I find as I study business, there are several myths that have survived for years.

They are persistent and persuasive, but not true. However, the four myths we will discuss in this column do contain some truth. Perhaps that is why many business owners accept them as factual. The most believable lies are those that contain an element of truth.

Myth No. 1 - The customer is always right. You will find this myth published in books, printed in articles, posted on signs and even carved in stone. However, despite widespread use, it remains a myth.

In this age of concern for service, we must try to guarantee customer satisfaction. However, we cannot hold to the extreme belief that the customer is always right. Customers are people. They are human beings like the rest of us, who make mistakes. No customer is always right. For example, what if a customer came to your business and demanded to buy everything at less than your cost? Is the customer's price right? Can you afford to honor "the customer is always right" philosophy? Of course not.

In this example, the customer is unreasonable. The low price request is neither right, fair or reasonable. The right price is not the customer's offer, but a price that covers your costs including overhead - and gives you a profit.

Myth No. 2 - Customers always buy the lowest price. If this myth were true you would see no happy Cadillac owners, no delighted Nordstrums' shoppers, no satisfied customers at fancy restaurants and no Rolex watch wearers.

This belief is a myth because the lowest price is not the only reason people make buying decisions. Price is an element of every purchase decision. However, value - the balance of price and quality - is the main determinant. Customers do go where they perceive they get the best value.

Every business can enhance their "perceived value" by balancing prices with guality products, premium service and consistent promotion. There is a natural law that says customers always go where they get good value.

Myth No. 3 - Discounters don't offer customer service. This is still a popular belief among small business owners. I hear this myth reiterated at most of the "Coexisting with Wal-Mart" workshops I give.

I think the problem in this area stems from an incorrect definition of customer service. Many small business owners and managers define customer service as a " friendly smile in every aisle."

Now I certainly don't discount the value of friendly, courteous personnel, but realize that is only a small portion of true customer service. Other important elements that make up real service include: convenient business hours, clean restrooms, trained telephone personnel, employees with product knowledge, product availability, attractive merchandising, consistent merchandise return policies, convenient location, cleanliness and short check-out lines.

Myth No. 4 - Everyone is my target customer. No business can serve all people effectively. Every owner must learn to position themselves to attract and serve a segment of consumers.

It is wrong to assume that everyone is your target customer. Even the mega-stores with acres of shopping area and tens of thousands of inventory items do not effectively serve all consumers. Some older, less agile customers are reluctant to trek down long aisles to find a few necessary items. Many senior citizens report they prefer smaller stores with personal service.

Position your business to serve a strong market segment. Remember that often those who try to please everyone, end up pleasing no one.

Will HBO leave the so-called Big Three broadcast networks with egg on their faces? Will a critically praised but now-defunct drama series sweep some of the major categories?

Those are two of the biggest questions to be answered during ABC's telecast of "The 45th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards" on Sunday, Sept. 19. Angela Lansbury, a perennial nominee for "Murder, She Wrote," is the host.

CBS leads the Emmy pack with 92 nominations, followed closely by NBC at 80. ABC trails with a respectable 55 nods, while PBS picked up 38 nominations and Fox, 10.

Of special interest this year is the fact that a premium cable service, HBO, garnered the same number of nominations as ABC: 55. Most of that total came from four widely acclaimed movies and series: "Citizen Cohn" (11 nominations), "Stalin" (10), "Barbarians at the Gate" (9) and "The Larry Sanders Show" (8). Other multiple nominees on the premium service include the HBO original movie "The Positively True Adventures of the Alleged Texas Cheerleader-Murdering Mom" (6) and the adult comedy series "Dream On" (5). Four of the five nominees for Outstanding Made for Television Movie are from HBO. ("Barbarians at the Gate" is the odds-on favorite here.)

Also attracting a lot of attention this fall is the Outstanding Drama Series category, which points out several absurdities - and tragedies - in current TV. Last year's winner in this category, "Northern Exposure," clearly belongs in the comedy category but probably was mislabeled because it is an hourlong series, as opposed to a conventional half-hour sitcom. Sentiment may hand the trophy to "FII Fly Away," the massively acclaimed but little-watched and long-gone NBC series that pulled eight nominations. NBC's well-regarded "Law & Order" and ABC's canceled "Homefront" have to be counted as dark horses. leaving the field open for a possible win by "Picket Fences." The underrated CBS show pulled an impressive eight nominations, including nods for series leads Tom Skerritt and Kathy Baker, supporting actor Fyvush Finkel (grandstanding defense attorney Douglas Wambaugh) and guest stars Richard Kiley and Michael Jeter, whose poignant turn as the "Frog Man" in one episode makes him a front-runner in the Guest Actor category. Jeter won an Emmy last year for his full-time role as Herman Stiles in "Evening Shade," for which he is nominated again this year.

The comedy category nominations are notable primarily for their omissions. "The Simpsons," arguably the single most consistently and remorselessly on-target comedy series in contemporary TV, once again has been relegated to the "animated" programming categories, a gross miscarriage of justice for the complex weekly series. And if the Emmy nominators insisted on visibly human performers, how is it possible that they overlooked the abra-sively brilliant "Roseanne" for best comedy series? Series star Roseanne Arnold, along with John Goodman, Laurie Metcalf and Sara Gilbert, are nominated, but where are the nominations for the writers and directors? Did they think the cast was making it up as they went along? Maybe they did ... because "Roseanne" is as street-real and savvy as a weekly sitcom can get.

Boycott or not, show must go on

By LYNN ELBER AP Television Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Despite all the flap, executive producer Don Mischer is determined the television industry will shine tonight during the presentation of the Emmy Awards.

The show comes at a time of renewed criticism of sex and violence on television.

Also, huffy CBS, NBC and Fox Broadcasting executives announced an Emmy boycott to protest ABC's exclusive four-year deal to broadcast the ceremony.

But Mischer says he, and the ceremony, are undaunted. Network chiefs may not appear, he says, but the stars are coming out for the 45th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards, which will be televised live at 8 p.m. EDT from the Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

"We have a really great lineup of people who are going to be on the show, representing all networks," Mischer saus. "Unequivocally, as far as viewers are concerned, there will be no difference.'

CBS, NBC and Fox claim the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences failed to negotiate in good faith when it decided against rotating the Emmys among the four networks and instead signed a more-lucrative ABC pact.

But the boycott has been limited to the networks' refusal to buy tickets for the ceremony or to take out advertisements in the academy's Emmy magazine, Mischer said.

As proof, he names host Angela Lansbury, then reels off a few presenters: Jay Leno, Garry Shandling, Mary Tyler Moore, Janine Turner, Jerry Seinfeld, Carol Burnett, Farrah Fawcett, Tim Allen and Craig

Angela Lansbury

T. Nelson.

The top nominee is CBS' Northern Exposure," with 16 nominations, including best drama, best actor (Rob Morrow) and best actress (Miss Turner). The series won six trophies and 16 nominations in 1992 NBC's sitcom "Seinfeld" strides next with 11 nominations, in including best comedy and best actor in a comedy (Jerry Seinfeld). It is tied with Home Box Office's movie 'Citizen Cohn," part of cable TV's strong showing this year.

"Cheers," nominated for eight awards, including best comedy series, has a final shot at becoming the most-honored program in Emmy history. The NBC program, which ended its 11-year run this past season, has 26 Emmys; "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" earned a record 29.

Jay Leno and David Letterman, now competing in the late-night arena, are going head-to-head for an Emmy in the best variety, music or comedy series category.

"The Tonight Show With Jay

Leno" got a bid in Leno's first year as host, while Letterman, now at CBS, is nominated for NBC's "Late Night With David Letterman."

Emmys in 27 categories will be awarded tonight. Other awards, primarily technical, were given at a non-televised banquet Saturday.

In planning the ceremony, Mischer kept in mind recent criticism of sex and violence on TV. Tonight's show will try to counter such views, he said.

"We're hoping to set a tone of elegance and respect for the Emmy Award," he said. "And we're hoping to set a tone that's very positive _bout the television business.

'Certainly, this is not a perfect business ... but on the night that you are awarding the best work of the season, you want to focus only on the best.

That's why Miss Lansbury was chosen, Mischer explained. The two had worked together in years past when Mischer produced and Miss Lansbury hosted the Tony Awards, the theater's premiere awards show.

"We wanted someone who could really set a tone for the show that was right," Mischer says. "Angela, we felt, represented that more than anyone. She's elegant and beautiful and very graceful."

Miss Lansbury is a best dramatic ctress nominee for her CBS series "Murder, She Wrote." She has 12 previous nominations, but a win ould be her first.

The veteran actress has received four Tony Awards and is clearly at home handling a stage event - even one that will be seen by more than 500 million viewers in 80 countries.

The roughly three-hour ceremony is reaching a larger international audience this year through a new satellite TV deal. Greece, Portugal, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka will join other nations peeking in on the awards.

What viewers will see is a reflection of a changing industry in which the Big Three broadcast networks (CBS, ABC and NBC) no longer dominate the landscape.

Although CBS is clearly the leader with a total 92 nominations, followed by NBC with 80, cable's HBO scored 55 bids to tie ABC. Altogether, cable TV programs reaped a record 77 Emmy nominations.

Among them was a best comedy series nod for HBO's "The Larry Sanders Show," Shandling's satiric look at the talk show world. It is the first cable series nominated in the best comedy or drama series category.

"I think the whole industry is changing," says Brad Grey, "Larry Sanders" executive producer. "I think this (the HBO nominations) is a clear indication that things are changing and I'm pleased to see the academy is recognizing that change." Other big cable contenders are three HBO movies that earned a total 30 nominations: "Citizen Cohn," about controversial attorney Roy Cohn; "Barbarians at the Gate," the story of the R.J.R. Nabisco takeover, and Stalin.'

The three movies - together with fourth HBO movie and a PBS American Playhouse presentation shut the major broadcast networks out of the outstanding TV movie category. The networks' assembly line production of fact-based movies clearly underwhelmed Academy of Television Arts & Sciences members as much as it did critics.

Panels made up of academy members and other industry experts select Emmy winners in secret ballots.

Chiefs counting on Montana magic BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Joe Montana has a coming out party of sorts when the veteran quarterback leads his new team, the Kansas City Chiefs, against the Denver Broncos on ABC's "Monday Night Football" Sept. 20.

The Chiefs are hoping that Montana, arguably the game's greatest signal caller, is the missing piece in their Super Bowl jigsaw puzzle. Racked by back and elbow surgery the past twoand-a-half years, Montana, at age 37, is a gamble that could produce a big payoff if he is able to stay healthy. The Chiefs obviously think he can; they sent a first-round draft pick to the San Francisco 49ers as compensation.

Montana no longer has the offensive weapons he relied on during his glory days in San Francisco. Instead of looking downfield to Jerry Rice and John Taylor, one of the best one-two receiving pairs in the league, Montana will be searching for a relatively inexperienced crew led by Willie Davis, Tim Barnett and J.J. Birden.

While the 49er running game was fronted by the high-stepping Roger Craig, the Chiefs give the rock to Harvey Williams and Barry Word, two backs who must step up and fulfill their potential to take the heat off the quarterback.

Montana's biggest problem may be an offensive line that allowed 48 sacks last year and lost starting guard David Lutz in the off-season.

Producer Steven Bochco defined the police drama in "Hill Street Blues. then twisted it with the musical "Cop Rock." "NYPD Blue." debuting Tuesday, Sept. 21, marks a return for Bocheo to the gritty basics. In the new series, "Hill Street" veteran Dennis Franz (right) plays Detective Andy Sipowicz, whose career is jeopardized when he becomes targeted in a murder plot. David Caruso plays his partner. Detective John Kelly, whose affections are torn between his estranged wife and a patrolwoman.

Timothy Dalton (left) plays real-life master criminal Eddie Myers in the suspenseful two-part miniseries "Framed," airing Sunday and Monday on A&E. David Morrissey co-stars as the policeman assigned to him.

Master thief served as copy editor for A&E's suspenseful 'Framed'

BY DAN RICE

The dark side of seduction comes in many forms, but none quite so disturbing as when an honest policeman falls under the spell of a charismatic master criminal. Even at the end of the fourhour A&E miniseries "Framed," premiering Sunday and Monday, Sept. 19-20, the viewer wonders whether the naive London detective is more than tempted.

Sgt. Lawrence Jackson's (David

Chief Inspector Jimmy Melnnes Timothy West) urges Jackson to go along with Myers' plan, recording every word that passes between them. Jackson's allegiance is questionable throughout the story, and the surprising conclusion leads to only more uncertainty

Perhaps even more interesting than the film is how the story made it to the screen. When screenwriter Lynda La Plante ("Prime Suspect") read the newspaper headline "Supergrass Eddie Meyers, Presumed Dead, Spotted in Spain," she became intrigued. After interviewing police and criminals throughout Europe and the United States, she tracked the elusive Myers to Miami, where he agreed to tell her his story. Myers, who ironically had undergone plastic surgery that made him resemble actor Dalton, continually played mind games with the writer. He would detail his past transgressions then pronounce the recollections lies. Still a fugitive living the good life, Myers served as a copy editor by mail for La Plante's script: his P.O. box number changed with every draft.

Morrissey) family vacation in Marbella. Spain, is interrupted when he spots Eddic Myers (Timothy Dalton). a playboy thief presumed dead by Scotland Yard. Jackson's obsessive efforts result in Myers being plucked from his opulent villa and extradited to England. Once there, Myers agrees to turn informant on the condition that young Jackson acts as his interrogator. Set up in a luxurious private cell complete with a gym and gourmet meals, Myers fills Jackson's notebook with confessions while filling his head with notions of the bon vivant lifestyle and the added incentive of a million pounds of hidden loot.

SOAP WORLD

Executive producer wants 'Loving' answers

BY CANDACE HAVENS

If you have ever wondered what the ABC soap "Loving" is like, now would be a good time to tune in and see. In a recent episode, Leo showed up dressed as Elvis to romance Shana, Ava donned a blond wig and started a conga line in order to save Jeremy from Faison, and there was a great deal of laughter throughout the entire show. On another day, there was high drama when baby Tyler developed meningitis while his mother was at a sleazy hotel with her lover.

"Loving" is funny, remarkably sophisticated and worthy of attention, but the program isn't getting any. "We can't make excuses any more," says executive producer Haidee Grainger. "It is a battle, and I do not know why we are at the bottom of the ratings, because we have come up with what I think is a good, funny show."

"Loving" looks very different than it did when it debuted 10 years ago, and many of the changes have happened in the last year, after Grainger took over.

"We have a much faster pace for the show," she says. "It is a livelier looking show, we have a handsome cast and great music. The show is revitalized, but the problem is getting people to believe it. It is a terrific half hour, and you sit down to watch, and before you know it, it is over.

"We have some wonderful and exciting story lines coming up," Grainger says. "Alex Master (Randolph Mantooth) is back and is causing big trouble for Ava and Jeremy. If you remember, Alex was Ava's one true love.

"There will be an interesting turn of events around Ally and baby Tyler.

USA's 'Substitute' gets no respect

BY JOHN CROOK

Amanda Donohoe plays a teacher who's a few grades short of a full report card in "The Substitute," a howlingly awful horror film premiering Wednesday, Sept. 22, on the USA Network. After murdering her unfaithful husband, this self-made widow accepts a temporary teaching position at a faraway high school. The real fun begins when the permanent teacher tries to return to her job. Bad-movie afficionados will be in heaven with this, which earns extra credit for marking Marky Mark's acting debut.

Timothy Dalton stars in "Framed," an intricate and elegant four-hour miniseries airing in two parts, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 19-20, on A&E. Lynda La Plante ("Prime Suspect") wrote this gripping, fact-based account of a police informer who smoothly manipulates a naive policeman.

"The Canadian Country Music Awards" airs Saturday, Sept. 25, on The Nashville Network. It is preceded by an hour-long preview with Lorianne Crook and Charlie Chase.

"Rocko's Modern Life," an edgy animated series about a wallaby and his friends, premieres Monday on Nickelodeon. "Nick News" with Linda Ellerbee returns on Saturday.

A "Saved By The Bell Slumber Party Marathon" is the late-night feature on TBS Friday, Sept. 24. The kids from Bayside High star in six straight hours of high jinks.

Matlock: The Investigation ++½ (1987) Andy Griffith, Nancy Stafford. Matlock discovers that a friend and lifeiong client is the son of a mob boss. 2:00. September 19 9:35am.

Metlock: The Mayor ++1/2 (1988) Andy Griffith, Nancy Stafford. While defending an aging hipple accused of killing Chicago's mayor, Ben uncovers the murdered man's unsavory past. 2:00. September 19 11:35em.

Matiock: The Thief **1/2 (1988) Andy Griffith, Nancy Stafford. Matiock defends a rare-coin dealer accused of murdering an employee caught stealing valuable coins. 2:00. September 19 Spm.

McHale's Nevy *** (1964) Ernest Borgnine, Joe Flynn. An assorted group of men join their unorthodox commander in dealing with their captain, while at the same time trying to fight the Japanese. 2:00. September 24 7pm.

Hister Roberts ****/2 (1955) Henry Fonde, James Cagney. The gung-ho cargo officer of a World War II Navy supply ship enters into a psychological battle of wills with his mean-spirited captain. 2:30. September 20 9:35pm.
